'I WAS NUTTY' BALLOONIST TELLS COURT

Lieutenant Hinton Admits That He "Lagged Behind" in Trek From Frozen North.

Denies Knowledge of Reported Fight With Others of Dirigible's Crew During Homeward March.

By Associated Press.

ROCKAWAY, N. Y., Jan. 20.—Recovering sufficiently from the affects of his recent balloon trip to the frozen north, Lieutenant Stephen A. Farrell, appearing today before a naval board of inquiry, testified he had little remembrance of coming to blows with his comrade, Lieutenant Walter Hinton, on their return to civilization.

The court previously had heard Lieutenant Louis A. Kloor, balloon commander, skirt the incident, which happened at Mattice after Farrell had learned the newspapers had published a letter from Hinton to his wife asserting Farrell had asked his companions to cut his throat during their four days wandering in the woods.

Hinton had testified he had consulted Kloor regarding the advisability of disarming Farrell. Today, however, was Farrell's "day in court" and all eyes were turned on him as he took the stand.

Was Going Nutty.

He admitted that several times he had lagged behind his companions, but he made no mention of a knife. He did, however, state that at the time of the encounter he was "all in," and that after the clash he had told Kloor he feared he "was going nutty." Farrell said his condition was due to lack of sleep.

The party was met five or six miles from Mattice by a party of motion picture photographers, he testified. Kloor and Hinton accepted an invitation to ride into Mattice on the photographer's sled. Farrell said he stayed with the two Indians who had piloted them from Moose Factory and trudged into Mattice after the others.

When he reached the camp, Farrell said, he was absolutely "dog tired" but cameramen continued to bother him.

"I smiled for them, smoked cigarettes for them and did everything they asked, to please them, and was all in when they got through with me," he added.

He said he accepted the invitation of a Hudson Bay company man to go to his room and have tea. While in the room, waiting for the man's mother to prepare food, Farrell said, the room began filling with men who questioned him.

Lost Reasoning Power.

"The questioning seemed to drive me wild," he said. "It worried me; I seemed to be fast losing my sense of reasoning power. I remember one of them telling me about things published about me in the newspapers; I seemed to get all excited, I was shaking all over the place. When the Hudson Bay man took me to the company's store and from there to the private car, I seemed to be 'dopey,' 'dog tired' and 'all in.' I could not sleep when I laid down. I scarcely remember seeing Hinton, and I was going nutty.'"

At this point Farrell said he did not remember the incident with Hinton.

"Kloor told me I had better apologize to Hinton," he said, "and I did so. Lieutenant Hinton and I had always been good friends before the incident, and have been since."

MAY ASK U. S. TO AID DISPOSITION OF AUSTRIA CASE

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Disposition of the Austrian situation created by the threatened collapse of the government, may not be made by the allied powers without consultation with the United States, it was indicated today at the state department. The question has been discussed by the reparations commission on which the United States has a representative, but how far the United States is prepared to join in any plan for the stabilization of Austria has not been indicated.

Withdrawal of the United States from the council of ambassadors and its refusal to send a representative to the meeting of premiers at which the Austrian question is expected to be discussed, has given the impression that the American government will continue its attitude of aloofness.

Devotes Life to Blind

MRS. LEWIS B. WOODRUFF.

One of the most remarkable demonstrations of feminine activity is the work of Mrs. Lewis B. Woodruff, whose reputation was gained by her great book, "The Lady of the Lighthouse." It was written in 1913 and she gave all the royalties on the book to the New York Association for the Blind. It was because two years of her life were spent in total blindness that Mrs. Woodruff became so interested in the blind. Her sight was restored after a marvelous operation. Nearly all her books since that time have been written with the desire to assist in charity. Her book, "The Doctor Man," furnished royalties to build a children's hospital.

Mother Dying at Electra, Girl Gets Y. W. C. A. to Hold Passenger Train for Her

Railroad companies are considered "soulless corporations," and their superintendents and representatives "hard-boiled guys." That's one idea that has been tenderly nurtured in the minds of the general public for years. But here's a story that just disproves this theory entirely.

The other day a young girl approached the Travelers' Aid at the Union station, a telegram in her hand, and tears streaming down her cheeks. Her mother was dying at Electra, the message read, and the train northbound had left the station a few minutes before her train, coming from the south, had pulled in. Missing the connection meant waiting over until the next day, and also probably meant that she would miss the solace of a last few moments with her mother.

Mrs. Davidson of the Travelers' Aid, immediately went to the proper officials with the girl's story. Touched by the circumstances, the necessary orders were given that held a Fort Worth & Denver train just outside the city until the girl could be hurried aboard.

"The presence of this representative of the Young Women's Christian association, and the willingness of the railroad officials to co-operate in every way possible, meant much to this girl in her sorrow," an official of the organization pointed out in telling of this incident. "The Y. W. C. A.'s representatives are on hand at the Union station for just such service night and day, seven days in the week.

"The money of the people of Wichita Falls supports this work. The drive for the funds for the maintenance of the work during 1921 starts Monday. The Y. W. C. A. asks that the public make it possible for services of this sort to continue through the year."

LITTLE FATHER OF BLUE LAWS DONS GLOVES

Business Men Quoted for Good Sabbath Day Entertainment; Legislator Favors Local Option.

Dr. Hubert D. Knickerbocker, pastor of the First M. E. Church, South, of this city, who owes at least a part of his fame for his vigorous fights against all letting down of the bars of strict interpretation and enforcement of the Sunday laws, is already on the "firing line" for a stricter Sunday statute, and will be one of the leaders in the coming Blue Law fight before the Texas legislature.

Rev. Knickerbocker appeared in Austin button-holing senators and representatives on this question, and, according to Austin dispatches was the first caller at the governor's office following the Neff inauguration. Some time before leaving for Austin, Dr. Knickerbocker expressed himself in very vigorous terms in connection with the statement by a local business man that "what Wichita Falls needed most was some clean Sunday amusement" a statement which was warmly applauded by the hundred odd local business men in attendance at this meeting.

Dr. Knickerbocker, in discussing picture shows recently, also made the statement that "there was no preacher nor no church in existence which could compete in attraction with the exhibition of a million dollar moving picture film."

While a number of local business men have referred to the "Blue Law" fight promised in the present legislature, and have expressed themselves that some action be taken to combat efforts of those in favor of tightening these statutes, no definite action has been taken, as far as can be learned.

E. F. Johnson, legislator from Wichita Falls, took a flat-footed stand in a public interview in The Record News just before he left for Austin in favor of local option on the Sunday amusement question. This would leave it up to the cities and towns to vote whether or not they wanted Sunday amusements.

SENATOR JONES DECLARES BRITISH ADMIRALTY HAS CONTROL OF U. S. SHIPPING

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Direct and implied criticism of the attitude of British and other foreign shipping interests toward the newly created American merchant marine permeated today's sessions of the second annual convention of the national merchant marine association.

Senator Ransdell of Louisiana, as president of the association, opened the convention with a plea for "an American merchant marine built, owned and operated by Americans, without the faintest suspicion in their make up of foreign sympathy." Homer L. Ferguson, Newport News, shipbuilder, concluded the day's program with the declaration that the United States, if necessary, should adopt discriminatory legislation to hold its place on the seas.

The bomb shell of the day, however, was set off by Senator Jones of Washington, chairman of the senate commerce committee and author of the merchant marine act, who told the convention that the international mercantile marine company, one of the largest American ship operating concerns, was bound by an agreement with the British admiralty to conduct its business "in the interest of the British government and British trade."

To support his statement the Washington senator read to the convention the text of an agreement which he said the international mercantile had entered into in 1903 for a period of twenty years, and followed this with sweeping charges of attempts by British interests, aided, he said, by certain American interests, "to destroy the American merchant marine." The senator also declared that despite this agreement the shipping board had leased forty of its ships to the international mercantile marine.

Senator Jones' declaration brought an immediate reply from P. A. S. Franklin, president of the international mercantile marine, who accused the Washington senator of being "unfair" and added:

"All of these agreements to which he refers have been before the shipping board and have been approved. Judge Payne, when he was chairman of the board, passed upon them and said they 'were quite satisfactory.'"

Benson Out of Sympathy.

Admiral Benson, chairman of the shipping board, said he would place a copy of the agreement referred to before the board with the recommendation that such action be taken as warranted. He added that he only recently learned of the agreement and was not in sympathy with it.

Senator Jones accused the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and its magazine, the Na-

Arkansas Solons Vote to Do Away With Commission

By Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 20.—Passage of the Gates bill, for abolishing the penitentiary commission, by a vote of 92 to 1, this afternoon, provided the first indication of the manner in which the lower branch of the legislature will receive the program of Governor McRae for doing away with many commission, bureaus, and offices, declared by him to be useless or improperly constituted.

The bill, howeved, has not yet come before the senate, although a similar bill, introduced by Senator Townsend has been advanced to second reading and now is on the calendar.

Passage of the Gates bill today, was the cause for a demonstration in the house. Several speeches were made in favor of the passage, and on each occasion, the speakers were applauded.

The house this morning passed many bills providing deficiency appropriations for state departments left without funds under a recent supreme court decision.

HARDING ON WAY TO REST IN FLORIDA

President-Elect Will Spend Two Weeks Angling for Big Fish Before Entering White House.

"Front Porch" and Little Office Next Door Will Be Closed for Four Years to Come.

By Associated Press.

MARION, O., Jan. 20.—Quitting Marion for a vacation in Florida before entering the White House, President-elect Harding today vacated the residence on Mount Vernon avenue, which was the mecca of the front porch campaign pilgrimage, and closed up the little office next door where many of the nation's notables have given their advice on concurrent problems.

Leaving at midnight, the train will pass through Chattanooga late tomorrow and reach St. Augustine, Fla. Sunday. Mr. Harding expects to make no rear platform speeches along the way. St. Augustine hotel will be his Florida headquarters, but first of all he will get entirely away from his cares in a two weeks' fishing trip down the eastern Florida shores.

His departure really meant severing most of the ties that have bound him to this home community and he put it the day bidding farewell to his neighbors. He made several personal calls received many friends at his office made a short farewell talk to the pupils of the city high school, and was the honored guest at a meeting of the Elks Fraternity, of which he is a member. He will return here before he goes to Washington, but only for a stay of a few hours.

Asks for Support.

Mr. Harding's farewell talk was delivered at the Harding High school, recently renamed in his honor, and he was introduced to the pupils by his sister, Miss Abgal Harding, who is a teacher there. He expressed regret that he could not stay among his old friends to perform the duties of his office, and asked for the moral support of the people of his home community during the next four years.

"For 30 years I have been listening to public sentiment," he said, "and every public servant who listens to the call of the soul of America is sure to get along. I firmly believe the soul of America is right. I firmly believe in the destiny of America, and I am going to my tasks with full confidence.

At the Elks tonight a special group of candidates, to be known in fraternity records as the "Harding class" was initiated with a ceremony in which the president-elect played a leading role.

The party accompanying Mr. Harding south is the smallest with which he has travelled since his nomination for the presidency. It consists only of the president-elect, his secretary Harry M. Daugherty of Columbus two stenographers and a dozen secret service men and newspaper correspondents.

Mrs. Harding to Washington.

Mrs. Harding is to leave tomorrow or Saturday for Washington.

A story of Mr. Harding's devotion to one of his fellow townsmen came to light by chance tonight after it had been kept a secret several weeks from some of those most directly concerned. It involved a financial guarantee by the president-elect to enable his church to continue the salary of a pastor who has been incapacitated since last July.

The minister is Dr. Thomas H. McAfee of the Trinity Baptist church of which Mr. Harding is a trustee. Dr. McAfee was stricken with paralysis more than six months ago and the strain of paying his salary, in addition to that of an acting pastor weighed heavily on the church this year. Mr. Harding volunteered to pay the salary of the new pastor from his own pocket if that of Dr. McAfee were continued.

The president-elect asked that the arrangement be regarded as confidential and so well was the request observed that few members of the congregation have learned of it.

BRING IN WELL ON NORTH EDGE OF SOUTH BEND

With a production estimated around 100 barrels, the Panhandle Refining Company's No. 4 McCluskey has been completed from the 2500-foot sand, in the Young county, South Bend district. This well is smaller in size than the other producers from the 2,500 and 2,100-foot sands in this district, but is still of sufficient size to make it of interest. The new well is the farthest north point of production in the pool at present. It is across the river from the C. H. Clark No. 1 Stovall, which has been temporarily abandoned, failing to get the 2,500-foot sand.

A short distance to the northwest of this well, the W. E. Connor No. 1 Graham, is reported still waiting on pipeline connections before completion. The Conner well was on the 2,500-foot sand last week, as carried in Sunday reports. Lack of pipeline connections has been holding up other tests reported on the sand since that time.

The Young County Oil Company's test, several thousand feet to the northwest of the pool, reported Sunday on the 21,100-foot sand, with good showing, is reported among those tests awaiting connections before further drilling in.

Texas Cafeterias In Y. W. C. A. Halls To Help Children

Starving children in Europe will share the food of those who eat their noon meal on Tuesday, Feb. 1 at Y. W. C. A. cafeterias in Texas. The Wichita Falls Y. W. is one of these. All that comes into the cash register from that meal will be forwarded through local chairmen of the European Relief Council to swell the Hoover fund for the hungry little ones, according to E. A. Peden, of Houston, state chairman of the European Relief council.

February first will be known as "Invisible Guest Day" in Y. W. C. A. cafeterias over the state, Mr. Peden was notified by New York headquarters of the council. He placed his forces at the disposal of Mrs. Linda Spence Brown of Dllas, Southwestern executive secretary, to help advertise the event. In her reply Mrs. Brown tells Mr. Peden that most of the ten cafeterias of the association in Texas have already granted the request of the national board and that the others will no doubt fall in line. Mr. Peden has written the general secretary of each Y. W. C. A. pledging the help of the local chairman of the European Relief council in crowding the cafeterias for that shared meal.

The National Board of the Y. W. C. A. is one of the constituent bodies of the European Relief council. This is a part of its official contribution to the cause. The plan is being adopted by associations all over the United States.

In Texas, there are Y. W. C. A. cafeterias in Beaumont, Dallas, El Paso, Fort Worth, Galveston, Houston, San Antonio, Tyler, Texarkana and Wichita Falls.

Boy Breaks Jail But Comes Back To Face Accuser

Declaring that he would rather stay and face the music than run away and get himself into more serious trouble Carl Ferguson, young boy, returned and gave himself up to County Juvenile Officer R. W. Morgan early Thursday morning after making good an escape from the juvenile jail on the third floor of the court house between midnight Wednesday and 5 o'clock Thursday morning. No trace has been found of two other boys, Homer Morley and Henry Brasil, the only other occupants of the juvenile "hotel," who also made their escape.

According to admissions from young Ferguson, the three boys removed a door from its hinges and used it as a lever with which to force an opening between two bars guarding one of the windows to the cell. After this was accomplished, it was only a matter of crawling through, descending the fire escape, and stepping out into freedom.

Ferguson was being held in connection with the theft of some horses from a teamster at Burkburnett. Forgery was the charge upon which Morley was being held following his arrest early Wednesday, while Brasil was accused of the theft of automobile tires.

Legislators Ask Salary Increase

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Jan. 20.—A joint resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution to increase the per diem of the members of the legislature from $5 to $10 per day for the first eighty days of the legislative session, was introduced in the senate today by Senator H. L. Darwin.

HOUSE APPOINTS OPEN SHOP MAN TO LABOR SEAT

Representative B. Frank Johnson of Wichita and Wilbarger counties, who was elected to the legislature on an open shop platform, has landed a place on the labor committee of the house, according to an Austin dispatch.

This committee is considered a rather important one, as one of the fights in the present legislature is to be on the "Open Ports' measure, according to the political dopesters.

STATE OFFICIAL O. K. DEMANDED ON BOOZE CARD

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—To lessen the possibility of abuse of liquor permits, Prohibition Commissioner Kramer directed today that all applications for new permits or renewal of old permits to sell liquor at wholesale, or to use it in the manufacture of alcoholic preparations, must be approved by state directors and supervising federal prohibition agents.

Lawyer Defends Open Shop Talk At High School

"I challange any comer to a debate on any assertion which I made on this occasion," declared F. G. Swanson, local attorney, Friday in discussing an open letter addressed to the school board replying to criticism of statements made by him in discussion of the open shop issue before local high school students recently.

Mr. Swanson and another member of the University club discussed this question as a preparation for a debate on the subject by a team from the local high school and a team from Oklahoma City. Mr. Swanson discussed the question from an angle opposed to the open shop.

"I admit that I advanced some arguments on this occasion that I did not believe myself," Swanson said. "But all the arguments that I advanced can be sustained by proof, and are legitimate arguments in such a debate.

"It is a usual thing in debating to endeavor to make out the side which a debater is representing as all-perfect, and to minimize the virtues of the other side. This is seen in the law courts every day, where the attorneys for both sides exaggerate the points in their favor, or to the disfavor of the opponents.

"This is looked on, however, as a natural condition, and you never hear anything more about it after the case is settled. This is the light in which I looked at this Hgh School debate."

Mr. Swanson said that the criticism of his remarks, as he had heard it, indicated a feeling that only one side of this question should be presented to the students of the school, and challenged those who were criticising his statements to "put up, or shut up."

His letter follows:

"It was indicated to me today that some question had been raised as to discussion of the open shop issue on which local High School students are preparing for debate, by me before the debating teams on or about Jan. 7, 1921.

"During most of this discussion the teacher in charge of the preparation for the debate was present and during a part of it, Principal Rider. I don't recall making any remarks out of order in an argumentative discussion, and I distinctly recall repeatedly emphasizing that views expressed were quoted from this or that authority and that some of them I concurred in and in others I did not, in reply to questions as to what I thought on the particular question raised. I believe I did say that as grading or adhering to the Golden Rule I would flunk both sides of the question in industry during the past year or two, and used the fact that there was a world of difference between profession and practice on the part of many individuals and organizations, and that to hold up their end of the debate, they should discriminate between what was professed and what was generally reported as practice or believed to be practice.

"I regret that any misunderstanding should arise, as I thoroughly approve of the discussion of industrial and economic issues in inter-high school debate, and emphasized the comment repeatedly that it appeared to me that only through a better understanding of the various phases of industrial questions by all concerned would any reasonably effective solution be achieved. If anyone who may have taken exception to anything said will advise specificly, I shall be pleased to correct any possible misunderstanding. I assure that no one excepts who cannot particularize. Will you please advise?

"F. G. SWANSON."

PLAZA

Mlle. Nana and Mons. Alexis, the well known dancers, were selected to do their specialty "Apache" dance in one of the big scenes of the Parisian cabaret, in the photoplay production "Neglected Wives," which will be shown at the Plaza theater today. Mlle. Nana and Mons. Alexis, whose enviable reputation in vaudeville as eccentric dancers is well known, have in this production achieved a distinct success as the Apache dancers of the Parisian dance hall.

They furnish only one of the many fascinating and absorbing moments in the great story of love, adventure, intrigue and romance, which is characterized by a brilliant cast of screen and stage favorites, headed by the famous screen star, Anne Luther, who is supported by such popular players as Claire Whitney, Charles Gerard, Baby Ivy Ward, E. J. Radcliffe and many others.

"Neglected Wives" is adapted from the internationally famous stage success, "Why Women Sin," a melodrama of throbbing emotions and stirring action. The screen version has been set in all the elaborateness which picture production allows in excess of stage creations. Great numbers are involved in the many big scenes, while heavy sets and impressive exteriors lend enchantment to the dramatic developments.

Every detail of production is carried out with a finesse that makes this photoplay a memorable achievement.

HOOVER HAS PLAN TO STOP MANIPULATION

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Manipulation in grain could be eliminated through voluntary agreement of exchanges to limit the quantity of the commodity, which could be handled in speculative trades, Herbert Hoover, former food administrator, said today in appearing before the house agricultural committee holding hearings on bills to restrict speculation on future exchanges.

For the improvement of marketing conditions, Mr. Hoover suggested creating under the department of agriculture a national marketing board of experts with regulatory powers within certain limits over the exchanges.

Such a board, he added, could assist materially in solving present problems by establishing practices and by laying down the regulations which would secure for farmers the privilege of storing their grain at country elevators. The farmers would be given warehouse receipts on which they could secure credit.

Assistance in developing co-operative marketing could be given by a board such as he proposed, Mr. Hoover said, suggesting that the bureau of markets might perform administrative functions.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION IS GIVEN FLAYING

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20. — The federal trade commission was attacked in the senate today by Senator Sherman, republican, of Illinois on the ground that it had "seriously impaired" American export trades in meats by circulation abroad of its report charging the "big five" meat packers with monopoly.

In a lengthy address opposing the pending bill for federal regulation of the packing industry, Senator Sherman declared the trade commission's reports were intended to injure the American packers' export trade and had actually done so.

"The commission's reports were sent broadcast througout the state department, with a form letter to make it appear that the president was behind its circulation," said Senator Sherman. "In every case it was sent where the most mischief could be done. The reports were sent broadcast for the express purpose of turning foreigners against American meat producers."

Senator Sherman promised that in continuing his address tomorrow he would present documentary proof of his charges.

LABOR CABINET OFFICER COMES TO POST'S AID

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The policy of the department of labor with respect to the arrest and deportation of radical aliens, concerning which it has had clashes with the department of justice, is announced for the first time by Secretary Wilson in a statement made public today at the White House.

The labor secretary's statement, which also contained a vigorous defense of his assistant, Louis F. Post, was embodied in a letter sent by Secretary Tumulty to Colonel H. D. Lindsay, chairman of the executive committee of the American legion, who presented at the White House last October resolutions adopted by the legion formally asking for dismissal of Mr. Post from office because of his attitude with regard to deportations of radicals.

It is understood the legion's request was referred by the White House to Secretary Wilson and that the statement by him was sent to the White House in reply. It also is accepted as the president's reply to the legion's request for Post's dismissal.

The secretary's statement was transmitted by Joseph Tumulty, secretary to the president, to Colonel Lindsay, chairman of the legion's executive committee. It was designed as a reply to a formal request for the dismissal of Post, which was presented at the White House last October by the executive committee in pursuance of a resolution adopted at the last annual convention of the legion.

"Louis F. Post is one of the truest Americans I have ever come in contact with," said Secretary Wilson's statement. "He is a thorough believer in democracy. He has, however, a profound belief in and reverence for the constitution of the United States, including that part which provides for its own amendment. He has, therefore, faithfully carried out the instructions given by me as secretary of labor concerning deportation cases. They are, in substance, as follows:

"First—No person shall be arrested except upon sworn affidavit, based upon information and belief.

"Second—No person, when arrested, shall be held incommunicado.

"Third—Every person arrested shall be entitled to counsel immediately upon being taken into custody.

"Fourth—They shall be confronted with the evidence and shall be permitted to furnish testimony and be heard in their own behalf.

"Fifth—Excessive bail shall not be required."

Senator Declares British Control U. S. Shipping

tion's Business, as well as the New York State Chamber of Commerce, of "willingly or unwillingly" aiding British shipping interests in their fight against the American merchant marine. He declared these organizations sought, with Eastern trunk railway officials, to cancel the present equalization of export freight rates from Central Freight association territory to Gulf and South Atlantic ports. Accomplishment of this, he added, would turn exporting and importing business from the Gulf and South Atlantic ports to New York, where, he asserted, the British shipping interests were centered.

Chairman Benson, in addressing the convention, declared, as the shipping board was charged by law to establish a permanent merchant marine, it must move slowly and with assurance in its sale of ships.

Put House in Order.

President Franklin of the International Mercantile Marine, addressing delegates to the convention at a dinner tonight, however, declared that the sale of government-owned tonnage, as directed by congress, could not be accomplished until the government "puts its shipping house in order."

"The truth is," said Mr. Franklin, "there is no market at the present time for government tonnage, and it is incumbent upon the government, if it really desires to sell this tonnage, to put its shipping house in order on sound business lines, with the object of creating a situation which will induce private citizens to purchase. Prospective purchasers must be clearly assured that the government stands firmly behind a policy of co-operation and assistance to private capital which is to be invested. This is the only foundation upon which a proper sales policy can be built.

"So long as the government is unwilling to protect the purchasers of its ships from competition of government ships that it has placed in the hands of operators who have no financial interest at stake, private capital will not invest in ships."

Franklin Proposes Plan.

Mr. Franklin proposed a plan for operating ships in the absence of a market and said the government should decide first what mail, passenger and cargo routes ought to be established and then arrangements should be made for their present and future developments. He also proposed development of definite trade routes by dividing the United States into sections.

Mr. Ferguson appealed to the delegates to give the new merchant marine act "a chance to be tried out."

MARTIAL LAW IN IRELAND IS BRINGING GOOD

By Associated Press.

CORK, Jan. 20.—In the first formal interview given to the press since he came to Ireland, Major General Strickland, in command of the troops, told the Associated Press today that martial law was proving a success.

Among the interesting statements made by General Strickland was one that women carried weapons concealed in their skirts to the ambushing forces. He declared he did not expect immediate results from martial law, but even before it was imposed, the murder gang was finding it impossible to live at home and had begun to form flying columns in the Macroom district and parts of Tipperary and Kilkenny.

"The first result of martial law was to make these columns more active," he said. "The definite thing we are accomplishing is the breaking of the organization was remarkably efficient; its formation were almost as well organized as those of the British army.

"It might be taken as too optimistic to say that the present operations of the republican army are its dying kick, but I believe that to be a fact. How long they can keep going is a matter of conjecture. But it is only a question of time."

PEGGY MARSH BECOMES BRIDE OF NEW YORKER

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The marriage of Peggy Marsh, English actress, to Albert L. Johnson, member of a prominent New York and Cleveland family, at Greenwich, Conn., on January 5, became known here today. The ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace Albert Meade.

The bride is confined in a sanitarium here, where she recently underwent an operation for appendicitis.

The actress came to this country a few weeks ago and announced she would institute legal proceedings to obtain part of the fortune of the late Henry Field II of Chicago, on behalf of her 4-year-old son, Henry Anthony Marsh.

The bridegroom is a son of Albert L. Johnson, brother of the late Tom L. Johnson, who served three terms as mayor of Cleveland.

Former Chorus Girl.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Peggy Marsh, a former chorus girl, met Henry Field, grandson of Marshall Field, in London. After Henry Field's death, in July, 1917, she instituted suit in the superior court of Cook county for the construction of the Marshall Field will.

According to the story told by Peggy Marsh, she had received from Henry Field at least $50,000 in cash and presents. He was further said to have signed an agreement to pay her $100,000.

A formal claim for this latter amount was filed late in 1919 in the probate court against Henry Field's estate. The claim was not contested by the Field family, who let it be known that they recognized Peggy Marsh's son as the child of Henry Field.

Loses Will Fight.

The suit to construe the will of Marshall Field so as to give to the actress' son a share in his great-grandfather's millions was unsuccessful. But court decisions held the child heir to the $4,000,000 which Henry Field left when he died intestate.

The unsuccessful fight for a share in the undivided principal of the Marshall Field estate turned upon a single phrase in the will. Certain contingencies were made by that instrument dependent upon the testator's grandchildren dying "without lawful issue." The attorneys for the Marsh interests, led by Edward F. Dunne, former governor of Illinois, contended vainly that a child born out of wedlock might be a lawful heir, and that therefore Peggy Marsh's son came within the meaning of the will. The winning contention by the Field estate attorneys was that the big Chicago merchant had in mind the founding of a family line to perpetuate the Field name and expand its interests and that only legitimate children could share in this purpose.

Kansas Solons Urged to Drive Townley Away

By Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kans., Jan. 20.—Denouncing the activities of the non-partisan league, Maurice McAuliffee of Salina, president of the Kansas Farmers' Union, today urged the Kansas legislature to rid the state of what he termed "this class of vermin."

The league, McAuliffee declared, is trying to form one large political party of farmers only. The farmers union, he said, believes in government through existing political parties and not through political reformation. Non-partisan league organiers are now working in Kansas.

Urging legislation that would relieve the present crisis in the farming industry, McAuliffee said his organization wished only the continuance of those laws he believed had made Kansas prosperous. "Our demands are few," he told the members. "We do not ask legislation calling for a single dollar."

MOTHER KIDNAPS HER OWN BABY FROM CHICAGO HOSPITAL

Photograph shows the baby in the suitcase, with the ropes still attached to the handle. Left to right, is the mother, Mrs. L. V. Brooke; Mrs. T. J. Maddux of Chicago, Mrs. Brooke's aunt, with Louis Vernon Brooke, her son, and Miss Mary Nichols, a cousin.

Norma Maxine Brooke, a baby of Thayer, Ind., was "kidnapped" from a Chicago hospital by her own mother, Mrs. L. V. Brooke. Mrs. Brooke placed the child in a suitcase and lowered it from the hospital window, according to the report. The parents of the child claimed she did not get proper care while in the hospital and are said to have refused to pay the bill. The hospital authorities are alleged to have refused to let the baby out of the hospital until the bill was paid. This is supposed to have been the situation which caused the mother and some of her friends to take the suitcase into the hospital and use it in a rather extreme method of "kidnapping" her own baby.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl; am pretty and a good dancer, and am rather popular, but there is one thing that worries me, and that is what to talk about so as to make my company enjoyable. When I have dates with the boys I can always find something to talk about, but am afraid sometimes I bore my boy friends. I go with boys about eighteen and nineteen years old and of course at that age they are not interested in dry subjects. The average twentieth century boy wants a girl to be lively and cheery. Of course I don't mean to talk continuously, but want to know some things that will hold their attention.

I go with the very nicest society in town. Can you advise me on this?

IN DOUBT.

A person who is interested in her subject is usually able to hold the interests of others. Of course there are some people who are entirely absorbed in a subject, but they are extremely tiresome because they talk about one thing too long. Read and observe and talk about the thing most suitable at the time and you will get along all right.

Naturally it is impossible for me to plan conversations for people.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am nineteen years old. I have been going steady with a young man for over a year. We would have been engaged and even married, but there is a reason that prevented.

He is of another creed. We love each other very dearly. He says he couldn't give up his religion, and so what am I to do? He has asked me to turn to his faith, and I have told him I would. I know I will have a good husband and a home of my very own. He is quite wealthy, but I love him for himself alone, not for the wealth that he may own. If I do this am I doing wrong? My parents are both dead. Do you think I will be happy if I turn to his faith? Any advice from you will be very much appreciated.

VERY ANXIOUS.

Your problem is one which cannot be quickly worked out. Since you love the man so much and do not feel religious ferver binding you to your own religions, I would advise you to look into the religion of your fiance. If you find that his faith is something which appeals to you and to which you are willing to devote your life and give your children, then it would be all right for you to join the church and to marry him.

On the other hand, it seems to me that religion should be a greater force in life than love. A person should not forsake his church unless he finds that he more deeply believes in the creeds or teachings of another church.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl nineteen years of age and am in love with a young man five years my senior. I believe he cares for me, although he has never told me so. I have known him for about five years and always felt I never wanted anyone but him. I have been out with him several times and he has always treated me with respect.

There is also another young man about four years my senior who wants me to marry him. We have been together for the past two years. He is to be respected in every manner. He would be able to give me an excellent home and I think would be very good to a wife. I feel that to accept his proposal would be doing an injustice to both of us, for I do not feel that I love him as I want to love my husband. My parents would not object to my marrying him, and mother would like to see me marry him.

Please advise me what to do.

ADVISABLE.

Do not marry without love. You are too young to take such an important step in life, because your tastes are changing and you cannot be sure that your regard for anyone is a lasting love.

HAVE THESE PUZZLED YOU?

There are a number of terms used in American cookery that are derived from other languages. While some of these have been used by us for so long that they have become a part of our daily vocabulary, there are others that are only found as items on the bill of fare or menu of restaurants and hotels. Some of these terms are:

Bechamel—A rich cream sauce. Invented by the Marquis De Bechamel, maitre d'hotel to Louis XIV.

Bisque—A cream soup made with fish or shell fish, usually the latter. The word originally applied to a form of pigeon soup, of which crawfish was one of the ingredients. The word "bisque" survived and is now applied to other cream soups.

Blanc-mange—A pudding or jelly made of isinglass, gelatin, calves-foot jelly, etc., and milk. Starchy substances frequently substituted.

Bouillon—A clear broth. Name generally reserved for beef broth unless otherwise designated as "clam bouillon" or "tomato bouillon."

Canape—Fried or toasted bread, spread with any of a great variety of articles, such as fish pastes, etc.

En Casserole—Service in covered earthen vessels, usually same one in which food was cooked.

Croutons—Cubes of fried or toasted bread. Accompany soup.

Demi-tasse (half cup)—Applied to a small cup of black coffee.

Fondu—Melted.

Goulash — A kind of meat stew that originated in Hungary, now popular here both as a restaurant item and for home use. Consists generally of beef garnished with potatoes, onions, paprika sauce, etc.

Julienne—Applied to shredded potatoes and to a garnish of mixed vegetables, such as carrots, turnips, celery, etc., cut in thin strips.

Newburg—A name generally applied to lobster or shrimp cooked with sherry, cream and egg yolks and served in a chafing dish.

Pane—Bread crumbled.

Papillotes (en)—In paper cases with paper frills, etc.

Pepper Pot—A national soup stew of the West Indies, which has found much favor in the United States, especially in Philadelphia. It is composed of various meats, vegetables, herbs and small dumplings well seasoned. In Philadelphia pepper pot tripe is used as a basis.

Puree—Soup made from vegetables or fish forced through a strainer, and retained in milk. Generally thicker than creamed soups. "Puree of Tomato," etc.

Ragout—Stew.

Rissoles—Croquettes enclosed in pastry.

Saute—To cook in small amount of fat. Contrasted with frying which is the term applied to deep fat cooking.

Souffle (puffed)—A dish made with many eggs. Must be served immediately to keep from falling.

Tutti Fruitti—(Italian, all fruits)—Ices or ice cream mixed with various candied fruits.

Vinaigrette—With singar sauce.

KATY RAILROAD SHOPS TO CLOSE

By Associated Press

SEDALIA, Mo., Jan. 20.—Announcement was made here today that effective next Tuesday evening, the shops of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway here will be closed until February 1. This action, the announcement explained, comes with the retrenchment policy of curtailing expenses of the company. A force of 415 men are now employed in the local shops. The force was reduced 250 men two weeks ago.

The Australian sheep dogs are the smallest in the world, but are quick and lively. One dog can do the work of half a dozen men.

Young Men Buy More Candy But Old Loving Dubs Plank Down Coin More Cheerfully

Who do you think buys the most boxed candy? Old men, young men, old women, middle aged women or girls?

It has been reported by a confectioner of Columbus, Ohio, that old men are the most consistent and heaviest purchasers there.

A canvas of druggists in Wichita Falls found only one manager of the belief that old men bought the most, while several agreed that evidently a few men had "some" candy consuming families.

On the main the dealers declared that single young men were the heaviest purchasers of the boxed confections, but several declared that they approached the candy case with an air of martrydom, while their sisters marched up gaily and made their purchases like a prince receiving a new principality.

Middle aged women were said by one dealer to be the heaviest purchasers of candies for personal consumption. These, he said, had in the majority of cases reached that stage in matrimony where "hubby" no longer thinks of taking home a be ribbobned box of bonbons and consequently the wife's sweet tooth, that was probably abnormally developed in the days of courtship, would suffer, unless she feeds it herself.

Girls in their teens and early twenties were said to seldom purchase a box of candy, but often stop for a ten or fifteen cent package of the favorite sweet. And why should they? asked the dealer, for some one is bound to eat the boxed candies that the young men buy.

GOD'S REQUIREMENTS:—
He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?—Micah 6:8.

THE CRIME WAVE.

The crime wave that is sweeping the country so far has not hit Wichita Falls. It has touched the oil fields of the county in a moderate deree. In the city crime not only has not increased, but it has been less than the average amount. In a big majority of the cases reports of robbery, sale of stolen property and an occasional holdup have been followed by prompt arrests recently.

The county at large and its oil fields present a more difficult problem.

Reports of witnesses say of a recent shooting in the fields:

"Two men shot a man in the leg. He groaned too loud. Then they killed him."

Seems like the death penalty for disturbing groans is rather severe for a highjacker jury of two to assess.

The men accused, or at least one of them, was run out of Wichita Falls because he was a gambler. He went away to other oil towns and then returned here.

Juries that will not hesitate to follow Fort Worth's example, which gave life imprisonment to a highwayman the other day, will have much to do in keeping Wichita Falls' record clear of crime taint.

They can do much to assist Fletcher Jones, district attorney, in his efforts to keep the county in as fortunate a position problems, Sheriff Smith, however, has as the city. In spite of all his oil field kept the county at large comparatively clean, when the crime wave is considered.

NEWS AND IDEALS.

The Christian Daily Standard is the name of a new Chicago newspaper. It is abundantly backed, financially, judging by preliminary announcements, and will be brilliantly edited. It enters the field with ideals that entitle it to the respect of all lovers of clean journalism.

But whether that respect will carry anticipated support remains to be seen. Similar newspaper enterprises have been launched and most of them have failed financially. A notable exception is the Christian Science Monitor, a daily subsidized by the Christian Science mother church. Whether the Monitor earns a dollar or not does not affect its business or editorial course from year to year. It started with a declaration of principles that it has never departed from and probably never will. The result is a newspaper that is read throughout the world-mostly by scientists.

The average daily newspaper is a business enterprise the same as the corner grocery. The paper must have customers in order to get along. Therefore it must satisfy its customers if it is to hold them The editor may have his ideals of how a newspaper ought to run, but sometimes his ideas and those of his readers disagree. And if they continue to disagree the publishers will have to quit, and make way for others who will give the customers of the paper what they are paying for—and that is the news.

The Christian Daily Standard does not propose to print the news. It frankly says so. It will be filled with news, that is true, but it will be censored to meet the standards laid down by the editors, and will be free of details such as are to be found in the columns of the average daily newspaper. Most of our American newspapers are cleanly conducted. There is still some sensationalizing, but it is not carried out to the extent that it was years ago. One editor said that the newspapers don't make the news. That is a literal truth. The duty of the newspaper is merely to chronicle the news, to present it in as readable form and in as clean manner as possible. Most newspaper sstrive to do this.

If a prominent citizen jumped off the Statute of Liberty in New York and drowned himself the Christian Science Monitor would not mention the case, But the Argus would. Which would you consider the best newspaper?—Rock Island Argus. (Dem.)

A WELL-PLACED VETO.

President Wilson's veto of a joint congress resolution further suspending the operation of Section 10 of the Clayton-Anti-Trust act is less occasion for remark than the resolution itself.

The act in question became law Oct. 15, 1914, or over six years ago. Its section 10 aimed to break up those interlocking directorates in railroads and Big Business generally by which lenders and borrowers of money and buyers and sellers of materials, operating nominally as strangers under competitive conditions, were made in fact indentical and monopolistic. This section was adopted in direct response to President Wilson's recommendations and two years were given offenders under it to adjust their affairs in conformity to its provisions.

That period was later extended and government assumption of railroad operation for war purposes caused further delay. But the roads have been back in the hands of their owners ten months, and now they are demanding still more working time for their directors and the concerns with which those directors are interlocked for sales of material or loans of money as from themselves to themselves.

The veto is well placed. No Presidential veto was ever better placed. More than ample time has been given this system of parasitism upon the railroads to dissolve. What it is evidently seeking now is not a little more time for dissolution but immunity therefrom, for which apparently it hopes to read to this or the next Congress a mandate from the late elections.—New York World (Dem.)

MR. TOWNLEY MOVES TO KANSAS.

When the so-called "Czar" Townley of the Non-partisan League invaded the Sunflower state and the local posts of the American Legion proposed to run him out, the American press refused to consider either event as marking a crisis in Kansas history. Most of the newspapers seem to feel that the ex-service men have a right to combat the Non-partisan League, at least now that their National Commander has decreed that it cannot be done under the Legion's banner and a separate organization has been formed.

The Kansas City Journal (Rep.) speaking from the scene of action, urges "extreme care" to keep the Legion out of anything "partaking of partizan politics" but includes that "the public generally will very heartily concur in Governor Allen's cordial approval of Kansas Legionaires in opposing the activities of the Non-partisan League."

A similar view is held by the Memphis Commercial Appeal (Dem.-which observes:

"It seems the part of wisdom and discretion that the loyalists of the American Legion should combat the introduction into the state of the Townley brand of socialism which, under the title of the Non-partisan League, has about caused the wreck of North Dakota. The legionaires are to oppose the leaguers openly, and we feel sure, the majority of loyal Kansas will support those who fought for rather than against their country in the recent war."

Since the Non-partisan League "is not true to its name" but "the outcome of rankest partizanism and has for its purpose the establishment of one class above all others," the Jacksonville, (Fla.) Metropolis (Dem.) feels that "whole hearted Americans must naturally respect the purpose" of the American Legion in attacking the former organization. The Metropolis, however, admits that despite this, there "will be some criticism of the former service men" who, when the orders come from headquarters that the Legion could not take a political stand, organized the "American Defense League" of Kansas. What the ex-soldiers have done is "no more" than the Grand Rapids Herald (Rep.) expects and the Legion's fight against the League by means of "pitiless publicity" is all, the Herald thinks, that is needed, for "the chief trouble with the Non-partizan League today is that it is a failure" and "if every promise of great achievements made to Kansas farmers is met by bona fide proof of failure in the North Dakota experimental field, there is no need to fear that Mr. Townley will muster strength in the Sunflower state."

This feeling that the league is really going to pieces is echoed by a number of writers. The Houston Post (Dem.) for instance, considers that the chief reason for Townley's invasion of Kansas is the fact that unless he can "secure a fruitful new field for his activities he will be out of a job soon," since "the end of his regime in North Dakota was forecast in the primaries last year." The league's failure there, the paper adds, "is now too well known for there to be any probability of its making headway of importance in Kansas." From Montana the Butte Miner (Dem.) speaks attributing Townley's move toward Kansas rather than westward again, to the Montana defeat of League candidates. Now "Townleyism" goes forth "heralded" says the Miner, and the Kansans are able to serve notice "that the fight is on from the very jump-off."

The Fargo Forum (Rep.) misses no words in expressing the opinion in North Dakota which is represents:

"We've been stung once. If the Kansas farmers want to dig up the $10 admission fee for the Townley circus, that's their business and nobody is going to prevent them by force from doing it. Meanwhile North Dakota has the job of salvaging what it can from the mess left behind when Townley 'completed his work' here."

The question of opposing the Leaguers is dealt with variously. William Allen White in the Emporia Gazette (Ind.) takes a slightly different view from that held by Governor Allen and referred to above. Mr. White fears the danger of making martyrs of the league by the legion persecution and he seems to be supported in this theory by the statement in the Fargo, (N. D.) Courier News, the League's own organ, which rejoices in the publicity that their leader is getting "from the opposition," the Boston Transcript (Ind. Rep.) makes an appeal against any form of "suppression."

"Kansas fought a hard fight for free speech in the anti-slavery days, and she cannot well give up the idea now. Short of seditious talk of government destruction through communism and anarchism, the platform should always be free. Let Mr. Townley talk. He has already talked himself out of court in the Dakotas. The true Kansas, the American and loyal Kansas, will win this fight as it won the others"

The Montgomery Advertiser, (Dem.) does not worry over the situation but believes that the safety of Kansas lies in its prosperity rather than in its discretion. However, it grants that "Kansas is not so radical as it used to be. It not only has more property to protect but it has more sence."

Like the "Greenback" and the "Populist" movements of earlier days, the Indianapolis Star (Rep.) feels that Non-partizanism will go its way and its already declining strength is "another, in the long list of unanswerable arguments that should reassure the timorous who are fearful of Bolshevism, Communism, Sovietism, Socialism or any of the other bogies that loom on the political horizon."

DINNER STORIES

A New Yorker with a country place on Long Island has a quaint old neighbor who owned a good many pigs.

One day the quaint old neighbor had been way to the pasture, counting his potential ham and bacon. He is not a particularly bright old fellow but is able, with some difficulty to count his possessions.

The New Yorker asked him: "Well Mr. Jones, how many pigs have you?

"I dunno exactly," said Mr. Jones. "I counted 'em all except one little runt, and he kept running around so I couldn't count him."

A young aristocrat, electing to spend his holidays on a sardine boat, contracted rheumatism, and on arrival in Brest Roads was unable to land. Moreover, some days elapsed before a doctor boarded the steamer. His interview with the patient terminated in hearty laughter.

"Whatever made you signal that you'd a case of smallpox aboard?" he asked the skipper.

"Because nobody on this boat could spell rheumatism," replied the old salt.

"What position did you hold in your last place?" asked the merchant.

"I was a doer, sir."

"A doer? What's that?"

"Well, sir, you see, when the boss wanted anything done, he would tell the cashier, the cashier would tell the bookkeeper, the bookkeeper would tell the clerk and the clerk would tell me?"

"And what would happen then?"

Well, sir, as I hadn't anyone to tell it to, I'd do it."

Crown Forces Will Carry "Rebels" to Safeguard Themselves

By Associated Press.

DUBLIN, Jan. 20.—The military authorities issued a proclamation today declaring that if bomb and fire-arm attacks on crown forces in motor cars continue, "known rebels will be carried as hostages for the safe conduct of the occupants of all motor vehicles which are the property of the armed forces of the crown."

The notice applied to the city and county of Dublin and county meat house.

LOOKS LIKE TROUBLE AHEAD FOR THE BOSS, ACCORDING TO PROPHECY

Says Producer Must Get Fair Share of Dairy Products Pay And Sure Market to Succeed

The producer must obtain a more equitable part of the price paid for dairy products by the consumer in this section and the dairyman must be assured a market for his product at all seasons of the year before the dairy business in this county and surrounding district will flourish, City Sanitary Officer Douglass said Thursday. The sanitary department of which Dr. Douglas is chief has just completed an inspection of all dairies from which products are sold in this city.

In the opinion of Dr. Douglas the dairy business in this section could be largely increased if the proper co-operation were given the farmer in the distribution of his products.

"It is useless," he said Thursday, "to talk of a large dairy industry for this section with every farm operating at least on a small scale until the dairyman is assured a fair profit for his product the year around."

"At the present time, the cost of distributing dairy products is out of proportion, judged by the price the consumer pays and what the producer obtains for the products. In this city, the actual producer receives about one-third what the consumer pays for milk, the distributing agency receiving the rest. Although not as large, the distributing cost is also out of proportion for butter and other dairy products."

"I believe that some scheme can be worked out whereby the farmers will be given reasonable assurance that they will get an equitable share of the immense sum of money consumers are now compelled to pay for dairy products not only in this city but in other sections of the state," Dr. Douglas added.

He finds the situation was in no sense exclusively local but existent throughout the state. He pointed out that while during the winter months dairies near the city could not supply the milk needed for local distribution. During the coming summer months there will progably be a surplus. If the dairy business were increased in this section as planned, he declared that this surplus would exist the year around with a large margin over local demands during the summer months.

"Plants for the evaporation of surplus milk, additional creameries and cheese factories must be constructed throughout this section of the state, if the farmer is ever to take seriously to the idea of operating dairies," Dr. Douglas said. "I believe this county and those adjoining, have great agricultural possibilities but it would be folly to attempt to create a great dairying industry and leave it exposed to the danger of being ruined by an unjust or a wasteful distributing system."

Administrator Of Estate Asks For Oil Tracts

Charges that the defendant unlawfully ejected them from their premises and that they are now deprived of the rightful possession of their property are made in a suit for damages of $10,000 filed Thursday in Seventy-eighth district court by W. C. Witcher, administrator, against Capital Oil Company.

The petition alleges that shortly after the plaintiff, as administrator of the estate of Lucy O'Neil Sanders, deceased, acquired certain property in Block 12, the defendant company unlawfully entered the premises, taking possession of it for their own operations and that they have since been holding it to the plaintiff's damage of $10,000.

Plaintiff claims that a reasonable annual rental of the property is $500 and asks judgment for title of the land, writ of restitution and the total amount of rental due on the property while in possession of the defendant company, in addition to the damages.

COUNTY JUDGE ASKS NO CHANGE IN ROAD LAWS

In response to a telegraphic request received Thursday from Hugh L. Small, president of the County Judges Association of Texas, County Judge J. P. Jones sent a telegram to officials at Austin, urging that no change be made in the state highway law. The telegram is a protest against passage of a bill introduced in the legislature which proposes to give the respective counties of the state 85 percent of the automobile fees collected.

President Small's wire set forth that immediate action was imperative as a committee is already considering the proposal and that, should the measure be passed, it would destroy state aid which is now being received and greatly endanger further appropriations of federal aid from Washington.

Judge Jones declared that should the bill be passed, it would mean a substantial loss to all counties of the state now engaged in road construction work.

Present laws governing the auto fee collection system, allows the county 50 percent of gross receipts, in the sale of automobile seals, for road maintenance. The federal law also provides for the payment of 40 percent of expenditures.

Richard Ready to Run Brady's End of Fight; Dempsey's Bond Missing and Champ Go Muddled

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—After a conference here late today between Tex Rickard and William A. Brady, the former announced he had offered to take over Bradys' interest and bond in the proposed Dempsey-Carpentier bout.

Rickard told the Associated Press today Brady refused to accept the offer until he had consulted with Charles B. Cochrane, the third joint promoter in the project, who is at present in London.

Brady agreed, however, to communicate with Cochrane by cable and ascertain whether the latter desired to continue in the project with Rickard or withdraw with Brady, should he decide to accept Rickard's offer.

According to Rickard, the interests of Cochrane in this country were in charge of Brady, who holds a power of attorney for Cochrane, but there was no direct evidence that the latter desired to abandon his share in the match.

This conference was the outstanding feature of another day of controversy over whether the match for the heavyweight championship of the world between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier should or could be cancelled owing to alleged non-fulfillment of contractual clauses. Most of the discussion appeared to hinge upon "the mystery of the missing bond."

According to Rickard, Kearns and others, such a bond for $50,000 was made out by the champion and his manager, but its whereabouts at this time is shrouded in mystery. Officials of the Central Union Trust company of this city said emphatically that the bond was not in their possession, as called for by the contract entered into on November 5, 1920.

The bonds of the three promoters and the money put up in France by Carpentier have been accounted for, apparently, and only Dempsey's forfeit is missing.

Another angle is whether any technical or legal oversight in carrying out the terms of the contract to date takes precedence over the final rulings on the subject by Robert Edgren, named in a clause of the contract as arbiter of all disputes.

Attorneys for the pugilists expressed their opinion that under this clause each and every one of the promoters would be obliged to discharge their obligations assumed in the contract, even though certain clauses had been technically violated, should the arbiter rule that they had been fulfilled, in his opinion, in a general way.

Rickard said several times during the day he had no desire to hold the other promoters to their contract should they desire to withdraw and that he stood ready to assume full and individual responsibility for carrying out the match. This would require Rickard to post the full $100,000 forfeit of the promoters and assume responsibility for a $500,000 purse. It is likely that, should Brady and Cochrane decide to accept Rickard's offer and withdraw, certain changes would be made in the new contract, provided legal experts decided a new contract necessary.

Trapshooters to Attend Houston Handicap Trials

Trap shooters of Wichita Falls are planning to send a team to represent the local gun club in the Sunny South Handicap, which is to be held at Houston Feb. 1 to 5, inclusive, it was announced Thursday. According to local gun club members the Houston meet will be one of the best of its kind ever held in Texas.

A practice shoot will be held by the local gun club Friday afternoon. The shoot is scheduled to begin at 3 o'clock, according to J. L. Nabb, secretary, and all members in the city are requested to attend. Mr. Nabb said that suitable prizes, which have not yet been chosen, will be awarded high men at the Friday practice contest.

Dick Kerr Is Sox Hold-Out

FORT WORTH, Jan. 20.—Dick Kerr, star lefthander twirler of the Chicago White Sox, reported in dispatches yesterday from Chicago as being a holdout, said over the long distance telephone this morning that a contract with a $6,500 salary had been offered him. Kerr is at home in Paris, Texas. He said he had returned the contract with a request for more money and added he felt confident an agreement would be reached satisfactory to all. However, he declared he would not sign for $6,500.

Sox Manager Not Worried

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—At the office of the Chicago White Sox today it was said that the officials were not worrying about the reported holding out of Dick Kerr. It was said that when Kerr signed his contract last year there was a clause which took care of the coming season and they had no comment to make other than to say they were confident Kerr would be on hand when the club leaves for training quarters.

"Big Six" Shows Improvement

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Christy Mathewson, former star pitcher of the New York Giants, who for seven months has been fighting a nip and tuck game with tuberculosis at Saranac Lake, scored yesterday.

Through the long struggle "Big Six" has been unable to leave his bed and his physicians and wife have been the only persons admitted to his room. From time to time he sent out messages that he was still smiling and would win.

Yesterday, swathed in robes, he was placed in an invalid chair and wheeled out on the front porch. As his wife sat beside him, both unmindful of the fact that the mercury registered 20 below zero, Christy said: "Tell my friends, I am happy and I know I'll get well."

WALLIE SCHANG

When the slam-banging Yankees, Babe Ruth and all, failed to hammer their way to the pennant, Mr. Miller Huggins announced that he would make several changes to give the Yanks two things they lacked—more speed and a better catching staff.

Knowing Hug's plans no one was surprised when he recently engineered an eight-player swap with the Red Sox which netted him, among the group, Wallie Schang. Wallie stacks up as a brilliant catcher, young and brainy.

Wallie broke into the big leagues in 1913, Connie Mack giving him his start. And he'd still be a Mackman but for the fact that C. Mack had on his roster one Perkins, who was rapidly showing his worth and now looms up as the greatest catcher in the game. As it was, Connie let him go, along with Joe Bush and Amos Strunk, on December 1, 1917, for the tidy little sum of $60,000.

Wallie was born at South Wales, N. Y., August 22, 1890. He attracted notice while playing independent ball with the Pullmans of Buffalo and in 1912, George Stallings signed him for his Buffalo club. Schang was the sensation of the International league that year, batting .334. Philadelphia got him via the draft route.

FOOTBALL HERO IS PLAYING WINNING GAME IN BUSINESS

Sporting Life

By W. A. Phelon

A fast little player named Groh,
When sought by six ball clubs, said "Noh—
I am happy right here,
Where my friends are all near,
And I'm sure a big part of the shoh!"

It's a poor rule that won't work both ways"—so how would it seem if the players could sell or trade the magnates? Imagine Branch Rickey being traded for Garry Herman; or Bill Veeck going to Boston for George Grant and $2.98; or Phil Ball figuring in a deal for Til Huston and Jake Ruppert; and think how fast they'd all grant waivers on Bill Baker.

Backward, turn backward, oh Time, in they flight—
Give us some highballs, old pal, for one night!

HE GOT IT.

No more, the slugging batsman said, the horsehide he would mash,
Unless the club came through in spring with sixteen thousand cash—
No more they'd see him belt the bulb, no more they'd see him run—
Unless he drew that princely sum, he pos-i-tive was done!
The owner of the club gave out a loud and rasping laugh—
The player's huge demand, said he, were just too much by half—
He'd show the player what it meant to buck his iron will—
Eight thousand was the topmost sum, and not another bill'
Whereat the scribes, with merry hoots, joined with the owner's word—
They prattled of the player's nerve and joshed that ivory bird—
When spring arrived, they all declared, and athletes sought the camp,
He'd sign for smaller pay so fast 'twould give him writer's cramp!
But March came on, they went to camp—and then, day after day,
Without one word or telegram, the slugger stayed away!
Again the owner said and spoke, with furious, wagging chin,
"Let him go play in Yucatan! The club will NOT give in!"
And, two days afterwards, HE GOT IT!

A TWIN BED LECTURE.

In an unfortunate moment Mr. Doveleigh suggested to Mrs. Doveleigh that she make a resolution to be more economical during the New Year. Husbands are always doing fool things like that.

So I'm to be more economical this year, am I? Friend wife is to do Cinderella while you are the Fairy Prince, eh? I'm to peel the potatoes with a razor and make nutritious soup out of coffee grounds while you entertain at the club and shoot dollar and a quarter golf balls in the water holes. I'm to keep chasing the worn spots on the rug to cover them with the library table and if I want shelf paper I can use the comic supplement. And I suppose I am to be more economical with clothes. Here you go down town with a clean collar on every day and your suit pressed until it hurts and I stay home all day in an apron. YOU'RE NEVER HOME! I'm never home, eh? I suppose the house just straightens itself. I suppose Santa Claus comes down and gets your supper and does the dishes.

I'm never home! I like that! There's gratitude for you. A woman can stay in the house night and day and slave for a man until her fingers are worn to the bone and all she gets is "We'll have to be more economical this year," or "You're never home." Where do you get that "We" stuff? Be more economical yourself. You with your ten cent cigar and riding round in taxicabs.

And how do you know whether I'm never home? You're never home yourself. Always got an appiontment or have to work late at the office or you have a conference. Suppose you come home and have a conference with your wife once in a while? Suppose you make an appointment with her? Suppose you do a little work at home occasionally? Did you know that the bottom fell out of the ice box last week? I'M NOT AN ICE MAN! Who said you were an ice man? You're not even as good as an ice man. At least he goes home nights. HOW DO YOU KNOW? It doesn't make any difference. You're trying to change the subject, but I won't be put off. If you want any more economy around this place you'll have to start it yourself. I KNOW THAT. You know nothing. You don't even know Im home here day after day slaving and struggling while you are down town with your conferences and your appointments and your ten cent cigars. OH LET UP ON THE TEN CENT CIGARS. Now there you are. I mention just one of your extravagances and you fly off the handle. Here I suffer in silence while you accuse me of grove extravagance and running around and neglecting my home and if I mention one of your extravagances just once you're ready to eat me up. I don't see how you can be so brutal. But that's what Mother always said. You never know a man until you've married him. She warned me about you. She always said, "He may pretend to be generous with you for a while, but don't let him pull the wool over your eyes. He'll be just as mean and stingy as the rest of them. And Mother was right. It took fifteen years before you showed your true colors but I can see you now. I should be more economical. I'm never home. And you out all hours of the day and night with your conferences and your appointments and your ten cent cigars. O. D. THE TEN CENT CIGARS. . . . Now there you go swearing . . . etc., etc.

(BULLETIN: Mr. Doveleigh was very sleepy the next day. People in the office remarked that he must have spent a restless night.)

Weaver Wagers He'll Be Back

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Regardless of his suspension from the Chicago Americans and his indictment by the Cook county grand jury for alleged conspiracy in the 1919 world's series, Buck Weaver, former White Sox third baseman, declared today he will be taken back.

Weaver offered to bet $500 that he would be a member of the White Sox team next season.

"I'll prove to everybody that I am innocent of the charges against me," Weaver declared. "I have a contract with the White Sox and I will be a member of the team next season. They can't start that trial too soon to suit me. When it's over, I'll be cleared."

No one in the party Weaver addressed, accepted the wager.

WHY DON'T THE REFORMERS END THE WHISKBROOM EVIL?

SPORT SNAP SHOTS
BY JACK KEENE

The Hayes family of Hartford, Conn., ranks well up with the athletic households of the country, matching the O'Hearns, the Coys and others. There are five Hayes boys, and every one is an athlete. Marty of Princeton tops the list. He scored points for the Tigers in the intercollegiate championships of 1914 and 1915, placing in the 880 yard run. He was also A. A. U. champion at 440 yards and held other titles at various times. Dave Hayes played football at Notre Dame for three years. Perry Hayes went to Dartmouth and ran well, while Jack Hayes played baseball at Yale. Jim is a quarter mile runner of ability. Marty and Perry were aviators, while Dave was in the Eighty-second division overseas, being wounded in the hip.

Derrill Pratt, who has signed a contract to coach the Michigan nine for three years, again has emphatically denied he will return to professional baseball this year. Traded by the New York Yankees to the Boston Red Sox a few weeks ago, after he had announced that he was through with professional ball, Pratt has been kept busy with telegrams and conferences with Frazee.

Pratt has announced his retirement from the game and means what he says. Although he was the second middle sacker in the American league rating last year, and pummeled the old apple for .314, Pratt says the time to quit the game is before the game is through with him.

By taking up the coaching job at Michigan, Pratt is providing for the future, for if he proves a success in his new undertaking he will be assured of a job for years to come.

Pratt also has two other good reasons for quitting the game while at the summit of his career. These other reasons take the form of two small children who miss their daddy while he is away on the long road trips which are the dregs of every ball player's life.

The champion marathon runner of the world is now an American citizen. Hannes Peter Kolehmainen, who hung up a new world's record when he covered the twenty-six and a fraction miles in the Olympic games at Antwerp in 2 hours 32 minutes and 35 4-5 seconds last fall, has run under the colors of his native country, Finland, for the last time.

Among 100 successful aspirants for American citizenship who finished their five-year spurt before Judge Stephen Callaghan in the supreme court at St. George, S. I., recently, the lean Finn led a field of which approximately 75 per cent were former citizens of the defunct German and Austrian empires.

Kolehmainen is a bricklayer by trade.

Orvall Overall, former righthander of the Chicago Cubs in the days of the glory of Evers and Tinker and Chance, is now a fruit grower in Southern California. Just a few days ago Overall purchased the acreage of the Ohio Lemon company in the Lemon Grove territory and has now taken over the holdings. The lands include some of the richest lemon groves in the lower part of the Golden state. Overall, however, expects to plant over almost the entire territory in grapes and plums. Overall is also interested in other developments about the state.

Jack Britton, welterweight champion of the world, will defend his title in a fifteen-round decision bout with Louis Bogash at Bridgeport, Conn., June 6. Britton is to get $25,000 and Bogash is guaranteed $10,000.

It is now claimed that Connie Mack is willing to give up Lawton Witt for Wally Pipp. Connie is a generous bird; he'll trade a bunghole for a barrel any day.

Rube Marquard had his tonsils removed at a Baltimore hospital recently. The southpaw, who will be with the Reds next season, declared his breathing apparatus was "out of kilter" last fall and had the operation performed in the hope that it will better his work next year.

George Whittted has written friends that he will be back in the Pittsbugh outfield next season, setting at rest stories that he is dissatisfied and wishes to be traded.

Truck Hannah, catcher of the Yankees, is occupyng his time during the off season by playing baseball on the Pacific coast. Hannah is catching for a team in Los Angeles on which several minor league players of prominence are playing. Truck seems to be hitting the ball pretty steadily out there, and the pitching is of fairly high order. Truck finished the season last year with a blaze of glory, walloping away over .333 for a stretch of games. During that streak Truck and Erin Ward used the same bat, and they had a collective average of over .333. It was rumored last fall that Hannah did not intend to return to the east, and he has been named as the man to go to Vernon in partial payment for Mitchell. This would meet with his ntire approval, it is said.

New York supplied the first discordant note in the first convention of the National Boxing association of the United States, which closed at the International Sporting club in New York city recently. The boxing commission and the license committee of that state decided not to join the movement for a nation-wide governing body, as such action would jeopardize the Walker boxing law by making it subject to the approval of a national board.

It is whispered here and there in baseball circles that Duffy Lewis, the famous left filder, who recently was traded to the Senators by Miller Huggins, might retire from the diamond. Nothing definite has been heard from Lewis on the matter. It is well known, however, that the former Yank strategist has been dickering with several business houses on the coast and that he might take over the coast territory for a prominent automobile tire concern. But then the lure of the diamond and the call of New York are strong.

Three players have been disposed of by Brooklyn. Howard Elliott, catcher, was sold to Sacramento, Outfielder Allen was traded to Birmingham of the Southern association for Outfielder Bert Griffith and a cash consideration, and William McCabe an outfielder, was released to Rochester of the International league.

Ten-round bouts, permitted under regulations similar to those effective in New York, Wisconsin and other states, will be permitted in Missouri if a bill to be presented to the legislature passes and is signed.

Mustangs May Withdraw From S. W. Conference

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, Texas, Jan. 20.—The question of withdrawal from the Southwestern conference by Southern Methodist university was referred to the executive committee of the institution at a general faculty meeting today. Dr. E. A. Boaz, president of the university, said the committee would take definite action on the matter within two weeks.

The Time to Open a Bank Account

National Thrift Week is universally celebrated from January 17th to January 22nd, the first day being the birthday anniversary of Benjamin Franklin, America's most ardent exponent of economy. More and more each year the people of the nation are recognizing and applying the sound doctrines of "Poor Richard" in their daily lives.

or Bank Week

How happy Franklin would be could he have lived to see this day—a time when Thrift is no longer confined to the few but is practiced by the many—a day when Thrift is National.

The principles Franklin attempted to foster in the citizens of America are today adopted by countless thousands of far-seeing men, women and children.

Today the Boy Scouts teach thrift to younger generations. The churches acclaim thrift from the pulpit. Schools teach thrift in their classes. Employers counsel thrift among their employes. Thrift is truly nation-wide.

The thrifty man not only spends wisely but saves systematically and invests safely. He applies the budget system to his personal expenditures. He pays by check and has a systematic record of his receipts. He anticipates future needs and saves for them. He lays the foundation in his youth for an independent old age.

He plans ahead for the education of his children. He insures his loved ones against need. He owns his own home. Through his thriftiness he developes a resourceful and dependable personality. He strengthens his own character and rises in the esteem of his employer, his business associates and his friends. He is a valuable citizen in his community and enjoys deserved prestige.

Throughout his life the thrifty man finds no connection more valuable to him than his association with a bank of recognized standing. Every facility of a modern bank answers a definite need in his life.

Thriftiness implies a capacity for credit. The Bank's helping hand is always ready to further wise ambitions and aid business plans.

The banks of this community are anxious to assist those who desire to save. The counsel and advice of experienced men await every one at the bank regardless of the size of the account.

No more appropriate time than today could be had for opening a new account or adding to the present one.

TELLS CLUB OF CLASSES TO BE OFFERED LABOR

How men who through force of circumstances have been forced to work in unskilled lines, and have had little chance to make themselves skilled laborers will be given an opportunity to make themselves proficient in the skilled lines through the vocational training classs to be instituted here through co-operation of the local schools and the state university was briefly explained to Rotarians at their luncheon Thursday noon by Scott McGinnis, representing the University of Texas.

Mr. McGinnis said that he was here now for the purpose of selecting men, proficient in the various crafts in which instruction is to be given, and is working with them with a view of fitting them as instructors of other men in their specialties.

"In this way these men will improve themselves, will become more valuable to their employers and will be in a position to make their own families happier," he said. Co-operation in this move on the part of the Rotarians was promised by President I. H. Roberts.

A forceful and inspiring address on "Citizenship," was delivered by H. J. Lutcher Stark of Orange—affectionately known throughout the Rotary world as "Lutch"—who is paying the club an official visit in his capacity of governor of the 18th district.

"A man to be a good Rotarian, first of all must be a good citizen, and a man who is a good citizen is a good Rotarian whether he wears the button or not—they are synonomous terms," the speaker told the members of the local club.

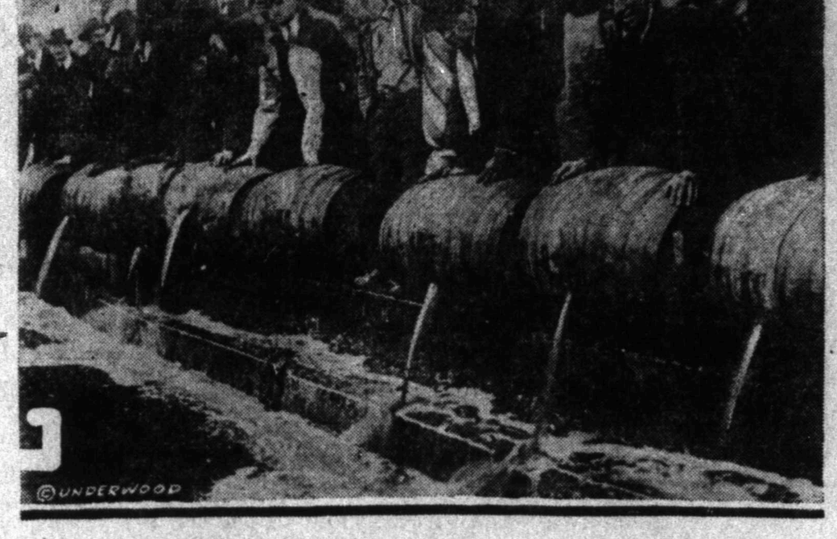

Good citizenship, he discussed under four heads. "The Good Citizen," he said, "must have correct and detailed information of his community—he must have faith in the men who are at the head of his city, county, state and national government, he must recognize his individual responsibility, and, recognizing this individual responsibility, he must be industrious in the discharge of this responsibility."

The nucleus of the Vernon Rotary club—B. O. Brown, R. H. Coffee, G. C. Morris, Rev. H. W. Haynes, Emery Rhoades and Jed Morrow, were introduced to the club by Harry Bray. A. B. Connelly, district deputy grand exalted ruler of the B. P. O. E., and the present and past exalted rulers of the local lodge were also guests of the club.

The educational committee was named by President Roberts, and includes Rev. Nat F. Grafton, Dr. Charles R. Hartsook, and Lee Clark.

Popular piano selections by R. A. Thomas, and a couple of selections by the High School orchestra of 14 pieces, furnished the entertainment features for the luncheon.

ILLINOIS SEWERS GET MILLION DOLLARS' WORTH OF BOOZE

U. S. agents dumping a few of the 32,000 gallons of liquor into the sewers in Waukegan, Ill.

The dumping of a few gallons of hard liquor has been common in the vicinity of Chicago for the past few months, but government agents are believed to have set a world's record at Waukegan, Ill. They dumped 32,000 gallons of alcoholic beverages into the sewers to find its way into Lake Michigan. At the present high price of liquor that means a million dollars lost or rather thrown away. Gloom among the spectators here is as strong as the odor of the booze.

NEFF URGES PLATFORM BE CARRIED OUT

By Associated Press

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 20.—Governor Neff's first message to the thirty-seventh legislature was delivered today He urged the members to co-operate with him in carrying out the platform of the democratic party under which they were elected, and attached a copy of the platform adopted at the democratic meeting at Fort Worth to his message.

The governor said that he would later send messages to the legislature pertaining to legislation that must be carried out in accordance with the platform, pointing out that sometimes there were certain planks talked of before the election and were forgotten after the election.

Representative Barry Miller of Dallas introduced a bill in the house providing for an industrial welfare commission of three members. He proposes to give the chairman the authority of a district judge and to divide the state into zones in regard to the minimum wage laws, the committee establishing wages applicable to these zones. Representative Sid Crumpton of Bowie county introduced a house joint resolution providing amendment to the constitution so as to provide for a graduated land tax. A house concurrent resolution was introduced, appointing a committee to obtain an architect's services to ascertain the cost of making the capitol building fireproof and was reported unfavorably on by the committee.

Confirm Appointments.

The senate this afternoon confirmed the appointments of Governor Neff, with the exception of J. A. Herring of Houston as member of the prison commission and J. N. Gallagher of Waco as member of the commission of appeals, section A The appointment of Mr. Herring was understood to have been referred to the committee on nominations following arguments by several members, the gist of which was not given out of the executive session. Mr. Gallagher's confirmation was merely deferred because his term of office does not begin until February 1, it is understood. It is also said there will be no opposition to his appointment.

New Court Proposed.

The creation of a court of domestic relations is proposed in a bill introduced in the senate by Senator Edgar R. Witt of McLennan county. It provides that the members shall be composed of members of the Texas railroad commission. Senator J. C. McNealus of Dallas opposed the measure, declaring that he was opposed to compulsory arbitration of controversies between labor and capital.

Debate on the bill introduced in the house by Representative John H. Veatch of Johnson county providing for the repeal of an act by the thirty-fifth legislature establishing state normal schools at Kingsville and Nacogdoches started today when R. T. Milner, former president of A. and M. college urged extension of Texas educational facilities in Texas in his address to the house, which he was invited to deliver. Representative Veatch interrupted him, saying a point of order gave him right to object to the speaker's remarks. Mr. Milner had previously appeared before the committee on appropriations in behalf of the bil enacted by the thirty-fifth legislature, and which the Veatch bill proposes to repeal. Representative Veatch said that Mr. Milner's remarks before the house were along the lines of the one before the committee.

Says Light Motor Truck Proves Up In Oil Field Mud

"The light motor truck is everywhere proving itself to be a paying proposition," says S. Benrod Auto and Supply company, local Maxwell-Chalmers dealer.

"Even on the mud, sand, and rock roads of the Texas oil fields, truck owners are realizing excellent profits.

"For example, H. Meadows, who is in the drayage business at Sweetwater, Texas, writes that his Maxwell truck has netted him $3,721 in six months, under the most trying road conditions.

"And R. F. Blacklock, operating between Moran and Parks Camp, Texas, says that he makes $27 for the 60-mile trip and has earned as high as $804 in one month."

Business Council Plans Celebration

Plans for the membership campaign and for the proposed celebration to mark the turning of the "juice' 'into the white way system, will feature the discussion at Friday's session of the Business Council, Chamber of Commerce, according to J. W. Chatham Jr., secretary.

It was decided some time ago that the Chamber of Commerce would not institute a membership drive, but that the representatives of each business in the Business Council would work quietly toward the enlistment of new residents in their line of business in the membership of the organization.

COURT SAYS OIL LEASE GIVES NO BUILDING RIGHTS

Judge P. A. Martin laid down the principle, in ruling Thursday on the case of James E. Dunn vs The First Baptist Church of Burkburnett and others, that an oil lease does not of itself give the lessee the right to erect buildings on the property. The suit was for an injunction restraining the church and constable from executing a writ of possession on the property which was leased to the plaintiff for oil operations, and was taken under advisement by Judge Martin after all of the testimony had been submitted.

According to Judge Martin's findings of fact in the case, the church granted Dunn, the lessee, the right to erect all structures, appliances, necessary or convenient in searching for, producing, caring for or storing oil and gas. Under this provision, it was set forth in the opinion that the assignee of the lease had erected a house occupied by his pumper on the church lot and that it was occupying property on one of the principal streets of the city which could be rented by the church for at least $25 per month.

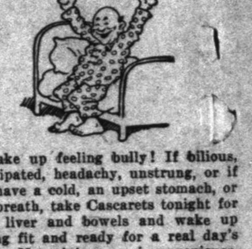

Trial of right of possession was had in justice court at Burkburnett by writ of forcible detainor and judgment of ouster was granted the church to place them in full possession. The plaintiff, or lessee, then filed suit for injunction in district court to prevent execution of the writ.

In his conclusions of law, Judge Martin held that if a pumper had a right to erect a residence on the property, he would have the same right to erect any sort of residence deemed necessary for a pumper; that it might be of any size, of any material, whether sightly or unsightly in any place deemed "necessary or convenient," and that the free use of the property might be seriously interfered with.

It was also set forth in the decision that if the pumper is entitled to room on the lot for his residence, then business offices and residences of that entire oil company could be located there and its use as church property destroyed.

STATE COLLEGE OWNS SECTIONS NEAR OIL FIELD

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 20.—The oil possibilities of Crockett county, adjoining the county where the Fort Stockton well recently came in at 98 feet, are outlined in a bulletin issued today by the bureau of economic geology and technology of the University of Texas The university owns 660 sections of 182,400 acres in Crockett county. An oil field there would make the state university very wealthy.

The report sets forth that the Edwards limestone gives the only exposure upon the university lands in Crockett county.

"On the Big Lake and Barnhart tracts a covering of soil conceals practically all of the strata," the report says.

Mention is made of the fact that the axis of the Pennsylvania fold extending northward from the Marathon uplift crosses the Pecos river near the highway bridge on the Sheffield-Ozona road. It has been observed to continue for some 15 miles into Crockett county along the northwestern edge of the Sheffield tract. Summarized as to the oil possibilities upon the university lands in the county, the report says:

"There is, then, in Crockett county, a large fold in the buried carboniferous strata some 2,000 feet below the surface, entering the county at about the highway bridge over the Pecos river, three and a half miles east of Sheffield, and bearing approximately north 50 degrees east. It passes immediately to the northwest of the Sheffield tract of university land, and although it could not be located farther in reconnaissance, because of the lack of exposures, it probably extends across the entire county diagonally from southwest to northeast through the Barnhart tract of university land and into the adjoining counties to the north Near its point of origin, in the Marathon mountains, the lower formations have been observed to be strongly inclined and this folding decreases in the upper stratum so that at the surface the trend of this Pennsylvania fold is marked by slight departures from the normal in rate of dip of the surface formations.

"The value of this fold as a concentrator of petroleum cannot be estimated as there is no sub-surface data for a basis. However, the evidence supplied from the development of a similar geological fold in north-central Texas is positive. It is possible to state that if petroleum is present in any of the formations underlying the Pecos valley, the most desirable area for testing is along the axis of this fold.

"As the fold is undoubtedly irregular in the lower formations, as indicated by the surface strata, all locations along the fold will not be of equal value, but it is impossible to make more definite statements. The few tests under operation in the region record shows of oil in the carboniferous strata, but no completions have been made nor has petroleum in commercial quantities been reported."

Commander of Ill-Fated NC-5 Relates Flight

By Associated Press

SAN JUAN, Del Sur, Nicaragua, Jan. 20.—Lieut. H. V. Baugh, commander of the seaplane NC-5, which was wrecked and sank when it ran into a tremendous hurricane last Saturday about 40 miles north of this city during its attempted flight from San Diego, Calif., to Balboa, Panama Canal zone, told of his experiences today. The seaplane was one of the twelve which left San Diego in December for the canal zone.

"When we ran into the hurricane on Saturday the engine was giving trouble," he said. "The wind was blowing about 45 miles per hour and the plane was flung about like a boy's kite with an insufficient tail in the high wind. Eventually it fluttered to the surface of the sea about 20 miles from land. We 'taxied' to the beach under tremendous difficulty striking the coast 25 miles north of Gigante, where the NC-6 also arrived eventually after radiographing to the ships following the position of the NC-5.

"The Kanawah arrived and took the NC-5 in tow, later handing it over to the destroyer Munford. The latter took the crew aboard and continued towing the seaplane. The line parted frequently, owing to the heavy sea, however, the NC-5 eventually sinking."

The tug Gannet is in port here taking aboard materials to repair the NC-6, which is lying on the beach at Gigante.

FAVERSHAM TO PLAY EMPRESS SCREEN 3 DAYS

William Faversham, in his second big Selanick Picture, "The Sin That Was His," will be the feature attraction at the Empress theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

This story, by Frank L. Packard, has as its central figure a gambler called "Two Ace" Raymond, once educated for the priesthood, but at the time the story opens he has drifted so far he is a cold and cynical atheist. A dying pal entrusts him with a bag of gold to be delivered to his mother in St. Marleau, Quebec, and Raymond starts off on his mission.

Arriving at the designated place, he is met by the brother of the dead man, who attempts to secure the gold. In the ensuing struggle the man is shot and killed by his mother, who had intended the shot for Raymond, thinking he was a burglar. Fearing that he will be suspected Raymond flees the place and stumbles upon the unconscious form of Father Aubert, a priest who had arrived in St. Marleau on the same train as Raymond. Fr. Aubert had been injured by a falling tree branch.

In desperation, Raymond changes clothes with Fr Aubert, who is then accused of the shooting. The gambler continues his masquerade, which is accepted by the simple villagers. In the days that follow the constant association with the better things of life effect a transformation in Raymond's very soul, and the story comes to a close in a climax that has seldom been equalled for dramatic power.

FORMER PRIDE OF NAVY IS STRIPPED FOR WORK SHIP

The U. S. S. Kearsage as she appeared when considered one of America's greatest fighting ships and as she appears while being stripped of her armor and fittings at the Philadelphia navy yard.

Work has begun on stripping the old U. S. S. Kearsage to make her the world's largest floating crane. The Kearsage was once the pride of the navy. The photographs show her as she was in her prime, and also in the process of being stripped of her armor and fittings to be equipped with a huge crane. The photograph was taken at the Philadelphia navy yard. It is expected that the Kearsage, which will proceed from port to port where needed, under her own power, will be the largest floating crane in the world. A modern triple 16-inch gun turret weighs 200 or more tons and is too heavy for most cranes.

DANCIGERS SEE LITTLE IN NEW STRIKE TO O. K.

The first unfavorable reports concerning the Dr. Busey oil well near Eldorado, Arkansas, were made here Thursday by Joe and M. O. Danciger, active heads of the Danciger Oil and Refining Company of this city, one of the largest independent producing companies operating in the several fields of this district.

The Danciger Brothers returned Thursday night from a lengthy inspection trip of the new field in Arkansas.

"They may have a great oil field there," Joe Danciger said Friday, "but if they have they will have to show different oil than we saw."

The local operators reported that due to the gas pressure and the fact that the ground was covered with oil in the vicinity of the well, spectators were not allowed to go near the test. M. O. Danciger had at the local office, however, a sample of the oil taken from the drip of oil off the sills of the derrick.

The sample indicates that the oil is of low gravity and quality. It resembles what is generally termed in this section as "cut" oil. Due to the grade of oil, it is believed by the Dancigers that there is a strong possibility that the well will never produce an oil of commercial value. The sample here has water and is brown in color.

It was estimated by M. O. Danciger that the test, partially shut off, was making around 750 Barrels daily of the combination water and oil with several million feet of gas. A panoramic picture of the well at the Danciger office shows the well turned loose with the oil and water running in streams away from the derrick floor. No attempt is being made, it is said, to store the oil in tanks.

Locations for two offset tests have been made on adjoining leases. One is that of the Comstantine Refining Company and the other is on a lease said to be owned by the Standard oil interests. The Comstantine Company has a large gasser a slight distance to the southwest of the Busey well.

The town of Eldorado, according to the Dancigers, is in the midst of an oil boom that parallels the greatest boom days of this city and Burkburnett. Both spoke highly of the treatment accorded oil operators by residents of the city. Special trains were arriving daily from all parts of the country. In spite of the great crowds and interest that is being displayed, very few leases are changing hands.

Agreeing with other local operators who have returned from the well, the Dancigers said that the lack of pipe line facilities, would probably retard development for several months even should the well come up to the expectation of the large portion of the oil fraternity.

It is pointed that if the oil is of a lower grade than that of the Homer field, the extension of the pipe lines from that field will not aid the situation.

According to reports here Friday from several sources, local operators have bought in the new area. Lyons and Kleinman are reported to have purchased acreage. The Cranfill brothers have purchased real estate in Eldorado. One report has it that several local operators are going to combine and drill a test on a large scale near the

Pioneer Banker And Ranchman Dies at Vernon

By Associated Press.

Ross in Vernon, and the remains were interred in East View cemetery. Mr. Hamilton was a native of Lewis county, Mo., and served with the Confederate army in the Civil war.

DOES IT PAY TO ADVERTISE

The following letter, which is self explanatory—is only another reason, to add to our already long list, why we think IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

You will note that this correspondence comes from some three hundred miles away, and virtually out of the trade territory of Wichita Falls. This not only proves that it PAYS TO ADVERTISE, but also shows that the southwest at large has its eye on Wichita Falls and is a fair sample of the possibilities of the future.

LATE RALLIES BOOST COTTON PRICE HIGHER

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 20.—During a good part of the session in cotton today prices were depressed, but in the late trading the market strengthened under reports from the north central belt of a better demand for spots, and claims from mill centers in the eastern belt that the demand for finished goods was becoming sufficiently strong to warrant the belief that all mills shortly would be found running full time.

Offerings increased just on the close so that the prices showed net gains of but 2 to 12 points.

In the early afternoon the market was at its best, with March at 14.95 and the trading months 21 to 24 points higher, than the close of yesterday. On the close March fell off to 14.82.

Private bureau returns placed ginning to January 16 at 12,014,000 bales, which compared with 10,307,120 to the same date last year. This indicated a production for the last ginning period of 455,000 bales, against 298,000 last year, a larger output than generally expected.

NEW YORK COTTON.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, aJn. 20.—Early declines were followed by rallies in the cotton market today on reports of a firmer spot basis in the South and domestic trade buying. The general market closed very steady at a net advance of 7 to 15 points.

The early market was influenced by the continued weakness of Liverpool and unfavorable foreign trade advices. Wall-street interests were particularly active sellers on the decline, which carried prices off to about 20 to 25 points net lower and into new low ground for the movement. Many of the contracts sold were absorbed by trade buyers on the reaction of about 150 points from recent high prices, however.

January notices were estimated at 2,600 bales and more are expected tomorrow, but they were without any apparent effort on the market. Private returns indicate ginning of 12,000,000 bales to January 16 and a lint crop of from 13,000,000 to 13,250,000 bales. The larger exports helped the afternoon rally and there also was buying on higher foreign exchange rates. The export amounted to 40,445 bales, making 2,719,562 so far this season. Port receipts, 24,928. United States port stocks, 1,441,611.

NEW YORK COFFEE

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—After opening at a decline of 8 to 12 points, under realizing and disappointing Brazilian cables, the market for coffee futures rallied on reiterated rumors of Brazilian loan negotiations. SPUDS DROP 25 CENTS HUNDRED AT WHOLESALE

A decline of 25 cents a hundred pounds in the prices quoted on spuds, making the present price $2.25 a hundred, was the chief feature of the wholesale market here Thursday. Overproduction, coupled with relatively slight demand, is the reason assigned by local dealers for the slump.

Sharp advances in bottled vinegar and pickles, due to the increased cost of glass containers, have also been felt.

In the canned vegetable line, local wholesale men agree in declaring that there is not much possibility of a further decline, as the present prices are said to be so low that some items of canned goods, No. 2 tomatoes, for instance, are priced lower than the packer could put up the same can full of water.

In the fresh vegetable markets the prices have been high enough that the growers have been assured a reasonable profit. This fact and the mild weather favoring truck gardening have resulted in a larger quantity of fresh vegetables on the market as well as much lower prices than the same time last year. Practically all varieties of fresh vegetables are on the local markets, with the exception of cucumbers.

The prices quoted below are obtained from local jobbers and represent the prices at the opening of the day's business. They represent a farily accurate list, although they are subject to constant fluctuations.

BEARISH NEWS SENDS WHEAT PRICES DOWN

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Uncertainty about Argentine export taxes, together with lessening of new export business in this country, had a bearish effort today on the wheat market here. Prices closed heavy 3½ to 4 1-4c net lower with March 1.68 3-4 to 1.69, and May 1.60 1-4 to 1.60½. Corn lost 1-8 to 3-8c, oats 1-8 to 1-4 and provisions 12 to 40c.

Attention of wheat traders centered at first almost wholly on the truth of advices that the Argentine government had taken action which implied that there would be no tax on exports. Resulting declines were overcome temporarily by evidence that the bearish Argentine news was erroneous. Bulls, however, appeared to have lost confidence, especially as export call for United States grain was not active as earlier in the week.

MANY ISSUES BULLISH ON STOCK MART

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20—Retirement of the short interest in the stock market made further variable progress today as pools in oil, food, shipping and copper shares, as well as many miscellaneous specialties resumed their bullish operations.

Sales, 875,000 shares.

Exchange on London rose to the highest peak since last July with demand bills at 3.78½ and Paris demand bills at approximately 6.60, afforded a striking contrast to the low of 5.82¼ in the early days of this month. Relatively greater advances were made in exchange to several of the Scandinavian countries.

Liberty bonds were active and slightly higher as were most other domestic issues, including railway convertibles, but the foreign group showed little change.

Total sales, par value, $12,175,000.

TWO WELLS IN SOUTH ELECTRA FIND PAY SAND

Two additional wells in the South Electra field are on the sand, according to reports from the field Thursday.

The No. 5 of the Bryan Oil Corporation and the No. 4 of the Texas Interstate Oil Company on offsetting leases on the Burnett tract, have both struck the sand, with the holes partially filled with oil, according to reports.

On initial showing, the wells, it is thought will be as large as other wells brought in from the 1400-foot sand of the field. The other completions show initial production of 200 barrels daily. Preparations are being made to place both tests on the pump.

The Bryan well is said to have struck the 1040-foot sand from which the Gladiolus company obtained the initial producer a week ago. That depth sand on the Bryan lease will be tested out later.

Both the Bryan and Texas Interstate leases are located in the same lease as that of the Gladiolus Company, which was sold the first of the week to Judge J. R. Armstrong et al of Oklahoma City for a reported price of $750,000.

Houston Man Charged With Robbing Bank

By Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 20.—That men in Houston, Texas and Baltimore, Md., were connected with the robbery of two branch banks here recently, was the statement by Harry Ahearn, who, with four other alleged yeggmen, was arrested by the police here today, according to the officers. With Ahearn when arrested was a woman, who gave her name as Hilda Love of Oklahoma City.

Trapped in their rooms in scattered parts of the city, Ross Keyes, William D. Weston, Robert Holland, James Sheerlock and Harry Ahearn, none of whom is over 35 years old, were arrested by Superintendent of Police Maloney in person. All are held as dangerous and suspicious characters, while further charges will be preferred against the five as a result of statements reported made to the police by Ahearn and the alleged identification of Holland as one of the men who not only robbed the industrial branch of the Hibernia bank a few weeks ago, but also the Algers branch of the Canal Commercial bank last September.

GORE APPEALS FOR INDENPENDENCE OF ERIN ISLE

By Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 20.—A plea that Ireland be given independence was made here tonight by United States Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma at the fifty-fourth annual meeting of the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

He urged that "America and the world help remove the shackles from Ireland."

"I wish Great Britain might yet see it would contribute as much to her interest as to her glory to adjust this age-long quarrel," said the speaker.

Cheers greeted the announcement of the Philadelphia county committee of the order that it had pledged $25,000 toward the "devastation of Ireland relief funds."

ADVERSE VOTE OF COMMITTEE KILLS OIL TAX

Belief that the gross production tax bill introduced in the Texas legislature by Representative Coffee of Denton county, making it 3 per cent or double the present tax, was effectually killed by the adverse vote on the bill in committe of 20 to 3, was expressed by local oil operators Thursday, following advices from Austin.

The bill will be reported on a minority report, and will come up for consideration in the near future, but it is believed that the overwhelming vote of the committee against the measure would prevent its receiving very serious consideration.

Such a measure would, of course, throw an almost prohibitive load on the oil industry, whose production, contrary to the belief in the "piney woods" sections, lacks a whole lot and then some of being "velvet," oil men point out in discussing the measure.

From one-fifth to one-eighth of the present revenues of the state are paid by the oil operators from the present tax of 1 1-2 per cent, statistics prepared by local oil men show.

O'Callaghan To Be Given Seaman's Card

By Associated Press.

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 20.—Lord Mayor O'Callaghan of Cork was notified late today by his counsel, Judge Joseph T. Lawless, to report here as quick as possible to cancel the parole under which he was released after his arrival at Newport News as a stowaway. He is now in New York. O'Callaghan will not be summarily deported, J. J. Hurley, special immigration inspector for this district declared tonight, but will be treated in exactly the same manner as any other seaman arriving in the United States. It is contended by his counsel that inasmuch as he worked part of his passage, the lord mayor is a seaman and as such will be recognized by Mr. Hurley who will grant him an identification card which entitles him to "re-ship foreign."

Being a "seaman" without visaed passports, O'Callaghan, it is said, will be given a reasonable time to "reship" but can not engage in any occupation ashore, or ship on a coastwise vessel.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—An offer of experienced train dispatchers for work on French railways was cabled today to M. Yves Letrocquer, French minister of public works, by J. G. Luhrson, president of the American Train Dispatchers association. The cable stated that many of the men available for installation of the American system in France had had experience on the French railways as members of the A. E. F. Others were with the American railway units in Siberia.

An offer was called out by press reports that the French government had decided to adopt the American system of dispatching trains.

Argentine Trade Commissioner to Open Headquarters

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Dillman Bullock, newly appointed agricultural trade commissioner in Argentina, has sailed for Buenos Aires to open an office devoted to stimulating the South American market for pure bred livestock from the United States. He is the second agricultural man sent out by the bureau of markets of the department of agriculture and it was announced today that a representative might shortly be sent to Australia, and another to Russia as soon as trade with that country had been re-established.

Mr. Bullock's mission is regarded by Argentinians here as a means of furthering a trade much desired by cattle breeders in their country whose chief source of supply heretofore has been England.

Fighting Bob Swan, Ex-Champ Of Navy Boxers, Shouts at Radicals From Jitney Pulpit

"Fighting Bob" Sawn, self-tyled as a disciple of "red-blooded" Americanism, the enemy to all that is un-American, and the only "soap box Rotarian" in circulation, made a "soap box" oration that was different here Thursday. That is, this speech, which was different, would fall into the soap box classification, according to the popular definition of that term. The speech itself, however, was made from the floor of a travel-worn "Tin Henry." It was made on the vacant Moore and Richolt lot at Ninth and Indiana.

Soap box orations, to be true to form, must express dissatisfaction with all things as they are, and tend to incite the audience to more or less violent means of overturning the whole social order.

Not so with "Fighting Bob." For "Fighting Bob" is out for the scalps of gentry of this cast of mind. Starting with strong language, and gradually increasing the pressure with each reference to them, "Fighting Bob" literally flayed the hide of the disciples of "bolshevism, communism, socialism, atheism and every other 'ism' which is striving to undermine the foundations of our government."

Born in Portugal.

Sawn, who was born in Portugal, and is a naturalized American citizen, declared that a large per cent of the so-called red organizations in America were financed, led and propagandized by foreign-born men who had come here and made their fortunes, only to turn immediately and strive to tear away the foundations of the country which had made them.

Outlining the works and effects of the reds, he declared that he had seen people in Russia eating grass from the ground in an effort to fill their stomachs, and cited this condition as an example of the ultimate end to which the various disciples of anti-American "isms" were attempting to bring here.

He classified the socialists as similar to the story of the dog sitting on a cockleburr who was too lazy to move and "set up a howl."

He said the 99 per cent American is like the mackerel which is 1 per cent impure. "You can smell only the impure and it stinks."

Former Pug Champ.

Sawn, who is former lightweight pugilistic champion of the Asiatic fleet and a veteran of the Spanish-American war, when he served on the U. S. S. Gloucester under Lieutenant Commander Wainwright at Santiago, has been subjected to attacks from members of the various branches of the reds on different occasions, in one of which he is said to have thrown a man from a second-story window and on another to have sent three to hospitals in ambulances.

He was recently discharged from the navy with a record of 22 years of honorable service, according to indorsement thereon, and has been conducting a free lance campaign for the upbuilding of Americanism and the suppression of un-Americanism for the last seven months.

He is touring the country in a Ford automobile, which, it is said, was presented him by the Rotarians of Ardmore, Okla., who also made him an honorary member.

His lectures are delivered in the picturesque vernacular of the gob and are filled with amusinig simile and metaphor. He always closes with prayer.

Sawn announced that he will speak Friday evening from his car on the vacant lot next to the postoffice, on the west side, at 7 o'clock.

BLAND TO FACE JURY TODAY ON MURDER COUNT

George Dewey Bland will face trial today before a jury in Thirtieth district court for the murder of A. E. Berlin at Newtown on January 9, according to a setting of cases announced Thursday by District Attorney Fletcher S. Jones.

A joint indictment charging Bland and Heinie Jackson with murder in connection with the slaying of Berlin was returned by the grand jury the day after commission of the crime and their case set for trial on January 19.

When the case was called Wednesday morning, however, a severance was granted, allowing both men separate trials, and the two cases continued until Friday, the court stipulating that whichever case was ready at this time would be tried.

The state set the trial of Jackson's case for January 31 so the conclusion was drawn that Bland will be arraigned Friday. This was upheld by statements from District Attorney Jones Thursday.

Charge Roomer Fled Party and Took Valuables

Charges of theft over $50 are made in a complaint filed Thursday before Justice R. V. Gwinn against Hal Reiley alias Hal Cooper and Mrs. Hal Cooper, who are now being held at Walters, Okla., according to information received by the police here Wednesday night, for alleged forgery of checks.

The complaint was filed by Stanley E. Trevathan, of 1307 Travis street, in connection with the robbery of his home several weeks ago. It was said that Reiley, alias Cooper, and his wife were roomers at the Trevathan house and made off with valuables and wraps valued at several hundred dollars while Mrs. Trevathan was entertaining.

District Attorney Fletcher S. Jones made the announcement as to whether or not their extradition would be requested.

LUMBER TRADE GETS BETTER, SAYS VETERAN

A marked revival in the lumber market has been felt during the past 10 days, declares B. W. Owens, veteran lumberman of Fort Worth, who was in the city Thursday on business. Mr. Owens has just returned from several of the large mills in the southern part of the state and Louisiana. His observations are based on actual conditions coupled with an insight into the business gained through many years of experience.

"Lumber has reached the low mark now," Mr. Owens said. "And I confidently expect a gradual increase in price until normal times come back." "Only the other day," he continued, "one mill with whom we do business raised the wholesale price over the quotations of 10 days past. It is impossible to contract for lumber at the prices of a couple of weeks back."

"The return of the muchly discussed 'normalcy' will only be a matter of two or three months, Mr. Owens believes and if labor prices are reduced in proportion to other commodities, a wholesale building campaign to relieve the home shortage will take place, Mr. Owens thinks.

"All lumbermen have incurred losses and hundreds of mills have shut down due to inability to operate without profit," Mr. Owens declared, "but we have taken it as cheerfully as possible and as natural to bring about a readjustment."

Youth Fined $25 For "Borrowing" Driller's Auto

H. A. Wilburn entered a plea of guilty to a charge of operating an automobile without the owner's consent and was fined $25 and costs by Judge Guy Rogers late Thursday in county court-at-law.

Wilburn was charged with having been in possession of an automobile which was "borrowed" from Roy L. Riner, a drilling contractor, Wednesday night, but which was recovered by the police about an hour later.

WHEN HENS DON'T LAY
it is because they are not getting the proper kind of feed. PURINA POULTRY CHOWS, fed according to directions, produce practically an equal number of whites and yolks, above body maintenance as is shown below:
100 lbs. Purina Hen Chow (Scratch) produces 247 Yolks, 142 Whites
100 lbs. Purina Chicken Chowder produces 182 Yolks, 282 Whites.
50 lbs. each is capable of producing 214 Yolks, 212 Whites.
Note how great the number and how almost exact the balance. These figures are based on average hens. Heavy layers will produce more eggs from the same amount of Chows. Both Chows are necessary to produce the maximum number of complete eggs. Purina Chicken Chowder makes an excess of whites which balances the excess of yolks made by any grain feed.
