FOUR STATES BARRED IN ARCHER ROAD SUIT

Liquor Still Being Operated At State Prison, Woman Charges

MRS. R. E. KING SAYS TEXAS IS BREWING BOOZE

Conditions Ate Improving, However, She Tells Convention

GUARDS ARE BUYING IT

She Gets Letter From East Texas Telling All About It

SAN ANTONIO, March 1.—(AP) Conditions at Texas prison farms, although vastly improved since four years ago, are generally deplorable and at one of them a huge still is operated by the superintendent, Mrs. J. E. King, prominent prison welfare worker, charged today.

Mrs. King, who is chairman of the supervisory board of the state prison system, addressed the San Antonio ministerial alliance.

She said she had received this morning a letter from a man whom she knew to be veracious saying that liquor is being made at a prison farm in east Texas and being dispensed to convicts and guards, as well as persons outside the institution.

Reforms Achieved.

Many reforms have been achieved in the state's penal institutions, Mrs. King said, but there still was brutal treatment by guards and a lack of medical attention for the prisoners, while stealing of food stuffs was "going on continually."

Explaining the alleged leniency toward convicts shown by Governor Miriam Ferguson, Mrs. King said the woman executive had granted only 232 full pardons since assumed office last year, while there were more than a thousand cases dealing with state prisoners, many of them consisted of restoration of citizenship and others were conditional pardons, identical with paroles in other states. Mrs. King pointed out that whereas in most commonwealths a person automatically regains his citizenship upon release from prison, he cannot do so in Texas without the governor's action which follows many formalities.

Mellon, Andrews At Odds Over Law

Father, Confessed British Spy and Repentent of His Sins, Races With Executioner's Grim Noose to Gain Son's Forgiveness Before Latter Mounts the Gallows

All England Watching Tribich Lincoln's Spectacular Sprint From Orient to London To Have One Last Word With Condemned Boy Who Dies On Scaffold Tuesday Morning for Murdering Man

LONDON, March 1.—(AP)—All England is watching with intense interest the race against time which Tribich Lincoln, former British member of parliament and self-confessed spy, is making in his effort to reach England from the Orient before the execution of his son, Ignatius, whose forgiveness the father has sought for his mode of life.

The son's execution for the murder of Edward Richards last Christmas eve, is set for tomorrow morning at Shepton Mallet, Somerset. The father reached Paris today from Marseilles in time to catch the boat train for England. He is due to arrive this evening but it will be a close matter for him to reach his son in time.

The spy has been granted a three day stay in England to fulfill his mission and it is intimated that the home secretary may even postpone the execution one day if he does not arrive in time.

Tribich is reported to have written to his son:

"My sins seem to have been visited on your head and I pray you will forgive me before you die. If I had been a better father this might not have happened, and I am filled with a terrible regret for my past."

Ignatius' mother and sweetheart visited him in his cell this afternoon for a touching farewell.

Crowe, Dineen And Others Shown at Gangster's Banquet

Tribune Prints Picture.

One of the pictures was printed by the Chicago Tribune today and was a reproduction of the speakers' table at the banquet referred to in the petition presented to the senate Saturday by Vice President Dawes. It showed Mr. Crowe, Secretary of State Emerson, Lieutenant Governor Sterling and other state and municipal officials seated at the table.

Friends of the state's attorney pointed out that several representatives of the opposing faction headed by Senator Deneen, were also in the photograph and a second one circulated of a party given in 1925 by "Diamond Joe" Esjosito, Italian leader and alleged bootlegger showed Senator Deneen and others as guests.

1,000 TRAVEL WITH GRENFELL

Many Turn Out to Hear Famed Speaker Reveal Labrador's Wonders

A thousand Wichitans, including men, women and children, went with Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfel, medical missionary, Arctic explorer and author in his address "Down the the Sea in Ships" last night at the Junior college auditorium where for two hours he talked, telling of the wonders of the Labrador country and illustrating his lecure with remarkable colored slides and moving pictures.

He came to this city to lecture under the auspices of the Wichita Falls Teachers' Association with the co-operation of the Woman's Forum.

Ice Bound Ships.

Ice bound ships, cold winter weather, short summer months when tall pines and fir bend their green branches over swiftly running streams, bright colored lichens that are brilliant for only a short time in their lives upon the rocks, innumerable waterfalls rivaling Niagara, a country of fearless people, fishers the most part, and hunters, men and women with their trials and troubles—that is Labrador.

In 1892, Dr. Grenfel went cruising and crossed the Atlantic, then on the coast of Labrador he saw where he might render a service to mankind, there, since that time, he has been spending a great part of his life.

Hospitals have been built where people may be treated; radios have helped in recent years to bring that land in contact with the outside world; much has been done to help Labrador from 1892 to 1926.

Dr. J. W. Cantwell, city superintendent of schools made a brief talk prior to the main address of the evening. Dean S. H. Rider of Junior college, in the absence of Professor A. K. Presson, president of the Teachers' association, introduced Dr. Grenfel.

COPPER KINGS TOLD TO GIVE MINER HIS DUE

Desert Wanderer to Wrest Millions in Tribute From Smelters

HIS PATENT SUSTAINED

Sandy Haired Westerner Is Victor in 9-Year Trek Through Courts

SAN FRANCISCO, March 1.—(AP)—George Campbell Carson, copper miner and desert wanderer who has looked up at the stars many nights from a bed of sand for want of a better couch, was placed in a position by the United States circuit court here today to receive a fortune of millions from the American Smelting and Refining company for alleged infringement upon a patent.

Every court into which the sandy-haired miner has brought his case has sustained him, the list including the United States supreme court. The company sought to try the case all over again on new grounds but the circuit court said today that the book of Carson's legal troubles was closed and that he should be given his due.

Patent Infringements.

The case concerned improvements and refinements in the side-charging of reverberatory furnaces used for smelting copper ore. The patent process greatly facilitated the work. The smelting companies adopted the process, Carson said, without giving himself or his patent credit. He demanded satisfaction. They told him that they were using a process patented in Dollar Bay, Mich., to which they had a right. Carson carried on the fight for nine years without weapons or resources to begin with other than a native simplicity of speech and manner and a few blue prints and etchings. The United States district court of the state of Washington favored him with an imposing judgment. The circuit court upheld the district court. The supreme court upheld the circuit court. There are suits pending against other smelting companies, but the action was decided was the key suit.

Nation Erred On Prohibition Law

J. C. Mytinger

"After eight years observation of prohibition, I am convinced that the passage of the national prohibition amendment and laws at the time was a mistake.

This is the view of J. C. Mytinger, president of the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce and one of the most prominent of the business men of the city.

He was asked to contribute the second of a series of interviews on prohibtion, not because of his known pronounced views in favor of prohibition policies, but because he is generally recognized as one of the leaders in wichita Falls' business life.

"Briefly stated, my reply to the question, 'Has prohibition been a success?' would be that economically, it has been a success and morally, it has apparently been a failure to date," Mr. Mytinger says.

"The passing of the old-time corner saloon certainly has removed the temptation to the working man to spend his weekly pay check for liquor; drinking on the part of the working masses has been largely eliminated. Increased savings deposits in our banks and greatly improved standards of living for the families of industrial workers bear eloquent tribute to the efficacy of prohibition. Undoubtedly, there is less drinking now than before prohibition became effective; an intoxicated man is rarely seen in public, whereas prior to prohibition, this was a very ordinary and usual sight.

"On the other hand, there is unquestionably new much more drinking among women and children than existed before prohibition. This condition I do not charge altogether to conditions arising from prohibition, but rather to a general moral let-down following the war. Due to that inexplainable and foolish tendency on the part of many people to desire that thing which is prohibited and to vent their disapproval of regulation of their personal habits or liberties by law, many men who probably never took a drink before prohibition, now eagerly accept any opportunity to drink.

American Homes Mainly to Blame

"In my opinion, the chief cause of the wide-spread drinking among young people today, is the failure of our American homes to maintain the standards established by our fathers and mothers and their fathers and mothers. Violation of the laws of our land are the natural and certain consequence of the failure of home discipline.

"After eight years of observation of prohibition, I am convinced that the passage of a national prohibition law at the time was a mistake—that the country was not yet ready for it, and that it would have been better to continue the plan of local option through educational campaigns. I believe that ultimately every section of our country would have voluntarily accepted prohibition.

"From the time of the passage and ratification of the prohibition act, it has been ridiculed and made light of on the stage, on the picture screen and in the columns of the press of the country. Seemingly, a vast number of our people, if not the majority, not only have had no respect for this law, but have seemed to think it was the "smart" thing to do to violate it openly and flagrantly. The utter disregard and contempt for this law, in my judgment, has tended to inspire an alarming lack of respect for all laws. The criminal dockets of our court bear ample and tragic witness to this fact.

Need Religion to Improve Things

"As a remedy for the present deplorable situation, I hold with Roger Babson and the editor of the Manufacturer's Record that the thing most needed by our country is an old-fashioned revival of prayer meeting religion. Apparently, comparatively little organized effort has been made on the part of the new advocates of respect for all laws to counteract the continuous and aggressive campaign of prohibition. A moral awakening of our people to the fact that the prohibition law is the law of our land, and that if this law is upheld and enforced, we need not expect any of our laws to be respected, will in my opinion, definitely turn the tide. Reverence for all laws of the country should be emphasized in every home, from every pulpit and from every school. There are many things that could be said as to failure of our courts and officers to properly function in the enforcement of this law, but it finally comes back to the fact that when the people want this law enforced, and will co-operate in the enforcement of it, our courts and officers will function effectively."

"I have reached the conclusion that perhaps national prohibition was thrust upon the country before it was ready for it. It might have been wiser if it had been allowed to go the way it was going, adopted by the counties and the states and by the people as they thought themselves ready for it."

This is an excerpt from the interview granted by Judge John C. Kay to a Record News representative on the prohibition question. It will appear in full in Wednesday morning's Record News.

WALL ST. CUTS LAME STOCKS

Speculative Accounts Carried to Extremes Bring a Violent Decline

NEW YORK, March 1.—(AP)—Speculative markets—stocks, grain and cotton—broke to new low levels for the year today in one of the most drastic shake-outs of impaired marginal accounts in recent months.

Stocks slumped one to 15 points despite the fact that banking support, running into the millions of dollars had been provided before the opening to take care of over extended speculative groups in three stocks—American Brake Shoe and Foundry, Foundation company and New York Canners—which had sustained violent declines in Saturday's brief session. Total stock sales ran over two and one-half million shares, the largest of any session this year.

Wheat Sell Off

Wheat futures sold off 3 3-4 to 6 1-2 cents a bushel, the May option closing at $1.50 as against a high of 1.85 1-2 in the closing days of last year. Other grains yielded in sympathy. Cotton closed 24 to 32 points net lower with all the options, except March, in new low ground for the season, and contracts for December delivery selling below 17 cents a pound.

While the drastic nature of the decline in stock prices gave rise to all kinds of rumors Wall street generally was inclined to look upon it as a "weeding out" of speculative accounts which had been carried to extremes.

WURZBACH TO GET PARTY AX

Republicans Peeved at Congressman's Stand In Capitol

SAN ANTONIO, March 1.—(AP). It was the unanimous opinion of the 100 men and women, leaders in the republican party in the 14th congressional district, who attended a conference here today, that Congressman Harry M. Wurzbach should have opposition within the party, should be announce his candidacy for re-election, R B. Creager of Brownsville, national committeeman from Texas, said tonight.

"Only the men and women republicans of this district can say who the candidate will be, and while, during the course of our conference today, a number of men were mentioned as excellent congressional material, I refrain from mentioning any," Creager said.

"All were of the same opinion, that Wurzbach will be defeated in November by the democratic nominee should he be designated to carry the republican banner again."

The court took the motions under advisement and is expected to announce next Monday whether it will review its decision holding that the district involved in the litigation had been illegally organized. The decision was construed as invalidating large amounts of road district bonds not only in Texas but also in other states where road district had been organized under conditions broadly similar to those which the supreme court pronounced unconstitutional in the Archer county case.

HEINEN WORKS FOR $6 A DAY

Dirigible Expert Now in Surveying Business To Make Living

TOMS RIVER, N. J., March 1.—(AP)—Captain Anton Heinen, former German dirigible expert, construction engineer of the Shenandoah and hero of that craft's battle with a storm in January, 1924, when winds tore her loose from her mooring mast at Lake Hurst is working as a surveyor here at $6 a day.

Mrs. Heinen, discussing her husband's new vocation said that it was a matter of "starve or work."

Captain Heinen's connections with the government were served in July, 1924. He then organized a company to operate a line of dirigibles between New York and South America. When the Shenandoah was wrecked last September confidence in this mode of transportation was shaken and, according to Captain Heinen it was decided to proceed no further until the Los Angeles, sister ship of the Shenandoah, had proved her worth.

National Education Convention Is Best Ever, Cantwell Says

"The national meeting of school superintendents and principals recently held in Washington, D. C., is conceded by those who have gone for years to similar conventions to be the best from any point of view," Dr. J. W. Cantwell, city superintendent of schools, said in speaking of the convention in the capital city from which he has just returned.

"The program itself was unusually strong in numbers and characters. The speakers were the very ablest the country has. One good part of it all, the program was carried out on time, and everyone on the program appeared," and Dr Cantwell said he attended all the chief meeting of the convention.

Best Exhibits Ever.

In speaking of the school exhibits, including supplies for departments of schools, every sort of help and appliances, Dr. Cantwell said they were the best ever held.

"The setting of the convention made the meeting attractive and instructive to the teacher, and furnished a great deal to study outside the program."

As the only unfavorable feature of the national convention, Dr. Cantwell mentioned the fact that it was so large that it was unwieldy. "On the night the president addressed the convention, six thousand heard him, and there were hundreds who were turned away. Admittance was granted only by ticket, and the people of Washington were not allowed tickets."

An interesting phase of the meeting to teachers was the schools of Washington were thrown open as a demonstration to the visitors. How to manage sub-normal children, taking care of tuberculars, taking care of those children in poor health, methods in getting away from rigid classification, all those and others in demonstration of the most modern equipment and improved methods were shown the teachers in the Washington schools.

"Teachers interested in any phase of education could find it demonstrated in some school."

Entertainment was also furnished the convention by the Army and Marine bands. Every meeting was opened by some band from the army or navy, Dr. Cantwell said in the interview.

President's Address.

"The president's address was a masterpiece on George Washington, not only as a patriot, soldier, and statesman, but his attitude also toward public education.

"He beautifully sidestepped all current issues, and probably disappointed some of those who wished him to speak on other questions.

"Mrs. Coolidge accompanied President Coolidge, and their appearance brought round after round of applause. They appeared happy to be present at the occasion as well as the teachers."

Probably the most outstanding piece of legislation that has been pushed by the national organization is the creating of a department of education, coordinate with the other departments, the department of state, department of war, department of the navy, department of the postoffice, it was said.

"Teachers of the nation want such a department created and there is now a bill pending in congress for its creation."

Returning with Dr. Cantwell from the national convention were Miss Bessie Stewart, Miss Kate Burgess, R. A. Jarrott, and Burl Bryant.

GALVESTON, March 1.—(AP)—Texas manufacturing interests are hampered by a practical monopoly on imports through New Orleans, witnesses told Examiner I. L. Koch today in the New Orleans rate relationship case. Five witnesses in the afternoon session supported the Texas ports stand in the case and declared that Texas shippers are handicapped by preferential rates from New Orleans on imports of molasses and cotton bagging.

An extra session was necessary tonight in order to complete the hearing tomorrow. The case will move to Dallas Wednesday.

Witnesses in the afternoon session today were F. A. Farda, manager of the Standard Rice company, Houston; F. J. Daugherty, Houston steamship agent; C. G. Chamberlain, Ludlow Manufacturing company, Ludlow, Mass.; R. W. Archer, molasses manufacturer of Houston, and F. W. Parker, of Texas City.

GOOD HEALTH NECESSARY

Many Busy Women Owe Their Health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fifty years ago there were few occupations for women. Some taught school, some did housework, some found work to do at home and a few took up nursing.

Today there are very few occupations not open to women. Today they work in great factories with hundreds of other women and girls. There are also women architects, lawyers, dentists, executives, and legislators. But all too often a woman wins her economic independence at the cost of her health.

Mrs. Elizabeth Chamberlain who works in the Unionall factory making overalls writes, that she got "wonderful results" from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Chamberlain lives at 500 Monmouth St., Trenton, N. J. She recommends the Vegetable Compound to her friends in the factory and will gladly answer any letters she gets from women asking about it.

They Seek to Put Wrist Watch On Statue of Liberty

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(AP). Application of the three Lazarus brothers of New York, sons of Swiss immigrants, to place a watch about the wrist of the upraised arm of the Statute of Liberty was taken under advisement today at the war department but with indications that it would not be granted.

The question was submitted to Major Frank Cheatham, quartermaster general of the army for a recommendation to the secretary of war.

The latter however, it is believed will hold that approval of the application would lead inevitably to future complications once the present mode of dress and decoration of the statute was altered.

Indications point to much opposition in the department to any change in the statute.

Hoffman Suits Still Hang Fire

AUSTIN, March 1.—(AP)—Negotiations for settlement of the state's $421,000 suit against the Hoffman Construction company are still pending. Conferences held between R. L. Batts, attorney for the company, Judge George Calhoun of the 53rd district court and Attorney General Dan Moody, were terminated when Moody became ill and had to return to his bed, where he had been confined since Saturday.

DEATH PENALTY FOR 2 NEGROES

Slayers of Dallas Cop Plead Guilty and Get The Chair

DALLAS, March 1.—(AP)—Sentences of death in the electric chair were imposed on S. A. and "Snap" Robinson, negro brothers, who plead guilty in simultaneous trials here today to the murder of C. M. Isbell, Dallas motorcycle officer, whom they confessed to shooting from an automobile load of joy riding negroes Feb. 4.

Only two minutes were required for a verdict in the S. A. Robinson case while the trial of his brother was almost as brief. There was no threat of violence.

Isbell's widow, a bride of five months was one of the witnesses in the S. A. Robinson case.

The state's main testimony was from Officer Wofford, Isbell's riding partner, who said he saw Isbell chasing a red car, and heard him order the driver to the curb. A shot came a moment later and Isbell fell from his motorcycle, he said.

Burkett Working For Klan Flogger

AUSTIN, March 1.—(AP)—Joe Burkett of Abilene, today conferred with members of the attorney general's department in an effort to have part of the record of the Murray Jackson case from Williamson county diminished before filing it before the supreme court of the United States.

Burkett estimates that 90 per cent of the record can be eliminated which would save his client $2,000. Jackson was convicted in the noted ku klux klan and R. W. Burleson case in 1923 which Attorney General Dan Moody prosecuted.

AUTO VICTIM BURIED

The boy and his father were struck by Wiley's automobile as they walked behind a wagon loaded with oil well supplies, en route home on the Prairie Oil and Gas farm lease near here. The elder Chambers sustained only minor injuries.

Insurance Company Name Is Attached

SAN ANTONIO, March 1.—(AP) The Texas Life Insurance company with headquarters in Waco today filed suit in 45th district court asking that the Texas State Life Insurance company of San Antonio be restrained from using the name. It was contended the names were confusing.

The petition alleges that the Texas Life Insurance company was organized January 9, 1901 and has been continuously in business since. The Texas State Life Insurance company was recently organized in San Antonio and adopted the name after protests had been made by the older company, it was argued.

Unearth Murder Plot to Obtain Man's Insurance

MRS. C. A. LISENBURY

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 1.—Because her husband, Charles A. Lisenbury, 41-year-old iron molder, who earns a $40 weekly salary, spent all of his money on insurance premiums, his wife, Ellen, a cripple, plotted his death, O. V. King, detective, charged when he placed her under arrest.

The second husband murder plot here within a few days created a sensation, but the Lisenbury case is a marked contrast to the Edward L. Frank case revealed a few days ago, in that there is no triangle love affair.

Detective King alleges that Mrs. Lisenbury sought to have her husband killed in a motor car accident so she might collect $50,000 life insurance be carried. Negotiations for the plot, according to the police, were opened when Mrs. Lisenbury wrote a letter to an Italian underworld character, who turned the letter over to the chief of detectives, Lincoln D. Toyne.

O. V. KING

The latter assigned Detective King to the case. King posed as the underworld character and says Mrs. Lisenbury offered to pay $5,000 reward for the murder of her husband.

When King demanded advance cash for use as evidence, Mrs. Lisenbury said that she could not give him any, the detective asserts.

"He spends all his money on insurance premiums," she is alleged to have told King "He's worth more dead than alive."

C. A. LISENBURY

King says the only motive she advanced was that she desired the life insurance so she could obtain better medical attention for herself and so she could bring Ruth Grace Jackson, 9-year-old niece, into her home.

Lisenbury declines to prosecute. However, he says he will see that his insurance is canceled.

"I carried a lot of insurance to protect her in the event something happened to me," said Lisenbury. "But if that is the way she feels about it I'll cancel all of it."

DENY CLAIMS OF VAN ZANDT

Fort Worth Loses Plea In Supreme Court On Bowie Case

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(AP). The supreme court dismissed today for failure to file in time, the appeal of the United States brought to set aside a judgment awarded to Khlester M. Van Zandt and the Fort Worth, Texas, chamber of commerce for damages to property owned by Van Zandt which has been leased to the government for military purposes in connection with activities at Camp Bowie.

The government lease provided that the premises should be restored in as good condition as at the time of turning over to the government the award made by the court was to cover damages caused by the removal of trees. Motion to dismiss was based on the ground that the appeal had not been taken in the time allowed by law.

Rock Island-Frisco Merger Is Discussed

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(AP) Questions involved in a possible consolidation of the St. Louis-San Francisco and Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroads were discussed by officials of the former road today before the interstate commerce commission.

The hearing was on the specific question of giving officers of the St. Louis-San Francisco authority to hold similar offices in the Rock Island.

Edward N. Brown, a director of the St. Louis-San Francisco, said formal application for authority to merge the two lines would not be submitted until the whole consolidation situation had been clarified by the commission and a decision handed down in the Nickel Plate merger case.

WOULD MERGE BOARDS

AUSTIN, March 1.—(AP)—Consolidations of boards and commissions administering agricultural laws is demanded by agricultural commissioner George B. Terrell in announcing for re-election, subject to the action of the democratic primaries.

He declared that a saving of $63,350 was effected this fiscal year by consolidation of the markets and warehouse department with the department of agriculture, effective last September.

University Prexies Discuss Disposition Of Nelson Estate

KANSAS CITY, March 1.—(AP) The three university presidents, selected in the will of the late William R. Nelson to appoint a board of trustees to manage his estate met here today in executive session and adjourned without any announcement as to what action they would take. Much of the meeting they said, was taken up with acquainting themselves with the provisions of the will and discussing the duties before them. With the death of Mrs. Laura Nelson Kirkwood Saturday in Baltimore the property of the Nelson estate, including the Kansas City Star, is to be used, according to the terms of the will, in founding an art museum here. The Star will be sold in two years. Meanwhile, Dr. Stratton B. Brooks, president of the University of Missouri, Dr. E. H. Lindley, president of the University of Kansas, and Dr. William B. Bizzell, president of the University of Oklahoma are to appoint a board of trustees to manage and dispose of the properties.

Mrs. Kirkwood until her death acted as trustee for the estate. She was the only child of Mr. and Mrs Nelson.

REHEARING DENIED.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(AP) A rehearing in the community property case from California was denied today by the supreme court.

LIGNITE BEDS OF TEXAS

TEXAS' Ntural Resources is the title of a little pamphlet which comes to the office of the editor from John M. Spellman of Dallas, president of the society for the scientific development of the natural resources of this state. Clarence E. Gilmore is the vice president of the organization. It is a valuable pamphlet. It deals with the state's riches, developed or awaiting development.

There is a chapter devoted to lignite. The reader is told that the lignite beds of Texas range in thickness from a few inches up to fifteen or more feet, and are found from where they outcrop on the surface of the ground down to an extreme depth of over 800 feet. There, the reader is told, the large, close to the surface deposits are of sufficient magnitude to supply many billions of tons and that it will be many generations before the deeper strata will be available.

Furthermore, he is told besides its economic fuel value, there are some eighty or ninety by-products that can be distilled from lignite without appreciably injuring its fuel value. These by-products include practically all of the creosote product as well as the fast dyes now being produced by Germany from a much inferior grade of lignite.

Incidentally he is stold the supply of lignite in the known productive areas is practically inexhaustable, and it is so distributed that all of the popular sections of the state can be reached by a comparatively short haul; that billions of tons can be mined with steam shovels by the open pit method of mining, and as a consequence it can be produced in this way for a few cents per ton, and will not be subjected to the labor conditions which now beset so many other coal mining regions of America.

It is said by the research writer that modern methods of utilization have made lignite as easy and safe to handle and store as any other of our coals, something that has not been possible in past years, and when treated by certain processes, it becomes equal to, if not better than, anthracite coal. This is the conclusion of the story dealing with lignite.

It has, of course, been known for many years that certain portions of Texas were underlayed with vast beds of lignite, the major portion of which lies east of the 97th meridian, west longtitude and north of the 31st parallel north latitude, and is estimated to be spread over an area equal to 60,000 square miles, which is equal to about one-half of the known lignite area in the United States. Upwards of 30,000,000,000 tons are estimated to exist within this area. Lignite is destined to become the general as well as the stabilized fuel of a great portion of the south, and these enormous figures will some day be found to be far short of the tonnage that will ultimately be developed and utilized.

JUST BARBED WIRE

JACOB HAISH, who died the other day at the age of about 100 years, had one claim to distinction—he invented barbed wire.

Barbed wire—a small thing; yet we are told Mr. Haish is the particular individual who put teeth in a metal fence and indirectly contributed to the ongoing of civilization. It would appear that barbed wire is too insignificant even to be "invented," but perhaps we shall learn eventually who started collar buttons and cosmetics.

The principle of barbed wire is not concerned with the fourth dimension, relativity, or evolution. You twist two strands of wire and at regular intervals place a flat, pointed piece of metal between the strands, giving it a turn to make it stay where you put it. Originally these pieces were soldered upon a narrow band of metal—a long ribbon, one might say—but the principle was the same.

Anyone can see how simple is the Haish principle of barbed-wire making, but that should not detract from the man's credit; he first conceived the idea, and really started something.

In the "wide, open spaces" great herds of cattle roamed at will. The annual round-up was necessary to seperate the brands and decide which cattle belonged to what man. The small rancher and the would-be farmer began to encroach upon the ranges. It was then that the barbed wire invented by Haish became a factor in the West. There were no rail fences and no timber was available.

"Barbed wire war" ensued when the big ranchmen resorted to violence to prevent the smaller outfits from limiting the cattle ranges. The cowboy naturally avoided gates whenever possible—and hated a fence; it cramped his style—he lacerated the wild cattle which had to be taught to observe its limitations.

The six-shooter and the grim-faced cow puncher checked the introduction of barbed wire, but the delay was but momentary. Civilization was soon measured by the extent of its use, and civilization later adopted the barbed-wire barrier—in the trenches. A small invention, perhaps, but one with many consequences—just barbed wire.

A NEW HORROR OF WAR

ITALY'S recent action in forcing Austrian parents in the part of Tyrol ceded to her after the war to give their children Italian names is nothing short of a new war astrocity.

Imaging the agitation in an Austrian family, when the young pride and joy who had been basking under the staunch Teutonic name of Franz-Jospehy, would suddenly find that his name had been changed to Guglielmo! He never would seem the same boy to the family again.

If the custom spreads, an invasion by Greece or one of the other Balkan states would be fearful, while words would fail to describe the horror of an attack by Japan.

Perhaps some Patrick Henry of the future will voice the indignation of a nation against such measures in some such words: "You may drive us from our homes, you may deprive us of free government, but change the names of our children to Pellapadukio or Shimidzu—never."

TEARING UP MONEY

NOT long ago in New York City an excited crowd gathered around a gentelman who was standing at the water's edge in Battery Park and busily tearing up bank notes of large denominations.

Presently an officer came along and took the gentleman into custody, together with the few bills he had not already destroyed.

At the station house a doctor looked at the prisoner and said:

"He's crazy."

"I didn't need a doctor to tell me that," replied the policeman.

To most of us, as to the policeman nothing is more convincing evidence of an unsound mind than the deliberate destruction of money.

Which is rather queer, inasmuch as most of us, and probably the policeman as well have wasted opportunities which mean more to us than all the money this poor lunatic destroyed for the amusement of the crowd.

Every time we neglect every opportunity to make ourselves more efficient, to increase our earning power we, to all intents and purposes, tear up money.

Every time we indulge in idiotic extravagances, not recreation, or even little indulgences that we have to save to secure, but the needless squandering of money in order to impress somebody or "keep up with" somebody, we are fully as foolish as the demented gentleman arrested by the horrified policeman.

At a night club you will see many people, some of whom can well afford to be there—others who go merely for the sake of making an impression, and who always are the biggest spenders.

These people have not the excuse of insanity for tearing up their money—they are simply poor silly fools.

This is no argument in favor of being miserly. We live but once as far as we know, and it is right and proper to enjoy life as well as we can afford it.

Scrimping and saving is not good for the health of the soul.

But most highly civilized people waste far more than there is an excuse for wasting—seek pleasures which soon pall and above all constantly try to make an impression and appear important in the eyes of others by distributing money in large quantities.

These people are not what alienists would call insane.

They do not respond to any insanity tests.

They are, in most situations, normal. But the squanderlust seizes them in company, and they at once proceed to put their money as far beyond their reach as were the fragments of the bank notes that the hero of our story scattered to the winds that blew about him.

Most people's years of earning are limited.

There is old age to look forward to, and old age and poverty are a dreary combination.

Wasting time and opportunity is as defenseless as destroying money—needless squandering for "show" is as bad.

MICKEY (HIMSELF) McGUIRE

The GOLDEN COCOON

By RUTH CROSS

SYNOPSIS

Molly Shannon, university student, has recovered at the home of the Cochrans, where Gregory Cochran, bachelor lawyer, had taken her after rescuing her from the river. Molly had been driven desperate by the treachery of Stephen Renfro, efficiency expert, who deserted her and married the wealthy Miss Dilworth. Cochran has introduced Molly to his mother, who is proud and aristocratic, and not too well pleased to have the girl in her house.

Mrs. Parker was like a game little rat, hopelessly cornered, but with lots of fight left in her. "Well, you know, Stephen Renfro he was always at me —wantin' to lend me money for you ——He knew how bad you needed it....."

"Oh.....!" Molly turned with a violent movement and walked over to the door which opened on the back yard. After a considerable silence she said, "It was he, then, who gave me the money for these.....?" She indicated without looking at them the suit, shoes, hat she was wearing. They were the only respectable ones she had.

"Well," the distraught fairy godmother admitted unwillingly, "It began the time your father died. I didn't have a red cent, and you had to go."

"That too.....!"

Presently Molly faced round and came toward the cook table. "Don't think I blame you," she said quietly. "I know you only did what you thought was best for me. But—I've got to plan some way to return that money. I'll be going now....."

In her room at the dormitory she tore the clothes off and flung them intolerantly from her. They were no longer new.

Seventy-five dollars.....For all her resources to pay, the sum might as well have been that many thousands. The fifteen dollars she had offered Mrs. Parker meant going without a badly needed raincoat and the sacrifice of some of her most precious books. There was not another book that could be sold, not a cent to be squeezed from anywhere. Her scholarship covered merely the necessities; the little that she was able to pick up from coaching went to her mother. She had never owned a piece of jewelry in her life. Yet somehow Stephen Renfro must be paid.

Sitting in her underthings on the edge of the bed, she looked up and caught her reflection in the mirror opposite. Was there anything of her very own that she might sell? She leaned closer to the mirror and scrutinized herself attentively. Her teeth were sound, white—flawless as Stephen had often said. Fantine in Les Miserables had sold hers, but that was a long time ago. They couldn't have had false ones then.....The obvious asset, of course, was her hair. She took out the pins and let it slip, a shining, blue-black veil far below her waist. It was very thick and slightly curling at the tips. Perhaps they would buy that.

She twisted it up again hurriedly, brought from the closet a frock long since relegated to second best, pinned on a sailor, almost as old as her own career at the university, and went out.

There were less than a half a dozen hairdressing establishments in the town and at every place it was the same story—repeated with either a condescending or a pitying smile for her incredible ignorance. Hair was not being worn. It had gone out of style—that with a supercilious glance which intimated how hopelessly out of the mode Molly herself was. What little hair was used, peasants in Europe furnished at a few cents a pound.

But—surely they would give her something for it, she insisted despairingly at the last place. The proprietor shook his head, the while he eyed her curiously up and down. No, it wouldn't pay them to bother with a single switch, not even if she gave it to them. Her hair was quite worthless to everybody except—possibly herself! But as she was going away, absolutely crushed, an elaborately coiffed blond head was thrust out of a cubbyhole. Its owner looked once at Molly, twice at her hair, and beckoned to the man. It seemed there was by the merest coincidence a customer who wanted that color—Molly's heart leaped. How much would they give her for it, she asked eagerly.

"Ten dollars—!" she echoed in a small, stunned voice. He shrugged. She could take it or not.

Oh, by stretching a point, maybe as much as ten dollars. The man made an impressive gesture.

"Ten dollars.....!" she echoed in a small, stunned voice.

He shrugged. She could take it or leave it. They were only anxious to accommodate her.

Twenty minutes later she came out of the shop, feeling light and queer and intensely conspicuous. Her pocket was heavier by only nine dollars. They charged a dollar—this she learned after the deed was done—for cutting it off. Of the avarice and cruelty of the shop-keeping class to those who are in distress she knew a little already. She was to know more.

She was not thinking of that now. She sat down on a bench in the Capitol grounds, took out her small store, and counted it. Fifty one dollars was lacking still. She put the money back in her bag and sat gazing despondently at the ground. She had nothing else to sell—yet the seventy-five dollars must go to Stephen Renfro before she slept.

After a time, a newspaper, sprawling where some former occupant of the bench had left it, claimed her dispirited attention. She picked it up, glanced indifferently at the front page, then turned slowly toward the want columns.

A half hour later, she presented herself at the larger of the city's two hospitals. To the girl at the desk she indicated one of the advertisements in the paper. "This says that one of your patients needs some blood from a young, healthy person and is willing to pay for it. Do you think he would pay as much as fifty-one dollars?"

The girl stared even more curiously than the proprietors of the hairdressing places had done. Her stare took in the shabby dress, the clipped hair, the ancient sailor. "I don't know," she said, moving away rather doubtfully. "I'll ask Dr. Rodney....."

Directly, a young and pleasant-faced doctor appeared. He gave Molly a brisk, businesslike once-over, which registered also the short hair, the old dress and sailor—and something besides. "Come in here." He opened the door into an inner office.

He motioned her to a chair and sat down opposite—at his desk. "You don't look as if you had any more blood than you need yourself," was his blunt comment, after a second and keener inspection.

"I need the money worse," she said simply. "Do you think they will pay as much as fifty-one dollars?"

"Well, one can hardly put a price on that sort of thing....." He shifted a little at the desk to get a better angle. "In fact, it's not usual to pay for such services at all, but—this patient happens to be a man of means. He wishes to offer some compensation. I can't say precisely how much....."

"Anything less than fifty-one dollars won't do me any good." Molly spoke not less bluntly than he had done a moment earlier.

"Fifty-one dollars. Hum-m!—that's quite a lot, you know." He gave her another intent glance. "Just a minute —I'll see....."

Before Molly slept that night a money order with the briefest of lines in Mrs. Parker's handwriting was dispatched to one Mr. Stephen Renfro at an address in New York City.

CHAPTER XIX

Molly's graduation in June came off in a small blaze of glory. There were, among other things, offers of two Eastern fellowships, but these she did not allow herself the luxury even of considering. Some months earlier she had applied for the principalship of the two-teacher Laws' Chapel school. The salary was less than she might have had elsewhere, but she could make it count for more at home and—her mother needed her. Aunt Lena wrote that she had not been so well of late.

Toward the end of Commencement week Cochran brought an invitation to tea. Molly mistrusted that it had been won by a species of coercion, but she did not wish to rebuff his kindness. She presented herself at the appointed hour, and was received in state by the mistress of the place—not more condescendingly, perhaps, than the differences in ages warranted.

Osage Conspirators May Go Free As U. S. Drops Case

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., March 1.—(AP)—Possibility that the heralded investigation of an alleged sinister conspiracy against the lives and property of the Osage Indians of Oklahoma, the world's wealthiest people, may never be carried out, loomed today after a federal murder indictment against W. K. Hale, "king of the Osage hills," and John Ramsey, a cowboy, was thrown out by Judge John H. Cotteral in United States district court.

Informed by the Associated Press that the government's case had collapsed, Attorney General George F. Short of Oklahoma, on whom will devolve further prosecutions for murder in the Osage country, said:

"We have no case against the men now and at present will take no action. Later, however, the state may take up the cases."

He indicated that the state's course probably would be determined by the actions of federal authorities in regard to the turning to his office evidence on which the federal cases were based.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

IF I SHINED SHOES

If I shined shoes (and lots of good men do),
I'd sometime like to shine 'em up for you.
Because, if I shined shoes (and some men must),
I know I'd flick away each speck of dust,
I'd wipe away the memories of the street,
I'd put a shine on sad and weary feet,
On rich or poor, it wouldn't matter whose,
If I shined shoes.

I know I'd whistle as I worked away,
Perhaps I'd sing some ditty of the day;
I'm sure I would, because some little song
Will help us all, and help us all along.
For work alone is quite a dreary thing,
But life is joy to those who work and sing,
Yes, some philosophy I'd try to use,
If I shined shoes.

Though other men might have some higher task,
Joy, after all, is not a thing to ask
But thing to win—I'm sure that joy will dwell
In anything that anyone does well.
I'd shine 'em up, and shine 'em up so fine
That folks would say, "That really was a shine!"
I'd find the joy that lots of workers lose,
If I shined shoes.

DINNER STORIES

The juryman petitioned the court to be excused, declaring:

"I owe a man $25 that I borrowed, and as he is leaving town today for some years I want to catch him before he gets to the train and pay him the money."

"You are excused," the judge announced in a very cold voice. "I don't want anybody on the jury who can lie like you."

A Methodist divine was asked one day to conduct an "experience meeting" at a colored church in the South.

A colored woman arose and bore witness to the preciousness of her religion as light-bringer and comfort-giver.

"That's good, sister," commented the divine. "But how about the practical side. Does your religion make you strive to prepare your husband a good dinner? Does it make yo look after him in every way?"

Just then the divine felt a yank at his coat tails by the colored preacher, who whispered ardently: "Press dem questions, doctor; press dem questions. Dat's my wife."

War stories are still good.

The Yankee did not hesitate.

After gathering all the money in sight, Moore reported, the men released him and the young woman from the vault and told them if they would "go with them and do what they said" they would not be harmed.

Their prettiness owe to art;
Your flapperish wiles and looks and smiles

THE PROSECUTING ATTORNEY AT HOME.

(Observed By A. P. Cooper.)

His Wife: Breakfast's ready, dear. I'm sorry, but I burned the bacon. I heard the baby crying, and when I came back the bacon was burnt to a crisp.

Attorney—You have a dissipated face! Have you ever been in trouble before

His Wife: Why, John! What do you mean?

Attorney: You swear that you have told the truth, and nothing but the truth? Then tell me who was burned to a crisp—the bacon, or the baby?

His Wife: The bacon. Boo, hoo! Don't l-l-look at me like that!

Attorney: You have stated that the said bacon was burned to a said crisp when you heard a said cry from a said baby. What's the baby's name? Out with it!

His Wife: Why, John Harold, Jr. Don't you know your own child's name? Heavens! I'll go insane if this keeps up.

Attorney: It will do you no good to plead insanity. The hand of the law is already closing in upon you, unhappy woman! Let me put the scene of the crime before you, gentlemen of the jury! A smoking skillet; this woman bending over the poor innocent bacon; a shrill scream and the dastardly deed is done! It's frightful—awful—that such a thing could be possible in our fair land! Now, gentlemen of the jury, I trust that you will find this miserable woman—this firebug—guilty of bacon burning in the first degree. I thank you.

His Wife: But John, I didn't mean any harm!

Attorney: Ignorance of the law is no excuse. I think I have won my case. The evidence was so overwhelmingly against you. Admit now, before it is too late, that you did, willfully and unlawfully, burn, scorch, and otherwise char the said bacon that was to have been my breakfast. I rest the case.

Cotton Embargo Is Lifted in Louisiana

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(AP) Restrictions on shipments of cotton from Louisiana, central and eastern Texas and portions of New Mexico because of the presence therein of the pink boll worm were removed today by the department of agriculture.

The action was taken, says an official statement, because of the apparent eradication of the pest in these areas and the continued freedom from further restrictions is said to be contingent on the continued absence of the insect pests.

Danger Signals of Indigestion

The Disease That Strikes Like Lightning

Beware of indigestion—the disease that kills more people and kills them quicker than any other. This warning, by physicians, is particularly appliacable this season of the year, when your system needs all of its healthful vigor to withstand cold, flu and other winter ills.

What are the warnings that nature gives you of the approach of indigestion? The medical book tells us: 1. Gas, which means that your food is fermenting instead of digesting. 2. A feeling of fullness or oppression in the region of the stomach after eating. This means that the gas has ballooned your stomach and is pressing up against your heart and lungs. 3. A dull lazy feeling, which means that you are not getting nourishment from what you are eating. 4. Restlessness, unrefreshing sleep, which means that the poisons of indigestion are disturbing your brain and nerves. 5 Sometimes pai'nand fluttering around the heart, though this symptom may come later.

Don't take chances with indigestion—you are too apt to lose. If you have had any of the symptoms mentioned above, get your digestive organs to work at once with Ferraline, Nature's great stomach treatment that has given relief to thousands. Ferraline immediately aids and assists every one of your digestive organs, including your stomach liver and bowels. Ferraline makes your digestion "perfect and complete." Texas
Is Ninety Years Old Today!

Out of the heroism of stalwart pioneers, from the blood of courageous men and women who unflinchingly met death for the sake of a cause was born, ninety years ago today, the Republic of Texas.

No more stirring story of valiant devotion to an ideal has ever been enacted than the struggle of the liberty-loving people of Texas to throw off the yoke of a ruler whose sympathies could never have been with the oppressed province.

The final victory and deliverance was won on March 2, 1836, and Texas became an indipendent Republic, later to join the union of states and became its greatest.

We people of Texas would do well to keep close to our hearts the story of the winning of Texas Independence, the ideals and policies of its leaders.

With a spirit like that which inspired those early Texans, there is nothing on earth the Lone Star State cannot accomplish.

Love your state as Stephen F. Austin and Sam Houston loved it. Keep its interests always with you and do your part toward making it a more wonderful place to live. Do your duty in making Texas a leader in all that is good and worthy. Be a Texan!

Pneumonia! The season is on--

SINCE the dawn of civilization, pneumonia has scourged the human race. Hippocrates, father of modern medicine, described this disease in 400 B.C., and yet after 23 centuries, we know little more about it than he did. The cure for pneumonia is as yet undiscovered. But we do know that colds lower the vitality and hence pave the way for pneumonia. Many fatal attacks, however, might be averted if more of us would follow this maxim—

"Never let a cold get a start"

Coryza—thinitis—no matter what medical men may call the common cold, it is nevertheless a disease. A person with a bad cold is sick and should go to bed for a day or two.

Complete rest enables the body to regain lost vitality and so throw off germ infection. Unfortunately, it is not possible for all of us to get such rest. The next best thing is to take vigorous action at the first sign of a cold.

At night take a purgative—a hot bath, and plenty of hot lemonade—go to bed under blankets to induce perspiration. Briskly massage the throat and chest with Vicks for five minutes. Then spread on thickly—about one-eighth of an inch thick—and cover with two thicknesses of hot flannel cloths.

Leave the covering loose around the neck so the vapors arising from the application on the chest may be freely inhaled.

If there is much tightness or soreness in the chest, apply hot, wet cloths to open the pores of the skin before using Vicks.

If the air passages continue stopped up, try the "teakettle and tent treatment." This method—fully explained in the directions—consists, briefly, of vaporizing Vicks in a teakettle and arranging a newspaper "tent" over the patient's head so that the combined warm steam and vapors can be inhaled.

Being externally applied, Vicks can be used freely without disturbing the digestion. This makes it a boon to mothers. An application at bedtime will usually prevent a night attack of croup.

Above all else, do not let a cold "hang on" and become deep-seated during these danger months. Treat it vigorously in its early stages.

Pneumonia is now more deadly than Tuberculosis

Government records show that deaths from pneumonia reach their peak during January, February or March. Formerly, tuberculosis, the "Captain of all the Men of Death," as it was called by John Bunyan, was the most fatal scourge of mankind. Since 1916, however, pneumonia has gained the grim title, averaging yearly 32 more deaths per 100,000 population.

Vicks acts two ways—Internally and externally

When applied over throat and chest, Vicks acts like a poultice or plaster, increasing the circulation and so helping to prevent congestion in the region of the lungs.

At the same time, the ingredients are released by the body heat in the form of vapors and these vapors, inhaled with each breath, carry the medication direct to the air passages and lungs.

The ingredients of Vicks are printed on every package.

Second "Gold Rush" On in Colorado

Colorado is witnessing a second "gold rush" comparable with that of half a century ago, operators returning from that state declare. This time it is oil that is the lure, convertible by the modern processes of alchemy into the same kind of gold that was once taken from quartz veins in Colorado's mountains. Rich strikes near Fort Collins have made that district a new Mecca for prospectors, with a rush for claims. Photo shows some of the derricks which are springing up rapidly.

White Bros., Jackson

White Brothers and Jackson may have tapped a new structure in their No. 1, Mitchell-B, in the southeast corner of their 70 acres on the Mitchell farm, Castleman survey, block 7, it appears now. The well, less than 90 feet from an old dry hole which seemingly separates it from the older production in the Mitchell or Hooser pool, was being equipped for the pump Monday, after swabbing in excess of 225 barrels in 24 hours, from sand at 1,520-24 feet.

A new location has been made 300 feet north or 450 feet north of the south line of the lease, and a rig is moving on.

Pet. Producers, Douglas

On the Douglas land just east of Electra and across the highway from the Beaver-Electra Refinery the Petroleum Producers and United Producers have set casing on a good looking sand reported to have been topped at 1,583 feet.

Gulf, Hayter

The Gulf Production company is completing its No. 2 Hayter, located in the northwest corner of section 2423 TE&L company survey, and south of Megargle townsite, as an estimated 35 barrel producer. The well makes a nice southward extension to the south townsite pool and has accordingly been closely watched.

Magnolia, McCrary

On the McCrory land in the southeast quarter of the Wm. Walker survey the Magnolia Production company is resetting casing after losing the seat while testing sand which showed dry at 1,491 feet. The well is expected to be drilled deeper into the sand today.

Murchison-Fain, Mitchell

Murchison & Fain are drilling at 1,367 feet on their No. 1, Portwood, located 450 feet south and 150 feet west of the northeast corner of the south 320 acres of the W. Godden survey, abstract 152, Baylor county.

Schoonmaker, George

On the George land located in the northeast corner of the west half of section 29, Poitevent survey, abstract 532, and midway between the Atlantic-Sigler and the south Vernon production, Schoonmaker and Anderson are temporarily shut down laying water lines. Sunday, the test was commenced swabbing from the sand 2,220-24 feet, steel line measurement, with casing now set at 2,215 feet. Sunday's swabbing principally helped to clean water out of the hole let in when casing was reset, although a good deal of clean oil was put in the tanks. It is expected to again start swabbing operations today at which time an accurate gauge of the new wildcat's abilities will be available. Its completion will open a vast expanse of territory in the south Vernon district.

White-Jackson, Mitchell

White Brothers and Jackson have made location for their No. 2, Mitchell, in the Castleman survey, to be located 300 feet east of No. 1, which came in the latter part of the week as a nice extension to that pool.

Trout, Lynsky

On the Lynsky tract, section55, of the Spect McCutcheon subdivision, and just across the Wichita county line in Clay county, the wildcat test of L. E. Trout and associates is now boring at 1,240 feet.

Atlantic, Oldham

The Atlantic Oil Producing company has what appears to be a 40-barrel well on its No. 1, Oldham, located in the southeast corner of the Atlantic's lease in the Hubble survey, from sand 1,040-50 feet. This well, the second in the thousand foot pay of the Oldham district, is located to the west of the Texhoma producer.

Plains, Butler

On the Butler land in section 3401 TE&L Co. survey the Plains Production company is drilling at 500 feet on its No. 2 test. The test, located approximately 1,500 feet south of that drilled some time ago on the same fee by these operators, is the fourth wildcat test they have put down within a scope of a few thousand feet in the past few months. Its drilling is accordingly well worth watching.

Marland Oil Company First; Rmerican Refining Second

Cold weather of two weeks ago kept the daily production of the Amarillo oil field below 7,000 barrels a day, the total average for the week being 6,561 barrels.

Hutchinson county is still the chief producer with a daily output of 4,440 barrels, with Carson second for 1,856 barrels; Gray third for 170 barrels and Wheeler next for 65, with Potter, the great gas producing county, making but 30 barrels.

URANIA CRUDE PRICES ARE GIVEN SLASH

SHREVEPORT, La., March 1.—(AP)The Louisiana Oil Refining corporation lowered the price of Urania crude oil from $1.50 to $1.40 a barrel effective today. The cut, it was announced, was due to demand for this product being insufficient to justify the higher price. "It is simply a question of supply and demand," the report stated.

OIL COMPANY LOSES SUIT WITH GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(AP) The Inter-Ocean Oil company lost in the supreme court today in its effort to collect from the government $3,575,000 for damages alleged to have resulted in following orders issued to it by an army officer for the removal of its tanks from Carteret, N. The same operators are drilling in their No. 5 today with a Star machine, casing having been set and cemented at 1,410 feet. No. 6 on this lease is now shut down waiting on cement to set at 1,408 feet.

Crane County Well Still An Unknown Quantity Is Report

The Crane county, Southwest Texas discovery of Independent Oil & Gas company, is still a likely looking one, even though it did not show up so well the last part of the work.

The well started flowing last Wednesday night at 2,040 feet, barely in a sand, that several days previously had filled the hole in less than a day. It flowed for 90 minutes and made 120 barrels of 29.5 gravity crude, and then quit. The bailer was run and indicated that it had sanded up.

Later reports from the well say that it was filling up slowly and at the rate the oil was coming into the hole it would again flow last Saturday morning. The Independent set the 10-inch casing at 1,670 feet, and from that level down it is an open eight-inch hole.

More Truth Than Poetry

A DISMAL OUTLOOK

Mr. Stefansson says that when beef is crowded from the range the reindeer, caribou and musk ox will supply us with meat.

When the cows cease to browse on the plains of the west
On account of the shortage of space,
When the sheep and the hogs are at last dispossessed
By the widely spread out human race,
The reindeer will calmly step into the breach
Walk up to the shambles and die.
And supply all the meat that we ever need eat,

When night clubs and movie shows stand on the site
Where the reindeer once sounded his call,
And we think that 'ere long there will not be a bite
Of rib roast or round steak at all,
The caribou boldly will step to the front
In droves from the tundra and fen,
Bend his neck to the knife, and by departing this life
Will provide us with meat once again.

When business blocks stand where the caribou trod,
And bungalows reach 'round about—
When real estate's selling for so much a sod
And we fear that our meat will give out,
The packers will travel along toward the pole
Where the musk ox his habitat makes,
And again for a while we can cheerily smile—
For there'll be an abundance of steaks.

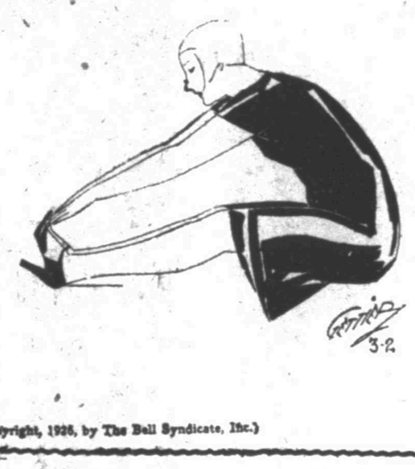

But when the whole planet is one solid town
Of apartments, garages and shops,
When the gasoline wagons that speed up and down
Are as thick as the now useless cops,
When the sputtering airplanes have frightened away
The fowls that once fluttered above,
No food can be found in the whole whole around,
And we'll have to exist upon love!

If J. Will doesn't hurry and bring to a finish his contest of the past several days with Old Man Flu it's going to be somewhat tough on Mr. Brainard's ball athletes. Pastimers flocking in, most of 'em broke, yapping for their expense money. Will has the key to the exchequer. Ball men all starving. . . .

'NOTHER RECORD?

H. A. (Doc) Hartung of the Columbus Dispatch shot a 65 at the Muny course the other day in company with Don Faichney, nephew.

Nephew explains there's nothing striking about that because Uncle Dor just played nine holes.

MATTY TALKS

We visited with Matty Matsuda the other night following his match with Jack Gorman. Matty was quite tuckered and a bit in a bad way as result of the heated engagement. Still a bit groggy from headlocks and a trio of stunning blows Jack had landed to the right optic while jumping for those skull holds. Matty, though the eye was bandaged and his dome evidently aching at a trip-hammer clip, squinted the other peeper at us and grunted solemn praise for the popular Wichita Falls athlete.

"He certainly surprised me," Matty mumbled, "He one of toughest boys in country.

"He hit me in eye with knuckle like this," and Matty staggered unsteadily to his feet, demonstrated a flying head lock pointing to the bony base of his thumb as the portion of Jack's mitt which clouted him on the brow, "Make me dizzy."

"But I older. I just a little wiser head than he," he grinned wryly. "I get him all right when he not expect me to do anything. He think I beat."

"But Jack good boy. He in the hospital now. I hope he don't get hurt much." (It will be remembered Matsuda groggy and apparently almost out, rallied desperately and threw Gorman with a reverse flying mare so forcefully that the Dutchman was taken to the hospital. Jack was out about ten o'clock the next morning in fair shape with exception of a painfully wrenched shoulder. He couldn't raise his arm above his head).

LUCKY?

"Yeh, I lucky to beat him. What? Oh, sure, I believe I can do it again. But Jack, he bent any 140-pound man in the world. I bet money on it." Matsuda, it may be in order to remark, weighs three pounds more than that. Quite a difference, what?

Back to the Prairie

This enthusiastic bailiwick, sad to say, hasn't outgrown all its village tendencies yet. Else why would my boy friend Howard (Strip) Stripling the other morning about two o'clock coming through the canyon bounded by the Kemp hotel and City National bank building be enabled to jump a huge jack rabbit and chase it through the revolving door of the hotel into the lobby? Jack rabbits on the main drag at two a. m.! It's the truth for I was coming from the depot a few minutes later and saw him myself, coming out of the hotel with dusky bell hop in pursuit.

Brainard Fails To Show So Freddy Boone Takes Charge of Large Squad

By BLONDY CROSS

Spud lot denizens who came out of hibernation Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the regulation hour last spring for piping R. O. Harvey's pastimers at play, saw nothing other than a couple of amateurs preparing for a warm-up session and the short, square-rigged Ping Bodie's pudgy form disappearing through the club house door.

Jabez Gardner's forerunners of the 1926 Spudder horde, six in all, engaged in their opening exercises during the morning.

Sharply at 11 a. m., Freddie Boone, 1925's mascot who this season displays a desire to break into the lineup as a regular outfielder, marshalled the burly Mr. Bodie, Peter Turgeon, Rip Wheeler, Charley Schroyer and Bob Cannon, right-handed semi-pro hurler from Oklahoma, for initial spring calesthenics. Skipper Brainard, expected on deck via the overland route from Artesia, N. M., failed to show. Boss Boone put the squad through at a peppery clip for the greater portion of four hours. He allowed a 15 or 20-minute recess about midway during the drill, but handled his men roughly the rest of the way, showing the tenderfoot more or less of a slave-driver.

A bit of fungo work, a little chunking and some dog-trotting around the pavilion topped off with falling on a few bunts constituted the session.

Rip Needs Shoes.

Wheeler didn't do much. Couldn't find any shoes to fit his feet, but he intends to start grinding the winter icicles out of his pitching muscles today. Gang works again between 11 and 3.

Signed contracts were received during the day at Spud headquarters from Cliff (Bud) Knox, catcher bought from Pittsburgh but who frequented Birmingham last summer, and Alex Metzler, the youthful but exceedingly efficient California who has cavorted in the Wichita Falls outfield off and on the past two seasons.

Metzler sent in company with his contract an enthusiastic missive declaring intentions of knocking one of the regulars completely out of the running. Seem's he's after Mr. Bodie's job. Probably it, too, they say, for Ping is getting too old and fat to hit any more home runs. He waddled around out at the orchard yesterday with the speed and grace of a two-ton truck propelled over a rocky mountain cow trail by a wheezing motor cycle engine. Poor old fella, it's awful sad.

SCORE SHOW UP AT WACO PARK.

WACO, March 1.—A score of baseball candidates for the Waco team of the Texas league gathered at Katy park this afternoon, and received their first instructions from Manager Del Pratt, who arrived in Waco yesterday at noon from his home in Ann Arbor, Mich. With Pratt came Elliott, a right handed pitcher, whose home is in Hamilton, Iowa. The prospective Cubs went through only a light workout today. There was hitting practice with Oscar Tuero serving up the offerings, and there were the usual pep games, and the customary jogs around the park as the athletes endeavored to limber up stiff muscles.

Lagunas, a youngster from the sand lots of El Paso handled himself in a graceful manner in the field. He is a left-handed hitter. Aguilar, pitcher, who was with the team part of last season, and who also hails from El Paso was on hand as was Lupe Rodriguez, curve-ball artist, who has been wintering at his home at Harlingen. These along with Oscar Tuero, Cuban star, created rather a foreign atmosphere about the first day's workout. Ed Carson, the former University of Texas star, was also on hand, as was Frank Wilson, who spent the winter driving a truck in the far northwest in the vicinity of Sumner, Wash.

DRAKE REPORTS WITH ROOKIES.

BEAUMONT, March 1.—Only rookies reported to Skipper Jim Galloway for the first day's practice session.

There were few familiar faces in the lot, in fact Logan Drake was about the only one of the lot recognized, other than some local luminaries who joined festivities. Bill Huber and Al Nixon, who depart for Florida tomorrow to join the Philadelphia Nationals, worked out, as did Ducky Swan, a veteran who was just out for the novelty.

The squad showed rookie Pitcher Ricketts, Nace, Hansen, Hamilton, Broussard and Williford. There was three maskmen, all out for their first try at professional baseball, Lotspeich, Ward and Fairless. Most of the youngsters are from Texas. The most likely looking of the lot were a couple of Californians, Nance and Hansen, who have been playing winter baseball in their native state. Both were ready to "cut loose" and did for a short time.

13 AUGMENT BEAR SQUAD

SAN ANTONIO, March 1.—San Antonio's training squad of ball players was augmented today by the arrival of 13 pitchers and fielders. All started active workout at League park.

The new arrivals included Second-baseman Henzes, and Infielders Miller, Vorges and Phipps. Outfielders Rose, Biggs and Dave Cheeves, and Pitcher Jennings. Cheeves is a brother of Virgil Cheeves, the former Chicago Cubs hurler.

BUFF BATTERIES BEGIN SHOOTING.

HOUSTON, March 1.—(AP)—Four catchers and six pitchers comprised the first contingent of Buffaloes to report to Manager Joe Mathes for spring training here today. The catchers were Frank Goff and Gus Mancuso, holdovers; Nick Nixon, a local amateur and H. Humphries, a semi-pro from San Francisco. The pitchers were Bob Burns and Ray Pipkin, who pitched for the club last year; Lefty Sweatt and L. M. Robinson, from the Dallas sand lots; D. C. Peters from Fort Worth and Ollie Jones, the Waxahachie high school sensation.

President Fred Ankenmen declared today both Gene Bailey, outfielder, and Joe Burns, catcher, had signed contracts. Seven players have not agreed to terms, but there is no wide differences in the salaries offered and asked, it was stated.

Sancusco will be loaned to the St. Louis Cardinals, Ankenman declared. Rogers Hornsby has not enough receivers in camp to train his squad of pitchers and with burns in line and with Dutch Krauss and A. A. Walker, a Florida collegian, also available to handle the shoots of the Houston hurlers, the 19-year-old Mansusco will join the Cardinals at San Antonio Tuesday.

"THEM BEBBIES" START WORKING.

FORT WORTH, March 1.—(AP) Spring, March 1, and the baseball training season arrived in Fort Worth today. Ten players, five rookies and five vets of Class A baseball, were on the job when roll was called at Worth field for the first workout of the season.

Doc Smith, catcher, was in charge of proceedings, but will be relieved of his duties Wednesday by Manager Jakie Atz. Atz is due to arrive this afternoon.

Ernie Vache, big outfielder obtained by Fort Werth from the Boston Red Sox, was the first player in uniform and on the field. When batting practice started he was the first at the plate.

"Hey, Ernie, there's a Dallas fan in the crowd," called one of the spectators. Vache formerly played with Dallas.

"Let him watch me. I'll break his heart," grinned the big fellow. Smash! He swung on the first ball pitched and drove it into the left field bleacher.

Ralph Head; Jimmy Walkup and Deeby Foss were the Class A men on the job, besides Smith and Vache.

The rookies included Alf Kelly and Ralph Brandon, catchers; Fred Voltmer, infielder; Guy Powell, outfielder; and E. C. Hogsett, pitcher.

16 BOVINES AT MINERAL WELLS

MINERAL WELLS, Texas, March 1.—(AP)—When the Dallas Steers arrived here today to open their spring training, the 15 men in uniform found Joe Victor, a pitcher obtained from Pennsylvania, on hand. Victor was the first man to arrive.

An ideal training place is Memorial Park, where the Steers will whip themselves into condition for the season marathon. The park is located a mile outside the city and the grounds are in excellent condition.

Manager Snipe Conley sent the athletes through an hour and a half light practice today but announced that a long and strenuous session is in store for Tuesday.

In uniform today were the following players: Pitchers Dick Shuman, Tom Andrews, Tom Estell, Proton Chalk and Moose Woeber; catchers Marion Spicer, El Paso; Rush Wicker, Waxahachie; infielders Swede Lind, Joe Tate, Clarence Roper, Turkey Gross, Byrnes James, Jim Schrader; outfielders Hack Miller, Claud Bynum.

The schedule of the first round battles follows: Stephenville vs. Canyon; Nacogdoches vs. San Antonio; Breckenridge; Canton vs. Taft; Throckmorton vs. Beaumont; Pilot Point vs. Austin.

The big tournament will get under way at 9:30 o'clock. Coach Dykes' Stephenville crew taking the floor against the Canyon quintet coached by W. Mitchell Jones. These two teams are among the strongest entered and their meeting is certain to start the tournament in the right way. Roy Henderson, athletic director of the Texas university interscholastic league said. Mr. Henderson will have charge of the tournament, which is conducted by the interscholastic league.

Doc Whittles On Mr. Cobb's Optic

BALTIMORE, March 1.—(AP)—Ty Cobb, manager of the Detroit American league baseball club underwent a successful operation for removal of a small growth from his left eye today. Dr. William Holland Wilmer, who performed the operation pronounced the Georgia peach's condition satisfactory.

Cobb, who expects to join the Tigers for spring training in a week or ten days, said he never felt better and that the operation was a precautionary measure. The growth had not seriously affected his sight he said, but he considered this an opportune time to have it removed.

"Removal of the growth will result in my maintaining my batting average for a good many more years," he declared.

GOSH! WHAT A MIXTURE

MONTE CARLO, March 1.—(AP) Frau Nellie Neppach, German champion, and Baron Von Kehring of Hungary won the open mixed doubles from Didi Vlasto of France and count Hengi de Morpugo of Italy today in one of the best tennis matches seen on the Riviera this year. They showed that as a double pair they will have to be reckoned with henceforth.

First game is to start at 7:30.

GRACE OUTFIT - NIPS FIZZLES

Stephens led Grace Methodists to a 35-16 victory last night over Fizzles in Independent league play. The Bear forward sank half a dozen field hoopers and one from the free throw line for a total of 13 points. Kollman connected for a quartet from scrimmage.

Disoway, league leading scorer and Fizzles center, couldn't get unlimbered, managing to come through for only five points, second to Haley, his team mate at forward, who tabulated three field goals.

The defense work of Stephenson and Vance was airtight.

The scheduled game between Reed Drugs and the Owls was postponed.

EWING SHADE OVER TRAMMEL

Duke Trammel, Fort Worth welterweight walloper, took the first and second rounds from Wildcat Ewing of Houston last night in the 812 1-2 Scott ring. Ewing won the third frame by a very close margin. The fourth round was a slow draw. Ewing had the better of the fifth. The sixth was a fast draw. Tramel rabbed all the better of the seventh. Ewing took the eighth by a meager margin. The ninth were even-Stephen affairs with Ewing having a possible edge, if any.

Wildcat was awarded the decision.

Ewing beat Duke to the punch time and again, but Tramel landed the more solidly.

Johnny Sherrod, Fort Worth welter, substituted for Buckshot Peoples in a six-round semi-final and fought Pug Humphries to a draw.

Battling Sam, negro lightweight, beat Dynamite Griffin in four rounds.

Roughhouse Smith, fleaweight, beat Red Mason out in the third round of a scheduled four-rounder on a technical knockout.

Favorits Survive Dixie Net Opener

TAMPA, Fla., March 1.—(AP)—Favorits survived without difficulty in the seven matches played today in the opening here of the Dixie tennis championship Florida's winter tennis classic.

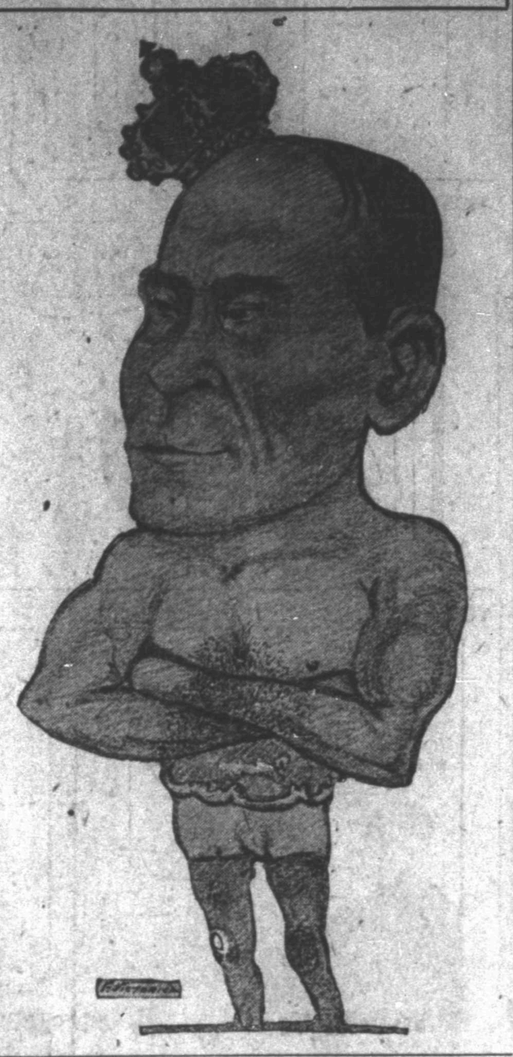

Alfred R. Chapin, Jr., thirteenth ranking player of the United States, defeated C. J. Dolan of the Chicago Town and Country club, 6-1, 6-2 in the opening contest.

S. Howard Voshell, the other ranking player figuring in today's matches defeated James Keith, a Tampa junior player, in straight sets, 6-1 and 6-2.

George O'Connell of Chicago defeated J. Hartsemark, of Hartford, Conn., in the feature match of the day, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3.

Handsome? No! But That's Wrong Query

Matty Matsuda, world's welterweight wrestling champion, really is handsomer than caricatured below. Nevertheless, that's the way a Mexican cartoonist once pictured him with his pen. Matty's wearing his crown. Followers of Teddy Waters, lad who made a tremendous hit here last week in match with the rugged Lee Meyers, are wondering (some are wagering) can he knock it off in match carded here Tuesday night.

Sports BROWN South

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Sports Editor of Central Press

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 1.—The death of Eddie Plank, great Athletic southpaw of but a few years ago, took precedence for a couple days over the usual gossip about the activities of the ball players, great and future great, now laboring to prepare themselves for another season and what it holds.

The passing of Plank and Christy Mathewson within a space of five months has given baseball two great tragedies. Not only because of the greatness of the men but because of the fact that both were taken in the prime of life—both at the time when they were in a position to enjoy most of the fruits of their labor and share that enjoyment with charming wives and children gathered about them.

Recalling memories of Plank in a fanning bee the other night I happened to think of the emphatic denial Plank once made to a report (a premature one) that he had pitched his last game and was going to quit the game for good. That was about two years previous to his actual retirement.

I was running the baseball extra of a metropolitan newspaper at that time and when the story of his "retirement" came in between innings of the day's game, I did the best I could to give it a "play" to "beat" the morning paper to follow.

The morning paper, so beaten, fell back upon a recitation on his long and brilliant career.

And the next afternoon, I believe it was, Plank pitched and won another game. Naturally, I got the blame for misleading the public, despite the fact that I was some 700 miles away from Plank and the source of the story. I had several chances later to write more cheerful stories about Plank, however.

It may be because the kid's left-handed, or he and Nick agree on neckties, but Nick Altrock, baseball's comedy king and member of the Washington Senator's startegy board, is sponsor for the statement that Clarence Thomas, a rookie hurler who joined the club late last season from Nashville in the Southern Association, is destined to become one of the game's star pitchers—left or right. Harris stuck Thomas into two games last fall. The young man worked 12 innings and allowed three earned runs.

However, the young man may become a bit discouraged this year when he sees how agile the Civil war pitching staff of the Senators appear to be.

I saw Ethel Lackie, the feminine "Johnny Weismuller," in action and after watching this feminine hydroplane I wonder just how long man-made records will stand. But for the wonder swimming of Johnny Weismuller, Chicago water dog, most of the male marks would have been shattered long ago by these mermaids. Johnny, however, made all the previous man-made records look so woefully effeminate, if one may put it that way, that the girls still have some distance to go to break his.

Pugilism For Women? Why Not? Asks One Girl

Maidens Enter All Other Masculine Sports

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
Special Dispatch to The Record News
Copyright, 1926, By The Consolidated Press Association.

LONDON, March 1.—Tell a woman she can't do a thing and she'll have a try at it anyway. Tell her she mustn't do it; and she will.

The home secretary has just had this great truth brought home to him. Not long ago he spoke in no uncertain tones against a public boxing match which has been arranged in London between two women. Incautiously he used the words "disgraceful exhibition."

The public boxing match was called off. But as a result of the universal howl of horror which rose from Englishmen over the thought of ladies bashing one another in the ring, London flappers now are taking up sparring lessons with a zeal hitherto expended only on the lipstick or the Charleston and the artistic elimination of black eyes bids fair soon to be an important phase of every up-to-date beauty parlor.

"Pugilism for women? Why not?" inquired Miss Annie Newton, one of the principals in the proposed bout, when the writer saw her today.

"Why not?" Miss Newton inquired again. She did not inquire in a loud, pugnacious way. Her speech is rather low, and her voice very soft. She is barely five feet tall and has nice brown eyes, neither one of which has ever been blackened in all her ten years' experience as a sparring partner.

"Young girls today, and older girls, too," proceeded Miss Newton, "are about as athletic as any women the world has produced. They ski on Swiss mountains. They play tennis all day in the sun all day. They dive from 20-foot towers. They go in for long distance swimming races. They run marathons. They play hockey and football. They do a jolly lot of things that used to be considered wholly 'manly.' What's the matter with them learning the 'manly art of self defense? Doesn't a woman need that as much as man?

"Oh, of course I know it is more ladylike to faint when a burglar appears on the scene and that's the easiest way out unless you happen to wake up dead. But why not feint for a change, and I suppose it's more womanly to stand at a wash tub all day to earn your husband's bread and butter to support his children than it is to spar two or three rounds in a gymnasium or get a good sum for an exhibition match. Only, the wash tub doesn't seem to improve the figure, while the sparring does. That's why many young women approve of sparring matches; there's certainly no exercise in the world that trains you down more quickly."

Miss Newton is a good proof of her words. She's slim as a willow, and barely five feet tall.

"As for any danger of getting your face hurt," she went on, "if you are properly trained, there isn't half the danger of getting your nose flattened that there is when you ride to hounds. I'd be most awfully ashamed if any of my pupils got so much as a lump on the chin. Excuse me—" She darted into a dressing room and in a few minutes darted out again in a gym suit of black wool, like a swimming costume. Somebody tied a pair of gloves on her very small hands and she darted under the ropes and into the ring of her uncle's gymnasium. A rather husky young man, similarly attired, awaited her. For the next few minutes the most noticeable thing in the gymnasium was the look of surprise deepening on the husky young man's face. He didn't seem at all sorry to quit when the bell rang.

"Well—" Miss Newton said, returning a bit heavily but not panting by any means. "I don't advise the ordinary woman to spar with a man, because of course the average man is much stronger than the average woman. Myself, I wouldn't hesitate to meet a man in the ring, but I've been trained at boxing since I was a youngster—and, by the way, a very sickly youngster too. Nor would I ever advise women to take part in a regular knockout prize fight, though that's because I hate violence and love science. And if what I've just done is any more unwomanly than playing basketball, I wish you'd point out the difference."

TRAINING CAMP NEWS

JOE PATE RINGER FOR BENTLEY

Much ado was made at the McGillicudy camp in Fort Myers, Fla., the other day upon arrival of our old friend Joe Pate and Ira Thomas, Philadelphia Ledger sport correspondent burst into raptures acclaim as he reported Joe's and Ira's arrival and sweet nothings Ira had to say about the veteran southpaw who departed Fort Worth this spring for a fling with Connie's White Elephants.

It's just another case of sour-loss-myopia, so far as the rest of the Texas loop is considered when the Cats had to shoo Joe up in the draft to a shot with the major loopers.

Ledger correspondent's comment on Joe and Ira:

The big news today was the arrival of Joe Pate, the 33-year-old southpaw from Fort Worth, Texas, and Ira Thomas, former Mack catcher and present coach of pitchers. Also, Tom Shibe, president of the A's, accompanied by Mrs. Shibe, rolled in fourteen hours late and rather peeved about it. No one blamed him for that.

Joe Pate is what the boys might call a "dead ringer" for Jack Bentley, late of the Giants and now a member of the Phils. Pate is a left-hand pitcher and appears to weigh more than 200 pounds. He went to work with a will a couple of hours after he checked in at the Bradford hotel.

Pate motored over from Fort Worth, a distance of 1620 miles. Seven and one-half days were required for the trip. He had to wait for a couple of floods, landslides and things of that description to get out of his path. Mrs. Pate was a passenger in the car that brought the pitcher to Fort Myers.

Ira Thomas, who has been managing a winter-league team in Florida and who got in this morning, had Pate throw him a few and said: "Boys, there is a pitcher who will win not fewer than twenty games for our team this year.

"He's not an exhibition pitcher and may be disappointing in the spring games. But when he gets in a real game and puts a man or two on bases, then he chucks the old 'dipsy-doo'—that's a ball that takes a hop, a step and a jump—and I've seen all the best batsmen in the Texas League swing at it without hitting it."

Pate was in the Texas League, in which Thomas formerly managed the Shreveport club. Last year, pitching for Fort Worth, Joe won twenty and lost twelve. He had a radio and battery store in Fort Worth and meant to quit baseball. But when Mack persuaded him to join the A's, Pate sold his business and will devote all his time and energies to baseball.

STEPHENSBURG, Fla., March 1.—(AP)—Sam Jones, pitcher of the New York American League club today signed a contract at a higher salary it was announced by Yankee club officials. He had been a holdout.

Dickey and More Join Jim Reese And Tiger Squad

ELECTRA, March 1.—Tiger track stock boomed this week with the addition of another pair of promising candidates who are expected to make point winners for Jim's squad this year. These lads to report were Ray B. Dickey and Bob Moore.

Dickey is expected to make the Tiger thinly clads a valuable man before the curtain is drawn. He is expected to shine in the four-forty and possibly the distance runs as well as several of the field events. Dickey was tossing the shot for a good distance his initial day with the squad. He is also expected to flash with the discuss or javelin.

Moore is the four-forty ace of the Tiger team a couple of years back but was kept off the turf last season because of a leg injury sustained during the grid season. Moore is expected to be the star this year in the four-forty and possibly the 220 yard dash. He is also likely to develop into a winner for Reese's thinly clads.

Gerald Gillum continues to show his heels in the dashes including the 100, 220 and 440 yard dashes. Lonnie Grisham appears to be fairly on the way to making a star in this years squad. He hurled himself over the crossbar in the pole vault well over nine feet although Friday was his first try in this event.

Helen Draws Bye

MENTONE, France, March 1. (AP)—Helen Wills drew a "bye" in the Mentone lawn tennis tournament opening today, in which she again had the honor of being seeded at the top of the draw.

Referee Westlake pondered long over the question of seeding Senorita Dt Alvarez or Mlle Didi Vlasto in the lower half and finally compromised by placing Mlle Vlasto at the top of one quarter and the Spanish champion at the top of the other.

Miss Wills announced today that she will take a rest after the Cannes tournament the third week in March, going to Florence, Italy, to attend a school for painting and drawing throughout April.

LACKIE BREAKS RECORD

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 1.—(AP)—Ethel Lackie, Illinois athletic club, broke the world's record for the forty yard free style swim here this afternon when she covered the distance in 21 2-5 seconds, three tenths of a second faster than the former record held by Corinne Gordon, of Omaha, Neb. Adelaide Lambert, of the Women's Swimming club of New York, was second.

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 1.—(AP)—Intermittent showers prevented several matches today in the open play for the woman's tennis championship of Florida but in those played all favorites and seeded players survived in easy fashion. Miss Elizabeth Ryan, Santa Monica, Cal., especially displayed remarkable accuracy in defeating Miss Lucia Chase, Waterbury, Conn., 6-0, 6-0.

The Record News Review of Markets and Finance

WEAKNESS IN STOCKS PUTS PRICES DOWN

Securities and Commodities Fall Away One To 15 Points

NEW YORK, March 1.—Acute weakness developed today in all the principal securities and commodities markets. Stocks broke one to 15 points. Wheat sold off 3 3-4 to 6 1-2 cents a bushel and cotton futures declined 24 to 32 points, most of them touching new low levels for the year. Total stock sales were 2,501,000 shares, the largest of any session this year.

There was nothing in the day's news to account for the re-actions in the speculative markets, which Wall street was inclined to regard as an overdue correction of speculative excesses that having been taking place since last fall and which have been strikingly revealed in the sensational collapse of recent stock market pools. As a matter of fact, most of the day's news was favorable, including the publication of several 1925 earnings reports and the raising of the tobacco products dividend from $6 to $7.

The announcement before the opening that banking interests had taken over the holdings of certain groups which had been operating in American Brake, Shoe and Foundry foundation company and New York Canners all of which had recorded violent declines on Saturday, inspired sufficient short covering to give initial transactions a firm tone. Bear traders, encouraged by their success in covering weak spots and presumably taking advantage of the uneasiness of investors continued, however, to hammer at supposedly invulnerable issues, meeting with marked success in International Combusion Engineering, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth and a number of others.

As a result scores of stop loss orders which had been placed by frightened investors were touched off, and sweeping declines took place in many section of the list. Such high grade issues at United States common, American Smelting, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Mack Trucks, New York Central, Atchison, Union Pacific and Southern railway were driven down to new low levels for the year, although closing quotations in many cases were above the low levels for the day. U. S. Steel common rallied from a low of 122 1-2 to 123 3-4, where it was off 1 1-4.

American Can dropped from 334 1-2 to 317 and then rallied to 318 1-2, off 15 1-2 net. Foundation company dropped from 128 5-8 to 113, but snapped back to 116 1-2, off 10 points. Woolworth closed 10 1-4 points lower at 183 3-4 after having been as low as 180 1-2.

Call money renewed at 5 1-2 per cent but funds became more plentiful during the afternoon and the rate eased to five per cent. Time money which was available at 4 3-8 for some of the shorter maturities up until recently was quoted on a flat 4 3-4 per cent basis.

Commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were slightly around $4.85 9-16 and French francs reactionary. Demand sterling ruled around 387 cents. Norwegian kroner sagged six points to 21.38 cents and Polish zlotys broke forty points to 13.50 cents.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, March 1.—(AP)—The cotton market was again quite active today, heavy general selling being again reported. While there was some price fixing on the scale down and some placing of hedges most of the selling was in the nature of speculative short sales. There was a good rally from an early decline of 13 to 20 points on the theory that the decline had gone far enough and that the technical position of the market had stiffened, but after a recovery of 12 to 18 points on old crop positions, the market turned easier again in the afternoon on the continued fair weather in the belt and on fears of a bearish fertilizer report by Secretary Hester, expected in the near future, possibly tomorrow. All the active months made new lows in the late trading 28 to 37 points below the close of Saturday. The close was called steady, showing net losses for the day of 25 to 38 points.

At the start Liverpool was lower than due and first trades here showed losses of 9 to 14 points. The market continued to ease off after the opening until by the middle of the morning March traded down to 18.28, May to 17.83, July to 17.38 and October to 16.73, or 14 to 24 points below Saturday's close.

The market then developed a fair rally which carried March to 18.44, July to 17.50 and December to 16.78 or 5 to 18 points up from the lows. The rally did not hold, however, as the market weakened again in the afternoon and made new lows in the late trading at 18.32 for March, 17.70 for May and 17.50 for July or 28 to 37 points under Saturday's close. The close was near the lows.

Exports for the day totaled 77,223 bales.

Cotton futures closed steady at net decline of 24 to 31 points.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, March 1.—(AP)— With the exception of March all contracts in the cotton market today declined into new low ground for the season which carried December under the 17c level. The decline was attended by quite general selling. Final prices were virtually the lowest of the day and 24 to 32 points below the finals of Saturday.

The market opened barely steady and 12 points lower to two higher. Weakness at Liverpool and rather liberal selling for European accounts featured the early market here, together with pressure from the south and local selling in anticipation of further declines. News nearly all favored the bear side of the market as the weather has continued favorable throughout the south for spring work and there was evidence that southern spot holders have begun to weaken. Later in the day when lowest prices were reached, with May contracts selling at 18.35, October at 17.26 and December at 16.92, Wall street selling was a feature and the influence of weakness in stocks and wheat exerted a very depressing effect on cotton sentiment.

Most of the buying throughout the day was by local shorts who were covering contracts sold last week. Support from trade buying limits was less prominent than on previous declines, and some brokers reported that such buying orders in their hands had been practically cleaned up and that no new ones were coming in.

While some attention was directed toward the investment possibilities of cotton under 17 cents, there was little buying during the day that could be traced to this influence and it was believed that some change in the crop outlook must occur before present bearish sentiment in the market is relieved. Reports from the south said that good grades were beginning to be offered rather freely out of stocks and that offerings of these qualities might prove rather liberal unless something occurred to retard acreage.

Exports today 77,136, making 6,035,405 so far this season. Port receipts 29,693; U. S. port stocks 1,387,960.

CLAY COUNTY PLEA DENIED

Jacksboro-Petrolia Roads Must Wait Longer For Graveling

HENRIETTA, March 1.—Pleas of property owners living north and south of Henrietta for an extension of graveled roads out of this city toward Petrolia and Jacksboro were denied here this afternoon when the commissioners court declared it could not now spend the money needed for the improvements. The vote was a tie until Judge Williams cast the deciding ballot against the order to extend the gravel.

Commissioners Brown and Reeves voted in favor of the extensions and Commissioners Dishman and Hare voted against it.

Two important roads, one running south to Jacksboro and the other north to Petrolia, are now graveled only for a distance of two and one-half miles each way out of Henrietta. The request of the property owners was that the graveling be extended another two and one-half miles in each direction.

The commissioners assigned a lack of funds as the reason for denying the petition at this time. They have stated that if money is left after the main paving projects now under way through the county are finished, the graveling may be undertaken.

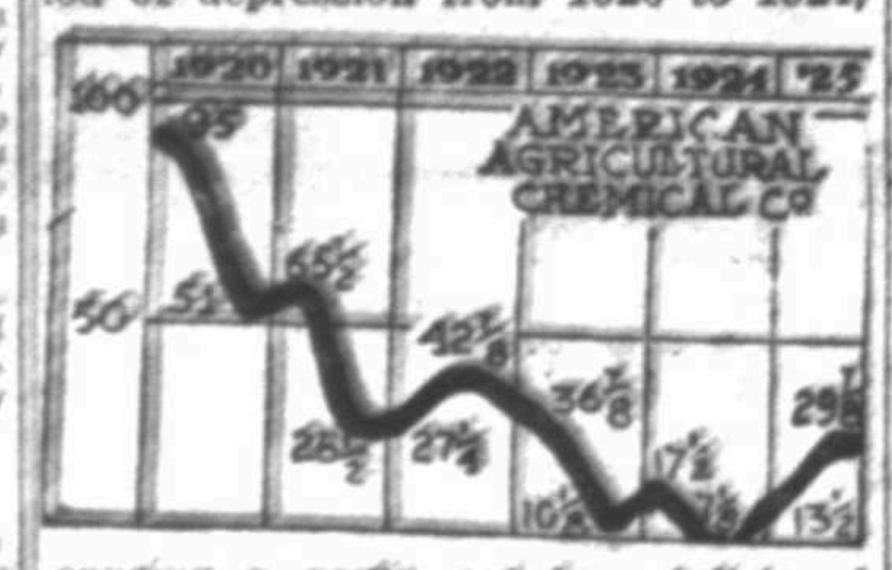

STOCK-A-DAY

Commercial fertilizers, bone black, glue, gelatine, grease and allied products are produced and sold by the American Agricultural Chemical company. The company was incorporated in 1899 and has acquired interests in some forty odd subsidiary companies in the same lines since that time. The company owns and operates 26 manufacturing plants in eastern states, has mines in North Carolina, Florida and Tennessee and sales offices in 10 cities.

Prior to June 30, 1925, the company owned some 105,000 acres of land in Florida containing over 90,000,000 tons of phosphate rock, although it is understood some of this land has since been disposed of. The company also controls 100 miles of railroad, connecting phosphate mines with tide water terminals. Some large concessions covering potash deposits in Spain have also been acquired.

Like other companies dependent on agricultural conditions American Agricultural Chemical suffered a period of depression from 1920 to 1924, causing a profit and loss deficit of $10,404,876 as of June 30, 1924. But inventory and bad debt loses have been written off and the properties are in good physical condition.

Capitalization consists of $28,455,200 outstanding in 6 per cent cumulative preferred of $100 par and $23,822,128 in common of $100 par. An issue of $2,444,000 in 5 per cent bonds are convertible into preferred stock par for par. Funded debt totals $29,723,500. Preferred dividends were passed in July 1921 and accumulations of Oct. 15, 1925 amounted to 27 per cent. Net income for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1925 was $2,045,814. As of that date current assets were 17 times current liabilities. About $1,300,000 in convertible bonds were retired in Oct. 1925 and $2,500,000 of a 7 1-2 per cent issue were called for payment on Feb. 1, 1926. The last common dividend was paid April 15, 1921.

COUNCIL ORDERS IN NEW PAVING

14 Public Hearing Held Monday Night At Meeting

Fourteen public hearings on paving projects of which ten resulted in the passage of ordinances carrying emergency clauses for immediate construction of the paving and three were postponed for one or two weeks, and another of which killed the project in question formed a principal item in the city's council business at its meeting Monday night.

One Fails to Carry

Of the fourteen projects represented by the hearings but one failed to carry, that being on Galveston street, Mill to Virginia. Three were tabled, one for two weeks, this being Avenue E, Monroe to Taylor, and two for one week, these being Indiana Thirteenth to Wichita Valley tracks, and Oak, Wichita Valley tracks to Mississippi.

Those in which the hearings were closed and the paving authorized included Seventh, Polk to lot 12, block 10, Floral Heights addition; Avenue O, Grant to Santa Fe; Princeton, Sibley to Twenty-fourth street; Sixth street, Scott to Lamar; McGregor, Marshall to Clark Buchanan, Avenue M to Avenue O; Sibley, Broad to Holliday; Holliday, Tenth to Eleventh; Avenue L, Grant to Hayes; and the alleyway of block 165, Seventh street to the paving.

Two contracts were awarded, both of these going to L. E. Whitham company. The projects involved were Collins, Bridwell to Grace, and Brook, Keeler to Speedway.

MISS HALL STARTS WORK

The formal assumption of the duties of county clerk wa completed Monday morning by Miss Elizabeth Hall, when the oath of office was administered to her and her list of 11 deputies approved by the commissioner's court. Miss Hall succeeds Mrs. Alma Y. Miller, who resigned last week, effective Monday.

The list of 11 deputies includes one new member to the county clerk's office, Mrs. Dora Davis.

"The Tough Guy" at the Mission

One seldom looks to the ever-popular and red-blooded Western feature for adroitness of characterization which marks a star of the screen as an actor of skill.

In "The Tough Guy" at the Mission theatre, however, Fred Thompson gives us something entirely new in the way of western characterization. It is this facility of expression, this ability to project the fine spirit of the role he interprets which is making the same Thomson one of the outstanding figures on the screen today.

The story by Howard Clifton brings Fred to us in the role of a cowboy who is compelled to play the tough in order to keep a restraining hand upon the roughnecks who serve under him. Here is an order, to be sure, for any actor. The thorough going manner in which the star presents the role is not the least attractive of the many features of "The Tough Guy."

R-F Finance Co. Increases Size

An increase in capitalization from $100,000 to $200,000 has been made by the R-F Finance company of this city, it was announced Monday by officials of the organization.

The company was organized here in June, 1924, and has enjoyed a remarkably successful business. It is owned entirely by C. H. Featherstone, Solon R. Featherstone and S. F. The company moved Monday from its old location on the ground floor of the Staley building to rooms 1020-22 of the same building.

Two Venires Drawn For Jack Russell

Two special venires of 100 names each were drawn by District Clerk A. F. Kerr Monday for the trials of R. J. Russell, charged with robbery with firearms on two indictments. The first venire was ordered to report at March 8, and the second at March 12.

Russell himself appeared in the courtroom to witness the drawing of the two venires, the appearance there being his first since the afternoon of January 18, when he received a second sentence from a jury of five years in the penitentiary, rising to his feet and thanking them for their leniency, and leaving the room to hold his jailers at the point of a gun and make his escape.

CITY TRANSFERS $36,000 FUND

Emergency Appropriation Is Passed to Provide For Deficit

More than $36,000 must be drawn out of the city general fund to defray expenses of the administration of the city's departments during the last two months of the fiscal year, it developed at a meeting of the city council Monday night when an ordinance appropriating $30,620 for expenses for February and March was passed on its first reading.

McBroom Makes Estimate.

The appropriation was based on an estimate drawn up by City Clerk W. E. McBroom as to just how much money would be needed over and above the amount provided for in the budget for the year. The amount was alloted between the various departments of the city as follows: administrative, $5,000; inspection department, $1,900; fire department, $15,980; police department, $12,000; engineer's department, $300; city clerk's department, $550; city hall maintenance, $200.

Approximately $15,000 of the amount asked for by the fire department is intended for the new fire station, it was pointed out. The largest other amount asked for over and above the amount provided for by the budget was allowed the police department, with an allotment of $12,600.

Is First Year.

This is the first year that an ordinance has been passed appropriating money for the amount necessary for expense above the amount allowed by the budget, for nthe past it having been the policy to allow the figures to "go into the red" the amount being made up in the succeeding year's appropriation.

The ordinance also provides for the appropriation of $30,000 for sewer construction and $80,000 for street construction out of the money obtained from the sale of the recent bond issue.

Chanters Raised Roof At M'Alpin When They Sang, Shepherd Reports

Maskat's chanters almost lifted the roof of the Hotel Alpine at New York this last week, Mayor R. E. Shepherd averred Monday night on his return to Wichita Falls from a tour with the chanters in the east where they have been making phonograph records. That is, the Chanters themselves never raised the roof, the mayor explains, but the music they made furnished the needed stimulant to throw New York's Rotary club, before whom they were singing, into a round of applause that almost turned the trick.

Mayor Shepherd stated that although the chanters' radio program was not heard as far west as Texas, telegrams of appreciation were received from all over the eastern part of the United States.

Mayor Shepherd arrived in Wichita Falls Monday afternoon in time to preside at last night's meeting of the city council. The chanters themselves will be back in the city sometime the latter part of the week, he stated. They are remaining over to complete making some records.
