House Panel Says Arms Aid Wasted; Asks Review

WASHINGTON (AP)— The House Government Operations Committee today suggested billions of dollars worth of U.S. arms aid has been wasted. It called for a complete review by Congress and the executive branch.

It reported military assistance often is granted for political rather than strictly military reasons, with a resulting financial loss such as "planes without anybody to fly them, vehicles without gasoline to run them."

If listed cases as the United States being charged for rental of 112 million dollars worth of machine tools given Britain; stockpiling of an 84 years' supply of linseed oil at a U.S. base in Germany; and construction of an airbase at Torrejon, Spain, so close to a civilian field that flights are hampered.

The committee report was the first issued by a congressional investigative group this session and pointed to what may be in store when President Eisenhower's request for nearly four billion dollars in new aid funds comes before Congress.

The document was written by a subcommittee headed by Rep. Fascell (D-Fla) which toured Europe last fall armed with findings from the General Accounting Office. The parent committee approved the report.

Contending that distribution of arms aid often is based on other than purely military factors, the committee said this means one country may receive arms funds even though it may not be able to furnish one soldier or jet pilot should the free world get into trouble. The result, it said, is that the country's strength in mutual security plans is only on paper.

While not saying that aid for political reasons is unnecessary, the committee contended that Congress should be told which are political and which are true military programs so it will know how to vote on funds.

On other points, the report said millions of dollars have been needlessly expended in excess costs, loose contract administration and over-all laxness in protecting the interest of the United States against charges for foreign taxes and profits in offshore contracts.

Under the offshore procurement program, U.S. funds are used to buy items produced overseas.

The report said Britain has followed a practice of charging for rental of government-owned property and in one case rent for 112 million dollars worth of U. S. aid machine tools were included as costs on offshore procurement contracts.

It said Britain has now agreed to eliminate such charges on future contracts but nothing has been done regarding the prior improper contract charges and probably nothing will.

Army procurement headquarters at Heidelberg, Germany, was cited as having brought an 84 years's supply of boiled linseed oil and more than 100 tons of nails. The stated reason: The Army wanted to use up some deutsche marks with a deadline on time of expenditure.

President Asks Cut In Farm Price Props

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today called for lower government price supports for major farm crops and dairy products, and an easing of production restrictions.

In a special message to Congress, Eisenhower laid out in 14 points what he termed progress program and said it would let farmers benefit more from their own unparalleled ability to produce.

The program held out the prospect too of eventual lower food costs for consumers.

Eisenhower told Congress that agriculture in recent years has been experiencing a veritable revolution in productivity.

"Farm production per man-hour has doubled since 1940," he said. "There has been more change in agriculture within the lifetime of men now living than in the previous 2,000 years."

Eisenhower said the rapid changes taking place in agriculture are largely the result of a major breakthrough in agricultural science and technology, constitute a revolution that cannot be reversed, and are continuing.

"It cannot be avoided and it need not be feared," he said.

"In recognition of this basic fact, we must find ways of utilizing more completely the abundance that our farm people are now able to produce; we must find ways of further expanding markets for this increased production, not only among our own citizens but among people all over the world who need the food and clothing we produce in such abundance."

In outlining his recommendations, Eisenhower said it was essential that they be accepted this year to improve the status of rural people in greatest need, to aid agricultural adjustment, provide more freedom, expand markets, and, thereby, to help raise farm family income.

The proposals would require legislative action in some cases, administrative decisions in others and shifts in appropriations in still others.

They included:

1. Change the 1¼-billion-dollar annual soil bank program by abandoning next year the costlier short-term acreage reserve and strengthening the longer-term conservation reserve. He proposed 450 million dollars for payments to farmers for retiring cropland of any kind for long periods and putting it to grass, trees or other noncrop uses.

2. Legislation giving the secretary of agriculture discretion to increase acreage planting allotments for wheat, cotton, rice, tobacco and peanuts up to 50 per cent above levels now provided by legal formulas. Such increases would be made only if there were potential markets for the larger output. They would be coupled with lower price supports.

3. Legislation eliminating acreage allotments for corn. This

Few Cuts In Taxes Are Recommended

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Anderson today recommended some tax relief for small businessmen. But he told Congress that any general tax reductions do not seem prudent at this time.

Testifying before the House Ways and Means Committee Anderson called for continuation of the present 52 per cent maximum income tax on corporate profits and another year's operation of present excise tax rates on liquor, cigarettes and automobiles.

These rates, first imposed as temporary wartime levies during World War II, were revived during the Korean War and have been continued since. Without congressional action, they would be automatically reduced July 1.

Anderson made no mention of individual income tax rates in a prepared statement. This seemed a clear indication the administration had no thought of tax cuts in this area.

"I regret that a continuation of existing rates has to be my first recommendation to you on tax matters, because I am anxious for tax reductions of various sorts, as I know you are, and as the people of the country are," Anderson said.

"But under the conditions as they are foreseen at present, such tax reductions do not seem prudent.

"If present rates are continued, and if business activity resumes its upward growth during the year, as I believe it will, we estimate a small surplus for the fiscal year 1959."

While ruling out general tax reduction, Anderson said he was glad to recommend changes that would give small business important relief for the revenue loss involved.

SPOT MUSE

A FEW REPRESENTATIVES of the State Armory Board and State Board of Control were in town today to take a look at the new National Guard armory. The building, complete except for a few minor items, is not yet ready for occupancy by the National Guard. The local guard unit cannot move into the new building until it is accepted by the state. That will be several days from now, after a final inspection is held.

IF YOU HAVE someone in mind who would make a good junior college trustee, contact Charley Blakey at 3-5612. Blakey is chairman of the nominating committee, which could be called upon for fast action if the college election should be authorized in the near future.

THE NOMINATING committee hopes to present some 12 names on the ballot if the election is held, and members will welcome suggestions from any citizen of the county.

Hoffa's Pal Nearly Beaten

ST. LOUIS (AP) — An insurgent faction of St. Louis Teamsters came within five votes last night of batting down Harold J. Gibbons, a vice president-elect of the international union and right-hand man of James R. Hoffa.

Rivals contended seven of his votes were phoney and said they would seek to upset the outcome in the courts.

The contest came in an election of officers for Teamsters Joint Council 13, made up of 21 locals embracing about 41,000 members in the St. Louis area. Insurgents won two of the four offices at stake.

Gibbons was a candidate for president of the council, a job he has held by appointment of the international since it put the St. Louis unit into trusteeship in 1953. It was his first test of strength among the rank and file.

Each of the 21 locals had seven votes and when the secret ballots were counted Gibbons had a 76-71 edge over Elmer Gene Walla, president of Local 682.

Soviets Read Reply By Ike

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet people read in Moscow papers today for the first time of President Eisenhower's reply to Premier Bulganin's peace proposals.

The Soviet news agency Tass reported the Eisenhower message in a dispatch from Washington.

Tass said the President dodged Soviet proposals for a relaxation of tension and a stable peace.

Eisenhower tried to blame the Soviet Union for world tensions, Tass declared.

The agency said the President called for a foreign ministers meeting and greater emphasis on diplomatic channels to settle differences "although the Soviet Union's proposals for a summit conference to settle these problems received broad support in many countries, including the United States."

Northeast Is Covered By Heavy Snow

By The Associated Press

Fresh snow today thickened the snow blanket covering the Northeast section of the nation with depths measured at from 9 to 25 inches.

A nor'easter yesterday clobbered the region with gale force winds and high tides in addition to heavy snow.

The snow cover extended as far south as West Virginia and northern Kentucky but the fall was relatively light in these areas.

Fresh snow brought the depth at Rumford, Maine, to 25 inches. Caribout, Maine, measured 20 inches of snow on the ground. In western New Hampshire, Lebanon recorded 18 inches, and Albany, N.Y., had a 9-inch blanket.

The storm caused closing of some schools in New York state areas and broke power lines and disrupted highway travel.

In the Boston area, wharves and railroad bridges were flooded by abnormally high tides. Along the New England coast winds were clocked at 40 to 60 m.p.h. during the height of the nor'easter.

Demand For Cotton Loans Takes Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Growers are placing about 57 per cent less cotton under government price support loans this season than last.

A Commodity Credit Corp. report said today amounts under loan now total about 1,690,000 bales from the 1957 crop compared with 3,921,000 from the 1956 crop a year ago.

This decline reflects a smaller 1957 crop and improved grower prices for the better grades of 1937 crop cotton.

11-Day Crude Flow Slated For February

AUSTIN (AP)—The Railroad Commission set the February oil allowable today at 3,057,936 barrels a day, based on the lowest production pattern in the state's history.

This was an increase of 32,510 barrels a day over January's allowable. The commission set the permissive flow on an 11-day production pattern, the first time production has gone below 12 days which has been the pattern for the past four months.

The daily allowable goes up 32,510 barrels over January, however, because February is three calendar days shorter than January. This difference in the length of the month is more than enough to offset the one-day drop in the number of days on which production is permitted.

Indications are that Humble Oil & Refining Co., the largest crude purchaser in Texas, might be forced to go into purchaser proration for the first time since 1943.

Humble and three other crude buyers—Magnolia, Sun and Phillips—nominated for a 10-day producing schedule.

Charles Shaver, Houston, representing Humble, said that even on 10 days "our estimated receipts would exceed our total demand thereby adding surplus crude to our already high inventories to the point of practically filling our available storage."

He said it appeared that before the end of February 11 producing days would mean every barrel of available storage would be full.

"This brings up the question of purchaser pro-ration as the only method by which this situation could be relieved," he said.

Purchaser pro-ration means the buyer could select from whom he buys and such a method is opposed by the Railroad Commission and many oil men, especially independent producers, because it means selective buying.

Several companies nominated 11 days and reported their purchases would total 1,205,349 barrels daily. The nominations of Humble and the three other companies recommending 10 days totaled 881,853 barrels a day.

James Lauderdale, Abilene, representing the West Central Texas Oil and Gas Assn., said the situation in that area "is rapidly worsening. We have pipeline pro-ration at its worst."

He said the industry was in "economical dilemma."

Lauderdale told the commission that storage in that area was at a dangerous level and asked the state agency to set a production pattern "that would give us a fair and equal share of the market... We are a long way from the gin and we would like to sell our crop too."

College Committee Due Here Jan. 24

A nine-member committee representing the Texas Board of Education will be here Jan. 24-25 in connection with the Scurry County Junior College proposal.

The committee will make a brief on-the-spot survey and then report its findings to the state board, which, in turn, will give its decision on a request to hold an election here to create a county-wide junior college district.

The nine-member committee will be composed of three members of the state board itself, three presidents of existing junior colleges and three businessmen from various sections of the state.

The local panel which has headed up work on the junior college proposal has been advised that members of the state board's special committee will arrive here late Friday, Jan. 24. They probably will hold a brief meeting that night and then confer with local citizens and possibly look over the city and county the next day.

The committee was appointed by the state board following a meeting in Austin early this month when certified petitions requesting the junior college election here were presented.

The special committee's functions are in keeping with procedures followed by the state board in determining its decision on requests for creation of new junior college districts.

Longest Trial In History Of Court Here Is Completed

Both sides of a civil suit rounded up in 132nd District Court here yesterday will file motions asking for judgment in their favor, attorneys here said today.

The case, which set a new record for length of a trial here was styled Harry McLachlan and others vs. H. R. Stroube and others. In value of property in dispute, it was one of the biggest cases ever held here, if not the biggest.

The jury, which was given the case at about 3:30 p.m. Tuesday, completed its deliberations at about that time yesterday. It answered 12 special issues in the case, some favoring each side.

The motions asking for judgment will now be filed by both sides, which means that District Judge Sterling Williams will probably have a hearing some time in the near future to decide upon the judgment in the case.

The suit lasted a total of 13 days, which is the longest case in court here in the memory of both Judge Williams and District Clerk Eunice Weatersbee.

It was a very graphic case, if that is the proper expression, since it included not only thousands of words by attorneys but illustrations for the jury, including maps, graphs, charts, Railroad Commission exhibits, instruments from the county clerk's office, photographs, and photostats.

Two tape recorders ran throughout the case to take up every word. And every word meant plenty, since there were enough that it will take about 2,000 typewritten pages to transcribe the trial, according to Oscar Clark court reporter. Just Clark's shorthand notes took 10 books of 192 pages each, which is the most for any one trail in Clark's nine years of experience as a court reporter, seven of which were here.

The case had only about 15 witnesses, but some witnesses stayed on the stand for long periods of time. The longest was the four-day stay of H. J. Gruy, petroleum engineer of Dallas.

Those on the jury were Kenneth Snyder, Bart Branson, Fickas Bell, Marshall Body, ymond Keller, Carl Foree, Neil Holder, V. D. Clement, S. B. Plumlee, H. D. Moreland, Joe F. Cargile, and E. D. McDow.

Attorneys in the case were Jack

Soil Bank In Texas May Close In Week

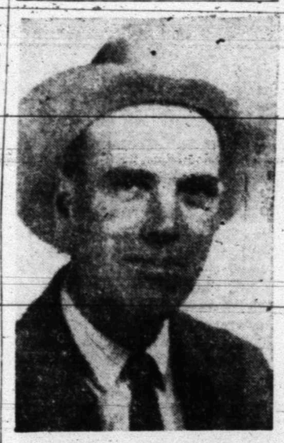

AUSTIN (AP)—The Austin American said today that the 1958 cotton soil bank program in Texas may be out of business by the end of this week, long before the scheduled March 7 deadline.

A story quoted Irvin Lloyd of the Soil Bank Division of the Texas Agricultural Stabilization-Conservation Committee at College Station as saying Texas farmers are banking more cotton acres than expected.

"An unprecedented signup of cotton farmers in Central and East Texas where payments average about $30 an acre if farmers agree not to plant cotton reportedly has sopped up the bulk of the funds available for the program in the state this season," the story said.

Lloyd said any decision to shut down the soil bank cotton program in Texas before March 7 would have to come from the Department of Agriculture in Washington.

One reason given for the possibility of having to shut down the program was the cut made by Congress from 750 million to 500 million dollars in appropriations.

W. M. (BILL) RILEY

W. M. Riley Is Candidate

W. M. (Bill) Riley, stock farmer who lives north of Snyder, has announced he will be a candidate in the July primary for the office of commissioner of precinct 2.

Riley is the sixth person to announce candidacy for that office.

The candidate is a native of Scurry County. His stock farm is 16 miles north of Snyder and is the same farm his father homesteaded in about 1890. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Riley.

Riley once before sought the commissioner's office in precinct 2 in 1946.

He is married and has two sons, Doug Riley of Big Spring and Tommy Riley of Snyder. Living at the Riley home are three grandchildren.

Riley is a Baptist.

Veto Predicted For Federal Pay Boosts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Carlson (R-Kan) predicted today President Eisenhower would veto pending bills proposing pay boosts for 1½ million federal employes, if the measures are passed in their present form.

"I don't see how he could help but veto them in this particular form," Carlson said.

The administration is proposing a general 6 per cent raise. Carlson is introducing bills to provide that increase.

FARM

would put corn on the same basis as other livestock feed grains.

4. Repeal the escalator clauses of present price support laws requiring that supports for wheat, cotton, corn, rice and peanuts be increased when supplies decline. Secretary of Agriculture Benson has said these clauses would increase supports when present surpluses are disposed of, encourage excessive production and bring on new surpluses.

5. Legislation to fix the range of possible price supports for wheat, cotton, corn, rice, peanuts, tobacco and dairy products at 60 to 90 per cent of parity. The present range is 75 to 90. Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to their costs.

This proposal calls for repeal of a law requiring that tobacco be supported at 90 per cent of parity when marketing quotas are in effect, regardless of the supply.

6. Amend the price support law to base price supports for cotton on the average quality of the crop. Present law requires use of middling 7/8-inch quality, which is below the average. This change would put supports for cotton on the same basis with other crops cotton on the same basis with other crops and would tend to lower the supports by more than two cents a pound. Present supports are slightly above 28 cents.

7. Legislation increasing the membership of the advisory board of the Commodity Credit Corporation — price support banking agency — to seven from five, and giving it authority to advise the secretary of agriculture on price support levels. Members would require Senate confirmation, which not now is the case.

8. Extend the Agricultural Trade Development Act authorizing the Agriculture Department to sell farm surpluses abroad for foreign currencies and permitting the use of those currencies in financing trade development and other U.S. government expenses in the purchasing countries. The extension would permit the sale of an additional 1½ billion dollars worth of surpluses. Congress already has authorized disposal four billion dollars worth.

9. Expand research to develop new industrial uses for farm products. The President called for increased funds for this in his budget message.

10. Extend the National Wool Act authorizing incentive payments to supplement grower returns. The payment measure was a feature of a controversial farm plan advanced in 1949 by Secretary of Agriculture Brannan, but rejected by Congress and criticized in the past by both Eisenhower and Benson.

11. Extend the special school milk program authorizing the department to contribute 75 million dollars a year to help pay for milk served in school.

12. Legislation to broaden sources of loans for rural power and telephone projects. At present, the government provides such funds. Suggested has been a plan under which the government would insure loans from private sources. This change would be expected to increase interest rates because private loans are being made only at rates double or more the present government rate of two per cent. But to get such lending funds, the government itself must pay more. Hence, it loses money on present loans.

13. Legislation requiring the states to contribute to federal disaster relief programs for farmers.

14. Narrow, probably through both legislation and appropriations, the scope of the agricultural conservation program to pay farmers subsidies only for carrying out permanent soil and water conservation practicees and measures. This would eliminate subsidies for annual practices, such as application of lime and fertilizer.

Two Japanese Ships Reported Missing

TOKYO (AP)—Two Japanese ships with a total of 30 men aboard were reported missing today.

The Maritime Safety Agency said Coast Guard vessels were searching for the 574-ton cargo ship Seiko Maru off northeast Honshu, and the 80-ton fishing boat Zuiko Maru, with a crew of 13, missing in the East China Sea.

Both were last heard from on Wednesday.

Dulles Says Conference Is Wanted

WASHINGTON (AP)— Secretary of State Dulles said today "We do want a summit meeting" with Russia and other nations.

But it would be a fatal disaster, he said, if such a session diverted free nations from needed security measures "without any comparable change in the Sino-Soviet bloc."

And it also would be a disaster, Dulles added, if Western world leaders were forced to break off a summit conference in an atmosphere of hostility because that could "intensify the cold war and make more likely that it would turn into a hot war."

Because of these considerations, Dulles said in a speech prepared for a National Press Club luncheon, any top level East-West meeting must be carefully prepared for with good prospect of achieving results for peace.

He said that was the essence of President Eisenhower's message Sunday to Soviet Premier Bulganin. Then Dulles added:

"It is now for the Soviet rulers to make clear whether or not they want a 'summit' conference which will genuinely promote the cause of peace and justice in the world. We do."

Venezuela Is Off Schedule

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Acting on advice from his sponsors in Venezuela, evangelist Billy Graham said he has dropped that country from his Latin America preaching tour which starts Monday.

Graham said yesterday he received a cablegram from the committee planning his scheduled two-week crusade in Venezuela advising him to cancel the revival because of politically unstable conditions there.

He departs Monday for speaking engagements in Jamaica, Puerto Rico, Barbados, Trinidad, Panama, Costa Rico, Guatemala and Mexico, in that order.

The Venezuelan political climate has been uncertain since New Year's Day when President Marcos Perez Jimenez thwarted an attempted military revolt.

Court Figures She Has Plenty To Wear

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mrs. Pearl Balos didn't exactly say she had nothing to wear. But in her divorce suit she asked $600 a month for clothing.

Her husband, wealthy real estate man Benjamin Balos, 63, objected to her request for $2,465 monthly alimony, including the clothing allowance.

He told the court he took an inventory of his wife's wardrobe and found:

Eight fur pieces, 153 dresses, 108 pairs of shoes, 68 skirts, 72 pairs of stockings, 85 purses, 32 girdles, 36 house robes.

The court ruled that Mrs. Balos, 53, will have to get along on $1,400 temporary alimony.

Mirrors Are Stolen

Theft of eight outside mirrors from new cars sometime between Jan. 1 and Jan. 11, was reported to police today by Pollard Motor Co.

T. L. Steele, police chief, said it is not known whether all the thefts occurred at the same time or not.

Suspect Returned

Ray Haigwood was returned here yesterday by the sheriff's office to face a charge of check swindling.

There has not yet been disposition of the case.

New Test Is Scheduled On Confession

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Another lie test has been ordered for an ex-convict who told police he killed a man last October — a story he related a few hours after another man went on trial for the crime.

Sheriff Virgil Ball of Fulton County last night termed "inconclusive" a first lie test given Arthur McCulley.

"There are many discrepancies. His story doesn't add up," Ball said after the test. McCulley, sentenced in 1950 to Joliet Penitentiary, was held as a parole violator, Ball said.

Meanwhile, the trial of Edgar L. (Mickey) Suydan, 39, continued in Lewistown, Ill. Suydan is accused of shooting Raymond Bowser, 39, last October in the Canton, Ill., home of McCulley's former wife.

Suydan and Bowser both sought Mrs. McCulley's affection, authorities said.

A few hours after Suydan's trial began, McCulley told police in Peoria, Ill., that he drove to his former wife's home intending to kill Suydan but shot and killed Bowser by mistake.

Stayton of the Austin firm of Black & Stayton, James H. Milam of the Lubbock firm of Crenshaw, Dupree & Milam, and Ross Hemphill of the Snyder firm of Park, Hemphill & Auforth, all for the McLachlens; and Frank J. Scurlock of the Dallas firm of Turner, Rodgers, Winn, Scurlock & Terry, Renal B. Rosson of Snyder, and Robert R. Patterson of Snyder, all for the Stroubes.

The case means much in a financial way to both sides, since a number of oil wells are involved.

The case concerns oil property southwest of Snyder in section 146, block 25, H&TC Survey. Substantially, the dispute has to do with whether wells on the lease, which is in the Sharon Ridge Canyon Unit, are still flowing naturally, as the McLachlens contend, or whether the water injection pressure maintenance program in the unit is an artificial method of production, as the Stroubes contend.

The lease was first made on June 30, 1946, from Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Eiland of Snyder to G. M. Heinzelmann of [illegible] Heinzelmann acquiring the lease for himself and for the McLachlan family of Connecticut.

Canyon Reef oil was discovered here in October, 1948. On Dec. 27, 1949, Heinzelmann and the McLachlens assign the lease to the six members of the Stroube family, headquartered in Corsicana. The Stroubes paid $125,000 and agreed to develop the lease, but Heinzelmann and the McLachlans reserved 7-16ths overriding royalty from the total 8-8ths production of oil, if and when it was produced, saved, and marketed.

The agreement included that "... if at any time any well on said lands does not by its natural flow produce its oil allowable after a 30-day test period, then the 7-16ths overriding royalty herein reserved shall be reduced and there shall then only be reserved by and payable to the assignor hereunder from such well or wells a 7-32nds overriding royalty; and providing any well on said lands produces less than 30 barrels per day for 30 consecutive days, then in said event the overriding royalty reserved by and payable to assignor from any such well or wells shall be reduced and there shall only be reserved by and payable to assignor hereunder from any such well or wells a 7-64ths overriding royalty."

The Stroubes completed the first well on the lease on Feb. 15, 1950, and by Sept. 6, 1951, the last of 16 wells on the lease was completed. All were producers, and cost of developing the lease was more than $1 million.

During the period 1952-54, however, operators in the area became apprehensive about the decline in bottomhole pressures and the upward trend of gas-oil ratios. The Sharon Ridge Canyon Unit was formed, and the physical operation provided for a peripheral water flood. The Railroad Commission approved the unit's water injection pressure maintenance program on Feb. 14, 1955, and the unit became effective May 1, 1955.

A federal census estimates that Australia's population is approximately 9,600,000.

Duffey Asks Venue Change

GILMER, Tex. (AP)—Judge Looney Lindsey will rule Saturday on a defense motion for a change of venue in the trial of J. W. Duffey, charged in the shotgun blasting of a home during the Lone Star Steel strike.

Duffey and Robert Blount are charged in the blasting of the Robert Blundell home Oct. 28. Blundell was a non-striker. Duffey was a striker.

Lindsey recessed a hearing after testimony from 10 witnesses yesterday.

Chris Dixie of Houston and R. L. Whitehead of Longview, defense attorneys, said the case should be transferred because Duffey could not obtain a fair trial because "there exists in Upshur County a great prejudice against him."

They also asserted in the motion that "There is a dangerous combination against him in Upshur County instigated by influential persons, to wit, the Lone Star Steel Co. and its officers and directors."

The blasting of Blundell's home was one of a long series of violent incidents in the two-months wildcat strike.

In 1784 General Lafayette and all his descendants — forever after — were made citizens of Maryland.

"DRAMA IN LIVING" topic of the program for the meeting of the Altrurian Daughters Club Wednesday afternoon, was delightfully carried out in the performances presented the group by children of club members. Above is the group of children who participated. (Lee Watson photograph)

WOMEN

Mrs. J. N. Dunn Elected Head Of 20th Century Club

The Twentieth Century Club met in the Martha Ann Woman's Clubhouse Tuesday, with Mrs. G. W. Hicks presiding.

Mrs. John Hamblen led the group in the reading of "A Collect For Club Women." During the business session Mrs. J. Nelson Dunn was elected president of the group.

Mrs. Elton Wyatt, program leader, discussed the topic "Service and Happiness." She said that there was never a time when so much official effort was being expended to produce happiness, and probably never a time when so little attention was paid by the individual to creating the personal qualities that made for it. "We should develop a character that will in itself, given any reasonable odds, make for happiness. Happiness comes from within and rests most securely in simple goodness and a clean conscience. Religion plays a big part in happiness and no one is known to have gained it without a philosophy which rests upon ethical principles."

Mrs. I. T. Huckabee discussed 'How To Have Peace of Mind.' She said, "In this day of strife and unrest, atomic bomb and sputnik, it is hard not to have a troubled mind. High tension is a prevailing American malady. Worry, fear, strain, overwork and unrest are playing havoc among American people.

"Your life is determined by what goes on in your brain. The brain is the center of thought, memory, feeling, emotion, dreams, prayers and faith. One way to develop faith is through the practice of loves taught by Jesus.

"Contentment and peace comes from seeing the good around us. Peace of mind comes from loving God and our neighbor as ourself, by having our minds and hearts open for better an broader views, by doing all the good we can and by service to others."

Mrs. Joe Strayhorn discussed the 'Art of Understanding People.' She told "Most people want success in life, but that they are really seeking happiness. Students of psychology are trying to solve the problem of helping people get along in life through a better understanding of human beings, through greater efficiency, and better management of their emotions. The ultimate aim of the science of psychology is to help people succeed.

"There are different yardsticks for measuring success. There is a greater difference between the outside and inside measure of success. Some of the ways to achieve success are: being sincere, honest, cooperative, understanding and by learning the pleasant amenities of life.

"These are the lubricants that reduce friction and help you get along with others."

Mrs. S. M. Pliler hostess, served a dessert plate to 15 members.

Maurine Pilcher Speaks To Group In Colorado City

Mrs. Maurine Pilcher, director of nurses at the Cogdell Memorial Hospital was guest speaker for the Business and Professional Women in Colorado City Tuesday evening. Mrs. Pilcher is also a member of the local B&PW Club and is chairman of career advancement committee.

Altrurian Daughters Club Enjoy Drama Program Here

The Altrurian Daughters Club met Wednesday afternoon at the Martha Ann Woman's Club with Mrs. Herman Doak as hostess.

Mrs. Ophelia Blackard and Mrs. John Casebier presented a program on "Drama In Living."

Mrs. Blackard said that the General Federation clubwoman tells us that dramatics have a vital place in clubwork. There is great fun and satisfaction to be gained by member participation and presentation of a fine play. Many believe that ideas are better taught and absorbed through dramatic play.

"From one end of the country to the other, there is great interest in amateur theatericals. Reliable statistics indicate that there are more than 40,000 amateur player groups in this country. Our clubs are a sizeable part of this group.

"There have been many fine types of programs in the drama division: playlets, full evening plays, staging, theater in the round and pantomine. To dramatize a story or a play is to give that story or play life and meaning by establishing, through interpretation, living characterizations that are contained in the material used, and by showing the characters relationship to one another by means of actions and speech."

The second part of the program, directed by Mrs. Casebier was a poem "We Are Children," presented by Nita Nicholas, Lisa Dennis, Trey Cooper, Carla Clements and Alana Patterson.

Mintue fas presented by Lee McKinley, Janeen Clements, Billy Tim Atwood and Carla Clements.

Fredricka Josephson gave a musical reading and was accompanied by Barbara Josephson.

A mellodrama was given by Janie Carrol, Candy Bass, Le McKinley, Billy Tim Atwood, Janeen Clements, Paul Brown, Fredericka Josephson, Dana Falls, Janice Atwood, Peggy Patterson, Marie Gray, Joe Bass, Ann Patterson, and Lana and Larry Nicholas.

Those attending were 19 members and three guests, Mrs. Charles Cooper, Mrs. T. L. Lollar and Mrs. Casebier.

Local Delegation Will Attend WTCC Industrial Conference

Chamber of Commerce members interested in industrial development have been invited to attend the fifth annual West Texas Industrial Conference, which will be held in Abilene next Thursday, according to Lyle Deffebach, president of the Scurry County Industrial Foundation.

Several men here have already indicated they will attend the conference, which is sponsored by the industrial development committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The conference will offer a five-point program on industrial development: garment factories, processing agricultural products, minireal resources, industrial foundations, and study of the potentials of the region in scientific and economic discovery and development through research.

WTCC officials said there will be no registration or other fees charged those attending. The all day meeting will start at 9 a.m. next Thursday and will be held at the Wooten Hotel in Abilene.

Organization and use of industrial foundations will be discussed by John W. Tippitt, assistant research economist of the Texas Engineering Experiment Station at College Station.

Scott Metcalf of Dallas, manager of the manufacturors agency of Singer Sewing Machine Co., will discuss garment industries.

West Texas mineral resources, known locations of mineral deposits, their commercial uses, and how to launch exploration for others will be discussed by Dr. John T. Lonsdale of Austin, director of the Bureau of Economic Geology.

Considerations of the feasibility of increasing the value of locally-produced crops and establishing a payroll through canning, packing, mixing, shelling, etc., is to be discussed by a panel composed of J. C. Porter of Wichita Falls, WTCC agriculture and livestock chairman and assistant vice-president and agriculturist of the First National Bank there; C. B. Senter of Van, agricultural agent for the Texas and Pacific Railway; and Jesse Ward of Fort Worth, agriculture engineer for Texas Electric Service Co.

The conference program will also include a look into the future, with Dr. Sylvan J. Kaplain of Lubbock, coordinator of research at Texas Tech College, discussing "West Texas in the Space Age," with emphasis on the potential of this region.

New Fire Fighting Foam Passes Test

The first use of new oil fire fighting chemicals by the Snyder fire department resulted in an oil tank battery fire being put out in less than 10 minutes near here this morning.

D. A. Porter, fire chief, said, the chemical foam put the blaze out in from five to 10 minutes time, and that water was sprayed on the tank for another 10 minutes to cool it enough to keep it from catching fire again.

The fire occurred about 8 o'clock this morning on Magnolia tract No. 135 about three miles north of Snyder just east of the Santa Fe railroad tracks across from the Snyder Country Club.

"This was our first chance to use the chemical foam on an actual oil fire, and it put the fire out faster than anything else we have ever used," Porter said.

"There was little or no damage to the tank, which was burning through vents and an inspection door when we arrived," Porter added.

Yesterday afternoon the fire department was kept busy with three fire calls, one of which was a grass fire reported by mistake as a house on fire near the Veteran's Club in northwest Snyder about 6 o'clock last night. Only grass and brush burned there.

At about the same time a false alarm call reported a light plane crash near the city dump grounds south of town. Several high-flying planes were leaving long, silvery vapor trails, and a dump ground fire was burning at the time, but firemen who inspected the area thoroughly found no crashed plane.

At about 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon firemen put out a neon sign blaze at the Snyder Drugs No. 1 on the west side of the square. There was some damage to the sign and slight damage to the wood framework.

Reds Claim Ornithopters Are Developed

LONDON (AP) — Moscow radio announced today that Soviet aircraft designers "have created" ornithopters — aircraft which fly like birds by flapping their wings.

The broadcast, quoting the Soviet news agency Tass, did not make clear whether the Russians actually have such machines flying or have only reached an advanced designing stage.

Moscow radio said the wing flappers "can be used conveniently for flights over short distances. They can take off from any place, hover in the air and land anywhere."

The ornithopter's lifting power was described as being "about three or four times that of an ordinary aircraft" using the same engine power. The broadcast claimed that an ornithopter capable of carrying 15 people would operate on the same power as a conventional training plane carrying only two persons.

If the Russians have made ornithopters fly, they have mastered mechanical difficulties that balked men for centuries in their efforts to get into the air.

Todd, Elizabeth Arrive In London

LONDON (AP) — American showman Mike Todd arrived in London by plane today on his way to Moscow with his actress wife Elizabeth Taylor and called her "the best secret weapon we've got."

"I thought it might be a good idea to show off Liz to the Russians. It may undermine their whole structure," he said.

"Taking a look at her, I should say she's the best secret weapon we've got."

That was Todd's only explanation of the trip to Russia.

Librarians To Attend Meet

Nine student librarians and the two high school librarians will go to Winters Saturday for the District III meeting of the Teen-Age Library Association.

The meeting is expected to draw about 250 students from 34 counties in the district.

Attending from Snyder will be Charlene Johnson, president of the High School Library Club; Carolyn Goodlett, vice-president; Donna Krop, Patsy Rosson, Mary Miles, Junellen DeArmon, Joyce Guy, Betty Johnson, and Roy Redman. Attending with the students will be Mrs. J. P. Nelson, head high school librarian, and Mrs. Joyce Gorman, assistant librarian.

Registration will be held at 9 a.m. Saturday. General sessions will be held in the high school auditorium.

Main speaker for the morning session will be Miss Mabel Willoughby, director of library science at Hardin-Simmons University.

Also to speak to the group will be James B. Nevins, superintendent of schools at Winters.

Political-Economic Arena Is Cold War Battleground

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

The Russians served clear notice of their intentions.

"The capitalist countries no longer have a monopoly on supplying machinery and equipment, granting credits and imparting know-how," Soviet delegate A. A. Arzumanyan told the Afro-Asian Conference in Cairo last month.

The Russians thus repeated their war declaration in the political-economic field in underdeveloped countries. Despite Sputniks and missiles, the political-economic arena is the place where the decisive battles of the cold war are likely to be fought.

An important, and often unnoticed, part in this battle is played by America's small army of technical experts under the International Cooperation Administration program to help other nations help themselves. How are the Americans doing? Are there too many of them in the Middle East and North Africa?

Compared with the rest of the world, the Middle East, probably the most sensitive cold war front, receives a relativey smal share of the U. S. technical aid program, which Arabs still call Point Four.

Once, under President Truman's Point Four program, Americans were welcomed in Egypt. Their work inspired some of the ambitious projects of the Egyptian revolution. But American-Egyptian relations soured in 1956. Today the program in Egypt is insignificant.

Altogether there are 862 Americans working on technical aid programs in Middle East countries, distributed as follows: Iran, 315; Iraq, 101; Jordan, 81; Lebanon, 63; Libya, 134; Ethiopia, 157; and Egypt, only 1. Syria was offered Point Four aid and rejected it on political grounds. Saudi Arabia first accepted, then rejected such help. There is no program in the Sudan.

In North Africa, Tunisia has only eight American technicians. U. S. prestige is high there. Tunisia wants more Americans.

Morocco has a staff of 21 Americans. There is no significant anti-American feeling, but since there is a military installation of 15,000 Americans, it is one of the countries which might complain of "too many Americans."

In the Arab East, the once common complaint of "too many Americans" seems to be lessening. Perhaps this is because Soviet offers of technicians made Arabs suspicious. They do not know Russians. They know Americans and generally like them—although the U. S. government has been losing friends swiftly through the area.

An American official of the ICA concedes there are a few "bad Americans who give all of us a black eye."

But an American diplomat said: "Instead of personnel cutbacks, perhaps our agencies in Washington should give a little more thought to personnel selectivity."

On the whole, Arabs agree most of the projects have been worthwhile. Said one Arab official: "Point Four has given employment to thousands in the Middle East who otherwise would not have jobs. Even Americans are spending their money here, which means employment for still more."

The Lebanese government had been spending $16,000 a year trying to keep coastal highways clear of drifting sand. It was a losing fight. But "in three days, a Point Four technician did the job for all time," a Lebanese official said. He found a wild grass which would thrive in the sand, and had the Army plant shoots along the highways.

The Middle East has many examples of so-called "trivial" jobs which paid off. There are dozens of big projects too, like the Litani River program in Lebanon which has proved an irrigation-hydroelectric project feasible and induced the World Bank to lend 26 million dollars for it.

In Iraq, ICA technicians cooperate with the Iraq Development Board on a huge economic program paid for by the nation's oil revenues. Similar work goes on in Jordan, Libya and other Arab areas.

Tomorrow—Gratitude south of the border.

Gail Whitney Ends 25-Day Engagement

NEW YORK (AP)—Blonde and pretty Gail Whitney, 19-year-old daughter of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, has called off her 25-day engagement to oil heir Richard C. Cowell, saying:

"I'm just a mixed-up kid. I love Dick and I think the world of him. But frankly I'm scared to marry."

The breakup announcement was made yesterday by Gail, her mother Mrs. Josiah Marvel and Cowell, 34. Miss Whitney's millionaire father and mother were divorced.

Commented Mrs. Marvel: "This was entirely Gail's decision."

Quarterback Football Banquet Here Tonight

Between 300-400 persons are expected to crowd into the high school cafeteria tonight for the annual Snyder Quarterback Club football banquet that will honor the city's schoolboy gridders of the 1957 season.

Honored will be the Tigers, "B" team, Freshman team and the two junior high teams, 7th and 8th grades.

Featuring tonight's program will be a speech from one of the outstanding college football coaches of the country. Bill Meek of Southern Methodist.

Another highlight will be the announcement of the "Outstanding Tiger" award winner. The winner of this award is being kept secret until tonight.

Name of the Outstanding Tiger will be imprinted on a trophy presented to Snyder High School last year by Carl Herod, local business man and a rabid Tiger football fan.

Herod has made this award for several years and until last year winner of the award received a trophy. But when the Texas Interscholastic League tightened up its rules on athletes receiving such awards, a trophy was presented to the school instead.

Names of all past Outstanding Tiger awards have been engraved on the trophy and the name of all future winners will be done likewise.

Wayland Holt will serve as the master of ceremonies tonight.

Smoke turkey will feature tonight's menu.

Price per plate for the stag affair is $1. The low price for the meal ticket was made possible by G. W. Parks of Snyder Meat Co. who is furnishing the meat. Parks has furnished the meat for the football banquet the past several years.

Banquet tickets will be available at the door tonight. There has been no advance sale of tickets.

BANQUET SPEAKER—Bill Meek, above, head football coach at SMU, will be the guest speaker at tonight's Quarterback Club football banquet honoring the Tigers and other grid teams of the city. Meek took over the head reigns at SMU last fall after several successful coaching years at Maryland, Kansas State and University of Houston.

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

JUST WHAT THE TROUBLE down at College Station is concerning the hiring of a football coach at Texas A&M we don't know but whatever it is, something had better be done about it quickly or the Aggie football future will be wrecked.

There's one thing for sure, had the Aggie board of directors not been so intent of acquiring a "big name" coach they wouldn't be in the predicament they are in today.

More than likely the Aggies could have gotten either Dan Devine of Arizona State or Jim Myers of Iowa State had they not "dilly dallied" around so long.

But while they were dickering with "big name" coaches, Devine signed up as head coach at Missouri. And Myers probably would have taken the Aggie job if someone on the board hadn't "flubbed up" somewhere along the line.

It seems that Myers withdrew because the board induced Navy's Eddie Erdalatz to come to College Station to talk with officials about the coaching vacancy right in the midst of conferring with Myers.

By that, of course, Myers figured A&M didn't want him so he pulled himself out of the picture.

Erdalatz Deal Stirs Aggies Ranks

The trouble that came up over Erdalatz' meeting with the Aggie board certainly won't help matters. In fact, it'll be harder than ever now for the Aggies to find a man to take the job.

There's bound to be something wrong when a school can't hire a coach at $16,000 per annum.

Then something else caused a lot of eyebrows to be raised when the Bryan coed didn't go through with her plans of trying to gain entry at A&M. She, like the numerous coaches contacted, withdraw.

Oh well, maybe things will get straightened out in due time in Aggie land but here's one thing for sure — the situation as it now stands is causing alarm along the Aggie alumni front.

It's probably happened before but Tuesday's clean sweep of five games by the local schoolboy cagers is the best showing on any single date that we can recall.

The junior high and Tiger freshman teams had no trouble in conquering similar teams from Colorado City and the Tiger B breezed past Seminole B in fine fashion.

That left it up to the Tigers to complete the five-game sweep in the day's finale against Seminole.

It didn't look so good for a half but then the Tigers came back strong in the second half to pull the game out after trailing by five points at halftime.

Big Event Here Tonight

If you saw the Tiger-Seminole game, you perhaps noted that all Seminole players used the "old" method of shooting free shots — two hand underhand style.

We were told that the Seminole coach requires all basketeers in Seminole to use the underhand shot from high school on down through junior high.

It would be pretty conservative to say that at least 95 percent of the basketeers nowadays shoot free shots one-handed. It doesn't matter how you shoot 'em, though, whether you throw 'em in or kick 'em in, any method is good that will get the ball in the hoop.

Seminole did all right from the free throw line the other night here, sinking 13 of 18 for 72 percent.

All you football fans certainly don't want to miss tonight's Quarterback Club banquet at the high school cafeteria.

In addition to the fine meal that is in store, a very enlightening program featuring a talk by Coach Bill Meek of SMU is on tap.

Price of the meal shouldn't keep anyone away. The price is only a buck. You can't even buy a regular meal for this price and look at the extras you'll get by attending tonight.

The catch on the price of the meal is that G. W. Parks is furnishing the meat.

TIGER-KERMIT TIME CHANGED

Game-time for the Tiger-Kermit game slated Saturday night at Kermit has been changed, according to Tiger coach J. P. Ward.

The game will start at 7:30 p.m. instead of 7:00 p.m. as was originally scheduled. The "B" game also was mov edup 30 minutes, from 5:30 to 6:00.

Saturday's game will be the last non-conference game for the Tigers. The Bengals open defense of their District 3-AAA crown here next Tuesday against Lamesa.

Mountaineers Win; Tar Heels Tumble

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

What a difference a year makes. North Carolina, the NCAA title holder, has hit the skids while West Virginia's Mountaineers have gained a poised, championship look.

The Mountaineers, top-ranked in this week's Associated Press poll, played it cool again last night, calmly coming from behind for a 71-64 decision over Pitt and a 13-0 record.

But sixth-ranked North Carolina, losing two in a row for the first time since the end of the 1955 season, was knocked off 58-57 in overtime by North Carolina State for the Tar Heels' third defeat in 14 starts.

Just 12 months ago, North Carolina was in the midst of its unbeaten run on the national title while West Virginia was recovering from a three-game slump.

Bradley followed North Carolina onto the upset heap, losing 71-70 to St. Louis on a free throw by Bob Ferry after the final gun. It was the second loss in 11 games for the 10th-ranked Braves.

Elgin Baylor scored 53 points—a school record and enough to make him a solid third in national major college scoring — as Seattle whipped Montana State College 108-83.

Temple (No. 12) gained an 11-2 record with a comeback, 72-61 victory over Penn; and Dartmouth (No. 19) escaped upset and retained the Ivy League lead with a 67-64 decision over Harvard.

The Mountaineers bagged theirs in the last 3 minutes as Lloyd Sharrar, the 6-10 guy who scored the clincher in last week's squeeker past Villanova, converted a rebound for a five-point spread.

North Carolina, which had won 24 in a row at home, blew 17 of 42 foul shots while dropping out of a first place tie with Maryland for the Atlantic Coast Conference lead. Maryland defeated North Carolina Saturday. Tar Heel Tommy Kearns was high scorer with 17 points last night.

Tom Hawkins scored 28 for Notre Dame as the Irish, behind at the half for the first time this season, broke loose with 33 points in the last 13 minutes for a 69-61 decision over DePaul.

George Washington's zone defense defeated William & Mary 91-80 as Bowling Green defeated Toledo 67-65 in the Mid-American. Holy Cross defeated Syracuse 80-71.

A&M Athletic Board Ousted

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Officials of Texas A&M, embroiled in dissension over selection of a football coach, try today to sift some order into their seemingly endless hunt.

With criticism coming from all sides, Dr. Chris Groneman, chairman of the Faculty Athletic Council, said the group would try to appraise the situation.

Even Gov. Price Daniel has gotten into the act, calling for a complete report on the much-criticized search for a successor to Paul Bryant, who quit Jan. 1 to become head coach at Alabama.

W. T. Doherty of Houston, chairman of the college Board of Directors, sacked the board's Athletic Committee yesterday.

"This simply is a move which I believe to be necessary to clear up a confused situation which is damaging to the A&M College of Texas," Doherty said.

Earlier, alumnus Gene Howard, 1957 president of the Houston A&M Club, called on four of the five members of the Athletic Committee to resign from the Board of Directors. He accused them of fumbling the recruiting.

But Jack Finney of Greenville, Tex., chairman of the dissolved committee, said he has no intention of resigning and disputed Doherty's authority to take such action except at a called board meeting.

Another member of the athletic committee, Price Campbell of Abilene, Tex., joined in questioning the move and said he could see no reason for the action.

"I do not feel I have done anything to resign for," Finney said. "The action appears to put the blame upon us and we do not accept any responsibility for the confusion that now exists." He said he would welcome an investigation by Gov. Daniel.

The Houston Post said Campbell was believed by many to be leader of a campaign to get a big name coach, apparently causing division on the board.

The Post said this division was responsible for the rejection of Jim Myers of Iowa State, one of five coaches who have visited the Aggie campus about the job.

The latest, Navy's Eddie Erdelatz, left in a huff after saying Aggie officials should have contacted his superiors before approaching him.

Erdelatz also said it appeared to him the board's Athletic Committee had more power in hiring a coach than President M. T. Harrington or the board.

Campbell and Finney were the Aggie representatives who secretly contacted Erdelatz at a time when Myers appeared to be the top prospect, according to the Post. H. B. Zachry of San Antonio, another member of the directors' Athletic Committee, also went along and the Post said he financed Erdelatz' trip to Texas.

Former Notre Dame Coach Frank Leahy rejected the $16,000 a year job because of ill health after first accepting it. Henry Sanders of UCLA and Duffy Daugherty of Michigan State also visited here but either they didn't get firm offers or they didn't like the setup.

Dr. Groneman said dissolution of the directors' selection committee will make it easier for the Faculty Athletic Council to find a coach. He said his group now will submit its recommendation directly to Dr. Harrington, who would either approve or reject it and then send it along to the board of directors for final approval.

Dr. Groneman said his Faculty Committee will look over a new list of prospects, but he declined to say whether this means the search for a name coach is over.

New names keep popping up as prospects although college officials decline comment publicly. Jim Owens, head coach at Washington, was reported by the Dallas Times Herald to have some backing among Aggie alumni. He left A&M a year ago after serving on Bryant's staff.

Peyton McKnight, a former president of the East Texas A&M Club, said at Tyler Doherty should resign.

"He is just trying to get out from under the responsibility of his position," McKnight said.

"Doherty, Gene Howard and C. J. Thornton, in all their announcements and telegrams, have just been trying to gain control of A&M athletics from the Houston A&M Club," McKnight said.

McKnight said the five board members asked to resign cast the five votes against the other four in the recent differences in voting by the board.

McKnight also charged that the Houston A&M Club had dominated athletic affairs at A&M before Bryant was hired and said the Houston club was trying to regain control.

"Howard is trying to get rid of everybody who doesn't agree with him," McKnight said. "It's a case of, if you don't play the way we want to we will pick up our marbles and go home."

Max Freeman, immediate past president of the East Texas A&M Club, said "this whole thing has been distorted out of reason. The main thing would be for everybody to grow up and act like adults and then this thing would work itself out. But a governor's investigation on hiring a football coach is ridiculous."

Martinez Gets Shot At Title

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—It will be Vince Martinez against Isaac Logart for the vacated welterweight championship — National Boxing Assn. version.

Martinez won the right last night for the fight to determine a successor to Carmen Basilio as welterweight king by outpointing Philadelphia's Gil Turner in a 12-round bout. Basilio gave up the title after winning the middleweight crown from Ray Robinson.

Martinez, of Patterson, N.J., received only a split decision but established a clear superiority over Turner with sharp punching, especially in the final three rounds.

Referee Pete Pantaleo scored Martinez the winner by a single point under the Pennsylvania five-point maximum system, 54-53. Judge Jimmy Mina voted for Martinez 56-54. Judge Nate Lopinson surprised the crowd of 7,120—it paid $37,959 — by calling a 55-55 draw. The Associated Press scored Martinez a handy winner, 54-48.

A&M BOARD HEAD SPIKES RUMORS

We Only Advise, Finney Claims

GREENVILLE (AP)—A trim 41-year-old bakery executive who was too small to play college football finds himself right in the middle of what may be the biggest football story of the year in Texas.

He is Jack Finney, owner of one of the largest bakeries in North Texas, and chairman of the Texas A&M board of directors' Athletic Committee which was dissolved yesterday.

Finney insists there never were any disagreements between the administration and the directors of A&M over selection of a coach to succeed Paul Bryant.

He admits there was one error and some misunderstandings.

Finney has been in the limelight each of the five times A&M has talked with a coach.

Despite complaints that his committee had plenty of say in the selection, Finney insists "all we do is advise."

The executive, appointed to the A&M board by former Gov. Allan Shivers, is a dedicated Aggie. He graduated in 1938.

This is the way he explains the various negotiations A&M has become involved in since Bryant quit.

"Daugherty (Duffy Daugherty, Michigan State). We all agreed on him. Mr. Daugherty, for various reasons that are known to him, because of ties, decided he would rather stay at Michigan State. We were agreed.

"We agreed on Mr. (Henry) Sanders (of UCLA) coming down and talking.

"We agreed on talking to Leahy. (Frank Leahy, former Notre Dame coach).

"We felt that if he (Leahy) was physically fit, he would be a good man for the job. (His doctors advised Leahy not to take the job.)

"We didn't turn down Mr. Sanders nor did he turn us down. We have the highest regard and respect for Mr. Sanders. He is a high type of gentleman.

"Leahy—it probably was a premature release on that. He told Mr. Harrington, as I understand it, that everything was all right if he met his physical.

"We were agreed up to there.

"Some way or other the Athletic Council met with Mr. Myers (Jim Myers, Iowa State), and Mr. Myers impressed them very much. Our commitee met with him. We thought he was a very fine young coach. We had nothing against him. But we thought maybe we should look a little further.

"Now I contacted Erdelatz (Eddie Erdelatz of the Naval Academy) with Dr. Harrington's knowledge. I contacted him in Philadelphia. Then I got hold of members of our committee, and they asked to have a meeting arranged."

Finney said Erdelatz agreed, after Erdelatz had an opportunity to talk to Naval Academy officials.

"Thursday afternoon, he called me from Annapolis and told me he had just had a meeting with his athletic director and the group there, and that he now was able to negotiate if we wanted to talk to him—that he didn't have to talk to anyone else."

On Friday, said Finney, an A&M board commitee of three men met with Erdelatz in Washington. He said the Navy coach insisted he call the academy superintendent and inform him the talks were taking place. Finney said he replied that he could not because such a call must come from Dr. Harrington.

"We came up to Erdelatz and Myers in perfect accord. We will say the manner in which both cases were handled caused a disagreement.

"The Athletic Council was acting in good faith, and we were acting in good faith."

Asked why the committee instead of the council contacted Erdelatz, Finney said:

"We investigated to see the possibilities in Erdelatz, and we were in our perfect rights because Dr. Harrington knew we were going to call him.

Finney said he felt personally that the A&M board might turn down a coaching prospect approved by the Faculty Council, "but we would not accept anyone they didn't recommend . . .

In a separate statement to the Greenville Herald-Banner, Finney also said:

"I am tired of him (Erdelatz) saying that improper protocol was employed in dealing with him. And the other directors feel the same way," Finney said.

"I just called his hand on some of his statements," Finney said. "He just didn't realize how big the recruiting problem is, how large Texas is, and how much work would be involved.

"He began to hedge after he got on the campus. I told him if he couldn't do the job we didn't want him," Finney said.

"After he called me out to his car and he told me it was bigger than he thought it would be, I told him to make a statement to that effect to the press," Finney said.

PICKS AND TURNS—Navy football coach Eddie Erdelatz picks his teeth with a finger nail during a press conference at Texas A&M College at which he announced he withdrew as a candidate for football coach and athletic director at A&M. Erdelatz flew from Annapolis to College Station to visit the A&M campus and talk with officials. (AP Wirephoto)

Baugh Gets Pro Offer

ABILENE (AP)—Hardin-Simmons Coach Sammy Baugh today was mulling over an offer to coach the Regina Roughriders of the Canadian Professional Football League.

Baugh said he has been offered a three-year contract, "for the most money I'll ever be offered in coaching." He declined to disclose exact terms.

The former passing star said he would announce his decision after meeting with the Hardin-Simmons Athletic Council Saturday morning.

Sam Taylor and Assistant Coach Jack Russell of the Regina club flew to Texas Tuesday to approach Baugh about the job. Frank Filchock left the post after five years as head man of the Regina team.

Baugh has been at Hardin-Simmons as an assistant and head coach since retiring five years ago after 16 years in the pro ranks with the Washington Redskins. He was a passing star at Texas Christian.

"It's hard to get up and leave a place where you are as happy as I am at Hardin-Simmons," Baugh said. "And I've never jumped a contract in my life."

Baugh has two years to go on a five-year contract. He owns a ranch near here.

Paula Jean Myers captured all five National AAU diving titles in 1957.

THE SNYDER DAILY NEWS

VOL. 8, NO. 223 — SNYDER, TEXAS, THURSDAY, JANUARY 16, 1958 — SECTION B

IT'S POLL TAX TIME, but quite a number of persons qualify for exemption from the poll tax and still vote. Those include new 21-year-olds, like Mamie Lou Burditt, right. Mrs. Jean Everett, employe of the county tax assessor-collector's office, fills out the exemption certificate for the new voter.

Voting Qualifications May Appear Confusing

Every election year, there is much confusion among some persons about whether they can vote and where they should vote.

Many persons could qualify for exemption from poll tax payment and be eligible to vote. Still others disqualify themselves, even with poll taxes paid, because they did not comply with a simple ruling.

First, there are many residents of the Snyder area who could qualify for an exemption and vote free this year because they are 21.

Geral G. Greene, county tax assessor-collector, said the Jan. 31 poll tax deadline does not apply to the new 21-year-olds, but there are some rules which do apply: Any person, now 21 can get an exemption certificate. But the new 21-year-old, to vote in any election, must have qualified at least 30 days before the election in which he will vote.

Greene said there is also provision for a person who is not yet 21 but will be just before the election in which he desires to vote. In that case, he can get his exampption while he is still 20, taking care of the 30-day requirement before the election, and then vote when he is 21.

Then there is the exemption for the 60-year-old or more. There is a special twist to the law in that case which is slightly hard for some to understand. To qualify for the old-age exemption, a person must have been 60 on or before Jan. 1, 1957. That's because the law reads he must have reached that age by the beginning of the tax year. Taxes are assessed in October and are due by a deadline of Jan. 31. Actually, then, a person must have been at least 61 by Jan. 1 this year to qualify for that exemption.

There are also other exemptions from the poll tax under which persons can qualify to vote. That includes blind persons, those who have lost limbs, permanently disabled veterans, and veterans of foreign wars who are at least 40 per cent disabled.

Many times there is confusion among persons who move from one state to another, or from one county to another, about voting.

Greene said there is a special provision for exemption from poll tax for persons who have moved into Texas from other states since Jan. 1, 1957. They cannot vote, however, until they have been residents six months, even though they can secure the exemption certificates.

There are also those who move from one county to another. A poll tax paid in another county by a person who has moved here is good for voting here after the person has resided here at least six months. But to qualify, he must take his poll tax receipt to the office of the tax assessor-collector in the post office and have it revised by a deadline of at least five days prior to the election in which he desires to vote.

That five-day deadline also holds true in the case of a person who moves from one voting precinct to another within the county. To qualify for voting in his new voting precinct, he must have his tax receipt altered by the county tax office.

Any persons getting exemption certificates for any reason must have had them 30 days before any election in which they vote.

Greene said a person's residence is an important item on his poll tax receipt or exemption certificate. That determines which voting precinct will be his.

The law lays down ways to determine th residence, Greene said. A single man's residence is where he usually sleeps at night, while that of a married man is where his wife lives.

Share Work Plan Drafted

DETROIT (AP)—A share-the-work plan to save jobs of employes scheduled for layoffs has been drawn up by U.S. Rubber Co. and the United Rubber Workers Union.

Peter Bomarito, president of URW Local 101, said the union and management at the firm's Detroit plant agreed that workers in some eight-hour, five-day departments would work shorter hours to provide more jobs.

Bommarito estimated the plan will save jobs for 200 employes. The plant has about 4,700 production employes.

Under the new plan, employes on a 40-hour week would work at least 32 hours a week.

Bommarito said more than 700 employes were laid off last month and another 645 this month.

Knife & Fork Club To Be Organized

Letters of invitation have been sent out here for the formation of a local chapter of the Associated Knife and Fork Club network of dinner clubs.

There are some 50 of the 365 affiliates in Texas. Other clubs are situated throughout the United States, Mexico, Canada and the Territory of Alaska. Membership is reciprocal in all clubs.

Purpose of the organization, which is the largest association of its kind in the world, is to provide a membership of men and women in each local area who enjoy the privilege of attending a series of seven dinners a year, held about once a month except during the summer months. After the dinner hour at the meetings, the club members hear outstanding guest speakers.

The speakers come from the United States and from abroad, and their subjects cover a wide field of interest, both nationally and internationally. Subject matter includes travel, adventure, science, philosophy, finance and industry and professions, and an occasional entertaining guest also is provided. Following the address at each meeting, a short period of time is devoted to discussion of the speaker's subject and related matters.

There are no civic duties whatever and no compulsory attendance requirements in the Knife and Fork Club. The local organizations are managed locally by boards of directors, who name club officers and meet as a body annually to work out the selection of guest attractions. The memberships are composed of husbands and wives, as active associate members. Single men are entitled to secure an associate membership for a lady friend. Single or widowed ladies may hold single membership or "pair up" with another lady as associate member on the same basis.

The committee of sponsors here is composed of H. H. Allen, G. Edward Bolger, H. W. Cargile, Bill Eiland, Herbert Feather, Ralph Geisenhoner, Clyde Hall Jr., the Rev. J. Lennol Hester, J. T. Hughes, Mrs. Carrie Line, J. H. Mixon, Mrs. Edith Whatley McKanna, Dr. H. P. Redwine, Renal B. Rosson, Mrs. Forest G. Sears and Cecil Yarbrough.

A charter night dinner will be scheduled as soon as the roster is completed, and an outstanding guest speaker will appear on the charter night program. Directing formation of the club here is Elmer E. Schlotz, veteran executive field director, of Denver, Colo., now in his 18th year with the national organization.

Mexico Has Eye On Claim To Tidelands

DALLAS (AP)—The Dallas News said today Mexican lawyers are studying the possibility of claiming for Mexico part of the potentially oil-rich tidelands off the Texas coast.

The newspaper said such a claim would be based on the fact that some lawyers in the U.S. Justice Department "do not recognize Texas' right to territory extending three leagues (10½ miles) into the Gulf of Mexico—the traditional Spanish seaward boundary."

The Justice Department seeks to have Texas' claims limited to three miles.

The News said Neville Penrose of Fort Worth, former chairman of the Texas Good Neighbor Commission, confirmed the legal discussions.

The News quoted him as saying Mexican legal circles were considering the possibility of an international claim.

The paper went on to quote Penrose as giving this outline: Mexican attorneys based their discussion on the following—

"When hostilities over Texas ceased, Mexico recognized the former Spanish boundaries of Texas —10½ miles into the Gulf.

"The 'quit claim' legislation passed by the U.S. Congress and signed by President Eisenhower gave each coastal state the right to develop its tidelands out to traditional boundaries. The Mexicans, as do Texas officials, claim the traditional boundary is 10½ miles, inherited from Spain.

"The U.S. Department of Justice, in its pending suit against Texas, seeks an interpretation of the boundary of the state—whether it shall be only 3 miles or 10½ miles. Mexicans reason that if the U.S. Supreme Court rules Texas has only 3 miles, then it will be repudiating ownership of the belt 7½ miles wide from Brownsville to Louisiana; in effect saying that the full Spanish title never was conveyed to the Republic of Texas. So, the Mexican lawyers argue, if the United States rules the land doesn't belong to Texas, then it still belongs to Mexico."

The News said Texas has received almost 27 million dollars for leasing of submerged lands between the 3-mile and the 10½ mile lines since the Submerged Land Act was passed in 1953.

Sailor Says Mistreatment In Brig Open

YOKOSUKA, Japan (AP)—A former inmate of the Sasebo naval base brig testified today that prisoners were mistreated so openly he "thought everybody knew about it."

The testimony was given at the general court-martial of Sgt. Adrian A. McLane, 23, Philadelphia, former assistant brig warden at the U.S. base in south Japan.

McLane, a 200-pound six-footer, is the last of 16 Marine guards to be tried on charges of mistreating prisoners. He pleaded innocent today to 16 charges of cruelty and two of assault with a dangerous weapon. The maximum total penalty is 26 years in prison.

Nine of the guards have been convicted but reviewing authorities have reversed four of the convictions. The heaviest sentence given so far has been eight months at hard labor, reduction in rank and a fine.

Navy Fireman Carlos E. Vota, Amarillo, Tex., testified that McLane and other guards slapped him in the face, struck him in the stomach with their fists, and made him squat with his hands stretched out holding a ruler.

Brig personnel were beating up prisoners "so openly I thought everybody knew about it," he said.

Vota, who served a brief term for insubordination, said he did not complain after his release because McLane "had threatened me the night before with a riot gun."

"I was beaten for seven days, and you get awful scared after that," he added.

Brother To Back Sarah

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) — Randolph Churchill has arrived in time for the court appearance today of his sister, actress Sarah Churchill, 44.

Miss Churchill, daughter of Sir Winston Churchill, is due at 2 p.m. in Malibu Justice Court to answer a misdemeanor charge of being drunk in public view.

She was arrested Monday by sheriff's deputies after a male telephone operator complained she used profane language over the phone. Officers said they went to quiet the actress at her beach cottage here, but that when they started to go she got in their patrol car and refused to leave.

Miss Churchill spent five hours in county jail before her release on $50 bail. The next day she appeared on a nationwide television show and gave what critics said was one of her best performances.

Limit Debated On Honorary Pages

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—The Kentucky Senate was debating a proposal to limit the number of honorary pages which legislators may nominate.

Sen. Ed J. Kelly hesitantly inquired during the debate: "Is it all right if I nominate someone to be an honorary page?"

He was told yes.

"Then I would like to nominate my 3-week-old grandson," he said. The nomination was confirmed.

Army Still Has Planes

FT. SAM HOUSTON (AP)— The Army, which lost its Air Corps in a separation of services after World War II, once more has a sizeable Air Force of its own.

Requirements for greater mobility on the modern day atomic battlefield brought back its wings.

The number of Army aircraft in the five states of the 4th Army area has more than doubled since 1954. To man them the Army has 578 active duty aviators and 123 reserves.

They fly more than 700 helicopters and fixed wing aircraft. About half the planes are assigned to tactical units and the rest in training operations and administrative support.

Dallas Fireman Saves Life Of Chihuahua

DALLAS (AP) — Fireman Ed T. Williams saved the life of a tiny Chihuahua dog by using one finger to apply artificial respiration.

The dog was found unconscious in the flaming home of its masters, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Lindley.

"I held him in the palm of one hand," Williams said. "I turned him on his back and kept pressing on his chest with a finger and then releasing the pressure. At the same time, I held his mouth open and blew my breath into it."

After a minute or two, the tiny dog revived and scampered off.

AT&T Okays Huge Issue

NEW YORK (AP)—Stockholders of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. have approved the biggest new financing in corporate history—issuance of $718,313,000 in convertible debentures.

At a meeting yesterday, 53,006,754 shares were voted in favor of the issu and 406,407 against.

Money raised will help finance AT&T's near-record expansion plans. These are set at $2,250,000,000 in 1958, the all-time high was $2,500,000,000 in 1957.

AT&T stockholders also approved an employe stock option plan permitting Bell System employes to buy up to seven million dollars worth of common stock in five years. The stock will be sold at a price 15 per cent under the market, but not lower than $100.

Taylor Is Named Service Officer

Elmer L. Taylor, retired educator here, has been named county veterans service officer for Scurry County by the commissioners court.

This is a new, or renewed, position here. For several years there has been no service officer for veterans here. Veterans groups had requested that the commissioners court create the position to help handle the numerous veterans here in securing veterans benefits.

ELMER L. TAYLOR
. . . Vets service officer

Previously, veterans here have been going either to other cities for aid on problems dealing with benefits or their prior service or going to officers of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars here.

Taylor last year retired from the Snyder school system, which he was then serving as director of maintenanace and transportation, after many years in the education field.

A veteran of World War I, he is a former pilot.

Taylor said veterans needing assistance with problems should contact him at his home, where he will maintain his office because of lack of space in the county courthouse. His home is at 3104 Avenue T. His telephone is 3-4165.

Taylor was to go to Lubbock today to gather some data and materials in connection with the new office.

Killed In Wreck

ABILENE (AP)—Elbert Tucker, 53, of Lawn was killed last night when his car overturned 12 miles south of here.

Guide Dog Is Retired From Politics

CHICAGO (AP)—Dutchess, a German shepherd Seeing Eye dog, whose bite was as bad as her bark, has been retired from Chicago politics.

Her blind master, Alderman Herbert F. Geisler, said, "When a politician cannot talk to his constituents without his dog growling and nipping at them, that's bad."

Geisler explained that after nearly nine years of attending Chicago City Council meetings, Dutchess got jealous of anyone who approached her master.

Policemen were her special targets for nips and bites.

"She was frightening everybody," Geisler said. "People were afraid to come up to talk to me."

Geisler recently sent Dutchess back to the Seeing Eye Foundation at Morristown, N.J., "to have some of the bark and bite trained out of her."

But it didn't do any good. Dutchess was found hopelessly alien to crowds and will be given to someone not around other people so much.

Geisler's new guide dog, Phoebe attended a Council meeting yesterday and generally had a fine, well-behaved time.

"Maybe," observed one City Hall cynic, "she has not been around aldermen enough to know better."

Ike Finds Cold War More Intense After Six Years

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower enters next week his sixth year of fighting the cold war. How does it look? More intense than when he started.

Nothing shows it better than comparing what he said when he first took office in 1953 with what he's saying now.

His dream in 1953 was to cut government spending and balance the budget. He managed to make the balance twice, in 1956 and 1957.

He may not be able to do it again for the remainder of his second term. He had just submitted to Congress the biggest peacetime budget in history.

He managed to get an end to the shooting war he inherited—the one in Korea—but the Russians have been stepping up the pace of the cold war steadily.

They've been doing it with their economic aid to other countries and their sensational strides in weapons development.

Eisenhower's record budget this year is the result—an effort to keep pace with Russia. And there's no end in sight.

He managed to get through a 7½-billion-dolar tax cut in 1954, when Korean military spending dropped. But there's no tax cut in sight this year, although Congress yearns for it in this election year.

And, instead of coming down, government spending has been going up. In his 1958 message to Congress Jan. 9 Eisenhower, perhaps wistfully, still expressed hope for balancing the budget by keeping expenses below revenue.

And by the time yesterday came around Eisenhower was talking of the possibility of deficit spending again.

He said, in answer to a question at his news conference, that he'd rather consider deficit spending than an increase in taxes that would balance the budget by giving the government added revenue.

And there's a reason: at a time like this, when the economy has been slipping, taking more tax money from people would leave them less spending money and perhaps hurt the economy more than deficit spending by the government.

This was the kind of dilemma Eisenhower thought in 1953 he could banish. But after all his trying, thanks to the Russians, it's staring him straight in the face.

Slip-Down Foils Burglary Attempt

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—It wasn't a slipup which led to Francis S. Beck's downfall — it was a slip down.

Police arrived at a store to investigate a break-in.

Beck, 35, clung out of sight under a car for several minutes. But his hands finally slipped on greasy parts. Officers heard him fall and nabbed him.

He was charged with storehouse breaking.

Civilian Firm To Transfer Secrets

BALTIMORE (AP) — Most of the nation's top military secrets dealing with space flight, ballistics missiles, nuclear bombers and manned satellite stations are being entrusted to a civilian transfer company, starting today.

Elaborate security arrangements have been made to protect the highly classified documents of the Air Research and Development Command during its move to Andrews Air Force Base near Washington.

More than 25,000 items from waste baskets to safes crammed with hush-hush information will be moved from three Baltimore buildings now occupied by the ARDC.

Fuchs Transfer, Inc., Baltimore moving firm, will make the mammoth haul in 130 trailer trucks. The move will continue around the clock for the next 15 days. Fuchs was low bidder at $23,000 on a government contract for the job.

The move involves 1,650 persons with a monthly payroll of $800,000, including 810 civilians and 841 servicemen (most of them high-ranking Air Force officers), plus tons of office equipment, papers and other paraphernalia.

ARDC, largest research and development organization in the world, supervises scientific and technical studies for the Air Force.

The giant move will be made in two phases so that each department of the command will be kept in business both in Baltimore and at Andrews until the transfer is completed.

A spokesman for Fuchs transfer said air policemen have been assigned to each truck. Every truckload will be sealed and the whereabouts of each van will be known by air police at all times.

Snyder, Texas

The last Regular Session of the Texas Legislature passed seventeen laws designed to further regulate the insurance business. A few of those bills are of particular interest.

Under the old law a company could, in addition to carrying on businesses ordinarily carried on by an insurance company, accept deposits and act as Trustee for the handling of such deposits. The U. S. Trust & Guaranty Company adopted the charter powers granted in the old law, enabling them to accept deposits much as a bank would accept deposits. They used the money for various types of investments. The law has now been amended so as to prevent surety and guaranty companies organized under that particular chapter from acting as Trustees.

Formerly, a fire or casualty insurance company writing health and accident insurance policies could refuse to pay losses without incurring any penalty. But, if a life insurance company refused to pay its losses, it incurred a penalty of 12 per cent of the amout due under the policy, plus reasonable attorneys' fees.

Under the new law, the provision for the 12 percent penalty and attorneys' fees applies to all health and accident policies, regardless of whether they are written in a life company, on the one hand, or a fire or casualty company, on the other.

Under the old law, companies writing fire insurance could not charge a premium in excess of that fixed by the Board of Insurance Commissioners. However, they could write such insurance at a lesser rate than that fixed by the Board.

Now, if a company is to write fire insurance at a rate different from that fixed by the Board, it must file facts and statistics to justify the different rate, and the Board has a right to determine whether or not the company can write at the proposed different rate and maintain its solvency.

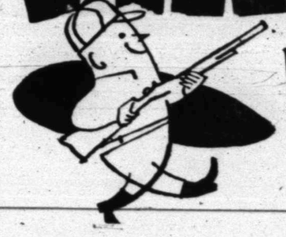

Prior to the last Regular Session, certain lines of insurance which could not be placed with companies licensed to do business in Texas cent premium tax if placed through an agent licensed in Texas to do a surplus lines business.

If such business was written by an unlicensed company direct (without a licensed Texas Agent), then no tax on the premium had to be paid. Under the new law, if the business is written direct, the insured is required to pay a tax of 5 per cent of the premium paid, thus equalizing the tax on the insurance regardless of whether it is placed through a licensed Texas agent.

The workmen's compensation laws were amended, one of the principal changes being to increase weekly benefits to injured workmen from $25.00 to $35.00 per week.

(This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fuly advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.

BUNDLE OF HAPPINESS — Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hammes of Sigourney, Iowa, were gladdened by the birth of a 10-pound son, who they named Myron Richard. That's because their eight children were killed in a car-train crash at a country crossing in October 1956. The baby was born at the same hospital where the last of the eight children died. Hospital attendants reported the mother and baby doing fine. (AP Wirephoto)

Mike Fiddles His Way To Limelight

NEW YORK (AP)—Unlike Aladdin, Michael Vitale Jr. doesn't need a lamp and a ring to work wonders. He does it with a fiddle and a bow.

Already his talent has provided a magic carpet journey from a modest home at Keene, N. H., to a mansion on fashionable Park Avenue. A chauffeur-driven car has carried him to dinner. And Mike's only 15!

He's living in such lavish surroundings because his music charmed two women into helping him take a shot at fame as a concert violinist.

A scholarship student at the Juilliard School of Music since 1955, he used to commute to New York weekly from Keene. That was before Mrs. Rosita Noyes ensconced him in her Park Avenue mansion to allow him more time for the violin.

He met Mrs. Noyes, the widow of stock broker Julius W. Noyes, through Mrs. John C. Fremont, also of Park Avenue, who had been swayed by Mike's music at a recital at Dublin, N. H.

Mrs. Noyes is in Florida for the winter and Mike shares the luxurious four-story home with her two grown sons.

He has a small room on the top floor. There, amid antiques and paintings, he practices a minimum of three hours daily on a borrowed $4,000 Cappa violin.

He arises at 7:30 a. m., breakfasts and rides the subway to the professional children's school. Classes begin at 9:45 a. m., and he's out again at 1:20 p. m., when he returns to the Noyes home and takes up his violin.

On Saturdays he goes to Juilliard to study harmony and theory.

Twice a week he dines with Mrs. Fremont. Other nights he eats alone at a little Lexington Avenue restaurant.

"It's pretty exciting living in a real big place like this," said the tall, blond, blue-eyed son of a Lithuanian mother and an Italian father.

He says he feels "very much at home" but misses the companionship of his family. And he prefers rural life to crowded New York. But he points out, "I figure I have a job to do and I do it. . . . It's the thing I'm best at."

Mike's parents miss him too, but agree that the sacrifice of separation must be met to further his aptitude.

Michael showed interest in the violin when he was only 3. His formal musical education began at 6.

At 9, he obtained a scholarship to the New England Conservatory of Music. Three years later he became a student of Ivan Galamian.

Galamian, who students come to him in New York from all over the world, says of young Vitale: "He's a very gifted boy—definitely in the upper bracket—with a good chance to make a very fine violinist."

Ruling Is Due On Doctor Testimony

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)—Judge Frank Blum rules today on whether the testimony of Dr. Walter Rapaport will remain in the record of the Elaine Soule murder trial.

Dr. Rapaport, former California Department of Mental Hygiene director and now superintendent of Agnew State Mental Hospital, said yesterday because of her mental condition Miss Soule could not have committed premeditated murder.

Miss Soule, 20, of Freeport, N.Y., is charged with murdering her roommate, Miss Catherine (Kit) Elvins, 19, of Seattle. The slain girl was beaten with a flat-iron and stabbed with a butcher knife.

Dist. Atty. Keith Sorenson contended Dr. Rapaport's testimony indicated Miss Soule was insane at the time of the slaying.

Dr. Rapavort testified Miss Soule was highly "susceptible to suggestion" when she gave authorities a confession the day after the killing.

Before the slaying Miss Soule "certainly was not able to form a rational intent" to commit a crime and could not have premeditated a crime, he said.

Dr. Rapaport said Miss Soule was "emotionally dulled" and showed "coldness" indicating schizophrenia—"a split between the emotional and intellectual systems."

Miss Soule has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity. The trial determines only the degree of any guilt and her sanity would be determined at a subsequent trial.

DEFENSE BEGINS — Elaine Soule, 20, of Freeport, N. Y., stares straight ahead in court at Redwood City, Calif., after the prosecution rested its case in her murder trial. Elaine is accused of beating and knifing her roommate, Catherine Elvins, 19, of Seattle, to death. (AP Wirephoto)

Vanguard's Engine Good

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Martin Co. and the Navy ground tested the main engine of the Vanguard rocket in the rain last night. The results were happy.

Pleased workers on the big Martin-built satellite launching vehicle reported that the whole enterprise "looked good."

This was the unofficial accounting of the rocket test. Officially, the Defense Department in a statement issued an hour and a half after the firing said only, "There was a routine static test of a missile."

The average time between a final missile static test here and a launching attempt is about 10 days.

Although the main purpose of the launching will be flight test the full rocket assembly for the first time, the Vanguard as a bonus will carry a 6.4-inch satellite in its nose.

Los Angeles Leads Nation In Divorces

LOS ANGELES (AP)—This county leads the U.S. divorce parade, a sociologist says. But Hollywood's celebrated splitups aren't the reason why.

As for the national divorce rate, it's gradually declining, says Dr. Martin H. Neumeyer, head of the sociology department at the University of Southern California.

In Los Angeles County almost as many divorce, separate maintenance and annulment suits were filed last year—32,563—as there were marriage licenses issued—38,333.

To the total of divorces, screen notables contributed only 26 last year. The year before they accounted for 23.

Why, then, is this county such a choppy sea for the marital bark?

Great mobility of the population is one factor, Dr. Neumeyer told an interviewer. Mobility tends toward more disorganization in family life, he said. He listed two other probable factors:

1. People come to Los Angeles County from other states where divorce laws and procedures are more rigid.

2. "We're not controlled by the traditions and customs (surrounding the breakup of a home) that they have in the East."

In other words, he said, public opinion here generally accepts, somewhat resignedly, the necessity for divorce.

Committee Work Talked

Duties of committees were emphasized at Wednesday's luncheon meeting of the Snyder Kiwanis Club in the Village Restaurant.

Roy McCloskey, first vice president of the club, presented the program. He outlined the functions of the club's various committees as provided in the organization's by-laws.

Immediately following the program Joe Robinson, club president, announced that a meeting of committee chairman for this year would be held this morning in the Village.

In other business, the club heard a report from A. J. White, Scoutmaster of the Boy Scout troop sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. White said the troop was off to a good start for the year and he urged members of the troop committee to attend the scouters roundtable meeting tonight in the high school building.

Frank Stephenson, Kiwanian and commander of the American Legion post, called attention to a drive headed by the Legion to acquire a resuscitator for emergency use here.

Robbery Tale Is Blown Up

CHICAGO (AP)—Willie Lewis is a 52-year-old glass blower who says he likes to "impress the girls" and "see my name in the papers."

That's why he inflated a $500 robbery into an eyebrow-lifting $21,000 job, he told police.

Lewis, a Negro, had reported that two men forced their way into his South Side apartment, slashed open his money satchel and escaped with $21,000 he had hidden because he didn't trust banks.

He said he won the money gambling in the Army in 1945, but under questioning said he actually saved only $500—by selling lunches to fellow workers at the plant where he is employed.

No Deserter, Just Refugee

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A man appeared before Judge Edward J. Kallick recently in the Domestic Relations Division of Municipal Court, the charge against him wife desertion.

With impressive earnestness the defendant faced the court and said: "Judge, if you knew my wife like I know her, you wouldn't call me a deserter. I'm not a deserter. I'm a refugee."

Atty. Emil F. Goldhaber, who tells about it in the new issue of the Philadelphia Bar Assn.'s magazine The Shingle, did not say how deeply the judge was moved in disposing of the case.

Ex-Servicemen Are Invited To Join Unit

Prior servicemen interested in assignment in the Army Reserve have been invited to visit the headquarters of the 700th Engineer Pipeline Co. at 120 East Highway here today.

Throughout the afternoon and until 9:30 o'clock tonight, M-Sgt. Thomas D. Nagel of Lubbock was to be at the reserve headquarters to give information to any men interested in the reserve program. Also to be here was Lt. Col. Luther T. Barbour, Jr., unit advisor from Lubbock.

Men who entered the service after February, 1952, have a reserve training obligation.

The reserve unit will be holding its regular drill at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the headquarters building.

HOPE IN CLOSE SHAVE

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —Bob Hope disclosed today that he nearly ejected himself—minus parachute—from a B47 jet bomber flying 600 miles an hour at 18,000 feet over the Pacific.

The incident occurred on his recent 18,400-mile tour to entertain troops in the Pacific during the Christmas holidays.

"The only thing that saved me from taking the biggest dive of my career was a lack of sleep," the comic told a reporter.

"We were at Yokota air base, outside Tokyo, when a general asked me to include some lonely soldiers at Guam on our itinerary. I flew the jet in advance of our troupe to set up the show.

"They sat me in the co-pilot's seat with oxygen mask, crash helmet and parachute. We weren't in the air long before I got to feeling very uneasy, a real claustrophobia. I couldn't see anything but a panel of instruments.

"I started sweating, took off my parachute and then asked the pilot if it were possible to make my seat go up so I could see out the blister. He told me to pull a little lever, similar to the kind on power seats in your car.

"I was a little groggy from lack of sleep and pulled the wrong lever. The pilot, watching me in a mirror, screamed: 'Get your hand off that!'

"It was the automatic pilot ejection seat. We were a good 800 miles out in the Pacific. I shudder to think what would have happened if I had given the lever a strong pull and a squeeze.

"How could I ever top a finish like that?"

Nondefense Spending Due Close Look

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Smith (D-Va) said today his House Rules Committee will bear down hard on legislation providing for nondefense spending and on proposed congressional junketing abroad.

Bills or resolutions dealing with either subject, he said in an interview, will have a hard time clearing his committee "unless a very good case is made for them."

Without such clearance, legislation has extreme difficulty reaching the House floor for a vote.

"Legislation which is essential to national defense," Smith said, "will have no difficulties in our committee. But we are going to take a long and hard look at every proposal involving spending not strictly related to national defense. They are going to have to be mighty important before we will clear them."

He said the committee should take a stiffer attitude toward congressional traveling abroad, which reached a peak during the summer and fall of 1957. The rules group must approve travel abroad by House committees.

Negroes Press For Entry To College

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—A group of 11 Allen University Negro students planned today to press for admission to the University of South Carolina "no matter how many legal steps are necessary."

The students, contending that school "segregation per se is unconstitutional," turned up on the campus of the all-white state institution yesterday seeking enrollment applications.

Dr. W. C. McCall, director of the examination and counseling bureau, said he told them, "According to the orders under which we operate, I cannot examine you and there is no purpose in supplying you with applications."

Several said they decided to seek admission because of the State Education Board's decision last September to withdraw teacher certification from Allen graduates.

Gov. George Timmerman Jr. told the Legislature on the Allen situation yesterday. He said the Education Board action came when the Negro school failed to dismiss three faculty members last fall.

Names of two of the professors, Forest Wiggins and John Rideout, appear in the files of the House Un-American Activities Committee. Rideout and the other professor, Edwin Hoffman, are white.

Officials at Allen, supported by the African Methodist Episcopal Church, reported several telephone calls threatening to "blow up the place" if student action continued.

Several Negro students said they were aware of a state law that requires the closing of South Carolina State (Negro) College at Orangeburg in the event Negroes are admitted to one of the state's white colleges or universities.

Junior Editors Quiz on AESOP

QUESTION: Who was Aesop?

• • •

ANSWER: For centuries Aesop's Fables about talking animals have charmed boys and girls around the world and taught them lessons about human faults and virtues.

They generally are credited to Aesop, a Greek slave whose master freed him because of his intelligence. He is mentioned in many Greek writings, but some scholars today doubt he lived at all.

The story is that Aesop wandered through the countryside 2500 years ago, teaching children the right way to live through his fables. He used animals in his stories because they attracted the children's interest.

Two hundred years after Aesop's death, his fables were collected in a single book by Demetrius of Athens. Later, Barbrius, another Athenian, made a second collection. These were lost for hundreds of years, then were found in a Greek monastery in 1844. They became very popular and were translated into many languages.

• • •

FOR YOU TO DO: Read Aesop's Fables and see what lessons you can learn.

Many School Districts Put Added Stress On Sciences

By ROBERT E. FORD
The Associated Press

The need for more science courses for Texas' bobby sox and blue jeans set found many school districts moving sharply in that direction long before Sputnik I, an Associated Press survey disclosed Thursday.

This doesn't mean all school systems are meeting the frequently expressed need for more scientists and mathematicians in view of Russua's satellite-missile lead.

In at least one city, Galveston, mass meetings have been held recently in efforts to persuade the school administration to harden up its curriculum, so far without noticeable success.

Other cities also have shown only limited interest in strengthening math and science programs.

Those who have stepped up their programs fall into two groups:

1. Schools which began what in football would be called hardnose science and math courses long before Sputnik I shocked America out of some of its complacency.

2. Schools which took a fresh look at their curriculums and strengthened courses all along the line.

Do students like math and science courses that are a challenge?

An answer obviously depends on the individual student.

But for Texas high schoolers as a group, the numerous rocket attempts in Texas in recent weeks by schoolboys is one tipoff.

And look at what's happened at Odessa High.

At that school of 2,000 students, administrators were forced to set up seven chemistry actions this fall. Two years ago, four sections were adequate.

Students lined up for physics courses. Now there are three sections, compared with one three years ago.

The school inaugurated a course in professional algebra last fall. From the start, two sections were needed to care for the desire to learn.

And look what's been happening in Dallas' huge, sprawling school system.

About seven years ago the district placed science courses in the elementary school. What happened was almost like an atomic chain reaction.

Previously, the first science course Dallas students met was in the eighth grade, when a general treatment of the subject was offered.

By the time elementary school students reached the eighth grade, that general course was kid stuff. The schools were forced to throw away the textbook and search for more difficult ones.

By the time the youngsters reached senior high school, they were sailing along on some pretty tough courses.

Four years ago, a similar emphasis on math began.

The San Angelo School Disttrict, which has won recognition from the Ford Foundation and national education magazines, is doing much the same as Dallas, starting as early as the first grade with science instruction.

San Angelo's system was started last September — before Sputnik I.

School administrators there predict that within the next few years, students entering junior high will have more science know-how then pupils now moving into senior high.

San Angelo also is stiffening upper grade programs, while the lower grade system ferments, and Robert Mayfield, curriculum director, is hopeful the end result will be a course of study unmatched anywhere in the nation.

Now pretty Miss Smith, just out of teacher college and training little first grade minds for the first time, may have missed science in her 16 years of schooling.

So she has a "science table" at San Angelo with which she can perform scientific experiments for the pupils.

And to keep her from blowing her pretty little head off with the wrong mixtures, the school has provided her with carefully detailed cards telling how demonstration experiment should be performed. The school developed and built the tables.

Mayfield and Supt. G. B. Wadzeck believe an important answer to the lack of science interest is whetting appetite for the subjects in the elementary grades.

The Lubbock schools have decided on enriched courses for gifted children as one of three methods to stiffen up both science and algebra courses.

The others are substituting laboratory work for reading courses in science as early as possible and addition of technical courses in high school.

In primary grades, science is integrated into other class work but is taught as separate subjects in intermediate grades. Results of standard achievement tests administered to sixth grade science classes in Lubbock schools last year showed a median score of 8.5, as compared with a national norm of 6.5.

Wichita Falls, which considered that it already had an outstanding science program throughout the schools, nevertheless took some new positive action this year.

The school system added $10,000 in high school lab equipment, and set up a program for a "major works" program next year for gifted children. In addition to math and science, the special program will include English. The science course will include nuclear physics.

Already, Wichita Falls offered four solid science courses— two recently inaugurated state requirements. And science is taught in elementary grades.

An example of interest in science occurred at Stephen F. Austin High School in Austin. About three years ago, the high school began teaching physiology at the request of students. It is not part of the state curriculum and textbooks, costing $6 each, must be bought by the students. The course grew from one section of 25 students in 1955 to five sections.

Here were some other situations found in the survey:

San Antonio: Supt. Thomas Portwood said a national program is needed to encourage advance science education, as well as monetary incentives which will keep sicence teachers and researchers from going to private industry.

Marshall: A broad-scale plan is being developed to improve the curriculum. The plan began three years ago, and takes science into the first grade. The school groups gifted students, and last fall employed a math-science consultant. Graduation requirements are stiffened.

Denison: The school board recently appointed a committee of educators and laymen to study the system's math and science program. Supt. H. W. Goodgion urged that the study not result in a perfunctory endorsement of the present program, but be a critical analysis.

Waco: Little is being done except to add a science course to meet new state requirements. As Supt. E. N. Dennard put it, "We have to think of the humanities as well as science."

Big Spring: Most stepping up of the science program came before Sputnik, and involved greater instruction and materials and grouping of the gifted. The science courses in junior high school are to be expanded.

At Galveston, the question of hardening up courses in the schools has brought about a city-wide civic movement, but is running into resistance by the school administration.

"All we can say for galveston," a Galveston News and Tribune reporter said, "is that the board is aware of the need for increased science training, large groups of citizens are aware and are, tooth and nail, almost nightly, in hot sessions, battling against the present system to get a system."

At Plainview, a "Science Fair" last week was held to spur interest of elementary students in that subject.

Borger schools will launch a superior student curriculum in high school next year, including mathematics, and expects to expand the program in future years.

Statewide, in addition to requiring two units of science for graduation, the state board of education adopted Jan. 6 a year-long study program into what is being taught in public schools.

The objective, said State Education Commissioner J. W. Edgar, "is to set standards conquerable with today's needs. . . . Our efforts will be to revitalize and bring up to date the state course of study in these areas."

The study is aimed at all fields, not science and mathematics alone.

Movie House Organ Now In Church

DALLAS (AP)—A once gaudy organ that used to blare out tunes in a San Angelo movie house now provides sacred music for a Dallas church.

The horseshoe shaped instrument, austerely refinished, recently was presented to the Trinity Methodist Church by Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Flanagan Jr.

Flanagan, a Dallas theater organist, plays it at morning services and Mrs. Flanagan plays it at evening rites.

Flanagan acquired the organ, which he values at $40,000, from a San Angelo church which discarded it for a new one. Flanagan kept it for years before the couple had it repaired and placed in the church.

"The old organ at the church, which had been there about 50 years, finally just quit in May," Flanagan said. "Since then the congregation has been using the piano."

John Fort, a Dallas organ builder and friend of the Flanagans, repaired the theater organ and built a new case for it. The pipes from the original organ in the church are being used with the repaired Flanagan console.

'Disney's Folly' Proves To Be Biggest Success Of Era

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Now that the 10 millionth visitor has passed through the gates of Disneyland, Walt Disney can afford to be satisfied with the figures in the first 2½ years of operation.

"Disney's Folly" has turned into a rousing success. Critics had said too much money was being sunk into an amusement park far away from metropolitan centers. Time has proved that people will come from everywhere to the park—from 65 countries, in fact.

Nor has the place proved to be merely for the kiddies, as was predicted. Adults outnumber children 3½ to 1. The average amount spent by visitors is $2.61, including parking, admission, rides and souvenirs.

The publicity value of Disneyland cannot be denied. Of course, virtually all the film stars with children have been there. But it is also a mecca for visiting VIPs. The King of Morocco was so intrigued on his official visit there that he returned incognito for another whirl.

Among other notable visitors: former President Truman, President Sukarno of Indonesia, the Prime Minister of Pakistan, Vice President Nixon, Chief Justice Warren, the Begum Aga Khan, the Prince and Princess of Liechtenstein. . . .

The girls may be missing from the Motion Picture Herald's poll of the 10 top box office stars, but Kim Novak, Deborah Kerr and Debbie Reynolds are Nos. 11-13. Marilyn Monroe had better get back to work. In the top 10 last year, she didn't make the first 25 this time. . . .

New Method Of Inspection

DALLAS (AP) — Chance Vought Aircraft has developed a new tool inspection method which the company claims reduces certain phases of production of its F8U-1 Crusader Navy fighter by 89 per cent.

The company says a mobile unit has been designed and built in which all equipment needed for inspecting its 144 jigs can be stored and transported.

The inspection aids needed included tooling bars, alignment telescopes, transits, tilling levels and instrument stands.

Extra Treats Are Popular In Home During Winter Months

Looking for some ideas for extra treats around the house?

Mincemeat turnovers should make a hit with all of the pastry lovers, and fancy cookies in heart, diamond, spade and club shapes provide something unusually for a club-meeting tidbit, or just to have around the house.

Or, if you want to get into a bigger production that is sure to bring a call for second helpings, a Jack Horner cake is "made to order."

MINCEMEAT TURNOVERS

Ingredients: ½ pound butter or margarine, 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, 2 cups flour, prepared mincemeat, egg white.

Method: Have butter and cream cheese at room temperature; blend. Stir in flour with spoon until blended. Divide into 4 square flat portions and wrap each in waxed paper; refrigerate until firm. On generously floured stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll out a portion of the dough. Cut into 4-inch squares with knife or pastry wheel; spoon mincemeat over one triangle of the square and fold dough over to make a finished triangle; seal with tines of fork and prick well. Roll our remaining dough the same way, one portion at a time, and fill and seal. Gather together the trimmings from the four batches for last rolling. Place fairly close together on cookie sheet, cover and refrigerate again until firm. Bake in hot (425 degrees) oven until browned — about 20 minutes. About 5 minutes before turnovers are done, brush with egg white (beaten until frothy.) Remove with spatula and allow to cool a bit before serving so pastry will be crisp. Makes 20 turnovers.

Note: If mincemeat is very moist drain before using.

MY MOTHER'S BRIDGE COOKIES

Ingredients: 2½ cups sifted flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder, 1 cup (½ pound) butter or margarine, ¾ cup sugar, 2 egg yolks, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 egg white, ½ cup rotary-grated or very finely chopped walnuts, ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind.

Method: Sift together the flour and baking powder. Cream butter and sugar; add egg yolks, 1 teaspoon lemon rind and lemon juice; beat thoroughly. Stir in the sifted dry ingredients until combined. Roll out a small amount of the dough at one time on a prepared pastry cloth with a floured stockinet-covered rolling pin. Cut out with playing-card cutters — heart, diamond, club and spade shapes. Beat egg white until frothy; brush over cookies; mix walnuts and ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind; sprinkle over egg white. Place on buttered cookie sheets, about 1 inch apart, and bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven until lightly touched with brown — about 12 minutes. Makes dozens of cookies — the number will depend on the size of your cutters. Cool on metal racks and store in tightly covered container.

JACK HORNER CAKE

1 cup cut-up, pitted, uncooked prunes
1 cup boiling water
2 cups sifted flour
1½ cups sugar
1¼ tsp. soda
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. each cinnamon, nutmeg, cloves
½ cup cooking (salad) oil
3 eggs
1 cup chopped nuts

Pour boiling water over cut-up prunes. Let stand for 2 hours.

Heat oven to desired temperature, depending on pan size. Grease and flour pan. Sift dry ingredients together. Add prune mixture and all other ingredients. Blend thoroughly (about 1 minute). Beat 2 min. medium speed on mixer of 300 strokes by hand. Pour into prepared pan or pans. The cake may be baked in any of the following pan sizes, but make certain to get the correct oven temperature and time of baking: Tube pan, 350 degrees, for 55 to 60 min., Jelly roll pan, 350 degrees, for 25 min., Coffee can, 1 lb., 350 degrees, 50-60 min., Small frozen juice can, 350 degrees, 30-35 min., Cup cakes, 400 degrees, 20-25 min.

Nearly 1,000 On New List Of Lobbyists

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first issue of the Congressional Record for the new session of Congress listed almost 1,000 individuals and organizations registered as lobbyists. Included are a dozen Texas organizations and their representatives.

Under the Lobbyist Registration Act any person or organization attempting, directly or indirectly, to influence the passage or defeat of legislation, must file quarterly reports with the clerk of the House of Representatives.

This latest list shows that church and educational groups and such organizations as the WCTU are no less engaged in lobbying activities than are manufacturing concerns or labor unions.

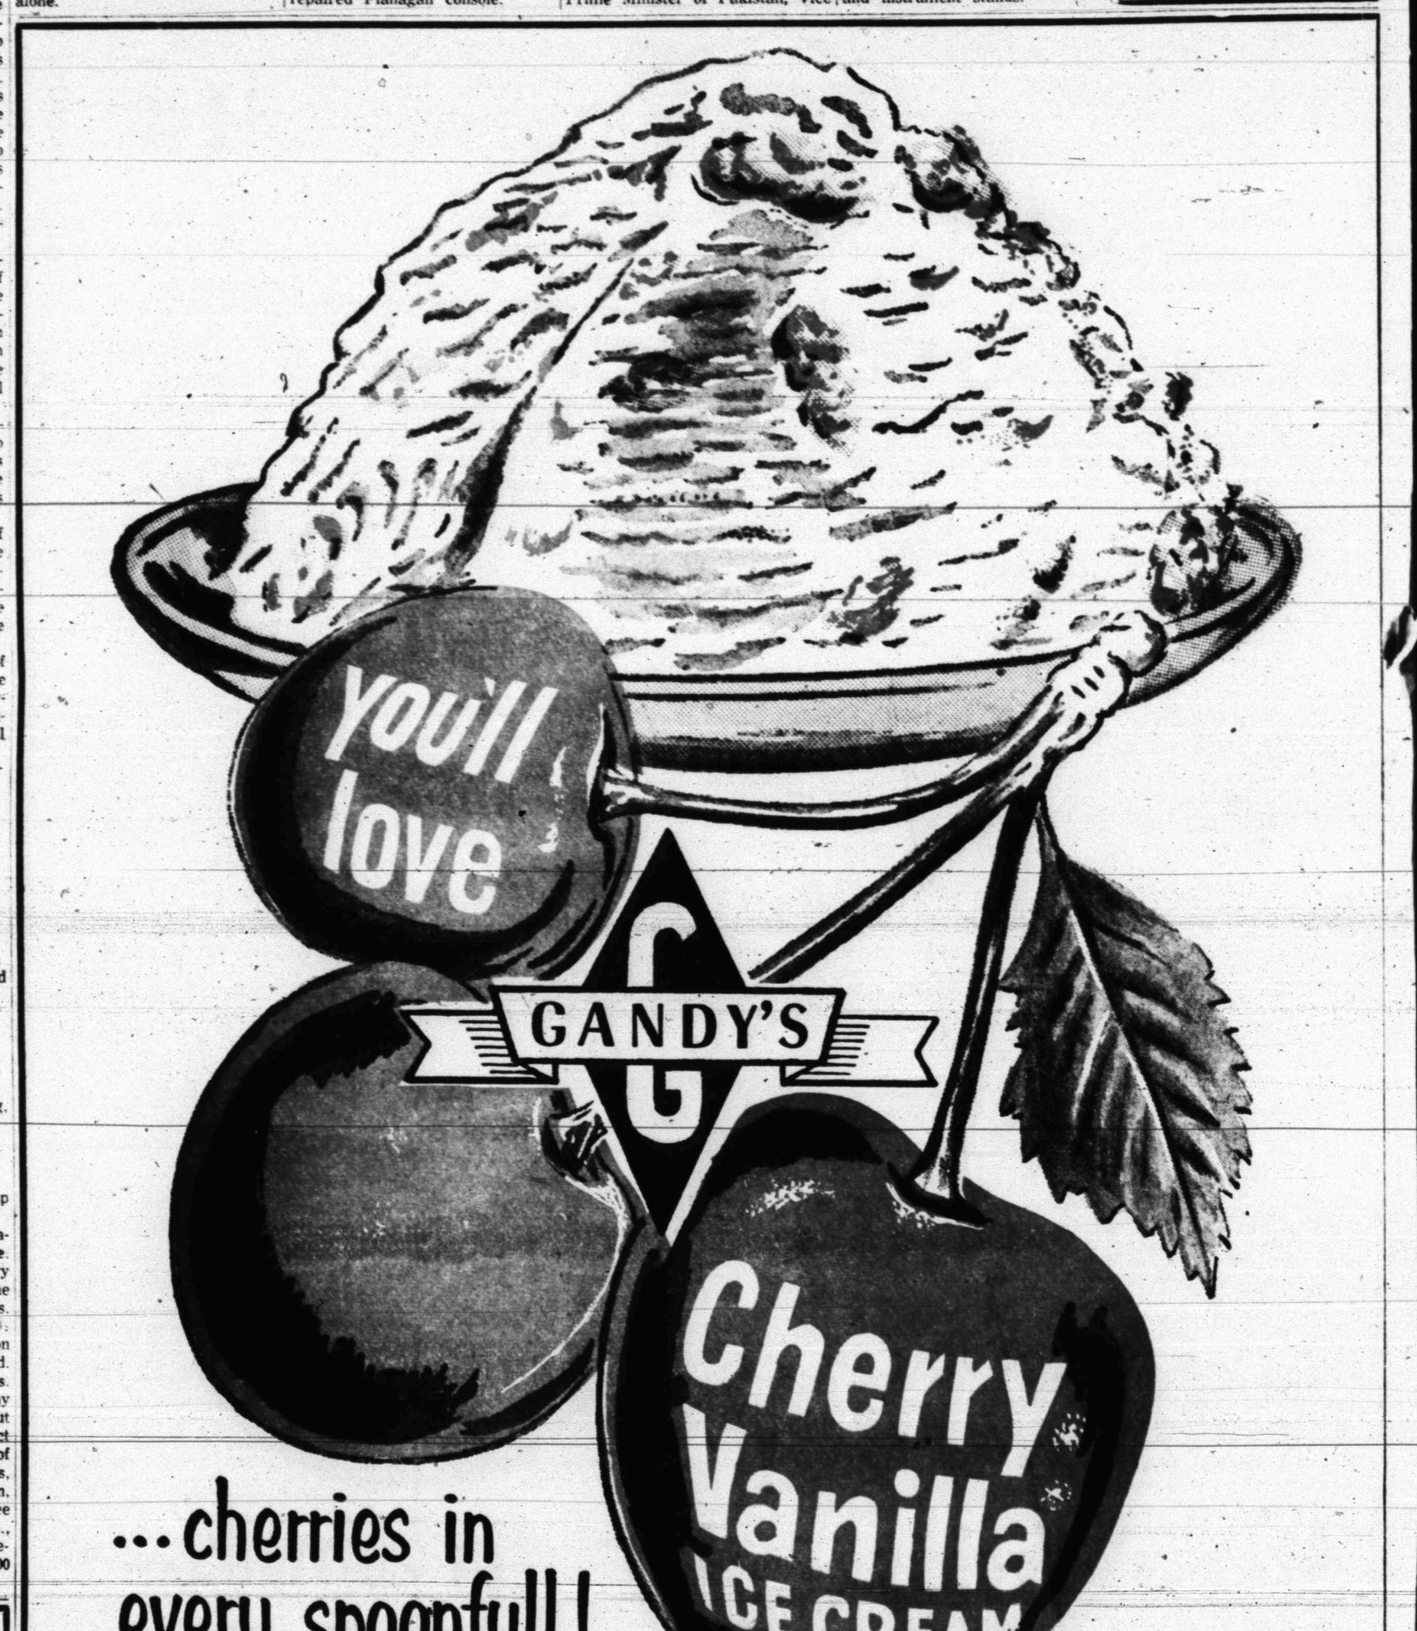

Around the Capitol:

Rep. J. T. Rutherford of Odessa wrote his constituents:

"While I am a taxpayer in every sense of the word and would personally like to see a reduction in taxes, I see little hope for any material reduction this year."
