South Africa Asks Reds To Shut Consular Office

Soviet Leader Booted

MOSCOW (AP) — A new Russian government shakeup has unseated the successor of the Kremlin's late secret police boss, Lavrenty P. Beria.

The Soviet government early today announced the dismissal of S. N. Kruglov, who became internal affairs minister in July 1953, shortly after his former boss Beria was deposed and condemned to death as a traitor.

The secret police were removed from Kruglov's ministry nearly two years ago but he had continued in command of law enforcement police, known in Russia as the militia.

The terse announcement of the new change, published on the back page of the Communist party paper Pravda, said Kruglov had been "released" from his post and succeeded by Moscow's deputy mayor, N. P. Dudorov.

Dudorov also is listed as chief of the construction department of the Soviet Communist party's Central Committee, a watchdog post checking all government construction, and adviser to the Soviet Council of Ministers (Cabinet) on construction.

Otherwise he is unknown to Western newsmen in Moscow.

Western observers noted that the statement did not follow the usual Soviet pattern in announcing such shifts. It made no mention of Kruglov's future, whereas such announcements usually say at least that the official has been assigned to other duties.

Kruglov's militia has been under increasing criticism recently for failure to deal adequately with hooliganism, public drunkenness and such outbreaks at sports events as the riot at a football game in Armenia last November.

The Soviet Cabinet change followed a series of top-level replacements in several of the Soviet republics. Th reshuffle was viewed by Western observers as a tightening of controls in preparation for the 20th Soviet Communist party congress opening in two weeks.

New Cold Front Hits Wide Area

By The Associated Press

A widespread wet norther covered the upper half of Texas Wednesday, promising arid sections with another drought-chasing mantle of snow and ice.

By 9 a.m. the new cold front extended from around Wichita Falls to below Lubbock and Odessa. Snow fell in Amarillo and freezing drizzle was falling from Lubbock to Childress, with rains extending clear to the Gulf.

Temperatures down to 5 degrees were forecast for the Panhandle by early Thursday.

The Weather Bureau said freezing rain or snow would extend well into Central Texas by dawn Thursday.

Ahead of the front fog and low cloud ceilings tied up air line service in much of Texas.

The heaviest rain reported in the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. was 1.47 inches at Houston. Galveston had .56, Beaumont .42, Austin .17, Fort Worth .14, Waco .13, Dallas and Wichita Falls .10. Showers fell at numerous points.

At Sweetwater west of Abilene .05 inch of rain fell early Wednesday, the first measurable moisture since October.

Dalhart, with a few flurries of snow before dawn, had the lowest minimum in the state, 12 degrees. Amarillo had a low of 15, Lubbock 22 and Childress 27.

Brownsville was warm with 60.

Airports where airlines reported less than 200 feet ceiling and ½ mile visibility early Wednesday included Wichita Falls, Laredo, Houston, Beaumont, Lufkin, College Station, Austin and Big Spring.

Motorists in upper Texas were warned that the moisture probably would ice over late Wednesday making highways dangerous.

Suspect Illegal Activity

CAPETOWN, South Africa (AP)—South Africa has ordered the Soviet Union to remove its consular staff from this country by March 1. Foreign Affairs Minister E. H. Louw said today this action is being taken because the consulate general in Pretoria has engaged in subversive activity.

No break of diplomatic relations is involved. These relations are carried on in London, since the Soviet Union has no embassy here nor has South Africa one in Moscow. The consular setup was established in World War II.

South Africa is the third country in the British Commonwealth to accuse the Soviet Union of subversive activity in recent years. Canada uncovered a spy ring centering around the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa in 1946. In Australia, a Soviet Embassy official defected in 1954 with information exposing a spy ring. Subsequently Russia broke relations with Australia.

Today's announcement was made in Parliament's House of Assembly.

Louw alleged the consulate general had cultivated contacts with subversive elements and had formed a channel of communication between them and Soviet Russia.

The House greeted the minister's announcement with a roar of applause.

Louw said that confirmation of the consulate's subversive contacts had been provided by Radio Moscow, which had incited African and Indian populations to resist the government in South Africa.

He added the liquor act which prohibits supply of liquor to natives in the Union of South Africa, had not been observed on the consulate premises.

Other relations between the Union and Russia would not be affected by the consulate closing, Louw said, and could be continued through representatives of both countries in London.

He pointed out that the Soviet consulate had been established during World War II when the Union and Russia were allies. In postwar years, the situation had changed, he said, and this was another reason for the government's action.

Protestant Leaders Will Visit Russia

NEW YORK (AP)—An eight-member delegation of American Protestant leaders was named today to make a 10-day visit to Russia in an effort to increase "mutual understanding."

It will be the most broadly representative church contact with religion in Russia in 40 years.

The group will go under sponsorship of the National Council of Churches, the nation's largest religious agency. It includes 30 Protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations with 35½ million members.

The trip, to begin March 9, will be the first part of a two-way exchange, with Russian Orthodox church leaders coming to this country in June.

In announcing plans for the trip, Dr. Eugene Carson Blake of Philadelphia, council president, told a meeting of the council's 250-member governing General Board:

"While we cannot be sure that agreement can or should be reach at many points, we do hope that under the guidance of Almighty God this exchange of visits will contribute toward a large measure of understanding and good will."

The delegation will include presiding heads of several major American denominations, Among them:

The Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church; the Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the United Lutheran Church, and Dr. Blake, administrator of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A.

Also going are prominent officials of the Methodist, American Baptist and Congregational Christian churches, and church specialists in international affairs. One of them, Dr. Paul B. Anderson (Congregational Christian), member of the council's International Affairs Department, speaks Russian.

Senator Tells Of Russian Missile Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Jackson (D-Wash) cautioned today of "danger that the Soviets may fire a 1,500-mile ballistic missile before the end of this year."

He said the balance of world military power would shift against the West if the Soviet Union should win the "critical race" for development of such an intermediate-range missile—and after that, an intercontinental missile with a 5,000-mile range and the capability of carrying atomic destruction to the United States.

Jackson's prepared Senate speech was planned as the opening round of a Democratic volley at administration defense policies. Lined up to join in were Democratic Senators Mansfield of Montana, Kennedy of Massachusetts and Symington of Missouri, a former Air Force secretary.

Jackson said America has "consistently underestimated" the Soviets in the military and atomic fields since World War II.

He said there was need for a completely new defense philosophy, which he boiled down into these terms:

"All-out work on critical projects today to avoid all-out war tomorrow:

He proposed that:

1. The ballistic missile project should now proceed with the maximum effort of which this nation is capable, supported by the kind of urgency that heretofore Americans have reserved for war-time conditions," and that:

2. "To implement this objective, the ballistic missile program should be placed under a full-time civilian administrator, reporting directly to the secretary of defense and to the President."

Another Record Set In Postal Receipts

Postal receipts during the month of January gave indication that the Snyder post office will have another record year, according to Dawson Moreland, postmaster.

Moreland said January receipts totaled $11,170.76, a new record. The previous record for January was $10,573.81 in 1951.

The figure for January, 1955, was $8,192.24.

Shoemake Leaves Hospital In Waco

WACO (AP)—A. B. Shoemake, president of the defunct U.S. Trust and Guaranty Co. who shot himself through the head three weeks ago, was moved from the hospital today to McKinney.

Members of the family and hospital officials would give no reason for the transfer.

Shoemake, 60, was thought near death for more than a week after he shot himself then began to show improvement. His temperature went down and his blood pressure became steady. Saturday he had a relapse and doctors said he was "very critical" but he was reported off the critical list two days later.

Benson Hits Program For Hog Buying

AUSTIN, Minn. (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson told farmers today a government program to buy hogs at supported prices "would hurt you more than it would ever help you."

Benson reiterated on the second day of a swing through the Midwest hog belt that the U. S. government is stepping up its pork-buying program—but that it won't purchase and store vast quantities of meat products to bolster prices.

"There are those who because of ignorance of the problem, mistaken judgment or for well-intentioned political purposes insist that your government go into the livestock buying business," the secretary said in a speech prepared for the Minnesota-Iowa Swing Producers Assn.

"This won't work," he said. "In my judgment such action would hurt you more than it would ever help you."

Benson said he has been told a program to purchase live hogs and cattle at supported prices "would be good politics—particularly in an election year."

"If we were to raise the price of hogs 5 cents a pound as some suggest, it would cost the government almost a billion dollars a year," he said. "That's just for hogs.

"And, of course, we could hardly deny similar supports to cattle. If we add 5 cents a pound to cattle, it would cost another 1¼ billion dollars.

Dallas Man Is Given Powerful Kiss By Wife

DALLAS (AP)—Patrolman stopped a 43-year-old man staggering down the street. He denied he was drunk. They pointed out that his breath reeked of whisky.

"Right! But I haven't touched a drop," he insisted. "My wife was drunk when I left home — I got this way just kissing her goodby."

Negro Is Held Here As Robbery Suspect

A 24-year-old Negro man is being held in city jail for investigation of the robbery last night of a service station in South Snyder.

Being held is Earnest James who has previously been convicted of robbery here, as well as other crimes.

The robbery occurred about 3:45 o'clock this morning at the Glendon Harold Biddle Premier Service Station in the 3700 block of the Big Spring highway.

Roy Biddle, son of the owner, was the only attendant on duty at the station at the time of the robbery, although another attendant was asleep in a car near the station building at the time.

The victim said that no gun was displayed by the robber, but that the robber held his hand in his coat pocket to look like a gun was in the pocket.

About $230 in cash was taken.

On description of the robber furnished by the victim, three city policemen arrested James about 5:30 this morning in the Colored section of town.

Arresting officers were Price Hager, Paul Bailey, and J. D. Frith.

Police chief Travis Steele said that a charge of robbery would be filed this afternoon.

In April of 1952 James was convicted of robbery by assault here and sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary. He was released after serving 28 months at Huntsville.

He was convicted in April of 1955 of the sale of liquor in a dry area and sentenced to six months in the Scurry County jail and assessed a fine of $250. In October of last year he pleaded guilty in county court to a charge of theft and was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail.

Roy Biddle identified James as the robber at city jail this morning, Steele said.

Bond Issues Are Approved

By The Associated Press

Fort Worth and Dallas approved multi-million dollar bond issues while Victoria and Port Lavaca voted to adopt the city manager form of government in elections Tuesday.

Dallas gave comfortable margins to six bond issues totaling 41 million dollars for parks, fire stations, sewer, street and waterworks improvement and approved a proposal that the city contract for a 20 million dollar reservoir on the Sabine River.

By narrower margins, Dallas voted to increase the city debt limit from 125 to 135 million dollars. The fire station bond issue had the greatest majority, a margin of 6,714 votes.

Fort Worth voted overwhelmingly for an 18 million dollar city water and sewer revenue bond issue. Returns showed 6,077 for and 2,467 against the 17 million dollar water bond issue.

Two Persons Injured When Pickup Overturns

Two men were injured early this morning when the pickup in which they were riding overturned several miles west of Snyder and Randal's Corner.

The two, Omer L. Collins of 2810 Avenue O, and Gerrell Tegel of 1103 Twenty-third Street, were admitted at Cogdell Memorial Hospital after being taken there by Bell ambulance.

The accident occurred at about 6:30 a.m. Driver of the pickup, James Perry, was not hospitalized Reports were that the pickup's brakes filed and then locked, causing the pickup to overturn.

Trust Company Is Placed In Receivership

AUSTIN (AP)—Judge Charles Betts rang down the final curtain yesterday on the operation of U.S. Trust and Guaranty Co. of Waco, ending the financial empire of A. B. Shoemake.

Betts said he was granting everything requested by the state against the company "in toto."

He thus recognized the state's contention that U.S. Trust was insolvent and had been operating on a fraudulent basis.

The judge made permanent the injunction he issued last month against continued operation of the banking-insurance concern. Permanent receivership was ordered.

His order also applies to U.S. Automotive Service, an affiliate of U.S. Trust originally organized as Campbell Builders Corp. of Waco to do business in real estate. Campbell builders had been organized Jan. 17, 1942; U.S. Trust, July 15, 1945.

Receivership was ordered for both U.S. Trust and U.S. Automotive on the state's allegation that "assets, properties, funds, monies and liabilities" of the two companies "have become so comingled . . . that they are impossible to extract."

State Rep. Bert McDaniel of Waco, attorney for the firms and for Shoemake individually, said lack of funds would make an appeal impossible.

Shoemake is in a hospital from a self-inflicted bullet wound through the head. Doctors have said he may recover.

McDaniel made no strong effort to contest the state's presentation, saying he could not do so without Shoemake's presence.

"Many matters necessary to an adequate defense rest exclusively in his knowledge," said McDaniel as the 98th District Court case closed.

Questionnaires Come In Slow To Chamber

Questionnaires sent by the Chamber of Commerce to all its members last week are coming in slowly.

The questionnaires asked members to specify what points they would like included on the 1956 program of work of the chamber and what committees they prefer to serve on.

Feb. 4 is deadline for return of the questionnaires, which will be used by the program of work committee and the chamber president in forming the 1956 program and appointing committees.

Employe Of Henry's Cafe Hurt In Fall

E. M. Hale, Manhatten Hotel, was taken to the Cogdell Memorial Hospital last night, by Bolger Ambulance, after receiving a fall in the kitchen of Henry's Cafe, where he is employed.

According to the funeral home attendant, he fell and hit the corner of a table injuring the back of his head. Seriousness of injury is unknown at this time.

New Premier Taking Over French Post

PARIS (AP)—France's first Socialist Premier since 1947 took over the governmental reins today, heading a non-Communist leftist coalition pledged to prompt negotiations to end the costly Algerian conflict.

The Socialist party secretary general who once taught highschool English was confirmed as the nation's 22nd postwar Premier by an unusually large majority of the National Assembly early today.

The vote was 420-71 with 83 abstentions.

The chamber's 151 Communists gave their votes to Mollet to pressure him for the "popular front" tieup they seek with the Socialists. To counter this, the Catholic MRP (Popular Republican Movement) and other moderate groups voted with Mollet's Republican Front of Socialists and Radicals, and most rightists abstained. This gave the new Premier a majority of those voting without the Reds.

The Republican Front, which Mollet leads jointly with Radical party leader Pierre Mendes-France actually has only about 180 votes in the 596-member Assembly. Because of this the government is generally conceded a life expectancy of only three or four months.

The Premier's streamlined 13-man Cabinet includes seven Socialists, three Radicals, one nonparty man and two others from splinter groups. Mendes-France is deputy premier without control of any ministry.

In outlining his policy before the vote, Mollet called for a new, freely elected Algerian assembly whose leaders could negotiate a new "unbreakable" relationship with France.

Bob Burns Critically Ill In California

ENCINO, Calif. (AP)—Bob Burns, the bazooka - blowing Arkansas story teller of the '30s, is critically ill with a kidney disorder.

"The situation doesn't look too good," said Burns' physician Dr. David Hertz. The 64-year-old movie and radio comedian has been in a coma since last Saturday. His health has been failing since he underwent surgery three years ago.

Burns fashioned a length of pipe and a whisky funnel, blew fuzzy bass notes and told jokes about his Uncle Fud, Grandpaw Snazzy and other folks in Van Buren, Ark.

Inactive in show business for the last 10 years, Burns has been engaged in San Fernando real estate purchases and sales. His 200-acre farm in the valley is an agricultural showplace.

Billy Daniels Faces Charge

NEW YORK (AP)—Singer Billy Daniels was charged last night with shooting and wounding a man in an after-hours bottle club in Harlem.

Daniels, a Negro who gave his age as 40, said he remembered nothing about any shooting. He was released in $2,500 bail for a hearing today on charges of felonious assault and illegal possession of a pistol.

The crooner's arrest and detention for several hours kept him from appearing at the Copacabana night club, where he said he had been getting $10.000 a week.

Daniels has been a top-flight entertainer ever since he won fame a number of years ago with his rendition of "That Old Black Magic."

Police investigating the shooting of James Jackson, a 33-year-old prizefight trainer, were apparently led to Daniels by an anonymous tip. Jackson was found on the sidewalk outside the Harlem club yesterday morning with a bullet wound in his left shoulder.

Jackson, also a Negro, was treated at a hospital, where the wound was found to be not serious. He refused to tell police who shot him.

Estimated 7,000 Pay Poll Tax Here, State Total Runs High

An estimated figure of about 7,000 was given this morning for the number of persons who qualified to vote before the deadline.

Accurate figures are not yet available, according to Jim Ikard, county tax assessor-collector. Employes of Ikard's office were still completing filling out tax and exemption slips this morning from application forms prepared by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in its late deputy station last night.

Estimates were that there were about 5,900 poll taxes paid and about 1,100 exemption certificates issued.

The 7,000 figure is near the all-time Scurry County record of 7,335 in 1952. The figure last year was 3,964.

By The Associated Press

A last minute rush for poll tax receipts just before the deadline Tuesday night might have sent Texas' voting strength past previous presidential election year marks.

How many Texans qualified to vote won't be known for some time but a sample survey by The Associated Press indicated the number may be higher than in 1952.

Courthouses in many cities stayed open until midnight to handle the flood of procrastinators. Substations in grocery, liquor, and other stores reported a flurry of poll tax sales just before the deadline.

Points indicating new records included Victoria County. Officials estimated 10,500 poll taxes had been paid compared to 9,061 in 1955, and 8,304 in 1952.

At Galveston 5,300 poll tax receipts were issued Tuesday to bring reported sales to 22,265. Officials estimated about 10,000 unreported sales from substations would send the county over the 1954 mark of 42,000.

At midnight El Paso County had 35,845 poll taxes sold and officials estimated substations would bring in another 5,000.

Hunt County (Greenville) issued 7,780 poll taxes and more than 2,000 exemptions. Estimates were that the final total would be more than 8,000 plus exemptions. The total in 1952 was 8,979.

Smith County's tax receipts were 10,868, plus 3,670 exemptions. Another 5,000 are expected from outlying stations and a special sale by the Tyler League of Women Voters, which would put the county within striking distance of the 18,903 sold in 1952.

Expansion Planned For Sewer System

(Ed. Note--This is the fourth in a series of articles on the $300,000 bond issue which will be submitted to Snyder voters on Saturday).

Although the City of Snyder expanded its facilities considerably during the oil boom and immediately thereafter, substantial sections inside the corporate limits today do not have sanitary sewer service.

Although it does not figure directly in the issue which will be at stake Saturday at the polls, sanitary extensions compose a prominent part of the overall plans developed recently by the council following engineering surveys of the entire city.

The city proposes to spend $150,000 on sanitary sewer improvements. These funds will come from $200,000 in bonds authorized previously but which have not been sold. The $200,000, coupled with the $300,000 to be voted upon Saturday will provide an overall program costing $500,000.

Developing the sanitary sewer extensions simultaneously with a paving program and other developments, embraces several desirable factors. For one thing, the sewer projects can be installed along with the paving on some streets, making it unnecessary to excavate all over again after the streets are paved. Excavations for water and sewer lines often are a particular nuisance when they require breaking into pavement which already has been installed, and the process is more costly than it is when the sewers are put down ahead of the pavement.

Of course this situation cannot be avoided in all instances, but it will facilitate the entire program in areas where it is possible.

Moreover, the city's sewage disposal facility is in need of expansion, and the expenditures outlined in the current proposal will accomplish this in a method approved by the State Health Department. A portion of the $300,000 in new bonds, estimated between $10,000 and $15,000, has been earmarked for that purpose.

Addition of new sanitary sewer connections will mean an added load on the entire city system. The proposed improvements are expected to take care of it with some larger trunk lines, etc.

YOUR INCOME TAX

How To Figure Your Deductions

By FRANK O'BRIEN
(Third of a Series)

After you have claimed your exemptions, the next work in filing your income tax return is the business of putting down your total income and determining how much you can deduct from it, for business-connected and personal expenses. After that, you may be able to reduce your income subject to tax further by exclusion of pay received while you were ill or injured.

At line 5, on page 1 of Form 1040, you put down your income in 1955. Notice that you are directed to put down all income. That means, put down your total income as though no deductions had been made by your employer for fereral income tax, social security, union dues, charity and contributions, etc.

But in using Form 1040 you may have to go behind the scenes and do a little figuring before you put down your 1955 income. This is because business-connected expenses are deducted here.

THERE ARE FOUR TYPES of business connected expenses deductible at this point. Just what is included under each heading is set forth in detail on pages 5 and 6 of the instructions pamphlet under the title "trade and business deductions of employees." (Expenses of businessmen are not the subject here—just business expenses of employes.)

The point needing explanation is how these deductions are handled. In the case of business-connected expenses, for which your employer partly or entirely reimburses you, (except expenses of travel and transportation) you add the amount of expense money he paid you to your wages. Then you subtract all the law allows you to deduct, up to the amount of expense money you received. This may be less than the expense money you got, and that would mean entering at Line 5 the total of your wages plus expense money you cannot deduct. But if your allowable business-connected deductions are more than the expense money you received, you can deduct the remainder among your personal expenses, on page 2 of the form, under miscellaneous expenses. In either case, attach a worksheet, showing your calculations, to your Return.

In the case of the other three types of business-connected expenses—out-of-town travel costs, other transportation, and expenses of outside salesmen—you add to your wages the amount of expense money you received, then subtract the total of your allowable expenses, (whether less or more than the expense money you got). Enter the result as your total wages for the year.

This sounds complex, but it is worthwhile, because proper handling of your busines-connected expenses influences your adjusted gross income (total income less business-connected expenses). And the adjusted gross income figure is the basic figure from which your tax is computed.

• • •

BUSINESSMEN AND FARMERS deduct their business expenses on separate schedules.

The law allows you a minimum of 10 per cent of your adjusted gross income, within certain dollar limits, as tax-free, personal expenses. You can claim 10 per cent, or the dollar maximum, in the tax computation table at the bottom of page 2 of Form 1040. The dollar limits are $1,000 on a joint return, $500 for a married person filing separately, or $1,000 for all others.

If you think your deductible expenses may come to more than that (this includes deductions of both husband and wife on a joint return) you can claim the total by itemizing. You list your itemized expenses in the special box for them on page 2 of Form 1040.

Deductible items are listed, and their handling explained, in the instructions pamphlet, beginning on page 11. There has been no change in deductions from last year. The change this year is that you can now itemize your personal expenses while using the short form.

In a nutshell, deductible expenses include contributions to churches, charities and many non-profit organizations; interest paid by you, including interest often disguised as "handling charges" in installment payment contracts, within certain limits; most non-federal tax payments; your net loss resulting from fire, storm, auto accident, shipwreck, storms or thefts; medical and dental costs over and above 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income, within dollar limits listed in the instructions (the dollar limits, but not the 3 per cent rule, apply to persons 65 or over); expenses of child care under specific limits; allowable business-connected expenses not deducted on page 1.

Expenses reimbursed by insurance benefits are not deductible, but the cost (to you) of accident and health insurance is deductible, as a medical cost.

Next comes another item that may be of considerable benefit to you. Like your business-connected expenses, it can reduce your adjusted gross income. This is the sick pay exclusion. This provision of the 1954 tax code lets you exclude (within limits) from your income amounts you received from your employer while you were away from work due to illness or injury.

• • •

HERE are the sick pay rules (more clearly and fully than set forth in the instructions):

In the case of absence from work due to injury, your sick pay exclusion begins with the first dollar paid while you were away. In the case of sickness, it begins only with your second week's sick pay, unless you were hospitalized at least one day the first week. In that case, the exclusion begins with your pay for the first day away.

It is easy to figure out the amount of your income you can set aside, tax free (exclude) as sick pay.

The top amount you can claim is $100 a week.

Therefore, if you make anything up to and including $100 a week, you can exclude all the sick pay you receive (except that the first week's pay in the case of illness—not injury—may not count). Just determine your daily rate of pay (your weekly pay divided by the number of days in your normal work week), and multiply that by the number of work days when you were absent and paid. That is your total exclusion.

Since the top rate is $100 a week, persons who earn more than $100 a week get their exclusion like this: Divide $100 by the number of days in your normal work week. That gives you your daily exclusion. Then multiply by the number of work days you were absent. That gives you your total exclusion. But remember that in the case of illness, the first week's pay may not count.

• • •

THE REVENUE SERVICE has ruled that pregnancy itself is not an illness. So if you were on paid absence due to pregnancy, that alone does not make your leave pay excludable. But if you were actually ill during any of that time, your pay for the work days you were ill is deductible.

You may have changed jobs during the year. If so, your employers may have collected more than the $84.00 maximum of Social Security (F.I.C.A.) tax. If this happened, you can claim credit for the surplus you paid at Line 5 on Form 1040, page 1. Write "F. I. C. A. tax" in the "where employed" column. If you are filing a joint return and both have this type of credit, compute and claim them separately.

Also, you may have made estimated tax payments in 1955 in addition to withholdings from your salary. You get credit for this on line 17b of Form 1040, page 1.

Persons with wage and salary income only, now have the information they need to complete the new "wage earner's short form."

OPERATION WIFE SAVER
MERRY MODERN says:
For what it costs to dry clothes electrically for 1 year... you can dry clothes for 7 years with flame-fast gas!*

Don't be fooled! Gas drying is faster, more efficient, thriftier by far! You really save and save — especially with children in the family. Clothes whiz through the wash, come fluff-dried for just a penny a load. A gas dryer steams out wrinkles, eliminates up to one-third of your usual ironing. Fewer clothes and linens bought because you need less time for washing and drying. Less storage space too. No wear and tear from outdoor line-drying, no extra laundry help necessary. And remember, only a gas dryer is fast enough to keep up with your automatic washer!

The perfect Wife-Saver partner in the automatic gas laundry is an automatic gas water heater.

Exercise In Propaganda

There reached this desk Monday morning a small cardboard box bearing several small hunks of slate-like rock, accompanied by a note reading:

"Put this Chinle rock in a clean ash tray and pour water on it. This rock came from the walls of Glen Canyon, where the Bureau of Reclamation wants to build Glen Canyon Dam and reservoir, the key unit of the proposed gigantic Upper Colorado River Project. You can see what happens. It disintegrates!"

Well, we did and darned if it didn't leaving behind some pretty bilious-looking sediment.

The note was signed by Craig Hosmer, member of Congress from Long Beach, Calif. Brother Hosmer went to the trouble of having a couple of geologists certify that the Chinle rocks came from the site designated, which was flown by helicopter to Lee Ferry, Arizona, and "then and there were delivered to Congressman Craig Hosmer of California." Dated December 20, 1955.

We don't know just what Brother Hosmer was trying to prove, but the rock dissolved, all right. He never did come right out and say he was ag'in the Glen Canyon project, but perhaps he relied on the philisophy that there are sermons in stones.

Who paid for the geologists, the helicopter and other incidentals of this ingenious and imaginative demonstration we don't know, but the little box bore a 12c postage stamp bearing the likeness of Zachary Taylor, "Old Rough and Ready," who was President of the United States at the time of the Gold Rush. You could count on a died-in-the-wool Californian to think of a little refinement of detail like that.

We don't know how our fellow-editors were impressed with this performance in propaganda, but we were greatly intrigued. What won't they think of next?

Henry L. Mencken

The death of Henry L. Mencken at 75 removes from the American scene a man who in some ways resembled Britain's George Benard Shaw. Like Shaw Mencken developed the art of stirring up the animals to a high degree, but he lacked Shaw's consuming egotism, as he lacked the Irishman's superior intelligence and occasional warmth of feeling. Shaw used the technique of controversy largely for promotional purposes as did Mencken, but when he smashed an idol he usually offered something in its place. By contrast Mencken smashed for smashing's sake.

In the end, probably only one of Mencken's works will constitute an enduring and really worthwhile contribution to American literature. That will be his Dictionary of the American Language, a monumental, scholarly work painstakingly researched and touched with greatness.

The Baltimorean might well have chosen as his own the motto of a Texas controversialist of half a century ago who called himself K. Lamity Bonner, whose "Harpoon" bore the slogan: Minnows are safe; I am out after whales."

Mencken was a sort of gadfly, a scoffer, a master of ridicule rather than innectine. He gloried in agnosticism, and he harped on if he did not originate the expression, the "Bible Belt," at which he poked endless fun.

Henry L. Mencken is gone the way of all grass, but the Bible Belt is flourishing like the green bay tree, thank you.

Cost Accounting

LEWISTOWN, Ill. (AP)—According to local raconteur Perry Bailey, 85, buying for cash rather than credit used to cost more back in 90's. It's one of his favorite stories.

Charles Griffin, wagon maker, was confronted by the town's biggest deadbeat in 1890 with a request to fix a wheel. Griffith made the repair, and when the poor-credit-risk asked the price, the tradesman replied, "It's $2.75 if you pay cash. $2.50 to charge it."

Puzzled, the customer understood after Griffith explained, "You're a deadbeat. If you charge it, you won't pay, so that's why it's only $2.50 for credit. I don't want so much on my books."

Wide Awake Fires

ENID, Okla. (AP)—Enid firemen said cigarettes were probably responsible for two divan fires in the same day recently—but they couldn't blame the blazes on persons falling asleep while smoking. The two unoccupied divans were sitting outside stores in the downtown section.

Revival Of Credit Control Talk Makes Businessmen Sit Up And Take Notice

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (AP)—Like Phoenix, the spectre of government controls on instalment buying rose from the ashes last week. And a somewhat startled business community sat up and took notice.

Many businessmen had considered government controls on consumer credit a dead duck—laid to rest 3½ years ago when regulation W expired.

Regulation W said you had to pay so-and-so much down on a new car, appliance or TV set and gave you so-and-so many months to pay off the balance. You needed more cash than under today's liberal terms and your monthly instalments were bigger.

Most people looked on regulation W as a temporary wartime measure. So there was a ripple of surprise when President Eisenhower told Congress in his economic report that standby authority to set down payment and instalment terms would be a "useful adjunct" to the government's credit-regulating powers.

In the President's corner were conservatives who felt an unrestrained credit-buying binge like that of 1955 might bring on a boom-and-bust cycle. Outstanding consumer instalment debt at the end of the year was a whopping 30 billion dollars.

But there was a barrage of protests from merchants who have come to rely on credit as a potent sales tool.

Steel company earnings made headline news this week. Record profits were reported by Bethlehem, Republic, Jones & Laughlin, and Youngstown Sheet & Tube. Bethlehem's president, Eugene Grace, announced plans for a record two-year expansion program; Charles White said Republic's management had revised its expansion planning upward because of "the promising outlook."

There was every indication that the zoom in steel would continue despite new cutbacks by the automakers. Production for the week ended Jan. 21 reached an all-time high of 2,437,000 tons with the industry running at 99 per cent of its newly increased capacity. Operations this week were scheduled at 2,413,000 tons or 98 per cent of capacity, but actual output may be higher.

The stock market failed to develop a consistent trend last week. There were signs of a half-hearted recovery from the recent sinking spell but trading was light. Cotton futures prices moved briskly higher. There was good news for farmers who have seen prices of their products fall steadily in the past few years. The Department of Agriculture reported that farm prices have improved slightly since the first of the year, reversing the long downward trend. Most significant were recent increases in on-the-hoof prices of hogs and cattle.

Retail trade continued to hold a slight edge over year-ago volume. Department store sales at latest count were 3 per cent higher than in the corresponding week of last year. That compares with a lead of around 7 per cent during December.

Briefly over the business scene: A king-sized check — for $642,600,000 — was handed to the Ford Foundation this week, winding up the first public offering of Ford Motor Co. stock. The stock sold over the counter this week at close to its original offering price of $64.50 a share. Louis Wolfson resigned as a director of Montgomery Ward. Volkswagen gave up its plan to assemble automobiles in a former Studebaker plant at New Brunswick, N. J. It will be cheaper the company said, to keep on making the cars in Germany and ship them here.

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

SURPRISED BY JOY: The Shape of my Early Life. By C. S. Lewis. Harcourt, Brace.

This Englishman, who teaches literature at Cambridge and writes both fiction and nonfiction for grownups and young folks, has had what is, I suppose, a not uncommon experience among earnest, thoughtful, sensitive people:

Brought up a Christian, he abandoned his faith and then returned to it.

In this book he tells the story. There is of course a background of arresting comments on education, the blessing of good, cheap books, the pleasures of childhood and youth, boys' morals in England's segregated schools. There is one conversation in which Lewis is senior doggedly and hilariously shuts his ears to his son's words and will not be dissuaded from the untruth fixed in his mind.

So is the author himself hard to dissuade, first from Christianity and then from atheism. His mother's death is the first blow: in his teens, in World War I, he becomes a professed disbeliever a materialist, with a weakness for fairy spirits and fantasy, to be sure, but a conviction that nothing was real but "atoms, evolution and military service."

But as he warns—and the professional book burners often claim the opposite—"a young man who wishes to remain a sound atheist cannot be too careful of his reading," and he wasn't too careful himself: Chesterton, Yeats, Maeterlinck, Bergson, even Euripides, plus the example and arguments of friends, lead him back to atheism and Christianity. Your own mind may be made up so that you willingly follow him in one direction but refuse to follow in the other. Yet every step of the way, this is a truly spiritual journey, valuable because it is so unsparingly honest.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Children Of Congressman From Kansas Bring Horse

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—The four children of Congressman William Avery (R-Kan) aren't as homesick now for the friends and farm they left as when the family moved here last year. Their father brought them their favorite horse when he returned in December after touring his district.

Korab, the part Arabian cow pony, was toted from the wide-open spaces by the congressman in a trailer. The trip took two days and two nights and the lawmaker had to bed down, feed, and exercise the animal en route.

The congressman was living in the roomy house built by his father in 1915 on a farm near Wakefield where he raised Hereford cattle, before his election to Congress in November, 1954.

His children, Bill, 14, Barbara, 9, Bradley, 5, and Martha, 3, loved country life and the animals who were their friends.

Their move to Washington with their mother after school closed last June called for considerable adjustment, and even the excitement of sightseeing the nation's capital and seeing their father in the Congress of the United States, and, for the three eldest, getting settled in a new school, didn't do for them what the arrival of Korab did. Now with a chance to take turns riding their pet their interest in other things is perking up.

Bill, a student at the Landon Boys School here, is fond of sports. Barbara has taken up tap dancing and is studying piano. All the youngsters are musical, says their mother, who majored in music and studied violin at Park College, Parkville, Mo., and, before her marriage to Wakefield's "most eligible bachelor" in 1940, taught music in the public schools.

Mrs. Avery was an active campaigner for her husband in the '54 elections whenever she could manage it.

"I delivered posters and greeted people everywhere,' 'she said. "I made my first political speeches after the August primary and really enjoyed the experience. Frequently my husband would take one of the children along with him on a trip in the district and now and then he takes them to Capitol Hill.

Widespread Use Of Chemicals In Foods Causes Problem For Food And Drug Unit

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (AP)—A big and sometimes controversial story is being told in small print on the labels of food packages found on your supermarket shelves.

It's the story of chemical additives, designed to improve on nature in the appearance, taste, smell or lasting qualities of food products.

Speaking in generalities, as the consumer often does, you can build a case for or against these objectives. Some, for example, have found cause for alarm in such developments as these:

1. A recent finding by the Food and Drug Administration that three coal tar dyes widely used to put red and orange hues in food are poisonous when taken in large quantities.

2. A report by a congressional committee in 1951 that of 704 chemicals used or proposed for use in food, only 428 were known definitely to be safe.

3. A finding by an English scientist that dogs developed running fits when fed a diet of flour "matured" with nitrogen trichloride, routinely used by millers for some 30 years.

4. Published speculation as to what effect agricultural chemicals—such as weed killers, pest killers and hormone like substances in animal feed—might have on the human who consumes the affected meat or vegetable product.

On the other side of the balance budget, it is widely acknowledged that chemicals have played and are playing a vital part in making the nation's food supply the most bountiful and healthful in the world today.

Few quibble about the fact that much of the milk we consume is fortified by vitamin D, while our bread is enriched with thiamin, riboflavin, niacin and iron. Or that in this supermarket era of ready-mixes and precooked frozen food, many other chemicals are used constantly to boost nutritional values, to improve cooking qualities and taste, to prolong "shelf life" of packaged products, to slow deterioration and prevent mold.

Chemical names on food labels aren't much help to the average food buyer who isn't a chemist. Would it help, for instance, to know that a product you thought of buying had been treated with ethylenediaminetetracetic acid?

The job of policing the nation's food supply falls largely on the shoulders of the Food and Drug Administration, a division of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Last year its regular paid staff consisted of some 800 men and women; it had about 200 inspectors to check nearly 100,000 plants and warehouses; its share of the nation's multi-billion-budget was a mere $5,484,000.

"Hardly a day goes by without our being confronted with some new phase of this problem," says FDA Commissioner George P. Larrick. "Usually it's in the form of a new chemical additive which is being proposed for the improvement of some food product.

"The emergence of new chemicals demanding entry into the food supply is running far ahead of scientific knowledge needed to be sure of their safety."

Fortunately, food producers are as interested in the safety of their products as the consumer and the FDA. From a commercial standpoint alone, it is bad business to put a possibly harmful item on the market.

With a small budget and limited manpower, it is impossible for the FDA to shoulder the burden and responsibility of pretesting all the new formulas proposed. At the moment the big problem is to set up sensible procedures for testing chemicals before the public can be used as unwitting guinea pigs.

The current Congress has in its hoppers at least eight bills dealing with chemicals in food. While there seems to be no disagreement about the necessity to pretest, there is some division of opinion on the best way to set up safeguards under the law.

FDA is strongly in favor of regulations which require manufacturers of chemicals to assemble their own proof of a chemical's safety for presentation to the FDA for study and clearance before marketing. This procedure now is in limited effect under a new amendment to the food, drug and cosmetic law dealing with pesticide residues on farm products.

The amendment, Larrick points out, in effect "puts the great scientific resources of industry to work with us on this all-important question of safety. It makes the manufacturer of the pesticide responsible for establishing that his product is useful and that it can be used in safe amounts."

For the most part, the problem of additives isn't merely what a small quantity of a chemical used for a specific purpose may do to the human who consumes it infrequently. The problem is the effect of repeated small doses over months or years.

FDA has for some time operated on a rule of thumb which requires that a chemical have a "hundred-fold margin of safety." That means in practice that it requires that a quantity 100 times the amount of normal intake prove to be harmless to the testing animals. That is a large margin, but with some of the new, complex chemicals, no one has yet been able to devise tests to establish their harmlessness under all conditions.

In the case of the dogs with running fits, for example, the chemical process was discontinued instantly but no one really knows how a human—as opposed to a dog—system reacts to flour treated with the suspect chemical. As far as is known, no human ever was injured by it.

There is practically no such thing in this country today as "natural food." Few people realize it, but chemicals are used at every point in food processing from field to table. Chemical additives are used as stabilizers, preservatives, disinfectants, antioxidants, extenders (quantity increasers), tenderizers, emulsifiers, growth - promoters, fumigants, herbicides, defoliants (hair removers), fungicides, miticides (mite killers) bleaches, sweeteners, conditioners, colorants and to improve flavor.

Chemicals are used in curing meats; textures of many products like ice cream are improved by such chemicals as polyoxyethlene derivitives; canned tomatoes and apple slices, which tend to fall apart, are improved by additions of small amounts of certain calcium salts; some brewers keep a head on beer with cellulose gum; even the appetizing color of asparagus soup may be simply color added for eye appeal.

This list of additives is constantly growing and as a result the FDA must be constantly checking.

Air-Conditioned Docks For Fishing Latest Sooner Fad

By INEZ ROBB

TULSA, Okla.—A few days ago, I read a newspaper account of an air-conditioned tennis court now under construction in Palm Springs, Calif. But little bitty ole projects of that kind only curl the lip of your true Tulsan, who does things in a big way.

The fishing dock, heated in winter and air-conditioned in summer, is the invention and gift of this region to the nation's year-round sportsmen. Winter or summer, the Oklahoma angler just sits in a big arm chair—rocks, if he's a mind to—drops his bent pin in an open well in the center of the dock and hauls in his catch.

Not only does a feller fish in comfort, but he gets more pounce to the ounce. The fish are no fools, according to local stories, and fight to get taken onto an air-conditioned dock in summer and a heated one in winter.

The docks are also equipped with television, but so far the fish have shown no interest in Jackie Gleason. Teevee is for the tired Isaak Walton who needs to rest his bent elbow-bent, that is, from constantly hauling in his catch.

What beats me is not that Oklahoma ingenuity has devised hot-and-cold running docks for its fisherman, but that there is enough water in this state to support a minnow, much less a dock.

When I lived here 30 years ago, a kid couldn't float a canoe in the Arkansas by mid-July. Drinking water was still purchased in 10-gallon jugs and a Saturday night bath was par for the course, due to the shortage of water rather than sanitation.

But 30 years later, citizens of my adopted home town can drink tap water and bathe daily. Above and beyond that, the town is full of bona fide yachtsmen, complete with compass and cap.

In the intervening years, this once-parched state, sometimes with government aid and sometimes without, has developed one of the greatest systems of artificial lakes, dams and reservoirs in the nation.

Texoma Lake on the Red River near Denison is 75 miles long and deep enough to float a modified Queen Mary. Grand Lake, 80 miles northeast of Tulsa, is 50 miles long and not only supports a flotilla of yachts but 50 of the hot-and-cold fishing docks mentioned earlier.

Other big lakes and dams, which furnish fine fishing and boating, include Fort Gibson, Tenkiller Ferry, Greenleaf, Wister, Murray, Carl Blackwell, Hulah and Heyburn. Others are in the blueprint stage.

In addition to yachts on the lakes, palatial summer cottages, some valued at $100,000 or more, now dot the shores of the lakes, and there the oil and cattle barony takes its ease.

This great water system was developed originally not for fishing and yachting but for flood control, irrigation and hydroelectric power.

But it also has provided Oklahoma with a recreation area it never had before. Oklahomans with the wherewithal are no longer forced to spend the summer in Colorado Springs where rumor 30 years ago insisted that the hotel owners put tepees in the rooms to make the Sooners feel at home.

Comedienne Has Difficulty Making Both Sexes Laugh

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Practically everybody will laugh at a woman who lets down her dignity and makes a fool of herself in public.

"But if she tries to be feminine and funny at the same time," said Jean Carroll, "men and women both subconsciously resent her."

This curious quirk in human nature, she found, was the biggest obstacle she met in becoming one of the nation's highest-paid comediennes.

Miss Carroll, who avoids using props in her half-hour monologues, is a quick-witted, handsome woman with gray-green eyes who writes most of her own material.

Her good looks have been something of a handicap, and she feels that her on-stage life would be easier if she were the dowdy type—or even dressed that way. But she firmly refuses to.

"Men in the audience instinctively resent listening to anything clever by a woman particularly if she appears poised and well-dressed," she said. "And the women resent her, too, because they are afraid the men will listen to her. It's a kind of jealousy in them. They keep thinking how nice it would be if they were up there on the stage and had all those men listening to them.

"Both the men and the women sit there as if grimly daring you to make them laugh.

"The task is to get them to feel superior to you, to overlook the fact you are feminine, and then to be so funny that they forget your sex altogether. You have to do it fast, too—in the first two minutes. And they can seem like a long two minutes."

Many comediennes do this, of course, by ridiculing themselves or falling back on boisterous pie-in-the-face routines. So far Jean has heroically resisted this easy way out.

"I have an aversion to seeing a woman make a buffoon of herself on the stage," she said.

Her stubbornness has paid off. Jean started by winning a $5 first prize at the age of 13 in a New Britain, Conn., amateur night contest. Now she earns up to $10,000 a week and has an annual income in the six-figure bracket. For the benefit of those who hate counting on their fingers, this is upward of $100,000.

She does admit to a slight feeling of envy for the wider freedom male comics enjoy.

"They can imitate a woman taking a bath or removing a girdle, and everyone will think it is howlingly funny.

"But the reverse isn't true. If I imitated a man taking a bath, it would be unfeminine. People would be asking each other, 'Well, how did she find that out—she been peeking through keyholes?' "

The humorous range for comediennes—at least lady-like comediennes—she said, was lited largely to such topics as household matters, family situations, progressive education, and the eternal war between men and women. Her own best-known monologue topics include "buying a mink coat," "At day at the race track," and "Bringing up her daughter."

Virginians Get Their Deer But It's Costly

STRASBURG, Va. (AP)—Cecil L. Burke of Strasburg and Ernest R. Clem Jr., of Winchester, got their deer, but they were costly.

Burke's truck turned over after striking a deer, damage $300. Clem got off lighter, damage to his station wagon only $75. And they couldn't keep the meat which, under state law, must be turned over to a hospital or charitable institution.

RADIO-TV REPORT

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—As the political battle grows hotter in this election year the new weapon of television has an increasingly heavy—and more controversial—role.

Whereas an office-seeker addresses hundreds from the rear platform of a train, he speaks to millions when he confronts a television camera.

In the general election din this year, you'll frequently hear voices crying "Equal time!" This means that somebody got winged and wants a chance to stand up and wing an opponent or an idea in return.

Equal time on television is a sporting, democratic, American ideal. The only trouble with it is that it simply will not work every time the adversaries want it to worm. The networks, alertly mindful of their obligations, adhere to the ideal as closely as they can. But if, as this year grows older, they granted equal time to everybody who wanted it there would be little time left for anything else.

Last week Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson called for equal time—or its equivalent. He felt that Ed Murrow's See It Now on CBS-TV had done wrong by his farm policies in a program entitled "The Farm Problem: Crisis in Abundance." The Secretary appeared briefly on the program, but he wanted more time to come back and rectify what he claimed was a "distorted impression" of the farm picture.

Then, before CBS had received his formal request for time, Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) raised up and said that if the network gave Benson time, he wanted time to reply to Benson. The specific words of his telegram were:

"If time is granted to the secretary of agriculture, I respectfully request an opportunity to share the program or be given equal time."

Now if Humphrey receives that time, what is to prevent a Republican senator from an agricultural state to request equal time to answer him? And that senator, whoever he might be, could rightfully argue that if Humphrey received it, he should too.

There is no easy panacea for solving the television industry's problem of equal time. It seems that each case in this tense election year will have to be worked out on its own merits.

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

GOING INTO LAST night's games, 26 players in District 1-AAA were averaging 10 points or better per game. The Tigers are one of three teams who have as many as four players in the 10-point average or above bracket which brings up this point:

"Why aren't the Tigers in the running for the 1-AAA title with so many players averaging 10 or more points per game."

There are two parts to the answer. They are:

1. Lack of height, meaning the team has no big boy (6-5 or better) to cope with the tree-toppers on such teams as Palo Duro, Monterey, Levelland and Sweetwater.

2. The three conference games before Christmas which came before the Tigers had time to get ready due to the extended football season.

Height Chief Obstacle

The latter probably wouldn't have made much difference in so far as the title is concerned because the Tigers still wouldn't have had the sky-scraper.

But the Tigers would, perhaps, be higher in the standings at present were it not for the early conference games.

Then, anyway, one of the four Tigers averaging 10 points or better, Jack Spikes, didn't see action in any of the three pre-Christmas games due to a football injury.

The other three Tigers averaging better than 10 points per game are water walloped the Dons, 61-0, at ry Taylor.

Monterey and Big Spring are the other two teams with four players in the 10-point average bracket. Palo Duro, Sweetwater, Plainview and Lamesa each has three and Levelland two in this category. Vernon doesn't have a 10-point per game player.

Coach Bob Percival of Vernon, apparently, has been searching dilligently for a winning combination this season. He has only one player, Pee Wee Morris, who has seen action in all of the Vernon District 1-AAA games.

Sweetwater, Palo Duro Feuding

Some feuding is going on between Palo Duro and Sweetwater.

It all started last fall when Sweet- water walloped the Done, 61-0, at Amarillo.

Putt Powell, Amarillo sports scribe, claims that Sweetwater played its first defensive team all the way and used only a few offensive subs.

Then, a coupla weeks ago, Palo Duro whacked the Mustangs, 62-45, in a cage contest in the Mustang playhouse which killed Sweetwater's chances for winning the 1-AAA title.

Powell said Palo Duro didn't pull away to their decisive win until the last part of the ball game but said Billy Savage (Sweetwater coach) came over after the game and told Tom Gilley (Palo Duro coach), "You sure poured it on us once you got started."

"That's the heights of something, isn't it?" Powell concluded.

Sweetwater has yet to play Palo Duro at Amarillo and you can rather expect the "fur" to fly when the Mustangs visit the Panhandle city the night of Feb. 7.

However, we don't believe the Dons can run up the score unmercifully on the Mustangs in basketball as the Mustangs apparently did the Dons in football.

Sweetwater was far more powerful than Palo Duro in football than Palo Duro is superior to the Mustangs in basketball.

Ira Sweeps Two Off Hermleigh

IRA, Feb. 1—Ira swept both games of a doubleheader with Hermleigh here Tuesday night, the local girls winning by 50-32 and the boys by 31-24.

For the Ira girls it was their 18th straight victory against no defeats this season and gave them a 7-0 conference record. The Ira boys stayed in contention for the district honors by winning Tuesday. The Bulldog conference record is 5-2.

Baleria Eubanks led the Ira girls with 32 points, equalling the total score of the Hermleigh sextet. Miss Davis was high for Hermleigh with 16.

Jerry Ford led the Ira boys to victory with 12 points, followed by Tom Echols with 11. Bill Mack Davidson was high for Hermleigh with eight.

Next on tap for the Ira teams will be Thursday night when they host Fluvanna. Then the Ira quints will compete in the Hermleigh tourney this weekend.

By TED SMITS

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—A five-foot Swiss milkmaid and three fair-haired Finnish girls won gold medals in the winter Olympic games today, stopping Russia's collection of championships for the second straight day.

Madeleine Berthod, petite Switzerland farmer's daughter who had been plagued by bad luck in the two slalom events, tore down the Tofano course like a rifle shot to win the women's downhill championship on her 25th birthday.

She had the sensational time of 1 minute, 40.7 seconds on the approximately mile course, a lightning straightaway with no gates as in the slalom.

America's chief hope, Mrs. Andrea Mead Lawrence of Parshall, Colo., a double gold medalist in the 1952 games at Oslo, was thwarted in her third bid for a skiing title. She finished well back in the slow time of 1:55.2.

A sturdy blonde miss, Siiri Ramtanen, came from behind on the last leg of the women's 15-kilometer ski relay race to bring Finland an upset victory over Russia in this event.

At the end of these two championship events, with 15 of the 24 now completed, Russia held to its unofficial team lead with 94 points, followed by Austria with 48½, Norway, 44, and Sweden, 43.

The United States, expected to win the men's figure skating today and the women's title tomorrow, trails with 9½ points. American hopes picked up with the standout performances of its figure skaters and the Yanks' upset 4-1 hockey victory last night over the Canadians.

The powerful Russian girls, who swept the first two places in the individual ski championship last Sunday, led at the two-thirds mark of the nine mile, 564 yard race through the Ampezzo Valley.

Then Finland's Siiri Ramtanen, a sturdy little blonde, sped through the valley to overtake Russia's Radjja Eroschina in the anchor leg of three miles, 188 yards, to win by 100 yards.

The Finns were overjoyed at winning their second gold medal of the games.

Finland was timed in one hour, nine minutes and one second. Russia was second in 1:09.28 followed by Sweden, Norway, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The U.S. had no entries in this race.

LEADING FIGURES FOR U.S.—America's Tenley Albright, 20, right, of Newton Center, Mass., and Carol Heiss, 16, of Ozone Park, N.Y., join together on the rink at Cortina d'Ampezzo after performing in the compulsory figures at the Winter Olympics. Tenley, despite a leg injury and a cold, built up a strong lead in the competition with Carol in second place. Compulsory—or school figures—counts 60 per cent in the competition. The other 40 per cent is graded on free skating, scheduled Thursday.

Lincoln School Cage Champs

One basketball team from the Abraham Lincoln School here took a district championship and another reached its district finals during the weekend.

The teams participated in district tournaments of the Negro section of the Interscholastic League at Lubbock. Daniel Johnson, principal of the school and coach, said the girls team took championship of its class by default, since no other team in that class appeared. The team, however, played a practice game with a team from Spur while there and won 16-15. Maxine Cobb led scoring with 10 points, followed by Mendia Hunter with six. Others on the team were Ora Swain, Louise Archie, Karen Sue Giff, Vonnie Cobb, Mable Williams, and Sheryl Sanford. Mrs. Lois Powell is girls coach.

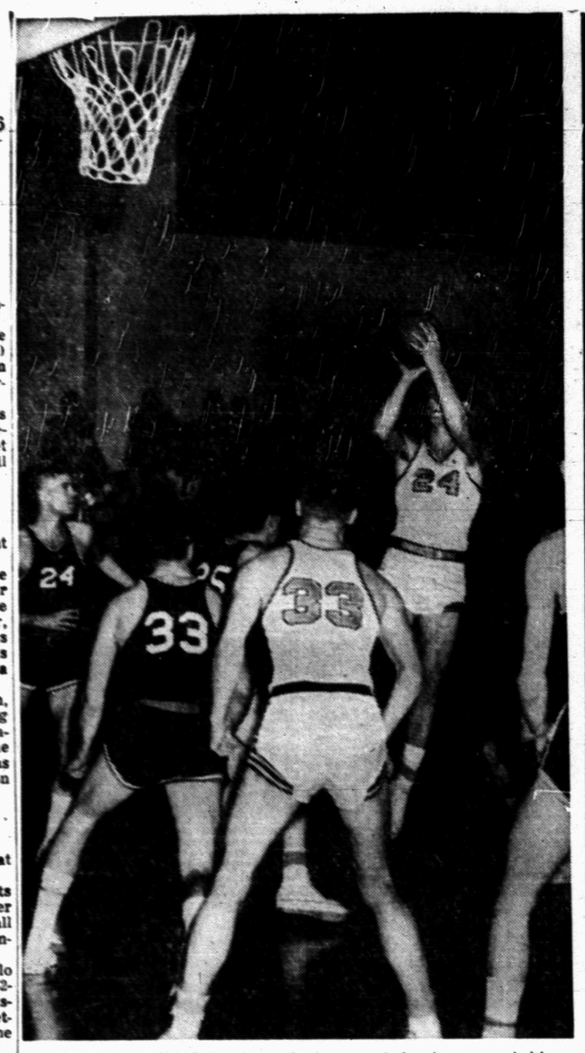

The boys team lost in district finals to Floydada 26-22, with Robert Cobb heading the Snyder scorers with 10 and Lloyd Hood following with four.

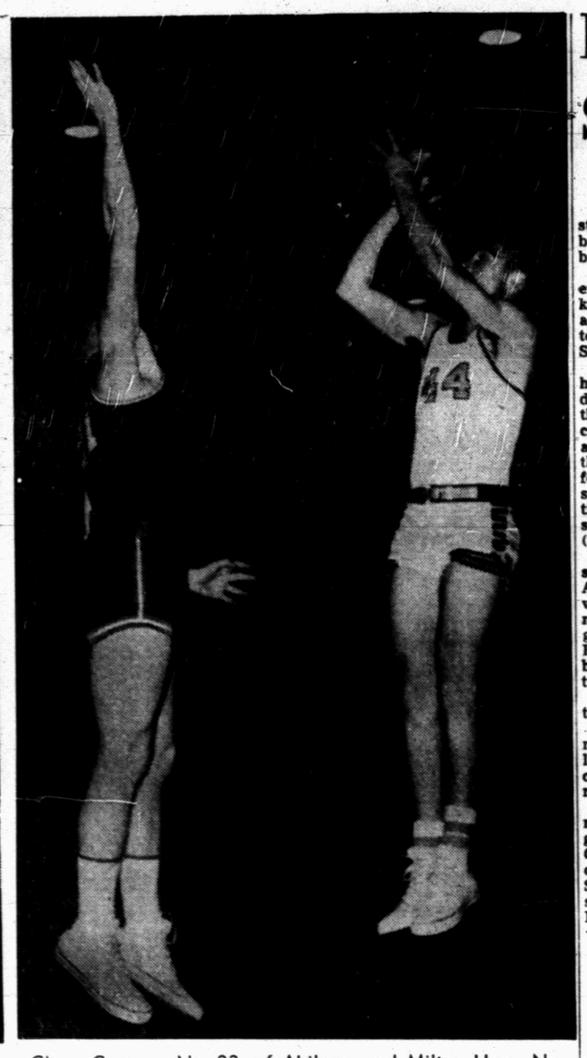

In semi-finals, the Snyder team took a saga squad from Levelland 21-14, Cobb led scoring in that game with 11 points. The Snyder five had taken Tahoka 21-2 in the first round of the tourney, with J. B. Archie topping scorers in that game with 14.

Other members of the boys teams are A. C. Thomason, W. C. Stilwell, Randolph Williams, Joe Arthur Phillips, and Roger Huntsman.

In some cases the Snyder teams were competing against high schools in the games. The Snyder school is an elementary school.

Johnson said the teams will be scheduling more basketball games in the near future. Recently completed at the school is a new physical education room which includes a basketball court.

By BUCK FRANCIS

The most fabulous shooting exhibition perhaps ever seen in a high school basketball game was unreeled at Tiger Gym last night when the visiting Abilene Eagles came from behind in the second half to snatch a 76-72 victory over the hustling Tigers in a non-district contest.

The victorious Eagles posted an almost unbelievable 70.7 shooting percentage from the floor, hitting 31 of 40 attempts. And the Tigers weren't far behind in this category, hitting 30 of 44 shots from the field for 67.5 percentage.

Abilene had a near perfect third quarter when they connected on 11 of 12 field goal aims. It was in the third quarter that the Warbirds got back in the ball game after trailing almost all of the first two periods.

The Tigers led 17-14 after the first quarter and boosted their lead to 10 points, 30-20, mid-way through the second before the Eagles battled back to narrow the gap to five points at halftime, 34-29.

Then the Eagles cut loose with some ferocious shooting in the final two quarters, hitting 20 of 23 attempts from the floor for 86.9 percentage and thus pulled the game out of the fire.

The only thing that kept the Eagles from running the Tigers out of the gym during the second half was that the Bengals, too, were hitting the bucket with fair regularity. The Tigers took 19 shots at the basket in the second half and made 14 for 73.7 percent.

Little Vallie Malone, who didn't get into the game in the first half, led the Eagle comeback in the third quarter that finally saw the Warbirds overtake the Tigers with one minute left in the period.

Malone pumped in four field goals during the third quarter in as many attempts and it was he who put the Flock in the lead to stay.

Carlton Winkles gave the Eagles their first lead since early in the game with a field goal that made it 48-47 with 1:30 minutes left in the third. Then Milton Ham came right back to regain the lead for the Tigers with a fielder, 49-48, only to see Malone counter with a long one-hand jump shot to give the lead back to the Eagles, 50-49, with one minute left in the third period.

Winkles hit another two-pointer just before the third-quarter buzzer to make it 52-49.

The Eagles led throughout the fourth period but the Tigers, although 10 points down at one stage of the fourth, were breathing down the Eagles' necks almost to the end.

With a minute to go the Tigers pulled to within four points, 70-74, but two free shots by Malone that made it 76-70 virtually iced it for the Eagles. Jerry Taylor hit a fielder to cut it to the final four points difference, but time ran out before the Tigers could do any more damage.

The Tigers held the upperhand throughout the first half with Alan Snead leading the way. Snead hit five field goals in the first half, all one-handers from the corner. Snead wound up with 17 points for second high scoring honors among the Tigers.

Jack Spikes, who was held out most of the thrid quarter because of four fouls against him, led the Tigers with 20 points. Spikes got 12 of his points in the fourth period.

Mike Lockerd, Eagle center, led the winners with 23 points. Lockerd fouled out with 4:55 minutes left.

Abilene also won the B game, 63-44, doing most of its damage in the second half. Kenneth Free was high for the future Tigers with 15 points while Jim Perry was high for the Eaglets with 19.

In 1-AAA games last night Plainview defeated Sweetwater, 61-58, and Big Spring downed Lamesa, 59-48.

TAKE SWC LEAD

Mustangs Crush Baylor, 92-72

By The Associated Press

The Arkansas Razorbacks, the Cinderella team of the Southwest Conference, should have reason to fear that Southern Methodist may turn the golden carriage in which they have been riding back into a pumpkin.

The SMU Mustangs, who have yet to be defeated by a Southwest Conference team this season, smashed Baylor 92-72, Tuesday night and grabbed the loop lead with a 5-0 mark. The high stepping Mustangs polished off Texas Christian, 105-64, Saturday night after an 18-day layoff for final exams.

The Hogs take on Texas Christian at Fort Worth Wednesday night and if they get over that hurdle face their big test Saturday when they meet the Mustangs at Fayetteville.

The Hogs, who entered conference play with a lusterless 2-8 season mark, began playing like champions as soon as the chips were down. They won four straight and before the Mustangs forged ahead Tuesday night with the win over Baylor, the Hogs were tied for first honors.

The Hogs bowed to the Mustangs in early season play and the Saturday night game will show if the rejuvenation the Hogs have undergone is sufficient for them to be able to turn the tables on the Ponies, now rated 17th in the nation in The Asociated Press poll.

In other Saturday night games the cellar-dwelling Texas Longhorns meet Baylor, now tied for next-to-last place, at Austin while third ranking Rice plays Lamar Tech at Beaumont in a non-conference game.

Hitting an astounding 60.3 per cent of its shots from the field, the Mustangs went on a scoring spree in the second period to leave the Baylor Bears far behind. Jim Krebs, SMU forward was the high scorer of the evening with 30 points while Louis Estes of Baylor was second with 28 points.

Jimmy Oler of Economy, Ind., is out to break his record of 549 points scored last season for Florida State's basketball team. He averaged 20.7 points in his first three games.

Dons Roll To 41st Straight Victory

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

That San Francisco winning streak is just like money in the bank—gaining interest and getting bigger all the time.

The Dons, No. 1 in the nation, extended their major college basketball victory record to 41 games as expected last night, cavorting to a 67-40 victory over San Jose State.

At this rate, San Francisco will have a 51-0 mark when it opens defense of its NCAA crown against the Pacific Coast Conference champ in the Far West regionals at Corvallis, Ore., March 16. If the Dons can make it through the four tourney games to a second straight title, they'll match the all-time, all-college record of 55 consecutive victories hung up by Peru (Neb.) State 30 years ago.

San Francisco, now 15-0 for the season, again was led by All-America Bill Russell, 6-10½ center, who scored 21 points in his 36 minutes of play. It was a pressing game led by K. C. Jones and Hal Perry, however, that finally broke up the duel between the two defensive clubs.

The Dons led 20-14 at the half, then surged out front 51-26.

St. Francis of Brooklyn remained unbeaten, shaking loose late in the game to beat St. Peter's of New Jersey 92-82. The Terriers now are 14-0.

Elsewhere last night, North Carolina State, No. 4, walloped Virginia 99-54 in an Atlantic Coast Conference game; Southern Methodist gained full control of the Southwest Conference lead by smacking Baylor 92-72; and Coach Phog Allen went one up on rival Hank Iba as Kansas slipped past Oklahoma A&M 56-55.

St. Francis, No. 13 nationally, had a lot of trouble with St. Peter's zone and after leading 51-36 at the half, had only a one-point edge to snow with less than 6 minutes remaining. The Terriers scrambled home safely from there on with Dan Mannix high on 26 points.

N. C. State, now tied with Wake Forest for third place in the ACC, scored as it pleased against Virginia and Coach Everett Case yanked most of his regulars after rolling up a 54-21 halftime lead. SMU, hitting a remarkable 60.3 per cent of its field shots, got 30 points from Jim Krebs, who sank 12 field goals and 6-for-6 from the foul line. Lou Estes had 28 for Baylor.

THROWING AWAY KEY FOR OPERATION "72"—Don M. Hire, left, is shown throwing away the key to the Goodyear Service Store which he manages on the east side of the square to signify that the store will not close for the next 72 hours—until 9 o'clock Saturday night. With him from left, also in their night shirts which will be worn during the promotion, are from left: Burl Loving, Jerry Reeder, and J. L. Pope, store employes. (Lee Watson photograph)

Special Sale Set By Goodyear Store

The manager of the Goodyear Service Store on the east side of the square has thrown away the key to the store and will not close the business for the next 72 hours--until 9 o'clock Saturday night.

The store is holding a special sale on General Electric appliances and is promoting the sale with the stunt.

"If anyone catches me asleep during th next 72 hours they will be given free a GE Filter-Flo automatic washing machine," Don Hire, manager, said.

Special discounts will be given on purchases made between the hours of midnight and daylight during the sale, Hire said.

Another feature of the event is special trade-in allowances to be made on sale of all GE major appliances for the home.

"We must sell 72 GE appliances during the 72 hours," he said.

A goal of one major appliance sale per hour is not impossible because the GE dealer in Abilene just completed a similar sale in which more than 150 major appliances were sold during the sale.

Jeane is a 1953 graduate of Baylor University.

Scout Commissioner Staff Sets Meeting

The first commissioners staff meeting of the Lone Buffalo Boy Scout District has been scheduled for Monday at the Village Restaurant.

A large number of commissioners are expected to attend and to participate in reorganization and training of the staff.

Assistant district commissioners include W. W. Grief, Fred Davis, Royce Burrows, Wayne Stephens, Harold Lacik, Truman Black, John Tom Merritt, Forrest Beavers, and C. B. Morrow. Attending along with them will be a number of neighborhood commissioners.

A report will be made on the recent commissioners conference held at Webb Air Force Base, Big Spring, which was attended by a part of this district's staff.

The commissioners staff serves scoutmasters, cubmasters, and explorer leaders through monthly visitation, roundtables, and other scouting phases.

Simple Explanation

DEVALLS BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—The sign outside Jack Huffman's place reads: "Hundreds of well-shaped keens. Come in and feel around." There's a simple explanation, of course. The knees are cypress tree knees, cut in the White River bottoms. Boiled and peeled, they make unusual ornaments.

'Winnie-The-Pooh' Writer Dies Tuesday

HARTFIELD, England (AP)—The father of Christopher Robin and Winnie-the-Pooh, Alan Alexander Milne, 74, died last night. He had been in poor health for the past three years.

The author of the children's classics also was a noted playwright, novelist, essayist and humorist. His hit plays included "Mr. Pim Passes By," "The Dover Road" and "Michael and Mary." Some were made into movies and played on television.

But Milne won his greatest fame and fortune with his four books of verse telling of his son's adventures with his stuffed bear Winnie-the-Pooh and other toy companions. The first, "When We Were Very Young," appeared in 1924, followed by "Winnie - the - Pooh" (1926), "Now We Are Six" (1927) and "The House at Pooh Corner" (1928).

Rabies Cause Death Of Bats In Caverns

No one was reported bitten by the bats.
