

Down It Comes ★

The Record's Lena Marcom with her camera Monday recorded in sequence the downfall of a building front in Colorado City's downtown improvement program. From the first cracks, to the buckling of the wall and, then, the crash to the street. Uncovered with fall of the outer wall is the imposing all-steel facade as it graced the building when it was built in about 1882, corner of 2nd and Walnut. The steel facade was typical for buildings in the 1880's and similar fronts are covered by stucco at Masonic Lodge, Jordan and Simpson buildings in downtown Colorado City -- all built in the same period dated by lodge charter of 1882.

School, Hospital

Saturday Vote For 2 Boards

Separate elections here Saturday will decide 4 board places each for Colorado Independent School District and Colorado City Hospital District.

Expected to draw the most ballots will be the school board election with 5 candidate seeking the 4 available board positions.

The hospital district has a candidate line-up of 4 incumbents seeking return to their duties for another 2 years.

Polls will open for both at 8 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. -- school voters casting ballots at the school business office, 251 Walnut, and hospital voters balloting in Courthouse.

Two incumbents and two newcomers are on the school board ballot.

Candidates for re-election to new 3-year terms are school trustees Dr. W.J. (Dub) Waltrip, who himself has a doctorate degree and is head of Renterbrook Ranches, and Jeff Taylor, Enco dealer, former city councilman and twice Chamber of Commerce president.

Seeking their first term as school trustee are Truman Bodine, owner and operator of a dairy and egg firm and a Chamber of Commerce director; Ed Roach, prominent farmer in the Payne community and a member of the county's Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation committee, and Drew Ballard, owner of Radio Station KVMC and a Chamber of Commerce director.

Last year 297 persons cast ballots in the school district's election. One year earlier in 1969, the school ballot attracted 722 voters, one of the largest turnouts since the district was organized.

Unopposed on the Colorado City Hospital District ballot are Preston Morris of Fairview Community, selected by the Chamber of Commerce as outstanding farmer; William Landau, owner of Landau's specialty shop and a leader in all phases of civic activity; Rex McKenney, prominent Westbrook farmer with an outstanding record in agriculture, conservation and community projects; and Wayne Shawn, vice president of City National Bank and prominent in civic and church affairs.

Ag Drouth Aid Sought

Request For Grazing, Feed Programs

Federal emergency assistance programs are being sought for Mitchell County agriculture in the face of county-wide drouth conditions.

Decision to request aid came Monday and Tuesday in meetings of Mitchell County disaster committee, chaired by Curtis Latimer, chairman of Mitchell County Agriculture Stabilization & Conservation Committee.

Other members of the committee are Milton A. Stinson, local administrator for Farmers Home Administration; County Agent Bobby Lemons and Don Stewart, executive director for ASCS.

Initial action by the committee will be in a 2-step process:

First, request inclusion of Mitchell County in the federal Emergency Grazing and Haying Program.

Then, to broaden the emergency assistance to include the government's Livestock Feed Program.

Formal application to State ASCS headquarters in College Station was being prepared Wednesday.

The disaster committee said the action is necessary because of conditions resulting from only 12.1 inches of rainfall during the entire 12 months of 1970 and only a half inch of moisture in the last 5 months.

"Studies reveal that livestock water ponds in Mitchell County that have not been without water in 25 years of existence are now dry," emphasized Stewart, secretary for the disaster committee.

"Most pastures are completely depleted and breeding herds are being culled as much as possible," he added.

Lack of moisture is becoming critical also for cotton and feed grain farmers as planting time nears.

The Emergency Grazing and Haying program that is being sought for the county would allow use of acreage now set aside in the Conservation Agriculture Program for cover.

This would provide grazing with reduced payment -- $1 minimum first 2 months and 50 cents minimum the subsequent months.

Stewart pointed that an owner with CAP cover acreage without livestock could lease the acreage to another.

Participation in this program would be through individual approval by the county ASCS committee.

The Livestock Feed Program would allow eligible farmers and ranchers to buy corn and grain sorghum at reduced rate.

Also administered by the ASCS, this second phase of the drouth assistance program would obtain corn and grain sorghum from stocks of farm commodities.

"We are beginning this action for assistance early," said Stewart, "because this is a natural dry period for our county."

"Conditions are not critical now, but if there is no rain within the next 6 weeks, the disaster committee recognizes conditions then will be critical.

"And, because the committee realizes that processing of requests for emergency programs may require 6 weeks to 2 months, the committee is going ahead with requests for action now."

Stewart said there are no provisions now for a haying program but if conditions become critical, then this type aid may be sought.

* Gauge Finds A Home

Colorado City's rain and temperature gauge, booted off the Courthouse lawn March 24, has found a home.

It was installed Wednesday at the city's sewage disposal plant on the South Side.

U. S. Weather Bureau retrieved the valuable instruments from behind Mitchell County Library where the gauges had lain since being removed from county property.

The bureau employees came to town after being notified of the rain gauge's homeless plight.

City Manager J.A. Sadler Jr., always eager to save a municipal dollar, hatched the idea for the sewer plant location.

While the instruments reposed on the ground behind the library, he was reminded that the renovation of the sewage plant requires daily temperature and moisture records.

So, if the U.S. Weather Bureau furnishes the instruments for the record-keeping, then that many taxpayer dollars can be saved as the city brings its disposal plant up to state standards.

Drew Ballard, owner of Radio Station KVMC, had offered to take in the homeless rain gauge as a service to the community.

But, the Weather Bureau preferred the city's sewage plant location and the assurance of constant watch by city workers, and moved the gauge there.

Call For Telethon Talent

The call went out Wednesday for more talent for Colorado City's telethon that will feature Dallas television personality Verne Lundquist and Dallas Cowboy star Cornell Green.

"We have fine talent already for the show, but more is needed to keep the entertainment rolling all afternoon," reported Frank Prewitt.

The telethon is scheduled Sunday from 1 p.m. until 6 p.m. on in Colorado High Auditorium and will be broadcast live over Radio Station KVMC and Frontier Electronics Cable TV system.

Goal of the telethon is to See TELETHON Page 7

CONVERSATION CORNER

ONE THING this country always has is a special day for everybody. We celebrate Mother's Day, Father's Day, Veterans Day, Ground Hog Day, Washington's birthday. . . and so on and on and on.

Today, April 1, is April Fool or All Fools' Day so that nobody should feel left out of things. It's perfectly all right to fool people today if you can get away with it or to get fooled in case you forget what day it is.

Once upon a time nearly everybody observed April Fool--especially all the kids at school. But like Leap Year, All Fools' Day attracts little or no attention these days.

Congress did not even see fit to put April Fool on Monday so that we could all have another long weekend to fool around in.

Just the same it is April Fool whether most of us need a special day to fool foolish in or not.

MOST OF US can feel fairly foolish just almost any old day or night that comes around.

What makes you feel foolish? Well, any number of things are usually available.

Try taking the kids to school looking the way you look before breakfast and see what happens. You run out of gas. Or have a blowout on Hickory St.

Try helping some fifth grader with modern math. . . yelling "Come on in" when you momentarily expect a close friend and in walks the repair man.

Try telling a very funny story and forgetting the punch line. Try stooping over in those last season's slacks.

Try whispering in a crowd only to have it sound like a holler when everybody stops talking at once.

NOW THAT WORD "holler" is almost as passe' as the practical joker. But note with understandable glee that Vice President Spiro Agnew has been invited to holler.

Some man named Edmond Dowd, Jr., probably a whimsical Democrat, has asked Agnew to come take part in the third annual Hollerin' Contest at Spivey's Corner in North Carolina.

Invitation letter told the Vice President that he can either holler or make a speech, whichever he wants to do. Want to bet he doesn't do both?

That Hollerin' Contest is to salute days when eastern North Carolina farmers communicated by hollering--before the invention of the telephone.

THERE are, of course, hollering contests going on all the time. But most of them are stated unofficially in the average American home. . . football games. . . children engaged in verbal battles. . . and mothers calling in their young at dusk.

One husband knows quite well used to swear he could hear the mother of his progeny hollering out their names all the say down town on a clear day.

HOLLERING is far from a lost art. It is sometimes entirely necessary. Some preachers do it once in a while to keep the congregation awake.

Husband do it when they hammer their thumbs. Teachers have been known to holler when all else fails and they are completely exasperated. Checkers do it in super markets when they need a sack boy.

Doctors may do it when a contrary patient ignores advice. . . and lots of women do it at the sight of a spider, a mouse or a big black bug.

Children holler just to get their way. Nearly all politicians, lawyers, and public speakers do it to make a point.

Have a feeling Spiro Agnew does not do it for fun. But you've got to admit that he's one of the few people in the public eye who seems to be having much fun hollering just now.

Of course there is Martha Mitchell. She hollers over the telephone in the middle of the night so maybe she wouldn't be eligible to win that Spivey's Corner Hollerin' Contest.

April Fool!

SEEN LATELY were Jo Basinger and her mother Mrs. H. B. Cook on the grocery gathering scene. . . Howard Cox who was saying he and wife Elizabeth plan a spring vacation trip before long.

Swapped hello's with Mabel (Mrs. Frank H.) Kelley, Pat Kelley, wife of Jim, and daughter Wendy, pretty seventh-grader. . . Spied Elmer Martin mounting his pickup. . . Chief Deputy Forrest Smith at a refreshment break.

Greeted Ruth (Mrs. E.L.) Latham. . . Irene Robertson and her sister Lela Price. . . Jeff Taylor. . . J. O. Dockrey, Jr. . . H. B. Graves. . . Bobby Lemons, county agriculture agent. . . Evelyn (Mrs. Perry) Bowles looking beautiful in pink. . . Anne (Mrs. Bill) Cook and Mallinda Cook Wallace together. . . Otha Rice. . . Mary and R. J. Lloyd.

FAMILIAR FACES here and there places belonged to John Hale. . . Bob Reilly. . . Lovess (Mrs. Tandy) Curlee. . . Betsy (Mrs. Robert) Aycock.

Coffee crew one morning included Lou (Mrs. Joe) Landeros. . . Vera (Mrs. Erse) Simpson. . . Max Caswell. . . Toby Sanderson. . . Charlie Godwin. . . Luke Thomas.

Chatted with Rick Perkin. . . Maxine Brown. . . Ralph Sorrells. . . Mozelle (Mrs. George) Callender. . . Georgie Lankford of Westbrook. . . Mrs. J. A. Sadler, Sr.

BRIEF ENCOUNTERS brought glimpses of Etta Doss Motley (Mrs. W. R. Sr.). . . The Joe Blackards. . . Marie and A. C. Benson. . . Dr. and Mrs. J. Melvin Crymes. . . Barbara (Mrs. Carroll) Gray. . . The Swenson Boyds.

Also glimpsed Frank Prewitt

. . . Erdine Morgan. . . Glenn Crosthwait. . . Billie and Jimmy Harrison. . . Mrs. Jess Craddock of the LTNS (long time no see) department. . . Christy Whalley here for a Sunday visit from Midland--or is it Odessa?

OFF THE CUFF--New C-City proud grandparents are Guy and Ellon Burson and George and Mary Fugate. Burson son Tim and his wife Karen (nee Fugate) are parents of a son Jefferson Collins Burson, born to them at Root Memorial, Sunday, March 21, and weighing seven pounds, 14 ounces.

Tim arrived here from his US Navy station at Charleston, South Carolina, that Sunday night and visited his wife and baby until Sunday, March 28. He reported Monday at Norfolk, Virginia, for sea duty in Mediterranean waters.

Smile in the eyes of Virginia (Mrs. Raymond) Fuller Saturday was there because she received red roses from daughter Terry and her husband Larry Smith, Arlington teachers, on the occasion of the young couple's second wedding anniversary. Card with the flowers read "Thank you for our beautiful wedding!"

Have you seen that little lime green Rambler around town with personal license plates reading MONA MC? It belongs to Mona McCarley, daughter of the Kay McCarleys, of course. Mona was home for the weekend from Tarleton State College at Stephenville where she is a freshman student.

REASON FOR IT ALL

Attractions like Cornell Green, the great Dallas Cowboy All-Professional defensive back, and personable Verne Lundquist, the TV sports announcer, are enough to create tremendous interest.

There will be more, too, with variety talent from all across our community.

But there is a much more to the big telethon Sunday which will be staged in Colorado High Auditorium and broadcast over KVMC and our Cable TV.

Every bit of it all -- the special trip here by Lundquist and Green from Dallas, the entertainment and the busy workers -- will be entirely for Mitchell County Boys Club.

Come Sunday afternoon each of us should be ready to support the telethon. . . not only with our interest, but with our financial support so that our new Boys Club can carry out its worthy program.

Patricia Bell, Don Taylor Exchange Double Ring Vows

Westbrook Baptist Church Saturday evening was setting for the marriage of Miss Patricia Jean Bell to Don R. Taylor of Stamford.

The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bell of Westbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Taylor of Stamford are parents of the bridegroom.

Rev. S. L. Yeilding of Lamesa read double ring marriage vows in a seven o'clock ceremony. Mrs. Charles Ranne, pianist, accompanied Miss Jan Peters of Brownwood as she sang "Eternal Life" and "Wedding Prayer".

Church altar, backed by gold spiral candelabra in choir loft, was centered with prayer bench, seven and three branch gold candelabra, entwined with greenery, completed the setting. Family pews were marked with greenery.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

She wore a formal length gown of peau de soie, overlaid with polyester organza, made by her mother. The empire bodice of Alencon lace featured a scooped yoke of organza edged with lace motifs. Bishop sleeves of lace and organza were cuffed at the wrists.

Her headpiece of lace petals, outlined with pearls, was attached to a veil of illusion and her lace trimmed illusion train.

She carried a white Bible centered with cascading white roses, baby's breath and streamers of bridal ribbon and pearls.

Miss Sue Bell was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were another sister, Mrs. Tommy Sloane of Coleman, and Miss Nancy Roberts of Kermit.

They wore floor-length gowns of orchid peau de soie and polyester organza. Purple velvet ribbon defined empire waistlines.

They carried nosegay arrangements of seafoam statius in shades of orchid and purple, accented with purple carnations.

Candles were lighted by Sharlene Nelson of Beaumont, niece of groom, and Sharla Rollins of Westbrook.

Bobby Nelson of Beaumont, groom's brother-in-law, was best man. Johnny Massey of Oklahoma City, Okla., and Charlie Chenault of San Antonio were groomsmen.

Ushering guests were James Herman of Gainesville and Max Jones of Eden.

A reception in church Fellowship Hall honored the couple following their marriage.

Serving table was covered with white net and centered with a three-branch table candelabra accented by bridal attendants' bouquets and orchid love birds.

Members of reception house-party were Miss Liz Carleton of Odessa, Miss Lesley Collier of San Antonio, Mrs. Larry Bell of Odessa, Mrs. Bobby Nelson of Beaumont, Mrs. Rex McKenney, Mrs. Gerald Rollins, Mrs. Maxey Ware, Mrs. L. M. Dawson and Mrs. Altis Clemmer, all of Westbrook.

For their honeymoon trip the bride changed to a two-piece dress of purple crepe.

They will be at home in Brownwood where the bride is attending Howard Payne College.

A graduate of Westbrook High School she is a candidate for a bachelor of science degree in business education in July. She is a member of Gamma Beta Phi and Cap and Gown Honor Societies.

The groom, a graduate of Stamford High School, received a bachelor of arts degree in mathematics and business from Howard Payne. He is presently serving in United States Army and will be entering Officer Candidate School at Fort Benning, Ga., in April.

purple lovebirds and seafoam statium in orchid and purple.

Rule Clubwoman Gets 1970 Title

Mrs. Frank Campbell of Rule is 1970 Clubwoman of Year for Mesquite District.

Concluding the two-day convention was an afternoon dress revue.

She was named for the honor here last Thursday during closing luncheon of 11th Annual convention of Mesquite District, Texas Federation of Women's Club, in Civic House.

Principal speaker for the noon luncheon was Mrs. Philip Carpenter, state president of Texas Federation.

She told the more than 100 federated club women and guests that the club that says "there is no project to work on is dealing in nonsense."

Mrs. Carpenter expressed her belief that every town has problems that need attention of concerned women.

The state official spoke of drug problems, juvenile delinquency and liquor as targets for clubwomen.

In closing remarks she suggested, "Perhaps our greatest challenge is strengthening family life. . . Leading the petition for spiritual enrichment, quenching the thirst after knowledge and setting a day to day example of life with meaning and character."

In a morning session in First United Methodist Church Walter Grubbs, secretary for Congressman Omar Burleson, admonished those who "demand their rights but fail to be as demanding about their responsibilities."

and Mrs. A. R. Eaton of Rule, first in knit-crochet division.

One hundred, eighty-club women and guests registered during Wednesday and Thursday activities.
