STRIKE OF PACKING HOUSE EMPLOYES IS VIRTUALLY AT END

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—Messages were sent to all unions affiliated with the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America today, recommending that the strike of packing house employes be called off immediately, Dennis Lane, secretary of the union announced tonight.

The message recommending that the strike in all packing centers be ended also advised the union men to obtain their old jobs, Mr. Lane said. He added that the union executive council had decided to make the recommendation that there would be no further concerted strike action. He refused to comment, saying no statement would be issued by the union at this time.

Spokesman for the Big Five packers expressed little surprise tonight when informed the strike order had eventually been rescinded.

The strike started on December 5 after packers had negotiated agreements with employes through a plan of plans representation and after wage reductions had been put into effect, the packers refusing to recognize the unions in thir negotiations.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

By H. N. P.

Hon. Cullen F. Thomas has issued another proclamation to the people of Texas. He is opposed to the judges of the high courts who hand down dissenting opinions. This is a remarkable declaration. How would he remedy it? How would he prevent or prohibit judges of the Federal court from handing down dissenting opinions? Is he opposed to life tenure for federal judges? Would he change the constitution of the United States and make the judges elective by the people? Woud he take from the President this constitutional prerogative of appointing the chief justices and the associate justices of the Supreme Court of the United States? How would he go about it? What is his remedy? What is his scheme? What card has he up his sleeve? Federal judges are appointed by the President and confirmed by the senate. They may be impeached. Congress has the power of removal. Mr. Thomas is a lawyer. He would be a senator of the United States. He should be more explicit. He says he is opposed to dissenting opinions or judges who return or hand down dissenting opinions. There have been dissenters since Time began. There have been dissenting judges since the first establishment of courts of justice. There will be dissenters until the end of time. There will be dissenting judges until the end of time unless the regularly established courts are succeeded by mobs and mobocrats and the law of the anarchist is substituted for the written law of organized society. Mr. Thomas should be honest with the people. He should be honest with himself. He should be honest with the courts. He should not seek to destroy the confidence of the people in the judges of the courts of his country. Constructive criticism should be welcomed by all fair minded men. Destructive criticism

NEAR 12,000 QUALIFIED AS VOTERS HERE

Wichita county will have between 11,500 and 12,000 voters during the year 1922 according to an estimate made by county Tax Collector Tittle shortly before midnight Tuesday the last day on which poll tax receipts could be issued. Of this total approximately 2,000 were issued Tuesday.

Neither Mr. Tittle nor H. J. Anderson, city tax collector would make any estimate regarding the amount of city, school, county and state taxes that had been collected both stating that it would take several days to check up totals received at their offices. No attempt had been made to check the payments received through the mails the last two days It is not believed that the per cent of payments will be as high as last year.

An accurate figure on the number of poll tax receipts issued will be obtained today Mr. Tittle said. A total of 640 exemptions receipts had been issued at 11 p. m. Tuesday and the number of poll tax receipts paid for was believed to be between 10,750 and 11,000.

Of this total it was estimated that 500 were paid through power of attorney by out of the city residents. Included in this figure was 390 brought in by E. A. Dale from Electra residents.

J. H. White, 1305 Travis street, 86 years old, was the oldest resident of the county to whom a poll tax exemption was issued. Mrs. E. F. Kemp, 1911 Lucille street, 83 years of age was the oldest woman to whom an exemption receipt was issued. Others over 80 years of age to whom exemptions were issued were: W. A. ROOF OF ANOTHER LARGE BUILDING IN WASHINGTON FALLS

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The roof of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad freight depot at First street and Florida avenue, northeast, crashed in late today. Eight men had just checked out for the day and it was believed that no one was injured. Firemen and policemen immediately began a thorough search of the wreckage.

The crash came as unexpectedly as in the case of the Knickerbocker theater, the roof giving away suddenly and coming down with a deafening crash. A great mass of debris filled the interior of the structure, which is 400 feet long, forty wide and one story in height.

ORGANIZATION OF PERMANENT FAIR FAVORED

Directors of Chamber of Commerce Consider Acquisition of Fair Grounds at Call Field.

Action, to Be Followed by Organization of Association, Results From Discussion of Stock Show Plans.

Thoroughly endorsing the plans put in motion by the rodeo and livestock show interests for the acquisition of land at Call Field for a stadium and grounds for this year's rodeo and livestock show as an initial step toward a real Wichita Falls fair, directors of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce went a step further at a called meeting Tuesday morning and initiated steps for the acquirement of permanent fair grounds from the Call Field property negotiations to be followed by the organization of a permanent fair association.

The plans, as outlined in the Record News of Tuesday, call for the erection of a stadium at Call Field for this year's rodeo, to be held in connection with the livestock show and such agricultural exhibitions which can be arranged. The date, if the recommendation of the directors is accepted by the livestock association, will be set early in May.

Plans Receive Impetus.

The plans for the permanent organization received a decided impetus from Frank Kell, who when the matter was presented, declared that the time had come for Wichita Falls to start a real fair. He said that as far as the interest of himself and Mr. Kemp in the Call Field property, owned by them and J. D. Parnell and which is sought for the fair site, they would be easy to trade with. He said that street car service would be extended to the field in addition to the water, light and railroad switching service already there.

A committee composed of W. D. Cline, W. E. Norton and T. B. Noble were named to confer with the owners of the Call Field property in connection with the proposed trade, which will probably be followed by the organization of a permanent fair association, as suggested by W. F. Weeks, president of the livestock show.

Clancy Makes Suggestion.

Fog Horn Clancy, livestock and rodeo publicity agent and business manager, who had been asked by members of the rodeo and fair committee to remain in Wichia Falls Monday night and Tuesday morning and inspect the Call Field site, reported to the meeting, as well as making several suggestions with regard to the holding of the livestock exhibition. Clancy repeated his suggestion that the local show be postponed a few weeks beyond the time in March originally set in the interest, he believed, of a more successful sales department by reason of the interval.

The proposed weights and measures ordinance was read to the directors by J. M. McFall. After some discussion it was decided to take no action at this time.

BYERS MAN SAYS ROAD CERTAINTY

"With the help of Mr. Kell here, we feel that we can say positively that this railroad project will go through," declared Chairman Ligget of the Byers residents committee who are co-operating on securing the right-of-way for the Byers-Waurika rail extension.

Mr. Ligget and George W. Byers of Byers were here Tuesday for a conference with Mr. Kell.

The committee and the railroad people are preparing to condemn a right-of-way through three tracts of land, the only right-of-way still unsecured.

FIELD SAYS HOTEL RATES ARE EXCESSIVE

Reports spread by some traveling men of excessive hotel rents in Wichita Falls are without basis in fact, declared E. Stanley Field, Kansas City architect, formerly of this city, who was here on business Tuesday.

"I have found the rates lower here than in practically any Southwestern city with a hotel which can give similar accommodations," he said.

RUNS AWAY FROM COP AT JAIL DOOR

Starting to run while motorcycle officer Kinsner was unlocking the jail door P. E. Minor late Tuesday night led officers a merry chase through down town streets and alleys with several shots fired by the "laws" and finally made good his escape.

Minor was turned over to the police force by George Hawkins, special investigator of the county and district attorneys offices to be held for investigation. At the jail door Minor according to the police started his escape. Closely followed by officer Kinsner he ran down an alley between Ninth and Tenth streets.

Tar and Feathers Follow Plainview Jury's Acquittal

By Associated Press.

PLAINVIEW, Texas, Jan. 31.—Only a pair of trousers and a coat of tar and feathers tonight separated George E. Bass from the cold winds which swept across the Panhandle.

Bass was turned loose at a downtown street intersection here at 8:30 tonight thusly clad. His back was bleeding, according to persons in a local drug store, into which Bass went by command of a mob said to have been wearing the Ku Klux Klan regalia. Adhering to the thick coat of tar on his body was a card bearing these words:

"Work of the K. K. K."

The man was tried here this morning on a charge of having assaulted a 14-year-old girl. He was freed on instructions of Judge R. C. Joiner. When the judge instructed that Bass be found not guilty he at the same time declared his instructions were not given because he thought the man innocent, but because he thought he could not be convicted under the law.

The prosecuting witness reversed her testimony given before the grand jury and refused to appear against Bass.

A hostile demonstration was made in the crowded court room when the man was freed and mob violence seemed liable, but friends of Bass hurried him away to Floydada, local officers think. It is believed he was caught there.

Bass is forty years old. He and the girl with her mother, recently came here from Sweetwater. Chief of Police W. R. Johnson of Sweetwater and Deputy Sheriff W. M. Barbee of that town, appeared against Bass this morning at the trial.

He disappeared soon after showing himself at the drug store, and has not been seen since.

SOLDIER BONUS ASSURED SAYS G. O. P. SENATOR

Democratic Attempts to Add Measure to Allied Debt Refunding Bill Frustrated by Republicans.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Discussion of the long pending soldier bonus bill was renewed today at both ends of the capitol.

Before the house ways and means committee, which by agreement of republican leaders in congress re-opened hearings on the measure, officers of organizations of former service men urged immediate action on the bill and said the problem of raising necessary funds was for congress to solve.

Senate republican leaders frustrated democratic attempts to add the measure to the allied debt refunding bill. After a brief, heated debate, the senate adopted 42 to 28, a motion by Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, to table an amendment by Senator Simmons, democrat, North Carolina, incorporating the "five way" adjusted compensation plan.

In offering his amendment, Senator Simmons declared when he had proposed the bonus bill as an amendment to the tax revision measure, he had been told it was the desire of the majority to act on the bonus in connection with the debt refunding bill but now the republicans had decided in party conference the bonus measure should be acted upon separately.

Opposing the amendment, Chairman McCumber of the finance committee declared it had been decided to have the bonus bill originate in the house. He deprecated what he called the injection of party politics into the question and said he objected to adding the bonus to the debt bill because the president had declared his opposition to any bonus measure that did not provide funds for immediate payment to former service men.

Senator Watson cut the discussion short with a motion to table, stating every one knew a bonus bill soon would be passed. Several democrats protested, declaring it violated the spirit of the unanimous consent agreements.

Republicans contested this view and the point of order against the motion was overruled. The senate then adopted the Watson motion with three republicans, Johnson, LaFollette and Norris, voting against it, and two democrats, King and Myers, supporting it.

STRATA OF EARTH SHIFTED BENEATH PACIFIC OCEAN BED

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—The earth, in its dizzying whirl through space, got off center for a few moments today and shifted its "poles" or axes, to fit the new center of rotation.

Then, in order that it might not be travelling on a "flat wheel," so to speak, a few million tons of solid rock, some where off the western coast of the United States, in the bed of the Pacific ocean, "slipped" a hundred feet or so to even things up.

This is the manner in which professors of geology and seismographic observers account for the violent earth vibrations which demoralized instruments on observatories throughout this country today.

ARMS TREATIES NOW IN SHAPE FOR APPROVAL

Discussion of Submarine Issue Leads to Sharp Clash Between the British and French Delegates.

Draft of Shantung Agreement Expected to Be Completed in Time for Plenary Session Today.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Preparations to present publicly the five power naval and submarine treaties at tomorrow's open session of the arms conference were completed in committee today after British and French delegates had indulged in sharp exchange over the submarine issue.

At the same time, the Japanese and Chinese about completed their drafting of the treaty by which Shantung is to be restored to China and, it was predicted, this might be formally written into the book of conference accomplishments tomorrow.

Despite the British-French tilt, the naval committee of the whole approved in short order the two treaties by which the powers agree to limit their capital ship sea power and impose restrictions on submarine use. At the public session the treaties are to be read into the record and each delegation head is to express his government's acceptance.

Until the last minute it had been undecided whether the submarine declarations and the accompanying resolution condemning use of poison gas should be put into a formal treaty, or left in the form of a protocol not requiring parliamentary ratification. Committeemen, however, are said to have favored the latter course.

In their final agreement on Shantung, it was learned tonight, the Japanese and Chinese accepted in substance the proposal supported by President Harding, providing the Tsing-Tao Tsinan-Fu railway shall be purchased by China and paid for with treasury notes and two Japanese officials be included in the operating personnel during the payment period. The notes are to be for fifteen years with an option of full payment in five. The agreement on Japanese participation in the roads management provides that there shall be a Japanese traffic manager and that one of the two chief accountants shall be Japanese and the other Chinese. All of these officials, however, are under the authority of a Chinese managing director.

The sudden flare-up over the retention of submarines was an unexpected feature of today's naval committee session, and led to a debate between the French and the British which approached in intensity of feeling the exchange which took place when the question first came before the conference.

THREE REPUBLICANS JOIN DEMOCRATS IN OPPOSING MEASURE

Refunding of the Eleven Billion Dollars Foreign Debt Into Securities Maturing in Not More Than Twenty-Five Years Is Authorized in the Bill.

The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The bill authorizing the refunding of the eleven billion dollars foreign debt into securities maturing in not more than twenty-five years, was passed tonight by the senate.

The vote was 39 to 25. Final enactment of the measure must wait adjustment of differences between house and senate which is expected within a week or ten days.

Three republicans, Borah, LaFollette and Norris, joined with the solid democratic minority in opposing the bill.

Under the terms of the bill, a commission of five members headed by the secretary of the treasury, would have authority, subject to the approval of the president, to refund or convert, and to extend time payment of principal and interest, or both, of the foreign debt.

The date the obligation matures accepted by the commission, could not extend beyond June 15, 1947, and the interest rate could not be less than 4 1-2 per cent. Bonds of one foreign government could not be accepted for those of another nor could any part of the foreign indebtedness be cancelled.

The life of the commission would be three years from the time the act was approved and members, other than the secretary would be appointed by the president, subject to confirmation by the senate. During its life the commission would be required to make annual reports to congress at the beginning of each regular session.

Only cabinet members and congressmen will be appointed on the commission, according to Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, who told the senate today that, he knew that this was the president's intention.

Aside from the section proposing that interest on the refunded debt be not less than 4 1-2 per cent, which was added as an amendment from the finance committee, the only important change the senate made was the elimination of a provision which would have given the commission authority to settle and refund any future claims of the United States against "any foreign government."

Efforts to add a soldier's bonus provision to the measure; to limit the authority of the commission in deferring interest payments and to require congressional approval of the bond conversion agreements failed. The senate did adopt, however, an amendment by Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, requiring the commission after the conclusion of each refunding negotiation to report the results to the senate.

POLITICS SEEN BEHIND KENYON APPOINTMENT

Naming of Iowa Senator to Bench Is Declared Step in Attempt to Destroy Agricultural Bloc.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Senator Kenyon of Iowa, leader of the much discussed agricultural bloc and chairman of the senate labor committee, was named today by President Harding to be circuit judge for the eighth district. Immediately after receipt of the nomination the senate confirmed it unanimously in open session.

At the White House it was said that the president had appointed Mr. Kenyon to succeed the late Judge Walter I. Smith, because of his high regard for the senator's ability and because of the latter's known desire to have a place on the federal bench. Senator Kenyon in a formal statement later also said the president, when a member of the senate, knew of his dislike for politics and his love for the law.

In the senate, Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, after confirmation had been voted said that while he was confident the appointment of Mr. Kenyon was because of the latter's eminent qualifications, the question would raise throughout the agricultural sections if the appointment was not intended to drive a wedge into and ultimately destroy the agricultural bloc. Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, declared that with the Kenyon appointment "a drive to break the agricultural bloc," has been started.

Senator Kenyon does not plan to quit the senate until about the middle of February.

At that time he expects passage of the Capper co-operative marketing bill in which he is vitally interested and with which he has much to do as leader of the agricultural bloc.

Senator Borah of Idaho is next in the republican line on the labor committee and if the senate rule of seniority, so long established is followed in this case, Mr. Borah will head the committee. The election of the committee chairman, however, rests with the committee on committees.

The leader of the agriculture bloc may not be designated for several days. Half a dozen senators have been active in promoting the bloc's program on the floor, among them being Senators Kellogg of Minnesota, Capper of Kansas, Norris of Nebraska, McNary of Oregon and Gooding of Idaho.

Judge Edwards called for the governor's plea and C. C. LaForge, speaking for Mr. Small, pleaded "not guilty."

We have big oil wells and big people—in every way—and we have big refineries that take care of the oil from some of the big wells.—South Bend Derrick.

MASKED BAND FLOGS EDITOR IN OKLAHOMA

By Associated Press.

DRUMRIGHT, Okla., Jan. 31.—R. L. Moore, editor of the Drumright Post, was seized by a band of six masked men at 7 o'clock last night, taken to a thickly wooded spot a few miles southeast of the city and severely flogged with a blacksnake whip, police said today.

Moore said he asked the members of the band why they had seized him, according to the police, and was told it was because he had been printing radical editorials, advocating overthrow of the city, county and state government.

At 7 o'clock last night Moore, who lives on the outskirts of the city, said he was walking home when he was accosted by an unmasked man. While they were engaged in conversation an automobile carrying six masked men drove up and he was thrown into the car, he said. The machine then was driven rapidly out of town.

After the whip had been applied hot tar was poured into the wounds, Moore said.

Following this the men replaced his clothing, returned him to the edge of the city and threw him out into the street, he added, warning him to leave Drumright before dark tonight, under penalty of another whipping, according to the police statements.

Moore said he had not decided whether to leave town.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 31.—Following receipt of orders from Chicago tonight, announcement was made by N. H. Walker, negro publicity director of the local packing plant employes union, that all of the workers who have been on strike since December 5, would attempt to return to work tomorrow. He said that many of the workers already had returned to work.

The text of the order received by local Union officials from international officials follows:

"We advise that the strike in Kansas City be called off immediately. Continuance would be useless and would cause unnecessary suffering among our members."

Books, however damaged, can be repaired and missing pages replaced by special treatment, which is, however, very costly.

COURT ADMITS TESTIMONY OF ZEY PREVOST

By Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31.—A motion by the prosecution that the testimony of Miss Zey Prevost, a leading prosecution witness, be stricken out on the ground that it conflicted with her previous statements to the police, was denied today in the second trial of a manslaughter charge against Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle.

The defense charged that Miss Prevost's statements were obtained by the district attorney under threat and duress. The witness testified on the stand that she was influenced to make the statements at the district attorneys dictation.

The prosecution said no surveillance was exercised over the witnesses "until it became absolutely necessary" and no duress was ever used.

The court took the matter under advisement. Mrs. Frances S. Bates of Chicago was called in rebuttal by the prosecution. She had testified to meeting Miss Rappe while they were working in a department store and seeing her suffer three attacks of illness. The defense contends that the illness showed a chronic bladder ailment which resulted in Miss Rappe's death. The prosecution attributes her death to an attack by Arbuckle.

SEES ANARCHY RESULT OF LAX ENFORCEMENT

Major Morgan, Speaking to Varsity Club, Says Disregard of Laws Carrying U. S. to Dangerous Ways.

Law Evasions and Light Regard for Laws Among All Classes Scathingly Arraigned in Address.

Maudlin public sympathy for notorious criminals, often resulting in a pardon and escape from just punishment, to say nothing of obscuring the enormity of the crime, a state of public opinion which will enable officers to ignore the enforcement of written laws, the toleration of practices of lawyers without scruple in enabling guilty persons to escape just punishment, deluctance of good citizens to perform jury duty, reluctance of the same good citizens to appear before the grand juries and tell what they know of law violations, and the propensity of these same good citizens to joke at the non-enforcement of laws—these practices are rapidly carrying the United States of America on from a position as the most lawless country in the civilized world to an end where all of its laws will be overthrown and anarchy and destruction will supplant government.

Eloquent Delivery.

This was the message conveyed by Major William T. Morgan, nationally known lecturer and veteran of two wars to members of the University club and theire guests at their open house meeting Tuesday noon. Major Morgan's message, dealing with conditions not peculiar to any section of the country, but to all parts of the country alike, was not directed to any particular class, but to the silk-hatted violator and evader of laws at the top of the social scale, as well as the miserably clad and clothed anarchist and I. W. W. at the other end, whose particular brand of lawfulness may take the form of dynamiting and murder.

The delivery of the message, which he has carried to countless gatherings of business and professional men throughout the country, was given with a militant and forceful eloquence which carried his audience irresistably with him to the conclusion surely pointed out by the logic of his address.

Resolution Adopted.

Following his address those present unanimously adopted a resolution offered by Ben Neal declaring that the membership of the University club and the others present were solidly behind the courts and officers of the law in Wichita county for the strictest enforcement of all laws on the statute books. The adoption of this resolution was supplemented by a declaration by Mrs. J. E. Sharpe, president of the civic league, that her organization was one with the University club in this direction. The musical program consisted of two vocal solos by Mrs. Walter S. Robertson, who was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Lucile Brooks Huff.

Unusual Career.

Major Morgan is a lecturer for the International Correspondence Schools. Advertising his connection, however, had nothing to do with the purpose of his address, for he did not at all refer to it. He is a man with a varied and unusual experience, aside from his career in the two wars. He is a man who started life with absolutely no advantages, and who secured an education for himself in the school of hard knocks hailed proudly by so many successful Americans as their Alma Mater. Born in a oneroom Mississippi shack, he went to work in a coal mine near Birmingham, Ala., at the age of 11. He tended bar at night in a disreputable saloon to earn his room and board, drinking heavily and generally becoming known as a young tough. Becoming fired with ambition for an education, he strove to secure that for himself, and successively prepared himself for college, completed a college course, and a post graduate course in law. He has shown an active interest throughout his life in social welfare. Following the completion of the war period the government retained him in service in a capacity in connection with the educational section of the general staff—a work which brought him in contact with the head of the schools which he now represents.

Money Offsetting Law.

The range of subjects that Major Morgan covered in his lecture is wide and comprehensive. It covers every phase of American life. But there is no subject closer to his heart than that of law enforcement—unless it be self-improvement and education. He regards wholesome respect for the law and constituted authority as one of the foundation stones of good citizenship and before hundreds of American audiences he has struck boldly at the glaring perversions of justice that he has observed.

He declared that among the common people the impression is growing that the penalty of any statute can be avoided if the wrong-doer has enough money to secure the services of a lawyer skilled in taking advantage of defects in the statutes, misleading juries and bribing witnesses.

"How can the common people respect any law the penalty of which can be avoided by ability that money can hire?" he asks. "What hope has law enforcement so long as lawyers, instead of co-operating with the courts in dispensing justice, work to defeat it.

"America today, has the unenviable record of being the greatest law breaking nation in civilization," he declared. "A deluge of crime of every variety has swept over this nation, and unless it can be checked, dire consequences will surely result to this country.

"This crime wave is not confined to the uneducated, unrefined, illiterate uncouth masses, but is equally found amongst the educated, cultured and refined people. A cross section of American life will show that every strata is permeated with this lawlessness.

"The greatest authority on American homicides recently said, 'Human life was never so insecure in the United States as it is today, and our national apathy in this matter is an indictment of our alleged civilization.'

"It does not require a prophet to foresee the dire calamity which will come from America unless something is done, and done quickly, to stem this tide of lawlessness.

"In many cities, communities and localities public opinion is superior to the written statute and the officers of the law find it impossible to enforce the written law, because of adverse sentiment. It will be a sad day in the history of America when the universal custom prevails that public opinion is superior to the written statute. There can be but one outcome to such a condition, namely, lawlessness, anarchy and ruin!

"A statute is supposed to be, and ought to be a crystallization of public opinion. If the statute is not public opinion crystallized, or if it lacks the support of the public opinion, the one justifiable course is to obey the statute as long as it is on the books and to appeal to public opinion for a revision. The only course any good American can pursue is to keep the statute or repeal it, and thus preserve the authority of the law.

"There are those among us who refuse to obey some particular law because it interferes with our pleasures, our business or our comfort. If one citizen has the privilege of selecting certain laws to obey and certain other laws which he may at pleasure disobey, then every citizen has that same right. If this rule were put into effect American legal authority would crumble to the earth.

"One great difficulty with the enforcement of law is that sincere and honest judges, sheriffs, policemen and others engaged in the execution of the law find that the good citizens of the community will not back them up in the way in which they should be.

"Many judges, in different parts of the United States, have told me that it is almost impossible to secure the backing of the otherwise good citizens of the community in the execution of laws. Many times citizens will harshly condemn judges, sheriffs and policemen when they fearlessly and courageously discharge the duties of their office. More than one policeman and sheriff has told me how bitterly they were criticized when they undertook to discharge their duty as they were sworn to do.

"It is a well-known fact that we have judges, policemen and sheriffs in offices throughout the land who make only a farce of the execution of their duty. Many of these are in league with characters of the underworld and receive rake-offs from the criminal population, and certainly are not in position to punish those who come before them, as they should be punished.

"When a citizen of this republic knows, beyond the peradventure of a doubt, that the officers of the law are in league with the criminal element, and are not discharging their duties as officers as they have sworn that they would do, that citizen is a party to the lawlessness of the officer unless he uses every ounce of his influence to compel the discharge of the duties of the office, or the election of officers who will do so.

Dodging Jury Duty.

"Judges have told me, all over America, wherever I have spoken, that it is well-nigh impossible to get the highest type of citizen to do jury duty.

"The otherwise good citizen will not go voluntarily before grand juries to report what he knows of lawbreaking, and when he is forced to appear, many times he does all he can to shield his neighbor or his neighbor's boy from prosecution, even sometimes perjuring himself rather than tell what he knows.

"Possibly one of the greatest contributory causes to lawlessness in America is the fact that criminals can have their trials delayed and put off from time to time, sometimes for months and even years, until the witnesses are scattered or dead, and until public sentiment has died out completely.

"Nothing would deter the ordinary criminal so much as the sure knowledge that he would be on the way to the penitentiary or electric chair within ninety days from the time he committed his crime.

"Canada has the enviable record of but few cases remaining untried ninety days after the commission of the crime, and Canada's criminal record is one of the wonders of the world.

"In America if we get a criminal tried within ninety days it attracts attention all over the country for the speed with which the case was handled.

"When good citizens are determined that delays and continuances shall stop in their courts, and set themselves unflinchingly against such delays America will be the gainer.

"Inadequate penalties dealt out to law-breakers by courts influenced by the underworld has caused many to laugh at the law. It has gone to such lengths that in one American city a grown man criminally assaulted six girls, all of whom were under 14 years of age, and received a sentence of less than one year in the penitentiary.

Freeing Convicts.

"Many times good citizens will sign applications on which pardons have been secured and often inadequate penalties received, the criminal has recourse to pardon and parole boards and executive clemency. Pardons rightly given are no doubt of value in reclaiming those of society who have gone wrong, and yet the misuse of the pardoning power, by those in authority, often is a bait held out to the criminal to commit his crime.

"Thousands of men who were convicted and sentenced have been turned upon society to the great detriment and danger of society and the encouragement of the criminally inclined.

"Many times good citizens will sign petition for the pardon of a man who they know is guilty of the crime for which he was convicted, through a misplaced sympathy.

"Good American citizens will positively refuse their names and influence to secure pardons for those whom they are not sure would make the best use of the pardon when received.

Bad Lawyers Also.

"The lawyer whose legal training enables him to see defeat in the statutes of the state and to advise technical methods of circumstances or evading those statutes according to the wish of men who do not like the limits set to their liberties, is one of the chief factors that is bringing law more and more into contempt, thus making it more difficult to enforce it.

"Why respect or obey any law whose penalty has been or can be evaded by ability that money can hire.

"Among the common people the impression is growing that the penalty of any statute can be avoided by the use of a few hundred dollars to secure the services of a lawyer well skilled in such things.

"The failure of the courts to show themselves able to cope with great trusts and wealthy and influential criminals is in part due to the efforts of great lawyers employed to defeat the ends of law and justice.

"In America we have developed a maudlin sympathy for almost every criminal, especially if it be a woman, or a man of prominence. The death cell of some of the most notorious criminals in America has been completely filled with flowers and the mails loaded down with scented notes from hysterical women. In some cities in America most noted criminals' graves have been decorated as would become the grave of a national hero.

"We have developed in America a sympathy for the criminal, many times losing sight of the terribleness of his crime, until many juries recommend leniency, where nothing but the harshest treatment should be given.

"Our jails and penitentiaries have been made so comfortable and, in many of them, life so attractive, that the petty law breaker fares better in jail or in prison than he ever did before.

Blames the Voters.

"Without dulling one whit the edge of criticism aimed at unfaithful officers of the law, and admitting that political parties and their leaders are largely to blame for whatever lack there may be in enforceing the laws, all must acknowledge that the individual voter is yet sovereign in our land.

"It is the voter who gives substantial endorsement to the record of the man whom he returns, or by holding aloof, allows to be returned to office.

"It is the voter who fails to vote only for the man whom he believes will, by putting its provisions into execution, redeem the law from the discrepute into which it has fallen.

"It is the voter who silently sees others violate known statutes and does not raise his voice in protest.

"Every law-abiding citizen, therefore, should feel outraged at every perversion of justice and at every failure of officers whom he helped to elect, to make a faithful effort to enforce the laws.

"But when this law-abiding citizen placidly votes for those who have failed to do their duty, he becomes a party to their failure, no matter if they are nominees of his political party.

RONDOLIERS PLEASE GOOD AUDIENCE

Five Dixie Lyceum Bureau artists, banded together under the name of the Rondoliers, presented a very pleasing concert Tuesday evening at the First Methodist Church, South, under the auspices of the Epworth league. This program, the fourth on the series of five for this season, proved one of the most attractive of all the entertainments and was given a warm expression of appreciation by Dr. H. D. Knickerbocker.

The varied nature of the program made it especially enjoyable, each one of the five entertainers proving skilled in more than one art. Miss Charlotte Hundrey, the accompanist for the musical numbers, was also a skilled interpreter of dialect, and Miss Florence Pfremer, reader, proved she was as much at home with the saxaphone and the piano, as in interpretations of verse and prose.

Allen Kiburg played the trombone, the saxaphone and sang, and then to show that he had other accomplishments gave two whistling solos. Walter Reed, the manager of the Rondoliers, is also a violinist and cornetist of much ability.

The fifth member of the group, Robert Shepherd, cornetist, provided one of the feature numbers of the program in his "Holy City" on the cornet.

The fifth and last lyceum number, it is announced, will be presented on March 13, and will be the Bell Ringing Male Quartet.

YOUNG MAN IS BADLY BURNED AT SOUTH BEND

Walter Latchford at Point of Death From Injuries Sustained in Fire Which Destroys Light Plant.

Special to the Record News.

SOUTH BEND, Texas, Jan. 31.—Fire of unknown origin destroyed the Electric Light plant of C. E. Harroun in the heart of the town yesterday afternoon. A high wind was blowing from the south endangering the business section but through the efforts of the volunteer fire department and with good water pressure, the flames were confined to the big wooden structure that enclosed the plant.

Walter Latchford, an employe was the only person in the light plant when the fire started, as the flames leaped high he grabbed a can of gasoline and made a rush for the door, but in his haste he stumbled and fell spilling gasoline all over him. He was soon wrapped in flames but neighbors after considerable effort threw a blanket over him and smothered the flames. He was rushed to a Graham hospital where he now is with but little hope of recovery. Mr. Latchford has a wife in Quincy, Illinois who has been notified and is on her way to his bed side. Fortunately for the town Messrs. Algire and Walton who are moving their big plant here from Ivan will have it ready for service tomorrow.

Sibley-Taylor May Yet Get Street Cars

Opportunity will be given residents of Sibley-Taylor Addition to make their wishes in regard to a car line in the addition, officials of the traction company stated Tuesday.

This announcement followed a protest that residents had made against the company's announced intention to drop a plan for building a line to Sibley-Taylor, because of objections voiced by property owners on Yale avenue, the proposed route of the new line.

The company has no intention of building a line where such action is protested, it was stated, neither does it wish to deprive any section of transportation facilities, where the majority desire them, and an opportunity will be given all interested to make their wishes known.

FILE SUIT OVER TAX 'ASSESSMENT

Suit was filed Tuesday in the 89th district court against Wichita county by the Keystone Pipe & Supply company to restrain the county from collecting taxes on the basis of assessment for the year 1921. According to the plaintiff's petition the county assessment for the year of the company's property located in this county was $125,000.

It is alleged that the assessment should have been $65,000 and in asking the injunction the plaintiff company tenders a tax payment on that basis.

JURY FAILS TO AGREE ON COMMISSION

After deliberating for several hours Tuesday, a jury in the 30th district court failed to reach an agreement in the suit of O. L. Boaker against A. B. Johnson for a commission in the sale of an oil property. The jury was finally dismissed late Tuesday afternoon by Judge H. F. Weldon.

The suit grew out of the division of a commission for the sale of the Van Cleave Oil company property three years ago. The petition alleged that Boaker was to have half of a commission of $24,000.

DUBLIN, Jan. 31.—The first ceremony officially attended by the new Irish government occurred today when a solemn requiem mass for the late Pope Benedict XV was held in the Procathedral by Archbishop Byrne. Lord Gitz-Alan, viceroy of Ireland; Arthur Griffith, president of the Dail Eireann, all the members of the Dail cabinet and of the provisional government were present.

THE ACME OF POLITENESS.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 30.—Rev. Edgar M. Brown, pajama clad, answered the doorbell in person. A deputy handed the pastor a document.

"Ah, some word from my wife!" exclaimed the minister.

"Yes; divorce suit summons," replied the officer.

"Thank you," said the preacher.

"Don't mention it," said the deputy.

CORNS

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.—Adv.

MOTHER!

Your Child's Bowels Need "California Fig Syrup"

Hurry Mother! A teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" now will thoroughly clean the little bowels and in a few hours you have a well, playful child again. Even a cross, feverish, constipated child loves its "fruity" taste, and mothers can rest easy because it never fails to work all the sour bile and poisons right out of the stomach and bowels without griping or upsetting the child.

Tell your druggist you want only the genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother, you must say "California." Refuse any imitation. (Adv.)

should be condemned by all fair minded men.

Jack Abenathy, now of Wichita Falls, was at one time United States Marshal for the district of Oklahoma and the hunting associate of the late Theodore Roosevelt. The Record News carried the following story yesterday morning: "Minneapolis, Minn. Jan. 30.—Using only his blunt hands, Arthur Lener, Minneapolis, killed a large timber wolf within the city limits, the first instance of this kind for more than a decade. Lener grasped its hindlegs and crashed its heads against an iron railing when it attacked him." All this called from the nimble tongue of F. G. Swanson this sharp comment: "Abernathy has nothing on this guy." He hasn't.

Of course, the expected happened. Charles A. Culberson is a candidate for re-election to the senate of the United States. Governor Pat Morris Neff is a citizen of Waco. Hon. Cullen F. Thomas is a former citizen of Waco. Hon. Robert Lee Henry is a long time citizen of Waco. Henry is a candidate for the senate. Thomas is a candidate for the senate. Culberson is a candidate for the senate. Waco has another distinguished citizen who is not a candidate for the senate. He is not a candidate for any office, but when it comes to scholarship and democracy and patriotism and integrity, he isn't outranked by any one of the senatorial candidates. His name? George Robinson. His business? Newspaper evangelist. His vehicle for the transmission of knowledge? The Waco Times-Herald. And this is the comment of the Times-Herald "Having stood with the Wilson administration from first to last, it would seem that Senator Culberson has first call on all the Wilson men in Texas. Can you, reader, figure it out any other way? Of course, this applies to out-and-out, thick-and-thin, don't-give-up-the-ship Wilson supporters." George Robertson rejected the League of Nations. He is a caustic critic of the federal reserve act. It is not up to him to give enthusiastic support to Senator Culberson or the Hon. Cullen F. Thomas. He isn't on their side of the political fence, although he is a fighting Democrat and never deserts the reservation.

Senator William Squires Kenyon of Iowa was the chairman of the farmers bloc in the senate of the United States. He has been removed from his chairmanship. President Harding has made Kenyon a judge of the circuit court of the United States. There is a way to destroy the farmers bloc. Appoint all the Republican bloc senators to federal judgeships. President Harding knows the way. Of course, the senate has lost one of the ablest of American statesmen, but the federal judiciary won where the senate lost. William Squires Kenyon will make an ideal judge. A Republican who will not affiliate with the farm bloc will be his successor in the senate.

Congressman Harry W. Wurzbach of the San Antonio district is a Republican. He indorsed a constituent for the best plum in the district—the postmastership at San Antonio. State Chairman R. C. Creager and F. E. Scobey indorsed P. G. Lucas for the place. President Harding appointed Lucas. He recognized Chairman Creager as the plum picker. Wurzbach is a candidate for re-election. He was the only southern congressman to vote for the Dyer anti-lynching bill. He has been snubbed by the bosses of his party. He has been ignored by the President. Wurzbach is a onetime congressman.

President Harding is to pass upon Henry Ford's Muscle Shoals contract. Henry Ford isn't a lawyer. It will be impossible to place him on a federal court bench. He is a plague to the administration but how to get rid of him constitutes a knotty problem. Henry is a billionaire. He has more cash money than any living American. He is on the trail of the senators who voted to seat Newberry. He is a political hellraiser extraordinary. If his proposition is kicked aside, he will tell the people that the plutocrats advised it and millions of the people will believe what Henry says. If his proposition is accepted, then the light and the heat and the power and the fertilizer forces of America will go on the war path and threaten retaliation.

Seven men lynched a negro strike breaker in Oklahoma. They have been put away for life. Another of the lynchers refused to enter a plea of guilty, but it is a thousand to one shot that he will be put away for life. Oklahoma justice strikes hard. Fort Worth justice is a mockery. All men who are safe and sane should stand for the written law of the commonwealth and the republic and law enforcement at all times. This should be a land of law and liberty and not a land of unbridled license and anarchy.

GOETHALS OPPOSES THE ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY PROJECT

By Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 31.—General George W. Goethals, who completed the Panama canal, declared in an interview here today the proposed St. Lawrence-Great Lakes tide water project "was impractical as a seaboard project." He also said that the idea that New York is "opposed to the project for selfish motives is all bosh."

"If I believed the St. Lawrence plan to be practical I should approve it," he continued.

"I have not seen the report on this project, however, although I have written for one. In the first place, the Great Lakes seaboard project is visionary, and I wonder if the power development project really is not behind it."

FAIL RIGHT

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

(Copyright, 1921, by The Associated Newspapers.)

Long ago one wrote:

"When God would educate a man he compels him to learn bitter lessons. He sends him to school to the necessities rather than to the graces."

Another set down this:

"Failure is often God's own tool for carving some of the finest outlines in the character of His children. Bitter and crushing failures have often in them the germs of new and quite unexpected happiness."

And yet another:

"Failure is, in a sense, the highway to success, inasmuch as every discovery of what is false leads us to seek earnestly after what is true."

All these give expression, in varying ways, to a principle of progress too frequently forgotten at the very time when there is most need to remember and act upon it—the time of failure and defeat. Nor is it surprising that the tendency should then be to forget it.

For consciousness of failure brings with it, as a general thing, a humiliating, deadening sense of inferiority. Thereby the mind is tormented and weakened, rather than stimulated to face the fact of failure calmly and to ask dispassionately, "Just why have I failed?"

Yet this is of all questions the question men should put to themselves when forced to confess failure. Unless and until they do put it to themselves they cannot possibly profit from failure as they might.

If their failure has been due—as failure usually is—to some shortcoming of their own, they clearly need to appreciate this in order to avoid failure in the future.

Otherwise they will continue to make the mistakes that have brought failure as their penalty. Then, no matter how earnestly they try to retrieve their fortunes, the outcome will again be failure, simply because they have been trying without the aid of the self-knowledge their earlier failures should have given them.

In this way many men doom themselves to suffer failure all their days. Yet among them are many who, if only they would learn to fail right, might astonish themselves and their fellows by achieving success of a truly brilliant sort.

Some of the most successful of men, it is good for all of us to bear in mind, have been notorious failures in their younger days. That they nevertheless did succeed has always been largely due to the circumstance that failure did not overwhelm them, but set them thinking, spurred them to creative self-scrutiny instead of a destructive self-contempt of self-pity.

Whatever else one learns, therefore, one should make it a point to learn how to meet failure, if failure comes. This truly may be said to be among the indispensables.

Husband Wanted Her to Vamp Men To Sell Insurance Policies, Wife Avers in Petition for Divorce

Because she alleges that he was willing to "barter her charms" and called upon her to vamp prospective men buyers of insurance policies, Mary Brokaw brought suit for divorce in the 78th district court Tuesday against Jasper M. Brokaw, both former residents of Electra.

In her petition Mrs. Brokaw alleges that her husband in the summer of last year wanted her to go out and sell life insurance saying "you have a winning smile and charming personality with men. You can sell twice as much as I can."

Later she alleges the husband asked her to "vamp a certain oil man in Electra and keep him vamped until I sell him a $25,000 policy." The petition states that the plaintiff objected to being placed in compromising positions with other men in order to add to the family purse.

The plaintiff also alleges cruelty, citing an instance when her husband knocked her down upon a couch on her refusal to accompany him to prayer meeting.

Rippling Rhymes

TAX MONEY.

I've written miles of deathless song, to earn the coin in yonder sacks, and I must hand it out ere long to pay my yearly income tax. I greatly wonder where they'll go, when Uncle Sam collects those bucks; I greatly fear that he will throw my hard earned roubles to the ducks. If Uncle Sam could only see the poet in his garret bare, composing epics wild and free, that he may have a bill of fare! I buy my harps from Henry Ford in quantities, to get them cheap; yet when I've paid for bed and board the roll that's left would make you weep. I walk the floor by night and day, to find new rhymes for rhymeless words; and Uncle Sam will take my pay, and then he'll throw it at the birds. He'll buy himself a sword and gun, and build himself a submarine, well knowing how I need the mon to pay John D. for gasoline. He'll hand out money left and right to pay for past and future wars; I have to pay for every fight, yet war's a thing my soul abhors. He'll run his government in grooves that makes sane voters stand aghast; he never alters or improves the cumbrous methods of the past. Nine men will do what one might do, red tape will govern every step, and high priced statesmen still will chew their rags of cotton and of rep. I earn my dough in bitter toil. I twang my lyre the livelong day, and coin I need for gas and oil must go to Sam, to throw away.

HUNTER RUSSEL IS INDICTED ON FORGERY CHARGE

Charged by indictment with forgery Hunter Russell living in this city was arrested Tuesday by Sheriff Fred Smith. He was lodged in the county jail, no bond on the indictment having as yet been set by the court.

The indictment against Russell was returned in the partial report of the grand jury of the 30th district court made Monday. Russell was arrested on the forgery charge several weeks ago in connection with the alleged forged signature of a local resident to a check.

HOME NURSING and HEALTH HINTS

By M. JESSIE LEITCH

THE MAGIC POWDER

"I can't imagine," said the woman who was making a flaxseed poultice, "why this thing is so heavy. I've beaten it up with a spatula until my arm aches. And I followed directions so carefully, and it looks all right, except that it is so heavy. The minute I try to put it on John's chest he will say he can't stand it, and throw it on the floor."

The flaxseed poultice in the pan steamed heavily. The woman gazed at it in discouragement.

Nora, the cook, flouring her bakeboard, said:

"It does look heavy, Ma'm, as you say. But it's nice and hot. And a poultice must be hot to do any good."

"Yes, it's too hot! That's what John will say."

How She Used Hot Plates.

And Mrs. Lane, to whom home nursing was not all sunshine and roses, surveyed with disgust the poultice and the array of neatly folded towels, hot plates, old muslin and safety pins spread out on the table.

Determined to divert the conversation into more cheery channels, Nora said: "What do you be having the hot plates for, M'me, if I may make so bold?"

"To carry the poultice upstairs on. Folded in a towel and placed between hot plates, a poultice will remain hot until one is ready to apply it," said Mrs. Lane.

Just then a step sounded on the stair. The cheerful young doctor breezed into the room.

"Good morning, Mrs. Lane. I rang and then ran upstairs to see our patient. Doing splendidly. Great care you are taking of him. Tells me he is going to have a poultice. Fine. Fine." And the young doctor, who always chopped the ends off his sentences, rubbed his hands together briskly.

Wife Is Very Doubtful.

"I don't know whether it's fine or not," said Mrs. Lane, doubtfully. "This poultice weighs a ton. It is the first one I ever made and I followed directions so carefully, and I just know John won't stand it on his chest—for a whole hour." Her voice trailed off drearily.

"Heavy?" The doctor examined the poultice. "Put any baking soda in it?" he asked quickly.

"Baking soda? Does one put baking soda in a poultice?" Mrs. Lane started.

"Surely. Makes 'em light, you know; fluffy, and all that."

Nora bore down upon them with a jar of baking soda and a brilliant smile.

"Of course, baking powder would do as well, but since we have the soda—" The doctor measured a third of a tablespoon of baking soda and stirred it into the poultice, which immediately began to seethe in an interesting fashion.

Mrs. Lane Is Cheered.

He turned the foaming, boiling, hot mixture out upon the neatly-folded square of muslin which, upon a folded towel, was waiting to receive it.

With the spatula Mrs. Lane spread the mixture carefully turned in the margin of the muslin, spread soft muslin over the top, and folded it neatly beneath.

"Talk about magic! Nothing like soda. There's a poultice for you! Light as a feather. John can't object to that," said the cheerful doctor, putting the poultice, folded in the towel, between hot plates and handing it to Mrs. Lane, who had cheered up visibly.

Even Nora, filling the poultice pan with hot water that it might be easier to wash, agreed that baking soda was a magic powder.

The Psychology of Boredom

By DR. FRANK CRANE

(Copyright, 1921, by Frank Crane.)

Most of us are bored most of the time.

And the reason that we are bored is that we are human beings, fallen creatures, theologically speaking, or imperfectly developed creatures, scientifically speaking. It all comes to the same thing.

And our greatest difficulty is in our imagination.

Only in imagination can there be an escape from boredom.

For the commonest source of boredom is repetition.

The thing that we get bored with is the thing that occurs over and over. We have to get up in the morning and dress and eat, and we have to go to work and come home and undress and go to bed. So rolls the weary wheel around.

Everybody has to do this one way or another, and if some people manage to do it with gayety and get a lot of fun out of it, it is simply because they have imagination enough to make play of it.

There is no fun except in play or religion or both.

Very many of us are unable to use religion. We have it, but we do not use it—that is to say, it does us no practical good between Sundays. If we were wise enough we might have a sort of religion that would run along seven days in the week, but we are not.

Everybody could play if they had imagination enough. And play does not consist in some other kind of exercise, but it consists in carrying on the same exercise in a different spirit.

It consists in flooding the commonplace with imagination.

It consists in using our fancy to give us that aloofness in our daily task that shall make it amusing and not boring.

The trouble with most people is not that they are not serious enough but that they are too serious about unimportant things. Most things do not matter.

There are men who can carry on great and important business with all the zest of a game. They are good losers and so they are happy winners.

There are women who can accept the inevitable and the unavoidable and laugh at it. They have that eternal touch of childhood, that Peter Pan spirit, which enables them, like a sprite, to dance gleefully over waves where their less imaginative sisters are pitifully drowned.

To make a little girl happy you do not have to give her a new doll that costs a hundred dollars, for she can get more fun out of her old rag doll that costs nothing. That is because her fun comes from her imagination.

And except ye be converted and become as little children, you shall not have the slightest idea of what I am talking about.

JIMMIE SKUNK IS JUST IN TIME

After Jimmy Skunk had pulled over the big piece of bark and found Old Mr. Toad under it instead of the fat beetles he had expected he had started on down the Crooked Little Path, and as he ambled along slowly he chuckled. You see, he was thinking of what a hurry Mr. Toad had been in as soon as he had heard that Mr. Blacksnake had waked from his long winter's sleep and had asked after Mr. Toad. It had been funny, indeed, to see Mr. Toad and try to hurry.

Suddenly Jimmy stopped chuckling. Then he stopped ambling along the Crooked Little Path. He turned around and looked back, and as he did so he scratched his head thoughtfully. He had just happened to think that Old Mr. Toad had gone up the Crooked Little Path when he had left in such a hurry, and it was up the Crooked Little Path that Mr. Blacksnake had shown himself that morning.

"If he's still up there," thought Jimmy, "Old Mr. Toad is hopping right straight into trouble, the very worst kind of trouble. How stupid of him not to have asked me where Mr. Blacksnake was! Well, it's none of my business. I guess I'll go on."

But he had gone on down the Crooked Little Path only a few steps when he stopped again. You see, Jimmy is really a very kind-hearted little fellow, and somehow he didn't like to think of what might happen to Old Mr. Toad.

"I hate to go way back there," he grumbled, for you know he is naturally rather lazy. "Still, the Green Meadows wouldn't be quite the same without Old Mr. Toad. I should miss him if anything happened to him. I suppose it would be partly my fault, too, for if I hadn't pulled over that piece of bark he probably would have stayed there the rest of the day and been safe."

"Maybe he won't meet Mr. Blacksnake," said a little voice inside of Jimmy.

"And maybe he will," said Jimmy right out loud. And with that he started back up the Crooked Little Path, and, strange to say, Jimmy hurried. You know, it isn't often that Jimmy Skunk hurries for anything or any one.

He had just reached a turn in the Crooked Little Path when who should run right plump into him but poor Old Mr. Toad! He gave a frightened squeal and fell right over on his back and kicked foolishly as he tried to get back on his feet again. But he was all out of breath and so frightened and tired that all he could do was to kick and kick. He hadn't seen Jimmy at all, for he had been looking behind him, and he didn't even know who it was he had run into.

Right behind him came Mr. Blacksnake. Of course, he saw Jimmy, and he stopped short and hissed agrily.

"What are you going to do to Mr. Toad?" demanded Jimmy.

"None of your business!" hissed Mr. Blacksnake. "Get out of my way or you'll be sorry."

Jimmy Skunk just laughed and stepped in front of poor Old Mr. Toad. Mr. Blacksnake coiled himself up in the path and darted his tongue out at Jimmy in the most impudent way. He tried to make himself look very fierce. Then he jumped straight at Jimmy Skunk with his mouth wide open, but he took great care not to jump far enough to reach Jimmy. You see, he was just trying to scare Jimmy. But Jimmy didn't scare. He suddenly gritted his teeth in a way not at all pleasant to hear and started for Mr. Blacksnake. Mr. Blacksnake didn't wait. No, sir, he didn't wait. He suddenly turned and glided back up the Crooked Little Path, hissing angrily. Jimmy followed him a little way and he kept right on going.

"Oh," panted Mr. Toad, "you came just in time! I couldn't have hopped another hop."

"I guess I did," replied Jimmy. "Now you get your breath and come along with me." And Old Mr. Toad did.

RUNNING ON THE RIMS

Hester slipped into her costly fur coat and, smoothing back her ruffled hair, hurried out.

"Where's Rose?" asked Mrs. Tremaine, crossing the street to speak to her.

"She's ill again." Hester was plainly worried. "She has so much trouble with her stomach. The doctor has just gone. I'm going to make some beef tea."

"I'm going to market, too. We can go together."

They went along the block and Hester stopped before a dingy looking shop with a window plastered with bargain sheets. "I get such cheap meat here. Chicken is always 10 cents a pound less than at DeMark's," she remarked.

"I wouldn't buy at that shop——" Mrs. Tremaine paused on seeing the other's offended face. "I believe in saving my husband's money whenever I can," retorted Hester stiffly. "I know that you spend half as much again on food as I do. Your children are always running out with big oranges or those expensive red apples. I was reared plainly and taught to think it self-indulgent to eat rich foods——"

"But, don't you see," interrupted her pink-cheeked friend with a somewhat vexed amusement, "we don't pamper ourselves! Our food is always plain, but of the best quality. Fruit is not as costly as pastries and it is healthy. I haven't had the doctor this winter, because I plan the foods carefully. Well-nourished children do not take cold easily. I spoke of that butcher shop because I know they sell poor meat. When chicken is 10 cents under the average price it is because there is something wrong with the fowls; probably they were killed because they were sick."

"I see. Well, goodby." And Hester bowed distantly as she went into the meat shop filled with bargain sales.

That night at dinner Will Sawyer pushed back his plate. "I don't like this pork, Hester," he said. "It tastes queer. The meals home are not good. Do you use substitutes?"

"I market economically," retorted Hester. "Ever since we dined at the Tremaines's you've been finding fault. I try to save your money. Why I saved enough on the housekeeping allowance last year to get my fur coat. That would have cost you something, but Mrs. Tremaine stuffs the children with fruit between meals and gets expensive roasts of lamb and beef. I've seen her order at the most exclusive butcher shop, too."

"Well, you're the housekeeper." Will glanced toward his newspaper. He had planned to spend the evening reading, and he regretted the criticism that had brought down the avalanche of words. "I think good food is more important than faddy clothes, though. The Tremaine children look wonderfully well."

At 11 o'clock Will was getting ready for bed, when his wife called him. Rose was tossing and muttering, her cheeks scarlet. "I believe I'd better call the doctor. She has been getting worse all evening," said Hester.

The physician arrived, rather out of temper at being called out again in the cold. "I left you full directions this morning, Mrs. Sawyer. You have not followed my advice," he said.

"Yes, she has had her medicine——"

"I mean about food. Did you make the beef tea?"

"Yes, but she didn't like it."

The doctor sniffed at the bowl of beef tea. "I don't wonder. Where did you buy the meat?" he asked.

She mentioned the name of the untidy shop.

"That's why your children are always ill with indigestion," he commented, looking at her with surprise. "The meat is old and of poor quality. Why don't you trade at De Mark's?"

"They charge too much. We are not wealthy."

The physician shot a swift glance at the costly fur coat on the couch. "It is poor economy to skimp on good food," he remarked. "Don't you see that you cheat the butcher and grocer to pay me? My two visits today will cost you $6, without the prescriptions. Six dollars would go far in buying good, ripe fruit and fresh beef. You wouldn't run your automobile on the rims, but you'll try to fill baby stomachs with cheap substitutes. Better give Rose some tires in the form of milk and fruit and stop sending for me. She's a sick child. I'll send in a nurse for her. That will cost you $25 a week and——" He stopped talking and looked grave as he scrutinized the thermometer he had been using.

"Of course there's no danger, doctor?" Will Sawyer inquired anxiously.

"I hope not; but that beef in the broth is tainted and on top of her serious indigestion of the morning it has completely upset her. Looks like typhoid fever now."

Two hours later, when the nurse had taken charge of the sick-room, Will missed his wife. He finally found her down in the pantry.

"I'm looking over all the food," she said in response to his question. "I am throwing away this box of store cookies; they were reduced in price and I've been letting the children nibble on them after school. I see now that they are very stale, if nothing worse. No more substitutes for me. I shall never wear that fur coat again." A sob suddenly escaped her. "I saved that money at the children's cost. After this they will eat the best food I can buy and have milk and fruit between times instead of stale cookies."

Will put his arm around the shaking shoulders. "Rose will be all right. I think the doctor wanted to frighten you, but there was good sense in what he said. We wouldn't run the car on the rims to save buying tires, and to give the children food substitutes when they crave muscle-building meals would be as foolish."

Watching the Parade

By JOHN PILGRIM

I fired a man this morning. I know that he has a wife, a daughter who rolls 'em high, a small black car, and a garden in which he grows gladioli during the summer. But I fired him for all of that. He had finally worn out my patience. It got to a point where his good intentions were actually preying on my mind. Either he or I had to go, and I'm the boss.

"Did you do that trick I spoke to you about with Tom Bowles?" I asked him.

"No, sir," said he cheerily. "It's a funny thing. I've had the best intentions in the world about that trick for a week past, but somehow I just couldn't get around to it."

So then I boiled over and scolded him and chased him off the premises with a month's salary in advance and a thorough knowledge of my sentiments. He is always full of good intentions. The worst of it is that he doesn't move fast enough to catch up with 'em.

To have good intentions—and then not make good with them—is almost as bad as never having them at all. We are, for example—I mean the national WE—on the verge of bad feelings with Brazil. There is to be a centenary exposition, or something of the sort, at Rio de Janeiro in September of this year, and some time ago the United States promised to participate, and the chiefs agreed to spend a million dollars on the participation. Part of that was to go to the construction of an exhibition building which should be retained permanently as the American Embassy in Rio. The rest was to cover the cost of whooping it up.

"Lovely," said Brazil, being properly gratified. "Uncle Sam is one good hombre."

But since then we haven't done anything. Our intentions are all right, you'll understand. The chances are we will spend that million dollars on the exposition. But it takes time in which to build a permanent structure, and it takes time to stir up enthusiasm, and nothing has been done yet except vaguely to indicate that we are full of good intentions—gosh all fish hooks, but we are full of good intentions. Soon it will be too late.

I'd rather do business with a man who has no good intentions at all, I know where he stands. I can't tell whether the other sort is a pussy-footer, a procrastinator, or just a plain, cowardly, low-down liar.

MRS. SULLIVAN GIVEN MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER.

Honoring Mrs. Willie Sullivan one of the members who will leave soon for Los Angeles, California, where she will be married to John L. Jones, the Woman's "Auxiliary of the Floral Heights Baptist church gave a pretty miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. L. W. Proctor, 1303 Filmore, Monday afternoon.

The house was prettily decorated in flowers and pot plants for the affair, and an informal program furnished the diversion. Mrs. O. G. Stevens gave several piano selections; Mrs. Robert Farmer sang, "How Can I Leave Thee", and little Marion Proctor gave a reading.

Following the program, little Miss Marion wheeled in the pretty gifts for the honoree on an attractively arranged "kewpie float."

At a late hour the guests were invited into the dining room, where the table was attractively arranged with a bride and groom forming the center, and served a delicious refreshment plate consisting of chicken sandwiches, pickles, olives, mints and cake.

Tea was poured by Mrs. J. W. Loving, and those present were: Mesdames Sullivan, Birchell, M. E. Stevens, O. G. Stevens, Halford, Temple, Richardson, Yancy, Farmer, Smoot, Gwynn, Loving and Gibbs.

Leading Woman in "Chu Chin Chow"

MISS VIRGINIA HOWELL,
In Role of the Desert Slave.

In the notable cast which will play "Chu Chin Chow" at the Wichita theater, beginning Monday February 6, the name of Miss Virginia Howell, stands out conspicuously, not only by reason of her former successes here in "Ben Hur" and other productions, but also because the South is the land of her nativity. Miss Howell was born in Florence, South Carolina, and has many friends in this city. She has been leading woman for many of our well known stars, and will be remembered in many important roles in the Charles Frohman productions, at the Empire theater. In "Chu Chin Chow" she plays the desert slave, "Zahrat," the principal dramatic figure of this musical play, and has scored heavily wherever her fine art has been seen.

Another name to conjure with in the "Chu Chin Chow" cast is that of Eugene Cowles, whose part is that of the Steward "Abdullah." No one who recalls the famous "Bostonians" will fail to remember the beautiful rich basso of Eugene Cowles, or his rendering of the Armorer's song in "Robin Hood." Later he was featured with the Alice Nielson Opera company, and during this engagement scored a triumph during Miss Nielson's appearance in London. His rich bass voice is heard to full advantage in "Chu Chin Chow."

Mail orders are pouring in rapidly, especially for the opening night. The regular box office sales does not open until Thursday, February 2.

WOMAN-I-TORIALS

Honored For Service.

The four women names, recently inscribed in the Hall of Fame, are of women who have contributed generously toward the welfare or happiness of their generation. They are: Harriet Beecher Stowe, so influential in freeing the slaves; Francis E. Williard, the great temperance leader; Alice Freeman Palmer, educator, and Charlotte Cushman, actress. Other such names, dear for the service they have rendered, are Madame Curie, the discoverer of radium, and Julia Lathrop, who served for years quietly but effectively in the United States Children's Bureau.

Miss Ida Verdon, working her way up, first as stenographer, then private secretary, has now been made managing editor of the Cosmopolitan magazine.

A pitiful phase of the Chinese famine is that many poor parents have sold their children into slavery of a mild form to save them from starvation.

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS

We often confuse saving with thrift. It is not always that. It is often more economical to spend our good cash for equipment, or even for beautiful knick-knacks if they make us more "peppy" and efficient by brightening our lives.

It takes a wise head to distinguish saving from thrift. The thrifty housewife, for instance, will not waste time using an egg beater with single whippers when for thirty-five cents she can get the double kind and shorten her labor many hours a year.

N. B. This is not an advertisement.

The Woman Citizen

Investigating First.

Some women's clubs are doing a fine thing in making visiting tours to factories and public utilities to know conditions thoroughly before they lay out any program of welfare work. Welfare work is needed; and they are noble souls who give time and effort to it. Equally benevolent and intelligent persons often differ on methods and means and even what is and what is not "betterment." It is well to base all our enterprise on statistics and surveys, plus the personal touch, and common sense. Who was it said "Be sure you are right, then go ahead?"

After Independent Citizenship.

The National League of Women Voters is about to concentrate on an effort to obtain independent citizenship for women in the United States. Mrs. Richard Edwards is enthusiastic for this reform, having recently won out with it in her own state of Indiana.

At present a wife takes the citizenship of her husband. If he is an American citizen, she is; if an alien, then she is an alien. Women feel that this is unjust and that every woman should be an American or alien by her own birth or naturalization, regardless of the citizenship of her husband.

Since the cause is based on fairness and backed by more than two million women, it is a safe guess that it will speedily succeed.

Open Doors In Business

Professional Shopper.

A woman living in a city may work up a desirable business in time as a professional shopper. This is a work that requires no "plant" nor equipment and does not take one out of her home except on shopping tours.

By advertising in the magazines or daily papers one makes it known that she will make purchases for patrons. This is the chief expense except carfare to the shops and the correspondence necessary. It is a business which might grow indefinitely as one performed the work well and gained confidence of patrons and the advertising that their recommendation would give her, but it will take time to work it up to a point of much prosperity.

The Professional Shopper must know styles, the markets, the prices which are right and where to get the best bargains. She must have tact in dealing with people and be able to judge well of what they want by their description. She should prepare a detailed questionaire which will give her definite knowledge of the articles desired, and must have a safe way of making collections, as well as rules stating when unsatisfactory articles may be returned or exchanged.

To have clerked in stores is good training for this business.

TOMBSTONE STYLES TO ADHERE TO PLAINNESS

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—As in everything else, styles in tombstones have changed.

Nowadays the vogue is the small tombstone of exact proportions and plain lettering, according to delegates who addressed a meet of the Illinois Retail Monument Dealers' association. H. C. Witaker, of Madison, Wis., said:

"The public is being educated to real art in the matter of tombstones. We have come to be known as dealers in memorial art rather than tombstone dealers."

Woman Blamed by Her Family

Restless, irritable, nervous, excitable and exacting is the charge against her by those nearest, and dearest. How little they realize the struggle the overworked wife and mother is making to keep about and perform the hundred and one duties that devolve upon her! Every hour her headaches, backaches and pains drag her down until she can stand it no longer. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored more women in this condition to health and happiness than any other medicine. The grateful letters we are continually publishing in this paper from women who have found health by its use prove it.—Adv.

Fashions for Americans

The dress shown in the illustration, designed for a little girl of two to six years, is simple and at the same time very dainty and smart. It is made of a rather heavy material, such as linen, chambray, or one of the imitation linens, or it might be of natural color pongee, a fabric in high favor for children's dresses for the coming spring and summer. Cross-stitch embroidery in contrasting color is the only trimming used. The dress fastens in the center back. A hat to match would be smart.

An unusually interesting little dress for a child of four, seen recently, was made of tan-colored heavy cotton crepe. The yoke and sleeves were attached to the dress proper by means of crocheting done in brown wool. The hem was cut apart from the skirt and then fastened back with the crocheting. A very simple stitch was used, of course, so that the general effect was that of hemstitching done with wool floss.

A clever party dress for a small girl, shown by the same designer, was of pale pink crepe de Chine, made on lines as simple as the model shown in today's sketch. The sleeves were ruffled almost to the shoulder with half-inch white Val. lace, and the same trimming was used about the skirt and bloomers. With this dress was worn a pink taffeta hat with a flower streamer at one side. The crown and upper brim were covered entirely with narrow taffeta ruffles, only slightly gathered, but pinked or scalloped, so that a flower petal effect was suggested.

Another particularly dainty hat for a child was of pink crepe de Chine, the crown being tam-shaped. The straight brim was finished with a silk fringe, and on both brim and crown motifs of embroidery were done in gray wool.

THE PROP

By CAROLYN BEECHER

CHAPTER LXVI.

It occurred to Ruth that Robert Turnbull's silence was eloquent of the inherent generosity of the man. She found herself regarding him critically at times. Finally she concluded he had decided to take her at her word—that she had no desire to marry and so would not urge her again. Yet he was still her very good friend.

There fell upon her a serenity of peace, and with it a realization of how much this man's friendship meant to her. How she would miss it were it withdrawn!

"You see, don't you," Ruth once had said to Sam, "that a woman may think as a man thinks, and yet be whole-heartedly and tenderly feminine." They had been discussing Selma Thornton and Laura Haynes.

"I know you can. I've watched you at the office the few times I have seen you there, and I have watched you at home and with Mr. Turnbull."

Ruth was a bit startled at this perspicacity on her brother's part. She did not realize that her relations with Robert Turnbull—since she felt sure he would ask only friendship of her—had definitely changed; that she was gentler with him, more appealing, more feminine. It was almost as if she were trying to make up to him for refusing to marry him; that she wanted to show her gratitude that he remained her friend.

Robert Turnbull realized dimly that to be a successful husband of a wage-earning wife, especially a highly successful business woman, would not be easy. If he could persuade Ruth to give up her work, the position he himself had been instrumental in securing for her, and then after a time he failed to make her happy and contented she would naturally regret her choice and perhaps be unable for some reason to pick up the threads of business again. Ruth had said all this to him, and more, when he had urged her to marry him.

She had spoken of the disappointment a man might feel if a woman retained her position in business. That he might resent the lack of domesticity; the loneliness about his home, lacking her presence.

He had in each case tried to laugh away her arguments, the while he felt their force. He wanted Ruth, her time, her thought, her love. If she remained in the responsible position she now occupied he would perhaps have a certain modicum of all these things—but that would be all.

It was the irony of fate that he, the man who had helped place her where she was, should be the only man who had tried to decoy her into leaving her work. He had told her he was willing that she should go on with it, but had said it in so half-hearted a way she had laughed in spite of her distress.

"If I can't have you any other way I will not interfere with what you want to do," he had said.

"No, you would not be happy, nor content. Then I should not be able to put my mind either upon your affairs, or my work—to concentrate. No, Robert, it wouldn't do. Outside responsibility and making a home do not go together."

"Do you mean to tell me that you think all business women should remain single? All those girls you yourself employ?"

"No, indeed! But, Robert, can you not see the difference in a little typist marrying and a woman who has proven her ability? Women have had a long, laborious climb to prove themselves capable of reaching the top in the business world. We are few as yet, but every one of us who persists to the end, not allowing anything to interfere with our ambitions, is hewing the way, making it easier for other women to follow. And don't look like that, Robert. I love my work, as you know. I should not be happy away from it. It is the fulfilled dream of my whole life."

"Let others 'hew the way,' as you say, Ruth, and you come to me."

"Please, Robert!"

"Very well, I'll say no more, dear friend. But with your dear woman's nature, I doubt if business will always satisfy all your cravings." To himself he said: "When that time comes I shall be there—waiting."

As Ruth listened to him, the love she felt surged through her, almost compelling her to yield to him; to say she would give up all she had striven so hard to attain, if only they were together. Her dark eyes were wet and beautiful with the mist of unshed tears. It seemed to Robert Turnbull, as he looked at her, that he could read in that moment of emotion everything he desired in life. Then suddenly she smiled and said gayly:

"It is a wonderful thing in life to have a friend, more wonderful than any other association, even though it may be a closer one as regards to personal contact. We are friends, you and I, Robert. To me that means more than you will ever know."

"And to me, Ruth, it is a constant joy, even though I do long for the closer relationship. There is no room in my life or heart for another woman, and were I deprived of your friendship I should be poor indeed."

After this conversation Robert Turnbull did not again mention his love, his wish that Ruth marry him; but unobtrusively, quietly, he made himself necessary to her in their leisure hours—and waited.

(To be continued.)

Summer holidays at different times for the London elementary schools are again suggested as a means of relieving the traffic congestion.

In China all land belongs to the state, and a trifling sum per acre, scarcely altered through long centuries, is paid as rent.

"I had a bad case of tetter on my hands. It first began by small, white blisters, appearing between my fingers, and kept spreading until it covered the backs of my hands. When the blisters were opened they ran clear water, and they itched and burned all the time. My hands would crack open, and I could not bear to place them in hot water.

"I tried everything but nothing did any good until I used Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment, when my hands were healed." (Signed) Miss Lillie Hardin, Knifley, Kentucky.

GAINES VS. METHODISTS AND TEXHOMA VS. K. OF C. IS TONIGHT'S CAGE MENU

Tonight's engagements should prove to be real treats for the basketball fans of this city, as they will see two of the contenders for the "Doc" Landon Trophy clash to see which gets the long end of the count and break the tie. The second number on the menu between the Irish Knights and the Motor boys will determine whether the Oil Magntes still hold the cellar or if they will send the Knights another notch down the ladder.

The Gaines and Methodist fives are in splendid shape judging by their showings of the past week. Gaines turned the tables and won after a close struggle from the Knights, while the Methodists had the heavy University club leaders on their heads for the last half of a terrific contest; but the counters of the first period won them the game. Shaw and Seyler will probably hold the forward positions for Gaines, with Meade and Neale of the Methodists to see that they find the basket as little as possible. "Doc" Peterson of Gaines will try to out jump "Lanky" Baldwin, and Milt Gaines and Bergerson will keep Captain Neal of the Methodist cagers and Reid closely covered.

Ed Wilson, captain of the Sons of Erin, says that all his collegues will be in tip-top condition and he doubts that the Oilers can stop them. The Coffey brothers will deal the Texhoma forwards, Stiles and McKechney, enough misery on their shots, while if Beck or Norris can outjump and stay with Faichney, they will have to "whoop" up. If Stinson and Hale keep the ball from Wilson and Kubecha's end of the court, will be well worth witnessing.

SIX PLAYERS ADDED TO THE GIANT ROSTER

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Signed contracts of six players, four of them new men, have been received at the offices of the New York Giants, the club announced today. Eighteen Giants now are under contract for 1922.

Alex Gaston and Virgil Barnes were the old men to send in their signed papers. The others were Frank Samide, catcher of Denver, Colo.; Floyd Brown, also a backstop from Logan, Iowa, and Glenn Shores of Independence, Kan., and John Albertson of Montrose, S. D., right handed pitchers.

Virgil Barnes is a brother of Jess, the Circleville, Kan., hurler, who played a hero role for the Giants in the last world's series. Virgil is a right handed pitcher. With Gaston he forms what McGraw calls his "pony battery."

All these youngsters will undoubtedly be assigned to the recruit squad, for which five games have so far been booked. The underlings will play at Beaumont, Texas, March 18 and 19.

S'FUNNY WHY THEY HATE TO SIGN UP WITH CONNIE MACK

By Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31.—Connie Mack, whose Philadelphia Athletics have been finishing last in the American league race for a number of years, said today he must have the most wonderful ball club in the country. Judging by the letters he is receiving from his unsigned players. He is having trouble in persuading many of them to sign contracts. Some are asking double what they received last year. Many of the other clubs are having trouble, Mack asserted, but will not admit it.

Lorch Play This Week Is Pleasing

"The Un-Kissed Bride" presented Tuesday night at the Wichita theater as the fourth of the Theodore Lorch stock company offerings, proved to be the most entertaining and humorous production yet staged by the company. The play is a comedy sparkling with wit throughout, and kept the audience in an uproar of laughter from beginning to end. It is a farce of a new sort with enough of the love interest to make it doubly attractive and made a decided hit with a fair sized audience which ventured out despite the inclement weather.

The story centers around the importance of the marriage of a young man in order that he may be presented with a large fortune from his eccentric old uncle who refuses to give the money until the nephew introduces him to his wife. To accomplish this before the arrival of the august relative, the young man asks the girl with whom he has been going all winter to marry him, and on her refusal, finally succeeds in securing a stenographer to play the part for a share of the fortune. His delemma and the many embarrassing positions which the entire party are placed proved evtremely funny.

Fred Ware in the role of the nephew, Fred Forrest, heaped new honors upon himself as a comedian, as did Miss Lillian Beneke as Kitty Blake, the Un-Kissed Bride. Miss Ida Mantell in the part of Lily, the foreign house maid, proved herself a comedienne of exceptional ability. Harold Hutchinson also did good work in the role of the best friend to the groom, who always had too much to drink. These artists were ably supported by other members of the cast, all parts being exceptionally well handled.

The scenery and stage settings were especially pleasing.

WOODWARD IS AGAIN LEADER IN GUN SHOOT

Tris Speaker Turns in Score of 170 as Compared With His Mark of 179 of the Day Before.

By Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Texas, Jan. 31.—E. F. Woodward of Houston, again led the field at the second regular day at the Sunny South handicap shoot with a score of 199 out of a possible 200. Monday he turned in the same score, making a total of 398 targets broken out of a possible 400 and an average for the two days of .995. W. H. Herr of Guthrie, Oklahoma, who was tied with Woodward Monday, came through with a score of 198 making a total of 397 targets broken out of a possible 400.

Sam Sharman of Salt Lake City was the winner of the Hazard doubles trophy, Frank Troeh, who won it Monday, having thrown it into competition again. Twelve shooters competed. Sharman broke 45 targets out of a possible 50 pairs. Frank Troeh, who held the cup, was second with 93. Forest McNeir of Houston finished third with 92.

McNeir was also well up towards the top in the singles, breaking 197 targets. Woodward had the high run for the day with 125. Herr and McNeir had runs of 100 each.

C. G. Spencer of St. Louis was high professional with 194.

Tris Speaker turned in a score of 170 compared to his score of 179 the day before. Mrs. Fred Etchin broke 157 targets compared with 169 shattered Monday.

B. W. Colbert of Commanche, Texas, one of the youngest gunners in the shoot, despite the handicap of a sore leg and after getting away to a bad start, came through in great style and finished with a score of 193, going straight for his last 100 targets.

A steady drizzle bothered the shooters practically all the afternoon.

First Governor Of Territorial Oklahoma Dead

By Associated Press.

BENTONVILLE, Ark., Jan. 31.—W. C. Renfrow of Miami, Okla., the first territorial governor of Oklahoma, died suddenly in the lobby of a hotel here late today.

He was overcome while sitting in a chair, and expired before physicians reached the hotel. Mr. Renfrow, who had large interests in Oklahoma and Arkansas and was well known in financial and political circles of both states, arrived here yesterday on business. Apparently he was in good health. He was 70 years old.

A NEW RECIPE.

"Library paste?" asked her husband, in surprise.

"Yes, if you can't get kitchen paste, I'm going to make some French pastry for your dinner."

BRAWN AND BRAINS

By ROBERT L. RIPLEY.

Kid Wedge, erstwhile lumberjack, rough-and-tumble battler, and hero of seventy ring fights, is waiting on the door step of Harvard University for admission.

The Kid, who has created a sensation by riding the "brakes" from Arizona to Cambridge, seeking admission to Harvard's dignified halls in quest of a Ph. D. degree in psychology, is having some trouble matriculating, as there is some question about the required number of credits.

Kid—that is, Frederick R. Wedge—is an interesting story. After a fighting career within and without the ropes, during which time he won sixty-five official decisions and many unofficial ones, the Kid fell in love. The lady, who is now his wife, was a college graduate, and inspired him to seek what he most lacked—an education. So he spent six years in a preparatory school and eventually entered the University of Arizona, where he graduated in 1920 with an A. B. degree at the age of forty. Then he took up teaching himself, and acted as principal of the Benson (Arizona) high school until he resigned recently to enter Harvard.

Reads like fiction, doesn't it?

However, brawn has spelled brains before.

Some fighters have proven their intelligence.

We all know of Corbett, who is now a really good and successful actor. Jimmy Britt made good on the stage also, and Jac McAuliffe does very well as a monologist.

Jim Frawley, once a senator and father of the noted New York State Frawley boxing law, was an amateur fighter, Marty McCue, an old-time fighter, is now a power in Tamany politics, after serving several terms in the New York State legislature.

There he made one of the greatest speeches in recent years against the Socialists. Johnny Herget, who one time claimed the middleweight title, was a supervisor out in San Francisco. Harry Harris, a great little man some years ago, is now a prominent theatrical man in New York. Jack Skelly, who fought George Dixon in New Orleans at the time of the Corbett-Sullivan fight, is now a writer and editor of sports. Frankie Mason, former flyweight champion, is a sporting editor in Grand Rapids, I believe, and Kid Graves, one time welterweight title holder, is also reigning over a sports department.

Jack Monroe, who fought Jeffries, became a mayor of a city in Canada, a war hero, and is now promoting boxing in Australia. Willie Ritchie attended Columbia University in New York while he was champion, and Johnny Kilbane ran for office in Cleveland last year. Kid Broad and Spike Robson are motion picture stars out in Los Angeles. And Willard is no longer a fighter, but an oil magnate.

Descamps, manager of Carpentier, used to be a boxer, but made a fortune during the war manufacturing cheese boxes.

Gully, heavyweight champion of the world in the long ago, was afterward elected to parliament.

Bendigo, an old bareknuckle champion of England, afterward fell on evil ways, and while he was confined in prison for the twenty-eighth time, he was strangely moved by a sermon delivered by the prison chaplain and became converted. When released he embarked on a career as an evangelist and became celebrated and successful. This is the inscription on the monument raised over his grave in Nottingham:

"In life, always brave, fighting like a lion;
In death like a lamb, tranquil in Zion."

JUNIOR HI WINS FROM CASHION; SCORE 23 TO 17

Coach Boynton's lads trimmed the Cashion basketball warriors yesterday afternoon at the Legion hall to the tune of 23 to 17. Both quintets indulged in rough tactics frequently, but not enough to ruin the spirit of the game.

Cashion started the ball going in their favor by pocketing a pair of fielders, but Herrod and his teammates soon evened the count, and Cashion boasted of the lead only one more time during the fracas. Herrod's long tries proved deadly and he led in the scoring honors. Carter, Woodson and Walker kept their men well under cover so that Cashion had to be content with a bare 17.

Little has been heard of the Junior Hi quintet but they show up strong for the Cashion five has subdued some husky teams this season.

Line-up for Junior Hi: Carrington, Williams, and Skeen forwards; Herrod, center; Carter, Woodson, and Walker, guards.

Record News Readers: Laugh With Us

Some Chest-Nuts

They had just returned from their honeymoon.

Claudie Coodle took another mouthful of welsh rarebit just to make sure; but being the most polite man for miles around, he refrained from saying anything.

"Lovely weather, isn't it?" commented Mrs. Coodle, as she stuck her fork into the rarebit, preparatory to starting.

"It certainly is," he replied, and took another mouthful just to make doubly sure.

But even then he made no comments. It is really impossible to describe how polite he was.

"It looks as though we will have some nice weather next week, too," said Mrs. Coodle, as she turned over the rarebit on her fork, still preparatory to beginning.

"It looks that way to me also," he answered, and took another mouthful just to satisfy himself positively and absolutely.

And yet he said nothing. Beyond the shadow of a doubt he was the most polite man that ever lived; possibly the politest that ever will be born.

Then Mrs. Coodle lifted her fork and took a mouthful of rarebit.

"Dear me!" she said, in surprise. "I must have put that cake of yellow soap into the rarebit instead of the cheese!"

Youth is always an extremist.

Some naval officers were discussing in their mess the great battleship question.

The more sober, middle-aged men were inclined to think that the value of the battleship had been impaired by the vogue of the submarine.

"What is the value of the battleship today?" asked one gray-haired senior officer.

"No value at all," boldly asserted the youngest member of the mess.

But even that impulsive youth thought he had gone too far, for he added:

"Of course, she's got a very nice deck for dancing."

"Pretty bad fire you had here last night," commented the recently arrived guest.

"Ehyah," replied the landlord of the Petunia tavern. "The fire company had it pretty nearly out, and then the mayor came and took personal charge of the conflagration, and yelled orders till he got the firemen so mixed up that they couldn't do anything. And I reckon if it hadn't begun to rain directly the whole dod-molested town would have been bolo-rusted. But I s'pose it might have been worse?"

"How could it have been worse?"

"Why, the governor or a congressman might have come and took charge instead of the mayor, and it might not have rained."

An Irishman went to Australia, looking for two of his brothers who had been out there for some years. Their names were Pat and Ted.

While walking out of the railway station he saw an engine with the inscription:

"Patented 1900."

"Begorrah!" he said. "Oi have found thim bhoys, afther all! They was boiler manufacturers, and they came out in 1900, too!"

Smith bought a business through an agent as a going concern. After six months he failed, but took his trouble very lightly.

Meeting the agent some time later he said:

"Do you remember selling me a business as a going concern?"

"Yes, of course I do," replied the agent.

"Well," said Smith, "it's gone."

The raw sugar future market was only moderately active and prices were irregular, with operators inclined to hold off and await fresh developments. The opening was unchanged to 4 points lower under scattered liquidation, but at the decline there was renewed buying for outside account and prices rallied closing unchanged to 2 points net higher. March 2.29; May 2.47; July 2.67; September 2.79.

The refined market was unchanged in fine granulated listed at 5.00 to 5.10 and while refiners are still behind on orders, the demand is less active. There was only one sale of May at 5.60 in refined futures which was unchanged from last night's close. Final prices were unchanged to 5 points net lower with March at 5.50; May 5.60 and July 5.70.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—Butter higher; creamery extras 37. Eggs higher; receipts 10,697 cases; firsts 3?. Poultry alive, higher; fowls 25; springs 25, roosters 18.

Stocks

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Stocks drifted idly during the greater part of today's session, fluctuations apparently representing the conflicting views of pools and the professional element.

Such issues as American Ice, Gulf State Steel and Kresge, at gains of 3 1-2 to 4 1-2 points were the strong features, together with a few miscellaneous specialties. Motors, sugars, tobaccos, chemicals, textiles and utilities were under further pressure, sustaining extreme losses of 1 to 2 1-2 points.

Declaration of the regular dividend on Studebaker was in line with popular expectations. Consilidated gas rose briskly in the later dealings on payment of the dividend deferred from last week.

United States Steel was apathetic throughout its course indicating confidence in the maintenance of the common dividend. Publication of the corporations earnings for the final quarter of 1921 after the close of the quarter. Sales of stocks amounted to 400,000 shares.

Shifting of bank reserves in anticipation of February payments caused a moderate stiffening of time funds, 5 per cent ruling for the longer dates. All call loans were made at 5 per cent and in private at a shade under that quotation.

British and French exchange forfeited a part of yesterday's sharp advance, but other allied remittances were firm. The German, Dutch, Swiss, Norweigan quotations eased a trifle and Swedish, Danish and Greek rates strengthened.

Trading in bonds fell away to a marked extent, the net result in the Liberty group, however, showing a preponderance of gains. There was active trading in the new Burlington $30,000,000 issue and low grade rails were mixed. Foreign government bonds closed with a firm tone. Total sales, par value, aggregated $14,875,000.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK.

FORT WORTH, Jan. 31.—Nothing much seemed to be wanted as far as cattle and calves were concerned today. Most of the run consisted of junk, but the few cars of really good cattle on offer met with no better demand that riff-raff. It was a slow, peddling market from start to finish, the general tendency being quoted steady to 15c lower. The few half decent calves here sold about steady but other kinds dragged at a decline of 25 cents. Receipts amounted to 2,000 head of cattle and 500 calves.

Another generous supply of hogs arrived, but the market performed in a very creditable manner and more than regained Monday's loss. With 2500 head here, prices gained 15 to 25c and the trade was brisk on that basis. Pigs sold generally steady. Good hogs brought 8.75 and bulk sales ranged from 8.25 to 8.65. Pigs sold at a range of 5.00 to 7.00.

Sheep—receipts amounted to 300 head. The market was quotably unchanged. Quotations:

Cotton

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Yesterday's big break was followed by rallies in the cotton market today and notwithstanding reiterated rumors of cotton coming here for delivery the feature was the relative firmness of near months. March contracts sold up to 16.43 or 31 points net higher while July contracts selling at 15.88, were only 25 points net higher. Last prices were within a few points of the best with the market closing steady at net advances of 14 to 32 points.

The market opened firm at an advance of 11 to 26 points on better cables. There were some overnight selling orders around the ring and renewed selling by Liverpool and New Orleans on the differences accompanied by reports that some of the cotton taken upon January contracts in New Orleans might be shipped to New York for delivery on March. There were also rumors that cotton had sold on a tenderable basis in the Savannah market and prices slipped off several points right after the call.

The market soon steadied up again however, on covering by March and May shorts while there also was a little trade buying in advance which carried May up from 15.98 to 16.22, or 32 points net higher. New crop positions sold 13 to 19 points above last night's closing figures, with October touching 15.43. Scattering holders of March contracts are supposed to have liquidated on recent declines and the relative firmness of near months today was regarded by local brokers as indicating that the remaining March long interest was in strong hands. Private cables attributed the advance in Liverpool to the effect of covering by recent sellers and smaller offerings. Except for the New Orleans selling, there were very few selling orders here from the south and the afternoon advance was accompanied by reports of a better spot demand in the southwest.

Brokers with Japanese connections were credited with buying old crop months here again today but their operations were less in evidence than yesterday. Exports today 28,822 bales, making 3,398,552 so far this season. Port receipts 7,631. U. S. port stocks 1,177,595.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 31.—Traders on the short side were again on the defensive in the cotton market today, prices being higher from the opening. The market got its initial impulse from Liverpool and its later support from covering operations on the short side. Late in the session prices were 26 to 39 points up with March at 15.33. The close was 19 to 32 points up with March at 15.26.

Private messages from the English market stated that much of the strength there was due to end of the month calling of cotton by spinners and this made a favorable impression here. A message from Houston said that contrary to recent reports there was no distressed cotton in that market, but that margin calls were being promptly answered indicating that spots were in strong hands.

In some quarters it was thought that the demand on the long side was restricted by stories to the effect that some of the cotton taken upon January contracts here might be shipped to New York to go against March contacts there. It was claimed that cotton of this sort could be shipped at present differences between the two markets.

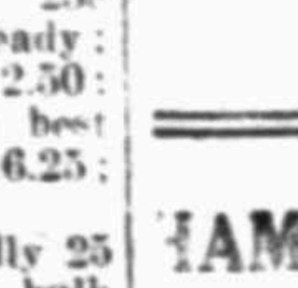

LIVERPOOL SPOT SOTTON.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 31.—Cotton spot quiet; prices easier. Good middling 9.95; fully middling 9.55; middling 9.20; low middling 8.25; good ordinary 7.00; ordinary 6.25. Sales 5,000 bales, including 3,700 American.

COTTON GOODS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Cotton goods were quiet today with a further softening trend in grey goods and sheetings. Yarns were easier, especially in carded knitting numbers. Silk ribbons were slightly more active. Piece goods were quiet. Burlaps were quiet and steady. Fancy worsteds in men's wear will be opened for fall tomorrow.

Grain

CHICAGO, Jan. 31—Wheat prices receded today owing largely to the failure of foreign markets to follow yesterday's advance here. The close was weak, 7-8c to 1-4c net lower, with May 1.18 3-4 to 1.18 7-8 and July 1.04 to 1.04 1-8.

Corn lost 3-8c to 1-2c and oats 1-4c to 3-8c. Provisions scored gains varying from 2 1-2c to 55c.

Belief that something of a setback in the price of wheat, could well be looked for was apparently prevalent, based to a considerable extent on the fact that there had been a sharp advance of late. The absence of any new upturn at Liverpool tended therefore to emphasize weakness of values here, and this tendency was given further impetus by a decided drop in quotations at Buenos Aires, and by predictions of rain or snow for the entire domestic grain belt. Persistent buying on the part of the big commission houses took place as the market here went downward, but the rallies which ensued proved to be only transient. Word of the purchase of 1,480,000 bushels of Canadian wheat for Greece was without effect on the market here. Announcement of a liberal decrease of the world's available supply was also virtually ignored.

Corn and oats were depressed by heavy receipts of corn. Talk was current that the arrivals of corn at primary points this week might exceed all previous records. On the other hand, export demand today was only fair.

Provisions went upward in value with hogs.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—After opening 2 points higher to 2 points lower, coffee futures steadied up slightly on some covering by March shorts or buying in of hedges against small spot sales. Otherwise there was no demand, however and after selling at 8.52, March eased off to 8.47 under scattered realizing. The close was net 1 point higher to 5 points lower. Sales were estimated at about 11,000 bags. March 8.49; May 8.39; July 8.32; September 8.29; October 8.28; October 8.28; December 8.27.

WIFE DISLIKE KNOCKDOWNS

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Jan. 30.—Maybe this guy is secretly training for a bout with Jack Dempsey. Anyway—

"He habitually knocks me down two or three times a week, after repeatedly accusing me of infidelity to my marriage vows," asserts Mrs. Beulah Erwin, in asking a divorce from her husband, John H. Erwin.

An aversion "to being foully murdered on a highway by her husband" is another "cause" assigned as to why the separation decree should be granted.

WRITER SEES POSSIBILITY IN DAIRYING

By FRANK S. REID.

In connection with the subject of Dairy Possibilities as it will affect the future of this section during the irrigation period, it is interesting to note what different sections are doing along the line of Dairy Industries. The writer has spoken about what has been accomplished along these lines in Southern Idaho, and there has come to his attention an accomplishment as it affects the manufacture of cheese in Grove City, Penn.

A friend having eaten some cheese manufactured at a certain place in Grove City, was so delighted with same that he ordered, through a friend of his, a lot of this cheese, and in acknowledging the receipt of the order, this friend spoke in brief of the accomplishments of dairying in that particular section, and the writer passes these remarks on, which tend to show that nothing is impossible right here in this section, along dairy lines. There isn't a question of a doubt about what the Dairy Industry will do to a community; it furnishes the farmer with ready cash at all times; the cow is his best friend and she responds to kind treatment. The letter is here quoted:

"While on the subject of this cheese I think I should tell you something about our local creamery. It is really a government experimental station and is operated by experts from the Agricultural Department at Washington. They maintain this creamery for the purpose of experimenting and finding out everything they can about milk and dairy farming. They have experts from all over the world come to examine and learn what they can about dairy farming. There are delegates from practically all the various State Agricultural schools here at some time during the year. They have made twenty-four different kinds of cheese, but are now confining their efforts in a commercial way, to the straight cream cheese, Swiss, Roquefort, Camembert and Club. They have just recently been awarded the National prize on the Swiss cheese and it is said this is the only place in North America where Roquefort cheese is made. They have entered this Roquefort cheese many times at National and Inter-National Dairy shows and it has been pronounced by government officials and experts as being equal to the imported French product. At any rate, they are quite proud of their Roquefort, Swiss and Camembert cheese. They have built up a vast dairy interest here. Six years ago there were not more than three or four pure bred animals in the entire district. Now there are more than thirty-five hundred and every animal is tuberculin tested and accredited by the government officials. Not one drop of milk is used in this creamery that does not come from an accredited animal.

The above simply shows what cooperation will do; what interest will show itself in the handling of nothing but pure bred stock tuberculin tested. It also shows that if a community is at all interested, the United States Government Department of Agriculture will lend its efforts to promote an industry that is of material benefit to many. The writer has seen these very same things take place and has taken a part in the very work suggested above. This is certainly an industry that will be of material benefit to the success and future of the Local Irrigation project and the problems incident to farming under irrigation.

WOMAN WHO WASHES HUSBAND GETS DIVORCE

DETROIT, Jan. 30.—"I had to wash him every time I took him out," Mrs. James H. Henry told Judge Dingeman in circuit court in asking for a decree of divorce from her husband.

"He also took great pride in showing his friends how to 'beat up a wife,'" she said.

She got the divorce.

SOAP BOX ORATORS TO TALK DOWN SOCIALISTS

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—"Soap box" orators will take the stump in a campaign against socialism here in the spring, it has been announced by the Constitutional Defense league, an organization of war veterans formed in Wisconsin for the same purpose in that State and in the Middle West.

The Socialist orator will be met on his own field in an attempt to keep Socialists from being elected to any office in the city.

A branch of the "Soap Box" University, to train anti-Socialist speakers, will also be opened.

EARLY ROBIN IS HOARSE.

ELYRIA, Ohio, Jan. 30.—Despite the near-zero weather E. I. Detrich insists that the harbingers of Spring have already arrived. He reports seeing a robin and several bluejays near his home.

"The robin was perched on a tree a few feet from me," said Detrich. "The bird tried to sing but evidently had a cold, for the noise was hoarse-like and unnatural."

Wichita Falls, Texas,
January, 30, 1922.

Mr. Norris Ewing,
Care The Record News,
Dear Mr. Ewing:

It is common knowledge, of course, that you are unmarried, and the natural presumption would be that you are one of the last men in Wichita Falls who might be considered a likely prospect to buy a home in this city.

Considering that fact, we do not suggest that you should consider such a purchase with the view of living in the property. But after we have called another angle to your attention, you will readily see that you or any other citizen of Wichita Falls is a live prospect whether they will ever need a home personally or not. Because—

Right at this particular time property can be bought for a smaller consideration than ever before and those who have studied the situation believe at a lesser price than at any time in the future.

By this we do not mean to suggest that all property here is being offered at a bargain price. But we do insist that some properties are being offered at a sacrifice. Ours is a fair proposition. If you will allow us the pleasure, we will show you certain buys in this city that can be picked up at ridiculously low figures.

Of course this is true only because some owner is so unfortunately situated that he must dispose of his home at a tremendous sacrifice in order to raise some cash. We are doing him a favor in finding a buyer even at a give-away price, because he must have money.

So, Mr. Ewing, now is the time to get together. You furnish the desire and the money—cash deal or time purchase—and we'll show you where you can save by buying now.

This suggestion applies not only to you but to many others who read your paper. Therefore kindly publish this on your Real Estate page at your regular rates and greatly oblige.

Yours sincerely,
BEN NEAL, Real Estate

P. S.—Also, Mr. Ewing, if you have any friends who are anxious to sell and will put a selling price on their property, kindly advise them to get in touch with us by calling 3333, or dropping by 416 Bob Waggoner Building. Let us thank you in advance for this courtesy.

Doc Snow Is Qualified as Voter Tuesday

Doc Snow, prisoner at the county jail under sentence to 20 years in the state penitentiary for the murder of William Toney and Marvin Caple over a year and half ago Tuesday night paid his poll tax. Accompanied by Sheriff Smith and O. Z. Gentry and Willis Briscoe two other prisoners he was taken to the tax collector's office and allowed to pay the tax. Tuesday was the last day in which the tax could be paid.

Snow's conviction in a local district court is now on appeal in the Court of Criminal Appeals. The higher court recently affirmed the case but a motion for rehearing is now pending. Snow from the time his case was appealed has expressed confidence that his case would be reversed and remanded for trial. He has repeatedly asked officers to allow him to pay his poll tax.

In the event the case is reversed he will probably have an opportunity to vote in the county if he desires. In the event the case is finally affirmed he will not. Gentry is serving a 90 day sentence in the county jail following conviction in federal court on an indictment charging theft from an interstate shipment. Briscoe is held at the jail on a statutory charge.

HONEST TOIL.

The Judge—What was the last bit of real work you did?"
The Accused—Me? That was when I was a photographer's model at the police bureau of identification.

The doctor called on a man who was ill, and told the wife that she must put him into a recumbent position.
"A what, doctor?"
"A recumbent position," said the doctor.
As soon as he had gone, she went to a neighbor and said: Mrs. Brown, could you lend me a recumbent position?"
But Mrs. Brown was determined not to show her ignorance, and answered: "I'm very sorry, my dear, but I've just lent mine to Mrs. Smith."

CALOMEL IS A DANGEROUS DRUG

Next Dose May Salivate You, Loosen Teeth or Start Rheumatism.

Calomel is mercury; quicksilver. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.

Could You Manage on $18,000 Worth of Clothes Each Year? Mrs. Edith Kelly Gould Can

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Just imagine, girls, spending $18,000 a year for clothes! This was the declaration made by Edith Kelly Gould, actress, in an affidavit filed in a new court action against Frank Jay Gould. She asks reimbursement for her expenses for about four years at the rate of $45,000 a year. The total sum sued for is $160,000.

Mrs. Gould not only claims that she spent this fabulous sum for clothes, but stated that her automobile cost her $4,000; an apartment $6,000 and entertainment, $5,000.

These, with $5,000 for food, $2,000 for a doctor, $4,000 for dancing and music lessons and $1,000 for a dentist complete the cost of living for her, according to her statement.

Her suit to have annulled her divorce, which Gould obtained in France, has been before the court for some time. In her new suit Mrs. Gould says her husband used to spend $50,000 a year on her.

An answer she also filed to his suit says that his French decree is void because a transcript of the proceedings was not filed, as required by French law. She also denies the jurisdiction of the French courts. She says her husband has an income of $200,000 a year or more.

Mrs. Gould alleges she left her husband on account of his "cruel and inhuman" treatment. She says this was due to frequent intoxication and other bad habits.

OWNERS' GROUP BIDS IN STRAND THEATER ASSETS

A group of stockholders of the Strand Theatre company, headed by Reese S. Allen, submitted the only bid for the theater building, when it was offered at public auction Tuesday afternoon. This bid was $15,000. A large crowd attended the auction, which was held on the property, other theater owners of the city being noticed among those present, but no offer other than that offered by Mr. Allen. No announcement was made as to whether the bid would be accepted.

The company made a voluntary declaration of bankruptcy late in 1921, and the theater has been closed for several weeks.

HOTEL RATES NEXT WORK OF COMMISSION

Rates charged by leading hotels in other cities in the Southwest are being obtained by the rent committee of the Chamber of Commerce as one basis of comparison when hotel and apartment rents are gone into by the committee which reconvenes Feb. 10.

Reports Tuesday, following the recess of the committee, were to the effect that most of the owners of business property were willing to cooperate with tenants and the committee in making adjustments, at least temporarily, to relive business distress in cases in which large rental contracts figure.

BOYS' WORKER TO BE HERE DURING MAY

Meeting Tuesday night in regular session, the Avoleh club heard a report from its delegates to the Older Boys Conference last week at A. and M. Edward Kadane and Polly Clark representing the club. In addition to telling of the high lights of the conference the delegates brought the welcome news that Harry Reamer, one of the principal speakers of the meeting, and a nationally known figure in boys' work, would visit Wichita Falls sometime in May.

The first dance for 1922 will be given on February 10, according to the plans made Tuesday night. The new Arcadia Dance Academy, on Tenth street, will be the scene of this affair, and plans to make it an unusually delightful occasion are under way.

LEGION SELLS LARGE NUMBER AUTO PLATES

Numerous orders for the "Wichita Falls" plates which the Chamber of Commerce and the American Legion are endeavoring to place on all cars in Wichita Falls in order that the cars, when away from here, may advertise the city throughout the country, were reported by the American Legion "salesmen" as a result of their first day's work Tuesday. An equally large number of orders are expected from today's canvass, the last of the office to office work of the "salesmen."

In addition to the orders placed with the salesmen, a number placed orders at the Chamber of Commerce rooms Tuesday, which has been made a supply depot, as with the places of the members of the Automobile dealers association, who are co-operating with the legion in this connection.

Sale of the plates serves a double purpose, for in addition to effecting the purpose designed by the Chamber of Commerce, each sale nets a small profit for the treasury of the local legion post.

PATIENTS GO TO ASYLUM ON TUESDAY

The Northwest Texas Insane Asylum was officially opened Tuesday morning when seven women patients were received at the institution located at Lake Wichita. The women were adjudged insane in county court here during the last few weeks and have been held at the county jail and farm pending the opening of the state institution here.

According to Dr. F. S. White additional patients will be received from time to time until the capacity of 350 is obtained. It is expected that it will be several weeks before the institution will be prepared to handle the maximum number of cases.

The opening of the asylum relieved a local situation which threatended to become acute. For several weeks other state asylums have been filled to capacity so that it was impossible to secure admittance for those adjudged insane here. The situation is general according to reports and it is expected that there will be need of additional accomodations in the state even after the local asylum if filled to capacity.
