Daniel Requests Local Option On Integration

Clings To Faith

Joan Eckert, 14, clutches rosary beads as she lies near a car that pinned her and a girl companion to a pole in an accident in front of a Brooklyn, N. Y., school. Joan died four and a half hours later in a hospital where a team of six surgeons worked to save her life. Her companion was reported in good condition. The accident occurred when the driver lost control of the car turning the corner after the gas pedal jammed.

His Life Restored Briefly, Lad Dies At Noon Today

Little Gary Layne Voyles today lost his battle to escape the death that first closed around his short life Monday.

He died about 12:30 p.m. today at the hospital where he had been in a coma since doctors revived his heartbeat and breathing which stopped when he was accidentally strangled while he played Monday.

Although the vital functions were restored, he never showed any sign of regaining consciousness while he lay in an iron lung and under an oxygen tent for nearly 72 hours.

Gary, 5, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Voyles, 1102 Ridgeroad, was playing with a short piece of rope in his back yard Monday afternoon. He apparently climbed upon an apple box and wrapped the ends of the rope around the crossbar of a clothesline pole.

Suddenly, the box overturned and as Gary Layne fell his head was caught in the loop formed by the dangling rope.

He was found hanging there, apparently lifeless, a few minutes later. His father rushed him to the hospital where doctors said he was dead.

Nevertheless, they injected a heart stimulant, gave oxygen and artificial respiration.

In a few moments, the lad began gasping for breath and his heartbeat resumed. He was placed in an iron lung and in a few hours his breathing returned almost to normal.

But Gary Layne never made a movement. His condition remained unchanged for two days, but he began to worsen this morning.

The family was called at noon, and in a few minutes the little heart stopped for the last time.

He was taken to Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home. Arrangements were incomplete early this afternoon.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by one brother, Don Wayne.

Stassen Calls Wire A Hoax

NEW YORK, Jan. 17 (AP)—Presidential assistant Harold E. Stassen today branded as "fraudulent" a telegram reported to have been sent by him to members of the Republican National Committee.

The telegram, given out by Rep. Carrol Reece (R-Tenn) in Washington, urged the committee members to "keep the future of the Republican party and country safe from the Nixons and Knowlands."

Stassen said:

"I have sent no telegram. I have authorized no telegram. This is a false and fraudulent telegram and I am starting an immediate investigation to find out who is responsible for putting my name on it."

Stassen said he would get in touch with Reece by telephone as soon as possible and tell him that the telegram was not sent by him.

Refugee Deport Bill Introduced

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill to deport many of the Hungarian refugees admitted to the United States was introduced yesterday by Rep. Burleson (D-Tex).

A House Immigration subcommittee specialist said the Burleson bill would provide for returning extra-quota refugees here to the country from which they came—mostly to Austria, in the case of the Hungarians.

Burleson said the Hungarians deserving "a hero's applause" are "those who remain in Hungary and fight their Russian oppressors"—not those who flee.

The measure also would curtail further entry of Hungarian refugees and provide for an investigation into the Hungarian refugee situation.

Fire Destroys Odessa Theatre

ODESSA (AP)—Fire of undetermined origin early today destroyed the Rio Theater with a loss estimated at $75,000 to $100,000. Seventy firemen fought the blaze in 15 degree weather. Ten were treated after being overcome by smoke.

Cosden Eligible On Govt. Contracts

Notice that it has offically been re-certified in the "small business" category was received today by the Cosden Petroleum Corporation.

The new status means that Cosden is again eligible for various government contracts, including those for aviation gasoline and jet fuel. The re-certification was issued in time for the company to qualify with bids on contracts to be awarded next Tuesday.

Under Small Business Administration restrictions, Cosden had lost its certification, and became ineligible for certain biddings. Company officials said today the re-certification meant that Cosden could re-enter the bidding picture to provide fuels for both Webb Air Force Base and Dyess Air Force Base at Abilene.

The company was denied SBA certification some time back largely because of number of employes. This had been adjusted to bring the company within SBA eligibility. Officials indicated that the restored status can mean much to the company on government contracts.

Medics Save Heart Victim With Extension Cord Shock

ST. CROIX FALLS, Wis. (AP)—William Fruehling was alive today because three quick-thinking physicians used an ordinary lamp extension cord to administer shock treatment after his heart stopped beating.

Fruehling, 49, was on the critical list but "doing as well as can be expected" and unaware of yesterday's drama to save his life.

He was walking in the business section of St. Croix Falls yesterday when he suffered a heart attack. He was rushed to the town's small hospital.

The three physicians, who asked that their names not be used, then gave this account:

"The man's heart stopped beating. Without waiting for a washup we made an incision.

"One of us spread his ribs over the heart, reached in and massaged the heart with a bare hand. Another began giving artificial respiration. Oxygen was tubed directly into the lungs.

"The first reponse we got from the message was a quivering—a spasm of the heart.

"Such a quivering ordinarily is that of a dying heart.

"We didn't have the equipment that a large hospital would have for administering electric shock so we pulled the end off an extension cord. We gave direct shock to both sides of the heart muscle twice without results. The third shock stopped the quivering.

Accused Bank Wrecker Is Cheered By Hometown Folk

ELLENVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — William R. Rose, accused of wrecking the town's biggest bank, strolled along downtown streets yesterday and was greeted with shouts and tears of joy, along with some muttered resentment.

It was the 51-year-old former bank president's first appearance in this Catskill mountain resort community since his arrest Dec. 3 by federal authorities.

Released in $25,000 bail in New York Tuesday, he returned here and spent the night at the big family home where he lives with his widowed mother, Mrs. Amie Rose.

He strolled down to the business center and made his first stop at the Ellenville National Bank, which was established to replace the Home National Bank which he headed.

The old bank is being liquidated by federal authorities. The new bank has taken over most of the old bank's accounts and retained many of its staff to work in the same quarters.

Rose's visit to the bank was a welcome home. No one would have thought that he is charged with manipulating $1,300,000 in bank funds.

Thirty employes who had known Rose as their boss greeted him joyfully. They crowded around, embracing him, some of them weeping. Several officers of the new bank welcomed Rose.

Rose has claimed that his actions at the bank were designed only to help local businesses to keep going and thus boost the town, and that he did not personally profit.

Cold Wave Continues To Chill Texas

By The Associated Press

Freezing temperatures chilled Texas again Thursday except for the extreme south.

The Weather Bureau said the cold wave that has gripped the state most of the week will continue through Friday.

The mercury plunged to 8 degrees at Amarillo and Lubbock early Thursday. The high minimum was 34 at Brownsville.

Overnight rain included .03 of an inch at Palacios and .01 at Amarillo, Beaumont, Lufkin and Dalhart. Skies were clear in the north and partly cloudy in the south.

A ridge of cold air extending from Canada to the Gulf kept the air frigid.

Other overnight lows included: Dalhart 11, Abilene and Wichita Falls 14, San Angelo 15, Texarkana 16, Dallas 17, Lufkin 19, El Paso 24, Houston, San Antonio and Beaumont 26, Corpus Christi and Del Rio 28, Galveston 30 and Laredo 31.

Wednesday's highs ranged from 20 at Amarillo to 60 at Presidio.

The Lone Star Gas Co. at Dallas said the subfreezing temperatures forced a 25 per cent reduction in gas service to large industrial customers.

Industrial users in the Sherman-Denison area also had their supplies cut 25 per cent. Industries as far south as Temple and Bryan had supplies curtailed by up to 40 per cent, the spokesman said.

A similar cutback was started at Fort Worth, but was lifted.

The spokesman said the industrial curtailment was to conserve gas for home users.

No frost was reported in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Harlingen had the coldest temperature of 32 degrees.

Mercury Hits Season's Low

Big Spring had the coldest night of the current winter season and the temperature fell to 12 degrees early Thursday morning.

The cold wave which brought the low reading and which had provided some scattered moisture elsewhere failed to do as much for this area. Contrary to earlier forecasts for Wednesday night of cloudy skies, the night was cloudless, without wind. High temperature reached on Wednesday was 30 degrees.

The 12-degree reading at the U. S. Experiment Station was two degrees colder than the forecast had predicted for the night.

It was bitingly cold at dawn but a bright sun broke the back of the chill.

The coldest Jan. 17 on record occurred in Big Spring in 1910. Warmest weather on this date was in 1938 when the high temperature was 79 degrees.

Wednesday's forecast had held out a faint promise of scattered snow flurries for Wednesday night. By sundown, the weatherman had withdrawn this part of the prediction.

Forecast for tonight calls for continued cold — 14 degrees minimum — with partly cloudy to clear skies. Friday is scheduled to be some warmer and a high of 54 is promised.

RCA Okays New Dates For Rodeo

Official sanction from the Rodeo Cowboys of America has been given the Big Spring Cowboy Rodeo and Reunion on its new show dates.

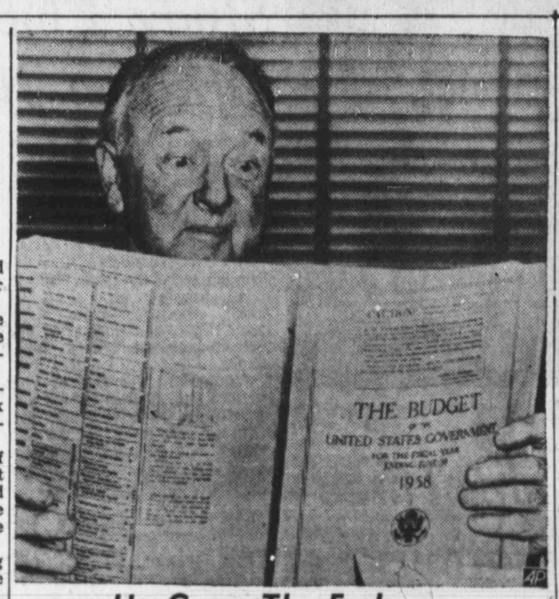

Previously directors had moved forward the dates of the 25-year-old rodeo to June 12-13-14-15. This will permit the show to fit more logically into schedule of other major shows being held in this vicinity and thus increase the number of top professional rodeo cowboys who can participate.

Producer of the show again this year will be Everett Colburn, Dublin.

Plane Crashes

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — An Air Force B50 crashed on takeoff from Eielson Air Force Base near here early today.

A crew of 12 was believed to be aboard. There was no immediate information on the fate of the crew members.

Up Come The Eyebrows

Senator Harry F. Byrd (D-Va) presented this expression as he took a look at President Eisenhower's new budget. Byrd, who is chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, will have a lot to say about how money will be spent during the next year. The President estimated expenditures of $71.8 billion and income of $73.6 for the 12 months beginning next July.

Committee Seeking To Whittle Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee set out today to try to whittle down President Eisenhower's request to spend $71,807,000,000 during the next fiscal year.

One day after receiving Eisenhower's budget message, subcommittees arranged to begin scanning behind closed doors the fiscal needs of the Interior, Post Office and Treasury departments.

Members hope to chop substantial sums from the $73,300,000,000 in requests for new appropriations, some of which would carry over to later years.

Some Democrats and some Republicans complained about the size of the budget for the year starting next July 1, referring to it as inflationary.

And Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey cautioned that "we will have a depression that will make your hair curl" unless the government cuts down on its spending. He added that he probably would quit his job if, in the event of a depression, the Eisenhower administration tries to fight it with methods involving deficit spending.

He said he wasn't criticizing the administration for the size of the budget. But he said the rising trend of federal budgets "should promptly be stopped."

The size of the budget, a record for a peace year and the fifth highest in the nation's history, spurred congressional demands for sharp cuts in appropriations, on which spending is based.

The President forecast a year-end surplus of $1,800,000,000 which he said would be applied toward reduction of the 272-billion-dollar national debt, now costing more than seven billions annually in interest charges.

Some members are known to feel that if Congress could cut the planned spending total several billion more, there might be enough of a surplus to provide tax relief in 1958, a congressional election year.

Brief Service Scheduled For Bogart Funeral Today

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Friends of Humphrey Bogart, the unconventional actor, are saying "So long, Bogie," but in the conventional, respectful way at the funeral services today.

A brief service at All Saints Episcopal church will be conducted by the Rev. Kermit Castellanos, associate rector.

The eulogy has been written and will be read by Bogart's friend and director, John Huston. Cremation will follow, the ashes to be placed in a crypt at Forest Lawn Memorial Park in nearby Glendale.

Six of Bogie's close friends will serve as ushers. They are actor David Niven, director Nunnally Johnson, restauranteur Mike Romanoff, producer Leland Hayward, agent Irving Paul Lazar and yachtsman Larry Dudley.

Hundreds of messages of condolence have been received by the widow, actress Lauren Bacall, who asked that instead of flowers that contributions be sent to the American Cancer Society. Bogart died of cancer last Monday. He was 56.

The messages were from personalities such as Adlai Stevenson, Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, playwright Clifford Odets, sports cronies of Bogart, theater owners, movie fans and show business people.

Agreement Reached On Land For Street

Hugh Coleman, who owns land adjacent to the route of a road the County is to build along Birdwell Lane, and the county officials have agreed on an $800 settlement for right-of-way needed for the project, R. H. Weaver, county judge, said Thursday. This, the judge explained, clears the way for the work to be started immediately on extending Birdwell north of Third Street.

Governor Will Oppose U. S. Force

AUSTIN (AP)— Gov. Price Daniel called today for a local option system of handling school integration problems and said he would back every legal means to make sure they are "respected and not overruled by federal force."

In his first major message to the Legislature, Daniel said he still believed the U. S. Supreme Court's anti-segregation decision was wrong and that in most Texas school districts both whites and Negroes want to continue separate but equal schools.

He urged a "calm and Christian-like" approach to the problem.

The governor offered the Legislature a 25-point program in his 6,100 word message, emphasizing also the possibility that he would work to avoid new taxes but cautioning that some new levies might be necessary.

He urged doubling of the proposed 100 million dollars revolving fund to help local districts build conservation dams, and urged the lawmakers to approach the water emergency "without timidity." He suggested long range research through a state agency to help local districts coordinate local, state and federal activities with emphasis on local control.

Daniel made a strong plea for "throwing the spotlight of whole truth" on wrongdoing by state officials or employes, added that "purveyors of false charges" in that connection should be exposed.

He placed restoration of public confidence in state government in the emergency category along with water conservation. He urged modernization of eminent domain laws to help highway expansion and safety on the highways, where he said death and destruction was already at the disaster level.

New Law Board

Daniel proposed that the Legislature create a state la wenforcement commission with a member from each Supreme Judicial District plus one member named by the Supreme Court's chief justice to "investigate allegations of misconduct on the part of state officials and employes." It would not be a state grand jury, he said, but a body authorized to hold public hearings and report its findings to the legislature, the governor and local grand juries.

"Nothing else that we attempt or accomplish will be very successful unless we end this session with the people convinced of the honesty and integrity of our public officers and employes," Daniel said.

"I welcome any other suggestions whereby we can establish an agency which will let the people know the facts and which cannot be accused of covering up for you or for me or for any other official or employe."

In essence these were Daniel's other major recommendations:

Continuation of the Water Resources Committee during the session; the finest system of public education with state money, including pay raises for public school and college teachers; old age assistance legislation to raise the maximum of $58 a month to $60, plus study of plans to take advantage of federal money to help pay oldsters' medical expenses.

Insurance Legislation

Also, repeal of the law permitting combined insurance (surety) and banking (trust) businesses, more money for the Insurance commission and steps to "finish the job" on insurance regulation with improved penal statutes on insurance and security regulation; a constitutional amendment to permit use of state funds for state advertising; improved labor relations with increases "long overdue" in workmens' compensation benefits.

Also, $5,130,000 for capital improvements in the prison system; a paid system of probation and parole for adults and juveniles and strengthening of the work of the youth development council; improved outdoor recreational facilities; an archives building; revision of the state constitution.

Also, more adequate salaries for legislators, judges and state employes; continued state hospital improvements; establishment of a study commission on the needs of physically and mentally handicapped persons; an enabling act for the constitutional amendment for aid to totally incapacitated persons; implementation of the commission on alcoholism; a retirement amendment for judges of the county courts.

Also, expansion of training and research in the medical schools; narcotics law improvements; election law changes; a long range tax need and resource study; possible reorganization of executive agencies.

Budget Ready Soon

Daniel said he would have his detailed budget message ready soon, with itemization and total costs of all his proposals "together with recommended sources of new revenues if the total appropriations would exceed the anticipated revenues."

Daniel recommended a strict lobby registration act, a code of conduct for state officials and a lobby registration act as emergency subjects.

Daniel called for policies to be established in state and local governments "for full and complete freedom of information concerning the official acts and business transacted by public officials and employes.

"People can govern themselves only when they have accurate and complete information concerning the subject matter of their opinions and decisions," the governor said.

Daniel noted that he spoke from the platform where he was speaker of the House 14 years ago. He promised full cooperation with the Legislature—the first step toward which he took yesterday in a conference with its leaders about his message.

As in his inaugural message he underlined the need for protection of state's rights against federal usurpation.

He said the nation is at a crossroads, with one leading along the "wide-open, easy, but dangerous" way of power centralization and the other, "safer but more difficult" toward freedom preserved by keeping as "much government as possible close to the people."

Best Safeguard

Daniel said a "dynamic and efficient" state government is the best safeguard against "further encroachments by the federal government."

He reminded the legislators of last summer's referendum calling for tightening of laws against racial intermarriage, against compulsory attendance at integrated schools and for states' rights.

Daniel recalled that as attorney general he had defended the state against the "first nationwide attack" on the doctrine of separate but equal schools and that he had assisted many school districts against suits "instigated by outside agitators."

"I believe that in most of the school districts of this state a majority of both the white and colored citizens want to continue their separate schools and to preserve the good relations which have been built up through the years," he said.

3 Workmen Die In Blast At Gas Plant

LIBERAL, Kan. (AP) — An explosion flashed through a big pipeline compressor station here in the southwest corner of Kansas yesterday, killing three workmen and threatening natural gas supplies as far east as Detroit.

Officials of Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co. said they hoped to restore deliveries to 70 per cent of normal today.

They indicated this would mean no curtailment of gas for household use along Panhandle Eastern's system in Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan.

Industrial users in the six states were cut off immediately.

The whole area presently is in the grip of a cold wave.

The were about 25 men in the plant. Fourteen were burned and battered by the explosion. Three were reported in critical condition. Four were released from a hospital after treatment.

The blast blew the metal roof and sides off the main compressor building, 364 by 68 feet. It wrecked the engines and compressors. An adjoining machine shop was heavily damaged. Five other buildings and eight houses on the 80-acre plot 15 miles northeast of Liberal had lesser damage.

One company official said the loss might run several million dollars.

"Everything just went off in my face," said J. D. Armstrong, one of the workmen injured. "Pieces of metal and glass were flying all over the place and everything was on fire."

The fire burned two hours, fed by gas from broken lines, before valves could be closed.

Those killed were Melvin Swafford, 35, who lived on the station; James Hanes, about 30, Paul's Valley, Okla.; and Ivan Hill, about 40, Liberal.

A company spokesman said failure of a piece of equipment on a compressor engine caused the blast. Workmen said they heard a hissing noise just before the explosion.

The Liberal station collects gas through small pipelines from fields in southwest Kansas and the Oklahoma and Texas Panhandles, compressing it and boosting it along 24 and 26-inch mains to the East. It once was the largest compressor station in the world.

FIVE GENERATIONS
. . . one of three possible pictures

Lamesa Woman Stars In Three Pictures Of Five Generations

LAMESA — When Mrs. W. C. Lane posed with four direct descendants for a five generation portrait in July, 1955, she didn't realize that by January 1957 she would be able to strike a repeat pose with different faces around her for three more five generation portrait.

In the first portrait were Mrs. Lane, now 85 years old; her daughter, Mrs. Annie Pounds of Artesia, N. Mex.; her granddaughter, Mrs. Carl Johnson of Martinez, Calif.; her great-granddaughter, Mrs. Floyd Coffman of Martinez and her great-great grandson, Mitchell, who is now two and a half years old.

Recently, Mrs. Lane posed for her second five generation portrait. With the exception of Mrs. Lane and Mrs. Pounds, the faces changed. The third generation was represented by Mrs. Pounds' son, Joe Pounds of Lamesa; his daughter, Mrs. Leslie Emfinger and Mrs. Lane's great-great granddaughter, Carrie Lee, who was born Aug. 2, 1956.

Two more great-great grandchildren have been born since Carrie Lee. The Floyd Coffman's have their second child, Susie who is now three months old.

The last of the portraits "so far" would include Mrs. Lane and Mrs. Pounds; Buck Pounds, the grandson; Doyle Pounds, the great-grandson; and Dwayne Pounds, the great-great grandson. With the exception of Mrs. Lane, who makes her home at 611 S. 4th St., Lamesa, these five live in Artesia.

Mrs. Lane, who was born May 29, 1871, in Riley, Mo., has seven living children. In addition to Mrs. Pounds, there are Johnny Lane of Lamesa; Frank Lane of Midland; Mrs. George Phillips of Big Spring; Mrs. Una Burger of Lamesa; Mrs. Nellie Phillips and Mrs. Mary Meissner, who live in East Texas.

GOOD BUY THIS WEEK IS PORK

Featured as the lowest "bargain buy" this week in local markets is pork. Prices are the lowest in buys of pork sausage, spareribs, roast and center-cut pork chops. Beef seems to be at a lower price, especially in chuck roasts.

In the fresh vegetable line, carrots, grapefruit and lettuce lead the good buys.

Other items that will sell a little lower include frozen strawberries and okra, coffee, cake mixes and ice cream.

1905 Hyperion Club Makes MOD Donation

Members of the 1905 Hyperion Club meeting in the home of Mrs. Lee Hanson Wednesday afternoon, made a donation of $61 to the March of Dimes.

Mrs. Ben Johnson was in charge of the program, and she discussed The Emergency of Modern Egypt. In her discussion, she gave a background for the trouble in that country.

Members were told that 96.5 per cent of Egypt is desert land. The country has a yearly rainfall of four inches on the coast and two inches in the interior.

Their chief crop, which is cotton, has been mortgaged for five years, Mrs. Johnson said. She told the group that this is to pay for arms for the country.

The people are skilled in agriculture, the speaker said, and there is compulsory education. The closing of the Suez Canal, members learned, is costing 8.4 million dollars a day.

An invitation was read to the 18 members for a tea to be given for Governor Daniels by the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs in Austin on Feb. 20.

Mrs. John Hatch, 808 Edwards, was announced as the hostess for the meeting Feb. 6.

Study Clubs Elect Officers; Help MOD

LAMESA — New officers were elected by the Junior Woman's Study Club Tuesday evening. Mrs. Alvin Childress was re-elected president of the organization.

Other officers elected were first vice president, Mrs. W. E. Aiken; second vice president, Mrs. Art Johnson; secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Hayes; treasurer, Mrs. J. D. McAmos; reporter-historian, Mrs. Lewis Davis; parliamentarian and federation councilor, Mrs. Bill Hunter.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Dotson with 14 members and one guest, Mrs. H. L. Norman, attending. The next meeting will be a social on Jan. 29, at the home of Mrs. Bobby Woodrum.

LAMESA — Members of the Delphian Club held their regular meeting Tuesday evening at the club house. Mrs. O. H. Nance presented the program on "My Aching Feet," displaying charts in connection with foot care. She also told the history of women's shoes and displayed several styles from other countries.

A vocal trio, Mrs. W. E. Minor, Mrs. Raymond Jones and Mrs. Dick Edwards, sang three numbers.

During the business meeting, the club voted to donate $50 to the March of Dimes, and volunteers were listed to assist with the Mothers March.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. A. H. Smith, Mrs. H. D. Hillard and Mrs. R. E. Simpson.

New Officers Of Lions Auxiliary Preside At Lunch

New officers of the Lions Auxiliary took over Wednesday when the group met for luncheon at the Wagon Wheel.

Mrs. Charles Havens presided and presented the outgoing president, Mrs. Roxie Dobbins, with a gift certificate. Invocation was offered by Mrs. Dan Conley.

Mrs. Clyde E. Thomas, Sr. and Mrs. B. D. Pounds were hostesses, and for a centerpiece they used an arrangement of salmon gladioluses.

Sixteen were present. Mrs. Marshall Cauley and Mrs. Carl Smith were announced as hostesses for the February meeting.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Pair In Lamesa

MRS. BOB KELLY

LAMESA — John McCoy, minister of the Crescent Hill Church of Christ at Brownfield, officiated for the double ring ceremony Tuesday which united Wanda Gay McDaniel and Bob Kelly.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. McDaniel of Welch are the parents of the bride; the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Kelly of Welch.

The altar of the Lamesa Church of Christ was decorated with pedestal baskets of daisies and an archway of huckleberry greenery and majestic daisies, flanked by cathedral tapers in branched candelabra.

Presenting the program of wedding music was the Young People's Chorus of the Lamesa Church of Christ under the direction of Grady Acuff.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an original model gown of white imported French lace over net and satin designed with a high portrait neckline outlined with scalloped lace. The fitted lace bodice terminated in a point at the center front waistline, from which stemmed the waltz length skirt, made of tulle, fully shirred, and encircled by a band of lace at the lower hipline.

Her veil of silk illusion was caught to a crown of tulle embroidered with iridescent sequins and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white carnations on a white Bible, accented with white maline and satin streamers.

The bride's only attendant was Sue Kelly, cousin of the bridegroom. She wore a dress of ivory faille with a metallic thread. It was styled with a fitted tunic, mandarian collar and full flared skirt. She wore a pastel blue jeweled hat. Her bouquet was of blue carnations.

Linda Campbell and Patricia Herring of Andrews, cousins of the bride, were flower girls. They wore dresses of pink and blue cotton satin with full gathered skirts and Quaker collars lace edged.

Douglas Kelly, the bridegroom's brother, was his best man. The bride's brother, Floyd McDaniel, lit the candles, preceding the service. Ronny Jayroe and Donald Belt were the ushers.

A reception was held in the Mesa Room at the Green Hut Cafe following the ceremony. The bride's chosen colors, blue and silver were used on the serving table, which was laid with a white linen cloth and appointed in crystal. Blue satin streamers extended to the edges of the table from the bride's bouquet which formed the centerpiece. Mrs. Jackie Kelly registered the guests; Mrs. L. A. Green and Mrs. Wayne Boles presided at the serving table.

Guests attended from Andrews, Denver City and Midland.

For traveling, the bride wore a white nylon fleece suit with matching accessories. She is a graduate of Dawson High School and Isbell Powell School of Beauty Culture, Lubbock. Mr. Kelly is a graduate of Dawson High School and is enrolled at Sul Ross College, Alpine, where the couple will make a home.

Dancing Does It

Although Flamenco Dancer Carmen Amaya was a sensation in Paris in 1929 she still has the body of a young girl. Carmen recommends flamenco dancing as a means of improving your figure.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Non-Professional Can Be Helped By Dancing

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — The cheering for Carmen Amaya, who is acclaimed the world's greatest flamenco dancer, filled the Huntington Hartford Theater in Hollywood long after the program was over.

The fire, style and consummate grace of this gypsy from Spain was so stirring I eagerly accepted an invitation to go backstage. Carmen was dressed in gaucho pants as form-fitting as a bull fighters. Her body is still as youthful as a vestal virgin although she has been in the public eye since 1929 when she was a sensation in Paris.

"This type of dancing builds body line," she said rapidly in Spanish. "When I am performing we rehearse five hours every day. But when I am on vacation I rest, watch TV and eat," she smiled. "And in a few days I can tell a difference in my weight. Muscles are quick to deteriorate if you don't use them."

I asked Carmen if she believes a nonprofessional could improve her figure with flamenco dancing.

"Unquestionable," she asserted. Raising her hands high above her head she said, "See what a strong pull this position gives to the waistline. And," she added, "Any student of flamenco will never have flabby upper arms."

The more I listened to her the more I was convinced this would be a new and effective way to reduce. As she talked her wonderfully expressive hands punctuated her words. She believes that rolling your wrists with your palms up and your fingers relaxed will help bring grace to your hands.

"What is your top beauty secret?" I asked, hoping it would be something carried down from her Romany ancestors.

"A hot bath," was her surprisingly different reply. "It calms me, soothes me and makes my body refreshed. I know the doctors say that very hot baths are not good for you but they are for me. I sleep like a baby afterwards."

"Do you ever have to diet?" I asked.

"Not when I am dancing because I burn it up. But," she added, "when I am on my vacation I have one secret. I never sit after eating. I stand, move around or do something. Unless I want to gain I never sit or lie down after a meal."

Miss McDaniel Feted With Bridal Shower

LAMESA — Wanda McDaniel was honored with a gift tea recently at the home of Mrs. D. W. Server of Welch. Cohostesses were Mrs. Arit Davison and Mrs. Bud Lewellen.

The serving table was laid with a white cloth with a silver bowl filled with blue carnations forming the center arrangement. From the arrangement came blue satin streamers with the couple's names, Bob and Wanda, written in silver.

Sue Kelly registered the guests, with the hostesses alternating at the serving table.

Military Services Budget Quiz Due

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Russell (D-Ga) said today he is looking into a proposed $1,209,000,000 cut from last year in authorizations for Air Force funds.

Both he and Sen. Jackson (D-Wash) said in interviews they are pleased with President Eisenhower's budget proposals to increase actual spending by all three services during the year ending June 30, 1958. But both said they will question military officials closely about budget plans.

The budget sent to Congress yesterday proposes a 582-million-dollar increase, to $17,472,000,000, in next year's Air Force spending from both old and new appropriations. Authorization for new spending, at $16,481,000,000, would be $1,209,000,000 below the amount Congress voted for the current year, when it added 900 millions to the amount Eisenhower requested.

The President's message said that "the new obligational authority needed for the Air Force procurement program for the fiscal year 1958 is less than it otherwise would have been because of the additional appropriations for this purpose voted by the Congress last year."

Gen. Nathan F. Twining, Air Force chief of staff, had testified last summer the Air Force would need between 22 and 23 billion dollars of new spending authority. He said in a speech in Goldsboro, N.C., last night that the new budget will not give his service all it believes it should have. No budget ever does, he said.

But he added that it "will enable us to carry through the next fiscal year with the minimum force that I consider necessary, without undue risk."

Russell is chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee and a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

"I see nothing in world conditions that would justify any decreases in our armed strength," Russell said. "There can be no consistency in a decrease at a time when we are called on to challenge the military might of world communism in the Mideast."

Jackson, also a member of the Armed Services Committee, said he and other senators want complete details on just what has been accomplished with the extra funds Congress voted last year.

"I believe that the need for strong hydrogen retaliatory forces is greater now than ever before because of the deterioration in Soviet power both at home and in the satellites," Jackson said.

Kremlin Casts About For Answer To Mid-East Policy

MOSCOW (AP)—Foreign diplomats in Moscow say the Kremlin genuinely fears President Eisenhower's Middle East program and is trying desperately to find an effective counterattack.

The diplomats have talked with Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov and other Russian leaders. They say the Soviet reaction suns up to this:

1. The Russians see the Eisenhower doctrine as another step toward Western encirclement of the Soviet Union.

2 Their opposition is not just anti-West propaganda.

3. The Kremlin knows it has to come up with something concrete, not just propaganda, to defeat the new U. S. move.

The foreign diplomats point out, however, that the satellites are draining the Russian economy so heavily the Soviet Union can't hope to match U. S. dollars.

Several diplomats in Moscow, including some friendly to the West, also say emphasis on the military side of the Eisenhower program, on the heels of the British-French invasion of Egypt, was a mistake.

"If the military aspects had been dropped or minimized, the program would have been hard to beat," one commented.

One diplomat after discussing the Eisenhower proposals with Soviet leaders said he believes the plan "still has the Soviet bosses off balance. They fear it and are seeking effective means of combatting it."

Another diplomat told a reporter: "They know public attacks on the plan are not enough and that they must themselves offer some positive program if they hope to continue holding the spotlight with the Arab nations." The Kremlin is desperately seeking something more effective than a mere propaganda fight, the diplomats said.

They agree that, despite boasts of prosperity, the Soviet Union is in no condition to match U. S. offers of economic help in the Middle East.

"Heavy demands at home and within the family of satellites is placing a severe strain on the Soviet Union's own liquid resources," one source observed. "Today the satellites are leaning on the Soviet Union instead of contributing to its development.

"And the cost of keeping other East European Communist nations in even a fairly healthy condition gets higher and higher each year."

Published agreements with other Communist nations in the last two months reflect the heavy drain on Soviet foreign exchange and food reserves by Poland, Romania and East Germany, as well as smaller demands by other Communist countries.

"This economic picture shows the Soviet Union's master planners will be slow in recommending an attempt to match American dollars with Soviet rubles in the Middle East," a diplomatic source said.

Tito Visit To U. S. Seen After Adjournment

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional observer said today the government may invite Yugoslav President Tito to visit the United States — but not until after Congress adjourns.

The source, asking not to be quoted by name, said he thinks officials will try in this way to avoid giving undue offense either to the Yugoslav government or to protesting members of Congress.

There have been reports, undenied officially, that Tito has already been invited to come to this country, possibly in April.

In a House speech yesterday, Rep. Keating (R-NY) said that no matter how Tito's "apologists in official circles may feel" the Yugoslav President is not welcomed by the people or Congress of the United States.

Keating, a senior Republican who often handles administration legislation, added, "If an invitation to make a state visit here has not been extended to him, the idea . . . should be immediately abandoned. If an invitation has been proferred, it should be promptly withdrawn."

Another Republican, Rep. O'Konski of Wisconsin, told the House he would resign from Congress if Tito came to this country as an official guest.

Other congressmen who have recently voiced objections to Tito as a guest of the United States include Rep. McCormack of Massachusetts, House Democratic leader, and Representatives Madden (D-Ind), Rabaut (D-Mich) and Hoffman (R-Mich).

Opposition stems largely from groups which have protested the Communist regime's treatment of Roman Catholic and other clergymen in that country.

A Tito visit has been defended, among other grounds, with the argument that other Eastern European Communist governments might be encouraged to break away from the Kremlin.

Knowland Drive For Presidency Not So Certain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some colleagues of Sen. Knowland (R-Cal) said today they see less than a 50-50 chance that he will seek the 1960 Republican presidential nomination.

They reached that conclusion after reassessing his announcement last week that he will leave the Senate when his present term expires in January 1959.

His surprise announcement was interpreted widely at first as indicating he plans to run for the Republican nomination for governor in California next year. That move was considered a possible stepping stone toward a bid for the presidency.

Knowland declined to confirm or deny the speculation.

Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California hopes to learn on a visit here in the next few days whether there is any such possibility. Knight, planning to attend President Eisenhower's inaugural, expects to confer with Knowland.

Knight, a Republican, has given every indication he wants to run for re-election next year.

If Knowland should choose to seek the governorship, signs now point toward a primary battle with Knight. The winner, if elected governor, then might pit himself against another Californian, Vice President Nixon, in the battle for the party's 1960 presidential nomination.

While he hasn't closed the door to this possibility, Knowland has gone a long way toward convincing some of his associates that personal considerations were more influential than political reasons for his decision to retire from the Senate.

Knowland is said to have commented that his family has in the Oakland Tribune a property worth several million dollars which he believes needs his personal attention.

He said at the time of his announcement he had always regarded himself as a newspaperman and wanted to get back in that business. He noted that his publisher father is 83 years old.

Some of Knowland's colleagues believe Knowland might bow to a "draft" movement if Knight should change his mind about running again. He might run, they said, if it became apparent there was substantial opposition to Knight's candidacy among California Republicans.

But unless the path was fairly clear of political pitfalls, some of Knowland's colleagues think he probably would stay out of the governor's race.

It might be doubtful whether he could expect substantial support for the presidential nomination without holding public office.

Undercover Agent Confesses Theft

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A former policeman who gained fame as an undercover narcotics agent was fined $500 after pleading guilty to a charge of felony theft of an automobile.

Texas J. Foster, 30, entered the guilty plea under a statute that says if stolen property is returned voluntarily before prosecution is started, the maximum punishment is a fine of $1,000.

In 1952, Foster was named one of the nation's 10 outstanding young men by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce for his work as an undercover narcotics agent. He now works as a private detective.

Chou Returns From Visit To Budapest

BUDAPEST (AP)—Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai left Budapest for Moscow today after a 20-hour visit.

Just before the Chinese leader departed by Soviet jetliner, he and Soviet-installed Premier Janos Kadar signed a joint statement which presumably reaffirmed the Peiping regime's support of the Kadar government.

(Chou landed back in the Soviet capital and was welcomed by Deputy Premier A. I. Mikoyan and Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov. After reporting to the Kremlin leaders on his observations in Warsaw and Budapest, he will go on to Afghanistan to wind up the South Asian tour he began in November.)

Chou and Kadar spoke at a big meeting held exclusively for Communist party dignitaries and high officials of the Red regimes. Russian troops in armored cars helped to guard the big headquarters of the construction workers' trade union in which the session was held.

Kadar, in a speech broadcast by the government's Budapest radio, accused the United Nations of making it possible for the "imperialist nations, primarily the United States, to interfere in Hungary's internal affairs."

This obviously referred to U.N. resolutions — sponsored by the United States — demanding that U.N. observers be admitted to to this country to ascertain the situation. Hungary and the Soviet Union have rejected all such U.N. moves.

Chou in his turn struck out again at the Eisenhower Doctrine on the Middle East and charged that the United States plans political and economic "intervention" among the nations of the Middle East.

Budapest radio announced the hanging of two more anti-Communist rebels, Istvan Varga and Jozsef Pinter. The broadcast said that two others sentenced to death had been let off with life imprisonment.

Hungarian Justice Minister Ferenc Nezval told a Communist correspondent from Vienna that the Kadar regime had held 101 trials involving 127 persons. Of these, he said, 18 were sentenced to death.

Bill To Prosecute Unwed Mothers Due

ATLANTA (AP)—Rep. Jack Ray of Warren County said last night he plans to introduce in the House a bill making unwed mothers subject to possible criminal prosecution.

"Something has got to be done about the increase of illegitimacy in the state," Ray said. "We've got to penalize the mother who is heartless enough to brand a child with a lifetime stigma."

Under terms of the bill, a sworn statement that a woman is a mother of an illegitimate child would be "prima facie" evidence for prosecution.

Louisville Could Be Stronger Than Cats

By BEN OLAN
The Associated Press

Kentucky, the state renowned for swift race horses, has come up with two crack college basketball teams in the Kentucky Wildcats and Louisville's Cardinals. The Cards are showing signs of becoming the top team in the territory.

Racing to a 45-23 lead in the first 14 minutes, Louisville easily registered its sixth straigth victory last night, clobbering Eastern Kentucky 104-67. The triumph was the 10th against two setbacks for the Cardinals, ranked fifth nationally.

Kentucky (11-3) is fifth in the latest Associated Press poll.

Only two other clubs among the first 20 saw action last night. Seattle (No. 7) defeated Portland State 76-64 and Oklahoma A&M (No. 19) beat Oklahoma 57-43.

In other games, Maryland whipped Georgetown 82-69, Clemson nipped Furman 80-77 in overtime, Syracuse trounced Penn State 75-45 and Villanova dumped Penn 63-47.

Louisville had an easy time. Bill Darragh led the scoring with 28 points.

The Oklahoma Aggies - Sooner game was a rough one. Joe King of Oklahoma and Joe Crutchfield of A&M were ejected for scuffling under the basket. After a relatively slow start, A&M forged to a 48-30 lead in the second half.

Maryland led Georgetown by 30 points at one point in another rough game. Fifty personal fouls were called and Nick Davis of Maryland and Ken Pichette of Georgetown were put off the floor for fighting.

Bill Yarborough climaxed a brilliant Clemson career by scoring 32 points, including all four Clemson made in the overtime. The six-foot senior, who has used up his eligibility under Atlantic Coast Conference rules, broke 19 school scoring records in finishing with 1,553 points for 85 games.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

The Texas Interscholastic League, in sympathy with the National Federation of State High School Athletic Association, has taken a strong stand against the exploiting of schoolboy athletes by the Wigwam Wiseman of America.

That's Mose Simms' organization, which annually stages an all-star game at Memphis, Tenn., and strives to pick up seven All-American teams.

Simms' selections often border on the ridiculous, although they benefit from extensive play among the wire services and are even repeated in the All-Sports section of the Sporting News each year.

Consider, if you will, his last team, which placed Sonora's George Johnson on the first team and relegated Abilene's Glynn Gregory all the way to the fourth team.

The august TIL has urged all coaches and administrators to endorse the censure imposed by the national federation and to do what they can to discourage such "questionable projects."

The league even hints that school men who do take part in the balloting conducted by Simms can be charged with being "accessories to projects involving exploitation of high school athletes," meaning their punishment—if indicted and convicted—could be severe.

The national federation suggests that the full weight of school opposition be thrown against the project.

To increase the incentive of boxers appearing in nationally televised fights, the International Boxing Club—which wields the whip in professional fisticuffing—is considering a plan to cut up the TV take on a 60-40 or 55-45 basis, with the bigger share, of course, to go to the winner.

Right now, the fighters involved split the television income 50-50.

Good reports keep reaching this desk on many of the men who have applied for the head coaching job at the local high school.

The thing that is worrying me is that the board might wait around so long some of the top names are going to withdraw their applications.

Lou Johnson, sports editor of the Lawton, Okla., Constitution, gives Bob Bodenhamer of his town an unqualified stamp of approval.

Lou says Bob has tried to pattern his life after Bud Wilkinson, his former coach, both on and off the field.

Adds Lou:

"He's a fine coach and we'd hate to lose him. We in Lawton think his 1956 club could have taken Abilene. Several fans who saw both teams play have said the same thing. We lost one game, that to El Reno, 21-20. El Reno never made two consecutive first downs and Lawton was ahead, 20-0 in the third quarter. Two bad punts, which went straight up in the air, ruined us. El Reno gained a total of 51 yards. We gained 280 yards.

"We want to keep him but we just can't pay the money high schools in Texas pay. Here, he's been making $5,600 plus a five per cent bonus."

Lamesa Tornadoes To Meet Same Grid Foes As In '56

LAMESA — The 1957 Lamesa Golden Tornado football schedule is almost a direct repeat from the 1956 season. The schedule, as announced today by Head Coach O. W. Follis, includes all ten teams the Tornadoes met this year. There will be one change, however, in the date, as each team is met on the previous day of the month that the teams met in 1956.

Following is the schedule, which includes four home games and six road games:

Sept. 13—Midland, there.
Sept. 20—El Paso Austin, here.
Sept. 27—Kermit, there.
Oct. 4—Brownfield, there.
Oct. 11—Big Spring, here.
Oct. 18—Monahans, there.
Oct. 25—Colorado City, here.
Nov. 1—Lakeview (San Angelo), here.
Nov. 8—Open.
Nov. 15—Sweetwater, there.
Nov. 22—Snyder, there.

Berrios Is Upset By Gil Cadilli

BOSTON (AP)—Miguel Berrios' upset loss to Gil Cadilli today added further confusion to boxing's unsettled featherweight division.

Cadilli beat Berrios, the second-rated feather contender, on a split decision in a nationally televised 10-round bout last night at Mechanics Building.

The verdict came only a few hours after the National Boxing Assn. stripped Sandy Saddler of the title for not defending his championship within a specified time.

State Elevens In Top Showing

DALLAS (AP)—Texans had more reason to brag when all the bowl game results were in—this state's teams had made the greatest showing in history.

Texas teams played in 11 bowl games from the first of December until Jan. 1—another record—and won eight of them.

Triumphs came in two of the major bowls, too. Texans will say it was only two because they couldn't get in the other two—the Rose and Orange, which are closed affairs.

Baylor beat Tennessee, 13-7, in the Sugar Bowl and Texas Christian trimmed Syracuse, 29-27, in the Cotton Bowl. Baylor was third in the Southwest Conference and Texas Christian second. Texas A&M, the unbeaten champion, couldn't play in a bowl game because it was on NCAA probation.

Other bowl triumphs by Texas teams:

Refrigerator Bowl—Sam Houston State beat Middle Tennessee State, 27-13.

Hospitality Bowl—Kilgore Junior College beat Pearl River, Miss., Junior College, 20-7.

Junior Rose Bowl — Arlington State beat Compton Junior College, 20-13.

Citrus Bowl—Compton Citadel Comets of Dallas beat Fritz Orr School of Atlanta, 6-0.

Prairie View Bowl—Prairie View beat Texas Southern, 27-6.

Tangerine Bowl—West Texas State beat Mississippi Southern, 20-13.

Losses included: Fort Hood lost to Bolling Air Force, 29-14, in the Shrimp Bowl; Notre Dame Institute of Kerrville lost to McKeesport, Pa., 45-6 in the Milk Bowl; Texas Western lost to George Washington University 13-0 in the Sun Bowl.

Actually, the Prairie View triumph shouldn't be listed in the Texas bowl accomplishments because a Texas team was bound to win.

Mask Grabbers Face Penalty

NEW ORLEANS (AP)— The Football Rules Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. termed the game "pretty good as it is today," but cracked down on face mask grabbing as a growing danger.

The three-day sessions ended yesterday with Committee Chairman H. O. (Fritz) Crisler, athletic director at the University of Michigan, calling the get-together "unusually satisfying."

The committee with final say on football legislation, imposed a 15-yard penaly for protective face mask grabbing and declined to expand the present substitution rule.

E. E. (Ted) Wieman, committee secretary and athletic director at the University of Denver, said the 25-man group felt the practice of grabbing the masks could lead to "dangerous situations."

Strict enforcement will be left to the officials, Crisler said.

Expansion of the substitution rule, proposed by retired Columbia Coach Lou Little as a representative of the American Football Coaches Assn., met with strong opposition, Crisler said.

Under the plan offered by Little, substitutes as well as starters would be permitted to return to the game once each quarter. Only starting players can return now.

Crisler said the committee felt the change could lead to a return of platoon system football. He said schools with large squads could train specialists in offense and defense and still another unit both ways.

"The feeling among committee members," he said, "is that we've got a pretty good game just as it is and there's no sense in changing it."

Radovich Suit To Be Heard

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government contended today that professional football is a business and ought to be subject to federal antitrust laws.

Solicitor General L. Lee Rankin took this position in a brief filed with the Supreme Court, which scheduled oral arguments this afternoon in a suit charging the National Football League (NFL) seeks to monopolize pro football.

The suit was filed by William Radovich, former lineman for the University of Southern California and the Detroit Lions. Radovich claims $105,000 in damages from the NFL, its Commissioner Bert Bell, the nine remaining clubs that were in the league in 1948, and others.

Radovich says he was boycotted because he jumped from the Lions to the Los Angeles Dons of the defunct All America Conference. He also says the NFL prevents players from becoming free agents by use of a contract reserve clause and a blacklist. The reserve clause binds a player to a club.

Losing out in the lower courts, Radovich appealed to the Supreme Court.

AL Schedules 237 Nocturnal Games

CHICAGO (AP) — The American League opens its 1957 baseball season with the traditional "presidential opener" at Washington April 15 and follows up with a record schedule of 237 night games.

The previous high in night contests was last season when 228 were scheduled and 226 played.

The Baltimore Orioles will open at Washington in which the President or some other national figure will toss out the first ball, officially inaugurating the new campaign.

Other openers on April 16 find Chicago at Cleveland, Detroit at Kansas City, Washington at New York and Boston at Baltimore.

Boston, Detroit and Chicago stage their home openers April 18. New York will be at Boston, Cleveland at Detroit and Kansas City at Chicago.

Heading the night game parade are Baltimore and Kansas City. Both have booked more than half of their 77 home games under the lights. The Orioles have 47 night games scheduled and Kansas City has 43. Washington has 38, Cleveland 31, Chicago 22, Detroit 21, Boston 18 and New York 17.

Odessa Wranglers Trounce HSU Buttons By 62-50 Tab

ODESSA (SC) — The Odessa JC Wranglers rang up their eighth win of the season at the expense of the H-SU Buttons here Wednesday night. Final score was 62-50.

The win was the second in two starts against the Abilene team this season. Odessa has lost six games.

James Dobbins led the Wranglers with 17 points while James Stucker had 16 and Wayne Evans 12.

James Graham paced HSU with 13 points. Mel Cunningham followed with 12.

Odessa visits San Angelo Saturday night for a game with Phil George's SAC Rams.

ODESSA (62) — Dobbins 7-3-17; Stuckey 8-0-16; Lewallen 1-0-2; Louis 1-2-4; Gibson 3-0-4; W. Evans 1-10-12; Bennett 3-3-7. Totals 22-18-62.

HSU FROSH (50) — Vancil 0-1-1; Rhodes 1-0-2; Lockett 0-2-2; Faubian 2-2-6; Graham 4-5-13; Cunningham 4-4-12; D. Gibson 3-0-6; Emery 3-2-8. Totals 17-16-50.

Half time score — Odessa 29, HSU 21.

Houston Coach Pretty Lass

HOUSTON (AP)—Carolyn Klinger, 24, is a pretty, auburn-haired young lady, who teaches second graders at St. Anne's parochial school both in the classroom and on the gridiron.

She knows all about football formations, offensive and defensive tactics, passing, kicking and blocking techniques and how to kick extra points.

"I read football books, all I could find," says the University of Houston graduate. "I watched football games, here, out-of-town, on television."

She uses the split-T formation because "It's the easiest for the kids to learn."

Carolyn's boys play on a field 50 yards long, are given three downs to score or relinquish possession. Although they learn tackling in practice, they don't play tackle football until the fourth grade. But they don't play touch football either. Carolyn has hit upon a variation of "drop the handkerchief." When a tackler plucks a big handkerchief from the runner's hip pocket, he is ruled down.

Backing the program for second graders is Mary Auer, head of St. Anne's physical education department. "After all," she says "that's what the boys want. They want to be like bigger boys, so we let them learn the difference sports in their seasons."

Male coaches have no fear of Miss Klinger taking any of their jobs. She is engaged to Bodin Hugger, Houston oil man, and soon will be leaving the coaching profession.

Solon Campaigns For Fight Czar

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A Southern California legislator, banging away at reported evils in California boxing, called today for "an all powerful czar" to oversee state control of the sport.

Assemblyman Frank G. Bonelli (D-Huntington Park) said he wants a director "separate and distinct" from the State Athletic Commission.

Bonelli is chairman of an Assembly subcommittee which probed boxing and wrestling last year. He introduced a series of bills which he described as "drastic boxing and wrestling legislation."

Fambrough Hired As Wichita Aide

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Don Fambrough, 34, has been named an assistant to Coach Chalmer E. (Woody) Woodard at the University of Wichita.

Fambrough is currently an assistant at East Texas State, Commerce, Tex.

A native of Longview, Fambrough attended the University of Texas in 1941-42, playing guard. After serving in World War II, he played guard at the University of Kansas in 1946-47.

Raiders May Open Workouts Feb. 7

LUBBOCK (SC)—Texas Tech's spring football training will probably start Feb. 7, according to Coach DeWitt Weaver.

If weather permits that starting date, the intra-squad game will be played March. 1.

Saddler Is No Longer Champ In NBA Eyes

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Spindly legged Sandy Saddler, no longer the boss of the featherweights in the eyes of the National Boxing Assn., may be reinstated if he proves "physically unfit" at an examination next week.

The NBA stripped Saddler of his crown yesterday for failing to sign for a title defense but said it would "reconsider" if the examination shows "he is unable to fight."

Sandy was injured in an auto accident last July and hasn't fought since. He last defended the 126-pound title Jan. 18, 1956, when he stopped Flash Elorde of the Philippines in the 13th round.

This is the third time, in and out of the ring, that Saddler has lost the championship. He first lost it to Willie Pep on a 15-round decision Feb. 11, 1949, after he had won it from the Hartford, Conn., fancy dan four months earlier.

Then, on Dec. 14, 1954, the NBA dethroned Saddler for failing to defend his crown within a six-month period. The New York State Athletic Commission declined to take similar action.

The New York commission also leans toward Saddler in the latest hassle.

"We're not going to take any man's championship away if he's got a legitimate reason for not fighting," said Chairman Julius Helfand in New York. "His condition will be determined shortly and the New York commission will act accordingly."

EDDIE MATHEWS SIGNED TO BRAVES' CONTRACT

The Milwaukee Braves had another of their leading sluggers signed today as major league baseball clubs continued to line up players for 1957.

MATHEWS

Third baseman Eddie Mathews, who hit 37 home runs and drove in 95 runs, came to terms with the Braves yesterday. He inked a two-year contract calling for about $32,000.

First baseman Joe Adcock, a 38-homer man in 1956, signed a two-year pact Wednesday.

While the Braves satisfied Mathews, the New York Yankees were unable to make any headway with Mickey Mantle, their star centerfielder. Mantle, who returned his first contract unsigned, had a 30-minute "exuloratory talk" with Lee McPhail, the team's personnel director. Mickey is believed to be asking for $60,000 on the srtength of his triple batting, runs batted in and home run success and his most valuable player designation.

Jackie Jensen of the Boston Red Sox and Wally Moon of the St. Louis Cards put their names on the line. Jensen, a .315 hitter, was the first Boston player to sign. Moon hit .298 and will get around $18,000 for his .57 efforts.

Infielders Ransom Jackson and Charley Neal of Brooklyn and Johnny Temple of Cincinnati came to terms. So did Pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm of the New York Giants, catcher Mack Burk of Philadelphia and outfielder Jim Pisoni of Kansas City.

The world champion Yanks received the signed contracts of three of their younger players—infielder Tom Carroll, catcher Jim Blanchard and outfielder Marvin Zipfel.

Local Fems Plan For Two Meets

Members of two local women's bowling teams — Cosden and Pinkie's—are planning to compete in two tournaments within the next several months.

The first is the Midland City tournament, scheduled for Feb. 2-3.

The local fems will also go to the Texas Women's State tournament, which will be staged on the Spudder Lanes in Wichita Falls starting March 2 and ending April 7.

TALL PHILLIPS 66 TEAM FACES TECH IN LUBBOCK SATURDAY

LUBBOCK (SC) — Texas Tech's Red Raiders, who nearly had their fill of tall opponents against Hardin-Simmons, will be in for another session of scanning the ceiling in their clash with the Phillips 66ers here Saturday night.

Averaging just a shade over 6-feet-2 themselves, the Raiders face a squad that could start a quintet averaging 6-feet-7 plus. To muster that starting five, the national AAU champs can call on 6-10 Bob Mattick of Oklahoma A&M, 6-9 Chuck Darling of Iowa, 6-8 Burdy Haldorson of Colorado, 6-5 Bill Hougland of Kansas, and one of four 6-4 players, among them being the Raiders' own Jim eRed, who joined Phillips this season.

Tech downed by a 59-53 count Tuesday night in Abilene the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys, who had a 6-8 performer and five 6-6 players on the squad. The Raiders' tallest is a 6-6 sophomore, Leon (Podd) Hill of Sudan.

Before the Tech-Phillips game, the nation's top two women's AAU teams of last year, Wayland College's Flying Queens and Nashville Business College, collide in the 6 p.m. preliminary.

Webb Quint Wins Over Oiler Five

Webb Air Force Base's Dusters picked up their seventh basketball win in 17 starts by defeating the Brooks Oilers of Snyder, 65-55, here Wednesday night.

The two teams will play here again next Wednesday night.

Webb took the court last night without the services of Bill Beindorf, Nick Thomas and Jimmy Johnson but grabbed the lead at the start and never relinquished it.

Jerry Gilpen and Bruce Sweeney paced the Webb offensive, scoring 18 and 14 points, respectively.

Howard Jones, former Big Spring High School and HCJC standout, led the Snyder team with 21 points, one of three visiting players to hit in double figures.

Webb plays Laughlin AFB of Del Rio in the first of two games here Friday night.

Gene Fullmer, New Champ, Made Big Jump In Year

By FRANK ECK
Associated Press Staff

One year ago, Gene Fullmer was ranked 14th among the world's middleweight boxers. Today the 25-year-old West Jordan, Utah, fighter is the middleweight champion.

How did he become champion? Well, it was a rugged climb. He could have fought Ray Robinson for the title much sooner than he did but he and his manager, Marv Jensen, both admitted "we're not ready."

When Jensen "was ready," he started a six-month paper campaign, sending out to sports writers across the land circulars that read in effect: "Why is Robinson ducking Fullmer?"

It took some time to make the match and it took a lot of diligent training by the Mormon who sometimes works in a Bingham, Utah, copper mind as a welder.

In January of 1956, Fullmer began his climb. He took care of Rocky Castellani in Cleveland. A month later he beat Gil Turner in Madison Square Garden. Last April he defeated Ralph Tiger Jones in Cleveland and in May he beat Charles Humez in the Garden. A September match in which Fullmer knocked out Moses Ward in three rounds in Salt Lake City was merely a tuneup for Robinson.

How good is Fullmer? Well, he is tremendously strong, neither smokes nor drinks and prefers to stay around home rather than hit the bright lights.

GENE FULLMER

He is crude and awkward like Rocky Graziano was at first. He can take a punch maybe better than Graziano but probably does not hit as hard. In other words, Fullmer is an unimpressive fighter for he seems to know little about how to lead with a left and cross with a right. But he will be popular mainly because he has the desire to fight.

Possibly his battle with Robinson was not a true test. Manager Jensen claims he kept Fullmer in check. Fullmer threw enough punches to pile up a lead right from the beginning and that was all Jensen asked of his charge, who used to fight in a ring on Jensen's mink farm.

Fullmer's tremendous strength made Robinson wary and Sugar Ray appeared content to go the distance even if it meant clinching in every round, which Sugar Ray did.

Fullmer may be unpolished as a ringman but he is the type of toe-to-toe fighter the fans like to see in action. And the fact that he can take it figures to make him a popular champion. It may take a real good boxer with a hard punch to dethrone him.

East Texas Coach Notches 100th Win

COMMERCE (SC) — If basketball victories were like birthdays, then Coach Bob Rogers of East Texas State would have 100 candles on his cake.

He passed his 100th win mark as a senior college coach when the Lions downed Sam Houston 57-53 here Saturday night. All of these wins have been at East Texas.

Coach Rogers came to Lionland from Conners A&M junior college where his teams won 48 games and lost 9. Combining his senior and junior college records, his teams have won 148 against 41 losses.

He is mid-way of the current season with his rebuilding Lions holding a 9 and 5 record. His team is 2-1 in Lone Star conference play.

Cincy Sheriff Sports Lover

CINCINNATI (AP) — Dan Tehan, who is sheriff of Hamilton County, which includes Cincinnati, is a versatile guy.

Not the least of his talents, of course, is his ability, as a Democrat, to keep being elected sheriff in a county which is so predominantly Republican that the election of a Democrat to county office strictly is an oddity.

Dan now is going into his third four-year term.

But the big, good-natured sheriff was known as "Dan the Man" even before he started running for public office, as a result of his sports activities.

Television viewers still get glimpses of him on Sundays. He has been an official in the National Football League since 1930. He's the oldest official in the loop in point of service.

He was a baseball umpire for a number of years, working in the Piedmont and Mid-Atlantic leagues and the American Assn. before giving up that work in 1939.

But baseball still is one of his great loves.

It just seems to work out that each year his vacation comes about the time the Cincinnati Redlegs head for Tampa and spring training.

Dan has been going south with the Reds since 1945, and even before that he always was a familiar figure around the Florida training camps.

And the guy is a bit hard to miss. He stands 6 feet, 3 inches tall and weighs 208. He knows sports personalities from one end of the country to the other. But that's only natural since he played football at Xavier University, coached there for a time and then turned to officiating.

He also used to do a lot of basketball officiating.

Of late, too, he has become a big game hunter, although his opponents sought to make political capital of it in the last election.

There have been numerous reports of a black panther having been seen in the western part of Hamilton County. Dan and his deputies have become panther hunters. His political foe in the last election derided Dan's panther hunts but Tehan was releected and he's still hunting the panther.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COMMISSION OF THE CITY OF BIG SPRING, TEXAS:

SECTION 1. LICENSE FEE. That there is hereby fixed and assessed as a Police regulation for the protection of the public health a license fee of one dollar ($1.00) per annum against the owner or keeper of each and every dog kept in the City of Big Spring. The license shall run from January first of each year to January first of the succeeding year, and any part of such year be deemed and considered the entire year.

SECTION 2. VACCINATION AGAINST RABIES. That it shall be the duty of the owner or keeper of each and every dog kept in the City of Big Spring to have such dog vaccinated against rabies by a practicing veterinarian at least once each year, provided, however, that such dog must have been so vaccinated within one month of the date of the owner or keeper's application for the license as herein required.

SECTION 3. LICENSE TAG. THAT it shall be the duty of the City Tax Assessor and Collector to provide suitable metal tags for said dogs, which tags shall evidence the payment of the license fee and the registration of said dog. Each person owning or keeping a dog within the limits of the City of Big Spring shall apply to the City Tax Assessor and Collector for a tag, and upon payment of said license fee and presentation of a certificate by a practicing veterinarian showing that said dog has within one month of the date of application for license been vaccinated against rabies, the Tax Assessor and Collector shall supply to each such applicant a tag suitable to be fastened upon a collar around the dog's neck, and shall in a book kept for such purpose, register the number of said tag, the name and address of the owner or keeper of the dog, and a description of said dog, and no license shall be issued unless the application is accompanied by such veterinarian's certificate. It shall be the duty of the owner or keeper of each dog to apply to said officer for such license pay the fee for same, and obtain a tag therefor, and to have and to keep said tag at all times during the year securely fastened around the neck of said dog, and the failure of the owner in this respect shall have the same effect as if no license had been paid upon said dog.

SECTION 4. LOST TAGS. That it shall be the duty of the owner or keeper of any dog to procure a duplicate tag from the City Tax Assessor and Collector in the event that the original tag is lost or destroyed, and the Tax Assessor and Collector shall issue a duplicate tag upon application of any person who has complied with the provisions of this Ordinance and upon payment of twenty-five cents ($.25) to cover the cost of issuing the duplicate tag.

SECTION 5. UNLAWFUL TO KEEP. That it shall be unlawful for any person to keep any dog in the limits of the City of Big Spring for which the license herein provided has not been procured from the City Tax Assessor and Collector, and which has not been vaccinated for rabies and upon which the tag herein above provided for is not at all times fastened around the neck of such dog.

SECTION 6. RUNNING AT LARGE. That it shall be unlawful for the owner or keeper of any dog within the limits of the City of Big Spring to permit such dog to run at large within the City of Big Spring, regardless of whether or not such dog has been vaccinated for rabies or whether or not such dog has been issued a license tag under the provisions of this Ordinance, provided however that if said dog has been issued a license tag it shall not be unlawful for the owner or keeper of such dog to take such dog with him if the dog is kept at all times in the presence and view of the owner, but such dog must not be out of the sight and control of the owner or keeper. Any person permitting a dog to run at large within the limits of the City of Big Spring in violation of this section of the Ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not to exceed one hundred dollars ($100.00).

SECTION 7. DOG CATCHER. That the City Manager shall appoint a special officer to be known and described as the Dog Catcher and fix a salary therefor, subject to the approval of the City Commission, and the City Manager may appoint or provide for an assistant or assistants to the Dog Catcher. The Dog Catcher and his assistant or assistants shall be under the supervision and control of the City Manager. It shall be the duty of the Dog Catcher and his assistants to pick up and impound all dogs found running at large, to take proper care for all dogs impounded, to destroy all dogs that have not been redeemed or sold, and to perform such other duties as may be directed by the City Manager under the terms of this Ordinance.

SECTION 8. REPORTS. That is shall be the duty of the Dog Catcher to report in writing to the City Manager once each month the total number of dogs impounded, the total number of dogs redeemed or sold, and the total number of dogs killed under the provisions of this Ordinance.

SECTION 9. POUND FEES. That there shall be charged a pound fee of one dollar ($1.00) for each and every dog impounded under the provisions of this Ordinance and an additional fee of fifty cents ($.50) per day for each day or fraction thereof that such dog shall remain in said pound.

SECTION 10. REDEMPTION OF IMPOUNDED DOGS. That the owner or keeper of any dog or dogs captured or impounded under the provisions of this Ordinance shall be permitted and allowed to redeem, reclaim, and receive possession of said dog or dogs within seventy-two (72) hours after said dog or dogs have been impounded, upon payment to the City of Big Spring of the pound fees as provided in Section Nine of this Ordinance, and in addition thereto, the payment of the license fee as provided in Section One of this Ordinance if said dogs have not been previously licensed for the current year.

SECTION 11. DISPOSITION OF UNCLAIMED DOGS. That should the owner or keeper of any impounded dog or dogs fail to redeem same as provided in Section Ten of this Ordinance within the seventy-two (72) hours provided, then said dog or dogs shall be destroyed in a manner approved by the American Humane Society provided, however, that no dog, wearing a license tag, shall be destroyed prior to seventy-two (72) hours after notifying the owner or keeper of such dog, by mailing to such owner or keeper Notice of Impoundment, at mailing address furnished the City of Big Spring at the time of issuing of said license, provided further, that at any time subsequent to expiration of redemption period and prior to destruction of any dog under provisions hereof, the City of Big Spring may sell any dog so impounded to first person tendering to the City the pound fees and license fees provided for in this Ordinance.

SECTION 12. VICIOUS DOGS. That it shall be unlawful for any owner or person in control of any vicious or dangerous dog to keep or permit the same in or about any public house, public place, street, or alley in the City of Big Spring.

SECTION 13. KEEPING UP DOGS WHICH HAVE BITTEN PERSONS. That if any person shall make an affidavit before the Chief of Police or Judge of the Corporation Court that any dog has bitten any person within the limits of the City of Big Spring it shall be the duty of the Chief of Police to direct the owner or keeper of said dog to keep him securely confined for not less than ten (10) days and to release said dog only upon written permission of the City Health Officer, or a duly licensed veterinarian. In the event such owner or keeper fails or refuses to comply with such directions, said dog shall be impounded in the City Pound for the required period of observation and shall be released to said owner only after payment of the pound fees as provided in this Ordinance.

SECTION 14. SAVINGS CLAUSE. That if any section, part, or provision of this Ordinance is declared unconstitutional or invalid, then, in that event, it is expressly provided, and it is the intention of the City Commission in passing this Ordinance, that all other parts of this Ordinance shall not be affected thereby and shall remain in full force and effect.

SECTION 15. PENALTY. That any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not exceeding one hundred dollars ($100.00), and each and every day of such violation shall be deemed a separate offense.

SECTION 16. REPEALING CLAUSE. That all Ordinances and parts of Ordinances in conflict with the terms of this Ordinance are hereby repealed.

Passed and approved at the first reading this the 11th day of December, 1956.

Passed and approved at the second reading this the 28th day of December, 1956.

Passed and approved at the third and final reading this the 8th day of January, 1957.

ATTEST:

CITY SECRETARY

Jess Talkin

by Jess Blair

Edward Simpson, Howard County rancher, was one of the local men who journeyed to San Angelo to see President Eisenhower. Simpson said he didn't get to talk to the President but saw him only at a distance as he got off the plane.

"I don't know what they can do to help the ranchers and farmers in these drought-stricken areas," Simposn said. "Perhaps tax relief on the sale of livestock would be worthwhile. The drought feed program is also a big help.

"Personally I feel that programs like these are better than outright gifts. You get these free hand-outs started and they just keep building up."

Several Martin County farmers are planning to plant grass for seed production, says Jake Hodges, head of the Soil Conservation Service at Stanton. The three main grasses to be used are Indian grass, Blackwell Switch grass and Caucasian bluestem. They would also like to try some Coronado sideoats, but Hodges says the seed is hard to find.

Some of the farmers in the project are F. W. Henson, Aaron Donelson, Richard Thomas, Bud Jones and Ollie Robertson. Some don't have the seed yet. However, Newell and Truman Tate of Tarzan have already bought Indian grass seed, and Henson and Donelson have also got enough seed to plant.

Hodges says grass will pay more than cotton if a farmer takes care of it. This means watering it, keeping down weeds for a few weeks and general care. After it once gets a good growth it's not much trouble.

* * *

F. J. Cantrell of the Borden County ASC says ranchers are doing some brush clearing northeast of Gail. Several methods have been tried but the large bull dozers and root plows seem to do the best job.

"Some ranchers have tried chemicals on mesquite," Cantrell said, "but haven't been satisfied. The bushes above ground are killed, but they seem to come back thicker than ever from the roots."

* * *

Several crop projects are being planned by the Howard County agent's office this year, providing enough rain falls. James Taylor says they hope to set up several plots of hybrid grain sorghums. This was on the schedule last year, but farmers didn't get enough moisture.

Another project is trying small plots of grass. The Extension Service is putting out several packages of seed for this county, in hopes of finding the varieties best suited to this area.

* * *

Bernard Houston, who ranches and farms southeast of Stanton, is enthusiastic about the proposed vegetable shed. He says the Wallace Company which proposes the project is a big outfit with branch outlets at Hereford. They want Stanton because the Martin County vegetables will breach the gap between those of South Texas and the Panhandle.

"I think it will be especially helpful to farmers with small welis," he said. "Some of them can handle a small acreage of vegetable without hiring much help. Also a few farmers with more water than they can use on cotton will probably want in on it."

* * *

Not long ago a woman said she didn't want to live on the farm anymore because they had no close neighbors. I suppose good neighbors have always been one of the attractions of country living.

As a kid, we had neighbors of all kinds. One family living about a mile away I especially remember. The man was a flighty little fellow, not much bigger than a short fence post, but he roamed all over the community, and could cover as much ground with his long, crane-like strides as a T Model car.

His hands fluttered like a bird's wings, always mopping his brow, making gestures or waving at people a quarter mile away.

Such a friendly little man, everybody said. Whenever he talked to a woman, he removed his hat to expose a turkey egg head, and with men he always shook hands, no matter if you met him five times a day.

Finally things began to disappear from the community, such as two or three hens, a pig or a piece of a plow. No one suspected the little man, though, for he was just too polite and friendly to do any wrong.

Then another neighbor, a dour-faced old farmer who had lost some harness, made a trip to the little man's house while the family was at church. He pried open a window in a shed and found the harness and some other things people had been missing.

Next day the deputy sheriff paid the family a surprise visit. The man cried like a child, admitted he had sinned and agreed to return everything except the pigs which had already been made into sausage. He asked, however, if he could keep one sack of sausage for the children. It seemed they were real fond of hog meat.

A few days later he loaded his family in the old wagon and quietly left, never to be heard from again. After he was gone, no one spoke ill of him. He was such a gentleman, such a nice neighbor that his leaving was like pulling a piece of sunshine from the sky.

Since then I've had better neighbors and worse ones. But I never lived by anyone quite so likeable as the little man whose main profession was penny ante thievery.

Toscanini Temper Became A Legend

Editor's Note: This is the first of three stories on volatile Arturo Toscanini, who became a legend in his own time.

By W. G. ROGERS
Associated Press Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — What Arturo Toscanini's vast audiences heard about was the fury that boiled up in him at imperfections in performance. . . .

Or the way he bawled out his hapless players . . . or the way batons would sometimes slip out of his grasp and fly into the orchestra.

But what his audiences heard in fact was some of the crispest, most dramatic and most satisfying music, orchestral and operatic, supplied by any conductor of the century.

When Toscanini, the master maestro of them all, died yesterday two months short of 90, he already had lived long enough to become a legend, or even several legends.

Great music went with the great man. The flareups and the temperament went with the genius.

Genius was a word which, as it happened, he hated to have applied to himself. He did not like to be called interpreter either. He was a reader of scores. He stuck to the music that composers provided.

They repaid him with chances rarely given to conductors. He did, for instance, the world premieres of Verdi's "Otello," Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci" and Puccini's "La Boheme," and he introduced Wagner's "Gotterdammerung" to Italy.

It was just 70 years ago, in 1886, that he conducted for the first time, at the age of 19. It was in Rio de Janeiro, where the aspiring Toscanini was cellist and assistant choral conductor of a touring Italian company. The scheduled Brazilian conductor and then the Italian ran afoul of both singers and audience. In the crisis Toscanini was called out by the cast because, as they cried, "he knows all the operas by heart."

"Aida" was the opera on that occasion. Toscanini accepted the incident as routine, went back to his cello, said nothing of his feat when he returned to Italy. But the excited word got around that an exceptionally gifted young man was available for conducting jobs, and he took several in smaller cities. They led to his first chance at famed La Scala, in Milan, in 1896, with the orchestra, and in 1898 with opera.

This early modesty stayed with him. He has refused honorary degrees time after time. When he made his cross-country tour with the NBC Symphony in the spring of 1950, the governor of Texas tried to make him an honorary citizen of the state but the Maestro refused.

"Tell the governor," he instructed a member of the orchestra staff, "that if I refused to become a senator of my native Italy, I must also refuse to be an honorary citizen of Texas."

He had no time for anything but music. It was his idol, and he sacrificed everything to it. He was equipped with not only a phenomenal memory, but a phenomenal ear. During one of his seasons of conducting at the Metropolitan Opera here, he heard a wrong note sounded by one of the violins, and he called the musician to account —he could do that vociferously and loudly.

But the musician showed him the note in his score. Toscanini at once sent to the opera library for another part, and the violinist discovered that he had been sounding that note incorrectly for years.

Next: Path to greatness.

Wintry Weather Still On Stage

By The Associated Press

Temperatures moderated in some sections of the ice-chilled northern Midwest today but snow and blustery winds made a fresh entry and kept wintry weather much in the spotlight.

Meanwhile, no general relief from the season's longest cold snap across the eastern half of the nation appeared imminent.

The so-called warming trend in parts of the north central area was a little on the freakish side, climatically. Arctic air normally flows into the country from Canada. But during the night much warmer air spread across the border. It was expected to move slowly eastward into the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley today.

Readings in the north and central plains eastward to the Mississippi River, at subzero levels for several days, moderated considerably. However, they were still below freezing, but about 30 degrees higher in Montana and North Dakota than 24 hours earlier.

Carpenter Kills Teen-Age Nephew

DALLAS (AP) — An unemployed carpenter shot and killed his teen-age nephew when the boy advanced on him with an axe, Police Chief W. J. Cooper of nearby Irving said yesterday.

Cooper said M. K. Meredith told him he warned his nephew, James Sims, 15, to halt three times before he fired two blasts from a double-barreled shotgun.

Meredith told police he and the boy had quarreled several times over doing household chores.

He said the boy had lived with him since the boy's parents separated last October.

Meredith said the argument developed after he asked the boy to help him load up some kindling and was refused. After a fight, he said he ordered the boy to "get his clothes and get out."

He said the boy grabbed the axe and refused to heed his warning to stop.

First Federal Assn. Officials Reelected

Board of directors and the slate of officers for First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Big Spring remain unchanged for another year, result of annual meetings of stockholders and directors Wednesday afternoon.

Term of one director, K. H. McGibbon, expired this year, and he was reelected for a three-year term. He serves with R. L. Cook, Elmo Wasson, Robert Stripling and R. V. Middleton.

All officers were reelected: Cook as president, Wasson as vice president and Stripling as secretary and treasurer. Also reappointed by the board as appraisers were R. L. Cook, Arthur Woodall, R. J. Cook, J. W. Purser, Jess Thornton and E. P. Driver. Cook and Woodalll have been appraisers for First Federal since it was organized in 1936.

Several stockholders present expressed themselves as pleased with the increased interest rate the Association is paying on savings. This rate went from 3 to 3½ per cent during the past six-month period.

Stripling reported to stockholders that First Federal had seen continued growth during 1956, and should be able to look forward to a similar operation in 1957. The Association now has assets of over $4,160,000, and first mortgage loans in the amount of $3,711,875. In its 21 years of operation, First Federal has not had a single foreclosure, and has had only one distress loan on which an adjustment was made.

Water Hoax Leaves Cooks Holding Pots

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Pots and pans in 16 sorority and 24 fraternity homes at the University of Oklahoma were filled with water Tuesday when a telephone call warned there would be no water the next day. But water was available as usual yesterday and the joker who made the call was being sought by irked kitchen employes and some 3,000 students.

NEWSPAPERS ARE PEOPLE!

Many of us have begun to believe, in this mechanized and atomic age, that people are being replaced by machines. Giant turbines, pilotless aircraft, automatic typewriters — all seem to drive home this belief.

Newspaper folks still hold to the theory that people, not machines, are its most important force. Printing presses and typesetting machines are still controlled by people. These people are interested in you.

Some of the folks at The Herald are more interested in your social life. Some are sincerely interested in helping you sell your merchandise. Others are interested in seeing that you receive your daily copy of The Herald in all types of weather. All are interested in the progress of Big Spring.

YOUR NEWSPAPER IS COMPOSED OF PEOPLE . .

INTERESTED IN HELPING YOU TRY THEM!

Four To Hospital Following Wreck

Highway patrol officers investigated two accidents early Thursday morning.

The first occurred 17.3 miles south of Big Spring on U. S. 87 at 4:30 a.m. Patrol officers said that it involved a tractor-truck loaded with cotton seed hulls driven by C. F. Anderson, Knox City, and a second huge truck loaded with cattle and driven by L. R. Hermes of Dilley, Texas.

Hermes travelling south rammed almost head-on into Anderson, who was travelling north.

Hermes told patrol officers that he "must have dozed off for a few seconds." Damage to the trucks was minor. Anderson had the canvas cover on his load torn and Hermes truck had one fender bent. No one was injured.

Second accident was at 7:30 a.m. and was six miles south of Big Spring on U. S. 87.

The patrol said it involved a 1956 Chevrolet driven by Mrs. Mary Nelson Hassell, 19, Seminole, and a 1949 Pontiac driven by L. J. Benavides, Big Spring.

The patrol said the cars sideswiped. The impact caused Mrs. Hassell to lose control of the car and it rammed into a concrete culvert. The concrete barrier was shattered and the car plunged over the jagged cement. Patrolmen said that the entire bottom of the Chevrolet was stripped out. Benavides' car had a crushed side.

Amos Johnson and Earl Jenkins, who was following Mrs. Hassell's car, took her, Ronald Boak Hassell, 2½ months old; Thea Lynn Hassell, two years old and Mrs. Roland Hassell, 43, to the Medical Arts Hospital.

They are not believed to have been seriously injured.

Benavides was not hurt.

Rites Held For Lee Roy Ellis

Funeral services were held in Andrews at the Immanuel Baptist Church Wednesday for Lee Roy Ellis, 31, whose mother, two sisters and a brother live in Big Spring.

Mr. Ellis died Tuesday in a hospital at Hobbs, N. M., of injuries received Monday when some steel fell from a drilling rig and struck his head. He never regained consciousness. He was a member of an Andrews drilling crew and commuted daily to the rig 25 miles northeast of Hobbs.

Rev. C. E. Wainscott, pastor of the Andrews church, officiated at services and interment was in the Andrews Cemetery. Singleton Funeral Home was in charge.

Mr. Ellis was born in Davis, Okla., and had resided in Andrews for the past four years.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Barbara Gale, 10, and Brenda Kay, 8, of Andrews; his mother, Mrs. Lois Bates of Big Spring; four sisters, Mrs. Inez Thurman and Mrs. Goldie Anderson, both of Big Spring, and Mrs. Willie Mae Dewees of Hobbs and Mrs. Troy Wheeler of Odessa; and two brothers, John Ellis of Hobbs and Jack Ellis of Big Spring.

Parsons Attending P-TA Board Meet

Supt. Floyd Parsons of Big Spring schools is in Austin for the January meeting of the board of governors of the state P-TA.

Parsons is chairman of the board's citizenship committee. The meeting will continue through Friday.

Sam Anderson, coordinator of elementary curriculum here, will go to Austin Friday evening for a meeting of the Texas Association of Elementary Principals and Supervisors. He is on the group's planning committee which Saturday will map the program for the spring meeting.

Appeal For Clothing Is Issued At Lamesa

LAMESA — A low thermometer reading of 15 degrees Wednesday brought several school-age children to the Dawson County welfare office in clothes entirely unsuitable for the temperatures.

Mrs. Ruby Townsend, county welfare worker, reported that heavy clothing was simply not available at the office, and that there were no shoes for school-age children there. Mrs. Townsend asked that anyone who has used clothing or shoes that have been outgrown bring them by the welfare office as soon as possible.

Franklin's Birthday Is 'Postmasters Day'

Today is the birthday of Benjamin Franklin and is therefore being officially noted across the nation as National Postmasters' Day.

Franklin, in addition to his many other activities was the nation's first postmaster general and had served as a continental postmaster as early as 1737 in Philadelphia.

He contributed a great deal to getting the United States mail service started on its way to its present efficient form.

Other famous postmasters of early days included William Brewster of the Pilgrim Fathers, who was both postmaster and innkeeper in England before he came to America in 1620. Abraham Lincoln, civil war president, was postmaster at Salem, Ill., in 1853—long before he became the renowned public figure of latter life.

E. C. Boatler, postmaster, said that no special observance of the day is planned here. He merely pointed out that the U. S. Post Office handles 58 billion pieces of mail each year—an average of 300 pieces of mail for each man, woman and child in the nation and more mail than the rest of the entire world combined.

Big Spring, Boatler observed, handles its share of this mountain of mail and the post office here, like the postal system in general, seeks constantly to expand and improve the service it provides for its patrons.

Phillips Group Meets Here For Sales Planning

Plans for the Phillips Petroleum Company's sales promotion program for the new year were presented to Phillips company dealers and jobbers meeting at the Settles Hotel Wednesday afternoon.

Between 75 and 100 men, from an area from Fort Stockton to Snyder and Colorado City, and northward to Seminole and Lamesa, attended the session, conducted by members of the Amarillo sales office staff, headed by W. C. George, division manager.

The year's program is called "It's A Big Deal For 1957," and includes such items as $166,000 Jackpot, Citation for Service, Phillcheck, Dealer Development Program, Budget Sales, Credit Cards, Fertilizer Promotions, Philgas Program, and others designed to promote sales.

The session climaxed with the showing of a sales movie, "Fat of The Land," and a dinner for all Phillips representatives followed the program.

Sisson Heads Credit Union

A. B. Sisson was named president of the Big Spring Electric Workers Credit Union at its annual stockholders session Wednesday evening.

Stockholders approved a 6 per cent dividend amounting to $1,504.47 on 1956 business. A total of 135 attended the dinner affair in the Cosden County Club. Special awards of 15-pound hams went to H. M. (Herbie) Smith, F. W. A. Hazelwood, Ollie Mae Henry, L. N. Fulmer and Mrs. L. W. Bryson. Games and dancing followed the dinner and business session.

Other officials named were R. S. Tawater, vice president; Doug Hill, secretary; and Dean Forrest and Billy Frank Rainey, directors. Members of the credit committee are R. S. Tawater, Dean Forrest and Billy Frank Rainey; members of the supervisory committee are Hugh Duncan, L. W. Bryson and Elton Wall.

During 1956 the credit union made 117 loans in the amount of $49,454.71. Loans on the books at the end of the year stood at $32,403.71. Since formation, the credit union, chartered by the state, has loaned $154,210.69 to members. There are 177 of them and their stock value is $31,432.83.

Jaycees Slate Bosses Banquet

Big Spring Jaycees will stage their second annual Bosses' Banquet Monday evening.

Alex Bickley, Abilene attorney will be the speaker. Another highlight will be the presentation of the Big Spring "Jaycee of the Year" award to David Simms, president of the organization. Person to receive the award will be selected Monday.

Oliver Cofer will serve as master of ceremonies and will welcome the employers of Jaycees. Each member will introduce his boss.

Simms will deliver the president's annual message, and John Taylor will introduce Bickley.

Humorist To Talk Tonight

Harold C. Kessinger, humorist, will speak on "The World's Funniest Adventure" tonight before the Big Spring Knife and Fork Club. The dinner meeting, first of the new year, will be at the Settles Hotel dining room at 7:30 p.m.

Advance reservations indicated 150 members of the club will be on hand to hear Kessinger.

Houston Knife and Fork Club described Kessinger's appearance before that organization recently as "another thriller." T. Max Davis, president of the club, said that the speaker did "a brilliant job" and that he held his audience "spell bound."

NFFE Chapter To Hold Meet Tonight

A meeting of the National Federation of Federal Employes will be held tonight, having been postponed from Tuesday.

Foster Shirley, president of the group, said the meeting would be held in the Elks Lodge at 7:30 p.m.

Contract Awarded On New Pipe Line

Ernest Lloyd of Midland submitted the low bid Thursday morning on construction of approximately five miles of 16-inch pipeline in southwestern Scurry County.

The water supply line will stretch from the terminus of the Colorado Municipal Water District's 18-inch line from Lake J. B. Thomas at the Sharon Ridge unit water treatment plant to the SACROC unit take off from the CRMWD 27-inch line near the SACROC plant.

Monsanto Chemical (Lion Oil) is footing the bill for the parallel 16-inch line and will be repaid out of a three-cent per thousand reduction in rate until the advance has been absorbed.

Lloyd's bid was $101,377 for 16,200 feet of 16-inch reinforced steel cylinder concrete pipe. He contracted to complete the job within 30 days after delivery of pipe, which may be in May. Second lowest of seven bidders was R. B. Hougson & Co., Inc., Lubbock, who submitted a proposal of $102,905.25 with a 135-day completion clause. Highest of the bids was $123,003.

Total cost of the project will approximate $140,000, including meters, a pump, valves, fees, etc. Monsanto had contracted with CRMWD for $139,000 or whatever the cost might be.

E. V. Spence, general manager for CRMWD, said that the pump was on order along with valves and an additional starter.

Monsanto currently takes treated water from the SACROC plant, but the 16-inch line paralleling the 27-inch line to the SACROC plant will insure an adequate supply of water to the Monsanto repressuring unit. At the SACROC plant, the supply line is reduced to 21-inch into the City of Snyder, which commands priority on the use of water.

Contracts will be signed, probably this week, with Lloyd, said Spence.

Gay Hill Principal Named To Small Schools Office

Doyle Fenn, principal of Gay Hill School, was elected vice president of the Texas Small Schools Association in their annual meeting at Austin last week.

Fenn has served as principal of Gay Hill for three years and is active in community, school, and church affairs. He is currently president of the Howard County Schoolmasters Association, Sunday School teacher for the young people at Wesley Methodist Church, and participates actively in professional organizations sponsored by teachers, including the National Education Association, Texas Association of School Administrators, Texas State Teachers Association, Parent Teachers Association, and Texas Small Schools Association.

Before moving to Gay Hill, Fenn served as a teacher in the New Deal, Texas, schools, and had served as superintendent of schools at Meridian, Okla.

Walker Bailey, Howard County schools superintendent, and A. A. Dean, principal of Elbow School, were appointed to the executive committee of the Texas Small Schools Association.

M. H. Galbreath, superintendent of schools at Girard, was elected president of the TSSA. He has served as superintendent at Girard for seven years.

DOYLE FENN

Galbreath served on a 13-member commission to study the county superintendencies in Texas and is considered an authority on school laws. Mrs. Galbreath serves as secretary-treasurer of the Texas Association of Small Schools.

Miller Harris III, Enters Hospital

Miller Harris, sheriff, is in Big Spring Hospital, it was announced at his office in the courthouse today.

Harris became ill en route to Big Spring from the west coast early this week. He and Wes Patton, constable, were bringing two prisoners from California. Despite his illness, Harris proceeded from Tucson to Big Spring. He entered the hospital Wednesday morning.

He is said to be uncomfortable but not believed to be seriously ill.

To Lie In State

NEW YORK (AP) — The body of Maestro Arturo Toscanini, musical genius beloved by millions for more than two generations, will lie in state for public viewing today and tomorrow.

Farm Workers Council To Meet

The Howard County Agriculture Workers Council will meet at the Chamber of Commerce at 10 a.m. Friday, Wayne Smith, Chamber manager, announced today.

The group, including the county farm agent and representatives of all local farm agencies, will discuss means of coordinating their programs and exchanging information for the benefit of farm and ranch operators. Smith said the group may invite representatives of farm organizations in adjoining counties to become members of the council.

WAFB, Cosden Credit Unions Choose Officers

Col. R. D. Whittington was re-elected president of the Webb AFB Federal Credit Union at its annual meeting Tuesday evening. Other directors named were Capt. Eugene Kalnitsky, M-Sgt. Vincent Best, Mrs. Erna Lowry and Bill G. Mims. Those named for the supervisory committee were M-Sgt. James J. Phillips (two years), M-Sgt. Jerome Langston and Mrs. Ester Saunders (one year); to the credit committee were T-Sgt. Hoke Cason and M-Sgt. James Bizzini (two years) and M-Sgt. James A. White (one year).

Members voted an increase in the monthly salary of the secretary-treasurer from $125 to $200. A five per cent dividend, approximating $3,100, was voted. Net earnings of $3,467.03 were $3,159.42 more than the previous year. There were 907 shareholders with a $104,308.10 equity in the credit union at the end of the year. A total of 817 loans in the amount of $200,356.18 were made in 1956. Since organization the union has processed 1,979 loans for $236,901.93. Other officers will be named at the Feb. 5 meeting of the board.

Earlier, Cosden Employes Federal Credit Union, the oldest and largest of the local units, elected Fred Beckham, Angie Glenn, Douglas Orme and R. W. Thompson to two-year terms on the board of directors; V. A. Whittington, and E. B. McCormick, two-year terms on the credit committee and Arnold Marshall and Jake Morgan two-year terms on the supervisory committee. The board then re-elected R. W. Thompson president, E. W. Richardson, vice president and Otto Peters Jr., secretary.

A dividend of 6 per cent and amounting to $21,469.25 was ordered. During 1956 the credit union processed 747 loans in the amount of $565,322.80. There are 886 shareholders with shares of $427,217.09. Since organization the credit union has made 9,437 loans in the amount of $3,929,080.56.

Poland Still On Independent Policy Course

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Department officials were reported convinced today that Poland's Communist government is still trying to follow an independent line.

They tend to discount, as the result of pressure, Poland's joining Communist China in an attack on United States foreign policy yesterday.

This government is still giving favorable consideration to plans for making surplus cotton and wheat available to Poland, officials said.

But they recognize that political relationships within the Communist bloc are in a state of turmoil. The next few weeks, or even days, could bring developments which would change the American thinking.

The United States has given encouragement to the Polish government of Wladyslaw Gomulka, which took control last fall. Gomulka, a victim of Stalinism in earlier years, became his country's Communist party boss in what appeared to be a break from Russian domination.

But Poland joined with Communist China in a statement attacking the United States policy in the Middle and Far East and calling for "the strengthening of the solidarity of all countries of the Socialist (Communist) camp."

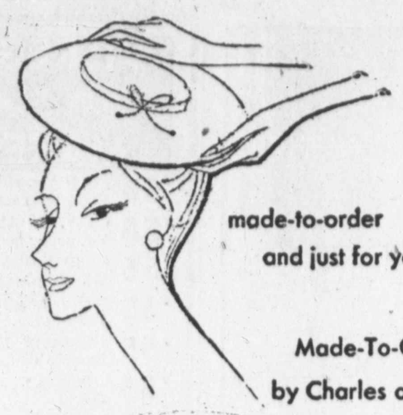

The statement was issued at the end of a five-day visit by Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai to Warsaw.

It accused the United States of trying to "subjugate" the Middle East by economic and military pressures and of threatening "the national liberation interests" of peoples in the Far East. It also charged that the North Atlantic Alliance has aggressive aims.

Presbyterians Vote Book Order Change

MIDLAND (AP)—A meeting of the El Paso Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church, U.S., voted yesterday to change the book of church order to provide for the ordination of women as ruling elders.

The proposal, approved last year by the church's general assembly, is now being considered by its presbyteries. If a majority of the 87 presbyteries approve the measure, it will be sent back to the general assembly for final action.

Texas Delegation Holds Down Powerful Committee Posts

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although outnumbered by New York and California, Texas probably has the most powerful delegation in Congress.

Texans hold many important House committee assignments, including three chairmanships. Most of the real work of Congress is done in the committees.

The power held by Speaker Sam Rayburn of Bonham and Sen. Lyndon Johnson as Senate Democratic leader also figures.

New Yorkers and Californians are widely split between the two political parties.

Rayburn as speaker has more power than any other member of Congress. Some rate the speaker of the House second only to the President in power.

In the Senate, Johnson guides the Democratic policies and is on the Armed Services and Finance committees.

Rayburn more than anyone else has the say in making up Democratic committee assignments.

Democratic members of the House Ways and Means Committee serve as their party's "Committee on Committees." They are in close consultation with Rayburn in parceling out the committee appointments. The one Texan on this important committee which handles tax legislation is Rep. Frank Ikard of Wichita Falls.

Three Texas congressmen got improved committee positions:

John Dowdy of Athens moved to the Judiciary Committee, leaving the Post Office and Civil Service Committee. He also is a member of the District of Columbia Committee.

Joe Kilgore of McAllen went to the Public Works Committee while remaining on Government Operations.

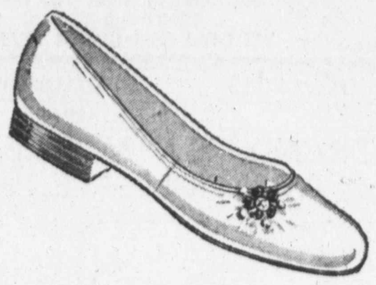

J. T. Rutherford of Odessa got a place on Banking and Currency, while remaining on Interior and Insular Affairs.

Rep. John Young of Corpus Christi got a good assignment to the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee.

Rep. Lindley Beckworth of Gladewater, back in the House after an absence of four years, was assigned to the Post Office and Civil Service Committee. He had to take what he could get, being a freshman, even though he previously had served 14 years in Congress.

Committee assignments of the other Texans: Brooks—Judiciary and Government Operations; Burleson—Foreign Affairs and House Administration (chairman); Dies—Interstate and Foreign Commerce; Fisher—Armed Services; Kilday—Armed Services; Mahon—Appropriations; Patman—Banking and Currency, Small Business (chairman); Poage—Agriculture; Rogers—Interstate and Foreign Commerce, Interior and Insular Affairs; Teague—Veterans Affairs (chairman), District of Columbia; Thomas—Appropriations; Clark Thompson—Agriculture; Thornberry—Rules; Wright—Public Works.

Arab Leaders Sense Something Big In Eisenhower Doctrine

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Foreign News Analyst

Grinning with satisfaction, a prominent Arab leader showed me a message.

It informed him the sheiks of Kuwait, wallowing in oil riches, were to contribute hugh sums to Egyptian relief after the British-French-Israeli attack.

"The sheiks were nudged," he admitted, "and this quick reply is a symptom. The sheiks, like most Arab rulers, are afraid."

The sheiks showed, the only way they knew how, that they were on the side of the Arab people—the young, the unpropertied, the frustrated, the angry people restlessly seeking change. Arab rulers, long aloof from their subjects, seem to sense danger.

Against such a background, President Eisenhower has the leaders of the Arab East listening intently—perhaps hopefully.

But they are far from agreeing.

The Arabs have heard him say the United States will resist Communist-dominated armed aggression in the Middle East and consider a new program of economic aid. The Arabs will find much wrong with this declaration — but the most significant fact is that they are listening. They seem to be saying: "Let's start from the Eisenhower Doctrine and talk."

The controlled press of Egypt, and even in a guarded way in Syria, had some words that sounded almost like cautious approval. This seems to confirm a belief held by some observers that the Arab leaders hope the United States will light a way out of their current dangerous dilemmas and get them on the road to stability.

Both Arabs and Israelis will find the Eisenhower Doctrine full of holes and objections. It leaves many important questions unanswered. It avoids obvious stumbling blocks.

But the fact that the President made his declaration at this tense moment tends to fill one of a number of menacing voids in the Middle East. In effect the President committed the United States to fight if Communist armed forces move into the area and the affected nation asks help. That would tend to plug up one avenue of danger.

Yet there are many other dangers, much more likely than open Communist aggression, and many unpleasant facts not faced as yet by slowly developing American policy.

The heart of unrest in the area is the Palestine problem. The Eisenhower Doctrine said nothing about it. But unless there can be some easing of the tension it generates, there can be no hope of making a start toward calming and stabilizing an area which can mean life or death to West Europe's economies.

Arabs protest that Eisenhower spoke only of aggression from a Communist source and mentioned no other source of attack. Other Arab critics say the doctrine centers on open Soviet aggression, skirting what is more likely to happen—attempts at indirect political and economic infiltration.

How can the United States speak of filling a vacuum without being suspected of taking over from the British and French, as the Arabs believe the case to have been in Iran and South Viet Nam?

President Nasser's own press disagreed with the Communists that the Eisenhower doctrine represented an attempt to enslave the Arab East.

Nasser, for one, has a big stake in establishing some degree of stability in the Middle East. Nasser learned from experience what he could and could not expect from the Russians. He got no bargains from the Communists. For his arms he had to mortgage the cotton crop which is the core of Egypt's economy. He paid heavily for shipments of poor quality wheat from Russia. He has involved the economy to the extent of making it dependent on the Red bloc for supplies he needs from both East and West.

Other Arab leaders — particularly those whose economies depend on oil — are aware that Europe is their only market. The Russians don't need the oil. The Arabs can't use it themselves. They have everything to lose and nothing to gain by continued chaos in the area. These leaders too are listening.

Tomorrow: Problems the doctrine doesn't solve.

Bogart Was Rarity— A True Individualist

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — They are burying Humphrey Bogart today, but his legend will live on.

What set him apart from other actors?

He was a fine performer. But there were others of his generation who were equally fine. Many of them never became stars. Many faded in their middle years.

Not Bogie. When he died of cancer at 56, he was still on top of the movie heap.

Why did he last? The answer lies in the character he created both on and off the screen.

Bogart's whole life had flavor. It was a sharp, pungent, unmistakable flavor of a true individualist.

From the start of his Hollywood career, he refused to fit the pattern. While other stars coyly sought after the press, he barked and growled at reporters. But he was viewed with affection by most of the Hollywood press.

The reason: he was copy.

"The only way to get publicity is to be an exciting enough personality. Then people will write about you," he once said.

Bogart loved to slap the face of convention. Most stars shun any mention of liquor and remove glasses from the table when they are photographed.

"I defend my American right to take a drink when I feel like it," Bogart said defiantly. Citing the proverb "In wine there is truth," he said he distrusted nondrinkers — "They must have something to hide."

One of his favorite theories was that the world is three drinks below normal. He claimed war, strife and intolerance would disappear if everyone caught up.

Bogie had opinions on everything, including politics. An ardent Roosevelt man, he campaigned for Ike vs. Taft before the 1952 convention, then came out for Adlai Stevenson. To add to the confusion, he founded what he called the Progressive Independent Reactionary party with himself and writer friends as presidents.

Bogart fascinated all of us because of his very independence. We live in a conforming world. All around are pressures to be a member of the team, to buy standard brands, to live standard lives. Most of us do so.

Bogart wouldn't conform. That's why he was great.

Oil Proration Hearing Due

AUSTIN (AP)—The State Railroad Commission holds its monthly oil proration hearing here tomorrow, again faced with demands to increase production.

Major crude oil buyers submitted nominations yesterday indicating an increase of 118,742 barrels of oil daily in February over January. Total nominations of 3,344,643 barrels compare with 3,225,901 barrels for January submitted a month ago.

The commission will take into consideration the nominations and the forecast of demand by the Bureau of Mines in arriving at its decision. Nominations were up 141,000 barrels before the mid-December meeting but the commission kept the producing pattern at 16 days.

Old Church Razed

Montreal, Que., firemen battle a three-alarm fire which gutted the St. Elizabeth du Portugal Church in the old St. Henri district. Firemen were hampered in 15 degree below zero weather in battling the fire in the sixty-three-year-old church.

Boy Jailed After Telling Chief To Go

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A 17-year-old prosegregationist who last week won his fight to enter Louisville Male High School was arrested after trying to oust a police chief from a meeting he was conducting last night.

Shively Police Chief Luther Melton said Billy Branham, who moved here recently from Detroit, was charged with breach of the peace.

Chief Melton quoted the youth as saying, "Get out that door. You heard me, get out!"

Branham was at first denied admittance to the high school when he said he did not believe in racial integration. He was later admitted but was told he'd be expelled if he actively opposed integration. Twelve other youths were arrested at the meeting hall in Shively, a nearby suburb. Two escaped while being booked at headquarters. Five of them, juveniles, were taken to Children's Center on delinquency charges and five were jailed on charges of breach of peace and drunkenness.

Melton said he went to the meeting hall after receiving a report teen-agers were meeting there. State law forbids the meeting of minors in establishments licensed for alcoholic beverages.

The officer said from 30 to 35 youths were in the hall listening to a speech by Branham.

Melton said he didn't know what the speech was about but that he heard "something about the First Amendment and Abraham Lincoln."

Melton said Branham asked what business the police chief had there. The officer said he replied he had stopped by to determine if a liquor-license law was being violated. Then, Melton said, the boy told him to get out.

School Supt. Omer Carmichael said he would await developments before commenting on any possible action by the school board.

Ike's Visit Proves Truth Of Lincoln's Statement

By SAM BLACKBURN

It's a great deal easier and a lot more fun to work on a murder investigation assignment than it is to cover a visit to a community by the President of the United States.

This reporter has had two experiences in the latter field and dozens of assignments in the former.

His two contacts with presidents of the United States on tour leads him to the conclusion that he'll run like a houn' dog if any editor should ever be so brash as to suggest he take over the job of making the White House beat in Washington as his regular duty.

What experience he has had with the chief executives of this nation also has convinced him of the soundness of an observation made a hundred years ago by Abraham Lincoln, — just a few short weeks before he was assassinated by John Wilkes Booth.

Special guards assigned to protect Lincoln were emphasizing on him the importance of his complete cooperation to "guarantee" his safety.

Lincoln told the well-meaning and deeply concerned officers:

"You cannot keep me from being killed if there is someone who hates me enough that he is willing to sacrifice his own life to bring about my death."

Each time this reporter has had opportunity to observe the President of the United States and to study the exhaustive steps taken to safeguard him, the truth of Lincoln's observation becomes more evident.

Despite all of the safeguards which are maintained, assassination of the executive would be a relatively simple thing to accomplish anytime he appears in public. The second part of Lincoln's comment is also indisputable — any assassin who made such an attempt would be captured or slain within seconds after he made his desperate play.

No one, certainly, had any idea of attempting to take the life of President Eisenhower on his recent visit to San Angelo. If there were any insane fanatics with such impulses their awareness that their own life must forfeit for their deed may have prevented their acting.

But there were hundreds of times in the brief hours the President was in San Angelo when he could have been slain by some mad man.

There were 10 or 12 thousand persons jammed along the ropes which separated them from the presidential car after the President had left his plane. It is probable that in that throng there were many persons who carried weapons. No search was made — such a move would have been utterly impossible — of anyone who came to the apron of Goodfellow Air Base that night.

There was at least 15 minutes on that occasion when it would have been easily possible for an assassin to be within 15 feet of the President. All of the secret service agents and their best efforts could not have saved the President had some maniac whipped out a gun and begun shooting.

There was plenty of opportunity on the 22-mile ride through the drought ridden countryside on Monday for an assassination attempt. True, the secret service men had undoubtedly checked out the countryside and spotted all of the more dangerous spots. Roads which fed into the highway over which the presidential party traveled had been blocked off. There were highway patrolmen stationed at regular intervals along the route.

A murderer with a high powered rifle, hidden in the brush and peering through a telescopic sight could have had many chances to do his deed, however, if the urge to kill had been strong enough within him.

What end a political assassin hopes to accomplish by his bloody deed has always been a mystery. Booth slew Lincoln blinded by the dream that with the death of the Civil War president, the South, beaten to the earth, would be resurrected. Of course this did not happen. The Southerners saw, for the most part, the rash deed of Booth had set the way for its own future to be harder, longer extended and more difficult to bear than it would have been had Lincoln lived.

James A. Garfield, president in a peaceable time, was an easy victim for the gun of a crackpot anarchist. No after developments or great upheavals in the political world resulted from the slayer's brutal crime. The only result of his deed was the death of a man who had done nothing to merit such a finish to his life.

McKinley was slain under equally unspectacular circumstances and his death achieved nothing for his murderer other than his (the slayer's) own ignoble end.

Other attempts to kill presidents of the United States have been made. There was one such attempt on the life of President Roosevelt in which a mayor of Chicago was killed.

More recently fanatic Puerto Ricans made an abortive and bloody attack on President Truman. Their foray ended, as have all political assassination efforts in this country, only in their own undoing.

There is no way to safeguard the life of any political chieftain completely. The best that possibly can be achieved is to reduce to the lowest point the possibilities of such tragedy. This is always done each time the president appears in public.

In spite of the best efforts of the trained men charged with this grave responsibility, the basic, shocking truth remains that for all their care and forethought, there is no 100 per cent method to guarantee to life of the nation's chief officer from death at the hands of some ruthless killer.

Lamesa C-C Board Hears Bleak Report On CRMWA

LAMESA — Directors of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce Wednesday morning heard a bleak report on the status of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority.

Ray Renner, who with Sam Richardson represents Lamesa on the authority's board of directors, told the directors that it appears that it is going to be a tough fight to get any federal funds for the project, and that the present water market is too small for private financing.

Said Renner, "It begins to appear more and more that we need the three cities who have dropped out since the authority was first formed. They are Amarillo, Pampa and Plainview. We know we can sell enough water to pay the entire cost of the project, but since we don't have contracts, we can't use expectations in obtaining financing."

The CRMWA directors now have decided to go back to the member cities to determine their wishes in the future of the project.

"We still have not given up, and will see the project completed eventually, one way or another," said Renner.

Fred Raney, who represented Dawson County farmers at the meeting last week of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Drouth hearing, briefed the chamber directors on the drought conferences held here, at Abilene and San Angelo.

Chamber Manager Pat Ryan briefly outlined the prospects of the proposed Lower South Plains Cotton Classing Office. He said that more than 35 per cent of the farmers had responded to the survey, and that only 20 had voted against establishing of such an office. The Chamber managers said that a survey is being conducted in each city for the necessary 4,000 feet of floor space needed to class the expected 300,000 bales annually.

The foreman of the Round-Up Club, Tim Cook, reported that the Chamber Membership is now at an all time high of 348 voting members.

Well, It's Like This

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (AP) — When officials of Laguna Beach High School set out to learn who turned in a false alarm that emptied the entire school, they found Fire Chief Homer Mann. It was like this, mumbled Mann. He was inspecting a fire box in the gymnasium yesterday, when all of a sudden—.

Directors Named For YMCA Board

YMCA members elected four new directors and returned five members to the board in balloting concluded this week.

Elected for their first terms were Mrs. Jack Irons, Mrs. Arch Carson, Bill Dawes and Vic Alexander.

Re-elected for another year were George Oldham, Mrs. K. H. McGibbon, Mrs. Lee Rogers, Leroy Tidwell and Pete Cook.

The new board will meet for the first time next Tuesday. The session is set for 5 p.m. at the YMCA.

At that time, the nominating committee will report its officer recommendations and new officers will be elected. New officers and directors will be installed Jan. 31 at the YMCA's annual membership dinner.

The banquet will be held at the Cosden Country Club, starting at 7 p.m. Jan. 31.

Lesson In How Not To Fry Yourself

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (AP)—Attractive Barbara Nelson, local actress, was recounting the virtues of an electric range during a commercial on Station KLIX-TV here when she reached for the door of the oven, suddenly recoiled and fell to the floor. The camera quickly switched to another scene. Later, an announcer explained she had received "a slight electrical shock." She was not badly hurt.

DEPUTIES UNHAPPY

County's Salary Plan Not Popular

Casual check of the Howard County courthouse indicates pointedly that action this week of the Howard County Commissioners Court on the matter of salary increases and adjustments is anything but popular.

Elective officials, who had been hoping for a 20 per cent increase in their pay checks as tentatively scheduled by the commissioners at the time the budget for the year was approved, were not too happy with the 10 per cent substituted by the board.

Deputies, who had looked with disfavor on the original plan of a flat $10 per month raise across the board suggested last September, did not regard the schedule adopted by the board at its meeting Monday as being much better. The commissioners had voted that all first and second deputies in the offices be given $10 per month increase and that all third deputies be given $15 per month more pay.

OUT OF 'HARMONY'

Deputies, it seemed, had hoped that the commissioners would see fit to adopt a 10 per cent increase in pay for them in harmony with the increase allotted to the elective officials. A 10 per cent boost in pay would have been more than doubled the $10 and $15 increases in most instances, it was pointed out.

"What good will $10 a month do?" observed one disappointed deputy. "After the deduction increase for taxes is taken out, what do we have left to spend?"

Some workers who were granted increases in travel allowances seemed to feel that the added compensation was not generous enough to meet current conditions. They point to the increased cost of gasoline and the steadily mounting demands made on most of them to travel in the performance of their duties.

NO RAISES

Employes of the highway department were not given any raises at the Monday meeting but it was said that adjustment of their pay is planned for later on when a more comprehensive study of the problem can be completed by the court.

Sheriff Miller Harris is certainly not satisfied with the action of the court in summarily dismissing his request for one additional deputy in his office. The sheriff had planned, when he took over the operation of the office on Jan. 1, to make use of the extra deputy. His staff was organized at that time on that basis.

Now that the court has refused to allow the additional aide for the second time, Harris is faced with the necessity of letting one of his workers go. He will have to reorganize his force anew in order to cover the gap in his organization.

Four officials in the courthouse are only academically concerned in what action the commission may have taken.

ANOTHER SOURCE

Walker Bailey, county school superintendent, although elected to his post just as are other county officials, gets his salary from a different source and the amount of his pay is not in the jurisdiction of the commissioners.

Charlie Sullivan, district judge, and Guilford Jones, district attorney, are paid from state funds and their salary is set by law.

Judge Sullivan has the power to name the county auditor. He has renamed Lee Porter to the post he now holds and Porter is assured by law that his salary will be the same as that paid to Mrs. Viola Robinson, county tax assessor.

If the commission had gone ahead with the 20 per cent boost planned last September, Porter would have been paid at the rate of $7,200. Now that the increase is cut to 10 per cent his pay has been increased from $6,000 to $6,600, the same as that paid to the tax assessor.

Jones' investigator, Bobby West, was given $25 a month additional pay. He was also granted a flat $35 per month travel allowance. However, heretofore, West has been paid for travel at seven cents per mile and it was said that the $35 will not be any additional benefit. Jones had requested the increased compensation for his aide.

Race Leader's Panes Broken

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Windows in the house of an integration leader were reported smashed by gunfire last night during meeting of the Negro Inter-Civic Council.

The disorder was the most recent in a long series in smouldering integration difficulties here.

About 20 white persons attended the council meeting. They were identified as students at Florida State University. They were scattered through the church where the meeting was held.

The Rev. C. K. Steele, president of the council, told the meeting that "no group of Negroes could move freely in and out of white communities as long as youngsters have been moving in our community throwing rocks and shooting guns without being arrested."

After he went home, Steele reported two windows of his home had been broken by shotgun pellets. He also said the window of a car owned by Dr. M. C. Williams Negro dentist who is the council's secretary, was smashed with a brick. The car had been parked near the church.

Gas Line Blast Kills 2 People

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Two rapid-fire explosions in a city gas line leveled a house and a two-story building last night, killing two persons. Two others were missing and believed dead. Five were injured.

Killed by the blasts and subsequent fire were Perry Traub, 40, operator of a grocery in the building, and John J. Heitzman, 61, owner of both the building and the house.

Heitzman's son-in-law Robert J. Einfeldt, about 45, and Einfeldt's son Robert Jr., 11, were believed dead in the charred rubble.

Hippo May Overturn People In Rowboat

By RAMON COFFMAN

In a zoo we are likely to see a hippopotamus in a pool of water with its huge head exposed. Perhaps it will get out of the pool and walk around a bit, or lie down on the floor of the pen.

This animal breathes air, but can hold its breath for a long time. Sometimes (with its nostrils closed to keep out the water) it sinks to the bottom of a river or lake and remains there for 10 to 15 minutes. More often, however, the head is kept under water for only a minute or two.

Hippo getting a little drink in the London Zoo.

Q. How big is the head of a hippo?

A. Sometimes it is three feet long, and two feet thick from a point above the eyes to the base of the lower jaw.

Q. Is a hippo dangerous?

A. Sometimes, but not because of any desire for flesh. It eats plant food — chiefly grass and water plants.

A hippo seldom attacks a human being. The only chance of this seems to be when a cow hippo thinks that her young one is in danger.

Much more often a hippopotamus upsets a boat in which people are riding. The bulky beast may rise under a rowboat or small launch and lift it to a point where it will overturn. The occupants swim for their lives. They are likely to escape drowning if they hold to the craft, even though it may be floating upside down.

Q. Does a hippopotamus sweat blood?

A. No. That is an old, but false belief.

What really happens is this: After the animal has been out of water for some time, a pink oil may come from its skin. The oil offers protections against strong sunshine.

One day a man at a British zoo decided to pet a hippo. No harm came to him, but he soiled one of his gloves with oil of a pink, almost red, color.

Army Reserve Unit Authorized For Big Spring

Big Spring's new Army reserve unit has been officially authorized by Fourth Army Headquarters at Fort Sam Houston, the unit commander announced this week.

Capt. Irby Fleming reported he had received word from Fort Sam Houston to officially activate. The unit is authorized a maximum of 27 enlisted men and one officer. It will be the 350th Engineer Detachment.

Prior to receiving the official word to authorize, the unit was meeting as a detached group from a Midland unit.

At the present time, there are 12 men assigned — Fleming and 11 enlisted men. The men are SFC Kenneth Jones, Cpl. Mack Gamble, Cpl. Dean McMillan, S-3C Linam Gamble, and Pvts. Melvin Bryant, Doyle Ford, Cecil Cobb, Donald Jacoby, George Seay, Sammie Merrick, and Carl Kennedy.

Another member of the unit is currently serving six months on active duty but will join the 350th when he returns.

Lt. Gene Nabors is working with the unit on an attached basis.

Capt. Fleming said that any person interested in joining the Army reserve unit is invited to attend drills or contact any of the members. The unit meets in the county courtroom every Monday night. At a later date, necessary floor space will be leased by the government for a permanent headquarters.

Oh, Boy, Pizza Pie!!!

When Mrs. Vincent Best starts preparations for Pizza Pie, the entire family wants to join in the process—so the finished product will be ready sooner. So fond of Pizza is the family, Mrs. Best says if they even hear the word, it must be served. Three-year-old Charmaine thinks that the grating cheese step is lots of fun and is always eager to help "mama." Mrs. Best says that her two sons, Vincent, 9, and Anthony, 7, are just as fond of Pizza as anyone. Mrs. Best's husband, Sgt. Vincent Best, is also a fan of the "Pizza Pie Club." The Bests reside at 2202 South Monticello.

Mrs. Vincent Best Contributes Italian Version Of Pizza Pie

To really delight your family with a dish that's definitely Italian, try serving Pizza Pie made from this authentic version. Mrs. Vincent Best, our featured cook for today, says "it's one dish that my family never gets tired of."

Mrs. Best, an Air Force wife, was given the recipe by a mutual Air Force wife who was married to an Italian. The woman's mother-in-law passed the recipe on to her daughter-in-law, and in turn Mrs. Best received it.

Although Mrs. Best insists that her family "won't touch anything else when pizza is served," she says that a tossed green salad sprinkled with Parmesan cheese and olive oil dressing is a wonderful accompaniment.

The only variation from the original Italian recipe is the use of the hot roll mix. "Of course the Italians make their own dough, but we Americans are always looking for shortcuts," Mrs. Best said.

ITALIAN PIZZA

Ingredients:
- 1 package hot roll mix
- 1 cup lukewarm water
- 1 number two can tomatoes
- 6 pieces minced garlic
- 1 pound Longhorn cheese, coarsely grated
- 4 ounces Mozzarelli cheese, sliced thin
- 4 ounces Provolone cheese, sliced thin
- 1 stick pepperoni, sliced thin
- Salt and pepper
- Olive oil

Method:

Dissolve package yeast in mixing bowl with water; add roll mixture; blend thoroughly. Cover and let rise once. Set aside and prepare other ingredients.

Grease four cookie sheets with oil. When dough has risen, divide in four parts and roll very thin. Place in pans; take tomatoes and dissolve fine with hands and spread an even layer over each portion of dough, using part of juice also. Then sprinkle garlic, salt and pepper. Next, put a layer of grated cheese, then place sliced Mozzarelli and Provolone cheeses over this. Put pepperoni, five rows of four slices each over dough.

Place in very hot oven and bake until evenly browned and slightly crisp (about 20 minutes) Serve piping hot; 12 pieces per pan. Mushrooms, sausage or anchovies may be substituted instead of pepperoni.

Mrs. Best, an Air Force wife who enjoys every minute of it, is an enthusiastic bowler as is her husband Sgt. Best. This hobby began when they were stationed in Hornell, N.Y. Since that first endeavor in bowling, both the Bests have won trophies for their accomplishments.

Mrs. Best is captain of a team which represents the NCO Wives' Club and is very excited about her team which will journey to Wichita Falls in March to take part in the State Bowling Tournament.

As a member of the NCO Wives' Club, Mrs. Best is immediate past publicity chairman of the group. She is also a member of the Three-Six Bunco Club. Dancing is a favorite pastime for the Bests, also.

Sgt. and Mrs. Best have three children, Vincent, 9 years old, Anthony 7, and three-year-old Charmaine.

Indian Art Of Cooking Is Curry

The national dish of India — if any country can be said to have one particular dish— is a pungent, exotic and spicy creation known as curry. This "salt of the Orient" is well adapted to America's and West Texas' informal entertaining.

For curry improves on standing and can be made in advance and reheated at serving time. Piping hot curry, accompanied by fluffy rice and cold side dishes, makes a complete meal needing only a simple dessert.

Suggested side dishes are chilled cucumber slices, grated coconuts, peanuts, chopped green onions, grated hard cooked eggs and chutney—all in the Indian style of serving.

SHRIMP CURRY

Ingredients:
- ¼ cup shortening
- 2 small onions
- 1 clove garlic
- 1 stalk celery
- 1 tart apple
- ¼ cup flour
- 2 teaspoons curry powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 bay leaf
- 3 cups chicken stock
- 2 pounds shrimp
- 1 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons chutney

Method:

In a saucepan melt shortening and in it cook onions, garlic, celery and apple for 8 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in flour mixed with curry powder, salt and mustard and cook, stirring, for 2 minutes. Add bay leaf, gradually stir in chicken stock and cook, stirring, until sauce thickens.

Cook over low heat for 30 minutes. Add shrimp, cream and chutney and cook for 3 minutes longer. Serve with cooked rice.

Delight Your Family With Spicy Enchiladas

A new adventure is in store for your family if Mexican cookery hasn't been introduced to them. This recipe for enchiladas, American style, is an authentic recipe for traditional chili-pepper-flavored dishes which have been the foundation of the amazing increase in Mexican food popularity.

When the cook becomes familiar with most foreign recipes, she will discover that the spices called for may be added to or taken from, according to the tastes of her family.

ENCHILADAS

Ingredients:
- 18 tortillas
- ½ cup fat
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 large can chili con carne, with or without beans
- 1 cup grated cheese
- 1 cup onion, chopped
- ½ teaspoon chili powder

Method:

Place fat in skillet and heat; dip tortilla, one at a time, in fat until tortillas are limp. (This only requires a few seconds). When all tortillas are ready, sprinkle individually with chees and onion and roll. Place in baking dish. Preheat chili and pour in baking dish on top of rolled tortillas. Sprinkle again with cheese, onion and chili powder. Bake in hot oven for about 30 minutes or until cheese is melted. Serve hot.

Chinese Recipes Call For Tasty Soy Sauce

The Chinese have many excellent cooking ideas that should be used more often. Soy sauce, one of their tastiest seasonings, is used in this main dish. Another cooking trick is the use of meat tenderizer to cut the cooking time for making the flank steak tender.

Flank Steak is an economical, no-bone meat buy. Catsup and soy sauce give the gravy a delicious, extra pleasing flavor. Strips of flank steak and onion rings simmer in the gravy until the meat is tender. Then green pepper rings and sliced mushrooms are added. The meat and gravy are served over fluffy white rice so all the gravy is enjoyed.

Ingredients:
- 1 flank steak (1¼ to 1½ pounds) cut in 1" wide strips about 5" long
- ½ teaspoon non-seasoned meat tenderizer
- 3 tablespoons cooking fat
- 3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 2 cups water
- ⅛ teaspoon black papper
- ½ cup catsup
- 2 to 3 tablespoons soy sauce
- 1 cup sliced onions
- 1½ cups uncooked white rice
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 3 cups water
- 1 green pepper, sliced into thin rings
- 1 3-ounce can sliced mushrooms and juice

Method:

Sprinkle the flank steak on all sides with the meat tenderizer. Pierce the meat with a sharp fork at frequent intervals, to help the penetration of the tenderizer. Let the steak stand at room temperature for 30 to 40 minutes.

Melt the cooking fat in a large skillet. Add the steak and brown well on all sides. Push the steak to one side of the skillet. Blend the flour into the remaining fat. Cook, stirring, several minutes. Gradually stir the water into the flour mixture. Stir in the black pepper, catsup and soy sauce. Add the onions. Bring to a boil. Turn heat down. Cover and simmer 15 to 20 minutes or until the meat is tender.

While the steak cooks, put the rice, salt and water into a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover with a lid. Leave over this low heat 14 minutes. Turn the heat off, but leave the lid on until ready to serve, or at least 10 minutes.

After the meat cooks until tender, add the green pepper and mushrooms. Cover and cook 10 to 15 minutes longer or until the peppers are tender but still slightly crisp.

Place the rice on a hot platter. Arrange the steak over the rice. Pour some of the gravy over the rice. Serve the rest in a separate dish. This makes 6 servings.

Foreign Foods Can Now Be Prepared Easily At Home

A nation with cosmopolitan taste buds is the way many persons describe the American palate. Acquaint virtually any good cook with a foreign dish she can prepare and serve easily at home, and she's ready to experiment.

Fortunately, preparation of many of these foreign foods has been simplified today, thanks in large measure to food processors who upt up some of the many exotic ingredients in cans.

Consider the growing interest in Chinese cookery of late. Many of the more popular Chinese main courses such as chop suey are now as American as fried chicken, probably because the makings are so easily obtained.

There are, for example, three new canned chop suey items which take all of the work out of chop suey. They are chop suey and chicken, chop suey and beef, and chop suey with mushrooms. With any one of these brand new products you can now serve a complete Chinese main course in less than five minutes that has the crisp texture, delicate flavor, and food value of home-cooked chop suey.

All you need do is drain the seasoned broth into a skillet; blend in 4 tablespoons of cornstarch and cook until thickened. Then add remaining contents of the can and heat through.

Jambalaya Creole Dish Of Bayous

From the Bayou country of our own Southland has come the famous dish, jambalaya. Although the culinary version probably began its career as "jambon a la ya," with jambon (French for ham) and ya (African for rice), now there are jambalayas made of all kinds of seafood, too.

NEW ORLEANS JAMBALAYA

Ingredients:
- 1 pound ground meat
- 2 tablespoons fat
- 1 cup chopped onion
- ½ cup green pepper
- 2 cloves garlic
- ½ teaspoon black pepper
- 3 cups cooked rice
- 1 can tomato paste
- 3 teaspoons salt
- 2 cups water
- 1 small bay leaf

Method:

Saute meat, onion, green pepper and garlic in fat. Add tomato paste, stir. Gradually add water, salt and pepper, and bay leaf. Simmer on low fire for thirty minutes. Add rice, stir thoroughly. Simmer fifteen minutes, add ¼ cup more water if needed. Remove bayleaf. Ham, sliced wieners or shrimp may be substituted for ground meat. Serves six.

Chop Suey Dish Eating Favorite

Chop suey is an eating favorite and especially when made with flavorful beef. This chop suey is easy to fix. Brown one pound stew beef cut into one-inch cubes in two tablespoons cooking fat. Slowly add one cup water. Simmer for 1½ hours or until the meat is tender.

Add 1½ cups bean sprouts, one cup celery cut in one-inch lengths, one cup onions chopped coarsely, three tablespoons soy sauce, one teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon black pepper. Bring to a boil. Turn down the heat and simmer until celery is tender, but still crisp, about 20 minutes.

Mix together two teaspoons corn starch and one tablespoon cold water. Stir some of the hot mixture into the corn starch-water mixture. Return to the beef mixture and stir well. Cook five minutes, stirring constantly. Serve over hot cooked white rice.

Gas Situation Calls For Action

A projected natural gas pipeline from Texas into new consuming territory will provide abundant cheap fuel to spin the wheels of industry in Florida. Ultimately, its promoters boast, Florida will "go gas" in a great big way.

From the public information bureau of the American Gas Association, New York City, we glean the information that a new annual dividend peak of $1.88 per share by natural gas common stocks at the end of December, made possible a net gain of 9.9 per cent over the preceding year.

Also, even though the weather last November was milder than common throughout the country, total sales of the gas utility and pipeline industry were up 2.5 per cent over the same month in 1955. However, for the entire 12-month period ending in November, sales were up 9.0 per cent.

We suppose this is gratifying information to the industry, but hardly consoling to producers of Texas natural gas and the people who go out and find and develop it. Federal control of gas prices at the well head places them between a rock and a hard place, and in some cases the more Texas gas out-of-staters consume the more wells will shut down because they cannot indefinitely produce at a loss, and fewer and fewer wells will be developed and hooked onto the interstate pipelines.

Congress can help some by passing the decontrol law President Eisenhower vetoed last year, hoping that he doesn't veto it a second time.

But the Texas Legislature should buckle down to a close study of the situation and do what it can to help. Texas is peddling gas to the nation, more and more of it by the year, without getting a proper return on the second greatest natural resource it possesses, close behind raw petroleum.

It is a situation that cries for attention. But will it get it?

Short-Range And Long-Range Solutions

That 4,500-mile journey of President Eisenhower through the Southwest undoubtedly proved to the President and his official party that in the region there indeed exists one of the nation's great emergencies.

Indeed, before he had finished the drought tour, Ike had issued, in Wichita, Kan., a program of emergency aid, and laid the ground work for some longer-range policies.

It is the long-range program which has to be faced. Long dry spells are nothing new in the Southwest, as every old-timer well knows. There have been many periods before when ranchers and farmers were thrown back to the brink of ruin. The current drought now can be said to be of from six to eight years duration, and the scientists are telling us that this is the worst in 700 years.

With all this experience, we never have gotten down to meeting the weather cycles on a long-term basis; have not boldly met the issue of water and land conservation.

The President's suggested new program of emergency loans, of quick conservation measures, of freight assistance and of refinancing farm indebtedness will serve good purpose, and mean the salvation of some people. At that, a $76 million dollar program in this day of billions does not sound large, and it still is an emergency proposition. What must be done is to follow through on the longer range measures.

The President suggested: range improvement and better management of watersheds, continued research on conversion of salt water; better storage and conservation of ground waters for emergency use; and more industrial development in the Southwestern area. There also has to be some retirement from grazing and cultivation. There has to be reconversion and rebuilding, a new approach to the whole agricultural economy of the region. These things have to come, even if there soon occurs another "wet" cycle.

David Lawrence

As In 1917, In 1941, And In 1950

WASHINGTON — Will history repeat itself: Will Congress hesitate to give the President of the United States in advance power to act in a possible emergency — and will there by another world war due to an enemy's miscalculation of the intent of a vacillating America?

These questions are asked because of the strange parallel now developing here with what happened just before World War I, World War II and the Korean War, respectively.

On March 4, 1917, the Congress adjourned and the resolution of authority requested by President Wilson to arm American merchant ships failed on passage because of a notorious filibuster. Just 29 days later the President was asking for and Congress was passing a resolution to ratify a "state of war" which had begun when the imperial German government sank American ships without warning. The Berlin government had calculated that America would not intervene.

On May 27, 1941, President Franklin D. Roosevelt declared an "unlimited national emergency" and on August 12, 1941, the request of the President to extend the term of service under the Selective Service Act was granted by a margin of only one vote in the House of Representatives — 203 to 202. This was widely interpreted abroad as indicating a division in America's ranks — weakness and vacillation. Less than four months later the President was asking for and Congress was voting a declaration of a state of war with Germany and Japan. The Nazi government had calculated that America would not intervene.

In January 1950, the secretary of state, Dean Acheson, announced that America's defense perimeter did not include Korea but that this would be left to the U. N. to protect. Six months later, the Army, Navy and Air Force of the United States were engaging in a war inside Korea "to repel aggression." No congressional resolution had been requested in advance and the enemy miscalculated that American military power would not intervene.

The language used by President Wilson in asking for authority to place the armed forces of the United States aboard its merchant ships in 1917 was almost identical with that of President Eisenhower in his message of January 5 this year. Mr. Wilson told a joint session of Congress on February 26, 1917, that, since adjournment was near at hand, it might take "an unusual length of time to assemble and organize the next Congress." He said:

"I feel that I ought, in view of that fact, to obtain from you full and immediate assurance of the authority which I may need at any moment to exercise. No doubt I already possess that authority without special warrant of law, by the plain implication of my constitutional duties and powers; but I prefer, in the present circumstances, not to act upon general implication. I wish to feel that the authority and the power of Congress are behind me in whatever it may become necessary for me to do. We are jointly the servants of the people and must act together and in their spirit, so far as we can divine and interpret it."

What happened? A filibuster led by "liberal Republicans," notably the late Senator George Norris of Nebraska, resulted in the failure of the Senate to get a chance to vote.

After war came, the Senate revised its rule so as to invoke "cloture," whereby two-thirds of the senators present could cut off debate. That rule was abandoned some years afterward, and it is significant that the Senate is going to debate soon a restoration of that very provision.

But the importance of this bit of history is that American misfortune has followed every conspicuous exhibition of weakness in Congress. President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles are being told today by several prominent Democrats in Congress that the requested power is already possessed by the executive and that the situation can be met by declaration of opinion rather than by an authorization to act.

To his everlasting credit, former President Truman has come out flatly in favor of granting the power that President Eisenhower is asking for. But will the other Democrats follow him, or will they whittle down the pending resolution and give the impression that the President of the United States does not have the wholehearted support of the Congress? And if this happens, will another war come as a result of such a miscalculation by Soviet Russia?

It will be recalled that in July 1939 the late Senator William Borah, "liberal" Republican, was telling the Senate there wasn't a chance of a world war and hence he didn't want to vote to give the President certain discretionary powers requested by the executive in connection with the embargo on arms. Mr. Roosevelt had told Congress he needed this legislation so as to wield America's influence on the side of preventing a world war. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee refused to act. About a month later World War II broke out.

Will history repeat itself now? The testimony being recorded this week in the hearings of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and Armed Services Committee has a familiar sound.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Midgie, a 7-month-old cross between a Dalmatian and a bulldog, may not have set a record for the most pups in one litter, but she tried.

Ronnie Padgett, Midgie's master, said she gave birth to 13 pups recently.

Ronnie's mother, Mrs. C. F. Padgett, confirmed the report.

"We thought at first we had made a mistake in counting them," she said. "But we got two boxes and counted them out from one box to the other and, sure enough, there's 13."

FAIRBANKS (AP) — It's from one pole to another, more or less, for John F. Guerrero, a former student at the University of Alaska.

Guerrero, en route to the Antarctic, wrote the University bookstore and asked for some tee shirts, sporting the words "University of Alaska," and for a school pennant.

Guerrero told Mrs. Mary Hawes, bookstore manager, that he wanted to advertise the University in the South Pole region, where he will work for the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Reds Have Troubles, Too

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reds have troubles too. This sometimes gets lost sight of in this country's concern about the Russians and their tricks. One of their troubles is emotionalism.

An example of it is in informed reports from Moscow that Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev wants to revive the Cominform which he and his friends killed last April. It was a Red information bureau created to spread world communism.

The emotionalism can work, and to some extent has worked, for the benefit of the West. But it is the most dangerous, because it is the most unpredictable element in the Russian leadership.

Stalin could be predicted pretty well: not his precise moves but his general strategy. He was a Bolshevik but he was basically conservative; he wanted to expand but cautiously.

He tried to blockade Berlin in 1948-49 to see how much he could get away with in the West. It did not cost him anything. Defeated there by this country's airlift, he tried his luck in the East by letting the Korean War start.

There is no reason to believe he would not have started a general war—but only if he felt sure of winning. And one thing he always did—with two exceptions—was to exact rigid discipline from Communist parties everywhere.

But because of these exceptions —Yugoslavia and Red China — he left his political heirs with a tattered legacy. With the defiance by Yugoslavia's Tito in 1948 and the emergence of the Chinese Reds as masters of the China mainland in 1949 Stalin lost his absolute control of world communism.

China was too big for Russia to hope to dominate it as it dominated the small satellites. The Chinese Reds now play along with Russia. They need Russia economic and military help. There's no evidence Russia runs them.

But it was with Tito—in letting him live after he broke with Moscow—that Stalin may have made his biggest mistake. By the time of Stalin's death the survival of Tito and the growth of Red China had filled other Communist parties, particularly in the satellites, with some ideas of their own.

Hungary, Poland, the disputes and dismay of Communist parties outside the Iron Curtain were all gains for the West.

Khrushchev's party Congress opens again next month. He and his coleaders will have to make some explanations for their disasters of 1956 and, no doubt, will have to lay down a new line to recoup their losses.

The emotionalism of Khrushchev and his friends is not pretty to think about if Russia suffers new reverses which nake them think they have to try something drastic to survive.

Fishing For Presidency

NEW YORK (AP)—Typewriter tattle:

A wise mother will teach her boy to fish right now—that is, if she hopes later in life he'll angle for an address at the White House, Washington, D.C.

The odds are heavy against the lad who hasn't at least learned to dangle a worm in water at the end of a pole.

The current issue of "The Fisherman," a magazine, cites these statistics:

A majority of U.S. presidents, from Dwight Eisenhower right on back to George Washington, member of the first sport fishing club formed in North America, have been more or less ardent followers of Izaak Walton.

The voters elected 14 consecutiv fishing presidents, but never have elected three nonfishermen in a row.

Calvin Coolidge bowed to tradition and apparently became a fisherman after his election.

Grover Cleveland, one of a number of presidents critized for spending too much time fishing, replied:

"Every patriotic, thoughtful citizen, whether he fishes or not, should lament that we have not among our countrymen more fishermen."

Commented President Herbert Hoover:

"The American people have respect for privacy only on two occasions: one of them is praying and the other is fishing, and the president can't pray all the time . . ."

President Eisenhower's tip:

"Caution is the most valuable asset in fishing, especially if you are the fish."

In the 1920's famous people like Bobby Jones, Babe Ruth, Bernard Baruch and the Duke of Windsor wore caps.

But from a peak of 55 million caps in 1927 production fell to 27 million in 1937, and these were mostly work or sport caps.

Why the slump? The Cap and Cloth Hat Institute says the gangster films in the 1930's murdered their business.

"Every time Jimmy Cagney threw a pie in Mae's face, he was wearing a cap," said Eugene Saunders, president of the institute. "Every crook, hoodlum, thug or murderer left a cap at the scene of the crime.

"In 1932 alone, 234 cap-wearing movie criminals were either killed or jailed. The producers should have been executed."

Mr. Breger

"He thinks he's so smart — he bet me I can't sign my name blindfolded!"

Jail Has Colorful Past, But Now Needs Replacing

COLEMAN, Tex. (AP) — There's more in the county jail here than prisoners—there are rats and snakes.

The prisoners don't like it and neither does Sheriff H. F. Fenton who has also pointed out that the roof leaks, plaster is falling, the plumbing isn't good and the vibrations from a nearby electric generating plant breaks windows as fast as they're put in.

The jail has a colorful past —filled with jailbreaks and one of the free official hangings outside the state prison.

John Pearl was hanged in the jail shortly after the jail was built 68 years ago. He was charged with killing his landlord.

A hole remains in the central room of the jail where the rope was attached. Parts of the old scaffold remain in the attic.

Citizens of Coleman were proud of the cut stone and the fine white stone trim used on the jail when it was built. The jail was a vast improvement over the earlier one from which prisoners escaped about as fast as they were locked up.

Justice of Peace Barclay Martin, 85, said the jail has been repaired and renovated. About 30 years ago it was condemned. Steel rods were inserted through the building to reinforce the rock, and the building is still standing.

As the building grew older, Martin said, the number of escapees increased. One prisoner in the 1930s was able to get out of the jail every night to burglarize the town until he was seen climbing down a large pecan tree near his window.

Fast Recovery

DETROIT (AP) — A Flint, Mich., plumber told police his argument with a cab driver turned out better than he thought.

Floyd Wilmoth said he "did the town" and, after taking a cab home, was short-changed a dollar by the driver. Wilmoth protested to no avail.

But, said Wilmoth, a second look the next morning revealed that what the cabbie thought was a dollar bill in the change actually was a $100 bill.

Around The Rim

Key To Ben Franklin's Greatness

Remembering the coldish baths on winter Saturdays, in the No. 2 washtub pulled up in front of the kitchen range I'm ready to express my thanks to old Ben Franklin for bringing the forerunner of the modern bathtub to America.

I would have done it sooner, but I just th.: hour discovered that Franklin was the man responsible. Franklin, rest his bones, was a busy man for his country. And I rate the bathtub as one of his greatest contributions.

Coming along considerably after old Ben, I nevertheless had some of the bathing experiences which must have prompted him to become one of the founders of modern plumbing in this country. Possibly you have, too.

Remember those wintry days when we rushed the washtub in from the wash house or back porch for that Saturday bath? Brrrr!

At our house, we always pushed it right up in front of the open oven door of that old wood-burning range. Then we filled it as full as we could with what hot water we could wring out of the old kettle, and crawled in.

I still shiver when I think of the old tub's cold rim against my spine as I tried to fold my legs back and forth across the bottom.

Franklin's first bathtub wasn't far advanced, but it had the tremendous advantages of being long and heated. He brought the thing from Paris.

It was shaped like a woman's slipper, with the "toe" part all covered over and the "heel" forming a seat for the bather. He still had to pour his own water, because there wasn't any piping, but Franklin could warm up his bath and keep it that way. Directly under the seat in the "heel" was a brazier in which charcoal could be burned to provide some solid, cold-weather comfort.

It must have been a joy to take a bath in the contraption, in contrast to the torture of huddling in a cold washtub. Many of Franklin's other contributions to his country may have been hatched right there in America's first warm bathtub.

With Art Should Go Temperament

This is the winter in New York when small talk always gets around to the subject of temperament in the artistic world. Oddly enough, most people are agin it. Temperament, that is. There seems to be a feeling, in this age of conformity, that Emily Post, bad cess, even applies to sopranos.

The preoccupation with temperament stems directly from the fact that the old Metropolitan Opera, which has been stuffily rocking along for years, has been wired for sound and fireworks ever since the advent this season of a prima donna, accomplished in guerrilla warfare, who shall be nameless.

So it was a real pleasure to meet Sol Hurok the other day and have him cry, "Temperament! I love it. The more temperament, the greater the artist. You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear or music out of a clod!"

Mr. Hurok, a roly-poly maestro who has devoted his life to the care and feeding of an amazing menagerie of artists of all ages, classes, nationalities and sexes, shows no visible scars.

"No one has screamed at me yet," he said, with an affable grin. "Or thrown a vase of flowers at me. And if someone did, I would simply duck. And then pick up the flowers and hand them to the pitcher."

Mr. Hurok is herding temperament pressed-down and running over at the moment. He is presenting London's Old Vic Company in Shakespearian repertory on Broadway. At the moment, he is busy chaperoning on his first visit to the United States a 14-year-old piano prodigy who is expected to repeat in the United States the sensation he has already caused in Israel, South America and Europe.

The boy is Daniel Barenboim, born in Buenos Aires before his father, a professor of music, moved to Israel to live. Daniel is the youngest musician in its 400-year history to receive from Rome's famous Academy of Santa Cecilia its coveted diploma.

"The boy could easily make $150,000 a year, but his family refuses to let him play concerts for more than a few months annually," Mr. Hurok said.

"His first appearance in America will be at the annual dinner concert for the American Fund for Israel Institutions at the Waldorf-Astoria next Monday night. The tickets for this dinner are $100 each, but we could have sold out the ballroom twice."

This fund, to which Mr. Hurok devotes so much of his time and talents, is the chief supporter of the cultural life if Israel. Despite the hardships of war and border raids, buildings to house Israel art, drama, dance, a writers' home and a press center are under construction.

"Art in every form is flourishing in Israel," Mr. Hurok said. "I believe Israel has more talent proportionately than any other country in the world. That is probably because a rebirth of freedom is always accompanied by a rebirth of art. And," added the maestro with a sly wink, "temperament, too."

U.S.-British Rift Yet To Be Closed

WASHINGTON—There should be no illusions on either side of the Atlantic that with the advent of Harold Macmillan his new Cabinet will automatically restore the close relationship between London and Washington that existed before the Suez crisis.

Too much has happened for that and too much still must be done to restore the structure of cooperation.

Nor will a visit by Macmillan put the pieces of the alliance back in place. The two old friends, Harold and Ike, meeting in the White House will want to get the partnership working again. They will be photographed, if such a visit occurs in the near future, with all the outward evidences of friendship and this will be a cheerful portent in American and in Britain.

But the painstaking effort of negotiation and conciliation on the major obstacles in the way of a full restoration of the alliance must still be carried out. Substantial progress has already been made with the negotiation of the Export-Import Bank loan giving Britain a credit of $500,000,000 to draw against. At the same time, the British treasury could requisition more than a half billion in credits in gold and dollars from the International Monetary Fund.

Macmillan as Chancellor of the Exchequer in the Eden Cabinet, had actively supported the former Prime Minister in the attack on Egypt. He had opposed the early cease-fire, realizing the dire consequences if the canal should remain blocked in Egyptian control.

And after just that occurred, Macmillan, sitting in the ruins, felt that all was lost. The fearful prospect just ahead was that the British would collapse and Britain's position as banker for the sterling area be gravely impaired if not ended.

Although it was not known at the time, Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey moved in immediately to help prevent that from happening. Convinced that it was to everyone's advantage to have Britain continue to serve as banker, Humphrey worked quietly to bolster the pound and to fend off the international speculators who were ready to move in for the kill.

Catastrophe was averted, the pound was sustained and the close working relationship that had already existed between Macmillan and Humphrey was further cemented. This will be one of Macmillan's assets in the grave undertaking he faces.

Britain has been paying out about $400,000,000 a year, a considerable part of it in hard currency, to maintain four divisions of British troops in West Germany. That will not be possible for much longer, even though Eden pledged only two years ago that those troops would be maintained on the Continent for the rest of this century. The urgent need to liquidate this commitment gives a new urgency to the problem of disarmament and the reunification of West Germany.

The most difficult test for the new government in London will come over American policy in Egypt. The trend here is apparently to restore things as they were before the British-French-Israeli attack. But if this is done, it will leave President Gamal Abdel Nasser with even greater powers of obstruction and reprisal than he has been exercising since the cease-fire. What the United States can do about him once his old position has been fully restored is not at all clear.

If Nasser continues to lay down his own arbitrary conditions for the use of the canal, Macmillan will be in a most unhappy position. The right wing of the Conservative party will blame Washington for Nasser's intransigence and there will be a new and more serious strain put on the still fragile relationship. The problem of Nasser and the canal is one of many that will not be magically solved by the new Eisenhower policy.

The new Prime Minister must get along with the right wing Tories if he is to stay in power.

His Cabinet is heavily weighted with men of the right, including Selwyn Lloyd, whom he has retained as Foreign Minister even though Lloyd was directly involved in the tragic Egyptian venture. But Macmillan also must get along with Washington, and before many months have gone by he is likely to find himself torn between the two necessities.

WAF Band Needs New Members

The Women's Air Force is in need of musicians for the USAF WAF Band, according to S-Sgt. Jimmy Howard, local recruiter.

Musicians are being sought to play the oboe, bassoon, clarinet, saxophone, bass clarinet, trumpet, trombone, bass horn, and piano. Women between the ages of 18 and 34 and otherwise qualified for enlistment may apply for auditions.

Theory Debunks Physics Concept

NEW YORK (AP)—Ten scientists have shattered a long - standing fundamental concept of nuclear physics, Columbia University reported yesterday.

One scientist compared the achievement to the late Albert Einstein's development of the theory of relativity. Einstein's theory unlocked the secret of the atom and ushered the world into the atomic - hydrogen age.

The discovery, the university said, opens the way for a whole new set of explanations of the atom, the world and the cosmos (the orderly and harmonious arrangement of the universe).

It overturned the "principle of conservation of parity" concept upon which scientists for 3 years have based their predictions on the behavior of the atom. The university said the long-held belief will now have to be abandoned in the light of the new discovery.

The parity law held that a system of matter based on right-handedness, or spin to the right, could be interchanged with a left-handed system by "reflection," as if in a mirror. The interchange or reflection, the law held additionally, would not change physical laws.

IRS Assisting Local Taxpayers

The Internal Revenue Service is making its local staff available each Monday morning to assist taxpayers with problems in connection with 1956 income tax returns.

Ben Hawkins, chief executive officer for the local office, stressed that the service is available only on Monday mornings. "We are urging taxpayers to file and pay their income tax early — to avoid the rush of the second week in April," Hawkins said.

The local IRS office is in the Permian Building.

Farmers Must File On Social Security Tax

Farmers and ranchers who hire workers on their places are reminded by Ben Hawkins of the Internal Revenue Service that social security taxes apply to cash wages paid to every farm-ranch worker to whom the employer paid $100 or more in cash wages for 1956.

"The taxes, two per cent employer and two per cent employe, apply only to cash wages paid covered farm-ranch hands," Hawkins said.

Employers owing these taxes must file a tax return on Form 943, and pay the taxes, on or before Jan. 31, to avoid penalty for late filing.

Employers of covered workers who haven't already registered with the IRS district director's office must do so at once. The registration form, SS-4, can be obtained from any Revenue or Social Security office.

Advice

Dr. Paul Dudley White, one of the nation's leading heart specialists who treated President Eisenhower, demonstrates his technique at the snow pile in Boston as he urged people over 40 without symtoms of heart trouble or excessively high blood pressure to get out and shovel snow to stay healthy. Dr. White stated that restraint from such activity of physically - fit people would turn the nation into softies.

Texas City Blast Claims To Be Paid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government plans to settle in the year starting July 1 all claims arising out of the 1947 Texas City explosion.

President Eisenhower's budget, sent to Congress today, proposes a two million dollar appropriation for further payment of claims for loss of life in the disaster.

'Toscanini' Meant Music To Millions

By W. G. ROGERS
Associated Press Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Say music to the man in the street and he at once answered "Toscanini."

Say music to the connoisseur and his answer was the same.

The man who died Wednesday at his New York home at 89 had undoubtedly the biggest music audience in the world, and on top of that, it was the most devoted and rapt.

He had conducted in his native Italy, all over Europe and in South America, and here he led the Metropolitan Opera and the New York Philharmonic. But he was best known to the widest body of music lovers for his 17 years as conductor of the NBC Symphony, created for him and, as it proved, created by him until it climbed to the summit of orchestral achievement.

Above all he believed in discipline, in the discipline of the composer's score, for which he had an inordinate respect, and in the discipline of his orchestra, which he ruled with an iron hand.

He would break batons, he would throw them, he would lacerate his musicians in the most voluble Italian. More than once in a temper at the way his men were failing to respond, he would walk out on a rehearsal—and leave his broadcaster with a big personnel bill to pay and no results to show for it.

If you sat close to the front in studio 8-H at NBC, where he conducted so many years, or at Carnegie Hall where he concluded his career, you could sometimes hear his voice above the music, and it has survived on an occasional record.

But the only thing that counted was results and he got them. There were occasional complaints from the critics, perhaps overly impressed by his high-handed methods, that he could really only play the Italian, that for instance his Brahms was not up to snuff. The truth was he had an amazing versatility and he leaves behind him, most fortunately, the one irrefutable testimony: a great mass of recordings.

His career ended with dramatic suddenness. He had always had bad eyesight and from the start he memorized the scores, endless scores in a vast repertoire. But, finally, his memory failed and he found himself forgetting. He had trouble at his last public appearance. Although there were rumors that he would conduct here or there, in Europe or America, he was seen and heard for the last time when he walked off Carnegie Hall stage and refused flatly even to step out for one curtain call in the spring of 1954.

In his letter of retirement, Toscanini wrote:

"Now the sad time has come when I must reluctantly lay aside my baton and say goodby to my orchestra."

He noted that he had thought he was "too old" when he took over the orchestra 17 years previously, coming out of a semi-retiremen to do so.

After that program, he shut himself in a private room and admitted only a friend and members of his family. He did not see his players again that night.

Since his retirement, he had spent most of his time in his Riverdale home. He did make one visit to Italy in the summer of 1954.

He attended the unveiling of a bronze bust of himself at the La Scala Theater museum in Milan.

Sadler's Wells Changes Name

LONDON (AP)—One of the most famous names in ballet became history today.

The Sadler's Wells Ballet was rechristened the Royal Ballet. Lumped in with it were its subsidiaries, the Sadler's Wells Theater Ballet and ballet school.

The new name was approved by Queen Elizabeth II, who agreed to become the patron of the combined organization. Her sister, Princess Margaret, will be president of the new group.
