PREVENT MEETING LEGISLATURE

BULGARIA TO FIGHT COMMUNIST WITH ALL ITS STRENGTH

ATTITUDE IS OUTLINED IN INTERVIEW BY PREMIER ZANKOFF.

ENLISTED MILITIA IS BEING RAPIDLY ARMED

Sofia Resembles City Occupied By Troops of An Invading Country.

SOFIA, Sept. 26. (AP)—"Bulgaria will fight to the last ounce not only her own battle, but the world's struggle against communism," said Premier Zankoff today in an interview.

He asserted that communism after shattering civilization in Russia was trying to do Bulgaria a similar injury.

"The third Internationale," he said, "plans to extend sovietism to the other Balkan states and then to sweep westward. In spite of our weakness we are determined to win the struggle or die in the attempt."

The premier referred to the limitations placed on the strength of the Bulgarian army by the treaty of Neuvilly and continued:

"Bulgaria is a firm believer in international disarmament, but with all her neighbors and the other European nations armed to the teeth the experiment of disarming Bulgaria alone proved the fallacy of the theory of leaving a helpless nation in the center of an armed camp."

The premier said that the allied governments through the commission of military control created by the Neuvilly treaty had authorized the Bulgarian government to increase the military forces in the country to such strength as was deemed necessary to cope with the trouble in the interior.

The newly enlisted militia is being rapidly armed. Fighting between the government forces and communists acting in conjunction with agrarians continued throughout Monday.

Carry Improved Arms.

Prisoners taken by the Bulgarian troops carry improved rifles of Russian design, while the tactics employed by the rebel officers strongly recall the methods used in the original bolshevik revolution in Russia. Men armed only with clubs and batons are placed in the van of well equipped troops which open fire as the unarmed vanguards are scattered by the fusillade of the regular soldiers.

Telegraph and telephone wires have been cut at many points in the southern part of the country. The work has been done in such a business-like manner that the complicity of government employes is evident. The minister of telegraphs and posts accordingly has decided to remove from the service all persons suspected of communism.

Sofia resembles a city occupied by an invading army, for soldiers wearing steel helmets and carrying fixed bayonets stand guard over all public buildings.

While order apparently has been restored in northern Bulgaria, the defeated communists show great recuperative powers in the southern part of the country.

The correspondent learned from government sources that the heads of all the diplomatic missions in Sofia, including the Jugo-Slav ministers, have given assurance that they will refrain from any action pending the efforts of the government to restore order. It is understood that the minister of Jugo-Slavia explained the presence of 50,000 of his nation's troops on the northern frontier by saying that such a show of force was kept there for the purpose of maintaining peace in Macedonia.

HAVE NO CONFIRMATION OF SENSATIONAL REPORT

LONDON, Sept. 26. (AP)—The sensational report printed here yesterday of the complete success of the revolutionary movement in Bulgaria receives no confirmation in later dispatches from any source.

The Morning Post, which carried the story, does not attempt to substantiate it and a brief telegram from the same correspondent today contains no mention of the rumor.

The other newspapers have detailed dispatches from Sofia under date of Tuesday. Even if these are considerably censored, they show that communication with the Bulgarian capital is still open and that the government is functioning.

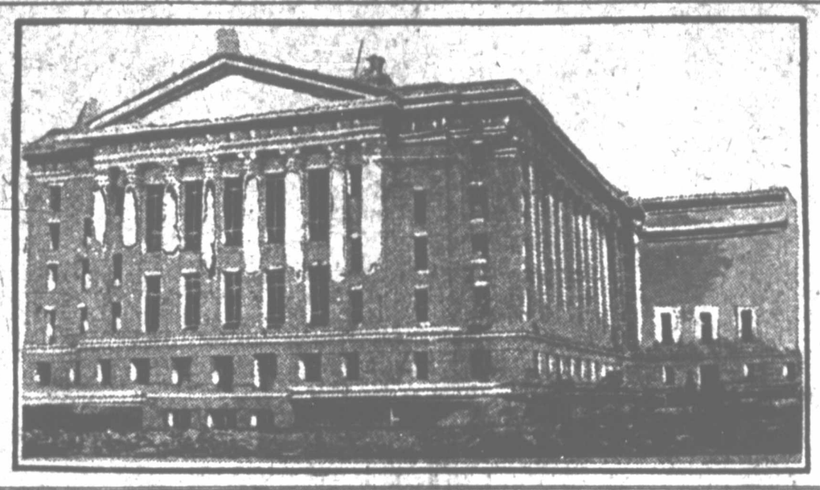

While the allegation that 20,000 have been killed in the disorders is dismissed here as absurd, it is evident that the fighting is fairly constant and that the casualties have been considerable.

"The communists and peasants, acting in conjunction, take the villages and as soon as troops arrive burn them and soon dispense," says the Sofia correspondent of the Daily Express.

Information received by the diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Telegraph induces him to take a graver view of the situation than is implied in the Sofia dispatches, which are strictly censor d. He writes:

"The Bulgarian government is endeavoring to maintain the fiction that the rising is mainly communist, but the latest information shows it to be predominately agrarian. The frequent defection of soldiers to the insurgents is confirmed. The Bulgarian government is thoroughly alarmed at approaching danger as the insurgent movement on Sofia is undoubtedly proceeding."

STATE CAPITOL BUILDING AT OKLAHOMA CITY

SEARCH FOR MAN SEEN WITH GIRL SLAIN SEPT. 3RD

MILLVILLE, N. J., Sept. 26. (AP)—Detectives trying to solve the mystery surrounding the slaying of Emma Dickson, 15 year old high school girl, planned to go to Philadelphia today to question a young man of that city with whom they declared their investigation had led them to believe could throw much light on the case.

Irma Hummell, a chum of the slain girl, has identified a picture of the Philadelphian as the man she saw in a motor car with Miss Dickson on September 3, the day of her disappearance.

Should finger prints on a blood stained plank discovered in the woods near where the body was found correspond to those of the Philadelphian, County Detective Frank Dore declared that he would be arrested and charged with the killing. The plank is believed to have been torn from the door of an underground shed located by the investigators yesterday near Port Elizabeth. A bloody hatchet was found in one of the two shed rooms and some of those working on the case believe the girl was attacked in the shed and her body taken in an automobile to the woods.

Miss Dickson's body will be exhumed today.

AUSTIN, Sept. 26.—Appropriation of $236,000 from the state bank guaranty fund was made today by the banking board to pay losses as result of the closing of the First State Bank & Trust Company of Taylor. Depositors will be refunded their entire deposits immediately, Bank Commissioner Chapman announced. The Taylor bank was taken over some time ago by the state department.

CONTINUE MIMIC BATTLE IN CAVALRY MANEUVERS

MARFA, Texas, Sept. 26. (AP)—The mimic battles being fought by the cavalry division of the army in the Big Bend district continued on their second day yesterday with the white and brown forces maneuvering against each other, but without either gaining any marked advantage.

Major Robert L. Howse, divisional commander, ordered all activities to cease at 1 o'clock in the afternoon after four or five hours of continuous "fighting." The battle was to be renewed this morning.

The maneuvers Tuesday were more spectacular than on Monday, as artillery, machine guns and airplanes were all brought into use by the two armies.

WILL URGE ADOPTION OF CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. (AP)—Decision to urge adoption of a child labor amendment to the constitution and entrance of the United States into the world court as the chief legislative aims of the National League of Women Voters at the next session of congress was reported at a three-day conference just adjourned of the league's executive committee.

The committee announced that it had made tentative plans to hold the 1924 convention of the league at Buffalo on April 6 to 13.

QUAKE DESTROYS 9 VILLAGES AND 22 ARE DAMAGED

ALLAHABAD, British India, Sept. 26.—Nine villages were totally and twenty-two partially destroyed by the earthquake which shook the vicinity of Bujnurd, Persia, last Thursday, says a message received from Meshed, northeastern Persia, today. The shock caused the death of 187 persons and the injury of 346.

The center of the disturbance was the Atrak river, along the line between Mana and Shirvan.

Automobile Parade Ushers in Electra's Second Annual Community Fair Wednesday; Many Entries

ELECTRA, Texas, Sept. 26.—Gay with bunting and flags, Electra ushered in her second community fair Wednesday morning with an automobile parade for the first feature on the program, and a splendid exhibit of livestock, agriculture, poultry, hogs and women's work, including various departments.

Mrs. L. M. Brown, driving a Dodge coupe, won first place in the automobile parade, receiving a $10 prise; second place was taken by Mr. Sadler in a Nash touring car, but was not claimed because of the fact that dealers were barred from competing; R. E. Scheurer in a Hup touring car took third place with a prise of $2.50.

A program has been planned for both afternoons of the fair, including contests and races, with liberal rewards for each event, and free band concerts will be held each evening.

The agricultural exhibits are good evidence of what can be accomplished under dry land farming conditions, with some mighty good tomatoes submitted by H. Barberick and Bill Smith, good melons shown by George Day, and a first class display of good solid corn raised for the most part over near the river.

Alfalfa hay exhibited by T. M. McClendon, superintendent of the agricultural department, showed what can be done in the sub-irrigated land northwest of town, Mr. McClendon stating that he makes five tons of alfalfa to the acre on his place.

A good show of dairy cattle is shown, including Holsteins and Jerseys, with A. L. Robb in charge, and beef cattle under R. J. Bradley.

The hog exhibit is superintended by J. C. Guyer, Duroes and Poland Chinas of a splendid grade predominating.

Poultry Department.

The poultry department, under the management of H. C. Obenhaus, includes the standard breeds and several coops of geese, ducks and turkeys. A coop of Naragansett turkeys, which are very unusual in this section of the country, is attracting considerable attention. These birds, exhibited by J. B. Clynch, who expects to have them at the Texas-Oklahoma and Dallas fairs, are unusually gentle and domestic, it is claimed, being a cross between a wild turkey and the White Holland.

A good horse exhibit is a feature of the fair with several classes shown under the management of N. D. Cooper.

In the women's and girls' departments, under the general direction of county home demonstration agent Georgia Lansford, the girls' club work is represented by Countyline, Enterprise and Barwise, with some good examples of the club work.

Mrs. T. M. McClendon, superintendent of home made conveniences, has a department very much worth while from a woman's viewpoint, with various articles for the lightening of household burdens.

The canning department is superintended by Mrs. N. D. Cooper and an extensive and attractive exhibit has been collected, showing all varieties of fruits and vegetables put up in numerous ways.

The culinary department under Mrs. Grace Jennings is a credit to the fair, as also is the art department under Mrs. George McGann, and the textile department, managed by Mrs. O. A. Wittenbach.

Some interesting relics are shown, including a quilt made by the grandmother of H. E. and L. J. Crawford in 1853, and a counterpane spun, dyed and woven by the grandmother of Mrs. N. D. Cooper in 1858.

The awards will be announced Thursday, it was stated by the committee in charge, W. C. Orr, W. G. Church and Earl Henby.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS AND MASONIC CLUB TO HAVE SOCIAL SESSION

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Sept. 26.—The Woonsocket Masonic Club and Woonsocker Knights of Columbus will meet on October 23 in a special session, according to announcements issued by both organizations here today. Plans are being made on a large scale for the gathering.

The project originated with the Masonic Club and the invitation extended to the local Knights of Columbus was enthusiastically accepted with the view of cooperation on common grounds and greater social intercourse between the two organizations.

Mary Garden Has Pills That Keep Women Slender

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Mary Garden, who arrived yesterday on the Olympic, announced that she had discovered something which kept her slender without any trouble. It is a "small light blue pill." She didn't say whether it had any other qualities or characteristics.

"When I retire from singing," she said, "which is a hazardous life any way, I shall make a fortune out of my pills, as all American women sooner or later want to reduce."

Miss Garden has been in Italy where she was much impressed by Premier Mussolini.

"He is so much like Henry Ford," she said. "They are wonderful men. They see into the future."

DEMOCRATS LEAD IN VOTE IN WASHINGTON

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 26.—With 86 precincts out of a total of 509 unreported this morning, Democratic leaders were proclaiming a victory for their candidate, Judge Samuel R. Hill, over State Senator Charles E. Myers, Republican, by a plurality of 359 votes. This is the first special congressional election since Mr. Coolidge became president. The vote over the entire district was light in spite of the pleas of leaders of both parties for a heavy turnout. Less than 42 per cent of the registered voters appeared at the polls.

The fight which was waged for national issues and received the attention of political leaders is not yet over, as there are more than 200 absentee votes to be counted, besides the precincts still out.

Stevenson, retired, of the marine corps, and Captain J. S. Allen, the other occupants, leaped from the machine as it left the pier and escaped injury.

STATE HEALTH SAFETY AND COMFORT LAW FOR BOTH MEN AND WOMEN

AUSTIN, Sept. 26.—The state health, safety and comfort act is applicable to both men and women workers, although the caption of the bill limits the regulations to women employes, the attorney general's department ruled today in an opinion to State Labor Commissioner Joseph S. Myers. The legal department declared in its opinion that the question of constitutionality of the act would be left to the courts, since there is a difference between caption and body of the law. The opinion was asked as result of complaints under the act.

FORT WORTH, Sept. 26.—Perfect baseball weather prevailed Wednesday for the second game of the Dixie series scheduled at Panther Park at 3:30 o'clock between the Fort Worth Cats of the Texas League and the New Orleans Pelicans of the Southern Association. Fort Worth won Tuesday. The score was 3 to 1.

BASEBALL TICKET LINE SHORTENED BY POLICE

FORT WORTH, Sept. 26.—Police helped shorten the baseball ticket line early today by making five arrests. About 1 a. m. two men angaged in a fight over the possession of a place. They both lost the place and $10 each in affray fines when taken to the central police station. At 5 a. m., just three hours before the sale of the Dixie series tickets started, three boys who had been in line for more than 24 hours staged a rumpus and were arrested. One of them had lost $12 and one of the others found it, according to police, but would not return it. In the end the finder lost his place in line and the $12. The loser got his money back, but lost 24 hours of waiting. The third, a friend of the finder, also lost his place. All three were released by police.

VALENTINE IS PAROLED BY STATE PRISON BOARD LAST OF FORTUNE GONE

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26. (AP)—Phillip C. Valentine, son of the late J. J. Valentine, former president of the Wells Fargo Express Company, will leave San Quentin prison today after serving one year of a sentence of from one to three years for running down and injuring Mrs. George Boyer of San Jose with his automobile. He is to accept employment in a lumber mill in Washington.

The last of Valentine's fortune, a trust fund of $35,000, was ordered paid to claimants against his estate yesterday by Superior Judge James Quinn in Oakland. Mrs. Boyer is to receive the residue of the estate after the payment of $5,000 to Valentine's wife and $1,000 to his attorney, Joseph Fainer. Mrs. Boyer, who holds a judgment of $52,925 against Valentine, is said to have made a settlement out of court with the other claimants.

Valentine was granted a parole Sunday by the state parole board.

DEFENSE RESTS IN CASE OF DR. C. A. YARBROUGH

MACON, Ga., Sep. 26. (AP)—After calling a few character witnesses to the stand in an effort to discredit testimony that had been given by prosecution witnesses in the trial of Dr. C. A. Yarbrough, Macon dentist, charged with rioting in connection with the flogging of W. O. Barnett, the defense rested its case this morning.

ASSESSORS WILL HOLD GATHERINGS AT COURT HOUSE

The delegates to the County Tax Assessors' convention of the state, which will be held in this city, October 3, 4 and 5, will hold their sessions in one of the district court rooms, second floor of the court house.

District judges are of the opinion that all the business for the week will have been disposed of by Wednesday morning, giving the delegates access to the court room. In view of the fact that the Texas-Oklahoma Fair will be in progress by this time it is believed that very little court matters will be attended to by attorneys during the week, which will of course mean that the rooms will be vacant.

The county judges and commissioners, who also hold their annual session in this city on October 5 and 6, will meet in one of the district court rooms of the court house.

No Testimony By Defense in Trial Of Walter Ward

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 26. (AP)—A sensation equal to that of yesterday when the state abruptly ended its prosecution came today at the trial of Walter S. Ward, charged with murdering Clarence Peters of Haverhill, Mass., when the defense announced to the court that it rested its case without submitting any testimony.

After announcing that the defense rested, Isaac N. Mills, chief counsil for the defense renewed his motion that the indictment be dismissed and the jury be instructed to return a verdict of acquittal, but Justice Wagner again denied all motions.

Mr. Mills then began the summation of the defense.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 26. (AP)—Isaac N. Mills, arguing for the acquittal of Walter S. Leader of Legislative Move Says Governor Wins Temporary Victory But Declares Plan Not Abandoned

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 26.—Campbell Russell, former chairman of the state corporation commission and a political enemy of Governor Walton, was arrested this afternoon in the lobby of the hotel where the legislators were congregating. The arrest was made by the executive's civilian operatives.

Russell was taken to military headquarters at another hotel. A crowd of several hundred persons followed through the street. It is not known what the charge against Russell was.

Russell was taken from the military headquarters to the city jail and locked up.

The police blotter showed that Russell was charged with "disorderly conduct and attempting to incite riot."

He had been distributing pamphlets attacking the governor when arrested.

STATE HOUSE, OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Sept. 26.—Oklahoma's "rebel" legislators were dispersed by the military at noon today when they attempted to convene a special session of the lower house to seek the impeachment of Governor J. C. Walton.

Colonel William S. Key, military commander of Oklahoma county, at 11:58 this morning read to members of the lower house the order of Governor J. C. Walton forbidding the assemblage of "any or all members of the legislature during the present period of unrest."

He ordered the legislators to disperse immediately and refused to amplify or explain his order in any manner when approached by leaders of the lower house.

The law makers began to disperse immediately without any show of resistance to the order of the military commander.

At 12:05 p. m. all of the legislators had left the corridor outside the house chamber and the military were alone in command of the building.

Colonel Key read his orders to the assemblage outside the house chamber. There was no violence or bloodshed.

At 11:49 a. m. the legislators grouped themselves within 25 feet of the door to the house chamber. New sentinels were posted by the military and Adjutant General Markham took his position at the entrance to the chamber.

The call for the session was formally filed with the secretary of state five minutes before noon. It bore 66 signatures. Fifty-four constitutes a majority of the house.

Colonel R. A. Sneed, secretary of state, declared he would file the document in the archives of the state where it will be a part of the state history, "the most glorious public document in the history of Oklahoma, a new Magna Charta of American liberties, and a rededication of the state to the principles of constitutional government."

There was a momentary pause, armed officers moving through the crowd barked out orders to "leave the building," and without a word the house members began to depart from the rotunda.

Within five minutes the scene of the clash between the solons and the military was cleared.

With the atmosphere charged to a fever pitch Charles S. Brice, speaker pro tem of the house, attempted to call the house members to order.

Brice had barely raised his hand and said: "Gentlemen of the house—" when Colonel Key, stepping up, broke in and in a loud voice called on every one in the crowd to remain motionless. He then read the order prohibiting the session as follows:

"Pursuant to special executive military order, issued by Governor J. C. Walton, of Oklahoma, and commander in chief of the military forces of said state, addressed to the adjutant general, forbidding the gathering or assembly in a pretended session of any or all members of the Oklahoma legislature at the state house in Oklahoma City at 12 o'clock noon of September 26, 1923, or at any time or place within the state during the present period of unrest, it becomes my duty, by direction of the adjutant general, to enforce the provisions of the governor's order. Now, therefore, I, William S. Key, as military commander of the district of Oklahoma county, forbid this attempted meeting and direct that you disperse immediately."

When Colonel Key had completed his reading D. A. Stovall, of Hugo, representative from Choctaw county, asked the military commander if he "had the full force of the state national guard behind the order." Colonel Key made no reply.

W. E. Disney, representative from Muskogee, then asked if the gathering was being dispersed "as a legislature or as individuals."

"You are being dispersed as a legislature," Colonel Key responded.

The doors of the house chamber never were opened and throughout the entire proceeding none save the military approached nearer the chamber than the military guard stationed about 20 feet in front of the main entrance.

The house members left the capitol almost in a body for their caucus headquarters at a downtown hotel.

Scene Unprecedented.

The scene that attended the dispersal was unprecedented.

The house members and newspaper men were grouped as closely as possible to the entrance of the chamber when Brice, from the back of the crowd and across the open court that pierces the rotunda, suddenly made an effort to call the session to order.

There was a shuffle as members sought to gain places of vantage. The sharp command of the guard commander to "stand where you are" arrested the movement.

Women and girls who had fringed the crowd about the house entrance were caught in the midst of the floor as the members faced about and all stood silently while the order was read.

Then in groups of twos and threes the crowd scattered.

For a moment the situation took on a threatening aspect. There was determination written on the face of Colonel Key as he issued his command to the legislators to disperse at once. He spoke in a harsh voice that left no doubt as to his determination to carry out the orders of his superiors.

A moment of suspension followed. The crowd seemed taken aback at the suddenness of the action and the change in demeanor of the armed guardsmen posted around the rotunda.

There was, however, no indication of resistance and within the span of a few seconds the assembly broke up.

Not more than 200 persons witnessed the scene.

Dispersed at Hotel.

Members of the legislature went from the capitol to their headquarters in a local hotel. They were met by about 10 of Governor Walton's armed operatives in civilian clothes and informed that there could be no session of the house of representatives in the hotel. Several leaders of the movement left immediately far another hotel.

"We have met the enemy and we are temporarily theirs, but the meeting of the legislature has just started," W. D. McBee, leader in the special session call, declared after the attempt to meet at the capitol failed.

Legislators to Stay.

W. E. Disney, representative from Muskogee county, declared the "legislators will be in Oklahoma City three months."

A meeting of the house legal committee was in progress at a down town hotel within an hour after the legislators were dispersed.

It was believed that no other attempt to convene the session would be made at once.

Several alleged secret operatives of the governor were ordered from the legislative headquarters at the hotel by R. A. Singletary, representative from Oklahoma county. They left without protest. None of them were known to the legislators.

A formal statement issued by the legislators at their hotel headquarters shortly before 2 o'clock declared that "this fight has just begun."

Representative McBee told The Associated Press that legal action was being prepared by attorneys for the assemblymen. He would not indicate in which court the petition for legal redress would be filed or when the action would begin.

"We have legal right to assemble both as citizens for redress or grievances and as members of the house of representatives and as a body to inquire into the state of public affairs," said the statement of the legislators.

Fight Has Just Begun.

"The fight has just begun.

"We have been acting in a peaceful and lawful manner and will continue to do so and the people of the state are assured that nothing will be left undone to see that order is brought out of this chaotic condition and that the dignity of the law is vindicated and constitutional government with all three branches thereof properly functioning, reestablished in this state.

"That is the only issue and we absolutely refuse to be diverted from it by any pretext whatever, notwithstanding we have just been by the bayonet dispersed from meeting at the great capitol of this state, and that we are shadowed at our private rooms and elsewhere at the instance of the governor of this state, and not permitted even to hold a caucus in our private rooms without some form of intimidation."

No Caucus In Room.

Major J. J. McCartney called upon Representative McBee shortly after 2 o'clock and obtained a promise from McBee that no caucus or assembly would be held in his rooms. McBee's suite has been used as legislative headquarters.

When the legislator gave his word

NECESSITY FORCES GERMANY TO QUIT; APPEAL TO PUBLIC

DECLARE THAT NO PART OF GERMAN TERRITORY WILL BE CONCEDED.

REVIEWS RECENT HISTORY OF PASSIVE RESISTANCE

Neither France Nor Belgium Will Receive Formal Notice of Action.

BERLIN, Sept. 26. (AP)—President Ebert and Chancellor Stresemann announced in a formal proclamation today that the German government had been compelled through bitter necessity to end the Ruhr battle. Adherence to passive resistance, said the document, would have brought on the economic collapse of Germany and consequently would have threatened the livelihood of the German people.

The government appeals to the nation to stand by the republic in the present hour of "severest soul searching and material privation, as only thus can the nation's honor and life be conserved."

The proclamation lays emphasis on the statement that under no circumstances can a particle of German territory be conceded to another power.

The nation is assured that the government will do everything possible to obtain restoration of "elementary human rights" for the German nationals evicted from the Ruhr and the Rhineland.

The history of passive resistance is reviewed by the document, which sets forth that 150,000 men, women and children have been driven from their homes and firesides, while many millions no longer have any conception of personal liberty.

More than one hundred of our fellow citizens have been forced to lay down their lives, it continues, "while hundreds are still languishing in prisons."

"The entente now is able to give Germany peace," the document declared.

Neither France nor Belgium will receive any formal notification of the German government's decision to call off passive resistance, it is stated, it being assumed in official quarters that the government's proclamation gives due notice of that action.

BERLIN, Sept. 26. (AP)—Now that the action of the German government in terminating passive resistance only awaits formal ratification by the reichstag, the government faces the gigantic task of getting the Ruhr industrial sector back to anything like an approach to normalcy.

While the tacit withdrawal of the orders to the resisters is believed to be sufficient official notification that the resistance has been called off, some of the more pertinent questions asked by political observers concern the manner in which the government hopes to win back its economic fundamental in the Ruhr and Rhineland without clashing with the French and Belgians who now control the mines, railways and telegraphs.

Not less serious in its ramifications is the existing social and labor situation, for the government is immediately confronted with the necessity of inaugurating far flung relief measures not only in food and fuel, but also in unemployment pensions.

So far the government is without the slightest inkling as to the manner in which the occupying powers will respond to the new situation. Advices from the occupied area express apprehension that France is determined to profit by the consternation and confusion by actively attempting to promote her Rhineland plans.

A special dispatch to the Tageblatt from Duesseldorf says the French contemplate a decisive step within the next 10 days.

BABY CARRIAGE ROBE TO BE PLACED ON EXHIBIT

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 26. (AP)—The baby carriage robe knitted by Mrs. Calvin Coolidge which received honorable mention in the recent National Knitting contest, will make its only public appearance tomorrow at a pageant in the Ambassador Hotel.

Permission was granted to use the robe on the perambulator of nine months old Albert Johnson. Baby Albert, thus glorified, will be wheeled to fame at the hand knitting fashion pageant, arranged as part of the American Bankers' Association convention program.

After the pageant the cover will be returned to the white house and held in keeping for the first Coolidge grandchild.

PRESIDENT NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE GOES BEFORE GRAND JURY

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Seymour L. Cromwell, president of the New York Stock Exchange, today appeared before District Attorney Banton and refused to answer questions concerning his recent address at Atlantic City in which he alleged that politicians had attempted to tamper with stock exchange officials on behalf of bucket shop operations.

Ferdinand Pecora, chief assistant district attorney, later announced that Mr. Cromwell would be taken before the grand jury for immediate examination.

PREVENT MEETING OF LEGISLATURE

of honor Major McCartney departed, apparently satisfied.

McBee protested about the guard of state secret service men stationed outside his door, declaring that "the governor's gunmen are attempting to intimidate us."

Major McCartney replied that the military authorities had no jurisdiction over the state operatives.

A dozen legislators and newspapermen were gathered in McBee's rooms visiting when the guard officer arrived.

To keep down the crowd inside the suite the secret service men forced those seeking admittance to enter singly as some person departed.

Operatives of the governor's office are a unique addition to the law enforcement machinery of the state that came with the Walton administration.

Their status is undetermined except that they exercise in general powers ordinarily held by peace officers.

They are separate from the military, taking orders directly from the governor and are paid from funds appropriated by the state legislature "for the extraordinary protection of the state."

They are named by the governor and have been the subject of many attacks on the executive by his opponents who declared their authority rests principally "in the persuasion of a six shooter."

Later military orders were issued that any one coming out of McBee's room could not return.

The order was communicated to those in the suite during the momentary absence of McBee and his wife.

Returning, they were advised that they would not be permitted to enter their rooms.

"Do you mean to say I can not enter my own rooms," McBee asked the officer.

"Those are the temporary orders," the captain replied.

"Well, I am outside and I am going in," the legislator responded and stepped into the room with Mrs. McBee.

He was not arrested.

MEMBER OF LEGISLATURE ADMITTED TO CAPITOL

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 26. (AP)—Three house members of the Oklahoma state legislature left their hotel downtown shortly after 10 o'clock for the state capitol where they have been called to meet in extraordinary session to consider impeachment charges against Governor J. C. Walton.

As the legislators left their hotel for the capitol W. E. Disney, state representative from Muskogee county, announced that 64 names had been signed to the petition for the extraordinary session.

The first of the legislators who arrived at the capitol building were met at the outer end of the driveways by military men carrying policemen's clubs and side arms. They were allowed to enter the building singly.

Only members of the legislature and those bearing military passes signed by Governor Walton were permitted to enter the building.

The principal arteries leading to the capitol were crowded with traffic from 10 o'clock on with multitudes of towns people bound to see the attempted assembling of the law makers.

Representative Frank M. Boyer of Tulsa and Marshall Smith of Hominy were the first house members to enter the capitol.

By 11 o'clock a dozen members had arrived.

Inside the capitol the military wore side arms. Two sentinels posted at the door of the hall of the house of representatives carried service rifles. Across the corridor a similar guard was posted at the entry to the senate chamber.

Other house members arrived in rapid succession. Representative McBee announced as he left for the capitol that the proclamation calling the extraordinary session and bearing the names of sixty-four members of the lower house would be filed with the secretary of state.

BOTH SIDES DETERMINED ACCORDING TO LEADERS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 26. (AP)—Oklahomans will witness today a spectacle unprecedented in the history of the nation—the attempt of the lower house of their state legislature to meet in defiance of military pressure brought to bear by Governor J. C. Walton. It is the day for action when deeds will replace the threats and counter threats hurled by the opposing forces through the press.

Noon is the hour set for the show down.

Out of the maelstrom of public opinion there has arisen the picture of an inevitable clash between national guard troops posted at doors of the house chamber in the capitol and the determined solons bent on impeaching the governor for alleged misuse of his official prerogatives. But more sober observers foresee a peaceful meeting between the opposing forces without violence, without bloodshed.

The ring of steel against steel and the sharp crack of rifles will not disturb the silent, marbled corridors of the state house if plans of the legislators are followed. For there will be no force exercised on their part if they are denied admittance to the legislative halls. Instead, they expect to go quietly to the capitol and as quietly leave, once they see the way barred.

They have announced they will not force the governor's hand in his threat to shoot to kill if that is necessary to prevent the assembly.

Court Action Expected

Court action will be the only recourse, they say. And Governor Walton declared he will welcome a test of his action in the courts.

An air of tense expectancy prevailed in the city early today as additional units of the Oklahoma national guard arrived to reinforce the troops already mobilized. Strict censorship of troop movements prevented an accurate count of the military forces, but it was estimated that fully 500 were in the field.

Both civil and military authorities took all possible precautions to prevent demonstrations. Under orders originating at military headquarters groups of three or more persons on the streets were being dispersed in order that nothing could be said to inflame the public mind. Everywhere individual speculations were heard, but these indicated an eagerness to learn the outcome rather than any thought of violent participation.

No crowds were permitted to collect around or inside the capitol this morning. Only state officials with business within and newspaper men were allowed to enter the building.

Little Trouble Expected

Despite Governor Walton's order directing the use of all force of arms and men necessary to prevent the meeting, the belief was expressed in well informed quarters that only a very small show of military force would be made in halting the legislators. This opinion gained strength with the issuance by Adjutant General E. H. Markham of an official command to the house members not to try to meet, although there was nothing in the decree itself to indicate what action the troops contemplated.

"Noon will find us at the capitol, unarmed and unmolested," was the answer of Representative W. D. McBee of Stephens county to the order. "We stand where we always stood. We will meet pursuant to our signed call."

Early today 69 members of the house had signed the call and predictions were made that at least a dozen more names would be added before noon. Fifty-four constitutes a majority of the house.

At least eight other members of the house were listed by observers as favorable to Governor Walton, seven were considered "doubtful" and no expression had been obtained from nine others.

With the meeting at the capitol almost sure to be prevented it is expected that the legislators will attempt to gather elsewhere in the city later, compelling the military authorities to arrest them under the governor's martial law edict barring "unlawful assembly." This, it is predicted, would pave the way for proceedings either in the United States district court or the supreme court to determine the legal status of the session.

Appeals to President

A telegraphic appeal by Governor Walton to President Coolidge last night asking that the government prevent the use of the local federal building for the session brought a quick response from the white house that regulations prohibit the use of government buildings except for United States business. The governor acted to forestall such an attempt after reading a news item in a local publication which quoted Federal Judge John H. Cotteral as saying he saw no reason why his court room in the federal building could not be used by the law makers. The judge denied the statement attributed to him.

A meeting of the house members seeking his impeachment would be prohibited by Governor Walton on the ground that more than a majority of the house are members of the Ku Klux Klan.

St. Louis Police Find Woman and Husband Dead

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 26. (AP)—Police today called to the home of Mrs. Elmer H. Long, 25 years old, found the woman and her husband shot to death. There were five bullet wounds in the woman's body and Long was shot twice near the heart. Long, who was 28, until recently was a sergeant in the Sixth infantry, U. S. A. Neighbors said the couple had been estranged and Long had visited his wife on a number of occasions lately in an effort to effect a reconciliation.

Near Long's body was found a .45 caliber automatic army pistol.

In the room on a slate was written "Paul Coulter, Atlanta, Ga., box 128," and a letter headed "Dearest Paul" and signed "Your Loven Little Mama." In the letter the writer said she rather would be dead than living as she was at present, adding "I know I would never be happy with him any more."

The Housewife's Golden Hour

Her golden hour is that extra hour of leisure which the housewife gains. Just an hour in which she may free herself from every duty and spend as she elects, means much to her. Thousands of Wichita Falls housewives have found a way to gain that golden hour. They read the Grocery section of the Wichita Daily Times each Friday.

And because this section is literally Wichita Falls grocery market, the housewife may compile her list of food supplies and know before she leaves the house just what she wants, where she is going to get it and what each item will cost her.

And, too, here is found each Friday, an article on food products by a noted food specialist.

BUSINESS COUNCIL MAY DISCUSS NEW CITY TAX SYSTEM

Discussion of a change in the present city tax system probably will be taken up at the business council luncheon Friday, October 5, when the council will have for its guests the county tax assessors and judges of the state who will hold their annual convention here. The matter of installing the unit system of taxation in the city office will be submitted to the business men for their approval and it is believed that valuable suggestions can be obtained from the visiting county officials of the state.

The decision to put the matter before the business council in order to secure their views was reached at a joint meeting of the county commissioners, members of the irrigation board, school board and the city council, Tuesday night, when representatives of Stoner-Gallagher-Gross of the Manufacturers Appraisal Company submitted their respective systems of valuation.

George G. Ehrenborg, of the Manufacturers Appraisal Company, explained the merits of the Somer system of taxation, of which his company is the owner. J. S. Smith, representative of Stoner-Gallagher-Gross, pointed out the necessity of a change in the local system and suggested the installation of the Stoner system.

H. J. Anderson, former city tax assessor, and Irvin Deaton, county tax assessor, spoke briefly of the inequalities in valuation which resulted in the present system which was being used in the city and county offices.

MUST BE GOOD TO MAKE STATE FAIR RODEO GRADE

His penchant the production of the biggest rodeos in the country, Tom L. Burnett, millionaire Texan and owner of the Triangle Ranch, who will produce the State Fair Rodeo at Dallas, as the feature attraction for each afternoon of the second week of the fair, October 27-28, has sent forth a dictum.

"None but the best need apply," he has said. "The going will be rough, and only the most expert can expect to survive."

Every ranch owner in the west has had the call from Burnett, to send as the representative of his particular domain, his crack roper, bulldoger or rider.

Burnett is fully posted in every branch of cowboy sports and the requirements he lays down for his rodeo productions are of the most stringent character. For that reason it is asserted that the State Fair contest in calf roping, broncho busting, trick riding, fancy roping, steel bull-dogging, wild horse races, wild steer riding and the like, will be of the most thrilling nature. The prizes, it is said, will be sufficiently attractive to bring to Dallas the greatest assemblage of expert talent ever assembled in the southwest. Burnett's following among western cattlemen is the largest of any rodeo producer in the country.

Already the word has gone forth to the Burnett scouts throughout the west, to gather the most untamable, human hating, outlaw bucking horses; the wildest long-horned Mexican steers and the trickiest Brahmas to be found, with the fleetest of calves from the open ranges, for use in the State Fair contests. With the assembling of the many score trained cow ponies, and with 200 or more expert riders, it is declared the melting pot at Dallas will soothe with spectacular interest.

GOOD SONG SERVICE AND EVANGELISTIC SERVICE ARE HELD IN BIG TENT

At the big tent, Tenth and Kemp, Tuesday evening, there was a good song service, Evangelist Baucom read a portion of Luke 20, and took for his text verse 25: "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's."

"If baptism, good works, church membership, are not essential to salvation, why have or practice them?" he asked. "What's the use of them? They are acts of obedience attesting salvation; they are fruits, not causes, of salvation. Just settle the questions—first, what is the plan of salvation according to the New Testament? And what is New Testament Baptism? And all difficulty is past. The Lord's Supper is within the church. Christ said, 'If ye love me ye will keep my commandments.' 'Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you.'

"The world is robbing God by consulting convenience, popularity, instead of simply obeying. The world is robbing God in money, talents, time and influence. Man cannot get away with robbing God. For instance, we cannot decorate the Sabbath, or dishonor our parents, or break those commandments and get by with it; God will make us pay, though we get by our fellowman.

"Man does owe an obligation to Caesar. There is the home; man must not rob God to adorn his home. Man is under obligation to take care of the poor and helpless, but not by robbing God. 'Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you.' Matt. 6:33. Acts 4:12: 'There is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved.' The tree is known by its fruits."

The Tangle

Letter From Leslie Prescott to Leslie Prescott Care of the Secret Drawer

It has been a week since I wrote you before, little Marquise, and such a hectic week.

In the first place Jack went to New York with Harry Ellington and when he came back he informed me he was sitting on the rim of the world—whatever that may mean. He insisted on taking me out to the smartest place in town for dinner and to dance and when I arrived there I found Harry Ellington and Ruth.

I'm really very fond of Ruth, little Marquise, for with all her foolish vanity she is a real woman and I believe Harry Ellington has had a great deal to do with her flirting propensities. I do not like him at all.

That night Harry said something rather ugly to Ruth to the effect that she was the most conspicuous woman in the room in her very decollette gown and her bobbed, henna-colored hair.

I though she was very lovely and I'm sure that Jack did, too, but poor Ruth's eyes filled with tears. I guess I was rather interfering in what was none of my business but I could not help saying, "I think Ruth is much better looking and much less conspicuous than that moving picture actress, Edith Chapman, who is sitting over there and I notice you have danced with her twice this evening and had a very beautiful look on your face while doing it."

Jack kicked me under the table and Harry gave me a furious glance but I didn't care. I thought it was horrid of Harry Ellington to say those things to his wife, especially as he had been flirting outrageously with the Chapman girl all the evening.

Just at that moment Walker Morris strolled over and I was very glad of it. Notwithstanding Harry Ellington's glum glances, he asked Ruth to dance. Ruth was about to refuse but I gave her a look which told her to go on and dance with him. Perhaps I was all wrong, little Marquise, but I just hated to think that Harry Ellington could go into all sorts of unknown paths picking primroses and then come back expecting to find such a gorgeous flower as Ruth hiding away from mortal eyes. I have never yet known a woman who really enjoys it "to blush unseen."

I can't understand what Ruth sees in that man, said Harry viciously.

He probably tells her her gown is exquisite and that she is beautiful, instead of calling her gown conspicious and her hair unnatural."

"Why, Leslie, I never knew you to scratch like a cat before,".

"Well," I said, thoroughly indignant, "I never yet have believed that it took two entirely different kind of sauces to make both the goose and the gander palatable."

"Very clever, Mrs. Prescott, but rather radical, don't you think?"

In saying this he laid his hand on my arm and I jerked away impetuously. In some way my pearls, which I foolishly had been wearing, wound around my arm, caught on the chair back and the first thing I knew the string had broken and they were scattered all over the floor.

HINKLE-SNYDER MARRIAGE SOLEMNIZED ON TUESDAY

A pretty home wedding Tuesday evening celebrated the nuptials of J. G. Hinkle of Roanoke, Va., and Miss Velia Mae Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Snyder, at the Snyder residence, 1622 Lucile.

The marriage service was said at 8:30 by Rev. S. A. Barnes, Mrs. E. C. Brown playing the wedding march with the violin accompaniment by Miss Martha Oster. The bride and groom entered together into the living room, which was beautifully decorated with roses and fern, and stood before a simulated altar of flowers. The bride wore a beautiful going-away suit of beige and carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lilies. After the marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Snyder entertained the friends and relatives present with a reception in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Hinkle, during which the pretty bride's cake was cut and served with pink and white brick cream.

The young people left Tuesday night for a short wedding trip which will terminate in Sherman, Texas, where they will make their home. They received many beautiful gifts.

Out of town guests at the wedding included the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Fehr of Denison.

McKinney Man Gains 30 Pounds On Tanlac

"Before taking Tanlac I couldn't eat anything but raw eggs and grape juice; even a drink of water would stir up trouble in my stomach," is the striking statement made, recently, by R. H. McMinn, a well known farmer, living at 909 South Tennessee street, McKinney, Texas.

"This indigestion had weakened me down to where I could do nothing but lay around the house. I was just about as poor as a snake and seemed to be flirting with the undertaker. I actually felt like I would rather not live than suffer such agony.

"Finally I made up my mind to give Tanlac a thorough trial and bought five bottles, and when I finished them my whole outlook on life was changed. I had gained thirty pounds and felt like a brand new man with a brand new stomache. I owe my life, as well as my good health, to Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills are Nature's own remedy for constipation. For sale everywhere.—adv.

Riding Devices Clinch; People Rush to Rescue

Limits vs. Chevrolet.

Bang, they crashed at Eighth street and the alley between Indiana and Scott streets. The crashing of metal fenders and the noise of a loud blowout, resulting from the crash, was heard for several blocks. More than a hundred people rushed to the scene and scores of heads were projected from office building windows.

A young woman driving a Ford touring car and a woman piloting a Chevrolet touring car were the principals in the case. The Ford, rambling out of the alley, collided with the other machine which was milling down Eighth street. The startled women laughed at the affair as soon as they realized what had happened, and smiles appeared on the faces of spectators when they witnessed the result of the collision.

No one was injured, and the only damage incurred was two smashed fenders, a flat tire and some badly bent riding rods.

Several minutes after the crash, two bluecoats meandered up to the automobiles and inquired about the occurrence. When facts were told them, they continued to their respective beats.

LUBBOCK CELEBRATION IS SEEN IN PICTURES

International News Reel, showing at the Strand Theater today only, carries several views of the big Texas Technological College celebration recently staged at Lubbock, site selected of the new state school. Included in the scenes are sections of the street parade and Governor Neff delivering his address on education.

NO LONGER DREAD PIMPLES

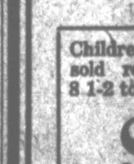

No better news could be given people who suffer the embarrassment and disappointments these skin disfigures subject them to than the announcement made by the world's best-known skin specialists that a few years after the universal use of Black and White Ointment recently perfected will show a positive decline in such skin diseases as pimples, blotches, eczema, rash, tetter, breaking out, etc.

This prediction is already coming true, judging from the tremendous demand for this Black and White Ointment. It is already selling at the unprecedented rate of nearly two million packages a year, and dealers everywhere are enthusiastically recommending it to their friends and customers. It is economically priced, in liberal packages. The 50c size contains three times as much as the 25c size.—adv.

Garments are being offered at prices greatly in excess of ours which do not equal the intrinsic values ours represent. On the other hand, garments are being sold at lower prices, but—the inferior quality makes them higher priced regardless of figures.

You have heard the soap box orator denounce "capitalism" and all its representatives. You have instinctively shuddered as he drew the picture of the fat, smug monster who grew fatter on the fruits of child labor, of seven days of long hours for labor, who pursued pleasure while workmen and their families starved, who always profited by periods of depression. That is a small part of the picture of capitalism we commonly hear painted with passionate and reckless oratory.

Well, if anybody is a representative of capitalism we suppose it is the president of the American Bankers Association. J. H. Puelicher holds that position. Mr. Peulicher has just said some things that contradict the soap box idea of a capitalist. He wasn't speaking at a meeting of parlor socialists either. He was making the president's annual address to the American Bankers Association. He was defending the capitalistic system but was frank enough to recognize that it was not perfect.

"The capitalistic system," he said, "has brought to all the people more comfort and greater leisure than has any other thus far tried system. Its higher evolution demands that, with the further development of the machine, there must be given greater consideration to the development of the man. If we wish to preserve the good which this system brings to humanity, we must abolish in it whatever is bad and detrimental to progress, to happiness, to liberty. Those men who have courageously and honestly demanded that the evils of the capitalistic system be corrected, should command our admiration and respect.

"There should be no child labor. It it is impossible to restrict it legally, the moral force of the entire capitalistic system should protect child life and child opportunity. It begins with protecting womanhood and motherhood, compelled to labor, and is intelligent self-interest, intelligent self-preservation.

"There should be no seven day labor week. There should be no unduly long hours of labor, undermining the health of workers, and even where this is not true, preventing them from having proper leisure for family life, for self-improvement, for recreation.

"There should be no treacherous business cycle with its inflation or deflation, excessive wages or unemployment, 'feast or famine.' Industry should seek levels which would result in constant production, avoiding excesses which lead to suspension of operation, resulting in home-destroying unemployment.

"Our Americanization efforts, meagre and too long postponed, have left vast multitudes of immigrants unfamiliar with American institutions, American ideals. The advantages of American political and economic life have been accepted by too many of our newly adopted citizens without understanding. Should future immigration be viewed from the standpoint of greater material wealth for the already wealthy America, or should America insist on a quality of citizenship that will conserve the character and integrity of her institutions?

"Any system of society can last only if its adherents promptly abolish evils as they develop. If this is not done from within, be assured it will be forced from without by those who will destroy with the evil all that is good."

THE INTERPRETATION OF ARTICLE 10.

Article 10 was the pretext upon which the United States senate refused to ratify the Treaty of Versailles of which the League of Nations covenant was a part. It was charged that this article would compel the United States to furnish armed forces to be used upon the orders of the League. Supporters of the League in that fight contended that the article did not go that far and that it could not supercede the constituted authority of congress.

The Treaty and the League with it were rejected and the discussion so far as this country is concerned is now an academic one. But this very point has been a subject of discussion within the League itself. A resolution declaring an interpretation of Article 10 has just failed because in the Assembly of the League requiring an unanimous vote the representative of Persia voted against the resolution.

The resolution provided that the constituted authorities of each state alone should have the right to determine to what extent military assistance should be accorded other nations if their integrity were threatened. This was the interpretation given the article by the supporters of the League in America. It is interesting to note that only one representative in the assembly voted against this interpretation. The Persian representative has announced his willingness to submit the question to the permanent court of international justice.

Never mistake a hunting license for a permit to hunt trouble.

Burn the dead leaves this fall. Never sell them to cigarmakers.

ELUSIVE JOY.

Savages on South Sea islands get more satisfaction and happiness out of life than we do with our incessant pursuit of the dollar. Dean Charles R. Brown, of Yale Divinity School, makes this comment. It is open to argument. But happiness certainly requires more than material possessions.

For instance, the early American pioneer who farmed his 10-acre clearing in the forest undoubtedly was happier than the modern farmer with his fields stretching as far as he can see.

The happiest people seem to be the ones with simple wants. It doesn't take much to satisfy them. That's why there's something appealing, to all of us, in the home simply and comfortably furnished, with a touch of luxury here and there. On the same principle that the young woman who can afford only one diamond gets more real joy from her lone diamond than the rich woman with diamonds galore.

Recently we visited a home that cost $50,000 to furnish. It had about everything that any one could desire. But gradually the impression grew on the visitor that the furnishings were too fine. Like living in a candy shop, compared with having a candy appetite and only a pound of bon bons available.

Our civilization is machine-made. We've been passing through a period of big production mania. As if the way to happiness were to heap our country to overflowing with autos, garments, furniture, etc.

The result: All dressed up and no place to go.

We'd rather be a boy living in a log cabin with a radio than a prince in a palace.

Nights are so long now you can get home before daylight.

EDGAR A. GUEST

LINES FOR A FRIEND'S HOUSE.

God bless this house and all within it.
Let no harsh spirit enter in it,
Let none approach who would betray,
None with a bitter word to say.
Shield it from harm and sorrow's sting,
Here let the children's laughter ring,
Grant that these friends from year to year
Shall build their happiest memories here.

God bless this house and those who love it,
Fair be the skies which bend above it.
May never anger's thoughtless word
Within these sheltering walls be heard,
May all who rest beside this fire
And then depart, glad thoughts inspire,
And make them feel who close the door,
Friendship has graced their home once more.

God bless this house and those who keep it.
In the sweet oils of gladness steep it,
Endow these walls with lasting wealth,
The light of love, the glow of health,
The palm of peace, the charm of mirth,
Good friends to sit around the hearth,
And with each nightfall perfect rest—
Here let them live their happiest.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BORNE ON BY OTHERS.

There are many people who have next to no home at all but who really live in habitations greater and grander than any palace.

I refer to those who live in other people's hearts.

And so day by day beautiful lives bud and bloom. Kindness, gentleness, courage, tolerance, patience are distributed throughout this strange and troubled world, and one man's influence is multiplied time and again.

Each of us is borne on by others—by the love and thoughtfulness of those who understand us and who lead us when we feel too discouraged even to inquire the way.

It is a good thing that many of us may be dominated by stronger natures until we are able to dominate ourselves.

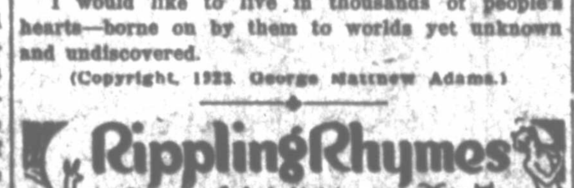

How a mother's love carries us on, even after that love has melted into the golden atmosphere of silence and mystery.

I like to see in parks and public places the figures of those who have stood for something of permanence in the world. These figures are filled with silent inspiration, and as we study their lives, we are reminded that we too may aspire and become great if we will but emulate those things for which they fought so courageously.

How little we really own. How indebted we are to all who have gone before us with lighted torches bearing high the watchwords of their success.

I would like to live in thousands of people's hearts—borne on by them to worlds yet unknown and undiscovered.

(Copyright, 1923, George Matthew Adams.)

THRIFTY.

For years I've been cautious and thrifty, I salted the dimes as they came, and now that I'm two score and fifty, you see me ahead of the game. I toiled with conspicuous ardor, and went to the bank with the tin, and now I have pies in my larder, and bacon and spuds in the bin. And fellows who blew in their earnings, who squandered desirable dough, are busted and sick with their yearnings for comforts they never shall know. All day through the streets they are drilling, and seeking, from dawn until dark, some job that will bring them a shilling, some graft that will yield them a mark. I see them, the weary old walkers, I see them and pity them all; for they should be perched in their rockers, each one in his opulent hall. In beds that are silken and classy they all should be able to snore; they all should be chipper and sassy, with never a wolf at the door. If people would save in life's summer, life's winter would find them serene, with bundles of coin that a plumber might view and with envy turn green. Alas, it is idle, this preaching, my sermons have always been spurned; the people are seeking and reaching for new ways to blow what they've earned.

TODAY

Watch the top.
48 times happy we.
Do you gently inhale?
The horse and the ashes.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1923, The Star Co.)

Five thousand bankers, in convention, were assured yesterday that everything would be all right in the best possible of world's but for "socialism, communism, syndicalism and dangerous advocacy of government ownership."

Many of the five thousand bankers are intelligent gentlemen, and reading history they know this:

Radicalism becomes dangerous at the bottom only when prosperity and power becomes foolish at the top.

Bulgaria is torn by revolution; peasant friends of the murdered Stamboulisky are determined to avenge him and kick out their king.

We are fortunate, with forty-eight different nations tied up as one. Anything can happen in one of the forty-eight states without seriously disturbing the others.

In Oklahoma the governor orders the soldiers to "shoot to kill" if the legislature attempts to meet and impeach him. It's all about the ku klux klan, etc. In Europe that would be enough for a wide revolution. Here it is just "news" from one state. The beauty of it is that the forty-eight united nations have free trade among them, protection from the outside. Our ancestors were wise, and we are fortunate.

Do you inhale your cigarette smoke, chin in the air and forehead thrown back. And do you then proudly blow it out of your nose, up toward the ceiling, saying, "if you don't inhale, you don't really smoke?"

It may interest you to know that inhaling tobacco smoke means absorbing into the system eight times as much nicotine as non-inhalers absorb. A learned German professor proves it.

Bear in mind also that when your nose is in the air inhaling tobacco smoke, you are not thinking. That's loss of time. You can't think with your nose in the air. Thinking makes the forehead turn downward.

Life is strange. Henry Ward Beecher would have found a text in the west bound Aquitania, bringing Papyrus, the great English race horse, and the ashes of Princess Anastasia, American woman of great wealth, married to a brother of the Greek king. A live horse means more than a dead princess. Wireless messages from the world tell you that Papyrus is well in his thickly padded stateroom. Bar Gold, another horse brought to keep him company, is seasick. No word by wireless or otherwise about the sad journey to her homeland, of the American princess. It is all over for her.

The Franc continues its upward dance. Finance thinks France has won. So she has, although with one side disarmed, there is not as much glory in holding the Ruhr as there was in holding Verdun.

The London stock market was a little more cheerful yesterday, but not too cheerful. Our stock speculators did not share the European stock exchange cheerfulness. They were gloomy.

The broker that recently asked people to gamble with him by selling Francs short, isn't feeling happy today, if he did, since there isn't any short selling.

The government has sold the heart of Muscle Shoals plant to a corporation and that ends Henry Ford's attempt to get the great water power. It ends also the possibility of his carrying out his promise to give the farmers cheap fertilizer and it gives Ford and the farmers permanent possession of a very good complaint—if they ever want to use it in politics.

All London went grouse shooting yesterday. It is called sport. Men hide in "butts" each with a servant to load his gun for quick work in killing. The birds are driven by beaters toward the "butts" and butchered as they fly over. It isn't as bad as the old cowardly pigeon shooting, but nearly as bad.

In a few years hence it will no longer be called sport.

The break has come in Germany. The French now may do as they please in the Ruhr and the French plan, originated by Marshal Foch, is to establish an independent Ruhr republic, a Catholic national entity, separate from Protestant Prussia. According to European correspondents, that programme, outlined more than a year ago in this column, is the definite programme now.

The New York Central railroad shows earnings more than 200 per cent higher than they were a little while ago, and New York Central stock, recently one of the lame ducks, is strong. Apart from increased rates which all the roads enjoy, it is largely a matter of management. An able man means a profitable railroad, the other kind of man means a failure. There are more dollars in personality than in locomotives or cars.

A PUZZLE A DAY

Off to the links is now their cry,
For golf is man's ....;
Be not .... or slow,
.... hit, the ball will go.

Can you fill in the missing words? Each word is spelled with the same eight letters.

Yesterday's Answer.

If an automobile took a left curve at too high a rate of speed, it would go around on its right (or outside) wheels; not (as a great many people will maintain) on its left (or inside) wheels; not (as a great many people in an outward direction; that is why a sharp left curve is raised on the right, or outside; to give the automobile an inward tilt to counteract its tendency to fall outward.

ESCAPE.

Imprisonment is mild compared with the agony of hiding from the police, says Joseph Lundy, Boston lawyer. The fugitive lives in constant terror of arrest. He is ever waiting for the thing he dreads most—capture. In many cases they are caught because they become frantic from guarding their secret and "have to tell somebody."

Worst of all, man cannot escape from himself. He is his own judge and jury, whether his crime is murder or a petty act of meanness.

GERMANY DECIDES TO EAT

By MORRIS

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Bess Gilbert, Ned Cornet and the latter's fiancee, Lenore Hardenworth, are shipwrecked. They take refuge on an island where they find a man named Doomsdorf, who promptly makes the three his prisoners. He tells them that the only other inhabitant of the island is his Indian wife.

The prisoners are allowed to build a cabin for themselves. Lenore is not inclined to labor so she flatters Doomsdorf and he allows her to remain with the squaw while he drives Bess and Ned until they fall unconscious.

Bess and Ned are given different trapping routes. Together they plan an escape from the island and, through Lenore's treachery, Doomsdorf hears of their arrangements. He follows them out on the ice and forces them back toward his cabin.

Now Go On With the Story.

They walked almost in silence, Ned in front, then Bess, their captor bringing up the rear; a strange death march over those frozen seas.

The file trudged on. Ned led the way unguided. The hours passed. The dim shadow of the shore crags strengthened. And another twilight was laying its first shadows on the snow as they stepped upon the snowy beach.

It was at this point that Bess suddenly experienced an inexplicable quickening of her pulse, an untraced but breathless excitement that was wholly apart from the fact that she was nearing the cabin of her destiny. The air itself seemed curiously hushed, electric, as if a great storm were gathering; the moment was piognant with a breathless suspense. She could not have told why.

A moment later Ned turned to her, ostensibly to help her up the steep slope of the beach. She saw with amazement that his face was stark white and that his eyes glowed like live coals. Yet no message was conveyed to Doomsdorf, tramping behind. It was only her own closeness to him, her love that brought her soul to his, that told her of some far-reaching and terrific crisis that was at hand at last.

"Walk exactly in my steps!" he whispered under his breath. It was only the faintest wisp of sound, no louder than his own breathing; yet Bess caught every word. She did not have to be told that there was infinite urgency behind the command. Her nerves seemed to leap and twitch; yet outwardly there was no visible sign that a message had been passed between them.

Now Ned was leading up toward the shore crags, into a little pass between the rocks that was the natural egress from the beach on the hills behind. He walked easily, one step after another in regular cadence; only his glowing eyes could have told that this instant had, by light of circumstances beyond Bess' ken, become the most crucial in his life. And it was a strange and ironic thing that the knowledge he relied on now, the facility that might turn defeat into victory, was not some fineness gained in his years of civilized living, no cultural growth from some great university far to the south, but merely one of the basic tricks of a humble trade.

Doomsdorf had told him, once, that a good trapper must learn to mark his sets. Any square yard of territory must be so identified, in the mind's eyes, that the trapper can return, days later, walk straight to it and know its every detail. Ned was a trapper; and he knew this snowy pass as an artist knows his canvas. He stepped boldly through.

Bess walked just behind, stepping exactly in his tracks. Her heart raced. It was not merely because the full truth was hidden from her that she walked straight and unafraid. She would always follow bravely where Ned led. Now both of them had passed through the little narrow gap between lofty, snow-swept crags. Doomsdorf trudged just behind.

Then something sharp and calamitous as a lightning bolt seemed to strike the pass. There was a loud ring and clang of metal, the sharp crack of a snowshoe frame broken to kindling, and then, obliterating both, a wild bellow of human agony like that of a mighty grizzly wounded to the death. Ned and Bess had passed in safety, but Doomsdorf to his knees; yet so into the great bear trap that Ned had set the evening before.

The cruel jaws snapped with a clang of iron and the crunch of flesh. The shock, more than any human frame could endure, hurled Doomsdorf to his knees; yet so mighty was his physical stamina that he was able to retain his grip on his rifle. And the instant that he went down Ned turned, leaping with savage fury to strike out his hated life before he could rise again.

He was upon him before Doomsdorf could raise his rifle. As he sprang he drew his knife from its sheath, and cut out a white path through the gathering dusk. And now their arms went about each other in a final struggle for mastery.

Caught though he was in the trap, Doomsdorf was not beaten yet. He met that attack with incredible power. His great hairy hand caught Ned's arm as it descended, and though he could not hold it, he forced him to drop the blade. With the other he reached for his enemy's throat.

This was the final conflict; yet of such might were these contestants, so terrible the fury of their onslaughts, that both knew at once that the fight was one of seconds. These two mighty men gave all they had. The fingers clutched and closed at Ned's throat. The right hand of the later, from which the blade had fallen, tugged at the pistol butt at Doomsdorf's holster.

Bess leaped in, like a she-wolf in defense of her cubs, but one great sweep of Doomsdorf's arm hurled her unconscious in the snow. There were to be no outside forces influencing this battle. The trap at Doomsdorf's foot was Ned's only advantage; and he had decoyed his enemy into it by his own cunning. It was man to man at last; a cruel war settled for good and all.

It could endure but an instant more. Already those iron fingers were crushing out Ned's life. So closely matched were the two foes, so terrible their strength, that their bodies scarcely moved at all; each held the other in an iron embrace, Ned struggled with his left hand at the fingers that clutched his throat, Doomsdorf trying to prevent his foe from drawing the pistol that he wore at his belt and turning it against him.

It was the last war; and now it had become merely a question of which would break first. They lay together in the snow, utterly silent, motionless, for all human eyes could see, their faces white with agony, every muscle exerting its full, terrific pressure. Ever Doomsdorf's fingers closed more tightly at Ned's throat; ever Ned's right hand drew slowly at the pistol at Doomsdorf's belt.

Neither the gun nor the strangling fingers would be needed in a moment more. The strain itself would soon shatter and destroy their mortal hearts. The night seemed to be falling before Ned's eyes; his familiar, snowy world was dark with the nearing shadow of death. But the pistol was free of the holster now, and he was trying to turn it in his hand.

It took all the strength of his remaining consciousness to exert a last, vital ounce of pressure. Then there was a curious low sound, muffled and dull as sounds heard in a dream. And dreams passed over him, like waves over water, as he relaxed at last, breathing in great sobs, in the reddened drifts.

Bess, emerging into consciousness, crawled slowly toward him. He felt the blessing of her nearing presence even in his half-sleep. But Doomsdorf, their late master, lay curiously inert, his foot still held by the cruel jaws of iron. A great beast-of-prey had fallen in the trap, and the killer-gun had sped a bullet, ranging upward and shattering his wild heart.

All this was just a page in Hell Island's history. She had had one dynasty a thousand thousand years before ever Doomsdorf made his first track in her spotless snows; and all that had been done and endured was not more than a ripple in the tides that beat upon her shores. With a new spring she came into her own again. Spring brought the Intrepid, sputtering through the new passages between the floes; and the old island kings returned to rule before ever the masts of the little craft had faded and vanished in the haze.

The Intrepid had taken cargo other than the usual bales of furs. The sounds of human voices were no more to be heard in the silences, and the wolf was no longer startled, fear and wonder at his heart, by the sight of a tall living form on the trails. The traps were moss-covered and lost, and the wind might rage the night through at the cabin window, and no one would hear and no one would be afraid.

The savage powers of the wild held undisputed sway once more, not again to be set at naught by these self-knowing mortals with a law unto themselves. Henceforth all law was that of the wild, never to be questioned or disobeyed.

Even the squaw had gone on the Intrepid to join her people in a distant tribe. But there is no need to follow her, or the three that had taken ship with her. On the headlong journey south to spread the word of their rescue, of their halting at the first port to send words and to learn that the occupants of the second lifeboat had been rescued from Tzar Island months before, of Godfrey Cornet's glory at the sight of his son's face and the knowledge of the choice he had made, of the light and shadow of their life trails in the cities of men, there is nothing that need be further scrutinized. To Hell Island they were forgotten. The windy snow fields knew them no more.

Yet for all they were bitterly cruel, the wilds had been kind, too. They had shown the gold from the dross. They had revealed to Ned the way of happiness—and it led him straight into Bess' arms. There he could rest at the end of his day's toil, there he found not only love and life, but the sustenance of his spirit, the soul of strength by which he might stand erect and face the light.

Thus they had found a safe harbor where the Arctic wind might never chill them; a hearth where such terror as dwelt in the dark outside could not come in.

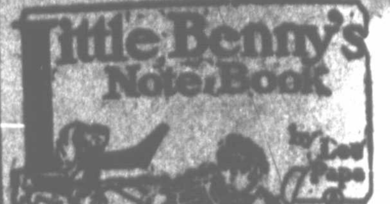

THE END

TROUBLE.

With the perspective of a few weeks, the most interesting angle of the Japanese earthquake was the promptness with which the Chinese rushed help to the Japanese, whom they generally hate.

Shiploads of rice were hurried to Japan from China. In our country the Chinese Merchants Association rounded up contributions of many thousands of dollars for Japanese relief.

Trouble makes strange bed-fellows, makes the lion lie down with the lamb. Humanity is in need of a series of natural catastrophes to make people forget their hatreds and cooperate for mutual good.

Tomorrow is my sister Gladdises berthday, and I asked ma for money to buy her a present with and ma gave me 50 cents, saying, You awt to be able to get something reel nice with that.

Texas Viewpoints

Reaping the Whirlwind

Denison Herald: From the seed of intolerance, religious bigotry and racial hatred sown throughout the state by a masked organization wrapped in the livery of assumed righteousness, Oklahoma is reaping a whirlwind of discord and civil strife. With martial law prevailing throughout the state, the habeas corpus writ suspended and all civil authority revoked temporarily, it is but a step farther to a condition of chaos that will go down in history as Oklahoma's black night. Whether conditions are as deplorable as pictured by the governor is not for an outsider to say. They may be exaggerated. The chief executive may have gone off into a tantrum and abused the power lodged in his hands by the Constitution. But the fact is inescapable that no conditions ever arose, no provocation ever presented calling for such a drastic measure to preserve order and protect citizens in the enjoyment of their civil rights until the tentacles of the Ku Klux Klan reached out and grasped within its coils every county in the state. The allegation that the organization has attempted to erect a super-government may not be true; but it is distressingly significant that in every community and in every county where its strength is greatest and where more outrages against the person have been committed, investigation has disclosed the names of practically all officers, not even excepting the judiciary, on its roster of membership. And then, in order that public opinion may be controlled in so far as possible, the pulpit has been invaded and ministers of the gospel enrolled under its banner. Because of its first appeal being made to elected officers and wearers of the sacred cloth does not itself condemn the organization or signify that its intentions and purposes are wholly wrong. But taken in connection with other circumstances and eventualities following its establishment in a community, the suspicion that it is attempting or has attempted to usurp power belonging entirely to the state is not altogether baseless.

The Herald has never charged the klan with commission of the numerous outrages credited to it. The Herald, in the absence of proof, would hesitate to say that any band of men, organized or unorganized, would convert themselves into a mob to inflict punishment upon a citizen. But The Herald did say when the klan was showing its greatest activity in the beginning, that whether it was guilty of the crimes laid at its door or not, the circumstances of its organization and the manner of its operation would lead to the commission of outrages by persons knowing that the masked and robed klan would be held responsible. And, it is to be regretted, that where such events have transpired, officers who are members of the klan have failed to uncover and bring to justice the perpetrators. Had they been as active and as zealous in running down authors of these offenses as they were others, critics of the klan would have had nothing to say with respect to its failure to uphold and aid in the enforcement of the law. Admitting for the purpose of argument that the klan has been improperly and wrongfully charged with the evil attributed to it, the what good deeds can it point, what wrongs has it righted, what misery has it dispelled save the charities it has practiced? And these could have been extended without the cover of cowl and mask or in the darkness of night. If the mere fact of its existence brings discord in communities, creates prejudices, arouses the bitterness of religious antagonisms and appeals to race hatreds, does not that condemn it as agency for good? And it can not be gainsaid that has been its record, in the light of which the future holds no promise of better things.

GAS COMPANY HAS TAKEN APPEAL TO R. R. COMMISSION

AUSTIN, Sept. 26. (AP)—Appeal from the decision of the city of Wichita Falls in declining to grant a 50 cent service charge for gas in that city was taken to the railroad commission today by the Municipal Gas Company of Dallas. The company's petition, filed by J. H. Haskell of Dallas, will be heard by the commission late today.

Immediate steps will be taken to have the hearing of the Municipal Gas Company, which according to word received here, will come up before the state railroad commission, Wednesday afternoon, continued until testimony can be obtained and representatives of the city of Wichita Falls can appear before the commission, according to W. L. George, city attorney.

Although Mr. George expected the case to be taken before the railroad commission, the matter surprised him when he was notified Wednesday that it would be heard Wednesday afternoon.

He declared that the city, after failing to obtain a permanent injunction in the district court at Sherman, and after the temporary injunction was dissolved, immediately appealed the case to the court of civil appeals at Dallas, and the case is now pending before that court.

Plans for the city were to have an expert engineer and accountant appraise the property of the Municipal Gas Company and audit its books. In this manner testimony of value would be received on which the city could base its protest against the 50-cent service charge in Wichita Falls, which the gas company is demanding, Mr. George stated.

Mr. George said Wednesday afternoon that he would immediately get in touch with the railroad commission and request that the case be continued until the city could be represented.

City Attorney George declared late Wednesday afternoon, after obtaining information about the case declared the hearing Wednesday afternoon was only a request of the municipal Gas Company asking the state railroad commission to review the case between the city of Wichita Falls and the company. Mr. George stated that if the commission deems it wise to give the concern a hearing after reviewing the case, the hearing will be scheduled within 60 days at Austin.

By that time the city can prepare testimony and be represented before the railroad commission, Mr. George asserted.

SCHOOLS IN GOOD SHAPE, CANTWELL TELLS LIONS CLUB

Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of city schools, spoke to the Lions Club at their regular weekly luncheon at the Kemp Wednesday on the plans outlined for the school year. Dr. Cantwell said that the outlook for a profitable year was gratifying to school authorities and to the patrons and that the crowded condition which was at first feared would exist in all the city school buildings had been greatly relieved. He outlined briefly the organization of the school work locally and told of the plans that were being made for the next semester when the new Junior College would be ready for occupancy.

The club voted to adopt the model charter which is being successfully used in other clubs in the state and which has been under advisement for some time locally. The new charter provides for payment for luncheons only and eliminates the usual club dues required in the old charter. Members who were absent at the Wednesday luncheon were requested to arrange with C. C. Riley at the Marion Hotel for reservations at luncheons during the month of October.

Donahoe, but is now occupied by J. H. Stephens, whose loss is estimated at around $1200, partly covered by insurance. The fire had gained a good headway before arrival of the fire department which did excellent work on its arrival and a serious conflagration was averted as a result.

FORD TO RESTORE AND OPERATE WAYSIDE INN

SUDBURY, Mass., Sept. 26. (AP)—"I intend to restore the Wayside Inn as nearly as to its original condition as possible and then operate it both as a museum and as a tavern," Henry Ford said today. The manufacturer recently purchased the tavern made famous by Longfellow.

"I take a very deep interest in this building," he said, "and I bought it with the purpose of making a shrine for the people of the United States. It is richer in colonial, historic and literary interest than any similar structure that I know of."

Mr. Ford said that he contemplated few changes. One room, he said, would be named the "Edison room."

The old sign which announces an admission charge of 25 cents from all visitors will remain, Mr. Ford added, remarking:

"If people have interest enough to want to see the place they will not object to paying. Anything free is not worth having."

Work on the making of the 1923 tax rolls having been completed, Irvan Deaton, county tax assessor, has turned his attention toward installing a system of keeping all the books and records which have accumulated in the office since the organization of the county.

All books and records, which form a part of the assessor's equipment for the operation of his office and the supplying of information, are being labelled so that very little time will be lost in looking for some particular book.

New shelving was installed during the summer to provide places for these indispensable records and more fixtures will be installed within the next few months to take care of all the records, abstracts of title and renditions.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES

UNDER THE GROUND

Story by Hal Cochran — Drawings by Lee Wright

Ruby Lips looked real cute when she had seated herself in the wheelbarrow, and she was so small that it was easy for Jack to push her. They had not traveled very far when Flip hopped up into Ruby's lap and upset the wheelbarrow, Ruby Lips and all. Such a commotion!

Fortunately the little girl was not hurt. Jack started to scold his dog when Ruby Lips shouted, "Don't blame him! He was tired too." So Jack just laughed and helped Ruby Lips back into the wheelbarrow. And soon they reached a great long line of beautiful chests.

Ruby Lips hopped out of the wheelbarrow and walked up to the first chest. As she opened the lid she said, "This chest is filled with Robins and it is the chest I was named after." Jack peeped inside and saw hundreds of very beautiful red pigeons. (Continued.)

ONLY ONE WITNESS IS HEARD AT HEARING

Negro Testifies He Witnessed the Shooting at Plant of Cotton Oil Company.

HENRIETTA, Texas, Sept. 26.—C. F. Kimmerman, night watchman of the Clay County Cotton Oil Company must remain in the county jail, at least, until the grand jury of the 97th district court convenes. He was denied bail bond by the examining magistrate following a preliminary hearing of his case in which he is charged with the murder of Frank Suddith. The hearing was held Tuesday.

Suddith, one of the prominent young men of this city and manager of the plant where the defendant was employed as night watchman, was killed on the morning of September 16 in the office of the cotton oil company.

John Moore, 23, a negro, and employed at the same place was the only witness who testified at the hearing Tuesday. The state rested its case upon the introduction of his testimony. The defense introduced none.

Moore was an eye witness to the killing, according to his testimony. On the morning of September 16, the negro told the justice of the peace that Kimmerman came to him and offered him a drink of spirits of nitre and that upon refusing, Kimmerman emptied the bottle himself and threw it away. The witness testified that Kimmerman then took out his six shooter and examined it.

The negro said that Suddith arrived at the mill, threw a morning paper on the porch of the office and then he and the deceased started on an inspection trip through the mill. Kimmerman, the witness said, was talking of a sister-in-law when they started on the inspection tour, but that later Kimmerman joined them. Throughout the trip he said Kimmerman was silent.

Returning to the office, the paper which Suddith had thrown on the porch was gone. The negro said that, with some remark, Suddith started into the office turning and ordered him, the witness, to put some fire hose near the office.

While engaged at this work, the negro said he saw Suddith sitting at his desk in the office. He was looking through the window and was able to see Kimmerman on the front porch.

The negro testified that Kimmerman pulled his gun, took deliberate aim and shot Suddith in the back. After that shot was fired the negro said Kimmerman entered the office and while standing over the prostrate form of Suddith said: "Now, I've got you where I have wanted you for the past two years," and fired again.

Moore said he ran over across the street to the ice plant and informed them of the shooting.

According to citizens of the city, Kimmerman secured his position through the efforts of Suddith.

Gov. Walton Appeals to President To Deny Use of Federal Buildings For Special Term of Legislature

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.(AP)—Administration officials late last night decided to prevent members of the Oklahoma state legislature from meeting in the federal building in Oklahoma City. The text of the telegram follows:

"Hon. J. C. Walton, governor of Oklahoma.

"Use of federal buildings other than for business of the United States government is contrary to regulations and a telegram has been sent to the custodian of the federal building there not to permit building to be used for any unauthorized purpose.

(Signed) "Bascom C. Slemp, secretary to the president."

The text of the treasury department telegram was not made public.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 26.—President Calvin Coolidge was appealed to last night by Governor J. C. ("Iron Jack") Walton to prevent assemblage of the "rebel" legislature in any federal building in the state of Oklahoma.

"If this Ku Klux Klan group is permitted to meet on federal property," the governor told newspaper correspondents, "then I shall consider that the United States government has taken the issue in to its own hands."

Governor Walton, still implacable in his "fight to a finish" on the invisible empire, appealed to the president as his sole recourse and defense in events such a meeting of the legislative quorum is attempted on federal premises. A similar appeal was dispatched to Attorney General Harry Daugherty. Both appeals went forward tonight by telegraph.

Appeals to President.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 26.—The text of Governor Walton's telegram to President Coolidge, appealing for him to prevent assemblage of the legislative quorum in any federal building in Oklahoma, follows:

To President Coolidge,
Attorney General Daugherty.

Unmentionable mutilations have been inflicted upon numerous citizens of this state, and scores of others have been taken from their homes at night and beaten and flogged in a most unmerciful way. This state is now under martial law by proclamation issued by me and military courts are sitting in Tulsa and in Oklahoma City investigating these barbarous acts. These courts have taken testimony much of it coming from the lips of klansmen themselves, showing that each and all of these atrocities have been committed by members of the so-called Knights of the Ku Klux Klan or invisible empire or invisible government. I have authentic information showing that a great majority of the members of the house of representatives of the Oklahoma legislature are members of the so-called invisible government. Those klan members of the house constituting a majority of its membership in collusion with high klan officials are attempting to hold a session in Oklahoma City with the avowed determination of impeaching me and thereby halting my investigation and prevent subsequent exposures which will show the inner workings of this un-American mob organization, known as the Ku Klux Klan. A meeting of the legislature of this state or any branch of it in extra session without call of the governor is unlawful and unauthorized by the constitution and laws of this state. The only purpose of this unlawful assembly is to further complicate matters and give aid and comfort to the klan. I will not permit this assemblage in the capitol and the afternoon newspapers state that permission to use the federal court room here for its meeting has been granted by Judge John H. Cotteral, judge of the western district of Oklahoma. In view of the conditions existing in this state at this time and in the light of exposures already made and given to the American public I appeal to you in the name of the people of Oklahoma and true Americanism to use your good offices to prevent this unlawful assemblage in any federal building in this state.

J. C. Walton, governor of Oklahoma.

UNDERWOOD SAYS U. S. MUST DETERMINE COURSE WITHIN TWELVE MONTHS

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 26. (AP)—The issue that lies ahead of America today, declared Senator Underwood of Alabama in an address here last night, "the issue that your government must face—peace or worse than war, the industrial and economical upset of the world—must be determined in the next 12 months."

The league of nations, he declared, "is merely a piece of machinery designed to carry out the ideal, "but is not the ideal. It is the only method of gaining the objective for which our soldiers went to war and made the extreme sacrifice."

Application of President Wilson's famous "fourteen points," he said, would have put Europe back at work and conditions that exist today would not exist if the United States had lived up to the promise of its president and became a signatory to the league of nations covenant.

DRAWING POWER DEPENDED ON POSITION AS MAYOR

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26. (AP)—Ole Hanson's drawing power as a public speaker was dependent at least in part on his position as mayor of Seattle, Wash., the superior court ruled in deciding for the defendant in the case brought by a Los Angeles booking agency for $500 damages for cancellation of a lecture engagement for Hanson in Dallas, Texas, after he had left his position as mayor.

DE LA HUERTA MAY BE COOPERATISTA CHOICE FOR PRESIDENT MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 26. (AP)—Adolfo de la Huerta, whose resignation as secretary of the treasury has been accepted by President Obregon, has assured a delegation representing the cooperative party in the chamber of deputies that his retirement has altered the circumstances and made it possible for him to reconsider his determination not to become a candidate for the presidency.

It was reported last night that De la Huerta had promised to accept the nomination should the cooperatists convention vote decidedly in his favor and it became evident that the public supported such a step.

APPLICATION FOR LAND FOR BUTTERFLIES DENIED

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26.—Application of W. F. Hewlett of Redlands, Calif., for 30 acres of public domain near Upland for use as a butterfly farm to raise the insects for commercial purposes and for public and private collections has been denied by the department of agriculture, according to word received here.

Protests that the propagation of butterflies would make easy the introduction of gypsy moths, black tails and other injurious insects were sent to the department at the time Hewlett first filed his application with the United States land office here.

"Big Boy" Kraft Drives in All Three runs, While Lil Stoner Holds Invaders to Four Bingles

FORT WORTH, Texas, Sept. 26.(AP)—With the initial game of the Dixie series to determine the championship between the winners of the pennant in the Texas League and the Southern Association tucked safely away as a result of the contest before more than 10,000 fans Tuesday the Fort Worth team Wednesday afternoon will attempt to take the second contest from the New Orleans Pelicans.

Kraft, first baseman for Fort Worth, was the hero of the game Tuesday. With the score 1 to 0 in favor of the Pelicans, New Orleans having scored in the third inning, Kraft hit a home run with "Stump" Edington on base in the fourth inning. Kraft's homer broke up a great pitchers' duel between Lil Stoner of the Panthers and Joe Martina for the Pelicans.

The visitors were first to cross the home plate. After two scoreless innings, Dowie of the Pelicans started the third by being struck with a fast one. Martina then hit to Kraft, who after juggling the ball threw wild to first base, Dowie going to third and Martina to second. Henry sent a long fly to center and Dowie crossed the plate after the ball was caught.

Fort Worth cinched the game in the eighth inning. Calvo singled and was sacrificed to second by Sears. A long single by Kraft brought in the third run for the home team. The final score was New Orleans 1 and Fort Worth 3.

SIMMONS COWBOYS TO OPEN SATURDAY WITH BAYLOR TEAM

ABILENE, Texas, Sept. 26.—Coach A. B. Hays of Simmons College is this week putting his squad of fifty football aspirants through a stiff scheme of scrimmage in preparation for what is expected to be one of the outstanding games of the Cowboy season. Saturday on Parramore field the Simmons aggregation will meet the 1922 champions of the southwestern conference, the Baylor University Bears of Waco.

The Saturday fray will be one of the chief drawing cards of the annual West Texas fair which is in progress this week. Assistant Coaches Y. P. Kuhn and "Tex" Bryan are doing their share of the gruelling training through which the Simmons warriors are being sent.

The Simmons squad includes six letter men of last year's team, half a dozen members of last year's squad and a large collection of high school and junior college stars. Three stars of last year's Abilene high school eleven, which was second in the running for the state interscholastic title, are making strong bids for berths on the first string eleven. These three former high school stellar performers are: Bob Estes, back; Wright and Maggart, forwards. Mobley, former John Tarleton end; Buell Caldwell, Big Springs; Woods, Texas Military College; Marshall, Floydada; Collins, Coleman; Daniels, Brownfield; Link, Guyman, Okla.; Harvey and Morris of Seymour, and Heath, former Wayland College star, are other likely prospects.

Letter men who are on the 1922 Simmons roster are: John Camp, halfback of Breckenridge; V. Adams, Paluxi, fullback; L. Johnson, Portales, N. M. fullback; Frank Kimbrough, Haskell, quarterback; Joe Gibson, Paducah, end, and V. Cook, Abilene, guard. Among the members of the first squad of 1922 who failed to make their letters last season but who are making a determined fight to win an "S" this year, are: M. McCasland, Winters; Harrison, Guion; Sam Morris, Abilene; Nyeffier, Abilene; F. Haynes, Abilene, and Ferguson of Rule. While the Cowboys are not expected to win over the Baylor eleven, local supporters of Simmons believe that the Cowboys will make a great showing against Coach Bridges' team.

Billy Evans Says—

Relative to Champions.
Leonard Versus Dundee.
Ball Players on Off Days.
Golf Gets Big Play.

Should ring champions go out of their class when it is possible for them to get plenty of action among fighters at their own weight. This thought is promoted by the proposed clash between Lightweight Champion Benny Leonard and the featherweight title holder Johnny Dundee. If the men had never met before there might be a logical reason for the match. On the contrary the two have clashed eight times, so they should know their act very well.

Dundee insists that he can beat Leonard in a decision bout and will prove it. If Johnny delivers then the plaudits of the fight fans will be his. If the match proves little more than a waltz, then it will seem that filthy lucre was the big idea in arranging the ninth battle between the two. The one attractive feature of course, is the fact that the contest brings together two champions. When champions meet the public is always interested, although such bouts as a rule have never been thrillers. The meeting between Leonard and Kilbane, when the latter was featherweight champion, was most disappointing. Kilbane proved no match for Leonard. When Britton and Leonard met, Britton, then being welter champ, the bout ended in a very unsatisfactory manner, Britton winning on a foul after a tame contest.

The Leonard-Dundee bout may have been all right, but it seems that a more popular move on the part of Dundee would be to take on many of the worth while featherweights who are clamoring for a crack at the title. Dundee has always been a busy fighter, and if he continues that policy now that he is champion, the featherweight contenders will soon get their opportunity to knock Johnny loose from the crown. In sport, as in everything else, these are days of frenzied finance, so perhaps Dundee and Leonard are not to be blamed for picking up a lot of soft money as long as the public is willing to pay.

What do ball players do on their off-days? Do they seek the theater, hie themselves to a counter baseball attraction or spend the day playing cards? Wrong. It's the golf course for most of the athletes on an off day. Recently while working in Chicago I had occasion to play a certain course and during the round I bumped into a half dozen White Sox players. That interested me. The next day on inquiry I learned that more than twice that many put in the off day on the golf links.

Eddie Collins, famous second sacker of the Chicago White Sox, is a rabid golf enthusiast. Collins plays at every opportunity. However, he refuses to let golf, his pleasure, interfere with baseball, his livelihood. Collins comes out flatly saying that no player can play 18 holes of golf in the morning and do his best work on the ball field that afternoon. Collins confines his golf to off days. Golf keeps the wrists supple, and the snap of the wrist is as essential to driving the baseball as the golf ball, in the opinion of Collins.

Catcher Ray Schalk of White Sox Boasts Unusual Record of Having Made Putout at Each of the Bags

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—It is doubtful if any other catcher in the history of major or minor league ball can boast of the record that Catcher Ray Schalk of the Chicago White Sox has achieved. Schalk, as a member of the White Sox, has made a putout at every base in the infield. That is most unusual for a catcher.

Usually a catcher confines his work to the home plate. His putouts come as the result of strike-outs, caught fly balls or touching runners trying to score. Naturally most of Schalk's chances have been performed in that manner, yet he has turned the feat of getting a putout at each base, which is most unusual for a catcher. How did Schalk turn the trick of completing plays at first, second and third? Well, the best way is to let Schalk tell the story himself.

"Several years ago we were playing a game in Cleveland. Eddie Murphy was in right field for us. Jamieson of Cleveland was at bat. Jamieson being a left-handed batter our first baseman was playing rather deep for him. Jamieson hit hard into right field. When the ball shot into that territory I had an idea that Jamieson, a very fast man, might try for second on the hit if it was fumbled, which would call for him to edge a considerable distance toward second. I started to jog into the direction of first. Jamieson did as I expected and as he rounded first I dashed at full speed for the bag. Eddie Murphy handled the ball fast, made a perfect peg to me at first and I tagged out Jamieson as he slid back into the bag."

Made Play But Once

Since that time Schalk has tried to pull the play a half dozen times with Harry Hooper in right field for Chicago. Hooper is a wonderfully accurate thrower. In the judgment of the umpires the play just failed to get the man in each case, although every decision was a close one.

"My putout at third base came against the St. Louis club," explains Schalk. "Hal Chase was playing first base for Chicago at the time. Chase was perhaps the greatest throwing first baseman in the history of the game. No play seemed too difficult for him. Unless I am mistaken Johnny Tobin was on first. The batter laid down a bunt which our third baseman came in and handled, getting the batter at first. I realized that the third baseman would not be able to get back for a play at his base, if Tobin tried to come over. When the ball was bunted I dashed for third. Tobin seeing the base uncovered, started for third. Chase took in the situation at a glance and made a perfect throw to the bag. I managed to catch the ball by diving for it and in so doing threw myself directly in front of the runner, who was called out by the umpire.

"My putout at second was also against the Browns. Ray Demmitt was on first base. On the hit and run play Joe Gledeon hit a terrific drive to left field which Joe Jackson grabbed by leaping high in the air as the ball seemed certain to clear the bleacher wire for a home run. No one in the park thought Jackson would get the ball. Demmitt was almost to third when the catch was made. I had run out into the infield when the ball was hit. The moment Jackson caught the ball, he threw it to shortstop Risberg who went out to take the relay. In the meantime I ran down to second, took Risberg's throw and touched Demmitt, dashing for second on his way back to first.

"Incidently Eddie Collins chased me to the bench for invading his territory. Of course I have had hundreds of plays at the home plate. However, I doubt if any other catcher has made one or more putouts at every base on the infield."

DOUBLE A CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES STARTS OCT. 10

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.(AP)—The junior world's series between Baltimore, pennant winner of the International League, and the club winning the flag in the American Association will start in the American Association city October 10. President Hickey announced Wednesday. St. Paul and Kansas City are fighting for the American Association championship, with St. Paul having a lead of three games.

GIANTS NEED BUT ONE WIN TO CINCH NATIONAL PENNANT

CHICAGO, Sept. 26. (AP)—The Giants in a pitching duel between Luque and John Watson defeated the Reds in Cincinnati Tuesday, 3 to 2, in a hard fought game and almost clinched the pennant. The Giants are four games ahead again with only six to play, counting the one with St. Louis which has been cancelled.

The Yanks in a see-saw game with the Tygers led in the fourth, trailed in the seventh, led again in the eighth and lost in the ninth, 5 to 4. The game was won when a pair of Cobb's pinch hitters, Manush and Woodall, came through.

While the Braves were beating the Cubs in Chicago, 3 to 0, the Red Sox were losing in Boston to the St. Louis Browns, who won 8 to 2. The Pirates stepped out and trimmed the Phillies, 18 to 5, Moore collecting five runs all by himself.

Philadelphia took both ends of a double header from Cleveland, 6 to 5 and 5 to 1.

The Senators defeated the White Sox, 5 to 2. The Cardinals defeated the Robins in St. Louis, 4 to 1. The Robins made 10 hits to St. Louis' 8.

The first game of the world series will be played October 10 in the Yankee stadium, home of the three times American League champions, regardless of whether the New York Giants or the Cincinnati Reds win the National League pennant. This was decided when Colonel Ruppert won the toss to decide which league would get the opening game.

"That's a good start," the colonel said. Last season his club lost the toss and the series.

Gene Sarazen Says Professional Title Lies Between Himself and Barnes; Favorites Come Through

By THOMAS L. CUMMISKEY.
Universal Service Sports Editor.

PELHAM COUNTRY CLUB, New York, Sept. 26.—The professional golf championship going on here gives robust promise of developing into a real tough war of the fairways and greens. The stalwarts of the salaried clan, barring one or two exceptions, easily crushed the "little fellows" in the second round Tuesday, and now the giants are going to clash against one another.

Jim Barnes, the home pro, among the outstanding favorites, flattened John Cowan of Watertown, Mass., 10 up and 8 to play. This long, dour chap knows every square inch of Pelham, and showed it. He shot a 72, two under par, for the first 18 holes, and a par 37 on the outgoing nine in the afternoon round.

More crushing defeats were administered by Gene Sarazen, the defending champion, and Walter Hagen, former holder of the title and other big ones. Sarazen put out D. K. White, from out in Wickliffe, Ohio, 11 and 10, and Hagen quickly sank the hopes of Jack Elphick of Goose Island, Mich., at 10 and 9.

Sarazen Confident.

Both Gene and Hagen are shooting high class golf, and their vaunted confidence can't be missed. Gene said Wednesday:

"The big match will be Thursday when Barnes and I meet. The one who wins this battle is going to win the championship."

It was said with that cocky, well known Sarazen smile.

As for Hagen!

"I'm going right, and see myself in the finals. Wonder who the other fellow will be?"

So far, Hagen's face has been wearing a grin, but his celebrated fighting face is expected in short order, for the field is formidable.

A strongly performing chap is Willie Ogg, of Worcester, Mass., who has been going at a consistent clip all season. He eliminated Carl Anderson, of Buffalo, N. Y., 12 and 11, the biggest victory total for the day. Ogg went the first 18 in 69, five under par. He was four up on Anderson at the turn, and 9 up at the end of the first round.

Kirkwood Has Close Call.

The thrilling engagement of the day involved Joe Kirkwood, the Australian, against Jimmy West, the hard fighting golfer from Cedarhurst, L. I., and Johnny Farrell, the Mamaroneck, N. Y., star, and William Hunter, of Chicago. Kirkwood won 2 and 1, and Farrell came through, four and two, but they certainly had a high old time.

Hunter had Farrell two down at the first nine, and they were seven at the 18th and 27th holes.

Bobby Cruickshank, the losing hero of the national open play-off with Bobby Jones, easily put out George Underwood of Butler, Pa., 7 and 5.

Cyril Walker, of Englewood, N. J., met a fighter in Harry Cooper, of Dallas, but the Scottish star won, 2 and 1.

The third round matches Wednesday are:

Cruickshank and Derr, McFarlane and Stait, Barnes and Walker, Campbell and Sarazen, Kirkwood and Farrell, Hagen and Golden, McLean an Ogg, Hackney and McLeod. It looks like a big day.

Through a Sieve Woven Finer Than Silk

Raw materials of which portland cement is made come out of the ground usually as solid rock.

They must first be crushed, ground and reground until at least 85 per cent of the resulting powder will shake through a sieve that will actually hold water.

This sieve is considerably finer than the finest silk fabric. It has 200 hair-like bronze wires to the inch. That means 40,000 holes to the square inch.

But the several crushings and grindings necessary to reduce solid rock to this extreme fineness are only the beginning of cement making.

The powdered materials must then be subjected to intense heat for several hours in huge rotary kilns. Here they are half melted and become a substance much harder than the original rock—clinker, it is called.

Then the clinker must be crushed and ground until at least 78 per cent of the resulting product will pass through the sieve woven finer than silk. This is portland cement.

More than 80 power and fuel consuming operations are necessary in cement making. The electric power alone used in producing a barrel of portland cement would, if purchased at usual household rates, cost $1.70.

Few manufactured products go through so involved or complicated a process as portland cement. And it sells for less per pound than any comparable manufactured product.

Mrs. C. H. Featherstone, 1214 Taylor street, and Mrs. F. V. McMardie, 1212 Taylor street, working as a team, lead all others in the sale of Thrift tickets for the Texas-Oklahoma Fair and Exposition association, according to John K. King, auditor, fair association.

Mrs. Featherstone and Mrs. McMardie were working in the interest of the T. E. L. Sunday school class of the First Baptist Church, and sold 2,355 tickets. They stated most of their sales had been to members of the church and to merchants and their clerical forces.

King stated the sale of Thrift tickets this year was approximately double that of last year. He thought the women workers had accomplished wonders this year. Last year both men and women of the various civic and religious clubs were on the Thrift ticket selling campaign.

Several thousand dollars worth of tickets were disposed of, King stated.

FINE CATTLE OF MANY STATES TO BE EXHIBITED AT TEXAS-OKLAHOMA FAIR

Cattle of Texas and Oklahoma will have an opportunity to match their pedigrees and sturdiness with bovines of other states during the Texas-Oklahoma Fair and Exposition to be held here October 1 to 7, inclusive, according to Will C. Young, superintendent livestock division.

Several out of state entries have been received. The cattle have been winners of premiums in fairs and expositions throughout the middle west circuit. They are purebred stock from the leading breeding farms throughout the central western states.

Texas and Oklahoma have many fine purebred herds that will hold their own with most any breed or strain of cattle in any state, according to several who have made entries in the livestock show and whose homes are in Texas or Oklahoma.

MANY COUNTIES OF THREE STATES SEND EXHIBITS TO TEXAS-OKLAHOMA FAIR

Wilbarger county is to have an exhibit at the Texas-Oklahoma Fair and Exposition to be held here October 1 to 7, inclusive. The exhibit will take place in all phases of agriculture and horticulture, according to C. H. Verschoyle, fair secretary, who received the entry Tuesday.

According to members of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce who visited the Wilbarger county fair a few days ago at Vernon, there were many good displays of products. The best of the exhibits of Wilbarger county fair will be assembled and included in that county's exhibit.

Many other counties have sent word to reserve booth space. The southwestern counties of Oklahoma are sending exhibits to compete for prizes. Eastern New Mexico counties' exhibits will be sent to the fair to demonstrate the agricultural resources of that state, according to Mr. Verschoyle.

Purposes of Conference.

The purposes of the statewide industrial conference were enumerated by Mr. Blanton as follows:

(1)—A statewide service to establish industries, including the publishing of a directory of Texas' manufacturers; careful investigation of developments throughout the state, and keeping the industries of the state constantly informed on developments.

(2)—Coordination of state industrial activities which includes a cooperative program with state departments, county and city officials and chambers of commerce, with the view of eliminating as far as possible duplication of service, and making more effective the program for developing the resources of the communities and counties of the state; also to establish proper industrial relations with other states and nations.

(3)—The development of new industries throughout the state by obtaining as complete information as possible on raw materials; finding favorable locations for factories; obtaining financial assistance for needed industries, improving the market for Texas' products both at home and in foreign countries.

(4)—Formulation of plans for the further development of the textile manufacturing industry in Texas.

(5)—Formulation of plans for extensive advertising of Texas' natural resources and manufactured products.

(6)—Formulation of plans to aid Texas' manufacturers in establishing a permanent clientele in the republic of Mexico and other Latin-American republics.

In conclusion Mr. Blanton said: "The signs are most propitious and the time is opportune for Texas industrial leaders and business men to coordinate their efforts in a great campaign to develop the unlimited natural resources of this state, and eventually realize a goal of making the state of Texas the leading industrial and manufacturing state of the southwest, which is a most consistent objective and one that will prove of untold emolument to every citizen in Texas."

WEATHER CALM AND WARM IN SECTION WEDNESDAY

Besides a stiff hot wind that blew all day Wednesday and tended to drive up the mercury, there was no other weather disturbance for the day, locally or in the territory surrounding the city. Although a few clouds were to be seen in the east during the forenoon there was no indication of rain.

The temperature at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, according to the thermometer at the home of George Simmons, 1406 Broad street, was 84 degrees. As a minimum for the day the mercury registered 74 at 6 o'clock in the morning.

No change in weather conditions at other points in this district were reported Thursday, according to railroad dispatchers. A general calm seems to have settled over this section of the state following the hard rains of several days ago.

TIMES DAILY MARKETS

COTTON MARKET

Local Cotton Market.

Receipts: Fifty bales; middling 25 cents.

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The first tropical storm threat of the season as reflected by reports that northeast storm signals had been posted on the southeast Florida coast was followed by an opening advance of 10 to 19 points in the cotton market today. There was covering and some trade buying, but after selling at 28.07 December broke to 27.86 during the early trading or about 5 points net lower owing to continued liquidation. The latter was promoted by reiterated reports of an easier tone in the local cotton goods market and continued uncertainty as to the probable showing of next week's government crop report.

Apprehensions that the tropical storm would cause rains in eastern belt sections were confirmed by the official forecaster for unsettled weather with rains in Georgia and the Carolinas. As a result the early reactions were quickly recovered with the market selling 27 to 36 points net higher. October advanced to 28.60 and January to 27.80 and prices were within a point or two of the best around midday.

Nervousness over the weather situation continued during the early afternoon. Fluctuations were somewhat irregular, but there was covering on all setbacks and prices gradually worked up to 28.90 for October and 28.12 for January or 57 to 67 points net higher.

Cotton futures closed barely steady.

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 26.—A nervous market developed in the early trading in cotton today with the storm in the West Indies finally becoming the controlling factor. Better cables than due caused small advances on the opening, but almost immediately there was a break under much the same sort of selling that was felt yesterday, October dropping to 27.37. Then attention was directed to the storm and its apparent course toward the straits of Florida and the fear was aroused that it would get into the Gulf of Mexico. A sharp rally ensued and at the end of the first hour October was at 27.70 with the list of 22 to 40 points higher than yesterday's last quotation.

The storm in the West Indies continued to cause buying, although its movements were more northerly than expected and it apparently no longer threatens to get into the gulf. In the trading up to 11 o'clock October was advanced to 28.00 where the list stood at net gains of 52 to 54 points.

Heavy buying continued, the interior taking a prominent part in it. Market comment was that large lines of contracts recently sold out were being replaced. In the trading up to 12:30 o'clock October was sent to 28.10 and the list to net gains of 62 to 66 points.

Cotton futures closed steady at net gains of 35 to 43 points.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Local Grain Market.

Wheat: Receipts nominal; basis No. 1, 95c; basis No. 2, 92c.

Oats: Receipts nominal; basis No. 3, 45c.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Influenced by reports that European purchasing of wheat yesterday on this side of the Atlantic totaled almost 3,500,000 bushels, the wheat market here averaged higher in price today during the early dealings. The fact that the Winnipeg market was firm despite liberal receipts counted also as a bullish factor. Besides, Washington dispatches telling of various plans for farm relief attracted considerable attention. Opening prices, which varied from ⅛c decline to ⅛c advance, December 1.04 to ⅛, and May 1.09⅜ to ⅛, were followed by moderate gains all around.

Subsequently, absence of aggressive selling combined with corn strength led to a further upturn in wheat values. Wheat closed firm ⅛c to 1⅛c net higher, December 1.05⅜ to 1.05⅛ and May 1.10⅜ to 1.10⅛.

Corn and oats were firm with wheat and September corn touched a new high price record for the season. After opening at ⅛c off to ⅛c up, December 69⅛ to 70c, corn held inside narrow limits.

Later buying on the part of the leading bulls found offerings light, and a sharp upturn in prices resulted. The close was strong, ⅛c to 1⅛c net higher, December and May both the same 71⅜ to 71⅛.

Oats started unchanged to ⅛c higher, December 41⅛, and later steadied a little above yesterday's finish.

Lower quotations on hogs weakened the provision market.

STOCKS AND FINANCIAL

New York Stocks.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Opening irregular with changes confined to small fractions and some of the stocks which displayed acute weakness yesterday showing a better tone, particularly Baldwin and American Can, the latter rising 1 point.

Prices for the most part showed little alteration during the first half hour, with however, some of the railroad shares weakening substantially, including Northern Pacific and Illinois Central. Industrials fluctuated nervously, Studebaker falling to 96½, a new low, after touching 97 with a subsequent rebound to a parity with yesterday's closing figure of 96⅜. Baldwin relinquished its rise when profit taking began. Foreign exchanges opened slightly lower.

Stiffening of raw and refined sugar prices brought the sugar group into favor after midday with resultant advances of 1 to 2 points. Speculation in the customary leaders was quieter, with several of them relinquishing a fraction of their forenoon advance.

Closed firm; sales 500,000 shares.

SURVEY DIRECTOR WILL BE SELECTED AT NEXT MEETING

Burl Bryant, superintendent of the county schools and a member of the state educational survey commission, returned from Austin Wednesday noon and stated that the survey director was not selected at the meeting held Tuesday, but that action on this matter was deferred until the next session, which will be held probably within the next three weeks.

The meeting of the commission was an executive one. The names of a number of men who are suitable to be selected as the survey director were taken under consideration by the members of the commission.

It was stated that the information had at this last meeting was not sufficient from which to make a final selection and the two weeks which will elapse between this and the next meeting will be sufficient in which to secure the information desired.

By storage accumulators steam has been kept in Sweden for three weeks without losing any appreciable pressure.

YOU can stuff up any old suit of clothes to look like a man, but after awhile the knowing old birds get wise. A scarecrow isn't a man and an imitation is not Darcova.

Darcova Composition Valve Cups have been on the job for fifteen years, giving real service in oil pumps. Judge them by the fact that they have stood the wear and pumped the oil to the satisfaction of the canniest oil men between the North and the South Poles.

Use genuine Darcova Cups. They are made of the stuff that wears. They outlast any other cup on the market. Ask Anybody.

TWO RUNAWAY YOUTHS INQUIRE FOR ROAD MAP OF ROUTE TO CALIFORNIA

Police were notified after two lads, ages 13 and 11 years, had applied to Mrs. L. O. Davidson of the Traveler's Aid at the union station Wednesday morning for a road map to California. Believing the boys had run away from home, Mrs. Davidson notified the officers when the lads became frightened and made a hasty departure from the depot.

At noon, no trace of the boys had been found.

Although the boys stated that they lived in Wichita Falls, Mrs. Davidson said that she believed they had run away from homes in a nearby small community. The boys stated that they were on their way to California, after being grilled by Mrs. Davidson, and requested a road map.

FAIR AT HASKELL STARTS THURSDAY FOR THREE DAYS

HASKELL, Texas, Sept. 26.—The Haskell County Fair and Rodeo will start next Thursday morning, Sept. 27, and continue the three days following. This is going to be the biggest and best fair Haskell county has ever held. More interest is being manifested and more advertising has been done than for any other fair held here. The farm exhibits will be numerous, from individual to community exhibits. The rodeo is making big preparations. The Indians are already here from Oklahoma and a big carnival company is here and setting up the shows. The poultry exhibits are expected to be larger than ever before and the quality much in the lead of the past county fairs.

The big parade will start at 10:30 o'clock, in which there will be a variety of scenes. The old cowboys of the 80's with the chuck wagon. The modern cowboys followed by the Indians in war time dress, then the beautiful automobile parade which is expected to be a wonderful production of beauty and fine art. Visitors are invited to come and spend the three days.

JUDGMENT RENDERED FOR PLAINTIFF; INSURANCE CASE

Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court rendered a judgment of $2,000 Thursday in favor of the plaintiffs in the case of J. R. Henson against the Dixie Fire Insurance Company. The plaintiffs asked for judgment for the face of an insurance policy held on a house on Monroe street. The defense was that the policy stipulated that the owner of the house should reside on the premises in order for the insurance to be in force and effect and it was their contention that since tenants were occupying the premises at the time of the fire that they should be relieved from paying the insurance.

Cash Register at Corner Grocery Robbed Tuesday

Thieves broke into the Corner grocery at Eighth and Lamar Tuesday night and made a successful escape with five dollars in silver, which was taken from the cash register, according to a report given police officers Wednesday morning. Entrance to the building was gained by breaking in a window. The money in the cash register was the only thing in the store that was stolen; merchandise was not molested. Police officers were at work on the case Wednesday.

The small burglary Tuesday night was the first notice of the robbery of a business house in several weeks. A burglary of this kind has not been reported since the apprehension of the thieves who confessed that they were responsible for the epidemic of thieving which occurred several weeks ago.

Oodles of Grape Wine Confiscated By Arms of Law

Oodles of sparkling grape wine was confiscated by officers of the law Tuesday night. A total of 41 gallons of the alleged intoxicating drink was hauled to the court house and a portion of it analyzed by the city chemist.

Texas Ranger M. N. Koonsman and Deputies W. W. Belcher, W. P. Belcher and George Hawkins placed a man under arrest at 10 o'clock Tuesday evening on Lee street when they found six gallons of wine in his automobile. The man was placed in jail, a search warrant secured for his premises and a search made.

In one of the smaller rooms of the house 35 gallons of wine was found, while buried in the chicken lot was found a barrel containing the makings for another batch of the wine.

Exhibiting and display space is being renovated and put into first class condition. The different exhibits and displays are beginning to arrive and are being taken to the fair grounds and placed in the various booths and stands.

The remains were buried in the city cemetery Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Funeral services were conducted in the First Christian Church by Rev. Gilliam, pastor. J. H. Merrick, the deceased husband, died three months ago of the same illness. The deceased had been a resident of Seymour for more than 30 years. Surviving her are sons, W. H. Merrick of Oklahoma City, and Andrew and Percy Merrick of Clarendon and two daughters, Mrs. Lee Vernon of Strawn, Texas, and Miss Edith Merrick of Oklahoma City.

BISHOP MOORE TO PREACH AT FLORAL HEIGHTS METHODIST

Bishop John M. Moore, D. D., bishop of the seventh Episcopal district of the Southern Methodist Church, composed of Oklahoma, North and East Texas Conferences, will arrive in Wichita Falls Saturday, and will preach at the Floral Heights Methodist Church Sunday at 11:00 a. m.

This is Bishop Moore's first official visit to this city and this section of the district. He was for years a pastor in Missouri, Dallas and San Antonio, and home missionary secretary for four years. He was elected to the Episcopacy in 1918 and appointed to Brazil, where he served for four years. He was assigned to his home conference in 1922 and again in 1923. The public is invited to hear him Sunday at 11:00 a. m. at Floral Heights Methodist Church; Rev. S. A. Barnes, pastor, and Rev. S. M. Black, the presiding elder, will also be present at the service.

Boy Scouts Will Assist in City Cleanup Drive

The Boy Scouts of Wichita Falls are to help in the final check up of the clean-up campaign which is being conducted by the civic league and the chamber of commerce. At the meeting of the scoutmasters Tuesday night, it was decided that every scout would be used and that an intensive effort would be started at once so that everyone in the city would be reached. Frank B. Creighton, the new Boy Scout executive for Wichita Falls, worked out the plan that will be used and stated that the boys of troop No. 8, of the Floral Heights Baptist Church, Jesse McLarry, scoutmaster, would be the first ones to start, for they will commence Wednesday afternoon. Troop No. 1 of the First Methodist Church, J. T. Hamilton, will assemble Wednesday afternoon at their meeting place where their scoutmaster will give out the assignments. Troop No. 5 of the Catholic church, with L. F. Kubecka scoutmaster, will take an active part and has a large territory for his new troop of scouts to take care of.

"If a Boy Scout knocks at your door and politely asks you to clean up if you haven't already done so, please do not become angry with him," requests Mr. Creighton, "for he has civic pride strong enough to call upon the citizens asking that clean-up day be observed for our good city. If you have already cleaned up you will want to welcome the young citizen, for in behalf of the chamber of commerce and civic league he is going to thank you for your cooperation. The scouts are starting the canvass of the city this afternoon and will stay on the job the rest of the week in order to thoroughly cover the big territory assigned to them. Be loyal to your city and clean up so that the Boy Scouts can thank you."

41,600 OLIVES IN ONE SHIPMENT RECEIVED HERE

N. Marantz, proprietor of the Busy Bee Fruit Store, has received another mammoth shipment of olives and this time he took particular care to secure a sufficient number so that every man, woman and child in Wichita Falls could have at least one olive.

A hogshead of olives direct from Spain, in which the olives are still bathing in the original brine, was received Tuesday afternoon by Mr. Marantz. The hogshead contains 173 gallons of olives, or a total count of 41,600.

Three months ago Mr. Marantz received a shipment, at that time said to be the largest ever received in this section of the country, but the hogshead did not contain a sufficient number for each resident of the city. This time he increased the size of the purchase.

The hogshead is three feet, nine inches in height and measures eight feet, two inches in circumference at the top. The last shipment of olives was disposed of by Mr. Marantz at retail in five weeks time.

JURY AWARDS JUDGMENT OF $1,391 FOR RENTALS

A jury in the 89th district court late Tuesday evening returned a verdict in favor of F. G. Dow in his suit against the Swastika Oil Syndicate and granted him a judgment of $1,391.47. The plaintiff's cause of action was for rental on a rotary rig which he contended was loaned to the defendants and for the value of pipe delivered to the defendant which he alleged was not returned and for damages on the pipe returned. He asked for a judgment of $6,000, but it was shown that a large amount of pipe was still in the fields unused and untouched and he was informed by the court that the pipe was his and that he had permission to haul it away.

Vigorous Old Age

WHY separate youth and old age with a deep and ever-widening abyss?

The bloom of youth and the hardy, ruddy glow of Old Age—sixteen and sixty—should be separated only by the span of years and not by varying differences of physical wholesomeness.

Vigorous old age is within the grasp of all. S. S. S. brings that hale and hearty feeling back with a rush. Rich red blood is the greatest enemy of weakening, health undermining Old Age. S. S. S. builds Red Blood Cells. Rich, red blood coursing through your veins sweeps away impurities that retard the proper functioning of your system. Old Age—once a dreaded agony becomes a vigorous, enjoyable, care free time of life.

S. S. S. is made of carefully selected herbs and barks—scientifically prepared and proportioned. Welcome Old Age when it comes. Be ready to withstand the attacks of diseases that follow in its wake. Meet Old Age with a hearty handshake. A handshake that speaks of well being—of a vigorous, clear thinking, red blooded constitution. S. S. S. is your best friend when Old Age is seen rounding the corner. Get a bottle and drive care and worry away. All leading drug stores carry it. The large size is the more economical.
