CAMPAIGN CENTERS ON FARM VOTE

Judge Atwell Panned Before Supreme Court By Lawyer

TEXAS JURIST CALLED UNFIT FOR POSITION

Barrister Smarting Under Judge's Rebuke Sends Note to Taft

NEGROES PROTEST

Atwell Advises Woman She Shouldn't Allow Mixed Association

NEW YORK, Aug. 14. (US)—Federal Judge William H. Atwell of Texas was charged with cowardly conduct, racial prejudice and malicious methods by F. R. Serri, attorney, in a letter to Chief Justice Taft of the United States supreme court today.

The lawyer asked that the judge be severely reprimanded and raised a question as to whether he was fit to sit anywhere on the bench in this country.

Attorney Rebuker

Serri is the attorney rebuked by Judge Atwell recently for attacking the testimony of prohibition officers. The lawyer declared that it would be a miracle if one of them told the truth under oath and derided their statements that they had bought the liquor from Angelina DeLucca, his client. The jury found the woman guilty and the judge defending the prohibition agents told the lawyer:

"If you had made such accusations against an officer of the law in my country he would have smashed you."

The judge told Mrs. De Lucca that she was unfortunate in her choice of an attorney and told her that she should not allow negroes and white people to associate in her house, because whites and blacks were not meant to live together. Serri asserted in his letter to Chief Justice Taft:

Says Atwell Prejudiced

"If you analyze the quotations, they express in effect his (the judge's) private prejudice as to the colored people; advice as to where white people should and should not live; the suprising opinion, in substance that the veracity of an officer's or prohibition agent's testimony must not be questioned; that if a lawyer attacks such testimony forcibly as perjury, he is not to be rebuked and shamelessly insulted; and by indirection with almost unspeakable vulgarity, practically approving and inciting the repetition by the officers of such conduct in this city.

"I doubt whether in all the judicial annals there can be found such an incitement to public disorder and a breach of the peace as the words of this judge.

Negroes Protest

"Further, that the defendant was unfortunate in her choice of an attorney and finally the threat to jail me when I protested that his criticism was unfair, unwarranted and indefensible."

George Wibecan, past exalted ruler of the negro Elks, announced that a mass meeting will be held to protest against Judge Atwell's comment on black and white people.

At the conference the new snap-on tooth was featured, a "tooth that snaps on and off like a shirt stud."

Militant Anti-Smith Leader Withdraws His Name

CHANCES SLIGHT

Tom Love Declares He Has Poor Chance Of Election

DALLAS, Aug. 14. (AP)—State Senator Thomas B. Love, recognized leader of Texas Democratic forces opposed to Alfred E. Smith, Democratic presidential nominee, today announced his withdrawal from the race for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor of Texas.

As result Lieutenant Governor Barry Miller, for re-election, will be the only candidate on the ballot in the Aug. 25 primary. The state executive committee, it was pointed out, does not have right to certify another candidate to take Love's place in the run-off.

Informed of Love's action, Miller declined to make a statement. Other than expressing curiosity as to whether Love had "jumped on" him in his statement, Miller apparently was little interested.

Both Names Certified

Names of both Love and Miller were certified for placing on the primary ballot by the state Democratic executive committee at its meeting yesterday at San Antonio.

In announcing withdrawal Love said, in part:

"I believe it most improbable that I can overcome the substantial lead of my opponent and obtain a majority of votes in the run-off primary; that to further continue the contest would serve no useful purpose, but would result in a waste of time and effort and zeal on the part of my friends which ought to be utilized in defeating Al Smith in November."

Love pointed out that while the state executive committee had certified his name, the recent decision of the San Antonio court of appeals upholding several county executive committees in barring his name make it possible for his name to be barred in the second primary also. He said he had been advised that several counties planned to do so on this decision.

Congratulates Opponent

"I do not say I would be nominated if my name were printed on the official ballots in every county," he said. "What I do say is that without my name being so printed on the ballot in every county, as the law requires, it is impossible for me to have a fair chance to be nominated."

He congratulated his opponent, Lieutenant Governor Miller, on his opportunity to serve the people of Texas again and declared that he had "no complaints and no regrets" in discontinuing his own candidacy.

"I am a Democrat and I am against Al Smith because I am a Democrat the San Antonio court of civil appeals to the contrary notwithstanding," he declared. "I have great respect for our courts but no court has the power to compel me to violate my conscience by voting for Al Smith or to compel me to leave the Democratic party in which I was born and in which I have served unselfishly for 40 years.

"All that I have is invested in Texas agriculture. As a farmer I would think myself very foolish to vote for Al Smith against Herbert Hoover."

Miller Is Nominee

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 14. (AP)—Withdrawal of Thomas B. Love from the lieutenant governor's race after having been certified for the second primary, assures the re-election of Lieutenant Governor Barry Miller, as the law is seen here, since nomination is tantamount to election.

There is no provision for the state Democratic executive committee to certify anyone else, after having certified the first two highest candidates in the first primary. J. D. Parnell of Wichita Falls was the third highest man. Attorney General Claude Pollard unofficially expressed opinion that Miller now is the only Democratic nominee legally subject to certification.

Absentee Voters Here Faced With Lack of Ballots

What to do?

The state statutes provide that residents who plan to be out of the county on election day may drop in at the office of the county clerk, beginning Wednesday and mark their ballots. But there are no ballots. E. C. DeMontel, chairman of the Democratic executive committee, has not received a certified list of state candidates to appear on the ballot, and so an order for printing has not been entered.

Miss Hall was in a maze of bewilderment Tuesday. The law says people can cast their absentee vote Wednesday by marking the official ballot but there is no ballot, official or otherwise.

And so when voters walk into the office of the county clerk Wednesday to designate their choice in the run-off primary, they'll have to walk out again without voting.

Mr. DeMontel was out of the city Tuesday and his secretary was unprepared to say when the ballots would be available.

Meanwhile, Miss Hall is wondering what the voters who have asked for ballots out of the county will do. Some of them, she declared, would not receive their ballots through the mail in time to return them for election day.

But if you plan to vote in the office of the county clerk Wednesday, change your plans and wait until the ballots are received.

WOMEN DEBATE QUALITIES OF 'FIRST LADIES'

Abilities of Mrs. Al Smith And Mrs. Hoover Discussed

WIVES BREAK RECORD

Discussion of Candidates' Mates Is First In History

NEW YORK, Aug. 14. (UP)—The presidential debate turned tonight from the two candidates to their wives. Before a large radio audience, the abilities of Mrs. Alfred E. Smith and Mrs. Herbert Hoover to fill the difficult role of White House mistress were discussed.

This probably is the first time in American political history that the wives of presidential candidates have come so conspicuously into a presidential discussion. It marks the entry of the candidate's wife into the political arena, as a real factor in the contest. Mrs. Voter is becoming interested in Mrs. Candidate.

Wife's Importance

The qualities of Mrs. Hoover as a potential first lady were presented by Mrs. John Pratt, Republican candidate for congress in New York. The qualities of Mrs. Smith as a potential mistress of the White House were presented by Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson. Both women were described as capable of fulfilling the difficult duties which fall upon the wife of a president.

During the discussion great emphasis was laid upon the importance of the president's wife, the international difficulties which might follow a tactless remark by a first lady, and the necessity of her being able to mingle easily with all classes from the humblest to the highest.

The discussion was conducted from WEAF under the auspices of the National League of Women Voters and the National Broadcasting company with 22 stations hooked up.

Courtship Described

Mrs. Gibson described the courtship of Young Alfred Smith who pedaled his bicycle up to the Bronx to see the sprightly Katie Dunn. She described how they sang ballads together, how they struggled to raise a large family on a small salary, and how Mrs. Smith has climbed along with her husband up the ladder to fame, always keeping in the background "binding up his wounds and finding her only reward in the knowledge that he needed her—happy warrior, and happy wife in such a partnership."

Mrs. Pratt described Mrs. Hoover's girlhood, her early interest in athletics and geology, through which she met Hoover, while both were at Stanford university. Mrs. Hoover's life as she roved the earth with her engineer husband and her war-time relief work in London were described. She was credited with having originated the "cash and carry" motto during the war, and the famous Hoover apron.

Mrs. Pratt said the first lady of the land must have health, good diction and education.

"Where could we find a woman better trained or more aptly fitted than Mrs. Hoover?" she concluded.

RIVAL CAMPS PLAN DESCENT ON MID-WEST

Both Smith and Hoover Extend Efforts to Capture 'Prize'

12 STATES IN OFFING

Republicans Hope to Revive Wheat Price As Campaign Move

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14. (UR)—Like generals of old, in rival camps 3,000 miles apart, Herbert Hoover and Gov. Alfred E. Smith were today planning their forces for descent upon the farm-belt territory of the mid-west.

Not with pike and crossbow, but with promises of practical upward relief to the 30,000,000 people of the farms who have suffered crushing financial reverses which amounted to a great economic tragedy in the past eight years, they hope to capture the great area of unrest.

The victor's prize they seek is the electoral college vote of a dozen states. That may measure the margin of victory or defeat in their struggle for the presidency.

Hoover, at Palo Alto, was today whipping into final shape an elaboration of his ideas of farm rescuitation which he will speak next week at West Branch, Iowa. He was born there, on a farm, 54 years ago.

Smith Plans Speech

Governor Smith, at Albany, following his conference with the 11 western representatives of farm belt discontent, was moulding into his speeches of acceptance his own expressions of concern over the farm belt reverses.

New and disturbing developments within the past 48 hours found the farm political conditions chaotic and the Hoover and Smith camps still struggling for mastery.

The price of wheat is down. Whether it can be stimulated during the late months of the campaign, as was done four years ago during the Coolidge campaign, is a matter of serious conjecture. Despite the price increases of four years ago, Davis and La Follette polled a combined vote larger than Coolidge's in 11 states, most of them in the affected area.

Governor Lowden, the foremost Republican exponent of farm relief, said in commenting upon Hoover's Palo Alto farm program, "In my judgment, Mr. Hoover's statement fails to give assurance of the means that will be adequate to secure the ends promised" for disposal of the surplus crops. The farm leaders who conferred with Smith also agreed with Lowden that some sort of equalization fee, rather than a government subsidy must be imposed upon the crops in order to finance the handling of the surplus.

Program Inadequate

Chester C. Davis, Republican, former commissioner of agriculture of Montana, said that Hoover's program was "inadequate." Former United States Senator Moses E. Clapp of Minnesota, also a Republican, joined the Smith forces on the ground that his election would be the best promise of farm relief.

Yet, the much-muddled situation saw surprising developments very favorable to Hoover. Senator Norbeck of South Dakota, who had been one of Hoover's foremost critics, declared that Smith's repudiation of the equalization fee absolutely destroyed whatever chance the New York governor had of carrying a western state. The editors of farm journals in 10 states, some of which had been critical of Hoover, declared that his acceptance speech manifested his ability and willingness to produce real farm relief. Henry Wallace, also formerly a critic, agreed that Smith's early statement had been ruinous to the Democrats west of the Mississippi.

Spectators Murmur Lynching Threat As Black Killer Re-enacts His Crime

CHICAGO, Aug. 14. (US)—David Shanks, negro bootblack, and confessed slayer of Miss Jennie Mota Constance, Peoria English teacher and Northwestern university student, was indicted today by the Cook county grand jury for murder.

Following his arraignment, Shanks re-enacted the crime before spectators and police. With two-foot lengths of pipe in his hand, the negro showed the court how he had beaten the woman, how he had stripped the clothing from her body, taking her watch and strewing her clothing about as he fled from the scene of the crime.

As the murderer went through the movements of the crime, the spectators checked by a cordon of police, audibly threatened lynching.

Shanks displayed a degree of cunning when after the case was outlined to the court, Justice Brightmire asked the negro if he had anything to say.

"You shouldn't charge me with murder," he said. "It ought to be manslaughter, your honor, because she wasn't dead when I left her." The justice ordered him held on a charge of murder.

Treatment Given Texas Convict Heat Victims Put Under Investigation

HOUSTON, Aug. 14. (AP)—W. H. Mead, general manager of the Texas prison farm system, said today he is investigating treatment given two prisoners who died of heat prostration at the Harlem state prison farm Friday.

Mr. Mead said he had been told the two men were allowed to lie in the scant shade of a cotton wagon, without any treatment, until they died.

"I know," he said, "that one died after he had been taken to a hospital. The hardest place to get real information about anything that happens in on a prison farm. Those convicts who bear grudges give one view of the matter, and others who bear no grudges give an opposing view."

The two convicts were William Rusk Kimbell and Leonard Fisk. Kimbell, from Dallas, had been sentenced to 10 years for forgery. Fisk was serving a one-year sentence on a liquor charge from Jacksonville, Cherokee county.

STRATON HOTEL SELLS BOOZE

But Pastor Takes No Action Against Operator

NEW YORK, Aug. 14. (INS)—Although Dr. John Roach Straton, militant clergyman, expressed indignation when informed that liquor was freely sold at his newly purchased Greenwood Lake hotel, and asserted emphatically that he would bring vigorous prosecution of William Hecht, lessee of the Orange county resort, he had taken no steps today to lay the matter before either county officials or federal authorities in Orange county or New York City.

Greenwood lake is about 50 miles from New York. Ten days ago Dr. Straton bought the old hotel. Hecht held a lease on it and Dr. Straton said he told him everything must be clean and within the law in the management of the Greenwood Lake hotel. Hecht had told the clergyman that liquor was sometimes sold at other of the hotels in the neighborhood.

Flaunts Padlock.

It was brought to the attention of the clergyman, who is spending his vacation at Greenwood lake and plans establishment of a "religious chautauqua" there, that a bottle of liquor was purchased recently at his hotel. Dr. Straton immediately announced he would seek prosecution of Hecht even if it meant padlocking the hotel.

"I would proceed against my brother the same way if I found violation of the law," said Dr. Straton. "If this is true I will oust Hecht. I would be willing for the people of our Christian assembly to sleep in tents if necessary, if the hotel is padlocked.

"This is all the fault of Governor Smith who has weakened the hand of every enforcement officer in the state by his repeal of the Mullan-Gage act."

Yet today no action had been taken either in Orange county or in New York against the premises or Hecht.

Assistant District Attorney William J. Lamont of Orange county, in charge of the office at Newburg in the absence of District Attorney Elmer H. Lemon, told International News Service that no appeal for aid in prosecuting Hecht had been made there by Dr. Straton or anyone acting for him. Lamont explained that search warrant under the federal statute would not be issued at his office but that he would offer any help he could to federal authorities.

Officials Not Approached

At the office of United States Commissioner Harry T. Crist in Middletown, the representative of the federal government in Orange county, likewise said no word had come from Dr. Straton. No application for a search warrant of the Greenwood Lake hotel had been made, no information alleging violation of the prohibition law had been sworn to.

In New York Dr. Starton had not communicated with United States District Attorney Charles H. Tuttle or any of his assistants. Neither the aid nor the advice of the federal district attorney had been sought in the prosecution of Hecht or the Greenwood lake premises.

Dr. Straton's only effort to call in the law was made last night when he asked Justice of the Peace Seaman in Greenwood Lake to act. Judge Seaman said the hotel was outside his jurisdiction and advised the clergyman to obtain a search warrant but Dr. Straton apparently had made no effort to secure one.

Add Club Hears Talks, Pledges Aid to Spuds

A report on the International Advertising clubs convention at Detroit was given, a talk on "Advertising Through Window Display" was heard, and support of the Spudders was urged at the luncheon of the Wichita Falls Advertising club at the Kemp hotel Tuesday noon.

Harry G. Walker, who spoke on window display, has won a number of national, state and local prizes with window displays designed by him.

After Voyle N. Armstrong had reported on the Detroit convention, J. H. Allison told of plans for the district convention to be held here in November.

President A. E. Kelly appointed a committee to co-operate with the city zoning commission in response to a letter from Walter S. Curlee, chairman of the commission. The committee appointed included Julian McFall, chairman; C. A. Bolton, T. A. Bradley and Frank Svoboda.

In urging members of the club to support the Spudders Mr. Kelly pointed out that "there is nothing that will advertise Wichita Falls more than a winning ball team."

ROAD STRIKE FEARS LESSEN

Officials Confident of Wage Arbitration

CHICAGO, Aug. 14. (UP)—Confidence that the wage dispute between railroad trainmen and officials of western roads would be settled through arbitration before any general strike order is issued, was expressed today by officials of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

The strike vote was started today but the result will not be made known until September 2, it was announced. Even should the membership vote to favor a strike, officials here said another attempt at arbitration undoubtedly would be made before a walkout occurs. Four unsuccessful attempts to arbitrate the present dispute already have been made.

Ballots Distributed

Representatives of the trainmen who attended the arbitration conference here last week which failed to effect an agreement, took strike ballots with them when they departed for their homes. Distribution of the ballots among the various locals was well under way today.

The Brotherhood is asking a 7½ per cent increase in wages. An arbitration board on June 25, 1927, found that conductors and trainmen of the western roads were not entitled to the increase but awarded an advance of 7½ per cent to yardmen.

The issue was raised again in July, 1928. The roads agreed at that time to grant an increase of 6½ per cent, or of 7½ per cent if union men would agree to abolish rules regarding the use of more than one locomotive on a train and the number of cars which may be hauled by two locomotives.

Insist On Raise

Union officials refused both offers and insisted upon the wage increase and retention of the locomotive rule. Since then each attempt at arbitration has failed.

Approximately 30,000 employes would be affected in event of a strike. Railroad officials today refused to say what plans had been made for continuation of service, should a walkout be ordered. "Service will be uninterrupted," was the reply to all inquiries.

A strike would affect the following roads: Southern Pacific; Union Pacific; Chicago and Northwestern; Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific; Chicago, Burlington and Quincy; Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe; Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; Northern Pacific; Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie and Illinois Central.

Full particulars will be announced later. The chinaware is of a special pattern, and is Penn china, he said.

CITY EXPENSE TAKES DROP

Operating Costs Cut $26,575 Here

The cost of operating the city of Wichita Falls for the first third of the fiscal year was $26,575.18, less than in the corresponding four months last year, it was announced by W. E. McBroom, city clerk, Tuesday.

Figures for the cost of operation for July showed a total of $52,709.31 as compared to $52,545.05 for July 1927. The differences were mainly in new books for the library, increased costs in the park department summer program, and street cleaning and grading made necessary by rains and damage to streets by rains in the past 60 days.

RICH TEXAN SUED FOR TAX

Luling Millionaire Asked For $400,000

BOSTON, Aug. 14. (AP)—Edgar B. Davis, wealthy oil operator and philanthropist of Brockton, Mass., and Luling, Texas, has been made defendant in a suit brought by the state of Massachusetts to recover several hundred thousand dollars in income taxes and interest assessed against him in 1926.

Although the law prohibits the state commissioner of corporations and taxation from disclosing the amount involved, it was reported today, when the suit became known that the tax with interest amounted to approximately $400,000. The suit also would determine whether Mr. Davis is liable to payment on 1927 income in which case an additional $350,000 would be involved.

Mr. Davis formerly lived in Brockton but acquired most of his wealth in oil operations in Texas and through other enterprises outside his home city.

Davis contends that in December, 1926, he transferred his residence from Brockton to Luling, Texas, and is therefore not subject to the Massachusetts tax. The state claims that his real home is still in Brockton and that the alleged change of residence is not supported by any actual change in his home.

Girl Diver Thrills 2000 Swimming Fans

Two thousand swimming fans and enthusiasts saw Miss Evelyn Van Emden, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Van Emden, 1603 Garfield, make a high dive with her feet tied together and her hands died behind her back, at Westmoreland pool Tuesday night. Immediately after the dive, she swam to the edge of the pool, still tied.

This feat was one of a number sponsored by Walter Wicks, field representative and life saving examiner of the St. Louis district of the American Red Cross, at a demonstration meet of the local chapter of the Red Cross.

Woodrow Bristow and Curtis Beaty gave a series of demonstrations of fancy high diving and low-board diving.

W. F. Goodson, 6, and Miss Dorothy Van Emden, 5, fell into the pool while "arguing" about a towel, and the little girl "rescued" the little boy with a head hold. This stunt was pre-arranged and a part of Mr. Wick's demonstration on life saving.

Mr. Lane is survived by one daughter, Mrs. H. C. Simonds of Wichita Falls, and four sons, J. T. Lane of Rogers, Ark., W. I. Lane of Wayside, Texas, C. F. Lane of Bazine, Kan., and R. K. Lane of Wichita Falls.

Rabbit Breeders Name J. H. Stanfill President

J. H. Stanfill was elected secretary of the Texas-Oklahoma Rabbit Breeders' association Tuesday night at the home of E. E. Smith, 1322 Britton, to replace Bob Lyons of Thrift who resigned. Mr. Lyons is going to New York to manage a fur farm. Mrs. J. N. West was named reporter.

Plans for a rabbit picnic at 8 o'clock Tuesday night in Truscott park, Burkburnett, were made. The next regular meeting of the association will be with G. B. Lecroy at the Phillips Petroleum camp on the Archer City road.

Crowded Texas Death House May Lose Inmate as Result of Silver's Fight

Participant in Theater Robbery Claims Pal Did Not Fire Fatal Shot; Many Await Death

FORT WORTH, Texas, Aug. 14. (INS)—Impetus was given the movement to save J. R. (Bob) Silver, former Kansas City youth, from the electric chair for his part in the murder of Roscoe Wilson, Majestic theater cashier, last year, when a Fort Worth newspaper today made public a letter it has received from W. A. Stone, Silver's partner in the crime.

Stone, now serving a 99-year sentence for his part in the robbery and murder of the cashier, addressed a letter to the local newspaper from Clements state farm No. 3, Perry landing, in which he declared Silver was not the man who fired the fatal shot.

Will R. Parker, Silver's lawyer, is at present engaged in supervising the circulation of petitions asking for clemency for the Kansas Cityan. Silver's mother, who came here from Kansas City some months ago, plans to go to Austin to see Gov. Dan Moody some day this week on her son's behalf. Silver is scheduled to die in the electric chair Sept. 3.

Death House Crowded

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, Aug. 14. (AP)—Once more the Texas "death house" at the state penitentiary in Huntsville is overflowing with condemned men who are waiting in the small box-like cells on death row for the time when they will be marched through the "little green door" to an adjoining room where they will expiate their crimes with their lives.

The condemned group is composed of five white men, three Mexicans and one negro.

Attackers First

Clemente Rodriguez and Esiquiel Serbin, Mexicans from San Antonio, will go first. Their time for execution has been set for Aug. 21. The two were arrested for a series of attacks on high school girls in San Antonio. Three such attacks occurred within a little more than a month. Three Mexicans were arrested and Rodriguez pleaded guilty, asking for mercy July 7, 1927. The jury gave him the death sentence. Serbin then pleaded guilty and was convicted and given the death penalty on July 9. On July 11 the third prisoner, Enrique Mendoza, pleaded guilty to robbery and was given a life sentence, which he is serving.

Bill Smith, who was given the supreme penalty for the slaying of a Fisher county sheriff, and his deputy, is scheduled to "go" this month. He has received several stays of execution. Capt. E. F. Harrell, warden of the penitentiary, declared that he believed Smith was insane.

Juan Flores, Mexican from San Antonio, who was sentenced to die for the fatal stabbing of a 15-year-old Mexican boy, is scheduled to "go over" Aug. 30. Six times Flores has been snatched from the chair since his confinement in "death row" by stays from Governor Moody.

Bob Silver Added

J. R. "Bob" Silver, white man from Fort Worth, is the latest addition to the "legion of the condemned." He was placed in his cell Wednesday. His date to die has been set for Sept. 2. Silver was an accomplice with W. A. Stone in the robbing of the Majestic theater in Fort Worth last year, when Roscoe Wilson, employe of the theater, was killed.

Stone, who confessed to having fired the fatal shot, is serving a life time, while Silver, who declares that he was only an accomplice, received the chair.

O. C. Wells, who was to die for the murder of J. A. Mitchell on the night of Jan. 27, 1927, in Coleman county, is in death row for safe keeping until he can be taken back to Coleman county for sentence to be passed on him, the court of criminal appeals having already affirmed his death sentence.

Triple Slayer

Floyd Newton Byrnes, the "triple slayer" from San Angelo, is also confined in death row to await an appeal to the higher courts.

Marshall Ratliff, given the death sentence as a participant in the Cisco bank robbery when two officers were slain, is also held for safe keeping.

Tom Ross, negro, from Nacogdoches, is scheduled to forfeit his life at a rather early date. Ross is one of the largest men ever to be confined in the death house.

LEVINE PAIR QUITE HAPPY

Even if Aviator Basks in Mabel Boll's Smiles

By SAM LOVE

NEW YORK, Aug. 14. (UP)—How would you, gentle feminine reader, like to be the wife of Charles A. Levine, the famous transatlantic aviator?

Well, there's no use going into that. You simply aren't, that's all. For Charley, the demon of the air and something of a genius to boot, has a wife and she is, New York admits, one wife in 1,000.

Mrs. Charles A. Levine understands her erratic hubby like Gene Tunney savvies Shakespeare, and for the same reason. She's made a study of him—she knows him and she trusts him right up to the hilt.

The pretty, dark haired Mrs. Levine's real problems commenced more than a year ago when Charley, who, until that time had taken no part in international affairs, suddenly kissed her and climbed into the monoplane Columbia beside Clarence Chamberlin. He and Chamberlin landed in Germany and fame, and Mrs. Levine found herself confronted with one of the most difficult of all housewifely problems. Her husband had always been headstrong. Now, he was both bullheaded and famous.

Many, Many Friends

The Levines are blessed with plenty of neighbors and friends, and this fact hasn't made it any easier for Mrs. Levine. Few, if any of the items concerning Levine that have been carried in the public prints from time to time have escaped the attention of the Levine neighbors and friends.

Some of them recounted Levine's famous flight from Paris to London, in which it was conceded by experts until he made a spectacularly successful landing, that he would probably break his neck. One of many others detailed the smash-up in which the head of the Levine family participated with Bert Acosta. More recently, the accounts of Levine's holiday in Europe with Acosta and Miss Mabel Boll, blonde and winsome "queen of diamonds," have been added to the burden of neighbors and friends.

Hubby Away From Home

Not a casual acquaintance of Mrs. Levine missed seeing the most recent news picture of her husband, which depicted him disporting himself in a cutaway bathing suit with Miss Boll, who wore a cloak trimmed in white fur and a smile that would make Peggy Hopkins Joyce go into intensive training without further delay.

"I'm not a neglected wife—my dear, it's absurd," Mrs. Levine said today.

She had just returned to the Levine summer house at Belle Harbor, L. I., after a week in Connecticut with the Levine youngsters, whom she keeps in excellent health and spirits.

Mrs. Levine returned to discover a new batch of "sympathy" that she had to laugh away. A local tabloid had featured a story that she had been shocked to find a sign in front of her home announcing that it would be sold at auction August 25. Tactfully, the tabloid had illustrated the story with the bathing suit picture.

Mrs. Levine today was in a state of mind aptly described as "both indignant and amused."

"Mr. Levine has no secrets from me," she said. "Why, I was right behind Mr. Levine when he signed the contract for this deal. I knew, although the tabloid editor didn't, that we had planned to sell our Belle Harbor house before Mr. Levine sailed for Europe. We are tired of it, that's all."

But that is the sort of thing Mrs. Levine has to go through as the wife of a famous man.

"And as for that story that he hasn't written to me since he sailed, why it's ridiculous, my dear. Why, I get a long cable from him every other day."

Mrs. Levine's lot is not easy, but she bears it gracefully.

"I've been the victim of much gossip for a year," she said. "They don't let me alone. I am not jealous of Miss Boll. Mr. Levine has my undivided confidence in everything he does, and I have no intention of suing for separation. We are happily married."

Mrs. Levine didn't say so, but it seemed evident that she would be still more happily married if she received less of volunteer sympathy which she has no earthly use for.

Actress Claiming Wally Beery as Her Child's Father to Reopen Suit

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14. (UP)—The sensational suit of Juanita Montanya, Spanish dancer, against Wallace Beery, motion picture star, charging him with being the father of her child, will be reopened.

Miss Montanya appeared in superior court and was given permission to change counsel and announcement was made that Beery will be served with papers in the suit immediately.

The suit, asking $1,000,000 from the actor, was filed last September.

Miss Montanya charged that Beery attacked her on two occasions. She asked $500,000 each as a result of the alleged attacks.

The child's name was given as Wallace Beery Montanya.

The dancer alleged the first assault took place when she was a guest in the Beery home and the second assault allegedly occurred while he was driving her to her home.

Everett Hughes Favors Max Shumake

I, the undersigned candidate for County Tax Assessor, in the recent July primary, hereby recommend to my friends and supporters, for their consideration in the run-off primary to be held on August 25th, 1928, the candidacy of Max Shumake, who is seeking the nomination to that office.

Believing that with the several years of experience he has had in assessing property and his knowledge of varied values thereof, qualifies him well for the position, that he is worthy, and if elected, will serve the people of Wichita county creditably.

This recommendation is made without the solicitation or knowledge of the said Max Shumake or any of his former supporters. Respectfully submitted with my thanks for past favors and my anticipation of your continued good will.

EVERETT HUGHES.

NATIVE SEANCE 'RAISES' DEAD

Anthropologist Discovers Queer Custom

CHICAGO, Aug. 14. (US)—Wooden figures are used by primitive tribesmen of the Sumatra island to represent the spirit of a dead person, who, in their belief, returns a few months after his funeral to celebrate for the last time with his friends and relatives.

This belief, according to Dr. Berthold Laufer, curator of anthropology at the Field Museum of Natural History, is fostered by a form of faked spiritualistic seance devised by native magicians who dominate the lives of the uneducated tribesmen.

One of these figures, used by the magicians of the Toba Batak tribe and brought from Sumatra by the Arthur B. Jones expedition to Malaysia, is now on exhibition at the Field museum.

During the ceremony, the people gather in semi-darkness where the figure is placed before them in such a position that one can work strings connected with the mummy without being seen by the others.

Then follows singing and dancing until the magician approaches and in a solemn way prays that the spirit of the dead shall enter into the wooden image.

The magician then pulls the strings causing it to move its body as if it were trying to join in the dancing of the people.

After the ceremony is over the people believe that the spirit separates from the living forever.

STRATON HOTEL SELLS BOOZE

But Pastor Takes No Action Against Operator

NEW YORK, Aug. 14. (INS)—Although Dr. John Roach Straton, militant clergyman, expressed indignation when informed that liquor was freely sold at his newly purchased Greenwood Lake hotel, and asserted emphatically that he would bring vigorous prosecution of William Hecht, lessee of the Orange county resort, he had taken no steps today to lay the matter before either county officials or federal authorities in Orange county or New York City.

Greenwood lake is about 50 miles from New York. Ten days ago Dr. Straton bought the old hotel. Hecht held a lease on it and Dr. Straton said he told him everything must be clean and within the law in the management of the Greenwood Lake hotel. Hecht had told the clergyman that liquor was sometimes sold at other of the hotels in the neighborhood.

Flaunts Padlock.

It was brought to the attention of the clergyman, who is spending his vacation at Greenwood lake and plans establishment of a "religious chautauqua" there, that a bottle of liquor was purchased recently at his hotel. Dr. Straton immediately announced he would seek prosecution of Hecht even if it meant padlocking the hotel.

"I would proceed against my brother the same way if I found violation of the law," said Dr. Straton. "If this is true I will oust Hecht. I would be willing for the people of our Christian assembly to sleep in tents if necessary, if the hotel is padlocked.

"This is all the fault of Governor Smith who has weakened the hand of every enforcement officer in the state by his repeal of the Mullan-Gage act."

Yet today no action had been taken either in Orange county or in New York against the premises or Hecht.

Assistant District Attorney William J. Lamont of Orange county, in charge of the office at Newburg in the absence of District Attorney Elmer H. Lemon, told International News Service that no appeal for aid in prosecuting Hecht had been made there by Dr. Straton or anyone acting for him. Lamont explained that search warrant under the federal statute would not be issued at his office but that he would offer any help he could to federal authorities.

Officials Not Approached

At the office of United States Commissioner Harry T. Crist in Middletown, the representative of the federal government in Orange county, likewise said no word had come from Dr. Straton. No application for a search warrant of the Greenwood Lake hotel had been made, no information alleging violation of the prohibition law had been sworn to.

In New York Dr. Starton had not communicated with United States District Attorney Charles H. Tuttle or any of his assistants. Neither the aid nor the advice of the federal district attorney had been sought in the prosecution of Hechtor the Greenwood lake premises.

Dr. Straton's only effort to call in the law was made last night when he asked Justice of the Peace Seaman in Greenwood Lake to act. Judge Seaman said the hotel was outside his jurisdiction and advised the clergyman to obtain a search warrant but Dr. Straton apparently had made no effort to secure one.

Anti-Smith Club Denies Listing Names of Republicans in Group

Responsibility for the publication in local newspapers of the names of several Republicans and also of Democrats as members of the Anti-Smith Democratic club here, was denied by formal motion of the organization in a meeting held Tuesday night in its permanent headquarters, 611 Ninth street.

J. T. Harrell, vice president, presided in the absence of President N. H. Martin, and harmony was the keynote.

W. W. Silk suggested that the club foster the organization of a young mans' branch of the club, and a motion favoring the project was adopted.

On the suggestion of C. C. Hudson of Iowa Park, the chair was instructed to consider the naming of a steering and finance committee of five members to be chosen from the executive committee. Mr. Hudson later was named chairman of a committee to plan campaign literature to be used in this county.

There are still several names to be added to the executive committee of the organization. Those already named, who were reported to have accepted their places on the committee, are: J. C. Hunt, J. W. Bradley, W. H. Roper, Mrs. W. W. Silk, J. R. Ogle, S. A. Barnes, treasurer; W. B. Corlett, Dr. R. B. Wolford, J. W. Nicholson, Mrs. L. E. Cowling, S. B. Wilson, J. M. Alexander, M. L. Tittle, A. V. Add Club Hears Talks, Pledges Aid to Spuds

A report on the International Advertising clubs convention at Detroit was given, a talk on "Advertising Through Window Display" was heard, and support of the Spudders was urged at the luncheon of the Wichita Falls Advertising club at the Kemp hotel Tuesday noon.

Harry G. Walker, who spoke on window display, has won a number of national, state and local prizes with window displays designed by him.

After Voyle N. Armstrong had reported on the Detroit convention, J. H. Allison told of plans for the district convention to be held here in November.

President A. E. Kelly appointed a committee to co-operate with the city zoning commission in response to a letter from Walter S. Curlee, chairman of the commission. The committee appointed included Julian McFall, chairman; C. A. Bolton, T. A. Bradley and Frank Svoboda.

In urging members of the club to support the Spudders Mr. Kelly pointed out that "there is nothing that will advertise Wichita Falls more than a winning ball team."

ROAD STRIKE FEARS LESSEN

Officials Confident of Wage Arbitration

CHICAGO, Aug. 14. (UP)—Confidence that the wage dispute between railroad trainmen and officials of western roads would be settled through arbitration before any general strike order is issued, was expressed today by officials of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

The strike vote was started today but the result will not be made known until September 2, it was announced. Even should the membership vote to favor a strike, officials here said another attempt at arbitration undoubtedly would be made before a walkout occurs. Four unsuccessful attempts to arbitrate the present dispute already have been made.

Ballots Distributed

Representatives of the trainmen who attended the arbitration conference here last week which failed to effect an agreement, took strike ballots with them when they departed for their homes. Distribution of the ballots among the various locals was well under way today.

The Brotherhood is asking a 7½ per cent increase in wages. An arbitration board on June 25, 1927, found that conductors and trainmen of the western roads were not entitled to the increase but awarded an advance of 7½ per cent to yardmen.

The issue was raised again in July, 1928. The roads agreed at that time to grant an increase of 6½ per cent, or of 7½ per cent if union men would agree to abolish rules regarding the use of more than one locomotive on a train and the number of cars which may be hauled by two locomotives.

Insist On Raise

Union officials refused both offers and insisted upon the wage increase and retention of the locomotive rule. Since then each attempt at arbitration has failed.

Approximately 30,000 employes would be affected in event of a strike. Railroad officials today refused to say what plans had been made for continuation of service, should a walkout be ordered. "Service will be uninterrupted," was the reply to all inquiries.

A strike would affect the following roads: Southern Pacific; Union Pacific; Chicago and Northwestern; Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific; Chicago, Burlington and Quincy; Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe; Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; Northern Pacific; Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie and Illinois Central.

The cost of operating the city of Wichita Falls for the first third of the fiscal year was $26,575.18, less than in the corresponding four months last year, it was announced by W. E. McBroom, city clerk, Tuesday.

Figures for the cost of operation for July showed a total of $32,709.31 as compared to $32,546.05 for July 1927. The differences were mainly in new books for the library, increased costs in the park department summer program, and street cleaning and grading made necessary by rains and damage to streets by rains in the past 60 days.

RICH TEXAN SUED FOR TAX

Luling Millionaire Asked For $400,000

BOSTON, Aug. 14. (AP)—Edgar B. Davis, wealthy oil operator and philanthropist of Brockton, Mass., and Luling, Texas, has been made defendant in a suit brought by the state of Massachusetts to recover several hundred thousand dollars in income taxes and interest assessed against him in 1926.

Although the law prohibits the state commissioner of corporations and taxation from disclosing the amount involved, it was reported today, when the suit became known that the tax with interest amounted to approximately $400,000. The suit also would determine whether Mr. Davis is liable to payment on 1927 income in which case an additional $350,000 would be involved.

Mr. Davis formerly lived in Brockton but acquired most of his wealth in oil operations in Texas and through other enterprises outside his home city.

Davis contends that in December, 1926, he transferred his residence from Brockton to Luling, Texas, and is therefore not subject to the Massachusetts tax. The state claims that his real home is still in Brockton and that the alleged change of residence is not supported by any actual change in his home.

Girl Diver Thrills 2000 Swimming Fans

Two thousand swimming fans and enthusiasts saw Miss Evelyn Van Emden, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Van Emden, 1603 Garfield, make a high dive with her feet tied together and her hands died behind her back, at Westmoreland pool Tuesday night. Immediately after the dive, she swam to the edge of the pool, still tied.

This feat was one of a number sponsored by Walter Wicks, field representative and life saving examiner of the St. Louis district of the American Red Cross, at a demonstration meet of the local chapter of the Red Cros.

Woodrow Bristow and Curtis Beaty gave a series of demonstrations of fancy high diving and low-board diving.

W. F. Goodson, 6, and Miss Dorothy Van Emden, 5, fell into the pool while "arguing" about a towel, and the little girl "rescued" the litlte boy with a head hold. This stunt was pre-arranged and a part of Mr. Wick's demonstration on life saving.

Mr. Lane is survived by one daughter, Mrs. H. C. Simonds of Wichita Falls, and four sons, J. T. Lane of Rogers, Ark., W. I. Lane of Wayside, Texas, C. F. Lane of Bazine, Kan., and R. K. Lane of Wichita Falls.

Plans for a rabbit picnic at 8 o'clock Tuesday night in Truscott park, Burkburnett, were made. The next regular meeting of the association will be with C. B. Lecroy at the Phillips Petroleum camp on the Archer City road.

It's surprising what a quantity of dust and dirt and germs get packed into a garment after it has been worn a few months. You would shudder at the thought of using towels or sheets or napkins which were in that condition.

Crowded Texas Death House May Lose Inmate as Result of Silver's Fight

Participant in Theater Robbery Claims Pal Did Not Fire Fatal Shot; Many Await Death

FORT WORTH, Texas, Aug. 14. (INS)—Impetus was given the movement to save J. R. (Bob) Silver, former Kansas City youth, from the electric chair for his part in the murder of Roscoe Wilson, Majestic theater cashier, last year, when a Fort Worth newspaper today made public a letter it has received from W. A. Stone, Silver's partner in the crime.

Stone, now serving a 99-year sentence for his part in the robbery and murder of the cashier, addressed a letter to the local newspaper from Clements state farm No. 3, Perry landing, in which he declared Silver was not the man who fired the fatal shot.

Will R. Parker, Silver's lawyer, is at present engaged in supervising the circulation of petitions asking for clemency for the Kansas Cityan. Silver's mother, who came here from Kansas City some months ago, plans to go to Austin to see Gov. Dan Moody some day this week on her son's behalf. Silver is scheduled to die in the electric chair Sept. 3.

Death House Crowded

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, Aug. 14. (AP)—Once more the Texas "death house" at the state penitentiary in Huntsville is overflowing with condemned men who are waiting in the small box-like cells on death row for the time when they will be marched through the "little green door" to an adjoining room where they will expiate their crimes with their lives.

The condemned group is composed of five white men, three Mexicans and one negro.

Attackers First

Clemente Rodriguez and Esiquiel Serbin, Mexicans from San Antonio, will go first. Their time for execution has been set for Aug. 21. The two ware arrested for a series of attacks on high school girls in San Antonio. Three such attacks occurred within a little more than a month. Three Mexicans were arrested and Rodriguez pleaded guilty, asking for mercy July 7, 1927. The jury gave him the death sentence. Serbin then pleaded guilty and was convicted and given the death penalty on July 9. On July 11 the third prisoner, Enrique Mendoza, pleaded guilty to robbery and was given a life sentence, which he is serving.

Bill Smith, who was given the supreme penalty for the slaying of a Fisher county sheriff and his deputy, is scheduled to "go" this month. He has received several stays of execution. Capt. E. F. Harrell, warden of the penitentiary, declared that he believed Smith was insane.

Juan Flores, Mexican from San Antonio, who was sentenced to die for the fatal stabbing of a 15-year-old Mexican boy, is scheduled to "go over" Aug. 30. Six times Flores has been snatched from the chair since his confinement in "death row" by stays from Governor Moody.

Bob Silver Added

J. R. "Bob" Silver, white man from Fort Worth, is the latest addition to the "legion of the condemned." He was placed in his cell Wednesday. His date to die has been set for Sept. 2. Silver was an accomplice with W. A. Stone in the robbing of the Majestic theater in Fort Worth last year, when Roscoe Wilson, employe of the theater, was killed.

Stone, who confessed to having fired the fatal shot, is serving a life time, while Silver, who declares that he was only an accomplice, received the chair.

O. C. Wells, who was to die for the murder of J. A. Mitchell on the night of Jan. 27, 1927, in Coleman county, is in death row for safe keeping until he can be taken back to Coleman county for sentence to be passed on him, the court of criminal appeals having already affirmed his death sentence.

Triple Slayer

Floyd Newton Byrnes, the "triple slayer" from San Angelo, is also confined in death row to await an appeal to the higher courts.

Marshall Ratliff, given the death sentence as a participant in the Cisco bank robbery when two officers were slain, is also held for safe keeping.

Tom Ross, negro, from Nacogdoches, is scheduled to forfeit his life at a rather early date. Ross is one of the largest men ever to be confined in the death house.

LEVINE PAIR QUITE HAPPY

Even if Aviator Basks in Mabel Boll's Smiles

By SAM LOVE

NEW YORK, Aug. 14. (UP)—How would you, gentle feminine reader, like to be the wife of Charles A. Levine, the famous transatlantic aviator?

Well, there's no use going into that. You simply aren't, that's all. For Charley, the demon of the air and something of a genius to boot, has a wife and she is, New York admits, one wify in 1,000.

Mrs. Charles A. Levine understands her erratic hubby like Gene Tunney savvies Shakespeare, and for the same reason. She's made a study of him—she knows him and she trusts him right up to the hilt.

The pretty, dark haired Mrs. Levine's real problems commenced more than a year ago when Charley, who, until that time had taken no part in international affairs, suddenly kissed her and climbed into the monoplane Columbia beside Clarence Chamberlin. He and Chamberlin landed in Germany and fame, and Mrs. Levine found herself confronted with one of the most difficult of all housewifely problems. Her husband had always been headstrong. Now, he was both bullheaded and famous.

Many, Many Friends

The Levines are blessed with plenty of neighbors and friends, and this fact hasn't made it any easier for Mrs. Levine. Few, if any of the items concerning Levine that have been carried in the public prints from time to time have escaped the attention of the Levine neighbors and friends.

Some of them recounted Levine's famous flight from Paris to London, in which it was conceded by experts until he made a spectacularly successful landing, that he would probably break his neck. One of many others detailed the smash-up in which the head of the Levine family participated with Bert Acosta. More recently, the accounts of Levine's holiday in Europe with Acosta and Miss Mabel Boll, blonde and winsome "queen of diamonds," have been added to the burden of neighbors and friends.

Hubby Away From Home

Not a casual acquaintance of Mrs. Levine missed seeing the most recent news picture of her husband, which depicted him disporting himself in a cutaway bathing suit with Miss Boll, who wore a cloak trimmed in white fur and a smile that would make Peggy Hopkins Joyce go into intensive training without further delay.

"I'm not a neglected wife—my dear, it's absurd," Mrs. Levine said today.

She had just returned to the Levine summer house at Belle Harbor, L. I., after a week in Connecticut with the Levine youngsters, whom she keeps in excellent health and spirits.

Mrs. Levine returned to discover a new batch of "sympathy" that she had to laugh away. A local tabloid had featured a story that she had been shocked to find a sign in front of her home announcing that it would be sold at auction August 25. Tactfully, the tabloid had illustrated the story with the bathing suit picture.

Mrs. Levine today was in a state of mind aptly described as "both indignant and amused."

"Mr. Levine has no secrets from me," she said. "Why, I was right behind Mr. Levine when he signed the contract for this deal. I knew, although the tabloid editor didn't, that we had planned to sell our Belle Harbor house before Mr. Levine sailed for Europe. We are tired of it, that's all."

But that is the sort of thing Mrs. Levine has to go through as the wife of a famous man.

"And as for that story that he hasn't written to me since he sailed, why it's ridiculous, my dear. Why, I get a long cable from him every other day."

Mrs. Levine's lot is not easy, but she bears it gracefully.

"I've been the victim of much gossip for a year," she said. "They don't let me alone. I am not jealous of Miss Boll. Mr. Levine has my undivided confidence in everything he does, and I have no intention of suing for separation. We are happily married."

Mrs. Levine didn't say so, but it seemed evident that she would be still more happily married if she received less of volunteer sympathy which she has no earthly use for.

Actress Claiming Wally Beery as Her Child's Father to Reopen Suit

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14. (UP)—The sensational suit of Juanita Montanya, Spanish dancer, against Wallace Beery, motion picture star, charging him with being the father of her child, will be reopened.

Miss Montanya appeared in superior court and was given permission to change counsel and announcement was made that Beery will be served with papers in the suit immediately.

The suit, asking $1,000,000 from the actor, was filed last September.

Miss Montanya charged that Beery attacked her on two occasions. She asked $500,000 each as a result of the alleged attacks.

The child's name was given as Wallace Beery Montanya.

The dancer alleged the first assault took place when she was a guest in the Beery home and the second assault allegedly occurred while he was driving her to her home.

Everett Hughes Favors Max Shumake

I, the undersigned candidate for County Tax Assessor, in the recent July primary, hereby recommend to my friends and supporters, for their consideration in the run-off primary to be held on August 25th, 1928, the candidacy of Max Shumake, who is seeking the nomination to that office.

Believing that with the several years of experience he has had in assessing property and his knowledge of varied values thereof, qualifies him well for the position, that he is worthy, and if elected, will serve the people of Wichita county creditably.

This recommendation is made without the solicitation or knowledge of the said Max Shumake or any of his former supporters. Respectfully submitted with my thanks for past favors and my anticipation of your continued good will.

EVERETT HUGHES.

NATIVE SEANCE 'RAISES' DEAD

Anthropologist Discovers Queer Custom

CHICAGO, Aug. 14. (UP)—Wooden figures are used by primitive tribesmen of the Sumatra island to represent the spirit of a dead person, who, in their belief, returns a few months after his funeral to celebrate for the last time with his friends and relatives.

This belief, according to Dr. Berthold Laufer, curator of anthropology at the Field Museum of Natural History, is fostered by a form of faked spiritualistic seance devised by native magicians who dominate the lives of the uneducated tribesmen.

One of these figures, used by the magicians of the Toba Batak tribe and brought from Sumatra by the Arthur B. Jones expedition to Malaysia, is now on exhibition at the Field museum.

During the ceremony, the people gather in semi-darkness where the figure is placed before them in such a position that one can work strings connected with the mummy without being seen by the others.

Then follows singing and dancing until the magician approaches and in a solemn way prays that the spirit of the dead shall enter into the wooden image.

The magician then pulls the strings causing it to move its body as if it were trying to join in the dancing of the people.

After the ceremony is over the people believe that the spirit separates from the living forever.

'Announcement Made of Wedding Of Well Known Wichita Falls Girl

Miss Leona M. Maricle, well known in the city as one of the Wichita Falls young ladies who have gone out to achieve distinction, was married to Louis Jean Heydt of New York City in New York, Monday, according to an announcement made by Mrs. Emma Maricle, 1825 Collins, mother of the bride.

Mrs. Heydt was educated in the local high school where she won various dramatic honors. She was graduated at the College of Industrial Arts, Denton, with the spring class of 1925 and spent a year studying in the American Academy of Dramatic Art in New York. She has appeared in Broadway productions the last two years and was a member of the cast of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes".

Mrs. Heydt will appear in "The Legacy" when that show will open on Broadway in the fall. The young couple will make their home in New York City where Mr. Heydt is a dramatic art critic.

❖ ❖ ❖

Ramblin'

with

Marie Theresa

"THE American Academy of Democratic Art" reads a story in the local paper. Probably a new Al Smith league of a thing. But occurring in the announcement of the wedding of a member of a well-known Republican family of this city it looks as if Democrats will be Republicans and vice versa, at a moment's notice.

For the benefit of those who may not know, the following explanation is made: The mistake was committed in the composing room of the newspaper, and really means nothing after all but a mistake similar to those made by any other person any day.

NOW is the time of the year when mothers of school age children are taking out their sewing machines for a gallant few weeks' siege of sewing.

Little girls will have all the ruffles and pin tucks that mother can conceive in all the combinations that designers approve. Little boys will share the fate, only to the tune of fewer pleats and ruffles and stronger material.

And the children will be ready for the opening of the school in September.

But will they?

"No," says Mrs. T. H. Lawson, new president of the council of Parent-Teacher associations, "not necessarily, for some of these same youngsters will be allowed to enter a new year in school handicapped with all sorts of defects which will hinder their assimilation of knowledge."

If parents would count time out for the necessary tonsil operation, the fitting of glasses, and the repairing of teeth, the little fellows could dispense with some of the ruffles.

Mrs. Lawson extends a plea to all mothers to follow up the advice and warnings given them by competent physicians in the pre-school child health clinics of last year, so that children will have as nearly an equal chance at learning as nature has intended.

A MEMBER of the First Methodist church, South, expressed great pleasure at the number of prominent business men of the city who offered aid in helping to entertain a party of children from the Day Nursery Tuesday afternoon. The children were threatened with indigestion as a result of the various kinds and super-abundance of food and dainties volunteered them by business houses and individuals.

I CAN'T see how women even are going to weather the combined onslaught against the short skirt scheduled for the fall season. Style experts are rabid on the subject of short skirts, in Los Angeles, commissioners have taken up the sword, or maybe, the tape measure, and threaten not only the knee-length skirt but also the reign of silk hose. And now hubbies are taking sides with the offensive and this corner can see nothing ahead but a long lingering battle—and, short skirts for a while longer, anyway. The short and the long of trousers was an excuse for many a family fight and an occasional divorce and this department wonders if the length of skirts will do similar favors.

Those of us who skeptically wonder why the various organizations clutter up the universe, will find a little breath of fresh air in reading the account of Tuesday's press that the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers has taken charge of the body of the late Arthur J. Lamb, forgotten writer of songs sung two generations back, and saved it from the fate of burial in potters field.

Nursery Children Guests at Picnic Tuesday Afternoon

Members of the First Methodist church, South, entertained a group of about 30 children from the Day nursery Tuesday afternoon at an outing and picnic party at Lake Wichita.

Among those who extended courtesies to the children were: Mr. and Mrs. Jack Corkins who took them for a trip on concessions; J. E. Gessler and son, Pecks, who took them for a boat ride; the Lehrack and Colvert ice cream companies which supplied the little guests with ice cream bricks; the Kiwanis club and J. L. Jackson and J. N. Sherrill who gave them candy; and the following ladies who took them for automobile rides: Mesdames Finger, Jeter, J. Milton Erwin, A. J. Christie, C. A. Parker, C. J. Barner and T. H. Lawson.

Among guests were Mrs. Knox Finley, Mrs. Ada Woolsey and Mrs. Delia Gay.

Byrd's Supply Ship To Be Stocked for Trip

NEW YORK, Aug. 14. (UP)—The supply ship for Commander Richard E. Byrd's south polar expedition—the City of New York—will be moved to Hoboken, N. J., tomorrow, where it will be equipped for the polar journey.

Captain Frederick Midville, commander of the vessel, has been commissioned a lieutenant commander in the merchant marine naval reserve and he will be presented with his commission when the City of New York reaches Hoboken tomorrow.

Men and Women Don't Understand Each Other, Hence These Divorces

Differences in Make-up and Training Forbid the Association of Men and Women on a Plane of Mutual Understanding, Except Through Sympathy With Each Other's Point of View.

The chief cause of conflict between married couples is the result of the husband's being a man and the wife a woman, so that the twain never meet on any common ground of mutual understanding. Between them is the gulf of sex, of tradition, of custom and habit, of the way in which each has been reared, and of the things each has been taught from the cradle up. They lack imagination with which to bridge the chasm; they cannot cross to the other side and see what is in the unknown land beyond.

They are not able to understand and sympathize with each other's trials and tribulations; they cannot make allowance for each other's sins of omission and commission.

Providence did not see fit to provide enough men who take a real heart-interest in fashions and the best way to make hook rugs, nor a sufficient number of women who can keep a bank book balanced and who know the difference between a gilt-edge stock and Wild Cat Preferred, to bestow one of these blessings on every man and woman.

On the contrary, it doomed both men and women to marry those whose point of view they would never get, whose reactions they would never foresee, whose language they would never learn to speak. Hence, these spats, these tears, these divorces.

No man, for instance, ever understands why his wife wants him to be forever telling her that he loves her, and that he considers her far more beautiful than any flapper, and that the only alteration in his affection has been to deepen it as life binds them closer together. It seems to him that he is giving pretty convincing performance of the devoted and domestic husband when he never stirs away from his fireside of an evening, when he does everything he can to make her happy and works his fingers to the bone to keep her in luxury.

It appears to him as unnecessary to be continually proclaiming his love as it would to go about telling everybody that he was an honest man or a good doctor, or a first-class salesman. His idea is that your performance speaks for itself.

On the other hand, the wife can't understand why, if her husband still loves her, he doesn't tell her so. She recalls that before they were married he spent hours upon hours vivisecting his heart for her benefit, and that he was never weary of swearing oaths of devotion and telling her how wonderful and beautiful she was, and how different from all other women, and how he could never weary of kissing her and holding her lily-white hand.

When he stops all love-making at the altar with suddenness that jars her wisdom teeth loose, and when he gives her a little peck on the cheek that passes for a synthetic kiss instead of the real thing, and when he is dumb as an oyster about the state of his affections, she deduces that he has ceased to love her, and she begins to look slantwise at her friends and the girls in his office and acquires a martyr complex about the poor unloved wife whose husband is tired of her.

Then there is the matter of going out in the evening, which is as a red flag to a mad bull in most homes. The husband's position is that he is tired when he comes home at night. He has been on his feet all day. He has been in the hurly-burly of an office. He has talked until he was hoarse trying to sell goods. He is worn out with the strain of keeping his temper and acting pleasant toward customers, or employes, or his boss, when he felt more like committing murder, and all he wants to do is slump down in a chair, get on his house slippers, and be silent and drowse over a paper.

The wife's position is that she has been shut up in the house all day doing dull and monotonous work that occupied her hands but did not employ more than one lobe of her brain. And when evening comes she wants to put on a pretty frock and go out to some place where there are other people, and lights, and some gayety and diversion. She doesn't see why her husband makes such a bugaboo of working in a nice office or store where there are lots of people coming and going and something different doing all the time. She thinks going down town is a lark and she doesn't understand why her husband regards it as a curse.

And it is the same way about their work. The husband doesn't see why his wife is always complaining about how much she has to do and how many hours she stands over the gas range. He is always telling her that, by Jove, he wishes he had things as easy as she has, with nothing to do but keep house and take care of the children; that he would like nothing better than just to be able to stay in a nice home whose bill somebody else paid, and play around with the kiddies.

And the wife retorts that if he wants to find out what real work is, he should tackle the wife job, which has no union hours, no holidays or Sundays, and he would see that it is lots easier pushing a hod than a perambulator, and that in a day she has to arbitrate more trials than a supreme court judge, and bind up more wounds than an ambulance doctor, and do more sweeping than a street cleaner.

Then there is the money question. Most husbands consider themselves divinely appointed bearers of the family purse, and that wives have no right even to the money they earn or that they brought as dowries. Also, they honestly believe that there is some curious lack of pride and independence in women that prevents them from feeling any humiliation at coming like beggars to their husbands for every cent they spend. Hence, the objection men have to giving their wives an allowance.

And wives never can see why their husbands will trust them with their names, their honor and the rearing of their children, but will not trust them with $20. And when their husbands refuse them an allowance, they despise them as tightwads, and avenge the ignominy of having to run up bills their husbands will audit by making them big.

And there you are. Isn't it a pity that each sex can't get the other's point of view? Believe me, if husbands and wives could put themselves in each other's places for even a day, it would make them wondrous kind to each other.

Negroes Lose Plea For Golf Link Privileges

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 14. (UP)—Judge Brown Harris today denied the application for a mandamus brought by four negroes to compel the city to grant them permission to play golf on the public links in Swope park.

Another: Oh, he was around this morning begging me to forgive him.—Life.

ROYAL POMP TO MARK WEDDING

Crown Prince of Italy to Wed Belgian Princess

ROME, Aug. 14. (UP)—The impending marriage of Crown Prince Humbert of Italy and Princess Marie Jose, daughter of the king and queen of the Belgians, was discussed today by the pope and Cardinal Gambas.

After the conference, it was learned authoritatively that the marriage, which has been mooted for some time by both diplomatic and social circles throughout Europe, will take place with almost unprecedented pomp here in Rome.

A ceremonial marriage for a member of the Italian House of Savoy is considered an unusual thing here, especially in view of the somewhat strained relations which exist between the Italian royal family and the vatican. Cardinal Gambas is, however, a close friend of Prince Humbert's and it is understood his mission to Rome has mainly been connected with securing the Catholic pontiff's assent to a religious marriage, celebrated with the greatest pompt.

An official announcement of the coming marriage of the two members of the few remaining European royal families has not yet been made. The delay in the announcement is said to have been due to certain political feelings regarding the final announcement in the two countries. It is stated in usually well informed circles, however, that there remain only a few details before the formal announcement is made.

The wedding is expected to be the most imposing social affair of Europe's winter season.

It is recalled that cardinals of the church of Rome have never been known of late to attend weddings of members of the royal family, due to the rupture of relations between the church and state in Italy, but recently a number of prelates have officiated at weddings outside the city. It is recalled that Gambas himself officiated recently at the wedding of the Duke of Postoia to the Princess Aremberg at Turin.

Acid Test Used As Skin Barometer

CHICAGO, Aug. 14. (US)—Does your face pass the acid test?

If in doubt, apply a piece of litmus paper to the end of your nose.

Should your perspiration turn it blue, be assured that your visage is not only vinegar—there is something more fundamentally wrong with it than a crabbed disposition.

Such was the statement of Mrs. Ruth J. Maurer, international authority on feminine beauty, of New York City, who addressed the ninth annual convention of the American Cosmeticians' society today.

"Perspiration," declared Mrs. Maurer, "is the barometer of one's physical condition and an infallible gauge in determining whether the diet is all sour or all right. If your system is too acid perspiration will turn the litmus paper blue. If it is too alkaline, the excretion of your sabaceous glands will turn it red."

Miss Frances Martell of Chicago, executive secretary of the society, set the cost of women's quest for beauty in the state of Illinois for one year at $150,000,000, which, she declared, is slightly above the amount of money spent for constructing the state's system of hard roads in 1927.

Forced Down What Little He Ate Without Enjoying It—Three Square Meals a Day After Taking Black-Draught

Georgetown, Ky.—Mr. G. E. Penn, of 408 Clayton avenue, this city, says that he was helped so much by taking Black-Draught he wants others who suffer as he did to benefit by his experience.

"For several years I had been in poor health," writes Mr. Penn. "I could not eat heartily, and did not relish the small amount of food I managed to force down.

"I had no energy. Was tired and 'mad' all the time, also troubled with constipation.

"Last summer, I fell off in weight from 187 to 145 pounds.

"I was telling a friend of mine how I felt, and he told me that he had been in the same fix, and advised me to try Black-Draught. This I did, and you do not know how much better I feel in every way.

"I can eat three square meals a day. I feel like a man 30 years old, instead of 60.

"I have told others, and expect to praise Black-Draught as long as I live."

Thedford's Black-Draught is a purely vegetable cathartic or laxative medicine, composed of selected medicinal herbs and roots. Easy to take—no disagreeable after-effects. Sold in 25-cent and $1.00 packages.

CHEMISTRY IS WAR SCIENCE

But Scientist Not Responsible, Says Scholar

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 14. (UP)—Man must rise above the envy and passion which make for war before nations will cease in their efforts to destroy each other, Sir James C. Irvine of St. Andrews university, told delegates attending the American Chemical society institute here tonight.

"The whole machinery of war may be scrapped," Sir James said, "warships may be sunk, armies may be disbanded and fortresses demolished but the chemical factory must remain and, so long as it exists, it is a potential war factory.

"No peace treaty or visiting commission can control or even detect research work designed to furnish lethal agents for the future and this research may be going on now, anywhere, in preparation for the next war."

Sir James said the time had not arrived when man had risen above the passion for strife and that the nation which possesses the most efficient chemical industry possesses also the most efficient instrument of war.

Doesn't Blame Chemist

He said, however, that the chemist should not be held responsible for the abuse of his discoveries; that he did nothing to bring the world war into being and did much to save us from its effect.

"Quite possibly the war of the future may be declared, waged and won in a few days," he said. "The alternations necessary to convert passenger-carrying airplanes into bombing machines are not serious. There is no need for heavy guns or the customary material of war, for the chemical factory can provide the poison shell-fillings which the airplanes will distribute on their objectives and I leave to your imagination what these objectives are likely to be.

"In his heart of hearts, the chemist loathes the suggestion that his science should be used in this way, and expresses abhorrence of the idea that his own intellect should be utilized for developing new and more effective poisons for warfare. Nevertheless, there is a general opinion that under present conditions it is impossible to stop it.

Gas Poisons

"Gas poisoning has been used once and will be used again. The futility of paper promises has been clearly demonstrated and so long as the chemical factory remains it can be utilized as a factory for gas poisons. Whilst there is a general consensus against this method of warfare, we are swept along by a tide against which it is impossible to struggle."

Chlorine gas which the Germans were first to use in deluging the trenches of the allies was not the discovery of scientists of that nation, as generally believed, Sir James said.

"Chlorine was discovered by the Swedes," he explained, "and the methods of preparing it electrolytically were discovered by the British. Its application as a bleaching agent was rendered possible by the French but it was first used deliberately to kill by the Germans."

Boy, 8, Is Victim Of Crime Complex

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 14. (UP) Memphis scientists today studied one of the strangest cases on local police records—that of an 8-year-old boy suffering from a "crime complex."

Careful examinations were made of X-ray photographs of the youth's head, with the view of performing an operation to relieve pressure on the brain, if that is found to be the "complex."

The boy, member of a prominent Memphis family, already has spent a year in a reform school, and following his release recently, was again arrested, charged with robbing eight houses.

He admitted the robberies, but said he didn't know why he stole.

Crime experts say the boy is suffering from mental and physical defects which make him an inherent criminal. They recommend an operation and his parents agreed.

Coffee Cake Believed Cause of Poisoning

NEW YORK, Aug. 14. (UP)—A chemical analysis was made today of coffee cake which is believed responsible for nine persons becoming seriously ill of ptomaine poisoning here.

General's Son, Broke, Leaves Laborer's Job to Join Late Father's Command

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Aug. 14. (UP)—Osborne Wood, who made a fortune in Wall street and lost it in France, has taken a two weeks' vacation from his two-dollar-a-day job at the Pecos mine and has gone to Texas as a captain in the 111th cavalry, offshoot of the famous "Rough Riders" once commanded by his father, the late Gen. Leonard Wood.

Wood is a captain in the reserve corps but has had little chance to get in the saddle since he came here after failure of his attempt to recoup his fortune in Florida real estate. At first Wood's presence in the mining community created considerable attention. There were many who believed he would not stand the grueling pace of a miner's work.

But Wood stuck doggedly to his job and apparently has been quite happy.

The encampment Wood is attending is at Fort Bliss, El Paso. He will return here at the end of the two weeks. His attachment to the 111th cavalry was due largely to his late father's association with the parent regiment during the Spanish war.

Wood began his speculative career while in the Philippines with his father. He resigned from the army after making $750,000 but lost the money at Monte Carlo and other French resorts.

EL PASO, Texas, Ag. 14. (UP)—The 11th regiment of the New Mexico national guard arrived at Fort Bliss today for a fortnight's encampment. Four companies of this unit were with the "Rough Riders" during the Spanish America war. Kit Carson, famous frontiersman, was the first commander of the regiment, which gained early fame in Indiana wars against the Navajos.

Pole Flier Ordered To Paris Hospital

PARIS, Aug. 14. (UP)—The Polish flyers, Major Ojsimir Kubala and Casimir Idzikowski, arrived here today. The two aviators were picked up after their transatlantic airplane fell in the Atlantic. Major Kubala was ordered to enter a hospital here for treatment of an injured arm.

If You Must Drink, Be a Sport and Down It in the Open, Says Atwell

NEW YORK, Aug. 11. (US)—If you must drink—drink openly.

Sneaking into speakeasies is not good sportsmanship on the part of the wets.

Judge William H. Atwell of Dallas, Texas, so told 10 Volstead act violators this afternoon in imposing on them fines and short prison terms. The federal judge, sitting in Brooklyn, added:

"It costs the government $30,000,000 for a navy to protect us from enemies abroad, but it costs more than $18,000,000 yearly in the administration of criminal laws by the nation, states and municipalities to defend ourselves against ourselves.

"You men are pleading guilty of violations of the national prohibition law. It was passed after a battle continuing over many years and those who didn't believe in it, lost.

"It is not good sportsmanship for those who lost the battle to go out and say it could not be enforced and then demonstrate this by breaking the law in a sneaking way. A real man would not go into the back door to get a drink. He would walk in the front door and if he couldn't do this, he would go without.

"If you break the law, do it openly and take the consequences."

BILBAO, Aug. 14. (INS)—King Alfonso and Queen Victoria arrived here today from Santander aboard the battleship Principe Alfonso.

Opinion May Be Asked In Recount of Ballots

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 14 (UP)—Attorney General Stratton Shartel probably will be asked for an opinion on the legality of the board of election commissioners to recount the ballots in certain Kansas City precincts in the Republican senatorial contest, P. E. Burton, manager for Nathan Frank, St. Louis, defeated "wet" candidate, charged there were gross irregularities here in the Missouri primary of last Tuesday.

160,000 acres of DUNLOP cotton

"WHAT OF IT?... Supposing Dunlop does require all the cotton from 160,000 acres. What does that mean to my pocketbook?"

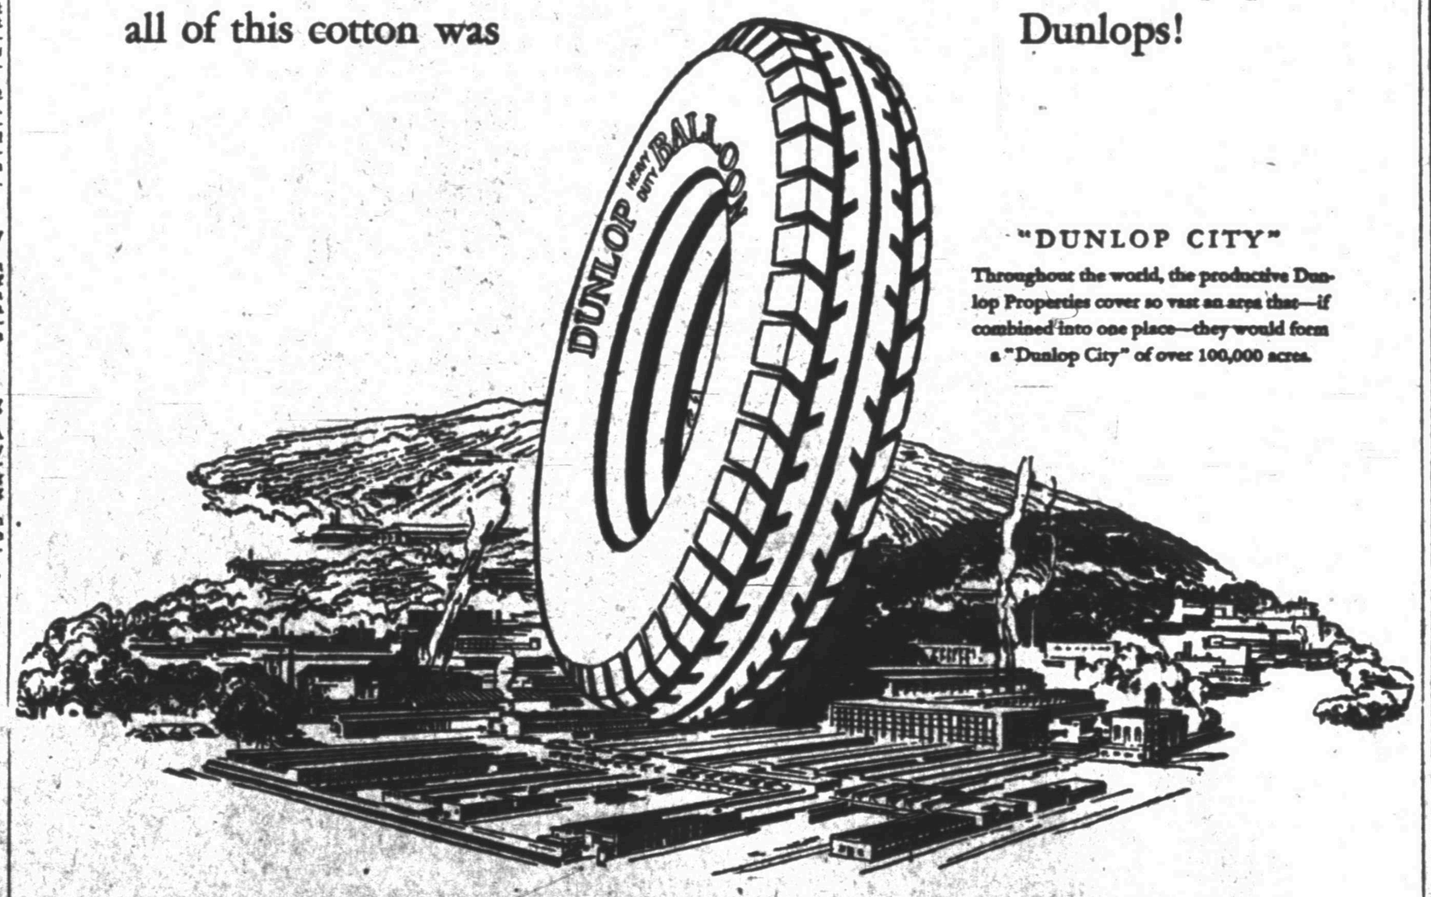

Just this. Dunlop has grown great because Dunlops save money. Over 26,000,000 Dunlops are now in use—each one saving money for its owner.

Last year, Dunlop required the cotton from 160,000 acres, and all of this cotton was spun into cable-twist cord at Dunlop's own cotton mills.

Dunlops are better tires—with greater safety, greater tread mileage, and greater carcass strength. Otherwise they couldn't have justified their slightly higher initial cost.

Yes . . . the 26 million Dunlops now in use are your guarantee that Dunlop must build only the best.

Save money—equip with Dunlops!

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By GRANT DIXON

NEW YORK.—It was raining, raining hard, and New York's thoroughfare of boardwalks, board fence entanglements, steam shovels and deep pits—Eighth avenue—was as nasty and dreary as only that avenue can be on a rainy day. On a southbound trolley car, creeping at its usual exasperating snail's pace, was an old man whose whole demeanor was that of utter dejection.

The old fellow's head was but partially shielded by a torn black derby. His shirt, which apparently was once white, was almost a perfect match for his headgear. His faded coat was virtually collarless and through ragged holes protruded his brown elbows. His trousers were in accord with the rest of his apparel and on his feet were but the fragment of shoes. He sat motionless in about the middle of the car with his head resting on his hands, which embraced a rough but sturdy cane.

When the car reached Thirty-fifth street the conductor walked over to the man, tapped him on the shoulder and guided him to the exit. The man was blind and the conductor rendered service such as is seldom seen on public conveyances. After aiding the man in his departure from the car he escorted him through the traffic to the east side of the avenue, although the rain at the time was a veritable downpour. By the time the conductor had again reached the shelter of his car he must have been drenched to the skin.

However, this unusual display of kindness scarcely equalled the contemptible attitude of at least three of the trolley's passengers who, loudly and in no uncertain terms, denounced the conductor upon his return for his "thoughtlessness" in delaying the progress of the car.

A middle aged man entered the rear of the car of a B. M. T. train, sat by a window and unfolded his newspaper and began reading. At the next station a young girl boarded the train and sat alongside of him. Everything fared well until the girl made an attempt to leave the train for her station, and to her surprise, as well as of those witnessing the incident, she found that her dress was held fast to the man's jacket by at least five fishhooks, mind you.

It was not until the girl had passed two stations beyond her destination that with the aid of a penknife and a number of passengers her dress was released and she escaped with a slight tear in her dress.

The elderly man spent a full 15 minutes more trying to untangle himself from the fishhooks, which also left a rip in his jacket, before he succeeded in getting the hooks free.

Bacchus is dead. And many are his mourners. Some drown their sorrows with his pale, insipid wraith, but others sigh for the old days and build memorials to his departed soul.

But how different are these from the next monuments of convention.

The queerest of all is in a store window on West street. Appropriately enough, this monument is an old keg in which doubtless, his spirit had many a frolic.

One end of the small barrel forms the dial of a clock. Here is bright white letters his epitaph is written —"In Memory of Good Old Times."

But most fitting of all is the pendulum which ticks off hour after hour of a dry eternity. This is a pint flask, empty nowadays, but bearing the label of one of his most famous selves.

Bacchus is dead. But men do not forget.

TO AN OLD LADY

She sits on her porch in her satin and lace,
With a soft little smile on her wrinkled old face,
As she dreams of the time she was pretty and young,
And she lives in the hours her beauties were sung.

Yes, she dreams there alone as the days nudge her on
To the time when she'll be just a thing that is gone;
For her life has burned down to a flicker at last,
And she lives in the charm of a day that has passed.

Our New Responsibility

AN ORDINARY photograph sometimes can tell more about what we call the trend of the times than a column of type.

Such a picture came across this desk the other day. It showed a street scene in a small native town in the Philippines, a day's journey from Manila. The town—its name doesn't matter—was in the interior, seldom frequented by white men. Streets were lined with native houses, and brown-skinned men and women, dressed as the Filipinos dressed when Magellan visited them, were bustling back and forth. Queer, ungainly, two-wheeled carriages crowded the roadway. It all looked very outlandish and foreign.

But—and here is the point—mingled in the stream of traffic were a good many highly up-to-date American automobiles. Native drivers piloted Chevrolets, Fords and Dodges in the maze of buffalo carts. There was even a Filipino traffic cop, made necessary, doubtless, by this advent of the motor car.

Now nothing can touch western civilization, with its highly complicated and serviceable machinery, and remain unchanged. The automobile is something like a cake of yeast; drop it into any society and it produces a strange ferment. The Philippines, having reached the point where the back-country natives drive cars, will never be the same again.

This does not mean that the Filipino will, in five more years, be indistinguishable from the New Yorker. But it does mean that he is starting in that direction. He is beginning the same process of absorbing an alien culture that has struck a good many other people during the last dozen years. He is, in a strange sort of way, on the verge of becoming Americanized.

This may or may not be a good thing, from his viewpoint. It is quite possible that the Filipino would be happier if he continued to live as his fathers lived, and let automobiles and radios and moving pictures go by. But, for better or for worse, he won't. Destiny, apparently, has picked out America as the nation that shall influence all others for the next century or so. The Filipino can't help himself.

And the Filipino is only one among many. Everywhere, all over the world, Americanization is going on. Customs and habits centuries old are giving way to the influence of Detroit and New York. This may be for the best and it may not; that question is unimportant. It is happening, and there is no way to stop it. A new and sobering responsibility has been thrust upon us.

Still a Home-Towner

UP ON the Nova Scotia coast is a quiet little town that rejoices in the name of Pugwash.

From Pugwash, some years ago, a young man named Cyrus Eaton came to the United States to seek his fortune. He found it, in the steel business, and is now a multi-millionaire, with his home in Ohio.

Not long ago Eaton went back to Pugwash for a visit. He found the old town just about as it was when he was a boy—which means somewhat down at the heels. So he meditated, conferred with some of the town's leading citizens, and then wrote out a rather large check.

Now Pugwash is going to have a number of improvements. Main street will be paved and straightened. A little park will be established. A modern hotel will be built. Pugwash is going to be made over into an up-to-date community of the sort that will attract tourists. And Eaton is going to foot the bill.

This sort of thing isn't exactly uncommon among rich men. Who would not like to be able to go back to the old home town and take a few kinks out of it? No matter how far a man moves from the scenes of his boyhood, there always remains a tie that he cannot sever; a tie, not so much of affection as of relationship, woven into a man's being by old associations and bygone experiences.

No one ever quite outgrows his boyhood. If he was born and grew up in a rugged country of hills, rocky soil and barren farmlands, he will have traces of those things in his soul to the end of his days. The man from Texas can never be quite like the man from Vermont. The Dakotas and the Carolinas will always breed different types.

It's hardly to be wondered at, then, that a man who goes far afield and gains a fortune should want to return and "do something" for the home town. He may be moved to pave the main street, give the high school a gymnasium, erect a memorial statue in the public square or build an arty little theater; it doesn't really matter.

What he actually is doing is testifying that the scenes of his boyhood still grip him. He is proving, once again, the old truth that no man ever gets very far away from home, after all.

The Dangers of Sunburn

THE sun's rays possess health-giving qualities, and it is fine to expose one's body to them. Young children, in particular, need sunlight; shut off from it they cannot grow properly.

Yet it is possible to overdo the matter.

Get a coat of tan, by all means; but avoid sunburn. And if you have a child, make his "sun baths" rather short. A child's skin burns more easily than an adult's. If you expose his naked body to the sun too long the consequences may be tragic.

NEW COTTON CONTRACT POPULAR

Ninety-five per cent of the members attending the Farm Bureau Cotton association meeting here yesterday signed the new contract providing for the privilege of fixing the price at which each member's own cotton shall be sold.

Throughout other counties adjacent to this one, a similar reception is being given this new contract. In fact the representatives of members in this and neighboring counties were largely instrumental in having the new contract written.

AVIATION GROWING

You don't really appreciate the growing scope of the airplane in America until you look at cold figures about aviation.

A dispatch from Los Angeles reveals that more than $30,000,000 was voted for new airports in the United States during the past 18 months. Furthermore, there are more than 5100 airports now in commission or under construction.

Such figures make one realize the size of this new form of transportation and recreation. With money being invested on that scale, with developments being pushed forward at that rate, who can doubt that the next few years are going to see aviation become one of the foremost industries of the country?

CHAPTER XLVIII

Virginia was awake when the telephone rang. It might have rung at any hour of the night or early morning and she would still have been awake to answer the call.

She hobbled stiffly over to the instrument, stiff from her long-held, rigid position.

She took down the receiver and put it to her ear. She almost collapsed like an exploded balloon when she heard the voice of the man who had called her.

Mr. Leigh!

He was coming right over! Would she be down as soon as she could to see him? Virginia promised.

Conjectures were seething in her head like a whirlwind. Too many questions to put into the form of words.

In half an hour she was downstairs, held in the arms of a skinny giant and roundly kissed.

"Thought you could fool me, didn't you?" he teased her. "Just as if I never saw a wounded man or animal. Once I shot a doe. After that I stuck to tigers. They'd have been glad to do the same to me."

"What are you talking about?" Virginia exclaimed when she got her breath. "Oh, you don't know how glad I am you've come, that you're well enough to be here. I . . . I need a friend now," she added weakly and flew back into his arms to sob there.

Fortunately it was too early for anyone to be sharing the parlor with them, but Virginia did not even think of the possibility of witnesses to the scene.

"Let's sit down and confide in each other," he suggested, leading her to a davenport.

"I knew something was wrong," he went on when Virginia hesitated to begin her story; "so I cabled up here to a lawyer I know. You see, Virginia, I had troubles of my own when I heard of your father's passing on, so I didn't do what I should have done. I ought to have found out who was handling his estate and told them of Richard's interest in my sugar plantation."

Virginia squeezed his hand. "Father considered that only an expression of his gratitude to you for saving his life," she said.

"That's no reason why he should not benefit from it as I have. The sugar people have bought me out. I'd have let go before if I'd known that Richard left you penniless."

Virginia smiled sadly. "I hope you haven't sacrificed your plantation for my sake," she said. "You see I am going to marry a very rich man—tomorrow, I presume."

Leigh noticed her eyes expand with terror and a tremor pass through the hand that lay in his. Virginia had sought to speak calmly, dreading to have him know that nothing could make her happy. The poor thousands that he had sold his lands for were, like her own 12, useless to her now.

"Won't you tell me about it?" he urged tenderly. "I know that you're hiding something that's eating your heart out. If money can help you I've brought you your father's share of the sale, and you are welcome to mine, too. All together it would make a tidy sum if it were a poor man you'd rather be marrying."

He spoke with a little lessening of the warmth in his voice. The idea that Richard Brewster's girl could marry for money did not sit well on his mind. And it looked as if that were the case.

"Two young people ought to get along pretty well on $150,000," he added lamely.

Virginia was stunned. But only for an instant. Then she literally threw herself at him, grasping him by the shoulders and shaking him while tears of joy and excitement rained down her cheeks.

"Do you mean it? Do you mean it? Have you really got all that money? Really and truly?"

Oddly Leigh was shocked, and presently Virginia perceived that he must think she had gone out of her head. Then she told him the story—told it in detail, between spells of laughter and sobs.

"I'd like to have that man in Haiti," Leigh remarked anent Frederick Dean. "The sharks are especially fond of yellow dogs. It will be some satisfaction, though, in getting the money and ramming it down his neck."

But Virginia preferred to arrange it differently. "I don't trust him," she said. "Let's make him come to Mr. Gardiner's office and take it before witnesses. Then he can't deny that we paid it. A check will do."

And so it was. Gardiner sent for Frederick Dean. They called in Dr. Meyerling also. Virginia wanted him to be present because she surmised he might know something of what had passed between her father and Dean. He was her father's confessor, she remembered.

They were all gathered in Mr. Gardiner's sumptuous, private office when Dean arrived. He looked with curiosity and a touch of apprehension at the unsmiling group that greeted him.

"Is this a wedding party?" he asked, striding over to Virginia. Instead of answering Virginia handed him a certified check made out for $100,000, payable to her and signed by Mr. Leigh.

"Is this a joke?" he laughed.

There was a united gasp from Gardiner and Dr. Meyerling. Both had seen the check. They had been told that it was Richard Brewster's share of the sale of Leigh's plantation, but Virginia had resolutely refused to explain in advance her reason for wanting Dean there.

She had merely said that she wished to repay a debt he said her father owed him and that he was her father's enemy.

"Turn it over," she directed. "I've endorsed it. There is the price of your silence."

Only Mr. Leigh looked as if he knew he were not dreaming.

Dr. Meyerling glanced with alarm at Dean's face—it was dangerously red. "Steady, man," he cautioned.

"My dear Miss Brewster, as your lawyer I must object to this sort of mystery," Gardiner barked.

"I will explain it," Virginia replied, "because I know that you and Dr. Meyerling will believe as Mr. Leigh and I do."

She glanced defiantly at Frederick Dean. "This man claims my father cheated him out of $100,000 in a bootlegging affair," she said firmly and clearly. "I agreed to pay it back within a year or marry him. If I failed to do so he would denounce my father as a thief."

"Why not admit that I proved it to you?" Dean snarled, losing his poise altogether. "I still have your father's letter. I suspected something was up here so I brought it with me, also our agreement." He produced the documents from an inside pocket and threw them on the table.

Gardiner and Dr. Meyerling both reached for them. The latter got hold of the letter and glanced over it while Gardiner read the other document.

"Why, why," Dr. Meyerling thundered and threw the letter to the floor. "You dared to tell Richard Brewster's daughter that he cheated you on the strength of that letter? You! you!"

He hotered threateningly over Dean with upraised, shaking fists, and the latter cringed visibly before him.

"Such evidence!" the doctor stormed on. "I see your damned cleverness. When he wrote that letter Richard was trying to raise another fortune for you to rob him of as you had the first. I advised him against it. And you made his daughter believe it was a debt he was trying to repay . . . you miserable scoundrel!"

"Let me name him," Leigh interjected, moving forward. But Virginia clung to his arm. The world was too bright for slaughter.

"Richard discovered your cheating shortly before his death—it hurried him into it," Meyerling roared along.

"I'd have exposed you if I hadn't wanted to keep his name out of a scandal. But I never dreamed that you would try to blackmail his daughter into paying you money you had already robbed her father of."

He stopped to get his breath and gave Gardiner a chance to ask for the return of the check.

Dean returned it to Virginia without a word.

"Now, you'd better get out," the lawyer suggested. "And if I ever hear of you besmirching Brewster's name you will regret it."

"He's going to do plenty of regretting as it is," Dr. Meyerling announced. "I shall make it my duty to see that he is dropped from the clubs, for one thing."

"And I'll make it mine to see that you get the feel of a crack on the chin," Leigh informed the now thoroughly discountenanced Dean, who was slinking toward the door.

When he was gone Virginia turned to "Oddly" Leigh, handed him the check and then spent a hurried 10 minutes in clearing up everything that still puzzled the other two.

"I went on the Agena's cruise, hoping Mr. Leigh could help me, but his place looked so neglected"—she smiled at "Oddly"—"I thought it couldn't be worth anything. . . ."

"I know," he broke in. "When I got up I discovered how badly Rastus had kept house, but things weren't as neglected as they seemed. I'd been letting the house and grounds go to the devil for some time, but the fields were kept up pretty well. When you were there the boys were taking advantage of my illness and the overseer's absence to have a holiday."

"I'm glad for your sake," Virginia cried, "but I don't need the money now," she smiled gloriously. "Tear up the check, Oddly, old darling . . . here . . . give it to me!" A second later it fluttered to the floor in bits.

"But its yours," he expostulated. She shook her head. "I'm going to be the most successful thing in the whole world—a poor man's satisfactory wife!"

"Nonsense," Mr. Gardiner objected.

"I'll see that she gets Richard's share, or that her children do," Leigh appeased him.

"Now I can't waste another minute," Virginia cried. "Come along, Santa Claus." She dragged Leigh by the hand and despite his protests of his distastes for lovers' meetings carried him in a taxicab to Nathaniel's studio.

She ran up the steps, ignored the knocker and pounded on the door with both hands. Then she whirled upon Leigh as he lagged up the stairs.

"Hurry, hurry," she whispered. "When he opens the door you go in and tell him all you can in two minutes—that's as long as I can wait—but tell him enough so he won't give me frostbite when he finds I'm here."

She stepped back, out of sight, as Nathaniel opened the door to Leigh, who walked in and, much to Virginia's regret, took a good three minutes to impart the necessary information to her lover.

Then—the door was thrown open—Virginia found herself caught up in a mad, glad embrace and kissed to her heart's desire.

"Now what do you think?" she said when Nathaniel gave her a chance to speak.

"I think God's in His heaven," Nathaniel breathed fervently, "and that we'll go to Rome."

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE — (573) A Wall Cabinet

With three cigar boxes we can make a wall cabinet that will be useful for many purposes. Two of the boxes should be the same size, but the third will be pulled apart. Cut two strips from one of the boxes and make them into shelves for the other two, as shown above. This will give us a four-compartment cabinet.

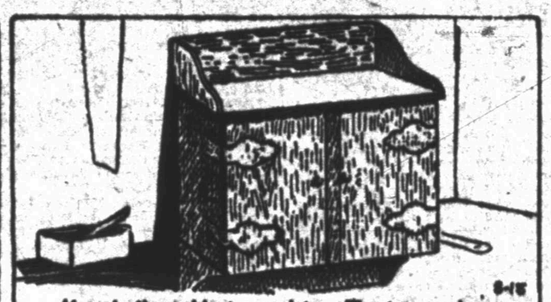

By NEA Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1928-28.

Hinges of linen or cotton cloth can be patterned in some ornamental shape and glued to the lids as the artist pictures here.

Pattern strips of wood for the bottom and top of the cabinet. These will add both to its strength and appearance.

Here is the cabinet complet". The two knobs are screw-knobs and are easily put in. A strip down the middle improves the fit of the doors, and adds to the appearance. Designs in stencil appropriately placed make the box into a very neat little receptacle for museum specimens, seeds, bottles or other possessions.

FRANK ERNEST NICHOLSON

By JANET GAYNOR

Janet Gaynor, who has been appearing in "Seventh Heaven," is now taking voice lessons in preparation for her next film, "Blossom Time," the operetta based on the life of Franz Schubert which will be produced in movietone. Looks like Janet is to become a star of note!

Talking pictures are a wonderful invention, and all that, but they take away all the pleasure of going to a movie. How can a guy get any sleep with the actors howling through five reels!

"What I would like to see, though, is a talking film starring Rin Tin Tin.

"The other day," Janet told me, "I went down to a pet shop with a friend who wished to purchase a dog.

"As we stepped into the door the proprietor asked what sort of a dog she wished, whereupon my companion replied:

"'Well, I want one of these dogs about so high and about so long. A sort of a greyhound but it isn't quite, because its tail is shorter and its head is bigger, and the legs aren't so long, and the body is thinner, and I want a sort of a yellowish one with brown spots. Do you keep that sort of a dog?'

"'No,' replied the man, 'I drown 'em.'"

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Mr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

Causes of Insanity

A great majority of those of unsound mind may be classed in the dementia praecox group. As in hysteria, one of the principal causes of this trouble must be considered the result of congestion within the pelvis, either the uterus or prostrate. Displacement of the abdominal organs and constipation are contributory causes to this congestion caused by functional inactivity and negative emotional desires. There is often a history of an unhappy love affair.

Every case of dementia praecox should be given a few days fruit fast, in order to assist in the blood cleansing processes and also to relieve pelvic pressure caused by a prolapsus of the stomach and intestines, since, when the prolapsed digestive organs are comparatively free from food, there is much less pressure upon the organs and nerve plexuses of the lower abdomen.

Many cases of mental instability, accompanied by illusions and hallucinations have been shown by psychoanalysis to be due to mental repressions and incoordinations of thought. Besides these mental complexes, there are some other causes of a distinctly material nature, such as brain irritation from poisons, traumatic injuries, surgical shocks, and venereal diseases.

The wasting of nervous energy has a very decided effect in contributing to the formation of these diseases. For example, eye strain may produce disorders in parts of the body seeming to have no direct connection with the organs of vision. Indigestion, constipation, general eye weakness, and mental irritability can be entirely caused by an eye strain which does not impart any pronounced indication in the region of the eyes.

That which is termed "nervousness" has its origin in some mental or physical irritation, aggravated by fatigue and general enervation, the symptoms coming from some weak spot in the nervous system. Actual disease and destruction of the nerve cells are very rare, and do not usually occur until the body becomes exceedingly toxic.

If you wish to overcome nervousness, you must understand the numerous causes producing it. If the reason lies in your eyestrain, see your optometrist. If you are eating indiscreetly, you must earnestly strive to correct your mistakes and substitute good habits for those you find to be bad. If you are overworking mentally, it will be necessary to cut down on the mental work, and substitute more physical exercise. If you are enervating yourself with destructive habits of thoughts, as of fear, criticism, jealousy, worry, or malice, you can immediately enjoy a miraculous change by tuning out these destructive thoughts and tuning in their constructive opposites—courage, tolerance, confidence, repose and love.

Exercises taken while lying on the back are very successful in strengthening the abdominal muscles and raising the prolapsed conditions. The relief from this unusual pressure and the elimination of body toxins will do a great deal to help cure any form of insanity provided it is not caused by structural changes in the brain.

The cause and cure of nervous troubles usually lie within yourself. Your physician can help you discover these causes, but you alone can make the requisite changes in order to bring about a wholesome condition.

Questions and Answers

Question: H. O. Y. writes: "Every time I turn my head to the left my neck snaps. What causes it? Also, my arms at the elbows, and my legs at the knees become numb and ache if I don't keep them perfectly straight when I sleep. Is it improper circulation, or my nerves?"

Answer: The neck-snapping is caused from some faulty position of the vertebrae or ligaments in your neck. This can probably be corrected by osteopathic or chiropractic treatments. The numbness of your elbows and knees may be caused by a mild form of rheumatism or by poor circulation due to insufficient exercise.

Question: B. J. asks: "Will you please tell me how to reduce the ankles?"

Answer: There is only one method I know of to reduce the ankles, and that is by exercise. Many twisting and bending exercises may be used, but walking is the best one of all, and will reduce the ankles as much as they can be reduced.

Question: Mrs. L. J. writes: "Have had an itch one one foot underneath and between the toes for about one and a half years. Can you suggest a cure for it? And what causes a pain in the left chest when taking a deep breath? This does not happen all the time—usually when I laugh a lot."

Answer: You may be able to cure the itch underneath your toes by bathing your feet frequently in warm water to which has been added a handful of Epsom salts. The feet should be bathed at least twice daily, carefully dried afterwards, and boric powder sprinkled in your stockings and between your toes. The pain in your chest could be caused by a misplaced rib, which is rather common, or from adhesions to the diaphragm. An osteopathic examination would determine the cause.

An important instance of the balance of nature is involved in the fact that most flowers are dependant for pollination on the visits of insects.

FITZGERALD'S HOMER HELPS SPUDDERS WIN 16TH STRAIGHT

MILT DEFEATS CATS, 7 TO 2

Fitz Clouts for Circuit With Three On Bases

By LARRY DAILEY.
Record News Sports Editor.

The Fort Worth Cats are now members of the I-have-helped-the Spudder-winning-streak club.

Mr. Jake Atz's men became eligible for that honor yesterday when they dropped the opener of a three-day stand out at our apple knocking orchard. It was the Spudders' sixteenth consecutive victory and enabled them to increase their lead to seven games over the Houston Buffs, who were sustaining another licking, this at the hands of the San Antonio Bears.

Jim Galloway's men won yesterday in the fifth inning when they scored five tallies. It was thanks partly to an error by Richardson, who until that game had played excellent ball at shortstop since Horace Kibbie packed kit and golf clubs and departed in anger, for some reason or other. For Mr. Richardson made a boot with two out and the bases filled that permitted a runner to score.

Then Howard Hits

Then up came Howard Fitzgerald, and he smote one of Denny Burns' hooks over the right-center wall, which according to the rules, enabled his three comrades to trot or walk, as they saw fit, homeward without the necessity of running, a great boon on such a humid day.

That was the margin of victory, and it WAS the victory, as the score was 7 to 2.

Milton Steengrafe gave up 10 hits, which LOOKS like a lot of hits. But when it was considered that Mr. Steengrafe bore down with much effectiveness when he had to, and when it further is considered that Mr. Steengrafe kept those knocks scattered to win his nineteenth game of the season, it will be seen that he chucked excellent baseball.

Except for that fifth round when he gave up three hits and a base on balls to aid the Spudder scoring, Burns also turned in a creditably hurled game, and had it not been for the aforementioned misplay by the unfortunate Richardson the score would have been a lot closer.

Spudders Bunch Hits

Burns held the Spudders to eight blows, but the champions made all but one of their knocks count in their run-getting, thereby continuing the extraordinary timely clouting that has marked this winning streak.

Fitzgerald and Jenkins got a brace of hits each, one of Tom's going for two bases, and Lamb, Stanton and Smith spanked a double apiece.

Joe Cobb, who wore Spudder regalia and in fact was traded to the cats for Doctor Smith, had a most enjoyable day at bat, banging three hits. Red Rollings, the new Fort Worth acquisition from the Boston Red Sox, whaled a pair of doubles.

Atzmen Start Scoring

The Cats scored a run in the first inning. Moore strolled and went to third on Rollings' double to right. Shinners rolled to Steengrafe with no advance. Riley struck out. Swenson threw wide on Bonowitz' grounder, Moore tallying. Richardson lifted to Fitzgerald.

Benton also started the Spudder half by walking but was forced by Turgeon, Richardson to Ramage. Rollings fumbled Fitzgerald's grounder. Lamb and Jenkins flied to Bonowitz.

Cobb opened the second with a hit but the next three Cats went out in order.

The Spudders tallied five runs after two were out. Smith doubled to left and went to third on Steengrafe's hit to the same territory. Benton walked, putting three on. Richardson booted Turgeon's grounder, Smith scoring. Fitzgerald hit over the right-center wall, his three comrades scampering home ahead of him.

Riley was passed after two were out and Steengrafe tossed out Bonowitz in the third.

Spudders Score Again

Jim's men scored in the third. Jenkins was safe on a high bounder to Burns. Swenson sacrificed, Burns to Riley. Stanton smashed the right field wall for two bases, Jenkins scoring. Smith lifted to Bonowitz and Stanton was doubled at second.

Cobb singled to Benton in the fourth but one was out and Ramage hit into a double play, started by Benton and completed by Pete and Buck.

Turgeon was safe on Richardson's error after two were out and speeded to third on Fitzgerald's single to right in a display of fast, heads-up base-running. Fitz was caught at second by Burns, starting a double steal.

Fort Worth went out one-two-three in the fifth.

Lamb and Jenkins whaled two-base knocks for a run.

Bonowitz strolled after two were out but Richardson fanned in the sixth.

The Spudders failed to get on base, Benton and Turgeon hoisting to Moore and Bonowitz and Turgeon to Ramage.

Cobb Gets Third Hit

Cobb got his third hit in the seventh but was out trying to stretch it to a double, Jenkins to Benton. Steengrafe and Benton threw out Ramage and Burns.

Burns retired the Spudders in order.

The Cats scored one in the eighth and filled the bases but Milt was equal to the occasion. Moore led off with a triple to center. Rollings was called out on strikes. Moore scored while Swenson was throwing out Shinners. Riley singled to right, Bonowitz hit sharply off Swenson's shoe and Richardson singled to right, putting three on. Cobb struck out.

The champions were set down in order.

Ramage was called out on strikes in the ninth. Bischoff batted for Burns and singled to left. Moore popped to Swenson. Rollings doubled to right, his second two-base drive, Bischoff stopping at third. Benton threw out Shinners.

New York and Boston Get Heavy Tourney Bouts

BOSTON, Aug. 14.(AP)—The heavyweight championship elimination bouts, which Tex Rickard will stage to select Gene Tunney's successor, will be divided between New York and Boston, it was announced today.

First of Boston's elimination bouts will be in November, when the Boston Madison Square Garden will open.

Hits in Time

Statistics show that one batter out of a thousand or so hits a home run with the bases filled. So oward Fitzgerald may be listed as "a man in the thousand". For the speedy center field smote one over the wall yesterday with three teammates reposing on all the bases (home is the plate, not a base) to give the Spudders the edge and eventually a 7 to 2 verdict over the Fort Worth Cats here.

Happ In Charge As Tarleton Goes Scouting

DALLAS, Aug. 14. (AP)—Happ Morse, second baseman, has been placed in temporary command of the Dallas Steers while Robert Tarleton, recently appointed manager, is away on a "good will" tour through the major leagues, it was announced today by Pres. Fred McJunkin of the local club.

Notes of the Game

Kiefer or Shores will oppose the Cats today in the second of the series.

Wachtel probably will be Jake's hill selection today.

Ralph Shinners, the hard-hitting Cat outfielder, has been sold to the Toronto club of the International league and left last night to join that team. "Fig" Newton, a youngster asquired with Ramage from the Arizona State league, will play outfield in place of Shinners.

A familiar face is missing among the Panthers. Joe Pate was sent to the Minneapolis Millers a few days ago to help that club's pennant fight.

Jakie Atz is out there fighting to win as if a flag depended upon ever game, instead of the fact that his club really is hustling to escape the cellar. But your Uncle Jake isn't discouraged and looks for a creditable finish this second half—and another contender next season.

Rabbit Benton played another corking game yesterday, handling six chances, some of them difficult, including the starting of a fast double play.

The Cats had a new infield from that of their last appearance here a couple months ago, with Richardson the only holdover, and he is moved from third to short.

Joe Bonowitz has been affected by the Cat slump but he still rates as one of the best outfielders in this loop of ours.

Harry Kane lost no time in telling Ramage, the Cat second baseman, a rookie, to get away from there when he argued a bit over a called third strike.

DAILY DOPE

By LARRY DAILEY

A MAN WRITES A LETTER, not for publication presumably, but which, for his benefit and for the benefit of any other skeptics, will be answered in this colyum, pronto. The man wants to know if it isn't funny that the Spudders are winning the second half pennant, and comes right out to say that it is "good business" for the Buffaloes NOT to win. Well, the skeptical and the cynical we always have with us, like the poor. Probably they are needed in the scheme of things. But when intimations are made, unfounded and entirely baseless, against the integrity of baseball, I'm going to take my Remington in hand and shoot some straight facts at those who would malign the game, or any sport, for that matter.

◆ ◆ ◆

Now I know that professional sports isn't ALWAYS on the up and up. I admit there was a scandal over a world series; that even today there probably are isolated instances of players not bearing down. I know that in some fights and some wrestling matches the best man doesn't always win. But I don't think professional sports, and I am writing of baseball in particular now, is any more "queer" than any other profession or business. I've been writing sports ten years and I believe I am qualified to know when a ball player isn't trying or a fighter is "pulling" his punches. If I thought professional sports wasn't on the level, I wouldn't write it. For I can make a good living writing about other honest things, politics for instance.

◆ ◆ ◆

JUST BECAUSE a politician is guilty of malfeasance in office I don't think all politics is crooked. Just because a banker defaults with the funds I don't keep my saving account, if any, hidden in my home. So back to the matter at hand, baseball in general and the Spudders and Buffaloes in particular. Baseball, compared to other professions and business, is as clean, if not cleaner, considering the temptations to its performers. And coming down to the matter of the Buffs not trying this second half: Anybody who knows baseball knows the Buffs were playing over their heads the first half. They know the Spudders were not themselves in that half, that illness and accidents had wrecked the club. And without competition from the Spudders the Buffs had no competition.

◆ ◆ ◆

Now, in this second half, the Buffs encountered opposition from other strengthened clubs. And the Spudders achieved the form that made them champions of the South last year. And the Buffs hit the inevitable slump. And what incentive would there be for the Buffs not to win the second half? The man who writes me a letter probably doesn't know that in the event of a playoff that the athletes will NOT share a dime. All the money in the playoff goes to the magnates, 90 per cent is split between the club owners and 10 per cent is handed the Texas league—So the Houston players will not gain a thing in a playoff; on the contrary, face the loss of participating in the Dixie series.

◆ ◆ ◆

AS CONCLUSIVE evidence on the honesty of baseball, your skeptic is asked to consider the world and Dixie series of 1927. The New York Yankees and the Wichita Falls Spudders won both those events in four straight games, to the loss of thousands of dollars to the clubs involved. If baseball were dishonest, it would have been a simple matter to have "thrown" a game or two in both those series, and reaped a rich financial gain. But baseball IS honest, as proved on innumerable occasions. This is NOT written as a defense for baseball. For no defense is needed. But it is merely to put the man who wrote me the letter in the right, and give him the opportunity to enjoy baseball as it is enjoyed by people with untainted minds.

◆ ◆ ◆

But perhaps you can't educate those poor, misguided skeptics.

City National Nine Defeats Security

City National bank baseball team yesterday won its fourth successive game of the season when they outslugged the Security National bank team, 17 to 11.

Jack Alexander had a perfect day at the bat with a single, double and a home run in three trips to the plate. Smith and Thurman also lined out round trip drives for the City National. Harlan Ray, Security Bank starting pitcher, hit a home run.

Duncan finished the game for Security National. Only five men faced him in one and two-thirds innings and three of them were strike-out victims. The other two hit easy ones to the infield. He went into the box in the fifth with one on, one out and five runs already over the plate.

Bob Mathis and Jelly Graves led the attack for the Security with two hits each. Randel and Smith poled three hits each for the winners.

TILDEN VICTOR IN EAST TENNIS

'Mystery Man' Easily Cops Two Matches

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 14. (US)—That mystery man of tennis, William T. Tilden II, appeared on the courts of the Westchester Biltmore Country club today and proceeded with the most amazing dispatch and proficiency to win two singles matches in the eastern turf title tourney.

By his appearance, Tilden squashed all reports that his purported entry was a sham. Revealing a game of high pressure power, the Davis cup mainstay waltzed through a 6-1, 6-1 win over J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange topnotcher, and then in the third round just as overwhelmingly finished C. R. Watkins of White Plains, 6-2, 6-1.

Other seeded competitors to advance to the round before the semifinals were Hunter, George Lott, John Doeg and Berkeley Bell, the fiery little Texan who emerged as the victor in the recent Southampton invitation encounters.

In the women's singles, two young ladies, who had been looked upon as future greats, were checked by couple of opponents of long experience and so convincingly as to occasion some astonishment.

Parelli Takes 3-Fall Match

An injury said to have been sustained in a match Monday night at Dallas prevented Jack Reynolds from meeting Joe Parelli last night at the ball park. Teddy Waters of Childress was substituted in the spectators' preference to a grappler sent here by Reynolds, in a three-fall match, with the first fall under Police Gazette rules and the second two under New York commission rules.

Waters scored the first fall in 19 minutes with a short arm sissors and reverse hammer lock.

Parelli took the second fall in 20 minutes with a cradle hold.

After being in a groggy condition after a series of head locks put on by Waters, Parelli threw his opponent to win the decisive fall after 19 minutes of wrestling with a body slam.

Joe Hooks of Stamford gave K. O. Shorty of New York his first defeat in the local arena with a knockout in the fifth round of a scheduled eight-round boxing exhibition.

Tommy Scott of Electra knocked out Kenneth Adams of Wichita Falls in the second round of a four-round boxing bout.

Victory By Roberti Over Risko Would Scramble Heavy Situation

And Runyon Opines Again That Roberto Has Excellent Chance to Surprise John Tonight

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 14. (US)—What a scrambling of the heavyweight eggs there will be if, per chance, Signor Roberto Roberti, the Tall Aspen of the Alps, leans a large right hand against the chin of Rubbery John Risko over in Ebbets field Wednesday night.

For some reason, Rubbery John is given the rail post position, as we say in the paddock, in the field of beefy beezarks entered for the astoundingly retired Mister Gene Tunney's former graft. I mean job. Rubbery John is put ahead of the terrible Sharkey man, Paolino and all the others, wherefore a cove who can clip Rubbery John is bound to be given plenty of consideration.

The sour science can produce no man who has gone farther on less gas in the way of ability than Rubbery John. He can't punch and he can't box. But he has made over $300,000 in the past two or three years, and he will probably make as much more before he hangs up the everlasts. And I'll tell you why.

He is one of the best "club fighters" that the heavyweight division has ever seen. That is to say, he gives the clients plenty of action. They know that any time Rubbery John bounces into a ring there will be a fight, because he makes the other fellow fight. Rubbery John starts bouncing at the opening bell, and he never lets up until the finish.

He is a one-style, one-punch fighter, swarming in on his opponent throwing left hooks. But the idea is he keeps swarming and keeps throwing. That style and that punch is better for the entertainment of the client than a varied style and a variety of punches exposed sparingly.

Risko Strong Favorite

Rubbery John will be a strong favorite over Signor Roberto Roberti. But don't think the Tall Aspen of the Alps is any chump in there for Rubbery John. The long Italian has plenty of fighting heart, and if he loses it isn't apt to be for not trying.

I like Signor Roberto Roberti for his earnestness of purpose when he is in the ring. He takes the business seriously. A greener, gawkier exponent of the sour science never lifted his dukes in public than Signor Roberto Roberti when he first landed here, but he has steadily improved in every battle. There is always hope for the improving kind.

Two years or so ago Rubbery John Risko was a blubbery, beefstew of a boy, whose only fighting asset seemed his ability to take it. Rubbery John was out-stumbled by a dozen geezers in different parts of the country, and many of our most astute experts made up their minds that he couldn't fight, and would never be able to fight. But Rubbery John is going right along grabbing plenty of those coconuts, as we speak of vulgar dollars at the club.

Signor Roberto Roberti likes to throw punches around loosely. Idleness in the ring irks him as much as it does Rubbery John. Therefore we ought to see quite a battle over there in the lee of Crow Hill tomorrow night.

By the way, an optimistic Italian writes me that the next heavyweight champion of the world will be an Italian, if only because Italy is due on the law of average. He doesn't specify Signor Roberto Roberti, however. Can it be that he has Johnny Lamanna's boy friend, Signor Nando Tassi, in mind?

U. S. Boxers Beaten

Oh, what a fall was that, my countrymen, that our noble young amateur boxers took over in Amsterdam!

Not one Olympic championship out of all that scramble! Not one!

I had a vague foreboding that something like this would happen when Tommy Lown got a licking from some stranger, because if Lown couldn't win, I saw little hope for the rest of the youthful exponents of the sour science that we shipped to Holland.

Lown was the class of the lot, in my opinion. He is a middleweight, and one of the best amateur boxers I ever saw. The rest of the American outfit may not have been up to the Olympic boxing teams of other years, but Lown compares with any man that ever wore our colors in these games.

It must have been a rare good amateur that whipped him. I doubt if there is an amateur in the United States within five or six pounds of Lown's weight that can hold his own with Tommy right now, so there is no use trying to alibi the defeat of our boxers on the ground that the team wasn't up to snuff.

The real reason is undoubtedly the improvement in the class of amateurs sent to the games from the other countries, rather than any deterioration in our own. In 1924 George Blake, the boxing instructor of the Los Angeles Athletic club, gave us our Olympic winners in Fidel Labarba and Jackie Fields, but it is possible that even a Labarba or a Fields couldn't have won this year.

Some of the boys are saying that if George Hoffman, the New York boy who held the national amateur heavyweight title, hadn't turned pro just before the Olympic team went to Amsterdam we would have grabbed that championship sure-pop. But in 1924 we couldn't dig up a heavy good enough to beat Otto Von Porat, and Von Porat's record as a professional would indicate that his victory was no fluke by any means.

Lown Classy Fighter

I haven't had the opportunity of digging up the dope on the representatives of other countries who won those Olympic titles this year, and I am wondering how their length of service in the amateurs compares with that of our boys.

The commercial lure of the professional game takes many of our amateurs out of the simon-pure ranks as soon as they develop any promise, whatever, and before some of them are properly seasoned. Some of the lads who went to Amsterdam were scarcely my idea of performers seasoned enough for competition of the kind they were bound to encounter.

But even while trying to build up that alibi, my thoughts hark back to Tommy Lown. He was certainly well seasoned. I don't know many professionals around here that can do anything to Lown in a short bout. To be sure, I didn't think some of the members of the Olympic boxing team compared with some of the boys left behind, but that's entirely a matter of opinion.

The best amateur boxer next to Lown that I have seen in a long time turned professional long before the Olympic team was mobilized. He is a little chap named Marty Goldman, a product of Willie Beecher's East New York gymnasium, and he is under the management of Abe Attell, former featherweight champion of the world.

Attell, in the opinion of every one that ever saw him in action, was one of the greatest fighters that ever lived. He has been schooling Goldman until the little fellow has a lot of the Attell style. He still lacks the finish, of course. He has won seven battles as a professional, and is becoming one of the stars of the younger school around New York. I am inclined to think that he has quite a future.

Belated Alibi For Mr. Heeney

One of Tom's Managers Says Gene Fouled

NEW YORK, Aug. 14. (US)—"I don't believe Tom Heeney said it, but it's the truth, whether he said it or not."

Such was the comment of John Mortimer, English manager of the beaten heavyweight challenger, on an interview in which Heeney is reported to have said he was fouled by Gene Tunney.

Printed in a London newspaper today, the squawk from the battered Briton attracted great interest in local boxing circles. Heeney's only statement to American newspaper men was that he had been beaten by a better man.

"Fight Like Gentlemen"

Mortimer revealed that Tunney had made one request of Heeney during a clinch in an early round. As the champion locked the struggling New Zealander, he whispered:

"Let's fight as gentlemen, Tom."

And Mortimer commented:

"Tom did fight as a gentleman, but whether Tunney did, only his own conscience can decide."

Mortimer heatedly declares that the movies of the bout prove that Heeney was fouled in the eighth round. He refers to the incident in which Heeney was blinded—Tunney says by a punch, Mortimer says by a poke. The irate manager went on:

"The movies show that the injury was suffered in a clinch. Tunney's back is to the camera, but there is no sign of any blow being struck. As they came out of that clinch, Tom is seen rubbing his eye."

Insult to Intelligence

"Tunney makes the ridiculous explanation that he uses a knuckle blow that is believed to have landed on the optic nerve. That is an insult to our intelligence. One of the commission doctors told me immediately after the fight that the injury was not caused by a blow.

"Tom was asked after the fight if he felt that Tunney had deliberately poked him with his thumb. He replied:

"No, no—it was an accident."

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 14. (AP)—Unsettled weather in the eastern belt, reports of increasing boll weevil infestation or damage, and relatively firm Liverpool cables appeared responsible for advances of $2.50 a bale in the cotton market today. December contracts sold up to 18.73, or 48 points above yesterday's closing quotation and 62 points above yesterday's low level. They closed at that figure. The general market closing firm at net advances of 45 to 50 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 12 to 21 points on the better tone reported in Liverpool and nervousness over the prospect of further rains in the eastern belt. The advance met extensive realizing, but otherwise selling seemed to be checked by the less favorable weather news. The market worked higher in early trading on covering or rebuying by recent sellers, but after showing net advances of about 30 to 35 points, demand tapered off, and prices eased in mid-day under realizing by recent buyers, probably combined with selling by those who had covered short contracts in anticipation of an upward reaction.

Prices eased back to about yesterday's closing quotations, but selling was much less active and aggressive than recently. This evidently made a rather favorable impression on sentiment, tending to indicate that the technical position had been improved by the recent decline, and the market firmed up again in later trading.

October advanced to 18.73 and January to 18.70, and closing prices were about the best of the day.

Private cables attributed the advance in the Liverpool market to covering and continental buying on reports of rains in eastern belt sections of the South, and a slightly better inquiry for cotton cloth from India and China.

Exports today, 3,223 bales, making 104,329 so far this season. Port receipts today, 5,882. U. S. port stocks, 495,986.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 14. (AP)—Covering and trade buying in an oversold market carried cotton prices up practically $2.50 a bale from an early decline today. There appeared to be no other influence behind the sharp recovery. December contracts sold from 17.74 to 18.27 and closed at 18.19, compared with 17.75 at yesterday's close. The general market closed steady at net gains of 44 to 46 points.

Liverpool cables were 6 to 11 penny points better than due, private advices attributing the strength of the English market to storm news and reports of rains in the eastern belt. The market here opened higher in sympathy, although prices eased off soon after the start on realizing. The setback met buying induced by private reports of considerable rain in the eastern belt. October advanced to 17.93 and December 18.03, or 28 points above the previous close.

When the detailed weather report was issued, however, it failed to substantiate the private advices of rain in the east and early buyers sold freely with a resultant sag in prices of 29 points.

After mid-session, trading became more active and considerable trade buying and covering developed base on the stronger technical position. Prices rallied to new highs for the day and scored gains approximating $2.50 a bale. October sold at 18.19, and December 18.27, or 52 to 54 points above the previous close. The recovery was not maintained to the end, however, the market closing 8 to 9 points under the best.

Flattened Money Rate Fails To Buoy Stocks On N. Y. Exchange

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 14. (US)—Stocks closed lower although money eased somewhat, today. Liquidation abated somewhat when the call rate dropped from the renewal of 7½ to 6½ per cent during the afternoon but professional pressure continued on the active industrials and offset activity of the few remaining bull leads. Money remained the one topic of interest with growing nervousness exhibited as to the reports of the reserve banks Thursday afternoon. General Motors remained the favorite target for bearish operations and lost close to 6 points for the session, while Montgomery-Ward dropped 5½, Steel 1 5-8 and other recent favorites a point or two. Chrysler was the one outstanding bull feature as it skyrocketed earlier in the day and held 2¾ points of its gain to the close. Rails and oils were quiet and fractionally lower.

Throughout the day the market gave the appearance of being one of the greatest "get-away" affairs witnessed in several months. Buy Chrysler was the word spread throughout the street and under cover of its strength and that of Famous Players and a few more there was steady liquidation in other parts of the list. Chrysler's advance influenced some highly important profit-taking also and only a part of the selling of General Motors was for short account. There are those who wanted an extra dividend on Motors at the last meeting and who did not get it so do not care to hold on for the November meeting. Another important factor working to irregularity was that there no longer is the unit operation among the "Big Ten" that influenced advances six months ago. It apparently is every man for himself now and they one and all fear money conditions.

Hudson made a new low for the year although some of the important ones liquidating in Motors tried to support it at intervals. Some of the Chrysler enthusiasm was caused by special wire of a leading firm estimating that a million dollars a month would be saved in operation of Dodge Brothers immediately. Other motors stocks were comparatively quiet but unsteady. Electric Auto Lite sold off also as it was reported that the income statement to be issued today would not show the $5 a share heretofore expected due to write-offs, etc.

Loft was another to register a new high early. Conferences held it is understood, look to merger with an important grocery chain which would distribute Loft output.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (US)—Reports of frost in parts of Canada and substantial price advances at Liverpool and Winnipeg caused aggressive short covering in the local wheat pit today and prices for the futures advanced readily. At the close wheat was 2⅜@2⅝c higher.

Corn closed ⅝@⅞c up, with strength mainly due to firmness in wheat and continued dry weather in the West. Oats were unchanged to ⅛c lower and rye followed the advance in wheat, finishing 2@2½c higher.

Liverpool closed 2⅜@3⅛d higher, and Buenos Aires was 1⅝c higher at mid-day. Winnipeg futures advanced steadily throughout the session and finished 3@3⅝c higher.

Following the heavy selling of wheat the past few weeks which has been carrying prices down at the rate of about 6c per week, the market was in a position to respond quickly to any bullish news. Up to this time all crop advices have been of the most favorable nature and were responsible for most of the liquidation and short selling.

There were reports today that frost had visited some sections of Alberta, while no damage was reported, the forecast is for cooler weather in that country, which led to the assumption that damage might easily be forthcoming. Strength at Liverpool and Winnipeg served to confirm this as a general feeling throughout the trade.

The cash wheat market was firm with the futures. The basis was unchanged and firm on top grades and easier on the off varieties, with prices steady to 2c higher. Local shipping sales totaled 9,000 bushels, and sales of 100,000 bushels to go to store were made. Some 75,000 bushels was booked to arrive.

There was nothing eventful in the corn market. Trade was only fair and of a mixed character. Further reports of dry weather created a little demand, but most of the small advances in prices were attributed to sympathy with the upturn in wheat.

Cash demand for corn was just fair, with feeders the best buyers. Local shipping sales totaled 32,000 bushels, with the basis ⅛c higher to ⅛c lower. Prices steady to 2c up.

FIVE LOCATIONS AT SANTA ANNA

New Production Followed By More Drilling

COLEMAN, Texas, Aug. 14.—Five new locations and operations started during the latter part of last week, followed the development of new production in the Santa Anna and Overall areas with the Continental Oil company and associates leading with two new operations.

Moving south of the No. 1 Matthews, which was drilled into the regular Santa Anna sand last week, the Humphries Brothers and Union Oil company have spudded their No. 2 Matthews, 300 feet south of the No. 1 producer and 2,190 feet from the south line and 150 feet from the west line of the C. Paquett survey No. 42.

The Continental Oil company and the Atlantic Production company have spudded their No. 1 M. T. Overall, 481 feet from the south line and 500 feet from the west line of the J. H. Barclar survey No. 700 and were reported drilling below 350 feet early this week.

On the J. M. Hinds tract, the Continental oil company and others have made the location for the No. 1 well, 1100 feet from the south line and 3475 feet from the east line of section 9, block 1, G. H. & H. survey.

White-Simpson and Pinkerton's No. 1 J. E. McClure, 673 feet from the south line and 1493 feet from the east line of the farm in the Wharton county school lands No. 496 is a location and will likely be started during the week.

S. B. Owens No. 1 W. C. Henderson, 5100 feet from the south line and 2600 feet from the west line of the Asa Wickson survey, No. 168, is a location in the west of Burkett territory.

New Producers Boost Seminole

TULSA, Aug. 14.—The sharp increase in daily output of the Seminole field Sunday and Monday after production had declined to 238,520 barrels on Saturday, was due to the drilling in of some 15 wells in the Little River pool, under the interpretation of the Seminole umpire and advisory committee.

The three days production report follows:

Canadian Liquor System, Through 'Modification,' Quells Bootleggers

New Method of Dealing With Drink 'Makes for Temperance' and Yields Bountiful Revenue, Survey Reveals

Editor's Note—The United Press begins herewith a series of three articles dealing with the liquor commission system of Quebec province. The writer of these articles, Carl D. Groat, is Washington bureau manager of the United Press. The United Press presents the views of the Quebec liquor commission and the prime minister of Quebec, L. A. Taschereau, and also of the Rev. E. I. Hart of the Quebec league against alcohol, sometimes called the "Wayne Wheeler of Canada." The United Press assumes no responsibility for the views presented on either side of the question, and seeks only to present, in news form, the results of its inquiries in Montreal and Quebec City.

By CARL D. GROAT

MONTREAL, Aug. 14. (UP)—The Quebec liquor commission system of dealing with the drink problem "makes for temperance," according to R. Kane of the commission.

He told the United Press in an exclusive interview today that this comparatively new system of handling the liquor question is proving successful, both from a moral and financial standpoint, though he said opponents thereof are issuing statistics seeking to prove the opposite.

"I believe I can say that this system has made for temperance," Kane declared. "We have a deliberate policy of promoting the sale of light wines and beer, and we would be pleased to see only such sold in the province.

Tired of Bootleggers

"We now have in the province of Quebec only one 'dry' county—Compton. Brome county recently came out of the dry column because it was tired of dealing with the bootlegging problem. Out of 3,400 votes cast in the referendum, 2,700 favored adoption of the commission system. That county adopted the commission system because it was tired of the bootlegger."

The Quebec liquor commission system, as explained by Kane, is in brief as follows:

A commission governs the distribution and sale of liquor. Through a group of 96 liquor stores, citizens of Quebec province and visitors can buy wine, whiskey and other drinkables at reasonable prices. In addition, licenses are granted to "tavernes" to sell beer by the glass or bottle at tables; and to restaurants and hotels to sell beer and wine.

To promote the sale of wines especially, the commission has placed particularly low prices on good wine, including the products of French vineyards which are bought through Paris. A customer may buy one bottle of "hard liquor" at a commission store daily and if he chooses he may make a tour of them to collect additional packages.

Whiskey averages $5 a quart whereas popular brands of wine may be had as low as 20 cents a pint bottle. The commission, doing a business of about $22,000,000 a year, makes about $5,000,000 profit which is turned into the provincial treasury, according to Kane.

"Frankly, we have our bootlegger problem along with this system," Kane said, "but it is not a tremendous problem. There are some people who will buy of a bootlegger because they can put in a supply of more than one bottle at a time, but this is not a particularly prevalent system.

"I recall a case where a man was buying liquor from a ship steward. He was fined $1,000, and his car was ordered confiscated when he was caught by one of our agents. The punishment in such cases proves salutary."

Liquor no 'Novelty'

Kane admitted that there was, perhaps, under the bottle system, a tendency to consume rather more at a sitting than might have been the case under the license system, but as he said that a bottle of liquor is not such a novelty that it provokes a "party" where everybody drinks until the supply is exhausted.

Kane presented the 1927 commission report to indicate the situation as to drunkenness and crime.

In 1920, before the outset of the commission experiment, there were in Quebec province 11,863 arrests for drunkenness but this figure dwindled until in 1926, the total was 5,364.

Gasoline Mart Strong With Hike in Sight

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 14.—Mid-Continent refiners report the gasoline market very strong at 9¾ cents flat for U. S. motor grade, and possibilities of 10 cents on this grade before the week is over.

Higher gravities are also scarce and exporters are finding it impossible to fill their requirements in the province.

Burning oils are moving, the kerosenes being unusually strong and scarce at 6 cents flat for 41-43 grade and 6½ to 6¾ cents for the 42-44 grade.

Natural gasolines are also stronger, and where they were flat at 10¼ cents Saturday, Monday found the five grades quoted as high as 10¾ cents, with the 11-cent mark looming. Minimum price was stated at 10½ to 10¾ cents.

RECORDS MAY END MYSTERY

Woman's Claims as Czar's Daughter Believed Solved

By ALFRED P. RECK

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14. (UP)—Dr. Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., vice president of Georgetown university and a noted historian, believes he has in his possession a documentary solution to the Grand Duchess Anastasia controversy.

Whether it will uphold the woman now in this country under the protection of William B. Leeds Jr. as a true daughter of the late Czar Nicholas of Russia or brand her as an imposter, Dr. Walsh refuses to speculate.

He is certain the mass of documents and records, which he recently brought to this country from Europe, will settle—at least in his own mind—whether or not the grand duchess escaped from the massacre of the imperial Russian family 10 years ago.

For the past seven years the Jesuit priest has been conducting a historian's investigation into the facts surrounding the deaths of Czar Nicholas and his immediate family. His studies have carried him to Russia, Germany, Belgium, France, Austria, Switzerland, England and Italy.

Collects Evidence

He has collected volumes of evidence on both sides of the controversy, including European police records and sworn statements from those interested in the mysterious young woman claiming to be the grand duchess.

Dr. Walsh recently published a history of the Russian revolution in which he stated that no member of the imperial family escaped from the firing squad on July 16, 1918, in the basement of a house at Ekaterinburg.

Facts for this history were gathered before the young woman made claims of being a daughter of the late czar. Dr. Walsh is preparing a revised history of modern Russia and the claims of the mysterious woman led him to believe he might have to change his version of the massacre. Consequently he spent the past three months in Europe collecting information as to the possibility of the grand duchess escaping the fate of the rest of her family.

Withholds Findings

"I am starting to study all of the details on both sides of the controversy," Dr. Walsh said. "My findings will not be made until I have weighed all statements carefully.

"When I read Berlin police records, which claim to have traced the alleged grand duchess from a Polish village about nine hours from Berlin, the daughter of a poor villager, I am convinced the woman is a fraud.

"After talking to former playmates of the grand duchess, men and women who have talked to the present claimant, I am convinced the grand duchess still lives.

"The woman bears the marks of the firing squad—bullet scars and a scar left apparently by the butt of a rifle. Whether she escaped, as she claims, by the aid of a soldier while the bodies of the imperial family were being carted to a spot 12 miles from Ekaterinburg, I do not know.

Amazing Case

"The facts from the time of the alleged escape to her appearance in Berlin are hazy.

"If the woman is really the grand duchess, her story is one of the most amazing human documents. If she is a Polish girl, as those who deny her story claim, then she is a party to one of the cleverest frauds ever perpetrated.

"I believe the documents I have will reveal the truth."

One Known Dead in Pottery Plant Blast

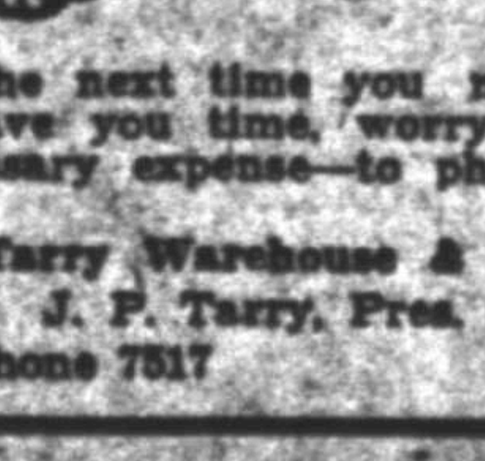

HAMMOND, Ind., Aug. 14. (AP)—One man was known to have perished in an explosion which wrecked the plant of the Indiana Sanitary Pottery company here today and police said possibly two or three others may have been killed.

The explosion was followed immediately by fire and police began an investigation on the theory the plant was blown up by plotters. The plant was closed down Saturday following a dispute between its operators and employes.

COLEMAN TRIO DUE IN SAND

Three Completions Likely This Week

COLEMAN, Texas, Aug. 14.—As the week opened it appeared likely that three wells within the county will be due for completion before Saturday in Coleman county, the high gravity oil center of West Texas.

In the Overall area, two companies, the Continental and others and the Texas company both had wells on the M. T. Overall and Sealy & Smith property that will likely reach the expected sand within seven days. The Texas company's No. 1 Sealy & Smith, 200 feet from the east and south lines of that company's lease in section 13, G. H. & H. survey, which is a north offset to the Continental and others No. 1 Sealy & Smith expects to top the regular sand around 1,615 feet while the Continental No. 7 Overall, nearly one mile east of the Texas company well should reach the gas said producing in No. 6 Overall around 2,180 feet.

The Mid-Sun Oil company is still fishing for five joints of five-inch pipe left in the hole when the string of casing was dropped 300 feet last week in the No. 1 Overall in the northwest corner of section 10, G. H. & H. survey. The Fry sand topped at 2,222 feet is reported to have sprayed oil and gas and is still showing for production.

Showing both gas and oil from the top of sand at 2,120-21 feet, the Walter Gray No. 1 J. E. Heffner, located in the northwest corner of that 100-acre tract in the A. Quigley survey No. 739, midway between the Continental-Cheney No. 1 Gardner and the Roth & Faurot production on the Will Stevens farm, was attracting interest.

Pensioned Rail Engineer Finds Hours Too Long Now

MARSHALL, Texas, Aug. 14. (AP)—L. H. Gray was a T.-P. engineer for 40 years. Then he was retired on a pension of $130 a month with nothing to do but sit on his front porch.

He got hospital service free and passes anywhere he might want to go. But when somebody asked him how he liked it, he said:

"The pay is good. The job is fine—but the hours are too darned long."

AVIATOR PLANS DOUBLE HOP

Pilot to Fly to London and Return

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14. (US)—One of the most ambitious flights yet projected—from Trepassy bay to London and return—will be attempted by Harry Lyon, navigator of the Southern Cross, next May, he announced here today.

Lyon, who established himself as a premier navigator by guiding the Southern Cross from California to Australia last spring, came to Washington to see his father, who is ill in a hospital here. He is accompanied by Capt. William Newton Lancaster, Irish aviator, who will be the pilot of the attempted round-trip flight, and by Mrs. Keith Miller, an English woman, who will be a passenger. Captain Lancaster and Mrs. Miller recently made a flight from London to Australia.

Neither Captain Lyon nor Captain Lancaster would disclose the identity of the backer of the flight. The backer himself will make a formal announcement in the near future, it was indicated.

HERB TO TELL OF FARM PLAN

Homecoming Speech to Be More Specific

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14. (UP)—Herbert Hoover is to make a complete and detailed amplification of his farm relief program in a speech he finished today for delivery Aug. 21 at West Branch, Iowa.

The Republican nominee will lay down in that document the specific recommendations for legislation which he will make to congress to remedy the agricultural situation if he is elected president. He will tell of changes he will suggest in tariff regulation to give the farmer equality with industry under that law. He will map out his program for development of inland waterways to furnish cheap freight rates, and he will make known his plan for reorganizing the cooperative marketing system along economical lines.

The tariff recommendations will be designed to give the farmer complete protection from outside competition—against wheat importations from Canada, corn and hide importation from South America, onions and diversified products from other countries.

The inland waterways program will be framed to encourage legislation already passed by congress, together with recommendation for early alteration of a feasible outlet from the great lakes to the Atlantic ocean.

The cooperative marketing reorganization, Hoover believes, should be undertaken along lines laid down in the party platform which endorsed the Jardine scheme for federal aid to cooperative organizations.

The speech will be delivered to mid-western farmers and Republican leaders who are to assemble at his Iowa birthplace to celebrate his homecoming. The nominee is expected to arrive at West Branch, the morning of Aug. 21, where he and Mrs. Hoover, and his son will breakfast in the house where he was born. The speech will be delivered in the afternoon.

Memorial for Pioneer Cattlemen Is Sought

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 14. (AP)—A lasting record of the achievements of the pioneer cattlemen of Texas, who, struggling against natural handicaps, amassed fortunes in lands and herds, is proposed by Texas A. and M. college in a request to the 41st legislature for a $350,000 livestock memorial building.

In the rotunda of the building, as explained by college officials, would be placed bronze busts of the most prominent livestock men of the state, with a short life history hung under each bust.

On the walls would be paintings of typical livestock scenes. Outside, on the left of the entrance, would be a bronze statue of a Longhorn steer with the inscription, "The Past." To the right would be another statue, "The Present," a beef of the modern type. A large statue of a typical Texas cowboy also would be placed in the grounds. The building also is sought to house the animal and dairy husbandry departments of the college.

COURT DELAYS AUTO DECISION

Boyle and Valley Club Allowed Parley

James Boyle and the Wichita Valley Auto club were given 10 days to adjust grievances by Judge P. A. Martin Tuesday morning. Mr. Boyle, former secretary of the club, has filed application that the club be placed in receivership, alleged that liabilities of the concern exceed $3,000, while assets amount to less than $1,000.

Mr. Boyle also charges that the automobile association owes him $850 on back salary.

W. S. Langford, president of the association, said Tuesday that Mr. Boyle had been released as secretary of the club. A new man is expected to be appointed in the near future.

Wichitans Added To Baylor Drive

WACO, Texas, Aug. 14.—Three additional men from Wichita Falls have been appointed to berths on the state speakers' bureau for the Greater Baylor university campaign to raise $2,000,000 in the state at large. W. H. Townsend, 400 Lamar street, recently accepted such appointment.

Ralph Pittman, now an attorney in Wichita Falls, formerly outstanding all-round athlete and football captain of Baylor university, will speak during September and October in the interest of the campaign.

Rev. O. L. Powers, Wichita Falls pastor, has accepted the same appointment and will speak preceding the popular campaign from Nov. 16 to Nov. 23. Although he will be out of Texas part of September, he will conduct a special speaking tour later.

C. P. Mosley will speak part of the time during the two months when the campaign is really under way. His acceptance was received at the state office this week. All three men have reputations of being outstanding orators of their community.

Texas is divided into 18 districts, Wichita Falls being a part of district 14 embracing a section of North Texas, and chairman for each district is being selected.

Today { At the Theaters

OLYMPIC: Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall in "Ladies' Night in a Turkish Bath." Comedy. Serial. Fox newsreel.

MISSION: Lois Wilson in "Coney Island." Comedy.

MAJESTIC: Phil Coleman, basso. On the screen, Mary Brian, Jack Luden, Baclanova, William Powell and Olive Brook in "Forgotten Faces." Comedy. Paramount news.

STRAND: Richard Dix in "Warming Up." Paramount's first talks. Two vitaphone shorts. Pathe news.

◇ ◇ ◇

Next week we won't see much of Hans Smith, manager of the Majestic theater, as he has announced he is going to follow in the footsteps of his namesake "Al" and enjoy a short vacation before stepping into the fall grind of work.

◇ ◇ ◇

A week from Friday will be the first opportunity for Wichita Falls to view the first all-talker motion picture. It is "The Lights of New York," and is now running on Broadway.

◇ ◇ ◇

This notable film has no subtitles, according to the announcements, and is the first ever to be released. The fact we will enjoy it here while it is still something new to the moths of the great white way, is just more emphasis that Wichita Falls is being well treated in the way of shows while they are NEW.

◇ ◇ ◇

Revolutionary advances in the mechanics of motion pictures promise to make the coming theatrical season the most interesting of all since the first advent of the movies. Sound and color have made greater advances in the past year than any other department or part of the movies.

◇ ◇ ◇

Mr. Eastman, of course, has the most marvelous of all laboratories, and probably is doing the greatest of all work in developing color films. When the day comes that we will see all pictures in their natural colorings, the advance will be hailed and acclaimed throughout the world. Today's color films are undoubtedly marvels when compared to those of yesterday, but there is much yet to come.

◇ ◇ ◇

Natural sounds, natural colors—added to the actions we now have the advantage of seeing in all films will remake the pictures, and make them vastly more interesting.

◇ ◇ ◇

"State Street Sadie," with Conrad Nagel and Myrna Loy, a vitaphone picture in which a clever girl solves a murder mystery, opens at the Strand Friday.

◇ ◇ ◇

"Forgotten Faces," starring Mary Brian and Jack Luden, son of the cough drop king, is opening at the Majestic theater Wednesday.

◇ ◇ ◇

Al Jolson will be back Tuesday for a special return engagement of "The Jazz Singer" at the Strand. This is the marvel of the vitaphone pictures.

15 Wichitans Hold Insurance Of $100,000 or More, Report Shows

At least 251 Texans have their life insured for $100,000 or more, and 15 of these live in Wichita Falls, according to a survey recently completed by W. A. Callaway, editor of the Southland Life publications. The list, which is published annually, shows that these 251 individauls have a total of $58,367,953 protection on their lives.

The list of Wichita Falls men included is headed by W. B. Hamilton, who leads with total insurance of $704,260. Next comes Joe J. Perkins, with $505,000; Roy B. Jones with $330,000, and N. R. Chenault, with $326,000.

Others here whose insurance amounts to over $100,000, or more, according to the survey, include: L. H. Cullum, $271,000; Lon P. Hammond, $267,000; R. O. Harvey, $175,000; J. A. Kemp, $155,585; W. S. Langford, $190,000; Thornton Lomax Jr., $110,000; N. H. Martin, $250,000; J. C. Mytinger, $263,000; John O'Neil, $100,000; W. M. Priddy, $185,000; Charles W. Snider, $216,235 and Robert M. Waggoner $200,000.

It was impossible, Mr. Callaway said in the survey, to procure all the names of those who have a rightful place in this list of Texas men and women whose lives are insured for $100,000 or more.

A Houston man, J. M. West, leads the entire list with $1,453,500 insurance on his life. Chester L. Jones, of Dallas, with $1,250,000 is second, and Clarence E. Linz, also of Dallas, is third with $1,036,000.

Other names in the list of the first 10 are: Jesse H. Jones, Houston, $1,025,000; E. A. Landreth, Fort Worth, $980,000; Karl Hoblitzelle, Dallas, $890,000; H. H. Rogers, San Antonio, $850,000; F. F. Florence, Dallas, $750,000; Thomas G. Shaw, Fort Worth, $735,000; and Harry L. Seay, Dallas, $732,000.

Two women, Mrs. Georgia Scott Townsend of Fort Worth, with $100,000, and Mrs. Eula L. Phillips of Greenville with $115,000, appear on the list.

COUNTY PLANS NEW PRECINCTS

Six Boxes May be Added For Voters

Five new precinct voting places in Wichita Falls were bounded Tuesday by Jonas M. Isbell, county engineer, in accordance with instructions for a redivision of voting precincts issued by the county commissioners Monday. A sixth additional box probably will be created at Burkburnett. Under the redivision as made by Mr. Isbell, the box at Allendale is eliminated. Residents of that community, if the plans as devised by Mr. Isbell become effective, must vote at Crockett school.

The boundaries and voting places of the new precincts, tentatively defined by Mr. Isbell, must be approved by the county commissioners next Monday before the changes become effective, it was pointed out.

If the tentative redivision as drawn up by Mr. Isbell is approved by the county commissioners Monday, present precincts affected by the change will be Nos. 2, 13, 17, 19, 23, 24 and 25.

Some question as to the feasibility of eliminating the Allendale box was raised by M. A. Bundy, county commissioner, who pointed out that those in the newly defined precinct 25 fartheast from Crockett school would be some distance from their polling place. There was some possibility that an additional precinct might be created to care for those who heretofore have voted at the Allendale school.

A new division of precincts at Burkburnett proposed by the commissioners would create an additional voting place there, but details of this plan had not been worked out Tuesday.

Under the proposed plan, box two would be divided, forming voting precincts 2 and 40, with voting places at Travis and Bowie schools, respectively. Box 13 would be broken into three voting precincts, 13, 41, and 42, with polling places at Fannin school, Huey school, and City View school. Box 17 would become box 17 and 43, with voting places at Carrigan school and Ben Franklin school; while boxes 19 and 44 would be formed from 19, with polling points at Junior college and Giddings street fire station. Parts of voting precincts 23 and 24 also would be included in the new precincts.

The birth rate in France is on the increase. It was 197,229 for the first three months of this year, compared with 189,575 for the first quarter of 1927.

Knickerbocker Leave Not Permanent, He Says

The Record News has been asked to publish the following item from the Dallas News:

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 10.—In The Dallas News of Aug. 7 is an item of news dated Little Rock, stating that Dr. H. D. Knickerbocker had been relieved of his pastoral charge and granted an indefinite vacation on account of an attack made on Governor Smith. Knowing you as I do, I am sure you will see that this false statement is corrected. It has no foundation in fact. Dr. Knickerbocker is still the pastor of the First Methodist church of this city. No one has asked his resignation. The six weeks' vacation was granted Dr. Knickerbocker by his official board on July 9. The criticism of Governor Smith was made on July 16 after the vacation had been granted. The vacation had no connection with the attack on Governor Smith. Dr. Knickerbocker will return to his pulpit the middle of September. Yours for the truth and fair play.

H. A. BOAZ,
Bishop in Charge.

12 Absentee Votes In Bond Election

Requests for absentee voters' ballots have been received from 12 persons, it was revealed Tuesday by W. E. McBroom, city clerk, in speaking of the $250,000 bond issue on which the city will vote Aug. 28.

Most of the ballots are for vacationers in Colorado, he said.

the charm of a clear skin

S.S.S.

You cannot be attractive without a clear skin

EVERYBODY wants to be attractive. It is a great and just ambition. But no one can be attractive without a clear skin—you know that.

Do you realize the importance of pure, rich blood in preserving the health, and that the source of most skin disorders is in the blood?

Remove the cause, which is not in the skin itself, and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.?

S.S.S. is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs, and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

When your system is filled with rich, red blood, you don't have that tired, languid feeling when you awake in the morning. Instead, you feel refreshed, ready to meet the world.

Your appetite is keen—you enjoy work or play—your skin is clear, cheeks naturally rosy.

All this because rich, red blood builds and sustains the body.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"S.S.S. cleared my skin of pimples and blackheads. I think it's most wonderful blood medicine. Several of my friends are taking it for the same reason I did."
Miss Margaret Frye

All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Get the larger size. It is more economical.
