SIX JAILED AS GROCERY THEFT RING IS FOUND

Blair And Maupin Company Victimized Since First Of Year

HUNT FOR OTHERS

Three Employes of The Firm Involved in Wholesale Theft

A theft ring that, since the first of the year, has stolen and disposed of between $3,000 and $4,000 worth of groceries from the Blair and Maupin Wholesale Grocery company here was declared to have been broken yesterday with the arrest of six men, all of whom are now in jail. All those in custody are understood to have made full confessions to County Attorney Wayne Somerville.

Exact details of the thefts and the identity of those arrested are being withheld pending the outcome of a search now being made by the sheriff's and constable's departments for others implicated and who are still at large. It is said three or four more men are wanted in connection with the case.

3 Worked For Company.

Three of the six men now in the county jail, it has been learned, were employed at the grocery warehouse here. Over a period of five or six months they are declared to have been removing case goods and other blocks of merchandise kept at the store rooms and disposing of them to grocery firms in business here. Two of the six under arrest are said to have operated grocery stores in Wichita Falls, while another is a grocer at Dean. They are alleged to have accepted the goods, knowing them to be stolen property.

Most of the credit for the catch goes to M. A. Maupin of the grocery company who has been working quietly on the case for several months. Mr. Maupin has known, he said, that goods were being taken from his warehouse, but he said nothing about it until he had evidence on which to go to work.

All Make Confessions.

Late Thursday afternoon he went to the county attorney's office, laid his information before Mr. Somerville and warrants for the arrest of the men were immediately issued. Quick service was obtained by Sheriff Fred K. Smith and Constable C. L. Bradford, and after a short grilling the men made confessions. All were sent to jail.

Officials of the grocery company were unable to make an exact report on the amount of goods stolen from them, but said that at a conservative figure it would run to at least $3,000 and perhaps higher.

Airplanes At Ft. Sill Prove Ability To Detect Batteries At Night and To Direct Fire of Guns

LAWTON, OKLA., June 4.—Illumination of artillery targets by parchute flares dropped from airplanes and control of battery fire observer in the plane hovering over illuminated target talking directly to the battery is a success. It was demonstrated at 1 o'clock this morning on the artillery range at Ft. Sill, with Maj. Gen. Wm. P. Snow, chief of artillery; Brig. Gen. George Leroy Irwin, commandant of the artillery school; Col. W. D. Hand, executive of the artillery school and some 300 other army officers observing the action. At the same time artillery fire was being adjusted by voice from the plane other targets were lighted by flares from planes enabling batteries to make terestial adjustments.

"Highly Pleased"—Snow

"I am highly pleased with the results." The action is a success and shows wonderful opportunities in coordination of air and artillery forces. There are great possibilities in the demonstrations we have seen here." That was the statement of General Snow after witnessing the bombardment. He was up again by daylight to see a fleet of planes from Kelly Field wipe out a battery of artillery simulated by casions and wreck destruction to various other obstacles such as are encountered in the way machine gun fire and bomb dropping from planes were both demonstrated and while the artillery went into action at the same time on other targets the only comment made by officers was that both actions were eminently satisfactory. From the standpoint of those watching the airplane bombarding and machine gun action it would seem that the contention of General Mitchell of the value of airplane attack was upheld. Col. W. D. Hand, executive officer of the artillery school, later issued a statement for himself and for his superior officers in which he said the demonstrations proved a success and while there are various details to be worked out that officers consider a great feat has been accomplished by the coordination of artillery and airplane attack.

Working Together

He said the artillery and air service branches of the army are working together for the accomplishment of a common end and each realizes the importance of the other in the work. "This demonstration," said the colonel, "has shown us how important the work of the air service in conjunction with the artillery really is and we know the artillery is just as important to the air service." He added casually that wtihout the infantry both the artillery and air services would be out of luck.

In commenting today on the request of President Coolidge that if possible the army save $25,000,000 General Snow said the artillery end of the army already had been cut to the bone for economy sake and further curtailment would materially injure operations. "We are operating a 218,000 man program as called for in the national defense act with 118,000 men, he said, "and the only way I can see a cut could be made would be in changing the national defense act which calls for the program we are working so hard to carry out with such limited forces." General Snow will remain here until Saturday.

TEXANS GIVEN BIG SPLIT IN OIL DECISION

Oklahoma Placer Mining Law Claimants Are Favored

GENERAL WINS

Chance Yet That Secretary Work May Change Awards

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—The special committee appointed to consider claims amounting to several million dollars based on oil permits and leases in the producing area of the Red river oil fields in Oklahoma today reported to Secretary Work that it found 18 to 64 claims equitable and recommended that 1,750,000 be awarded.

The committee found that no equitable claim existed on 620 acres of the 1280 involved and that the $320,000 obtained from oil produced in this area should revert to the federal treasury.

The largest award, $608,502, was recommended to rthe Burke Divide Oil company, Terre Haute, Ind. Other large awards favored were $318,542 to the General Oil company of Houston, Texas; $228,624 to the Lone Star Refining company, Kansas City, Kan.; $145,657 to A. E. Pearson, Oklahoma City, Okla.; $101,938 to Tom Testerman, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Secretary Work said he had the committee's recommendations under consideration and would announce his decision after giving them careful study.

Red River Controversy.

The claims grew out of the controversy over oil wells discovered in the bed of the Red river, which both Oklahoma and Texas each contended was in its territory. When the dispute reached the supreme court, however, it was found that the land actually belonged to the federal government and all of the leasees were held to be trespassers.

A federal receiver was then appointed to operate the wells and subsequently the operation was turned over to the secretary of the interior. These operations returned a net profit of $2,866,760 which was impounded in the secreetary's keeping.

In 1923 congress passed a bill authorizing the interior secretary to adjust claims of citizens and corporations who in good faith had claimed lands in the Red river field and made expenditures for oil development prior to the court's decision.

Held Long Hearings.

The secretary was authorized to award the claimantts permits or leases and make allotments from the impouded funds in accordance with returns from wells on the particular tracts awarded.

The committee's findings followed exhaustive hearings before the secretary of the interior extending over two months, during which the attorney general argued that none of the claims was justified and all of the impounded funds should be turned into the treasury.

Other recommendations follow:

Colorado:—Ben Bergerman, Pueblo, lease to 13.5 acres; Pacific Wyoming Oil cmpany, Denver, lease to 81.4 acres, and $11,654; Arthur S. Beymer and National Exploration company, Denver, prospecting permit to 10.2 acres.

Minnesota:—Thomas A. Gall, Minneapolis, lease to 2.3 acres; J. M. Wakefield, Minneapolis, lease to 1.7 acres.

Ohio:—W. F. Corts Drilling company, Columbus, lease to 6.7 acres.

Oklahoma:—Mellss Consolidated Placer Mining association, Oklahoma City, prospecting permit and lease to four tracts, consisting of 173 acres, and $40,857; Mutual Placer Oil Mining association, Frederick, prospecting permit to 10.3 acres.

Texas:—Buckeye Petroleum company, Wichita Falls, lease to 60 acres and $22,252; Southwest Petroleum company, Wichita Falls, lease to 4.3 acres and $85,837; Delta Oil company, Wichita Falls, lease to 13 acres and $45,288; James M. Patterson, Wichita Falls, lease to 40 acres.

RAINS STILL NEEDED OVER WHOLE STATE

Dry, Hot Winds of Last Week Burning up Texas Crops

DALLAS, June 4.—Rain is needed generally over Texas to benefit all crops, especially following the dry, hot winds of the past four or five days, according to reports received here by the "Dallas News." East Texas is less in need than perhaps any other portion of the state, while in some parts of Central Texas, farmers have about given up all hope of making any kind of crops, it is stated. Central Texas generally is beginning to suffer from lack of moisture.

Though rains would help in East Texas, crop prospects are flattering as a whole. Moisture received several weeks ago seems to have been sufficient for cotton, truck vegetables and grain crops. In far western Texas, particularly in that area around Midland, cotton prospects are reported better than in most other sections of the state. Two rains have fallen since seed were planted, the ranges are green and cattle seem assured of passing the winter in good condition.

In Henderson county, farmers are exhibiting corn fully tassled, oats are being harvested and potatoes are being shipped by the carload. Peaches are being shipped daily.

WIND BLOWS A GALE HERE

Severe Breeze Is Only Salvation For Heat-Parched City.

A wind that reached cyclonic proportions at times saved Wichita Falls from the depression of another day of stifling heat Thursday. The sun again came out in full force and, unhampered by a cloudy sky, blistered down with all the verve of a typical June period.

The wind carried a liberal accompaniment of dust at all times, but it did succeed in keeping things comparatively cool.

It was the sense of the meeting that the proposed measures would overlap other Optimist activities and it was finally determined to appoint a committee of three to report to the convention a concrete plan which will be threshed out on the convention floor.

Delegates from Peoria, LaFayette, San Francisco, Wichita Falls, San Antonio, Asheville, and Cleveland, discussed membership plans and other activities.

SAN ANTONIO, June 4.—Marooned except for the bridge of the International Great Northern railroad pressed into emergency use by automobiles and pedestrians, the town of Cotulla, reported tonight a fall of about two feet in the last 24 hours there.

The Big Holland company irrigation dam was still submerged late today. It was thought to be buried at least 10 feet under the torrent.

One of the two earthen dams used in connection with the concrete structure to form an irrigation reservoir, was washed out Wednesday morning, and when the river recedes this will allow the reservoir to drain to a great extent.

SHENANDOAH A POSSIBILITY IN POLAR RELIEF

Report Made on What Might be Done With Dirigible

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—A detailed plan for operation of the Shenandoah in the event that the navy department should decide to send it in search of the Amundsen Polar expedition has been submitted to Secretary Wilbur by Commander Lansdowne of the dirigible.

The plan was submitted without recommendation and merely as a supplement to a report which had been requested embodying a typical plan of operation for either the Shenandoah or the Los Angeles, if either should be needed for relief in an emergency of the MacMillan Arctic expedition this summer.

Detils Withheld.

In the absence of Mr. Wilbur from the city, details of the Shenandoah's operations plan were not made public but it was said the recommendations provided that the dirigible, if sent in search of Amundsen, should be based on Spitzbergen. The airship tender Patoka would be sent there to serve as an operating base and the Shenandoah would fly from Lake Hurst to Spitzbergen by way of Pullam, England, where there is a mooring mast to which she could tie up for fuel.

The leg from Lake Hurst to Pullam is 3,039 miles while from there to Spitzbergen it is 1,539 miles.

'VERY FAIR' IS CARRIGAN VIEW ON OIL AWARD

Smoot Says "Not So Good" On Same Proposition

"Very fair," was Judge A. H. Carrigan's comment last night when shown the recommendations to Secretary of Interior Hubert C. Work regarding leases and money derived from Red River bed oil wells.

"I regard the recommendations of the special committee appointed by the secretary of interior to investigate the conflicting claims for oil leases and funds derived from Red River bed wells as being very fair according to my knowledge of the situation," he said.

"Burke Divide got the largest award but Burke Divie had the largest claim. The award to the Burke Divide people is based entirely on the amount of work they actually did in the river bed. According to the first recommendation of the land commission this company received practically the whole of the award.

Entitled to It.

"General Oil company, Buckeye, Southwest, Lone Star, and Delta were entitled to substantial amounts and in my judgment entitled to every cent awarded them. I represented none of the parties interested in the river bed area itself, however, and do not possess a very accurate knowledge of the various claims here."

"Better than the initial recommendations made by the land commission, but still far from satisfactory to Texans who went into the river bed in good faith and spent their money there," was the comment of George Smoot, attorney for certain Texas permittee claimants in the river bed itself.

"Burke Divide, in my opinion, was entitled to only a fraction of the amount actually awarded them. if this award was based on the work they did in the river bed," Mr. Smoot said.

They Lead It.

Judge Carrigan and George Smoot have perhaps, more than any other Wichitans, led in the fight of Texas claimants to secure what they considered a just portion of the revenue derived from the river bed wells, Judge Carrigan more especially with reference to the riparian claims and Mr. Smoot to the bed claims.

The recommendations of the land commission just about a year ago which practically ignored the Texas claimants altogether, and awarded the whole sum, considerably in excess of a million dollars to the Oklahoma claimant, the Burke Divide Oil company, developed fierce opposition in Wichita Falls and in Texas. The award as recommended at that me, it seems, would have been made on the strength of the validity of the Oklahoma placer mining laws, which validity the Texas claimants have always questioned.

Summer Heat No Terror For Many, But Others Can't Visit Colorado

A merciless sun, parching winds, heat-baker hovel, flies, barren cupboard, thirsty babies—conditions such as these have led to a reviving of the Record News Milk and Ice Fund that has now been opened for the 1925 season.

To those to whom summer means primarily a long, comfortable stay in Colorado's breezy mountains or an equally cheery sojourn among the northern lakes, conditions that actually exist right here in Wichita Falls are hard to conceive. The comfort even a small supply of money can command is for them adequate insurance against the rigors of June, July and August.

But there are hundreds in the city to whom pure milk and cooling ice are luxuries; and not the least of these are the scores of youngsters who, here by the will of others and without word in the direction, even, of their own destiny. It is for these that the milk and ice fund is established and for whom the plea is made.

The Record News, as it has done for the past four years, is accepting contributions from those Wichitans willing and able to help; it turns all such funds over to the Salvation Army which in turn expends them solely for the purchase of milk and ice for the unfortunate little ones of the city.

Checks should be made payable to the Record News Milk and Ice Fund and should be sent or left at the Record News office.

North Montague Sees First Oil Well Top Derrick

Daniels-Rutis No. 2, Salmon, Makes Two Big Flows

HEAVY BLACK OIL

Attempt Will be Made To Flow Well Through Tubing

North Montague county has seen its first oil well flow over the top of the derrick.

Daniels and Rutis No. 2, Salmon. 291 feet east of the No. 1, which is in the northwest corner of the Panhandle 77 acres, Salmon tract, Chambliss survey, north of Nocona, is reported to have made two flows of several minutes duration Wednesday filling the slushpit and backing up the surrounding territory considerably.

Preparation was being made to equip the well for the pump, it being reckoned as a 30-40 barrel producer from sand at 930-8 feet. Gas from a sand above is cased off. Tubing will be run and an attempt made to make a flowing well out of the test, and secure the oil without pumping.

The crude is of a 21-degree Baume gravity grade. No pipeline connections have as yet been made. The No. 1 well is a gasser. About 80 barrels had been taken from the slushpit yesterday and that much more was believed in it still.

Continental Oil Is in Good Shape

The Continental Oil company reports the gasoline demands during the first quarter showed decided improvement, the company marketing 2,450,000 gallons more than in the corresponding period of 1924. Sales of lumricating oils increased proportionately. Average prices were much better than a year ago. Sales of crude oil are on the increase.

Crude inventories have increased since the first of the year and Continental has on hand between $7,500,000 and $8,000,000 cash.

Construction program on refiners will be completed within the next 30 days.

Production of properties taken over in the Sapulpa transaction is now running better than 1,600 barrels, an increase over 1,400 barrels a day since the properties were taken over.

Continental is drilling nine wells in Oklahoma and expects to increase production there materially. The company is also starting to drill 25 wells in Salt Creek and five additional wells in Montana.

On the Rattlesnake structure in the New Mexico one deep well is being drilled to test out all the lower sands, of which there are several, and six wells are being started to the first productive sand to prove up additional area. There are 42 feet of sand in the first productive strata and the big wells have been drilled only 27 feet in the sand. The capacity of these wells will probably be increased with continued drilling.

The small refinery constructed at Farmington is operating successfully and the yield of gasoline from this crude exceeds 80 per cent. In Texas, Continental is drilling five wells on proven acreage.

Walter Teagle Coming Again

TULSA, June 4—The Mid-Continent oil fields are to be honored by a visit from the executives of the world's greatest oil company Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Walter G. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, and a group of vice presidents and technologists of the parent Standard company is due to arrive in Tulsa early Thursday for a stay at the Mid-Continent offices of the Carter Oil company.

The occasion for Mr. Teagle's visit, other than that of "inspection" and of getting a first hand impression of the changes that have been wrought since his last visit, was not known. On the occasion of his last visit to the Mid-Continent, Mr. Teagle enunciated his theory about fuel oil being the future factor for the basing of oil values, instead of the gasoline content.

Meantime appointment of a board to survey the losses is waiting until the investigation closes; and at least four agencies are taking a hand in the probe. Beside the adjutant general's office and the fire marshal, Austin city authorities, representatives of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, and it is rumored, federal officials have looked into the Mabry fire situation. East Side Erie Toy Maker Discovered to Be Doctor Who Dropped Out of Life

ERIE, Pa., June 4.—Children who live in East Fifth street are sad with the thought that they may lose the good old man, with a beard like Santa Claus, whom they know as John Hugh. He has won their love by repairing their toys, instructing a class in toy making and being a good uncle in times of need.

But John Hugh may continue to be their toy doctor, even if he has just been revealed to the world as Dr. Charles F. Hastings, once a noted New York physician, who vanished mysteriously in 1920.

Wanted to Disappear.

"I wanted to disappear from the world, so far as Dr. Charles Hastings was known," the doctor explains. "So I adopted the name of John Hugh. Nobody knew me here. At first I got odd jobs picking tomatoes and berries. I have kept the identity of John Hugh ever since."

In the last few years he has lived by means of a little shop patronized by children.

Dr. Hastings was found following the death of his mother. In her will she left him $50,000. A reporter of a Pittsburgh newspaper, where the doctor was sought, succeeded in tracing him to Erie.

Had a Breakdown.

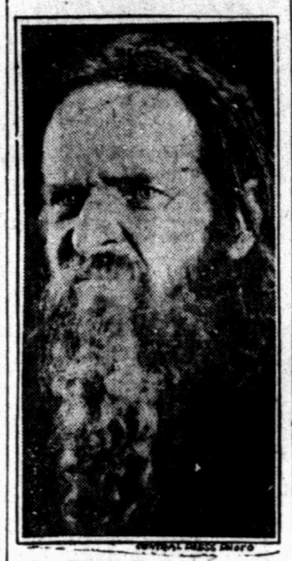

Dr. Hastings is known in New York as the founder of the Harlem baby dairy and kindergarten. Overwork caused him to have a breakdown, and he retired from practice for seven years. When the war care, and medical talent was at a premium he went into a Pittsburgh hospital as an interne. Then, in 1920, he suddenly disappeared. The cause of his unexplained departure, it was declared at the time, was an unhappy love affair.

Two Degrees.

Dr. Hastings has the unusual distinction of being both a graduate civil engineer and a graduate physician. He obtained his civil engineering degree from Columbia in 1898. In 1908 he completed his studies at New York Homeopathic School of Medicine and was given an M. D. degree.

"I may establish an institution for children in Erie with the money left by my mother, similar to the one in New York," he says. "Yes, that may mark the resurrection of the character of Dr. Charles Hastings, my own self, the original me."

Lost Is Found

Dr. Charles F. Hastings wearing the beard he grew when he became "John Hugh."

Do This After Severe Illness

How to Speedily Gain Strength And Put on Needed Weight.

Nothing like the wonderful vitalizing vitamines in Cod Liver Oil to help convalescing people to quickly get strong and well—everybody knows that.

But no body wants to take the ill-smelling, horrible tasting, stomach upsetting oil itself, so nowadays, up to date medical men are ordering a tablet of Cod Liver Oil and it surely has proved a blessing to thousands of people who have been sapped of their natural strength after a severe illness and especially after the Grippe or a stoubborn cough or cold.

Ask Smith Drug Co., or Renfro Drug Co., or any regular druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound tablets. They cost but little, are sugar coated and as pleasant to take as candy.

Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good healthy solid flesh and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women aften take on 5 pounds or more in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist will return your money if you don't take on 5 pounds in 30 days.

Be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Compound Tables—60 Tables—60 cents. Adv.

TWO ALLEGED RUSTLERS DIE

Revivial of Range Warfare Results In Death of Two.

MONTROSE, Colo., June 4.—A revival of range war against cattle rustlers yesterday resulted in the killing of Henry Hendrickson, 30, and his brother, Frank, 35, alleged rustlers, in a battle with a sheriff's posse, 30 miles from Naturia, near here.

The gun fight ensued when Sheriff Phillips of Montrose county, Eheriff Van Aken of Delta county and two deputies surrounded the brothers on a ranch where they sought refuge.

When the officers approached the Hendricksons opened fire. The officers returned the shots and both the fugitives fell mortally wounded. The brothers were accused of rustling cattle in this section for many months and driving the stolen animals into Utah where they were sold.

THE MOROCCAN SITUATION ATTAINS LARGER PROPORTIONS.

France's first offensive against the Riffian tribesmen in Morocco has been checked with heavy losses. The French are now on the defensive, and their opponents are believed to be determined to carry out further aggressive movements. The French are in a peculiarly delicate position. If they retire very far their communications will be menaced. Fez, which is the objective of the Riffian offensive, is no great distance from the zone of fighting. Its most important communications stretch eastward and westward in lines even more exposed than the city itself. If they are cut, Fez will be imperiled, and should that city be taken the French must admit defeat in the northeastern half of their Moroccan territory.

The defensive warfare adopted by the French can hardly prevent such a disaster. Resistance, retreat and counter attack constitute the method which they have pursued. Its success is highly questionable as the French cannot afford to retreat very far. Eventually, the Riffians must win unless they are exhausted or the French tactics are changed. International complications have so far been the bar to effective measures against the wild tribesmen. For several reasons the present French government can only endorse a defensive campaign, and without the assistance of Spain the adoption of any wearing down process against the Riffians has been impossible.

Recently, it was declared in the French parliament that an agreement with Spain had been reached for independent yet well timed movements against the Riffians. Spain has prepared an attack upon Alhucemas on the Mediterranean in order to cut off the tribesmen's supply of arms and ammunition. The French are trying to stiffen their resistance by bringing up replacements and redisposing their troops. These maneuvers may or may not succeed. But they have already produced one bad reaction. The French socialists have decided to abstain from voting in the chamber of deputies because of the appearance of an alliance between France and Spain, which seems to them to indicate the abandonment of defensive fighting in Morocco.

Deserted by the socialists, the French government has been forced to seek support among the parties of the right. For the present it has been successful. But a mixed support of left and right parties cannot continue. There must soon come a dissolution and a recomposition of political forces. In the process of a change in government, the Moroccan affair is almost certain to be shelved, for the French people will hardly vote upon the issue of an extended foreign war in their present condition of financial stringency. If the right wing parties are to win they must find some other question than that of Morocco upon which to gain support. The parties of the left are opposed to the war across the Mediterranean because their constituents are for domestic recuperation. Both the internal political situation in France and the international situation favor the Riffians in their operations.

FOSDICK WINS HIS FIGHT.

When is a Baptist a Baptist—in New York? Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick has been called as pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, in New York City, the church where the Rockefellers worship and where John D., Jr., teaches one of the largest Sunday schools on Manhattan Island. Dr. Fosdick is a modernist. He is a radical. He was associate minister at the First Presbyterian church, New York City, until the fundamentalists of that church forced him to retire.

John D. Rockefeller is one of the closest friends of Dr. Fosdick and the board of trustees and the board of deacons almost to a man backed the Fosdick call. He refused to become pastor if the congregation required baptism by immersion. He demanded that the church open its membership to all Christians, becoming a place of worship for all denominations irrespective of dogma. He insisted that the church build an edifice near Columbia university, which should be a sky-scrapper affair, with living quarters, club rooms and other institutional features.

And then the five hundred communicants of the Rockefeller church voted upon all the stipulations and accepted the same. Rev. Dr. Fosdick was not concerned about the size of his salary. He insisted that in no event should it be more than five thousand dollars a year.

Rockefeller money created the Chicago university. Rockefeller money created the Rockefeller Foundation for medical research. Rockefeller money exterminated the hook worm in the south and elsewhere. Rockefeller money, to the extent of five hundred million dollars, has been expended for education and charity and the eradication of disease.

This is a gay old word to a man in the tree tops who is an unbiased observer of human events and commentator on the movements of the passing show.

WHAT THE DEMOCRATS NEED.

Now the national committee of the democratic party and the congressional committee of the party are to publish a weekly newspaper to be known as the National Democrat. This may be important but it is more important that the democrats of the nation shall agree upon a platform of principles and reorganize their party.

BEATING THE BANK CROOK.

The Empire Trust company of New York has recently issued a pamphlet in which it gives a dozen rules in regard to checks.

The use of checks in the United States has not come about by law, but merely by convenience.

Ninety-five per cent of the business of the country is transacted by the use of checks or other credit instruments. This means that during 1924 we did some $500,000,000,000 of business, or one hundred times the money in circulation, by the use of six and a half billion bank checks.

Checks are used for convenience and also for safe keeping.

The American Bankers' association have a large army of highly trained operatives, specialists, who are constantly watching out for those crooks who use checks in their business.

During the thirty years of service of the association $1,212,000 was lost in 1,632 burglaries by member bankers. In the same thirty years in 2,374 burglaries non-member banks lost $4,170,000. That is, the non-member banks had forty-five per cent more burglaries and lost 240 per cent more in money than member banks.

The rules, slightly condensed, as given out by the Empire Trust company are as follow:

1. Use a pen, and if possible, a check protector, in making out a check. Do not write with a pencil.
2. Fill in all blank spaces.
3. Don't erase. Write a new check if you make a mistake.
4. Strangers are not always crooks, but crooks are usually strangers. Be careful about cashing checks for anybody you do not know.
5. Do not make a check payable to cash or bearer except when personally presented at the bank by yourself.
6. Do not put your signature alone on the check as an endorsement when you intend to deposit it. Write below or above your signature the words "for deposit only."
7. Never sign blank checks.
8. Take care of your cancelled vouchers as you would your valid checks.
9. Keep your check books locked up.
10. Watch out for the wrd "certified." Scrutinize all certified checks carefully.
11. The maker's O. K. or other form of approval on checks is easily forged. Look at it carefully.
12. Safeguard your checks as you would your money, for they represent money.

CASTING THE SHADOWS.

Senator R. S. Bowers of Caldwell has made an interesting announcement. He says there is no need of a special session; that the regular session made appropriations sufficient; the rural schools are well provided for; the schools and colleges reasonably cared for and "the deficiency erased altogether makes the present administration a great success. With this record to the end the demands for Mrs. Frguson to continue as governor for another two years will be compelling," remarks the gentleman from Caldwell, who was a thick and thin Ferguson supporter while the regular session was on and insisted that the state and not the county should pay for tick eradication.

Senator Bowers won. All the taxpayers of the state, whether they own cattle or not, must contribute to the cost of the slaughter of the tick. Senator James G. Strong of Panola county, another thick and thin Ferguson supporter at the regular session, sees no necessity for an extra session and suggests a second term for the governor.

This is interesting. It is very early in the campaign but this newspaper early in April made an intelligent forecast of the what is to come at the proper time and Mrs. Ferguson was included in the list of those who would go before the people in 1926 asking for their ballots.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

"In Conference."

It is always irritating to a man who makes a business call to be told that the person he wants to see is "in conference."

His own time, he considers, is as important as that of the man who is too busy to talk to him.

He cannot understand why he should not be immediately permitted to walk right into the office of the object of his errand, transact his business, and depart.

Uusually he feels that the words "in conference" merely cover indifference, and in his mind's eye he pictures the room whose door is closed to him peopled with gentlemen in easy attitudes talking about their golf scores or discussing politics.

Yet if business men had not learned to protect themselves from visitors who are so unbusinesslike as not to make appointments for calls, they would never get their work done.

In almost every office it is necessary for department heads or others to get together at stated hours and talk over matters concerning the day's work.

If these hours are to be broken in upon by every caller who happens to drop in, there would be no concentration on the matter in hand, and consequently no effective work would be done.

Men owe it to their business and to themselves to keep themselves free from interruption while they are doing their hard work.

Those who would break in on them at such times deserve to be kept waiting. It is always easy to make arrangements in advance for business calls.

It is of course true that many men instruct their secretaries to say that they are in conference in order to shut out pests and bores and other time wasters.

Often they might be able to spare the time which they deny to callers without any especially important errands.

But if they did not put up the bars they would soon find they would be so overrun with casual visitors that they would be obliged to work over hours in order to get the day's business despatched.

What business men can do in their offices individuals can do, if they make the effort.

They can, when they have important work on hand shut out interruption and interference of all kinds, by learning to pay no attention to anything save what they happen to be thinking about.

This is called concentration, and is an extremely difficult thing for most people to acquire.

But it can be acquired, and it must be acquired by all those who have not the luxury of private offices, and these constitute the great majority of the workers in the world.

I have known men who could work out abstruse mathematical problems in a noisy class room, or who could do complicated computations amid the clangor of a machine shop.

These men were capable and effective.

They were capable and effective because they had learned to put their whole minds on their jobs and to keep theme there. In other words they had learned how to be "in conference" with themselves.

GEMINI.

The very favorable planetary aspects that prevailed yesterday continue until noon today, when they change and become, not only adverse, but depressing. It is expedient to work, with continued enthusiasm during the morning on the tasks initiated the day before. When, however, the changed conditions exert their influence, pessimism will replace optimism, and inertia take the place of push and vim. You will become critical, not only of yourself, but of others, and in order to avoid the consequences of indiscriminate fault-finding, which always leaves a nasty taste in the mouth, great self-control must be exercised, and poise established.

Rugged health will be the lot of the child born today, and sickness will have very little part in its life. In disposition, it will be, unless curbed, rough and rather uncouth. Its character will be marked by little regard for the comfort or welfare of others, and it will show a marked tendency towards selfishness. This failing can be checked, if not completely eradicated, by strict discipline during early childhood, as, in this instance, force and determination will make a greater appeal than love and affectionate guidance. Just because the outbreaks of this self-willed child, in its infancy, may appear cute, it must not, if any serious attempt be made at character formation, be encouraged or applauded by over-fond parents, but discouraged and punished.

If today is your birthday, you are very extreme, your love is intense, your hatred is bitter, your recreations are indulged in with abandon, and your work is characterized by unremitting zeal. Perhaps these are all good qualities, except that which relates to your hates and dislikes. Life is altogether too short to admit of any such degree of bitterness.

You, although not impulsive, are able to reach decisions very quickly, and you act on them with intrepidity and determination. You are at no time physically cruel, but you can, and you do, say things under provocation, that hurt more than blows, and leave many mental scars.

You have, probably, attained a fair degree of material success. If not, you can do so by changing your sphere of activity, as you are gifted with the ability and necessary push to make good, provided the opportunity arises.

POEMS THAT LIVE

THE SHEPHERD'S TREE

Huge elm, with rifted trunk all notched and scarred,
Like to a warrior's destiny! I love
To stretch me often on thy shadowed sword,
And hear the laugh of summer leaves above;
Or on thy buttressed roots to sit, and lean
In careless attitude, and there reflect
On times, and deeds, and darings that have been—
Old castaways, now swallowed in neglect.

While thou art towering in thy strength of heart,
Stirring the soul to vain imaginings
In which life's sordid bing hath no part,
The wind of that eternal ditty sings
Humming of future things, that burn the mind
To leave some fragments of itself behind.

FORT WORTH GAS RISES

City Stations Record General Increase of One Cent.

FORT WORTH, June 4.—With the Magnolia, Humble and Gulf and most smaller distributors meeting the Pierce Oil corporation's advance of one cent per gallon posted two days ago, Fort Worth prices today had pretty generally completed the new advance. Prices at most places were 19 cents tank wagon and 23 cents at service stations.

The Texas company was scheduled to put the increase into effect Thursday.

The gall of some people is not normal. In sueh cases the gall bladder becomes a bacteriological incubator, and the gall, or bile, then contains pus cells with bacteria which produce undesirable symptoms referable to the region of the gall bladder, or elsewhere.

Not infrequently the kidney is also a source of pus and bacteria which, absorbed into the general circulation, produces a sense of ill-being and general indisposition. Without the very important urine examination, the condition and its cause are sure to be overlooked—and ths is another argument in favor of the periodic, systematic, physical examination which every one should secure.

Focal infections are pus collections—at the roots of abcessed teeth, in the crypts of diseased tonsils, or elsewhere—the absorption of which causes general, often obscure, ill health. Such infections may find lodgment at some distant point, like a joint. "Rheumatism" in your knee, therefore may have it's origin in a diseased tonsil or the root of a tooth may be the root of evil.

HOW IT STARTED

"THE DEVIL TAKE THE HINDMOST"

This saying, a popular and self-explanatory member of our modern slang lexicon, was originally "The devil takes the hindmost." And, although it is agreed that it was in the superstition and myth tenanted days of the middle ages that it had its beginning, there are two accredited versions of its origin.

According to one, the circumstance of its beginning took place in Scotland, where it is said that when a class of medieval students had made certain progress in their mystic studies they were required to run through a subterranean hall and the last man was understood to have been seized by the devil and become his imp.

The other version attributes the saying to the Reformation in Germany when people first began straying from the confessional and the Catholic church, and parish priests were exhorted to keep their flocks together. In their efforts to do this, we are told, they admonished their parishioners to come to church and to come early, because "the devil takes the hindmost."

In the minds of the simple folk of those days there was fertile soil for the nurture and growth of such an idea, which, once expressed, was quickly passed on and given widespread credence. How widespread this was is proven by the fact that it has survived to this day in literature and in speech. It is found in the works of Prior, Pope, Burns and other great names in English literature. Butler, in "Hudribras," used it as follows:

"Bid the devil take the hindmost."

DALLAS, Texas, June 4.—Twenty-five years in the penitentiary was the sentence given W. F. Arbukle, 60, in the criminal court here late last night. Arbuckle was charged with the murder of Mrs. Birdie Williams, hotel proprietor, April 27, during a quarrel. He pleaded self-defense, testifying he shot after she drew a pistol.

Irrigation

PROBABLE RETURNS FROM IRRIGATION

We believe that it has always been the thought in the minds of those most interested in the irrigation project that the valley lands would produce abundantly enough so that the gross returns would in a measure take the place of the revenue now derived from oil when oil is gone.

Let us see how nearly they are justified in believing that there will be a large gross revenue from the irgated lands.

Cotton and grain have been the leading crops in this section under dry land farming. Cotton was perhaps the more dependable of the two on account of its drouth resisting qualities.

It is likely that cotton will be the big money crop on the irrigation project for some time to come. So let us take cotton as an example and see what gross returns may be expected per acre when irrigated.

Last year was the first time irrigation had been applied to cotton on the project. The average yield seemed to be about one bale per acre. Perhaps the average would not be so good with a larger acreage planted. So let us assume an average of three-quarters of a bale with cotton at 20 cents and seed at $25 per ton.

Take 500 pounds of seed to the bale of lint and we have for 3-4 of a bale $13.50, add to this 375 pounds of lint cotton at 20 cents or $75 and the result is $88.50 gross per acre.

With 45,000 acres in cultivation we have a gross return of $3,982,500. This is all new wealth each year and continuing year after year instead of diminishing a soil does.

Such a gross return will be of material assistance to Wichita Falls.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

WHEN ONCE WE HAVE LOST THE VITAL SPARK OF LOVE, NO MIRACLE CAN REKINDLE THE FIRE. WE MAY BE HELD BY DUTY OR HONOR, BUT DEAD LOVE CAN NEVER BE REVIVED

In the course of a year I get thousands of letters from women who ask me how they can regain lost love.

Sometimes it is a girl whose sweetheart, once an ardent lover, has become indifferent and cold to her—who has, perhaps, forsaken her for another—who wants to know how she can get him back. Oftenest, however, it is a wife who seeks desperately for some magic whereby she can light again the love fires in the heart of a husband who has grown tired of her, who has ceased to care for her and who does not even take the trouble to hide from her that he regards her as a burden of which he would gladly free himself if be could.

It is the tragedy of these women that not even neglect, and insult, and faithlessness, and brutality kill their affection for those on whom they have set their foolish, dog-like hearts, and so they go on clinging with desperate hands to the men who are trying to break away from them, hoping against hope, praying that some miracle will happen that will give them back their lost love.

But, alas, their prayers are never answered. The miracle never happens. No sorcerer can teach a woman how to weave a spell a second time about a man. The love potions that the credulous buy from fortune tellers never work, and though a woman conjure ever so deftly, she cannot bring back the heart that has strayed out of her keeping.

For all dead things, nothing is so dead as dead love. No power can breathe back into it again the breath of life and make it a vital thing once more.

We do not know why we love. We do not know why this man or this woman has some peculiar appeal for us that makes us prefer him or her to all the balance of the world. We do not know why the touch of certain hands thrill us, why the quirk of a smile or the look in an eye draws us; why we have a sense of comradeship with certain individuals; why some man or woman fascinates us or why we desire one man or woman more than another who may be better looking, more intelligent, more worthy in every way.

Nor do we know any more why we cease to love than we know why we love. We do not know why the touch of the hand ceased to thrill us, nor why the charm that was once so potent vanished into thin air, nor why the fascination fled and the one who once held us enthralled became a bore that wearied us to tears. It just happened, and we are as helpless before one situation as before another.

There are not many men who are cruel enough to find sport in breaking a woman's heart and who deliberately win a girl's love, and play with it, and throw it away. There are not many husbands who would not remain their wives' perpetual lovers if they could. That was their romantic dream when they married. That way their happiness lay, and they would have kept their romance had it been possible.

But, unfortunately, somehow the disillusionment came. The glory and the circling wings departed. Their wives lost their allure for them and, strive as they might, they could not see them again with the eyes of a lover or bring back the old charm. Many a man would be just as glad to fall in love again with his wife as she would be to have him fall in love with her, but he cannot do it. You cannot fan ashes into a flame.

Perhaps if women realized how impossible it is to resurrect a dead love they would guard the living love more carefully and run fewer risks of killing it. They would take fewer chances of disillusioning their husbands by going about sloppy and slovenly at home and thus preseting a fatal contrast to the timely dressed women in their offices and the dolled-up ladies they meet in society. They would reflect that no man can have much appetite for domestic kisses if they are flavored with cold cream, and that if a wife wishes o the treated like a lady love she must look like one instead of looking like a sack of potatoes.

And they would see to it that love was not assasinated on their hearthstones by ceaseless, senseless quarrels, by whinning, and complaining, and nagging, and petty tyrannies. Nor would they permit love to die of that commonest and most deadly ailment, boredom. For if a woman can interest her husband before marriage enough to make him pick her out from all the balance of the world for his life partner she can interest him enough to hold him until the end of the chapter, if she is willing to take the trouble and perform the labor necessary to do so.

If, though, a woman, through carelessness or ignorance, has lost the love of the man she loves, there is absolutely no way in which she can win him back. Through duty or a sense of honor she may hold his body, but his soul has gone from her forever, and she is wise if she accepts the inevitable.

If she is a girl, she should let the sweetheart who is tired of her go, instead of trying to hold him. Some other man she may make love her, but not the old one for whom she has lost her charm.

If she is a married woman whose husband has ceased to love her, let her agonize no more over the impossible task of reviving his passion for her. Let her fill her life with other interests and thank God that there are so many other pleasant things in the world besides love.

For of this she may rest assured: There is no reviving of dead love. When once we have lost our taste for a person everything is over. It is finished, as the French say. DOROTHY DIX.

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"Blame War and Business Booms on Sun Spots," Says Statistician.

SUN spots are the ultimate causes of war, business booms and the alternating periods of dull markets, asserts Axel F. Enstrom, director of Sweden's Engineering academy and one of the country's most eminent statisticians. In 1905 he received the Carnegie Iron and Steel Institute medal for his work on electrification problems; but in recent years he has specialized on the study of the periodic recurrence of "good" and "bad" times in business, which, he believes, can be predicted by the use of statistical tables.

In a book published in 1914, he foretold that a peak of high prices would come in 1918, and now he calculates that the present "boom," with rising prices, will continue until 1927, when another depressoin is due. After that another war is not unlikely, he concludes, because when food is scarce nations fight for what there is.

Briefly, his theory is that at regular intervals occurs a diminution in the amount of energy flowing from the sun to the earth, indicated by variations in the sun's so-called "spots."

Causes Poor Crops.

A reduction in the solar energy causes poorer crops, with increased prices. These high prices inevitably stimulate greater business activity, industry and commerce. Conversely, an abundant crop causes a drop in prices, and "dull" times follow. The world crop in 1924 was small. The calculations of Mr. Enstrom indicate another poor crop in 1925, causing still higher prices, which in turn will contribute to the further development of the industrial and trade boom that now spreads over the world.

A big crop in 1926 will cause a break in prices, a business panic and, possibly, war.

Basing his observations on a close study of recurring trade booms for the past 500 years, Professor Enstrom concludes his most recent interpretation as follows:

Then War?

"I am disposed to continue my assumption that two years ater this year's small crop we shall have to reckon with an international high peak in prices and consequent business activity. And I should not be surprised if this simultaneously develops into warlike complications in one direction or another, wherever tensions are latent.

"An unprejudiced study of history quite convinced me that fundamentally, even though unconsciously, it has been the sense of an approaching lack of foodstuffs, or the danger of famine that, like a nightmare, has driven the nations into war in the past as well as in recent times. I fear that the overpopulated nations' terror at the phenomena that accompanies a surplus of inhabitants will continue to cause bloody conflicts, despite the bitter sufferings which the recent world war caused the human race. Men so easily forget.

"However that may be, a rise in prices is now to be observed in the world, thought it is not yet called an inflation. But if, aided by still another poor crop, it continues to develop, it will burst into full bloom, an abnormal quantity of money will get into circulation, an dthe inflation will become unmistakable. Then there will, presumably, be a good crop in 1926, which will cause a fall in prices and a near deflation crisis in 1927, or soon thereafter. Whoever lives will see."

LOS ANGELES CHANGES TIME

Schedule For Dirigible Flight Is Revised.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—A revised schedule for the airship Los Angeles on its flight to Minnesota next week for the Norse centennial was announced today at the navy department.

Cato Pupils In a Successful Dancing Fantasy Thursday

In a height of color and pleasing fantasy, Miss Anna Mae Cato presented her advanced pupils in the last dancing recital of the spring Thursday night at the Wichita theatre. "Ballard Unique," it was called, and the stage was set accordingly. The dancers all wore costumes designed to carry out their parts, and the success of the decital was due largely to the beauty of the scene, though the dancers displayed ample technique and ability to dance in the presentation of their parts.

In addition to the dancing, the program was rounded out by several songs by George Taylor, accompanied at the piano by Miss Jessie Mae Lawler.

Several unusual numbers were portrayed in the recital, Elizabeth Huff gave a good account in a number entitled "Acrobatics"; Rosa Mary Catter and Laura Mae Costley received much applause in their presentation of a Russian duet; Margaret Weaver in the "Fairy Doll"; and Margaret Spangle in "The Fan" were all commended on their parts.

Chic Costumes Snapped At French Fashion Parade

Fashions as glimpsed abroad are always interesting to those of us who stay at home but wish to look just as chic as our French sisters. The above costumes were snapped at the summer fashion promenade at Longchamps, Paris.

On the left I have placed a smart sports costume consisting of pleated skirt in a mixed fabric, overblouse with turnover collar and front banding of plain color. It buttons straight down the front and has patch pockets. With it is worn a tailored coat in a solid color with trimming of braid. The wide, turned back cuffs edged with braid are unique.

A black and white creation in the center also uses pleating for the skirt. The black pleats are not allowed to entirely encircle the figure, however, as a panel of the white fabric is inserted which runs well up on to the bodice section of the frock. A narrow turnover collar with a black string tie which is allowed to hang loose in front and embroidery on cuffs and bodice give a finishing touch to the frock.

The third figure (right) wears a simple little dress of figured material. It is a colorful affair with cross-cross stripings. Old - fashioned rickrack braid trims the simple turnover collar and cuffs and a band down the front of the frock and around the hips is of plain, dark material by way of contrast. All three of these costumes feature the long sleeves and with them is worn the small, tailored type of hat.

Anything But "Out Of Tune," Warns Lecturer In Final Talk Thursday

"HUMANS, ourselves, look at us, some are happy, some are not, some are worried, some are smiling, some have the look of a pessimist on their features, some of us, many in fact, seem to have shrunk in the great wash of life." Such was the manner in which Mrs. Marie LaSalle Booth, prominent beauty expert analyzed people in general to the audience at her third and last lecture at the Olympic theatre Thursday morning.

"We are all made in the same mould," she continued, "that is we have two eyes, two ears, a nose and a mouth, but none of us are alike, for all of that, and our hearts and minds are no more alike than our bodies. There are some who do little but gossip, gossip. They are worse than a germ disease. After you have been with them for awhile you feel that you should be disinfected. If they were lepers they would not be allowed at large, yet they are really worse than lepers.

Some Weeping Walrus.

"Other people are geniuses for having a good time and looking on the bright side of things, while the weeping walurs is a self-contained and tranquil creature compared with some of the pessimistic ones. The question is what are the conditions of life and how are we meeting them. To be out of tune with one's self and incapable of sharing in the mighty music of human life, whether the music be glad or sad, must be one of the greatest of human misfortunes."

"The happiness habit is just as necessary to our best welfare as the work habit, so learn to take unto yourself each day all the joy and gladness that you can, not only for the present but for future use. Cultivate cheerfulness, use time others use in complaining for focusing your thoughts on ideals that mind has built, and sooner or later full materialization will come.

"We are told that the oyster is the dumbest of all created animals; yet the oyster grows more wisdom than man for if an irritating substance gets under the mantle of its shell, it covers the substance with the most precious part of its body and makes of it a pearl. Every irritation in our lives is an opportunity for pearl culture. We need only to cover it completely with love, the most precious part of us, and the irritation will be smoother out by the pearl that comes into being. What a store of pearls we might have if we would only do this."

Study How to Live.

Mrs. Booth expressed the conviction that if we would make a study of the finer points of living we must train ourselves to constructive thoughts. She stated that it is our attitude toward life that determines what we get out of life. Life is not static, not dynamic. It is always unfolding, one thing leads to another.

"We often make things hard for ourselves. Out of the thoughts of yesterday come the actions of today. Life may be a pure melody, a poem of loveliness and sweetness as exquisite as the vanishing notes of a Beethoven symphony, when the heart is a garden of flowers in which truth, purity, patience and love are quantities whiter than any life, sweeter than any rose, whose perfume never passes, whose beauty never fades. In such a garden every seed that could produce unkindness or evil thing is pulled up and thrown away and all that is sweet and beautiful is cultivated with care."

Summarizing the points to be taken into consideration in the fine points of living, Mrs. Booth named the following rules: "Establish health through proper exercise and breathing; look squarely at life and its obligations; plan your work and work your plan; concentrate on what you have to do and do it to the best of your ability; look your best; care for mind as well as body, make it a store house of good thoughts; cultivate gracious manners; lend a hand as best you can in helping others; keep your face to the light and the shadows will fall behind you; stand in fear of nothing save your own wrong doing, and thus make your part in life's play truely glorious."

The GILDED ROSE

by May Christie

Who's Who in the Story

Rosilyn Ridgeway learns on her wedding day from idle gossip that she has been married for her money. Before her enormous fortune was left her, she had been an overworked little drudge in her father's inn.

Florence Ridgeway, an aristocratic old lady, who saw poverty staring her in the face, and chose the easiest way out. Rosilyn, loving her husband, knows he is still in love with Lydia Harbrook, a beautiful, cold society girl who is bent on marrying

Steve Van Vorst, a wealthy old rone, although she is really fond of Ridgeway. She is in Paris when the news reaches her of Landis' marriage, and she hastens back to the United States. With her goes Rupert Briscoe, a dissipated man of the world, who has seen Rosilyn but once, and yet is deeply interested in her. Lydia learns of this interest, and when the two reach New York, she and Briscoe concoct a plot whereby Rosilyn and Briscoe will see a great deal of each other, and Lydia will have a chance to exert her wiles upon Landis. The plan works, and Landis, finding himself often alone with Lydia falls under her spell once more.

In Paris meanwhile Van Vorst, realizing the reason for Lydia's sudden trip to America and hungering for her love, decides to use Marietta, a dancer and sweetheart of Briscoe's in connection with a scheme. These two come to New York where Marietta begins to vamp Landis away from Lydia, leaving a clear field for the elderly schemer.

Lydia, observing the turn of affairs, is none to pleased, especially when the dancer makes evident headway with Landis while Steve, seizing his chance, makes ardent love to Lydia. After a lavish revel in town the three accept Steve's invitation to a party on his yacht the next day, although Lydia would prefer to have Landis to herself.

In the country at the Ridgeway place, Rosilyn, in a fever of jealousy and anxiety over the protracted disappearance of her husband seeks the solace of the courtryside. While walking she believes she sees the slumbering form of Briscoe—a few minutes later the earth opens and she is plunged in a mysterious underground passage

On Van Vorst's yacht Marietta and Lydia engage in a verbal fusillade—Lydia's last shot being a question as to whether the dancer was interested in Landis.

Rosilyn after her peculiar accident falls deep in the earth to a sort of cavern where after futile attempts to escape Briscoe appears on the scene, apparently from nowhere. She asks him when, after consciousness returns, how he happens to be there.

Although Briscoe offers a feasible story some doubt remains in Rosilyn's mind as to its exact truth. He denys having found her deep in the earth, which leads her to fear trickery.

"I did catch fleeting glimpses of him. Once at the races with a lovely Spanish creature. Not your sort, of course. She's a dancing girl. Master Landis—" —here Briscoe's tones took an airily amused turn—"enjoys all types, you know. It's a good thing for him that he's married a sensible young woman like yourself, who gives him lots of latitude!"

"Have you seen them more than once? The Spanish girl and—and he?"

Briscoe hesitated.

"Twice, anyway. But don't worry, my dear. She's safer than Lydia Harbrook. Lydia's a demon for sticking, where she takes a fancy."

Rosilyn stumbled on across the uneven ground. Tears mingled with the rain to blur her vision. But in the darkness—merciful darkness — that helped her Rupert Briscoe could not note her misery.

"Forgive me for speaking plainly," went on Briscoe, holding her arm tightly as they walked, "but the fact is you haven't had much worldly experience, and a hint or two anent Lydia wouldn't be amiss. She's got a cruel sterak in her, and if she thinks you care for your husband, she'll pursue him all the faster, even if it were only to vex you, and prove her own superior fascinations.

"Your cue is indifference. More than that, if I were you, I'd show Miss Lydia that you have plenty of other admirers ready and willing to dance attendance on you, any time."

Rosilyn's short laugh was mirthless.

"Who, for instance?"

Briscoe edged a little closer as he answered, tentatively, and without overstressing—

"Me."

"Nonsense!" Then, with an effort —"It's so hard to understand this queer, new world I'm in! I suppose I'm really just a fish out of water! I try—and try—but somehow I don't seem to fit one bit."

"Unhappy, little girl?" The man's manner was all sympathy and gentle comprehension.

"Oh, I don't know." The outburst came. "It all seems so artificial."

"You don't mean to tell me, just the same, that you were happier when you lived in the inn on the marshes, and worked from morning to night, and never had a bit of pleasure?"

"I had my dreams," said Rosilyn, very low.

There was silence as they tramped along, and then the man beside her spoke again.

"There are lots of wonderful things waiting for you to take them, in the world you so despise."

"I don't despise it. It despises me." The comment was an honest one.

As though he had not heard, he continued—

"There are men who would care devotedly for you, if you would only give them the chance."

In the darkness she flushed hotly.

"I am married," she said simply. "Whatever this new 'set' does, or doesn't do, the dreams of happiness and right conduct are still—somewhere—in my heart. I can't be untrue to them."

"You dear!" Rupert Briscoe spoke as though to a child. And then he added—

"That's all very well, but you must buckle on your armour, and fight all the dragons in your path to happiness."

("He means Lydia Harbrook!" thought the girl, and wished he would continue.)

"What sort of armour?"

"Woman's best." He gave a short laugh. "In New York, there are certain weapons that are invaluable to a woman."

"Such as—?"

"Gaiety. Light-heartedness. Sparkle. A 'way with the men'. But above all, a young girl like yourself ought to have one real friend to guide you."

Thought Rosilyn—

"If only Landis were that sort! If only I could go to him!"

"In me," said Rupert Briscoe, startling her out of her reverie, "in me you have a real friend, child. One who is only waiting to do you a service."

They were nearing the Royal Cliff and their pace quickened. Her companion glanced at the luminous hands of his wrist watch.

"It's just after eleven. Look! There are plenty of lights in the house! And on the lawns someone is moving, with a lantern—"

So they were looking for her!

Briscoe gave a long whistle, followed by a sort of halloo call.

"Who is it?" came a shout from near the house, and Rosilyn started as she heard her husband's voice.

"It's Landis!"

In the darkness, Briscoe made a queer, wary face that was a mixture of ruefulness and amusement and a certain complacency. The ensuing situation might be really funny—

And the story of her meeting with himself—Briscoe—really did seem to strain the long arm of coincidence!

"It's I, Rosilyn,' cried the young girl, breaking away from her escort, and running through the wet darkness towards her husband. "I had an accident and he found me—"

HOME REUNITED AS UNWRITTEN LAW IS UPHELD

Jury Returns a Verdict Of Not Guilty In Slaying Case

RIVERDALE, Ill., June 4. — "Not guilty," solemnl yintoned the foreman of the coroner's jury.

"I've been a fool," said the father, William Wunsch, Riverdale village trustee, whose friendship for Miss Agnes Simnick, 28, caused his daughter to take a gun and lie in wait with her mother for the "other woman."

"This is the biggest lesson in the world for me. I've suffered. There won't be any excuse in my future conduct for a repetition of this trouble."

"I'm sorry she's dead," said Mrs. William Wunsch. "But she did swear that she would have my husband. I only hope this unites the family for good."

"O, I'm glad," said Lucille Wunsch, 16, high school student, the daughter. "I'm just beginning to realize now what an awful thing it was. I want to get back to school and my art work right away."

"Good!" applauded the packed courtroom, all but six persons in the rear. These were the brothers, sisters and mother of the dead woman.

And again the "unwritten law" had been upheld as the law of the land.

"I did the shooting," Lucille had told the jury. "I knew about my father going around with this woman for two or three years. I felt I couldn't stand it any more. To think that when my mother was about to have a baby, that my father was out with someone else. It was terrible!"

MONKEY TRAIL MAY BE LAST; CLAIMS BRYAN

Great Commoner Says He Will Retire From The Lecture Platform

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—(AP) — William Jennings Bryan here last night denied that the approaching Tennessee evolution trial involved any constitutional question of freedom of speech or thought.

He declared the decision of the United States supreme court last Monday in the Oregon school case, upholding the rights of parents to send their children to any school they wish, scored a victory for the cause of religious education.

CHICAGO, June 4.—(AP) — William Jennings Bryan's swan song of oratory probably will be heard at the Tennessee evolution trial at Dayton.

The great commoner announced at Springfield, Ills., that he intended to retire from the lecture platform to devote his time to writing his memoirs. The exact date was not given, but it was indicated it might be after the trial of the Tennessee school case.

The evolution fires were kept burning yesterday by a statement of Governor Austin Peay of Tennessee at Clarksville, Tenn., his home town, that evolution was "all bosh" and that he expected to get as far as possible from the Scopes trial.

Predicting that the trial would not last more than 30 minutes he said that instead of going to the higher courts "it should be taken to the country."

RUM WAR NOT STARTED YET, SAY OFFICIALS

New Plans Under Way To Exterminate Rum Row Completely

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—The coast guard, like John Paul Jones has not yet begun to fight in its war on rum smugglers.

The blockade of rum row off the Atlantic coast by the guard, said Assistant Secretary Andrews of the treasury, field marshal of prohibition forces is merely a skirmish to establish contact with the enemy. The real battle an enveloping offensive against the liquor fleets, soon will begin, he indicated.

Information as to the enemy's strength and resources gained by the coast guard in its present campaign will be employed in planning the new attack, said Mr. Andrews, who gave to the guard full credit for the work done thus far.

Steers Gore Spudders In Ninth Round To Win Fest 14-10

TOP O' MORN STUFF

By BLONDY CROSS.

MAYBE WE'LL WIN

After being licked to a frazzle the past several days by the Panthers, Bob Tarleton's Shreveporters, who're here this afternoon for the first of three ought to be subdued sufficiently for our Spudders to get away with the topside of the tabulation.

* * *

Somebody said something about a double header Sunday. Maybe so, but the way the Tanner corps is going right now it would be nothing short of shameless cruelty.

* * *

Oh yes, good news! Bob Osborn's back.

* * *

RIPPER AND THE BOZO

When Ripper Wheeler went out under fire yesterday some big wise bozo up in the grandstand broke out with a bit of smart razzberries. Great stuff, that, especially if he was a Wichita Falls fan. Wonderful sportsmanship, it was, to bawl out a pitcher after he'd been in there working his head off under handicap and taking enough punishment as it was.

* * *

Ripper was in there trying. That's enough. He didn't make the grade, but bellowing at him from behind a protective wire screen didn't better matters—never will.

* * *

WISECRACKS FROM CUSTOMERS

One run when the Spudders play is like a penny on the street car—the most tasteless thing in the world unless accompanied by a nickel.

In most Spudder games, one pitcher amounts to the same.

CLEAR PROOF

Mr. Lewis, the grappler, must be the champion. He proves his contention. He threatens to tour Europe.

'Taint so hot today. No, it's hotter.

SEASONABLE HINT

The flapper starts for work
And now avers
It's warm enough again
For summer furs.

NOT SO GOOD

The Olympic games are great little things for the promotion of international amity. An Uruguayan soccer (pronounced socker) player up and busts a Dutch umpire on the nose. The course professional ball players in this country merely step on the umpire's feet.

Frank Nochocch of Peoria has been fined for illegal possession of liquor. Nope, there's nothin' in a name, all right.

Higher education is great. No young man—if able—should be without a college training. Six members of the Notre Dame football team have obtained jobs as football coaches.

MORE ABOUT JINX

Jinx Tucker, the voluble Waco scribe who is another customer of our's, has cut loose with something quite original for once. Only fault is he's picking on the under dog again.

Quoth Jinx in yesterday's Waco News-Tribune:

"If the umpires of the Texas league are paid according to the ability, and if their work in the games in Waco thus far this season can be taken as an indication of their ability, then Buster Estill should be the highest paid arbiter in this circuit, with Harry Kane next in line. Ranking next to Kane in third place should come Coe, who is now umpiring at Katy park along with Estill. Weir, who teams with Kane, should receive fourth highest pay, while Fanning ranks about fifth. Hunter Hill would rank sixth. Daly receive pay in accordance with seventh ranking, while Osborne should be forced to pay to get in the park, if his work here was a fair sample of his ability."

Jinx, in our humble opinion, is no better a sport writer than is Osborne an umpire.

BUBS CHASES 'EM

Speaking of umps, local sand lotters get it in the neck just as quick as the professionals, some times quicker. Yesterday, Second Baseman Martin of the Security National bank club protested a decision at first by Umpire Bubs Mosley a bit too vociferously to suit the arbiter. Martin was straight away ejected from the game.

* * *

Mosley, by the way, regardless of what some say, if any, stacks up as the most efficient indicator that has handled Wichita Falls twilight league games over the past two seasons.

Fitz, Ping, And Turge Hit To Home Run Zone

By MACK TURNER

Dallas took the big end of a 14 to 10 slugfest at the Spudder plant Tursday afternoon. Wichita Falls went into the ninth inning with a 9 to 8 lead, but the Bovines hammered loose and counted six markers. Pete Turgeon poled one over the left field wall for the Spuds' only marker in the last of the ninth. Lou North had one bad inning in the fifth in which the homelings slammed the pill at will and counted six times.

North fanned nine men in six and one-third innings. In the third and sixth the Dallas slab artist whiffed three in a row. Ping Bodie slashed out his 14th home run of the season in the seventh inning with none on the bases.

Dallas counted one in the first off Rip Wheeler. O'Brien singled through the box. Bauman singled to center sending O'Brien to third and taking second when Dorman let Fitzgerald's throw to the warm sector get away from him. Williams slaled to center and O'Brien scored after the catch.

The Spudders counted twice in the first inning. Distel walked. After Callaghan and Bodie had gone out Fitzgerald poled one over the left field fence, scoarding Distel ahead of him.

Freddie Dorman sent a triple to the green boards in the second when O'Brien failed to make a shoestring catch of his hit. Queery grounded out, short to first. Wheeler lined out to second, and Distel rolled out, short to first.

Rip Out in Third.

O'Brien opened the third with a single to left. Bauman walked. Williams doubled to the right field fence scoring O'Brien and sending Bauman to third. Kearns singled to center scoring Bauman and Williams. Lindstrom took Wheeler's place on the mound. Segrist smashed a hot grounder to the pitcher who forced Kearns at second. Turgeon completed the double killing with a throw to Golvin. Singles by Conley, Khadot and Billings sent over the other tally.

Callaghan opened the third with a double to center but was left stranded when North fanned Bodie, Fitzgerald and Turgeon in succession.

O'Brien lifted one over the palings for Dallas' score in the fourth. Bauman glanced one off Golvin's shins but Pete Turgeon snared the bounding pellet and tossed to Lindstrom at the bag for a neat play that robbed the Dallas second-sacker of an infield hit.

Gang Wild in Fifth.

The Spudders went wild in the fifth. A walk to Distel, a single by Callaghan, doubles by Bodie and Fitzgerald, a triple by Turgeon, and singles by Golvin and Dorman netted a sextet of markers.

Lindstrom, Winn, Williams and Reid tried to stop the Steers in the ninth, but failed. Conley popped out to second. Khadot walked. Brown batted for Billings and singled to right, sending Khadot to third. Winn went in to face Love, who doubled to the right field wall tabulating Khadot. Williams went in to throw, O'Brien scored both Brown and Love ahead of him with a home run. Bauman followed him with another over the palings. Rhino Williams singled and Carl Williams was yanked. Reid finished the game.

Pete Turgeon's second homer of the season was the Spudders' only score in the ninth. The score:

ELECTRICS GET ON SECURITIES FOR 12-8 WIN

Bankers' Defense Goes To Pieces on Lee Courtney

By BLONDY CROSS

Norwood's Wichita Falls Electrics scored in every stanza but one to win their second Twilight tilt of the year, defeating Security Nationals and Lee Courtney, one of the league's most effective slabsters, 12 to 8, Thursday.

The Norwood gang hit Courtney in the pinches and when base blows augured runs, but we are forced to chronicle that only two of the Electrics' tabulations were of the technically earned variety. Sounds like a good joke, doesn't it? Twelve runs scored, and only a pair really earned. But a close perusal of the statistics of the game show this to be nothing else but the truth. Courtney's mates booted the ball flagrantly behind him, and thereby hinges the greater portion of the story.

Blue in Form.

Everett Blue, Electrics' sturdy right-hander was in fair form, and on occasions had the Bankers eating out of his hand. Of the eight counters amassed by the losing aggregation but four were earned runs.

Courtney, himself furnished the greatest thrill of the game when in the fourth frame he poled one to the outfield in front of right field with Harris on the run-way. The homer was the only extra-sack swat of the tilt.

Beginning with the second couplet when the Electrics took a 3-2 lead they enjoyed all the better of the conflict with the Security outfit fighting back twice to knot the count, and taking the lead once, merely to lose out again before the span of one inning had gone its way.

The score stood at 5 Security in the sixth when the Banker inner works went to pieces. Abetted by a quintet of miscues and safe wallops by Riley and Whatley, the Electrics scored five markers to stow the affair.

A highlight of the encounter was the last half of the fifth performance. Courtney passed Reese and hit both Kellman and Norwood, loading the paths with none away. Thurman bounded out to Courtney. Brown unassisted. Reese held his station at third, and then Coolidge slapped into a double play. He rolled to the box. Courtney tossed to Horton at the platter, forcing Reese. Horton lined her down to Brown on the initial station to step ahead of Coolidge to complete the twin murder. The box score tells the rest:

Entitled: "Believe It or Not," or "Now Who's a Liar?"

If you know these gents pictured above doubtless you've heard them spill a fish yarn or two (they do that quite often), and possibly you've pigeon-holed the narratives as just a few more of those corking tales told the world over about conquests of the finny tribe, stories which conventionality would have you listen patiently to but not believe.

But if you heard 'em discussing the big haul they made at Lake Kemp the other day, and you doubted their veracity, why you certainly were foiled. For here you have the evidence, or rather, photographic reproduction of the same.

Yessir, fishin's still good at the big lake, and Judge Finley Weldon, Cliff Moore, Doc Burleson, and E. G. Hill are still catching 'em.

SAND LOT SLANTS

BY BLONDY CROSS

The Amateurs will come into their own this afternoon, for six teams have scheduled a trio of games. Baseball flourishes in Wichita Falls, apparently. The Spudders hook with Shreveport at the Harvey emporium, making it a quartet of diamond contests running all at the same time.

* * *

Wichita Falls' unfortunate baseball writers will have their mitts full today, all right. You can't say a sport scribe has a soft snap of it, after all, especially on days like this one.

* * *

Ludlam and Riggs, trailing the Twilight loop with the Electrics, are going out after the leaders. The clothiers and Texhomas will clash in a postponed tilt at 5:30 on the Jaloniz street diamond.

* * *

They're a pair of battlers billed in the Sunday School race. First Presbyterians and Florial Heights Methodists are slated in regularly scheduled go on the Sunday School diamond. First Baptists and Grace Methodists tangle in a postponed affair out a the Junior college.

* * *

New Managerial Wizards

Two managerial changes have been announced this week in the Twilight. Gabe Harris, the slender but highly effective pitcher, has been appointed the Security National's leader. He succeeds T. V. Montgomery who has left the city. It was understood, to take a fling with Ardmore of the Western association, but returned yesterday. Manley is not sure yet whether he'll remain in Wichita Falls this summer.

* * *

Len Smith has resigned his managerial duties with the Ludlam and Riggs outfit, declaring that his business does not leave him time in which to tend his work as a baseball straw boss. William Henry (Dub) Davis, the Ludlam and Riggs catcher, recently wedded, has taken on more trouble. He has accepted the togs.

* * *

We'll Be In There, Says Dub

Davis declares that the clothiers will be in there fighting with the leaders for the second half championship which begins June 14. "We're going to give the boys a real play for the second half title," he said. "There are to be several changes in the team roster, and we'll have almost a new ball club in the field."

* * *

Fat Mathis, classy amateur first baseman, for one, will be with Ludlam and Riggs in the after portion of the split season drive.

* * *

Texhoma Gets New Hurler

The Texhoma nine is all agog over addition of another player. He's a pitcher, too, is Homer Sanderford Jr., three-day old son of the Texhoma hurler.

* * *

First Methodists and the Texhomas will have to hunt another utility infielder for C. R. Ward, the latter who filled this capacity for both teams won't be seen on Wichita Falls sand lots any more this season.

Does He Balk%

Does Ronie Gildewell really balk% Many Twilight league team managers will tell you that he does nearly every time the American refiners' ace makes a throw to first to catch a runner off. The classy hurler has pulled out on many a hole in uncanny fashion by letting a base runner play off the bag, suddenly to shift and catch him cold with a deadly shoot to the first sacker.

* * *

This Cecil Allison, hurler with the First Baptists and the Electrics, is expected to come through in great style this summer. Allison turned in several neatly pitched games for the Natniger nine during the spring but has been handicapped recently with an infected finger on his throwing hand.

* * *

Red Still At It

Having pulled American refiners down from a tie with Texhomas for the league lead, Red Belcher's Travelers are being primed to give Texhomas the same dose next Tuesday. It would be an immense joke on the two contenders for the first half gonfalon if Belcher's outfit did succeed in turning the tables on the second of the topkicks.

Don't Blame Us

Being secretary of the Twilight league, we have decided to send League President L. O. Landon and Ichabod out Sunday morning to lime off the diamond for the Sabbath day tilt between Ludlam and Riggs and the Security squad. So if the field is not in shipshape order Sunday afternoon you can't say the secretary didn't try to do his duty. Nope, we won't have time to do it ourself. Got to go to Sunday school.

National Bicycle Road Race To Be At St. Louis In September

STATE CHAMPS TO CLASH FOR TITLE OF U. S.

Elimination Trials to Be Held in July in St. Louis Also

September 5 and 6 have been announced as the dates for the running of the fifth National senior and junior championship bicycle road races of the Amateur Bicycle League of America, Inc., with St. Louis as the stamping ground.

The usual series of elimination trials will be held July 18 and 19 (rain dates July 25 and 26), and August 1 and 2 (rain dates August 8 and 9) for the state championships, the winners of which will be entitled to compete in the national championships. As customary, all railroad transportation and hotel expenses in St. Louis will be financed by the league.

Sponsored by St. Louis C. C.

In the championship meet at Buffalo, N. Y., last year there were 33 senior riders, in addition to two Olympic riders, representing 39 states and 30 junior riders. Honors in the senior class went to Charles Winter, a member of the Century Road club of America, New York City, with Ignatius Gronkowski of Buffalo, former Olympic rider, second, and Thomas Stephano, North Hudson Wheelmen, of Hoboken, N. J., finishing third. The junior championship was won by William Honeman, a member of the Bay View Wheelmen of Newark, N. J., with Roy Ulrich, of the Century Cycling club, St. Louis, second, and Charles Penny, of Miami City Wheelmen, Miami, Fla., third. The latter two were tied for second place, each scoring an equal number of points, and in an extra match race, Ulrich nosed out Penny after a spirited tussle.

The St. Louis Cycling club, one of the country's foremost cycling organizations, is sponsoring this year's meet, and according to the latest reports, plans are under way to make it the greatest bicycle classic ever held in the United States.

Riders Who Are Eligible.

Applications for registration cards already are pouring into the headquarters of the Amateur Bicycle league, in New York, and it is said that riders from more than 40 states will be seen in action at the national meet.

Nothing is being overlooked by the St. Louis aggregation to entertain the visiting riders in fitting style, and arrangements are being made for an elaborate banquet to the riders at the termination of the contest. Beautiful jewel-studded solid gold, silver and bronze medals will be pinned on the breasts of the winners, both state and national, at the banquet.

Every American amateur bicycle rider in good standing, without restrictions, is eligible to enter the contest, and full particulars may be had from A. R. Jasobson, chairman of the championship committee, 172 West 105th street, New York, to whom all riders are urged to write at once.

In England, Riders Like to Get a Big Mileage from Bikes

W. C. Smith of Halstead piled up the great score of 31,937 miles during 1924, and only about 2,000 miles of that was ridden in the first two months of the year. In January he rode 862 and in February 1,121. During September he rode 3,330 miles and in four other months he topped 3,000 miles.

W. P. Cook, president of the Anfield Bicycle Club, turned in a score of 11,681 miles. S. Ager, of Shaffron, Walden, did 12,492 miles; F. Owen, Jr., Stockport, 12,379; W. Haylock, Bradfordshire, 18,281 miles; A. Arnold; Sydenham, 11,055 miles; L. J. Meyers, Highbury, 16,040 miles; Private F. Peeke, stationed at Aldershot, 14,322 miles; Miss L. F. du Heamue, Great Missenden, 12,094 miles; Miss E. Clark, Great Missenden, 12,484 miles, and T. Hughes, Lancashire, 9,219 miles.

R. T. Dunk of Stratford, covered 11,366 miles. A total of 11,394 miles was turned in by A. J. Ballantyne of Southgate Century Club. F. Holden of Padiham, rode 11,940 miles, and a score of 12,821 was registered by F. H. Scott, of London.

Last Six-Day Bike Race Has Been Run in Madison Square

Historic Madison Square Garden, New York, has seen its last six-day bicycle race. The edict has gone forth that the old arena must be demolished to accommodate the march of progress.

The old battleground has played a big part in the development of six-day racing from heart-breaking grinds of the 90's, when each contestant rode alone as long as he could stick on the saddle, to the modern scientifically conducted team plan which assures the riders of a fair amount of rest.

It was in 1891 that the first Garden race took place, which was won by Plugger Bill Martin and every year since the famous old arena has seen at least one six-day grind. In 1899 the law stepped in and prohibited such contests under the old plan of each rider going it alone. Then the team idea was inaugurated, and Charley Miller and Dutch Waller pedaled to victory in the first race under the new plan.

The garden races have been most always sucessful. Boston, Chicago, or San Francisco might turn thumbs down on the long grinds, but the New York public has always given them strong support, and has produced a sufficient number of fans to fill the seats and arena throughout the week of the race.

MacFarlane And Jones Even Up With 291 Each

Walker, Smith, And Diegel Falling Behind With Speed

WORCESTER, Mass., June 4—(AP)—North and South, tall and short, thin and stout, middle-age and youth, professional and amateur will meet on the links of the Worcester country club tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock to decide who shall be open golf champion of the United States.

Today's play for the honor resulted in a tie.

Willie MacFarlane, veteran professional from Tuckahoe, N. Y., and Bobby Jones young in years, but old in competition, will be foes, for today with 291 strokes each, they had outscored 92 rivals at the end of the allotted 72 holes, a battle fought in wilting heat for the greater part of the time. Francis Ouimet, another amateur, tied for third place at 292, with John Farrell, while Walter Hagen, British open title holder, was tied for fifth with 293.

Jones' remarkable golf was expected; for MacFarlane to come to fore was most unexpected. Cyril Walker of Englewood, the champion, has been left in the rush, MacDonald Smith, a great favorite, broke under the test. Leo Diegel, after pushing his way into the foreground on the first day had stumbled in his last nine holes of a finish that has seldom been equaled in any sports.

Jones, with 77 and 70 on Wednesday, found himself six strokes behind Diegel and MacFarlane as today's play started. He made a desperate effort to retrieve the ground and shattered par in the morning with a 70. But when MacFarlane returned it was to learn that his 72 had kept Jones four strokes behind with only one round to be played.

Gibbons to Carry Fight to Tunney Tonight, He Says

NEW YORK, June 4.—(AP)—Tom Gibbons of St. Paul, master defensive boxer, today said he planned an aggressive battle to defeat Gene Tunney in their 15-round fight tomorrow night at the Polo Grounds.

"I'm going to be on the offensive from the first bell," he said. "I'll make a fight out of it, and the faster Gene comes at me, the better I'll like it."

Asked if he expected a knockout, Gibbons evaded the question, but admitted that he was prepared for a long fight. He added that it would be rather embarrassing to "prepare for five rounds and then have to go 15."

Tunney, who arrived in New York today from his Saratoga Lake training camp, looked bigger and stronger than at any previous period in his career, and appeared to be in excellent condition.

Confidence pervaded the ranks of the Tunney followers, although Gene himself had no predictions to make.

MEANING WHICH IS WHAT.

Owners of the Boston Braves have reassured members of the team that the deal for the Worcester Eastern league club wasn't engineered with the thought of strengthening the National league club.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 4.—The cotton market was not only active today, but it also developed a strong upward swing which recovered all the decline which followed the publication of the government report on Tuesday and a good deal more. The market opened 55 to 61 points above the closing levels of Tuesday, but about 30 points of this gain was due to a restoration of the parity with other markets disturbed by the advances in those markets while this market was closed yesterday. Later prices continued to advance all through the session with occasional reactions on realizing until in the last half hour the day's highs were reached with July at 24.05, October 22.75 and December 23.84, or 105 to 111 points above the previous close. There was a recession of about 15 points in the final trading on realizing by early buyers and the close showed net gains for the day of 89 to 92 points.

The main cause of the advance was the growing seriousness of the drouth not only in the west but in other portions of the belt, an important contributing influence also was the strength of the spot situation which reflected mainly on the July position causing that option to advance more rapidly than later months, thereby widening the premium of the near months over the new crop positions.

The growing scarcity of supplies is turning buyers' attention to the certified stocks held here and in New York and the shrinkage in such stocks is creating a serious situation for the July shorts whose covering not only advanced the near months but had a stimulating effect on the whole list as well.

The demand came mainly from shorts covering but there was also a good trade in the demand as well as some covering and price fixing by spinners. The weather map was entirely dry and temperatures were high in the belt. Texas reported hot winds doing damage. Exports today were 20,116 bales of which Houston contributed 10,254 bales.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Heavy selling for both accounts took place in today's stock market, recessions of one to five points being quite common at the close. The selling was generally described as a further correction of a weakened technical position resulting from the recent sustained advance but the uneasiness caused by the suspension of trading in the old Maxwell shares, the weakness of French exchange, the apparent inability of operators on the long side to attract a large public offering and the marking up of call money rates toward the close, all had a depressing effect on speculative sentiment.

Selling pressure was most acute against a number of motors, public utilities and specialties which had enjoyed an almost uninterrupted advance in the last few weeks. General Electric broke 5 1-2 points to 288, while net declines of 3 1-2 points or more were recorded by American Can, California Packing, Du Pont, General Baking, La Clede, Loose Wiles Biscuit, Mack Truck, Montana Power, F. G. Shattuck, and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe.

While pool operations were suspended in many issues, independent strength was shown by about a score of motors and specialities, Nash, Moon, U. S. Rubber first preferred, Fisher Body, Coca Cola, Cushman's Bakery, Ward Baking B, Tobacco Products and American Telephone, all being lifted to new high records for the year.

Accumulation also was noted in some of the eastern railroads on rumors of a possible change in control, Lackawanna, was run up nearly five points to 146 7-8 and then slipped back to 141, while Lehigh Valley showed a net gain of about a point at 80 3-4, after having sold as high as 81 7-8. St. Paul issues displayed a firm undertone despite reports of opposition on the part of minority stockholders to the proposed recapitalization plan. Southern railway was strong in the early trading, but sold off later on reports that the court decision in the preferred stockholders suit would not be handed down for ten days, delaying action on any proposed increase in the dividend at the next meeting of the board.

Mid-continent Oil displayed a strong undertone but the other oils failed to respond to reports of additional gasoline price advances. The extremely hot weather of the last few days stimulated the buying of American Ice, which crossed 112 to the highest price in three years.

Call money renewed at 3 3-4 per cent and then advanced to 4. Time money and commercial paper rates held steady.

Heavy selling of French francs, apparently based on the large increase in note circulation and advances to the state shown in the weekly bank statement, sent the demand rate down 7 1-2 points to 4.90 cents, the lowest rate since last summer. A slight rally took place when it became known that the Bank of France was using the $100,000,000 Morgan credit to stabilize the currency. Demand sterling ruled practically unchanged at 4.85 5-8. Other continental exchanges were fractionary.

NEW YORK MONEY MARKET

NEW YORK, June 4.—Call money easier; high, low, ruling rate and last loan, 3%; closing bid, 3%; offered at 4; call loans against acceptances, 3¼. Time loans, steady; 60-90 days, 3%; four-six months, 3¾@4; prime commercial paper, 3¾@4.

Produce

AUSTIN, June 4.—Poultry about steady at Texas points with hens quoted at 17 to 18 cents; springs, 25 to 35 cents, mostly 27 to 32c; old roosters, 9c; turkeys, 18 to 20c, pound liveweight; geese, 75c; ducks, 50 to 60c; guineas, 25c each.

Eggs are steady at $7.20 per 30 dozen case, with case included for fresh gathered firsts and $8 per case for No. 1 candled. The market at both Chicago and New York was unchanged.

Butter is steady with a firmer undertone to packing stock, which is listed at 20c pound; 43c for creamery "A" and 42c for creamery "B" Texas market.

AMERICANS AID CONFERENCE

U. S. Attitude Prevents Further Spread of Ill-Will at Geneva.

GENEVA, June 4.—(AP) — The conciliatory attitude of the American delegation today prevented any growth of the ill-feeling which was manifested yesterday when the arms traffic conference on a roll call reversed its previous decision that foreign visas would be required on the exportations of certain types of rifles and revolvers.

Hugh S. Gibson the American minister to Switzerland, told the conference that while he favored the abandonment of the convention, stipulation of a visa system, the Americans did not desire to preclude further discussion.

Holland Losing Windmills.

Due to the increasing chapness and good economy of motors, windmills in Holland are steadily disappearing. Few new ones are being built and repairs are less also. As old mills become inefficient, motors are substituted. A windmill costing $10,000 will develop only 11 1-2 horsepower and the wind blows with working strength only about 1,440 hours a year, so that motors are found more economical and efficient, though less picturesque.

Salvador's recent scare over a threatened invasion of the destructive boll weevil has been found to have been caused by the appearance of caterpillars in the cotton fields.

QUIET REIGNS IN SHANGHAI; MANY STRIKE

No More Serious Riots Expected in Chinese Metropolis

SHANGHAI, June 5.—(AP) — Shanghai was quiet this morning except for a few minor outbreaks. It was not the normal quiet, however.

Developments of the past few hours included:

Chinese police, meeting at the Chapei station, decided to strike at 11 p m., but when the hour arrived only a few of the 2,000 attached to the foreign settlement police department, actually turned in their arms. It is believed that the force as a whole will remain on duty.

Efforts of agitators to force a strike of the Chinese-manned fire department apparently failed.

Five Wounded.

Five were reported wounded in an outbreak in Pootung, a suburb just across the Whang-Poo river, Shanghai's harbor.

A mob was said to have attacked the mill of the Japan-China Spinning and Weaving company, Ltd. Japanese overseers on duty there resisted the mob and opened fire after the company's offices had been invaded. The Chinese constabulary later dispersed the crowd.

American jazz musicions at the Astor House, leading hotel, most seriously affected b ythe strike of domestic labor, dropped their instruments and took the places of striking Chinese waiters.

He Denies Reports.

Soviet Consul General Osarnin denied reports that his consulate had any connection iwth Chinese strikes or strikers.

Settlement officers conducted a number of raids against suspected communist centers including Shanghai university. The strikes in industrial plants throughout the city today were reported slowly spreading. Best available estimates placed the number quitting work so far at 50,000.

No Prospect for Weather Relief

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—Having smashed records for intensity, the heat wave which has held the Eastern half of the country in its grip for five days appeared tonight to have settled down for a duration record as well. The weather bureau saw no prospect of relief for at least three or four days, and probably longer.

Again registering the highest official temperature in the country today 99 degrees, Washington had two more deaths and several prostrations, bringing the total of fatalities from the heat wave here to three and the prostrations to nearly a score.

Through A Woman's Eyes

CASTING THE MOLD.

Are you making your children what you want them to be? Or are you trusting to luck to do it for you?

Are you making every situation every day a stepping stone, a means to an end? Are you taking advantage of every opportunity to inculcate in them the principles which you want to govern their lives?

There are mothers who wait for the "age of understanding" to start and train their children to the viewpoint and habits which they want them to follow through life. But then they too often find them like a vine that has been permitted to run riot and grow wild. The little tendrils that from the beginning might have been guided into place will not now be taken out of their course. They spring back.

Every age is an age of understanding. The babe in the cradle loses no time in learning who's who and what's what. Very soon it understands how to get what it wants and the principle of cause and effect.

The child at the mother's knee is the embryo of the man or woman to be. Like the embryo that is the unborn babe, time will not change him; it will merely develop what is already there. Though he may not remember it, it is the environment, the teaching and the example of his earliest years that cast his mold for life.

The mother who looks upon her young child as an animal requiring for the time being nothing but physical care is mapping out for herself an almost impossible job for the time when she begins to give attention to his disposition and character.

The child who has been permitted to snatch anything that appealed to him, without thought of whether he had a right to it or not, cannot be blamed if he does not suddenly change his philosophy because his mother has decided that he is no longer a baby and should know better.

The youngster who has learned through experience that to get what he wants he has merely to howl loudly enough will not suddenly recognize a higher authority because his mother thinks it is time he did.

The child who has been permitted to "lord" it over the household because he was "only a baby" will not suddenly understand the virtue of humility because his mother has discovered that he is getting to be a big boy.

The little girl who was smiled upon when she showed disapproval of her brother by beating him with her fists will not suddenly grasp the principle of arbitration because she is entering school and mother feels that now she must.

The child who has been permitted to "fib" to help mother out of a tight place cannot be expected to relinquish the expedient when it appears helpful to himself, or to suddenly feel that honesty is the best policy because he has turned 12.

The little girl who is aided and abetted in hoarding old toys, filling a closet with discarded dolls to make room for the new favorites, is not getting the same chance as the child who is taught early to share with "the poor children."

The mind and heart of a young child are like the most sensitive photographic plate. And she is a wise mother who from the very beginning considers what it shall register.

The Perpetual Question Mark.

Letty is really an awfully sweet little girl, and by rights she shouldn't be held up as a horrible example, since she answers the requirements of a popular girl in every respect, except one: she is too curious.

Her curiosity about people and events and things goes way beyond the flattering stage. Boys are flattered by your asking them questions about themselves—harmless questions that show you're interested in what they're doing and saying. But when you reach the point of vulugar curiosity, you'll find there's no man in the world who can stand it.

Here's an example of Letty's handiwork:

"You went to the Omega dance last night, didn't you?" she asks Bert, one of the boys in her crowd.

"Yes, had a peach of a time too. There was an awfully good crowd there."

"You took Berenice didn't you?" Letty continues.

"Yes."

"Was Marie there too?" Letty knows perfectly well that Marie is Bert's old flame and that up to a few weeks ago the two were inseparable.

"Yes, Marie was there," Bert says somewhat shortly. He is rather touchy on the subject of Marie and had just as soon not hear her name mentioned."

"Well didn't she act kind of funny when she saw you with Berenice I should think it would make her feel queer. Did she act any different?"

"I didn't notice," Bert is annoyed now. What business is it of Letty's how Marie acted What right has Letty to come pushing into his own private affairs, and asking questions like that about something he has only mentioned to his best boy friend.

But Letty doesn't notice the danger signals, and she plunges bravely ahead asking his whether he thinks Berenice is jealous of Marie, and why he should pick out two such different types, and how long he went with Marie, etc. etc., until Bert works himself up into a nice temper, and departs, deciding as he does so that his friends should be warned against this curiosity pest

Letty is the kind of girl who asks the daughter of divorced parents whose fault the divorce was; she likes to know all the details of a funeral—whether so-and-so's mother burst into hysterics when the awful news came, and so forth.

She allows no one any reticences, any privacy, and she has no sense of intruding when she plies her unfortunate victims with questions.

And yet she wonders why she's such a raging failure with the men

You must not tread on people's private thoughts and secrets when you ask them questions.

Curiosity—the wrong kind—will kill a great many things more important than a cat.

MODIFY CIVIL SERVICE RULES

Government Employes Allowed Credit For Seniority.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—Modification of the civil service regulations to allow government employes credit for senicrity in sewice, dependents and military service in making promotions and demotions, is provided in an executive order issued today by President Coolidge.

ASK DAMAGES FOR DEATH OF R. R. EMPLOYE

Mrs. Dora Smith Sues Denver Road For $35,000 as Result of Accident

Damages of $35,000 are asked of the Fort Worth and Denver City railroad in a suit filed Thursday by Mrs. Dora Smith, administratrix of the estate of Claude Smith, deceased.

The action is based on the death of the woman's husband who was killed at 3 o'clock in the morning of October 27, 1924, when a switch engine backed over him as he was inspecting a passenger train standing in front of the union station. Smith was an inspector for the Denver and was killed on duty.

The petition filed yesterday alleges that his death was caused by the negligence of the crew of the switch engine, and also by negligence of the company for failure to provide proper warnings and protection of its workmen.

Intense interest is being shown by children of the city in the Childress Summer Reading club which is now holding sessions at the Kemp Public library. A large number were present Tuesday to hear the stories of "The Magis Voice" and "The Story of the Weathercock," told by Mrs. O. Abernathy.

Plans for the summer camp to be held June 6 to 20 at Craterville Park, Okla., were outlined Wednesday night by Miss Glenore Fisk, executive, at a Camp Fire Girls rally held in Scotland Park. Activities of the camping period were discussed. Stunts and singing were enjoyed by the gathering, while a chicken dinner was served.

Alec B. Ross of Neptune Beach, Calif., has taken charge of publicity work and special feature events for Lake Wichita this summer and has entered on his new duties. He is a publicity director of wide experience and has the utmost confidence in the future of Lake Wichita as an amusement resort.

An exact increase of 1,466 has been recorded by children of scholastic age in Wichita county since the scholastic census in 1924 was taken, it was reported Thursday by Burl Bryant, county superintendent of schools. The final check on the 1925 census has just been made. This year there were 15,679 of scholastic age in the county, while in 1924 there were but 14,213.

Joe Huckins was among many Wichitans who Thursday went to Lawton and Medicine Park to watch the army maneuvers and big sham battle between the Kansas Reds and the Oklahoma blues operating in the Wichita mountains out of Fort Sill. Huckins, remarking about the performance upon his return yesterday afternoon, declared with emphasis that the "air service is there." It is the thrill of a lifetime, he said, to watch them perform.

After a conference, officials announced the demonstration was due to misunderstanding on the part of

Diary of a Famless Man

Dear Folks:

As a "Famless Man" I confess I am a flat failure. And as I must truthfully set down for The Record News the history of my life during the time Ethel, my wife, and the little girl, Katherine, are vacationing, I confess this Thursday night that I am restless, very restless. After writing my little note to you tonight I shall take in a movie, maybe a couple of them, but this movie business for me is getting tiresome and then again, I find out that within the short space of two days I have seen all the movies in town and there isn't a show left to go to.

I'm getting sick of the sight of the house. Must find me somebody and hire them to clean it up. The dust is just twenty-four hours thicker than it was yesterday. On coming home this afternoon I changed the bed linen—that is I attempted to change it. But I am sure any husband reading this today will sympathize with me, if he ever had the experience in attempting to make a bed. I find bed making is an art. Oh, well, it doesn't make so much difference, but I am here to say this much, my bed must make the best of the clean linen I gave it today for it is going to be a long time before I accommodate it that way again. It is too much trouble.

Having pieced away all the odds and ends that Ethel left in the ice box for me (she is a very thrifty young woman) I today dismissed the ice man. He has been very much of a bother, for it has been very tedious to remember to leave the key for him every morning before I depart.

I am now facing another problem, that of laundry. Not being at home when the washerwoman comes, I forget to leave the clothes for her. The hot weather multiplies treble fold the necessity of clean shirts, clean everything for that matter, and today I find I have but one change. A hurried trip to the laundry tomorrow then and a rush order

How necessary to the satisfied existence of man is a wife and to that old adage "what is home without——"

Excuse me for this time, there goes the telephone.

Yours,

"THE FAMLESS MAN."

White Farmers on Rains County Plots

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP)—White farmers operated 1,407 of the 1,531 farms in Rains county in 1924 compared to 1,307 operating 1,418 farms in 1920, farm census made by the department of commerce here shows. Negroes operated 124 farms in 1925 and 111 in 1920. In 1924 there were 517 owners and 1,014 tenants compared to 632 owners, three managers and 783 tennants on farms.

Crop land in 1924 totaled 63,330 acres; harvested, 59,746; crop failure, 506; fallow or idle, 2,078; pasture, 32,433; plowable, 8,037; woodland, 21,807; other land, 2,595 and woodland not pastured, 1,443, with all other land, 2,118.

Ma Seeks Maker of Unique Pen

AUSTIN, June 4.—(AP)—Within the bounds of the Texas commonwealth there lives a man with whom Governor Miriam A. Ferguson wishes to communicate, a man who contributed his bit in the historic administration fight against masked organizations and the governor wishes to thank him.

He contributed, even before the legislature convened, a unique writing pen to be used by the governor in signing the bill aimed at the ku klux klan by forbidding masks in any public place.

Governor Ferguson was quite impressed with the optimism and confidence of the citizen for presenting the writing pen so long before the sentiment for the anti-mask bill had crystallized in the legislature, and was this pen that impressed the governor's signature to the anti-mask bill.

The pen has been carved from a cow's horn. From the writing point to the feather shaped staff, the entire pen is of bone. It has been wrought in a novel and attractive combination of black, white and brown.

The pen was included in the mass of mail for Governor Ferguson received at the capitol before her inauguration. In the rus of preparations for that momentous Tuesday when Mrs. Ferguson carved a new record in Texas history, the pen became separated from the accompanying letter, and the name of the nodor was misplaced. However, Mrs. Ferguson rememebered the request for the particular use for the ppen, and it was set aside for that purpose.

Johnson Grass a Bane to Farmers

TEMPLE, Texas, June 4.—(AP)—Picking Johnson grass, the bane of the southern farmer's existance, along the highways is popular in Central Texas now. Late every afternoon scores of persons can be seen loading the long grass into automobiles or wagons to take it to their stock.

Having gone through one of the driest winters in several decades, there has been a shortage of feed for stock in Central Texas and after the first beneficial rain of the spring season four weeks ago, Johnson grass was the first to grow. Although the grass is a comparative stranger to American shores, it being a native of Africa, it has adopted the southland and has made itself too much at home to suit agriculturists. Its growth is so rapid that it often smothers other crops unless the farmer works hard to exterminate it. It germinates through both seed and roots and is spread, farmers claim, by birds and beasts. It will outlive many other grasses during drouths because of its gigantic roots, which go down into the hardest subsoil to get moisture. It is supposed to be the hardy brother of the Sudan grass.

Hog Contest Brings Good Fair Exhibits

DALLAS, Texas, June 4.—(AP)—Texas' 1925 "ton litter" contest among swine breeders will have the effect of bringing out some excellent swine exhibits at the State Fair here in October, A. L. Ward of College Station secretary of the Texas Swine Breeders' association said. Mr. Ward recently visited many Dallas county contestants in the "ton litter" effort with County Agent A. B. Jolley, J. Tom Maun and Dr. A. E. Flowers, who is vice-president of the breeders' association.

"Keenest interest is manifest all over the state," Mr. Ward said, "and Dallas county is not behind in the movement. Who will win the prize is still a matter for development, but the contest will be keen and Dallas county has a chance as the other counties."

TORRES GOES DOWN WHEN DUKE SWINGS

Mexican Knocked Out In Second With Stiff Right to Chin

There wasn't much to it. Coming up in the second Duke swung his left and connected, then he swung his right and it was all over. Renato Torres, of Mexico City lay prone on the canvass until the count of nine then tried to rise, but that right of Duke's had done its work and the Mexican didn't live that could have gotten up. It all happened in the feature bout at the American Legion arena last night.

Trammel took things easy in the first round and let Torres do the forcing. The latter seemerd duely respectful to the Cowtown miller's left jab to the face after he had felt it several times, but earned a draw in the first stanza by some clever infighting.

Chin Slam Is Finis.

After a flurry of gloves in the second, Duke took what looked like a wild swing and connected in Renato's midriff. The follow through with the right came too quick to let the crowd know what was going on. The slam on the chin finished it. Duke weighed in at 140 pounds, and Torres at 147.

The hundred or so Mexicans who came out to the fight did not have to go away disappointed, however, for Blas Rodriquez of Torreon, countryman and companion of Torres, boosted his country's stock considerable when he outboxed Joe McComas of Dallas to an earned decision in a ten-round semi-final.

They both started off willing enough but the continued upper slices of Rodriquez began to take effect in the fifth stanza. Joe's body didn't get a blow in the entire ten rounds but his nose will tell the story of a sad encounter with right upper cuts that left a painful assortment of bruises and considerable blood.

Nose Mistreated.

Efforts to stop the flow in the last half failed completely, due to the continued onslaught on that already maltreated part of Joe's face. Blas probably earned the fifth and sixth by clear cut margins but the other eight rounds were pretty well even. In the eighth the Dallas mixer staged a short-flurried comeback that almost upset the Mexican's pleased attitude, but the right uppercut kept drawing blood and the last two innings left Rodriquez still in the lead. Rodriquez was announced at 110 pounds and McComas at 112.

The law stepped in and saved the crowd from four rounds of razzing when Sheriff Smith, high dignatary from the court house, decided that Poor Boy and Battling Sam, two dark complexioned gents in the light heavy class, were either brothers or boon companions. He stopped the affair in the second, exactly one round after the fight bugs in the bleachers had begun their customary shouts of "throw 'em out."

Young Murdock from Sulphur, Okla., and Calif Castleberry of Vernon, fought to a clean draw. The shade, if there was one, would have given Murdock a little the best of the six rounds due to some clever playing on the ropes. The go was a fast affair with both fighters willing to mix. Castleberry went to his knees twice in the second, one time from a skid on some water and the second mostly from a blow to the head.

Two minus-weight newsies put up a none-too-willing scrap as a starter and earned a draw.

MONTE WINS OVER GUNDY IN VERNON.

VERNON, Texas, June 4.—Flashing the greatest speed seen in the local arena this year, Wildcat Monte won the decision over Nick Gundy of Oklahoma City in a 10-round final here tonight. The Wichita lads' left jab to the jaw, and right hook to the body in the infighting wore his opponent down, and Monte took the last three rounds by a wide margin.

Monte was truly the Wildcat in the clinches. His right shot home time after time with lightening like rapidity, alternating between the body and the jaw.

Gundy had little more than a long right swing that counted for a great deal when it landed but seldom connected. However, by following it up with a few lefts the Oklahoma lad took the third and fourth rounds.

Tommy Marvin and Cyclone Burns, both of the world-at-large fought to a 6-round draw in a hard hitting slugfest.

Three preliminaries resulted in as many knockouts. Jack Nye floored Austin Culien for the count in the second round. Cloiskey also won his fight in the second round by sending Jack Kenan down for the count. Roy Hance gleaned the third knock-out in the second round by dropping Jake Davis for the count.

SALEM, Mass., June 4.—(AP)—The inventory of the estate of the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, filed today showed a total of $1,249,825. The personal estate was given as $1,096,370.27, principally in stocks, bonds, contracts with publishers for his books and some personal effects.

Divorce Mill

Many wealthy and prominent New Yorkers are worrying over whether they are married or bigamous, as a result of revelation of the activities of Francis P. Dougherty (at top) and Leonard W. Horton, Providence, R. I., lawyer and master in chancery, respectively. The pair are accused of operating a "divorce mill" that arranged 200 illegal divorces in Rhode Island. Many of these persons have since remarried.

INT'L. LIFE IN INITIAL BOW TO WICHITANS

City's Business Men Are Guests at Dinner In Kemp

"Wichitans are prompt to take hold of something which assures new business and new life for their community," R. E. Shepherd, mayor of Wichita Falls, assured officials of the International Life Insurance company at a vanquet celebrating their entrance into Wichita Falls at the Kemp hotel last night.

"I can promise your enterprise a hearty welcome here, and believe you will find any investment you make adequately returned ,and renumerated."

Fifty Attend.

About fifty business men of Wichita Falls, Electra, Vernon, and Burkburnett were present at the banquet and heard the details of the new company's entrance into the city. As explained by H. A. Wittliff, the Safety First Investment comany is being opened in Wichita Falls in conjunction with the International Life Insurance branch to finance first year premiums on life insurance policies and to make loans on city and country property. The Wichita Falls office is to have jurisdiction over 14 counties adjacent to and including Wichita county. While the comany was originally chartered for $10,000 an attempt was made at last night's meeting to raise the capitalization to $50,000, half of which is to be subscribed locally.

Judge Muse Speaks.

The address of welcome by Mayor Shepherd drew a humorous response from Judge J. C. Muse of Dallas, who stressed the part that insurance was playing in the development of the nation. The details of the new companies' organization and of the Safety First company were then explained by Mr. Wittliff. Judge A. H. Carrigan was in charge of the meeting.

The company has obtained office space in the Morgan building, it was announced and will be located there with J. B. Thomas in charge.

Those invited to participate in the installation of the new concern in Wichita Falls and most of whom were present at last night's banquet included:

SAFETY SERVICE LOANS SHARES
Nothing Is Appreciated
more by this Company than the reputation it enjoys in this community for CONSERVATISM. For four years it has been lending funds that belong to thousands of people and has never lost a dollar or had a delinquent loan. In this period it has declined to make many hundreds of loans that were not up to the usual high standard that has been set and maintained by it. On the other hand it has an unlimited amount of money awaiting its call for investors who want to place their funds in the institution on the kind of loans that it makes, good ones, to people of regular incomes, on conservatively valued real estate, well situated and improved and in reasonable amounts. We want all of the good loans that can be offered us, but we do not and will not make sub-standard or second class loans. We invite the investment of instalment stock holders and borrowers on this basis.

For "Company" And Family
SURELY there is no argument about the better flavor of ice-protected foods. Every housewife knows the added zest brought by refrigeration, the sure protector of wholesomeness.
For "company" and family, there can be no better hot weather rule than the constant guarding of food's purity in a well iced refrigerator.
To say nothing of the iced drinks, the sherbets and ice creams which help so much to make these hot days bearable.
