Financial Panics Over

Bankers generally are now of the opinion that under the new currency law it will be impossible to bring on a panic, because a banker who has good commercial paper can take it to a regional bank, and get the authority to issue money on it, thus increasing the circulation. Under the old system if money became tight there was no way for the inland bank to loosen it. Hard times and panics came as a consequent.

Judge R. H. Cocke Jr with Ball

Judge R. H. Cocke Jr. joined Hon. Tom Ball at Childress today and will be with him at his speaking appointments at all places on the Denver road between Childress and Amarillo. Judge Cocke is in accord with Ball on the prohibition issue especially as well as on other questions and was glad of the opportunity thus presenting itself to be with this great man for awhile in making appointments in the district in which Mr. Cocke is also a candidate. The friendship and association on this trip will also doubtless continue when Ball shall occupy the executive chair at Austin and Judge Cocke is at the State capitol as Senator from the Jumbo district.

Grand Picnic at Wellington

It is now planned to have a grand picnic and big time for Wellington and Collingsworth county on July 10th and 11th. The County Democratic Executive Committee have the matter in charge and promises to pull off one of the biggest events ever given here in the way of an entertainment for the people. It was the desire to have this picnic on the 4th of July, but the committee wanted some speakers of note here and all of them were engaged for the national holiday, hence it was thought best to make it about a week later.

Baptist Ladies Aid

The Baptist Ladies Aid Society met Monday afternoon at three o'clock at the Baptist church. We had a short program on the Sanitarium and a liberal offering. We read as our lesson the 12th of Romans. Being business evening, we attended to business on hand.

Next Monday is devotional meeting. We would be so glad to have a large crowd as we know you would receive a blessing.

A Business Change

This is to notify the people of Wellington and Collingsworth county that we, Pritchard & Childress, have purchased from Herbert Dysart all his interests in the fire and hail and other insurance business he has at this time and will continue the business as heretofore. We feel sure that Mr. Dysart has some of the very best companies in the United States and we feel fortunate in securing the agencies for same. People will know that when insured by these companies that if they are damaged by fire, tornado or hail or any other insurance covered by policies in these companies the loss will be promptly paid. Any and all business placed in our hands will have careful and prompt attention, as it is to our interest to see that your interests are properly cared for. If you have no insurance it is too late after the damage or loss is sustained, so give this your careful consideration and let us write such insurance as you may need.

Will say that our real estate business will be continued as in the past. We will also handle exchanges—if you have any submit them to us. City property a specialty. Rent and collect house rents.

Yours very respectfully,
Pritchard & Childress.

"Courtesy Clubs" are Coming

Following the "safety first" movement inaugurated throughout the country by transportation companies. the Mountain States Telephone Company operating in El Paso and other Western cities, has gone a step farther and has organized "courtesy always" clubs among the different exchanges on its line. The purpose of these clubs is to promore courtesy among the different exchanges on its line. The purpose of these clubs is to promote courtesy among the employes of the company in all its departments and when a special example of courtesy on the part of an employe is reported to the management, the employe is presented with a gold triangle badge and is enrolled as an honor member of the club.

Courtesy on the part of its employes is a valuable asset to any line of business and especially is it desired in public utility or concerns which serve the public. Now that managers have decided to place a premium on courtesy, it is hoped that this commodity will become as noted by its presence as it is now sometimes conspicuous by its absence.

Election vs. Appointment

The Review has long since ceased to "pull off its shirt," in campaigns in the interest of any persons seeking political preferment, But it goes on record as a warm supporter of Prof. Marrs, of Terrell, for State Superintendent of Public Institutions. It does this because it believes Prof. Marrs is fully as competent for the position as any man in the state. But one main reason for the Review's support of Paof. Marrs is that he at first announced and pledged himself that he will serve out the term for which he is elected and that the voters and not the governor will have the opportunity of selecting his successor. For the past two or three terms the incumbent in this office has resigned to accept another position, necessitating the appointment of his successor by the governor. This appointee then comes before the people and pleads his appointment as a reason for election to this office.

The Review believes that when a citizen accepts a position at the hands of the people he is honored to serve out the term for which he is chosen. Any other method deprives the people of the right to say who is their choice for the office for which they elect a man.—Athens Review, March 17, 1914.

TEXAS FACTS

POPULATION.

There are 365,000 persons who were born in Texas and who reside in other States, while 830,000 persons born in other States live in Texas.

If all the people in the United States moved to Texas, our population per square mile would not exceed that of Massachusetts.

If Texas were as densely settled as the average State in the Union. we would have 8,000,000 instead of 4,500,000 people.

The population of Texas is 14.8 persons per square mile. In the rural districts the average is 11.3 persons per square mile.

Massachusetts has 419 persons to each square mile of area.

During the past decade the population of Texas has increased 27.8 percent and the United States 21 percent.

There is a child born every four minutes in Texas.

We build seven homes in Texas every working hour in the day.

Our foreign born population is constituted chiefly of Mexicans, Germans and natives of England.

We have 23,000 persons who were born in Ireland. Ten years ago we had only 6,169.

We have 1,003,357 males over twenty-one years of age. Eighty-three percent of them are white.

Texas could muster an army larger than the standing army of the German Empire and would not have to get outside the State for material.

Fourteen percent of our population is in the cradle.

TAPPING THE SOURCE OF CHEAP MONEY

EDITOR'S NOTE:—This is the third of a series of Articles on AGRICULTURAL PROBLEMS prepared by Judge S. A. Lindsey, chairman of the Texas Farm Life Commission.

There are land loan and trust companies throughout this nation. They operate in this way: they will take up land notes drawing 8, 9 and 10 per cent and sell them in the East at a rate which will net the investors 5 and 6 per cent. In this way they make from 2 to 5 per cent per annum on each note. This is legitimate. I only mention it to prove that our land securities can and do find cheaper money than the local market's offer.

The bill now before Congress proposes to authorize the organiation of Land Mortgage Banks, with Federal supervision same as National Banks. These Land Mortgage Banks will make loans on land notes where the title is good, to the extent of half the appraised value of the land. The mortgage bank will see that the title is good and the value is there, just as banks usually do. They will file these notes with Uncle Sam who will authorize the bank to issue its own bonds or promises to pay in such denominations as are easiest sold, not to exceed in the aggregate the sum of the mortgages and notes held. On these Uncle Sam, who is known as a square man all over this and European countries, will affix some kind of stamp or sign which will mean that the bank issuing it is under his supervision, and that no fake methods have been used. The capital of the bank will be involved and will insure great care on the part of the bank taking the land note and mortgages, and Uncle Sam's supervision will give the investors confidence.

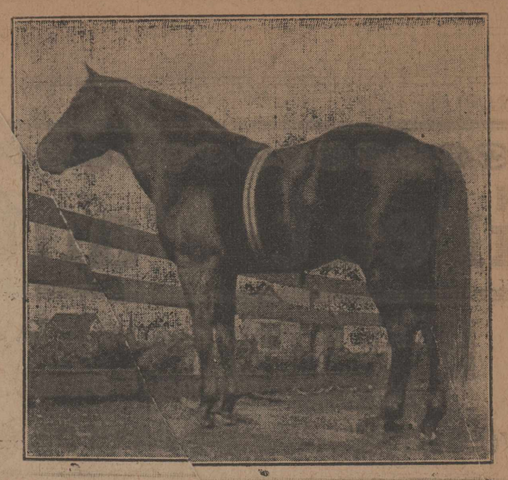

Uncle Sam requires that these banks must lend money on land notes and mortgages at not exceeding 1 per cent above what they can sell their bonds for. So if the bank pays 5 per cent on its bonds the borrower will pay the bank 6 per cent which is from 1 to 3 per cent less than other loan companies now make. You say no one would organize one of Uncle Sam's banks when he is allowed to make but 1 per cent on loans. But Uncle Sam is going to encourage his land banks. He now lends his Postal Savings funds to banks at 2 per cent, and that money is used in commerce. Henceforth he is going to lend it to the mortgage banks, who are to let the farmers have it. He is going to let his land banks take mortgages and land notes and sell their bonds up to fifteen times their capital and surplus. You see these mortgage banks are nothing but a kind of note-broker concern for the farmers, and their compensation for finding the source of cheap money and keeping that class of securities in good standing is 1 per cent per annum to be paid by the farmers whom they serve. They can make over 15 per cent on their capital and surplus. That is pretty good.

But before one of these banks can be organized in Texas we will have to adopt the Torrens system of land title registration. We should have done this long ago. The money people pay to record titles would build up a fund ample to insure all land titles and leave an immense surplus besides.

But the land mortgage banks will not entirely enable the landless man to buy a home. In my next article I will suggest an easy and feasible method by which this can be done.

Be frugal of your common sense, and some day it will be above par.

Texas has more small farms than any state in the Union.—Rochelle Record.

The pessimist would have one think that the uncertainty of love is one of life's sure things

If a young man has money to burn, any number of anxious mothers try to hand him a match.

Success may not so much depend upon what you do yourself as upon what you jolly others into doing for you.

Come to Collingsworth County and put in half time working a crop on some of our good land and remove the inconvenience of being poor.

Possibly at no time in the history of Collingsworth county has the grass been so good in early June as now. Pasture conditions are splendid.

Our idea of a model wife is a beautiful lady with an independent income who slips twenty dollar bills into her husband's pockets and never tries to wear the pants.—Snap Shots in Dallas News.

"He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often and loved much; who has gained the respect of little children; who has filled his niche and accomplished his task; who has left the world better than he found it whether by an improved poppy, a perfect poem, or a rescued soul; who has never lacked appreciation of earth's beauty or failed to express it; who has always looked for the best in others, and given the best he had; whose life was an inspiration; whose memory a benediction.—Bessie A. Stanley.

In the home is found the strongest influence for character building. No other element in education is equal to that which is gained by children, almost unconsciously, in the very earliest years, from conscientious parents whose aim is to develop in each child a strong moral principle, to teach him the virtues of truthfulness, justice kindness, purity, self-respect, obedience, reverence and unselfishness. It is in the home only that these things can be done. Children without an ideal home life cannot expect to develop into much, can they? How about it, mother and fathers? Are you doing your duty along this line? The matter is important. The fact that the old-time home is gradually disappearing looks bad for our modern civilization. What are you going to do about it?—Evansville Journal-News.

The Methodists in general conference in Oklahoma on Monday offered prayer for peace Our president and our secretary of state are prayerful men and we will have peace. Poor little Mexico has plapped at Uncle Sam in its impotent rage, but he has been big enough to turn the other cheek and pray to God for the "peace on earth, good will to men," the hallelujah of the Angels when the Great Peacemaker was born. All the united wealth of Carnegie, the Morgans and the Rockefellers pilled up in peace palaces and paid to peace envoys, is not so effective as the fervent prayer of a righteous man or woman, offered for peace. A praying nation lives at peace with all the world and within her own boundaries.—Ex

Prohibition and Efficiency

Some time ago the Pennsylvania Railroad placed a ban upon drinking. The road maintained it had no authority to dictate what any man should do or not do, but it did have the right to employ the men they wanted and to discharge those they did not want. The road also expressly stated that it would only employ men who did not drink, who did not visit saloons and who were industrious.

Since the rule was enforced the results have been watched with growing interest. According to a report just published, more than 120,000 observations were taken on 22 divisions of the road during a single month, and not a single infraction of the rule was reported. Considering that all drinking while on duty, the habitual use of intoxicants and frequenting places where liquor was sold are rigidly enforced and a violation carries with it dismissal, it may be easily seen why such a clean bill of conduct is made possible.

But there is a further illustration and decidedly more practical in the efficiency of the men employed. In every one of nearly 12,000 tests of efficiency in service the result was to the credit of the system.

This is reasonable. The man who drinks is never a satisfactory worker. He falls down just when the most is expected of him. Physically and mdatally he suffers. With the loss of vitality comes a loss of efficiency.

Of all professions that of the railroad man is the most responsible. The engineer in his cab holds hundreds of lives in his hands. Every department is important. With clear eyes and a clear head, there is but little danger of mistaking signals.

This applies not only to railroad men, but to men in all professions and walks of life.

Whiskey and honest work do not go together. A man may be a temperate drinker and accomplish much, but he is far better off if he does not drink at all.

The example of the Pennsylvania Road is worthy of emulation in all lines of employment, especially where the safeguarding of the public is affected. In this respect it is an economic and not a moral question, and employers may properly insist that their employes shall refrain from indulgences which would tend to endanger the lives of themselves or of others.—Commercial Appeal.

Our Seaports and the Canal

When thinking of the Panama Canal and its attendant benefits, we are reminded that Texas possesses better opportunities for faciliatating shipping than any other ports in the world. Probably none other in all the world possess in so phenomenal a degree the natural advantages and latent resources for the development of the great commercial mart as those of Texas.

By patronizing Texas ports, the distance from the center of the United States to the Panama Canal is lessened by more than 700 miles and this material difference is bound to operate to the advantage of the Texas ports.

Sayings of an Advertising Genius

The lack of advertising made Poe starve at forty. The true aim of advertising is to attract permanent buyers. To the domestic economist the advertising columns are financial sections. Advertising is the pedler who brings the wares of the world into the home each day.

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good. I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing all my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of continuous success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

Abraham Richardson, who was killed at Sherman last Saturday, was related to Mrs. T. A. Glenn by marriage. Mr. Richardson was shot from ambush by a 16 year old boy also named Richardson but no kin. The trouble seem to be based upon an old grudge between the farther of the man that was killed, and the farther of the boy doing the shooting. Such is the information in a letter to Mrs. Glenn.

The black locust in the court house yard are being trimmed up this week. The trees and shrubbery and flowers all over town are making a rank growth and have already grown more this year than they did all of last season This spring has proven to be an ideal time to plant trees and when one can look about and see so many places where trees are needed in town to make shade and ornament the landscape and home premises it seems a pity that ten thousand more trees were not planted in town here.

In a five ending game at Shamrock last Friday Wellington was defeated by a score of 2 to 1. This makes three games between the Wellington and Shamrock teams this year, of which Shamrock won by the narrow margin of one score in each while in the other game Wellington made 6 scores to the visitors goose egg. Each of the teams have won on their own home ground. One of the autos broke down on the road to Shamrock last Friday, causing the boys to get in late and the game was called at 6 o'clock, and as previously agreed it was called to a close at the end of five endings.

Wellington Gets Lower Freight Rates Beginning June 9

IT WAS STATED IN these column some time ago the traffic department of the Katy was making an effort to get permission to make lower rates from Wellington to common points in Texas.

Success has crowned their efforts, and while the rates applied are not as low as was hoped would be secured, yet there is a promise that they may be made still lower. The following letter is self explanatory:

Wichita Falls, Texas,
May 30, 1914.

H. D. Creath, Esq.,
Wellington, Texas.

My Dear Mr. Creath:-

It affords me pleasure to advise you that the Interstate Commerce Commission have granted permission for the publication of rates on grain and grain products from Dodsonville and Wellington 8c per 100 pounds higher than the rates from Memphis. Rates, Memphis 12 1-2c which makes our rate reduced to 20 1-2c

While in Washington recently, we presented this application in person and at the same time presented application for permission to establish these rates on one day's notice. The Commission in granting this permission to establish the basis of 8c over the Memphis rate, said nothing about waiving the statutory notice of thirty days for the publication of the rates. We have wired them and hope to be able to secure authority to have the statutory notice waived. I will undertake to advise you a little later when we hear from them, as to what action they will take.

While this scale is higher than we hoped to be able to secure, it was impossible for us to secure a lower basis at this time. When I see you again, I will explain to you in detail the objection that the Commission urged to a lower scale.

I shall be very glad indeed if you will confer with Mr. Templeton and show him this letter, and also advise your prominent citizens of this action. In fact, it might be well to give this information to the editors of your papers for publication. Please advise them that we have used our utmost endeavors to arrange for such a rate basis as would enable us to secure our share of the traffic in the vicinity of Wellington.

Yours very truly,
C. L. Fontaine.
General Freight and Traffic Agent.

P. S. I am just in receipt of advice that the Interstate Commerce Commission has granted permission to make grain rates effective on three days notice. They will be published and made effective June 7th or 9th. Please advise our friends.

Then and Now

Seventy-six years ago Wennesday the first vessel to cross the Atlantic all the way under steam arrived in New York harbor at 10 o'clock at night. It was the Sirius, coastwise steamer chartered from an English company by Sunius Smith, a Connetiçut Yankee, to beat out another British vessel, the Great Western, for the glory of being the first real transatlantic steamship. The Great Western, which had left Europe three days later, arrived in New York only a few hours behind the Sirius. The Savannah had crossed the Atlantic nineteen years before, but she had used steam only during three days of the voyage. The Sirius made the trip from Cork, Ireland, in eighteen days, making the last of her historic run by burning her extra spars and forty-three barrels of resin. A great crowd gathered at Jones' wharf to celebrate the arrival and huge bonfires were built along the water front to light up the boat.

Today a transatlantic sailing ship is as rare a sight in almost any port as was a steamer seventy-six years ago. Today more than half of the world's vessels are propelled by steam. It has been an important factor in the successful penetration of the two polar regions, it has carried a great fleet of American battleships around the world, and almost daily with engineering improvements it has established some new speed record. A modern swift mail steamship can make nearly five hundred miles a day. Using the Suez canal and the new gateway at Panama such a ship could encircle the earth in nearly a straight line in less than fifty days—a voyage of 23,000 miles. The old Sirius in her day would have had to encircle Africa and South America and make a journey of nearly 35,000 miles. At the rate at which she made her first trip across the Atlantic she would have required practically seven months.—Ex.

The Newspaper

The value of a live, energetic news-papper to any town or city is absolutely impossible of estimation. There are so many ways that the good news paper promotes the interest of the city and the individual citizens where it is published that it would be like trying to number the sands of the sea to enumerate them. It is a true friend of the city or town and every resident thereof and stand ready to fight the battles even of individual citizens in a way that no other agency has either nerve or courage to do. It stands as a great bulwark of defense for the city and for the people.

But this is only one feature.

There's another that is seldom given much thought and that is thst the newspaper of any town or city are a paying investment for such place as industrial institutions. Peaple welcome with open arms and loud acclaim any factory costing a few thousand dollars and then think the town is wondeafully fortunate in securing a plant that will give employment to a number of people. Sometimes they even put up a bonus to secure such a plant.

There are many newspapers which give employment to a number of people, and nothing is thought of it. The money that comes to the paper is spent in the town where paper is published. None of it goes away except for ink and paper and some other small supplies that cannot be bought at home. The newspaper is essentially a home institution. It works day and night to build up its home town and state and spends its money freely with home people. It is published on strict business principles these days, and that is the reason for the growth and prosperity that has come to many papers during the past few years.

As a business enterprise, a good newspaper is about the best industry that any town has, and its publishers ask nothing but a square deal.—Publisher's Auxilliary.

Ten Commandments Revised

1. There shall be unto thee no other city like unto thine own city, to boost it now and forever more.

2. Thou shalt love thy city with an abiding love of beauty, cleanliness and prosperity.

3. Thou shalt not make unto the any rubbish heap or any likeness of any thereof that may not quickly, sanely and safely be removed or destroyed. Thou shalt not erect unsightly billboards, nor scatter litter to the winds nor contribute in any way to the detriment of public highways, which were designed by "city farthers" as blessings unto the children of suceeding generations, and are a mercy unto thousands that builded them not.

4. Thou shalt not use thy city,s name to defame or "knock" it, for do man shall do this and be held guiltless.

5 Remember thou thy city's good name to keep spotless, to praise and labor for it each week day, and rejoice in its Sabbath day blessings.

6. Thou shalt not kill or mutilate or destroy, bird or beast or tree nor any thing that adds joy or beauty to the city.

7. Thou shalt not permit the adulteration of food stuffs, the pollution of the water supply or the contamination of anything that may asail the health of thyself, thy children, thy neighbor or the stranger within thy city's gates. Cleanliness is next to Godliness.

8. Thou shalt not steal from nature the beauty of her landscape by the erection or maintanence of any eyesore, ancient or modern, but thou shalt join hands with her and cover with her "mantel of charity" by flowers and vine, tree and shrub that they may become as "garments of praise" to "God that giveth the increase".

9 Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy city's healthful climate, where the winds of God do blow, His sun doth shine, and rain fall in good measure, by maintaining a garbage barrel that is an offense against them.

10. Thou shalt not offend thy neighbor by any act of thy child thy cow, horse or thy chicken which thou keepest not up—neither shalt thou bear his offenses.

These commandments thou art to learn to know and observe to do them thou and thy household, likewise the ninety and nine that grow out of them, that thy city may become as "a light set upon a hill," that many may see and seek her gateways and rejoice when they have found her.—Fort Worth Record.

THE WOMAN WHO CAUGHT THE IDEA

There was once a Woman whose Fiance had a Decided Theory regarding the most Desirable Characteristics of the Sexes. This Theory, in a Word, was that a Woman should be Like a Clinging Vine, while a Man should Resemble a Sturdy Oak. For Many Years, therefore, the Woman had Practiced Clinging with Great Success. One day, However, her Fiance grew Critical of her Method and Addressed her thus:

"The Century is Progressing, and it Behooves Us to Progress with it. How can I Produce Great Works with no Mental Stimulus? I Want to be Criticised—appreciatively—Not Admired. March Abreast of Me and be my Spiritual Comrade, not my Slave. A Woman is the Noblest of God's Works. She Symbolizes a Number of Things. Let me Feel that your Blind Adulation has some Valuable Basis. Do you Catch the Idea?"

The Woman was Thunderstruck.

"I am Afraid Not," she said, sadly. "Not Immediately, at Least. I must Admit that though I Admire your Work Dreadfully I can Not Understand it At All. I have been Clinging too Long."

So they Broke off the Engagement. The Fiance found a Progressive and Stimulating Woman who Agreed to Criticise him and March Abreast of him. The only Trouble with this was that Not Only did she March Abreast, but it Seemed Probable that she would Get Ahead. Also she had a Work of Her Own, which sometimes Interfered with His.

This was Hard to Bear, and the Fiance Found that his Views had Changed, and this time Forever.

"I have been a Fool," he said, bravely. "I was Wrong. I will Go Back to my Old Love. She cannot Criticise, Thank Heaven, but she can Cling. I will Carry on my Work, and she will sit in a Low Chair with a Basket of Little Clothes and the Lamplight falling on her Hair in the Good Old Way. And if she Cannot Understand my Work, what of that? I can. A Man wants Sympathy, not Criticism."

So he Returned to his Old Love and said, "Let All Be as it was Before."

"I am Afraid that can Not be," she replied, Sadly. "Since I Lost You I have Given Up Clinging, and I have Caught Your Idea. I had to Sympathize with Someone, so I have Taken Up a Work of My Own. Judging from your Tone I think you Would Fail to Comprehend it. The Century is Progressing and Things can Never Be as they Were Before."

This teaches us that It's Well to Be On with the Old Love Before you are Off with the New.

Senator Vest's View of Female Suffrage

Gne of he most glorious of Southerners was Senator Vest of Missouri. He won honors as a Confederate soldier and was distinguished as a Senator. But while a great soldier and a great Senator, he was a loyal lover when it came to admiration for the women of the South. The following is from one of his speeches:

What man can without aversion turn from the blessed memory of that dear old grandmother or the gentle words and caressing hand of that mother gone to the unknown world, to face in its stead the idea of a female justice of the peace or town constable? For my part, I want when I go to my home—when I turn from the arena where man contends with man for what we call the prizes of this paltry world—I want to go back, not to be received in the masculine embrace of some female ward politician, but to the earnest loving look and touch of a true woman. I want to go back to the jurisdiction of the wife, the mother, and instead of a lecture on finance or the Constitution, I want those blessed, loving details of domestic love. What we want in this country is to avoid emotional suffrage and what we need is to put more logic into public affairs and less feeling. There are spheres in which feeling should be paramount. There are kingdoms in which the heart should reign supreme. That kingdom belongs to women—the realm of sentiment, the realm of love, the realm of the gentler and the holier and the kindlier attributes that make the name of wife, mother and sister next to that of God himself. I would not, and I say it deliberately, degrade woman by giving her the right of suffrage. I mean the word in its full signification, because I believe that woman, as she is today, the queen of home and hearts, is above the political collisions of this world and should always be kept above them.—Dallas Democrat.

Panhandle Quarantine Removed

Washington, D. C., May 25.—The secretary of Agriculture has issued an order releasing from quarantine for scabies in cattle on June 1, 1914, the remainber of the State of Montana and portions of Wyoming and Texas.

The teritory released in Texas is composed of the counties of Moore, Potter, Randal, Deaf Smith, Swisher, Terry, Dawson Crosby and Kleberg, and that part of Palmer county north of the Pecos & Northern Texas railway.

Panhandle cattlemen are highly pleased.

"It means that there will no longer have to be cattle inspection," said Henry C. Harding of Amerillo. "It is the result of wholesale cattle dipping last fall. The quarantine will not be replaced unless the disease again appears in cattle here."

First Freight Through the Canal Reached New York

New York, May 27.—The steamer Colon, which arrived today from Cristobal, brought the first freight that came throu the Panama canal. The cargo consisted of 21,000 sacks of sugar and was towed through the canal on barges. It is the first cargo to pay through freight.

Pictures the Other View

There are always two sides to a question. The public long accustomed to listening to arguments against an increase in railroad rates, is now given an opportunity by W. B. Scott, president of the Sunset-Central lines to hear the railroad's side of the question. His recent interview to the Texas press is an out-pouring of the railroad heart and shows that the railroads of Texas instead of piling up high hills of money as they are generally supposed to do, are actually operating at a loss.

In his discussion of the subject, president Scott said in part:

"The fiscal year ending June 30th, 1913, showed that the thirty-three Texas railroads earning a gross total of $118,617,454. The operating expenses were $92,609,-612. the net income being $26,007,-842 with other income given as $1,907,227 or a gross corporate income of $27,915,070.

"To measure against this income, items including taxes, rentals, leases, hire of equipment, interest on bonds, debts, etc., aggregating a total of $30,050,656, were properly charged, the result being that instead of the thirty-three roads mentioned really earning any money, they actually sustained a deficit of $2,135,586. This does not mean that all of the lines failed to earn net revenue for some of them did, but it does mean that the burdens or operation set seriously upon a majority of the Texas lines, and that of the total number of roads twenty of them sustained deficits which in one instance ran as high as $1,227,000.

"Railroads like other commercial institutions, have certain commodities for sale, viz: transportation of persons, transportations of goods. Out of the sale of this transportation must they find their revenue. If the price of the sale is too low, then the establishment cannot make a profit and if it cannot provide the necessary funds for operation must cease to be a going concern. There must be a limit to the present loss or the roads will be faced with either a decided decrease of high price service or placed at the tender mercies of a receiver and in either instance the public must suffer accordingly.

"The remedy, when it is acknowledged that the roads are intelligently and economically administered, is indicated in an increase in freight rates sufficient to overcome the loss and to meet the increase of expense in operations due to causes already set forth.

"An increase of ten per cent in all rates would of course apply on the rate for 100 pounds by class and commodity. If the railroads were permitted to increase their rates they would be enabled to successfully meet the present cost of operation without facing the serious deficits and difficulties which now confront them, and which seriously threaten a curtailment of service and efficiency and a decrease in the work of railroad development in all sections of the State."

The following interview with Mr. Ben B. Cain, vice-president of the Gulf, Texas and Western Railway, which appeared in the Washington Herald recently also throws an interesting light on the situation:

"There is no question confronting the country which is quite so vital as granting to the railroads an increase in freight rates. This applies not only to the eastern lines but is more essential to the prosperity of those lines struggling for existence in the most sparsely settled sections of the country. Data compiled by the American Railway Association which I have reason to believe are reliable, show that 91 1-2 cents of every dollar earned by the steam roads of the United States has to be expended in keeping the road going, there being only 8 1-2 cents with which to pay dividends and make improvements. The distribution of a dollar earned by the common carriers is as follows:

Labor, 44.17; fuel and oil 8.93; material, supplies and miscellaneous expense 14.06; loss and damage 2.20; taxes 4.21; rents and leases 4.41; interest on debt 13.43; dividends and improvements 8.59.

"Within the past month railroads of Texas made application to the railroad commission for an increase of 15 per cent in freight rates, but our commission refuses to even consider the application, notwithstanding it was based upon facts which if true undoubtedly warranted an increase."

A THIRTY YEARS' VIEW

Tom Ball's Lifelong Record of Service for the People Against Special Interests

In 1885, as Mayor of Huntsville, he recommended and procured the passage of an ordinance abolishing the fee system and placing all City Officers on a salary basis, which system has remained in vogue until this day.

In 1887 he actively supported and made speeches for State-wide prohibition in the memorable contest of that year.

In 1899 he actively supported the submission by the Legislature of Texas of the constitutional amendment providing for the present Railroad Commission to regulate freight rates.

1890 he actively supported "Hogg and the Commission" in Governor Hogg's great fight for the governorship on the Railroad Commission platform.

In 1892 he actively supported Governor Hogg, both for re-nomination and re-election against Judge Clark in the historic Hogg-Clark gubernational contest. He was one of Governor Hogg's floor managers in the famous car-shed convention.

In 1895 he actively supported free silver coinage, participating in the historic free silver Democratic State Convention in Fort Worth, which started the silver movement in Texas.

In 1897 he became a member of Congress, and during his four terms of service there supported every demand of organized labor.

In 1900 he supported William Jennings Bryan for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency asecond time, and served on the Committee which reported the Kansas City platform on which Mr. Bryan ran that year.

In 1902, as a member of the sub-committee on platform, he actively helped to write into the Democratic State platform, against strong opposition, the plank demanding the presen law prohibiting child labor in mills and factories.

Also the plank demanding a law requiring uniform primary elections for the nomination of all candidates for office.

Also the plank demanding a constitutional amendment permitting the formation and operation of State Banks in Texas.

Also the plank demanding the abolition of free passes on Texas railroads.

In 1904 he actively supported the adoption of the constitutional amendment under which the National Bank monopoly of banking in Texas was ended and the present State banking system has grown up.

In 1907 he actively favored the passage of the Robertson Insurance Law, requiring Life Insurance Companies to invest in Texas securities.

In 1909 he actively supported the passage of our present law guaranteeing bank depositors in State Banks against loss.

In 1910 he actively supported and helped to carry the Democratic platform demand for the submission of a State-wide prohibition amendment to the Constitution of Texas.

In 1911, as chairman of the State Prohibition Committee, he led the fight for State-wide prohibition, in which even on the face of the returns, Texas lacked only about five thousand votes of going dry.

In 1912 he actively and most effectively supported Woodrow Wilson for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency.

In 1913 he supported the proposed amendment of the City of Houston providing for the initiative, referendum and recall, which policy he has publicly advotated for years.

In 1914, after he had repeatedly declined to become a candidate for Governor, he was drafted by the forces of good government to lead their fight to redeem Texas from liquor misrule.

CONSTIPATION MAY CAUSE APPENDICITIS

It Pays to be Watchful and Careful. Dodson's Liver Tone is Recommended and Guaranteed.

In a number of cases it has seemed that appendicitis has resulted from chronic constipation. Hence it is well to be careful and keep the system in a good working order as possible, for if you ever suffer from constipation you are likely to lessen pour liability to other complications and troubles.

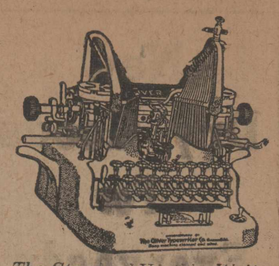

But that does not mean that it is wise for you to use calomel, a poison that stays in the system and often leaves bad effects behind it, even after you may have appeared to be benefited temporarily. As a matter of fact, calomel is exceedingly dangerous to many people, perhaps to you. So it is just as well not to take chances.

For constipation, billiousness, liver complaint, sick headache, etc., Dodson's Liver Tone is guaranteed by E. M. Williams Drug Company, who will cheerfully refund purchase price (50c) instantly to you in the event that it fails to give complete satisfaction.

Dodson't Liver Tone is a vegetable liquid, perfectly harmless, easy to take and highly effective without pain, ache or gripe and leaving no bad after-effects. It assists nature and builds you up instead of weakening you. So many people have been immensely benefited by this good remedy that it's worth your looking into at once. Make no mistake—ask for Dodson's Liver Tone.

An Untimely Death

On Wednesday, June 3, 1914, at 10:00 a. m. the mortal remains of Louis H. Stall, Jr., were committed to the cheerless embrace of a silent tomb in the cemetery southwest of Wellington and his spirit commended to the loving compassion and tender mercies of the Great Ruler and Creator of the Universe who gave it being.

Very sad and pathetic indeed was this death. The deceased leaves a young bride of less than a year to fight the battle of life alone. Their short married life had been one filled with pleasure, with their young hearts filled with high hopes and made glad with sweet anticipations the future seem roseate and promising; but alas, today, the young husband sleeps in the silent grave while the devoted wife is bowed down with grief inconsolable. Another touchingly sad thing is the fact that the father of the deceased was away on a trip to the northern states and could not be reached, and a sister was visiting at Mansfield, Texas, and could not arrive in time for the funeral, but came in about 3 o'lock the same day.

So cruelly sudden this death. Up to a few days of his demise he was enjoying strong, vigorous and robust health with little thought that the grim reaper would soon claim him as his own. On Wednesday of last week he helped to work the roads, and as was his custom always, he worked hard, and probably over-taxed himself. The following day he was feeling considerably fatigued and depressed and continued to grow worse until the end, the cause of his demise being congestion of the bowles. Aside from the care of the physicians called in here medical and surgical aid from a distance was summoned with the idea in view of performing an operation, but upon their arrival it was announced that there was no hope, so this was not undertaken.

Louis Stall, 24 years old, was an exemplary young man. His countenance always beamed a smile. He had a good word and a word of cheer for everybody and everybody was his friend. Never have we heard an unfriendly word spoken against him. He joined the Methodist church ween quite a young man has led a consistent Christian life, giving liberally of his time and means to advance the cause of Christianity. The high esteem in which he was held by the people of Wellington and all the surrounding country was evidenced by one of the longest funeral porcessions ever seen in this city, and also by the profuse floweral offering.

The funeral services were held at the home, conducted by Rev. Bowman, pastor of the Methodist church, and Rev. Garrard, pastor of the Baptist church, after which, surrounded by an immense throng of relatives and friends who knew him, loved and esteemed him, in life, mourning his untimely departue, the body was placed in a brick vault in the cemetery, it being his request that his body be placed in a vault.

To the young wife and other relatives and countless friends, among which we honor the claim, The Leader extends earnest sympathy, and would that we could lighten the hand of affliction and lessen the pangs of sorrow.

The deceased was in business here, being a member of the firm of Boles & Stall, and besides the home built before his marriage he leaves an estate valued at several thousand dollars.

As a token of respect to his memory, the day of the funeral being the time to work the roads, this was postponed and the banks and all of the stores closed.

A crowd consisting of Postmaster Durham and family, L. L. Ladd and family, and Mrs. John Mann, left the city last Friday evening at 4 o'clock on a fishing trip. We went out to Aberdeen to the splendid ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Muse on Wolf creek where we camped for the night. Early next morning the men folks in company with Mr. Muse and his son, Jim, went and labored along the banks of Wolf creek in quest of the finny tribe and succeeded in landing about 35 or 40 pounds, the visiting crowd taking a little more than half of these which were fried and made more than we could eat for dinner and supper Saturday, while Mr. Muse and family also doubtless had more than they could eat. On account of the inclement weather Mr. Muse and family insisted on all of us coming up to the house, but we had the protection of a large machinery shed which was good and clean and a good place to make down beds and the blacksmith forge in the building afforded a dandy place to make the fire and fry the fish, make the coffee, corn cakes, etc., so we wouldn't burden these good people with the care of such a big crowd.

Mr. Muse and his family extended us every courtesy and were dilligent in looking after every detail that was thought to add to our comfort and won the lasting appreciation of us all. Early Sunday morning we broke up camp and wandered our way back to town, and every member of the party expressed themselves as having had a dandy time.

Literary and Civic Club

The Literary and Civic Club was unable to meet with Mrs. Boverie May 1st on account of much rain. The subject for that date was 'Life of Emerson.' Mesdames Stone, Scott and Orr were on program for papers on above subject. All very much regret being unable to have this program rendered. May 15, the club should have met with Mrs. O'Connell but again many were kept at home on account of inclement weather. Only four members were fortunate enough to enjoy the hospitality of our hostess for the afternoon. All absentees well know they missed a treat as Mrs. O'Connell so pleasantly entertains. Mesdames Foster, Davis, Blain and Miss Boverie were on for papers which were prepared but not read, all being absent.

Club met May 29 with Mrs. Strong as hostess. This being last date for regular meeting of this club year we expected all to be present but only fourteen answered to roll call after which the unfinished business was attended to and some new business brought before the club and motion was made and carried that we revise our list of members for new year and enlarge our membership to fifty instead of our former number. All seem much pleased with this amendment as most all have a friend they would like to invite to enjoy club work with them and we feel sure there are a number of women who would be glad to help in Literary and Civic Club work.

A letter of sympathy was sent Mrs. Knight, one of our non-resident club members, on death of her only child. Most of our members can fully sympathize with her "having passed that way." A letter of appreciation for past years' faithful work as president of our club, was sent Mrs. Mooney, who was absent on account of ill health. We hope to have her strong and aple to begin work with us in September.

There was a heated discussion as to "ways and means" for a park fund. If the women of Wellington get the idea the people have to have a park, we'll have the park even though the men should furnish the funds.

Considering we had consumed so much time with business we added a very good if short program of papers by Mrs. Templeton and Mrs. Blain.

Our hostess served a salad course and iced drinks. At a very late hour we adjourned to meet no more in regular session until begining of club year in September. May we work for success the coming year believing, "Every life is meant to help all lives for all men's betterment."
