GIs Beat Back Attack By Reds

By JACK WALSH
SAIGON, (UPI)—North Vietnamese troops hurling grenades as they ran broke into a U.S. Army Infantry outpost near Dak To in the Central Highlands today. The Americans beat back the attack, killing about 150 of the Communists, U.S. military sources said.

7 Children Die In Nursery Fire

By RABUN MATTHEWS
HAPEVILLE, Ga. (UPI)—Tears made white streaks down the soot-covered faces of firemen. A sobbing policeman wandered aimlessly among stricken onlookers.

"It's horrible, it's horrible," the officer said, turning toward the smoldering rubble of a day nursery shattered by a broken gas main explosion Wednesday. The bodies of seven children and two adults were found in the ruins of the frame structure. Twelve other persons were injured, five seriously.

'Poor People' Campaigners Have Trouble

By DONALD FINLEY
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Friction between blacks and Mexican-Americans burst into an exchange of obscenities and near fist fights at the "Poor People's Campaign" rally which lasted into the early hours of today.

Vietnam war to 23,926. Total wounded was listed at 146,363 and those missing or captured at 1,215. Communist dead last week was listed at 2,550, the lowest since the week ending April 20 when 1,899 were reported killed.

Along Vietnam's northern frontier below the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), U.S. Marines continued to press toward two small villages where an estimated 2,900 North Vietnamese troops were entrenched. The villages of Lai An and Truc Kin were within seven miles of the Marine supply base of Dong Ha which has been the focal point of heavy fighting for a month.

In Saigon, early today four Communist rockets fell on a residential area and killed at least five persons and wounded eight. South Vietnamese rangers continued to battle a Viet Cong company holed up in the Phu Lam district west of the city. U.S. helicopter gunships strafed the area with rockets and machine gunfire.

North Vietnamese troops attacked a company of about 200 American infantrymen who had been dug in for two days atop Hill 990 about 11 miles west of Dak To. The hill had changed hands twice in fighting the last three weeks. A U.S. offensive is under way in the area to counteract a buildup of Communist troops numbering about 10,000.

RFK Now Says California Is 'Ultimate Test'

By United Press International
Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, who said he needed a win in Oregon to remain a "viable" presidential candidate, now says next week's California primary is the "ultimate test" of his candidacy.

He expects to win in California. But his stunning defeat in Oregon—the first in the Kennedy clan's skein of 22 years in elective politics—has forced him to change his tactics.

Garrison Says Evidence Links Oswald and CIA

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison revealed what he called new evidence to link Lee Harvey Oswald to the Central Intelligence Agency Wednesday, and pledged not to be stopped by federal court intervention.

The double-barreled announcement came only minutes before U.S. Dist. Judge Frederick Hee granted attorneys for Clay L. Shaw authority to take depositions from seven key characters in Garrison's controversial Kennedy assassination probe.

Hee gave the attorneys 20 days to obtain the depositions, definitely postponing Shaw's June 11 trial on charges of conspiring to assassinate President John F. Kennedy.

Garrison, unaware of the deposition order when he called the news conference, railed Hee for a Tuesday order, granting Shaw a temporary restraining order against prosecution until a three-judge hearing could be conducted. Shaw charged Garrison with a "reign of terror" and violation of his constitutional rights.

The district attorney said the federal courts "cannot be trusted" to conduct an impartial investigation, and released a photograph he identified as Oswald wearing a Civil Air Patrol (CAP) uniform.

He said the government had tried to confiscate all copies of the picture because it linked Oswald with the CIA. According to Garrison, Oswald was recruited into the intelligence agency by David Ferrie while both were members of the CAP in New Orleans during the 1950s.

Pampans Observe Memorial Day

By WANDA MAE HUFF
Pampa News Staff Writer

In observance of Memorial Day, flowers of all colors and American flags were placed before graves of Pampa veterans and in memory of other deceased Pampa area residents today.

Several downtown and Corona Center stores, both banks, and other business firms were closed today, but will reopen for business Friday.

City Hall, the Court House and federal offices were closed today, but city police, sheriff's officers, Highway Patrol units and the Fire Department remained on duty as usual.

Doug Laramore was bugler for the 6:30 a.m. service.

Roland Gee was bugler for the Sunrise Parade of Flags and placing of 100 casket flags at Memory Gardens, Mrs. Carl Wright, a veterans' auxiliary member, said.

LBJ Slates TV Conference

By HELEN THOMAS
JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI)—President Johnson will hold a nationally televised news conference today with his guests at the LBJ Ranch, Gen. William C. Westmoreland and Australian Prime Minister John C. Gorton.

The major radio and TV networks arranged to broadcast the press conference live from the hangar of Johnson's Hill Country ranch at 1:30 p.m. EDT.

The White House gave no indication of any substantive announcements.

Johnson arranged for Westmoreland, retiring allied commander in Vietnam to give Gorton a first-hand report on the war before he flies back to Australia Friday. Westmoreland gave up his military command Wednesday to return for Senate confirmation hearings on his appointment as Army Chief of Staff.

Earlier, the President issued a proclamation designating Memorial Day as a day of prayer for permanent peace in tribute to those who have sacrificed their lives in Vietnam.

He flew to his Ranch Wednesday night after calling for the wreaths and memorial flags.

Americans have paid tribute to their war dead on May 30 for more than a century. The observance began May 30, 1868, when Gen. John A. Logan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, declared that May 30 be designated each year "for the purpose of strewing flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of the country in the late rebellion."

This morning, Defense Secretary Clark Clifford placed a wreath for President Johnson.

French Await Decision By De Gaulle

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
PARIS (UPI)—President Charles de Gaulle returned to Paris today from a day of seclusion at his country estate and prepared to tell the nation whether or not he has decided to resign.

The Elysee presidential palace said the 77-year-old De Gaulle would broadcast a radio address to the nation about 4:30 p.m. (11:30 a.m. EDT).

Political observers in Paris discussed several possible courses De Gaulle might take in the crisis. They included resignation, dismissal of Premier Georges Pompidou and formation of a new government, or dissolution of the National Assembly with elections for a new parliament.

He could also choose a showdown fight with the Communist, leftist and union forces demanding an end to his rule, possibly by assuming emergency dictatorial powers.

Some observers suggested the possibility that De Gaulle might take emergency powers under Article 16 of the constitution and attempt to rule for a time as dictator.

All but forgotten was De Gaulle's declaration last week that he would ask for a "massive oui" in a referendum.

The French financial center at Basle the Bank for International Settlements stopped its support of the franc and banking officials said the franc has become unsalable.

The Paris sources said the U.S. credit was granted to the Bank of France under a "swap" agreement that provides for mutual support by Western nations in time of monetary crisis.

The government also has a gold and hard currency reserve of its own that totals nearly $5 billion that it could use to shield the franc.

The same sources also said the franc was solid despite a

Navy Fears Call Was Hoax, However

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI)—Ten destroyers conducted an intensive search of the Atlantic 110 miles off Norfolk today after six ships and a plane picked up a mysterious voice message using the code name of the missing Scorpion.

After some hours, the search ships reported they had failed to find any trace of the nuclear submarine which has been overdue since Monday with 99 men aboard. There also was no repeat of the single radio transmission.

High Defense Department sources said there was "a 99 per cent chance" the transmission was a hoax.

At the same time, the vessels checked out debris spotted by a Navy P2V Neptune submarine spotter plane which picked up the "single transmission." The message also was received by six ships of the search fleet trying to locate the Scorpion, missing since Monday on an underwater voyage from the Mediterranean. Its last reported position was near the Azores.

Following the report of the message, Cmdr. T. L. Ingraham, public information officer for the Atlantic submarine force, told newsmen: "The message could have been a hoax."

This view was shared later by Lt. Cmdr. John Hamlett, an information officer with Atlantic Fleet headquarters at Norfolk. But neither officer would elaborate.

At his news conference, Ingraham said that if the message actually originated from the Scorpion in the area where the plane picked it up, it would be a major discovery.

Airfield Is Damaged In Storm

High winds spawned by violent thunderstorms partially ripped the roof off a hangar at Perry Lefors Airfield yesterday and dumped rain and hail over a wide area of Gray and surrounding counties.

Approximately one-fourth of the roof of the main hangar at the airport, located northwest of Pampa, was blown off by a strong gust of wind about 5:30 p.m. according to E. N. Chambliss, manager.

He said metal shingles were blown off the roof and one plane suffered light damage, but no serious damage was reported. "I was standing right in front of a hangar and another fellow and I were putting the planes in the hangar. We were up to the last airplane to go in and the

Two Negroes Killed In Louisville Flareup

Police said they did not know who fired the shots.

Patterson was shot in the back and Wallace in the thigh. Both were in fair condition at Louisville General Hospital.

In addition to the marshals, Negro civil rights leaders walked the streets near 28th and Greenwood, where the trouble started Monday night.

BULLETIN

PARIS (UPI)—President Charles de Gaulle said today he will stay in office to cope with the crisis that has paralyzed France. Rejecting any suggestion of resigning, he said he would dissolve the National Assembly and hold general elections.

STORM DAMAGE — High winds accompanying yesterday's thundershower here tore a portion of the roof off this hangar at Perry Lefors Airfield, northwest of Pampa. The area was under a tornado watch as a "hook" was shown on the weather bureau's radar at Amarillo. Rainfall measured from a half-inch to slightly over an inch in the Pampa area. (See Story, Page one).

wind started becoming gusty. The gusts started hitting the last plane before we could get it chained down good."

He said there was a rattle and a rattle. "We looked up and there went the hangar. All we could see was debris," Chambless said. The chains kept the airplane from blowing away, but one plane inside the hangar was damaged by falling debris.

No funnel clouds were reported in Gray County throughout the tornado alert from 5 p. m. yesterday to 1 a. m. today. The tornado watch was extended from 7:30 p. m. to 1 a. m. last night by the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Heaviest amounts of rainfall fell in torrents from 7-8 p. m. last night in Pampa. The heavy deluge caused gutters and streets to run full of water for a while, but rainfall abated slacked off by about 9 p. m.

In Pampa, the officially recorded amount of rainfall was .55-inch. Floyd McLaughlin, who lives 14 miles east of Pampa, reported .10 of rain with no hail and only light winds.

Emil Urbanczyk, south of the city, reported strong winds and a small amount of hail. Rain was recorded at one inch.

W. F. Taylor, north of town, reported no appreciable amount of hail or wind and .20 rainfall. Mrs. Leo V. Simpson, five miles west on the Amarillo highway, reported hail large enough to damage her garden.

Pheasant 'Thieves' Are 'Caught' Here

Two would-be pheasant "thieves," one 11 and the other 12, were caught "red-handed" yesterday by the owner.

Joe B. Wells, 108 N. Sumner, said he came out of his house and went to the pens where the pheasants were kept. Noticing one of the youths nearby, he ordered him to leave.

He then said he noticed a hole in the pen and while repairing it, discovered the other youth

'AWOL' Prisoner Is Back In Jail

A city jail prisoner, "absent without leave" for about two and a half months, was back in the clink yesterday after he was located by Pampa police. The man, Robert Harp, 40, was placed in jail in mid-March on a charge of intoxication. While working as a trusty, the prisoner walked off the "job" and disappeared.

Wheeler Murder Trial Continues

WHEELER (SPL)—The murder trial of Mrs. Arlene Simpson of Shamrock continued here today as testimony was presented yesterday concerning activities during and after the shooting incident.

Mrs. Simpson is charged with the murder of Jake Sutton of Shamrock on June 30, 1967, an uncle of her husband, Melvin Simpson, who received a directed verdict of not guilty in the shooting last February.

Coed Is Held On Charge Of Arson

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPC)—An Ohio State University coed was held today on an arson charge in connection with a dormitory fire which claimed the lives of two women residents.

Harriet Frances Leeb, 18, South Euclid, Ohio, a freshman in the College of Arts and Sciences, was named Wednesday in an affidavit filed by O.R. Starr, chief of the OSU Police Department, which said she "did commit arson by maliciously burning."

Miss Leeb lived in the 24 story Lincoln Towers dorm where a fire broke out on the 11th floor May 22.

Investigators said the coed had access to flammable material that investigators found on furniture covering taken from the lounge adjacent to where the dead girls lived.

Purses Stolen

Mrs. W. C. Quattlebaum of Hereford and her aunt, Mrs. H. M. Haskell, 306 N. Somerville, reported to police yesterday afternoon that their purses had been stolen.

Mrs. Quattlebaum said her purse contained about $11 and credit cards. Mrs. Haskell said she had about $6 in her missing wallet. Both said they first noticed the thefts when they got up Wednesday morning. Police theorize that a thief took the purse and wallet from the residence sometime Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

Cow-Calling Contest Set For Miami

MIAMI (SPL)—An Old Timer's reunion, a barbecue, calf and steer roping and a beauty contest will highlight the festivities at Miami Saturday.

The featured event will be the cow-calling contest scheduled at 2 p. m.

The Oldtimer's Reunion will be at 9:30 a. m. Saturday, followed by a barbecue at 12 at the county park. In case of rain, the barbecue will move to the county barn.

A beauty contest is planned for 3 p. m. at the county park with steer roping scheduled also at 3.

Another featured event will be calf roping scheduled at 8 p. m. on the grounds located on the north edge of town on highway 282.

On Friday night, Warren Hase, Pampa radio owner and announcer, will be master of ceremonies at a Western Jubilee program. Max Presnell will direct the musical program. Time is 8 p. m.

Scorpion

Search Continues "The Navy is still conducting investigation into the mission Scorpion," Ingraham said. "We still maintain the possibility Scorpion will be found."

Adding to the mystery of the single radio transmission was the fact that a submarine which picked it up, the Lapon, operating about 300 miles off Cape Hatteras, N.C., got a bearing on it which did not coincide with the spot where the debris was spotted.

As one Navy officer put it, the reports "add up to inconsistency."

While this localized search went on, other Navy vessels covered other parts of the track which was to have been followed by the Scorpion on its 2,100-mile trip from the Azores. And planes continued search runs all across the Atlantic.

The plane that spotted the debris late Wednesday dropped a sonar buoy which beams sound waves into the depths and relays back any bounce-back detections it makes. Some clicking noises were picked up, but Navy officials said they appeared to be of no significance.

Then, about an hour later at 8:28 p. m., EDT, came the terse voice transmission.

Automobile Stolen

A white 1962 4-door Chevrolet sedan was reported stolen at 6:55 p. m. Wednesday from Thompson Parts, 312 W. Kingsmill, according to Pampa police. The theft was thought to have occurred between 11:30 a. m. and 6 p. m. Wednesday. License number of the auto is BPN 70.

Speaking at the TCU coliseum, Johnson told the graduating class there is a "basic and fundamental need to open our political system" to the younger generation.

"We have everything to gain by extending to these young people the most precious right to citizenship—the right to vote," he declared.

Johnson noted America and the world were changing and "altering themselves with dizzying speed." But he warned that "those who glorify violence as a form of political action are really the best friends the status quo ever had. They provoke," he said, "a powerful conservative reaction among millions of people. They inspire, among many people, a blind allegiance to things as they are—even when those things should be changed."

In conferring a doctor of laws degree on Johnson, the university said historians would remember him as "the sturdiest of giants in the fiercest times." Johnson also was handed a petition signed by 300 TCU students urging him to reassess his decision not to seek re-election. But the President seemed to be enjoying very much his role as a non-candidate. He told the students he was a "college dropout—from the electoral college that is."

It was Johnson's first return to Fort Worth the eve of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Nov. 1963. The town turned out for him with American flags and placards reading "Texas Loves You" and "All the Way With LBJ."

Johnson also dropped by a reception in honor of Rep. Jim Wright (D-Tex.) and he heaped praise on all members of the Texas congressional delegation.

But it was evident that Johnson was tired after exhaustive meetings this week with Gorton and with deputy peace negotiator Cyrus Vance who returned from Paris to give him a face-to-face report on the talks with Hanoi representatives. Johnson said so far there has been "no progress" but both he and Vance have made clear the U.S. will persevere in its efforts to find a just and honorable peace.

'Bean' Petition Is Aimed At Getting Referendum

By KENNETH R. CLARK
BROWNSVILLE (UPI) — The most serious culinary confrontation since Lyndon Baines Johnson fought the battle of Pedernales River chili with the White House cook appeared to be shaping up today in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

This time, the issue was beans and tortillas.

Stung to action through a slur aimed by Texas Welfare Commissioner Burton Hackney at the nutritional value of their favorite dish—Brownsville citizens were pushing a petition aimed at securing a statewide "beans-by-the-tortilla" referendum.

Hackney, referring to malnutrition alleged to be widespread in several Texas "hunger counties"—including three in the Valley—last week commented that many mothers in the state would continue to feed their children beans and tortillas "even if they had a bushel of money." He said cases of malnutrition were more the result of "ignorance of nutritional principles" than lack of food.

"If we can have a liquor-by-the-drink referendum," said deputy Cameron County Tax Assessor R. A. Garcia, "its only fair we should have a beans-by-the-tortilla referendum as well."

A petition to that effect soon was circulating through the Cameron County courthouse, and indignant county officials were queuing up to sign it.

Dist. Judge H. A. Garcia, citing the "spanking-healthy" babies raised on "caldo de frijoles"—was at the head of the line. He said the addition of tripe and hot chili pequin peppers to beans eaten with tortillas provides "the most balanced diet known to man."

Another signer, Justice of the Peace Robert Hernandez, predicted far-reaching repercussions of the ground swell for a beans-by-the-tortilla amendment.

"The issue," he said, "might conceivably determine the outcome of the elections."

'Idiot In The Attic' Is Named Ambassador

By PRESTON F. KIRK
United Press International
The man who was known as the "idiot in the attic" was formally nominated this week by President Johnson as the next U. S. ambassador to Australia.

William H. Crook, 43, former director of the southwest region of the Office of Economic Opportunity, will fill the job vacated in February by fellow Texan Edward A. Clark.

Crook, who currently heads OEO's Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA), was known as the "idiot in the attic" during his undergraduate days at Baylor University in Waco. During that time, he lived in the attic of a house.

Got Good Training
"I got a lot of my anti-poverty training at Baylor," he once said during an interview. He said P. D. Browne, a math and religion professor, "took me in. If they hadn't kept me fed, I would probably have starved to death."

The young World War II veteran, an engineer gunner on a B24 bomber plane, said he still sometimes thinks of the pecan pie in Browne's refrigerator.

He graduated in 1949 and received his doctorate of theology from Southwestern Theological Seminary in Fort Worth in 1956.

To his new position, Crook will undoubtedly bring his vast storehouse of energy.

"Six hours a night is enough (rest) for anybody," he once said. He admitted, "I get a little less."

A Long Walk
When in Washington, he often shortened his time for rest by arising at 5:45 a.m. and walking three miles to a Spanish course at the Foreign Service Institute.

And a walk through the country—usually at a galloping pace—is one of his most enjoyable pastimes.

When he was president of San Marcos Baptist Academy (1960-1965) in San Marcos, Tex., one of his staff members refused to trot alongside him taking notes.

"There we would go, right through the cockleburs, me taking notes as fast as possible," said the secretary. "He can outwalk resident Johnson and life is just too short."

New Law School At Texas Tech Growing

By TOMMY GEDDIE
LUBBOCK (UPI)—The dean of one of the nation's two newest law schools said today the most important ingredients for the establishment of such a school are "a forward looking board of directors and a school on the move."

Dean Richard E. Amandes of the Texas Tech school of law said at the beginning of the rapidly-closing school year that "just about everything—in that order" had to take precedence in the first year.

"Everything must move along together, or as nearly so as possible," he said.

The first class at Tech began last fall with 71 students and all but three have survived and are in the midst of final exams.

Praises Class
Dr. Justin C. Smith praised the pioneer class for the "tenacity of its members...and their sense of humor."

"They kept a sense of objectivity in learning the law," he said, "and they have a fine attitude toward constructive criticism by the faculty."

The school expects to have almost 20 students by the time it becomes a three year operation in 1969 and hopes to enlarge to close to 60 by 1975.

Construction of the school of law building is scheduled to begin late this summer with completion in time for occupancy by September 1969.

Smith said "starting a new law school is really quite something."

Shaping the School
He said "you try to shape the school to the needs of the community. Each school has to find its own place and make some contribution over and above those of other schools."

Smith said the Tech school is trying to give students a background of law in all 50 states and not just over Texas. He said another innovation to be introduced this fall will be more freedom for students scheduling second year classes. In many schools, Smith said, students are not allowed to take electives until their third year.

Smith said "I think what a law school does is teach you to think." He said the school does not emphasize individual points but concentrates more on theory of laws.

WASHINGTON—Cyrus Vance, No. 2 U.S. negotiator at the Paris talks with North Vietnam, commenting on the talks:

"We are not discouraged. We are not unduly optimistic but I repeat we are not discouraged."

REMEMBER THIS

If you work for a man, in Heaven's name, WORK for him. If he pays you wages which supply you bread and butter, work for him; speak well of him; stand by him and stand by the institution he represents. If put to a pinch, an ounce of loyalty is worth a pound of cleverness. If you must vilify, condemn and eternally disparage... resign your position, and when you are outside, damn to your heart's content, but as long as you are a part of the institution, do not condemn it. If you do that, you are loosening the tendrils that are holding you to the institution, and at the first high wind that comes along, you will be uprooted and blown away, and probably will never know the reason why. — Elbert Hubbard

A luau for Memorial Day.

Try Hula Barbecue For Memorial Day

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food Editor

The Memorial Day weekend is usually the time when the man of the house puts on his chef's cap and takes over the outdoor grill for family and friends. Why not something different this year — luau spareribs with a tangy sauce for a real hula barbecue?

Make the luau barbecue sauce beforehand. It's easy to give it Hawaiian flavor with condensed tomato soup, pineapple juice and a few spicy seasonings. Be sure to start the charcoal burning early, so your chef will have hot, glowing coals in time for his performance. And give him a bulb syringe full of water to tame the flames that may rise from dripping fat.

Corn on the cob, hot French bread and fruit kabobs are great go-withs with luau barbecued spareribs. And so are paper napkins in a generous supply so the hula barbecue will be good, clean fun.

LUAU BARBECUE RIBS

Place 6 pounds spareribs (cut into serving-sized pieces, if desired) in a large pot of boiling water. Cover; simmer 1 hour; drain. Prepare sauce as directed. Place ribs on grill about 6 inches above glowing coals. Brush with sauce; continue cooking 30 minutes or until done, brushing with sauce and turning every 5 minutes. Six servings.

LUAU TOMATO BARBECUE SAUCE

1-3 cup chopped onion
1 small clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons salad oil
1 can (10 1/2 oz.) condensed tomato soup
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 to 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1/4 cup pineapple juice
dash tobacco sauce

In saucepan, cook onion, garlic in oil until tender. Add remaining ingredients. Cook over low heat 15 minutes, stirring now and then. Makes 1 1/2 cups sauce.

Outdoor Cooks Combine Chicken Parts in Japanese Yakitori Dish

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food Editor

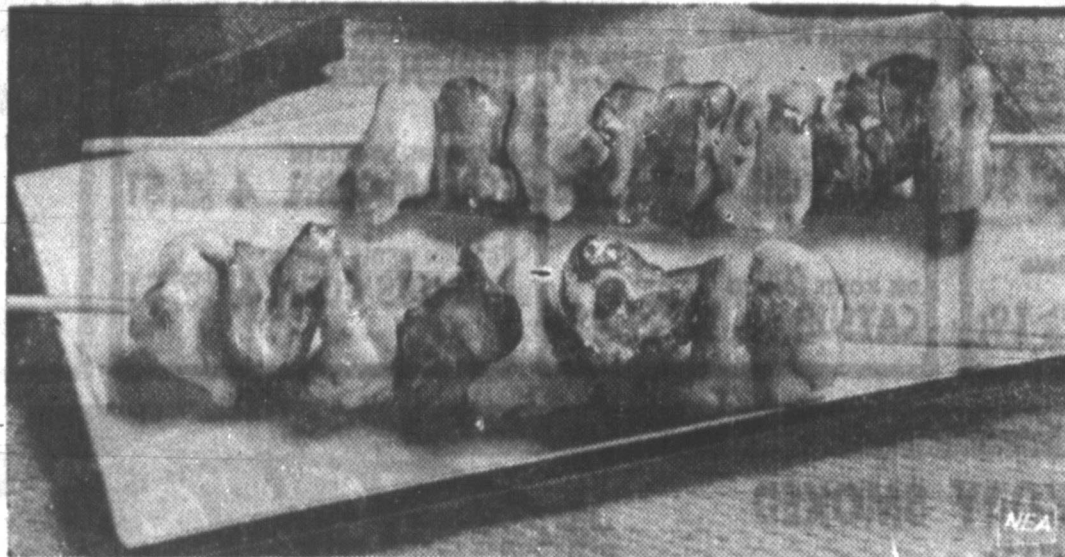

In Japan, they have a simple chicken breast and chicken liver combination which is perfect for the outdoor grill. Served with its special sauce of sake or sherry, sugar and grated white radish or white turnip, plus dishes of perfectly cooked white rice, it makes a delightful and satisfying dish for patio or lawn.

YAKITORI

3 whole broiler-fryer chicken breasts
1/2 pound chicken livers, cut in half
Salad oil
1-3 cup soy sauce
1-3 cup sake or sherry
1/4 cup sugar
Grated white radish or white turnip. . . .

Bone chicken breasts: remove skin. Cut each breast half into 6 to 8 nuggets, 1-inch square. Cut livers in half. Alternate 2 nuggets of breast meat with 1 liver half on six skewers, using 6 to 8 nuggets and 3 pieces of liver for each skewer. Brush with oil. Grill or broil 4 inches from heat, 2 minutes for each side. Combine soy sauce, sake and sugar; brush over meat on skewers and grill 2 minutes longer or until done. Serve with remaining sauce mixture and grated white radish. Six servings.

Offer Chicken a La Roma for May

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food Editor

For a casual but perfect May buffet, serve this Chicken a la Roma. With it, serve crusty French bread, a large spring salad bowl, and for dessert cubed watermelon marinated in sherry wine, butterscotch cookies and hot coffee. It's a delightful buffet supper.

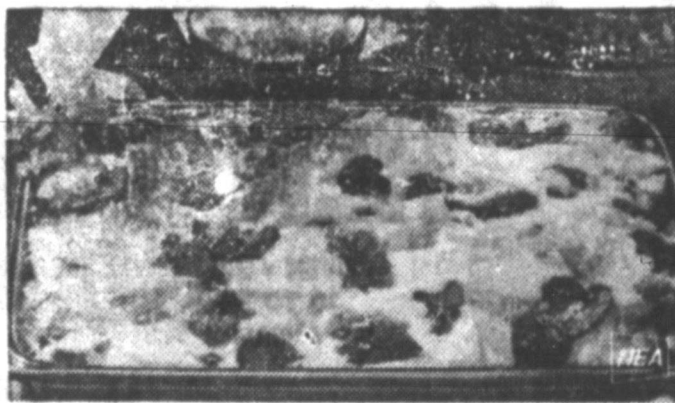

CHICKEN a la ROMA

1 cup coarsely chopped onion
1-3 cup butter, divided
1 can (1 lb.) tomatoes
1 can (4 oz.) sliced mushrooms
1/2 teaspoon tarragon
1/2 teaspoon basil
1/2 teaspoon sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons salt, divided
2 cups diced cooked chicken
3 tablespoons flour
2 cups light cream
1/2 cup dry white cooking wine
2 cups shredded Swiss or Mozzarella cheese
8 oz. lasagne noodles, cooked and drained

1-3 cup shredded Parmesan cheese. . . .

Saute onion in 2 tablespoons butter until tender. Add tomatoes, undrained mushrooms, tarragon, basil, sugar and 1/4-teaspoon salt. Simmer until sauce thickens. Stir in chicken. Melt remaining butter; blend in flour and remaining salt. Add cream and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Stir in wine. Pour one-third of tomato sauce over bottom of 2-quart shallow casserole; spoon one-third of wine sauce over tomato, top with one-third of shredded cheese. Spread one-half of noodles over cheese. Repeat. Top with third layer each of tomato sauce, wine sauce and cheese. Sprinkle top with Parmesan cheese. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, about 35 minutes or until hot and bubbly. Six to 8 servings.

Chicken a la Roma perfect for buffet.

Olives Complement Beef Kabobs

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Now that the outdoor chef is taking over, it is a wise wife who keeps him supplied with new recipes. The man in the tall chef's hat, asbestos gloves and flamboyant apron is usually a little vain about his superior skill and welcomes any recipes that will make his next door neighbor envious.

Give him this recipe for kabobs of ripe olives, round steak, onions and yams. It's a good "show-off" recipe.

RIPE OLIVE BEEF KABOBS

FOR THE GRILL—ripe olive beef kabobs.

1 1/2 to 2 lbs. top round steak, 1-inch thick
20 canned pitted ripe olives 1 (1-lb.) can small whole onions
1 (1-lb. 2-ozs.) can small whole yams
1/4 cup cooking oil
1/4 cup defrosted frozen orange juice concentrate
3 tablespoons vinegar
1 teaspoon soy sauce
1 minced clove garlic
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger. . . .

Cut meat across grain into 1/4-inch thick strips. Thread meat onto 10 skewers serpentine fashion, alternating olives and onions in the curves. Cut 5 yams crosswise into halves and place one on end of each skewer. Mash remaining yams and combine with all remaining ingredients; heat to boiling. Broil kabobs to desired degree of doneness, turning and basting several times with yam mixture. Ten kabobs.

Food Buying Guide

The following guide to the nation's food buys for the weekend was prepared by the Departments of Agriculture and Interior for United Press International.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service reports that ample supplies of meat and poultry and good stocks of some fresh vegetables, and fruit will be available this weekend after Memorial Day in food stores and supermarkets.

Broiler-fryer chickens and turkeys continue to head the list of abundant meats. Also in the abundant class are ground beef and beef roasts and steaks. Pork items in ample supply include bacon, chops and roasts, and ham. Some area reports also put picnics and butts in the ample-supply class. North Pacific halibut steaks and fish filets are fish buys to watch for, according to the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Cabbage, carrots, lettuce, onions and potatoes are abundantly available in most areas. And so is corn in some areas. Bananas and oranges should be in ample supply in most areas along with strawberries in some areas.

Something New for Patio Thirst

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food Editor

For the Memorial Day barbecue, here's a brand new cooler — iced tea tingler, a refreshing combination of iced tea and dry white wine. Its pale amber color is pleasing to the eye; its subtle flavor equally appealing to the palate. It's a drink to sip slowly and appreciatively, feeling cooler and more relaxed with every sip. Garnish the pitcher with a long spiral of orange peel and add circles of lemon and orange, too, if you like.

For nibbling white sipping, you might serve fresh fruits with a creamy dipping sauce. The heavenly dip given below is especially nice with ripe, red strawberries. Leave the stems on the berries and provide individual bowls of the sauce for each guest.

ICED TEA TINGLER

(Makes 10-12 servings)
1 quart boiling water
12 teabags
1/2 cup sugar
2-3 cup lemon juice, strained
3 cups dry white wine. . . .
Pour boiling water over teabags; cover and let stand for 5 minutes. Remove teabags, add sugar and stir to dissolve. Let cool. Add lemon juice and wine. Pour into a tall pitcher, add ice cubes. Garnish with lemon and orange slices and a long spiral of orange peel.

HEAVENLY DIP

(Makes 6 servings)
1 cup sour cream
2 to 4 tablespoons light brown sugar
1 teaspoon lemon juice

1/2 teaspoon grated orange rind. . . .

Mix sour cream, sugar, lemon juice and orange rind, together and refrigerate at least an hour to blend flavors. Serve with strawberries or other fresh fruit.

Tingler—tea and dry white wine.

FOR SAFER ACCIDENTS

Lap-belted occupants can reduce severity of an impending auto crash by more than 80 per cent if they assume the positions above. If a crash is anticipated, the driver should have both hands on the upper rim of the steering wheel with his elbows out. He can maintain control of the car until the very last moment, when he lowers his head to rest on the back of his hands. A passenger, right, should lean forward as far as possible, place his forearms on the top of the instrument panel and cradle his head above the level of the panel. Findings are results of experiments conducted at General Motors proving ground.

Economics Staff at University Of Texas Okays 'Guaranteed Pay'

AUSTIN (UPI)—Twelve members of the economics staff at the University of Texas at Austin have endorsed some form of guaranteed annual income, the department chairman says.

Dr. Carey Thompson said he and 11 other staff members signed the nationally-circulated letter to "call attention" to their belief in the need for such a program.

The statement signed by the group said the country "will not have met its responsibility until everyone in the nation is assured of an income of no less than the level set by the poverty programs."

Thompson said the group advocated no specific plan for guaranteed income or negative income tax, but supports the idea behind the proposals.

The statement urges the Congress to "adopt this year a system of national guaranteed income and income supplement."

Thompson said the letter was signed by "every staff member I contacted here." He said there are about 15 members on the economics staff at the university.

STUDENTS ARRESTED

MADRID (UPI)—Spanish riot police broke through barricades at the University of Madrid School of Philosophy and Letters Wednesday and arrested dozens of a force of 500 students who had demanded that the university be reformed and that police leave the campus.

Groom Math Teacher Resigns

GROOM (Spl) — Marvin Talley, math teacher in the Groom Schools for the past 12 years, has resigned to accept a similar position with the Bridgeport Schools. His resignation became effective at the end of this school year. He will be replaced by Mrs. Janet Clark.

Other teachers not returning include Coach Richard Eddleman, Mrs. Lois Hicks, Mrs. Eudreda Mays, and Mrs. Maurine Mashburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvis Dennington have been employed by Groom Schools to teach next year. Dennington will be the elementary principal and will teach physics, science and the sixth grade. Mrs. Dennington will be librarian and will teach English Language Arts in the Seventh and Eighth grades.

James Wilson was hired as maintenance man, replacing K. S. Lang, who is leaving at the end of the school term.

Terry Cornett, a student at WTSU, Canyon, has been hired as assistant summer coordinator.

Due to the lack of educational value, class size, and increasing responsibility, the annual Senior trip will be discontinued starting with the Senior class of 1972 or the ninth grade class of next year.

The School Board decided to secure the services of an architect to study the cafeteria and other remodeling and building problems brought on by an increase in enrollment.

Washington Window

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI)—

Backstairs at the White House: Democratic politicians in California have been amazed at the energetic campaigning of Mrs. Rose Kennedy, mother of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. She gives little evidence of being in her early 70s as she electioneers for her son, in the June 4 Democratic primary.

She has been entertaining as often as twice a day for groups of women as large as 300. Based for a time at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco, she remained so busy that the hotel staff joked about setting up a special "Rose Kennedy task force" to meet her requirements.

Shortly after her arrival in San Francisco where she had a heavy schedule already planned, she learned that the California Bankers Association was holding a convention at the hotel.

She discovered this fact one night and next afternoon was entertaining gracefully at a tea for 300 of the bankers' wives. Politically, this had to be an exercise in optimism because as one San Francisco Democrat said, "I'd be amazed if there are two Kennedy votes in that entire crowd."

Escaped Criticism
Back in Washington, there has been considerable interest in the way Mrs. Rose Kennedy spoke so frankly about spending the family fortune on the Indiana primary and yet escaped tough political criticism—apparently because she was so open about it.

Perhaps more important politically was her ability to joke about the fact that if she talked about finances any more, her son probably would send her home.

Rich people, particularly those in politics, seldom say things such as, "The Rockefeller are like us—we both have lots of money to spend on our campaigns," and, "if you have money, you spend it to win."

But mother Kennedy spoke this way in an interview with Women's Wear Daily and aside from some mild chiding in print and on television, she has drawn nothing like the criticism which has showered down on other political figures for much less.

Some weeks ago, this column referred to a well-known fact—that President Johnson on occasion rode his Texas cattle ranges in a Lincoln Continental. The column resulted in a number of letters saying the Chief Executive was making a mockery of his antipoverty program by riding around his ranch in an expensive car.

Mrs. Kennedy must bear a sort of political charm when she says, "It is our money and we are free to spend it in any way we please," people smile charitably. But let Johnson drive his car into a pasture to look at his cattle and it becomes to some a crime against the poor people.

'Peephole' Artist Shirley Reznikoff Basks in 'Warmth' of Acceptance

By MIKEL MILLER
BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—Banned in the French Quarter of New Orleans and given the cold shoulder by local culture buffs only a year ago, peephole artist Shirley Reznikoff today basked in the warmth of public acceptance.

Her Gallery Extremore, opened almost three weeks ago in a vacant downtown store and brimming with 22 objects d'art in the classical Reznikoff style, has been extended for another week to handle the crowds.

More than 2,200 people have jammed into the tiny makeshift gallery since the show opened, pressing their noses against the controversial boxes for a better look inside. They glimpse the images revealed by flashing lights, shake their heads and look again.

"I think they're trying to figure it out," said Mrs. Reznikoff. "They keep coming back two or three times."

Reaction to the art, most of it containing not too obscure sexual connotations, has been much better than when her work was first shown in Baton Rouge a year ago, said Mrs. Reznikoff.

"I still think we're getting mixed reaction, but on the whole, the reaction seems to be very good," she said. "If they didn't like it, they could have stoned the doors or something, you know."

Nationwide publicity about her work being thrown out of a New Orleans gallery last November because it was too obscene for the French Quarter has also heightened interest in the show, she said.

"I think that's one reason done after the controversy last fall. All are commentaries on the censorship.

One entitled "obscenity expert kit" contains a large detailed oval shaped drawing in the center flanked by white gloves, a magnifying glass, a bottle of "erotic eradicant," matches and an "obscenity meter."

The drawing is a cross section of a fern stem.

"After that we fold our tents and fade into the night," she said.

NEW YORK (UPI)—C. B. individual stocks probably will be "less conspicuous" and a general market trend "will come into being."

E. F. Hutton & Co. says the market's recent action suggests "it would take very little" in the form of a positive news development to start a new broad, advancing phase. At the same time, the analyst says, it probably would take a major bit of negative news to push the list substantially lower.

Negro Preacher Promotes Harmony Between Races

By MARK DAMERON
 DALLAS (UPI) — Rev. Lewis Calvin Browning has the nation for a pulpit and one main message as the sermon—"I don't believe in either black power or white power. We are declaring war on riots."

Browning, 61, is pastor of the Independent Methodist Church in Fort Worth and has built up a mobile anti-riot campaign. The Negro great-grandson of a slave heads the Youth Crime Prevention League, Inc., which he founded 10 years ago to reach out to young Negroes and teach them respect for law and order. The "keeping it cool" part of his campaign has to do with trying to get Negroes and whites to be peaceful.

"Looting and riots should be denounced from house-tops everywhere," he said, calling them "a disgrace to any society," any group."

Large Yearly Budget
 The Youth Crime Prevention League was formed in 1958 and has grown to a staff of 26 and a $50,000 yearly budget.

"The only happiness and prosperity the Negro people can hope to find is through friendly relationships with the white people," he said.

Browning and his staff tour Texas in the summer, conducting seminars and workshops. The preacher travels some 30,000 miles a year, pulling a special trailer that has a speaker's platform and promotes harmony between the races.

The organization has made contacts in 22 states and now Browning wants to build a headquarters in Dallas.

After Local Sponsors
 "What we are trying to do now is get local sponsors in every community and push love and cooperation and togetherness," Browning said. "Throwing rocks and bottles is not the right approach. Mad men cannot think."

Browning is a fourth-generation preacher with his roots deep in Texas soil. He likes to wear a bright golf vest and straw hat.

He said the idea for the youth group came to him with the thought that young Negroes were being ignored by adults and were getting into trouble because nobody helped them.

One of the things his organiza-

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
 UPI Foreign News Analyst

"We are distressed by the fear that the solitary exercise of power, if it becomes the rule, will not prepare France herself to assume calmly . . . the permanent direction of her future."

Valery Giscard d'Estaing, former French finance minister and political leader.

Those words, uttered in August, 1967, by a man who had served President Charles de Gaulle long and well, seemed in the last week of May, 1968, painfully prophetic.

For there was nothing calm in the disorders which for a month had stirred France and brought De Gaulle hurrying home from a visit to Romania. And as disorders sparked by rebellious students spread to 10 million French workers, the target more and more seemed to be De Gaulle himself.

It was just 10 years ago, on May 29, 1958, that De Gaulle answered the call of frightened French politicians and resumed the office he had abandoned in anger in 1946 to haul France back from the brink of civil war.

Among some of the politicians and the military there were the die-hards who opposed him, particularly his decision to grant independence to Algeria and end the wars which had cost French blood from the jungles of Indo-China to the western edge of the Sahara.

In Paris, nightly explosions of terrorist plastique bombs became so commonplace that diners in smart, small restaurants off the Champs Elysees scarcely bothered to put down their coffee cups.

Not since those violence-ridden days had France known comparable unrest until this month.

Nor had the danger to France been greater.

De Gaulle had pulled France out of a losing war in Algeria, had rewritten the constitution to give France a strong central authority and bring an end to a system which had given the country 26 governments in 14 years between 1944 and 1958, had restored order and given stability to the French franc.

There were those who said the volatile French simply had become bored with prosperity. There were also those who

THE LIGHTER SIDE

New US Goal

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In the old days, status-conscious Americans concerned themselves with keeping up with the Joneses. But most of us have outgrown that sort of petty competition.

Nowadays, we devote ourselves, mind, body and soul, to getting ahead of the Joneses.

The escalation of status rivalry has been accompanied by the development of a defensive maneuver known as the "psyche-out." If a friend or neighbor buys something you can't afford, you try to offset his advantage through psychology.

In a previous lecture on this subject, I told how to psyche-out a neighbor who gets a color television set before you do. Since then, several readers have asked me to provide additional instruction.

Inflation Weapon

Very well. The following tableau illustrates how to use inflation as a psyche-out weapon:

Joe Grinitch stopped by my house the other evening to show me his new self-propelled electric razor.

"You don't have to push this razor over your beard," he crowed. "You just guide it."

I immediately wanted a self-propelled razor so much I could taste it. In fact, when Grinitch wasn't looking I took a bite of his. But I knew I couldn't afford

"You shouldn't have bought that thing," I said gravely.

"Why not?" he said, eyeing me warily.

"It's unpatriotic," I said.

Appeal to Patriotism

Grinitch is nothing if not patriotic. He keeps a small arsenal in his basement with which to protect the neighborhood in case we are invaded by subversive elements.

"What's unpatriotic about it?" he demanded.

"Good Lord, man," I exclaimed, "haven't you heard about inflation? Don't you realize inflation could send this country into economic chaos?"

"What has that got to do with my self-propelled razor?"

"Simply this: Inflation occurs when the rise in buying power exceeds the rate of productivity increase. At such times it behooves us consumers to exercise a little self-restraint.

"I ordered one of those razors weeks ago, but after President Johnson's appeal for austerity I cancelled the order. You won't catch me fanning the fires of inflation."

It was a clean psyche-out. Without another word, Grinitch picked up his self-propelled razor and went home.

ABINGDON, Va. — Lowry Bowman, editor of Abingdon's weekly newspaper, in an open letter to Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, complained that rose bushes planted as part of a federal beautification program are endangering valuable pasture lands.

"It's not a good thing to have a mouth a rose bush. But we're getting desperate."

Six New Senior Texas Colleges Recommended

AUSTIN (UPI)—The director of the Texas College Coordinating Board has recommended establishment of six new senior colleges in Texas at a cost of $201 million by 1980.

Dr. J. K. Williams presented the statewide long-range plan for state colleges to the coordinating board for consideration. The plan also suggests that a possible alternative to the establishment of the new senior colleges would be for the state to contract with private colleges and universities to enroll students who would have otherwise attended the new colleges.

Hearings on the plan are scheduled in Austin June 15-July 10. The coordinating board will consider final adoption of the plan after the public hearings. Williams predicted that enrollment in Texas colleges will increase from the present 348,000 to 707,000 by 1980, and that by 1980 at least 80 per cent of the college-aged population of Texas will live in the state's 22 metropolitan areas.

He suggested the establishment of maximum enrollment figures for present state senior colleges beginning in September 1972.

The proposed new senior colleges would be located in San Antonio, Midland-Odessa, Houston, Dallas-Fort Worth, and Corpus Christi. Two of the facilities, both additional campuses of the University of Houston, would be located in Houston.

The plan calls for the first of the colleges to be in operation by 1973.

Town Rejects New Postal Building But Uncle Sam To Build It Anyway

JAMESTOWN, Colo. (UPI)—The proud residents of this small mountain community have told the U.S. government something the government seldom hears when it wants to spend money in a town.

They have voiced an emphatic "no" to plans to build a new post office in Jamestown. But the U.S. Post Office Department is determined to go ahead with the new postal facility despite the rejection.

The citizens have banded together to form a group called VOICE (Voters Opposing Indiscriminate Civic Expenditures). Its co-chairman, L. F. Johnston, said it considers the planned $14,000 building "an unnecessary expenditure of the taxpayers' funds . . . when a slight remodeling of the present facility is all that is necessary."

Johnston said a postal official told a meeting of the group that it was going to build a new post office and that was that.

As a result, the group plans to seek a court injunction halting the construction. Johnston estimated 80 per cent of the town's 110 residents oppose the planned building.

Johnston also said the proposed building "would work an undue hardship on the gentleman who is postmaster here. It would force him to close his store and become a full-time postmaster."

Mrs. Robert Dalton, VOICE publicity chairman, said the postmaster, Don Haynes, had offered to remodel the present facility at his own expense. She said operating costs of the remodeled facility would be around $65 a month, as opposed to $200 a month in the new facility.

"It's just disgusting when you see so much waste everywhere else," she said.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Every one has been talking and writing about how to make baseball more interesting. The general feeling is that there just isn't enough hitting anymore.

Well, that's part of the problem, all right. But anyone accustomed to watching sports on television knows there's another problem: baseball just isn't violent enough for modern tastes. There's not enough body contact and outright clobbering. The age of the nice guy has given way to the age of the glamorous barbarian, and baseball must adjust.

Television can use its great influence to bring this noble adjustment about. To begin with, the nine inning system seems expendable. Why not something original? For example, the game could adopt a four-quarter plan, with each quarter running 15 minutes. Whoever is ahead at the end of this time wins.

Catcher Calls Play
The catcher could do something more dramatic than just waving his fingers when he signals for a pitch. For instance, he might bark out: "28-45-67-hike."
Baserunners have it too easy in baseball. If you want to see some really exciting television, why not make it legal for fielders to try to tackle runners when they try to take a base? Baseball fields are not the same size. It might be wise to have all of them the same—say, 100 yards long and rectangular. A single might be the 25-yard line, a double the 50-yard line and so forth.

Add Platoons
The best tacklers might be on the defensive unit, and the best baserunners on the offensive team. There might be option plays in which the pitcher tosses the ball back to the second baseman, who then fires to the hitter.

The schedule is too long also. The only thing that happens at most games is that fans go out and enjoy themselves sitting in the sunshine or under the lights. But that's not what baseball is all about. So why not just cut down the schedule to, say, 10 or weekends?

in thought for a super-age. Why backward and modest and small? You could have a two-platoon team only one run each time it crosses the plate is pretty games. And while we're at it, giving a runner crosses home only one run each time it plate?

World Book Lore
(CAN YE PLAY ANNE LAURIE?)

The bagpipe may be the national instrument of Scotland, but the Scots don't have a monopoly on it. People in Ireland and in parts of France, India, and Spain play the bagpipe too, and a form of the bagpipe was played by the ancient Romans.

New VFW Officers Are Installed

Veterans of Foreign Wars Post, 1657, Pampa, held installation of officers at a business meeting Tuesday evening at 7:30 in VFW Hall.

Tom Kitchens, past District 9 commander, and member of the Pampa Post, installed William Earls, commander; James F. Killebrew, senior vice commander; J. D. Boland, junior vice commander; Vernon Stickey, quartermaster; James Seltz, adjutant; and Jack Graham, service officer for veterans organizations.

Pampa Post No. 1657 meets the 2nd and 4th Tuesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in VFW Hall. All veterans who have served overseas in war time, past and present, who are eligible for the Veterans of Foreign Wars are cordially invited to attend and join the local Post, VFW representatives said.

Scholarship Is Presented To Student

A scholarship has been presented to Rex Staley Whitaker, a senior student in the Baylor Law School. The presentation was made by the law firm of Naman, Howell, Smith, and Chase of Waco. The firm makes the presentation annually to a law student selected by the faculty on the basis of potential, scholarship, and character.

Whitaker has recently been elected president of Phi Delta Phi, national honorary Law Fraternity at Baylor.

He is married to Marilyn Kaye Smith, a 1960 graduate of Pampa High School, and a 1965 graduate of Baylor University School of Music. She has been teaching Choral Music at West Junior High School in Waco for the past two years. They have two children, Lisa Kaye 3½ years, and Mark Staley, 2 years.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR AEBY: My younger sister is being married soon, and she wants to have fruitcake for her wedding cake because it can be made earlier and will keep better.

Others we've asked say that the traditional wedding cake should be white.

Sis says that Luci Johnson had fruitcake at her wedding, so there can't be anything wrong with it. Who is right?

DEAR SIS: Having recently researched the history of wedding cakes for a "kooky wedding" story I worry for the June issue of Ladies' Home Journal, if you'll excuse the plug, I can tell you that there is no such thing as a "traditional" wedding cake. Your sister may properly have anything she wants.

DEAR AEBY: I am engaged to a very nice fellow from Italy. We have been dating for four years now. He came to this country when he was only 16 years old. He is now 28. He makes good money and he speaks very good English.

He never mentioned the possibility of his going back to Italy to live until a few months ago. I always thought he liked it here so much. Now he tells me he would like to live in Italy. Do you think I should give up my family and my country for this man?

DEAR WONDERING: If you have to ask, the answer is no.

DEAR AEBY: After 10 years of a childless marriage, my husband and I adopted a beautiful baby girl. We were — and still are — on cloud nine. She was a gift from heaven because a year later we were blessed with our own little son! And the following year, another son.

We should be happier than ever, but here's the problem:

My husband's father, who was against our adopting the little girl in the first place, goes out of his way to hurt the child. He favors the boys with gifts and treats, and leaves the little girl standing without — hurt and pleading for recognition. Behind our backs he refers to the girl as "that illegitimate b--- John took to raise." She is a sweet and adorable child, and much prettier than his own "blue blood" granddaughters.

We don't want to cause trouble so we make excuses for Grandpa's slights, but how can I stand by with my blood boiling and say nothing? When we leave his home I promise I'll never take the children there again, but I always weaken and do, hoping he'll behave better. What can be done?

NO NAME, PLEASE
DEAR NO NAME: If you subject your daughter to Grandpa's cruel treatment you are guilty as Grandpa. Let him know that you will tolerate no more of his unfair and unfeeling conduct. Deny him the privilege of seeing all your children until he agrees to mend his ways. He may never agree, which will be his loss.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WASTED THREE YEARS IN MIAMI:" If a man is admittedly a "playboy" who doesn't want to settle down with one woman — that's HIS business. BUT HE shouldn't do business with a 22-year-old girl who has marriage in mind.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Campers to Start Sessions June 3

The first session of Girl Scout Day Camp for Pampa and Miami will be June 3-7. Crafts for this season will be centered around an Indian theme. Girls may earn their Indian Lore Badge and participate in a variety of outdoor activities, according to Mrs. Jewell Snider, the camp director. Her program director will be Mrs. G. J. Boyd, Pampa.

Theme for the second session, which will be June 10-14, will be the World of Nature. Campers will learn how to do sand painting, make leaf rubbings, and other nature crafts. A special feature of this camp will be the opportunity for a limited number of Cadettes to earn their Horsewoman Badge. Mrs. Kadingo, the camp director, stated:

Girls must have written permission from their parents to participate in this unit. Both sessions will offer a varied program for girls, with opportunities for badge work, cooking out, hikes, crafts and special program consultants. On Thursday of each session, visitors will be welcome from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

(FOR FRIDAY, MAY 31)

GENERAL FORECAST: You have a great desire now to have some commitments and praise for whatever good you may have done in the past and you have a good chance to get it if you are equally conscious of and articulate about the talents that others have expressed in a constructive manner. Think big now and you reap larger rewards.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Complete the month on a note of optimism and show others your true abilities in whatever way you feel. They will be off to the amusement that please most. Avoid persons who are not very dependable.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Home requires a little change and tuning up so get on the ball and make everything neat and more comfortable. Then entertain there and show others how devoted you are to life. This makes a good impression, especially on business allies.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Out to visit with those who are within easy reach, and then sit down and plan some important trip. Do that letter writing that you have been putting aside for some time. Show a friendly attitude.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 22) — Forget the busy and get busy with matters that are so important for you right now. Increase abundance quickly. Listen to what your business expert has to suggest for your advancement.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 23) — Once you have taken exercise etc., get dressed nicely and then out socially to get the results you desire. Some of your contacts would be rather strange, but can be helpful just the same. Be smart.

Virgo (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) — Instead of looking for a new situation, get at the principles of same. Come to night, vital decisions. Consult the most prominent person of your acquaintance on how to move successfully.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — A day to get together with five friends who really like you and have relief from the tensions of the busy world. Get that question you have wanted through a good deal. Do not retire too late tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23) — A good day to handle those big matters in an amiable way, we've wanted things early and get a head start. Get credit improved through ingenuity. Be fair but also be accurate and don't pay bills twice by being in a hurry.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24 to Dec. 23) — You have been postponing some plan that is fine, so don't get cold feet now. Carry through. You can now get the added information you need through the right sources. Act in a most positive way.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 24 to Jan. 23) — You will consistently keep the promises you have made to them. True devotion and sincerity will do much to gain you more affection from loved ones. Be happy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 24 to Feb. 19) — That rain associate now give you an excellent idea, so give a deserved pat on the back and put it in operation quickly. Cooperate more and you come to a better understanding. Be more inspired.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — A good day to get into old clothing and start making improvements around the home. shop etc. Make those old clothes respect you. Show that you have the ideas and are a most capable person.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he, or she, will be one of those young persons who has a tendency to express himself or herself so freely that others will rebel. Therefore, teach early the importance of diplomacy and courtesy and then the life becomes very successful.

Homers By Mays Clip Cardinals

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

Willie Mays doesn't like criticism, even when it's from one of his biggest boosters, Leo Durocher.

Durocher accused Mays of "dogging it" for not finishing a game against his Chicago Cubs last Saturday and not participating at all in Sunday's game.

Mays responded to the charge by hitting a two-run homer Tuesday night to beat St. Louis and added frosting to the cake by hammering another Wednesday night to clip the Cardinals.

Wednesday's home, Mays' ninth of the season and 573rd of his career, followed a double by Ron Hunt and helped Juan Marichal to his eighth victory of the season, tops in the National League.

"I'm not an iron man," responded Mays to Durocher's charge that there was no reason for him to miss a Giant game at Wrigley Field.

Long Season
"When I get tired, I'm dead. The best thing to do is rest when you're tired and then come back to play. Even if you lose a game, it's a long, long season," Mays said after his latest heroics.

In other National League games, Cincinnati nipped Los Angeles 6-5 and Chicago and Philadelphia split a twin-night doubleheader, the Phils winning the second game 3-3 after dropping the opener 9-2. The Atlanta-Houston game was halted by rain after three innings.

In American League action, Minnesota edged Cleveland 1-0, Chicago snapped a six-game losing streak by beating Baltimore 3-1, Oakland downed Boston 7-4 and Detroit blanked California 3-0.

Marichal said he was happy to get "even" with the Cardinals. "My lifetime average is 14-14 against St. Louis. Now," Marichal said, "Now no team has a lead over me. It was my best game so far this season. I had good control."

Come From Behind
Cincinnati spotted the Dodgers five runs before rallying for victory when Alex Johnson raced home on shortstop Zoilo Versalles' error.

Johnson opened the ninth with a single, his third hit, and took second on Tony Perez' sacrifice. After Johnny Bench was intentionally walked, Jim Brewer struck out Lee May. Leo Cardenas then sent a routine grounder to short that eluded Versalles. Johnson raced home with the winning run, beating Versalles' belated throw to the plate.

Palmer, Nicklaus Co-Favorites In Golf Tournament At Atlanta

By DAVID M. MOFFIT
UPI Sports Writer

ATLANTA (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus, who has won more tournaments over the past five years than any other golfer, thinks the day when one or two men can dominate the PGA tour is past.

As big Jack sees it: Although he and Arnold Palmer were co-favorites of pro golf for quite awhile, there are plenty of young princes rising to power, who make it mighty difficult for anyone to rule.

"A few years ago, when there only a few $100,000 tournaments, we had a definite edge," said the blond bomber who is the only golfer to win more than $100,000 five years in a row.

"Then, a lot of the younger players in the tour who hadn't won much money would choke up a bit at the thought of a $20,000 payday. But just about all of our tournaments are $100,000 or better now and $20,000 doesn't scare us any."

Also, noted Nicklaus: "There are more good young golfers in the pro ranks today than ever before. These fellows aren't overawed by either the size of the purses or the reputations of some of the established players."

Nicklaus added that although he won five tournaments in 1965

Off The Top

By WES DUMONT
Pampa News Sports Editor

GOLFERS PRACTICE
The eighth and ninth grades will play golf this summer under Eural Ramsey, a member of the Pampa coaching staff. As soon as the list is complete, this corner will publish the names of those going out for golf in the junior high level this summer.

It is true that golf does not have the crowd appeal of the major sports. But, young boys taking up the sport have the advantage of being able to play the game in their senior years.

Fans may see some interesting baseball by attending the American Legion games. Certainly, the boys on the team will receive a lift by having good support from local baseball fans. It is easy to sit at home and watch television. However, it is much healthier to go to the ball park, enjoy the fresh air and sunshine and see the American Legion baseball team in action.

SALES ROCKET
Those selling memberships for the rejuvenated Harvester Club here report that sales were very good at the recent spring intra-squad football game. The club has sold over 100 memberships since starting its sales a short time ago.

A goal of 1,000 memberships has been set.

MEREDITH (THE LAKE) POPULAR
It is reported that over 40,000 persons visited Lake Meredith last weekend and a large number of people are expected for the Memorial Day holidays. Recreation areas are showing a boom throughout the country. There are many citizens who wish to get away from it all large crowds, loud noise and congestion. That may be one of the important reasons for the growing number of people who visit resort areas such as Meredith.

Yellowstone Park in Wyoming—with the famous Old Faithful geyser—is another attraction which has experienced large growth recently.

By the way, if you're a college student looking for a job this summer, it might be well to investigate employment opportunities at this resort, and others over the nation.

You can have a vacation and work at the same time.

HICKEY TOUGH
One of the better amateur golfers in this area is Max Hickey, recent winner of the American Petroleum Institute golf tournament and veteran tournament golfer.

Hickey is small. He probably could never make a basketball or football team.

Yet, he is considered a top amateur golfer. He impresses one as a modest man despite his ability in the golfing game.

In an age which reverses the big man—he's a winner in both sports and politics—it is refreshing to know that a good, little man can still compete with the big boys.

OPTIMISTS ACTIVE
In addition to sponsoring the three youth baseball leagues in Pampa, the Optimist Club also offers a judo school for both boys and girls.

Judo schools were once in the same category as professional wrestling—that is a state of low esteem.

The increasing crime rate and the greater fear among women in larger cities has enhanced the prestige of judo schools.

It is well for a young girl as well as a young man to know judo. Even if one is unaggressive, there may be a time when he or she will have to defend himself or herself.

We highly recommend the judo school to one and all, male or female, hawk or dove.

Strikeout King Slated To Pitch Second Game In NCAA Playoffs

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Texas' Snoddy scored the final run in the ninth. He doubled, went to third on an infield hit and scored when Jones bobbled a fielder's choice.

Starter Juan Guzman took the loss, his second in seven decisions.

PROPOSE STADIUM
CLEVELAND (UPI)—Gov. James Rhodes said Wednesday, the Ohio legislature will be asked to empower the Cleveland-Cuyahoga County Port Authority to construct a domed stadium in time for the 1971 baseball season.

Should Street, who broke a team season strikeout record this year lead Texas to victory again today, the Longhorns will go to Omaha, Neb., June 10 for the College World Series. A Pan Am win would force a third game in Austin Friday.

Texas got the first of its three runs Wednesday on a double by George Nauert in the second inning and a single by Bob Snoddy. In the sixth, Pat Brown singled, stole second and scored on a single by Dave Hall.

Howard Pegged High School Boys Report For Practice

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A winning entry in a Washington Daily News name contest dubbed Senators' home run hitter Frank Howard the "Capital Punisher."

Ten high school boys were included among athletes who reported for the initial American Legion baseball practice Tuesday night, it was reported by Lloyd Sumners, coach.

Those reporting included Al Achord, John Doucette, Tom Hawkins, Eddie Hopkins, John Jenkins, Scotty King, Steve Sumners, Larry Turcoffe, George Bailey and Al Gomez.

There is a possibility of a game being scheduled by the American Legion Sunday afternoon here.

Red Dale Travel Club Will Camp On Lake Fryer

The Top O' Texas Red Dale Travel Club will spend the weekend of June 8 and 9 at Lake Fryer near Perryton.

The organization, which has an outing each month to encourage use of campers by Red Dale camper owners, will spend the weekend fishing, boating, skiing, playing volleyball, horse shoes and croquet. The club owns its own recreation equipment, which it takes with it on all camping excursions.

Wagonmaster of the group is Perry Nichols of Pampa and assistant wagonmaster is Art Orth. Mrs. Don Wilson of Pampa is secretary and can give information concerning joining the group. Reporter is Mrs. Herman Edwards.

Representatives from most cities in the Top-O' Texas area are members of the club, which has sponsored outings to Lake Meredith, Palo Duro Canyon, to lakes near Wheeler and elsewhere, including a national organization - sponsored trip to and Longmont, Colo. Members who have taken part in the Mexico trip include Paul Crouch, Dr. W. L. Campbell (Three times), and G. G. Tennant.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

'That They Have Not Died in Vain'

This is Memorial Day, a day of sad retrospection and memories of American war dead. It is a day when we pay homage to the men and women who sacrificed and are still sacrificing their lives that America might remain free. They were honored today in parades and memorial services in cities and hamlets around the country.

Congress still has not elected to declare the conflict in Vietnam an official war, but that does not matter. Not in the least. They are shooting live ammunition over there and the American casualty list already totals more than 20,000, a score or more of them from the Panhandle. You would have a hard time convincing the family of a Vietnam victim it isn't war.

There is a certain feeling of futility and meaninglessness about Memorial Day ceremonies. In a sense, they seem like an empty gesture, altogether meaningless. They do show our respect and honor for the dead, but there is nothing we, the living, can do to ease the hurt of families and friends of our war victims. Their losses are irreparable.

Abraham Lincoln paid eloquent tribute to the northern Civil War dead in his famed address at Gettysburg, Pa. Change the name of the war, the time and place, and the classic words of Lincoln can be applied to the American dead in Vietnam.

A portion of the address reads: "... We are met on a great battlefield of that (Civil) war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that this nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

"But in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate—we cannot consecrate—we cannot hallow—this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished task which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced."

"It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom—and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

Senses Alone Not Enough

"Accepting reality" is the worst form of self-deception unless you're careful when you define reality.

The fashion of the day is to "believe it when I see it," but we submit the deserts are littered with the bones of those who believed what they saw; those beautiful lakes on the horizon just didn't materialize. So our eyes do not always tell us the truth.

Accepting reality or adjusting to reality, therefore, can be suicidal if we think of reality as something our senses alone tell us. Many a person has died from the lethal effects of eating poison food that tasted good; many an animal has been lured into a trap by false scent; geese and moose respond to the fabricated call of their peers, all were adjusting to reality as they perceived it with their senses.

Thinking men take a lesson from the experience of others and resort to human reason in order to avoid the pitfalls that others have stepped into by relying too heavily upon taste-touch-smelling-hearing-sight. And so a new link is added to the chain of wisdom. Mathematics, logic and eventually scientific theory take up where sensory perception leaves off and add vast regions to the kingdom of man.

Now the remarkable thing about reasoners and scientists is that they argue among themselves so much. They have differences of opinion on which theory to accept.

Some scientists accept the theory of evolution or the theory of carbon dating, for instance.

Others of equal stature dispute both with mind staggering evidence. What it all comes down to, in the end, is that the scientists of diverse opinions select different assumptions from which to reason, and so logic carries them to differing conclusions. The selection of assumptions is an individual matter. Two men equally rational choose to rely on basics that are not alike. What causes each to believe in what he believes?

You can sum it up in a single phrase, "different basic premises."

So what? Just this: Don't believe everything you see. Don't reject everything you can't see. Don't adjust to conditions as they first appear to be. Rather, take what YOUR senses tell you, subject it to the logic of YOUR reasoning mind, and then, locked in on sound principle, proceed from there.

And, speaking of basic premises and sound principle, we believe we have just put together a pretty good argument why human beings, individually, should be left free of coercion from others to both enjoy and suffer the consequences of their OWN decisions and actions.

Market Thrives on Peace

If it has done nothing else, the Vietnam war has knocked into a cocked hat the theory that the stock market loves war.

From January through most of March, a period when U.S. fortunes in Vietnam seemed to have reached their lowest ebb and the conflict looked likely to go on forever, the Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell by some 75 points.

A chart of the market shows a fairly steady decline, beginning with the Communist buildup below the demilitarized zone and accelerated by the Tet offensive and North Korea's seizure of the USS Pueblo (yes, that happened way back in January).

Modest attempts of stocks to recover were consistently beaten back by each succeeding piece of bad news, such as the announcement that 10,500 more troops would be sent to Vietnam. Then, at the end of March, the President's coupling of a renunciation of a second term with announcement of a cutback in the bombing of North Vietnam resulted in the shattering of a 39-year-old record in number of shares traded. Unlike that "Black Tuesday" of 1929 however, stock prices were climbing, not plummeting. Even this new record was shortly surpassed when Hanoi made a favorable response to the peace overture, and yet a third record was set within a week.

It may be the peculiar nature of the Vietnam war, which is not only unpopular and divisive but is having all sorts of adverse effects on this nation's monetary strength abroad and orderly economic and social progress at home.

Or it may be that the world has matured a little and that businessmen are finally realizing that counterfeit inflation dollar "profits" are not profits in the final analysis.

PINE TREE FEATURES

CRIME JUSTIFIES CRIME OR DOES IT?

There is a widely accepted view that a man who is the victim of theft may rightfully reclaim his own. This accepted position goes so far as to state that when a man is victimized through the loss of something that is taken from him, either by force or by cunning this man is then justified in taking any steps whatever in an attempt to retrieve what he lost. Thus, the mores of our culture rest upon the concept that I do no wrong when I punish the party who has first wronged me. If a man steals my purse and I seek to recover it, but cannot do so without using force against the thief, then it will be held that whatever force I used against the thief was justified, and in no sense wrong, since the thief brought retribution upon himself by his own choices and actions.

I hope I will not make you uncomfortable if I point out that this concept is at the core of the Marxist doctrine, "from each according to his ability, to each according to his need." To Marx, the whole human situation looked like this: The world was divided between two classes, the haves (bourgeoisie) and the have-nots (proletariat). But the haves were "plotters," for it was the proletariat who did all the work, yet it was the bourgeoisie who profited by these efforts. Therefore, as Marx summed it up, "A dollar of profit is an unpaid wage."

Consider that conclusion for a moment. Where does it take you? It causes you to realize, IF YOU ACCEPT IT, that anyone making a profit is a thief and an exploiter. Therefore, it could hardly be immoral for the working man to seek to regain, even if by force, whatever profits his employer may have obtained. Whatever profits accrued were unjust, for all earnings should go to the worker. Anything that the worker produced, but did not receive as a wage for his effort, was obviously stolen from him.

And, as I noted above, the idea of reclaiming one's own property from a thief is deeply embedded in our mores as a justifiable action, regardless of the degree of force that has to be used.

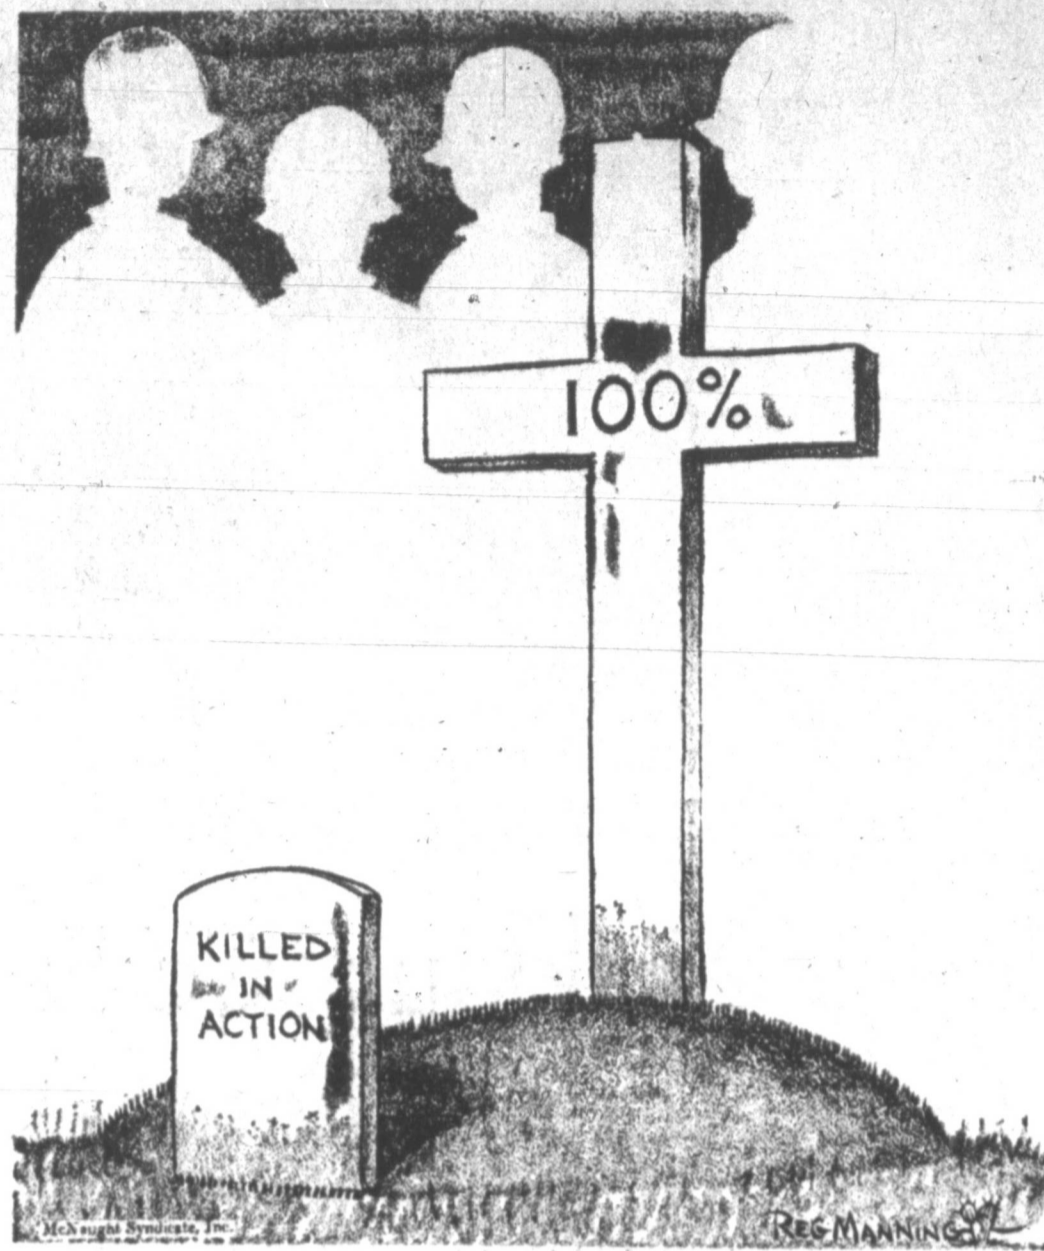

But, you will say, "Marx's ideas are wrong. The fact is that profits are not an unpaid wage, but the reward for efficiency and sound management, voluntarily supplied by customers." And I would agree. Marx did not understand economics, and tried to bring his mystical dialectical materialism to bear upon economic problems. But the fact is that Marx's views, however wrong, however untrue, were accepted and are accepted today.

Why do you see such expressions of joy and happiness upon the faces of looters? It is because a burglar is always happy if he is convinced that he is merely stealing back what was stolen from him before hand.

And how many criminals have justified their own actions in precisely the same way? I have talked to many persons: both those charged with crimes and those convicted of crimes. With only rare exceptions I have been told that the reason for the commission of the alleged crime was that it was justified. It was justified because of an alleged incursion committed at an earlier date by some person or business firm, by society, the government, or by some other agency or party. The criminal is no more than the man who performs an immoral act under the burden of a conclusion that his act is warranted in retaliation for what has gone before. There are some exceptions, of course. But by far and away most of the criminals are simply men who are seeking to bring justice to themselves AS THEY SEE IT. From the rioters to the labor unions to the taxing authorities, to the murderers and thieves and cutpurses, every one is acting in defense of his rights AS HE SEES IT, and in an effort to correct a miscarriage of justice, again AS HE SEES IT.

It is not possible to create a world wherein conflicting opinions will be banished. Divisiveness in the field of ideas is a concomitant of human nature. But so long as we accept the view that a prior act of crime or wrongdoing is not in itself a justification for a crime or wrongdoing against someone, or long will we gear our civilization

July 1 Deadline for Tax Surcharges Spending Cut if U.S. Is to Avoid New Run on Gold Reserves

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Put a big circle around July 1 on your calendar — for it is one of the most important deadlines now facing President Johnson and Congress.

That's the date that the Central Bankers of Europe have given President Johnson to obtain passage of his 10 per cent surcharge tax.

If the long delayed tax boost isn't enacted into law by then, these powerful international money men say they will be forced to start "cashing in" part of their $16 billion American for U.S. gold.

This drastic financial move, if ever undertaken, could touch off a run on the dwindling U.S. gold reserves by private foreign holders of another $15 billion.

President Johnson gave this alarming report to Democratic congressional leaders during a recent White House meeting at which he urged immediate action on the combination $10 billion tax boost and the $6 billion expenditure cut package.

With the U.S. Government gold holdings now down to $10.5 billion, the President warned, any panic "cashing in" of U.S. dollars could force him to either suspend gold sales or devalue the dollar.

Looking the grimmest he has in weeks, the President pleaded with the legislators for the swift legislative action needed to head off this financial disaster, stating:

"There can be no further delay on the tax bill. The chairman of the Federal Reserve Board tells me we are in the midst of the most serious financial crisis since 1931—the depths of the great depression—but this time we are faced with inflation, not recession. "If there is not a tax boost passed by the first of July, we shall face a new run on our gold. The Central Bankers of Europe have warned me that if we don't act by then, they will be forced to begin cashing in American dollars for gold."

CONGRESSIONAL STRATEGY — "The only way you can get a tax cut immediately, Mr. President," said House Majority Leader Carl Albert, Okla., "is to throw the administration's full weight behind the Senate-House conferees' tax-spending package. Will you support the $6 billion spending cut which has been tied to your 10 per cent surcharge tax proposal?"

"I would prefer a $4 billion reduction," replied the President. "Can't we hold the line there? A $6 billion cutback will cripple critical anti-poverty and defense programs."

"The only solution that I see to this deadlock," said Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., "is to let the House work its will."

As the President listened intently, McCormack explained this could be accomplished by having a member of the House Ways and Means Committee offer a motion to instruct the House conferees to support a $4 billion cutback in spending.

"If that motion should fail," McCormack pointed out, "we can then move to have the House support the larger expenditure-tax package."

"Will you accept or veto the tax package if it includes the $6 billion spending cut provision?" asked another of the House Democratic leaders.

"I will have to cross that bridge when I come to it," replied the President. "If we can't keep the spending cut at $4 billion, maybe we can work out a compromise at $5 billion."

Earlier in the session the President warned the lawmakers that if Congress did not act immediately on his tax proposal interest rates on home mortgages would rise as high as 10 per cent by the end of the year.

"The tax boost now is needed to stem the rise in the cost of living," stated the President. "That increase could go to four or five per cent in 1968 if Congress fails to act."

THE KENNEDY CAMPAIGN — Despite those primary victories, Sen. Robert Kennedy is having rough sledding in his efforts to nail down control of delegations from his native New England to the Democratic National Convention.

Of the 125 delegates already chosen in Massachusetts, Maine, and New Hampshire, the New York senator can count on only 6 1/2 first-ballot votes lined up in what is generally known as Kennedy county.

That is the discouraging report his Washington campaign office has sent Robert Kennedy, campaigning in the West.

The report shows Sen. Eugene McCarthy, Kennedy's primary sparring partner, has 93 first ballot votes, and Vice President Hubert Humphrey, 19 1/2. In addition, Humphrey will soon inherit six votes from President Johnson in New Hampshire.

QUESTION: Would the standard of living be higher for all people if there were no compulsory labor unions in the United States? If so, why?

ANSWER: The standard of living would be much higher if there were no compulsory unions that can close up plants and force the men to idle themselves. If there were no compulsory unions there would be no serious strikes.

The reason compulsory labor unions cause living standards to be lower than they could be is that strikes prevent billions of dollars worth of wealth from being created every year.

And what most people do not understand is that what is created for peaceful use has to be distributed in order to benefit its owner. There is no way of hoarding wealth to benefit its owner. In fact, the hoarding invariably causes it to depreciate in value and to become lost. Even a man's home has to be lived in and enjoyed and worn out or sold on rented or given away.

Just so, any factory has to be used to benefit its customers and its owners. What it produces has to be sold or exchanged before any profit can be realized and there is a three-way profit involved: the worker with a place to produce and tools to produce with and a means of distributing the product, for the benefit of customers. So the worker and the employer benefit from their exchange of services.

But what the workers and employers together produce must be sold before either of them can profit. When it is sold the workers and the employer profit from the sale and the customer profits by having something he wanted or he would not buy, obviously. When compulsory labor unions call strikes, they reduce the profits of everyone—worker, employer and customer.

The reason compulsory labor unions are able to do this is that the politicians want votes and in exchange for votes they

Whose Welfare Are We for in Africa? The desire to aid and elevate the poor people of the world is one of man's most admirable aspirations. Although this world of ours may never become perfect, men of good will must always strive to make it better. But even the most noble of desires can be mis-directed. In this writer's opinion, such mis-direction has become rampant among those who would help the black people of Africa find a better life.

The Doctor Says:

Heat Rash, Diaper Rash Have Little Connection

Although prickly heat often occurs in the diaper area, it is not to be confused with diaper rash which is more common in the colder months and may be caused by diapers made from coarse material, diapers from which all the soap has not been rinsed or, most frequently, from failure to change the diaper for two or three hours after wetting or soiling.

Heat rash is caused by an obstruction of the sweat pores. In addition to the diaper area, it may occur in skin folds where perspiration cannot readily evaporate. The best treatment is to use a minimum of clothing for your baby in hot weather and fasten his diaper very loosely. If your baby has a heat rash, use a fan or air conditioner in his room but avoid placing him in a direct draft. Give him sponge baths, using little or no soap or detergent, and follow them with a bland dusting powder. Don't use any ointments because they block the pores and aggravate the condition.

Q—Would it hurt my son, 4, to get the measles vaccine twice?

A—The killed virus vaccine is no longer recommended. If your son had this type of vaccine he should be vaccinated with the live virus vaccine. If he had the latter, no booster dose is needed. In any case, before he takes a second dose of the vaccine, he should have a skin test to see whether he has become hypersensitive to it.

Q—A neighbor boy, 6, is so tired all the time he never plays very much. He also has dark circles under his eyes. Could the fact that he had a very severe case of measles have damaged his heart and caused these symptoms?

A—The common complications of measles are pneumonia, brain damage and middle-ear infection. I know of no cases of heart disease directly attributable to measles. Some other cause for this boy's debility should be sought.

Q—My 19-month-old son has had lumps in the side of his neck since birth. The doctor says they are lymph nodes. What causes them and what do you advise?

A—Since these nodes act as screens to keep local infections from spreading throughout the body, some source of infection in your son's head should be looked for. Common sources are tonsillitis, eczema, canker sores and sinusitis. When the source is cleared up, the lumps will shrink but will not entirely disappear.

make laws giving unions special privileges, such as making it a crime to tell a union man you won't hire him because he's a union, though it is not a crime to tell a non-union man you won't hire him because he's not a union man.

Now that the students have started the cult of sitting around naked, holding hands, it had to come about that the playwrights would 'get into the act'.

The new plays ain't got much plot—but they have some bare facts. New play called "Hair" has a scene where half dozen of the audience kneel as a jaybird. In another play called "Scuba Duba" a woman runs down the stairs, topless, bottomless and no doubt, brainless. In "Tom Paine" the cast whirls about in drapes which part and show some pasty skin that wouldn't be much good for drum making.

One that seems to be named correctly is "The Christmas Turkey" in which the bare heroine kneels on a table through the whole thing. I reckon this means she is a turkey stuffed full of dressing—there ain't any to be seen on the outside. Yessir. This society has sure progressed right down to the bare nubbins. It's enough to put the chill on a brass monkey. I wonder what they will come up with for an encore?

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

One of culture's greatest natural benefactors was the grasslike plant papyrus, member of the sedge family, Cyperaceae, now nearly extinct, which grew abundantly in ancient Near Eastern marshes. The World Almanac notes that the Egyptians used papyrus 2,900 years ago to fashion utensils, skirts, sails, mats, cloth, cords, fuel and, writing material.
