Shelterbelt Man Will Give Talks On Local Trees

Public Invited To Attend Gathering And Learn Of Government Program

E. L. Myers, district supervisor for the Shelterbelt project, will be in Wellington May 22-25, for the purpose of discussing the government program of planting trees around the home as windbreaks, and four meetings will be held in the county for the discussions, according to Miss Annie Mae Donaghey, county home demonstration agent, today.

The first meeting will be held at Dodsonville on May 22; the second (Continued on Page 8, Sec. 1)

Negro Minstrel Nets School $60

A negro minstrel, one of the most unique and clever programs of the year, was presented at the Sammorwood Rural High School auditorium Wednesday evening, May 8. Capacity crowds jammed the building before the play was started and not even standing room was available before the doors closed. The program netted $60 for the school.

The minstrel was directed by Mrs. Raymond Powell and Clyde Brown, and included the following: Music, Carl Whitfield orchestra of Shamrock; pantomime and song, Mrs. Raymond Powell and Alfred (Continued on Page 8, Sec. 1)

Certificates Received In 1934 May Be Changed For 1935-36 Forms

All surplus cotton tax exemption certificates issued through the Collingsworth County Agent's office in 1934 may be redeemed and a new certificate issued to the holder of the old certificate, according to O. J. Walker, assistant in cotton adjustment for this county.

Work Now Started
"Since all forms pertaining to the handling of the certificates are now in the local office the work will begin at once," Mr. Walker said. "All producers who hold 1934 certificates may have them replaced with a 1935-36 certificate. These new certificates may be used and will be accepted for ginning 1935-36 cotton, whereas the old certificates will be useless unless they are exchanged."

In making the announcement Mr. Walker said that many producers have been misinformed about the manner in which the 1934 certificates were to be handled; he also said that many believed the certificates could not be used—an opinion which is in error.

Bring In Books
The government has issued a statement, in which all certificates that are in the hands of eligible producers and bonified transfers will be eligible for use in 1935-36, (Continued on Page 8, Sec. 1)

Merchants Will Continue Trades Day On Saturdays

That the Wellington Trades Day will be continued for nine additional weeks was today announced by C. C. Bishop, who said that the merchants had decided to sponsor the feature for that additional time.

Mr. Bishop said that the prize awards would be made at 4 o'clock each Saturday afternoon in the future. The Trades Day is sponsored and supported by the merchants of Wellington and the additional time was added because of the interest shown in the event.

Lillie School Will Give Play

Because of conflicting programs the Lillie school play has been changed from May 23 to Wednesday, May 22, according to the announcement of G. Dallas Waters, today.

The title of the play will be "The Girl in a Fur Coat," and due to an exceptional cast, it is expected to be one of the highlights of the school term.

Association Officers For 26 Communities Listed In Leader

Prospects for completion of the shelterbelt project in Collingsworth County seemed brighter here this week, according to John O. Stovall, county agent, who reported that 26 rural agricultural associations had already organized and submitted their list of officers to his office.

The applications for shelterbelt strips will be placed with the chairman of each of the organizations by residents of the community which that organization serves, Mr. Stovall said, and if persons desire to take advantage of the proposed project they should organize their community associations, elect officials, and send the names to the office of the county agent. The chairman will, in turn, be given application blanks to be submitted to interested parties in his organization and community.

Community Leaders

The county agricultural committee includes C. A. Barton, chairman; Palo C. Cummings, F. W. Thompson, B. G. Glenn, Wood Coleman and H. L. Peters.

Mrs. Woodman Is Buried Monday

Funeral services for Stella Maude Woodman, 46, were held Tuesday afternoon, May 14, from the Baptist Church in Wellington, conducted by Rev. D. D. Sumrall.

Mrs. Woodman, a resident of this county for the past 16 years, was widely known over this section and especially in the Crossroads community, where she resided at the time of her death. She was a member of the Baptist Church and had been for the past 13 years.

She was born in Ohio, on April (Continued on Page 8, Sec. 1)

Wellington Folk Attend Baptist Church Session

A layman's meeting of the Baptist Church in Amarillo was attended by several persons from Collingsworth County, including J. L. Burt, T. H. Rainer, Mr. Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Fortenberry, J. C. Cook and Rev. D. D. Sumrall. The meeting was held Friday, May 10.

Scout Leader

Joe Thompson has been named as scoutmaster for Wellington Boy Scout Troop No. 32, according to announcements made by the American Legion today. The troop is sponsored by the Legion.

Series Of Rains Bring Two Inches During Past Week

Beneficial Rains Give County One Of Best
Seasonings In Years

Slight Damages

Hail Breaks Windows And Beats Down Gardens;
Other Towns Suffer

Genuine drouth relief came to Collingsworth County during the past weeks in the form of two inches of rainfall, which descended over this section Saturday, Monday, Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

The slow, soaking rains which started falling shortly after 9 o'clock Tuesday night and continued until 8 o'clock Wednesday morning gave one and one-tenth inches in Wellington. Rains Saturday and Monday brought the total up to two inches according to readings from the J. M. Strong rain gauge.

Three Inches This Month

This moisture, added to the inch reported last week, gives a total of slightly over three inches in Wellington since Saturday, May 4. Tuesday's rain, which was the best in two years, gave the farmers one of the best planting seasons (Continued on Page 8, Sec. 1)

Funeral Service For Mrs. Noe

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Ellen Noe, 66, were held from the Wellington Church of the Nazarene, Wednesday, May 8, conducted by Rev. S. L. Wood.

Mrs. Noe was well known in the county, having resided here for past nine years. Her death, which occurred at her home in this city, she was born January 16, 1869 in Marion County, Arkansas, and at the time of her death was 66 years, three months and 21 days of age. She was a member of the Nazarene Church in Wellington and had many friends here.

She is survived by her husband, W. J. Noe of Wellington; five sons, P. E. Bawcom and W. H. Bawcom, T. F. Noe, both of Wellington, T. F. Noe of Portales, N. M., E. F. Noe of Wichita Falls, and R. C. Noe of Houston; one (Continued on Page 8, Sec. 1)

Legion To Hold Social May 23

Because of a conflict with the high school graduation exercises, the American Legion-Auxiliary social has been changed from Thursday, May 16, to Thursday, May 23, according to announcements today.

In making the announcement, leaders stated that all Legionnaires and their families were encouraged to attend the session and to bring a covered dish.

Shinnery Plans Rabbit Drive

That a rabbit drive will be held in the Shinnery community on Wednesday, May 22, was announced today by George White.

The hunters will meet at the Shinnery school building at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. Only shotguns will be allowed in the hunt to avoid accidental injuries. Free lunch will be served the hunters during the noon hour.

Students Enjoy Two Outings

Two outings, one for boys and the other for girls, climaxed the senior activities during the past week.

Tuesday, May 14, the senior girls spent one of the most delightful days of their high school career picnicking at Lake Wichita. On the same date the 28 boys went to Lake Kemp on a fishing trip, which also proved to be a success.

Girls who went on the trip to Lake Wichita were: Anna Lee Graham, Beatrice King, Helen Hudson, Evelyn Tyler, Winona Holland, Juanita Tucker, Florence Tucker, Oma Robertson, Margaret Wood, Ora Mae White, Inez Smith, Mary Peters, Viola Moody, Thula Damron, Ina Mae Yarbrough, Willie Johnson, Louise Terry, Nell Terry, Aline Ferrell, Dona Mae Koen, Edith Cook, Jewell Frances Somerville, Louella Trimble, Ruby Vandiver and Maureen Hunt.

The girls were accompanied by Miss Mildred Hulsey, their sponsor, and Mrs. Eugene Vaughan. The girls expressed their appreciation for the trip to Eugene Vaughan and John Bonner. Others who made possible the trip by taking their own cars and driving the girls to the lake were C. C. Bell, Bill Wilhelm, John Stovall, Hubert Leach and Eugene Vaughan. Rev. T. M. Johnston and J. B. Casteberry also came with their cars ready to make the trip, but were not needed. The boys were accompanied on their trip by Tarp Newman, Coach Billy Jarvis, sponsor, W. F. Decker, Aubrey Dobbs, Misha Dukeminier, and Harry McKenna.

Graduation Curtain Will Fall Upon Eventful Year For 75 Seniors

Senior History Discloses Much Class Activity

Outings And Parties Are Highlights In Senior Class Functions

In September of 1934 the senior class met and elected the following capable officers: president—Gene Glenn; vice president—Woody Wood; secretary and treasurer—Anna Lee Graham; reporter—Oma Robertson; sponsors—Miss Mildred Hulsey and Billy Jarvis; and class mothers—Mrs. L. Z. Cone, Mrs. E. L. Winn and Mrs. E. W. Alley.

The class has enjoyed many outings during the preceding months. In September an unusually well-planned picnic was an outstanding affair in the lives of every member of the class.

In October a remarkable Halloween party was given at the Methodist church. This proved to be a very gala affair.

The next exciting event in the life of each senior was the presentation of the rings. No senior could possibly go through life without owning this precious jewel.

The Senior play which was entitled "Fashions in Love," and coached by Mrs. W. F. Decker, betrayed many talented students, and was one of the prettiest and most attractive events of the year.

Another party was given for the seniors in the home of Mrs. Lee Fortenberry. The George Washington motif was carried out and this proved to be a beautiful and outstanding event.

Measurements for the caps and gowns caused the seniors to feel very important.

And then that big event to which every student looks forward finally came. It was none other, of course, than the annual Junior-Senior Banquet. This was the most beautiful of all the affairs. Class night was also a portion of the entertainment. The will, the prophecy, and the class poem were presented.

In order to show their gratitude to the Junior Class and sponsors, the seniors gave a Junior-Senior picnic at the Country Club on May 3.

Upon the arrival of the cards and invitations the seniors were kept very busy exchanging cards. The next item that is really the most sacred of the year was the baccalaureate service held on May 12 in the Methodist church.

Graduation exercises were planned for May 16. The seniors have been feeling as their high school days close, but still when they receive his diploma.

This year will be remembered as one of the most exciting and pleasant years of the class. To the class mothers, faculty, and the town as a whole, and especially to the senior sponsors we express our most heart felt thanks and sincere gratitude for the help given to make this a successful year.

Freshmen Enjoy Class Activity

Review of the Freshman Class
The Freshman class was organized on September 20, 1934. The class elected officers and sponsors at that time. Miss Opal Bratton and Mr. Ples Masten were chosen as sponsors of the class. Haynes Baumgardner was elected president. R. M. Horn was elected vice president. Jack Woods was elected treasurer. Glenn Goodson was chosen secretary and Woodrow Ham was chosen reporter. Mrs. Marrar and Mrs. Horn were selected class mothers.

That first social affair was a Halloween party given on October 29 at the home of Billie Smith. The decorations and refreshments were in keeping with the occasion.

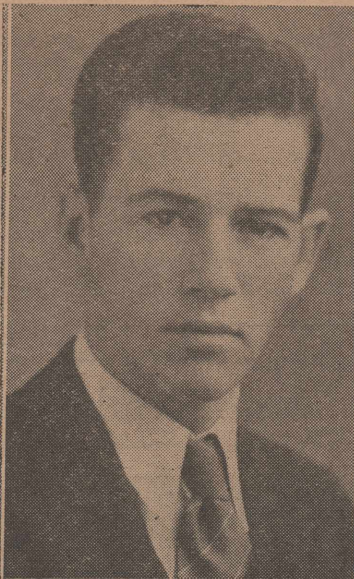

Friday, December 21, a Christmas party was given at the First Methodist Church. Gifts were distributed and the Christmas spirit was carried out throughout.

On February 13, the Freshman class had a theatre party at the Texan Theatre where they saw the show, "The Gilded Lady." The evening was most delightful.

The last social was a picnic on May 3, at Buck Creek. Hiking and many games were enjoyed. About thirty attended this social.

The class as a whole is indebted and indeed grateful to its delightful sponsors and its resourceful class mothers.

Prophecy For Senior Class Of 1935

(Time: 10 Years Hence)

By OBRIETTA BROWN
Ora Mae White, who is now Mrs. Black is the head of a large factory which has made many new inventions in the use of "Rit."

Sunday Smith spent the time during 1936-37 nightwatching for the Quail Merc. He seems to have been watching since, for he's now secretary of war in the U. S. Cabinet.

Dortha O'Rear spent four years as a nurse in Paris. She later returned to America where she became a house keeper.

Ruby Vandiver married in 1937, and she is now living in a pretty bungalow in San Antonio.

During the years, 1935-1938 Woodrow Wood took Mr. Green's place sitting in the office.

Chester and Clifton Morris are big business executives in New York. Their beautiful wives are twins.

Miss Hulsey and Virginia Lee Fortenberry have been competing for the United States Championship to see who could speak the most words per minute. Virginia Lee won.

Mildred Slough is now president of Wellsley College. Oscar, her husband, says one of her debating traits remains—that of having the last word.

Juanita Tucker and Dorothy Harrison are still closest of friends. They live in the Rocky Mountains where they manage a large sheep ranch.

In 1935 Winona Holland planned to live in a bungalow with a red headed boy, but now she is living in a fine Spanish house in Spain. She has been married three times.

Eugene Glenn has now recovered from sleeping sickness, of which he was having earliest attacks in high school. He's now president of a bank in Quebec.

Helen Hudson has spent much of her time traveling through the state of Mississippi teaching debating. In 1938 she won the World's Championship on debating. Maurine Hunt is still in Paris, where she has been displaying the Persian Styles of dresses for five years.

Wayne Cudd has won the Pulitzer Prize for a great oration that he wrote. Does his ability date back to debating days?

Clifford Dickerson finished his plan to start a New Wellington Bank. His employees are girls only.

In 1936, Lorena Alexander went to Washington, D. C., where she became a business lady for the president.

Jewel Frances Somerville went to Africa where she taught Spanish to the dear little African children. She is still there.

Anna Lee Graham is now president of State Federation of Women's Clubs. Her first experience was had during her senior year in school when she was a most efficient class secretary. Loyd Kelly went to Maine to study engineering.

James Eiland is a traveling salesman in Italy. He sells pencils. In 1940, C. C. Williams went to Spain to study music. He is now a great musician.

Paige Wilson now has a wood carving shop in Wellington; his preparation dates back to his little den of high school days.

Oma Robertson, the English teacher, has taken Miss Hulsey's position in Wellington high school.

One of the most interesting things that has happened since 1935 is that Louella Trimble is now working in New York, helping to compile the new Webster's Dictionary.

Only one student who graduated in 1935 ever became a policeman. That person is no one but J. A. Muncie.

G. W. Poteet is now famous for his new book in the field of spelling—it permits spelling only according to sound.

Webster Longino is one of the world's most famous philanthropists.

Mary Peters and Viola Moody are now teaching a kindergarten in Little Rock, Arkansas.

John Roy Noles and Joe Alley are very studious pupils in Cambridge, doing some research work.

Kathleen Leggett and Charlotte Cone are still fast friends. Charlotte has a conservatory of music in Boston. Kathleen is a contented housewife caring for her red-haired children.

Floyd Dickey, the great chemist, has invented something that will make people grow taller.

Dodson Jones, the most noted teacher in Texas, has stopped the school from giving six weeks exams.

Clarence Black and Leon Roberts have just completed the most important play of the season. The title is "The Sandstorms."

While reading a newspaper the other day, I saw an item about movie actors. In 1941, Woodrow Cook joined the movies.

Willie Johnson—who is now a striking platinum blonde—is the world's champion swimmer—think what so much swimming will do.

Eugene Hudson is a very successful business manager. His office is five miles from Wellington and his business is planting orange trees.

Mooney Stall now has a new kind of book stall in Paris, along the Seine. His business is excellent.

Nellie Dorn models dresses in the most noted dress shop in New York.

Red Ray is editor of a new and very noted comic strip in one of the London papers.

Grant Wooldridge has traveled through Europe trying to decide what his masterpiece will be. He is a prose writer.

Margaret Wood and Virginia Weber are partners in an aviation school. Margaret teaches stunt flying.

Lee Moore became governor of Texas in 1840. He makes excellent speeches to the public.

E. B. Peeples, a member of the Senate, is in favor of a bill being passed preventing children going to school over two hours a day.

Bill Towns, untrue to his name, is at the head of the president's experimental farm near Washington, D. C.

Thula Damron has won championship in playing golf in the Olympic Games.

Evelyn Tyler is now a very rich lady. She travels much and helps many children to receive a good education.

Rachael Rainer and Alene Farrell are now collaborating as short story writers.

Louise and Nell Terry, Edith Cook, and Sue Box have started a play school for children in San Francisco.

Mildred Allen is making a world tour studying in the field of art. John Lindsey has a noted bookstore; he sells no books until after he's read them himself.

T. P. Belew is a very successful business manager, who now owns a large estate in South Plains.

Raymond Ford has been the world's greatest Ford seller for the last five years.

Beatrice King has verified the fact that—as her name implies—she was to be numbered among the royalty; she is ambassador to England. In fact, she has dared to contradict George V.

Shirley Stafford—the greatest actress is now in New York City playing the part of Ophelia in Shakespeare's "Hamlet."

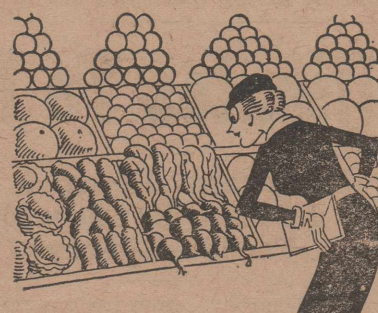

Dona Mae Koen is now at the head of the mint in San Francisco, and Dona Mae "Coin" plenty of money.

Ina Mae Yarbrough holds the record as winner for three successive times of a personality contest in the state.

Inez Smith is a very successful automobile salesman. She has spent much time traveling.

Edna Earle Willoughby and Florence Tucker are great partners in a sewing shop. Florence places the tucks in the material and Edna Earle, by and by, does things at will.

Commercial Arts Students Given Awards For Work

Typing, Shorthand, Book-keeping, Methods, Included in Department

The year 1934 and 1935 has been a year of accomplishment for the Commercial Department of the Wellington High School. In this department instruction is given in shorthand, typewriting, bookkeeping, and arithmetic and rapid calculation.

In practically all classes the system of awards has been used for marks of merit. This has kept alive the enthusiasm, zest, and vision of the goal set at the beginning of the school year. If one had visited the commercial classes he would have found the pupils on the firing line, so to speak, charged with enthusiasm and energy to complete the distance between them and their goal.

Through the Credential Department of the Gregg Writer in New York practically all the pupils have received their shorthand and typing certificates. To Lorena Alexander and Ina Mae Yarbrough go the honor of having won pins for superior merit. Lorena received a pin for having the best specimen of the shorthand test, while Ina Mae won a pin for having the best specimen test in typewriting.

Beatrice King and Lorena Alexander composed the speed team in shorthand. They made a good showing in the Regional Meet in Canyon, ranking fourth with a grade of 96 per cent.

Kathleen Leggett, Aleen Wright, and Olivia Templeton made up the speed team in the typewriting classes. This team won in the county through default, and placed second in the District Meet in Childress. Olivia Templeton represented our school in the typewriting contest in the Regional Meet in Canyon.

All pupils with an average grade of A in bookkeeping received achievement Certificates. Lorena Alexander, Wayne Cudd, Dodson James, Clifton Morris, John Roy Noles and Lloyd Kelly are the proud possessors of these certificates.

Summing up these things we may say frankly that the Commercial Department has had a very successful year.

The Flight Of Youth

(Class Poem)

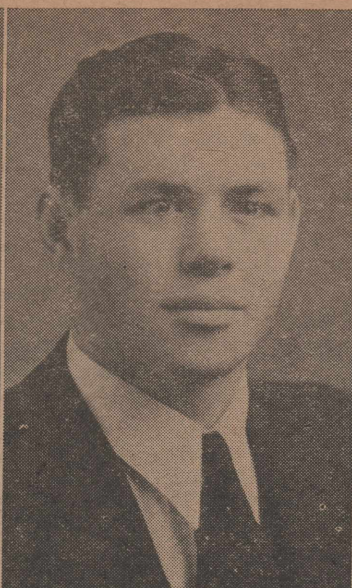

By VIRGINIA WEBER

When youth has flown on the silent wings of some mysterious dawn,
We feel that something has left us, that some part of us is gone.
We feel that the heart we thought was broken, did not know the meaning of pain,
We see how foolish those dreams we had, and oh, how much in vain.
We will grow older and wiser, in spirit, body, and mind,
But we'll feel, I know we will, that youth has been left behind.
We will want to turn back and find it, and keep it through the years,
But we'll bid it one fond and last goodbye and hide our bitter tears.

NUMBER ELEVEN

Each year for the past eight years, The Leader has carried this feature, giving in a few weeks, write-ups of all members of the senior class of Wellington High School. The feature is being repeated and during the ensuing weeks each member of the class will receive mention in this exclusive feature of The Leader.

Virginia Elizabeth Weber, born in Muskogee, Oklahoma, January 16, 1919, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Weber of Bowie Street, Wellington, Texas.

For one so young Virginia has attended several schools. She has spent her four high school years in Wellington. Previous to that time she spent one year in Muskogee, Oklahoma, three years in Punahou Academy, Honolulu, T. H., and one year in Oakland, California schools.

Virginia has not neglected her physical development, for in Punahou Academy, Honolulu, T. H. she was captain of the Soccer team and captain of the swimming team.

Again we find her interest and talent centered in fine arts department since she studied dramatics in the Honolulu Conservatory of Fine Arts for three years and has been a member of the Girls' Glee Club in the local high school for one year.

The University of California is Virginia's chosen college which she hopes to attend next year.

We are not surprised to learn that she anticipates majoring in journalism.

Following her college career, Virginia plans to enter Special Service work as a means of securing the proper observation and experience to write stories that are true to life. We predict success for Virginia, since she has shown us her ability along this line which is her real talent.

In this capacity she has brought honor to the institution which is about to become her alma mater. We recall her winning essays in the Interscholastic League and in a contest sponsored by the Ritz Theatre. Also she wrote the class poem for the year.

The fact that Virginia was chosen to write the Senior Series for the class bespeaks her ability.

By M. HULSEY.

G. W. Poteet

G. W. was born in Wellington, Texas, August 9, 1917, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Poteet of this city.

For four years the class of '35 has had as one of its members the boy who is writing the Senior Series for the boys—G. W. Other places in which he has attended school are Hot Springs, New Mexico and Oklahoma City.

He has particular interest in athletic events, having been a participant in football, basketball, track and tumbling. Who doesn't remember G. W. as a fullback on the '34 team? Yes, number "31" was right there, as every football supporter knows. We think he was not only a good player, but a really good sport.

As he studies Civil and Aeronautical engineering in Texas Tech next year preparatory to becoming a civil engineer, we expect him to be the same good sport. He is that type of pupil in high school who says that he has enjoyed his four years and wishes that the year '35-'36 may be even better.

G. W. is really a good friend to all; his philosophy, which his friends like very much, is voiced by William Makepeace Thackeray in the poem, "Come Good or Ill."

"Come wealth or want, come good or ill,
Let young and old accept their part,

And now before the awful will,

And bear it with an honest heart.
Who misses or who wins the prize,

Go, lose or conquer as you can;
But if you fail, or if you rise,
Be each, pray God, a gentleman."

By M. HULSEY.

Elsie Schroeder, of New York, suffered a possible fractured skull when her umbrella caught on a passing automobile as she was crossing the street and was thrown to the ground.

To The SENIORS of '35

"You have climbed a pinnacle. You have reached a goal. It is not the pinnacle nor the goal—it is but a landing place on the stair case—a recess to give you breathing space, to cast one look behind you and use your past experience to profit you in the future. You remember having reveled in frivolities when you should have labored; you remember having plodded in aching dullness when in the flash of spirit you might have proceeded in magnificence. You look back on the vale through which you have journeyed, and from this, your pinnacle, standing in the hush, between two conflicts, in one flash of understanding, you see how far you have succeeded, and wherein you have failed."—Selected.

We Are PROUD of the GRADUATES

Success and Happiness is our wish for each of the seventy-five graduates of the Wellington High School. In completing your high school education, you have taken a definite step along these lines.

Your are indeed fortunate to have been able to finish in an affiliated and recognized high school. We are proud of the part we have been able play in making this possible — just as we are proud of each and every member of the graduating class this year.

As the years roll by you will come to know that there are many other things in life and you will, year by year, come to appreciate your parents, who have really made your graduation possible, in many instances through sacrifice. Just as your parents have made these things possible, you will also sacrifice in the years to come. However, you have taken a definite step of progress and again, let us Congratulate you.

WE ARE PROUD OF YOU

Texas Farmers--

Hall at which Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace spoke.

The president leaned over the rail of the White House postico. At times he was ironical; then his voice hardened.

"It is high time for you and me," he said, "to carry, by education, knowledge of the fact that not a single program of the AAA contemplated the destruction of an acre of food crops in the United States, in spite of what you may read or be told by people who have special axes to grind."

Citizens Gone Astray

"The crocodile tears shed by the professional mourners of an old and obsolete order over the slaughter of little pigs and other measures to reduce agricultural inventories, receive very few people and least of all the farmers themselves."

"In record time you and thousands of other farmers took hold and set up the machinery to control your own affairs and put the new law to work. It is your duty and mine to continue to educate the people of this country to the fact that adjustment means not only adjustment downward but adjustment upward. A few leading citizens have gone astray from ignorance."

"Because your cause is so just, no one has had the temerity to question the motives of your march on Washington. It is a good omen for government, for business, for bankers and for the city dwellers that the Nation's farmers are becoming articulate and that they know whereof they speak."

Defending the AAA corn-hog program, the President said, "Let me make clear one other point for the benefit of millions in cities who have to buy meats. Last year the Nation suffered a drouth of unparalleled intensity. If there had been no Government program, if the old order had obtained in 1933 and 1934 that drouth would have resulted in the marketing of thin cattle, immature hogs and the death of these animals on the range and farm. We would have had a vastly greater shortage than we face today."

Long And Talmadge Boode

"One of the greatest lessons the city dwellers have come to understand in the last two years is this: Empty pocketbooks on the farm don't turn factory wheels in the city."

At their earlier meeting the farmers vociferously boode the men they considered the villains of America's agricultural drama—Senator Huey Long and Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, who want to junk the AAA.

It was a rowdy, earthy meeting with farmers shouting advice to Wallace and the other speakers—the same kind of meeting that farmers would hold in an Iowa corn field on a Saturday afternoon. What made it unusual was, that these men had paid their own way to Washington to cheer the Government. Most delegations want to file a complaint.

Wallace talked their language, fumbling for words now and then, rambling off into side issues, but always coming back to something like this: "Let's don't allow the processing tax to be taken away from us until industry takes off all our tariffs . . ."

"Professor," shouted W. A. Shiver, a cotton grower of Cairo, Ga., who sat cross-legged on the floor of the stage, "we don't care if you take our Governor away from us."

"Haw, he's from Georgia," someone in the audience shouted. "He means old Talmadge."

"Boo-oooo-oooo," swelled the chorus.

Wallace lifted his hand and tried to speak. It was no use. The farmers had taken over the meeting for a while.

"Whar's Huey Long?" bellowed a man in overalls, who was tipped precariously back in a chair in the box that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt usually occupies at Constitution Hall.

"Boo-oooo-oooo for Huey!" came the chorus again.

"The eyes of Texas are upon you. All through the live-long day."

"The eyes of Texas are upon you. You can not get away . . ."

Texas Vociferous

Now Wallace was talking again: "I want to ask you to keep your minds flexible. We may have to change the program some if another drouth comes along. Or the world trade situation might change. But until it does . . ."

"You tell 'em, Wallace," bellowed a man from Arkansas, who had on striped overalls. "You're our friend and we know it."

"Yippee—yippee," yelled the Texas cattlemen.

It was getting hot in the big hall and the farmers began unbuttoning the necks of their shirts. A heavy-set man, perspiration dripping from his chin, jumped up to make this announcement: "I'm Addison Lansdell of Richmond County, Georgia, which State is without a Governor."

"He means old Talmadge," someone else yelled.

"Boo! Boo! Boooo!"

Even the AAA can not tell how accurately this meeting represented the farmers of America. The march on Washington originated out in the grass roots and only supporters of the Roosevelt agricultural program made the trip. They will stay two days, but Wednesday will be spent sightseeing.

NOTICE

J. O. Wells, chairman, today announced that the Agricultural Association for Wellington Independent School district will meet in the county court room Saturday afternoon, May 18, at 3 o'clock to discuss T. B. testing for cattle, shelterbelt projects and terracing.

The meeting will be open to all farmers, owners of cows and interested persons in the district, Mr. Wells said.

Successful Year Is Closed By Rolla School On May 3

Many Features Included Among Class Activity

Club Served Hot Lunches For Students During Past Term

Rolla School—1934-35
Friday, May 3, closed another year of school for the Rolla district. This has been a very profitable and successful year. There has been a fine spirit of co-operation through the term. The patrons shown a great interest in the press and development of their children by loyally supporting the school in every way. The pupils have taken interest in the school and their work. They have done some very good work, not only in the regular daily work, but in extra-curricular activities. They have helped the teachers in putting over a good program.

We have enrolled 125 pupils this year. This is a gain of 29 over the enrollment for last year. Our percent of attendance for this term is almost 92.

Throughout the greater part of the term our lunch club functioned in serving hot lunches for the school. They not only serve hot lunches during cold weather but they served them during the summer term.

For our improvements this year we have built a new coal house, purchased equipment for a Rhythm Band and some new playground equipment.

One of the outstanding features for the year has been the organization of the music classes. Miss Winifred Wiseman has had this work in charge. She has done real good work with the Rhythm Band and the Choral Club as well. Our Choral Club won first in the League meet.

Students from our school rated well in the contest. Thirteen firsts, six seconds and four thirds were won. Those who won honors were as follows: Dallas Alford, Carl Johnson, Don Austin, E. M. Trew, Jr., Arnold Parrish, Woodrow Parker, Truman Parrish, Bill Kelley, Margie O'Rear, Lora Frances Kelley. Others who assisted in the Choral Club and not already mentioned were Margaret Hilgenfeld, Ruth Hilgenfeld, Eva Dillehay, Alene Shumate, Mattie Mae Shumate, Vivian Haynes, Leona Cornelius, Helen Huffman, Lora Frances Jones, Wydett Fourmentin, Marion Williams, Lodema Barham and Ethel Dillehay.

Our open house day was very profitable. Most of the patrons visited the school and inspected the work displayed by the children. Some very fine work was on display. Miss Florence Peters sponsored this work.

The teachers for this year were O. W. Lewis, principal; Miss Winifred Wiseman, Miss Nell Muse, and Miss Florence Peters. The school board members are C. H. Fourmentin, Roy Cunningham and M. C. Cornelius.

For seventh grade graduating exercises were held May 2, at 8 P. M. Rev. D. D. Sumrall gave the address. Supt. L. O. Cummings awarded the diplomas. Members of the class were Arnold Parrish, Fern James, Don Austin, Helen Huffman, Bill Kelley, Lodema Barham, William O'Rear, Wydett Fourmentin and R. W. Cunningham.

The teachers wish to express thanks to everyone who contributed to the success of the school.

Each of the teachers have been employed for another year.

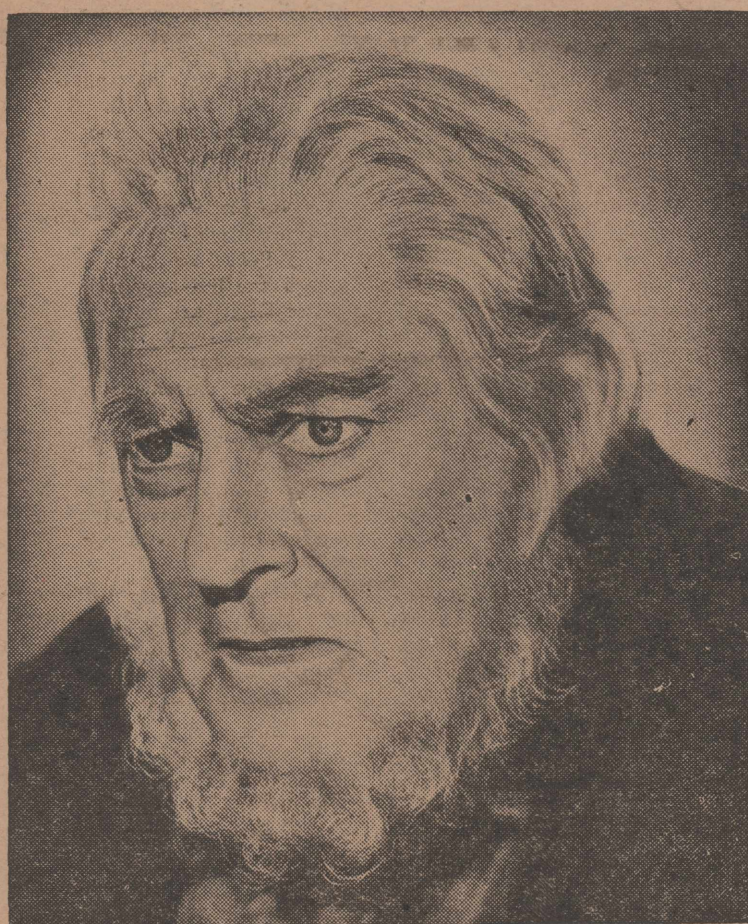

Club Announces New Ruling On Swimming Pool

Stating that the Country Club swimming pool would be formally opened Friday, May 17, J. N. Wallace, president, today said that new regulations had been passed by the club this year.

Guests may enjoy the privileges of the pool only when accompanied by members or associate members and according to the new ruling each guest will be required to register at the club. A charge of twenty-five cents will also be made for each guest who uses the pool, Mr. Wallace said.

Plays The Role Of Dan Peggotty

LIONEL BARRYMORE

Class Will of 1935

We, the senior class of 1935, do now make and publish this, our last will and testament in order to distribute the pleasures and interests we have known among the members of the senior class of 1935.

To Johnnie Lee Barton we leave the sportsmanship of Thula Dameron.

To Irene Bennett we will Virginia Weber's ability to write poetry in hopes that she may reach her goal in that field.

Clarence Black leaves his cowboy boots with Earl Box.

To Dovie Easter we will Helen Hudson's speech arts ability.

John Russell leaves his knack for keeping time to music to Harris McCauley.

To Marion Blake and Ona Mae Killingsworth jointly we leave Ruby Vandiver's senior air.

Charlotte Cone wills to Margaret Ann Fires the Plan of having all her classes in the forenoon and remaining at home in the afternoons, so she won't look so pale from over-study next year.

To Erma Lee Gunstream, Winona Holland wills all her old themes.

To Ernestine Scott, Allan Rayle leaves his timely comments on all subjects mentioned. To Dolphus Wood, Allan Rayle also leaves his book of jokes.

To Faye Handley's poetical talents, Mildred Slough adds her power to charm her audience when she debates; as well as her "catchy" little smile.

Shirley Stafford would add to the gift Leeda Jo Thompson already, has that of having a smile for everyone and spreading joy.

To Vernene Franks we will Oma Robertson's naturalness.

To L. C. Hill, we leave Eugene Hudson's use of language and also John Roy Niles' ability to turn corners on two wheels and sometimes one.

Willie Johnson leaves her basketball ability to Johnnie Graham and also her basketball shoes.

Clifford Dickerson says he'd better leave the school a little good fence to put around Nell Marie Watkins, so these other boys cannot trespass during his absence.

We will Lorena Alexander's giggles to that quiet little girl, Oleta Mae Graham.

E. B. Peoples leaves a "Rose" (Strecker) for the next best looking boy.

Beatrice King's brilliance we will to Pitsy Morgan.

To Ora Ellen Hall we leave Dorothy Harrison's "gift of gab."

Gene Glen wills his popularity as football captain to Red Williams and also his "True story magazine" credit which he justly deserves.

John Russell wills his vaulting ability to Jessie Peters.

To all the girls G. W. Potteet leaves the memory of a perfect gentleman and maybe a little of his ambition to learn Spanish.

To D. M. Blanton we will C. C. Williams non-chalance.

Millie Dorn leaves her ear screws to Geraldine Fisher.

Virginia Lee Fortenberry wills her bashfulness to Oscar Wells.

Ora Mae White wills her fondness for making oral themes before the class to Forrest Baumgardner.

To John Anders we leave Oscar Elliott's "Mae West" walk.

Mary Peters leaves her sunny smile to Vaudine Bell.

Mauryen Hunt wills one pint of her recipe for red hair to Victoria Walker.

Chester and Clifton Morris leave their outline for sales talk to Cloise Duncan and Brown Amburn.

Margaret Wood wills to Clarence Nunneley Vol. 1 of Emily Post's book of etiquette.

To Faye Huffhines, Aline Ferrell wills her ability to mimic all the teachers.

Viola Moody leaves her habit of being so loud to Ina Hugh Longino.

J. A. Muncie wills his fondness for memory work to Nita Messick.

Ina Mae Yarbrough wills her credit in English IV to J. C. Ward.

To Helen Ratliff, we leave Jewell Frances Somerville's business-like air.

Bill Towns wills his sister, Kathleen Towns, to Leo Smith, as there doesn't seem to be anything he can do about it.

To Keith Thomas we will Leon Robert's neatness.

We will T. P. Belew's sense of humor to J. W. Thomas.

To Silas Henry we leave Lee Moore's stature.

To Nolan Huffhines and Chester Ewing we will Paige Wilson's mind for carving.

Nell Terry leaves her blond hair to Jessie Riley.

Obrietta Brown wills to Merle Palmer another room-mate.

To Reba Earl Smith we will Anna Lee Graham's secretarial ability.

Woodrow Wood thinks someone ought to be left a hair cut like his own and—well, how do you think it's gonna look on I. E. Riley?

To Claudia Wilson we will Evelyn Tyler's attraction for the opposite sex.

We leave Rachel Rainer's hilarity to Glendora Yates.

Inez Smith's dependability we will to Frances West.

To Bessie Bell Wallace we will Woodrow Cook's ability to debate.

Wayne Cudd leaves his hair brush that has been used so much to J. V. Langford.

John Lindsey's teaching ability we will to Leta Fern Wells.

Grant Wooldridge's constant smile we leave to Ruth Fuson.

Did you know that Sunday Bill Smith was a descendant of King Author? He leaves a few of his noble qualities to Nolan Huffhines.

To Joe Hardy we will Loyd Kelley's rosy cheeks.

Harold Keller's boisterousness, we will to Alma Johnson.

Dodson Jones leaves his fliriting to Percy Haralson.

Webster Longino's originality we will to Buck Amburn.

Edith Cook wills her rouge and lipstick to Olivia Templeton.

Mildred Allan's sweet smile that we have seen so often at the library window, we leave to Pauline Simpson.

Sue Box's high grades in English we leave to Oleta Chappel.

Juanita Tucker's unassuming manner we will to Alois Van Pelt.

Money Stall's flash of brown eyes we will to James Hager.

Dorthea O'Rear's towering height we leave to Pansy Holland.

James Eiland's cleverness we will to Edwin Crane.

Louella Trimble's friendly manner we leave to Merle Hays.

Joe Alley's ball slippers we leave to Leon Miller.

Florence Tucker's absence slip we will to Dennis Ward.

To Zeph Tucker, Floyd Dickey leaves 2-3 of his hair oil.

And last, but by no means the least—we leave to all of you the best faculty that a school ever had.

By KATHLEEN LEGGITT.

Mrs. Warner Dies At Claude Home

Death, following on the heels of an illness of several days, early Tuesday night claimed Mrs. Phebe K. Warner of Claude, widely known as the "poet laureate of the Panhandle."

The end came a short time after members of the Warner family had announced that Mrs. Warner's condition was critical. Suffering with double pneumonia, she weakened gradually during the day.

Mrs. Warner had many friends and acquaintances in Collingsworth County, having made several addresses here and having written for the Wellington Leader for many years.

Survey Will Be Made Here Soon

John O. Stovall, county agent, today announced that the Wellington township has been agreed upon by local county officials of the Extension Service and the AAA for the purpose of running a survey of the turnover of tenant farmers. This survey is being undertaken in accordance with wishes of the Extension Service, in order to secure data to be furnished the AAA at Washington. Since the information secured may be used in determining policies of the Department of Agriculture relative to the various programs under the AAA. It is hoped that the landlords and tenants contacted in the survey will give full co-operation.

C. A. Dickey is now in Wellington for the purpose of conducting the survey.

Class Mothers Hostesses To Junior Class

Mrs. Chester Fires and Mrs. L. C. Hill, class mothers, entertained the members of the Junior class with a theatre party at the Ritz Theatre on Wednesday afternoon, May 15, when they saw the picture "One More Spring," starring Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter.

Plans were made for a picnic at the Country Club on this date but due to the rainy weather, it was changed to a theatre party.

After the guests saw the show, a picnic lunch was served to them on the mezzanine floor of the theatre. The entire junior class roll were on the invitation list.

Straight 8 Study Club Meets With Tommie Barton

The Straight 8 Study Club met with Tommie Barton on Saturday, May 11. Louise Whisenant gave a report on the life of James Whitcomb Riley and Olive Marie Seaberry sketched the life of Charles Dickens.

After the business was discussed refreshments were served to: Edie Jo Gilbert, Beth O'Neil, Lorraine Gray, Louise Whisenant, Laverne Clark, Nadine Parsons, Olive Marie Seaberry and hostess, Tommie Barton.

Chain Letter Racket Sweeps County

"Send-A-Dime" Letters Replaced By Local "Donate-A-Dollar" One

By CARRIE NOLA CAMPBELL

The chain letter racket is sweeping Wellington as it is all other towns and cities in the United States. It is believed that "send-a-dime" idea started in Denver, Colorado, and extended through Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. It is now spread through almost every state in the union. Even the radio programs are making fun and some of them are seriously telling the people just what the racket is.

R. F. Curry, postmaster, says that there has been an increase in the letters here since the chain has got such a headway. "However," says Mr. Curry, "as yet there have been no steps taken here. Of course if extreme measures are practiced here as they are in some places, something will be done about it."

An increase of several thousand letters daily has been reported in some of the larger places such as Wichita Falls, San Antonio and other cities. The latest addition to the chain letter theory has been "Send-a-pint" and "send-a-dollar." The chain letters advise the recipient of the letter to five friends adding his own name to the bottom of the list and removing the top one. In this way, the writer sends one dime and in turn, according to the figures, he will receive a donation amounting to $1,562.50.

Judge R. H. Cocke in regard to the letters says that if it goes far enough it could cause some one plenty of trouble. Frank Mitchell says that he believes that it will die out of its own accord in the next few days. "The ones who started it and the ones whose names were at the top of the list will be the only ones who will profit by it."

To quote Joe Hardy: "The racket is an open violation of law. The 'send-a-dime' idea is as much against the law as the 'send-a-dollar' or any other threat letter."

C. C. Bishop says that is all bolony. He said, "From a financial, legal, or any other standpoint, it is illegal. The lottery laws cover everything from a gray mare to dyed hair, and this is certainly one form of lottery."

Willie Mae Wilkinson suggested to The Leader force that we print several thousand such letters and put our names at the top and thereby make some money.

"Pass-a-buck" chain fad—is finding its way into all the smaller places. Most of these are local affairs and are not mailed but handed out and collected for. Several people in Wellington have received around $12 and $15 return from these. Each person taking part in this sells two copies and takes the $1 to the name at the top of the list. The maximum returns are about $1,000.

Tucker Operates Shamrock Station

L. H. Tucker, who formerly operated the Gulf Filling Station east of the square, today announced that following the sale of the station to Gerald and Harold Hardy, he has moved to Shamrock and opened a station on Sixth and Main Streets.

Mr. Tucker was in the service station here for 18 months before moving to Shamrock.

Mrs. J. S. Stewart Hostess To Quail Club Wednesday

"Clothes that are to be stored away should be well cleaned before storing," said Mrs. J. S. Stewart, at a meeting of the Quail Home Demonstration Club, with Mrs. J. S. Stewart as hostess, on Wednesday, May 8, at 2:30 o'clock.

Care should be taken in storing cotton and silk clothing, as well as woolen ones. Always put cottons away free of starch, as it rots the fabric. Silks should be rolled in a turkish towel to prevent the colors from streaking. While woolens should be rolled in newspapers with bothalls in them, to prevent moths.

Refreshments were served to the following: Mesdames L. E. Brisbin, Jess Forrester, T. F. Simmons, Wilbur Depauw, C. E. Blevins, G. T. Stephens and hostess, Mrs. J. S. Stewart.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. T. F. Simmons, May 22, at 2:30 o'clock, with Miss Annie Mae Donaghey giving a demonstration on fitting foundation waist and sleeve patterns.

Canal Street, New Orleans

With modern New Orleans on the left and ancient New Orleans on the right; one of the world's famed thoroughfares; rebuilt in 1928 in terrazzo marble at a cost of $3,500,000; 171 feet wide.

A unique feature is that the neutral ground has the only tieless car tracks in the world, laid on asphalt cushions. Brilliantly illuminated with more than a million candlepower, this street on Mardi Gras Day is filled by a solid mass of reveling humanity.

Colorful Old City Of New Orleans Offers Varied Scenery For Editors

The Vieux Carre And River Cruise Trips Attract Visitors

This leading Southern metropolis was host to the convention of the National Editorial Association. The editors took time out from the business sessions to discover the dominant characteristics that have made this city stand apart from all other cities in the matter of food, architecture, customs, historic associations, and scenic attractions.

It is really remarkable how much there is to see and do in and around this 217 year old city.

Take the Vieux Carre, which means "Old Square," in the New Orleans laid out by Bienville, the city's founder. Its center is Jackson Square, originally known as the Place d'Arms. It was within and around the old tall iron pickets that enclose the square that most of the incidents recorded in the early history of New Orleans took place, where the gay social life of the old city was centered.

In the Vieux Carre to this day remain the St. Louis Cathedral, built in 1794 and still in use; the Galbido within the massive walls of which the greatest accession of territory in the history of the Union was achieved, when Napoleon sold Louisiana—it was all or part of what is now 17 states—to America; the Pontalba buildings, America's first apartment houses; the Archbishopric, erected in 1727, the oldest building in the Mississippi Valley. The French Market is also of peculiar interest because of the exotic life that teems through, in and around it. So are the Napoleon House built as a refuge for the Emperor in preparation for his expected escape from St. Helena; the old Absinthe House, where many of the famous drinks were first made; and 84 other landmarks wherein was enacted two centuries ago the early history of the 17 states that have been carved from the Louisiana Purchase.

In the Vieux Carre there is a distinct atmosphere of old France and old Spain. Its marked contrast with modern New Orleans helps to give the city its charming personality and its striking individuality.

Canal Street, America's widest business thoroughfare, is the dividing line between the old city of 100 squares and the new city of 200 square miles.

Shaped like a saucer, New Orleans has no natural drainage but it has installed the world's greatest drainage system to overcome this handicap. It has also built an immense water purification plant that makes the muddy Mississippi River water crystal clear and religiously pure. This modern sewerage, water and drainage system has made New Orleans one of the country's most healthful cities.

This is a manufacturing city, too, with 1200 factories making 900 different products: sugar, coffee, alcohol, furniture, bags, molasses, cigars, rice, clothing.

New Orleans put in a strong bid for national aeronautical recognition when it built the Shushan Airport on Lake Pontchartrain, a beautiful salt water body within the city limits. Authorities say that this airport is the world's finest. New Orleans is putting in just as strong a bid to have Chalmette, where the Battle of New Orleans was fought in the War of 1812, converted into a national memorial park. Incidentally, the Pakenham Oaks at Chalmette are the finest and largest grove of old live oaks to be found anywhere.

Among the other spots pointed out with pride by the guides are City and Audubon Parks, the antebellum homes in the Garden District, the restaurants serving Creole food, Motairie cemetery with its elaborate tombs and the port.

Convention of the National Editorial Association was concluded Wednesday with a banquet given by the New Orleans Publishers Association featured by typical Creole food including the city's celebrated Gumbo, plus Sazerac cocktails and Jung and Wulff Apricot Liqueur.

The following day the editors went in a body to the noted resorts on the Mississippi Gulf Coast, passing enroute within the city limits of New Orleans the largest fur-producing area in the world, where the muskrat, otter, mink and other fur-bearing animals are trapped.

Among the communities visited were Bay St. Louis, an out-of-town suburb of New Orleans; Pass Christian, one of the most beautiful residential areas of the country and former winter home of the late President Woodrow Wilson; Gulfport, the port of Mississippi and a thriving canning and shipping center; and Biloxi, where Iberville landed in 1691 to found the Colony of Louisiana.

This section is noted for its beautiful surroundings, ideal climate, and recreational advantages. It is on Mississippi Sound, the shore arm of the Gulf of Mexico, with many islands, like Cat Island, Swan Island, in the offing, Louisiana and Mississippi Highway Commissions have joined the construction of a short cut road from New Orleans. This road, to be completed soon, will put the Mississippi Gulf Coast resorts within an hour's drive of New Orleans.

Next came a trip through southwestern Louisiana, with Baton Rouge, the state capital, the first stop. The new capitol, rising 33 stories, is the tallest building in the South. The Standard Oil Company has the country's biggest oil refinery there. Baton Rouge is also the home of Louisiana State University.

New Iberia was the next stop and the editors were in the Acadian country immortalized by Longfellow in his poem "Evangeline." This section, in addition to being rich in scenic and historic attractions is noted also for its salt mines, sulphur mines, Jungle Gardens, game preserves, sugarcane plantations and plantation homes. Around New Iberia on Jefferson Island, Avery Island and Week Island are seemingly inexhaustible deposits of pure salt. The early settlers were French Canadians and 80 per cent of the present population are descendants of this sturdy stock.

Mrs. Orval Clark Honoree At Shower Saturday Evening

Honoring Mrs. Orval Clark, bride of last week, Mrs. Gerald Hardy, Miss Louise Wilks and Miss Frankie Scruggs were joint hostesses, with a hower at the home of Mrs. Gerald Hardy.

Oklahoma Couple Marry In Wellington Last Week

Miss Ruby Lee Beanan of Carnegie, Oklahoma and Mr. L. A. Shuster also of Carnegie, were united in marriage in Collingsworth County last week.

The couple will make their home in Carnegie. Their parents are also residents of Carnegie.

Clara Frances McDougall Has Good Record

(Special to Wellington Leader)
The 1935 Senior Class of the Lorenza high school includes a Collingsworth County student. Miss Clara Frances McDougall, of the Salt Fork community who is graduating from the high school here, is completing her work with an enviable record. To her are being awarded the cash prize offered by the local Chamber of Commerce for the highest average in the class, a three-months business college scholarship, and a year's scholarship in the state college of her choice. The scholarships were awarded by their respective institutions to the student making the most outstanding record in the senior class.

Besides setting a high scholastic record, Clara Frances represented her school in tennis singles, spelling and debate at the Interscholastic League meet.

The esteem in which her fellow students hold Clara Frances, is shown by the fact that they selected her to serve as secretary of the senior class and vice president of the Home Economics Club.

While attending school at Lorenza, Clara Frances has stayed with Miss Dorothy Gore, who is Vocational Home Economics teacher there. Frances was formerly a pupil of Miss Gore, when the latter was principal of the Lillie school.

Miss Elva Haynes became the bride of Mr. Myron Messar on Tuesday evening, May 7, at 7 o'clock. Attendants to the couple were Miss Melba Haynes and Mr. Howard Rankin. The ceremony was read at Memphis.

Mrs. Messar is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Haynes of the Rolla Community. She completed her education in the spring's class.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Messar. He completed his education at Brice.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Messar will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Messar of Rolla. The young couple has many friends that community who wish them happiness in the years to come.

CHEAP PAINT...

is entirely TOO EXPENSIVE

● Low-grade paint always costs far more in the long run than high-grade paint. That's because good paint—like Lowe Brothers High Standard—covers more surface to the gallon, retains its finish much longer, cuts down painters' time and looks better. Before you paint come in and get the facts about paint economy. We can save you money.

New Orleans has put up the strongest fight against Long, but I did not talk to anyone there. There was no need. New Orleans has taken some stinging blows below the belt. As a result of laws passed by the State Legislature, the city is unable to pay its policemen and other employees. It is due to a restrictive law on how they shall use their tax funds and not due to bankruptcy. The city is liquid, and its bonds rate well on the market. The restrictions will stay on until the Kingfish is given control of the city. Whether they can hold out without paying their employees is a matter of question, but they are making bitter resistance now. If they should capitulate and Long given charge, the policemen would probably be paid very promptly. In that case it would be easy to see who the officials would have to be for from then on. Furthermore the Kingfish has a law which allows his men to remove local officials for incompetency, graft and a long list of causes. This is done without trial by jury.

This picture of how government should not be run may seem like a joke to us. It is not a joke to the people of Louisiana. There it is quinine bitter reality. We think it could not happen to us, but once given a foothold it could happen here just as it happened there. Its prevention is to never let it get a start.

And finally, I did not see anybody wearing a crown in this home of the theory of every man a king. Neither did I run across any farmer, laborer or clerk who had been given $5000 by Huey but I did run across a few who suspected that some of his earnest followers might have earned at least that much by one means and another. I did not meet any independent and fairly prosperous looking farmers such as we see many years in the Panhandle, but I did see the skinniest mules that I ever beheld. My own question is: "How can a dictator raise $5,000 for everybody in the United States, when he can't even feed the mules in his own home state?"

A patient at Goulburn, Africa, district hospital was found to have swallowed 130 pieces of wire, each bent like a fish hook. He refused to say why.

Needwood Ends Eventful Term With Picnic

Honors In County Meet Listed Among Other School Achievements

The Needwood School opened on September 10, 1934 and closed a most successful year on May 3, 1935, with the following teachers: Mrs. Myrtle Hill, principal, Miss Dorothy McMinn, primary. Dave Walker, as president, Fred T. Walker and Charley Fronterhouse comprised the school trustees.

The school took several honors in the county meet which were: first place senior team in spelling; second place senior individual in spelling; first place junior team in spelling; third place junior individual in spelling; first place in 3-R contest.

The honor roll for this term is: primary, Jackie Moore, Cleve Marchbanks; second grade, Curtis Marchbanks, Clifford Martindale; fourth, Geneva Wood, Mary Frances Smallwood; sixth, Annie Wheller, Norman Moore; seventh, Harold Moore, Marjorie Willard; eighth, Ruth Moore.

The school closed Friday, May 3, with a picnic for the pupils, patrons and teachers. Although the enrollment was small for this year, the Needwood school is proud of their accomplishments.

To The Faculty

By G. W. POTEET

We of the Senior Class, wish to express our deepest appreciation for the fine co-operation that has been shown to the members of the class this year and the previous ten years. We hope that all members of the faculty have enjoyed our presence as much as the Seniors have enjoyed the fine and loyal understanding that they have shown toward us. We are proud of our group of teachers and have enjoyed every day of our school work. You teachers have given us an incentive to do our finest and best work. We feel proud of everyone of you and you shall live in our minds forever.

Baccalaureate Service Will Remain Long In Memory Of Senior Students

Many memories of the seniors will cluster around the baccalaureate service which was held in the Methodist Church last Sunday morning, May 12. Beautifully arranged festoons and baskets of roses greeted the eyes of each person as he entered the church. The pastel colors of the class marked the places of honor that had been reserved for the parents and relatives of the seniors. Junior girls who acted as ushers added to the attractiveness of the occasion.

Mrs. Dobbs, who had the music in charge, had arranged a most enjoyable musical program. A choir of the select voices of the town sang a hymn and presented a beautiful anthem—Mrs. Cochran, Mrs. Pauline Chaudoin and Rev. D. D. Sumrall singing special parts. Mrs. Tom Campbell honored the occasion by her beautiful rendition of "Perfect Day."

The sermon, which was delivered by Rev. John W. Van Dyke of Wichita Falls, had for its theme the requisites for success in life. This was a very pretty and well-conducted service—this most sacred hour of graduation.

Newman Infant Dies Thursday

Jack Newman, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Newman of Quail, passed away at the Newman home, Thursday morning, May 9.

The child is survived by his parents; one brother, Billie, age 6; a sister, Myrtle, age 3 years. Grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Newman of Quail, and Mrs. Bud Reed of Ardmore, Oklahoma.

Funeral services were conducted from the home at 2 o'clock last Thursday afternoon and interment was made in the Wellington Cemetery by Ellis Funeral Home.

Series Of Rains--

sons in recent years. While Wellington had received only three inches, parts of Collingsworth County had received as much as five inches in the last eight days.

While little planting has been done, practically every farm has been listed and re-listed, and the fields were in such shape that practically all of the moisture was caught and held. While summer rains will be necessary to make a crop, it is nevertheless the best start for a good crop that Collingsworth County has had in five years.

Monday morning, shortly before 8 o'clock, a short, but violent hail storm, accompanied by a cloud-burst descended upon the county. While the half inch of rain was drenching the fields, glasses from windows in many business houses and homes were broken by the large hail stones which pelted streets, car tops and buildings.

The hail although extensive, was thought to have been many times off-set by the deluge of water which descended upon the fields. Reports state that many farmers who planted early will have to replant their crops, but since ample time is afforded the loss of seed will provide the greatest hindrance along this line.

Gardens probably suffered the most severe fate of any other crop in the county. Many onion, radish, and other small plants were pelted into the ground, while a few plants escaped. Fruit was also seriously damaged by the large hail stones.

The rain, which lasted a scant hour and thirty minutes was so intense that the streets and drainage systems of the city were unable to take care of the deluge of water, which rose onto the sidewalks, and threatened to enter stores north of the square.

While Wellington escaped with reasonably light damages other towns in this section suffered a more severe fate. Lightning was reported to have struck a three-story hotel in Memphis, hurling the awning from the third story.

The Saturday night rains, which netted some sections just this side of Salt Fork and north around an inch of rain, brought little moisture to Wellington. These showers, in certain sections, were also general downpours and were accompanied by threatening clouds.

From these clouds came disaster for two members of the W. H. Taylor family of Shamrock. The Taylor home, a frame structure, was completely demolished and Mrs. Taylor received cuts on her head which necessitated eight stitches. Her two year old son was also badly bruised when the house was overturned by strong winds.

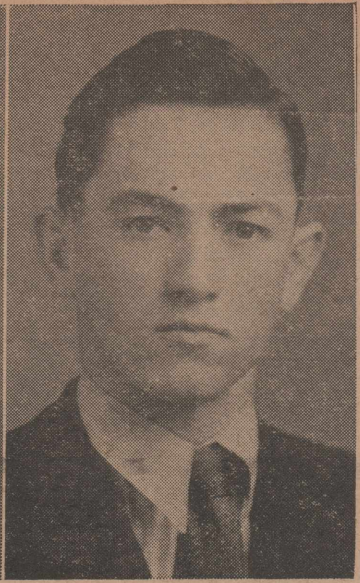

SWERINGEN.—The top of the Clarence Morgan house was blown off in a hail and wind storm here Friday night. No injuries resulted and little rain accompanied the cloud.

first run when a Childress error, a base hit and a pass filled the bases, then Hall walked Neeley to force in a run. Childress retaliated in the second with three runs and ran up a five run attack in the third; they also added Wright's home run in the sixth and the Gassers ran up two more tallies in their half when a single and a hit batsman put two on. Hall purposefully walked Brisbin to fill the bags, and then lost sight of the plate, giving two free tickets to first and bringing the two runs across the plate. Childress scored in the eighth and ninth on hard hitting.

2-base hits, Powell, Hale, Moore and Swift; 3-base hits, Powell, Ross and Hale. Home runs, Shults.

Following two consecutive losses the Gassers will go to Shamrock next Sunday in hopes of again hitting their stride and taking a winning streak which will once more place them in the running for the western division of the Red River Valley League. Wellington won from the Irishmen early in the season by a count of 11 to 1.

J. W. Johnson--

Cochran, Mrs. V. A. Porter, Mrs. Roy Horn, Mrs. John W. Harper, Mrs. Dick Richards, and Rev. D. D. Sumrall.

Mr. Johnson was born in Sedalia, Mo., and at the age of nine years, he came to Texas. In 1885, he moved to Childress county and has been engaged in the cattle business since that time. He was widely known over West Texas and especially in Collingsworth County, he had many friends.

He has extensive ranch holdings in this county and is known by pioneer cattlemen throughout West Texas. He has made his home with his family, in Childress and on his ranch north of the city for a number of years.

Survivors include the widow; one son, J. B. Johnson of Childress; five daughters, Mrs. Pearl Ward, County Clerk of Childress county, Mrs. E. L. Winn of Wellington, Mrs. Raymond Coffey of Vernon, Mrs. Harry Mitchell of Childress, Mrs. Vaughan Buster of Childress, and Mrs. Rouse Howell of Dallas; and one brother, Jeff Johnson of Childress.

Pall bearers at the funeral were John Allmond, G. W. Ellison, W. H. Lee, L. H. Rigby, Harry Hankins, and Tom Hardin, Sr.

The closing of school terminates a week of activity on the part of the students, especially the senior and junior classes, which were granted liberties in view of their classification.

Trustees Well Pleased L. A. Manzer, trustee chairman, paid tribute to the 75 graduates and stated that the trustees were well pleased with the work done by the Wellington Schools.

"Our schools have been operated during the past year on a cash basis," Mr. Manzer said. "Instructors report that the schools have not only maintained their efficiency, but have added prestige to the organization in many respects. The trustees are well pleased with the reports and are looking forward to a continuation of progressive, efficient schools for Wellington in 1935-36."

The Wellington Schools are one of the only five school systems in the state of Texas which during the past year have operated on a cash basis and have placed only a 60 cent tax rate.

The Certificate Pool manager, E. L. Deal, has announced that he is ready to start final distribution of the certificates pooled last year and that the unsold certificates will be issued to the producer entering them in the pool. A new certificate, representing the number of pounds each farmer will have unsold, can be used for the 1935-36 cotton ginnings.

All producers who desire to exchange their surplus certificates, are notified to bring their certificate books to the agent's office, just as they were issued to them, no detached portion will be eligible for redemption.

ALL HAIL
the Class of 1935

Culminating four years of high school training the seventy-five graduates of Wellington High School will march across the stage Thursday night and receive their diplomas.

From underneath their caps will shine eager, expectant faces. Forty young ladies and thirty-five young men will join the procession of flowing robes. Apparently those robes will cover mere boys and girls. In reality, they will clothe much more. Beneath those robes will rest symbols; the outgrowth of small boys and girls who a few meager years ago played on the floors. These young men and young ladies will represent the love of a mother . . . and of a father for their children; they will represent sacrifice; they will represent accomplishment.

"A Job Well Done." Such is the accomplishment of these young citizens. The tribute has been paid before, but never with more feeling and more pleasure.

The entire community joins in congratulating the graduates of 1935. Upon this occasion, which marks another step of progress for the community, they are certainly due respect and tribute.

Therefore, congratulations to the parents and to the graduates. May your success continue throughout life—and may you always be paid the tribute of "A Job Well Done."

Practical Courses Prove Successful In Science Class

Instructor Explains Ambition For Science In Local High School

The science department for the past two years has had a minimum enrollment of 131 and a maximum of 168. It has been the aim of the instructor to give practical courses which help to adjust the student to his environment. Experiments with local material have always been chosen in preference to those with material from other fields. Science has been stressed as a way to fuller life. A knowledge of our own body, a knowledge of the animals and plants that live around us, and the physical forces which surround us are essential to our living to the fullest extent.

Science has no use for prejudice or superstition. Science investigates, records its findings, reads the views of others; then, with the evidence all at hand forms conclusions. This department has sought to instill this principle into the habits of every student.

To the students, the instructor wishes to express appreciation for cooperation and for the good work done. Some of you have done work which invites comparison. You have done this work because of your interest in subject and not because of coercion upon my part. Your information and your note books will be of use to you in years to come whether you quit now or go to college. Your right to think independently has never been violated by your science teacher. Facts have been presented and possible conclusions stated but I have been patient and tolerant with you in your conclusions.

It has been the desire of this department to cooperate with other departments in the demand for good grammar, correct spelling, and intelligent reading. We have always discounted heavily for structural errors.

We sincerely hope that there may come some truly worth while scientists from the students we knew in Wellington High School. Failing in that, may there be many of you who will carry on the study of science as a matter of pleasure and employment for your leisure hours. May it make life a little fuller, a little richer, a little more interesting.

—W. H. Scoggins.

Living

By EUGENE HUDSON

The street-car rumbled slowly down the street while the traffic stirred about busily. The towering buildings made the street look like a canyon. The car moved on out into the residential section of town. The rich lawns and the trees gave it an air of restfulness and quietness that was apart from the bustle and din of the city.

The car stopped in front of a large house. It was back away from the street on a high terrace. The house was large and commodious. It also had an air of gloom and depression about it. The garden at the back was very beautiful and cool.

A tall neat figure descended from the car. He walked in a slow measured tread up the walk. He cast familiar eyes around the lawns and the trees. He remembered them as they were years ago, but they had not changed much. He walked on up the walk, and sounded the brass knocker on the huge oaken door. Presently a servant admitted him into the large living room.

As he entered, he was told that Mr. Metz would be there in a few minutes. He looked around the room in an easy manner. He saw the high ceiling and the carved beams that supported it. He smiled in joy when he saw the panels that covered the ceiling and the walls. They were made from the burl of a giant redwood tree. The grain was twisted, and they glowed like streaks of oil in the beautiful wood. He looked at them lovingly because he had known the mighty tree from which they had come.

Presently he saw a tin-type picture on the mantle-piece. He walked over to it, and his eyes lighted with recollection. He saw the determined chin that he knew so well and the short hair that Mr. Metz had worn while in the lumbering business.

"Well if it ain't old Jon," he mused. His mind ran back over those scenes while they were in the "Middle West." He chuckled as he thought of their experiences. "Wonder if he's like he used to be," he thought.

Mr. Brown kept looking, and he saw, and he remembered the long story behind that determined face that he hadn't seen for so long.

Back in the 70's two young men met on a flat-boat that was bound for New Orleans. Sam Brown, the steerman, was a young buoyant youth. He steered around the sand-bars, and cursed the flies and the heat. He was a good worker though and he had dreams of better things.

One day he happened to fall into a conversation with another young man who was going to New Orleans on some business. They talked about the future as enterprising men will. They talked of the golden west and its many opportunities. They decided to go out west after the trip. They had taken an immediate liking for each other, and they were willing to leave the past behind.

A few days later in New Orleans they broke up the raft after they had disposed of the produce. They decided to have a few days of fun first. They enjoyed themselves seeing the old Spanish estates and the cypress trees. As they were both reckless and young, they were ready for anything.

One day as they were walking past an enclosed lot they heard feminine voices on the other side. Sam suggested that they investigate. They clambered up the vines, and soon they found themselves in a convent garden. They had a good time with the girls. That night they helped two of them to slip out, and they went down to the levee. They rowed about in a boat while Sam sang. The night passed all too soon, and they found themselves setting out West.

Several years passed that brought the changes of that Golden age. John Metz established himself in the lumbering business in San Francisco. He prospered as he was a born ruler of men. He was the more dominating of the two, but Sam submitted in his good-natured way. He helped him in his work. Years came and went. John grew into a tall powerful man. He was like one of his magnificent redwoods. He owned millions of trees. He had a fine house and a saw mill. He was driven on by that consuming fire, the lust for gold. He turned out millions of feet of lumber. He worked day and night to fill rush orders. He was always busy, and the house was the scene of many activities. He trod upon men as though they were ants in his pathway. At times he seemed demonic in his struggle for wealth and dominance. Sam left him to try his fortune elsewhere as he was not fired by such ambition.

And now here was the same old easy-going Sam. He still looked at the picture as the glorious past held him spellbound. He saw the panorama behind the picture fade into the present. The last fleeting picture was gone when he heard a footstep in the room.

"Why, is it isn't John himself," he exclaimed.

They shook hands and sat down. They talked for a long while about their varying fortunes. Mr. Brown had traveled far and wide in his absence, and Mr. Metz had amassed much in the lumber business.

Mr. Brown could see that Mr. Metz's struggle had broken him. He had a wild light in his eyes. He kept mumbling to himself about his trees. He seemed to have aged so much in the last few years.

Finally Mr. Brown wrung out the broken story from him. He had had several million feet of his choice lumber stacked on the wharf ready for shipment. All his fortune depended upon this because he had to meet a powerful competitor. He had beaten him in docking the lumber. He walked among the huge piles glorying in his seeming victory and his fine lead. Then a carelessly tossed match ended it all.

Mr. Brown tried to comfort him after he told his story but this put him in a fury.

"I've never asked for help yet and I'll not now," he roared in a passion.

He stopped weakly and the old man tottered like a huge tree when it is hewn down. The wild light in his eyes leapt like the fire of his burning lumber. It died as Mr. Brown tried to catch him as he fell, but he was not successful. He died as he had lived—hard.

Fearing that she would not be excused in time to get her employer's dinner, Elizabeth Washington, witness in a criminal case at Fort Worth, Texas, received the judge's permission to prepare string beans in the court room.

Wellington Girls Win State-Wide Honors In Home Economics Contest

Home Economics Department Ends Successful Year

Girls of Wellington High School Win Awards In State Contests

The most outstanding event for the home economics department this year was the Homemaking Education Rally, held in Corpus Christi April 25-28. Three honors were won for Wellington High. Maurven Hunt won first place in judging a school girl's costume; Olivia Templeton won second on homemade play equipment for children; and Frances McClure won third on her tailored dress. Those attending the rally from Wellington in addition to the above were Nelle Terry and Lila Allred. Faye Handley, also was chosen as a delegate, but she was unable to attend the rally, due to an injury. Delegates were chosen by means of local try-outs.

The girls reported a wonderful trip. Every minute of the time spent in Corpus Christi was filled with something interesting. When they were not busy with contests, they were enjoying a banquet, a boat trip, a swim in the gulf or a sightseeing tour of the city.

About a thousand boys and girls taking home economics in the various schools of the state were present at the rally. Since this is the first year the boys have had entries, they were quite in the minority. Naturally, they were very much in demand at times. In one entry in which boys and girls were competing a boy won first place.

Another high point of the year was the district club meeting held at Wheeler in March. The Junior Homemakers, Wellington Home Economics club, won second place on the stunt presented. Thirteen delegates from Wellington attended this meeting.

The 7 o'clock dinner, served in honor of the school board members and their wives, was an enjoyable occasion for the department. The dinner was prepared and served by the second year classes. The program included a style show by the first year girls and reports of work done in the various classes. Olivia Templeton gave the report from the first year class, Virginia Lee Fortenberry reported from the second year class and Maurven Hunt from the third. Dona Mae Koen reported on home project work, and a reading was given by Kathleen Leggitt. Guests present included Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Manzer, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Wallace, Mrs. Dave Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Farrar, and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Decker.

Before Christmas the third year class entertained at tea with first and second year home economics girls, the high school faculty being guests. On another occasion they served tea to the P. T. A.

Conducting a play school, as a part of the unit on child care and guidance of children, was a high point for the third year class. Small children were brought to school, and the class observed their habits and directed their play. Through their observations they were able to get a much better understanding of children.

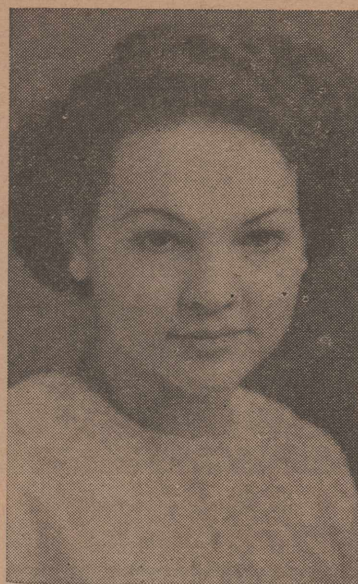

Many bedrooms and kitchens have been improved as a result of home project work.

This has been a good year, but the home economics department is looking forward to a bigger and better one in 1935-36.

On his way from a hospital where he had been treated for an injury, Arthur Racine of Concord, N. H., was struck by two hit-and-run motorists. The first automobile knocked him down, and the second passed over him. He will recover.

H. W. Powell of Uffington, Eng., whipped Rev. E. M. Hadow for going shopping with Mrs. Powell, but later admitted his error and paid the minister $100 damages.

NOTICE OF SHERIFF'S SALE, STATE OF TEXAS, COUNTY OF COLLINGSWORTH

By virtue of an order of sale issued on the 20th day of April, A. D. 1935, out of the District Court of Collingsworth County, Texas, for the 100th Judicial District of Texas, on a judgment rendered in said court on the 16th day of December, A. D. 1933, in favor of the plaintiff, Fain-Townsend Company, against the defendants, W. M. Slaughter and A. C. Boverie, for the sum of Eight Hundred Six & 58-100 Dollars ($806.58), together with interest thereon and costs of suit and in favor of the defendant, Jack B. Deahl, on his cross-action against the defendants, W. M. Slaughter and A. C. Boverie, for the sum of Seven Hundred Sixteen & 37-100 Dollars ($716.37) and interest thereon, said suit being No. 1304 on the docket of said court, styled Fain-Townsend Company vs. W. M. Slaughter, et al, wherein Fain-Townsend Company is plaintiff and W. M. Slaughter, Jack B. Deahl, A. C. Boverie and wife, Mrs. A. C. Boverie, and Clement Hendricks are defendants, said judgment in favor of plaintiff Fain-Townsend Company being a foreclosure of a special assessment tax lien and mechanic's lien as the same existed on the 10th day of March 1927 and at all times thereafter on the hereinafter described property, and said judgment in favor of the said defendant, Jack B. Deahl, on his cross-action being a foreclosure of a vendor's lien as same existed on the 17th day of March 1927, and at all times thereafter, on said property, which is more particularly described as follows, to-wit: Situated in the City of Wellington, County of Collingsworth, State of Texas, and being

All of Lots Thirteen (13), Fourteen (14), Fifteen (15), Sixteen (16) and Seventeen (17) in Block 201 of the City of Wellington, Texas,

I did on the 27 day of April, A. D. 1935, at 10 o'clock A. M., levy on the above described lots, tracts and parcels of land as the property of the said W. M. Slaughter, Jack B. Deahl, A. C. Boverie and wife, Mrs. A. C. Boverie, and Clement Hendricks.

And on the 4th day of June, A. D. 1935, same being the first Tuesday in June, A. D. 1935, between the hours of ten o'clock A. M. and four o'clock P. M. on said date, at the court house door in said Collingsworth County, Texas, in the City of Wellington, Texas, I will offer for sale and sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash all the right, title, lien and interest which the said defendants, W. M. Slaughter, A. C. Boverie and wife, Mrs. A. C. Boverie, Jack B. Deahl and Clement Hendricks, and each of them, had in and to the above described lots, tracts and parcels of land and each of them on the 10th day of March, A. D. 1927, and at all times thereafter.

I will first offer for sale and sell Lot 13 in said Block 201; and I will next offer for sale and sell Lots 14, 15, 16, and 17 in said

Block 201, all in the City of Wellington, Texas, in satisfaction of said judgment as above set forth. Dated at Wellington, Texas, this 27 day of April, A. D. 1935.

THE moment you buy it, the Ford V-8 truck begins to save you money, because it will do more work—haul more tons at less cost. Its notably low fixed costs and its marked economy of operation and maintenance combine to reduce ton-mile haulage costs. Its new forward load distribution permits carrying more pay-load ahead of the rear axle. This results in longer tire and brake life—less body and chassis strain—more room in the cab.

We are ready to prove the ability as well as the economy of the 80 h. p. Ford V-8 truck. We will furnish the truck—even the gas and oil. You test it with your loads on your routes with your driver and check the results. There is no obligation. There are no strings to this offer—your sound business judgment will be our reward.

English Students Present Unusual Record For 1935

Work Of English Department Pronounced Unusually Successful

District Superintendent, Bryan Dixon, who recently visited our high school—true to custom of inspectors—centered his attention upon English. It was with the keenest pleasure that the teachers presented for his review their papers. In a very pleasing manner he commented most favorably upon them, as well as upon the method of teaching he observed. The school year 1934-35 has been unusually successful in the junior and senior English classes.

In junior English, American Literature was presented during about two-thirds of the year, while grammar was being taught indirectly. This latter process consisted of watching of the conversational English in addition to individualizing the errors in written work. Each pupil was asked to write an error theme upon receiving either an examination paper or a theme. In this he was urged to be original in the condemnation of his own mistakes. This procedure helped to impress the correct forms upon the child's mind. Rules involving the errors were written and repeated. A record of each error made by a pupil was carefully kept by the instructor to determine whether the child was overcoming his faults.

This particular method of imparting instruction in the field of grammar is the most authoritative in the English teaching field. It was introduced into our system as a result of its high rating by Dr. Charles Pendleton of Peabody Teachers' College—one of the leading authorities on teaching of English in the United States.

In the study of literature pupils were led into a fondness for poetry, short story and other types, a proof being the large collection that many made.

Many honors were won by members of the senior English class. Kathleen Leggett won the essay contest for the county. In a contest giving the merits of the new Chevrolet De Luxe Car, sponsored by our local theatre, Virginia Weber won first, Mildred Slough second and Jewell Frances Somerville won third. The entire class has found this a most profitable year in the study of English.

Those who have done outstanding work this year are: Beatrice King, Mildred Slough, James Eiland, Eugene Hudson, Clifton Morris in his written work, Helen Hudson, Kathleen Leggett, Jewell Frances Somerville, Virginia Weber, Winona Holland, Paige Wilson and Sunday Smith are perhaps the students whose written work show the greatest improvement.

Fearing a scolding because she had scorched her best dress while ironing it, 13-year-old Jean Fleury of Minneapolis, shot herself. She is expected to recover.

Home Demonstration News By MISS ANNIE MAE DONAGHEY

County Home Demonstration Agent

"In order for a sleeve to hang well it must be cut on the straight of the material," said Miss Annie Mae Donaghey, County Home Demonstration Agent, at the Aberdeen Home Demonstration Club meeting, May 9 at the club room.

"Sleeves that are too long should be altered by taking the fullness out above and below," added Miss Donaghey.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Thelma Guley was elected as bedroom demonstrator with Mrs. James Light, W. C. Ketner and Miss Eldie Smith as assistants, to get the club members to respond to the goal of 100 percent. In order to raise funds to send the delegate to short course, the motion was made and carried that each member bring 2 dozen eggs to be sold by Mrs. Bishop.

There were 15 ladies attended the meeting.

The next meeting will be held May 23, at the club room with an exchange of work following the demonstrations on storage of winter clothes.

Utilizes Storage Space
To utilize all of the storage space in the chest of drawers of Mrs. George Richards, bedroom demonstrator of the Crossroads Home Demonstration Club has made a sliding box for cosmetics out of a cigar box.

Since the drawer was deep, about 3-4 of the space was lost until Mrs. Richards papered the cigar box inside and out with ceiling paper to slide across one end of the drawer, after the rest of the drawer was partitioned and rearranged.

The ends of the orange box were used to make a rack for shoes. These two shoe racks were placed together with broom sticks so that the heel could rest over one stick and the toe on another.

Gunney Sack Couch

To make the small cot in the living room look like a couch, Modena Shaw, age eleven of the Aberdeen 4-H Club is making a tufted spread out of feed sacks.

The spread is very simple in design with a gathered flounce around the center strip that fits the mattress. The tufting design covers the seams where piecing was necessary.

The spread comes to the floor so as to give the room as much height as possible.

Modernizes Cabinet

To give more working space on the cabinet top, Mrs. W. A. Morrow, member of the Fresno Home Demonstration Club sawed the two lower small drawers off of her cabinet, since they were used to store just odds and ends.

The cabinet was also raised five inches in height by putting a block of wood under the side. The cabinet is now up high enough that Mrs. Morrow may work without becoming tired.

Stalls of Carson county can supply everything except bread, according to Miss Dalton Burleson, home demonstration agent. Mrs. Stalls has a total of 60 varieties of meats, vegetables, fruits, pickles and relishes from which to choose and even has 12 cans of fruit cake. She produces milk, eggs and butter at home and also has enough home made soap stored in the cellar to last for a long period of time.

Many Students Close Athletic Careers At W. H. S.

Seniors Played Stellar Role In School Athletics

Many Familiar Faces To Be Missing From High School Teams

With the graduation class of 1935 there go many of the best athletes of our school. It was the earnest efforts of these seniors that was a great factor in the putting over of a successful year in athletics. These boys will be missed greatly, and the ability and courage which they have exhibited as athletes in Wellington High School will be an inspiration to all who are left behind to carry on after they are gone.

On the football team next year we will not see a team led by Gene Glenn, who was our captain this year. His good punting and hard tackling will always be remembered. Woodrow Wood was one of the most consistent ball carriers on the team, as well as Charlie Williams and Raymond Ford, all of this group of boys as well as G. W. Poter who was really the surprise and inspiration to his team, will have to be replaced before many more touchdowns are made for the black and gold.

In the line Lloyd Kelly, the all bi-district guard, Oscar Elliott, Grant Wooldridge, and E. B. Peoples. The winning of two tournaments, and taking second place in the district tournament can be accounted for when we remember the great ability and skill that was shown by these boys on the basketball court.

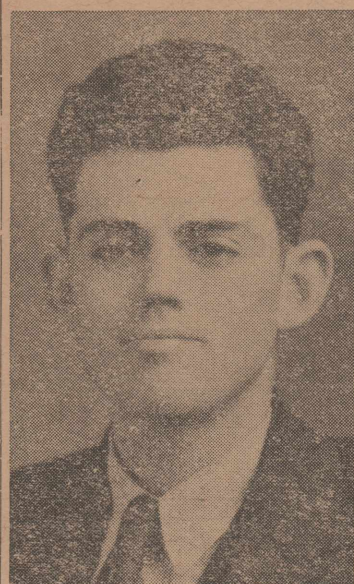

In basketball, football and track there are some boys who will not graduate with the class of 1935, but who will probably return and finish in summer school who were just as important in the athletics of Wellington High School as any we could mention. Buck Amburn and Tom Kennedy were letter men and regular players in all three sports. Tom was the only boy from Wellington to be placed on the all-district team at Childress in basketball. While Buck was the only man from Wellington to take a first place in the district track meet. He hurled the discus for a distance of 117 feet at the district and then at the regional meet he bettered that mark by throwing a distance of 119 feet.

Also there are some who did not win, but who gave us earnestly in their efforts as did the boys who had the glory of carrying the school colors to victory. Allen Rayl and Harold Keller were two good athletes and their efforts were greatly appreciated.

Declaring that marriage at their age was not a success and that they would be more contented apart, Van Buren Reeves, 103, and Elizabeth Reeves, 96, of Salt Lake City, have separated.

Superstition saved a chicken owned by J. E. Watts, Xenia, O., when a thief who raided the pen took a dozen fowls, leaving the 13th be-

Wife Trouble

By VIRGINIA WEBER

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Worthington were moving. It was a day of joy and supreme happiness for them. They had been married the sum total of one week. Straight back from a Bermuda honeymoon they were moving into a little suburban home, all paid for; Ronnie was that sort of a person.

"Ronnie, oh Ronnie," wailed Millicent.

"Oh, oh, that's Millicent." Ronnie peered out from behind the garage where he was putting up clothes-line. "What now?" he called.

"Ronnie, these awful men won't put the lamp where I want it," Millicent sobbed.

Ronald walked in and there was Millicent, her hair in her eyes, a smudge across her nose, and a large run in her hose, gesticulating and arguing with two burly men from the furniture company.

"Look, dear," Millicent said, "I want this floor lamp just to the right of the Morris Chair and there is no wall plug, and these mean old men tell me that it is dangerous to run the wire under the rug to the plug on the other side of the room. It isn't; now, is it? I simply must have it right there. You will fix it won't you?" she pleaded.

"Yes, you precious idiot, I'll fix it. We'll see that the wire is well-insulated and then run it under the oriental rug if you must have it that way. Its just like a woman to want a lamp where there isn't any plug."

So the first little difficulty was over; the moving was finished and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Worthington were established in their new home. Hosts of friends surrounded them. Time passed and Ronnie and Millicent were ideally happy. Millicent made countless trips from the kitchen to the front door looking for Ronnie home from work. The insulation wore off the wires and then one night it happened. Ronnie and Millicent were expecting out-of-town guests in the form of George and Lucille Rodgers. They were later than was expected and Ronnie and Millicent were still waiting after midnight. Suddenly the lights went off.

"Thunder!" shouted Ronnie. "On this of all nights the lights would have to go out. I suppose a fuse has burned out, and likely every place will be closed this time of night. This is certainly fine." "Now, Ronnie, don't get excited," Millicent soothed. "It's not good for the digestion. Here, take some matches and see if a fuse is burned out."

Ronnie snatched the matches and stumbled down into the basement to look at the fuse box. Millicent could hear him mumbling to himself.

In a moment the lights flashed on. Millicent smiled and called to him, "you did fix them didn't you? You're so valuable. I just couldn't do without you."

Ronnie threw out his chest, cleared his throat and said, "Oh, yes, I'm a very remarkable man when you know me really well. I merely put a penny in place of the fuse and presto the lights came on."

"A penny! How brilliant! M-m, I'm getting drowsy, I wish George and Lucille would come on."

In a very few moments Ronnie stretched out on the divan, and Millicent was curled up kitten-like in a big chair fast asleep.

Meanwhile the wires minus the insulation were getting terrifically hot. The wool rug above them began to smoke.

George and Lucille slipped up on the porch and tapped at the door. No answer came. They tried the door and then walked in.

"Ronnie! Millicent! Good Heavens, the place is on fire!"

Ronnie awoke with a start and grabbed Millicent out of the chair. "Oh," she screamed, "My lovely rug! It's burning up!"

Lucille and George had run to the kitchen for water and in a few minutes the rug was no longer ablaze.

Millicent was looking wide-eyed at Ronnie. "Oh what if—that if—" and then the tears started.

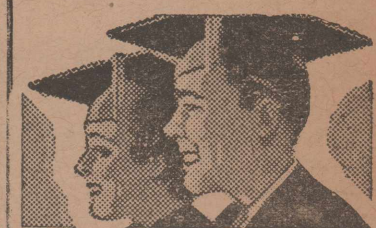

Ronnie crossed the room and whispered comfortingly, "Millicent dear, it was all my fault. I should never have put the penny in place of the fuse."

Millicent looked up and said, "Oh, no, it's all my fault. I should not have been so stubborn about the lamp."

George and Lucille interrupted, yelling from the kitchen, "Say how about some sandwiches and coffee, now that the excitement is over?"

Millicent, tears dried, hanging on Ronnie's arm, giggled and said, "Ronnie, I'll race you to the kitchen."

MEMPHIS' BIG NEWSPAPER

The Memphis Daily Democrat celebrated the first anniversary of its expansion into the daily newspaper field with a 64-page special edition dated last Sunday. An edition of that size in a city Memphis' size is something to talk about. It inevitably suggests that both the publishers and the city are possessed of courage and enterprise. The special edition is also worth talking about for the excellence and variety of its special articles, photographs and general make-up. Somebody with a lot of "savvy" and energy to burn spent a lot of time on it.

The Democrat, although a youngster in the daily field, has a lineage of fair antiquity. It is the logical and direct descendant of the Memphis Weekly Democrat, which itself derives by easy stages from earlier adventures in the art of journalism on the high prairies. The present head of the Democrat is Lyman E. Robbins. J. Claude Wells, for many years editor and publisher of the Weekly Democrat, is associate editor.

Memphis has a right to be proud of its thoroughly modern daily and its able staff. —Ft. Worth Star-Telegram.

NON-VOTING CITIZENS

How eligible voters who fail to go to the polls could control elections if they all should ever decide to cast their ballots is illustrated by some figures recently compiled, from which the following facts are taken:

In the presidential election of 1932, only 58 per cent of the population of the United States over 21 years of age voted. In the "off year" election last November only about 41 per cent of the potential voters went to the polls.

It may be fairly assumed, however, that the percentage of eligible voters who failed to exercise their right of franchise was about the same in both parties, so that if every potential voter had voted the result might have been practically what it was in each instance.

It is one of the paradoxes of a democracy that citizens who would fight for the right to vote, if the privilege were denied them, will refuse or neglect to exercise that right when they have the opportunity.

Government waterpower would be all right if it could earn enough to support the coal miners it would make jobless.

Don't waste too much sympathy on that girl who has been asleep during most of the depression. She should be married.

CHAIN LETTER IS REPLICA OF 1929 FOLLY

Prosperity. Dimes, quarters and dollars. Hundreds of persons in Wellington, during the past week visualized themselves as having rounded the proverbial corner as they invested a single dollar with the hopes of reaping $1,024 from a chain letter. However, while they still visualized themselves as sitting in the lap of luxury and feasting on milk and honey dew, the old ship hit a snag and failed to reach the harbor.

The chain letter craze is simply sweeping the country and the idea is a good one—if you get in the chain early enough to harvest the dollars before the thing dies out. In the case of the letters circulated in Wellington last week there is but one conclusion: the game ran out of players. The last name on the first letter should have received 1,024 dollars, which accounts for 512 letters; also, there were nine other names on that first letter and each of those names received replies. But there were other letters and if all of them had been paid the number would have run into hundreds of thousands of dollars. The total population of Wellington is listed as 3,570 persons. Hence, it is easy to see why all of the donors were not rewarded.

The Wichita Falls Record News summarizes the chain folly with the following comment:

"In each case the idea is a good one as long as you can keep the ball rolling. Collapse comes only when the supply of suckers runs out."

"Theoretically, there is no exact limit to the distance the thing could be carried. All that is necessary is that on any given date the number of new suckers being tapped is greater than the number of 'donations' in circulation. As long as it keeps on going upward, nobody can lose."

Pondering over the situation we may generally conclude, then, that the chain folly carries a remarkable resemblance to the kind of prosperity we had back in 1929.

DEATH'S CAPTAIN

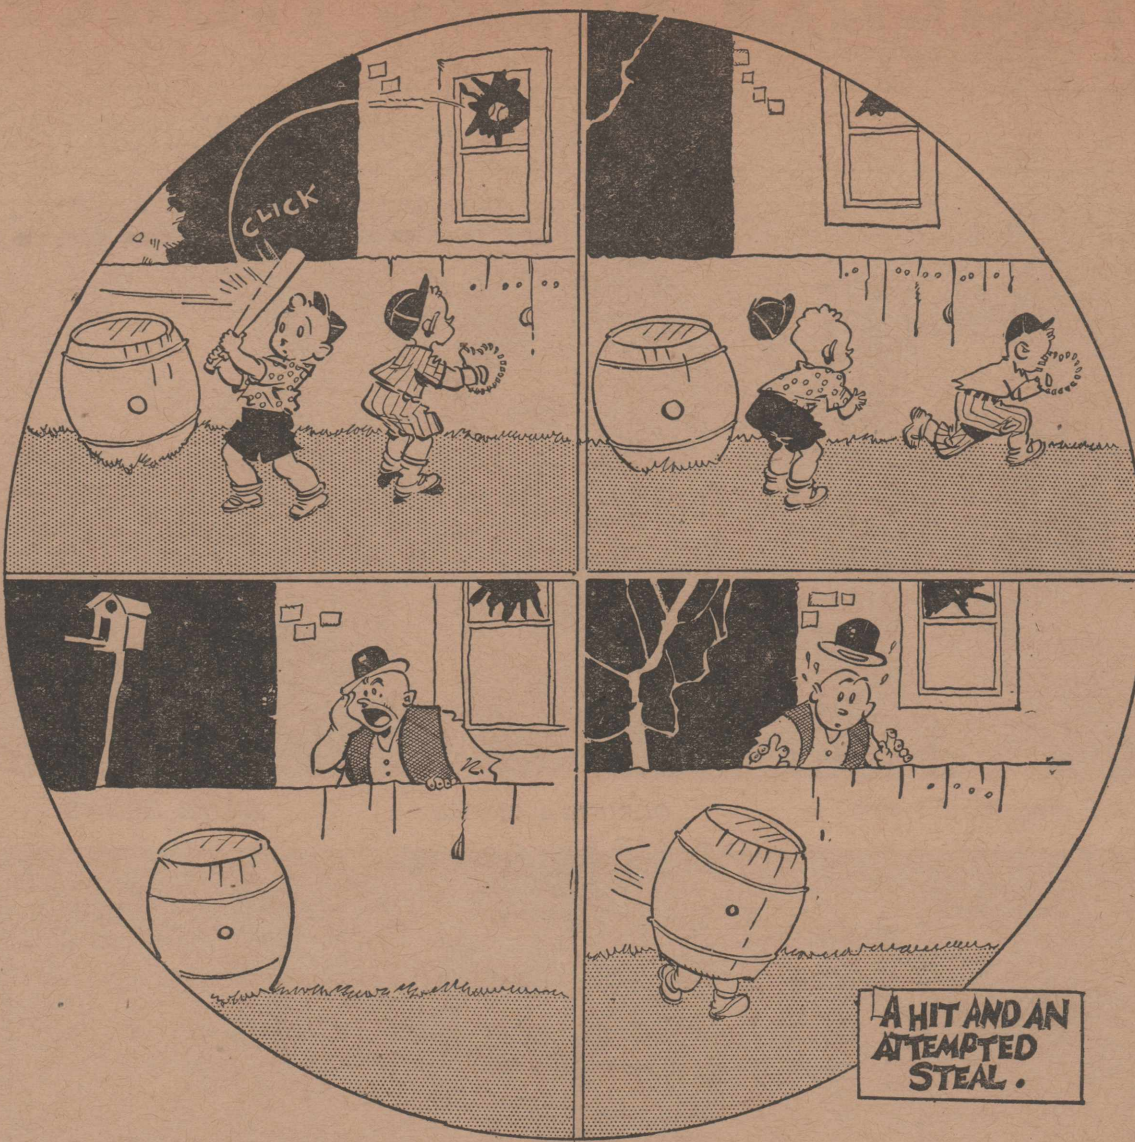

Tuberculosis, once described as "captain of the men of death," has been demoted, now ranking no higher than sergeant. Heart disease is now the "captain" claiming more than twice as many lives as any other cause of death. Tuberculosis now stands sixth among fatal diseases.

Statistics for the year 1933, the last available, show that for every 100,000 of population in the United States, 202 died of organic heart disease. Next came cancer, 99; Bright's disease, 87; pneumonia, 81; apoplexy, etc., 79, and tuberculosis 61.

The alarming death rate from heart disease and other maladies resulting from a degeneration of the blood vessels is attributed by many physicians to the stress and worry of our complex modern life. Excessive mental or physical work, with insufficient sleep and recreation; the drive of ambition for success; the intemperate use of stimulants, and other modes of "burning the candle at both ends," tend to throw a too heavy burden upon the heart, and if long continued may end in collapse.

Medical science at present offers little in the way of curative agencies for the condition which these habits bring about. The only means of relief appears to be the abandonment of the practices which cause the trouble. Countless lives are shortened because people will not take sufficient rest to enable their bodies to recuperate after strenuous mental or physical activities.

OUR PAST

By C. C. BISHOP

In taking stock of our history in preparing for observance of the coming Centennial, we must not forget that the Texas Ranger force have played no small part in our history.

In casting about over the history of this group of men and their deeds and actions, Bell County offers one of the most interesting stories of the Ranger organization.

This story is known as "Bird's Victory," which occurred on a creek, flowing into Leon Creek, a branch of the Little River.

It was on Sunday morning, May 27, 1839, that the Captain John Bird started forth from Fort Milam, at the falls of the Brazos, on his last ride. From that point, he led, well-mounted and armed, a company of thirty-one Texas Rangers upon a scouting trip to locate depraving bands of Indians, who had been raiding unprotected settlements around Fort Griffin on the Little River.

Arriving at the fort, about one o'clock the same afternoon, Bird learned that Indians had been seen in the vicinity but a few hours before his arrival. Without dismounting, the Rangers hurried along the new-made trail. About five miles from Fort Griffin, they came suddenly upon a party of twenty-seven Comanches, who being busy skinning buffaloes, were unaware of their approach and scattered hastily in several directions before the Rangers' charge. Following the main body of the Indians for three miles across the prairie, the Rangers again encountered the entire body of redskins, which had reassembled and was prepared to give fight. Again the Indians fled before a Ranger charge, however, and although pursued outrode the Rangers' jaded horses.

The Texans gave up the chase after a few miles and had decided to return to the fort, but after retracing their path for half a mile, they suddenly found themselves surrounded by forty Indians, who poured upon them a stream of arrows, as they were emerging from a skirt of timber on the south side of a small stream, since known as Bird's Creek, and at a point about seven miles northeast of where Belton stands today. Fighting their way, the Rangers succeeded in reaching a ravine, some 600 yards ahead, in which there was a spring.

The Indians then retired to a hilltop, about 300 yards from the ravine, and there sent up three "signal smokes," which in a short time brought them reinforcements, increasing their number to about 300. Led by their chief, Buffalo Hump, the tribesmen formed a battle array and, pouring a deluge of arrows upon the Texans, charged their position in the ravine. Deadly fire from the Rangers hurled the living wave back to the hilltop, leaving many dead and wounded Indians upon the field. Again they charged, advancing to within fifty yards of the ravine, but the Texans' galling fire again forced a retreat. (Continued on Back Page)

Christian Baptism

Text: Matt. 28-19, 20; Acts 8:26-39
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for May 19.

Much serious and none too friendly controversy has in days gone by attended the subject of baptism, discussed in the lesson.

I remember how, in the little town where I grew up, the Methodist minister and the Baptist minister were much of the time on quite unfriendly terms and engaged in a rather unholy controversy over the amount of water to be used in Christian baptism, the manner of using it, and those to whom it should be applied.

The warfare between those who favored immersion and those who favored sprinkling, and between the advocates of infant baptism and of the baptism only of adult converts, has been a notable and none too notable warfare in religious history.

There was a time when such controversial attitudes tended to make baptism almost more important than conversion. Today we have come to a saner view, and most Christians would say that the important thing is the transformation of one's life by the power of Christ, and not the outward sign or symbol by which that transformation is acknowledged before the world.

In both passages in the lesson baptism manifestly was consequent upon discipleship. The disciples in the farewell exhortation of Jesus were commissioned to make disciples of all nations, "baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit," and both discipleship and baptism were associated with the teaching of men to observe the commandments of Jesus.

The story of Philip and the Ethiopian might be regarded as a case study, and a very interesting case, in fulfillment of this commission that Jesus gave the disciples.

When Philip found this eminent Ethiopian sitting in his chariot and reading the Scriptures, he sought that Christian contact through which so many influences have come into the lives of men. In a gracious and kindly way he approached the Ethiopian, inquiring whether he understood what he read.

It must have been with no suggestion of superiority or offensiveness, for the Ethiopian responded at once to his question, and apparently perceiving that he was in the presence of one who was able to teach him, he replied, "How can I, except someone shall guide me." And he invited Philip to come and sit beside him.

What a great lesson it must have been as Philip, expounding the passage in Isaiah, "preached unto him Jesus." The Ethiopian was as decisive in action as he was in spirit. Philip had evidently told him concerning Christian baptism, and when they came to the water the eunuch said, "Behold, here is water, what doth hinder me to be baptized?"

We wish that we had a sequel to the story, in which we might follow the course of grace in the life of this eminent man from the south. If we had it, we might discover how much this Ethiopian's influence may have had to do with the building of the church in its early days in the Dark Continent.

As Mother's Day was observed throughout the nation and the seniors of Wellington High School are getting one of the biggest thrills of their lives, I saw June Marian Alley saying she should be a good juggler when she got several milk bottles into the Creamery.

Wanda Handley hauling a bucket of water in a small red wagon. Mrs. Otis Ball asking Mrs. Glen Brickey if she could sit with her during the drawing.

Mrs. W. R. McInnis enjoying the cool breeze Saturday afternoon sitting in her swing on her front porch.

Mrs. Roy Horn saying the first Mother's Day gift that she received made her cry. Her son, R. M., who was then five years old, said that if that was the way she'd do, he wouldn't give her anything else.

E. S. Copeland getting in such a hurry when he held the lucky number for the $10 Saturday, that he dropped all his tickets.

Mrs. Joe Hardy enjoying the antics of the tennis players Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Morgan Tucker and Juanita shopping for new spring clothes.

A. P. Lowrie and M. Winter sitting on a car bumper discussing government problems as they watched the traffic go by.

I. E. Emmert and E. W. Blain discussing farm problems.

Jack Smallwood looking like a prosperous farmer as he delivered cream in a trailer.

Mrs. H. E. Tolleson and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Poff talking about the price of farm produce—eggs, cream, etc.

M. I. Wilks talking over the cattle situation with two other farmers.

G. T. Aduddell standing on a street corner with his arms crossed waiting for time for the drawing Saturday afternoon.

Betty Lou McDonald looking very sweet and fresh in a little blue print dress and a new hair set as she window shopped with her mother.

Mrs. J. L. Black and her attractive small daughter shopping around the square.

Mrs. S. K. Parsons getting so excited she could hardly find the ticket when she realized she held the lucky one.

J. E. Mattox, T. M. Johnston, A. B. Clark and M. M. Kern sitting at a table in a local confectionery eating a frozen malt—then having an argument about who paid—think Mr. Mattox did.

Mrs. Tiny Pearson and Mrs. Alabama Sumner discussing house keeping problems as they drank a coca-cola.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Neece trying to locate some certain person—don't think they did.

P. E. Starr and D. D. McDowell discussing government and other problems as they walked around the square.

Mrs. Floyd Thompson having a hard time starting a borrowed car—she wouldn't make a successful car thief.

Harper Scoggins crossing the street with his lips all fixed trying to whistle.

Leah Smith looking very chic in a pretty red and white dress.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Miller looking very hopeful as they went to the drawing with a handful of tickets, but left with the disappointed throng.

Eddie Moore seemingly very much at home as he shook hands with old time friends.

John H. Starr and Lowell Wells discussing fishing plans—a trifle may be brewing for the near future.

J. W. Payne and W. I. Jackson talking over old times as Payne worked on a watch.

Mrs. Walter Watson busied trying to entertain her niece, Billy Ruth Watson, and Letty Jean and Mary Ann Richards.

Chester Blackwood trying to find some red roses Sunday for Mother's Day. I expect he found them because there are so many pretty ones this year.

Wade Mahan gathering up his hat and jacket he had left at the tennis court late one afternoon.

Moon Royal asking Frank Gallagher early Monday morning if he had a cellar in his pocket. The cloud looked bad enough to want one for a short while.

How About Less Oratory and More Brass Tacks?

Social Activities Of Class In Spotlight On High School Calendar

The Sophomores, feeling very proud of the fact that they were at last out of the undignified stage of freshmen, enrolled on September 6 to begin their studies and activities for another nine months. A class meeting was called, during which the following officers were elected:

Carter Holcomb—president.
Henry Sullivan—vice president.
Dorthea Gray—secretary-treasurer.
Virginia Glenn—reporter.

Order to start the year off with a "bang," the Sophomores met at the Methodist church for the beginning of the year. The well attended meeting was held by all. The girls again gathered for the Christmas holidays. A very interesting and good will to all.

After all the trials of mid-term examinations had passed, and the school had settled down to the old gait, Bobo Castleberry entertained the class in his home. The party proved a very delightful and thrilling one. The lovely refreshments were enjoyed by several members of the Junior class.

As climax of social life of their class the sophomores had a picnic at the Salt Fork river bridge. Everyone proved his enjoyment by the ravenous appetite he displayed after having run up and down the river and over the hills, and cliffs surrounding the picnic spot.

The sophomores have shown their loyalty to the school by their participation in its athletics. Lee Roy Holley and Earl Shields played a very active part on the football team. They promise to be among the best players next year. The sophomore class is indeed proud of Bill Parker, the only member of the class to letter in football. He was very outstanding, this last season in his prominent position as fullback, and all sophomores are grateful to him for putting their class in the lime-light.

Sophomores have made a name for themselves in other branches of school activity. J. C. Emmert, Foster Emmert, Joe Langford and R. E. Parker have been important members of the Wellington High School Band. To sophomores their "bats" have seemed cleared and have stood out more impressively than those of other members of the band. Dora E. McClaskey, J. C. Emmert, Foster Emmert, and Dorothy Margaret Forbis from the sophomore class have played in Mr. Collins' High School Orchestra. Pauline Duke, Juanita Duke, La Juana McClure, Josephine Moulton, Inez Bayouth, Linna Mae Thompson, Dorthea Gray, and Patty Smith have represented the Sophomore class in the Glee Club.

The sophomore class even had a share of the honor bestowed upon the juniors because of their lovely banquet. The fifteen sophomore girls who served as waitresses were not only decorative but were useful.

Just but not least, the sophomores wish to thank the members of the faculty, who have cooperated with the class in every way, and their class mother, Mrs. G. M. Terry.

This year has been a profitable one for all Sophomores, and they hope that the coming year will bring on half so many hardships and half so much success in their endeavors to make good use of the time spent at school.

Feed Sacks Make Mattress Covers

LIVINGSTON, Tex.—Eight feed sacks have been washed, bleached, pressed and made into a mattress cover by Mrs. R. S. Peebles of Polk County as part of her bedroom improvement work, according to Miss Ruth Causey, home demonstration agent. In order to make the cover as smooth as possible, the sacks were put together with flat felt seams. Since buttons from discarded garments were used to fasten it at one end, the only cost of the cover was thread and labor. Mrs. Peebles is now saving sacks to make a mattress pad, and other members of her home demonstration club, inspired by her example, are saving for the same purpose.

Class Outstanding In Activities Of High School During Past Year

Members of the Junior Class have shone brightly this year in athletic, social and scholastic activities.

Many of our boys scored highly in football, track and basketball. J. V. Langford lettered in track; Cloise Duncan lettered in basketball and football; Elton and Eugene Amburn lettered in basketball and track; I. E. Riley, Harris McCauley, John Anders and Travis is captain of the 1935 football team.

Ona Mae Killingsworth and Johny Lee Barton won letters in basketball. Johny Lee and Olivia Templeton played tennis in both county and district meets. Olivia entered typing in both meets. Olivia and Faye Handley were representatives in the Home Economics Assembly at Corpus Christi.

The Junior Class party was held at the Methodist Church. Sixty Juniors were delightfully entertained at the Graham home with a Hallowe'en party. The last party was at the theatre.

The Juniors survived sandstorms and what-not while selling candy and pop, and making money for the banquet. The Junior play was a great success. Characters of the play were: Forrest Baumgardner, Faye Handley, Oscar Wells, D. M. Blanton, Johny Lee Barton, Margaret Ann Fries, Travis Williams, Harris McCauley, Olivia Templeton and Vernene Franks. Profits of the play went to the banquet.

The Junior-Senior Banquet was held in the Christian Church. A Spanish motif was carried out.

The Juniors have enjoyed this year in W. H. S. and are all looking forward to next year.

Here's luck to you, Seniors!

Tech Will Try For New Stadium

LUBBOCK, Texas—Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Technological College, presented to the Public Works Administration in Washington applications for improvements at Texas Tech of $80,000 for a stadium; $80,000 for a dairy products building; and $60,000 for a swimming pool. Dr. Knapp also presented a proposal for the creation of a rural community on a 4,100-acre tract near Roesville, to the relief administration. He is a member of the board of directors of the Texas Rural Communities.

Preliminary work has been completed already with an allocation of $107,000 and $218,000 more is needed to round out a program designed to care for about 60 destitute families. The land on the tract is all terraced and ready for planting, houses and barns to be built and wells dug.

Debating Class Has Good Year

One of the most successful organizations of the school has been the debating club of the year. This was coached by Superintendent Farrar. This consisted of two girls, Mildred Slough and Helen Hudson, and six boys: Wayne Cudd, Oscar Elliott, Floyd Dickey, Woodrow Cook and Harris McCauley.

Wayne Cudd and Harris McCauley represented the boys in Childress. Mildred Slough and Helen Hudson defeated Lelia Lake; in district meet in Childress they defeated Paducah and Chillicothe. In Canyon in the regional meet the girls romped with Amarillo, who won the decision of the judges. They compared most favorably with the Amarillo girls, who had studied debating all year as a course in school rather than being assisted before and after school as the Wellington girls were, due to lack of teachers to offer such a course. Mr. Farrar, who in the face of his manifold duties, took the time to coach these boys and girls before and after school is deserving of the highest praise for their accomplishments.

While suing for divorce, John Garret of Norfolk, Va., told the court that his home was "always in a state of civil war."

Tribute To Senior Class Mothers

A greater pleasure has not confronted the class than that of attempting to express the appreciation of the members to the class mothers: Mrs. L. Z. Cone, Mrs. E. W. Alley and Mrs. E. L. Winn. The preparation of the lavish refreshments upon the occasion of the two elaborate parties of the year reflect upon the careful planning of these three ladies.

The meticulous working out of the details of the food to be solicited from the class for the Junior-Senior picnic, and the laborious preparation of some bespeak the real interest of these class mothers. Upon the last mentioned occasion the seniors would like to thank in addition to these three class mothers, four other mothers—Mesdames Fortenberry, Weber, Somerville and Wooldridge.

The members of the class extend every good wish to the class mothers of the class of 1935.

Dividing then into two parties, the Indians launched a third attack upon the Texans, simultaneously assailing the position from two sides, and charged repeated new were fighting for their lives. Captain Bird, who had stood up to cheer, had been killed, early in the fight, by an arrow shot from a distance of 200 yards. Six other Rangers were slain or wounded, and victory trembled in the balance.

At the critical moment, James Robinnett, a young German, whom command of the Rangers had devolved, killed Buffalo Hump, the chief, as the Indians charged again. Twelve braves quit the field with the body of their fallen chieftain and, after one more determined effort to dislodge the white men, the Indians, with night coming on, retreated to the hill, never to return, leaving 100 travesmen dead upon the field.

Thus we have one of the many stories of the brave fights that our Ranger forces have put up in protecting the pioneers from Indians. The organization was perfected about 100 years ago to protect the frontier.

No doubt the Ranger force has outlived its usefulness and its passing will bring a sentiment pang to many Texans because of its glorious traditions.

Honor S Main 4-1

The senior class is proud in its honor keeping with the spirit held by these five are and their sense of values. We shouldn't the class delight in having such students present, at the end of four years, the following averages: Beatrice King, 95.48; Jewel Frances Somerville, 94.35; Chester Morris, 91.9; Lorena Alexander, 91.55; Clifton Morris with 89.7.

Others in the class have done some very praise-worthy work.
