Soldier Dies In Terrorist Bomb Blast

By THOMAS A. REEDY

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A terrorist bomb blasted a U.S. servicemen's billet in Saigon early today and killed an American as the lunar New Year truce passed the half-way mark.

The 25-pound bomb, on a bicycle placed against the billet, ripped a two-foot hole in the wall, killing a U.S. sergeant asleep in a nearby room and fatally wounding a Vietnamese woman who was asleep in a house across a narrow alley.

Two other soldiers and several civilians were injured. It was believed that about 40 men were sleeping in the Signal Corps unit billet a mile from Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airport at the time.

U.S. military authorities debated whether the terrorist incident constituted a major truce violation. They said it apparently was the work of the Communist Viet Cong or sympathizers, but it was not as serious as a clear-cut military action during combat.

The terrorist bombing was one of 66 incidents recorded by U.S. military headquarters since midnight Wednesday, an hour before the Viet Cong truce began. The list includes 45 incidents aimed directly at U.S. and allied forces and 21 against South Vietnamese troops.

There was mounting evidence that the Viet Cong had been avoiding contact with South Vietnamese troops during the holiday.

In reports from the field a U.S. spokesman said there were numerous minor incidents late Friday and early today but no major violations. The incidents involved sniper fire or small patrol actions and it was difficult to blame one side or the other, he said.

A Vietnamese military spokesman listed four incidents, however, and said each one was a true violation by the Communists.

Earlier the U.S. Military Command had accused the Viet Cong of 49 specific violations of the cease-fire.

Strike Is Averted At F111 Plant

FORT WORTH (AP)—Pickets were called back and negotiators labored past a strike deadline today to settle a dispute at the big General Dynamics plant which builds the F111 fighter plane.

In a joint statement, management and Local 776 of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers said the proposed new contract would be submitted to union members for ratification at a 2 p.m. meeting.

They disclosed no details of the agreement. Mention of a prospective 60-month period of improved relations, however, appeared to indicate it would be a five-year contract. It affects about 6,000 production workers.

Pickets stepped to posts outside the plant gates at 12:01 a.m., when the walkout was set to start, but orders for their withdrawal came within a minute.

It was 1:30 a.m., however, before Frank W. Davis, president of General Dynamics' Fort Worth division, union local president A. L. Smith and federal mediators announced the settlement.

"The terms of the agreement are honorable and economically sound for all — the employes, the union, the customer, the community and the company," they said.

"We feel that this is the beginning of a 60-month period of improved, more effective and more stable labor-management relationship."

Union representatives said earlier, while negotiations were deadlocked, that the major issues were seniority rights, job protection, insurance, retirement benefits and the length of the contract. There also was mention of a union demand to share in deciding subcontracts for the F111.

Wages, which range from $2.33 to $3.68 hourly, did not figure in the dispute, a labor spokesman said.

Neither side would disclose details involved in the talks, for which federal mediators Paul Bowers and Gene Zimmerman were sitting in at the last.

The machinists' former contract expired Nov. 21, but it remained in effect until the union or management gave 30 days' notice of termination.

Snow Blamed For Derailed Train

AMARILLO (AP)—Snow and ice packed rails were tentatively blamed today for the derailment of a Santa Fe train at the Amarillo depot.

The first three units of the diesel engine section of the mail train jumped the tracks shortly after 5 a.m. No one was hurt. The train included one passenger car.

Amarillo had six inches of snow and a 6 below zero at the time.

Thousands Made Homeless By Fire

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — About 10,000 persons were made homeless Friday when a five-hour blaze destroyed about 1,000 slum huts near the Bangkok waterfront.

Officials estimated damage at $1.5 million.

IN NIGERIA

Prime Minister Is Found Dead

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — The Nigerian Information Ministry announced today that Prime Minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa has been found dead.

The announcement gave no details but the prime minister was kidnaped during a coup just a week ago and had been missing since.

Fear was expressed that discovery of the respected prime minister's body and news of other killings could set off a chain of events that might have grave consequences for military authorities now in control in Nigeria.

The army has a force of 8,000. London is waiting to see how the news of the killing will affect the Nigerian police force, a para-military body with 50,000 members. The police still have some British officers.

In Lagos Thursday, officials of self-appointed President Johnson Aguiyi Ironsi's administration denied French and Soviet news agency reports that the killing of the Nigerian ex-premier had been officially confirmed.

Sir Abubakar had been arrested with his finance minister, Chief Festus Okotie-Eboh, and the two were taken by the rebels to an unknown destination. The finance minister was killed.

Britain's high commission in Lagos has virtually unrestricted lines of communication with the commonwealth relations office in London and has been reporting fully on all developments in the confused and changing situation.

Mercury Dips To New Low As Arctic Air Grips State

An arctic blast sent Snyder temperatures within the shadow of the zero mark early Saturday as a thick cover of snow and ice kept activity at a slow pace throughout the state.

The mercury dipped to 5 degrees on the official thermometer at the city water plant here shortly before sunrise Saturday.

Meanwhile, most of a heavy snow which fell early Friday remained on the ground after an ice coat on streets had been set up by some temporary melting of snow early Friday afternoon.

The frigid blast hit the Snyder area in full force at mid-afternoon Friday. Temperatures skidded some 6 or 7 degrees within a 10-minute period and then settled into a gradual decline that continued until the 5 degree reading was reached.

Up to noon Saturday there had been a surprising scarcity of reports of broken water lines. However, George Lee, the city's general superintendent, said such misfortunes usually come to light only after a thaw sets in, and temperatures still were well below the freezing mark.

A broken water line did occur at the Scurry County Courthouse Friday, but it was repaired promptly. The incident apparently led to a report that the courthouse was closed Friday. However, most offices in the courthouse were open throughout the day, although business was slow and some personnel took off for part of the day.

By Saturday, remnants of the wintry storm which had enveloped all but the southern extremities of the state, spread eastward. Some sections were left with a white cover nearly a foot deep.

Early morning temperatures fell to 7 degrees below zero at Dalhart, 5 below at Amarillo and Perryton, and 3 below at Lubbock and Spearman—all in the Panhandle-Plains of West Texas.

Late reports to state police described road conditions as dangerous around Amarillo, Lubbock, Midland, Wichita Falls and down the Red River Valley, Mineral Wells, Fort Worth, Dallas, Waco, Tyler and Longview.

While main routes were reported open to necessary travel, motorists were urged to stay off the highways where possible.

Unofficial measurements put the snowfall at 8 to 10 inches around Knox City and some other points between Abilene and Wichita Falls. Borger and Childress got 8 inches and Wichita Falls 7 inches, a local record.

Elsewhere in the snow belt the depths ranged from 6 inches at Amarillo and Hereford down to 1 or 2 inches at numerous places.

Weight of accumulated snow in Wichita Falls collapsed an awning over the 100-foot front of the Spears Furniture Co. store Friday night, smashing plate glass windows and dumping slush and glass inside. Damage was expected to be heavy.

At Haskell, 40 miles north of Abilene, 7 to 8 inches of snow caved in the roof of an empty grain warehouse a block long.

Still another byproduct of the storm was a power failure in 400 homes of Amarillo's Southlawn division. It occurred as icy winds blew two electric lines into contact.

Skies cleared by this morning over much of West Texas and clouds were expected to disappear over the rest of the state tonight and Sunday.

At the same time forecasts promised another bitter cold night, with readings down to 4 below zero in the Panhandle, 8 to 14 across the north part of the state, 5 in the extreme southwest and in the 20s to 30s elsewhere in the south.

A little warming was predicted for all of Texas by Sunday.

GEN. ROBERT F. McDERMOTT

Banquet Speaker Blends Old, New

Brig. Gen. Robert F. McDermott, who will be guest speaker at the annual banquet of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce here next Saturday night, has a background of startling contrasts between the old and the new.

Gen. McDermott is Dean of the Faculty at the U. S. Air Force Academy. Arrangements for his appearance here were made by C. T. McLaughlin.

He is a graduate of the oldest public school in America, the Boston Latin School. He attended the oldest private Military college in the country, Norwich University, and was graduated from the oldest service academy, West Point. He holds a master's degree from the oldest university in the country, Harvard, and a doctor of laws degree from St. Louis University, the oldest university west of the Mississippi River.

In contrast with this academic background, he has been associated with the founding of a new institution, the youngest of the service academies, since its establishment in 1954. He was appointed by President Eisenhower as the first permanent professor of the Air Force Academy in 1957, and as the first permanent Dean of the Faculty in 1959. His promotion to brigadier general that accompanied his appointment as dean made him the youngest general or flag officer on active duty at that time.

Gen. McDermott's military backgrund has an analogous mixture of contrasting experiences. He served as a combat pilot and operations officer of a fighter-bomber group in the European Theater during World War II; and he has served as a staff officer in a theater headquarters and in the Pentagon. His performance is attested to by his command pilot rating and the combat decorations he wears—the Bronze Star, the Air Medal with five Oak Leaf Clusters, and the European Theater of Operations Ribbon with six Battle Stars—as well as by the Distinguished Service Medal, the Legion of Merit and Commendation Medal he received for meritorious staff work.

From this contrasting background of tradition and youthful achievement, Gen. McDermott has emerged as a recognized leader in higher education and pioneer in military education.

Gen. McDermott will speak in the high school auditorium Saturday night as the highlight of the Chamber of Commerce banquet program. The program will be presented in the auditorium following the serving of the banquet meal in the high school cafeteria.

Tickets to the banquet, priced at $3 each, are on sale at both local banks, at the Snyder Savings and Loan Association and at the chamber office. At the same time, a banquet ticket committee made up of chamber members is selling tickets.

Named to terms expiring May 31, 1966, were:

Don Alborn, Houston; William L. Winstead, Seabrook; Bill Milam, Houston; D. E. Schoeffel, Seabrook; Jodie McFadden, Webster; Robert D. Thompson, Seabrook; Albert U. Price, La Porte, and Richard Allen, Webster.

US Demands Red's Story Be Probed

MOSCOW (AP)—The Foreign Ministry informed the United States today the body of Newcomb Mott will be brought to Moscow for an autopsy Monday.

This announcement by the U.S. Embassy followed a U.S. demand for full investigation into Mott's death on a prison train. The Russians claim he committed suicide by slashing his throat in the washroom of a train during the night of Thursday-Friday.

Mott, 27, of Sheffield, Mass., had been sentenced in November to 18 months in a labor camp after conviction on a charge of illegally entering the Soviet Union. He was arrested Sept. 4.

The U.S. Embassy said it will be represented at the post-mortem in Moscow.

Mott's mother, Mrs. Howard Mott, said at her home in Sheffield: "I think the Russians killed him. How could he commit suicide if he were on a train surrounded by Russian guards? I'm pretty sure they would have searched him thoroughly for any weapons."

She said she "began to get more suspicious" after she had talked to the Soviet Embassy in Washington about returning the body and was told it might not be possible.

She said she had been unable to learn any details of her son's death from the Soviet Embassy.

Mott, a book salesman, was convicted Nov. 24 of illegally crossing the Norwegian-Soviet frontier Sept. 4 and sentenced to 18 months. He would have been eligible for parole next June 4. His parents attended the trial at Murmansk.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey said in Washington Friday night th State Department "has instructed the embassy to insist upon a full investigation of the circumstances of Mott's death and report as soon as possible."

Launch Set For Weather Satellites

By VERN HAUGLAND

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States hopes to create the world's first operational weather satellite system next month.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration says it will launch two Tiros Operational Satellites to photograph the earth's cloud cover.

TOS 1, to be launched Feb. 2, will operate 460 miles above the earth. It will relay film to ground stations near Fairbanks, Alaska, and at Wallops Island, Va.

TOS 2, scheduled for launch about Feb. 23, will orbit at 360 miles. Its pictures will be received by any interested stations.

Many foreign nations are setting up stations to receive the TOS 2 pictures for use in 24-hour local weather forecasts.

The impact of the two launchings was described Friday by Abraham Schnapf of Princeton, N.J., Tiros-TOS project manager for Radio Corp. of America.

Actor Dies At Age 75

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Herbert Marshall, who lost a leg in World War I, but enjoyed 50 years in show business, died this morning at his Beverly Hills home. He was 75.

The actor died of a heart attack at 12:20 a.m. He had been in the Motion Picture Country Home recently and had returned home shortly before his death.

Marshall made few movie appearances in recent years, but occasionally took roles in television shows. During an interview in his Beverly Hills home two years ago he explained about the movies:

"They don't seem to make my type of pictures anymore — the type that was termed 'drawing room' for lack of a better name."

Elementary Schools Get Accreditation

The Snyder Independent School District has received its accreditation for its elementary schools from the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

The accreditation was a result of the application made for membership last year. To qualify for membership all elementary schools had to meet specific criteria as well as undergo self-study by the faculty and a team evaluation.

Snyder High School has been a member of the Southern Association for a number of years and the two junior high schools became members last year.

The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools is a regional educational agency which accredits public and private schools which meet its standards in 11 Southern states.

The Snyder schools also are accredited by the Texas Education Agency. Becoming a member of the Southern Association means that Snyder Public Schools have gone beyond the regular state requirements in their attempt to have a quality school system.

FRANKIE WALL

Frankie Wall In Race For Dist. Clerk

Mrs. Frankie Wall has announced that she is a candidate for the office of District Clerk in the May 7 Democratic Primary.

"I am announcing as a candidate for the office of District Clerk," she said. "I have lived in Scurry County since the age of 2. My husband and I live four miles east of Snyder.

"We have two married daughters. I feel that I am qualified for the job of District Clerk, and your vote and influence will be greatly appreciated."

Officials Say Decision Due On Renewed N. Viet Raids

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is expected to decide next week whether to resume bombing of targets in North Viet Nam, now that his peace offensive apparently has failed to open any doors to negotiation.

The belief in official quarters, based on his handling of past situations, is that Johnson will put off his decision as long as possible next week.

Some military authorities reportedly had proposals prepared for a revival of air strikes by midweek and some of these at least were said to favor direct attacks against the area around the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi and its port, Haiphong.

The two centers have been spared in past bombing raids.

Some State Department officials were reported opposed to any renewal of the bombing at all at this time. Others were said to favor a more limited and selective approach than the military planners.

In the previous attacks which began last Feb. 7 the United States hit North Vietnamese centers of troop and supply infiltration into the south, bombed ammunition depots, and battered communication lines. Some power generating centers also were hit.

Such targets are understood to be covered in various groupings prepared for presidential study.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk signaled the possible conclusion of the current U. S. peace drive at a news conference Friday with this statement:

"I regret that I cannot report to you any positive and encouraging response (from North Vet Nam) to the hopes of the overwhelming majority of mankind. These past 29 days, against the background of all that has gone before, have provided every opportunity for the authorities in Hanoi to make some serious response."

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I know you aren't running a Lonely Hearts Club, but I've nothing to lose but a five-cent stamp, so here goes. I'd like you to help me find a wife. I am 50 years old, never been married and I am in excellent health. I'm a retired S-Sgt. (U.S. Navy), get a life-time pension, have money in the bank and some sure income property. I own a nice little cabin in 12 acres, deep in the woods near a mountain stream. I love to hunt and fish. My wife must be the outdoor type. If she's never skinned a rabbit or filleted a fish, she should be willing to learn. Don't send me any widows with kids, or women under 40. I'm too old to start raising a family, and I don't care to finish raising somebody else's. She doesn't have to look like Sophia Loren as long as she's strong and healthy. Enclosed is my picture. (I look short because I'm standing next to a redwood tree, but I am actually 5 ft. 10 and weigh 180.) I'd appreciate any leads you can give me. By the way, you don't happen to be single, do you?

WILLING TO GAMBLE

DEAR WILLING: Don't gamble on strangers. If you want to take chances, the risk is great enough when you marry someone you know. No, I don't happen to be single, but I wouldn't qualify anyway because I've never skinned a rabbit and am not willing to learn.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My fiance's mother is going into the hospital for at least a week. She has five children. Three of them are young and the two eldest are boys so, naturally, they can't be expected to cook and clean and take care of the little ones. I am in 12 B and I hold an after-school job. I offered to stay at my future mother-in-law's home and take charge of things while she is in the hospital. She said she thought it was a wonderful idea, but my own mother says she doesn't like the idea at all. What's wrong with it? I already asked if I could be let off from my after-school job for about a week, and was told it would be okay. My fiance and I are trustworthy. He is also in 12 B and we could go to school and come back together. Besides, I think the experience would be good for me. I would like your opinion.

ENJOYS RESPONSIBILITY

DEAR ENJOYS: Your motives may be the highest, but I think your "future mother-in-law" had better find her own replacement. If for no other reason than because your own mother doesn't like your plan.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for seven months and have put up with about as much crabbing from my husband as I am going to. Here is the problem: My 27-year-old "baby" wants me to wash his back. He claims his mother washed it for him every day when he was home. We have gotten into several fights over this. I don't need anybody to wash MY back and I don't see why he needs somebody to wash his. He's just lazy. He claims he has an old back injury and that's why he can't do it himself, but I've seen him put more strain on his back than it takes to wash it. Any suggestions?

NO BACK WASHER

DEAR NO: Give him "The brush," the kind with a nice long handle on it. And don't forget the soap. (Soft).

* * *

DEAR ABBY: "X" and I were secretly married by a justice of the peace in a neighboring state during our freshman year at college. That was in 1964. We never really lived together except for one weekend and a night now and then. It was very unsatisfactory, and we both soon realized it was a mistake, so we just broke off. Now I have met someone else and I am serious about him, but "X" doesn't want to give me a divorce, because he's afraid his parents will find out that he was married and there will be trouble. He needs their financial help to finish college and doesn't want to anger them. How can this be handled without publicity? We mean nothing to each other.

SHORT MARRIAGE

DEAR SHORT: You need legal advice. Trust a lawyer to help you. There is even a possibility that an annulment is in order instead of a divorce.

Britons Told Limey Lingo A Winner

By JAMES F. KING

LONDON (AP) — Englishmen contemplating a trip to the United States were urged today to speak up and not be shy, because "The Limey lingo can open every door."

This advice was offered by Alec Snobel, an editor of the Sun, in a column telling his countrymen how to get along while touring America.

"Talk, ask questions. Argue. Chat 'em up. Babble to taximen, bartenders, cops. Speak like Laurence Olivier or Ringo Starr; speak Oxford or Cardiff; speak Cockney, Scots or Scouse (lingo of Liverpool, home of the Beatles). But speak. The Yanks love a Limey."

Snobel said his English accent "won me juleps in Georgia; daiquiris in Delaware ("Jes' let me hear you say 'cawfee' again, feller"); bourbons in Baltimore ("I guess you-all noo Churchill?"), and more dinner invitations than I could handle in a lifetime."

Snobel said his own lingo got him an invitation to a party at the home of an oil millionaire whose only memory of England was an eight-hour train journey which he got a kick out of telling about. It went like this, Snobel recalled.

"After six hours watching this bowler-hat type staring stonily ahead I dared to say: 'Hello, my name's Decter.'

"'Mine isn't,'" he said and went on sitting silently.

"Sure are wunnerful quaint people, you British!"

Giving a rundown on some of his stops in the United States, the British editor had these comments:

Miami—The brassiest of all man's playgrounds, where outside the fashionable winter season, a James Bond glamor holiday can cost $14 a day.

Williamsburg, Va.—An artfully restored 18th Century town like a "Gone With the Wind" set that Hollywood forgot.

Washington—Tree-lined malls with no skyscrapers to crush the national monuments.

Atlantic City—The Blackpool of the United States where coach parties from Baltimore spill on to the hot, white sands in Kiss-Me-Quick hats: New York waitresses give the glad-eye to Washington federal clerks.

Republicans Set $6 Million Goal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A goal of $6 million has been set for this year's Republican campaigns for Congress.

Zimbalist Says Change For Better

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What a difference a show makes. A few seasons back, Efrem Zimbalist Jr. was grumbling about his chores on "77 Sunset Strip." Today he's working harder on "The FBI" and enjoying it more.

The actor made the switch from private to federal detective with his usual suavity. While he's not enjoying the same high ratings of "77," the new series is doing passably well.

"Damn well considering what we're up against — Ed Sullivan and Walt Disney!" he said on the Warner Bros. set. "It's almost inhuman to put a show against powerhouses like those two.

"But our producer, Quinn Martin, says that last week we passed the number of viewers we were aiming for this season, so I think we might survive. I think ABC should just be happy we kept the time slot alive."

"The FBI" did not fulfill its preseason promise, considering the high caliber of its elements: J. Edgar Hoover, Quinn Martin and Zimbalist. But the latter, at least, is content with the way the series has progressed.

"When I was doing '77,' the sameness of it was deadening," he said. "'The FBI' is changing all the time. And even when I have a script which I think is pretty bad, I come to work and find myself acting with people like Ed Begley and Margaret Leighton. That makes it all worth it."

The work load has been enormous. Last week, he found himself working in two segments at the same time, moving back and forth between sets.

Purcell Sends Questions On Viet Nam

WICHITA FALLS (AP)—Rep. Graham Purcell, D-Tex., is sending a questionnaire on the Viet Nam war to all constituents in the 13th District of Texas.

In a letter with the 25-question form, Purcell termed Viet Nam "the overriding issue in the minds of Congress most Amerians."

The Wichita Falls congressman said he tried to give his constituents as many alternatives as possible in the questionnaire.

The questions include:

"Do you think the United States should be involved in Viet Nam?

"Have we expanded the war in Viet Nam more than was necessary?

"Do you think it vital to the United States to save South Viet Nam from a Communist takeover?

Accepting the fact that we are now involved in Viet Nam, should we:

"Bomb the industrial cities of North Viet Nam, knowing that many civilians will be killed?

Officially declare war on North Viet Nam?

"Should we bomb strategic targets in Red China?"

Space for additional comment is provided.

CONNECTION WAS BAD INDEED

Don Sealy, Snyder Daily News Printer, didn't know how thoroughly accurate his diagnosis was when his wife telephoned him Friday night and advised that she could not start her car.

Mrs. Sealy, who is employed at Cogdell Memorial Hospital, had finished her work shift at midnight. She called her husband when the starter on her car failed to respond to the ignition switch.

"It's probably a loose battery cable connection," her husband advised. "I'll come out and get it started."

Upon arriving at the scene, Sealy raised the car's hood and sure enough, there were two loose battery cables. In fact, there wasn't even a battery to connect them to.

Livingston Dam Ok'd On Trinity

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The Trinity River Authority board has approved plans for Lake Livingston Dam and authorized its administrative committee to select a date for advertising construction bids as soon as the Houston City Council approves plans.

The $48.5 million project is being built jointly by the TRA and the City of Houston.

On water pollution, the board approved a resolution Friday which gives the project committee power to investigate reported pollutions and to recommend prevention measures.

A report was approved on the master plan for recreational development around the reservoir. Nineteen public recreation sites are proposed which would cover more than 3,000 acres with a 460-mile shortline.

The recreation sites will be at Camilla, Coldspring, Wolf Creek, Paul Horton Memorial, Point Blank, Patrick's Ferry, Staley, Riverside, Trinity, County Line, Glendale, White Rock, Caney Creek, Carlisle, Oalaska, Kickapoo, Blanchard, Tigerville and Livingston.

Albert Hall, manager of the Livingston contruction project, told the board that TRA acquired about 4,061 acres during 1965 and 5,800 more are under negotiation.

In other action, the board approved a resolution authorizing its administrative committee to outline the TRA's program to all persons interested in purchasing land near the project in order to avoid possible condemnation suits.

Objector Sentenced

AUSTIN (AP)—A 26-year-old Jehovah's Witness from Houston has been sentenced to two years in prison for failure to report for duty at Austin State Hospital.

Gilbert Alfred Balch, classified as a conscientious objector by Selective Service officials because of his religious scruples against military service, was sentenced in U. S. district court Friday.

Federal law makes conscientious objectors subject to nonmilitary service in the national "health, safety and interest."

Balch was ordered by the Baytown Draft Board on April 30, 1962, to serve two years as a civilian employe at the hospital in lieu of military service. He was charged with failure to report for the assignment.

City Firemen Cool 'Heater Treater'

Snyder Firemen cooled down a "heater treater" at a Standard Oil Company site about six miles north of town off the Clairemont Highway about 5 p.m. Friday.

There was no damage. Firemen had to drive about 40 miles per hour enroute to the site as snow and ice made driving hazardous. All returned safely.

Business In Texas Shows Gain

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas business activity during 1965 was 11 per cent higher than 1964, the Texas Bureau of Business Research said Saturday.

"It reflects the longest continuous upswing in business ever recorded in peace time," said Dr. John Stockton, director of the bureau.

The report showed that Texas retail sales of 1965 also set a new record with a total of $14.13 billion, an increase of six per cent.

"Every kind of retail business shared in the increase during 1965," Stockton said.

Auto sales had a gain of 13 per cent; furniture and household appliance stores and lumber and hardware stores each had a gain of four per cent; apparel stores were up three per cent, drug stores up four, eating and drinking places up five, food stores up four, department stores up five, florists up seven, jewelry stores up 22, liquor stores up eight and office supply stores up two per cent.

Houston and Austin each showed a gain of nine per cent for retail sales in the year.

El Paso was up seven per cent. Dallas, Fort Worth, and San Antonio up five each.

Dr. Lightfoot Is Speaker For Rotary

Dr. A. B. Lightfoot spoke on "The Inroads of Communism in Our Neighbors to the South" at the regular Thursday meeting of the Snyder Rotary Club. He is pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Dr. Lightfoot's talk was based on observation during an extended trip to Mexico and Guatemala. The meeting was presided over by Don Browning, vice-president of Rotary.

Earl Perser, manager of Beggs Wholesale Company, was installed as a new member by Wilson Bright.

Out-of-town guests included George Hicks and Paul Ruska, both of Abilene, and Bill Brown of Sweetwater. Local guests were student Rotarian Lloyd Potts, Club Sweetheart Diane Hargrove, Dr. Robert Clinton, and his son, Robert Clinton.

University Reports Student Epidemic

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — About 100 Midwestern University students have become mildly ill within the past two or three days, and health officials from the college and Wichita County are trying to determine the cause.

Midwestern President Dr. Travis White said Friday no one became seriously ill. A nurse said the main symptoms were diarrhea and vomiting.

The school cafeteria, which serves about 700 students daily, was using paper plates until the cause of the illness was found.

Electricity Can Mean Much In Rural Viet Nam Areas

EDITORS NOTE — Johnnie Ammons, manager of Midwest Electric Cooperative, Roby, has written another letter to the Midwest board of directors, describing some of his work in Viet Nam. Mr. Ammons is helping the Vietmanese set up an electric cooperative at Dalat.

By JOHNNIE AMMONS
Mgr. Midwest Electric Coop.

A measure of the importance of the rural economy to Vietnamese life may be gotten when one realizes that Vietnam is a country with an almost completely agricultural based economy and that the farming population constitutes eighty to ninety per cent of the total number of people. The Vietnamese farmer leads a simple life. His basic food is rice. Tea is his national drink and it is produced locally and therefore is inexpensive. In building his house the farmer is more concerned with practical needs than with beauty.

His dwelling is built of local materials such as bamboo wood, straw and clay. The clay for bricks is dug out of the rice fields. The walls and partitions are made of woven bamboo, over which is plastered soft mud. The mud dries and hardens into a substantial wall. The roofs are covered with thatch of palm leaves. This is the house of the low - income farmer. In most of the country he does not need to build for warmth because he never has cold weather. He builds for protection from rain and heat only. We tend to talk about the many huts we see. Vietnam has a middle and an upper class of people who are intelligent, relatively well - educated and have houses that are much better than the huts described above.

We sometimes forget these people exist here because of our concern for the refugees and low - income, uneducated people. There are a few farmers who build more substantial and modern homes. No country can take its place among the modern nations of the world as long as it takes such a high percentage of its people to produce their food. They must find methods to produce food more efficiently so that a portion of their people may move into industrial production. There will be many small factories and small industrial endeavors on the first cooperative lines. Some of these small factories are now attempting to operate with small diesel powered generators. The cost of maintenance and operation of these generators is prohibitive.

The people in the rural areas of the Tuyen Duc Province do not build fences on the boundary lines of their property as we do in the United States. In many places there are no fences at all. The cattle are herded (usually by children from 8 to 14 years of age) at all times. In other locations there will be small plots of ground which are enclosed by pole fences. Most of the fences that are built in the rural areas are constructed almost completely with materials that do not have to be purchased. They only have enough money to purchase a limited amount of barb wire and the more sophisticated fence building materials.

We traveled today (12-20-65) to the village of Tan Hiep to look at a proposed headquarters site for the cooperative. Tan Hiep is almost in the center of the area the cooperative proposes to serve with electric power and is the logical location if they decide not to place their headquarters in Dalat. The village is located 28 kilometers (17 miles) S.W. of Dalat on the main road from Dalat to Saigon. The village does have telephone service (of a doubtful quality) even though it has no electric power. There is a river about 200 yards from the proposed site and the hard surface road runs along one side of the site. The proposed plot is about 750' X 1050' but the surface is not level and would likely require some bulldozer work. The site is about one - half mile from the Tuyen Viet-Province Airport. The Air Vietnam Air Lines of Dalat uses this airport.

The chairman of the Board of Directors of the Tuyen Duc Rural Electric Cooperative, Mr. Dam, lives in the village of Tan Hiep. He is very interested in obtaining the headquarters location for his village. We visited the new residence that Mr. Dam has under construction at the present time. He carried us out to a cage close to his residence When we looked in the cage we saw a boa-constrictor snake that he said was over 12 feet long (I certainly made no attempt to check his accuracy) and the snake was larger around than the upper part of my arm. The snake had been captured in the forest close to the village. I did not know that I must watch for boa constrictors as well as for Viet Cong Guerrillas.

Our Christmas comes at about the same time as the anniversary date (December 20) of one of the past activities of the Viet Cong and they try to celebrate also. They want to celebrate by doing something in the way of an outstanding terrorist act for their great day. All Americans were alerted to be particularly careful during the time before and after December 20 for this reason.

I have been attending church at a place called "Villa Alliance". It is a cooperative effort of the protestant ministers in this territory. We usually receive a sermon from one of the missionaries or from an U.S. Army Chaplain. Our Christmas Service was held on Sunday Morning December 19 while soldiers, armed with rifles and sub - machine guns, patrolled around the building. Only Americans attend this service and it would make an ideal objective for the Viet Cong to try to bomb to celebrate their December 20 anniversary. We could see the soldiers, through the windows, during the service. We sang the Christmas hymn "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" and as we sang the phrase — Peace on earth and mercy mild — I could not help glancing out the window at a soldier, gun in hand, walking by on patrol in the rain. A Christian religious service over here is very impressive, for many reasons but the outstanding part of the Christmas 1965 service in Vietnam to me was a trio of three American sisters, about 8, 11 and 13 years of age, singing "Silent Night." They are the daughters of an American Missionary.

The morning service was followed by an evening service at "The Koho Tribes Center and Bible School" and we were told that adequate security measures would be taken. This school is for the Mongagnard "mountain" people. This service was given completely by the school children. The speaking and singing was all done in the Vietnamese language except for a very short explanation in English at the beginning of the service. There was a limited number of programs printed in English. There was no Christmas tree and no gifts. The program consisted of Bible stories, Christmas and other religious songs. I could not verify the meaning of the words of the songs but the music was all old time favorites of many Christmas songs, in Vietnamese, and they really made such favorites as "Silent Night" ring. The student choir was composed of 65 students.

People in Dalat tell me that you are lucky if you happen to be in Vietnam towards the end of any January or early part of February. The big holiday season in Vietnam does not come at the same time as it does in the United States. The big days start here, this year, on January 21st and is called Tet. The Vietnamese "ring out the old and ring in the new" at no fixed date but in strict accordance with the ancient lunar calendar. Tet though derived, seemingly from a Chinese custom is today a distinct Vietnamese holiday and is based on legend and oral traditions.

On the surface, Tet is not much different from the customs and tradition of the New Year in the United States. On this day the Vietnamese put on their best "bib and tucker". visit friends and relatives and try to avoid anything unpleasant on this day for fear it may be repeated throughout the year. It is their belief that an unpleasant incident on this day will cause unpleasant incidents for the rest of the 365 days in the year.

The people of Vietnam, like the Chinese, give the name of an animal to each year. For instance, 1965 was the Year of the Snake and 1966 is the Year of the Horse.

Tet is distinctive because of the intensity with which the customs are observed, especially reverence for ancestors. The Vietnamese, at this time, must tend and clean their fathers' graves, decorate their homes, and above all prepare their ancestral altar and bless it with incense and prayer. They believe that for this short period of time those who slumber in the eternal rest and those engaged in the continuing struggle here on earth are brought together for a period of shared joy.

As early as noontime on the Eve of Tet, all shops and offices begin to close. The actual Tet starts this year on January 21st. It ends on the evening of the third day, when according to tradition the ancestral souls — who have returned to this world to partake of the holiday — must return to their own world.

Mountains of foods of all kinds are prepared and stored away for the great day. The customs and legends that surround Tet are endless. Tet simply seems to mean a renewal of body and spirit and a brand new disposition to greet the New Year. Much of Tet parallels our own New Year observance.

A meeting of the Board of Directors of the National Union of Rural Electric Cooperatives was held in Saigon on December 30, 1965. The Board is composed of three directors from each of the three electric cooperatives making a total of nine board members. The three participating cooperatives are: The Tuyen Duc Rural Electric Cooperative of Dalat, the An Giang Rural Electric Cooperative of Long Zuyen and the Duc Tu Rural Electric Cooperative of Bien Hoa. The board has been operating under temporary organization pending the final approval of their request for a charter. This final charter approval was granted on December 15, 1965 and one of the matters of business for the December 30 meeting was to organize their board under its permanent charter.

The board met at 8:30 a.m. on December 30 in Saigon and held a full discussion on the progress in plans to establish the first pole treating for Vietnam. They elected the following officers for the nine man board: Mr. Vu Minh Chau of Bien Hoa, President; Mr. Huynh Hoa Anh of Dalat, 1st Vice President; Mr. Phung Gi Hinh of Long Zuyen, 2nd Vice President; Mr. Mguyen Van Hung of Dalas, Secretary; Mr. Phan Van Thuong of Bien Hoa, Ass't to Secretary; Mr. Mguyen Ngoc Ba of Long Zuyen, Treasurer.

The USOM officials (U. S. State Department) had expressed some misgivings as to the business abilities of the members of the board of directors to operate a pole treating plant. The Chairman, Mr. Chau, is the owner - operator of a saw mill, a weaving mill, a fertilizer factory, a rice mill and a corn mill. He employs 247 people at the present time. The Vice Chairman is the manager of a Tea Plantation that employs 1095 people at the present time. The Secretary is owner - operator of a printing shop, a saw mill and a wood - working shop. The other members are farmers, a school principal, a pharmacist, and a retired school teacher. This information has now been given to USOM and I think they no longer fear the board members do not possess business ability and experience.

Adult Classes Organized

Adult education classes were organized Thursday at Snyder High School in shorthand, woodworking-metals shop and art-ceramics.

The classes will meet from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Mondays and Thursdays during the spring semester. Tuition of $20 will be charged when students report to classes Monday evening.

A class in typewriting will be organized Monday if minimum membership of 15 can be reached. About five more students are needed for the class, Principal Ben Brock reported.

Persons interested in the typing class, or any of the other classes may enroll at 6:45 p.m. Monday in Room 110 at the high school.

CHILDREN'S ART DISPLAY SLATED

An exhibit of children's art will be displayed Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in Room 31 at West Elementary School by Miss Irene Swann.

Anyone interested is invited to visit the display between the hours of 1:30 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Miss Swann was art consultant for Roswell, N. M., schools for several years. She will be on hand to answer any questions and to give demonstrations.

Hunter Loftin, attorney, Houston.

Sheldon S. Cohen, U. S. Commissioner, Internal Revenue Service, Washington, D. C., will be the speaker at a noon luncheon scheduled for Feb 11. He will lecture on the current developments in tax administration.

Fails To Yield To An Airplane

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — A teen-aged Milwaukee driver has pleaded guilty to failure to yield the right of way to an airplane.

Richard W. Grams, 18, was fined $25 Friday on the charge that his auto skidded into the whirling propeller of a single-engine plane at Gen. Mitchell Field where he works.

Algerian Strong Man Plays Role Of Shadowy Mediator

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

ALGIERS (AP) — Algeria's taciturn leader, Col. Houari Boumedienne, apparently has become a central figure in a shadowy exchange of peace feelers between the United States and the Viet Cong.

So delicate are these contacts that American Embassy officials claim to know nothing about them and Algerian officials carefully deny any mediation role by Boumedienne.

But there seems no doubt that the Algerian strong man is acting as a letter box between the two sides as President Johnson's peace offensive shifts from its widely publicized initial phase into stages of secretive diplomacy.

The Algerian leaders — while strongly sympathetic toward the Viet Cong — feel specially qualified by their own experiences in the Algerian war and their influential position among the nonaligned powers to act as go-between in any indirect negotiations that might precede a future Viet Nam peace conference.

But they are also anxious not to get their fingers burned in a peace move that might collapse.

As far as is known, secret exchanges have produced no indication thus far that the Communist guerrillas of South Viet Nam are any more prepared to come to the conference table than the North Vietnamese. But diplomats here see a hopeful sign in the Viet Cong leaders' growing insistence on being seated at a peace conference — if and when it is held — with the same status as their big brother in Hanoi.

Algiers is the site of the Viet Cong's only permanent diplomatic mission in the West.

There are many capitals where American emissaries or messages might reach officials of the Hanoi government, but Algiers is probably the most convenient place to contact the Viet Cong.

And, as American officials seem to recognize more and more, Hanoi and the Viet Cong do not speak with one voice. There have been hints of differences between the Communist regime in Hanoi and the Viet Cong leaders concealed in the jungles of South Viet Nam. These differences might be an echo of the Russian-Chinese conflict, a simple clash of interests between North and South Vietnamese Communists — or just bluff.

Algiers has long buzzed with rumors of secret peace moves. Most of these have been denied, but the denials usually contain a loophole. For example, Huinh Van Tam, head of the Viet Cong mission here, told newsmen recently he had no "direct or indirect" contacts with American officials. But he did not deny such contacts with officials of other countries.

Van Tam spent 45 minutes Jan. 12 with Boumedienne. An official announcement said he delivered a message from Viet Cong President Nguyen Huu Tho, thanking Algeria for its help and support in the "struggle of the Vietnamese people."

Only two hours earlier Boumedienne had received Egyptian Ambassador Mustapha Kamal el Murtadji. Murtadji had brought a personal message from President Gamal Abdel Nasser reporting on Nasser's talk in Cairo with President Johnson's peace envoy, W. Averell Harriman.

Italians Seek To Replace Premier

By BENNET M. BOLTON

ROME (AP) — Italian President Giuseppe Saragat was searching today for a premier to succeed Aldo Moro, who resigned after a defeat in Parliament brought on by defections in his own Christian Democrat party.

Saragat arranged a busy weekend of political consultations after asking Moro to stay on as caretaker premier.

Saragat scheduled talks with former Presidents Giovanni Gronchi and Antonio Segni, both Christian Democrats, and with Senate President esare Merzagora and Chamber President Brunetto Ucciarelli Ducci.

It was considered possible that Saragat might ask Moro to form another government after he had finished consulting with political leaders inside and outside the four-party coalition.

The coalition parties—Christian Democrats, Socialists, Democratic Socialists and Republicans—hastily called meetings of their own.

Internal differences were expected to arise at a Christian Democrat directorate meeting today. Two days ago Moro and his party secretary, Mariano Rumor, had postponed a meeting of the party's National Council from January to February to allow time for working out problems.

The crisis arose when Parliament voted 250-231 Thursday against a key bill of the Moro coalition government, a proposed law for creating state nursery schools.

Avanti, the Italian Socialist party organ, said in an editorial today that the Moro downfall could be traced to "the eternal and paralyzing internal divisions of the Christian Democrat party."

Avanti also criticized the Italian Communists, saying they have no other policy than to wreck the positions acquired by other parties.

It praised "the unity of all Socialists,' a reference to consultations now going on between the Socialist and Democratic Socialist parties as they near reunification.

Saragat's schedule for Sunday includes a talk with Amintore Fanfani, the Christian Democrat former foreign minister who quit as foreign minister 25 days ago and called for a full-scale government reshuffle.

Lions Take Applications For Camp

Applications for a summer vacation full of fun for handicapped children in the Snyder area are now being accepted by members of the Snyder Lions Club.

This unique Texas Lions Camp for Crippled Children at Kerrville will open its first two weeks session on Sunday, June 5. Five sessions will be held this summer for youngsters from 7 through 16 years of age.

The camp is free to eligible blind, deaf, mute or crippled children. Transportation to and from the camp is supplied by local Lions. All requests for summer camp are handled locally by Lions.

More detailed information about the camp may be obtained from Dr. John A. English of the local Lions Club. He may be reached at HI 3-3961 during the day and his home phone number is HI 3-4234.

In past years, Lions have sent over 8,000 youngsters to camp.

Twins Are A Surprise

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Twins, who pulled the Upset of the Year in sports for 1965 by winning the American League baseball pennant, are wary of being surprised themselves in 1966.

Ambushes being laid by Baltimore, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and New York were cited by Twins President Calvin Griffith after learning that his club had been named Upset Team of 1965 in the annual Associated Press poll.

"I just hope we're not the victim of the next upset in the American League," said Griffith.

"The reason we surprised a lot of people last year was the different type of baseball we played. Our ball club ran the bases and took chances we never took before. And we're going to keep it up."

Twin coach Billy Martin, on of those instrumental in turning Minnesota into a much more daring team in 1965, said the pennant year "didn't really surprise me because I felt we had the material to do it."

But Martin is just as leery about the coming season as Griffith. "We've got to play harder than we did last year," he said. "Everybody will be out to get us, so it's going to be a lot tougher. We've got to be ready."

Griffith said the Twins' pennant - winning season was launched in 1964 "when we made changes and got guys like Jim Grant, Al Worthington, Johnny Klippstein and Jerry Kindall. And, of course, the changing of the coaching staff was a big thing.

"We knew the coaches we got were real good. Getting Johnny Sain out of retirement was a real stroke of luck. I think I was lucky to change his mind. And there's no question that Billy Martin had the drive and spirit it takes to get certain guys going."

Griffith looks for the Twins to be better, without trading. "We didn't have outstanding years from some of our key guys," he said. "Harmon Killebrew and Camilo Pascual can both help a lot. If they stay healthy, they can certainly win a lot more games for us than they did last year.

"Earl Battey is the key to any year for us. If he holds his weight down and has another good year, we'll be right up there. I told him that if he reported to spring training weighing 230 pounds I'll give him a $1,000 bonus like I did last year. He told me he's about 10 pounds overweight right now."

The Twins out-distanced their World Series conquerors, the Los Angeles Dodgers, to win the upset title. Minnesota drew 12 first-place votes and 143 points, while the Dodgers had 27 firsts and 128 points for winning in the National League.

Third with 117 points was Spain's Davis Cup tennis victory over the United States in the interzone final last August, and fourth with 104 points was the victory of American Arthur Ashe over Australian Roy Emerson in the quarter-finals of the U.S. National Tennis Championships.

Michigan State's football success brought the Spartans fifth place, followed by UCLA's grid victory over Southern California, Georgia's football victory over Alabama and the New York Yankees' slump to sixth place in the American League.

Bowl Games May Not Be Advantage

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — It might be a good idea for a football team to stay home occasionally on New Year's Day rather than play in a bowl game, Nebraska Coach Bob Devaney said Friday as he arrived in Dallas for a coaching clinic.

He added, "the fans don't agree of course."

"The kids don't get a chance to go home Christmas. When they come back to school, sometimes they don't get adjusted very quickly."

But he didn't say he'd turn down a bowl bid.

Devaney said his team couldn't have asked for a better opportunity than they had in playing Alabama in the Orange Bowl at night.

"Arkansas got beat, Michigan State got beat...we had the national championship in our laps," Devaney said. "We had the situation we wanted to be in. We didn't get the job done."

Stautner Becomes Dallas Line Coach

DALLAS (AP)—Ernie Stautner, 40, has been hired as defensive line coach for the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League.

Cowboy line coach Jim Myers will concentrate on the offensive line, spokesmen said Saturday in making announcement of Stautner's affiliation.

Stautner, a 1950 graduate of Boston College, played 14 years with the Pittsburgh Steelers and was a player-coach in 1963 and 1964. He was line coach of the Washington Redskins last season.

Mantle To Have Surgery Tuesday

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — Mickey Mantle will undergo surgery at the Mayo Clinic next Tuesday for removal of a bone chip from the joint in his right shoulder — another in a long series of physical problems for the great New York Yankee star.

However, Mantle said he expects to be ready to play baseball when spring training opens March 1, five weeks after the operation.

Mantle announced the surgery through Yankee General Manager Ralph Houk in New York. The clinic issued a statement saying Mantle would remain here several more days but made no mention of the surgery.

The 34-year-old outfielder told Houk he will enter the clinic sometime Monday, and that the operation will take place Tuesday morning.

Mantle was not available for further comment Friday night.

Mantle came to Rochester last Monday for a series of examinations on the shoulder, which he earlier described as being a mystery ailment that doctors in Dallas, Tex., where he lives in the off-season, could not diagnose.

He said he first hurt the shoulder playing touch football with his children around Christmas 1964, and that it bothered him all last season, his 15th in the major leagues. He could scarcely throw at times, and his batting average slumped to .255 in 122 games, compared with his lifetime mark of .309. He hit 19 home runs but drove in only 46 runs.

Mantle talked this winter of retiring, but said Houk talked him out of it. "They want me to play, and if I'm physically able to play, I want to," Mantle said when he arrived in Rochester.

It will be the fifth operation for Mantle. He injured his right knee in the 1951 World Series and operations followed in 1962 and 1963 on it. In 1951, he underwent surgery for an abscess in his right hip. And in 1963 cartilage was removed from his left knee after Mantle slammed into a fence in Baltimore.

His foot also was broken in the Baltimore mishap, and he broke his right index finger in 1959.

Only One SWC Game Scheduled

By The Associated Press

The only Southwest Conference basketball game on today's schedule was Southern Methodist vs. Texas Tech in Lubbock in the weekly afternoon televised game.

The next conference games will be next Saturday with Tech meeting Rice in a televised afternoon game at Houston and Texas Christian at Southern Methodist.

Texas A&M, the conference leader with a 5-0 record, rested this weekend knowing that the results of today's game couldn't change the Aggies' No. 1 status.

Southwest Conference schools will play five non-conference games next week.

Lamesa, Levelland Pace 3-AAA Race

With the first round in the District 3-AAA basketball race nearing completion, Lamesa and Levelland are tied for first place with identical 4-1 records.

Snyder, with a 1-5 mark, is the only team in the league with all of its first round games behind it. Other quintets in the district were scheduled to complete the first round of the double round robin schedule Friday night, but were forced to postpone the action due to snowy weather.

Three teams — Brownfield, Sweetwater, and Lake View—are tied for second place with 3-2 district records. Littlefield has a firm grip on the cellar without a triumph in five league outings.

There were several upsets in the first round. Fitting into this category were Levelland's win over Lamesa, Lake View verdict over Levelland, and Sweetwater's triumph at Lake View's expense.

The leaders—Levelland and Lamesa — appear to have a slight edge although Sweetwater, Lake View and Brownfield still are in the running. Snyder and Littlefield, thinner in experience, depth and height than the other squads, have only a slight mathematical chance to remain in contention.

The schedule favors Lamesa since Levelland has to travel there for their second round clash.

Snyder's Bengals are scheduled to begin second round action Tuesday night in Lamesa against the heavily favored Tornadoes.

Bass Tourney Set

WACO (AP) — This year's Sate Bass Tournament will be April 21-24 at Lake O' the Pines in East Texas, originator Earl Golding said Friday.

Golding, who is outdoor editor of the Waco Tribune-Herald, said the 1964 tournament at the East Texas lake set records in all competition. Last year's competition was at Lake Lyndon B. Johnson.

Gus Niarhos, former major league catcher, will manage Modesto in the California League during 1966.

Bullard Leads Bengal Scorers

Little Tommy Bullard, 5 - 7 Sophomore, is leading the Tiger basketball team in every category except personal fouls. Through 17 games, Tom has hit 88 field goals and 69 free throws for 245 total points.

That's a good point production in any league. Bullard's 14.4 point average per game also is tops among the Tigers. Ronnie Laster has the most fouls with 42. He's also one of only three Bengals who have scored over 100 points during the campaign. Ronnie, a 6-3 senior, has netted 131 points. He, Bullard and Bill Blum, 5-10 junior, have tallied over 100 points. Blum has 106 for runnerup honors.

As a team, the Bengals are averaging 57.0 points per game, compared with 62.9 for their opponents. That's a pretty close average for a team that has a 6-11 record overall. Opponents have outscored Snyder by only a little better than one point per period.

Distance Ace Makes First Race In US

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Africa's sensational distance runner, Kipchoge Keino, makes his American debut and his first appearance in an indoor meet tonight in the Sports Arena.

The tall, 26-year-old 9 oiler from Kenya is entered in both the mile and two-mile runs.

In the mile he faces Jim Grelle of Portland, Ore., an athlete who has bettered 4 minutes more than any runner in history but has never hit as fast a time as 3:54.2, which is Keino's best.

At two miles, Keino runs against Belgium's great Gaston Roelants which promises to be as great a race, if not better than the mile.

Keino holds the world record at 2,000 meters — outdoors, of course — and has a claim in for the 5,000-meter record.

Kip, which is the nickname bestowed upon Keino, said he anticipates no great problem mastering the art of running on the boards. He will have about 1¼ hours between the two races.

Tom O'Hara of Chicago holds the indoor record of 3:56.4, set in Chicago last March, and Jim Beatty, then of Los Angeles, set the 2-mile record of 8:30.8 in Chicago in March of 1963.

The pole vault features John Pennel, now competing for the Southern California Striders. Pennel is aiming at the indoor mark of 16-8¾ set in 1963 by Finland's Pentti Nikula.

Sees No End To Bonuses

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The commissioner of the National Football League says he sees no immediate end to paying huge bonuses to the top college football players each fall.

"I imagine it will continue as long as NFL teams have sufficient income to pay for quality players," Pete Rozelle told a news conference Friday.

"The bonuses paid a year ago certainly didn't seem to hurt our game," Rozelle said. "I think we had some of the finest competition on the field last fall that we have ever had."

However, Rozelle said he be- ... at some reports of bonuses are inflated. Estimates of the financial contracts awarded to some of 1965's top college players by pro teams ranged over the half-million dollar mark.

Texan Takes Lead In Crosby Tourney

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Golf's big stars chased a couple of lesser lights today and grappled with the monster Pebble Beach course in the third round of Bing Crosby's $204,500 tournament.

Don Massengale, a 28-year-old from Jacksboro, Tex., surprised even himself by slipping into the midway lead with a 70-67—137, followed by Philadelphia's Bert Yancey at 73-66—139.

Menacing in third place was Arnold Palmer, whose early charge was regulated on the final holes Friday as he carded his second straight 70 for 140. He was five-under-par through 11 holes but lost four of those strokes.

"If I don't play any worse, I won't be unhappy," commented the man who has won more prize money than any other golfer.

Tony Lema and first round leader Al Geiberger were tied for fourth at 142. Lema turned in a 72 for his second round, marred by a double bogey on the final hole, while Geiberger had 74 to go with his opening 68.

All except Geiberger will be at Pebble Beach for the nationally televised third round.

Yancey accidentally could become a television star, Massengale will have to wait until Sunday and, generous though he is, Crosby may not wish the best for Geiberger and Billy Martindale.

Planners carefully set up pairings for the first three days so that Palmer, Lema, Billy Casper and Jack Nicklaus would be marching up the 18th fairway at Pebble Beach for the live telecast.

By happenstance, Yancey was put in a foursome just two back of Palmer for the third round, so he may show on video. Massengale, however, was so far back on the list he couldn't make the late, late show.

Ten of the 12 leading scorers at the midway point do play at Pebble Beach, but Geiberger and Martindale won't even be on the course. The former will play his third round at Cypress Point away from the television cameras while Martindale, with a 72-71—143, goes to the Monterey Peninsula Country Club course, the least difficult of the three.

Martindale and his amateur partner, Robert Roos of San Francisco, led the 49-amateur division after the second round with a best-ball 125. In a four way tie for second at 126 was the team of Al Besselink and Los Angeles Dodger baseball pitcher Don Drysdale.

The southpaw ace of the Dodgers, Sandy Koufax, and partner Ken Still were in a three-way tie at 127.

Oregon Beavers Eager For Crown

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Oregon State Beavers have become a definite threat to win the Pacific Athletic Conference title and snuff out UCLA's hopes of an unprecedented third national collegiate basketball championship before the NCAA post-season tourney even starts.

Most everyone forgot about the Beavers when they took a 79-35 shellacking from UCLA two weeks ago at the Bruins' Pauley Pavilion in Los Angeles. But the very next night the Beavers bounced back to upset Southern California 59-56 at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

In fact the Beavers would be on top of the PAC today if their Friday night 62-46 victory over Oregon had been a league game instead of a non-league meeting. It was the Beavers' ninth victory in their last 10 games and upped their over-all record to 10-4.

Ley Petersen, the Beavers' star 6-foot-5 sophomore from Anaheim, Calif., paced the attack against the Ducks with 15 points. Playing on their home court in Corvallis, the Beavers took an early 20-7 lead and stayed in front all the way.

Three of Oregon State's defeats came in a row on the road last month against Washington, Nebraska and Navy, the latter a three overtime struggle.

The other defeat, of course, was to UCLA of which Johnny Wooden, UCLA coach, said, "We were most fortunate in getting the Beavers a little off their game. They showed they were a much better team by beating USC."

The Beavers are looking ahead to their game with UCLA in Corvallis in February. Right now they are tied for first place in the PAC at 3-1 with UCLA and Stanford.

The Oregon State-Oregon game was one of only two major encounters played Friday as midyear exams cut competition to a minimum. In the other, Washington State, playing at home, thumped Idaho 115-91.

5 Players Dismissed From SRS Squad

ALPINE, Tex. (AP)—Five basketball players have been dismissed from the Sul Ross State team for what the coach calls "disciplinary reasons."

Coach Stephen T. Richards identified the players Friday as seniors Don Wall and Calvin Carrell, juniors Ronnie Irwin and Greg Neihart and sophomore Dan Warden.

Doug Cox of Brownfield is the "dean" of District 3-AAA coaches as three new head football mentors are due to respond to the starting gun next fall.

So far, however, the identity of only one of the new trio is known—Keith Miles who will take over the reins of the Snyder Tigers. Littlefield is seeking a coach to succeed John Howle, who resigned the other day to the surprise of no one, and Sweetwater is beginning its search for a successor to the late Murry Holditch, whose death Jan. 10 left the Mustang post vacant.

The Sweetwater School Board already has interviewed Holditch's staff. The board was scheduled to meet Thursday night to decide on its next step, but the meeting was postponed because some of the board members were out of town. So, it is not known yet whether they will go outside the Sweetwater system for a new head man.

Elsewhere in District 3-AAA, Donald Jay is completing his second year at Lamesa, while Harold Barrett at Levelland and Fagan Mullins at Lake View are in their first year in the league.

Shelby Metcalf, Texas A&M Basketball Coach: "I like to have married players on my squad. They're used to taking orders."

Incidentally, superlative shooting is credited with getting the Aggies off to a good start in the Southwest Conference cage race. Metcalf's top seven performers are hitting the basket on 50 per cent or more of their shots from the field. Tim Timmerman is leading the pack with an average of 56.3 per cent.

Speaking of Texas A&M, there are those (not all of them Aggies, either) who feel that the SWC powers that be were excessively harsh on Gene Stallings in handing out punishment for alleged violations in the Aggie football program. In recent years, penalties have varied drastically for infractions that, based on public announcements, were somewhat similar. The conference appears to be doing a poor job in public information on such matters.

As for Stallings, they may make a real Bear Bryant out of him yet.

However, Tom was on that great Tiger track team that earned national recognition last season, which was the subject of the story in which the mix-up occurred.

Hank Watkins, who stayed at Odessa High as head football coach for only one year before returning to McAllen, reportedly was influenced by several factors in making his decision to return to the Rio Grande Valley. One of them may have been an indication that Permian appears likely to dominate the football picture at Odessa. Gene Mayfield's state champion Panthers were 'way ahead of schedule the past season, being picked to finish as "also rans" in their own district at the start of the season. And, Mayfield has a habit of keeping on winning once he gets up the momentum. Also, it was reported that Watkins will coach at McAllen three more years, after which he will be given an opportunity to be athletic director only.

Colorado City, reported several months ago to be ready to move back into Class AAA circles, did not advance on the latest realignment by the University Interscholastic League, but is almost certain to do so next time around(two years hence) after the Wallace (Negro) High School there is consolidated with the Colorado City High School, unless, of course, enrollment requirements for Class AAA are hiked considerably.

Dick Kenney of Michigan State set a Big 10 mark this season when he kicked a 47-yard field goal against Illinois.

ARCHITECT'S MODEL OF NEW PROPOSED STADIUM — This architect's model of a proposed new stadium for Fair Park in Dallas is being studied as a replacement for the Cotton Bowl and would feature almost 80,000 seats, with 55,000 of them to be under a semidomed roof. The capacity would be more than 4,000 seats, above the present seating. The domed cover over the spectator area would be of concrete shell construction, according to architectural plans. Hatton Prefers Texas Team

Grady Hatton was born in Texas, played baseball in Texas, attended the University of Texas, managed in the minor leagues of Texas and now he fulfills his dream of managing a major league in Texas—the Houston Astros. The offer of the post as manager of Houston came about suddenly after Hatton had been sought by the Chicago White Sox to succeed the retired Al Lopez.

Hatton, who joined the Houston organization less than a month after Houston was awarded a franchise in the National League, managed Houston's AAA Oklahoma City farm club to two Pacific Coast League championships in the last three seasons and is responsible for grooming many of the Astros' promising youngsters.

It was Gabe Paul, then general manager of Houston, who brought Grady to Houston late in 1960 to handle special scouting assignments. In the spring of 1963, Hatton was named manager of the Oklahoma City club. Paul got to know Hatton when he played third base for the Cincinnati Reds from 1946, following service in the Air Force, through 1954 when he was sold to the White Sox during the late stages of the 1954 season. He was with the Red Sox until June of 1956 when he moved on to the St. Louis Cardinals.

Hatton was playing manager of San Antonio in 1958, '59 and part of '60 until he was recalled to the Cubs as player-coach. Grady played under several outstanding major league managers, including Bill McKechnie, Rogers Horbsby, Lou Boudreau, Birdie Tebbetts, Fred Hutchinson and Paul Richards. The 43-year-old Texan should be well equipped to do a good job of managing the Astros.

"Vandy's Dandy"

The basketball fever that has engulfed Nashville can be traced directly to the rise of Vanderbilt University as a basketball power and Clyde Lee, a 6-foot-9 senior who could well become the Commodores' first genuine All-American basketball player.

As a sophomore, Lee paced the Commodores to a 19-6 record and was unanimously selected to the coaches' All-Southeastern Conference team. Lee came into his own as a junior and led Vanderbilt to the Conference title, dislodging Kentucky, the perennial winner. In the 1965 National Collegiate tournament, the Commodores defeated De Paul but lost to Michigan by two points, 87-85. Michigan was defeated in the final round of the championship by UCLA.

Lee scored 471 points as a sophomore and snared 391 rebounds. Last season, Clyde accounted for 631 points and 420 rebounds. This season he is moving along at an even faster clip. Despite his size he has an uncanny ability to rebound and follow a shot, an asset that is as important as defense or jump shooting.

"Lee is the most coachable player I've ever had," said coach Roy Skinner, "and the most eager to improve. He is an extremely mobile big man and he is equally as home playing center or forward. He is an extremely durable athlete and a fierce competitor. No player ever worked harder to improve his skills. His attitude hasn't changed in this his final varsity season."

With a stronger supporting cast, Lee could lead the Commodores to their big goal—the NCAA championship, and gain deserved recognition as a real All-America court performer.

"Risky Riding"

Doug Small has been riding years and here he is—riding off with top steeplechase honors for the year

Small grew up in Maryland horse country and started out as an amateur riding at hunt meetings for pots and pans. He didn't plan it that way because he dreamed of becoming a jockey on the flats. But he grew fast and soon his 6-foot frame carried 130 pounds. He did work some of the horses trained by his father, a successful trainer of public stables around Maryland and New Jersey tracks.

After a year of studying as a pre-veterinary student at the University of Delaware, young Small decided to try his hand at steeplechase riding. When he was 16, he started working as an assistant trainer for his father.

Small won 27 races over the hedges last year and survived half a dozen falls with nothing more than a few scratches and minor bruises.

"Small has a good seat on a horse," says veteran Joe Atcheson, winner of the title for the last two years and in 1961. "Doug goes well with a horse because he has good racing instinct."

Small prefers riding with the pros "because they know what they are doing." He points out that steeplechase riding is a dangerous game and the pros keep a safe course and do not weave in and out like amateur riders. That makes for greater safety.

Another thing that helped Small in his riding career was his marriage last February to the daughter of another turfman, Burley Cocks, who led the steeplechase trainers with 36 victories last year.

Judge To Rule On Braves' Hopes

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — A Milwaukee judge will rule Monday on the Braves' hopes to unblock the basepaths to Atlanta, Ga., by getting Wisconsin's antitrust suit against baseball tossed out of court.

Circuit Court Judge Elmer W. Roller said Friday night he was preparing his written decision, but would not say which way he intended to rule.

Observers in Milwaukee expect him to refuse the Braves' request for dismissal of the state suit, which charges that major league baseball is a monopoly.

Wisconsin is asking that the Braves be required to play in Milwaukee unless the National League grants the city a replacement franchise. It also wants a temporary injunction to force baseball to stay here until the suit is settled.

Miss McIntire from Colorado Springs, Colo., eliminated Curtis Cupper Phyllis Preuss of Pompano Beach, Fla., 2 and 1 Friday. Miss Hoke of Pensacola, Fla., beat Lesley Holbert of Miami, Fla., who scored the biggest tournament upset with her 1-up victory over defending champion Marlene Streit of Toronto.

Owners Must Register Boats

AUSTIN, TEXAS—More than 200,000 motorboats subject to the new Texas Water Safety Act must be registered by April 1, State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer said today.

The law gives the Motor Vehicle Division of the Texas Highway Department the task of issuing certificates of number for boats operating in Texas waters, just as the division administers issuing of licenses and titles to motor vehicles operating on Texas highways.

Renewal notices for boats now registered in Texas will go out starting January 3, along with a brochure outlining key features of the new act.

"This is a good time for Texas skippers to brush up on the law," Greer said, "to make certain their craft complies with the extensive changes in the new Water Safety Act."

For the first time, state game wardens have full authority to enforce water safety statutes.

All current certificates of number for motorboats operating in Texas waters expire March 31, Greer said.

The new registrations will be valid for a 2-year period instead of the old 3-year registration period.

New fees are: Class A boats (less than 16 feet), $3; Class 1 boats (at least 16 feet long, but less than 26 feet), $6; Class 2 boats (at least 26, but less than 40 feet long), $9, and Class 3 boats (40 feet long and over), $12.

As an example of the changes in equipment in the new act, Greer noted that under the old regulations a small Class A boat needed only to show a single white light for nighttime operation. Now, such craft cruising on Texas waters after sundown must have red portside and green starboard lights as well as a white light showing from the stern.

The regulations also require horns, bells, fire extinguishers, flame arresters and other equipment, depending on the class and type of boat.

It also requires a boat towing skiers to mount a 4-inch rear view mirror.

Details of the new regulations also are contained in booklets supplied by the Motor Vehicle Division to more than 500 marine dealers in Texas. Copies of the Texas Water Safety Act are available at 10 cents a copy from the Texas Highway Department, Motor Vehicle Division, 40th and Jackson Street, Austin, Texas, 78703.

All fees over the cost of administering the certificate of number program are used by the Highway Department in construction of boat ramps on Texas lakes and waterways. More than 40 ramps have been constructed so far.

The law authorized political subdivisions, the authorities operating many Texas lakes and waterways and the Texas Highway Department to "zone" Texas water for specific boating and recreational uses, and make local rules and regulations relating to the operation and equipment of boats, provided a copy of any rule or regulation be filed with the Texas Highway Department and the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The Texas Highway Department, however, has left such zoning to local authorities, since the Department has no means or facilities for enforcement.

Johnson Leads In Bowling Tourney

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Bill Johnson of New Orleans, La., took a three-point lead into the quarterfinals of the 25th annual National All-Star Bowling Tournament today.

Johnson, who fired a five-game series of 1,212 Friday, leads all qualifiers with 3,417 pins. He held a 227 average for 15 games.

Bob Materasso of New York was three pins back at 3,414.

Bob Strampe, the 1964 All-Star champion from Detroit, who was the qualifying leader Wednesday and Thursday, slipped to third place.

Lou Gard of Kalamazoo, Mich., and Bob Crawford of Detroit, turned in tourney highs Friday. Gard, an amateur, rolled a 300 game, and Crawford notched a tourney high series of 1,220.

Heavyweights Meet

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Third-ranked heavyweight Amos (Big Train) Lincoln of Portland, Ore., will meet Henry Clark of San Francisco in a scheduled 10-round fight Thursday, Feb. 3, in Los Angeles, it was announced Friday in San Francisco.

Counts Does Count As Celtics Remain On Top

By The Associated Press

Who said Mel doesn't have it when it counts?

The Boston Celtics found out Friday night that he does when he helped them to a 113-96 victory over Cincinnati, a triumph that spoiled the Royals' chances of replacing the Celtics at the top of the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division.

In other games Philadelphia defeated New York 109-98, Detroit trimmed St. Louis 117-108 and San Francisco beat Los Angeles 120-109.

The Royals, who had defeated the Celtics in three of five previous meetings this season, could have taken a one-game lead over the perennial champs. But Mel Counts was there to make sure it was the Celtics who took the one-game lead.

Midway through the second quarter, the Celtics led 40-36. Then Counts, Bill Russell, Sam Jones and Willie Naulls put together 13 points while the Royals scored just three.

Late in the fourth quarter the Royals rallied to within six points, but Counts tossed in a field goal and a free throw, sending the Celtics out of danger.

Counts finished with 13 points and 11 rebounds.

Philadelphia, rallying after losing a 16-point lead in the second half, handed New York its sixth straight setback and 13th in last 15 games. The 76ers pulled away from a 67-67 tie in the third quarter with a 13-2 spurt. Chet Walker and Wilt Chamberlain each scored 27 points for Philadelphia while Walt Bellamy had 17 for the Knicks.

Detroit saw a 21-point lead dwindle to one, 95-94, early in the fourth quarter, but former Hawk John Barnhill scored three quick baskets, helping the Pistons pull out to a comfortable lead again. Ray Scott topped Detroit with 32 points. Len Wilkens had 23 for St. Louis.

Nate Thurmond got a pro career high of 36 points in San Francisco's victory over Los Angeles. Jerry West scored 38 for Los Angeles, which saw its Western Division lead cut to 3½ games over second place Baltimore and to 4½ over third place San Francisco.

ANNOUNCEMENTS A

CARD OF THANKS A-3

We would like to take this means of expressing our appreciation and gratitude to all you wonderful people who were so kind and thoughtful to us in the heartbreaking time of losing our loved one. Especially do we want to thank Dr. Dillaha and the nursing staff at the hospital who were so gentle and good to him, those who sent such beautiful flowers, and those lovely ladies who prepared, brought and served such an abundance of food. Friends are such a blessing, and never do we realize it more than in time of sorrow. May God's richest blessings fall on each and every one of you.

Junior High Science Pupils On Schools' TV Program

Science departments of the Snyder junior high schools, Lamar and Travis, will hold the spotlight on the Snyder Public Schools' TV program Monday evening. "Know Your Schools," a program produced by the local schools, is broadcast over Snyder Community Antenna Television company's cable and may be viewed on Channel 2 from 6:30 to 7 p.m.

Instructors and students from the two junior high schools will explain different areas of study offered which includes life science, earth science and physical science. Earth science encompasses the study of air, soil, soil erosion and geological formation. Physical science covers facts on heat, light, electricity and mechanics. Life science is the study of plants, animals and the human body.

Jake Greene will introdue four ninth grade students from his physical science classes at Travis. Johnnie Goosby will explain dust explosions and tell of their importance. Max Mearse will discuss good ventilation. Two students, Bill Baldwin and Terry Woellert, will give facts about thermocouples — the measurement of heat — and will explain the production of electricity by means of heat.

Students from Gene Newton's eighth grade classes at Travis will discuss subjects relating to earth science. Danny Ellington will talk about geology and will explain the streamtable. Weather will be discussed by Danny Chastain.

Seventh graders from Lamar, under the direction of Al Young, will give a demonstration in life science. Kenneth Vernon and Vicky Murray will show in a single experiment that all living things give off carbondioxide.

Science instruction at the junior high school level has two major purposes: to give all students a general background in science, and to provide enough depth and challenge to attract those students who are capable of following a career in science. Students who show a definite interest in this course of study are encouraged to continue it when they reach high school by scheduling classes in chemistry and physics or in the various areas of biology.

At the beginning of this school year, the Snyder schools set up a new program of study for junior high school science departments. This program was changed in both organization and content. It now consists of one - half year of life science for all seventh grade students; one-half year of earth science for all eighth graders, and a full year of physical science for ninth grade students.

Previously, the students in junior high school had studied a smattering of the three sciences each year. The new program is planned to allow a more comprehensive study of each field. This will better prepare them for class work in senior high school and to face the present and future technical world, school curriculum planners believe.

Science is now taught at all elementary grade levels. As a child progresses his scientific knowledge grows. Higher levels of scientific learning and understanding are thus accomplished at a much younger age today than was previously believed necessary, instructors point out.

Scientific knowledge has advanced at a rapid rate in the last ten years. With the advent of Sputnik, the first known Russian space venture, both the American public and educators began questioning science programs in public schools. Demands for changes in the teaching of science and for broader courses of study caused educators and others responsible for curriculum in public schools to closely examine existing programs. This lead to the development of a much broader program of study for all public school children.

Lloyd Potts, high school speech class student, will be master of ceremonies for the entire broadcast. Nan Martin, also a member of Gerald Gafford's speech class, will give the school - wide news report. Cutting newscasts to a five - minute period will give additional time for the feature. Previously, reports of school news have taken ten minutes of the 30 minutes allotted the schools' TV program.

High school students will again operate equipment. School personnel and students are responsible for the complete production. A SCAT employee stands by as a trouble shooter.

Next week's program will present students and instructors from science classes at Snyder High School. "Know Your Schools" is presenting a series of three science program. Monday, Jan. 31, will conclude the science series.

Stock Feeding Shows Drop

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Agriculture Department survey shows that livestock feeding operations by meat packers eased off a little in 1964 from the high level of 1963. Figures for 1965 operations will not be available for some time.

A report said packers fed 1,052,000 beef cattle in 1964 or 3.4 per cent of the national total. This compared with 1,083,800 or 4 per cent in 1963.

Feeding of sheep and lambs set a record of 867,100 head or 59 per cent of the 1964 total compared with 642,200 or 4.1 per cert in 1963.

Some farm groups want legislation which would clearly deny packers the right to engage in livestock feeding operations. They argue that such operations give packers power to undly influence livestock prices.

This Is Busy Season For Television's 'Deciders'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Michael H. Dann, vice president in charge of programming for the CBS television network, sat rather uncomfortably at a big, round table in his temporary office. It was an austere chilly room on the 34th floor of CBS' new, black stone skyscraper.

His secretary brought in coffee service for four, followed almost immediately by two executives of a large talent agency. They were there to confer about programs in which CBS is interested for next season.

The first project under discussion was something called "What Did You Do in the War, Daddy?"

"It looks good," said Dann casually. "But I'd rather see a one-part episode — not a two-parter — to kick off the series."

The agents nodded and took notes. Dann talked of the network's current problems in Hollywood.

"It's really tough," he said. "There's just no studio space available, and even the laboratories are crowded so its hard to process film. That rain delayed shooting for eight days."

One of the agents mentioned another program idea. Dann frowned.

"I hate to commit us to take that one to pilot," he said. "Stall it for a month."

Dann picked up a long piece of paper torn from the company's Teletype and read it quickly. It was a status report from his Hollywood assistant on some of the 29 pilot films in which CBS has an interest. He looked up suddenly and asked who his conferees were thinking of casting in another series they had discussed. One named a well-known male star.

"Too old," said Dann, briskly. "I'd rather you'd go after somebody young that we can build from."

The agency men retired, and were succeeded by three of Dann's own program staff. They discussed an idea for a variety show for Garry Moore. Dann said he hoped to see the pilot of a new show out of the Danny Thomas-Sheldon Leonard shop on his next trip to the coast. He picked up the phone and called David Susskind to tell him he thought "Run, Buddy, Run," a projected series, "looks like a winner."

And so it went, a typical day for one of the three men in television who pick the programs millions of viewers will see on their screens. These are the men who have been dubbed "The Deciders."

Dann's counterparts on the other two networks operate in much the same way as he does. Mort Werner of NBC and Edgar J. Sherick of ABC like Dann, confer endlessly whether they are in their New York offices or their Hollywood headquarters.

And they all rely heavily on their highly paid executive staffs, which one trade magazine calls the "elite corps."

If an idea enters a network at a lower level, the lesser program executive may reject it. His alternative is to push it along to a higher echelon. Some program projects go in at the top, but usually only when a major television studio, or an important advertiser, is involved. "Bewitched," an ABC hit last season, was brought to Sherick by the advertiser who wanted to sponsor it, and ABC snapped it up.

But even programming vice presidents have their bosses, in this case the network presidents, who also watch over other departments — sports, news, and — very importantly — sales. Some network presidents in the past — notably James T. Aubrey, late of CBS — have acted as their own chief programmers of entertainment shows. But under the current network structures, the jobs now are assigned to experts who make a career of evaluating, weighing dramatic values — and guessing where the public's viewing fancies will settle next.

Mobil Oil Districts Consolidated

DALLAS (AP)—Mobil Oil Co. is consolidating a number of districts and exploration and producing divisions in a move that Executive Vice President J. D. Moody says will result in "relatively few terminations."

The Houston and Midland, Tex., Denver and Los Angeles divisions will become three new regions with headquarters at Houston, Denver and Los Angeles, the company said Friday.

The 28 exploration and producing district offices will be consolidated with division headquarters at Midland, Oklahoma City, Casper, Wyo., Corpus Christi, New Orleans and Shreveport.

District offices will be closed entirely at Victoria, Tex., and Lafayette, La. The company said small staffs will remain at Lubbock, Wichita Falls, Durango, Colo., Roswell and Hobbs, N.M., Wichita, Kan., and Jackson, Miss., after district offices are closed in those cities.

Socony Mobil Oil of Canada, Ltd., announced its six districts will be consolidated into a single exploration and producing organization with headquarters at Calgary.

Petition Is Presented

AUSTIN (AP)—A delegation of 16 Negroes protesting alleged civil rights violations in Huntsville drove in three cars to Austin Friday to present a petition to Gov. John Connally. Connally was in Dallas.

Booker T. Bonner, who said he is the Texas field secretary for Martin Luther King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference, led the group.

They were dressed in heavy clothing because of the snowy weather. Bonner wore a toboggan cap as he smoked a cigarette down to the filter and chatted with newsmen.

Bonner said the petition asks the governor for an investigation of the Huntsville situation. If the governor does not respond within a week, they'll be back, he said.

Bonner said he had asked the governor's office to let him know if the governor would not be in, but a telegram advising Bonner the governor would be away was sent to Bonner's address in Austin instead of Huntsville.

Railroad Commission Reports Completions

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission reported Saturday a total of 129 oil well completions for the past week making 492 for the year, compared to 500 in 1965.

There were 44 gas well completions and 88 dry holes.

The eight oil wildcats included two each in Dists. 3 and 7-B, and one each in Dists: 4, 7-C, 8, 8A and 10.

There were three gas wildcats and 45 dry tests reported.

The 152 wells plugged included 58 oil and six gas.

Pay Check Computer Loses Its Decimal

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia School District authorities are holding up the pay checks of about 900 employes because of a computer error.

The authorities say an accounting computer was placing the decimal point one place too far to the right. When officials discovered the machine writing checks for $1,500 instead of $150 they quickly turned it off.

Star-spangled way to look ahead

One of the best ways to bring a fuzzy future into sharper focus is to plan for it with U. S. Savings Bonds.

Bonds just naturally make you look ahead—and what you see becomes less uncertain. No matter what you're saving for, Bonds give you a mounting feeling of confidence.

Bonds are a proven way to save. Millions of Americans are helping to provide for their years ahead with this secure investment.

They're a flexible way to save—converting easily to cash when you need it. You pay no local or state income tax. And you can defer the federal income tax until you're ready to cash your Bonds.

And they're an especially easy way to save if you use the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Just ask for an application.

Take a star-spangled look ahead with U. S. Savings Bonds. You'll not only be keeping a watchful eye on your own future but also on your country's.

Quick facts about Series E Savings Bonds
- You get back $4 for every $3 at maturity
- You can get your money when you need it
- Your Bonds are replaced free if lost, destroyed or stolen
- You can buy Bonds where you bank, or on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work

JOYCE DACUS is gay and happy in a predominately red cotton plaid shirtwaist. The beautiful colors are snapped up to the minute with a flurry of pleats. Debbie McCants wears a slender black velveteen sheath that is enchanting with its low scooped neckline and flirty white lace trimmed sleeve flounce. Joyce Morrow wears a red and white cotton check shirtwaist dress with roll-up sleeves, pointed collar and white pearl buttons and one-inch pleated skirt. Rose Hartley looked spring fresh in her blue and white striped cotton crepe. Easy lines make the costume a must for the coming season.

SUITS — Connie Ellington wears a baby blue two-piece suit. The royal blue saddle stitching and covered buttons add perfect accent with a royal blue hat and brown accessories. Lynne Shelburn has a swinging young fully lined suit with double breasted jacket and A-line skirt. The heather blue of the skirt is repeated in the jacket, paired with beige in hounds tooth checks. Brenda Benton scored twice with this A-line skirt, double breasted royal blue wool suit. The suit is exquisitely tailored with bound buttonholes. Barbara Gracey was attractive in her fashion right outfit, a beige fully lined wool dress and jacket. The jacket has a scooped neck with a scalloped collar. Her green hat and pin added just the right charm.

CYNTHIA DAVIS modeled her A-line jumper made of shocking pink velveteen with a low belted back. Carol Minyard wore a wintery white dress with off the waistline and long sleeves with a touch of gold trim. Betty Sneed was attractive in her gray and white pin stripe wool semi-fitted shift with white wool lace adding the femine touch. Mary Guerra wore a black velveteen sheath with empire waist and long tapered sleeves. The scooped neckline was edged with white nylon lace collar. Linda Spence modeled a slender gentle A-line in a creation of black wool with three-quarter length sleeves. The V neckline was edged with crocheted wool lace trim.

High School Homemaking Department Presents Style Show To 20th Century Club

Mrs. Tom McKinnon, president of Twentieth Century Club opened the afternoon activities with a big "Welcome", and introduced Mrs. Charles Noble, narrator, who in turn introduced Mrs. Dan Martin, Home Economics teacher.

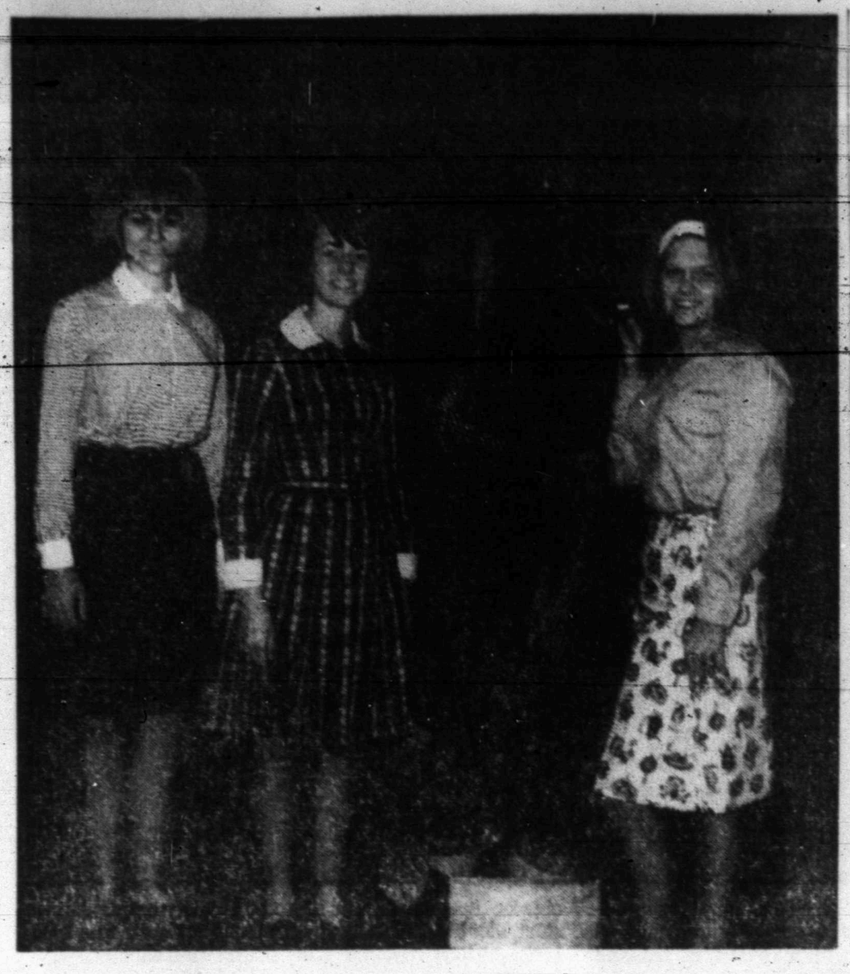
Following the style show, the club hosted a tea honoring the students and their mothers. The table was covered with a hand-drawn cloth with crystal appointments, and centered with a Monzonite branch and boxwood branch draped with net and miniature hats.

Approximately 75 members and mothers attended.

(other pictures on inside pages).

JUMPERS — Barbara Crowell keeps in fashion with the latest infatuation of sky blue stretch denim with pert pockets, a casual summer sun dress or a sporting great. Karen Robertson wears a pinwale corduroy, just right for spring, it may be sashed in lightly or not at all. Sammie Raines is smart as paint in her dangy pink jumper with the swing skirt in a cotton dacron blend. It may become a party dress without the blouse. Emily Kincaid wears a chic pastel blue jumper, styled of wide wale corduroy and is enhanced by self patch pockets.

LITTLE MODELS TOO! — Kathy Krop and Shiela Gayle Eckert wear matching dresses with empire waistlines made from a cotton pin-dot for top and larger dots for skirt. Gold ribbon bows add just the right touch. Polly Wadleigh wears a red and brown plaid skirtwaist with notched collar and shiny brown buttons, while Becky Wadleigh looked darling in a pink frock adorned with three tulips on the yoke. Patricia Kruse modeled a foxy gray suit with a white pin stripe running vertically for slendering effects. With her was Peggy Scribner in a lively blue cotton, button down the front for easy manipulation and tulip appliques. Donna Ward modeled her beautiful plaid shirtwaist with soft pleated skirt, and long sleeves, while Vickie Ward was all dressed for toyland in a gay red print with full skirt and gathered yoke. Marianne Askins wore a classic style shirtwaist dress of multi colored cotton plaid, a go-go dress for spring. She holds Brent Simpson who wore a jumper suit with sail boat applique on the pocket of the dark blue corded material.



DOTTY DENSON looked neat in her black and white striped blouse with white collar and cuffs, black straight wool skirt and black shoes. Caroline Hardegree made her dress out of plaid cotton fabric in a design to match. The one and one-half inch pleats have beige stripe to predominate. The beige accent is continued with solid beige collar, cuffs and belt. Janeen Clements is ready for fun time in this simple A-line skirt coordinated with a deep blue long-sleeved blouse matching the blue of the printed skirt.

Gardener's Corner

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

HOW MUCH was spent to beautify America in 1965?

It is estimated that $1 billion went for seeds, bulbs and plants, and half a billion for fertilizers and chemicals.

The estimate was made by H.B. Tukey Sr., president of the International Society for Horticultural Science and professor emeritus at Michigan State University.

In the last 10 years, Tukey said, the value of horticultural specialties, including cut flowers, bedding and foliage plants and nursery crops, have more than doubled.

He also reported that sales of power lawn mowers increased from 1,680,000 units in 1950 to 4 million in 1963.

There are 14 million acres of lawn in the United States, 42 million gardeners and 15,000 affiliated garden clubs, according to estimates.

"At the moment," Tukey said, "horticulture is especially active throughout the world, including in the tropics. And no aspect of horticulture has greater promise than floriculture and ornamental horticulture.

"In an age of specialization when researchers are probing into fundamentals of plant behavior," he added, "horticulture contributes to the plant sciences by emphasizing the whole plant in its natural environment."

Emphasizing the importance of horticulture to the amateur, he described gardening as a safety valve for society. "The nervous tensions of modern living are eased by the creative and muscular outlets of gardening."

Six new fruit varieties have been introduced by the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station.

They include two apricots, Alfred and Farmingdale, sister selections resulting from the cross of Doty x Geneva. Although newly named, they have been available for several years. They were formally named for further testing, the Fruit Testing Association said, because of their above average hardiness, regularity of bearing and fruit quality.

Morton nectarine was produced by pollinating a seedling of Big Boy x Schumacher. It is resistant to low temperature injury and is early ripening.

Hilton and Huron Black are raspberries, the former a large, midseason red from a cross of Newburgh x St. Walfried, winter hardy and self-supporting. The latter is a cross of Rachel x Dundee, not seriously susceptible to anthracnose, with favorable fruit size and quality.

The last is Garnet Strawberry, (Midland x Suwannee) a vigorous, midseason variety, very productive and resistant to foliage diseases. The berries are large and maintain size well throughout the season.

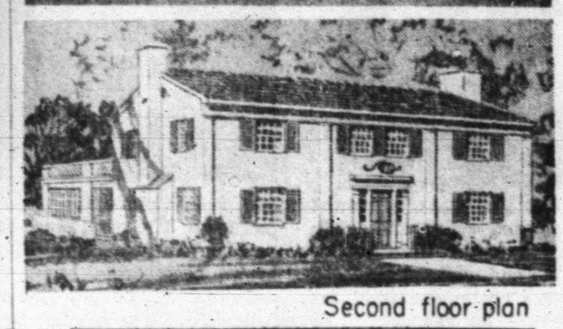
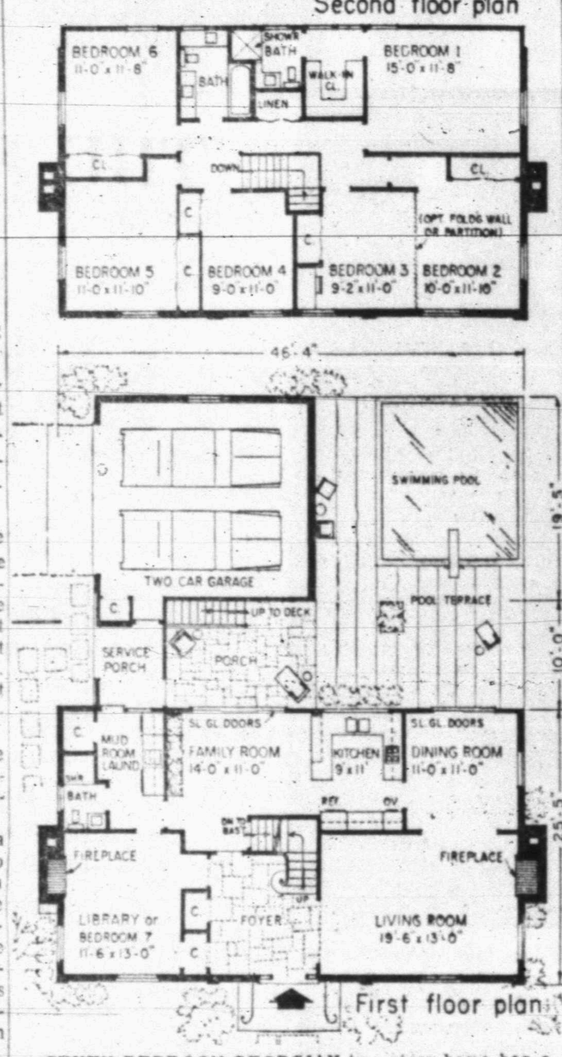
HOMES FOR AMERICANS



Second floor plan



SEVEN-BEDROOM GEORGIAN two-story home has a brick veneer over a standard wood frame. Both the living room and a downstairs bedroom have brick-faced fireplace. If fewer bedrooms are required, the wood-paneled downstairs one can be converted to a library. The two-car garage location provides for private space to accommodate a swimming pool. Architect is Rudolph A. Matern, 90-04 161 St., Jamaica, N.Y. 11432. Plan HA426M has 1,125 square feet on the first floor, excluding porch and garage, and 1,215 on the second floor.

Nobody really LIKES to paint a ceiling. But it has to be done, so you might as well do it right. Besides, it's a lot easier now than it was in the pre-roller days, when painting a ceiling with a brush usually was good for a stiff neck as well as an armful of paint.

Since flat paints reflect light evenly without the glare produced by gloss and semigloss finishes, they usually are better for most ceilings. But in bathrooms and kitchens, the preference is for semigloss enamels, which have good resistance to moisture, steam and grease and can be washed easier.

You can paint a ceiling while standing on a ladder or on a plank placed between the treads of two step ladders. Or you can use a roller with a long - handled extension that permits you to stand on the floor most of the time. Or you can stand on one of those long dining room bureaus which have a very firm foundation and permit you to move from one end to the other without getting down. The latter method possibly is the best provided the bureau can be moved around without too much strain and trouble.

Paint across the width of a room. Roll the paint on, with the first stroke going away from you. Always start a new stroke in a dry area and paint toward a wet one. Use right - angle strokes when necessary to cover a surface completely, especially when light paint is being used over a darker one.

Use a paint brush or an edging roller to paint the perimeter of the ceiling, as the ordinary roller may leave marks against the walls when it gets too close. Paint the narrow strip as you go along if you are using any paint which might show lap marks. But if you are using a latex paint, you can do the entire premieter with a brush and edging roller at one time. Then you can go ahead with the main section of the ceiling. To be certain of not marring the walls — especially if they are not to be painted within a day or two — use a metal or plastic strip known as a time - saver. This is held against the wall as you bring the brush or edging roller close to it. Without a time - saver, use a piece of cardboard of the type that comes in men's new and laundered shirts. Whatever you use, wipe it frequently.

Unless you are anxious to splatter everything within five yards, don't spin the roller at the end of a stroke.

QUESTION: I have a varnishing job to do and want to use a sprayer that I have successfully used for painting. I read somewhere once that a spraying varnish should be used.

I have gone to the two hardware stores in my neighborhood. One dealer told me he didn't know anything about spraying varnish. The other said that the regular varnish which he sells is good for use with either a brush or a sprayer. Now I'm confused. Is there a spraying varnish or did I just dream I read about it?

ANSWER: Yes, there is a type of varnish which is made especially for use with a sprayer. It is used mostly by professional wood finishers, since it takes practice to get good results with varnish that is sprayed on. See if there is a paint dealer in your area who specializes in supplying men in the trade. He undoubtedly will have a spraying varnish.

If not, use a good quality regular varnish, but thin it about 25 per cent with turpentine before putting it in the sprayer. A word of caution: don't try to spray on varnish if you are going to cover a good piece of furniture — until you have learned exactly how to do it. Do at least one and preferably two test jobs first. It is even possible that the type of sprayer you have may not be suited to the spraying of varnish.

Curried Chopped Beef With Peanuts

1-3 cup finely chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
1 unpeeled green apple, cored and grated
2 tablespoons peanut oil
1 pound lean ground chuck
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup water
1 cup seedless raisins
¾ cup salted peanuts
2 tablespoons chutney
2 tablespoons curry powder
1 teaspoon salt
3 cups hot cooked rice
About ½ pound bacon, crisp - cooked and crumbled
¼ cup flaked coconut

In a skillet, saute onion, garlic and apple in peanut oil just until soft. Add beef and brown, crumbling with a fork. Remove meat mixture; drain on brown paper. Replace 2 tablespoons of the drained drippings back in the skillet. Blend in flour. Slowly add water, stirring to keep smooth; simmer until slightly thickened. Return meat mixture to gravy and add raisins, ¾ cup peanuts, chutney, curry powder and salt. Simmer about 5 minutes. Spoon over hot cooked rice and top with remaining ½ cup peanuts, the bacon and coconut. Makes 4 servings.

Amateurs Enter Spy Business

THE BILLION DOLLAR BRAIN. By Len Deighton.

Once again Deighton's anonymous, world - weary and not too brash secret agent, attached to a small unit of British intelligence, tells us his adventures.

Some of the characters are familiar having appeared in the earlier "Funeral in Berlin" — the agent's boss Dawlish, whose quick, sometimes impatient mind operates behind a quaint facade of nonchalance, and Col. Stok, the blunt, harsh but not too unfriendly head of a Russian intelligence section.

This time the scenes range from London to Helsinki, Leningrad, Riga, New York and Texas.

The problem is the rise of a private spy network — our hero tut-tuts over the dangers that a "bunch of amateurs" can cause among the professionals - operated by a Texas billionaire named Midwinter. He is an extreme right - winger who has an armed force of his own, secret agents bumbling around on the Finnish - Russian border, connections with a handful of fascist - minded British, and a huge underground city of computers under the Texas soil.

(One of the novel's weaknesses is that the computer bit never becomes quite clear. Some of these machines are correlating data about vulnerable industrial and communications spots in Russia; presumably the others are standing in readiness for similar data from other countries.)

Not to give the plot away, our British agent runs into an American he had met before, Harvey Newbegin, and Harvey's activities are at the center of the action.

The present story is not as tightly dramatic as "Funeral in Berlin," not as movie - like as "The Ipcress File."

But it does have the light touch in the midst of mayham. Deighton is skilled at dialogue filled with sharp bits of repartee, and he manages an engaging grin now and then when he pulls our leg — always the other leg, not the one we expected — with scenes that reach into burlesque. Deighton's hero once again is a smart, nicely human nonswashbuckler.

For an epicurean breakfast dish, serve French pancakes with maple syrup mixed with a little brandy.

A TWO - PIECE knitted coat and dress ensemble provides an elegant answer to the question of what to wear. It is styled with a full length coat from wonderfully smooth flat knitted wool, and teamed with a slightly cowled neck sleeveless dress, also in wool, but with a contrasting stripe knitted in for interest. Three-quarter sleeves help the standout appearance of the coat.

NELDA KELLNER wore a houndstooth lavender and white wool double breasted jacket and white dart fitted A-line wool skirt. Sara Baldwin wore an appealing gold wool suit featuring a dressy roll collar. Margaret Garza looked chic in a red turtle neck sweater under a jacket with low neckline of green. Her red plaid A-line skirt completed the ensemble. Lonnie Dotison wore a sporty two-piece A-line wool suit. The gray skirt was accented by the blue and gray jacket that featured bound buttonholes. Mary Johnson modeled a red and gray wool suit featuring a double breasted jacket topping a straight skirt. Buttons decorated the pockets and shoulder tabs.

Homes Now Copy Motels For Interior Design

Interior designers are doing an about-face and are now creating motel rooms for homes.

The motel look is seen more and more in homes throughout the nation these days, claims Marcel Lutwak. "For years motels made every effort to simulate home and gracious living. But now motel rooms have become so attractive and comfortable-looking that interior designers are looking to them for ideas for furnishing modern homes and apartments," says Lutwak.

The motel executive points out that the precise, careful planning that goes into motel decor can offer many ideas to homemakers in layout and furnishings. "Motels are a product of much imagination and thought to please a broad cross-section of the population. They strive to achieve a cross-section of tastes and preferences, avoiding gaudy extremes and offbeat design. In a sense, too, that is what the goal of the typical home should be, providing for pleasant everyday surroundings through furnishings that blend many ideas into a correlated pattern of design," Lutwak says.

Motels have been furnished in Early American, Spanish, Western, French, Italian-practically every design known to appeal to the traveler—all with emphasis on function rather than frill, and many of these effective motifs in decor can provide ideas for home design.

Lutwak offers some hints for home furnishings based on motel design concepts:

1. Multiple-use pieces designed because of motel space-economics are especially important in the modern home or apartment. For example, the desk or breakfront that quickly converts into a dining room table is almost a must in homes and apartments with small or no dining rooms.

2. Choose pieces not only for comfort, but to please your senses, too.

3. Clean, contemporary furniture is especially effective when it is enhanced by strong colors and rough textures.

4. A piece or two of a different style can add great charm to a room. For example, it is very dramatic to place an antique table or lamp between two very modern chairs.

5. If you keep background colors soft it makes a room seem larger and gives it a more open feeling.

6. When planning your furnishings, keep in mind that every room must have a focal point—the area of most visual appeal.

"The days of buying an all-of-a-kind-suite of furniture are past," says Lutwak. "This is the era of mixing styles, periods and materials. To do a really effective job of furnishing your home, you must have a genuine desire to acquire furniture and accessories that express your individuality, character and interests," he adds.

"Motels don't just happen," says Lutwak who oversees the furnishing and operation of 750 rooms of a motel chain. "They are planned with care—even down to such frills as antique door knobs.

"The modern home, too, isn't just happening. It should be planned — for simplicity and comfort, function with some frills, formality with personality—with today's highly mobile family in mind."

Lemon Pecan Cookies

¼ cup each butter and sugar
Grated rind of 1 large lemon
1 egg, separated
1 cup unsifted flour
Finely chopped pecans

Cream the butter, sugar and lemon rind. Beat in the egg yolk. Stir in the flour. Chill. Shape level tablespoons of the dough into balls; roll in slightly beaten egg white and then in pecans. Place a couple of inches apart on a lightly buttered cookie sheet. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven for 20 to 25 minutes. Makes about 1½.

Braised Lamb

1¾ pounds lambneck for stew
1 teaspoon paprika
1 tablespoon fat
1 medium onion, diced
1 clove garlic, minced
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce

Sprinkle the lamb with the paprika. In a heavy 10-inch skillet, heat the fat and brown the lamb in it. Add remaining ingredientsplus ½ cup water. Simmer, covered tightly, until tender - abut 2 hours - adding water in ¼ cup amounts as needed to keep sauce from being very thick. Add salt to taste. Skim off fat. Makes 3 large servings.

Delightful Treat For Cheese Cake Fanciers

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

IT'S THOROUGHLY American and popular all over the country. It's Cheese Cake.

Whenever a recipe for this dessert appears, cooks who enjoy baking seem to take notice.

We found the formula for this particular cheese cake in a leaflet published about 20 years ago by a dairy company here in the East. The recipe that follows is an up-to-date adaptation of the earlier formula. If you carefully follow the directions, you should have good luck—as we did — in turning out this scrumptious dessert with a level top and nary a crack.

CHEESE CAKE

Graham cracker crumbs
1 pound small curd creamstyle cottage cheese
2 packages (each 8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
1 cups sugar
4 eggs, slightly beaten
¼ cup corn starch
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon vanilla
cup butter or margarine, melted
1 pint commercial sour cream.

Spread bottom and sides of a 9-inch spring form pan with butter. Dust sides with graham cracker crumbs. Force cottage cheese through a fine - mesh sieve into a large mixing bowl; add cream cheese. Beat with high speed of electric mixer until well blended and creamy. Beating at high speed, gradually blend in sugar, then eggs. Reduce speed to low. Add corn starch, lemon juice and vanilla. Beat until blended. Add melted butter and sour cream. Blend with low speed. Pour into prepared pan. Bake in a slow (325 degrees) oven until firm around edges — about 1 hour and 10 minutes. Turn off oven; let cake stand in oven with door closed for 2 hours. Remove from oven and cool completely on wire rack. Chill. Remove sides of pan. Makes about 12 servings.

To freeze: Wrap cheesecake in plastic film. Freeze. Defrost, wrapped, in refrigerator overnight. Cake may be frozen up to 1 month.

Savory Spinach

1 package (10 ounces) trimmed and washed fresh spinach
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 small clove garlic, crushed
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Rinse and lightly drain spinach; cook rapidly in a covered saucepan in the water clinging to the leaves, turning as spinach wilts. Drain and reheat with salt, oil and garlic, mixing well. Remove from heat and stir in Parmesan. Makes 4 small servings.

JAMAICA — Among the important new roses to be introduced for the first time in 1966, is Jamaica, a most unusual Cherry Red Hybrid Tea. Deep, crisp blue-green foliage and even deeper green stems and canes make an outstanding background for the vivid cherry red blooms. The blooms unfurl slowly on long stems, free flowering with erect and vigorous growth habit.

Germany Theater Is Controversial

By HANNS NEUERBOURG
Associated Press Writer

FRANKFURT, GERMANY (AP) — German playwrights, drawing on recent history for their material, show a sustained flair for controversy.

Ever since Rolf Hochhuth rocked international theater audiences with "The Deputy," disputed "documentary" dramas have enlivened talk in German literary salons and made theatrical columns exciting reading.

And no figure seems out of bounds—from Pope Pius XII to assassin Lee Harvey Oswald—when it comes to shaking up the usually staid German season ticket holder in his reserved seat.

Hochhuth's play, in which he charged that Pope Pius failed to speak up against Nazi extermination of European Jewry, provoked a red hot debate and protests from church leaders in 1963.

In 1964, Heinar Kipphardt presented his "In the Matter of J. Robert Oppenheimer," protraying the U.S. physicist as a fierce fighter against nuclear armament.

Ostensibly based on transcripts of U.S. Atomic Energy Commission hearings, the play aroused the ire of the real Oppenheimer, who felt it distorted the truth.

The 1965 stage season saw the premieres of two stiffly controversial dramas and chances are that a third may even outdo them.

German critics generally were unimpressed and the U.S. Jewish War Veterans League had sharp words of condemnation for a play about the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, titled "Dallas November 22."

Felix Luetzkendorff, a Munich playwright and author of movie scripts in both the Nazi and postwar periods, wrote the drama on the basis of the Warren report, dubbing it "a reportage for stage."

It deals with the life of Lee Harvey Oswald from his discharge from the Marine Corps to the moment he was shot by Jack Ruby.

Heinz Menzel, who directed the play at Aachen's tiny Grenzland Theater, thinks it shows that Oswald "murdered because of sexual fear of his wife." Commented a respected German weekly, Die Zeit, "This is not a work of art."

And Milton A. Waldor, national commander of the Jewis War Veterans, charged the play was "nothing more than a semiglorification and semijustification of Oswald by depicting the assassin as an intelligent idealist whose guilt must be shared by society in general."

The fiercest theatrical discussion involved "The Plotters," a drama about the abortive July 20, 1944, plot against Adolf Hitler.

Author Wolfgang Graetz makes plain he considers the rebellious anti-Hitler officers more or less as a group of dilettantes, some of whom even lacked courage.

Asked one critical reviewer's headline: "Was Count Stauffenberg a fool?" Stauffenberg was the young colonel who planted a time bomb in the Fuehrer's headquarters that wrecked the premises but failed to kill Hitler. The Colonel was later executed along with hundreds of others.

Before the play was read in public for the first time by a group of actors, another writer jumped up in the audience and warned that everybody involved might face libel suits for "defaming the memory of the dead."

Playwright Graetz, who gained a doubtful brand of advance publicity through the fact that he is on parole from a 2½ year prison term for fraud, has in turn threatened to sue a newspaper critic who had acused him of the "worst kind of defamation."

With none of the suits tried yet in court, a new storm is brewing and may overshadow all previous discussion. Gunter Grass, internationally known novelist ("The Tin Drum," "Cat and Mouse," "Dog Years") has written a play "The Uprising of the Plebeians."

This time the target of literary attack is a literary figure himself—the late Bettholt Brecht, an avant garde dramatist whom many people consider the greatest German-language poet of the 20th Century.

The play is about the June 17, 1953, uprising in Communist East Germany, where Brecht spent the last years of his life. In one key scene, rebellious bricklayers try to wain to obtain a manifesto from Brecht in support of their demands for better working conditions.

But, according to the play, Brecht remains closeted in his "ivory tower" while one of the workers comments bitterly: "The government has built a new theater for him. That prevents him from doing anything for us."

However, Grass' criticism is not confined to Brecht. He also takes swipes at ex-Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, at right wing German refugee movements and at millions of West Germans for whom the June 17 anniversary—a national holiday in the West—has simply become an occasion for picnics, drinking sprees and traffic jams. Grass protests that they have all "written off" the Eastern half of their country.

Stains in grout, the material between ceramic tiles, usually can be removed with a detergent. Pour out enough detergent to cover the stain, let it stand for several minutes and then wipe clean.

Snyder Girl Scout Neighborhood leaders and assistant leaders met at 10 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 20, in the community room of Snyder Savings & Loan Assn. There were 21 present. Mrs. Marvin Dozier, Neighborhood Chairman for District III, West Texas Girl Scout Council, presided.

The group decided to meet on the third Thursday of each month hereafter, same time and place.

Mrs. Edwin Neves was appointed uniform exchange chairman. If anyone wishes to buy or sell a uniform, please call Mrs. Neves at HI 3-6148.

Girl Scout Cookie Sale will be Feb. 11 through 19th and plans for the sale locally were discussed. Mrs. Evelyn Boone is our local cookie sale chairman.

Leaders were reminded that registration for all Snyder troops is due before February 1.

Present at this meeting were Mrs. John Chinn, Neighborhood chairman from Colorado City, and Mrs. Harold Lacik, West Texas Council Board member.

Cadette Girl Scout Troop No. 54 (Mrs. B. J. Bartels) has been having an interesting series of programs on making flower arrangements. In the fall, the girls dried some flowers and gathered dried materials from the fields. The Twilight Garden Club gave the troop some 1965 Garden calendars and a box of "professionally" dried flowers. At one meeting the girls made centerpieces and arrangements, using the pictures in the calendar as guides. At the next meeting, Mrs. John Hamblen, a member of the Snyder Garden Club and also a member of our sponsoring club, the Twentieth Century Study Club, came to show us some basic styles and forms of flower arranging. Several of the girls made arrangements under her guidance. The girls enjoyed Mrs. Hamblen's talk and demonstration very much and wish to express their appreciation to her and to the clubs mentioned for their support and help.

Junior Girl Scout Troop No. 327 (Mrs. Franklin Pruitt and Mrs. Kenneth Terral) met on Tuesday, Jan. 18. They had as a guest speaker, Mrs. Robert Waggoner, formerly of Snyder and now a Junior GS leader in Big Spring. Mrs. Waggoner showed movies and told of her trip to Rockwood, the National Girl Scout Camp in Maryland. This was a most enjoyable and interesting program and applied toward the Sign of the Star, which the girls are working on at this time.

Twenty-three girls out of this Troop have completed the Trefoil Badge.

Refreshment hostess for Tuesday was Barbara Lacik, who served hot chocolate and cookies.

Cadette Troop No. 266 (Mrs. Coy Rhodes and Mrs. B. F. Head) met on Jan. 19 at Mrs. Rhodes' home.

Their guest speaker was Mrs. Sidney Wallace Johnson, who gave the girls instructions on posture, and sitting and walking correctly. This is part of the Good Grooming badge requirements.

Many thanks to Mrs. Johnson for meeting with our troop!

How to succeed in saving without really trying

It's hard to sock away money at times, especially when you get to feeling you just can't spare much for savings. And therein lies the real beauty of buying U. S. Savings Bonds on the Payroll Savings Plan.

You never even see the money you're saving until you've suddenly got your hands on a brand new Savings Bond—and it's all yours. That can give you a mighty fine feeling, especially when your Bonds begin to stack up.

Here's how the plan works: just tell your employer to set aside a small amount from your pay toward the purchase of a Savings Bond. Before you know it, you've got a mate to that first Bond. And your Bonds are already busy—earning another dollar at maturity for every three you invest.

Bonds are busy another way, too. While they're earning money for you, they're helping to keep your country strong.

So join the millions of Americans who have made a success of saving through the Payroll Savings Plan. You'll find you really don't have to work very hard at it. Try it and see.

Quick facts about Series E Savings Bonds

- You get back $4 for every $3 at maturity
- You can get your money when you need it
- Your Bonds are replaced free if lost, destroyed or stolen
- You can buy Bonds where you bank, or on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work

Expansion Of Food For Peace Looms

By WILBUR MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — A billion dollar expansion of the food for peace program looms as the major farm legislation for Congress this year. Most other major agriculture programs were extended for four years by the 1965 omnibus farm bill.

Rep. Harold Cooley, D-N. C., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, has introduced a bill to extend the food for peace act for four years, hike by $1 billion to about $2.6 billion the annual export of U.S. farm commodities and make a major change in eligible crops.

His bill would eliminate the provision requiring these exports be from commodities with officially designated surpluses and make any crop in adequate supply available.

In some instances, Cooley said, farmers could be asked to produce deliberately for this export program, although he is against removal of present production curbs. His committee is expected to start hearings by Feb. 15.

A bill similar in some ways to Cooley's has been introduced by Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., who successfully had it taken out of the Foreign Relations Committee and assigned to the Senate Agriculture Committee.

The law which established the food for peace program provides that food and fiber sold, bartered or donated abroad can not interfere with established world commerce or normal trade in any of the commodities.

Recipient countries who buy the food, which in the past has been primarily wheat, feed grains and vegetable oils, pay for it in local currencies. Cotton also has been a major export crop under the program.

Senate Contests In Texas Promise Some Bitter Battles

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas voters predicting a quiet election year should take a look at the state Senate races.

Because of reapportionment, resignations and other political attrition, the present 16 Senate campaigns will see at least five and maybe six of the current senators go down in defeat.

Another nine new senators will be added to the august body of 31 members.

Political oddsmakers predict the sun will rise next Nov. 9 on at least one Republican state senator, maybe a Negro woman senator and possibly a senatorial title for Gov. John Connally's brother.

Bitterest battling will center around the four races where senatorial redistricting forced eight incumbents to fit it out in four reshaped districts — Sens. Neveille Colson, Navasota, and Bill Moore, Bryan, in new Dist. 5; J. P. Word, Meridian, and Louis Crump San Saba, in Dist. 12; Culp Krueger, El Campo, and William Patman, Ganado, in Dist. 18; Dorsey Hardeman, San Angelo, and W. E. (Pete) Snelson, Midland, in Dist. 25; Andy Rogers, Childress, and Jack Hightower, Vernon, in Dist. 30.

Another incumbent vs. incumbent race apparently disappeared when Galloway Calhoun, Tyler, announced for the attorney general's race, leaving Sen. Jack Strong, Longview, alone in Dist. 2.

Rep. Wayne Connally, Floresville, is the only candidate now sighted in Dist. 21, where Sen. Abraham Kazen, Laredo, resigned for a congress race.

Veteran Sen. George Parkhouse, Dallas Democrat, will face the winner between two Republicans, Ike Harris and Horace Houston, for the northwest Dallas County Dist. 8.

In new Dist. 16, Rep. Jim Wade, Democrat, is the only announced candidate.

In Dist. 3, Sen. Martin Dies Jr., Lufkin, resigned for a congressional race. So far, a hot race is shaping up between state Rep. Charles Wilson, Trinity, and Bob Murphey, tobacco-chewing, speech-making former district attorney of Nacogdoches.

In Dist. 7, a new district of southeast Harris County, Rep. Chet Brooks, has announced and Rep. John Ray Harrison is considered a possible candidate.

In new Dist. 11 of eastern Harris County, Rep. J. C. Whitfield and Miss Barbara Jordan, a Negro attorney, are considered candidates in the district which has about 40 per cent Negro population. Former Rep. Clyde Miller is a possible candidate.

In Harris county's third new senatorial district, No. 15 of the west part of the county, Reps. W. J. Miller and Don Garrison are Democratic candidates with Glen Purcell a possible GOP candidate. Another possible Democratic candidate is former state Senator Bob Baker.

Two hot Senate races are bulding up in Bexar County due to redistricting and the announcement of Sen. Franklin Spears for the attorney general's race. In Dist. 19, the new district of southeast Bexar county, Reps. V. E. (Red) Berry and Glenn Kothmann are contestants. In Dist. 26 of northwest Bexar County, four current San Antonio representatives, Jake Johnson, Joe Bernal, R. L. Vale and Tom Lee, are contending for the Democratic nomination. David Carter, local businessman, is another possible Democratic candidate.

In the El Paso area, Dist. 29, former state Representative Malcolm McGregor and Joe Christie of El Paso are candidates.

Other incumbents without current opposition include: Dist. 1, A. M. Aikin, Paris, dean of the Senate; Dist. 4, Roy Harrington, Port Arthur; Dist. 6, Criss Cole, Houston; Dist. 9, Ralph Hall, Rockwall; Dist. 10, Don Kennard, Fort Worth; Dist. 13, Murray Watson, Mart; Dist. 14, Charles Herring, Austin; Dist. 17, A. R. Schwartz, Galveston; Dist. 20, Bruce Reagan, Corpus Christi; Dist. 22, Tom Creighton, Mineral Wells; Dist. 24, David Ratliff, Stamford; Dist. 27, Jim Bates, Edinburg; Dist. 28, H. J. (Doc) Blanchard, Lubbock, and Dist. 31, Grady Hazlewood, Amarillo.

Junior Editors Quiz on DIKES

QUESTION: Are dikes used in other places besides the Mississippi River?

ANSWER: A dike or levee is a bank of earth or other material built up to hold back water. Dikes are used where the land is so low that water might flood in. As most land is higher than the water level, dikes are only needed in special circumstances, such as to prevent flooding along the lower Mississippi. Yet dikes have had an extremely important part in history. It was by building them that the ancient Egyptians managed to control the River Nile. It is said that the effort, which had to be made by so many people, led to the development of cities along this and certain other river banks, from which civilization developed. A remarkable use of dikes is that practiced by the Netherlands, two fifths of which lies below the level of the sea. By building dikes, the courageous Dutch have held back the sea for centuries, using dikes also to prevent rivers from flooding over the land. In recent years, the Dutch have been reclaiming land from the shallow Zuider Zee by building dikes and then pumping out the water on the land side. In this way they get new land areas called polders, to one of which our young Dutch friend is pointing.

FOR YOU TO DO: The story of the Dutch battle against the sea is so remarkable that you should know more about it. Look up The Netherlands in an encyclopedia. 1-22

THE SHADOW OF SEQUOYAH, by Jack and Anna Kilpatrick (University of Oklahoma Press, $4.50)

Jack Kilpatrick of Southern Methodist University and his wife, Anna, are doing more than any others to make the Cherokees understood by other Americans.

Just published is their third book on the tribe, this one largely translations of Indian documents. The publisher is the University of Oklahoma Press.

The Cherokees, like other tribes, suffered at the hands of of the whites, but remained always a group generally considered civilized.

The fact that Sequoyah developed a system of writing for the Cherokee language about 1821 perhaps helped the tribe to adjust to its white neighbors and sometimes tormentors.

The system of writing may have helped bridge the gap between the Indians and the pioneers, but it is not one easily learned.

The Cherokee language, say the authors, "is so appallingly difficult that it seemingly cannot be mastered by an exercise of the will. One speaks Cherokee from the cradle or one does not speak it."

Both the written and spoken language face extinction. English is so much easier it is driving out the Indian tongue.

Somewhere along the line, the written language must have helped in the transition from primitive to cultured American. Cherokees were able to move into white settlements and become leaders. This reviewer knows two Cherokees. One is an Associated Press executive. The other is a neighbor, literate, cultured and affable. Neither, however, can speak or read Cherokee. And they have no desire to do so.

Cherokee writing is hard to find. The Kilpatricks say mountains of documents were destroyed during World War II when many Cherokees left their homes for war jobs.

The authors have sought in "The Shadow of Sequoyah" to draw a picture of the thinking of the Cherokees through the few remaining writings. These documents largely are personal letters or records of organizations.

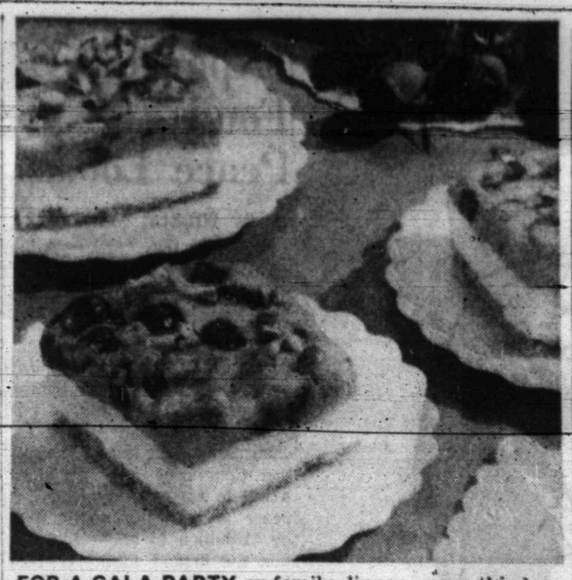
The Cherokees were wild about organizations. Let two meet on a trail by chance and they set up a committee, with one of the two the president and the other the secretary.

Actually, if you've read half a dozen of the translations you've read them all. The Cherokees were not very complex. They certainly did think differently in many ways from the whites, and possibly it is the lack of thought communication and understanding that laid the groundwork for the whole tragedy of the Indians.

More important than the translations are the backgrounds of the documents provided by the Kilpatricks.

It is now time for the authors to more away from the sort of books they have written and do something for the general public—perhaps a history from the viewpoint of the tribe, or an explanation of the Cherokees themselves.

Certainly, few articulate people are so well grounded in what it means to be a Cherokee as are the Kilpatricks.



FOR A GALA PARTY or family dinner, serve this luscious two-layer fruit supreme. It's quick to make with canned cherry pie filling, and a tasty morsel because of the butter and dairy sour cream.

Surprise 'em With Fruit Supreme

Just when they expect you to serve cherry pie, surprise your family or guests with something different: Fruit Supreme. It's a festive February dessert that's planned with the hostess in mind. You can make it ahead of time with very little effort and bring it out at party time or meal time, ready to cut in squares and serve. To harmonize with February's holidays, it's made with cherries.

Since the cherries come in the form of prepared pie filling, this luscious dessert is easy to do. And it's just as simple to make with strawberry, apple, or apricot - pineapple pie filling. Take your choice; they're all delicious and ready to use right from the can.

With pie filling on hand, there's little more to add. Most of the remaining ingredients are staple foods. Vanilla wafers provide a crumb crust. The bottom layer is a simple blend of butter, sugar and one egg. For the top layer, cherry pie filling is combined with velvet-smooth dairy sour cream. You'll like the fresh, tangy flavor of the sour cream, in contrast to the sweetened cherries. Top it off with a sprinkling of chopped pecans and tuck it away in the refrigerator to wait serving time.

This type of easy refrigerator dessert is a welcome addition to any recipe file. Bring it out any time of the year, for almost any occasion. Family or guests will go for this delectable Fruit Supreme.

FRUIT SUPREME

1 cup vanilla wafer crumbs (approx. 25 wafers)
½ teaspoon cinnamon
3 tablespoons butter, melted
5 tablespoons butter
1 cup confectioners sugar
1 egg
1 can (1 lb. 5 oz.) cherry pie filling
1 can dairy sour cream
¼ cup chopped pecans

Combine crumbs, cinnamon and melted butter; mix well. Press firmly on bottom of a buttered 8 x 8 x 2-inch square pan. In a small mixing bowl cream together 5 tablespoons butter and sugar until fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Spread over crumbs. Gradually fold sour cream into pie filling. Spread pie filling mixture over butter - sugar layer. Sprinkle pecans over top. Chill for 12 hours. Serves 9.

VARIATIONS: Strawberry, apple or apricot - pineapple pie filling may be substituted for the cherry pie filling.

Team buttered cooked fresh green peas with buttered, peeled new potatoes to serve with a Sunday roast of beef, lamb or veal.

Historical Portraits Of Chaos

THE PROUD TOWER. By Barbara W. Tuchman.

"A phenomenon of such malignance as the Great War does not come out of a Golden Age."

The author is speaking of the 1914 - 1918 conflict, and it definitely is not a golden age that she explores in this remarkable book about the 1890 - 1914 era.

Disregarding the tiresome bombast of the diplomats, she probes into deeper strata to find the real society that developed at this time, at "the most accelerated rate of change in man's record," following tremendous industrial and scientific revolutions.

Her method is as selective as that of an artist directing a documentary film; no need to tell all the details; it is enough to catch the significant phenomena from several viewpoints. Pay attention to her Foreword. In a few magical paragraphs she catches the whole focus of the era.

This is a collection of eight studies. First the author illuminates the British scene at the turn of the century, when 200 families who had ruled the land for centuries were riding high in luxurious euphoria, stubbornly ignorant of the unrest that lay below them.

Next we meet the period's anarchists, operating in a well of poverty, but ironically detached from their subject. Another chapter is on America, aptly titled "End of a Dream."

Then the author turns to France, as it reacts with irrational Gallic emotion to the absurd Dreyfus Affair, and then to the blind Hague conferences.

There is a high point about Germany's wild Neroism — Nietsche, Richard Strauss and the Kaiser — foreshadowing in their grotesque delusions of grandeur the Hitlerism of later years. This is followed by a study of the rise of the Labour party in Britain and an examination of Socialism's divisions of theory and revisionism, often far removed from the working classes it pretended to represent.

Here is an author who writes graphically, with as much concern for fox hunting, opera and ballet as with an admiral's theory, an agitator's wild shout, a dirty scandal in court, a stench in a slum dwelling, a poet's intuitive protest.

In point of time this volume precedes Mrs. Tuchman's prize-winning book about the beginnings of World War I, "The Guns of August." Once again, this is real history, brushing aside the husks of chronology to peer into the vortex of modern folly. Read her calm portraits of yesterday's chaos, for a better understanding of today's amplified crises.

SALVADOR DALI'S LATEST — "Character Masquerading in Pinning Up a Butterfly" painted in December 1965.

Impressive Dali Show: From Age Six To 61

By MILES A. SMITH
AP Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Salvador Dali as an artist may be seen at the Gallery of Modern Art, in what is probably the most comprehensive one - man show ever assembled in America.

It is a striking demonstration that Dali the artist is far greater than Dali the man.

That is the rub, which has been evident for some time.

Dali's well - known personal antics, his bizarre poses, his theatrical props, his baffling books and pronunciamentoes, his seeming affinity for the public tricks of the old Da-Da crowd, for years have obscured his fundamental talents as a really serious artist.

But this show — even with its secondary works (interesting only as examples of his fallibility) — is ample evidence that he is a major artistic figure of the 20th Century.

The Gallery of Modern Art has made this a smash performance. Its founder, Huntington Hartford, approved the removal of his own collection of modern art from two floors, so that all four exhibition floors could be used for the Dali exhibit. It contains some 400 examples — oils, drawing, gouaches, sculptures, watercolors, jewelry.

Chronologically, it runs from a tiny landscape which Dali painted in 1910 at the age of 6, to a still sticky oil, "Character Masquerading in Pinning Up a Butterfly," which he painted just before the show.

Hartford, who acquired several years ago two huge Dali paintings which are hung permanently in the museum, said at the show's preview, "I have some reservations about certain of his works, but at his best he is the greatest figure of the century."

The exhibit contains many works that never have been shown before, as well as scores of examples from museums and private collections in many countries.

A major part of the show consists of some 150 items from a "silent" collection — never before displayed in public, and not likely to reach public view again — owned by A. Reynolds Morse, a Cleveland manufacturer who has been collecting Dali for a quarter of a century. Items from the Morse collection fill a whole floor.

When Morse attended the recent preview, his comments pointed up its significance.

"This is a true landmark in his career," said Morse. "There are many paintings that have not appeared before, and how we can see his development. We have known that Picasso went through various periods, and here we see all the periods that Dali went through."

He also made a distinction between Dali as artist and man. "People are beginning to realize that he also is a painter, whatever else he does," said Morse. "Now we can look at the paintings and forget his pet ocelot and his mustaches."

Dali often has used exotic themes for his paintings and often gives them even more exotic titles. For the benefit of the intellectual set it may be reported that he has been continuing his iconography —death eroticism and putrefaction.

The exhibit will continue through Feb. 27. It is arranged in various segments, which include the Morse collection, examples from the collection of Britisher Edward James, many paintings owned by the artist and his wife Gala, and his graphic works.

There also is a section which Dali selected as a chronology of his works from 1910 to 1965.

Candied Fruit Doughnuts

¾ cup milk, scalded
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup warm water
1 package active dry yeast
1 egg
3¼ cups (about) unsifted flour
½ cup diced candied mixed fruit

Into the scalded milk, off heat, stir the sugar, salt and butter; cool to lukewarm. In a large warm bowl, dissolve the yeast in the water. Add lukewarm milk mixture, egg and half the flour; beat until smooth. Mix in enough flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic — about 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl; turn to grease top. Let rise, covered, in a warm draftfree place until doubled — about 1 hour. Punch down dough. Turn out as before. Knead in candied fruit. Roll out to ½-inch thickness. Cut into rounds with 2-inch doughnut cutter. Place on greased cookie sheets. Let rise as before — about 1 hour. Fry in deep hot (375 degrees) fat until brown on both sides — 2 to 3 minutes. Drain on absorbent paper. Sprinkle with confectioners sugar. Makes 24.
