White Deer Boy Killed, Another Hurt, in Two Accidents Thursday

Mauldin Boy Dies at 4 o'Clock Today in Hospital

HOPE McCARTY HIT BY AUTO

Lad Runs in Front of Car Driven by Amarillo Man

One White Deer boy is dead and another is lying seriously injured in the Pampa hospital as a result of two motor accidents in the neighboring town last evening. The accidents occurred within two hours of each other.

Henderson Clayton Mauldin, 13 year old, died at the Pampa hospital at 4 o'clock this morning from injuries received when a car he was driving ran into a ditch three miles north of White Deer yesterday evening about 7 o'clock. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Mauldin, of White Deer. Mr. Mauldin is a carpenter there.

The Mauldin youth was driving an old Ford touring car. It is not known how the accident occurred but it is thought the engine dropped out of the car causing it to run into a ditch. The steering wheel crushed the boy's ribs two piercing his lungs and one a kidney.

He was immediately rushed to the Pampa hospital, where local physicians made every effort to save the boy's life but without avail.

Besides his parents, he is survived by two sisters, Edith and Florence and two brothers, Clyde and Woodrow.

The body is at the Malone Funeral home here and will be taken to White Deer for burial tomorrow afternoon. Funeral services will be held at the Church of Christ.

BOY RUNS IN FRONT OF PASSING AUTO

Hope McCarty, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee McCarty, of White Deer, is in the Pampa hospital suffering from a fractured skull and other serious injuries. The youngster was hit by an automobile driven by O. Dale Smith who was accompanied by C. M. Humphreys of Amarillo. Both men are connected with the Mid-Continental Petroleum company.

According to witnesses of the accident, the McCarty child chased a chicken across the road and became excited when he saw the car approaching. He had crossed in front of the oncoming car but apparently became confused and had started back across the road when the car which hit him. Efforts of the driver to avert the accident were futile.

He was immediately rushed to the Pampa hospital, where he is under the care of local physicians. The Amarillo men brought the lad here and made arrangements for his hospital care.

ROBINSON REPEATS ATTACK

EN ROUTE WITH SENATOR ROBINSON TO CASPER, Wyo., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Wyoming Democrats had before them today in their fight to swing the state's three electoral votes to Governor Smith, a reiteration by Senator Joseph T. Robinson of his charge that Herbert Hoover's policy as food administration was to "hold prices of livestock and agricultural commodities below the level of the market price."

Mrs. Frank Bryant of Amarillo is visiting her husband, who recently accepted a position with the Pampa Buick company.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Brennan left yesterday for San Angelo, after an extended visit in the home of their daughter, Mrs. W. H. Curry.

Style Show and Music to Feature Festival Tonight

More than 2,000 persons passed through the gate the opening night of the Fall Festival to see the aerial stunts and fireworks display. Because of a hitch in the time, the plane and the fireworks were not in unison but the large crowd thoroughly enjoyed both exhibitions.

Darting through the sky amid a shower of sparks and fire, the American Eagle plane piloted by Captain Ray Shifflett thrilled the crowd with stunt flying and bomb throwing. On the ground, Niagara Falls, Crown and Anchor, flags and other designs were seen in fire, while rockets and flares lighted the sky.

Tonight the big fashion show and vaudeville attractions will be featured. Latest creations from the east and west will be displayed by Mitchell's store. Murfee's and L. T. Hill and company. Local young ladies will also be models.

Between the displays of gowns, coats and dresses some of the best vaudeville acts in the southwest will be seen. Harry Wynn and his orchestra from Oklahoma City arrived here this morning and will appear on the stage in front of the grand stand at Fair park tonight. McLeod and McLeod, trick ropers, will be an added attraction, as will be LeMan and Welch in song and dance.

Local girls will form a chorus and will do specialty numbers.

Business Manager for Marmon Here to Arrange Test

Wm. J. Frazier, business manager for Dick Marmon, is in the city making arrangements for the 125-hour non-motor stop drive which Marmon will start Nov. 12. The run will be made in a stock model Chevrolet sedan furnished by the Culberson-Smalling Chevrolet Co. Mrs. Frazier is here with her husband.

Marmon will be hand-cuffed to the wheel by the chief of police and will remain there for five days, five nights, and five hours. During the run he will drink two or three malted milks and several cups of coffee every twenty-four hours, but he will not sleep or eat any solid food.

Marmon is now making an endurance test out of Elk City, Okla. This test is also a 125-hour drive in a Chevrolet. He completed 92 hours at 2 o'clock this afternoon and has 33 hours more to drive.

When the test starts here on November 12 from the Chevrolet headquarters the car will be filled with Grayco gasoline, made by the Pampa Refining Co., out of Gray County's sweet crude. The lubricating service station will furnish the oil and will keep the car greased during the run. The oil will be changed without stopping the motor. Other local stores and companies who are co-operating with Marmon in the drive are: Gray County Creamery, Rex theatre, Pampa Cocoa Cola Bottling company, Long Battery and Auto Electric, Pampa Dry Cleaners, Murry Automobile Works, Fred's Studio, City Drug Store, Gibson's Cafe, Gordon Store Co., G. C. Malone Furniture Co., Oden Music Shoppe, Pampa Hardware and Implement Co., City Steam Laundry, Pampa Florists, Hotel Schneider and Still's Jewelry.

The car will cover a radius of fifty miles each direction out of Pampa. It will pass through Pampa eight times a day, and stops will be made in front of the business houses named above. Dick Marmon has a national reputation as a racing driver. He is very popular at the speedways and has broken records several times.

After laying a heavy barrage against certain Southern ministerial leaders of Hoover-Curtis movements, former-Congressman James Young of Kaufman, speaking to a large audience at the Pla-Mor auditorium, tore into the Republican line-up with all the fervor and adjectives typical of an oldtime Democratic rally.

Dismissing the prohibition question as an issue by defining it as an unchangeable fundamental law, and characterizing it as a smoke-screen devised by the Republican machine, the speaker declared the real explanation of Hoover strength in the South is religious intolerance.

"Churches Endangered" "It is a sad spectacle in this intelligent age to see people being swayed by prejudices and influenced by speeches, literature, and propaganda that is an insult to any thinking individual," he remarked. "As a friend of the churches, I say that they will be destroyed if they continue to be swayed by the leadership which seems to be in control."

"The pulpits are sacred places where Christ should be preached and Him crucified." When our Protestant ministers desert this sacred commission by going into politics from the pulpit they are violating the spirit of the Scriptures and will destroy the churches. The church is not a place for political discussion and never will be. When preachers turn their pulpits into a political forum—that very minute—they speak to a divided church and are stirring up strife. I will never contribute to another preacher who persists in preaching politics in the pulpit."

Texas Company Brings in Big Gusher at LeFors

The Texas company continues to be an active production getter in Gray county. Not satisfied with bringing daily production to the 10,000 barrel mark, the company brought in another producer in the LeFors area yesterday afternoon to increase production to more than 11,000 barrels daily.

The company's No. 2 Langham in the northeast corner of the east half of the southeast quarter of section 1 block 2, H. and G. N. survey, came in late yesterday afternoon for an initial flow of 75 barrels an hour. Pay was coming from granite wash formation from 2,740 to 2,755 feet.

First pay was encountered last Saturday in a sandy lime formation at 2,688 feet. The well made 250 barrel a day from that depth.

This well is a west offset to the LeFors Petroleum company's No. 2 Shaw, in the LeFors townsite, which well is still holding 2,000 barrels came in four months ago for 2,300 barrels daily production. The well is the first to come in west of the LeFors townsite.

The Texas company's No. 6 Saunders in section 4, block 1, A. C. H. survey, which came in this week for 200 barrels an hour, but was pinched in made 3,043 barrels of .42 gravity yesterday.

SLAYER OF MARIAN PARKER DROPS FROM GALLOWS TODAY AT 10:10, DYING AT 10:25

Goes Unflatteringly Up to Noose, But His Legs Then Quiver and His Body Slumps to Knees

WEEPS OVER MOTHER'S LETTER AS ONE OF HIS LAST ACTIONS

Father Orders Corpse Delivered to An Undertaker—Burial Place Is Withheld From Press

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Oct. 19.—(AP)—William Edward Hickman was hanged here today for the murder of 12-year-old Marian Parker, Los Angeles school girl, whom he kidnaped last December 15.

The trap was sprung at 10:10 a. m. Hickman was pronounced dead at 10:25 a. m.

The youth who boastfully called himself "The Fox" walked to the trip white, but with little other outward appearance of emotion, consistent to the last breath with the attitude displayed since he was arrested in Oregon.

Up a flight of 13 steps, he had walked, preceded by Rev. William Fleming, priest, under whose spiritual guide he turned to Christianity while in the shadow of the noose.

His arms were strapped to his sides. On either side and behind him marched a guard. In a semi-circle were some two hundred persons who saw him die.

The priest chanted the litany of the dead from the Roman Catholic ritual as the death march progressed and Hickman made the responses. The doomed man's lips scarcely moved, but he followed without a noticeable break.

His Knees Shake Hickman walked to his death steady and straight as a ramrod, but his knees shook as he stood on the trap an instant before it was sprung.

Twenty-two seconds after he entered the gallows room, the trap was released.

The doomed man's father, William Thomas Hickman, gave Warden James B. Holahan a signed order to deliver the body to a San Francisco undertaker, but the prison official declined to state where it would be sent. It was previously announced that the body would be taken to the East for burial, but the name of the town was not stated.

Weeps Over Letter One of Hickman's last moments was spent in reading a letter from his mother, Mrs. Eva M. Hickman, of Kansas City, delivered to him a few minutes before he was led to the gallows. He wept.

It was the first time guards had seen tears in his eyes since his doom was sealed.

The contents of Mrs. Hickman's letter were not disclosed. Hickman received and read three other comforting letters from relatives during the morning.

There was a telegram from Rev. Edward Brady, in Rochester, N. Y., who was one of Hickman's first spiritual advisers after he entered San Quentin.

Youth Collapses Hickman faltered slightly as he stepped through the entrance to the gallows room and blinked his eyes. Through his paleness there came a weak smile. He glanced at the rope and mounted the stairway slowly, swaying slightly at the top.

Two of the spectators fainted, one as the trap was sprung and the other ten minutes later.

Before the trap was sprung, Hickman had collapsed until his head was within three feet of the scaffold floor. For this reason his fall was not as complete as it otherwise would have been. This was believed by guards to have delayed his death by two or three minutes.

Toms, the druggist, was killed during the holdup. Welby Hunt, now serving a life term in San Quentin for the murder, worked with Hickman on the holdup. Four months from today, Hickman would have been 21 years old.

Becomes Catholic The Rev. William A. Fleming, spiritual adviser to Hickman, set 8 o'clock for administering the final consolations of the Roman Catholic church, which faith he recently embraced. The priest paid Hickman a three-hour visit last night.

Hickman demonstrated his attitude in a note written to Russell St. Clair Beitzel, of Los Angeles, now under death sentence for murder. Beitzel was Hickman's cell mate for a time before the latter was moved to the death cell.

The note said: "I'm very comfortable here. Run. I'm not a bit frightened either. Tomorrow I'm going to walk up like a man. Say goodbye to my friends and tell them I will see them soon."

A. L. Burge went to Cordell, Okla., today.

PICTURES TELL STORY OF HICKMAN, WHO PAID PENALTY FOR GIRL'S MURDER

Here is a picture story of the kidnaping and brutal murder of little Edward Hickman was hanged at San Quentin penitentiary, California. Her father has been injured, and carried her to his apartment, where Meeting the father by appointment, he collected the money, but in of his daughter's horribly mutilated body. Hickman fled in an auto hunt in the history of the Pacific coast.

Marion Parker, 10, daughter of a Los Angeles banker, for which today. Hickman decoyed the child from school on a pretext that he wrote ransom notes to her father, signing himself as "The Fox". Instead of giving him back his child Hickman gave Mr. Parker parts and was captured at Pendleton, Ore., after the most thrilling man-

Misplaced Courage

An effective contrast is afforded by the action of Lieut. Commander H. C. MacDonald of England in hopping off on a desperate flight immediately after the Graf Zeppelin came across.

The Graf Zeppelin flight was truly helpful and scientific—enough, by the way, to elicit the praise and commendation of the presidents of two countries. On the other hand, MacDonald, even if—as seems doubtful as this is written—he made land safely somewhere, has proved nothing not already known. Repeatedly, long distance flying overland has shown the frailties of small planes and low-powered engines.

MacDonald was known before the take-off as a good pilot and a brave man. His value to the Empire was too great to permit such ill-advised risks. A wife and baby may have been left by another sea tragedy.

We have had enough demonstrations of this bravery.

Here is a Test

The nation wants Hickman hanged.

By the time this is in print society is supposed to have taken the life which itself snuffed out the life of little Marian Parker. If Hickman is dead, and Loeb and Leopold continue to live, we suppose the margin between the two penalties will be laid to Clarence Darrow. But as long as the Chicago killers are in prison, there will be some proof that justice prevails, even in the face of assaults of wealth.

Safety in Planes

We spoke recently of the growing safety of planes when this mode of transportation is used without stunting and without unnecessary risks. At the time we could not cite figures as definite as those found by the Abilene Reporter.

According to The Reporter's information, the National Air Transport lines traveled 3,306,207 miles without injury in any passenger. Who would undertake to drive any selected group of automobiles that far and gamble on there not being a single accident?

Locating Fires

There was nothing especially unusual in the performance of the fire department when it laid an unnecessarily large amount of hose Wednesday. Where the firemen do this once, the citizens many times fail to give proper location of the fires.

Now that the houses are being numbered, it will be possible to give locations by number. Marking of the streets at intersections is another need, however. It is of course advisable for firemen to know the location of every plug—or look at a chart before making the run—even though weeds obscure the view.

Every minute counts in fighting fires—counts in dollars.

Inferiority Complex

From the Los Angeles Times
A Russian woman has the hardihood to lecture against the inferiority complex in Los Angeles, as if that could be catalogued as one of the sins of California—or of an American either for that matter.

Walter Pritchard Eaton in Good Housekeeping accuses Abraham Lincoln, Mark Twain and Ralph Waldo Emerson of the same so-called disability. However, he does not seem to feel badly about it and says that may be what helped to make them "representative Americans."

Abraham Lincoln thought a little of himself that way, he proposed to a Kentucky maiden, he wrote a letter and set forth the reasons why she should not accept him, and advised her accordingly. She accepted his advice. When he delivered his Gettysburg address, he thought he had flunked and went home accusing himself of being the greatest failure of the ages.

Ralph Waldo Emerson suffered so much from overmodesty that he could not market his own works. Thomas Carlyle was similarly afflicted. So Emerson was advance agent for Carlyle in America and Carlyle officiated for Emerson along the same lines in England.

Mark Twain's case is said to have been particularly sad. His parents paid little attention to him; his brothers bossed him around; the neighbor boys roughhoused him. So he had to resort to wit to defend himself. Kipling had the inferiority complex in spots. At least the story runs that he wrote his "Recessional" and thought so little of it that he flung it into the waste basket. His wife finished it and gave it to the press.

Even Shakespeare was so modest that students have difficulty finding any trace of him in his works. To such an extent has this been carried that quite a following blame it on Bacon.

Many of the books of the Bible (and the best ones for that matter) are questioned in their authenticity because the authors did not sign their names to them.

If some one should come and lecture Californians—and also Americans—on the superiority complex, there might be reason for it.

While America was made by those of humble birth and attitude in the beginning; yet now that she has arrived, she can hardly be accused of the lowly spirit. As was said of the doughboys in France, you could always tell an American; but you could not tell him much.

The inferiority complex is not one of the great perils of the republic today.

Maybe Emerson was right. The fewer hooks a woman puts on her dress the more eyes it seems to attract.

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON—A presidential candidate who works the hardest and the same time has the most fun is Norman Thomas, the Socialist.

The bean of the Thomas candidacy is that, as compared with Smith and Hoover, he has very little to worry about. He sleeps soundly every night because his defeat is a dead certainty and victory this year is not one of his objects.

Thomas is good material for a newspaper story, first, because no one else ever bothers to write about him, and second, no one will complain whenever your poor abused correspondent does a piece about Hoover there are always reasons to write and demand why he doesn't write something about Smith and when it's about Smith there's a complaint that Hoover is being neglected.

On the basis of a Washington speech, Thomas would be the most interesting of the candidates if he had a chance of election. Although your correspondent was disappointed at hearing nothing dangerously radical, Thomas has no inhibitions. He can say whatever he likes without any danger of alienating the support of voters of some class or section. There are no doubtful states for him and no reasons to pussyfoot.

Because his speeches never are widely printed or broadcast he could use the same speech over and over again, but as a matter of fact he keeps up with campaign developments and hands both Hoover and Smith up-to-date roasts.

Thomas is a better all-round speaker than either Hoover or Smith. He can thrill his audience more than Hoover can and makes it laugh off than Smith. With the background of a minister and social welfare worker, he is more highly cultured than either the engineer or the veteran politician and cites authorities and uses words which neither perhaps ever heard of.

On top of that he claims to be the only candidate who discusses all the issues with complete frankness. He even claims to be more honest than Smith on prohibition, insisting that the first practical step in the problem's solution is a national referendum.

He attacks the Republicans for exploiting religious bigotry and the Democrats for exploiting racial bigotry. As between Smith and Hoover, he is quite impartial—he just wants one major party buried so the Socialists can form a nucleus for a new opposition party.

Meanwhile, he says, "we just love to elect a president who won't tell us beforehand where he stands on anything or what he will do about anything."

Here are some of his cracks:

"We want to catch a bandit, so we go to Nicaragua. We've given up hope of catching one in Chicago."

"We've got to have an honest election somewhere, so it might as well be in Nicaragua. Down there we're going to rubber-stamp the voters. What a great stunt that would be for New York, Philadelphia or Chicago!"

"None of us cares anything about the Eskimos now, but if oil is ever found up there we'll have a great wave of sentiment for civilizing the Eskimo."

As a humorous candidate, Will Rogers is his only rival. Smith is the "happy warrior" but Thomas says that as a believer in the principles of the Declaration of Independence he will be a "happy mourner" at the funeral of either party.

WASHINGTON—The publicity organizations of the Republican and Democratic national committees are running a neck and neck battle as the campaign gets into its final month.

The Democrats hold a record for delivering eight news stories to your correspondent in a single envelope, but Republican messenger boys arrive far more frequently.

Whenever more than an hour passes without receipt of mimeographed releases from Republican headquarters, correspondents begin to fear some accident to Mr. Hoover. When National Committee woman Caldwell of Virginia broke into fame with her "Romanized and run-ridden" letter, a whole morning passed in which no courier dashed breathlessly about town with G. O. P. news releases, and correspondents regarded this astonishing phenomena as indicating great perturbation at Republican headquarters.

The Republican publicity machine operates here where it may be viewed in all its glory and efficiency, whereas the Democratic publicity office here is just a branch of the main show in New York. The latter issues most news-propaganda release simultaneously with the New York office, together with some stuff of its own.

In addition to these mimeographed stories delivered during the day to all correspondents, the Democrats issue a weekly known as the "Democratic Campaign News" and also a weekly clipping from which pro-Smith editors can make a wide choice of favorable items.

A few weeks ago one of the Democratic publicity producers made a stupid break about Hoover's Quakerism, but the machine is now hitting on all six.

Most of the mimeographed sheets which flood into the newspaper offices consist of predictions by visiting state leaders that the party's candidate will carry such and such a state by healthy majorities, an announcement of some body's bolt or declaration for the candidate, announcements of speeches and radio hook-ups, all the latest blasts from national chairmen and other campaign leader against the opposition and news stories of speeches about to be delivered.

In both campaign organizations, the publicity divisions are among the largest departments.

The Republican director of publicity is former Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas. His assistants are Alfred Kirehofer and Harry Brown, veteran correspondents, at the head of a small corps of trained news writers.

The Democratic staff in New York is under Mrs. Henry Moskowitz. There are two women on the Republican staff, Anna Steese Richardson and Alice Fox Pitts of Buffalo. Between 50 and 200 telephone calls are received each day from newspaper and magazine writers.

Speaking of airships: Now class, how many of you really know what the word "dirigible" means?

It is probably unintentional, but Farmers' Week does not come in the period of November 6.

With candidates trying desperately not to sound like a phonograph record playing over and over again, who shall say that campaign oratory is degenerating?

Higher education evidently isn't running or ruining the country as long as the students in doubtful states stand about 50-50 on the presidential race.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Nineteen hundred cook stoves standing in a row might daunt the average housewife with their suggestions of hours of heated toil turning out flap jacks and gingerbread for a family to devour. But not so the army housewives, for when nineteen hundred electric ranges just purchased by the war department are intended. These new stoves are going to solve a lot of economic problems for the army women, according to Major General B. F. Chestnutt, quartermaster general, one of them being the servant question. Many army posts are in isolated places where it is hard to secure help.

Heretofore women who marry army men have had to get along with wood, coal or gas stoves. One can imagine with what joy these electric models will be received in a climate like that of the Philippines of Panama.

Mrs. Caroline L. Reilly of the Woman's National Democratic club has a small folding typewriter of which she is especially fond. Aside from being a great convenience, it has a sentimental value, as it was given her by the noted suffragist, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw. The typewriter was a present to Dr. Shaw from Dr. M. Carey Thomas, former president of Bryn Mawr college. Dr. Thomas and Mrs. Reilly worked together during the war. Mrs. Reilly has many recollections of the kindly wit and humor of Dr. Shaw.

"In spite of the fact that she held three degrees, Dr. Shaw was a poor speller and used to laugh about the fact as much as any of us," says Mrs. Reilly. "She once declared that she would put up a sign on her desk stating that she wanted all the paraphernalia left in its place, who is going to write the sign? I asked her shyly, 'I am,' she promptly replied. 'How are you going to spell paraphernalia?' I demanded. All the wind was taken out of the famous leader's sails.

"I don't know," she murmured and slumped down in her chair. Nothing more was said about the sign."

Not many women, home from a vacation have such a continuation of the summer joys as has the wife of the president. Although Mrs. Coolidge has left behind her the cool, green solitude of Brule, she has but to step out of the south door of the White House to find herself enclosed by woods and flowing vines and shady pools. True, she may catch a glimpse of a secret service man or a policeman patrolling the outer edge of her outdoor retreat, but otherwise she is shut off from the public gaze.

Mrs. Elmer Hardin was taken to the Pampa hospital last evening seriously ill. She is reported to be resting well this morning and out of danger.

T. B. Farless, an employee of the LeFors Petroleum company, was taken to the Pampa hospital this morning suffering with typhoid fever.

Marcelena Trafoda and Pete Kulah, employed by the Flick Construction company, are in the hospital as result of injuries received yesterday while at work on the C. and O. W. railway.

Mrs. W. E. Sherrod underwent a serious operation at the Pampa hospital this morning.

Mrs. Phoebe Worley, seriously injured in an automobile accident two weeks ago, was able to get out of her room at the hospital this morning.

SENATOR CURTIS IS HAPPY OVER RECEPTION

EN ROUTE WITH SENATOR CURTIS IN NEW JERSEY, Oct. 19.—(AP)—A full day of campaigning was ahead of Senator Charles, Republican vice-presidential nominee, as he set out today on a swing through New Jersey, going through Plainfield, Flemington and Newark to Trenton for an address tonight.

A monster rally at Camden last night sent the senator happily on his way in this state. He was given a demonstration by a crowd in the auditorium there as he assailed Governor Smith for "changing his positions."

LATEST STYLE FOR ATLANTIC FLYING

Here's Lady Drummond Hay, only woman passenger on the Graf Zeppelin, displaying what the properly-dressed woman Atlantic flyer should wear. The coat has heavy fur collar and cuffs, designed to keep one warm while flying at high altitude. This picture was taken by a photographer for Pampa Daily News and NEA Service at Lakehurst, N. J., just after Lady Drummond Hay had debarked from the huge air liner.

Robert Rose is taking work at the Dr. W. B. Wild will leave for El Paso tomorrow where he will take consistory. He left yesterday for that city, sister work.

How seldom we think of it in that light! Paul says he's going to tell their about "the grace God has given to the churches of Macedonia," in that he had made them so willingly, gladly, liberal. Turn the word into an adjective, "gracious" giving. What a pleasant sound that has! Grace is something that affords pleasure, delight, and that adorns.Example of Macedonia Is it right to appeal to an individual or a church's pride in this matter of benevolence? Paul seems to think so. His meaning is: See, how splendidly those poor provincial disciples of Macedonia have responded to my appeal. Assuredly you Christians of wealthy metropolitan Corinth are not going to fall behind them! A missionary secretary states that the item that the Burman Christians who work in the rice fields for eight cents a day were giving more for foreign missions than the average American Baptists was one of the most powerful arguments he ever used.It is a remarkable characterization of the giving of the Macedonian churches that Paul makes here. It was literally an overflowing of their gladness in the Lord and their extreme poverty in a wealth of generosity."Deep" does not adequately express the meaning of the adjective before "poverty"; it was, "bottom to the last-cent poverty." It is a common thing for joy to overflow, and sometimes into liberality; but here poverty, does it! Nor did they need to be urged, solicited; but fairly "craved the privilege" of contributing. It was all a result of their complete devotion to Christ, for they had first "given their own selves to the Lord" (Ver. 5.) When our churches are filled with people of that sort this whole matter of raising money for religious and benevolent work will take care of itself.Titus, v. 6 Titus, a Greek convert, is the disciple whom Paul and Barnabas had taken to Jerusalem as an "object lesson" (Gal. 2:1-3). He evidently stood high in Paul's regard and counsels (cp. II Cor. 7:13, 115; 8:16, 17). It the island of Crete that he received while in charge of the work on from Paul the epistle that bears his name.He should now on his second visit to Corinth expedite the neglected collection for the saints. They, the Corinthians, were abounding in many of the graces that mark and beautify Christian character; and Paul could that they should not lack this grace also; liberality of giving.Example of Jesus One reason why he does not need to command them to give is that they have ever before them the example of Jesus who was possessed in such a surpassing degree of this same grace.Though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might become rich." v. 9
In this magnificent sentence the entire gospel is expressed—into those glowing words has been packed the complete doctrine of the atonement, the vital story of the New Testament.This is the Jesus who calls us, to give ourselves, our love, our time, our money, to him. All Christian giving indeed comes back to this verse at its warrant and inspiration. It is, moreover, full of appeal; "for your sakes,"
"that ye through his poverty might become rich." "Give of your best to the Master, who gave his all for you."Beautiful Sowing, Bountiful Reaping
"He that soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly." Paul passes to the metaphor of seed-sowing as a strong contrast to the aspect of giving whichsome would call extortion (verse 5).
Rather, says the apostle, it is like a farmer's sowing of seed in a field. The farmer sows gladly, and of his own accord, because he looks forward to a harvest. He sows liberally, because he wants a generous harvest, and he knows that stingy sowing would mean a scanty harvest. In every sense this is a fruitful comparison. It puts giving on the right basis of a privilege and a joy. "And he that soweth boun-tifully shall reap also bountifully."
Paul's thoughtful readers could not fail to remember that the harvest of seed sowing is in God's providence, vastly more than the seed. The seed sown may bring forth thirty-fold, sixty-fold, a hundred-fold. So with the kind words and helpful deeds which the Christian sows in the field of the world. What a bountiful harvest he reaps for each one of them!
Purposeful Giving"Let each man do according as he hath purposed in his heart." Giving is to be purposeful, thoughtful, planned, systematic, not spasmodic, haphazard, impulsive, and ignorant. "Not grudgingly, or of necessity; for God loveth a cheerful giver."
"Cheerful" is the Greek word which the word hilarious. "The giver whom God loves has a glorious time with his giving, enjoys it thoroughly. Paul isquoting freely from the Greek translation of Prov. 22:8, which adds to what is found in our English Bibles the sentence, "A cheerful man and a giver God blesses."
God's Unspeakable Gift
"Thanks be to God for his unspeak-able gift." This is the fourth of these praiseful ejaculations which Paul introduces in this Epistle, the others being 1:3; 3:14; 8:16. The apostle lived a life of thanksgiving, which over-flowed at all times. His thoughts turn constantly from any theme to Christ.
He has been speaking of our gifts to God, and so turns naturally to God's great gift to men, his only-begotten Son. It is "an unspeakable gift, a gift whose splendor passes the power to human speech to describe, like the "unspeakable words" which Paul heard in Paradise, as he tells us soon in this letter (II Cor. 12:4.)

Best of Football in New England Calendar Now

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(AP)—New England will be a mecca for Atlantic seaboard pigskin followers tomorrow with such outstanding attractions as the Army-Harvard, Brown-Yale, Columbia-Dartmouth, and Fordham-Holy Cross games.

The Army, given a large dose of forward passes by Southern Methodist two weeks ago, will get similar treatment at the Harvard stadium, where Arnold Horween has been spending the week developing an aerial offensive. The Cadets nosed out Southern Methodist by one point but Horween has hopes of bettering the Texans record.

After Yale's defeat of Georgia, there are few to give Brown more than an outside chance of beating Yale at New Haven.

Columbia must stop Al Marsters and a well-planned aerial attack if they hope to conquer Dartmouth at Hanover. Fordham's problem, on the other hand, will be to stop the hard-plunging Holy Cross backs.

What New England fails to get in the way of football publicity tomorrow will fall to Pennsylvania where such games as Penn State-Pennsylvania, Bucknell-LaFayette, Washington and Jefferson-Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh-Allegheny, Loyola, Maryland-Duke and Gettysburg-Villanova are on the program.

Two "I" Teams Best Toss-Up of Football Program

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—(AP)—So distinct are the odds in favor of three teams that old man upset will have an opportunity for a big day in the Big Ten tomorrow.

Of four conference games, only the Indiana-Illinois contest is regarded as a toss-up by critics. Even in that game considerable surprise would be evoked if the Hoosiers beat the Illini for the first time in ten attempts since 1903.

But the other three games would be upsets of the most stunning variety if Michigan defeated Ohio State, Chicago stopped Minnesota and if Purdue outscored Wisconsin.

Northwestern probably will send its strongest team against Kentucky in their intersectional game at Evanston tomorrow.

Iowa has merely limbered up in preparation for its non-conference game with Ripon college of Wisconsin, failing to engage in one scrimmage during the entire week.

Fugazy Will Not Quit Promoting the Weather Bad

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Humbert J. Fugazy is gamier than some boxers who fight for him. Fugazy, Tex Rickard's rival in the art of promoting cauliflower, has taken many a smack on the jaw from the weather man this year but he shows no signs of being ready to quit.

A torrential rain last night forced Humbert to call off the 10-round battle between Paulino Uzcudun and "Big Boy" Peterson at Ebbets field, scheduled to close the outdoor season. It is set for tonight.

Bob Mullen Is Injured on Eve of Canadian Tilt

The Pampa Harvesters will take the field against Canadian this afternoon without the services of their star left guard, Bob Mullen, who sustained a broken nose in practice last night. The team was going through a light workout when Mullen crashed, with Barrett.

Mullen's injury will probably mean a shake-up in the Harvesters line for the game. The coaches have not yet decided whether they will use Mason at Barrett in the place of Mullen, or whether they will put Kahl back in center and put Seitz at guard with Ayres going to end.

The Canadian aggregation is not being taken lightly by the Harvesters. They have a good coach and plenty of fast material this year.

Next Friday afternoon the Harvesters meet Clinton, Okla., here in a non-conference tilt. Hinton has a fast team and will give the boys a good game before their tilt with Wheelers the following week.

FRAUDULENT PICTURES OF TEACHERS ARE SHOWN

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Photographs showing Los Angeles school teachers allegedly spreading political propaganda among their pupils were branded as fraudulent in a report to the board of education last night by Mrs. Susan B. Dorsey, superintendent of schools. She said the photographs had been obtained by fraud and misrepresented and in no way represented actual conditions.

The pictures of school teachers leading their charges in singing a campaign song for Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential candidate, had been brought before the school officials by county Democratic leaders who demanded discharge of the teachers.

WEATHERFORD, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Willie Ray Wall, 20, will go to a state asylum for the insane instead of standing trial for the slaying of C. C. Almonroe at Poolville a week ago. Almonroe was shot four times in the back as he purchased stamps from Wall's father, the postmaster.

SMITH-ROBINSON
DEMOCRATIC CLUB COLUMN

The fight against Governor Alfred Smith has not been a fair fight. Neither has it been effective. It is estimated that the republicans have spent millions of dollars in printing and circulating propaganda in first attempting to defeat the nomination of Governor Smith; and, second, since his nomination, to procure his defeat in November. To be sure, the Republicans have not done this directly. And they have been disclaimed responsibility for a part of it. It is significant, however, that they did not disclaim responsibility until they saw and heard and felt the reaction against them in certain Northern states.

Those who fight Governor Smith, or engineer such fight through others, because of his religion, do not make that fight in the North. They confine that fight in the Southland. Mr. Hoover repudiated it after it had appeared in the Northern or border State of West Virginia, where a fight against Governor Smith because of his religion would help Smith and hurt Hoover! The same kind of a fight directed against Governor Smith from the pulpits of Pennsylvania that has been directed against him from certain Baptist and Methodist pulpits in Texas would make Pennsylvania go Democratic. The Hoover supporters could not afford to lose Pennsylvania. But they may lose it anyway.

No man or woman should vote for or against Smith or Hoover because of the church that either belongs to. Both Smith and Hoover are American patriots, and the constitution of these United States provides there shall never be a religious test for holding public office. Every 100 per cent American accepts that view. Every boy and girl in our public schools is being taught to love and obey that same constitution, and that is why Governor Smith is gaining ground every day.

Governor Smith stands for law enforcement. In his great speech of acceptance, he declared if he took the oath as President with one hand on the Bible and the other hand pointed toward high heaven, to "enforce, obey and protect" the constitution it surely would be done. Millions heard him speak this over the radio. Is it any wonder that so many great and independent leaders of American thought have declared for Governor Smith? The widows of Wilson and the vice president under Wilson, have both declared for Smith. So has Bryan's daughter who will represent a Florida district in the next Congress.

The above space is reserved by the Smith-Robinson Club. Watch and read it day by day.

* * * so This Is Pampa! Days of Mud Are Recalled

A middle-aged salesman jumped lightly from the train, looked up and down the tracks and murmured in a joking voice, "So this is Pampa!"

He buttoned his coat and started toward the business district. When he neared the corner at Cuyler street and Foster avenue, he stopped to watch two women crossing the street. They wore boots and they had to walk carefully to keep the mud and water from getting in the tops. The salesman had a big laugh when one of the women stepped into a deeper hole and lost a boot.

About that time a man came along and the salesman repeated again, "So this is Pampa!" He then told about the stories he had heard on the train asked where the "no fishing" signs were, wanted to know the best place to get a room and the "best place in town" to eat.

This all happened two years ago when, all must admit, Pampa was in the mud.

Yesterday this same salesman was in Pampa, but he missed the mud and had no funny stories to tell. Instead he told of the fine opinions of merchants in other towns and cities about Pampa. He pointed out that his sales here were above the average of towns much larger.

Saunders Well Is Making 1,612 Barrels

Gray county production received another boost yesterday when the Plains Drilling company's No. 1 G. H. Saunders in the southwest corner of the east half of the southeast quarter of section 4, block 1, increased its production to 1,612 barrels a day. The well picked up pay last Monday afternoon at 2,666 feet in granite wash formation.

At that time the well was thought to be good for 1,000 barrels a day but since that time the well blew itself in for the increased amount.

The well is situated in the same section as the two Texas company gushers.

A late report received here from the Danciger Oil and Refining company's No. 1 Thut in the northeast corner of the east 90 acres of the west half of section 3, E. and G. N. survey one mile east of LeFors, stated that 750 feet of oil was standing in the hole this afternoon. After picking up the show the well was shut down until the pay was encountered at near 2,680 feet in a hard formation.

Mrs. L. P. Tuttle and little son of Sweetwater are guests of Mrs. Tuttle's sister, Mrs. J. A. Pearson.

Mrs. Philpot and daughter, Miss Flora, of Miami were shoppers in Pampa this morning.

dercurant of interest. Several persons are contemplating entering the great race, but have not yet been in to receive their voting books or supplies.

The management is unable to understand why there have not been more entries to date. While this newspaper has been commended on all sides for its liberality, and generosity, and complimented on the fair and equal prize distribution plan, yet only a scant dozen are now securing votes for themselves. There are fifteen prizes altogether. If the campaign were to close tonight, practically every entrant who has turned in a subscription would receive an automobile, and everyone would receive a prize, with 9 prizes left over!

This is a serious situation. And it's no laughing matter when viewed from the standpoint of the Daily News and the Contest Manager. If the contest were to close tonight the votes on just two 3-year subscriptions would win the $1,550 Buick Silver Anniversary model Sedan. Think of it, people! Here is the Daily News offering a tremendous list of prizes—$5,000 worth—and there you are not making a move to obtain any of the advantages of it. Actually isn't it a little bit ridiculous? The Daily News believes it is, and we regard it as serious too. Apparently the rules and conditions are not fully understood.

Now get this straight. You, nor anybody else in Pampa or any other town in Gray County have enough money to BUY any of these prizes. You positively cannot buy them—you can't even buy votes to win them, but you can get votes towards them through subscriptions and through clipping the free coupons. Although a tremendous amount has been invested in prizes, THE DAILY NEWS WILL NOT BACK DOWN. Every prize from the Buick down to the last watch will be given away just as advertised on December 15 in front of the News office, whether we take in ten subscriptions or a thousand. The closing date will never be extended. We started this proposition, and we are going through with it to the letter, regardless of any loss sustained. The News did not put on the campaign as a money making venture in the first place, but merely to increase its circulation, and allowances and appropriations were made to care for any contingency.

This contest is no long, drawn out affair. It ends just eight weeks from tomorrow night. Votes, and votes alone will win. They come with subscriptions and in coupons published in the paper each day. All you have to do is gather them. Suppose you put in every minute of your time for the next eight weeks getting votes—wouldn't a $1,550 Buick, a $778 Whippet or a $738.50 Chevrolet be worth it? It seems almost too good to be true, doesn't it? That is what is the matter apparently. The prizes are so big, and they can be won so easily, that many who would enter a piano contest, or some similar affair hesitate to jump in. But there are no strings to the offer. Everything is in black and white. It costs nothing, nor will it ever cost anything. Every prize is free. Yes! YOU can win.

Names of Crippled
Children Desired
Before the Clinic

As the time for the crippled children's clinic November 12 nears, Lions and Rotarians are especially anxious to learn the names of children who may be benefited. Any child who has physical disabilities which may not be cured by ordinary treatment may attend the clinic for a free examination.

Mrs. M. P. Downs, Public Welfare association nurse, is registering names of crippled children at her office in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium.

The Lions club committee on blind children yesterday announced a vacancy due to the moving away of Lion Roy Harris, and President Ivy Duncan appointed Horace Parks, new member initiated yesterday, to the group.

Music of the day was furnished by the Iowans' orchestra through the courtesy of Roy Snor, manager of the Rex theatre. Floyd V. Studer of Amarillo was a guest.

Mrs. Howard Myers returned yesterday from a week's visit in Oklahoma City.

Miss Eula Johns and Miss Joane Wells will spend the week-end with friends in Clarendon.

which he recited the history of the Catholic church and Protestant settlements in America, Judge Young contrasted the prohibition outlook with the corruption of the Harding administration. He showed the records of Harding's cabinet members, giving personal glimpses into the various investigations led by Senator Walsh of Montana, Catholic. Then, turning sharply to the church, he suggested an appropriate text for the pulpit: "Thou Shalt Not Steal." This, he remarked, was especially applicable to Baptist preachers, who might recall the thievery of "Brother Carner" at Atlanta, and treasury scandals in Virginia and at the Dallas hospital.

Later, alluding to religion again, he praised the patriotism of Catholic soldiers as contrasted with Herbert Hoover's Quaker sect, which pleaded conscientious objections and escaped service. He added, "there are no poppies blooming in Flanders fields on the graves of Quaker soldiers, while Catholic and Protestant boys lie side by side."

"Oil Obscures Farm Needs"

Farm relief was cited as one of the real issues of the national campaign. The speaker warned his audience not to mistake the bankrupt condition of southern agriculture because the oil development obscures the problem in this territory. He said his own farm had not paid a profit in eight years. He charged the Republican party with erecting a tariff barrier which prevents needed trade exchange with Europe. He asserted that the farm relief promise—unkept—of 1924 is repeated in the platform of 1928. He charged that the Republican party stands for more wealth for the wealthy and more power to the powerful. Hoover's wartime administration record was attacked on the grounds that the price of wheat was arbitrarily set at $2.20 per bushel when the trend was above $3. On the other hand, he mentioned Democratic farm relief in the Wilson administration, including loan plans, handling of farm paper on some discount basis as commercial paper under Federal Reserve act, aids to co-operative marketing, warehouse regulations, and government grading for grains.

In discussing prohibition, Judge Young said the leadership which brought about this national blessing is now for Alfred E. Smith in an effort to run corrupt politicians out of governmental halls. He mentioned his lifelong record of fighting for local option, state prohibition, and then the national amendment. He called attention to the similar attitude of Senator Morris Sheppard, author of the Eighteenth amendment, of Carter Glass, and of Josephus Daniels and M. M. Crane.

He bitterly attacked Dr. Atticus Webb of Dallas and the Anti-Saloon League, alleging that the organization is a "Republican agency which should be run out of the state." He scored Republican leaders for allowing speakers such as Mrs. Willebrandt to inject the religious issue into the campaign. Dr. John Roach Straton, who spoke here a few weeks ago, was scathingly denounced for leaving New York and stumping the South for the party "of thievery and corruption."

Cabinet Thievery

"Only twice has this country been officially sold out," said the former Congressman. He continued by recalling the scandals of Grant's administration and those of Teapot Dome, Forbes, Daugherty, Fall, Millican, and Will Hays.

"Hoover was in that cabinet," he shouted. "He sat beside these guilty men, he rubbed elbows with them, and knew of their activities. But not a word did he say—their resignations were never asked by the president, either—and he is not mentioning this matter now."

"Man of Great Heart"

While not going far into the life of the Democratic candidate, he characterized Smith as "an orphan boy who though never able to go to college was educated in the University of Hard Knocks and became four times governor of the greatest state." He commented Smith as a "man of a great heart" who would keep campaign promises. His words were greeted by frequent bursts of applause, and many congratulated him at the conclusion of the long speech.

The meeting was opened by J. N. Duncan, who remarked that the purpose of the session was to clear the air of muddled politics and define the real issues. He was especially caustic in remarks aimed at Dr. Straton.

"I heard Dr. Straton's speech, and I say that any minister who would muss up his mouth as he did that day is not fit to preach to the devil."

"There is a great turmoil in our churches, but the real thing is not prohibition, but that Al Smith is a Roman Catholic. It was all right when Woodrow Wilson exercised his power of veto over prohibition, but if he had been a Catholic they would have ridden him out of Washington on a rail. I am not afraid of Catholics nor the pope. I was never in a Catholic church, but I know that it has built more churches, schools, and hospitals than all Protestant denominations put together, and as long as Catholics do that I am not afraid of them."

Mr. Duncan introduced Chas. O. Cook, who introduced Judge Young after speaking briefly upon the need for farm relief as promised by the Democratic platform.

Judge H. E. Hoover of Canadian, who was present, was pointed out as the only legal "Hoover-Democrat." Aubrey Dobbs of Wellington, editor of the Collingsworth Standard, accompanied Judge Young here. Before the rally, the visitors, a small group of local Democrats, and local newspaper men had a dinner at the New Schneider hotel. The Pampa band played a short concert prior to calling of the meeting to order.

Big Gas Line Units Are Nearly Complete to End

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Oct. 18.—Special—Rapid progress is being made on the testing of the Wichita-Ottawa natural gas pipeline and with the completion of the testing of two 25-mile sections this line will practically be ready for service.

The Wichita-Ottawa line is a 132-mile extension to the Cities Service Gas company's 20-inch pipeline from the Panhandle of Texas and when the crews completed the laying of the extension several weeks ago it gave the gas company a direct connection to Kansas City, a distance of approximately 425 miles. The line is being tested in accordance with the standard U. S. Bureau of Mines shut-in pressure drop test. The construction of this extension was completed by the Oklahoma Constructing company of Dallas, Texas.

Construction is also progressing rapidly on the installation of the third 16-inch pipeline between Ottawa and Kansas City, where it will tie into the present system at the Glavin station. About 50 per cent of this line has been laid and it is estimated the entire job will be completed by November 1.

The construction of five miles of 20-inch gas line from the Glavin regulating station into Kansas City is rapidly nearing completion and about 70 per cent of this line has been laid to date. The contractors estimate October 15 as the completion date of this stretch.

Satisfactory progress is also being made on the construction of the Higgins, Texas and Corwin, Kansas, compressor stations and the installation of the new equipment at the Mooreland Pampa and Petrolia stations of the Cities Service Gas company. The completion of this construction will greatly facilitate the increased volume of natural gas that will be available for northern markets when the Wichita-Ottawa extension is placed in service.

FRENCH WAR HERO, TOTALLY BLIND, IS POKER PLAYER

Maj. Georges Scapini, blind French war hero (left), riding in American Legion parade at San Antonio with Gen. Milton J. Foreman of Chicago.

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 16.—He plays poker, has no objection to lighting a cigarette in one match, doesn't like having birthdays and simply has no time for the blues.

Such a man is Maj. Georges Scapini, totally blinded on the battlefields of France, now famous as one of the outstanding members of the French bar and a member of the Chamber of Deputies, representing the Paris district.

Major Scapini, an honored guest at the American Legion's national convention here recently, will make a tour of principal cities of the United States before returning to Paris early in November.

"You do not believe I play cards?" asked Major Scapini. "Hand me that deck of cards and I will show you." In quick succession he turned the cards, correctly calling them through-out the deck, his sensitive fingers recognizing the Braille dots, language of the blind, as rapidly as the eye could follow.

"And I play a good game of poker," he asserted.

Major Scapini, who had to begin life all over again after losing his sight during the World War, does not want to grow old.

"Birthdays are terrible things. One day I am thirty-four. The next I am thirty-five. But when I get to forty I shall begin again at thirty."

This man, whose laughter is quick and spontaneous, whose four senses

RUBBER TIRES GRIP CONCRETE

Tires hold securely on portland cement concrete pavements. This means greater safety for the motorist in every driving emergency: Quick stops without skidding, even in wet weather; sudden swerves without end-swing; sharp turns without slipping; up steep grades and down—always the same sure-footed traction.

What a sense of security this adds to the joy of motoring!

And concrete pavements are durable as well as safe. They are built to stand up indefinitely under the constant flow of modern traffic. The concrete roads you ride over today will continue to give uninterrupted service for many years to come—and, because they are concrete, maintenance costs will be negligible.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE

PETS

Having pets is among the happiest and most valuable experiences of childhood. The child who grows upon a farm and who has a dog for his constant companion and is given a calf or a litter of pigs to raise, is lucky indeed.

For a little child, perhaps a kitten is the best pet of all. From intimate and loving observation Peter learned that a kitten has four feet and that he only has two. He found that cats drink milk by lapping it up with their pink tongues. He discovered that their paws are now tender pads and now needle-like claws. From play with his kitten he learned to be gentle or suffer a penalty. His daily task of giving her a dish of milk was his first experience with responsibility.

Later on when kitty grew and was soon to have kittens, nothing could Peter's interest in the matter and his care of her lest he should hurt his kitten and her babies. The sight of the kittens tiny and helpless, cared for by their mother in their soft, warm nest which he had helped to make, was an experience which fixed with its proper associations of tenderness and protectiveness a fundamental human value.

Peter would not have had so much joy of his kitten nor would he have learned so much from her had not his mother influenced his attitude by the example of her own. For almost any experience can be spoiled for a child if the grown up by whom he is guided gives it the wrong valuation. Peter's mother was careful always to treat the kitten kindly to show interest in its play and in its marvelous little body. She always made Peter feel that the responsibility for feeding his pet was entirely his. She treated the matter of the coming kittens in a perfectly rural and candid way, making no mystery of it and taking the opportunity to give her child important knowledge in a sane and happy manner.

Thus, properly handled, a single experience with a pet will give early lessons in responsibility and kindness and will provide endless opportunities for the observation of natural facts.

Seen Her?

Pinkie Lee Koehn

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Last May a home-talent movie was made in Knoxville. Thirteen-year-old Pinkie Lee Koehn took part in it. On June 16, immediately after the picture was complete, Pinkie Lee disappeared.

A nation-wide search by detectives failed to find her. Mr. and Mrs. Koehn have spent all of their meager savings in the search.

The parents' funds exhausted, the Parent-Teachers' association has launched a publicity campaign to find the girl and bring her back. They offer a reward for her return.

Juvenile court authorities, social agencies and officers throughout the country are requested to seek her. Any information concerning her should be sent to The Knoxville News-Sentinel, Knoxville, Tenn.

Plains Special

CLAUDE—The Claude News man and wife, also her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. I. Behrends, of Clarendon spent Saturday and Sunday on the pretty farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Ward, in the edge of Hereford, Texas. This man, Ward—does not only believe in the cow, the sow, and the hen but practices what he preaches. Besides making over $200 a month out of his cream and eggs, he sells many kinds of fruits, garden vegetables, etc. and makes his farm pay big money. He also sells flowers and bulbs of many kinds, some of them bringing as much as $2.50 each. Mr. Ward is prepared to irrigate his garden and orchard and raises garden sass and fruits when dry weather comes along. He has 111 acres of mighty fine land, well improved, in the edge of Hereford, which is worth $150 per acre, but can be bought for less money because his health has failed him and he thinks of selling out and moving down on the coast. We doubt whether Mr. Ward will ever own another home as well improved as where he lives, should he sell and move away. We also visited with Mr. and Mrs. Orgie Behrends, who lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ward on the Ward farm, and assist them in taking care of the cow, the sow, and the hen and the farm. The Ward farm has 800 White Leghorn chickens, 50 hogs and a dozen milk cows. Several acres is planted to grapes and other fruits, along with all kinds of garden truck. It is a real pleasure to visit in such a hospitable home and look over the improvements and the way a farmer can make money like Mr. Ward does.—Claude News.

WATER PITCHER HURLED AT POLITICAL GATHERING

BROOKSVILLE, Fla., Oct. 19.—(P)—When Leon Whitehurst arose to defend the Knights of Columbus at an anti-Smith political meeting here last night he was struck with a glass water pitcher alleged to have been hurled by Former Mayor H. S. Simmons. He was only slightly injured.

Whitehurst arose after the Rev. I. N. Aldrich, who conducted the meeting, had invited expressions from the audience. He did not complete his statement.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

JERRY HAY decided that love is a delusion and, after observing some of the wrecked love marriages in her own circle, calmly tells her room-mate, MYRTLE, that she intends to marry for money.

Jerry denies herself all the little luxuries and saves her money for a vacation at Atlantic City in "the best hotel." But her money is stolen the night before her departure. Jerry is situated at her hotel. Her plans for a wonderful two weeks at the shore resort are spoiled, but MYRTLE finally persuades her to go camping with her on the north shore of Long Island. Myrtle's sweetheart, GEORGE, drives them out and arranges their tent and equipment before returning to New York.

Left alone, the girls take a swim and then are busy enjoying their evening meal when Jerry is startled at the sound of an airplane's whirling over their heads. She looks up, cries for Myrtle to run and springs backward, but no later!

When Jerry came to she found herself held in strong arms and a unfamiliar but kindly face was watching her with concern. She tried to get up, but her head hurt. Jerry manages to get up and says she is not in need of the doctor but DAN HARVEY says he is going for Jerry because that the plane is not seriously damaged and that it is owned by young LESTER CARSTAIRS—the other member of their informal club, who apologizes for wrecking their camp and promises to replace everything.

OW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER III

THANK YOU," Jerry said very quietly, looking at Alester. Dan Harvey turned abruptly away. He started toward the car in which he had brought Dr. Belden to a scene. Half way to it he halted and came back for a word with Myrtle.

"I was piloting the ship," he said, and I'll be glad to pay for the damage to your tent and things. I come back after I've taken Dr. Belden to his office and help you to fix up for the night."

Myrtle looked about her. "Ge, ere'll we sleep? This tent's torn pieces."

We'll rig up a shelter for you the porch," Dan offered. "And now, if you care to go to town me, I'll replace the things that 'destroyed.'" won't be necessary," Alester said. "Let us know what is and we'll pay it but and Miss Ray will be able in the house."

Dan threw him a glance and was almost certain contempt. But he made a brief, "all right."

breakfast too," she heard Alester telling Marsh. Well, if he was that considerate he'd probably be glad to know that they hadn't anything left for supper either.

She walked over with firm purpose. "And you might pick up a cold chicken while you're over there, Mr. Marsh," Myrtle said firmly, but quaking a little in awe of the man. He reminded her unpleasantly of Mr. Gear, the also man in the lace department at Fane's.

Jerry gasped. "Mr. Marsh!" Holy hat, Mr. Carstairs would think they were a couple of boobies who'd never seen a Broadway show in their lives. But all the butlers on Broadway were named Meadows.

"Never mind, Meadows . . . or is it Marsh? We've had our supper," she said nonchalantly.

Myrtle barely suppressed a squawk as Jerry bent a forbidding glance upon her. Alester caught the little byplay. It amused him. "I'm frightfully hungry myself," he remarked earnestly. "You might just collect a little snack for supper while you're about it, Marsh," he added, to Myrtle's satisfaction.

"I'd like to get out of this wet bathing suit," Myrtle complained a little later. "Who'd have thought it would be so cool when sun went down!"

"It break open a door or window," Alester volunteered. "and a dress in the house."

"THAT'S nice," she said indifferently and turned away. She wondered what Dan would think of her. A moment ago she had smiled at him—letting herself be natural

"I'll bring you a check tomorrow when I come to take Miss Ray to the doctor's," Alester promised Myrtle. "And don't be surprised if we aren't back for dinner. I don't carry a clock when I'm having a good time."
