

East Berlin Boy On Bike Confronts Freedom Barriers At Border

EAST BERLIN (UPI) — A boy of 15 is old enough to know what is happening here in the forbidden city, but too young to do anything about it. That is the sad thing about Manfred Kuchler and his new bicycle.

He is standing on the corner of Unter den Linden und Neue Wilhelmstrasse propping up his bicycle. He is peering through the Brandenburg Gate, whose six pillars look ominously like the bars of a giant prison cell, into West Berlin. He is less than 200 yards—a short dash on a new bike—into a new and free world. But Manfred will never make it now and he knows it. Six East German policemen with tommy guns slung on their shoulders are watching him.

With patience and the proper credentials, a reporter still can make his way through the narrow gaps in the barbed wire and the wall into Communist Berlin. It is not a cheerful trip when it leads you to Manfred Kuchler with his mop of uncombed blond hair, his shorts, his T-shirt, his bright face and his new bike.

"Do you come here every day?" he is asked.

"Sometimes. Where do you come from?"

"America."
"It's good in America, isn't it?"
"Yes. Does your teacher tell you about America?"
"I study English four hours a week and Russian five hours. Russian is hard."
"Have you ever been to West Berlin?"
"Many times."
"Do you have friends there? Boys like yourself?"

"I have many friends there."
"You can't visit them any more now, can you?"
"No."
Manfred gazed into the West where a hastily-built wall splits East and West Berlin.
"What do you think of the wall, Manfred?"
A long pause and then: "Well, it's there."

"It's odd how it goes right through the middle of the city, isn't it?"
"Yes."
Manfred has the headlight of his bike pointed toward the West and freedom. He takes one last look through the six giant bars of the prison. Then he sees a big American automobile with giant fish tails rolling down the Unter den Linden and he grows excited. "What is it," he yells, "Cadillac or Chevrolet?"

"Chevrolet."
"Thanks," says Manfred, turning his bike around so that he faced the long years of his future life in East Berlin. Manfred is old enough to know what it will be like, but as he himself says, "The wall is there."

"Countries are well cultivated, not as they are fertile, but as they are free."

Sales Tax Exemptions Are Listed

AUSTIN (UPI) — From a Sunday school class "box lunch social" to hot dogs at a football game... if you buy 'em to eat you will have to pay a sales tax.

That was the interpretation State Comptroller Robert E. Calvert placed on the state's new two per cent general sales tax bill Monday.

The new sales tax goes into effect one minute after midnight on Thursday.

Calvert not only listed what he interprets you will have to pay a tax on, he also listed items Texas housewives will not have to pay tax for.

Exemptions shall include, he said, but not be limited to cereals and cereal products, milk and milk products, ice cream, oleo, margarine, meat and meat products, poultry and poultry products, fish and fish products, eggs and egg products, vegetables and vegetable products, fruit and fruit products, spices, condiments, salt, sugar products, coffee and coffee substitutes, tea, cocoa, cocoa products, and combinations of the above.

Calvert said medicines, tonics, vitamins, mineral and bottled water, carbonated water and carbonated and non-carbonated packaged soft drinks, diluted juices when sold in liquid, frozen or dry mix forms, ice and candy will not be exempt from the sales tax.

The term candy, he said, will mean the product sold in a confectionary form. Candy bars or candy kisses will be taxed. Chocolate bits sold to be used in making cookies will be exempt.

Calvert had this to say about those meals served away from home:

"The tax applies to the sales of meals served by restaurants, hotels, boarding houses, soda fountains, private clubs and any other operations where meals are served, either on or off the premises."

He said in the case of the American plan, a segregation must be made between the charges for rooms and for meals. If no segregation is made, the entire charge will be taxed at the 3 per cent rate now placed on hotel accommodations.

Calvert reminded that alcoholic beverages are taxable if served with meals. All other beverages are subject to the tax, whether with or without meals, if they cost more than 24 cents.

Caterers will also have to collect the tax, Calvert said, and a concessionaire working upon the premises of another must collect the levy.

New York Opera Season Assured

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Metropolitan Opera today began summoning its world famed singers to return for the 1961-62 season which was saved by the intervention of President Kennedy and Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg.

Rudolf Bing, general manager of the Metropolitan, dispatched telegrams and cablegrams around the world, announcing the dispute between the opera house and the American Federation of Musicians (AFM) had been settled.

Stricken Woman, Denied VA Hospital Admittance, Dies While In Ambulance

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — Mrs. Robert Madsen, 49, the wife of a retired Navy chief petty officer, died Monday in an ambulance minutes after a doctor refused to admit her to a Veterans Administration hospital because he said there was nothing wrong with her "except hysteria."

Mrs. Madsen telephoned a neighbor, Mrs. Edward Gates, and asked her to drive her to the Dallas Naval Air Station to get a shot she took periodically for a previous hepatitis illness.

When Mrs. Gates arrived, Mrs. Madsen had collapsed. Mrs. Gates telephoned the air station and was told to take her either to the VA hospital or to Carswell Air Force Base Hospital in Fort Worth because the air station did not have adequate facilities. The doctor of the VA hospital said she could not be admitted because she was not a veteran. He said if the hospital had known the seriousness of her illness, however, she would have been treated.

"I checked her heart and it sounded all right and her lungs were clear," the doctor said. "I certainly thought she would make it to another hospital."

The doctor said it appeared to him Mrs. Madsen was just suffering from hysteria.

She died a few blocks from the hospital the ambulance was en route to after leaving the VA hospital.

Allies Preparing For Berlin Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Western Allies moved cautiously toward Berlin crisis talks with Russia today despite deepening pessimism here about the prospects for a negotiated settlement.

American officials said they hoped to get agreement from France and endorsement by the other NATO Allies within the next 24 hours on the compromise wording of Big Three note to Moscow. As redrafted by the United States and Britain, the note was reported to lay the basis for informal diplomatic contacts with Russia, but not to propose a formal foreign ministers meeting.

Western ambassadors will explore the idea of informal talks among the foreign ministers in connection with the opening of the U.N. General Assembly in New York Sept. 19.

If these explorations indicate the time is ripe, Secretary of State Dean Rusk alone or all three of the Western Big Three foreign ministers may meet informally with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in New York.

Rusk said in New York Monday that there will be negotiations. West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano said in Bonn that the Western note proposing talks with Russia would be sent to Moscow within three days.

If the informal talks produce hopes for a negotiated German settlement, a Big Four foreign ministers conference would be scheduled.

American officials said they found no such hopes in Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's statement of his terms in an interview with columnist Drew Pearson.

Pearson quoted Khrushchev as saying that he was going to sign separate peace treaty with East Germany and thereafter all countries would have to negotiate with the East German regime for access to isolated West Berlin. He proposed stationing token Soviet, British, French and U.S. troops in West Berlin to assure its "free city" status.

U.S. And Britain Press For Curbs On Nuclear Tests

GENEVA (UPI) — The United States and Britain plan to press today for an agreement banning nuclear tests despite Russian silence on new Western proposals, well-informed sources said.

Soviet negotiator Semyon Y. Tsarapkin effectively rejected two U.S. proposals to speed the conclusion of an agreement banning nuclear-weapon tests at Monday's session of the deadlocked, 33-month-old talks.

British and American delegates had hoped that the Kremlin's sudden recall of Tsarapkin to Moscow Thursday for "urgent consultations" might mean he would have something new to offer Monday.

However, the Russian made no proposals. He brushed aside the new proposals offered by U. S. negotiator Arthur Dean, repeating a previous statement that the only way to break the deadlock would be to merge the nuclear talks with general disarmament negotiations.

British negotiator David Ormsby Gore told newsmen Tsarapkin's remarks "indicated no progress in the Soviet position."

MacArthur Asked To Help Lift Anti-Commie Squelch

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., has indicated that he tried to get Gen. Douglas MacArthur to help eliminate what Thurmond considers the muzzling of military officers.

Thurmond said Monday he met with MacArthur in New York City Sunday for more than two hours, but that he was not at liberty to reveal details.

The senator is waging a campaign against what he calls a systematic gagging of officers teaching anti-communism to troops and civilians.

Thurmond claims the Defense Department has issued directives which forbid military officers from participating in anti-Communist indoctrination seminars.

City Commission Trims $8,563 From BCD's Budget Request

Auto Union Set To Map Strike Plan

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers union tonight will pick one of the industry's Big Three as a strike target and indications are it will be General Motors.

The UAW, unhappy because the Big Three have refused to go along with a profit sharing agreement reached by American Motors, holds an executive board meeting to map strategy for the two days remaining before GM, Ford and Chrysler contracts expire.

Union executive councils at all three firms planned to meet this afternoon and were almost certain to request authority to strike effective midnight Thursday.

The 24-man board will then pick either GM, Ford or Chrysler as its target. And all signs point to GM.

General Motors with 310,000 workers, has been the main center of emphasis since UAW negotiations started in June. The union believes GM has been "calling the shots" in the current talks and sets the prices for the rest of the industry.

To substantiate its contentions, the UAW last week filed unfair labor practices charges against GM on the ground that the firm refused to open its books to prove it could meet union demands without hiking prices. The UAW Monday asked for a speedy hearing in the case.

The Detroit Free Press said GM already had been picked as the target company and indicated tonight's meeting was merely a formality. The paper said GM locals around the country already have received instructions on how to set up picket lines and conduct strike relief programs.

The Free Press said the UAW will ask Ford and Chrysler for day-to-day extensions while a strike is in progress against GM. But if the firms refuse, the 180,000 workers at Ford and Chrysler will continue working without a contract.

The paper added that if there is any sign of progress at GM, the union will request a contract extension there, too, instead of calling a strike at midnight Thursday.

GROWS BEARD IN WILDERNESS — Dressed in the traditional costume of the northern guide and sporting a rather long beard, Don Curry, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Curry, 1126 Charles St., returned home from Canada Sunday. Young Curry spent three months in the wilderness area of the Quetico National Forest near Ontario, Can., serving as an Explorer Scout guide. (Related story on page 4.)

Brazil's Congress Fails To End Presidential Row

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Brazil's Congress appeared ready today to resist the military drive to exclude Vice President Joao Goulart from the presidency, even if the army padlocked it as a result.

At a joint session that continued until about 3 a.m. today, the national legislature took no action, on acting President Ranieri Mazzilli's call for a constitutional amendment to keep Goulart from becoming president.

The most Congress would do, after hearing a succession of speeches denouncing the proposed amendment, was to appoint a committee to study Mazzilli's declaration that Goulart — now in Europe — should be kept out of Brazil "for reasons of national security."

Mazzilli acted at the request of Brazil's military chiefs, who opposed Goulart because of his "radical ideas."

Minor rioting occurred Monday in Rio and Sao Paulo, involving Goulart supporters for the most part although in one instance a pro-Goulart mob was attacked by demonstrators hostile to the vice president.

From the southern provincial capital of Porto Alegre, principal center of pro-Goulart sentiment, radio broadcasts called on the people to "organize committees to defend civil order in Brazil."

The situation in Porto Alegre was obscure. Delayed cables from the city itself said Gen. Jose Machado Lopes, commander of the

Mayor Suggests Chamber Alter Funds Program

The Pampa City Commission voted 4 to 1 at its regular meeting in City Hall today to whack $8,563 from the proposed 1961-62 city budget request of the Board of City Development and Mayor E. C. Sidwell recommended that hereafter the Chamber of Commerce receive all of its operating funds on a voluntary basis.

The Chamber had asked for $25,689 from city tax funds, an increase of $1,926 over last year's budget of $23,763.

The commission voted today to cut the chamber's figure to $17,126, or one-third of the requested amount.

Action to cut the BCD budget came on a motion by Commissioner L. P. Fort. Commissioners Lloyd Simpson, Leon Holmes, Fort, and Mayor Sidwell voted for the reduction. Commissioner Newt Sechrist voted against it.

Mayor Sidwell asked to be heard after the commission had taken its vote on the BCD reduction.

The mayor read the following statement:

"Your commission met for two long periods to study the overall budget of our city. We honestly felt that a number of departments could possibly be reduced but did not have the full knowledge to substantiate such a reduction."

"Some of the commissioners felt that under no circumstances should the Board of City Development be set up in our budget and our citizenry taxed to support it. We were, however, submitted a recommended budget executed by officers of the Chamber of Commerce for which we are thankful."

"It was decided not to eliminate the entire account from our budget. We felt it would cause a hardship on the chamber which we have no desire to do."

"The recommended budget this year is, as you know, $25,689 or an increase of $1,926 over the 1960-61 budget of $23,763."

"I do not personally feel that the Chamber of Commerce budget should be a burden on the taxpayers. It would be my suggestion to the chamber that hereafter they receive their operating funds on a voluntary basis. I feel that if it is a wise and healthy situation for the chamber to be subsidized by the taxpayers, certainly it is just as wise to do likewise for the United Fund and every other good organization."

"I realize we have had a number of dissenters to this chain of thought and I respect their thinking but I concur with my colleagues that our cause is right."

"I also subscribe to the following:

"That the power to tax is the power to destroy."

"Any city that has an unlimited power to tax has no real incentive to conserve funds."

"That conservation of funds to (See COMMISSION, PAGE 4)

Flags Will Fly As City Schools Open Tomorrow

Schools open Wednesday and Pampa Key Club is joining in a citywide effort to mark the signal occasion by urging every business and home to fly the American flag all day.

Melvin Munn, club counselor, said today. The club's efforts are emphasized in a proclamation by the City Commission, the School Board, and the school administration urging that the day be observed by all residents.

Superintendent of Schools, L. J. Edmondson said today that all students in grades one through six will report to their respective schools tomorrow morning at 9 a.m. Bus students will report at the same time.

At Lee Junior High all students in grades seven, eight and nine who attended Pampa schools last semester will report to the Lee auditorium at 9 a.m. Students new to the Pampa school system will report in the afternoon at 1 p.m.

The same procedure will be followed in Pampa Junior High, Edmondson said.

According to school officials, all Pampa High School students will report to the high school at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

In connection with the re-opening of schools for the fall semester, police officers urged motorists to show more than usual caution in their driving habits. They reminded motorists that speed limits in school zones are 15 miles per hour, and that passing in a school zone is unlawful.

Red China May Produce Nuclear Bomb In 2 Years

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Red China could probably produce a nuclear bomb by 1964 — a serious threat to Russia as well as the free world, according to the chief U.S. test ban negotiator.

Arthur Dean, the chief U.S. representative at the Geneva nuclear test ban talks, said Sunday he spread of such weapons to Red China and other countries was one of the main reasons for seeking a test ban.

In a TV interview made before he returned to Geneva, Dean said Red China knew how to make a nuclear bomb and had an atomic reactor which could produce a small amount of atomic explosive.

"So... they probably could produce a bomb in '62 or '63," he said.

He said "it might be a very expensive bomb or it might be a very dirty bomb."

He added that "after having produced the bomb, they have got to invent a vehicle for its delivery with accuracy. That's much more difficult."

Russia, Dean said, is not helping Red China make a nuclear bomb, which is one of the causes of friction between the countries.

Daniel Approves
Water Pollution
Control Measure

AUSTIN (UPI)— Gov. Price Daniel signed into law today a bill creating a state water pollution control board, but the governor said the bill should be changed to close some loopholes.

The bill passed the Legislature during the first special session this year. It provides for the regulation of permits to discharge waste into or near the waters of Texas.

Daniel said the measure "should prove a significant step forward in bringing the water pollution control laws and enforcement procedures of Texas into line with those of other states, thus enabling Texas to compete more effectively in the attraction of new industry."

The governor said the bill was the best that could be passed at the time, but he added he thinks amendments should be considered at the next special session, which he said he will call later this year or early next year.

The main defect the governor cited was that the control board has no authority to revoke a permit once it is issued, except for failure to comply with conditions of the permit.

"I feel the board should be authorized to revoke a permit for good cause in the public interest," Daniel said, "especially to protect the public health."

Opponents to his suggestion contend the change would let the board put a large industry out of business, but Daniel said the State health Department can do that under present law, "and no such dire results have followed."

FORMER PAMPA PASTOR HONORED — Woodrow W. Adcock, left, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Pampa for seven years until this spring, has been given the honorary doctor of divinity degree by McMurry College in Abilene. With Dr. Adcock is Dr. Gordon R. Bennett, president of McMurry. Adcock is now Abilene district superintendent of the Methodist Church.

Dr. Adcock Honored In College Ceremony

ABILENE (Spl) — Dr. Woodrow W. Adcock, pastor of Pampa's First Methodist Church for seven years, has been awarded the honorary degree of doctor of divinity by McMurry College in Abilene.

Adcock received the degree on Thursday night, August 24, as McMurry held its summer commencement exercises. Dr. Adcock was commencement speaker.

Honored along with him was Dr. Harless L. McAlester, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Hobbs, N. M.

McMurry conferred bachelors and masters degrees on 51 persons at the summer ceremony. Dr. Gordon R. Bennett, president of McMurry, presided over the commencement program. Present for the program and reading the recommendation for Adcock was Dr. J. M. Key, Pampa physician.

Dr. Adcock moved to Abilene as superintendent of the Abilene Church in June, taking over that District of the Methodist Church in June, taking over that office from Dr. Vernon Henderson who is now in Amarillo as the Amarillo District superintendent.

While in Pampa, Dr. Adcock was active in community life as well as Methodist affairs. He served as chairman of the Aviation Committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce for two years.

Adcock is 48 and a native of Haskell, Tex. He graduated from Haskell High School in 1932 and from McMurry College in 1937 with a bachelor of arts. He received his bachelor of divinity degree from Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist University in 1939.

He and his wife, the former Grace Wylie, have four children: Mrs. Frank Duggan Smith of Pampa; Grace Ann Adcock, a sophomore in McMurry College; Woody Adcock and Beth Adcock, both of the home.

During his student days at McMurry, Dr. Adcock served as pastor at Sagerton and O'Brien. While at SMU, he was pastor of the Howe Circuit near Sherman, and served at Valley View and White-wright before enlisting as a chaplain in the Army during World War II. He served in combat with the armed forces in Europe and upon returning to Texas at the close of the war was assigned to the Methodist Church at Vera, Texas. From Vera he moved to Hale Center and then to Snyder where he served during the oil boom days from 1949 to 1954. He came to Pampa from Snyder.

Last year Adcock served as chairman of the Northwest Texas Conference Board of Evangelism and from 1956 to 1959 he was chairman of the conference's Board of Social Concerns. He was a delegate to the Methodist World Conference in 1956 and in 1952 he and Mrs. Adcock visited 11 countries of Europe and the Holy Land.

Dr. Adcock is a private pilot and moved his airplane to Abilene when he changed positions in the church.

The Abilene District is composed of 41 churches and has 34 ministers.

Texaco To Build Big Naphthalene Plant In Texas

NEW YORK — One of the largest naphthalene plants in the world will be built by Texaco Inc. at its refinery in Port Arthur, Texas, it was announced here today by M. F. Granville, Vice President in charge of the Company's Petrochemical Department.

The new multi million dollar plant, with a production design capacity of 10 million pounds of petroleum-derived naphthalene per year, will go on stream by or before 1963, Mr. Granville said.

Naphthalene, the Texaco spokesman pointed out, is an important raw material for making phthalic anhydride, a key chemical in the production of flexible plastic films, polyester resins, alkyd paints, surface coating and dye-stuffs. As much as 100 million pounds per year, he said, was at one time imported into this country from Europe. However, recently the European markets have been using most of their own production.

Mr. Granville said that the new Texaco plant would help the chemical industry to meet the increasing need for a domestic and high purity naphthalene. Most of the naphthalene now produced is derived from coal tar, he said, whereas the new Texaco plant will be one of the few large installations in this country which will produce naphthalene directly from petroleum.

The move to build a major naphthalene plant, Mr. Granville said, represents another major expansion of Texaco's petrochemical activities. Last year, he noted, Texaco announced the building of a 30 million gallon per year benzene plant at Port Arthur, Texas, and a 70 million pound per year cumene plant at the Company's Eagle Point Plant in Westville, New Jersey.

Petroleum Group Chairman Chosen

MIDLAND (UPI)—Hamilton E. McRae, a Midland attorney, was appointed chairman of the proposed Permian Basin Petroleum association yesterday.

The appointment was made by Murray Faskin, president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce and chamber president John B. Shepperd, of Odessa.

Threats Figure In Death Case; Physician Held

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — For more than a year Dr. W. E. Vandever had been receiving poison pen letters. He was scared.

Last Saturday, it was a box of candy. Inside was a note which demanded $800. The note was unsigned, but had the cryptic postscript: "I have a gun."

Vandever is a prominent eye doctor. He is a past president of the Texas Society of Ophthalmology. He has not practiced extensively lately because he has heart trouble.

Sunday night a car drove up in front of his darkened home. Vandever stepped onto the balcony. He had armed himself. A man got out of the car and walked up toward the house.

The man was Louis Dominguez, 35, a c-b driver. He had no idea that the man who asked him to deliver a letter to Vandever was asking him to go to his death.

"What do you want?" police said Vandever called out of the darkness.

"I have something for you," Dominguez answered. He raised his arm, offering the letter. It was too dark to see.

Police were not certain if there were any further words spoken. Exactly what prompted Vandever to shoot was not clear.

Several shots were fired. Dominguez fell on the front lawn, fatally wounded. A bullet had struck him in the side of the head as he turned to run.

Capt. Floyd Peterson, chief of detectives, said Nacine (Nick) Aboud, 35, was arrested a short time later as the man who had been writing the threatening letters. He was charged with extortion and held in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Vandever was charged with the death. He was released on $20,000 bond. Justice of the Peace Tex Ward said a preliminary hearing will be held within two weeks.

Peterson said Aboud, who operated a furniture business with his brother, blamed Vandever for the loss of one of his eyes about 20 years ago.

Mystery Raft Merely Debris

HONOLULU (UPI) — A full-scale rescue operation was launched by the Coast Guard Monday — as the result of a routine Navy practice drill in the Pacific.

The operation was touched off when a Trans International Airlines commercial flight from the West Coast to Hawaii reported sighting two flares, a life raft and life jackets in the water 800 miles northeast of Honolulu.

The Coast Guard diverted several ships to the area, and a plane was sent to the scene.

The Navy announced that the troopship General Mitchell conducted a "man overboard drill" in about the location given by the TIA plane.

The Navy spokesman said that in such drills, a dummy is thrown overboard, boats are lowered, a rescue crew goes into the water, and sometimes a dye marker or flare is placed.

Coast Guard units confirmed that the debris had been left by the General Mitchell — and the search was called off.

Dixon said today his group had not received official orders yet, but "we're ready to go any time we're needed."

He said the unit is reported to be ordered to Fort Polk Sept. 25. The unit is composed of Dixon and 15 enlisted men. Dixon said 13 of the men live in Galveston, and one each live at Hitchcock and La Marque.

Tomato Barrage Blots Residence

The home of Ollie Wilhelm, 1033 Huff Road, was pelted Monday night by three teenage boys with stolen eggs and tomatoes. One boy, a 17-year old youth, has admitted his part in the incident but the other youths haven't been apprehended yet.

Monday night's incident, blotting the Wilhelm home, stemmed from another incident Sunday night when Wilhelm, assistant manager of Pampa Theatres, barred the trio of boys from the Top O' Texas drive-in theatre.

Tomatoes used in the bombardment were reported stolen from Leggs Produce Warehouse at 506 S. Ballard Sunday night. The two baskets of stolen tomatoes weighed 50 pounds.

day may be the keystone to tomorrow's progress.

"That thrift and sound economy continue to be a real virtue."

"I don't think raising of funds on a voluntary basis weakens the organization, but on the contrary, strengthens it."

"I believe I can personally promise you $1,000 of this year's operating funds and will go on record as personally guaranteeing one-half of this amount."

A letter from Lucian Young, Chamber of Commerce finance director, was delivered to each of the commissioners before the matter was taken up.

There were no chamber representatives present at the meeting. Young's letter follows:

"We want to thank you for the opportunity of appearing before the City Commission in behalf of the 1961-62 Board of City Development Budget at the public hearing last week."

"We have pointed out the necessity of a well-supported Board of City Development in promoting the growth of our community."

"Since we do not wish to bring undue pressure on any member of the commission, we will not have a group in attendance at this week's meeting, believing you will weight all evidence previously presented and will act in the best interest of all concerned."

The Pampa Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development has always enjoyed a fine working relationship with officials of our city government and we want this to continue.

"Please call on us when we can be of assistance on any project of mutual interest to the well being of our City."

The commission also reduced the budget for Lovett memorial Library by $1,000. The library had asked for $30,720, an increase of $2,337 over this year's budget of $28,383.

In commenting on the action on the library budget, Mayor Sidwell said:

"This commission has been elected by the people to study and exercise our best judgement pertaining to city affairs. It is suggested that our critics be better informed as to the facts, if and when they desire to bring pressure on us."

In other business today the commission opened bids for a new city warehouse. Stout Steel Builders, Tulsa, submitted the low bid of $42,000.

The commission also granted permission to the Church of God to conduct evangelistic services in the Lions Club Park.

Fish Project To Cost U.S. $20 Millions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. H. R. Gross, H-Iowa, thinks just about every spending bill has something fishy about it.

Monday he voiced his opposition to a proposed $20 million national aquarium. When told that the nation would need three billion pounds of fish by 1980, Gross replied: "I don't know that a $20 million tank will help."

The House disagreed and voted 248-135 to authorize the aquarium.

Russian Demand Handed Austria

VIENNA (UPI) — The Soviet Union has demanded an explanation of Austria's decision to seek membership in the European Common Market, the government announced Monday.

The Soviets consider the common market the economic arm of NATO and apparently view Austria's decision to join as a violation of its neutrality. When Russia pulled its troops out of Austria in 1955, one condition was strict neutrality.

Cincinnati Union Rebels Against Teamsters Boss

CINCINNATI (UPI)—James T. Luken, leader of a Cincinnati rebellion of 4,000 Teamster Union members, claimed victory today in a showdown battle to sever ties with James R. Hoffa's powerful union.

The two rivals met in a face-to-face discussion of the issues during a 30-minute news conference here Sunday. Later Hoffa spoke to a rally of between 1,500 to 1,600 persons and Luken talked on a television program.

Luken was jubilant over the attendance at Hoffa's highly publicized speech. The 3,800-seat auditorium was less than half filled, although Hoffa termed it "a fine turnout."

Anna Jo Watson Comments On Eating And Marketing Habits In Germany

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Staff Writer
(Editor's note: While Miss Anna Jo Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Watson, 1100 Terry Road, was in Germany this summer, two articles appeared summarizing some of her letters to her family. In Sunday's paper, an article appeared on how the events of today affect the German people. Today's article is on the daily living habits of the German people and a final will appear on education in Germany and how the German people form their opinions of Americans.)

What is it like living for a time in a foreign country with a family, native to that country? How does their daily life differ from ours?

A talk with Miss Anna Jo Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Watson, 1100 Terry Road, can answer some of these questions, as Anna Jo returned Thursday from spending the summer with a family in Germany as an American Field Service exchange student.

BATHING

One aspect of life in Germany Anna Jo found quite different from life in America was the matter of bathing. Anna Jo said she took cold baths all summer as the German people don't heat their bath water in the summer. And the members of "her family" in Germany only bathed about once a week.

Anna Jo explained that it wasn't that they were dirty — it's just that there isn't the dust and dirt there that we have here. She said she wore a white blouse for several days there without its getting dirty.

MEALS

Eating habits are different in Germany, too, according to Anna Jo, who said they eat about four meals a day. There is breakfast; a mid-morning snack of coffee and rolls; lunch, or the main meal of the day, about 2 p.m.; kaffeebraten (coffee drinking), about 4:30 p.m., at which cake and rolls are served, rather than at the main meal; and an evening meal of open-faced sandwiches and tea about 8 p.m.

Anna Jo pointed out that the German people are very thrifty, and hardly ever have any leftovers from a meal. She said they eat a lot of potatoes and bread, adding that most Germans don't like to drink milk very well. They also cook only in butter, rather than in margarine, she stated.

Anna Jo is crazy about their bread, especially their black bread, and is anxious to find out if she can purchase any in this country.

"Their bread is so much better than ours," she exclaimed. "They don't meal it so finely. Our flour is like powder; theirs is like meal and makes better bread. And it has a lot more vitamins left in it, I think."

MARKETING

Her German family never ate out of a can. Food was purchased fresh each day from the open markets, which are composed of stalls, with a different food item being sold at each stall.

Anna Jo's German mother carried a big purse to the market, in which she put all her parcels. At the cheese stall, Anna Jo said you could sample the different types of cheeses they had. When you wanted to purchase some cheese, they would cut off a piece from a large roll. And in buying whipped cream, Anna Jo's "mother" would carry her own dish to be filled from a big crock.

GARDENS

"The countryside is like well-tended parks," Anna Jo commented. "There is nothing like a vacant lot. Every part is cultivated." And every German family has a garden. Anna Jo's family raised potatoes, English peas, carrots and parsley, as well as currants, gooseberries, rhubarb and turnips. They also had a few young fruit trees and a lot of flowers.

Dear Abby...

Dream On,

Little Girl!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please don't give me one of your lectures about how hopeless it is to be in love with a married man because I am already too far gone. I am 24, and have loved this married man for two years. He is 38. I have experienced all the disappointments and heartaches a girl in my situation has to live through. But I still have hope that one day we will be together legally. I KNOW he loves me. He has promised me that if anything happens to his wife, I am next. I believe him. Do I make sense?

WILLING TO WAIT
DEAR WILLING: No. Because neither you nor your boy friend is immortal. . . the odds are 66 2-3 per cent in favor of the wife. So not only are the odds against you, but so are the laws of man, the codes of conduct — and your luck.

DEAR ABBY: What do you have to do to be considered "company"? Nobody has ever considered me "company," and I don't know how to take it.

When I go to someone's house and someone else calls or drops over, they always say, "Oh, I don't have company. It's just Mary." I am almost 50 now, and it has always been that way. I get invited places, but I am always asked to come early and help set the table before the "company" comes. Or to stay and help clean up after the "company" leaves. I would like to be considered "company" myself once in a while.

Birthday Club Meets
With Mrs. Kessinger

Mrs. Lucille Kessinger, 120 Fisher, was hostess to a luncheon meeting Friday of the Birthday Club. The serving table was covered with a yellow-gold cloth and was centered with an arrangement of garden flowers in a green container.

During the business session, it was decided to meet with Mrs. Clyde Wilson of Amarillo Sept. 17, for a picnic supper.

Present were Mrs. Ora Wilson and Mrs. Noble Bynum, both of Amarillo; Mrs. Edna Rowland of Panhandle; and Meses. Inez Anderson, Ludy Ramsey, Bill Winters, Bertha Eller, Stella Edwards, Effie Hikenbotham, and Naomi Long, all of Borger.

School begins Wednesday, August 30 (tomorrow). Pampa has decreed the first day of School to be a special day. Business flags will be displayed. Home flags should be flown.

NEXT . . . LABOR DAY! Monday, September 4 is LABOR DAY. A National Holiday that should again be observed with OLD GLORY FLYING!

If you haven't secured a 50-Star Flag for your home, order now, and your flag will be installed by LABOR DAY!

Timely Hints Given On Eye Make-Up

Feminine eyes will appear more beautiful if foundation make-up is always applied over the eyelids.

Many women, according to beauty authority Max Factor, neglect to follow this important make-up procedure with the result that their eyelids do not match the rest of their facial make-up.

When applying foundation make-up to this strategic area, raise the eyebrows so that it can be blended smoothly and evenly.

Next, apply eyeshadow, raise the eyebrows again, and puff on a small amount of finishing powder over the lids to set the eyeshadow application.

Complete making up your eyes by lining them with fluid eye liner, arching your brows with your upper and lower lashes, and see how much more glamorous you appear.

Not only will the addition of foundation make-up on your eyelids give your appearance an even, more natural look, but a foundation base facilitates the blending of eye shadow color and permits you to apply the rest of your eye make-up in an easier, more flawless manner.

TWO FOR TEETH

Everyone should own at least two toothbrushes and alternate using them to give each enough time to dry out. If possible dry your toothbrushes in the sun. It will kill bacteria remaining in the bristles.

The Mature Parent

Acceptance Needed Of Relative Certainty

(Mrs. Muriel Lawrence is on vacation. This is the last of three articles which will appear during her absence taken from "The Quest for Certainty" by Drs. Emanuel K. Schwartz and Alexander Wolf. The material first appeared in the January 1959 issue of the AMA Archives of Neurology and Psychiatry. (Reprinted with the permission of the authors and the publisher.)

EXCERPT 3 FROM "THE QUEST FOR CERTAINTY" BY DR. EMANUEL K. SCHWARTZ AND ALEXANDER WOLF

The therapeutic implication then is how to get the patient to accept RELATIVE CERTAINTY in place of the illusion of absolute certainty or the chaos of absolute uncertainty.

There is the patient who feels that certainty lies in inactivity, in not doing, because all activity will come to nothing.

This can be a consequence of a familial experience in which the mother was always critical of any activity. The result is the cynical adult who does nothing and cares little about what the other person does.

There is also the one-sided person who finds that certainty can only be achieved through KNOWING — to him only knowing is certain. Neither feeling nor doing is important.

On the other hand, there are those who feel that only FEELING is certain; and that knowing, reason, intelligent thinking and doing only lead to uncertainty; and they therefore avoid these other forms of activity.

There are those who feel that in the doing there is uncertainty; and therefore, limiting themselves to thinking and reflecting. Become obsessive thinkers or feelers. The need to be smart, to be liked or to be right fits into this concept.

Many people in their quest for certainty or in dealing with their own uncertainties seek confirmation from peers or from authority figures.

We want to mention that conformity in anything, in friends, clothes, sexuality, relatedness and society is related to the quest for certainty in a confirmation of the self and a denial of difference.

Only in conformity can there be some certainty in oneself. There are those who then also seek to develop a conforming environment for themselves as well as for others.

Pre-Nuptial Event Is Held In Groom

GROOM (Spl) — A pre-nuptial shower honoring Miss Janet Holand, bride-elect of James Liston, was held recently in the home of Mrs. John L. Witt, with Meses. Charles Fields, O. R. Major, Bob Newton, Lee Kirk, John London, Roy Clark and Allen Knorrp as hostesses.

The bride-elect's chosen colors of brown and golden yellow were used in decorating. The serving table was laid with a net cloth, trimmed in sequined bells, over yellow. The centerpiece was an arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums and bronze grapes.

Miss Martha Kird registered the guests. Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Fred Liston of Philip, and Mrs. Lawrence Knorrp, Mrs. Ivan Frideridsen and Miss Audrey Beth Barnett, all of Amarillo.

Sometimes You Get
Only One Chance

Sometimes you only get one chance—

One chance to put aside your pride and say, humbly, "I was wrong," or "It was all my fault," or even "We were both foolish."

One chance to do a real kindness for someone when it would mean the most.

One chance to explain a misunderstanding that, if ignored, would sour a friendship.

One chance to hear what a child or adolescent needs to tell you.

One chance to give another person the break he needs when he is trying to make a start in the world.

One chance to defend a friend when slighting remarks are being made against him.

One chance to accept a shy but sincere offer of friendship.

One chance to stand up and be counted when you don't agree with the crowd.

One chance to say "No" when it is important to say "No," but easier to say "Yes."

One chance to show your appreciation for another's kindness.

One chance to refuse to be talked into doing something you know you shouldn't.

One chance to right a wrong you've done.

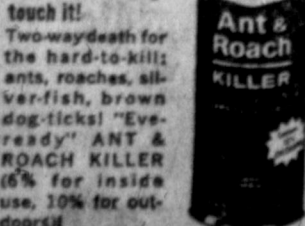

One chance to choose the right road when you come to a crossroads in your life.

One chance to say, "I'll keep on trying," instead of, "What's the use?"

One chance to stand up and face a hard situation instead of running away from it.

Sometimes you only get that one chance.

You get more than one chance

Columnist Feels Sure He'll Win Film Role

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hey, mom, look at me! I'm an actor!
Or at least I will be if Hollywood doesn't cross me up.
I have been waiting for Hedda Hopper to break this story, but apparently she hasn't gotten the word yet. So I will give it to you myself. Exclusive!
One of the studios is considering me for a role in the forthcoming motion picture version of the stage version of the book version of "Advise and Consent." How about that, movie fans!
Of course not all the details have been ironed out yet. I haven't had a screen test or anything like that. In fact, I don't know for sure whether the casting office has opened my letter yet.

But I feel certain I'll get the part. Gee, I'm so excited my ear lobes are perspiring.
Perhaps I should mention for the benefit of any readers who may have been in a coma for the past couple of years that "Advise and Consent" was a best-selling novel about life here in Washington.
Some of the scenes for the movie version will be filmed in the capital and the plans are to use real live newspapermen in the shots that need journalists in the background. And that's where I come in.

A notice went up on the bulletin board in the Senate press gallery last week inviting reporters who might want to appear in the picture to send their names to the casting department. You may be sure that I responded with alacrity.

As soon as I had mailed my application I went out and bought myself a trench coat. The coat is a little warm for this time of year, but I don't mind. A person never knows when he might bump into a talent scout.

I also have already picked out my stage name. When you see the movie next year and the list of the cast appears on the screen, look for the name "Nails Larson." That'll be me.

All I have to do now is decide which type of newspaperman I should portray. In the movies, as all cinema-lovers know, there are two types.

One is the type who goes out and solves the big murder cases while the cops are off following the wrong clues. The other is the type who wears his hat in the city someone to stop the presses.

It has been a long time since I solved a murder case and I have never worn a hat, so I am under a bit of a handicap. But with a good director, I think I can overcome it.

Another thing that might go against me is my appearance. I don't look much like a reporter. I look more like a linotype operator. This, however, is something that the make-up department should be able to handle.

Finally, my hopes of getting in the picture are buoyed by the fact that the newspaperman in "Inherit the Wind" was played by Gene Kelly. I mean, if necessary I can take tap dance lessons.

Electric Utilities Declared Leading Growth Industry

NEW YORK (UPI) — The electric utility industry is "the greatest growth industry in the United States," according to the Value Line Investment Survey.

Forecasts indicate, it says, that electric energy output will continue to double every 10 years in line with the past experience of the industry during its nearly 80-year history.

While continued expansion of tax-supported power is foreseen by the survey, "it is not likely to jeopardize the future progress of the investor-owned utility industry."

While utility earnings will probably continue to grow impressively, prospects for the year ahead are amply discounted by most utility stocks, Value Line believes.

Bache & Co. reports that one of its indicators that measures buying power has slipped in recent sessions and therefore it does not expect a rally to develop until this indicator shows signs of firming.

Technical indications are that only the first step has been taken in what could prove to be a rather broad retracement of much of the ground covered since last autumn, according to Joseph E. Granville of E. F. Hutton & Co.

Railroad Asked To Sell Acreage

AUSTIN (UPI) — Texas Atty. Gen. Will Wilson asked a St. Louis railroad today to dispose of more than 7,700 acres of Texas land or face a suit to force the sale of the property Wilson contends is being held unlawfully.

The land in question is in seven West Texas counties, and is held by Clarkland Royalty, Inc., for the St. Louis, San Francisco and Texas Railway Co., Wilson said. Wilson's formal request went to Clark Hungerford, St. Louis, president of the Royalty firm and of the railway, which is commonly known as the Frisco Railroad.

American Netters Take Doubles Championship

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (UPI)—The young team of Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston had their racquets in the dink today, stemming for the second time in 13 years foreign domination of the U.S. Doubles tennis championship.

Teen-ager Ralston, of Bakersfield, Calif., and McKinley, of St. Louis, Monday turned back Mexican Davis Cuppers Rafael Osuna and Antonio Palafox, 6-2, 6-4, 2-6, 13-11. The pair thus became only the second all-Yank team to win the title since the Australian invasion began in 1948.

Ralston, 19, and McKinley, the latter only 20, had double cause for rejoicing. They exactly reversed the victory won by the excellent young Mexican tandem during Davis Cup zone play in

Stinnett Ranked Tenth In State

Couch Don Light's Stinnett Rattlers made the top ten list in Class A ratings in a recent statewide poll with coaches and sports-writers.

The Rattlers was the only Panhandle team to make the top ten in the Class A division and they barely made it in tenth place. Defending champion, Albany, who edged Stinnett 9-8 in the semi-finals, in 1960, heads the list of Class A teams.

Wichita Falls, Brownwood and Sweeney were the top teams in the other three divisions. Amarillo Tascosa is ranked eighth in Class AAAA and Dumas is rated fifth in AAAA.

The ratings by divisions in the order which the teams were picked are: Wichita Falls, Galena Park, Corpus Christi Ray, Abilene, Odessa Permian, Ft. Worth Paschal, SA Jefferson, Tascosa, Ysleta and Spring Branch in AAAA.

Brownwood, Lamar Consolidated, Carthage, Breckinridge, Dumas, Ft. Lavaca, Jacksonville, Angleton, Nederland, and Gainesville in AAA.

In AA it is Sweeney, Brady, Jacksboro, Gilmer, Terrell, Anson, Lancaster, Stamford, Hillsboro and Fort Stockton.

And in A it is Albany, New London, Wink, Mt. Vernon, Farwell, Mart, Abilene, Eldorado, Forney and the Rattlers.

Defending state AA champion Denver City wasn't listed among the top ten and neither was AAAA champ Corpus Christi Miller.

Tampa Dragster Cracks Barrier, Earns $10,000

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Tampa dragster Art Malone collected $10,000 today for cracking the 180 mile-an-hour barrier over the Daytona Beach Speedway in his long-nosed racer, Mad Dog IV.

The blond, 27-year-old Malone coaxed around the 2.5-mile track in 49.57 seconds on his second lap Monday, setting a new world closed course record of 181.561 m. p. h.

It was the fourth time in five weeks of trying to top 180 that Malone broke his own world mark.

Warren Spahn Nabs 16th Win

By United Press International

Only four more victories and Warren Spahn will add a third jewel to his "triple crown" season. Getting stronger as the season wanes, the 40-year-old southpaw marvel of the Milwaukee Braves scored his 16th victory of the current season and the 304th of his big league career Monday night with a 7-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Spahn pitched the second no-hitter of his career for the first "jewel" of the '61 season, reached the 300-mark in career wins for the second jewel and needs only one more triumph to equal Eddie Plank's record for left-handers of 363 wins in one league for a career. Plank also won 20 games in the Federal League giving him a total of 325 for his career.

But the honor that Spahn is shooting at now is a 12th 20-victory season which will tie him with Walter Johnson on the all-time list behind only Christy Mathewson whom had 13 and Cy

Gold Sox Slams SA

By United Press International—Texas League champion Amarillo warmed up for the playoffs Monday night by blasting San Antonio, 14-8, and Austin streaked a game ahead of Victoria for the final playoff berth—fourth place.

The Senators downed Ardmore, 5-1, while Victoria fell to Tulsa, 10-7.

Austin pushed across five runs in the first two innings to coast past Ardmore. Billy Davidson hit a home run for the Senators. Bill Thompson got Ardmore's only run with a second inning homer.

Amarillo pounded three San Antonio pitchers for 18 hits, including two home runs. Don Brummer and Joe Miller hit for the circuit. San Antonio collected 11 hits but also made four errors.

Victoria made a gallant effort to pull the game out of the fire against Tulsa. Blanked for seven innings, the Giants scored seven runs in the last two frames, but Tulsa's 10 run outburst was too much to overcome. Johnny Weekly hit a three run homer for the losers.

Today Victoria is at Ardmore; Amarillo at Tulsa, and Austin at San Antonio.

Palmer, Bolt Heads Dallas Golf Tourney

DALLAS (UPI)—Golf's golden boy, Arnold Palmer, and Tommy (Thunder) Bolt, sidelined with a 30-day suspension by the Professional Golfers' Association for a temper tantrum, announced Monday they will play in the Dallas Open Golf Tourney Sept. 1.

Bolt's suspension will be lifted just before the start of the Dallas tournament.

Only one of the top 10 money winners has said he will not play in the Dallas tournament. That player is Bill Casper, fourth place in the overall standings.

The $30,000 tournament will have a four-day run over the Oak Cliff Country Club course. The tour's richest one-day pro-am, with $6,000 in prizes will be held Thursday.

First place in the regular tournament will be worth $4,300. Some officials are predicting lower scores than usual this year because of the course's sun-baked fairways, which will let drives roll longer.

Broncos Strengthen Defense Weaknesses

DENVER (UPI)—Coach Frank Filchock says there's no doubt about it—his Denver Broncos will be far better than they were in last year's initial season of the American Football League.

The 44-year-old Filchock, once a quarterback for the Washington Redskins and the New York Giants, has high hopes. However, his squad has been so injury-riddled the team had to cancel a public intrasquad game because there weren't enough players.

Denver's weaknesses last season, when the Broncos wound up last in the Western Division, were secondary defense and speed in the backfield. Filchock, with the aid of two talented young assistants—backfield coach Ken Carpenter and line coach Dale Dodrill—may have solved these problems.

Al Frazier, a prize 185-pound offensive acquisition, may solve the offensive weakness. The former Florida A & M speedster, who played defense two seasons for the Chicago Bears, showed his elusiveness and speed when he scored twice on TD passes last Friday against the Texans.

Filchock also feels Frazier will inspire last year's leading league scorer, halfback Gene Mingo, to greater accomplishments.

A healthy Al Carmichael, the team's best runner until he broke a leg in late season, and recently acquired Jack Hill of Regina in the Canadian league give Filchock a fleet crew of halfbacks.

He acquired former Southern California star Jim Sears for left safety to team with Austin Gonsoulin, right safety, and veterans Bob McNamara and Johnny Pycatt at wingbacks. Injuries plagued these positions in 1960.

The three starting linebacks—235-pound Bob Hudson, 240-pound Wahoo McDaniel and 220-pound John Hobbs—were not with Denver at the start of last season. Hobbs, a product of Maryland State, is considered the outstanding lineman rookie in camp.

Bud McFadin, 280 pounds, and Gordy Holz, 270, will anchor the defense at tackles.

Veteran Frank Tripucka again is counted on to do the quarterbacking with George Herring, a capable replacement, and another great year is expected from his pass-snagging end, Lionel Taylor.

This combination led pro football in completions a year ago. Veteran fullback Dave Rolle's broken arm will keep him sidelined for some time. Jim Stinnett, a 230-pounder with good speed from Oregon State, seems to be the best replacement.

MILAN, Italy (UPI)—Dulio Loi, world junior welterweight champion, will defend his title against Eddie Perkins of Chicago on Oct. 15 at the 100,000 seat San Siro soccer stadium here. The bout was originally scheduled for Sept. 7 but postponed because Loi suffered a sprained elbow.

Schoolboy Grid Season To Open

By United Press International—Class AA schoolboy champion—the Denver City Mustangs—still a power in West Texas football circles even though riddled by graduation, will face a rugged road to the finals this year and a good test of their strength will come Friday night against Lovington, N.M.

The state's Class AA schoolboy teams open the season this Friday with a 121-game schedule. Thirteen of the AA clubs will be paired off against Class AAA opposition, but the others are involved in intra-class warfare or will be facing Class A teams.

Runnerup Bellville should have a fairly easy game against weak Class A Sealy.

Terrell, rated as a major state threat, will be idle, but some of the other well-regarded contenders will see action.

Sweeney, boasting 21 lettermen from last year's quarter-finalist and Jacksboro, will play. Sweeney takes on Missouri City and Jacksboro tangles with Archer City.

Stamford, the four-times state champ which was against weak last season, returns to action with a good team, but finds Anson rated the district power. Stamford plays Quanah, Anson meets strong Coleman.

In other top-rated action: Floydada takes on Spur, Cisco meets Hamlin, Fort Stockton meets AAA Pecos, Lancaster faces Alvarado, Commerce meets Clarksville, Hillsboro plays Clinton, Marlin is at Rosebud, Brady hosis Ballinger, Taylor plays Gonzales, Sinton takes on AAA Aransas Pass and Donna AAA Rio Grande City.

Aggies Eye Big Season On Gridiron

HOUSTON (UPI)—"Our boys are hungry and thirsty for victory and I'm optimistic over their prospects," Texas A&M football coach Jim Myers said Monday.

Myers, instead of breaking out the crying towel, told the Houston A&M club's luncheon meeting Monday that Aggie fans can look for "a tremendously improved" team.

The Aggies won only one game last season, tied three and lost six. Myers said "we have nothing to look back to so we're looking forward to the coming season."

He said his biggest job this season was "coming up with some passers. It was a known fact that we didn't have a passing attack last year."

Presque Isle Points Way

Last March the Pentagon announced that 52 domestic military bases or installations are to be closed or reduced for economy reasons. Later on, the story quoted the Secretary of Defense as saying that 9,000 civilians and 8,000 men in uniform would be displaced by shut-downs in this country.

Ever since the last war such installations, no longer needed, have been periodically closed or put on a skeleton basis of operation. The March order was unusual in that it was much more far-reaching than most. One response to such developments is well known.

As America's Progress Through Voluntary Action, a publication of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States puts it, "Shock and alarm have been the initial reaction in most communities when the word comes from Washington that the airfield, army base or some other local military works is to be closed."

However, this attitude seems to be undergoing a great change in numbers of communities. America's Progress says that "in locations where chambers of commerce, city officials and the congressmen and senators have shown cooperation and foresight, the closings have signaled the beginning of a brighter, more permanently anchored economic future."

This is true for a variety of reasons. Valuable land, facilities and equipment often can be obtained from the government at very favorable prices. The former tax-free government property can become a tax-producing asset. Most important, the government facility, whose constancy is tenuous at best in this day of fast-changing military needs and policies can be replaced with new local industry and business providing private jobs and payrolls. Then the community can cease worrying whether an order handed down from

Beliefs Motivate

As men believe, so do they act. If men believe that all goodness, morality and justice comes from government, they will obey government in performing any degree of evil, immorality or injustice.

Self-imposed Obligations

Something must be said about the nature of obligation. So many times we hear it said that people are obligated to their community, to their city, to their government, to their nation, to something. And then it appears that in the mind of the person who makes the claim there resides the hope that some kind of support may be forthcoming for the particular cause or agency he holds dear.

We must challenge this concept. To have the word obligation contain meaning, it must convey the idea of an unpaid debt. And the question must be asked, is a person indebted to someone or something against his will or in opposition to his own conclusions?

Is a contract, created under duress, a binding commitment? Is it possible, in a moral sense, for unborn children to be "obligated" by their parents, to assume debts not of the children's making or choosing?

There is a growing trend of thought in America which presumes the affirmative in the aforementioned instances. The right of the individual to make up his own mind and to obligate himself if he chooses or to refrain from obligating himself, seems to be overlooked.

For instance, it is claimed that the child, born into society thru no action of his own, is under obligation to society. If he does not immediately go to work to repay this "debt," then he is a slacker, a backslider, a person of low moral stature.

We cannot go along with this view. For freedom to exist at all, each person must be free to obligate himself if he so chooses. And, once obligated, he is morally bound to

VERONA, Italy — "Wanted: 80 yards of girls."

This was the tall order sent to all casting directors in Europe and the United States when shooting began on the Dino De Laurentiis production of "Barabbas," based on Nobel Prize winner Par Lagerkvist's famed novel.

They did not want all 80 yards in one girl, for that would have been too large a request, even for a movie company with $10,000,000 to spend. Forty of them were wanted, none less than six feet tall.

Their job: to do battle with 40 midgits as part of the re-creation of a Roman circus in Verona's 2,000-year-old Arena — an amphitheatre which was dedicated to blood sports years before Rome's Colosseum rang to the anguished cries of sacrificed slaves and Christians, and the roar of beasts.

The girls weren't easy to spot, despite their height. It took weeks to find them, and then finally assembled, they represented the U.S., Germany, Sweden, Denmark, France, England, and Italy.

For some reason, it surprised everyone on the set, from De Laurentiis down, that the Amazons would be so difficult to find. It seemed to be the general opinion that oversized girls, who were eager, as well as able, to fight midgits before a howling crowd of 35,000, would be in plentiful supply.

Everyone seemed to have forgotten that Amazon versus midgit fights rank well below golf, tennis, and bowling as a spectator sport, and hasn't been in vogue since the toga, laurel wreath hats, and two-tone chariots.

Plenty of tall girls arrived in Verona-looking for the opportunity to share the camera with Anthony Quinn, Silvana Mangano, Ernest Borgnine, Jack Palance, and Vittorio Gassman. Hundreds of them.

But the Amazons of Rome of 2,000 years ago were, it seems, not only tall but beautiful and graceful, and yet mightily muscled enough to toss midgits about as if they were Ping-pong balls in shields.

Director Richard Fleischer finally found forty that met all qualifications, and they were put into training under the guidance of expert stuntmen and gymnasts. Tossing a midgit about is not easy work, especially when the midgit is clad in full gladiatorial combat armor, carries a knife and spear, and has a laudable desire to win the fight himself.

The battling Amazons provide only a small segment of the mighty combat scene in the historic Arena, which, by the way, is one of the best preserved of all the Roman monuments. While the Amazons and the midgits are battling to the finish, gladiators fight on an open bridge over a lake of fire, slaves are thrown to bears, lions, and elephants, animal fights animal, and man fights man to the savage taunts of the blood-thirsty crowd.

The circus sequence, an authentic reproduction of a day's "entertainment" of centuries ago, took 21 days to put on film, and cost the good, round Roman sum of a million dollars.

If it is any more chilling to watch it on film than it was in the actual shooting, then viewers had better carry a net and trident, as well as a shield and spear, to protect themselves.

Note to lovers of fair play: some of the Amazon gals lost, despite their pull in the weight and height departments.

case and involves the individuals, not the mass.

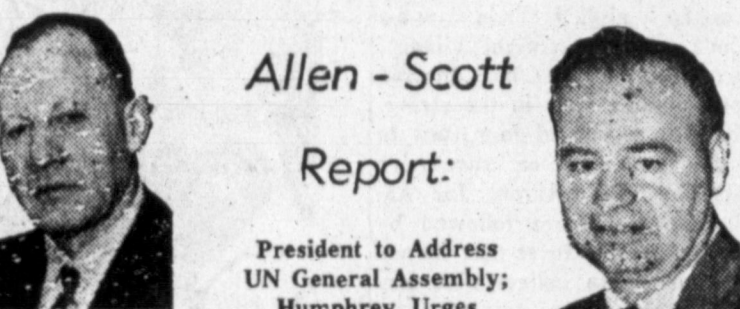

To assume an obligation of the individual to the mass is socialist thinking. It presumes to say that individuals have no right NOT to work, and it concludes with advocacy of slavery, which is forced labor. Whether the labor is to alleviate a debt or simply to pay the master who owns the slaves is of little consequence.

Work to repay any self-imposed obligation is morally proper and always correct. Work to repay an obligation imposed by some upon all others is a crime of major proportions.

WASHINGTON — It is now definite President Kennedy will address the United Nations General Assembly that convenes September 19.

He will discuss disarmament, with special emphasis on the long-dragging negotiations on a nuclear test ban and the war-threatening Berlin crisis.

This decision has been reached by the President and his top advisers. Still to be determined are a number of important details, foremost among them the timing and substance of the President's speech. Its preparation has already been started.

There are significant background indications that other heads of government may attend. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld has been told by Russian diplomats that Premier Khrushchev is "seriously considering" repeating his turbulent visit to last fall's General Assembly meeting — which he signaled by pounding a desk with his shoe.

It's also possible Prime Minister Macmillan and Nehru will be on hand. Hammarskjöld is urging that.

The President's decision to address the General Assembly was strongly counseled by top advisers in and out of Congress — Secretary Dean Rusk; Moscow Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson and Belgrade Ambassador George Kennan, who recently were in Washington for consultations; Disarmament Director John McCloy; Arthur Dean, head of the U.S. delegation at the stalled nuclear test ban negotiations in Geneva; and Assistant Secretary of State for European Affairs, Hubert H. Humphrey, Minn., who recently visited Berlin and NATO headquarters.

Rusk is stressing that the 1949 blockade of Berlin was ended by discussion at the UN in New York.

RED WEAKNESSES — Humphrey told the President it is imperative that the West take the initiative. He contended the Soviet bloc is confronted with far more serious liabilities than the West.

"We should take the utmost advantage of that," Humphrey held. "The Communists' liabilities are very real and we must not for one moment overlook them and their value to us. Uppermost among them is the fact that Russia does not and cannot depend on her satellite armies."

"For example: East Germany has an army of 10,000, but its reliability is doubted even by the Reds. The same holds true for the Polish forces under Russian command. In the event of war, the Soviet would have to divert immense forces to secure its satellite empire."

"Another major liability is food shortage. That isn't desperate, but it is serious enough to cause deep concern in the Kremlin and Peking. This situation is particularly critical for them because Red China faces another crop failure, and Khrushchev's new lands program is admittedly a failure. There is rationing of some foods even in Romania, agriculturally the best off of the satellites."

Political unrest is also widespread in the satellite empire. Humphrey pointed out, and should be utilized in taking the offensive against the Kremlin.

"Bulgaria is restive," he told the President, "and Albania is showing signs of resisting Khrushchev domination. In Poland there is open defiance of Communist control, and revolt is seething in East Germany. These conditions offer an open door to take the offensive on controlled and inspected disarmament. At the September General Assembly session, the U.S. should spell out a broad and complete disarmament program and thus regain the initiative in this vital field.

"Make no mistake about it, in every country of the world, with the possible exception of the U.S., disarmament is the priority subject of discussion and popular appeal. It's the major issue in the press of Europe, and the one that causes the statesmen of Europe their greatest concern."

"We must not underestimate this universal opinion. We have a tendency to judge everything from our point of view. We must avoid that pitfall on disarmament, or it may cost us dearly."

WHO'S GETTING THE PIE — Congress has still to agree on the fate of President Kennedy's battered long-term foreign aid program, and most of these yet-unvoted funds already have been allocated.

Three countries are earmarked to get the bulk of them — India, Pakistan and Brazil.

Ten other countries will get most of the remainder, with the remnants that are left divided among 30 others. These groups include Nigeria, Tunisia, Argentina, Columbia, United Arab Republic, Iran, Israel and Turkey.

These revealing details were disclosed at a closed-door meeting of the House Foreign Affairs Committee by former Representative Frank Coffin, D-Me., now head of the Program Development Group of the President's Task Force on Foreign Aid.

In the President's program, he is seeking $1.2 billion this fiscal year for long-range foreign development loans. From Coffin's carefully worded disclosures, around $90 million of these funds are slated for India, Pakistan and Brazil. He spelled that information out as follows:

"As we now foresee the needs and activities of this fiscal year, the bulk of the lending will be concentrated in a few countries. The most immediate and largest claimant will be India, with Brazil second and Pakistan third. The probable loan commitments to these three countries will account for a very large share of the financing sought through borrowing authority in fiscal 1962."

Next fiscal year, Coffin continued, Latin America will get priority consideration.

"We have assured Latin American countries that loans for economic development will be available more freely than previously," he told the Committee. "As these countries develop their economic programs and undertake measures essential for effective development, significant and increasing amounts of loans will be required to meet our appropriate share of their legitimate needs."

Also noted by Coffin was what he described as a "significant departure in the purpose for which loan funds would be used."

"There will be no insistence that financing be confined to individual projects," he explained. "We are proposing the use of loan funds for whatever purposes and activities will in particular instances make the most significant contribution to the nation's economic growth."

Q — Sometimes, when taking a mixed drink, my daughter — in-law lets her 18-month-old baby have a few sips. Can't this amount of alcohol have a bad effect on a child so young?

A — Although I believe your daughter — in-law is ill-advised to introduce her baby to cocktails at this early age, I cannot in good faith state that this small amount of alcohol will exert any bad effects on the youngster's health.

As a matter of fact the alcohol content of most cocktails is especially if diluted with ice, is no higher than that of some approved medicinal fluids such as tonics, cough mixtures, vitamin preparations, blood builders (hematinics) and appetizers.

You will note that my comment applies only to the health of the child.

I am not competent to make a judgment as to the effects on character development and the like, although I would direct attention to the fact that, in days gone by, the crying baby was often given a rag soaked in whisky or brandy for a soothing effect.

I know of no studies that indicated later harmful effects from this practice.

Q — My wife and I have lost three children as the result of cystic fibrosis. Recently we read of a new drug that cures this terrible disease. As we hope to have more children, I would appreciate information about the drug.

A — I believe you are referring to a new and improved extract prepared from pancreatic glands (sweetbread). It is sold as Glutaxym and comes in pill form.

However, neither this nor any other drug has a curative effect in cystic fibrosis. But, with skillful care, using diet and antibiotics, enormous strides are being taken in the control of this complex disorder.

For detailed information, write the director of the National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases, at the Clinical Center of the National Institute of Health, Bethesda, Maryland.

You may be interested to know too, that the institute is presently considering for admission any adult or child suspected of having cystic fibrosis. The request for admission must be made by your physician in writing or by phone.

TELEPHONES
SOCIALIST STYLE

This column is directed to the ardent put-the-government-in-business zealots who currently are agitating that Federal government should take over the A.T.&T., the General Telephone Co., and the other American investor-owned telephone companies. We would draw their attention to the sad condition that exists in Norway as a result of the almost complete socialization of that Scandinavian nation, and specifically its telephone industry.

To FARMAND, a weekly magazine published at Oslo, Norway, we are indebted for the information and statistics which follow:

It has taken a long while for the Norwegian government to swallow up all the private telephone companies; but it has almost accomplished it. There are only three private exchanges, and a handful of private city phones left. Of the country's total of 738,000 telephones, only 35,000, or 5 per cent, are now operated by private companies.

Now, comes the question as to how the Norwegian people are faring under this almost complete government monopoly of the nation's telephones? Well, they aren't doing so well.

The latest figures released by the Telephone Department show 44,000 applicants on the waiting list for telephones, but FARMAND states that the list is really longer. Some have been on the waiting list for a long spell. For instance, on the Oslo exchange alone, 873 on its waiting list as of December 31, 1960, applied for telephone service in 1952, or earlier. This "earlier" means that several applied as far back as 1940.

FARMAND says about this: "In the 19th Century it took only three years from the first patenting of the telephone in the United States to the opening of the first private telephone exchange in Norway. But under the Labour Party Government, 80 years later, people are waiting for 10 to 20 years without getting a telephone at all; and tens of thousands of others cannot even be bothered applying, because they know it is not of any use."

The Norwegian Government, however, is not lacking in plans. It planned in the years 1958-61 to put 34,000 new phones into operation in the Oslo area. By the end of 1961, it will have succeeded in putting only 15,000 new phones into operation, not even 50 per cent of the plan. Somehow or other the planners have failed (as is too often the case with government planning, in Norway or in any country) to carry out their plans.

For the country as a whole, the plan was to increase the quota for new phones from 20,000 to 30,000 per year. Instead the Government is postponing its good intentions to the next four year plan, in the period 1962-65. Its theory is that if the new plans are successful the waiting list would then be reduced by 7,500 per year.

This scandalous situation in Norway is a classic example of the inefficiency of state control. Under genuine private enterprise, such as that under which our American telephone companies operate, with rare exceptions, a phone would be available to a Norwegian applicant at a day's notice.

Summing up, FARMAND has this to say: "The fault, without doubt, lies in the so-called planned economy. The government has no objection to increased incomes; but it is determined to control what people spend their money on. When people ask for telephones the State replies that they must spend their money on something else. It is all tied up in the socialist desire to direct consumption, along lines determined by the bureaucracy at the top."

That briefly is the story of what the planners have done to the Norwegian telephone business. Most certainly we want nothing of the sort here in America. The investor-owned telephone companies are giving us good service at a fair price, and each passing year witnesses an improvement in that service.

Just place yourself in the position of a Norwegian. You wish a telephone installed in your home. When you make application, some bureaucrat tells you that you can't have one, that you must spend your money for something else. If that wouldn't make you fighting mad, you must be a "Casper Bluebeard."

Let's keep our telephone companies as is under government regulation — not operation. We want no bureaucrats telling us on what we can spend our money, be it telephones or anything else.

"Let anybody who approves of the practice of medicine by the government read and ponder..." Thus writes Dr. Milo H. Fritz in Northwest Medicine. And his indictment is based upon hard personal experience.

Briefly, the story is this. At Eastertime, in 1960, Dr. Fritz left his private practice in Anchorage, Alaska, and flew to the remote lower Yukon, where he spent three days examining eyes, ears, noses and throats of Eskimo children at St. Mary's Mission School. He recommended 40 patients for surgery to a branch of the U.S. Public Health Service which is responsible for the health of Alaska's native population.

The Service responded by saying that the children would be airlifted to a hospital for the needed surgery. But, when an angry Dr. Fritz returned to St. Mary's a full year later, only two of the 40 had been operated upon.

That is not all. During that return trip a year later, the doctor performed 71 tonsil and adenoid operations. He writes: "Of the 71 patients operated upon, 14 had been seen in 1949, 1953 and 1959 and had been recommended for the removal of tonsils and adenoids. The faithful and indefatigable public nurses who made these recommendations and forwarded them, saw their efforts come to naught."

So, to repeat an eloquent phrase: "Let anybody who approves of the practice of medicine by the government read and ponder..."

It's hard for kids to decide what to do when they grow up—but more of them should decide to be normal.
