U.S., Soviet Troops In Border 'Incident'

Red-Directed Police Fire On Crowd Of Germans; Four Reported Killed

By OMER ANDERSON
INS Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Aug. 19—American and Russian soldiers, armed to the teeth, faced each other for half an hour across a narrow "no man's land" in Berlin tonight after a Russian police raid into the Anglo-American sector of the city.

The Russian police a short time earlier fired into a crowd of Germans in the Potsdammerplatz, reportedly killing four and wounding eight others.

A Russian statement said the police were out to arrest black market operators.

Second Invasion Staged

It was the second time in recent days that Russian-controlled police have invaded the western sectors, giving a crackdown on black marketeers as the reason.

Only 50 feet of sector boundary area separated the U. S. and Russian soldiers. Both were armed with machineguns and other automatic weapons. The Russian troops withdrew a half hour after assuming their positions.

Both Russian and American soldiers had been rushed up to the Potsdammerplatz, a junction point of the American and Russian areas, after the Russian sector police were forced to withdraw by an enraged crowd of Germans.

Scene Is Tense

Communist functionaries immediately warned of retaliation.

It was one of the most tense scenes of the Berlin "cold war" as the fully armed Russian troops and American military police stared each other down until the Soviets withdrew.

United States occupation officials later frankly asserted that such incidents constitute the greatest danger of an armed clash between the Russians and the Anglo-Americans in Berlin.

The invasion of the Potsdammerplatz was by Russian-run sector police commanded by Soviet-sponsored chief Paul Markgraf.

Police Swoop Down

Four truckloads of Markgraf's feared police swooped down on the favorite black market trading spot in the late evening and began wielding night sticks in a crowd of about 2,000 Germans.

The Soviet-run police chased a number of suspected black marketeers into the American sector.

Members of the crowd turned on the police and stoned the car from which Fritz Seidel, assistant police chief and prominent Communist, was directing the raid.

Shoot Toward U. S. Sector

It was Seidel who was said to have given the order for the police to open fire into the crowd. The

Another Kremlin Parley Expected

MOSCOW, Aug. 19 (INS)—Another Kremlin conference on the knotty East-West conflict in Berlin appeared likely tonight at the end of new secret talks among western envoys.

The western diplomats met at the American embassy for an hour-and-a-half this afternoon and observers believed they discussed fresh instructions from Washington, London and Paris.

It was learned officially that no Kremlin session could be expected today, but informed quarters anticipated a western request for a Kremlin audience with Premier Stalin or Foreign Minister Molotov, possibly tomorrow.

Garza County's First Bale Is Ginned After Three-Day Delay

POST, Aug. 19 (Special)—Garza county's first bale of the 1948 cotton crop was ginned here today for A. Sanchez, who farms on the Emery Williams farm 12 miles north of here.

Sanchez gathered his cotton Monday, but Planter's Gin company of Post, who ginned the bale today, were unable to have their plant ready for operation until today.

The Garza county farmer's cotton was grown on dry land just below the Caprock. His bale, which weighed 420 pounds, was ginned from 1510 pounds of seed cotton, and yielded 620 pounds of seed. The cotton was of the Northern Star variety.

This year's first bale was ginned on the same date as last year's first bale, but since it was gathered on Monday, it was in effect three day's earlier than last year's.

Sanchez's bale is the earliest known to be gathered and ginned in Garza county, according to the records of the Post Dispatch and the Chamber of Commerce.

Curbs Set On Credit Buying

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19—The government today clamped controls on most consumer installment credit purchases between $50 and $5,000, effective Sept. 20.

A new Federal Reserve board regulation requires a one-third down payment on automobiles and a 20 percent down payment on most household appliances including stoves, refrigerators, washers, radios, and vacuum cleaners.

A time limit of 15 months is fixed for completing all "easy payment plans of $1,000 or less.

Enforcement Terms Stronger

Eighteen months is the deadline for purchases above $1,000.

The regulation is termed "regulation W," the name carried by the postwar credit rule which expired last November.

The restoration of credit control was authorized by the Republican anti-inflation act signed by President Truman on Monday.

The new down-payment rules are less strict in several cases than those formerly applied. But the enforcement terms are stronger, because the controls now have legislative backing instead of the emergency wartime authority formerly used.

Penalties Provided

The possible criminal penalty for violation is a maximum of $10,000 fine and ten years' imprisonment or both.

The old regulation W covered installment contract only up to $2,000. Because of the swift increase of postwar automobile prices, the new limit was set at $5,000.

The 20 percent down payment applies to these 11 classes of goods:

Cooking stoves, dishwashers, ironers, refrigerators, washing machines, combination ironer-washers, air conditioners, radio and television sets and phonographs, sewing machines, suction cleaners and furniture, and soft-surface floor coverings.

Credit Growth Alarming

The rapid growth of consumer credit in the last year has alarmed officials. It has reached a record peak of $14,200,000,000.

The inflationary impact is shown, the board spokesman said, by the fact that installment credit jumped 55 percent last year while the output of durable goods expanded only 1/3, the result being more dollars bidding up the available supply of consumer goods.

When the regulation expired

Corn Price Drops To Lowest Mark In Year

CHICAGO, Aug. 19. (AP)—Cash corn prices broke five to 10 cents a bushel here today to the lowest price in more than a year. Buying fell off sharply in view of the approaching harvest of a record-smashing crop. Grain sold today was from last year's harvest.

The break wiped two dollar corn off the cash market for the first time since June 3, 1947. Top price paid for cash corn today was $1.97½ cents a bushel, which compared with $2.07 yesterday and $2.82 on this date a year ago.

AFL, CIO Will Decide Soon On Stand In Presidential Election

(By The Associated Press)

THE nation's two great labor organizations may decide in the next two weeks whether to call on their rank and file to support President Truman or Gov. Dewey for the presidency.

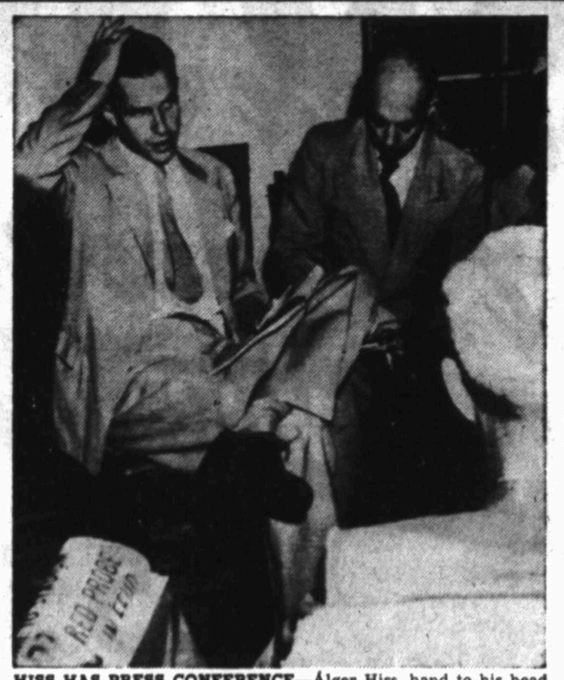

CIO leaders, meeting in Washington Thursday, deferred a commitment until Aug. 30, but praised the 1948 Democratic platform. They hit a "do nothing" Republicans and "bigoted Dixiecrats" and said the Wallace Progressive party has created "disunity."

The AFL's educational and political league will meet in Chicago Aug. 25 and may decide the question of a presidential endorsement. President William Green said in June the AFL will never support Gov. Dewey, but at least one AFL union, the Teamsters, said Green was not speaking for it.

Also, during the Democratic national convention, Phil Pearl, AFL publicity director, when asked to comment on Green's remarks, said the AFL won't support President Truman either. He said the AFL would not support any presidential candidate, but would concentrate on congressional races.

After yesterday's meeting of CIO vice presidents and other ex-

Three Former U. S. Employes Summoned

Alleged Leader Of Underground Sought

By ROSE McKEE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19. — Rep. Nixon (R-Calif) said today that Alger Hiss and Whittaker Chambers reportedly were introduced to each other by J. V. Peters, alleged "brain" of the entire Communist underground.

The House un-American Activities committee called on U. S. Immigration Commissioner Watson B. Miller for the third time in two weeks to produce Peters, long a mysterious figure.

Miller told International News Service he does not know the whereabouts of Peters, now free on a $5,000 bond in deportation proceedings.

Presence Imperative

Nixon, a member of the committee, said Peters' presence was imperative Wednesday when Hiss and Chambers face each other in public hearing.

Hiss, a United Nations founder and former top-ranking New Deal diplomat, has been accused by Chambers, a magazine editor who renounced Communism, of being a Communist underground leader in a wartime Washington spy ring.

Hiss, who first denied knowing Chambers and now admits he lived with him briefly, refused today to submit to a lie detector test at this time.

Trio To Be Quizzed

The committee announced his refusal and disclosed that two prominent supporters of Henry Wallace will be questioned tomorrow in the Communist espionage probe.

The two are Lee Pressman, former general counsel of WPA, and John Abt, former assitsant general counsel. Pressman also has been general counsel for the CIO while Abt once was counsel for the CIO Political Action committee.

They will be quizzed in secret along with Nathan Witt, former attorney for the National Labor Relations board.

The three one-time New Deal officials, who are to be asked what they know of Hiss and Chambers, have been accused by the Time magazine editor of being Communist underground chieftains in the Washington spy ring.

HST Hits Probe

President Truman told his news conference that the spy probe infringed on basic American rights. He declared that no vital U. S. secret leaked out during the war.

Nixon retorted that if Mr. Truman had a "real concern for civil rights, he would recognize the danger of the Communist pose and help root it out."

Nixon revealed that Chambers testified secretly that Peters introduced him to Hiss during the mid-1930's.

Spy probers have identified the mysterious Peters as the alleged head of the entire Communist "underground" in the United States.

Hiss testified that he first met Chambers when the latter walked into the old Senate Nye munitions investigating committee for which Hiss was an attorney, and introduced himself as "George Crosley," a free lance writer.

Nixon's disclosure that Chambers said the introduction was made by Peters, brings another discrepancy into the conflict-ridden Hiss-Chambers case.

The congressman also disclosed

Cotton Controls Under Study

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19. —The Truman administration soon must decide whether it will reimpose pre-war controls on production of cotton. The problem arises at a time when prices of cotton clothing and products are at record high levels.

A decision affecting next year's crop must be made by Nov. 15. It may be made within two weeks. The answer may be left up to President Truman himself, Agriculture department officials said.

Surplus Is Foreseen

These officials said the problem is a ticklish one because it touches upon the presidential campaign issue of high prices and who's to blame for them.

This year's prospective bumper crop promises to create a supply close to, if not above, the level which the AAA crop control act of 1938 declares to be surplus.

When the supply is surplus, the Secretary of Agriculture must proclaim federal planting allotments and marketing quotas. Under this program government tells the farmer just how much cotton he may plant and sell. If he exceeds his quota, he is subject to a heavy penalty tax.

Although officials would like to

Lubbock Escapes Texas Heat Wave

Lubbock escaped the stifling heat that clamped down on other parts of Texas Thursday. The maximum recorded Thursday was 96 degrees, with a relatively cool 64 degree minimum marked up early in the morning.

Hot dry air from the south hit a 22 mile an hour maximum speed early Thursday afternoon, and dropped the relative humidity to 20 per cent. The weatherman said Friday would be generally fair, with little change in temperatures.

Other Areas Swelter

A merciless sun sent temperatures well above 100 degrees yesterday in widely separated sections of the arid state, it was one of the hottest days of the summer, the Associated Press reported.

Mineral Wells, approximately 80 miles west of Fort Worth, was the hottest spot on the Texas griddle. The temperature: 106. Five points reported temperatures of 105 — Bryan, Dallas, Fort Worth, Lufkin and Wichita Falls. It was 104 at Waco and Tyler.

Truce Threats Again Rapped

By LARRY HAUCK
Associated Press Staff Writer

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 19—The Security Council tonight warned the Jews and Arabs against violations of the truce in Jerusalem. The four-power resolution adopted held the two parties responsible for actions of all regular or irregular forces under their authority.

Then the council adjourned until the General Assembly meets in Paris next month.

There was no opposition to the plan advanced jointly by the United States, Britain, France and Canada.

However, the Soviet Ukraine abstained throughout paragraph-by-paragraph voting and Russia, Syria and Colombia declined to support some sections of the proposal.

New Outbreak Feared

The four-power move was intended to back up Count Folke Bernadotte, UN mediator, who earlier today warned that the whole Palestine conflict might break out again.

The balloting concluded all business on the council calendar except approval of a report to the fall meeting of the General Assembly in Paris. As soon as this item is finished in private session, the council will recess until the assembly meeting opening Sept. 21.

U. S. Delegate Philip C. Jessup introduced a five-point resolution in the name of the four countries.

Yugoslav Appeal Rejected

The council had been scheduled to discuss Palestine during the day but debated for more than five hours before rejecting Yugoslavia's appeal for a condemnation of United States-British actions in Trieste.

The Trieste ballot was 2 to 0 with seven votes needed for passage. Russia and the Soviet Ukraine supported Yugoslavia and the other nine members abstained.

Jessup explained that the Palestine resolution was not an effort to place blame for fighting in the Holy City but to prevent continuation of the outbreaks.

The resolution declared:

1. Each party is responsible for the actions of both regular and

Arabs Threaten To Open Fire

JERUSALEM, Aug. 19 (INS)—Egyptian commanders threatened to "open fire" on Israel forces south of Jerusalem tonight unless the Jews peacefully evacuated their positions.

The Jews promptly rejected the ultimatum.

Top United Nations mediators rushed to the scene to try to save the month-old tottering UN truce from its gravest threat.

The contested area is under Red Cross jurisdiction, but the Egyptians hold the commanding heights in the area around the former British high commissioner's castle.

Observers Rush To Scene

Israeli troops occupy nearby buildings of an agricultural college also in the Red Cross sector.

In turning down the Egyptian evacuation demand the Jews said they were willing to discuss handing over of the entire disputed sector to the International Red Cross.

This explosive situation [illegible] as heavy localized fighting was reported in the [illegible] of south-central Jerusalem.

Count Folke Bernadotte's chief of staff, Swedish General Lundstroem and Brig. Gen. William E. Riley, U. S. Marines, of [illegible] apolis, arrived in Jerusalem in the early afternoon.

Egyptian Advance Charged

After hurried conferences with the Egyptians and Jews the UN observers issued orders to both sides not to open fire in the bitterly disputed area.

The dynamite-packed Egyptian-Israeli showdown followed two days of rumors and uneasiness in the Holy City where the UN truce has been repeatedly violated in sporadic fighting.

This morning Jewish military authorities claimed that Egyptian forces had advanced from the village of Sur Bahir to occupy heights around the former commissioner's residence, called government house.

The Israeli announcement pointed out that these heights are within an area designated as under the protection of the International Red Cross.

Lillard D. Thomas Victim Of Collision

Dawson Youth Killed In Lamesa Accident

(Special To The Avalancne)

LAMESA, Aug. 19—Lillard Dale Thomas, 15-year old Dawson county farm boy, died at 5:30 p. m. today of injuries suffered in the collision of his motorcycle and a butane transport truck an hour earlier in the residential section of Lamesa.

Thomas suffered sever head and chest injuries in the crash at the intersection of South Fourth and South Houston streets. He was rushed to a Lamesa hospital and placed under an oxygen tent but failed to respond to emergency treatment.

Deputy Sheriff Louie Bradford who investigated the accident said the loaded butane truck, owned by Cope Butane Supply, and driven by R. A. Franklin, was going west at a slow rate of speed on South Fourth and had just entered the intersection when Thomas, who was riding his motorcycle north on South Houston, apparently saw the truck and applied his brakes.

Bradford said the machine skidded approximately 60 feet on the gravelled street and came to rest under the moving truck. The rear wheels of the vehicle passed over the boy's body, but Franklin was able to stop quickly and avoided crushing the motorcycle.

The deputy said in his opinion the accident was unavoidable and that no charges had been filed.

Definite funeral arrangements had not been completed late tonight, but the funeral home in charge said rites probably would be held at 3 p.m. Saturday with burial in Pride cemetery.

Survivors include the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lillard Thomas, Star Route 1, Lamesa; a grandfather, J. T. Niblett, Lamesa, a brother, Darrell Thomas, and three sisters, Mrs. Ann Foster, and Mrs. Fred Damron, both of Morton, and Mrs. Lloyd Cochran, Lamesa.

ANY stranger entering the portal of the walled-in Kremlin is stopped by a sentry and asked for his credentials.

When I called on Stalin, a highly gifted young man accompanied me as my interpreter. His name was Oumansky, and he later became Soviet ambassador to Mexico where he was killed in an airplane accident.

At that time he was the chief of the Soviet press department—an important post. Yet, as our car rolled through the archway, Oumansky said to me, "I am very grateful to you—finally I'm going to meet comrade Stalin."

So much did Stalin remain invisible in the first years of his dictatorship! He never received strangers.

Our three-hour conversation constituted at that time the only case in which a stranger talked to him without any official assignment. (At a later date, G. B. Shaw had a similar chance, but he was greatly disturbed by the presence of a rather stupid English lady.)

Stalin himself published a record of our conversation.

The first thing which attracts the stranger's attention in the yard of this gigantic citadel are the Napoleonic cannons—they bear the emperor's golden "N" on their barrels—left behind in 1812 and later brought to the Kremlin.

The Kremlin contains a great number of Czarist castles and other buildings. But Stalin had his office in one of the modern government houses. There was no elevator, and so we walked up the two flights, then crossed some cold antechambers and finally entered the medium-sized well-lit room in which the medium-sized

Prairie Dog With Bubonic Plague Is Found In Gaines

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Aug. 19—A prairie dog with bubonic plague was reported by the state health department today to have been found on the edge of Cedar lake in Gaines county.

State Health Officer George W. Cox issued an immediate warning to the people of the area regarding the danger of contact with sick or dying rodents or their fleas.

"Bubonic plague is not directly communicable from man to man," he said. "It is transmitted by rodents, particularly rats and ground squirrels and their fleas."

Campaign Is Pushed

The plague infected prairie dog was found by a field crew of the health department and specimens from the rodent sent to the state laboratories here, where analysis showed evidence of the disease.

Investigators from the health department and a crew from the United States Public Health service are taking measures to exterminate rodents in the area, the health officer said.

"This is the same 'black death' that is recorded throughout history," he said. He noted that the last incident of human bubonic plague in Texas occurred in January, 1921, when three cases were reported.

Plague bacilli have also been found previously in pools of fleas collected from field rodents in Dawson, Cochran and Gaines counties.

Injured Soviet School Teacher Placed Back Under Oxygen Tent

By RICHARD SHANER
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Aug. 19. Mrs. Oksana Kosenkina was reported "much better" at Roosevelt hospital tonight but she was placed back under an oxygen tent as a precautionary move.

The 52-year-old Russian school teacher who leaped from the third floor of the New York Soviet consulate a week ago today, still is not out of danger despite her improvement, the hospital emphasized.

She is still on the critical list, but her temperature dropped this evening to 101.8 from a high of 103.4, and her pulse count is down to a near-normal 90 from a dangerous high of 125.

Condition Remains Grave

To underline the continuing gravity of Mrs. Kosenkina's condition, an attending physician said:

"While I am not as worried about her as I was, I am not positive she will get better."

Mrs. Kosenkina first was placed in the oxygen tent yesterday afternoon when her breathing became difficult. She began rallying at once, and in mid-afternoon today the tent was removed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19—The United States tonight rejected Russians protests and demands in connection with the cases of the Soviet school teachers who have sought refuge in this country.

An American note replying to notes which had been sent to the State department by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov and Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin was delivered to the Soviet embassy here at 4:10 p. m. (CST).

The State department announced the delivery of the document, by a department messenger, but declined to make any comment upon its contents prior to publication which is scheduled for 8 a. m. (CST) tomorrow.

U. S. Answer Delivered

Despite the temporary secrecy, there was no doubt that the State department had turned down Russian demands for the delivery of the school teachers into Soviet custody and had rejected Russian accusations against the American government, and its officials, including a charge that they had connived in the "kidnapping" of the teachers.

Michael P. McDermott, State department press officer, made the following bare announcement early tonight:

"At 4:10 there was delivered to the embassy of the USSR a note of the Department of State in reply to notes of Aug. 9 and 14, of the embassy of the USSR and to the note which Mr. Molotov handed to Ambassador (Walter Bedell) Smith in Moscow on the night of Aug. 11 with reference to Mrs. Oksana S. Kosenkina and to Michael I. Samarine, his wife and three children. The department of State will release the texts of all the notes for publication at 8 o'clock tomorrow Aug. 20."

Beyond Red Control

In addition to the three notes referred to in McDermott's statement, a fourth which the embassy had sent to the State department concerned a habeas corpus action in the New York supreme court against the Soviet Consul-General in New York, Jacob Lomakin. This fourth So-

Mock Air Battle Set In Britain

LONDON, Aug. 19. (INS) —The British air ministry announced tonight that British and American air strength will join forces early next month in a massive simulated air attack on London under "war conditions."

The 90 U. S. B-29 Superfortresses now based in Britain will play a major role in the operation, designed to test British air defenses against possible attack by a European power.

The London attack will be the highlight of four-day air maneuvers in which all Britain-based commands of the Royal Air force, including auxiliary units, will take part together with U. S. planes.

The Daily Worker, London's Communist newspaper, said that the participation of U. S. planes in the maneuvers "makes nonsense" of official statements that the B-29s are in Britain only on a temporary training visit.

The Worker said that "all indications are that the Americans are settling permanently in British bases."

At the same time, the British government acted to strengthen army reserves through a campaign directed at the enlistment of 150,000 men.

Prominent British leaders have viewed the country's recent swift cern because of East-West discord over Germany.

British Foreign Secretary Bevin recently told parliament the government is giving serious study to revising its demobilization policy.

Brazil Receives U.S. Aid In Building Of Vast Air Center

By CHARLES CORDDRY
United Press Aviation Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19—Brazil, a vast country in which aviation holds peculiar advantages over ground transportation, is building a multi-million dollar air age education center.

The government believes the center will be unique among nations.

Situated about 40 miles from the modern and wealthy city of Sao Paulo in an eight-square-mile area, the aeronautical technical center will be staffed with outstanding United States aviation figures from the fields of education, industry and government

The plan, as outlined in a United Press interview by Dr. Artur Amorim, representing the center here, is to have four institutes which will educate promising students from Brazil and throughout the Americas. They will be taught all phases of aviation: research and development, aircraft design, aircraft engines, manufacturing, air transportation, airport engineering and administration, navigation and landing aids, military aeronautics, etc.

Institute Started

In no other place is there an institution like this one being developed with the aid of a corps of United States experts enlisted by the Brazilian air ministry.

The first institute, that for aeronautical technology, already is functioning in a small way. It is headed by Richard Smith a former professor of aerodynamics at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Its aeronautical engineering school has been opened, under Dr. Theodore Theodorsen, formerly a noted scientist of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

A second school, for airways engineering, which will give instruction in airport construction, landing aids and airways operation and economics, will open soon under Charles I. Stanton, formerly deputy civil aeronautics administrator. By 1950, electronics and meteorology schools will open.

Another development may be the designing and building of cargo planes especially adapted to transportation of freight in and out of Brazil's presently almost inaccessible jungle regions. Amorim said it may be found that such items as gasoline, food and medical supplies can be carried to some parts of Brazil more cheaply by air.

To Unify Brazil

The center will turn out a trained body of engineers and administrators. Amorim said they will help Brazil to capitalize on its rich but largely undeveloped natural resources and to tie the country together with a transport and communications system which its geographical situation prevents attaining with ground means.

These other educators and industry executives are participating in the project, Amorim said:

Dr. John Younger, formerly head of the mechanical engineering department, University of Maryland; Ralph DuBois, formerly chief experimental engineer in the Packard Motor Corporation's Rolls Royce-Merlin aircraft engine project; Frederick Phillips, design engineer with the Glenn L. Martin Co., and Dr. William Grossman, New York University economics professor. Eventually there will be 40 on the technological institute's staff alone.

Backache, Leg Pains May Be Danger Sign
Of Tired Kidneys

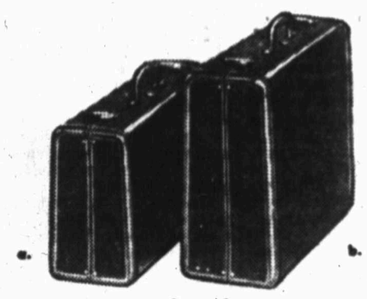

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills. Adv

ABSENTEE VOTING BEGINS

Ballots Sent Out Over U. S. As Lubbock Residents Cast Votes

Requests for absentee ballots are being received here from Manzanita, Ore., to Boston, Mass., and from Lake Mills, Wis., to the Texas border from Lubbock residents who plan to vote in the Aug. 28 run-off election, a check of the county clerk's records revealed.

Although 52 of the 88 requests received by mail through Wednesday were from Texas, California had eight, New Mexico six and there were letters from Lubbock persons in nine other states besides the three already mentioned.

For Various Reasons

The addresses indicated many were on business trips, but for others it meant visits with relatives hunting, fishing and hiking in cool Colorado, New Mexico and Oregon; stops at historic shrines like those in Arlington, Va., and relaxation in sunny California. And, for three, they probably meant the sound of marching feet and the bugle call.

Other than cities in Texas, Arlington—site of the famed national cemetery—was host to the most Lubbock residents, a group of five from the Hub City mailing their requests from that city.

Deadline for absentee voting is next Tuesday.

Long Separation Comes To End As Abernathy War Veteran Is Reunited With French Bride

ABERNATHY, Aug. 19 (Special) — After having endured a period of long separation, Walter L. Rutledge of Abernathy and his war bride from France are reunited, for good they hope.

Rutledge is a civilian again, having received his discharge from the Army at Camp Kilmer, N. J., July 28. He is taking some time to rest and "just loaf" a while at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. Rutledge, in Abernathy. The elder Mr. Rutledge is Abernathy's city marshal.

Mrs. Rutledge, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Pingret of Mercon-et-Vaux, Aisne, France, was the former Miss Mauricette Helene Pingret.

Movies Aid To Language

She met Cpl. Rutledge over there and they were married in Reims, France, Dec. 26, 1946.

After their marriage they were together until April, 1947, when Rutledge was transferred to occupation in Germany.

At that time Mrs. Rutledge came to the United States and arrived in Abernathy more than a year ago.

Although she spoke little English, she applied herself diligently to learning the language, and today she speaks English well, with a delightful accent.

During her husband's absence she has become a movie fan and attributes much of her progress in learning English to going to the movies regularly.

Speaks French When Excited

Meanwhile, Rutledge remained in Frankfurt, Germany, until his "hitch" was up, then was sent back to the States, landing in New York July 28.

Then, following his discharge at Camp Kilmer, he rushed home.

In moments of excitement, Mrs. Rutledge is still inclined to lapse unconsciously into her native language.

Such a moment was when her husband arrived in the States and telephoned her. He had to remind her that his French was limited.

Mrs. Rutledge says she likes Abernathy and feels no desire to return to France, except for a visit, and she describes everything on the South Plains as "so new" in contrast to her native country.

Her first West Texas sandstorm frightened her, and she paced the floor from window to window.

On several occasions since she has been in Abernathy Mrs. Rutledge has had an opportunity to visit with other French war brides on the South Plains and converse in French with them.

Recently she attended, with Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Gregory, an outing of Southwestern Public Service company employes at Plainview country club.

There she met one of the employes, Jim Jaquet of Clovis, N. M., who speaks French fluently. Jaquet was born in Switzerland and came to this country several years ago.

Rutledge entered service Jan. 22, 1943. He re-enlisted after receiving his discharge Oct. 25, 1945, and went to Europe early in 1946.

Policeman Decides On Sharp Ruling In Parking Puzzle

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 19 (AP)—Giving out tickets isn't always so easy Patrolman Hugh McAllister has discovered.

He found two jeeps parked in one metered parking space yesterday, both within the legal confines of the white lines, and the nickle parking fee inserted in the meter.

One of the two pint-sized vehicles was illegal, but which one McAllister pondered.

Finally, ticket pad in hand, he decided:

"It's illegal to put two vehicles in one place and the one farthest from the meter gets the ticket."

The term saran applies to a series of resins chemically known as vinylidene chloride copolymers from which many plastic articles are made.

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

SUNDAY we went to the bull fights. Even though there are fights every Sunday, one has to get his ticket several days in advance if he wants one at all; it seems that an indigent Mexican will let his children go without milk in order to see a weekly bull fight. Natives of this country are so enchanted with the fights that they are only mildly interested in football games. According to them football is merely child's play.

Mexico's new bullring, called "Monumental Mexico," is the largest such arena in the world; it seats 45,000 persons.

Usually six bulls are killed in one afternoon by three matadors who kill two bulls each; each fight taking approximately 20 minutes. The best season for fights is from November to March; the off-season from April to September is called the "Novilladas." During the latter period it is likely to rain each afternoon before the fights are completed, and this is what happened when we attended the sport. At about the half-way point of the third fight, we were drenched by a sudden down pour.

THE famous colored glass curtain which hangs in El Palacio de Bellas Artes here was viewed by our class Sunday, also. Tiffany of New York made the curtain approximately 40 years ago at a cost of $47,000 in American gold.

It was designed by the Mexican artist, Gerardo Murillo, better known as Dr. Atl, to represent Mexico's twin volcanoes, Popocatepetl and Iztaccihuatl. Lights which play on the curtain show the volcanoes as they appear at dawn, noon, twilight and night.

INTERESTING Mexican towns which our group has visited within the last few days have been Puebla, Cholula and Taxco.

In Puebla, we visited the Cathedral which is one of the largest and grandest in America. Because of its many fine churches, Puebla often is called "The Rome of Mexico."

Perhaps the most interesting place in Puebla, a city of 200,000, is the convent of Santa Monica. This convent was operated secretly from 1857, when the government suppressed many church organizations, until 1935, when it was discovered by the Mexican authorities; therefore, it is known today as the "Secret Convent" and has been converted in to a museum.

Even though Puebla is a city, a two hour siesta is observed after lunch.

In the small village of Cholula, 75 miles from Mexico City, there are 365 churches. The historical explanation of the large number of churches is that Cortez ordered a church to be built for each of the 400 pagan temples he found in Cholula in 1519.

History of Cholula centers around a pre-Columbian pyramid which may be entered at present by a tunnel dug by archeologists. The pyramid is topped by one of the town's most beautiful churches.

Steep cobblestone streets characterize the old silver mining town of Taxco which is 102 miles from the Mexican capital. Because of its desirable climate, its beauty and its quaintness, it is one of the most popular stopping places for tourists.

Shop after shop in the small town sells silver articles which are manufactured in Taxco factories, one of the most famous of which is the Spratling factory. However, the Spratling workers have been on strike for six months. Taxco, a winter resort, has been known for its silver mines since 1522.

MOST sacred among the many shrines of Mexico is that of Our Lady of Guadalupe, established in Mexico City following a miracle which is said to have happened in 1531. In that year it is believed that the Virgin Mary appeared to an Indian and commanded that a church be erected on that precise spot. As a sign, the legend goes, the Virgin changed the Indian's serape into a beautiful cloth bearing her image. The cloth is now on display at the shrine in a case made of 14 tons of silver.

In December of each year thousands of Indians who are said to believe that the Guadalupe Virgin is a divine manifestation of their primitive goddess walk to the shrine from all parts of Mexico. There they kiss floors, walls and fixtures to a high polish. On their departure the church has to be fumigated.

After the program, iced watermelon was served to 18 guests.

Stalin Gives Impression Of Being Cold, Aloof, But Holding Sharp Appraisal Of Many Problems

man who worked here stepped up to us to welcome us.

Pictures On Wall

His office was a fairly bare room, with an oblong conference table and sixteen chairs in its center, and a desk in one of the corners.

Two large oil portraits—Marx and Lenin—adorned the wall, on the table and desk were some ashtrays, some files and a few pencils.

No emblems were on display, nor any flags, or flowers, or photos, or mementos of any kind.

Stalin seemed quite indifferent when we shook hands. Then he waved me and the interpreter to the conference table, and sat down opposite us.

He knew that I was not a party man. He was familiar with my critique of Communism.

Until that day I had—except for Kemal Ataturk—been able to talk in the native language of the men I interviewed.

Would Not Face Him

In Stalin's case I had to rely on my interpreter—who, to be sure, talked German fluently.

Moreover, Stalin refrained from illustrating his thoughts, as most people do, by gestures and the expression of his eyes.

He never looked at me, and throughout our three-hour talk kept doodling with the red tip of his two-color pencil on one sheet of paper after another.

When I asked him about Trotsky, the figures and lines he was drawing grew to a wild pell-mell.

He answered my questions as methodically as a trained logician. He showed a real mastery of whatever subject I brought up. I had carefully prepared by questions, but he could not have known which fields I would touch.

Did Not Interfere At First

"Being an old conspirator," I asked him, "do you think that under your regime illegal actions are impossible? or are you afraid they aren't—and is this the reason why even today, many years after the outbreak of the revolution, you are using terror methods?"

He answered:

"No. But when we took over, we did not at first interfere with freedom of the press and freedom of thought. We released Czarist generals who were our prisoners on their word of honor, and realized only afterwards how greatly misplaced our tolerance had been.

"So we reverted to stricter and harder methods. But do you really assume we could have remained in power for so long a time through mere terror?

"Our peasantry is not as docile, nor Russian workers as little intelligent, as Europeans generally think they are.

"Only the middle class is frightened.

"Never before us in history has a regime satisfied, as we do, 85 per cent of the population."

And then Stalin proceeded to talk about the disorders and revolts in Czarist Russia.

He talked slowly, fluently but tonelessly and without ever fascinating his listeners—rather like a pendantic logician.

Says Writer Mistaken

I mentioned the discrepancy between the officially accepted Marxian theory which regards economic factors as the decisive element in history on the one hand, and the hero worship manifest in naming Soviet towns after government people on the other.

Considering "Stalingrad," this was an attack on himself.

Stalin said:

"You're mistaken. You'll find in Marx that it is men who make history—but only in their reactions to existing conditions. The greatness of a man is determined by his reactions to the conditions which he faces. Otherwise he is just a Don Quixote."

Once during our talk he made an attempt at being social. I had stopped smoking—there was a box of cigarettes on the table—and he asked me did I mind his smoking. Whereupon I mentioned the myth according to which he was always smoking his pipe.

"You see," he said, "today I forgot to take my pipe along."

"So you are against myth?"

"I am not—if it comes from the people."

Asks Universal Question

When I asked him to inscribe the pamphlet he had given me earlier, he asked the interpreter, "Yes, but what shall I write?"

"Your name and that of Mr. Ludwig," the interpreter replied.

He followed the interpreter's advice, using his red pencil.

Then he said he, too, wanted to ask me a question, or rather a favor. But if I didn't feel like it, I was under no obligation to answer.

"I suppose you're going to make quite some money on your interview," he said, "would you consider giving part of it to needy German children?"

"Naturally. But I always thought you were against charity!"

He broke out in a short, hollow laugh—it was really frightening—and then said:

"I am against charity in Russia. But it still must be practiced in captalistic countries."

Had Taken His Revenge

It was evident that he took his revenge for the three hours he had spent on a bourgeois. (To be on the safe side, I later mailed to the Kremlin a receipt attesting to my donation.)

Toward the end of our talk Stalin grew somewhat livelier. When I was about to take my leave, I asked him would he be surprised by a last question which was on my mind.

"Nothing in Russia can possibly surprise me," he said.

"Would you say that ambition furthers, or that it hinders, the development of man's energies?"

"It depends. Ambition may stimulate a man. But mostly it prevents him from fulfilling his destiny."

"Do you believe in destiny?"

He let a long while pass before he replied with great firmness:

"No, I don't. It's a prejudice. It's nonsense."

Again he broke out in his hollow laugh, and then he twice said in German:

"Schicksal! Schicksal! ("Fate! Fate!")

But he continued in Russian in a tone of contempt:

"It would be the way the ancient Greeks had it—with gods and goddesses directing human life from above."

"But you yourself," I insisted, "who went through so many mortal dangers—do you think it is mere coincidence that you survived them all, and that another man isn't sitting in this place today?"

"No, it isn't a coincidence," Stalin replied. "Certainly there were reasons for my survival—material reasons as well as others which were within myself.

"Naturally some other man could be sitting in my place. Yet, I don't agree with any concept of destiny. It's an unlawful, mystical notion, and I don't believe in it.

"Surely my survival had its reasons. But there could have been different reasons for it, too—coincidences."

The confusion of Stalin's answer, his lack of a point of view in so important a matter is obvious, and led me to the conclusion that Stalin had neither a religion nor a philosophy.

(TOMORROW: Stalin's reasons for leading Russia on the road to world imperialism and how he grew vain with success.)

U. S. Said Unable To Meet Wool Demands

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 19. (AP)—The American Wool council heard today that declining areas of range land and tighter restrictions on federal grazing lands are making this country more dependent on foreign sources of wool.

F. E. Ackerman, executive director of the council, said the United States will use 11,000,000,000 pounds of wool this year, or about twice as much as in prewar years. The country will depend on foreign sources for about 75 per cent of this, he added.

Research May Aid

But if wool research comes up to hopes, some of the shortage will be relieved, Ackerman said.

He told the council about the $400,000 research program soon to be started by sheep growers and wool manufacturers of the United States and the British dominions. The laboratories will be at Princeton university.

The industry hopes that the research chemists can improve wool textures of all types, expand the use of medium grade wools and add millions of dollars to the value of wool clips.

The supply of fine-grade wool is steadily falling in the world's markets, Ackerman said. Growers are favoring breeds of sheep which can be used for both wool and mutton as contrasted with those noted for wool-bearing.

He urged stock-piling of wool and said "we need a long-range supply program with Australia, South Africa, New Zealand, Argentina and Uruguay."

Swedish Star Still Isn't Talking

Greta Garbo Reported Set For Comeback In Movies

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19 (INS)—Greta Garbo, who is habitually about as talkative as a wallflower at a sign language school, today was vociferous as a bashful clam.

The svelt Swedish film star simply wasn't talking.

She wouldn't even answer her telephone, mainly because she doesn't have a telephone at the moment. Friends explained Miss Garbo still "wants to be alone."

Planned Other Comebacks

The slender blonde actress, therefore, would not comment on statements from producer Walter Wanger that he and Eugene Frenke had signed her to star in a new picture.

Miss Garbo, since her self-imposed "retirement" from the silver screen some seven years ago, has on at least three occasions announced that she would momentarily stage a movie comeback. She never has.

Wanger said Garbo will be "cut in" on the profits of "at least one picture" in which she will star for the new company.

The producer disclosed that Garbo's comeback flicker will be filmed "in Paris, Rome, Hollywood — and possibly in London."

"We have not decided on a name for the picture yet. We probably will not name it for several weeks, at least.

No Details Available

"I can't tell you anything about the background or the theme of the picture, or any details of our contract with Miss Garbo."

Wanger said he was not sure whether Miss Garbo would star in one or several of the by-products of his new producing outfit — "Walter Wanger-International."

Garbo, Wanger and Frenke signed their three-way pact last Sunday.

"And," added Wanger, "there is absolutely nothing else to say about it at this time."

He indicated, however, that the cast has not been set and that the exact date of shooting schedule is far into the future.

Wanger and Garbo have worked together previously. One of the Swedish glamour girl's most succussful pictures, "Queen Christina," was produced by Wanger years ago at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer when Garbo was riding the crest of her movie fame.

Her leading man in that flicker was the late John Gilbert, one of the most idolized leading men in Hollywood history.

IMPORTANCE OF LUBBOCK MEETING STRESSED

Cotton Mechanization Conference Scheduled Here Oct. 14-16 Is Attracting Nationwide Attention

(EDITOR'S NOTE:—The accompanying article which is illuminating as to the importance of the Beltwide Cotton Mechanization conference to be held at the State Agriculture Experiment substation in Lubbock Oct. 14-16 appeared recently in the New York City Journal of Commerce).

By OSCAR JOHNSTON
Chairman of the Board, National Cotton Council

In October, 1948, for the second consecutive year, the top leaders from the fields of agriculture, industry, and government will journey deep into the Cotton Belt to discuss the challenges presented by the mechanization of cotton and related farm crops.

This year at the Agricultural Experiment substation at Lubbock, Tex., they will hear a program report on what has taken place in cotton mechanization since they last convened at the Delta Branch Experiment station at Stoneville, Miss., in August, 1947.

Conference Important

What are the interests that cause so diverse a group of busy men to break into crowded schedules for three days at Lubbock? What exactly is the significance of the Beltwide Cotton Mechanization conference?

First, examine the stake of the cotton farmer in this business of mechanization.

Two facts immediately become apparent: First, the farmer is faced with tremendous pressure from competing fibers and other materials — competition which in part at least can be answered only by lower cotton production costs; second, mechanization offers the farmer his best single means of cutting costs.

The American cotton farmer has seen his costs go steadily upward, while his industrial mass-production competitors have steadily reduced their costs through use of less man labor and more machine labor.

In the field or agriculture, cotton is unique among the major agricultural commodities in that it is the last of the great man - mule crops. Look at the record. The average U. S. farm possesses $614 worth of farm machinery. The average cotton farm possesses $163 worth of machinery.

Put it another way. The average Cotton Belt farm worker operates three fifths as much crop land with only one-half as much equipment and produces only three-fifths as much as the average farm worker for the country as a whole. Thus the volume of hand labor mounts. In cotton, fifty per cent or more of the cost of production is directly attributed to the hand labor involved.

Labor Shortage

Unquestionably, cotton's high production cost in recent years can be attributed at least partly to the shortage of farm labor. From 1940 to 1945, approximately 1,600,000 workers left Southern farms to enter commercial and industrial pursuits either in the urban areas of the South or in the industrial centers of the North and East. Since the end of the war, there has been no indication that these workers will return to the farm.

Naturally, then there has arisen a premium price for the labor which has been available, especially during the two peak periods of the cotton cycle—thinning and weeding, and harvesting.

The cotton farmer has become increasingly aware that unless he cuts his production costs he is not going to remain competitive pricewise. What he can do through mechanization has been proved time and again by the Agricultural Experiment Stations of the belt and translated into positive savings by scores, hundreds, and now thousands of farmers.

The path toward mechanization becomes more heavily and solidly beaten each day. From 1940 to 1947, the number of tractors on cotton belt farms increased 155 per cent. It is true that the cotton States still are far behind those in other States, but assuredly no area has shown a percentage of tractor increase equal to that of the South in recent years.

Key To Situation

This increase in the number of tractors holds the key to the interest of yet another of the groups involved in the beltwide mechanization conference—the farm equipment industry.

In the cotton producing States there is a virtually untapped market for farm machinery of all sorts. Despite the fact that the number of tractors has increased to tremendously in the past seven years, the best estimates available show that something less than 3 per cent of the 1947 cotton crop was produced under conditions of maximum mechanization.

The farm implement manufacturer sees, too, that his potential market in the South and Southwest is not limited to cotton pickers, strippers, flame cultivators, insecticide applicators, and other typical cotton tools. With the mechanization of cotton, he is going to sell tens of thousands of hay balers, combines, cultivators, planters, middle-busters, fertilizer applicators, corn pickers, and other machines necessary to the mechanization on the companion crops grown on cotton farms.

Unused Markets

The virgin markets of the South, then, are a source of vast interest to the farm machinery industry. They will become increasingly important as the move toward mechanization accelerates with the development of even better harvesters and improved methods of weed control, mechanical and chemical.

The interest of Government through the agencies of the Department of Agriculture and the land grant colleges of the Cotton Belt quickly reveals itself.

Cotton and the 13,000,000 dependent upon it constitute a sizeable and important segment of the American economy and population. Whatever affects cotton is reflected in the lives and incomes of the entire country.

The failure of cotton to compete successfully with other fibers would make necessary great and revolutionary social and economic changes which would endanger the entire national structure.

True enough, the top economists of the South realize that there are certain to result some changes through mechanization of cotton; those changes will not be nearly so precipitous nor so great as the upheaval which would be wrought by the overthrow of the cotton industry.

It is one of Government's principal functions to see that the greatest good is attained for the greatest number of people: hence, Government's keen interest in mechanization.

Last year at Stoneville all the various interests involved in the ob of cotton mechanization got together for the first time under sponsorship of the National Cotton Council. Research and development workers from the farm equipment manufacturers sat across the table from the agricultural engineers of the experiment stations. Extension and vocational agriculture leaders heard cotton men tell of their concepts of the educational job involved in mechanization. The interchange of ideas and the better concept of mutual problems brought closer together the diverse groups working toward mechanization of cotton farming and increased income for the farm worker.

Eventful as were the results of the 1947 meeting, the conference, being the first of its kind, was to a degree exploratory. Far greater things can be expected of the sessions at Lubbock this fall. The pattern is cut, the various groups know the direction in which they are traveling. There will be a freer exchange of thinking.

Not least interesting of the events will be the demonstration of fully mechanized cotton production. Every phase of the cotton cycle will be seen from the preparation of land through planting, thinning, cultivation, weeding, defoliation, and harvesting. Airplanes will apply insecticides from the sky.

Those who are at Lubbock will hear and see history in the making—history which will be recorded through the years as one of the greatest advances of one of America's greatest industries, the mechanization of cotton.

Western official exhibitors will include Holland, Italy, Belgium, and Switzerland, and private industrial expositions will be on hand from France and England.

Diver Will Seek To Recover $500,000 From Sea Bottom

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19. (U.P.)—Twenty-five bars of gold, worth nearly $500,000, are hidden somewhere in the twisted wreckage of the liner Niagra, 500 feet down on the sea bottom off the coast of New Zealand

Jack Johnston, a diver, who took $9,500,000 worth of bullion from the wreck in 1941, is going back to get the rest, Radio Australia reported.

The gold was stored in the liner's bullion room, which was cleared during the first salvatry. The missing bars fell from the hoist on the way to the surface.

WINTER PASTURE SUBSTITUTE—The first box-type silo in Gregg county, above, was placed in operation recently at the J. B. Evans dairy farm near Kilgore, Tex. The new silo is shown as it was being filled with 100 tons of green corn. County Agent O. D. Taylor says this silo will provide "the best substitute for pasture during the winter months." Costing a little over $100 to build, Gregg County farmers are looking to the Evans silo as a new economical method of providing year-round feed for their cattle. (AP Photo).

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 — Treasury Secretary Snyder has warned of a "noticeable postwar upturn" in illicit narcotics shipments to the U. S. from abroad.

Snyder issued his statement after receiving tentative reports from commissioner of narcotics Harry J. Anslinger and deputy commissioner of customs Edson J. Shamhart.

Seizures Increase

The two bureau heads reported that during the year ended June 30, narcotic drug seizures totaled 6,755 ounces as compared with 6,091 ounces taken the previous year.

Marihuana captured by agents of the two bureaus amount to about 40,000 ounces, nearly double the seizures of the previous year, and 17,015 marihuana cigarettes were reported taken, an increase of 8,000 over 1947.

Snyder said that "arrests per number of officers employed continues to rise," and then warned: "Narcotic drugs still are considered to be scarce, but price decreases in certain areas indicate a noticeable postwar upturn in the underworld trade."

3,180 Persons Arrested

During the year, 3,180 persons were placed in custody by the bureau of narcotics, as compared with 2,855 in 1947. Of this total, 987 persons were arrested for violation of the marihuana law and 2,193 for violation of the narcotics laws.

Snyder noted that there appeared to be sharp increases in narcotics shipments to the U. S. from South America and Turkey.

As the result of seizure of a shipment of 21 ounces of heroin from a Greek sailor in New York City, agents learned that American seamen could readily obtain the drug at Istanbul, Turkey.

In a move to cut-off this major source of supply in the illegal drug trade, a U. S. narcotics agent was sent to Turkey in May posing as a seaman smuggler.

Cooperating closely with Turkish police, the treasury man carried on negotiations with heroin sellers under circumstances described as "extremely hazardous."

When the illicit drug dealers delivered three ounces of pure heroin to the agent, police officers who had surrounded the building burst in and arrested four men upon receiving a prearranged signal.

This was followed by seizure of a complete heroin manufacturing plant and large amounts of the drug apparently intended for shipment to the U. S.

A joint customs-narcotics investigation disclosed that Peruvian cocaine was being smuggled into Charleston, Mobile and Savannah on ships engaged in South American trade. The drug was being shipped overland from the ports to New York's Harlem section.

This smuggling was ended on April 3 when treasury men seized three seamen at Charleston and caught them red-handed with 26 ounces of cocaine hydrochloride.

Co-Chairmen Appointed

Present at the organization meeting were Sanford, Fire Chief W. E. Twitty, Fire Marshal Bradley Black, Gordon Sanders, City Manager Marlan R. San Antonio Group To Help Mexican Girl Leave Germany

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 19. (INS)—It's a long way from San Antonio to Muhldorf, Germany, but not too far for human kindness to bridge the gap.

San Antonio Latin-American organizations are raising money to help return Maria Gloria Barrios, 54, a Mexican citizen, to her Tampico home from a German DP camp.

Maria told this story to W. M. Milan, a soldier from San Antonio: She worked as a maid for a German family in Tampico before the war.

When the war broke out, the family went back to Germany, taking Maria with them. Now, homeless and homesick, Maria wants to come home.

The Mexican consul is willing to put up $100 of the needed $200 to bring her back. The San Antonio organizations are raising the rest.

Take Off Ugly Fat With Grape Fruit Juice Recipe

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy — no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of Liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears — how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Hubbers Nose Out Dukes, 6-4

Miller Protects Russell's Win

ALBUQUERQUE, Aug. 19 (Spl.)—Roland Miller came on in the eighth inning tonight to tame the Albuquerque Dukes, although it took a fast double play in the ninth to help him, as the Lubbock Hubbers nosed out the Dukes, 6-4.

Frank McAlexander, the rapidly improving sticker, accounted for three runs tonight with a triple and a single, the latter driving in the two tying runs in the sixth. Other RBI credit went to Manager Jackie Sullivan; Virgil Richardson and Floyd Walker.

Russell Wins Game

Cotton Russell, making his first start since his illness, went seven innings and gave up only eight hits and all the Duke runs. The cotton-topped hurler weakened in the eighth and had to have relief from Miller, who preserved Russell's 11th victory of the year.

The Hubbers fought from behind to take a lead twice and their two runs in the seventh clinched the game. In that inning, Chick Fowler and Gene Hixson fanned, but Sullivan singled and Richardson tripled to deep center, scoring Sullivan. Walker banged a bingle to center sending Richardson across the platter.

Lead Changes Hands

Earlier in the game, the Dukes got the jump by scoring a single counter in the first on two singles, a walk and a long fly. Lubbock fought back in the second to score once on Richardson's single and McAlexander's triple, after two were out. They took the lead in the third after two were down on Hixson's single to center and his steal of second, from which he scored on Sullivan's double to right.

The Dukes evened the count in the bottom half on a walk, a wild pitch, a long fly and Dick Dawson's single.

Two more Lubbock runs scored in the sixth when Sullivan walked and Richardson beat out a bunt. Walker strolled to load the sacks and Sullivan and Richardson scored on McAlexander's single.

Tomorrow night Don Cantrell probably will face the Hubbers, with Red Ramsey the possible Hubber starter.

White Sox Outslug Yanks In Kid Game

The Pee Wee league White Sox smashed the Yankees, 30-12, in a wild slugfest at Lubbock Boys Clube Thursday afternoon. In the Junior league battle, Carroll Walker fanned fourteen men as the Jaycees nosed out the ABC squad, 4 to 3.

Ronald Hall gained credit for the mound win. K. D. Watson sparked the White Sox attack, with four singles in six times up. For the Yanks, George Dawson banged out a single that drove in two runs.

In the Junior affair, both teams were scoreless until the first of the fifth, when the ABC's got three hits, which were good for their three runs. In the last of the sixth frame, the Jaycee squad opened up with Ira Owens' single. Mickey Bradey then tripled, Carroll Walker drew a base on balls. Doney Presley came up and singled, Perry Martin doubled to drive in the two runs which placed the game on ice for the JC's.

Walker fanned fourteen ABC batters. Truman Jones was the leading hitter for the ABC's, with two singles in four times at bat. While on the mound Jones struck out thirteen players.

Friday, the Red Sox will meet the Dodgers in the Pee Wee affair and Methodist Men will meet the Exchange Club nine in the Junior league game.

The other two drivers, Everett Osborne of Wichita, Kan., and Bill Fleming of Syracuse, N. Y., required only first aid treatment.

The sulkies collided on a turn during the first heat of the "Little Pat" two-year-old race.

O'Brien's horse, "Popular Ann" of Popular Hill Farms of Lexington, suffered nose and head cuts.

Willard Gains Middleweight Win Over Jones In TAAF Fights

FORT WORTH, Aug. 19 (AP)—The welters and the middleweights furnished most of the thunder here tonight as the 1948 Texas Amateur Athletic Federation boxing tournament opened a three-night run.

Wallace Willard, who won the state title as a welter last year, made an impressive middleweight debut by scoring a first round technical knockout over Tom Jones of Odessa. Two left hooks to the body and a right hook to the same spot sent Jones down three times before the bout was stopped.

Schroeder Upset In Net Tourney

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 19. (INS)—Top seeded Ted Schroeder, of La Crescenta, Cal., suffered a stunning upset today in the quarter finals of the Casino Cup tennis tournament.

He was beaten by Victor Seixas of Philadelphia, 6-2, 4-6, 6-8, 4-6.

Seixas could not break Schroeder's net and overhead game in the first set. But from then on, he kept the Davis Cupper off balance with a bewildering array of drop shots and fireball serves.

Billy Talbert of New York, veteran of many a championship tourney, pulled out a hard-won, uphill victory over Earl R. Cochell of San Francisco in another quarter final match.

The score was 11-13, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1, 6-2.

An upset marked the doubles quarterfinals when unseeded Irvin Dorfman of New York and Tom Brown of San Francisco defeated Jack Tuero of New Orleans and Fred Koveleski, in straight sets, 7-5, 6-2. Tuero and Koveleski were seeded number three in the doubles.

Bernard Bartzen of San Angelo, Texas, and Arnold Saul of San Diego, Cal., defeated the doubles team of Thomas Chambers and George Richard, both of Los Angeles. The score was 6-2, 8-10, and 14-12.

Schroeder teamed with Frank Parker of Los Angeles to romp through the doubles quarter-finals against the San Francisco team of Nick Carter and Ed Moyland, 6-1, 6-4.

Schroeder and Parker were top seeded, while the San Francisco team was fifth seeded.

Seixas teamed with Sam Match of San Francisco to down the second seeded foreign team of Enrique Morea of Argentina and Eric Sturgess of South Africa, 8-6, 6-4. The Seixas-Match duo was second seeded domestic.

Collegians Have Aerial Strength

Talent-Loaded Stars Meet Cards Tonight

CHICAGO, Aug. 19. (AP)—Football's greatest pre-season spectacle pits the College All-Stars against the seasoned Chicago Cardinals tomorrow night in floodlighted Soldier field.

A crowd in excess of 100,000 is expected to fill the stadium to standing room capacity to see the talent-loaded Collegians meet the champions of the National Football League in the 15th annual game of the series.

The professional champions hold the edge in the competition with seven victories, five defeats and two ties. But the young giants fresh from the schools knocked off the Chicago Bears in 1947 and the Los Angeles Rams in 1946 by identifical scores, 16 to 0, and may do it for the third time. The Cardinals will be representing the National League for the first time and the pressure will be on them to break the short string of defeats.

Leahy Coaches Stars

The All-Stars, coached by Notre Dame's Frank Leahy for the second consecutive game, were favorites over the Cardinals at the start of practice three weeks ago. The injuries reduced the Stars' strength to the point where the Cardinals probably will enter the game slight favorites.

The All-Stars most brilliant showpiece is Johnny Lujack, All-American quarterback from Notre Dame. But he may be overshadowed by Bob Chappuis of Michigan's undefeated team or Charley Conerly, Mississippi's great passer who last year completed 133 pitches. Lujack will be the firing pin of the T-formation attack, which will be backed up by a single wing unit led by Conerly. The College squad of 71 stars from every section of the nation has been welded into one of the most powerful aggregations ever put together for the game. Undefeated Notre Dame, the mythical 1947 champion, has 14 players on the squad while Michigan will be represented by nine.

Eikenberg With Cards

With tremendous strength, both as to passers and receivers, the All-Stars are expected to wage a furious aerial game, with Lujack, Conerly and Chappuis doing the pitching. For receivers, the all stars have Bob Mann and Len Ford of Michigan; Bill Swiacki, Columbia and Tom Fears, UCLA, and Paul Cleary, University of Southern California.

The Cardinals will present one of the greatest running attacks in professional football. Coach Jimmy Conzelman's offense is based on the speed of Charley Trippi, Elmer Angsman and Boris Diamancheff at the halves and the battering power of Pat Harder at fullback.

At passing the Cardinals will come close to matching the aerial display of the All-Stars The National league champions have two veteran passers in Paul Christman and Ray Mallouf and an outstanding rookie in Virgil Eikenberg from Rice Institute. The Cards also have two sensational receivers in the ends, Mal Kutner and Billy Dewell.

Area Gridders Speed Workouts

Sundown Squad At Belton Camp

South Plains schoolboy gridders continued to set a fast pace in drills Thursday, as mentors stepped up the "body contact" phases of the practice sessions, while reports from two more Class A football camps indicated that the area will field a stronger group of teams than had been forecast earlier.

Coach Durwood Green and Assistant John Edwards are sending their Sundown grid hopefuls through a tough training grind at their camp near Belton, in Central Texas. The 25-player squad, which includes seven lettermen, is making rapid progress and is expected to be in top shape for the opener with Denver City Sept. 3 at Sundown.

Sundown Returns Aug. 25

The Sundown group, which made the journey to the camp site Sunday, will return to the home gridiron about Aug. 25.

Another District 4-A power, Sudan, is reportedly finding training sessions not so difficult under the cool temperatures prevailing at its grid camp at Cowles, N. M. The squad of 30 players, under the direction of Head Mentor Francis Smith, has been holding workouts since Monday and is making rapid progress under the favorable conditions. The Hornets will return home this weekend.

Muleshoe, ranked as a top threat in the strong 4-A loop this season, is conducting one drill session each afternoon on the Muleshoe gridiron. Coach James A. Beam is working with 25 to 35 boys every day, with four lettermen topping the roster. Muleshoe opens the 1948 slate Sept. 10 against Springlake.

WESTERNER GRIDDERS IN LENGTHY SESSIONS HERE

Lubbock's Westerner grid hopefuls found the going a little tougher Thursday, as Head Mentor C. R. (Pat) Pattison sent the youngsters through two lengthy sessions at the Chapman field gridiron.

Despite a hot sun and torrid temperatures, the latest edition of the Black and Gold ran through a drill on play assignments and wind sprints yesterday morning, then came back Thursday afternoon for a session on blocking and pass offense and defense.

Coach Pattison announced that a tackle candidate, Gene Roberts, had been lost to the squad as a result of the discovery of an old injury, and reported that Wayne Stroud, a backfield prospect, would be out of action for a few days because of a minor foot injury.

Two regular practice periods are scheduled today, with conditioning and passing drills continuing to feature the practice slate.

Gold Sox Drop Lamesa, 16 To 11

AMARILLO, Aug. 19 (Special)—Amarillo's potent Gold Sox blasted out a 15-hit, 16-run attack on three Lamesa pitchers here tonight to hand the Loboes their fourteenth consecutive defeat, 16-11.

Ray Pannemann went the route for the Amarilloans, although he gave up 16 safeties, and notched his second mound win of the season.

Jim Skidgel, Lamesa catcher, sparked the Loboes at the plate with three home runs.

Considine Continues Babe Ruth Story

Babe Was Proudest Of Hurling 29 Air Tight Innings In 1918

(Bob Considine tells herewith, in the third article of his intimate life story of Babe Ruth, how the swashbuckling Bambino "stood 'em on their ears" in his early major league days as a pitcher. Today's article takes Ruth through his record-breaking days as a Boston Red Sox pitcher up to his purchase by the New York Yankees—where the Babe Ruth legend really was born.)

By BOB CONSIDINE
INS Staff Writer

Babe Ruth became a synonym for big money, but there were periods in his career when he made considerably less than does a batboy with a first class team today.

A prodigy of his magnitude, if discovered today and properly advised would bring $100,000 from any of four or five big league clubs.

Babe signed his first $600 a year contract without receiving a penny.

Before mid-season of 1914 Jack Dunn, faced with bankruptcy because of the competition of the Federal League, sold Babe to the Boston Red Sox for $2,900. The Babe's first big league salary was $2,500 a year.

Sox Shortened Bats

A rookie of the 1914 vintage, particularly one as imposing as Babe, had a difficult time compared to the embryo Ruths of today. Babe got off on the wrong foot in the majors by bearing down too hard in batting practice against such teammates as Tris Speaker, Duffy Lewis, Harry Hooper and other greats.

When he insisted on taking batting practice, the Sox sawed all of his bats in half.

He lasted only a month on this first trip to the majors, pitched in five games, won two and lost one. He won his first major league start, against Cleveland.

But it was apparent just beyond mid-season that the Sox were going no place. Their farm team at Providence had a chance, however, and Babe was shipped there. He pitched Providence to the International League pennant, and in the uniforms of Baltimore, Boston and Providence he won 24 games in his freshman year in proball.

Babe came back to the Red Sox in 1915 at the handsome stipend of $3,500. The bicycle was a thing of the past, now. Babe was getting into the automobile class.

"I was living," is the way he described it later.

His manager, Bill Carrigan, had to put the baling hook into him a few times that year. But Babe's fountains of talent overcame everything else. In this, his first full year in the majors, he led the American League in the won and lost percentages, with 18 triumphs against six set-backs.

Babe Hit .315 In 1915

Carrigan did an unusual thing with Babe that year. He used him as a pinch-hitter from time to time, a somewhat unheard of strategy. Babe hit .315, rapped out 10 doubles, a triple and the then astonishing total of four home runs.

The season of 1915 saw Babe in the first of his ten world series, but Carrigan never got around to using him in the box. He made a brief and fruitless appearance as a pinch-hitter in the final game of the series against the Phillies.

It offended him, and should have. But the young southpaw finally shrugged it off. He had other things to occupy his mind. He had decided that he would buy a home in Boston, where he expected to spend the rest of his life. And with that much settled, he married a Nova Scotian named Helen Woodring, a waitress in the coffee shop where he had his breakfast each noon.

Won 23 Games For Sox

Babe won 23 games for the Sox in 1916, pitched the Sox into another pennant and performed such feats as striking out Cobb, Veach and Crawford in order, with the bases filled during one of the more critical games against the pressing Detroit Tigers.

He had an earned run average of 1.75, a figure hardly comprehensible these days, and in the world series against the Dodgers he won the longest game ever played in that traditional show—a 14-inning 2-1 victory over Sherry Smith.

Ruth won 23 again in 1917, but his most memorable feat of that year was his scrape with umpire Brick Owens, one of the few times in his tempestuous baseball life that he was ever thrown off the field and fined.

In a game against the Washington Senators Babe squared off against the first man to face him, Eddie Foster, and Owens, umpiring behind the plate, called Babe's first four pitches balls. Babe thought the last two of these had cut the heart of the plate, but at the sound of "ball four!" he rushed up to the plate and bawled:

"If you'd go to bed at night, you -- - ----, you could keep your eyes open long enough to see when a ball goes over the plate."

"Shut up, you lout," Owens snapped, "or I'll throw you out of the game."

"Throw me out of this game and I'll punch you right on the jaw," Babe shouted.

Owens thumbed him out and Babe flattened him. He was suspended for ten days and fined $100.

"They'd put you in jail today if you hit an umpire," Babe used to muse in later years.

Pitched No-Hitter

The remarkable part of this episode in his life is that he was succeeded in the box by Ernie Shore who, with no time in which to warm up, went on to retire the next 26 Washington hitters in order (Foster was out trying to steal) and thus achieved one of only six perfect games ever hurled in the majors.

Babe bought a small cigar factory that year and made a sweaty pretense at farming but lost interest. And that was the year his orbit and that of Ed Barrow, who was to change and direct much of his later life, first crossed.

Barrow was named manager of the Red Sox and as World War I progressed he was forced to improvise with what talent remained out of uniform.

A considerable part of that talent was Babe, who was exempted from the draft primarily because he was married. Barrow called Babe to his room one day and told him that because of the manpower shortage and Babe's vivid lust for the game he would like the pitcher to play in the Boston outfield on days when he wasn't throwing.

"I'll try anything," Babe answered.

He played in 95 games in 1918, hit 26 doubles, 11 triples and 11 home runs — the latter being enough to give him a tie for the home run championship of the American league.

Babe's Proudest Achievement

Boston won the A. L. pennant in 1918, Babe was Barrow's choice as his opening day pitcher. He shut out the Cubs, 1-0, a feat which—added to the 13 consecutive scoreless innings he had pitched in his last world series performance — gave him a mark of 22 straight innings of air-tight pitching.

In his next appearance in the box during the 1918 series he pitched shutout ball until the eighth inning, beating Christy Mathewson's old record of 28.

As long as Babe lived, this was the proudest achievement of his life. Yet he felt he might have done better, and there was always reason to believe that he would have done better in all departments if life had not been, to him, a kind of sweaty horseplay.

Just before he pitched his second game of that series he got in a playful rough and tumble fight with a teammate named Kenny. Babe took a punch at him, missed, and smashed his throwing paw against the steel wall of a pullman Yet he went on to win his game and establish his scoreless innings record.

Amid screams of rage, Harry Frazee, a New York theatrical man who owned the Red Sox by that time, gave Babe a two-year contract for $10,000 in 1919.

"I could get John Barrymore for that!" Frazee fumed, but Babe —who had never heard of Barrymore—stood his ground and won his point. He won by threatening to quit baseball and become a boxer, a threat which only Frazee took seriously.

Hit Homer 600 Feet

Babe pitched in only 17 games that season, winning eight and losing five. He was essentially an outfielder now and, with little or no training in that department, a fabulous one. During spring training, in a game against the Giants at Tampa, he hit a home run that travelled nearly 600 feet.

In all, that year, he hit 29 home runs, a new record which many felt would never be topped.

It was a rip-snorting year for Babe. Resentful of Barrow's efforts to harness him he one day cursed the vigorous middle-aged manager, who immediately took off his coat and invited Babe to fight.

They never came to blows, but Barrow suspended him—on the somewhat spectacular charge of not coming home for a few nights and for being found smoking a pipe in bed, with the sheets pulled up over his dress clothes, at 6 a. m.

Bambino Spent Lavishly

After the 1919 season, Babe thunundered out to California to do a little barnstorming and pick up some extra dough for his now considerable spending. If he were alive today he would reject that "spending."

He used to tell me, "I never spent dough in those days, I shot it out of a cannon."

While in Los Angeles he was called on one day by little Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees. It was his first knowledge that he was about to be sold to the New York club for $100,000 and a loan of $350,000 from Col. Jake Ruppert and "Cap" Huston to the hard-pressed Frazee.

Ruth was indignant. The Yankees had never won a pennant, while Babe had in his brief career been with three pennant-winning Boston teams. But Huggins' mention of the fact the Yankees were prepared to tear up his Boston contract and pay him $20,000 a year was a considerable salve.

Babe headed for the big town . . . and a fame that will never tarnish.

Legion Players Leave For Austin Region 6 Tourney

Two members of the Lubbock American Legion baseball team, champions of the West Texas area in District 1 play, will leave this morning for Austin and the Legion 6 tournament.

The Region 6 tournament, which will be operated on a double elimination basis, involves state champion Legion teams from Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi. The Texas champion is Austin, surprise winner over Adamson of Dallas, which swamped the local Legion nine in the state tourney.

Guy Galey Going

Making the trip to Austin, due to their selection to the All-Texas Legion nine, will be Dorrance Guy and Bob Brown. However, Brown is active in Lubbock High school football and will not be able to go. In his place will be Charles Galey, one of the standouts on the Hub City team.

Accompanying the two players will be H. J. McCabe, former commander of the Allen Brothers Post, American Legion, and manager of the local nine.

The tournament opens today with two games and continues Saturday with at least two more. Finals in the Region 6 tournament will be run off Sunday.

Players To Be Honored

The two Lubbock boys and McCabe will remain in Austin through the finals of the tournament, returning after the championship game.

Although there has been no public announcement, it is expected that the Texas All-State Legion nine will be honored at some point during the games.

Guy, who proved an outstanding outfielder in the state tournament, is at present on crutches, due to an ankle injury. He also suffered a shoulder injury, but neither will handicap his ability to make the trip.

Lubbock Bantamweight, Neff To Meet Palma In Six Round Bout

DALLAS, Aug. 19. (AP)—Texas welterweight champion Bert Linam of Austin and 18-year-old Chebo Hernandez of El Paso meet in a ten-round boxing match here tomorrow night.

It will be a non-title bout. Jose Andreas, Dallas bantam, will meet Irish Pat Riley of Austin in the semi-windup of six rounds. Another 6-rounder matches Mile Palma of El Paso against Charlie Neff, Lubbock bantamweight.

HORSESHOE CHAMPION

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 19. (INS)—Guy Zimmerman of Oakland, Cal., today tossed the first perfect game in the history of tournament horseshoe pitching. Zimmerman, one of the sport's "big four," accomplished the feat during the national championships at the Wisconsin Centennial Exposition in Milwaukee when he made 44 ringers out of 44 shoes in defeating Henry Pergel, 50 to 0.

Sports Study

By Earl Scudday

Attendance at the Lubbock Westerner - Odessa Bronco grid opener here Sept. 10 at the new Jones stadium may set a new mark for an early season tilt, if the advance sale of season tickets is a reliable guide. Hub city fans have shown more interest in the fast - approaching season than they have in any other Westerner schedule for several years, and the interest is reflected at the business office. At this early date, in mid-August, nearly all the box seats in the giant new stadium have been sold or reserved, and indications are that the reserved seats will be taken just as rapidly.

E. J. Lowrey, athletic department business manager, reported Thursday night that reserved seat season tickets will be available at his Senior high office starting today. He has been taking reservations, but has been unable to make delivery on the actual pasteboards. But the reserved seat ducats arrived yesterday and will be ready for purchases starting today. Lowrey also said that practically all of the 1,100 or more box seats have been taken by eager fans.

Lowrey, who has had experience in estimating football crowds over a considerable number of years, believes that 14,000 or more fans will see the Westerner-Odessa clash. That is, of course, if weather conditions are favorable. A cold, windy night or rain could easily drop attendance 5,000 to 10,000, depending on just how bad conditions were. And bad weather is not an impossibility. Fans who have been in Lubbock for at least six or seven years will remember that there used to be a "tradition" that the first Westerner home game was always played in knee-deep mud. That condition has not prevailed in recent years, fortunately, although the opener in 1945—against Big Spring—was played in extreme cold and sleet.

There are several reasons for the surge in enthusiasm here. The Westerners are a new group of youngsters working under a new coaching setup, and fans are naturally anxious to see just what they have in the way of a team. Then too, Odessa is a top-ranking drawing card. The mighty Red Hosses from the sand hills region have gone into the state playoffs for three consecctive years and have annexed one state championship — in 1946. Coach Joe Coleman of the Bronchos is hailed as one of the outstanding mentors of the state and his teams have gained a reputation for flashy, high-scoring type of play. The fact that Lubbock and Odessa are old grid rivals just adds fuel to the fire.

Some newcomers may be surprised to learn that the Lubbock Westerners hold an edge over the Broncos in the won-lost column. The elevens have met seven times, with the Westerners winning four of the settos and the Broncos winning three tilts. The Westerners won four years in a row, from 1941 to 1944, then the Broncos have taken the last three tussles, 1945-46-47.

Lowrey is also relatively certain that at least one other game, the Lubbock-Amarillo battle on Oct. 29, will be a sellout—or near sellout. The traditional setto with the Golden Sandies is a must for every loyal Westerner fan and ex-student, and a large delegation from the Panhandle city usually is on hand at kickoff time.

Kempa Wins National Southpaw Links Play

FRENCH LICK, Ind., Aug. 19 (AP)—Steady Loddie Kempa of Stillwater, Okla., won the national lefthanded golf championship today with a 9-and-7 victory over Don Scott of Linworth, Ohio.

Scott never had played in a golf match, tournament or otherwise, before this week's portside tourney over French Lick's Springs' hill course. He is a 31-year-old telephone installer with the physical equipment to be a fine golfer if he had time to work at it.

The 27-year-old Kempa, a quarter-finalist for Oklahoma A. & M. in the national intercollegiate tourney, was the only player who outdrove Scott during the lefties' meet.

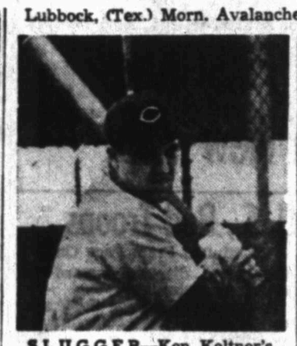

Bob Romberger of Toledo, Ohio, executive secretary of the national association of lefthanded golfers, was so impressed by Kempa's game he said he would seek automatic qualification for the Oklahoman in the national amateur tournament.

Springlake, Meadow Gain Wins In Amateur Baseball Tourney

ROPESVILLE, Aug. 19 (Special)—Springlake and Meadow nines entered the second round of the Amateur baseball tournament with wins over bracket foes here today.

Two games are scheduled Friday afternoon, with Springlake meeting Meadow at 1 o'clock and Morton battling Frenship at 3 o'clock.

SLUGGER—Ken Keltner's booming bat is one of the big reasons the Cleveland Indians are in the thick of the American League's pennant fight. The classy third baseman has been hitting hard and fielding brilliantly this year.

Central Texas Vocational College In Dixie Series

Ray Dumont, national baseball congress president, said the Waco collegians were runner-up team in the Dixie series to the Mexia, Texas Black Oilers. The latter, he said, notified the congress they could not come to the tourney.

Tri-State Net Tourney Slated

AMARILLO, Aug. 19 (Special)—Eighth annual Tri-State Open tennis tournament, one of the feature net events of the Southwest, will be held here the week of Sept. 2-6, officials have announced.

The meet, which is so-sponsored by the Amarillo Tennis club and the Amarillo News-Globe, is sanctioned by the United States Lawn Tennis association to determine the champions of Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

Play will start Thursday, Sept. 2, but out of town entries will be allowed to play their first round matches on Saturday, Sept. 4, if desired. Deadline for all entries will be Tuesday, Aug. 31.

The tourney, which will be staged on six concrete courts in Ellwood park and six new courts in Memorial park, will include all the standard divisions of competition. Trophies will be awarded to all winners.

FIRST BAPTISTS WIN

George Smith hurled the First Baptists to an 8-6 win over the Lubbock Barber college in a City Softball league playoff tilt Thursday afternoon. The Baptist win evened the series at one victory each, with the decisive third setto slated this afternoon.

Thousands Attend Final Rites For Babe Ruth In New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP)—New York said a last goodbye to Babe Ruth today with solemn hush and tears.

It was sharply in contrast to the roaring cheers and laughter that followed him throughout his lusty career—this final farewell to a home-run slugger who enters into the folk history of America.

The crowds that always followed the hulking figure were still there. Police estimated 6,000 persons were in huge St. Patrick's Cathedral for the requiem mass. Another 75,000 stood in Fifth Avenue and the Rockefeller Center area surrounding the Cathedral in the heart of the city. They were deathly still and many wept.

Thousands Line Route

When the mass ended at noon and the Babe was borne outside in a gentle rain and taken north on the avenue, many thousands of others lined the route.

The cortege went through the Bronx close to Yankee Stadium where Ruth smashed out many a triumphant homer and where 100,000 of his friends and worshippers streamed by his body as it lay in state Tuesday and yesterday.

Six thousand others made their way to Gates of Heaven cemetery at Mt. Pleasant, N. Y., 30 miles north of the city in the highlands of the Hudson river, for the committal services.

They went by limousine, bicycle, truck and on foot. Many kids hitch-hiked. They started gathering four hours before the cortege arrived and they stood their ground in a downpour.

When the five flower cars, the hearse and the limousines with the family and close friends finally came, the sun had broken through briefly.

Tribute Is Paid

Sunlight alternated with scudding cloud at the brief service conducted by three priests outside the cemetery receiving vault.

When it ended after the crowd joined in the final prayer, Mrs. Claire Ruth, the widow, stood for a full minute looking at the African mahogany casket covered with a blanket of red roses and orchids which she had sent.

Then, pale and composed, she drove away. Cemetery employes gently carried the casket into the vault where it will rest until the family decides on final burial plans.

There was no eulogy at the Cathedral mass. But Francis Cardinal Spellman, in a special prayer which he composed, asked that the divine spirit "that inspired Babe Ruth to overcome hardships and win the crucial game of life may animate many generations of American youth."

The casket was borne into St. Patrick's between a double row of honorary pallbearers headed by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Mayor William O'Dwyer.

It was placed on a catafalque flanked by six tall lighted candles. The blanket of roses and orchids was taken away during the mass.

Mrs. Ruth, the Babe's two adopted daughters, Mrs. Richard Flanders and Mrs. Dorothy Sullivan, and his sister, Mrs. Wilbur Mogerly, were in a pew at the head of the aisle.

Mrs. Ruth had insisted that the services be open to all comers, the famous who were his friends and the poor and obscure who had made him their own.

The service and the slow-paced ride to the cemetery climaxed a mighty outpouring of affection for the Babe since he died of cancer Monday night.

last November, the spokesman said, business sentiment was divided about 50-50 on whether it should be kept. Now the business sentiment as it reaches the board is "overwhelmingly" in favor of controls, he said.

Personal Loans Covered

The old regulation specified 1/3 down for such items as refrigerators, washing machines and ironers; these now are subject to only a 20 percent first payment.

Installment credit controls for home improvements, including those insured by the Federal Housing administration, have been left out. But "because of the current inflationary situation," the board said, study is being given to the possibility of reviving control in this field.

Personal loans obtained from a bank or other lending institution are subject only to the maturity requirements; that is, they must be paid off within 15 or 18 months, depending on the size of the loan; and, if over $1,000, monthly payments may not be less than $70.

To eliminate the likelihood that some persons wishing to buy a television set might borrow the money from a bank instead of making a direct contract with the dealer—and thus avoid the down payment—the board spokesman said bank borrowers will be required to state that they will not use the funds to violate regulation W.

Controls Studied

avoid controls, the decision is not an easy one, they said.

On the one hand, a return to controls could be expected to bring charges that the administration is returning to "scarcity" programs to hold up farm prices.

On the other, if controls are not put on, farmers may produce an event larger crop next year to create a burdensome surplus which would have to be taken over by the government at an outlay of several hundred million dollars.

shots were directed toward the American sector.

A correspondent for the American armed forces radio network reported that at least four persons were killed and eight wounded. A British spokesman confirmed his version.

The British-licensed news service DPO reported that four persons were wounded and that one later died.

Other eyewitnesses said at least three of the victims were shot in the American sector of Berlin.

Cars Are Stoned

Immediately after the shooting several truckloads of western sector police arrived on the scene. They found the irate mob had turned on one of the Soviet sector police who was trying to drag a wounded man into the Soviet area.

The western police intervened and arrested the Russian sector policeman.

As the anger of the crowd mounted they stoned several Markgraf police cars including one which bore the markings of Markgraf's private vehicle. It was not determined whether Markgraf himself was in it.

Retaliation Threatened

The Soviet-licensed news agency admitted that the Markgraf police were forced to retreat before the enraged crowd and claimed that one Soviet sector policeman was wounded.

Seidel warned that "countermeasures will be taken against those guilty." He made his statement to the western sector Dena news agency.

He declared that the "raid had to be suspended because the police were outnumbered, but countermeasures will be taken."

Accompanying western sector police when they arrived at Potdammerplatz were American and British military police and observers.

Western police commander Dr. Johannes Stumm and his assistants arrived later. Stumm, formerly assistant to Markgraf, became chief of the western sector force when Markgraf was ousted by the city government.

The Russians refused to recognize the suspension and retained Markgraf as head of their police units, resulting in a complete split in Berlin's police.

Other developments:

1. Robert E. Stripling, chief committee counsel, said subpoenas have been issued for unidentified persons to appear at next Wednesday's public encounter between Hiss and Chambers. Stripling declined comment when asked whether any of the unidentified persons are officials of the Truman administration.

2. Leonarde Keeler, the Chicago expert who was to have given the lie test to Hiss and Chambers, wrote the committee that the technique has been "found in error in approximately one per cent of all cases of the past 18 years."

He said that 82 per cent of the cases have been followed by confessions or findings of "absolute evidence."

3. The New York Journal-American said today an American woman employed by the Soviet embassy in Washington served as chief courier in a Russian spy network organized to steal the atom bomb secret.

The newspaper said that this network will be investigated by the House committee next month. Chairman Thomas (R-NJ) has announced that an entirely new espionage probe will be conducted next month.

4. President Truman confirmed reports that Attorney General Clark is studying a proposed new espionage law which will bar what the President labelled gestapo methods.

The committee aide disclosed that he is still trying to contact persons Hiss said might corroborate his statement that Chambers used the name "Crosley." Chambers was quoted by Stripling as saying he was known to Hiss only as "Carl."

10 Per Cent Increase In Air Passenger Fares Is Planned

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—The nation's airlines will increase passenger fares in general 10 percent as a result of an industry conference with the Civil Aeronautics board today.

Chairman Joseph J. O'Connell, jr., of the CAB reported the forthcoming increase as one of the informal decisions of the conference on the industry's financial difficulties.

The rate boost will make the average fare just over six cents a mile on most air lines. The present average rate is 5.5 cents.

O'Connell said that in considering steps to relieve the airlines losses, which totaled $16,000,000 in the 12 months ended March 31, the board felt that elimination of free meals aloft is desirable.

"If we had to make a decision today, we would have ruled, at least by a majority, to end free meals," O'Connell said.

As a working figure for discussion purposes during the day, the board adopted $11,000,000 as the annual cost of free meals served to airline passengers.

Beekeepers Attend Summer Meet Here; Officials Named

Approximately 35 members and guests attended the summer meeting of the South Plains Beekeepers association last night at the offices of County Agent D. W. Sherrill, 1320 Ave. Q.

Jack Creel, farm editor of radio station KFYO, introduced program participants, first of which was B. T. Rucker, president of the association, who discussed management of bees, honey production and methods of extracting honey. He also discussed the various pieces of equipment necessary for a beekeeper to have and discussed some of his experiences as a beekeeper.

Sound Film Shown

A program highlight was the presentation of the sound film, "The Honey Bee," prepared by Encyclopaedia Britannica films, which showed the entire life cycle of the honey bee. Closeups of the way nector and pollen from plants is gathered was shown, as well as closeups of the death fight between two rival queen bees, the process of feeding bee larvae, construction of the honey comb by the bees, and bee "swarming." The film was obtained through the Texas Tech department of extension.

Jason O. Gordon talked on insecticides and bees, and distinguished between those insecticides which are harmful to bees and those which are not. He emphasized that farmers, in so far as possible, should avoid use of harmful insecticides, especially if another person's bees are aiding him in pollenization of his fruit trees and crops.

Officers Elected

County Agent Sherrill discussed the value of bees to the farmer, and cited examples of increased fruit and crop yields as a direct result of pollenization by bees.

A junior bee keeper, Ben Rucker, son of the association's president, briefly told some of his experiences with bees.

W. E. Gillispie of Plainview was introduced, and discussed his beekeeping experiences and observations in both West and central Texas.

Teacher Is 'Better'

again has been put under the oxygen tent, hospital authorities said it was not because of any turn for the worse, but "just to help her along."

Sister In London Revealed

Her apparent passing of the crisis came as the American government declared flatly that the teacher is not "in any manner subject to control or authority of the Soviet government so long as she remains in this country."

This announcement was made in Washington as State department officials put the finishing touches on a sizzling reply to Moscow on the cases of Mrs. Kosenkina and Mr. and Mrs. Mikhail Samarine, two other Russian teachers who have refused to go back to the Soviet Union.

At the hospital it was disclosed for the first time this afternoon that Mrs. Kosenkina has a sister in London. She was identified as Mrs. Eugenia Stephanovna Robertson, widow of an Englishman whom she married in Moscow.

To Pay Hospital Bill

At the same time, Common Cause, Inc., announced that it is setting up a "Kosenkina foundation" to pay her hospital bill, thereby relieving the teacher of financial worries. Common Cause said the foundation later will help all Soviet refugees.

The hospital bulletin issued at 2:30 p. m., said it was believed that Mrs. Kosenkina would not need another blood transfusion today—a good sign in itself.

It added that she ate a hearty lunch consisting of tomato juice, poached egg on toast, coffee and ice cream. An earlier bulletin noted that she also had partaken of a good breakfast.

Consul General Jacob Lomakin did not visit the hospital with a doctor of his choice, permission for which had been granted.

At the consulate, Lomakin said he had chosen a doctor, but would not reveal his identity; nor would he say specifically when the doctor would visit the hospital and Mrs. Kosenkina's bedside.

All visitors still are barred from the woman's room.

Countess Tolstoy, head of the Tolstoy foundation, to which Mrs. Kosenkina first appealed for sanctuary, appeared at the hospital this afternoon but did not request permission to visit the 52-year-old teacher.

Roses Claimed Insult

She was accompanied by Vladimir Zenzinov, an anti-Communist writer, Christian Emmet and Peter Hoguet, the latter two of "Common Cause, Inc.," the organization which staged a court battle in Mrs. Kosenkina's behalf while she was incommunicado at the consulate.

They talked to hospital officials and thanked them for their care of Mrs. Kosenkina.

Countess Tolstoy also took the occasion to say that she does not think the little teacher was a Soviet spy, as hinted earlier in the bizarre case. Zenzinov, the journalist, also commented:

"The roses which the Russian consulate sent her were an insult. It would be more normal and understandable if they would have sent her poison ivy."

TO BACK JOHNSON

SAN ANGELO, Aug. 19 (AP)—Frank Abbott, who operates a switch engine in the Santa Fe yards here, said today he had presented W. A. Griffis, president of the Tom Green county Lyndon Johnson for senator club, with a petition bearing the names of 110 men. Abbott said they were Santa Fe railroad men who had voted for Coke Stevenson in the first primary but had pledged to vote for Johnson Aug. 28.

Complete details on injuries were not available last night, the hospital said.

Oklahoma Town Hit By $750,000 Blaze

MIAMI, Okla., Aug. 19 (U.P.)—A three-quarter of a million-dollar fire threatened a block long area in downtown Miami for almost three hours this afternoon but was reported under control tonight.

Mayor John H. Griffin said the fire began in a department store in mid-afternoon. He estimated damage to the seven buildings reached by the blaze or by smoke at $750,000.

Fire Chief Carl Pulford was removed from the gutted Millner-Berkey building, overcome by smoke. No other injuries were reported.

A store stockholder said value of the stock was estimated at $300,000.

All available Miami fire-fighting equipment was in service. A truck arrived from Picher, near here, and equipment was reported on its way from Joplin, Mo.

Miami, with a population of about 10,000, is in the extreme northeast corner of the sate, about 100 miles from Tulsa.

Allied Envoys Meet

Gen. Walter Bedell Smith and British special representative Frank Roberts appeared very cheerful after the noon conference at the U. S. embassy. They refused to comment however, on the progress of negotiations.

(President Truman also declined to comment, at his news conference in Washington, about the Moscow talks. Thus the official lid of secrecy on the Kremlin meetings remained tightly nailed down.)

French ambassador Yves Chataigneau was not present, but he had conferred separately with Roberts last night.

British Charge D'Affaires Geoffrey Harrison and U. S. Counsellor Foy Kohler also attended today's meeting.

Confer In London

(In London American Ambassador Lewis Douglas went to the foreign office for a morning session with Sir William Strang, British German expert, on the Moscow negotiations. Strang was scheduled to receive French Ambassador Rene Massigli later.)

A new four-power parley in the walled center of Soviet government would be the seventh since East-West "bargaining" on the Berlin stalemate began in Moscow July 31.

The Western Allies are expected to bring with them a reply to Molotov's proposals reportedly made at last Monday night's talks.

These proposals were said by observers to involve a Russian demand for control of Berlin currency as a prerequisite for lifting the blockade of west Berlin.

(The Soviet-licensed Berliner Zeitung quoted Paris sources in reporting that the Western Powers had tentatively agreed to Soviet currency control as a condition for holding a conference of the big four foreign ministers on the whole German question.)

Unions Study Stand

ecutive officers, Philip Murray, CIO president, called a meeting on the 51-member CIO executive board in Washington Aug. 30 to discuss the question of endorsing a presidential candidate.

The vice-presidents approved the three-way attack on Republicans, Dixiecrats, and Henry Wallace by a vote of 8 to 1. Albert J. Fitzgerald, president of the United Electrical workers, objected to the criticism of the Wallace party.

Other political developments yesterday:

President Truman and a spokesman for Gov. Dewey tangled at long range over a proposal by the Republican nominee that Italy be given administrative control over her former African colonies under a United Nations trusteeship.

The President told a news conference this is something that can not very well be handled politically in the United States since it is a four-power and UN question by treaty stipulation.

Paul E. Lockwood, secretary to Gov. Dewey, commenting on the President's remarks, said in a statement in New York that Dewey intends to speak out on foreign affairs.

The only bird in North America whose nest and young have never been seen is the bristle-thighed curlew. It is one of a numerous family of rather small shore birds with long, curved beaks.

Soviet Protests Turned Down

viet protest, since it dealth with a particular legal point of the dispute, is not answered in the American reply. If any answer is necessary, officials indicated a separate note would be sent by the State department.

Even before McDermott's announcement, the State department had ruled that Mrs. Kosenkina, one of the refugee teachers, is beyond the control of the Soviet government as long as she remains in this country.

Truman Okays Refuge

President Truman, moreover, underscored the American idea of right of political refuge in this country. He was asked at his news conference whether other Soviet citizens in similar circumstances would be promised asylum here just as Mrs. Oksana Stephanovna Kosenkina and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Samarine have been promised. To the question whether the right of asylum would apply in other cases, Mr. Truman said emphatically that it always has.

But it was in response to a more general inquiry "what do you think of the actions of the Soviet teachers in New York?" that Mr. Truman stressed in slowly spoken words the importance which he attaches to the cases.

He said that he thought the action of the teachers indicates that there are a lot of people who believe in the freedom of the individual just as people do in the United States.

Hammering home this same point, the State department a short time later released a letter writen by its chief legal officer, Ernest A. Gross, to Justice Samuel Dickstein of the New York state supreme court.

Graduates Warned Of Threat To Democracy

ALPINE, Aug. 19 (AP)—Eighty-five graduates of Sul Ross State Teachers college tonight heard Chas. A. Guy, Lubbock newspaperman, warn that "enemies of Democracy have launched an ideological war against the United States by which they hope to do what force of arms has failed to do: overthrow our form of government and plunge our people into serfdom."

Guy, editor of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, told the graduates, 31 of whom received master's degrees, that they and others of their age group will be soldiers in what he called "this intellectual war, which will last for years to come, whether or not the world avoids a shooting World War III." Taking as his subject, "peace hath her victories no less renown'd than war," the Lubbock editor urged his listeners to enlist in the fight as active protectors of the American way of life and the American constitution.

Guy was introduced by Dr. Richard M. Hawkins, Sul Ross president, who also conferred the degrees. Former Lt. Gov. Walter F. Woodul, of Houston, a member of the board of directors of Texas State Teachers colleges, spoke briefly. Music was furnished by the Sul Ross choir and Federal Judge R. Ewing Thomason, of El Paso, former member of Congress from the Sixteenth Texas district, was an honor guest.

Eviction Looms For Families Living On 'Volcano In Reverse'

(By The Associated Press)

CASTLE SHANNON, Pa., Aug. 19—The Pittsburgh area's biggest eviction loomed today for 50 coal miners' families ordered out of a row of "unsafe" houses sitting on top of a "volcano in reverse."

Registered letters notified the 350 residents they must be out of the rickety, unpainted houses by Aug. 31.

The order is the finale of a long legal battle in which the borough Castle Shannon, five miles south of Pittsburgh, sought to raze the 45-year-old houses as "unsafe, hazardous and unsanitary."

Liable To Collapse

The move was opposed by the Pittsburgh Terminal Realization Co., which claimed the borough harassed its efforts to repair the houses.

Allegheny County Judge Sara M. Soffel agreed with the borough that the houses and outdoor toilets were "unsanitary." She added that because the homes are located over a burning coal mine refuse dump, "cellar floors are warm or hot to the touch and smoke comes up and through the houses."

One woman reported her family sleeps with the windows closed to keep out the smoke. Others call the burning dump a "volcano in reverse" because it is liable to collapse.

Convicted Houston Slayer Is Scheduled To Die In Chair

HUNTSVILLE, Aug. 19. (AP) — The execution of Riley B. McCaine, Houston, at the state prison here, was to be held shortly after midnight tonight, barring last-minute clemency.

McCaine was sentenced to die for the murder of Elnora Collins, pretty Houston clerical worker. Her nude and fire-scarred body was found on a secluded roadside near Beaumont on Oct. 4, 1945, five days after she had disappeared.

A nation-wide search for McCaine was begun and 15 months later he was arrested in Seattle, Wash.

Still in a grave condition late last night at Lubbock Memorial hospital was Horace W. Hale, 83, who was attacked by an infuriated bull on a farm 12 miles west of Tahoka Wednesday.

A pioneer resident of West Texas, Mr. Hale reputedly established with his brother the first stage line between Lubbock and Big Spring just before the turn of the century.

The injured man has received plasma and blood transfusions and oxygen, but remained in critical condition last night, authorities said.

Efforts Made To End Los Alamos Walkout

LOS ALAMOS, N. M., Aug. 19. (AP)—There was no immediate break in a work stoppage at the Los Alamos atomic project today, despite a troubled back-to-work appeal from the Atomic Energy commission.

More than 3,000 construction and maintenance workers remained off the job for a second day. Their walkout—leaders called it a "vacation," not a strike—protested a contractor's hiring of non-union labor.

But a round of conferences, one the heels of another, indicated serious efforts to resolve the dispute.

They came after a sober warning early in the day from Sumner Pike, acting AEC chairman, in Washington. He said:

"This walkout situation cannot continue for long without causing serious damage to the nation's atomic weapons program."

Pike directed his appeal to President William Green of the American Federation of Labor.

Green was reported on his way back to Washington from a speaking tour and not expected to receive the message before tomorrow. There was an unconfirmed report he might even come to Los Alamos.

A 40-minute conference of AEC representatives with a 14-man union delegation broke up late in the day without comment from either group. Sam Williams of Albuquerque, business agent for the AFL Building Trades council and one of the conferees, said he would have a statement tonight.

Water Engineer Quits City Post

City Engineer John P. Ruhmann announced his resignation yesterday to accept a position as Wichita Falls city water engineer.

No date for the change was set. He told City Manager Marlin R. Smith, jr., he would postpone reporting for his new duties until Nov. 1 if needs in Lubbock demanded.

He accepted the Wichita Falls position in the belief it offers a more attractive opportunity than the job here, he said. The starting salary there is $6,000 a year. Ruhmann receives about $6,300 annually here, including a cost-of-living bonus paid all city employes which now averages about $83 a month.

Took Post In 1946

Since Ruhmann became Lubbock city engineer in June, 1946, following his discharge from the navy, he has supervised the engineering preparations and actual work in most instances for the most extensive public improvement and expansion program of any comparable period in Lubbock history. The program will represent a total investment of close to $10,000,000 when completed.

A native of Ballinger, Ruhmann graduated from Texas Technological college with a civil engineering degree in 1933. He subsequently did special study in Southern Methodist university and other schools.

Had Varied Experience

He was employed by the state highway department as chief paving inspector from 1933 to 1935, was assistant resident engineer of the department in Wichita Falls two years, and junior resident engineer of the Dallas division four and one-half years.

He resigned the Dallas position in 1942 to enlist in the Navy, serving until November, 1945. He was stationed on the Pacific coast most of the time and was a lieutenant commander at the time of his severence.

He and the former Miss Mary Katharine Cooper, of Olney, near Wichita Falls, were married in 1938. They have no children.

Airliner With Locked Wheel Lands Safely

CHICAGO, Aug. 19. (AP) — A twin-engined American Airlines plane with 35 passengers aboard landed safely on two wheels at the Glenview Navy Air field today after circling two Chicago airports for more than an hour with its nose wheel jammed, the control tower of the Chicago municipal airport reported.

The control tower said the pilot came in "tail heavy" and the plane nosed over "only slightly." He said no one was injured in the emergency landing.

The pilot, Capt. Edward T. Cycon of Chicago had radioed the airport control tower he would proceed to the Glenview Naval Air station airport, some 30 miles to the north. He said he had sufficient gasoline to stay aloft until 6:30 p. m. and would attempt a landing at that time on the two main wheels.

Government Sets Up 'Seaquake' Warning System On West Coast

By EDWIN HOFFMAN
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 — The government announced today that it has devised a warning system to alert the Pacific coast to death-dealing undersea earthquakes.

The U. S. coast and geodetic survey completed the warning signal after an undersea earthquake struck Hawaii in 1946, killing 173 people and causing $25,000,000 damage.

The survey described these undersea earthquakes as "seaquakes" or "submarine earthquakes" which give rise to "seismic sea waves" known as "tsunamis."

Wave Travels Fast

Data gathered after the 1946 tsunami showed the wave was capable of traveling 600 miles an hour depending on the depth of water. The waves are of insignificant height, perhaps only four feet, the survey said, "but may be more than 100 miles from crest to crest."

The survey said that in the 1946 disaster, the wave was felt in Chile, "over 8,000 miles away from its center, 18 hours after it began."

The new alerting device—called a seismic sea wave warning system—is designed to "give some measure of security to the people living in the pacific seacoast towns."

Lookouts Planned

Commerce Secretary Sawyer commented:

"We felt that since modern science was capable of detecting the earthquake itself within a few minutes after it occurred we should certainly be able to devise a system for issuing warnings of the possible approach of tsunamis which are caused by earthquakes."

The warning system will depend on "a lookout service for observing actual seismic sea waves" after the earthquake has been detected.

Detection procedure of these destructive waves was described by the survey as follows:

"When the position of a submarine earthquake has been determined, message will be sent to tide observers and other watchers located at coastal points near the earthquake.

"The observers, noting any unusual rise or fall of the water, or a disturbed tidal recording, characteristic of a seismic sea wave, will report their findings immediately by radio to the center in Honolulu."

The survey has compiled a chart making it possible to determine the time arrival of a tsunami from an outlying point based on these observers reports. In addition, seismic sea wave detectors will be placed at outlying points to sound an alarm warning of approach of devastating seismic waves.

According to the survey, seismograph recorders equipped with earthquake alarms mechanisms have already been set up at Tuscon, Ariz., and near Honolulu, T. H.

AMAZING RESULTS WITH MERTOX TONIC

Mrs. Ben Grossman of Houston writes us as follows:

"For a long time I have had occasional billious spells. My head would hurt and I would vomit my food. My last spell was very severe and I just thought I would die. My appetite was poor and I couldn't sleep at night. I was so troubled with my limbs stiffening just before I would have a spell of gas and bloat. I would be dizzy and I would have a severe headache. Hold Onto Your Seats, Folks! Summer Is Again Highlighted By Carnival Barker

By JOHN ROSENBURG
United Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 — The voice of the barker is heard in the land. Roll the drums professor! Louder!

Now, soft, sultry music for the beee-utiful dancing girls while the folks hear about the freaks and all the wonders—

Jo-Jo, the dog-faced boy; Tina, with hair so fair and eyes so soft —but with the skin of an elephant; Sharkey, the talking seal; Skeets Hubbard, the man with the iron eyelids!

It's all coming your way. No matter where you live—from Maine to Florida, New York to the Gold Coast—you'll get a chance at the super-duper thrill of a lifetime.

Or so promises diminutive, energetic George Hamid, who every year is responsible for the entertainment of millions of Americans and Canadians at carnivals and county and state fairs.

Hamid, high in his office at Radio City, has the wheels of his big organization in motion to bring "Broadway to the farm" during the dog days and simmering nights of mid-summer.

"It's going to be the biggest year for fairs we've ever known," Hamid said. "Performers from abroad are arriving on every ship. It's the first time we've had an importation of entertainers since 1941."

Hamid said that this year it is probable that the most popular act will be the "death-defying feat of a human being shot from a cannon."

He explained that the thrill-seekers changed their tastes from year to year.

"It goes in cycles," he said. "A man being shot from a cannon was one of the first and most popular of the novelty acts. Then came the airplane act and the diving horse. And not long ago Lucky Teter and his driving daredevils was what the folks wanted to see."

Act Comes Back

Now, he said the cannon act is back in high favor.

"Only this time," he explained, "it's a double shot. A man and a woman."

Hamid, the operator of Atlantic City's Steel Pier and Million Dollar Pier, claims he owns more freaks and novelty acts than any other man in the world.

"Anything that's unusual or crazy I buy," he explained. "I own Flicka, Smoky and Thunderhead, the famous movie horses. I bought them because I'm sure people will pay to see them in the flesh."

Hamid said that among his new acts will be the Six Eduardos of Denmark, who perform on the high trompoline; Linon of France, "a tragedian of mirth," who cavorts on a high wire; "Rosin and Williams, the juggling jewels," and A. Robbins, "the original banana man. The funniest conjurer in all the world."

"All for the folks in the country," he said. "Wait till they see it."

RETURN TO HOMES

GOESCHENEN, Switzerland, Aug. 19. (AP)—The 800 residents of this village returned to their homes today as explosions in the munitions depot here grew weaker. The population was evacuated yesterday when fire touched off a series of explosions and threatened main stores in the mountain redoubt.

Negro Prisoner Caught After Fleeing Jail At Texarkana

TEXARKANA, Aug. 19 (AP) — A negro prisoner pulled a gun on officers at the jail here today, ran down a corridor and through the jail's kitchen and out into a field before he was recaptured.

The prisoner, Andrew Hill of Hook, Texas, rammed the pistol into the stomach of Deputy Sheriff Frank Riley first and pulled the trigger, but the pistol didn't go off.

Apparently weak from being imprisoned for several months, he stumbled and fell down a few times and officers caught him.

Geography Lecturer Declares California Growing Too Fast

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19 (U.P.) California's meteoric expansion in population and industrial output may result in growing pains, says James Parsons, lecturer in geography at the University of California.

The available amounts of gas and oil, electric power and water may prove to be a check on future expansion, Parsons warned after a study of the subject.

The danger signs, he pointed out, are power shortages even in years of near-normal rainfall, the high cost of the limited available water and diminishing petroleum reserves.

A 74 per cent population increase since 1929 lies partly behind the potentially dangerous situation, Parsons said.

MOSCOW TALKS CONTINUE

France May Bring Up Issue Of U. S. Military Aid To Allies

By KINGSBURY SMITH
European General Manager, INS

PARIS, Aug. 19—France was reported authoritatively tonight to be so pessimistic over the trend of the Moscow talks, and the whole world picture, that she plans to raise again the question of military help from the United States.

The French government reportedly already has sent instructions to its ambassador in Washington, Henri Bonnet, to sound out the American government on military backing.

Would Delay West Plans

A highly authoritative informant in Paris told International News Service that deep pessimism is prevailing in French government quarters over the prospects of the western powers reaching a satisfactory understanding with Russia in the current Moscow negotiations.

The Moscow talks are said to have been going badly up to now, with Russia described as "asking for the moon" in return for lifting the blockade of western Berlin.

The main difficulty is said to center on Russia's insistence that the western powers postpone plans for setting up a provisional West German government separate from the Soviet occupation zone.

The Soviets want all Anglo-American plans for the political development of West Germany—particuly the creation of a government—held in abeyance until another Big Four conference of foreign ministers is held.

Oppose Strong Germany

That is said to be the price Premier Stalin is asking for lifting of the Berlin blockade.

Contrary to reports, the main issue in the Moscow talks has not been the question of currency in Berlin.

The Soviet leaders also are said to be taking the position that the United States and Britain are proceeding to build up a war potential in West Germany in such a way as to menace Russia's security.

The informant declared that Molotov has been talking "very boldly" about Russia not tolerating this situation.

French officials feel the U. S. government will refuse to agree to the concession asked by Russia for lifting the blockade and setting the stage for a Big Four meeting.

If the present Kremlin negotiations fail, the French leaders believe there will not be a meeting of the foreign minister council in the near future, and they are convinced that the gravity of the Berlin situation will increase rapidly.

However, it still is hoped that the Soviet government may reduce its demands and adopt a more conciliatory attitude before the talks break down completely.

It is not considered inconceivable that such a change in the Soviet position might come during the next meeting the western enoys reportedly hope to have with Stalin, possibly within the next few days.

French Star To Get Break In New Film; Mortez Leaves For Work In France, Spain

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
INS Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19—Corinne Calvert (and that is the way her name is to be spelled from now on) gets her first real break with Hal Wallis in "Rope Of Sand" opposite Burt Lancaster. Hal has signed her and will give her the same build up to stardom he gave Liz Scott.

The little French actress' career in Hollywood has been an odd one. Paramount originally brought her over from Paris, then carried out a year's contract without Corinne appearing on the screen.

Then MGM signed her with much big talk and no action. Hal says things will be different now.

When Corinne was with Paramount I had occasion to scold her for all the night clubbing she did and warned her she should pay more attention to her career. Instead of getting huffy about it, as many actors do, she wrote me an appreciative note thanking me for the good advice.

To Make Film In Spain

When Maria Montez left Hollywood for Paris a few days ago, she took with her a contract to make a movie in Spain. Maria, who is a plenty smart business woman, insisted that $110,000 be deposited in American money in her name in a New York bank before she signed the deal with Suevia films.

She will star in "The Precipice" in Madrid and Morocco after she finishes the picture with Jean Pierre Aumont in Paris.

Real Life Drama

John Huston is back from China with a more fantastic story than any he ever directed on the screen.

He says he and his crew were in Havana to get shots of "rough Sketch," in which Jennifer Jones plays a bank employee and John Garfield, a bank robber.

The day after the troupe went over the bank premises, eight bandits, armed with machine guns and led by two robbers disguised as policmen, herded two dozen customers and employees into the vault and escaped with $562,14.

"They wore the same Cuban police uniforms that we had bought for scenes in the picture, and believe he, we were thoroughly questioned by the police," said Huston.

Chatter in Hollywood: I thought Richard Ney acted happier than I had seen him for a long time at the Betzi Stack party for Jeanette MacDonald.

Reason is he's smitten with Julie Wilson, the Mocambo singer, and takes her home every night. Well, that will make Greer Garson happy because she's a very busy gal herself these days with the very attentive Buddy Fogelson in town. Yes, he is wooing her.

For so long Richard never gave up hope of winning Greer back—but now that he knows it's hopeless maybe he won't be so unhappy.

Our major companies should take a look at "Sophia," made in cinecolor in Mexico by film classics, at a cost of less than $500,000.

It is old-fashioned melodrama, but so exciting it keeps you on the edge of your chair. The Russian angle is spot news and well done, too, and very interesting in view of the present Washington investigation.

I must say it is a very creditable effort on the part of this small independent company. Its producer is Robert Presnell jr., and its director, John Heinhart.

Gene Raymond will surprise you. There is none of the juvenile about this sophisticated man who tracks down a band of Russian spies.

Charter To Establish New Bank Granted Abilene Man

AUSTIN, Aug. 19 (AP) — The State Banking commission yesterday approved the application of R. B. Tanner of Abilene and others for a charter to establish a new Abilene bank.

The bank will be known as the First State Bank, Abilene. Its total capital funds are listed at $250,000, of which $100,000 is capital stock and $150,000 is surplus and reserve funds.

Tanner will serve as president, and Wayman Rose, now of McCamey, is to be vice-president and cashier, the banking commission reported.

No delegation was present at yesterday's meeting, two previous sessions having been held to hear witnesses for or against approval of the charter.

CUT DEATH RATE

Disinfection of water supplies of U. S. cities with chlorine has reduced the annual death rate from typhoid fever from 25 to four for every 100,000 of the population.

Texas' Infant Mortality Rate Reported Lowest In History

AUSTIN, Aug. 19 (U.P.)—Texans were told today that the state's infant mortality rate is now the lowest in history.

Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, said the figure had dropped 39 per cent from the rate for 1940.

However, despite the improvement, the state health officer said Texas still has the sixth highest infant mortality rate of any state in the United States. A total of 42 states report lower rates.

A comparison between the live birth figures for 1940 and 1947 shows, Dr. Cox said, that white births are up 22,707; Latin American births up 7,186, and negro births up 3,297.

The infant mortality rate now stands at 41.2 deaths for every 1,000 live births. Maternal mortality, he said, has been reduced more than 65 per cent. In 1940, the rate was 4.6 for every 1,000 live births as compared with 1.6 for 1947.

HST Continues To Lead Thurmond In South, Latest Survey Shows

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Aug. 19—At the start of the campaign the "Dixiecrat" movement has the support of about one voter in seven below the Mason-Dixon line.

In the first survey to be conducted on the popularity of Governor J. Strom Thurmond since his nomination for president by the States' Rights Party, Governor Thurmond polls 14 percent throughout the 13 Southern states as a group.

GALLUP

In terms of popular votes he is topped by both President Truman and Governor Thomas E. Dewey in the South, but the popular vote percentages does not fully indicate the extent of the Thurmond threat to the Democratic party. Dixiecrat spokesmen claim that 32 electoral votes are already "in the bag" for the States' Rights ticket. These 32 consist of Alabama 11, Mississippi 9, South Carolina 8 and Florida 4 of the state's 8 votes.

In those states, the Dixiecrats claim, the Democratic candidates for presidential electors already have pledged themselves to vote against President Truman.

Those 32 electoral votes are votes which the Democrats have always in the past counted on as "absolutely sure" for them. To offset their loss this year President Truman would have to take virtually all the New England states which have a total of 40 electoral votes.

Throughout the South interviewers for the Institute put the following question to Southern voters in a survey begun directly after the formation of the States' Rights Party:

"If the presidential election were being held today how would you vote for Dewey, for Truman, for Wallace or for Thurmond?"

The results among voters who said they plan to vote in November were:

SOUTHERN VOTERS

Truman	41%
Dewey	34
Thurmond	14
Wallace	2
No opinion	9

With the no opinion vote eliminated the results are Truman 46 percent, Dewey 37 percent, Thurmond 15 percent and Wallace 2 percent.

The 13 Southern states include South Carolina, Georgia, Arkansas, Alabama, Mississippi, Florida, Louisiana, Texas, Virginia, North Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee and Oklahoma. Thurmond sentiment runs strongest in the first eight, comprising the so-call-"deep South."

While the new party plans to make a strong effort to get on the ballot in all Sotuhern states, it remains to be seen how successful this effort will be. Today's poll figures indicate the extent of Thurmond's popular following at the present time assuming he were on the ballot in all states in the South.

Henry A. Wallace's figure of 2 per cent in the South compares with a national Wallace percentage of 5 percent in the last Institute poll reported August 1. Mr. Wallace plans to invade the the South for an intensive campaign tour in early September. Future surveys will indicate whether his campaign efforts increase his popularity below the Mason-Dixon line.

The Dewey figure for the South—37 percent among those with opinions—is slightly higher than the percentage he polled in the South in 1944 presidential election when he ran against the late Franklin D. Roosevelt. That year Dewey polled 31 percent of the major party vote in the South.

President Truman's figure of 46 percent compares with the Roosevelt figure of 69 percent in the 1944 election. President Truman's percentage in the South is roughly comparable to the 1928 election when Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic candidate, polled 48 percent. The low Democratic figure this year, however, is not due so much to increased Republican strength as to the split of the Democratic vote between Truman and Thurmond.

Carr Pledges Action On Crime Problem At Kiwanis Club Session

When Kiwanis club met at luncheon Thursday noon at Hotel Lubbock, Waggoner Carr, county attorney-elect, cited as a "definite problem" the 3,600 inmates in city and county jails here since Jan. 1, and added that "something should be done about it."

Carr pledged his full cooperation in such an undertaking, and suggested that some means of exchange of information, particularly on "cold check" problems, should be worked out between officers and business men.

Other Offenses Involved

He felt also that other types of law violations could be dealt with more adequately through better cooperation of law enforcement officers and the public.

Carr was introduced by Jim Denton, program chairman. Club President Jack Davis read a letter from Irving Jones, chairman of the arrangements committee for the traveling salesmen's barbecue to be held here Sept. 3, urging club cooperation in the project.

E. J. (Pinkey) Lowery, business manager of athletics at the high school announced that box seat tickets for games this fall are now available.

The club paid tribute to the memory of Dr. J. W. Rollo, long time member who died Wednesday in one minute of silence, followed by a prayer and invocation by Dr. Jack M. Lewis, who is to officiate at funeral services for the physician this afternoon at 3 o'clock at First Presbyterian church.

Harry Delaney, chairman of the club's inter-club relations committee, announced that a group of about 25 Kiwanians from three Fort Worth clubs will present next week's program. The group is to arrive that morning by special pullman.

Good Samaritan Act Saves Rooster, Costs Youth $1.50

SHAWNEE, O., Aug. 19. (AP)—Dwight Bowen, 18, isn't so sure today it pays to be a good samaritan.

The effort cost him $1.50 yesterday, here's how:

He saw a large dog seize a prize game rooster belonging to Dr. George Myers, a dentist-neighbor. Bowen threw a stone at the dog. The stone hit the dog, who dropped the rooster. The stone richocheted from the dog's back and hit a window of Woodrow Thomas' residence nearby.

Bowen paid $1.50 to replace the window pane.

Drunken Driving Charge Is Credited With Saving Life

DES MOINES, Ia. Aug. 19. (AP)—A drunken driving charge probably saved the life of Dale W. Flora, 41.

Flora was arrested and so charged following a minor accident yesterday. A routine blood test at the hospital proved he was not intoxicated.

But when police returned him to municpal court to reduce the charge to one of reckless driving, the hospital called. "Give Flora a candy bar or soft drink before he dies," the officers were advised.

Doctors explained that Flora suffered from an acute lack of sugar in the blood, a condition much like insulin shock sustained by diabetic patients. The symptoms are similar to those of intoxication, and the condition frequently is fatal.

Philadelphia's City Hall Cat And Kittens Oust Bat

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19. (AP)—Minnie, the city hall cat, wants it plainly understood—they'll be no bats in her bailiwick.

Minnie, who is currently engaged in raising a brood of five kittens, discovered a bat zooming up and down city hall corridors yesterday.

Joined by her offspring, Minnie gave chase. Bat, cat and kits continued their merry race for about 20 minues until finally the bat spotted an open window and took off for parts unknown.

Warren Issues Call For Unity

By PAT MILLIGAN
INS Staff Correspondent

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 19—Gov. Earl Warren of California declared today that there will be no issue of greater import than that of national unity in the coming election campaign.

The 57-year-old GOP vice presidential candidate told a banner-waving crowd of some 13,000 persons at the Illinois state fair that the Republican party is united. He asserted:

"There is no leftist element to splinter off from the Republican party. There is no disaffection in our center. We are a united party."

Disunity Is Assailed

Warren pleaded for an end to "the disunity that sets section against section or group against group," as a means of protecting the American way of life in an unsettled world. He said:

"Strange concepts of life and government, and even religion, are polluting the atmosphere of the world. They corrode everything and everybody they touch.

"The only armor we have against them is a firm belief in the soundness and the goodness of our own institutions and a determination that the freedom and opportunity they have afforded us will be passed on unimpaired to our children."

Warren promised to carry his campaign into every section of the country, adding:

"I hope to return to Illinois and have the opportunity to make a real campaign speech."

Warren described Republican Gov. Dwight Green of Illinois, who introduced him, as one of the outstanding governors of the country.

Green assailed the present national administration for blundering and compromising with Communism. He declared:

"The New Dealers offer us a President and legislative leaders who have blundered along the path of experiment in socialism, compromise with Communism and futile pursuit of political expendiency."

Prior to the speeches, fireworks were exploded and members of various Chicago wards paraded in front of the reviewing stand.

Warren is scheduled to remain in Springfield through tomorrow for a meeting with a group of Illinois editors at the governor's mansion.

BITING EDITORIAL

Texarkana Paper Has Toothy Edition

TEXARKANA, Aug. 19 (AP)—"This edition has teeth in it," the Texarkana Gazette told readers in a front page box for Friday morning's edition.

Printer S. H. White accidentally dropped his false teeth on the composing room floor. They fell into a pile of scrap lead and type metal. The metal went into a melting pot; with it the teeth.

The metal was used to make page casts for the Gazettes' Friday morning edition.

"I hope the teeth show up in my editorial," said the editor.

Wood ducks have numerous unducklike habits, but they do insist that their nests be close to a body of water. When the young are ready to leave the nest, the mother carries them in her beak, and drops them into the water.

Corporal Heads Off Hitch-Hike Trip

Furios Thrust Aside Financial Worries To Accept Invitations

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, Me., Aug. 19 (AP)—Army corporal and Mrs. Tony Furio put aside financial worries temporarily today to accept invitations from well-wishers.

Furio, who flew from San Francisco to head off his blonde wife's projected hitch-hike trip from Bangor there, said he felt "wonderful" after a night's rest from the five-day trip.

He and his wife, Marjorie, visited Portland today. Tonight Furio said, he and Mrs. Furio were invited to dinner by a restaurant man here.

Seek To Raise Fund

Meanwhile an Old Orchard beach friend sought to raise a fund to get Mrs. Furio and the couple's infant son, Tony, jr., to Texas.

Mrs. Furio told newsmen she's promised her husband "no more hitch-hiking for me — no matter what happens."

Furio, who plans to leave by train or bus Aug. 22 for El Paso, Texas, said he has good hopes of finding a house for his family.

"I have a buddy looking for one for us now," he said. "What really bothers me is whether Marjorie and little Tony will be able to come back with me."

The fund, started by [illegible] friend, Mrs. Madgalene Holland, had reached $15 last night.

"Tony has lots of friends here and is well liked," she said.

The corporal, who used to tend bar at the Old Orchard Country club and later ran a restaurant at this resort, was reunited with his family yesterday.

Financed by generous Californians and some airline employes, he hastened east by plane and train to make his wife, who is expecting another child, give up any further idea of "thumbing."

Mrs. Furio didn't know about the transfer to El Paso when she started hitch-hiking from Bangor to San Francisco last Friday. She thought her husband was going overseas.

Camp Fannin To Be Used As TB Hospital

AUSTIN, Aug. 19. (U.P.)— Camp Fannin, near Tyler, has been deeded to the state of Texas for use as a tuberculosis hospital, Hall Logan, chairman of the state board of control, announced today.

The camp, consisting of 495 buildings, all utilities and 2,323 acres, was signed over to the state by the War Assets administration.

The property was a gift to the state, contingent on Texas using the property to meet emergency needs.

However, Logan said that of the camp's 495 buildings, not more than 50 can be used in their present condition.

Other Camps Received

The total fair value of the property was estimated by the WAA at $1,862,115. Acquisition of the camp marked the fourth such government property recently deeded to the state.

Others included the Brady prisoner of war camp, Moore field at Mission, and the prisoner of war camp at Mexia.

The Mexia camp is used for psychotic white women and retarded children. The Brady installation has been converted to use for delinquent negro girls. Conversion of the Moore field property has not been completed.

Two Negro Boys Admit Setting Reno Fire Which Killed Five

RENO, Aug. 19. (INS) — Two nine-year-old negro boys confessed today that they had set the fire which killed five persons and injured 180 others in downtown Reno last Sunday.

The fire, and a subsequent explosion, destroyed half a block of buildings.

Chief of Police L. R. Greeson said the boys had also confessed to setting a big lumber fire in Reno several months ago.

The frightened youngsters told the police chief they had pried off a board on a Lake street building to play in the basement.

While playing, one suggested impulsively:

"Let's start a fire."

They didn't have any matches. One ran home for some.

Then, they told the police chief, they piled up some rubbish and fired it.

As they watched, the blaze got out of control. They tried, but couldn't, smother it with a coat. Frightened they climbed out of the basement and ran.

The boys, whose names were not released, were turned over to juvenile court authorities.

One out of three employes of U. S. airlines are World War II veterans.

Two American Chorus Girls On Way To Success In Philippines

By WILLIAM AYERS
INS Staff Correspondent

MANILA, Aug. 19—A couple of American chorines, with the combined talents of showman Billy Rose and industrialist John D. Rockefeller, are literally stopping the show in the Philippines.

The two girls, red-headed Donna Murphy from Burlington, Iowa, and blonde Dolores Gregory of St. Louis, are staging a production between movies at the Manila opera house that is—in Broadway lingo—"knocking 'em dead."

It is not uncommon for the audience to stamp its feet, whistle and clap so loud in the midst of a passionate Hollywood movie that the management just orders the projector shut off and the live show put on.

Actually Manila is more entertainment hunghy than the show is good, combining as it does something of Barnum and Bailey with second-rate performers, local and statewide.

But the two midwesterners—once "civilian actress technicians" with U. S. occupation forces—already are flying in talent and brushing up on stage technique.

Initial Capital $70

The girls arrived in Manila last February with $70. They set up the "Far Eastern Entertainment Enterprises." Donna holds 51 per cent of the stock and Dolores 46 per cent. Their $70 capital, in six months, has jumped to $25,000.

"Angels" of the first show were a government girl in General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters, an ex-GI who runs a Manila drug store, and Donna's uncle.

With sufficient capital now to import variety acts from the states, the girls are planning to book shows in Singapore, Bangkok, Hongkong, Manila and points south.

Donna is a 27-year-old redhead with green eyes, of Irish ancestry. Her first dramatic fling was at the age of seven in a tent show. She went to Burlington college in Iowa, to the University of Colorado and to Brenau college in Gainesville, Ga.

Girls Met During War

Dolores, blue-eyed and blonde, toured the United States, Cuba and Canada as a chorine and with bit parts in variety shows and stock companies.

She has more technical know-how than business-minded Donna and stages the dance sequences.

The girls met in Panama during the war in a bond show. They toured Central and South America and the Galapagos islands together, and decided if they could sell $175,000 worth of bonds for Uncle Sam the should be able to sell straight entertainment in the Philippines.

Show business in Manila has neevr reached the proportions it has in the states. When the girls tried to recruit a chorus they couldn't find a Filipino who knew how to tap dance. They finally found a couple of girls who looked as though they could learn.

The father of the first marched into rehearsal and dragged his daughter off the stage, the second confided she was going to become a mother.

Filipinos Patronized

But Donna and Dolores did eventually round up 12 girls who may never become Eleanor Powells but who are sure-fire in the islands.

The electricians have learned the rudimentary principles of lighting, but when the show goes on they become so absorbed in watching they forget their cues.

The girls have commanded the respect of highly nationalistic Filipinos bursting with pride at their new independence.

Donna and Dolores registered their corporation under Philippine, not United States laws. They are using lots of native talent and paying it well.

They hired a Manila orchestra led by a young composer who wants to develop a truly national music.

Their troupes fly on Philippine air lines.

The girls reason thus:

"We're both getting started—the islands as a new nation, we, as beginners in show business.

And from the crowded aisles of the Manila opera house it looks as though the two little Midwestern chorus girls who could have "come east" did better to follow Horace Greeley's advice and "go west."

Recreational Leader Expects Move Toward Outdoor Activities

AUSTIN, Aug. 19 (INS) — The modern generation is taking to the woods.

That's the opinion of a visiting professor at the University of Texas, V. K. Brown of Chicago.

He says recreational trends in the future will move toward more outdoor activities as people seek to escape the anxieties of increasing political and economic worries.

The Chicagoan also predicts development of more recreational activities involving an element of danger—like mountain climbing, big game hunting, or skiing.

The veteran recreational leader, formerly director of the Chicago Park District Recreation, is teaching courses on administration and organization of a recreation program here.

Nebraska Motorist Learns Judge Means What He Says

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 19. (U.P.)—Rainard J. Key, Omaha, had his choice: a $50 fine or surrender of his driver's license for 52 days as a penalty for speeding.

Key handed in his license to Municipal Judge Edward C. Fisher. One hour later he was back again, charged with driving without a license.

Key went to jail to work out a $50 fine, and his license was suspended for 30 days.

Blonde Coast-To-Coast Tourist Just Likes To Ride Bicycles

BRISTOW, Okla. Aug. 19 (U.P.)—A feminine coast-to-coast tourist stopped at a filling station here, but the only "fill-up" she needed was air for her bicycle tires.

The 22-year-old blonde said she was travelling from her home in New York to Los Angeles because she wants to see the country and the Hollywood stars.

"Besides," she said as she pedalled down U. S. highway 66, "I just like to ride bicycles."

War Surplus Books Swamp College Store

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 19. (U.P.)—Frank C. Long, operator of a college bookstore across from the entrance to the Ohio State University campus, has undertaken a $75,000 expansion program because of a "flyer" he took on purchase of textbooks.

He bought 507,000 textbooks at war surplus sale but hadn't any place to put them. They are currently piled on a parking lot adjoining his store.

"Books aren't like sugar to sell," Long said. "You can sell sugar anywhere. But a textbook can be a total loss in one community overnight if a professor changes his mind about required reading.

"We have to be prepared to wait 25 years, if necessary, to sell the current stock."

The government spent about $400,000 for the new books, which Long bought as the highest bidder.

His firm lays claim to be the largest textbook company in the country, the total of volumes in stock now nearing 3,000,000.

Alabama Man Follows In Son's Footsteps As Weekly Editor

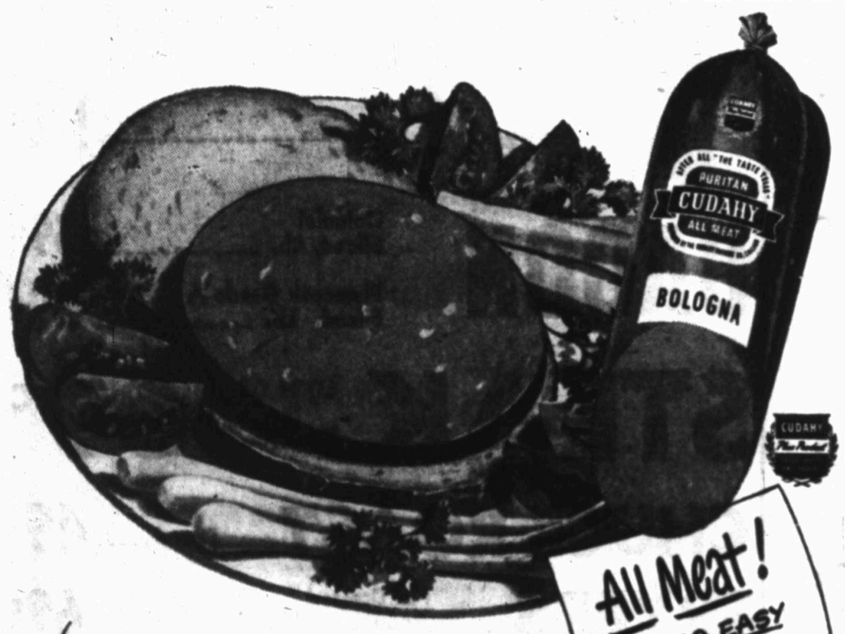

DADEVILLE, Ala., Aug. 19 (U.P.)—In this case, the father followed in the son's footsteps.

When Ralph Bugg resigned as editor and general manager of the Dadeville Weekly Record to reenter college, the publisher, J. C. Henderson, sought a new man for the job. The one he selected was Thomas S. Bugg, father of the departing editor.

No stranger to the job, the senior Bugg had owned and edited the Record for 20 years before selling it to Henderson early this year.

Bell System Gets Major Slice Of Nation's Phone Bill Hikes

By WAYNE OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 19—America's telephone bill has gone up with pust about everything else since the war, and is due to go up still more.

The eight billion dollar Bell system, world's biggest utility, has been granted since the war rate increases totaling $140,000,000 a year, it is shown in an Associated Press survey made across the country.

Claims Costs Up

The Bell system, which operates four-fifths of the nation's 36,000,000 telephones, says its costs are up. It has been getting most of the increases it has asked, but not without a struggle in some cases.

These are the first general telephone rate increases in two decades or more, and they have stirred up hot opposition in several states. Utility commissions have made deep slashes in amounts asked and have turned their fire on some of the operation methods of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and its subsidiaries that comprise the Bell system.

The increases already granted affect 36 states. In addition, Bell companies have applications pending for some $64,000,000 a year in rate boosts in 16 states, including seven in which no increases have yet been granted.

The country's 5,900 independent companies, most of them small, also have been getting increases and also have additional applications pending.

Business Rates Upped

The boosts granted so far generally have been greater on business telephones and long distance calls within the states than on home service.

Business telephone rates generally went up 25 cents to $2.50 a month over old rates, with two-dollar increases fairly common.

No increases have been granted or asked in interstate long distance rates, controlled by the Federal Communications commission.

With rate increases for Bell companies granted or pending in 43 states, it is expected the list eventually will be joined by the other five — Delaware, Nevada, New York, North Dakota and Pennsylvania.

A. T. and T. president Leroy A. Wilson recently told stockholders that "other applications will be made in the near future."

In nine of the states in which increases were granted—including two with no stat regulation—and in the District of Columbia, Bell companies got the full increases they asked.

Improved Service Demanded

The most common arguments against both Bell and independents have been that lesser increases would provide fair returns on company investments and that, in the areas not yet converted to dial operation, improved service should be given in advance of rate increases.

Considerable commission fire has been directed against certain types of the financial practices of the giant Bell system, and several commissions cut substantial amounts from Bell company apolications.

The pattern is not exact. Part of the difference in rates may be due to the fact that some state commissions are tougher than others in granting increases.

The survey showed that charges by independent companies are higher and sometimes lower than those of Bell companies for comparable exchanges.

Annual increases in telephone rates by states asked by Bell system companies, estimated gross annual increases granted so far, and applications for increases still pending before commiscsions or cours include:

State	Increase Asked (per year)	Increase Granted (estimated per year)
Louisiana	3,255,000	2,944,000
New Mexico	348,000	348,000
New York	———	———
Oklahoma City	3,077,000	3,077,000
Texas	548,000	548,000

Federal Official Finds Way To Reduce Housing Complaints

DALLAS, Aug. 19 (INS)—Perry N. Moore, compliance director at the Office of the Housing Expediter in Dallas, has devised a new, personal plan to handle veterans' housing complaints which he says "will reduce the number of gripes to a shadow."

Moore outlined the new plan like this: "When a veteran complains of overcharges on ceiling prices or substitution of inferior building materials, a compliance division investigator will be assigned to the case to ferret out the facts.

"Instead of taking the case before a federal court after completion of the investigations, as was done before, the findings, if favorable to the veterans, will be laid before the builder and he will be asked to make restitution or correction.

"This system will reduce the number of housing complaints to a shadow. When the builder is confronted with the bare facts, he is usually more than willing to cooperate in making an amicable settlement."

Moore is the Dallas deputy for an eight-state area.

West Texas C-C To Learn Today About Use Of Old U.S. Building

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19. (AP)—The West Texas Chamber of Commerce may learn tomorrow whether it can continue to use the old federal building in Abilene.

The building was acquired by the city in 1931 on condition it could be taken back by the government if and when needed for federal purposes.

The structure was subleased to the chamber of commerce, which spent more than $12,000 on remodeling.

Recently the Public Buildings administration regional office in Dallas recommended the government take back the building.

Max Bentley, Abilene chamber of commerce representative, Senator Connally and Rep. Burleson, Texas Democrats, opposed this yesterday at a conference with W. E. Reynolds, commissioner of public buildings.

Burleson told a reporter today that business men throughout West Texas felt they should be permitted to continue using the building, because it undoubtedly would have been demolished years ago but for the money they spent on repairs. He expressed hope that Reynolds' decision, which he said is expected tomorrow, would be favorable to the West Texas organization.

Mrs. Truman And Mother In Denver For Quiet Vacation

DENVER, Aug. 19 (INS)—Mrs. Harry S. Truman and her mother, Mrs. D. W. Wallace, arrived in Denver today for a "quiet" vacation with David F. Wallace and family.

Wallace, a brother of the President's wife, said Mrs. Truman and her mother "stood the trip very well from Grandview, Mo., and were well rested by luncheon time."

Mrs. Truman and her mother were flown to Denver in the presidential plane, The Independence, which is on a routine flight to the West coast.

They expected to "take it easy" and visit in the Denver area, with a few trips into Colorado mountains planned for the two-weeks vacation period.

Soviet Girl Seeking Safety In Sweden Tells Of Fears Of Reds; Says She Wants To Come To U. S.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Lydia Marcelle, the 19-year-old "Swedish Kosenkina" who is fighting Soviet efforts to return her to Russia by force, tells her own story for the first time in the following exclusive dispatch. The panicky girl, who is engaged in a musical career, uses her mother's name, Marcelle, instead of Markarov, the name of her father who is still in Russia. She has shifted to a new Stockholm hide-out to throw Russian embassy officials off her trail. An International News Service correspondent found her jumping with fright every time a telephone rang or an unidentified footstep sounded.)

By LYDIA MARCELLE
Written Especially For INS

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 19—I escaped from Russia four years ago by boat, and the Russian embassy in Stockholm is trying to make me return.

I have always dreaded the thought of returning to Russia, but never believed I was so important that the Russian embassy would make any special attempts to force me to return.

When the man from the Russian embassy tried to force his way into the house of Mr. and Mrs. Folke Bigner—with whom I live outside Stockholm — I was terrified.

I have been somewhat terrified ever since.

Swedes Warns Reds

Oh, I was so relieved when the Swedish foreign office notified the Russians that I am to stay in Sweden!

The foreign office warned the Russians to leave me alone and you can guess what a relief that was.

I will never return tto Russia as long as it is ruled by Communists.

My greatest desire is to travel west to America, not east to Russia.

It is entirely untrue, as the Russians are saying, that I have been kept a prisoner in the Bigner home.

No one ever has been so nice and kind to me.

The Bigners (he is a Swedish engineer who lives in a beautiful home on the coast 60 miles southeast of Stockholm) took me to their home a year ago to help me with my musical career.

Mrs. Bigner is also a pianist and she has been both teacher and mother to me.

Watched Russian Official

I watched from an upstairs window when the Russian from the embassy recently came to the Bigner home—and to me he seemed like a monster.

I heard his voice as he argued with Mrs. Bigner.

It was so ominous that it seemed like a hand at my throat. I thought I just couldn't breathe and that my legs would not hold me up until he was sent away.

The days then have been a great strain, so much I can hardly think.

Every time a car drives up or the telephone rings—and that has happened dozens of times since the Russian official first came—I have been afraid it was the Russians.

I have been afraid that they were going to abduct me as they did poor Madame Kosenkina in New York.

Now I am tired, nervous, and worried about all the trouble I have caused the Bigners.

Now you can see for yourself how it is to live under the Communists and what it does to one mentally and physically, can't you?"

I am sorry for what might be done to my father if he really wrote that letter to me which the Russian embassy man carried.

But even if I returned to Russia we don't know, certainly, whether both of us would still be punished.

My father's name is Markarov but I took my mother's name of Marcelle when I came to Sweden.

My mother died during the war and I escaped to Sweden with relatives.

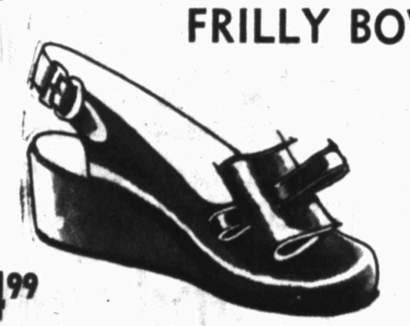

I only hope now that the Bigners and I will be left alone by the Russians so that the Bigners can live quietly and I can pursue my musical career.

Scurry County Well Shows Oil

Cities Service Oil company No. 1 W. F. Burney, southwest Scurry county deep wildcat, developed some free oil in a drillstem test in the Strawn lime of the Pennsylvanian at 7,349-7,415 feet.

The tool was open for one hour and 30 minutes. Gas of an unreported amount showed at the surface in 12 minutes,

Recovery was 120 feet of oil cut mud, which was 30 per cent oil; 130 feet of free oil; and 170 feet of mud cut oil, estimated to have been 70 per cent oil. No formation water was developed.

The prospector is drilling ahead. It is about 15 miles southwest of Snyder, on the northwest side of the shallow Sharon Ridge field, and 1,980 feet from north and 2,130 feet from west lines of section 143, block 97, H&TC survey.

The venture is slated to go to around 8,500 feet, to explore the Ellenburger—unless it develops commercial production before reaching that horizon.

After swabbing at the rate of about 10 barrels of oil per hour, from pay in the Cisco lime section of the Pennsylvanian, at 9,405-55 feet, for an extended period, Seaboard Oil company of Delaware, northeast Terry county wildcat, is to resume drilling.

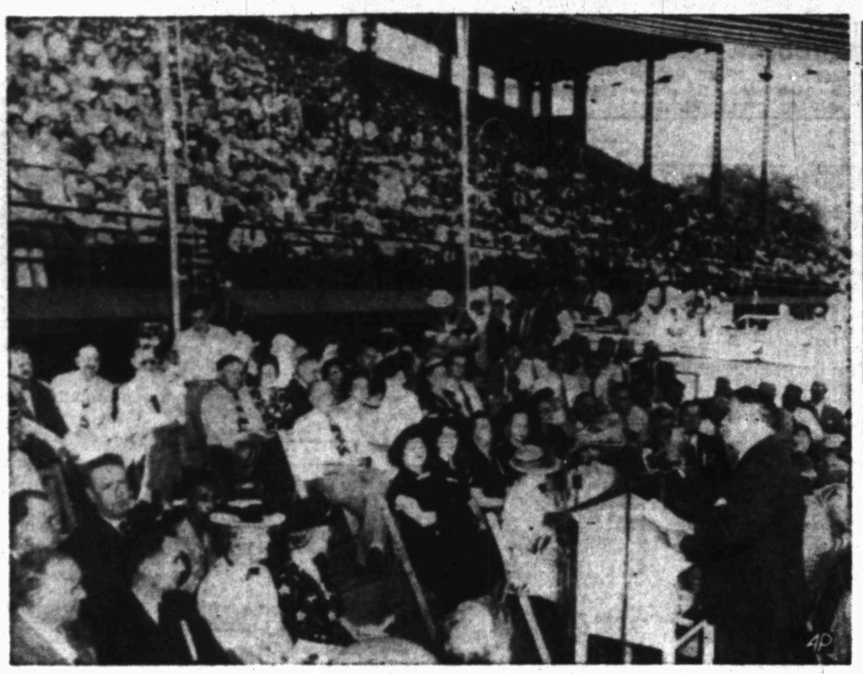

Operator representatives say that the venture may be carried on down to the Ellenburger—unless it develops better production above that zone, than has so far been indicated.

The 9,405-55 foot section had been treated with 500 gallons of mud acid, and with 1,000 gallons and with 7,000 gallons of regular acid.

That section had showed for a possible production of around 50 barrels of oil per hour, flowing, natural, on drillstem tests. However, after setting pipe operator was never able to make the well show above the 10 barrels of oil per hour, and it would not flow regularly.

No formation water has been developed. Some informed sources expect the exploration to find more pay in the Pennsylvanian.

TO SELL HUGE PLANT

DALLAS, Aug. 19 (AP) — The former Continental Motors plant at Garland, Tex., will go on the block at 2 p m. Friday and auctioneers hope it will bring $1,000,000. It will be auctioned to the highest bidder in a last-ditch effort of the War Assets administration to get rid of the 2-million-dollar plant. The auction will be the fifth attempt of the WAA to sell the plant which has been empty since February, 1946.

Chinese Government Announces New Currency To Fight Inflation

NANKING, Aug. 19 (AP) — The Chinese government announced tonight creation of a new "gold yuan" currency worth 25 cents—three million times the value of the old inflation-riddled money it replaces.

Shanghai financial circles immediately expressed doubts that this drastic measure would succeed in the long run.

They said it might wipe out the present black market in currency, as the new fixed rate is approximately that of the illegal money changers. But, unless the new money has some substantial backing, the net result would be merely to cut off some of the zeros in current astronomical transactions.

Plan Is Announced

Banks were ordered closed Friday and Saturday to permit the start of orderly exchange of old money for new.

Deadline for the exchange was set at Nov. 20. After Oct. 30 possession of gold, silver or foreign currencies will be punishable by confiscation.

A finance ministry spokesman told a news conference the new gold yuan would be supported by 40 percent gold, silver or foreign currency, and 60 percent by government "guarantees." He did not explain what these guarantees would be.

Shanghai financiers said the government did not have enough gold or silver for such backing of new currency. The only possibility they saw would be to sell various cotton mills and other industries which the government acquired from the Japanese in Shanghai, Tientsin, Tsingtao and elsewhere.

(There was no word on whether such sales were contemplated.)

Gold and silver dollars and foreign currencies held by the public are to be surrendered to the government at stipulated rates—four gold yuan to the dollar in the case of U. S. money.

The present CNC currency is to be exchanged at the rate of 3,000,000 to one gold yuan.

Shaw Suggests New Political Dictionary Of 'Exact Words' Would Help Halt War Talk

LONDON, Aug. 19. (AP)—George Bernard Shaw came up today with a suggestion for scotching war jitters: Produce a brand new political dictionary of common, exact words "to clear our heads."

"The matter is extremely urgent," the ancient bard asserted, "for the present confusion of tongues is heading straight for war, which none of the powers can afford and nobody desires."

Shaw set forth his views in a letter two-thirds of a column long to the Times of London. It is a way he frequently chooses for expressing publicly unsolicited opinions on vital current problems.

The playwright's appeal—that's what he called it—was addressed specifically to the British government. It asked for the appointment of a parliamentary committee "to settle our political nomenclature."

But, in true Shavian manner, it had a global aim. Patently he meant that all nations might profit by the kind of dictionary he has in mind.

"Until we clear up our political nomenclature," Shaw wrote, "our political oratory and journalism can come to nothing but the pot calling the kettle black, without either of them knowing what they are talking about.

"We all lack a common and exact dictionary," he said, "and are at dangerous cross purposes over imaginary differences and delusive agreements that are only verbal."

Shaw, whose own prose is generally considered among the clearest in modern times, went on:

Basically A Communist

"I myself find it impossible to make myself understood, though when I describe myself by this or that adjective, I know precisely what I mean . . . I am basically a Marxist Communist, but I cannot say so without being set down as an infantile advocate of catastrophic insurrection . . . "

Referring to the present differences between Russia and the western powers, Shaw insisted that "negotiation is impossible unless the parties use the same words for the same things and understand what the words mean. The present babel threatens a war that nobody wants countered by a flood of conscientious objection from those who think their rulers are backing the wrong horse . . ."

"Even liars need a language that will enable them to lie unambiguously. To the truthful, the present impossibility of wording their messages without being misunderstood is an agony.

"A dictionary will not cure our habit of mistaking the association of ideas for logic, but it will do all that can be done at short notice to clear our heads."

CAR DELIVERIES IRKING

Good Will Alienated

FEW persons pretend to know how to correct an economic system which, as reported recently, makes it possible to obtain an American-made automobile cheaper and quicker through an English dealer than in the U. S.

But such incidents inevitably add to the already widespread resentment among Americans because of the slow delivery of cars and because of the premium prices which usually must be paid for those available.

Americans realize that their resentment is not likely to hasten deliveries or to lower prices of new autos. But, while it may not help the situation immediately, there may be some consolation in the knowledge that widespread public indignation usually pays off in the long run.

Railroads in particular can testify to this fact. For long they were among the worst exponents of the "public be hanged" policy in their business operations. But popular indignation gradually forced the enactment of regulative laws so drastic that few railroads were profitable, and many went bankrupt, during many years before the World War II business boom. The railroads learned their lesson. No industry is more diligent or generous in its effort to cultivate and protect public good will.

It remains to be seen whether, when and how mounting indignation because of the automobile situation will manifest itself. But the prediction is supported by past experiences that those responsible for present conditions in the automobile markets may need desperately the public good will which is being alienated by present shortages and prices.

Esteemed Citizen Passes

DESERVEDLY one of the most popular and highly esteemed men ever to make his home in Lubbock was Dr. James W. (Jimmie) Rollo, who succumbed Wednesday to a lingering heart ailment.

He had many friends because he himself was a friend. He was esteemed because of a pattern of daily living as a private citizen, a professional man and a public official for 22 years which merited esteem.

Lubbock is more deeply indebted to Dr. Rollo than most residents of this city, including some of his closest friends, may realize. His modesty was such that the thought probably never occurred to him of desiring, much less seeking, credit for his contributions to the community welfare. But the fact that Lubbock has health safeguards superior to those of most cities is due in very large degree to Dr. Rollo.

He exemplified devotion to service by his 22 years as City Health Officer with its relatively modest salary when private practice would have been far more remunerative in the material sense. Unselfish and humanitarian qualities were attested by the poor people who made up most of the limited private practice permitted him by the demands of his official duties. He demonstrated courage of highest quality by remaining in harness almost to the end while long conscious of his own uncertainty of life.

Dr. Rollo will be missed in many ways which honor his memory. This city and the world are better because of his having lived in them.

The city commission ordered a $350,000 public improvements bond election and set the voting date as Sept. 24. Mayor Harley D. Woods pointed to the proposal as a comprehensive program of badly needed civic improvements. Apportionment of the bonds would be $180,000 for two subways (underpasses) under Santa Fe tracks on Broadway and Ave. H; $60,000 for storm sewers; $40,000 for water line extensions; $25,000 for sanitary sewer extensions; $20,000 for additional street lights; and $25,000 for future paving.

Bitter Reprieve

(THE STORY: Playboy Marcus Sterling has stolen his wife's diamond necklace and handed it over as security on a $10,000 gambling debt to racketeer Harry Bindle. To cover the theft, perpetrated while his wife slept, Sterling makes it appear a prosessional burglary. He spends the night at Edgecraft County Club to establish an alibi. Along with the necklace, he also took a sealed packet from his wife's safe. This turns out to be $10,000 in cash which Miriam Sterling had withdrawn from the bank for him.

Next morning Mrs. Sterling is found murdered in bed. At the club, Sterling gets rid of Miriam's cash by mailing it in a sealed packet to his secretary, Miss Wilson. Police Lt. Talent brings Sterling home. Fingerprints show the presence of a third person, beside Mr. and Mrs. Sterling, in the library the evening before.)

XXI

TALENT glanced past Ripley to Sergeant Gable, who had come out from the library. He returned his attention to Ripley and said, "Gus, there's something I'd like to have you do before we have Sterling down in the library. Hide those two ashtrays . . . the one with the cigar and the one with the cigaret butts. Put them somewhere out of sight and if you can find a couple of clean ones, put them where the others are now."

"Okay, Lieutenant."

"The wagon'll be here for the body any minute," Gable announced. "Where do we head now, Lieutenant?"

Footsteps on the porch delayed Talent's answer. A stalwart, broad-shouldered, smoothly tailored figure was framed in the open door when Talent turned. The newcomer displayed finely chiseled features beneath a broad, high forehead, even white teeth between thick lips just slightly parted in a smile of recognition.

"Hello, Dick," Talent said. He introduced Assistant District Attorney Richard Trapgood to Gable.

They walked into the library. Talent gave the new arrival a quick sketch . . . brought him up to the moment. He passed over lightly his own part in bringing Marcus Sterling home. One item he kept to himself: Miriam Sterling's checkbook with the $10,000 stub.

There was a clatter in the hall.

"They're here for the body," Gable announced.

"Let's get up ahead of them, Dick," Talent said.

WHEN the stretcher men had gone downstairs, Talent locked the door of Miriam Sterling's room and took charge of the key. Across the hall, the door of Sterling's room was closed. Talent tapped lightly, turned the knob. Sterling was seated where he had left him. He got up when he saw that Talent was not alone.

"She's . . . she's gone, Lieutenant?" Sterling asked.

"They've taken away your wife's body, yes, Mr. Sterling," Talent said. "But I see no reason why the body won't be released to you this evening. You'll want to make arrangements with an undertaker."

"Yes, I'll have to do that. Thanks, Lieutenant."

Talent introduced Trapgood. "Mind coming down to the library with us, Mr. Sterling?" Talent said. "We don't want to be more of a nuisance to you than we have to be, but we need your help."

In the library, Talent said, "This room tells the rest of the story, as you can see for yourself, Mr. Sterling."

The eyes of Talent, Trapgood and Gable followed Sterling with practiced indirectness.

From a few steps inside the large room, Sterling surveyed the library deliberately.

"Oh, over there," he said, discovering the open window with the shattered pane. He went to the window, avoiding the debris on the floor and the fallen clock and pedestal. He studied the sill, bent over it to glance outside. Turning back, he paused beside the clock on the floor. "Strange that was knocked over," he said.

"WELL," Talent summed up, "you can see, Mr. Sterling, the way we get it from the physical evidence. Somebody broke into that window, knocked the clock loose from the plug coming in, didn't bother anything down here, made a direct break for your wife's room, knew about the safe and maybe about what was in it, either found your wife's keyring or woke her up and took it away from her, and hit her over the head with that heavy candlestick while she was taking her revolver from under the pillow. Wouldn't you add it up about like that?"

Sterling's eyes went squarely at Talent. "Lieutenant, you don't want my opinion or deduction," he said. He shrugged, started toward the chair he invariably occupied when in the library. "Can't we all be seated?"

Sterling waited for the others to find chairs about the room. Then, having seated himself, he said with surprising abruptness, "I'd like to put you gentlemen at ease, so let's start with frank understanding. I'm under suspicion, so ask your questions without embarrassment. If I weren't under suspicion, I shouldn't have been yanked home to that staggering shock of finding my wife's battered corpse in her bed. I'm under suspicion, I imagine, because I was at my club instead of at home, and possibly for some reasons you may have that I don't know anything about. So ask your questions and I'll remember not to be offended." His eyes paused on Talent. "But there's one thing I'd like for us to have straight before you start, Lieutenant. You and I have the same job. There's nothing I want to do more right at this moment than get my hands on the —— that murdered my wife."

Looking At Life - - By Erich Brandeis

THE last thing we do before we turn off the lights for the night is to listen to the weather report on the radio.

The prediction for today was "Fair and cooler. Not nearly so humid."

So it is raining buckets this morning, the humidity is awful and my brain and my shirt are soaking wet.

BRANDEIS

It is the kind of weather that will bring me a couple of anonymous letters telling me that I don't know what I am talking about and that I should be suppressed or banished to Russia.

To avoid any such communications, which are likely to raise my blood pressure and bring another doctor bill, I shall confine myself to piffle.

It's easier on you and me.

My former secretary sends me a note, with a clipping from a movie column from Hollywood.

"Lauren Bacall's baby will cost hubby Humphrey Bogart $20,000,'" it says. "Our best doctors charge five per cent of a film-star husband's annual salary to deliver a baby."

"Luckily for me, I was born where my parents could afford it," comments my ex-secretary. "Can't you just picture two youngsters with 'star' parents having a conversation, one saying to the other 'It cost my parents $20,000 to have me born.

" 'What was your entrance fee?"

By the way, I wonder whether any of these expensive babies will ever be able to reach the hem of the one who was born in a manger?

You may remember that some time ago I suggested that science should get busy and invent replacement parts for human beings just as they have for automobiles and other machinery.

And here you have proof of the power of the press:

A few weeks after I wrote about it, a Dr. George E. Slotkin, of Baltimore, goes ahead and designs an artificial kidney made of plastic and cellophane!

Now for a few more spare parts and the human being some day soon will be as practical as an automobile.

CHURCH authorities in New Zealand complain about some of the congratulatory telegrams sent to newlyweds and read at wedding breakfasts.

They are too risque, they say, and someone in authority should be designated to censure them before they are read.

A nineteen-year-old girl in Chicago tries to commit suicide because her husband of five weeks prefers classical music to boogie-woogie.

If I remember correctly, when we were married five weeks neither my wife nor I took interest in any kind of music We were still to much wrapped up in each other.

And now the sun is coming out and the humidity is abating. But I am not going to write another column.

"I presume you used a herring for a model?"

IN SCHOOL PROGRAM

Changes Are Needed

BY RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing may not have blocked attempts to warn against Communistic trends and teachings in the nation's public and private schools, as charged by Dr. John W. Studebaker, who resigned as U. S. Commissioner of Education on the ground that the F.S.A. boss had interfered with his work for political reasons.

But several surveys of school curricula, which were inspired by Elizabeth T. Bentley's explanation for her willingness to become a Russian spy, indicate that elementary, high schools and colleges have been lax in instructing the younger generations, past and present, on the rights, the duties and the benefits of American citizenship and our way of life.

TUCKER

Although a Vassar graduate, Miss Bentley attributed her waywardness to the fact that she absorbed twenty years of education without ever having had a lesson in civics or American history.

She may be only rationalizing her reasons for disloyalty to her country, but she did emphasize that she fell for Marxist preachments because she had been given no measure for comparing them with democratic forms of government.

ACCIDENT: It may be no accident that almost every government official alleged by Miss Bentley to have provided her with secret or semi-secret information during the war, was a graduate of Columbia, Harvard, Yale and Princeton universities—institutions founded by our earliest patriots and preachers to instill a fear of God and love of country in the youth.

The institution which General "Ike" Eisenhower has recently taken under command—Columbia—was the educational cradle of F.D.R.'s original "brain trust," with Rexford Tugwell as a conspicious protege.

LIBERAL: Many of Miss Bentley's alleged associates infiltrated into the government under him when he headed Eleanor Roosevelt's favorite project, the Rural Resettlement Administration, and, subsequently, when he became Henry A. Wallace's Assistant Secretary of Agriculture.

He was chairman of the Wallace convention Resolutions Committee, which howled down any praise of American foreign policy and any condemnation of Stalin's postwar aggression.

Other Columbia professors in the early Roosevelt family were Ray Moley and Adolph A. Berle Jr., but they had no use for the Reds and pinkos. Indeed, Mr. Berle tried to oust several of them back in 1939 but was blocked by the White House for fear it might antagonize the so-called "liberal" vote.

SERVICE: Dear Harvard was another mother of learning which sent her sons into the government service to such a degree that "Felix Frankfurter's hot dogs" became a political rather than a roadside shoppe characterization around Washington in those days. Justice Frankfurter was then professor at the Harvard Law School and one of F.D.R.'s closest advisers.

Among his children occupying important positions here were James Landis, former head of the S.E.C.; Dean Acheson, former Under Secretary of State; and Harry Dexter White, who has frequently been mentioned as furnishing data to the Bentley-Golosperlo spy ring. The Hiss brothers, whose names have woven in and out of the pink pattern sketched by Miss Bentley, came from the same institution.

Former Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr. matriculated at Cornell. Although his department harbored several sympathizers, according to Miss Bentley, nobody accuses him of seeing or being a Red.

But he brought into the government several "experts" whose views on financial management, sharing the wealth and doing good to everybody except the taxpayers were regarded as fuzzy-wuzzy as were those of other men with respect to the Russian versus the American systems.

INFLUENCE: It is also recalled that before, during and since the war, Treasury's technical advisers had vast influence in determining our financial, gold, commercial and lend-lease policies toward Moscow and her satellite states. Moreover, Mr. Morgenthau's plan for cutting up Germany into farm lots would have been a godsend to Russia, enabling her to annex the Reich to her chariot at any time she wanted.

In fact, in view of Mr. White's alleged connection with the Bentley conspiracy, the question which the Ferguson or Parnell Thomas investigators may eventually ask is:

"Who really inspired, framed and sold the Morgenthau Plan to Franklin D. Roosevelt at Quebec, over the angry and serious objections of Cordell Hull?"

CURRICULA: A Bentley-inspired study of the curricula of the high schools in the Nation's Capital revealed some alarming facts on this general subject. It is understood that they can be paralleled elsewhere throughout the country.

Only 130 of a maximum of 10,244 white students chose to enroll in civics classes in 1947. Since that course is an elective subject, by decree of the Board of Education of the District of Columbia, most of the youngsters ducked it. There was not a single class in civics in four high schools, and the names of those institutions were, ironically, McKinley, Roosevelt, Coolidge and Wilson. Only one year of American history is required in the high schools.

Local educators, however, blame this condition on the colleges. Few require civics as a prerequisite to admission, which provides no incentive for high school students to know any more about their country than self-confessed Spy Bentley did.

INVESTIGATION: It is doubtful if Congress now has any authority to make an investigation of the nation's public or private school system, although it might have that right if a federal-aid-to-education measur is enacted at the next session. But there is a growing belief on Capitol Hill, especially among the members of the Ferguson and Parnell Thomas committees, that a broad, careful and fact-finding survey might be worth more than a spate and anti-Red legislation.

"When an American says, "There's no place like home," you may safely take his word for it, as he has tried everywhere else.

"The emotion of love often brings on a cold," says a physician. And also chills and fever, he might well have added.

Beware of the person who tries to draw you into conversation, lest he overwhelm you with a monologue.

NEW RATES SOUGHT IN CAPITAL

Post Office, Railroads Clash

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — In Jesse M. Donaldson we have a postmaster general who is a career man, the first in that office. He got a taste for the mail service when, as a boy, he helped his father who was postmaster at Shelbyville, Illinois, during his summer vacations. He started his own career as a carrier at Shelbyville. He has come up through the ranks.

Usually the important post in government he now holds is assigned by Presidents to their political campaign managers. When Robert E. Hannegan, who managed the 1944 Roosevelt - Truman campaign, resigned several months ago as postmaster general, President Truman decided on a departure and, in filling that office, to recognize experience and knowledge in what is one of the nation's biggest business. So he promoted Jesse Donaldson who by then had become first assistant postmaster general.

STOKES

Now Faces Problem

It often has been said around here cynically of the usual political manager-postmaster general that he runs the office as a side-line, with his left hand, so to speak. But for Jesse Donaldson it is his only job. It is his life. His whole energy is devoted to giving the people the best, most efficient and most economical service. The taxpayer, you know, has to meet the costs of operating deficits.

But in this endeavor he has run up against an obstacle in one of the country's most powerful industries, the railroads, which is strange because the government is the best customer of the railroads and has contributed heavily to their revenues through the years.

It comes about this way. In checking over the business he took over Mr. Donaldson found that there had been no review of service requirements of the railroads in moving the mails for 32 years, and no change in rates for 25 years, though many things have changed since, including better and cheaper ways of doing all sorts of things. In the last 25 years the government has paid the railroads $2,500,000,000 for mail service.

The postmaster general instituted a study which revealed obsolescent methods that are costly, extra charges that do not seem warranted and various special considerations that railroads do not get from other shippers. He discovered numerous ways that the railroad mail service could be revised and improved and in which economies might be effected. This resulted in what is known as the comprehensive plan of the postmaster general embodying changes in present service requirements.

Railroads Hit Plan

This was submitted in due course to the Interstate Commerce commission which, under procedures established by law, fixes fair rates for the services prescribed for the railroads by the postmaster general. Here the railroads balked first. They claimed the postmaster general had no authority to prescribe such a plan, but that such was the function of the ICC. However, the ICC upheld the postmaster general's authority, which is clearly set forth in law and court rulings, though its decision was vague in some other particulars and the post office department has asked for clarification.

As a basis for fixing rates under the new law, the post office department must submit to the ICC considerable data of all sorts. The department requested the railroads to supply it. Balking again, they offered only limited data which does not meet all the requirements. They were rather arrogant about it.

The postmaster general then offered that the Post Office department would pay the cost of gathering this additional necessary information by the railroads. But the railroads balked again on this and refused.

Jesse Donaldson is a reasonable fellow. But he is unable to understand this sort of business dealing by a great industry with its best customer. After a personal appeal to the presidents of every railroad, some of whom obviously are not aware of the obstructive and recalcitrant attitude of the committee supposed to represent them, he has recourse to legal action. Under the law the department is entitled to such information as it needs to carry out the business with which it is entrusted by Congress.

His back is up. The Post Office department is the largest single shipper over the railroads, which get more revenue from carrying the mails than they do from any other commodity. It is a $140,000,000 business a year for them.

The Grand Canyon of Colorado was discovered by Don Lopez de Cardenas and 12 members of the Coronado expedition from Mexico in 1540.

Hale Center Shows Impressive Progress As Building Booms

By BILL CLARK
Avalanche Staff Writer

HALE CENTER, Aug. 19—To the tune of the saw and the hammer, Hale Center residents are singing the song of a town that is building itself a prosperous future.

As implied in the name, Hale Center is near the geographical center of Hale county, a rich diversified farming area bordered on the South by the cotton area, and on the north by the wheat area.

History says that originally there were two small townsites about a mile southwest of Hale Center—Hale City and Epworth. They didn't get along very well until 55 years ago, when they decided to bury the hatchet, move to the present townsite and combine the town under the name of Hale Center.

Co-Operation Is Noted

The hatchet stayed buried, and today Hale Center presents a splendid example of a community which, not content to let its town just grow, puts its collective shoulder to the wheel and works together for the common betterment of the town.

Not the count, seat, Hale Center is only 11 miles from its neighbor to the north, Plainview, and only 35 miles from Lubbock.

Seven new business buildings, two new church structures and almost 100 new residences have been built in Hale Center in the past 25 months. The town, which had an official census count of 849 in 1940, now has an estimated population that will crowd 1,600, Pollard figures.

Good Business Seen

Hale Center businessmen look forward to the greatest fall sales in their history, due to irrigated row crops and a record high production of cotton.

Opeators of cotton gins in Hale Center say that the immediate territory will produce more than last year's crop of 10,000 bales—3,000 more than any previous season.

Also looking good are row crops of corn, feed and such "sideline" agriculture products as livestock, potatoes, alfalfa and others.

The oil field appears to be closing in on Hale Center, too. Center of attention is the new wildcat, Nick Alley No. 1, being drilled by the Cooper-Hemphill Oil company four miles west and a mile south of town, which may bring the oil play virtually to Hale Center's door. Leasing activity has been heavy, one block of more than 12,000 acres having recently been leased.

At present Hale Center is nearly equi-distant between the Petersburg field to the southeast and the Anton-Irish field to the southwest.

Business Outlook Good

Hale Center businessmen plug their town aggressively, both individually and through their organizations.

One of the most active of these service organizations is the Lions club, of which Rev. Woodrow Adcock, Methodist pastor, is president. The Lions have recently provided lights for the Hale Center Owls football field, promoted paving, organized a July 4 homecoming in cooperation with the American Legion and taken other worthwhile projects under wing.

Legion Post Active

The American Legion post of Hale Center, with 140 members, is also unusually active. Glen Thomas is commander of it, and post adjutant is Adolph Geyer, a resident of Hale Center about a year who had held many Legion offices in Kansas. Geyer, a Navy veteran of World War I and Army veteran of World War II, holds a 30-year membership card.

Geyer also heads Hale Center's Central committee, a group representing all of Hale Center's organizations, including the churches, clubs, school board, city commission, Boy Scouts and others, which functions as an over-all civic promotion group.

In the place of a chamber of commerce, Hale Center has the Hale Center Merchants association. Walter Struve is president of it and R. A. Jefferies is secretary.

Hale Center's Scout organization is active, with four boys' and girls' organizations functioning. The businessmen of Hale Center have contributed most of the money for a tile Boy Scout building on which work is to start soon. Belton Gates sparked the idea, and the Farm Bureau, composed of people living in the Hale Center area, raised $700 at a box supper. T. A. Shipp is president of the Farm Bureau federation, John I. Bowling is vice president and L. E. Ing is secretary.

Marvin Bridges, a Hale Center contractor, offered to build the structure for $1,500 contributing the labor on the job. The next lowest bid was $2,057.

Other Projects Built

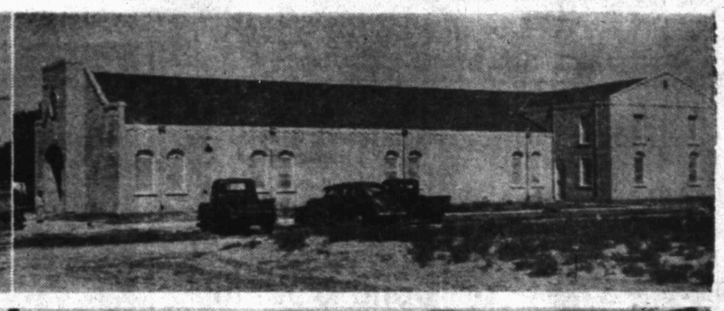

Among larger new projects under construction or recently completed are a new $45,000 Church of Christ, of which Joe Banks is minister; a theater owned by Boyd Prather, a $75,000 grain elevator of the Hale Center Wheat Growers association; and a $130,000 hospital completed last year which is now undergoing extensive additions, to provide additional bed and clinic space.

The hospital, of which J. L. Monroe is manager, has served 1,400 clinic patients and 600 bed patients in the year it has been operating. Hale Center businessmen consider it one of the most valuable developments the town has made since the war.

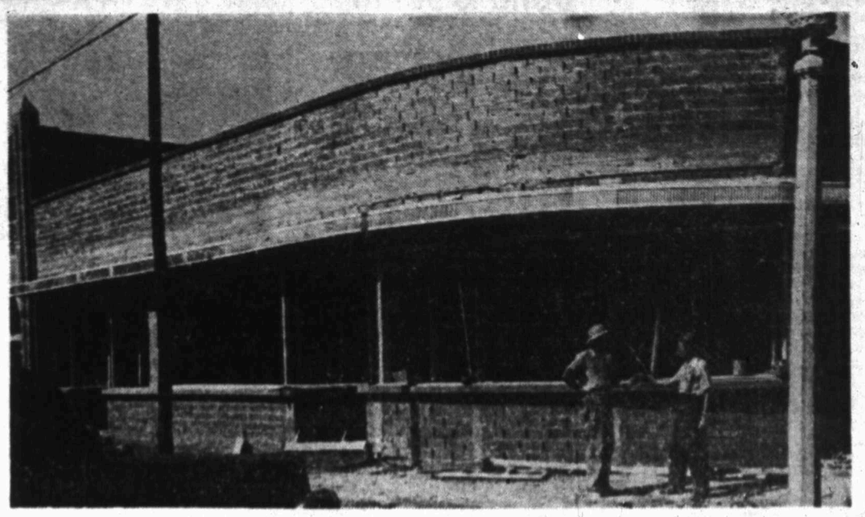

Hale Center's trading area is served by a progressive weekly newspaper, The Hale Center American, whose young editor, Tom Rambo, is typical of the youthful businessmen of the town. Rambo, an Army veteran of World War II, is an active supporter of worthwhile projects in Hale Center.

Another Hale Center resident, Vic Lamb, has for many years boosted his town through newspaper columns and by giving his time and effort to community undertakings. He is now in the printing and office supply business.

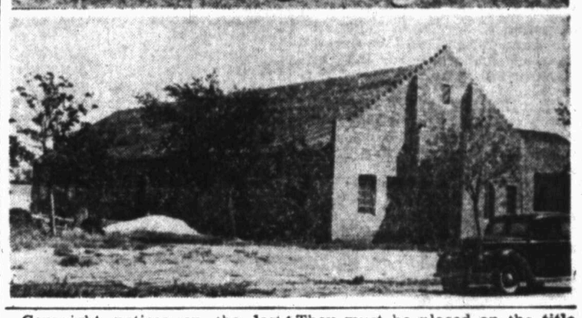

HALE CENTER AT WORK—Nearly 100 new homes have been built in Hale Center in the past 25 months, and three typical ones are shown in the top picture left. They belong, left, to Roger Woodward, farmer; center, Houston Burgess, drug store worker, and right, Lyndel Dyer, druggist. At right, top photo, is Hale Center's new $45,000 Church of Christ, of which Joe Banks is minister. It was dedicated August. 4. At left, center, officials of Hale Center's hospital watch as a surplus Army building from Amarillo Army Air Field is moved in to form part of an addition to the hospital. Left to right in the picture are J. L. Monroe, manager, Mrs. Helen Costlow, a nurse; Orval Boyd, president of the hospital's board of directors, and Mrs. Effie Faye Roberts, secretary to the manager. In the center picture, right, is a block of new business buildings under construction. At the extreme left is a theater being completed by Boyd Prather, while the right foreground shows the future home of a new creamery and dairy products store to be occupied by J. S. Shadden and his son, Odell. This building will cost $30,000. Shown in front of the building are Odell Shadden and Vic Lamb. In the top picture at lower right is the new $75,000 grain elevator project just started by Hale Center Wheat Growers association. Standing in front of the foundation forms are Ray Head, manager, left, and Lewis Jordan of Adrian, project superintendent. In the bottom picture, right, is the new Methodist church near completion. Rev. Woodrow Adcock, is pastor. (Staff Photos.)

Dixiecrats Carry Fight For States' Riohts Into Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 19. (INS)—The Dixiecrats are carrying their fight for states' rights into Indiana.

State Rep. Frank Kimbell, of Jackson, Miss., conferred with two members of the Indiana board of election commissioners yesterday. He asked about the possibility of placing the names of the anti-civil rights presidential and vice presidential nominees on the November election ballot.

A petition carrying the names of 6,500 qualified Indiana voters must be filed with the secretary of state before Sept. 1 for the State's Righters to be represented on the November ballot.

Kimbrell predicted Indiana would lead northern states in supporting Gov. J. Shrom Thrumond of South Carolina and his running mate, Gov. Fielding Wright of Mississippi, if they get their names on the ballot.

Standard Oil, Indiana, To Cut Prices On Petroleum Products

CHICAGO, Aug. 19. (INS)— The Standard Oil Co., of Indiana announced today that tank wagon prices to consumers and dealers will be reduced effective Saturday.

Fuels affected by the one-tenth of a cent per gallon reduction are gasoline, naptha, kerosene, tractor fuels, furnace oils, range oil and diesel oils.

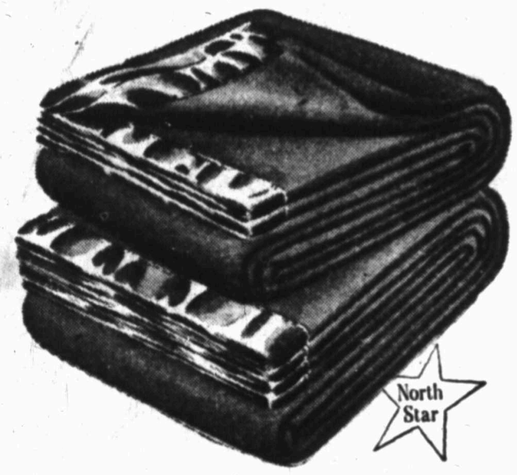

The reduction will be instituted in many points in Missouri, Lowa, Minnesota, and Wisconsin.

The price drop is coincident with an amendment to the recent Interstate Commerce commission order for increases in freight charges on petroleum products.

Johnson And Stevenson Charge Huge Sums Spent In Campaign

(By The Associated Press)

Both candidates in Texas U. S. senatorial runoff talked Thursday of money being spent like water against them.

Coke Stevenson, in an address originating at Austin, said money from "secret and unnamed" sources is being "spent like water" to defeat him.

Lyndon Johnson, in a statement at Fort Worth asserted the opposition to him was "spending money like water to raise a smoke screen and divert attention from the real issues."

Mudslinging Is Charged

Said Stevenson:

"I know you are not going to allow the office of United States senator to be bought and paid for, regardless of whether the money comes from self-seeking millionaires, self-seeking out-of-state CIO bosses, or self-seeking and mysterious backers of Henry Wallace."

"I see by the high-priced advertisements in newspapers, the large billboard ads, and the smear sheets, that the black bag of the labor bosses has finally arrived from the north to swell the slush fund being spent to purge Lyndon Johnson."

Earlier Stevenson had said Johnson is resorting to "frantic mudslinging."

Coke Said Too Late

Johnson made a noon broadcast at Fort Worth, and was a "non-political" speaker tonight for a meeting at Marine park there with members of the Fort Worth chapter of the air reserve association.

The congressman said Stevenson was making "desperate efforts" to "mislead the public."

Stevenson's speech was preceded by a day statement from his headquarters that "a smear sheet" attacking him will be distributed over the state in the last week of the campaign.

Johnson, campaigning in the Dallas area, said he would not be surprised if Stevenson "jumps on the band wagon and comes out and says he is now for the Taft-Hartley bill, lock, stock and barrel."

"But he has waited too late," Johnson said. "He has calculated too long, he has cooled his coffee too much to get by with any such statement.

Both Make Statements

Johnson's statement that his opponent was trying to "mislead the public" was made earlier in an interview.

The congressman said he had been called "an errand boy for the Tenth congressional district," and added:

"I have run a few errands—for my district and for the nation."

Stevenson, who will speak at a homecoming celebration at Kerens Friday, said in the Austin statement that Johnson "is losing this race and knows it. There is no other explanation for his resorting to the frantic mudslinging that is characterizing his campaign."

"Publication of this smear sheet," said the statement, "is a last desperate attempt of my opponent to destroy the confidence Texans have shown they feel in Coke Stevenson. But I have too high a regard for the sound judgment of the people of Texas to believe for a moment that they will be swayed by such tactics."

Texas Polio Fund Group Is Named As New Cases Reported

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 19 (U.P.)—A Texas polio fund committee of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has been formed to fight one of the worst outbreaks of the disease in the state's history, it was announced today.

A total of 90 cases reported the past week, the high for 1948, brought Texas within some 100 cases of the 1943 record figure and meant the state may pass the previous high mark for a full year inside of eight months.

Committee Members Named

The announcement of the special committee's formation was made by Joe W. Savage, executive director of the national foundation.

He said the "unprecedented drain" on the foundation's reserve funds had made it necessary to pool March of Dimes funds in states hardest hit by polio.

Such a pool, he reported, is already in operation in North Carolina.

The Texas Polio Fund committee, Savage said, held its first meeting at San Antonio this week, and is composed of:

Frank O. Huntress, San Antonio publisher, honorary chairman; Ed Stewart, Abilene, chairman; W. H. Beskin, Port Arthur, vice-chairman; Don Quill, San Antonio postmaster, treasurer; and John R. Loughlin, San Antonio, South Texas representative of the national foundation, executive secretary.

Savage added that the committee will be assisted by the foundation's East Texas representative, Charles O. Bishop, Tyler, and the West Texas representative, Wilmer Sims, Abilene.

He said many Texas chapters have exhausted March of Dimes funds and are dependent now on advances from national headquarters.

The past week's cases drove the Texas total to 1,132 for the year.

TOO MANY BUMPS

DENVER, (U.P.) — Morris Goldstein, owner of a leather goods manufacturing company, asked a judge to halt car parking in his next door lot. Goldstein said parking lot attendants bumped his wall so hard that it became "cracked and weakened." He also charged that the bumps knocked merchandise off his shelves.

Diamond tools were first used in 1779

Bond Is Set In Burglary Case

Bond of $1,000 was set Thursday afternoon by Justice of the Peace C. E. Lynn for Odell Laverne Allen, 21, of Lubbock route 1, who was charged with burglary earlier in the day after he allegedly admitted being caught in a tourist cabin occupied by an Abilene man and wife.

The charge, filed in the court of C. E. Lynn, justice of peace, for investigation of the next grand jury accused the man of having broken into cabin 8 of Camp Comfort.

Man At Foot Of Bed

Mrs. Jessie L. Beene said she and her husband had been asleep a brief time when she awakened at 2 a. m. and saw a man standing at the foot of their bed, "looking right at me."

"He was going through my husband's trousers," she said.

"What are you doing in here?" Mrs. Beene said she asked the intruder.

The man, she told officials, wheeled and went out the door, which had not been locked. He didn't answer her.

Beene, awakened by his wife's challenge, hastily got out of bed and ran to the door.

"Did you get any money out of my billfold?" he asked the intruder.

Beene and Mrs. Beene said the man clipped out an obscene negative and ran off under the bright light of a full moon.

Mr. and Mrs. Beene went to a nearby phone and telephoned police. A few minutes later L. P. Miller and J. M. Clark, police patrolmen, arrested Allen in 1100-black Ave. H.

Detective Capt. Pat Davidson's official reports showed a notation that Allen "admitted" going into the cabin. The officer said the defendant claimed his memory "blacked out" then—and could remember nothing more.

The prisoner had $47 in his possession when arrested.

Suspect Is Identified

Mrs. Beene gave a complete statement to assistant District Attorney E. G. Pharr. She said she and her husband positively identified the suspect when confronted with him.

Another pair of trousers was explored in the 300 Ave. J quarters of E. A. Raschell, a compress nightwatchman, police were informed. Money totaling $2. Army discharge papers and other properties were removed, Raschell said.

H. W. Early of the Avinger addition complained to the sheriff's department that a portable Singer sewing machine had been taken from his quarters.

A county court judgment of $50 and costs, as well as a six-months revocation of driver's license, was filed this morning by Judge Walter Davies on a drunk driving complaint. It named Hubert K. Hansford, 23, of Lubbock.

Jesse Rea Robertson, 26-year-old Seagraves man, was released Thursday into the custody of Rangers, after having been lodged in county jail Wednesday night by Ranger Razz Renfrow who arrested the man at Silver City, N. M. Charges of burglary and theft, swindling over $50, and forgery had been filed against Robertson at Brownfield, Van Horn and Ft. Stockton, officials said, and he was said to be wanted for questioning at about six other South Plains towns.

Three men, two negroes and a white man, were returned to Lubbock early Thursday evening by Chief Deputy Sheriff George Eubanks and LeRoy Boling, jr., of the detective division, to answer charges they were implicated in three local burglaries.

Robert Louis Scales, 31, a negro of Clarksville, was arrested in that town. The other negro, Johnnie Williams of Slaton, 23, was returned from Sweetwater. Paul James, 23, of Lubbock, was arrested in Palestine.

Young Polio Victim's Condition Very Good

Carl Shuman, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Shuman of 2823 Walnut, was reported as "very good" in condition Thursday at Lubbock Memorial hospital, where he was admitted late Wednesday afternoon for treatment of polio.

An attending physician reported Thursday afternoon that young Shuman has a very slight weakness in his legs—no paralysis.

Also under treatment at Lubbock Memorial hospital for polio are four other Lubbock and vicinity youngsters, ranging in age from 21 months to seven years.

The list includes Thelma Raindl, 21 months, daughter of J. F. Raindl of Veterans village; Jerry Lee White, 7, son of J. L. White of 222 Ave. P; Charles Revier, 4, son of Frank F. Revier, jr., of 2407 Thirty-second, and Jerry Boyd Hutson, 7, son of J. B. Hutson of Lubbock route 1.

Physicians treating the cases reported that none of the cases under treatment is critical, and hastened to assure that the incidence of polio cases here "certainly has not assumed anything like epidemic proportions." One said that the peak in polio cases is usually reached here during August, with a decline in the number of cases expected to begin in September.

West Texas hospital and St. Mary's hospital Thursday reported no polio cases under treatment at the present time.

Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, retired deputy commander of the Army Air forces and chief of air staff, declared in a brief visit to Lubbock Thursday morning that two dangerous elements threaten the security of the United States.

"The first of these is Communism, but following closely behind is those people who say: 'Everything's all right, let's don't do anything now; wait until we see what's going to happen.' Those people are about as dangerous as the Communists in my opinion," the former Air Forces leader said in a brief interview between planes at Lubbock municipal airport. He talked with Lubbock civic leaders at the airport.

Spoke For Johnson

Gen. Eaker was en route via Pioneer Airlines from San Angelo to Amarillo, where he was to board a TWA plane for his home in Santa Monica, Calif. He made a flying trip this week to his native West Texas to help out in Cong. Lyndon B. Johnson's campaign for the U. S. Senate.

"Every air force veteran should support him (Johnson) for he is a very able fellow and was in the forefront in the fight for unification (of armed forces)," Gen. Eaker declared. He termed unification the wisest piece legislation which has been passed in Congress since colonial days.

"The Russians have been upset in their time-table," Gen. Eaker said.

"They thought we would be disarmed completely by this time and in the midst of a depression during which they could be starting fifth-column work. But they may figure out it's better to start now before we get stronger."

Eaker, who retired last year after 30 years service, said he made radio talks at San Angelo, Abilene and Big Spring Wednesday "in the interest of national security." Of Johnson, he said: "He understands the international situation and the kind of world in which we live today."

Maryland Widow Has 'Almost' New Farm When One-Day Soil Conservation Show Ends

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Writer

FREDERICK, Md., Aug. 19—This is about a day in the life widow Thrasher—the biggest she ever had or ever hopes to have.

Mrs. Nellie V. Thrasher's day began as a foggy dawn was trying to break over the Catoctin mountains which look down on her 175-acre place.

Before it was light, almost, several thousand curious had gathered at the farm, and cars were bumper to bumper on all roads going that way. By sundown the widow and her two kids, Jan, 15, and George Edward, 17, had what amounted to a brand new farm, as modern as they come.

It Happened Fast

The motherly, gray - haired, plumpish little queen-for-a-day said lawsy-me, she didn't rightly know how it all happened. And so quick like, too. Well, I was there with pencil and pad. It was like this, Mrs. Thrasher:

Before you had finished milking your 30 cows and packing away the breakfast dishes a crew of 18 men in paintspotted white overalls were all over your yard, rigging up ladders and churning white lead in big buckets. Then these men took brush in hand; some of them even manned those new-fangled sprays.

Inside seven hours your home was shiny white, and decorated with green shutters to boot. While this was going on another gang was invading your attic to line it with rockwool. You'll be cooler in the summer and warmer in the winter. You'll also have more sunlight filtering through those ancient maple trees in the yard. Tree surgeons gave them a good doctoring.

New Fences Placed

Up the trail toward the pasture, other men—500 in all—were making things grow out of your rich brown earth, like that milk shed over there with the fancy cooler, and the spiffy new dairy barn with the stanchions to hold cows still so they won't be all over the barn while you're trying to milk them.

And a little farther up the hill—in fact all around the place—you'll see new fences that weren't there yesterday. That bunch of fence post pullers had all the old ones rooted up in half an hour.

What's this all about? Well, Widow Thrasher, those 125 bulldozers, tractors, rototillers and the like were brought in here to show the people hereabouts what can be done in the way of soil conservation. Your place is now completely limed. Those gullies that looked such a sight on your hills have been terraced to save that rich top soil. You've got 1,500 pounds of seed that will germinate in soil enriched with 22 tons of fertilizer and 92 tons of lime.

Neighbors Paid For It

Those speeches you heard were part of the show which some 20,000 people or so came to hear. By Maryland's Gov. Preston Lane, Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan and the others. They wanted to tell and show you what the government is doing in the way of saving the soil and pepping it up so it'll grow things better. They used your farm to demonstrate.

The people of your community kicked in with all of the help and with cash besides. You've got a few trampled petunias, maybe, but look at the place you and the kids have got. It cost your neighbors around $8,000.

As one of the men said in a speech, you got in eight hours what you couldn't have done by yourself—for any kind of money—in less than five years.

No wonder you said you were grateful.

WTCC Revenue Plan Outlined

ABILENE, Aug. 19 (Special)—Additional revenues for cities and counties in West Texas would be made available if the next session of the Texas legislature passes an enabling act proposed by the Soil Conservation commission of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The act will be prepared on the assumption that HJR 24 will be passed as a constitutional amendment at the general election in November.

It provides for repeal of the present 30 cent ad valorem state tax and making it possible for the counties to relevy the same amount within the county for farm-to-market road and flood control purposes.

Provisions Explained

Under the program adopted by the WTCC group, the enabling act will contain provisions which will make a part of this money available to the municipalities for flood control and water improvement projects. The remainder would be divided equally between flood control and farm-to-market road work in the county. The committee is working on the assumption that flood control means keeping excess waters out of the streams and on the land, and therefore soil conservation work can be carried out with these funds.

The bill also will provide that soil conservation work can be carried on within the county in supplementation to and in cooperation with existing services, such as the Soil Conservation service. Soil Conservation districts and the extension service. FM road work would be carried out in cooperation with the State Highway department.

The group is headed by Charles C. Thompson, Colorado City banker and land owner; Sterling Williams, Scurry county rancher; J. G. Nisbett, Moore county business man and farmer, and W. R. Humphrey, Fort Worth editor and active soil conservation proponent.

Division Of Funds Favored

In a broad declaration of principles the group favored a division of funds, which would be made available by a county wide vote, to permit the municipalities of a county to receive one-third of the revenue received within the city limits, based on county valuation, for its flood control work. This would afford a new source of revenue for a municipality, which is not now available.

It was pointed out that with the passage of HJR 24 as a constitutional amendment, it will be necessary for the legislature to pass an enbaling act which will permit the counties to relevy the 30 cent tax. Each county then will be required to authorize this passage by its vote, before the law can be put into effect.

This enabling act will be sponsored by the WTCC and will be offered in the legislature by Sterling Williams, according to General Manager D. A. Bandeen.

"At our referendum meeting last November, this committee was set up with this definite program and it has now been activated," Bandeen said.

Numerous Former Residents Of East Europe Seeking New Homes

By J. M. ROBERTS, Jr.
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON—Sweden has her "little" Kosenkina case, Britain may have a bunch of "satellite" Kosenkina cases as an aftermath of the Olympic games, and others are likely to develop as Russia gets her repatriation program into high gear.

Close observers here are beginning to watch the situation as a possible clue to important Russian policy rather than as a manifestation of a mere desire to prevent anti-Communist testimony from within the family.

Pose Threat To Soviets

They are speculating whether Russia has definitely decided that the two worlds cannot live together, even for a period of truce, and whether every former resident of the Communist sphere, except necessary and carefully screened secret and diplomatic agents, is considered a potential informant against her in either cold or hot war.

I find no one who thinks the closing of Communist schools and withdrawal of Russian families from around the world means that Russia is about to launch any atom bombs. But Russia is being heckled more and more by her own offspring who have been converted to westernism or fallen for a life of freedom from want and fear.

They are the worst enemies her infiltrationists can have.

And, of course, they are also potential informants of military importance.

Reds Put On Pressure

Ever since the war Russia has been trying to get back former residents, of both the USSR and the satellites. A great and rather mysterious campaign was conducted among the many white Russians in the Far East. These people who fled the Red terror of early revolutionary days have been enticed in many ways. Some of them fell for it.

I met a girl here who is among many athletes from behind the curtain — Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Yugoslavia—who are refusing to return home after the Olympics.

Some of them are even placing their families in jeopardy. The girl is staying with Americans who formerly lived in Prague. She will wait until the British start checking on her passport, and then throw herself on their mercy. She will not be turned down.

Color research men relate that color definitely possesses energy to make us feel warm or cold, happy or depressed.

First Oil Discovery In U. S. Made Over 320 Years Ago

CUBA, N. Y. Aug. 19 (U.P.)—This year marks the 321st anniversary of the finding of an oil spring in North America.

The first written record of petroleum's discovery on this continent, seven years after the Pilgrims landed in New England, mentions the Cuba Lake oil spring.

A Franciscan missionary discovered and recorded the then mysterious "pool which could be set afire," as it was described by the Seneca Indians.

Friar Joseph de la Roche d'Allion, a missionary from France, visited the spring on July 18, 1627, and in a letter telling of his travels, mentioned discovering "a very good oil."

He wrote that the Indians at first treated the stick fluid with superstitious reverence. Later they discovered its valuable medicinal properties and for many years it was found on the patent medicine shelves labeled "Seneca Oil."

MYSTERY SOLVED

FORT WORTH, Tex. (U.P.) —An American Legion member asked himself where he would go if he were a legion recruiting booth, and received the answer "nowhere." So, the missing legion booth was discovered after inquiry disclosed a nearby construction crew inadvertently picked up the booth, which had collapsed from high winds, and added it to their materials.

RANCHER AND FORMER SHERIFF STATES HOW RETONGA GAVE RELIEF

MR. ED. CUSTER

Widely - Known Texas Citizen Was Elected To Office 10 Straight Years. His Wife Also Praises Famous Gastric Tonic For Gratifying Relief It Brought Her.

"Retonga was just the medicine my wife and I needed," declares Mr. Ed Custer, widely-known sheep rancher and farmer, of RFD No. 1, Knippa, Texas, Uvalde County. Mr. Custer was elected sheriff of Edwards County for 10 straight years, and lived in that county most of his life, where he still owns ranch land. He gratefully continues:

"My wife felt so weakened and run-down that man days she could hardly stay up long enough to cook a meal. She was jittery and on edge so that it was almost impossible for her to get a restful night's sleep. Her appetite was very poor and she was bothered with distress or sour stomach and gas pains. I suffered the same tormenting distresses, so I know how badly she felt. We both had to rely on strong laxatives for constipation. Some days I felt so worn-out I could hardly stay on my feet. And many are the times I've gotten out of bed feeling too worn out to stay the day.

"We found out that this roots, herbs and barks medicine was just what we needed. The relief Retonga has brought us has been fine. We have good appetites, enjoy our food, and no longer suffer as we did after eating. We both sleep good and get up feeling fresh and rested. No longer do we have to rely on strong laxatives for relief. Anyone suffering as we did should certainly try Retonga. My wife and I are both glad to recommend this splendid medicine."

The active ingredients of Retonga are purely herbal, combined with Vitamin B-1. Retonga is intended to relieve distress due to insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, loss of appetite, borderline Vitamin B-1 deficiency, and constipation. Accept no substitute—insist on the original. You can get Retonga at all good drug stores, including Mark Halsey Drug Stores.—Adv.

Indiana Family, With 14 Members, Decides Bus Needed For Transportation Problem

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Aug. 19 (U.P.) — Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Tippmann had so many children they didn't know what to do about transportation, so they bought a bus.

"The family bus" is no idle expression around the 14-member Tippmann household because that is just exactly what it is, a cross between a school bus and a Greyhound bus.

The 12 little Tippmanns call it a "bouse" because it's neither a bus nor a house—it's both. Three seasons out of the year it takes them on week-end excursions to lakes, to state parks or to exhibit their three western riding horses.

Tippmann, 39, and his wife, Mary, 41, tried every way to get all their children into the family sedan, but they just didn't fit.

Father Resourceful

Feeding and clothing 12 children have made Tippmann resourceful. He bought a new bus chassis and took it to a body factory to get a custom built body.

The result was "the bouse," with three doors, one of them like the usual bus door at the right of the driver.

Every Sunday, Tippmann loads the living room davenport, three chairs, two mattresses and a card table into "the bouse." Mrs. Tippmann packs enough food for 14 people. The little Tippmanns queue up to the bus.

Then, they take off for the day. Jermone, 3, Dennis, 2, and Virginia, 1, are usually asleep before "the bouse" rolls back into town Sunday nights.

During the fall and winter months "the bouse" will be at the disposal of Mary Ann, 16, Laurence, Jr., 15, and Donald, 13. Instead of the living room furniture they'll load bales of hay into the back and cover them with blankets.

Football Games Too

Tippmann will take them and 25 or 30 of their friends to football games.

"We want our children to have all the fun and recreation we can give them. Having a big family is no excuse for neglecting them," Mrs. Tippmann said.

The other Tippmanns include Joseph, 11, Bob, 10, and Gene, 9.

Tippmann is in the refrigerator business, but to support his family he has a "few sidelines."

He carries a paper route on Sunday mornings. After office hours on weekdays he loads a spray-painting outfit onto the bus and rolls over the countryside painting houses and barns.

Even so, Tippmann contended that his weekends were more strenous than his weeks.

"But we have so much fun with the kids that I wouldn't think of staying home," he said.

Gang Warfare Boils Again In Los Angeles; One Man Killed

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19. (INS)—Mickey Cohen, dark-jowled gambling czar, and three of his henchmen were set free today after giving authorities precisely no information on last night's renewal of Los Angeles gang warfare.

The four were jailed on a nominal charge of suspicion of murder after the rub-out of Cohen's right-hand man, Harry (Hooky) Rothman, an ex-convict from Sing Sing.

The shooting occurred in a new Sunset strip building in which Cohen plans to set up a swank haberdashery and barber shop.

Two Others Injured

Two trigger men, one armed with a shotgun and the other with a .38, walked into the place last night and began raking it with gunfire.

Rothman was dropped as he made a break from what had suddenly become a death chamber. He was found dead on the sidewalk outside, on Palm avenue.

Two other of Cohen associates came through with their lives, but shot up. Albert (Slick) Snyder, 37, is in the prison ward of the general hospital with a shattered shoulder and arm.

A part of the ear of James E. Rist, 35, was shot off.

Cohen and his three aides were rounded up not as suspects, but in the hope that they might supply information that would lead to the capture of the killers. In fact, one of those jailed was one of the victims of the shooting—Rist.

Others Also Released

They were released just as Cohen's lawyer was preparing to go into court to "spring" them with a writ of Habeas Corpus.

Set free with the gambling overlord were Sol Davis, Meyer Horowitz and Rist. Snyder is still being held, in the hospital, as a material witness.

The swarthy gambler flatly told investigators that he didn't intend to tell them anything. He commented during the course of being questioned for hours that "it looks like they are out to get me."

Asked who "they" were, he declared:

"I don't know right now, but as soon as you let me out of jail I ought to know, say, in a couple of hours anyway. But I won't tell you."

Cohen himself narrowly missed Rothmans fate. He was in the wash room when the spraying of lethal lead began, his life probably saved by a quaint eccentricity. The gambler gave this account of his escape:

"I was just lucky on account of I like to wash my hands right after I shake hands or use the telephone. So I was washing my hands right when the gunmen came in."

Cohen had just shaken hands with Rothman and the others and had retired to the wash room when the triggermen, who had virtually tailed them to the place, walked in.

Harris County Man Wants Thief To Return Windmill

HOUSTON, Aug. 19.—(U.P.)—E. H. Levy wants that thief to bring back his windmill.

He reported to the sheriff's office today that someone had made off with his windmill. He isn't sure just how, but he supposes it must have been taken down in sections.

It seems that Levy has been renting some Harris county property for 15 years. When the owner sold the property recently, Levy went to retrieve his windmill, which had vanished.

Places Of Eight Amendments On Ballot Determined At Drawing

AUSTIN, Aug. 19. (U.P.) — The places eight constitutional amendments will occupy on the Nov. 2 general election ballot were drawn from a hat today in the secretary of state's office.

Paul Brown, secretary of state, pulled the numbers of the amendments, passed by the 50th legislature, out of the hat in the presence of the governor and the attorney general's office and four newspapermen.

Drawing Required By Law

The drawing is required by law when more than one amendment to the state constitution is submitted to popular vote.

Seven of the amendments to be voted on by the people originated in the House of Representatives and one in the Senate.

Actually, the 50th legislature last year submitted nine amendments for popular vote. But one, the college building amendment, was approved at a special election on Aug. 23, 1947.

Present at the short drawing in addition to Brown were William L. McGill, the governor's executive secretary; Fagan Dickson, first assistant attorney general, and Kirk Mallory, assistant secretary of state.

Insurance Plan Leads

The order of amendments drawn by Brown and in which they will appear on the ballot at the general election is:

1. To authorize counties to set up a system of workmen's compensation insurance.

2. To set up a redistricting board to reapportion the state's legislative districts if the legislature fails to do so following a federal census.

3. To permit husband and wife to partition their community property.

4. To authorize the next legislature to set up a succession to the governorship in the event of death of the governor-elect, avoiding occurrence in Texas of the Georgia case.

5. To preserve the $3,000 homestead exemption from ad valorem taxation.

6. To put county officers in counties under 20,000 population on a salary basis instead of their present fee basis, thus putting county officers in all counties of the state off salaries.

7. To abolish the state ad valorem tax for state general revenue purposes after Jan. 1, 1951, and allow counties to levy up to 30 cents per $100 property valuation, and maintaining the $3,000 residential homestead exemption.

8. To set up a retirement system for judges.

Indiana Editor Has Reasons For Missing Weekly Deadline

WILLIAMSPORT, Ind., Aug. 19 (U.P.)—The weekly Williamsport Review-Republican went to press a day late.

Herbert Cripe, the editor, and his wife were moving into their newly-built home when the stork left them a six-pound boy.

Mrs. Cecile T. Odle, Mrs. Cripe's mother died.

Cripe motored to a distant hospital to inform his wife's father of the death. On his way, the automobile was in a wreck and was badly damaged.

More Horse Meat Is Found At Houston

HOUSTON, Aug. 19 (U.P.) — Houstonians are still eating horse meat, Dr. Fred K. Laurentz, city health officer, revealed today.

He said three samples of meat sent to Austin for identification had proven to be horse meat.

The samples came from a cafe and retail grocery in the Riverside area, he said, adding that charges would be filed against the wholesaler "as soon as possible." He said the wholesaler is not one of the dealers previously indicted by the grand jury in connection with the horse meat scandal.

Laurentz said three state inspectors have been recruited to aid three city inspectors and that all parts of the city are being checked with renewed vigor. He added that 114 samples already have been taken this week, more than has been taken during any previous week.

Report Lubbock Woman Is Kidnap Victim Proves False

A report broadcast over state and police radio waves here yesterday at 11:15 a. m. that a 28-year-old Lubbock woman had been kidnapped was dispelled 43 minutes later by alleged victim.

The blue-eyed, 120-pound woman, it was explained, was located after officials were informed that she probably had been abducted by a 38-year-old Lubbock man who was believed en route to New Mexico in a large automobile.

A police detective said he understood that the man had told the woman he would not let her out at her place of employment — but that was about all. The woman declined to sign a complaint, he said. No other details were available.

Illinois Supreme Court Asked To Put Progressives On Ballot

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 19. (INS)—The progressive party asked the Illinois supreme court today to take jurisdiction in its fight to have its candidates placed on the Cook county ballot in the November election.

Specifically, the third party petitioned the high court to reverse a first district appellate court ruling.

The appellate court suspended a Cook county circuit court judgement of June 8 which ordered election commissioners to place the names of Progressives on the ballot.

The supreme court, by allowing the party to file its petition today, insured a hearing of the case during the regular session next month.

Cotton

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP)—Cotton futures were irregular in moderately active dealings today.

Prices were lower in early trading, partly influenced by a break in grains, but later recovered partially on short covering and trade buying.

Futures closed 25 to 60 cents a bale higher than the previous close.

MARKET GAINS GROUND

NEW YORK, Aug. 19. (AP)—Demand for steel issues stiffened the stock market today following news of what might be a revolutionary industrial process.

Total sales of 580,000 shares rated the day as one of the slowest in the past four years.

The development of a process for continuous casting of steel was announced by Republic Steel Corp. and Babcock and Wilcox Tube Co.

U. S. Steel gained nearly a point at 77⅝. Up a point or more were Bethlehem 36½, Republic 29¼, Youngstown Sheet 81, and Armco 29⅝.

Issues closing higher included Southern Pacific, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, Woolworth, Boeing, Electric Power and Light, Air Reduction, Johns-Manville, International Paper, Standard Oil (NJ).

Lower were Goodrich, J. I. Case, Western Union, Cerro De Pasco, General Electric, Philip Morris, U. S. Gypsum, and Gulf Oil.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Aug. 19 (AP)—Grains made a recovery in late dealings today, reducing or completely cancelling early losses. The rally was led by September corn, which spurted a few cents above the previous close on active short covering.

However, the bulk of the market had a weak undertone. July wheat broke more than 7 cents at one time to a new seasonal low and was not able to get back much of the lost ground.

An early sell-off sent all lard and soymean, as well as December and May corn contracts, to new seasonal lows. The new crop corn deliveries did not follow the late upturn in the September month. Oats made small gains most of the day.

Wheat closed 6 cents lower at 1¼ higher, September $2.21½-⅝, corn was ⅝ lower to 2⅞ higher, September $1.64-$1.64⅝, oats were ⅛-⅝ higher, September 72⅝-¾.

German Police Raid Prevents Religious Slaying Of Children

HAMBURG, Germany, Aug. 19 (AP)—Police in Oldenburg said today they raided a frenzied German religious meeting just in time to stop the secrificial slaying of two children.

The raid was made yesterday at a village near Oldenburg. Officers said the children were lashed to chairs and were to be slaughtered as human sacrifices.

Fourteen members of the sect were arrested. The father of the children was described as the group leader.

"Everlasting prayers" had been going on since Saturday and were to continue until Monday when the cultists expected the world to end. Police said the children were to be sacrificed to prevent the sounding of the last trumpet.
