Let there be lights

Vernon Shock substitutes marshmallows for chestnuts to roast over an open fire in the Downtown Park Friday night while Midlanders warm their hands near the blaze. The marshmallows were handed out after the lights on the city Christmas tree had been switched on by Mayor Thane Akins and Santa Claus had arrived on a fire truck to begin the city's Christmas season.

Joblessness lowest rate in two years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment fell to 8.4 percent in November, the lowest rate in two years, as 743,000 Americans found work and swelled the overall job force to a record 102.7 million. The White House called that report "the best Christmas gift this country can receive."

The new civilian jobless rate, down 0.4 from October's 8.8 percent unemployment, was far below the fourth-quarter estimate which had been projected by the Reagan administration last July.

That assessment predicted unemployment would average 9.6 percent in the last quarter this year, and dip no lower than 8.6 percent a year from now.

But the seasonally adjusted civilian rate for November came in at 8.4 percent, and total unemployment fell from more than 9.9 million to about 9.4 million.

Martin S. Feldstein, chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers, said the unemployment report "is really quite remarkable. It is a dramatic drop, two months in a row. Today's news is more indication of a strong economy."

Robert Ortner, the Commerce Department's chief economist, said the three economic reports Friday were good news. "The only one who possibly doesn't like them is Fritz Mondale," he said, referring to Walter F. Mondale, regarded as the front-runner for the 1984 Democratic presidential nomination.

Since the civilian unemployment rate hit a post-Depression peak of 10.8 percent last December, with more than 12 million out of work, some 3.6 million people have found jobs, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The November rate was the lowest since the 8.3 percent recorded in November 1981. The total number of Americans with jobs last month reached 102,671,000, beating the previous high of 101,945,000 registered in September.

An alternate unemployment measurement, which includes the 1.7 million members of the armed forces stationed in the United States, dropped from 8.7 percent to 8.2 percent last month, the report said.

It was the eleventh consecutive month in which national joblessness has either declined or held steady.

Economists both in and out of government were surprised by the second consecutive monthly decline. Joblessness fell from 9.3 percent in September to to 8.8 percent in October.

The improvement last month was shared by virtually all population groups within the labor force. Joblessness among adult men and adult women posted sharp declines, and unemployment among blacks and teen-agers receded significantly.

Shareholders to determine future of Gulf Oil Corp.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gulf Oil Corp. Chairman James E. Lee and oilman T. Boone Pickens Jr. squared off before Gulf shareholders Friday and began a long wait for proxy results that will help determine the future of the nation's fifth-largest oil company.

A two-hour special stockholders meeting drew about 3,000 of the firm's estimated 300,000 shareholders to discuss management's plan to reincorporate Gulf in Delaware, a move that would stymie Pickens' plan to create a royalty trust at Gulf.

Lee appealed for the majority of Gulf's 165 million outstanding shares to be voted with the management. Many of the shares already had been voted by mail and telephone while a relative few were cast at the meeting.

Lee has accused Pickens, who leads a group controlling 12.5 percent of Gulf's stock, of seeking a quick profit in moves to change Gulf's structure through a royalty trust. But he paid grudging respect to the Texan's effort to boost Gulf stock well above its current $44.50 per share value.

"We're not depending on this to get us up off our duff and get us out working for the shareholder, but obviously it's having some impact," Lee said.

"If there's anybody out there in this company...who didn't believe me that our job as management is to increase shareholder value...I guarantee you they understand it now. I would certainly think there would be some good fallout from it," Lee said.

Meanwhile, Pickens, chairman of Mesa Petroleum Co. of Amarillo said he could claim victory in the bitter campaign even if management won authority to move the company charter out of Pennsylvania.

"Win or lose, I believe we've achieved an important purpose in this campaign. We've gotten the message across...that the value of Gulf shares can be enhanced significantly and positive steps must be taken to make this happen," Pickens said.

Pickens says he has raised the value of shares in Mesa by paying oil and gas royalties directly to shareholders.

The paper proxies were to be delivered to a Delaware firm and counted by hand and verified during the next few weeks. Both sides said securities laws prevented them from discussing preliminary vote totals.

The group's nearly $1 billion investment in Gulf probably could control three seats on Gulf's 13-member board at May's scheduled elections.

The 55-year-old Pickens wants Gulf to spin off enough royalty-producing petroleum reserves to pay out $750 million a year to shareholders. Such a royalty trust would double the payout from Gulf shares and drive up the combined value of shares in the trust and what remains in Gulf, he says.

"All we're asking them (the company) to do is share a portion of the cash flow," Pickens said.

"The Mesa group," Lee told shareholders, "has dangled before you the prospect that shareholders could get rich quick. Quite frankly, we believe their market analysis is badly flawed. In our opinion, the numbers they've come up with are just plain wrong."

Lee said a royalty trust would rob the company of cash needed to finance the costly search for more oil and gas and would subject individual shareholders to new tax burdens.

Holiday spirit obvious in Christmas Village

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — Members of Bridgeport's Police Athletic League don't have to look far for proof of Christmas spirit.

They see it all around them as they stock presents for needy children in the town's "Christmas village," which was rebuilt after being torched by an arsonist last year.

Not only did volunteer labor rebuild the place, but toy manufacturers, businesses and individuals more than replenished the $11,000 worth of toys that were lost. They gave so many toys that children will still be getting them this year as they climb onto Santa's lap.

"It was just something fantastic to see," said PAL President Mike Marella. He was standing near an outdoor marker outside the chalet that read "Miracle at Christmas Village, From the Concerned People of America, 1982."

The marker isn't the only reminder.

As children line up to visit Santa, they'll pass a display of snow-dusted figures of old-fashioned carolers. Nearby videotape will serve to remember the "miracle" of last year.

Newspaper clippings on the fire and the outpouring support from all over the world are mounted on another wall. Many of them recall President Reagan's telephone call to say that the rebuilding was "one of the most inspiring Christmas stories I've heard in years and years."

Marella vividly remembers the reopening, attended by about 2,500 people.

"You talk about the perfect setting," he said earlier this week. "On Saturday, it started to snow. Sunday morning (the day of the reopening) it was snowing like crazy. What with the snow and the cold and President Reagan calling, it was fantastic."

Members of the league are putting final touches on decorations and hauling in at least 10,000 toys in preparation for Sunday's opening of the chalet on a city park hill.

The village is getting more publicity and can expect perhaps 50,000 visitors, he said.

Ranchers can pick up corn Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Drought-smitten livestock growers in Texas who want to take advantage of a government feed corn program should be able to begin picking up their their corn as early as Tuesday, Department of Agriculture officials said on Friday.

■ Texas GOP chairman criticizes Hightower

Under the program, the federal government will sell the corn to the livestock growers at reduced prices, but will not pay the cost of transporting it to farms and ranches.

In a statement, Agriculture Secretary John R. Block called on Texas Gov. Mark White to "take whatever steps are necessary to help get (the grain) to the livestock."

A department spokesman, Gene Hemphill, said that the department had "streamlined the procedure" for obtaining the grain by eliminating a previous requirement that livestock growers be eligibile for Farmers Home Administration emergency loans in order to receive the corn.

TWC concludes permit hearing

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Texas Water Commission concluded a hearing Friday on the renewal of two waste discharge permits for the city of Odessa, with examiner Kaylene Ray expected to issue a recommendation within 30 working days.

Renewal of the permits is being opposed by the city of Midland and Midland county, which claim sewage effluent from the Odessa plants is lowering the quality of ground water along Monahans Draw.

Hydrologist Joe Longacre, hired by Odessa for consulting work, said Friday that an average of 5 million gallons of effluent a day were discharged from the two water reclamation plants in Odessa last year to Monahans Draw, a tributary which bisects Midland County.

During 1982, about 5.2 million gallons a day (mgd) were discharged from the South Dixie plant and about 2.1 mgd from the East plant, but Longacre said the discharge from the East Plant was diverted away from the South Dixie plant. "So, you can't sum those two (totals) and get the figure (for average daily discharge)," he said.

Sewage effluent is high in ammonia, which converts to nitrates, and opponents say seepage from Monahans Draw has resulted in these elements being present in ground water along the draw. Longacre said if there is seepage from the draw, there would be a "uniformity of ammonia" in the ground water near the draw.

"The result of analysis indicates ammonia diminishes as it travels down the draw," said Longacre, who added the flow has had no influence on wells near Monahans Draw. "It appears to me there has been none (influence on the wells)," he said.

Attorney Ted Kerr, representing Midland County, asked Longacre if waste was discharged 365 days a year, and Longacre said he did not know for sure, adding he has seen "the draw dry."

Also testifying Friday was Ken Schmidt, an environmental hydrologist from California.

Schmidt said evidence is inconclusive that effluent flowing down Monahans Draw escapes into wells in the area.

Sheriff's deputies investigate apparent homicide of woman

Sheriff's deputies are investigating the apparent homicide of a Cottonflat Road woman whose unclothed body was found in a clump of reeds near a small lake southeast of town late Friday morning.

An oilfield worker discovered the remains of 35-year-old Teresa Yharte lying face down in a field near Cloverdale Road and Interstate 20 about 10:30 a.m., according to Lt. Tommy Jones of the sheriff's department.

"Because of the weather conditions, it's really hard to tell (when she died). But I'm guessing it was last night," Jones said Friday morning.

Justice of the Peace Charlie Sprayberry pronounced her dead at the scene and ordered an autopsy. Cause of death was not immediately known.

Initial observations of the body showed "minor scrapes and abrasions where she was pushed out in those reeds," Jones added. "I think the assault probably occurred there."

Of slight stature, the woman weighed 100 pounds and stood about 3 feet tall. A Department of Public Safety helicopter was used to take aerial photographs of the area.

Services are pending at Thomas Funeral Home.

Coyotes continue to plague ranchers

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

Dr. Dale Wade

Despite cunning efforts to kill off the hardy and clever coyote, this roaming "prairie wolf" is increasing in numbers and cutting into the livelihood of ranchers by feasting on livestock.

"There's evidence of a growing number of coyotes" on rangeland, said Dr. Dale Wade at Friday's 33rd annual meeting of the Texas Section of the Society of Range Management (SRM) in Midland. Wade is a wildlife specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Some ranchers have sustained "substantial losses" to the predator.

"It's not just coyotes we're seeing," Wade said. "We're seeing increasing numbers of lion population throughout the country."

Wade, speaking to more than 300 ranchers, researchers and range-management specialists from Texas in the Holiday Inn Country Villa, said government control of the predator is not containing the coyote.

"Management of coyotes population is more beneficial to the coyote than to the livestock," he surmised. "I think it's something the ranching industry needs to be concerned about."

One of the most effective means of controlling the coyote population was prohibited for ranch use in 1972. That was the lethal substance called Compound 1080 — sodium monofluoroacetate — applied to bait, such as red meat or fat, which a predator might eat.

"The main reason it was banned," Dr. John Reagor, a toxicologist with the Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratories, said later, "was political, misinformation and lack of information."

Compound 1080 was deemed too deadly, though an effective coyote killer.

"The (human) deaths due to 1080 have been in urban areas" and not on the range, said Wade. Though prohibited in the United States for use on ranches, Compound 1080 can be obtained by licensed exterminators to control rats and other rodents in cities and towns.

In the poison's absence, ranchers returned to standard methods of killing the coyote, which they claimed was decimating their herds of sheep, goats and cattle. Those methods included traps, snares, firearms and "home remedies." Some ranchers tried guard dogs to secure their herds, but the dogs often killed the animals they were to protect.

Wade noted that recently a Bosque County rancher lost $14,000 in goats and cattle directly to coyotes and up to $65,000 indirectly.

"That's about three times as much as his profits would have been," Wade said. "It (the loss) has a been a real severe shock to that family."

Prior to introduction of Compound 1080 on the range in 1945, ranchers used poisons such as strychnine and sodium cyanide to control the coyote, "the wild dog" of the plains.

Out of desperation, some ranchers go into Mexico, purchase the poisonous compound and illegally bring it back across the border for use on their land. Often there is misuse, he said.

"(They) break the law to protect their livelihood."

The law does allow the use of "home remedies" to kill the predator. Those remedies include the poisonous leaves of the oleander, pits of peaches, cherries and apricots, apple seeds, the elephant ear plant, bulb plants and mistletoes.

Wade noted that coyotes can serve the range, the ranchers, the environment and themselves very well.

"It depends on the times and the circumstances," he said, but the coyote does kill and eat rabbits, prairie dogs, ground squirrels, rats and other rodents. But if those food sources are depleted, the coyote seeks other food to survive.

"They'll go after sheep, calves, goats, pigs, watermelons and cantaloupes," Wade said.

Despite the crude-to-refined efforts to get rid of the coyote, nothing seems to work effectively.

"You're not ever going to get close (to eliminating the coyote)," Reagor said.

Strake criticizes Hightower for not transporting grain

From Staff Reports

AUSTIN — Agriculture Secretary John Block wasn't the only one criticizing Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower on Friday.

He also came under fire from Texas Republican Chairman George Strake for "walking away from West Texas ranchers on the transportation issue now that President Reagan has opened up the bins in Plainview so ranchers could purchase corn at discount prices."

Damaged government corn stored in Plainview and other places throughout the country were released Tuesday by Reagan for use by ranchers in counties declared disaster areas from the drought. Ranchers may sign up for that corn on Tuesday and also may pick it up that day in Plainview.

But Strake believes Hightower should have designed a system to transport it to the rancher or subsidize the rancher's transportation costs.

"Jim Hightower yells but when it comes to getting the feed to the ranchers he sits back in his Austin office and provides nothing — not even a little red wagon to help the ranchers with their grain," said Strake. "I wonder what he's been doing all these months."

Strake praised Reagan for signing the legislation which provided ranchers in 41 West Texas counties the chance to purchase certain grades of corn at $2.05 a bushel, which is about 75 cents below the loan rate and $1.20 below the market value. Legislation does not provide transportation costs.

The Department of Agriculture will make the grain available Tuesday. Basic requirement is that ranchers live in a designated county and that their operations have suffered a loss.

"The Agriculture Department is making the corn available 150 hours after President Reagan signed the bill and is cutting out much of the normal paperwork to do so," said Strake. He added, "All the ranchers have to do is sign up, pay for the corn in their home counties and go pick up the grain at Plainview. There's not even discounted transportation or subsidized transportation."

A spokesman in the Texas Republican Party office at Austin suggested Hightower could have set up a plan whereby the state could provide trucks at a discount or the ranchers would get reimbursed for a part of their transportation costs.

TWC concludes hearing into renewal of permits

According to testimony given earlier this week, the Midland consulting firm of Ed L. Reed and Associates, Inc., found high nitrate and ammonia levels in the wells, most of which were located in Midland County within one mile of the draw.

Geologist Ed Mouton, with Ed Reed and Associates, said they tested at least one dozen wells in the area this fall.

Witnesses for Midland and Midland County claim the high nitrate levels are not caused by waste from livestock or septic tanks. There are not enough cows in the vicinity of the draw to raise the nitrate levels, said Joe Reed, president of the consulting firm.

Mouton also said testing of the draw and wells turned up traces of "surfactants" — chemicals used in detergents — that indicate there is effluent from the plants flowing down Monahans Draw. While surfactants are not considered harmful, they are another indication of effluent flow which opponents say is polluting ground water.

While Reed testified he does not know the original concentrations of nitrates in the wells, he said this week such magnitudes could only be caused from effluent. Testing revealed levels of nitrates ranging from 45 to 99 milligrams per liter in the wells.

In October, one effluent test showed a nitrate level in excess of 80 milligrams per liter from the East plant, Longacre said Friday. There are "higher nitrates from the East plant," he said.

Monahans Draw flows about five miles south of I-20 in Midland, where residential development is occurring, said Richard Hennessy, director of planning and community development for the city of Midland, which had expressed concern over ground water quality this week at the TWC.

The hearing began last July in Odessa, with testimony also taken in September and this week.

Drought-stricken ranchers can pick up corn Tuesday

Demonstrating such elegibility could have taken up to 30 days and delayed receipt of the corn, Hemphill said.

Earlier this week, the department announced that ranchers and farmers could sign up for the feed corn program from next Tuesday through December 14 at county offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Hemphill said that under the new streamlined procedure, a livestock grower could conceivably sign up for the program on Tuesday and get his grain the same day in areas where the grain supply is plentiful. Texas is such an area, Hemphill said.

In a letter to White, Block said that "I am confident that you and your state agriculture commissioner will move immediately to bring to bear the resources of state government...to assist in the continued support of our efforts to provide assistance to producers."

Under the program, livestock growers in counties declared disaster areas because of the drought will be able to purchase the three lowest grades of corn — grades 4, 5, and sample — at 75 percent of the government floor price for corn.

The department was required to establish the program under legislation proposed by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, and signed into law on Tuesday by President Reagan.

Last month month department officals had estimated that more than 80 million bushels of such corn were on hand, 21 million bushels of it in Texas.

Hoping to be wrapped and placed under someone's Christmas tree is this 3½-month-old male collie, who is looking for a home. He was described as playful and sweet. Shareholders will determine fate of Gulf Oil Corp.

Gulf management wants to dilute Pickens' influence by eliminating charter provisions that now give shareholders 13 votes for each share of stock and allow them to distribute votes as they see fit in filling the 13 board seats. Delaware business laws prohibit cumulative voting.

Pickens said the Mesa group might enlist more backers to raise its stake in Gulf if management wins authority to reincorporate in Delaware.

Lee and Pickens said the battle has cost each side about $7 million.

Pickens said that besides trying to dissuade bankers from financing the Mesa group, Gulf hired detectives to follow him and report to Harold H. Hammer, executive vice president of Gulf, presumably in the hope of uncovering derogatory information about his personal life.

"It's my understanding that...this comes under (Hammer's) jurisdiction, and that he has a person assigned out of his legal department. These detectives are reporting to that person," Pickens said.

Lee denied the allegation.

"My people say that did not take place," he said. "All I'm aware of is that we had some lawyers checking the books of all the companies involved (in the Mesa group)."

Gulf set 5 p.m. Friday as the cutoff for submitting proxies to the Corporation Trust Co. of Wilmington, Del.

Gulf's bylaws require the reincorporation to be approved by a majority of one share over 50 percent of the outstanding shares. A share not voted counts as a vote against the reincorporation.

Both sides said they were encouraged by shareholder support for their positions and predicted a close vote.

Hearing between MISD, petitioners canceled

Friday's hearing between the Midland Independent School District and Ridgewood petitioners was canceled due to heavy fog that kept Austin Municipal Airport socked in until early afternoon.

Attorneys for both parties were unable to attend the 10 a.m. inquiry before a Texas Education Agency hearing examiner. Another date has not been set for the hearing, which already has been rescheduled twice.

At issue is whether or not the petitioners can vote to detach 4,000 acres in west Midland County from the MISD and annex it into the Ector County Independent School District.

Buried kidnap victim describes 'terrifying experience'

GALVESTON (AP) — A 22-year-old man buried in a makeshift coffin for four days testified Friday "it was the most terrifying experience I've ever been through."

Michael Baucom also said that his accused abductor, Ronald Floyd White, once bragged he could "kill without conscience and commit the perfect crime."

White, who worked briefly for Baucom's father, is charged with kidnaping Baucom Sept. 21, 1982 from his mobile home in Galveston County, burying him in a crate in an oil field about 75 miles away and demanding a $75,000 ransom. If convicted, he could be sentenced to from five years to life in prison.

Elmo Schwab, court-appointed attorney for the 38-year-old White, said his client did not commit the kidnaping and was insane at the time.

BAUCOM SAID he had talked with White before the abduction and thought he was a "logical, intelligent person."

Baucom said that on the night of the abduction, he was preparing to go to bed when he heard a knock on the door of his mobile home. When he answered the door, two armed men burst in, put a gun to his face, taped his eyes and mouth with duct tape and bound his hands behind his back with a cord. He was put in his own pickup truck and driven away.

About an hour later, while the truck was stopped, Baucom said he pretended to have a shoulder spasm, shifting from side to side and leaning his head back. He was able to see from under the tape and saw one of the captors talking with another man whom he was "positive was Ronald Floyd White." He said White was driving a car that was leading the truck.

Under cross-examination, Baucom said that was the only time during the ordeal that he saw the person he identified as White. He said he did not see White at the burial site.

On the way to the burial site, Baucom said he was forced to make tape recordings giving instructions and state

telling his father he lost $75,000 in a drug deal and needed the money or he would be killed.

BAUCOM SAID he was taken to an abandoned oil field in Montgomery County, where he was placed in a wooden crate and buried. Two pipes attached to the crate allowed air inside so he could breathe and allowed a small amount of sunlight inside, he said.

A liter of water left inside lasted 2½ days. Baucom said he declined to eat a loaf of bread also left inside the box.

The weight of dirt caved in the top of the crate, making it difficult to breathe or move. And toward the end, he began hallucinating, Baucom said.

White also is charged with two other abductions. Both of those victims have identified him as the abductor.

Officers were led to Baucom by Mark Oler, another suspect in what authorities believe was a kidnap plot.

WHITE WAS arrested Sept. 29, 1982, near Brownsville after a four-day chase involving state and federal authorities.

He has said he knew nothing about the abductions and has no memory of the time period.

One of the deputies who helped dig up Baucom, Jim Hall, testified Thursday that the victim emerged from his grave and asked if police had arrested Ron White.

Baucom testified Friday that he doesn't remember asking the deputies about White when he was rescued.

"I was more concerned about my family. I'm not sure I actually made that statement."

Chinese aritifacts found under parking lot

EL PASO (AP) — Archaeologists digging under a downtown El Paso parking lot have unearthed what they believe could be the largest collection of turn-of-the-century Chinese artifacts ever discovered in the United States.

"We don't have it all in hand, but from what we've seen in the ground, it appears this will be the largest collection of Chinese-American material ever available for study," said David Batcho, assistant chief archaeologist at New Mexico State University's cultural resources management division.

The school's archaeologists have been hired by the city of El Paso to search for relics under downtown sites currently undergoing renovation.

Batcho said Friday the discovery of the Chinese materials, which was made during the past week, "is really tremendous. We'll be able to preserve a slice of American history that is often overlooked."

The team of six NMSU archaeologists already have been able to determine that many of the artifacts were made in China and brought to the area by Chinese who came to this West Texas city in the late 1800s to work on railroad projects.

"We've found medicine vials with writing on them and have had that translated and have learned who the druggist was, what the medicine was and the city location of where it was manufactured," Batcho said, "On most of these, the locations have been in China. It's just a great find."

He said other objects that have been dug up include ceramic bowls and soup spoons, wine jars and pottery.

Most of the material was discovered between two feet and eight feet under a paved parking lot near the historic Cortez Hotel in downtown El Paso, Batcho said.

The city currently is involved in a $40 million downtown revitalization project and because part of the project is federally funded "all cultural resources that are found must be dealt with in a scientific manner," Batcho said.

"And before we take any more out, we'll contact the city and report to them how significant a find this is and they'll reach a decision on how much of this material should be excavated before the site is destroyed," he said.

"But from what we've seen down there, we can for sure say this is a rare find and just a tremendous opportunity to study the Chinese culture here at the turn of the century and secondly, it gives us a chance to look at how the various ethnic groups that lived in early El Paso related to one another," Batcho said.

Sheriff's deputies use Super Glue to raise fingerprints

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Super Glue is touted as the sticky stuff with 1,001 uses, but Bexar County sheriff's deputies have found the 1,002nd — raising hidden fingerprints on crime evidence.

The fumes from the adhesive work to show up fingerprints on plastics and other substances often left blank by the conventional dusting method, said Capt. Jesse Pelayo of the department's identification section.

"We started using the glue a couple of months ago," he said. "We raised some fingerprints from a plastic sandwich bag containing marijuana. We couldn't do that before."

The glue also garnered fingerprints from a beer can believed to have been dumped by one of two men who shot a deputy last week, Pelayo said.

Here's how it works: Items gathered as evidence are placed in plastic bags with small amounts of Super Glue. Within five to 10 seconds, the prints appear.

"It started in Japan in 1978 in the Tokyo Metropolitan Police Department," Pelayo said. "There was an examiner who noticed a fingerprint on an unopened container of Super Glue.

"It's hard to lift latent prints from plastics, weapons and aluminum foil. We were looking for something to raise the hidden prints that can't be seen by the naked eye," he said.

The conventional methods had been unreliable, though, with plastics or non-smooth surfaces, he said.

Odessa merchants invite shoppers to pen greetings on Marines' card

ODESSA (AP) — Harry Wilkerson wanted American soldiers in Lebanon to know that residents of this West Texas city are thinking of them this Christmas.

So the Permian Mall merchant and other retailers are inviting shoppers to write their greetings on a Christmas card to be mailed to the troops Sunday morning.

Merchants set up tables in the mall Friday so shoppers can pen their own greetings or sign a huge Christmas card to give the Americans "our heartfelt thanks," mall marketing director Laura Ingram said.

Wilkerson, a former Navy photographer, said he sympathizes with the soldiers' homesickness during the holidays. "I was in the service in 1952, 1953 and part of 1954, but that's not the reason," he said. "I thought it would be a good gesture for all of the Permian Basin to do."

Candidates will be in Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Four candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination are slated to be in Houston next Tuesday in hopes of raising $400,000 for the party's national committee.

Houston is one of five stops on the two-day swing, which also includes Washington, Chicago, Atlanta and Albuquerque.

Reubin Askew, John Glenn, Gary Hart and Jesse Jackson were to appear at a $500-a-plate lunch chaired by Texas Gov. Mark White. Also slated to attend were Oklahoma Gov. George Nigh and Louisiana Gov.-elect Edwin Edwards.

Widow sues Ramada Inn in fire

FORT WORTH (AP) — The widow of a Wichita, Kan., man who was killed in the June 14 Ramada Inn-Central fire in Fort Worth claims her husband died of smoke inhalation at least in part because the motel did not provide smoke detectors.

In addition, Maria Juventine Moreno charged that the motel maintained "conditions which would allow a fire to start and/or spread in the building."

Mrs. Moreno, widow of Nickolas John Moreno, 54, sued the motel and its parent companies for more than $4 million Thursday, accusing them of failing to adequately protect their patrons.

Donor gives A&M $1 million

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — An anonymous donor has given Texas A&M University $1 million to endow two academic chairs designed to enhance the school's high-technology research, but there's one catch.

A&M must match the $1 million, given to fund one of the two chairs.

The donor reserved the right to recommend the names for the two chairs in accordance with provisions under which the matching funds were made available, Texas A&M President Frank E. Vandiver said.

Record number of guns caught at D-FW Airport

DALLAS (AP) — The nation's fifth-busiest airport leads all others in one category — the number of handguns discovered at security checkpoints.

It's been that way for four years at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport, where people apparently carry guns routinely, said airport police chief Tom Sheehan.

Federal Aviation Administration records indicate that by the end of 1983, the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport will have caught a record number of concealed handguns at security checkpoints, topping its own record.

The FAA reported 333 people have been stopped so far this year, virtually all of them at electronic checkpoints outside airline gate areas, the Dallas Times Herald said Friday.

The total at Dallas-Fort Worth is nearly double the 168 people stopped at Houston's two airports, which together rank second in the nation in handgun violations.

"People seemingly are carrying weapons as a matter of course," said Sheehan. "That simply means there is that much more chance that somebody is going to get hurt."

Most of the violators are people who routinely, and legally, carry weapons in a purse or briefcase, and most are advised that they have to leave the weapon behind or confine it to a baggage compartment.

"Any time you have...firearms, it's a dangerous situation," said Mark Wright, manager of air security for the FAA's Southwest division. "About all we can do is ask the public to become more aware of the risk involved."

The number of violations detected at D-FW Airport security checkpoints has risen steadily since the FAA began recording violations in March 1979, and this year's total probably will eclipse 1982's record of 390, according to FAA figures.

Continental plans to add 50 more flights to schedule

HOUSTON (AP) — Continental Airlines, trying to reorganize under federal bankruptcy laws and battling a strike by pilots and flight attendants, will add more than 50 flights to its schedule during the next six weeks.

"We've made a lot of progress," Phil Bakes, the airline's executive vice president, said Thursday.

Bakes predicted that by the spring the airline would be making 90 percent of the flights flown before Sept. 24, the day it filed for protection from its creditors under federal bankruptcy laws.

Continental will begin service Dec. 16 between Denver, Salt Lake City and Colorado Springs and between Houston and Ixtapa, Mexico, Bakes said.

A month later, it plans to begin service between Houston and Miami and between Houston and Phoenix, he said.

By the end of January, Continental will be flying 255 domestic flights, or 56 percent of the seat capacity flown before reorganization, Bakes said.

Continental, once the nation's eighth largest airline, served 78 cities before filing for reorganization. It currently serves 25 U.S. cities and 27 cities in the South Pacific, Mexico and South America.

One week after filing for reorganization, members of the Air Line Pilots Association and the Union of Flight Attendants walked off their jobs. Striking pilots and flight attendants claimed the company was abusing federal bankruptcy laws in an effort to void union contracts.

Representatives of the pilots union and Continental met in Los Angeles this week, but both sides refused to discuss the sessions.

Meanwhile, in Calabasas, Calif., the home of a Continental flight attendant, working despite the strike, was firebombed early Friday and the word "scab" was scrawled on her door, authorities said. Los Angeles County sheriff's authorities said no one was injured in the fire, which caused an estimated $55,000 damage.

Girl buried nine months after her murder

nation

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Police paid their respects in a gloomy mist and gravediggers were the pallbearers as the headless torso of a young girl was buried in a pauper's grave Friday, still unidentified more than nine months after she was sexually assaulted and killed.

"It's our hope and prayer that the perpetrator will be found and brought to justice," said Homicide Sgt. Herb Riley after the short service on a muddy hillside at Washington Park Cemetery.

"I'm really saddened that no one showed up," Riley said. "I've been involved in the case from day one — over nine months now."

"We are gathered here to send the body of a girl we do not know," said the Rev. John W. Heyward Jr., of the Union Memorial United Methodist Church in St. Louis. "But we feel surely she is known to God."

Four gravediggers dressed in muddy overalls served as pallbearers at the funeral which was paid for by the city. About a dozen reporters and police officers watched as Heyward laid a flower and pine bough wreath on top of the small, white cloth-covered casket before it was lowered into the ground.

The body of the girl, between 9½ and 10½ years old, was found Feb. 28 in the basement of an abandoned apartment building, clad only in a yellow V-neck sweater with the label ripped out.

Her hands had been bound behind her back with nylon cord, and an autopsy revealed that she had been sexually molested and probably strangled before she was beheaded. The head has never been found.

"We've checked thousands of leads and we've narrowed down a list of missing school children to 15 or 16 who match her description," said Homicide Capt. Leroy J. Adkins. "Maybe someone will have a turn of conscience if they hear she's been buried.

"Or maybe a relative, neighbor or playmate will call the police and report that they haven't seen the girl in nine months," he said. "I just can't believe that no one has missed her."

Of the 50,000 children who disappear each year, about 3,000 become homicide victims, according to Kristin Cole Brown of Child Find, a nonprofit, child tracking organization based in New Paltz, N.Y. Another 8,000 cases of missing children remain unsolved one year after they are reported, she said.

The torso, that of a black female about 5-foot-4 and weighing between 70 and 75 pounds, had been kept for identification purposes in the city medical examiner's "cold room."

"It was futile to keep her at the Medical Examiner's any longer," said Adkins. "It was time to give her a decent burial."

Riley, who said he's become obsessed with the case and stays awake nights thinking about it, said the intensity of his investigation will not lessen now that the girl has been buried.

Reagan: U.S. won't retreat from Taiwan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, preparing for a trip to China next spring, said Friday the United States will "in no way retreat from our alliance with and our friendship with the Chinese on Taiwan."

Venturing into an area that has gotten him into trouble with the Peking regime before, Reagan called U.S. relations with the People's Republic of China and the government on Taiwan "a very delicate problem."

Reagan has been invited to visit China in April 1984, but his suggestion there is a continuing alliance between the United States and Taiwain could aggravate officials in Peking.

"We are friends and, repeatedly, we have said to the government of mainland China that they should appreciate the fact that we're not going to throw aside one friend in order to make another," the president's statement said.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A major change is near. Be independent, but not dictatorial in romance. Give what you hope to get. A young person is very supportive. Confide in mate and close family members.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A superficial relationship becomes more serious. You enjoy announcing a popular decision. Greater financial security lets you relax a bit. Count on travel changing some of your views.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A domestic development leads you to change some plans at the last minute. This frustrating situation could work out better than you think. An out-of-towner pays an unexpected visit.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Someone very special needs your understanding. Listen carefully before offering any advice. Try not to make plans with a group. A two-some promises to be much more fun! Romance sparkles.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A letter or phone call announces cancelled plans. Your mate and friends are concerned and offer their support. Try to be more tolerant of someone who needs help.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A community project may suffer quick defeat. Keep your eyes on your goals. You could be reading someone wrong. If suspicious about a passing remark, ask subtle questions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A clash could occur when a pal makes demands on your pocketbook. Stick to your guns. There is no need to be embarrassed. A true friend will soon see the light.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A communications foul-up could lead to arguments. Diplomacy will prevent further upset. Do not let your daydreams blind you to trouble brewing at home. Talk candidly with mate.

Film looks cynically at U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — For the central character, an unemployed steelworker, ABC's "Heart of Steel" Sunday night takes an appropriately cynical view of both Ronald Reagan's America and Franklin Delano Roosevelt's America.

This film points an accusing finger at all sides — unions, management, government and workers — in explaining why the work ethic doesn't work as well anymore.

In one scene, after the steel mill has been shut down by management, the workers hold a meeting to discuss buying the plant. They blame their bosses for not modernizing to compete with the Japanese. Management, in turn, accuses the union of not making necessary concessions.

And a financial consultant, brought in to assess the feasibility of the union's purchase, is made to look like a complete fool. Speaking financial gobbledygook, he says the necessary $66 million is "not a lot of money."

Peter Strauss, the movie's executive producer, also stars as Emory, whose all-American values are challenged by the mill's closing. Strauss used unemployed steelworkers as extras in the film, which was shot in Ohio and West Virginia.

Emory's American dream is not grandiose. His house doesn't have to be big, his car doesn't have to be fancy, his TV set only has to pick up his beloved Cincinnati Bengals. Yet even those things require the income of the job he thought was his for life. "What the hell did I do wrong?" he asks.

The lesson of this moving, stark and, yes, noble film is that only when Emory stops hiding behind the security of his union, the safety of his hometown and the blind faith in his country and takes responsibility for his life does he regain the self-respect that's been missing since he lost his job.

"Heart of Steel" begins as if it were a chummy "Miller Time" beer commercial, then quickly turns into "Blue Collar Blues."

The movie captures the depressing sights of unemployment in excruciating detail: a once-pulsing steel mill lying deathly still, unemployed steelworkers hanging around cold streets waiting for job crumbs, and all-day benders in dank gin mills, where time is measured in empty glasses.

The film pays as much attention to mood as story line, which is good since the disintegrating-family thread running throughout frequently goes too far, particularly when Emory's damaged pride and wounded macho spirit turn him into a wife- and child-beater.

But the "Rocky"-like ending, which could have been hokey in less caring hands, is emotionally uplifting.

And it challenges, at least for one night, one wry line from the film. While noticing some silliness on the bar's TV, Emory says that what's made in Hollywood is "nothing, noise and game shows."

'Buffalo Bill' returns

NEW YORK (AP) — "Buffalo Bill," starring Dabney Coleman as the despicable talk-show host who doesn't treat his guests the way Merv Griffin does, will be returning to NBC's lineup on Thursday nights beginning Dec. 15.

The network announced that the program, which won five Emmy nominations after its 2½-month run last summer, will occupy the 8:30 p.m., Central time, slot.

"Cheers," which beat out "Buffalo Bill" as last season's Emmy-winner for best comedy, will move up a half hour earlier to 8 p.m. starting Dec. 15.

That will push "We Got It Made" into a new time period. "We Got It Made" will go off the air for three weeks after its Dec. 8 broadcast, but NBC said it will return to the schedule early in January.

Thursday nights have been one of last-place NBC's few bright spots with "Cheers" and "Hill Street Blues," at 9 p.m., consistently finishing among the week's Top 30 shows.

Wheat farmers collecting payments for 1983 crop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wheat farmers are collecting an estimated $735 million to $765 million in "deficiency payments" for their 1983 harvest, the Agriculture Department said Friday.

The payments are due under the government's target price system for certain crops. If the cash market price falls below the target over a specified period, the subsidies are paid to make up the difference between the target and the market price — or the loan rate, whichever is higher.

Everett Rank, administrator of the department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said farmers already received about $344 million of their payments as advances when they signed up for the 1983 program. The balance will be available soon through local agency offices, he said.

The wheat target price this year was $4.30 per bushel. The market price nationally averaged $3.51 per bushel in a five-month period, June through October. But the loan rate — the amount farmers can borrow from the Agriculture Department by using their crop as collateral — was $3.65 per bushel. Thus the deficiency payment is 65 cents per bushel.

Woman killed by bulldog

TROY, Ala. (AP) — A 64-year-old woman was killed by a dog that "dragged her around the yard" when she stepped outside a house where she had stopped to have coffee with a friend.

"It just tore her up, just mangled her," said Tom Weeks, an assistant chief deputy in the Coffee County sheriff's office. The deputy said a passing hunter shot the dog Thursday.

Another woman was hospitalized for treatment of bite wounds suffered when she tried to stop the dog, which Weeks described as a 125- to 130-pound bulldog.

Flynt released from prison

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hustler Magazine publisher Larry Flynt was released from federal prison Friday after telling a magistrate he didn't realize he had violated bond by leaving the state.

U.S. Magistrate Joseph Reichmann elicited from Flynt a reluctant promise that he would not leave Los Angeles County before Monday morning, when he is scheduled to be arraigned on an indictment charging him with desecrating the American flag by wearing the flag to court as a diaper.

Flynt was arrested in Anchorage, Alaska, on Thursday and brought back to California where he was put in prison overnight.

Inmates to wear new garb

WOODBRIDGE, N.J. (AP) — After a series of escapes from Rahway State Prison, inmates who work outside the prison will have to trade their jeans and T-shirts for uniforms with a fluorescent stripe on the back.

The regulation was issued after Woodbridge residents complained about security at the prison from which four inmates, including convicted murderers, have escaped this year.

The new outfits are intended to make it more difficult for escapees to blend in with other people in street clothes, Rahway officials said.

Government wants mine fees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is examining a plan to get tough with coal companies in an effort to collect $25 million in back fees the companies have avoided paying to reclaim abandoned mines.

Jackson inquiry closed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is closing its investigation of the Rev. Jesse Jackson's dealings with Libya without requiring him to register as a Libyan agent, a department spokesman said Friday.

The department's inquiry under the Foreign Agents Registration Act of 1938 was begun in late 1980 after Libya's chief diplomat in the United States, Ali Houdeiri, contributed $10,000 to Jackson's Chicago-based civil rights organization, Operation PUSH.

At the time the United States had diplomatic relations with Libya, but in mid-1981 the United States expelled all Libyan diplomats.

"We have found nothing to suggest that he (Jackson) needed to register as a Libyan agent," said department spokesman John Russell.

PUSH officials have said the $10,000 gift was made in December 1979, and was used by PUSH to pay the expenses of a fund-raising concert.

Heineken gives written account of his 22-day kidnaping ordeal

Alfred Heineken

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — Brewery chairman Alfred Heineken, one of the richest men in Europe, combed his hair with a broken plastic fork, made his bed and cleaned his concrete cell as much as his shackles would permit during his 22-day kidnapping ordeal.

Heineken, appearing in public for the first time since he and his chauffeur Ab Doderer were kidnapped Nov. 9, said he followed a daily routine to shut out the uncertainty of a life in which "you're never sure that there will be bread the next morning."

The 60-year-old millionaire and Doderer, 57, looking tired but healthy, posed for pictures at Heineken's seaside home and gave written accounts of their ordeal to reporters. They refused to answer reporters' questions.

But Heineken was overheard saying, "I could have hugged the whole rescue team."

Police rescued the two men Wednesday from concrete cells concealed in a warehouse on the outskirts of Amsterdam, after payment of a ransom reported to be as high as $11.6 million. As soon as they were freed the two men went to Heineken's villa south of Amsterdam where their families had stayed throughout the kidnapping. Doderer has worked for Heineken for 40 years.

Police were holding 12 of the 25 suspects seized Wednesday in raids on houses in Amsterdam and two other cities. Reports said about $2.6 million was recovered in the raids.

One of the suspects still held is the man police believe masterminded the kidnapping. He was arrested Wednesday night after stepping off a flight that arrived at Amsterdam's Schiphol Airport.

Three Dutch police detectives left for Spain on Friday to search for three other suspects.

Doderer, describing his ordeal, said "I thought: 'don't lose my wits, I must keep busy to stay alive.' After a few days, I made a program for myself to keep busy. I tried to do exercises despite everything. I had to keep busy.

"At a certain moment I got a tangerine," he said. "This I divided into small sections to have something all day.

Heineken said "it was a very emotional time, but not varied...Three weeks of lying down, sleeping, reading, thinking, eating, drinking, and in the first place, trying to stay alive."

"I was chained by my left hand, limiting my freedom of movement to almost nil," said Heineken. "That was why I could only sleep on one side or on my back" on a cot in a damp, unheated cell.

"Sometimes there was half a bucket of warm water, with which I could wash myself one way or another. I combed my hair with a broken plastic fork.

"As far as the chain permitted," said Heineken, "I tidied up my cell and every morning I made my bed. Trying to establish a rhythm gives you something to do."

Heineken said the food was "four slices of bread in the morning and in the evening there was a hot meal. I always kept one slice of bread to eat at night or the following morning, because you're never sure that there will be bread the next morning."

The captives said they were forbidden to speak to their hooded and armed guard.

Bush to travel to El Salvador

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President George Bush will travel to El Salvador on Dec. 11 in behalf of President Reagan to confer with senior government officials about "all pertinent aspects of American support" for the beleaguered government, it was announced Friday.

Plans for the trip follow Reagan's veto of legislation linking continued military aid for El Salvador to progress on human rights.

White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said Bush's talks would cover "all pertinent aspects of American support for El Salvador and the carrying out of programs that are designed to defeat the guerrilla insurgency, as well as those programs which will move the country forward in the democratic process."

The vice president will stop in San Salvador on the way home from Buenos Aires, where Raul Alfonsin will be inaugurated as president of Argentina on Dec. 10. Bush will return to Washington immediately after his Salvadoran visit the next day.

Protesters block base's entrance

CARDIFF, Wales (AP) — About 300 anti-nuclear campaigners staged a sit-down protest Friday at the Cardiff Royal Ordnance Factory, where Trident missile parts reportedly are being manufactured.

The protesters blocked the main entrance to the base and urged arriving workers not to build the submarine-based missiles, which are scheduled to replace Britain's aging fleet of Polaris missiles in the next decade.

Police cleared a path through the demonstrators, enabling the 200 workers to enter. There was no violence and no arrests, a police spokesman said.

Eiffel Tower's sections sold

PARIS (AP) — Twenty sections of the spiral iron staircase between the second and third levels of Eiffel Tower have been sold at auction for $225,250.

Auction officials from the corporation that operates the famous landmark said one section was bought by Walt Disney Studios. Another was destined for Louisiana and a third for New York's Statue of Liberty, whose frame also was built by the man who constructed the tower, Gustave Eiffel. Other segments were purchased for anonymous buyers in New York, but several will remain in France.

The staircase and 1,000-foot tower were built for the Universal Exposition of 1889. Engineers recently determined the tower could no longer support its own weight and ordered tons of iron girders and supports replaced by modern, lightweight alloys.

Planners of coup arrested

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Police have arrested five people, including Britons and Zimbabweans, for plotting a new Seychelles coup, officials said Friday.

Louis Le Grange, law and order minister, said police were investigating the alleged recruitment of mercenaries in South Africa to topple the government of the Seychelles, an island group in the Indian Ocean about 1,000 miles east of Kenya. The plan was made in Britain by an organization called the Movement For the Resistance, the minister said.

Magistrate frees Greek pries

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Fawzi Khoury, a Greek Catholic priest, was freed Friday after four weeks detention on suspicion of contacting enemy agents.

Khoury, an Israeli Arab studying in France, was freed by a magistrate's court in Acre, northern Israel, after police said there was no case against him. He had been seized at Tel Aviv airport when he arrived for a visit.

Israel radio said police concluded that contacts Khoury had with officials of the Palestine Liberation Organization in Europe did not amount to conspiring with enemy agents.

Gold theives may have tapped phones

LONDON (AP) — The gang that stole $39 million worth of gold from an airport warehouse may have tapped phone lines in planning the job, London's Evening Standard newspaper reported Friday.

It quoted an unnamed communications and security expert who said he told police that Brinks-Mat — the firm storing the gold — another security firm and two gold dealers who suffered million-dollar thefts this year shared the same telephone exchange.

The expert was quoted as saying the thieves in each case could have listened in on phone conversations to learn when security would be the weakest and where the gold would be stored.

A spokeswoman for Scotland Yard denied such an expert had spoken to police. "We know nothing of this so-called expert. The report appears to be speculation," she said.

On April 4, $10 million in cash was stolen from a London depot of the Security Express courier firm by raiders who appeared to have inside information about its operations.

The newspaper said the gang got the exchange that handles all Brinks-Mat and Security Express telephone calls rewired in June, and then intercepted calls in a scheme that netted more than $1.2 million worth of gold coins from two London bullion dealers.

In that case, thieves asked the dealers to deliver South African gold Krugerrands to a financial district address, intercepted confirmation telephone calls and forged bank drafts to pay for the coins.

Scotland Yard has said the six-man gang that stole the Brinks-Mat gold had access to accurate information about the gold's daily movements.

The 6,800 ingots, weighing three tons, were in transit and reportedly had arrived at the warehouse the day before they were stolen. They were to have been shipped to the Far East, officials said, but police and Brinks-Mat have not revealed the identity of the owner, the recipient or the sender of the shipment.

Police have issued descriptions of two vans believed used in the escape but otherwise have disclosed no leads in the Nov. 26 theft.

Blacks forced to resettle

MOGOPA, South Africa (AP) — The forced resettlement of 400 families from their hereditary village to a site reserved for blacks was for their own good, a spokesman for the white-minority government said Friday.

The government acted to improve life for the villagers taken from Mogopa to Pachsdraai, 62 miles to the north, said Louis Nel, deputy minister of information and foreign affairs. Magopa is 75 miles west of Johannesburg.

He said most of the villagers agreed to the move voluntarily, and only a minority are resisting and staying at Mogopa because of unspecified "intimidation" in a tribal dispute.

The villagers bought land at Mogopa as far back as 1911. But Nel told foreign reporters invited on a 230-mile helicopter flight to the two communities that conditions were better at Pachsdraai, where the government is helping to build a new village on hot, arid, bush land.

He showed off three new schools, a mobile clinic and a piped water installation, and said none could have been made available at Mogopa.

The removal of the Bakwena tribesmen from Mogopa, discussed for years between the government and tribal leaders, began in June when white authorities knocked down two schools and three churches in the village.

It was to have been completed earlier this week, but the government postponed the final move when a group of prominent clergymen went to the village on the appointed day to pray and witness the eviction.

4-5A coaches assess Lee, Permian game

By TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

"Steamroller" against the "Aircraft Carrier" is the way Midland High Coach Pat Culpepper labels today's 1:30 p.m. Midland Lee-Odessa Permian 5A quarterfinal showdown in Lubbock's Jones Stadium.

Midland Lee, of course, is the pass-disdaining tank offense while Permian is the Aircraft Carrier, the multi-faceted attack that can finesse an opponent right out of its socks.

It's a game that has caught the imagination of West Texas, this meeting of two 5-4A powerhouses that might more appropriately deserve a setting in the state finals than as a preliminary.

No matter, district coaches who have faced both eventually come around to the word "classic" in describing the impending confrontation on the Texas Tech's grassless turf. It's that meeting of Lee's immovable defense against Permian's high-powered offense.

ABILENE'S Don Cumpton, Cooper's Dick Winder, Big Spring's Quinn Eudy and San Angelo's Jimmie Keeling agree it is a game they wouldn't miss. They may not risk a forecast on the outcome but their "Hey, I'll be there, I wouldn't miss it" is almost a chorus.

After five-point losses to Permian and Lee, Odessa's Jerry Millsaps isn't so sure. "Hey, during the regular season, I saw all of those two teams I cared to..."

Cumpton and Quinn cast a vote for Lee as the probable winner, but admitted they wouldn't risk any money on it. The other coaches abstained from a forecast.

When Winder was prodded for a prediction with a "since your team beat Lee...," he responded, "Their bus broke down. We played two quarters and scored a couple of touchdowns before they even showed up."

BREAKS AND intensity will decide the game. That was unanimous.

Culpepper, a rollup-your-sleeves-and-get-your-uniform dirty advocate, said it will be a match of "Britt Hager and Isaac Garnett," but believes it will be decided right in the line.

Pat asserts, "All Midland is behind the Rebels. If everyone is healthy, I feel Lee will have to run between the tackles. Just line up and fire off the ball and establish their running game with Garnett. That's where the game will be won. The Lee line has to wake up Saturday in a nasty mood."

Weather, and the forecast is uncertain, and the breaks will decide it in the eyes of most of the coaches.

Culpepper cautions, "With Andre Mayfield out, that has to be a concern for Spike (Dykes), especially since Permian is a good passing team. On the other hand, Michael Johnson is a great middle linebacker and he was hurt in the last game."

A capsule snyopsis of opinions from coaches who had to get ready for both teams during the regular season:

Pat Culpepper, Midland High—"This is your state game, right here between these two teams. Body punches will decide it. Lee will have to stop Hager, who is the best football player in Texas. Britt plays offense like he still thinks he's playing linebacker."

Next week: "It could be the most dangerous game for Lee or Permian. Plano plays like these teams and they have the tradition to go along with it. I think Plano will win over Houston Klein. I understand there was no comparison between Highland Park and Klein last week. Highland had one pass intercepted and shutdown its offense, abandoning what it had been doing so successfully. It wasn't until it got behind late in the game and reverted to its normal game that they almost pulled it out.

"No, I don't think Lee's win in the first game will be that much of a factor in giving Permian a psychological edge. Lee has confidence, poise and the pride to go with it."

Don Cumpton, Abilene—"It will be a good one, a classic, the best game in the state...It is hard to pick a team. I think advantages will work-both ways. Permian has the edge pyschologically, because Lee won the first game. On the other hand, the win in the first had to be good forLee. It had to help their confidence. It may be what they needed.

"The weather may be a factor. Permian is more of a throwing team. Lee is more ground oriented. And it is supposed to be real cold in Lubbock.

"If I had to pick a winner, I'd pick Lee. I don't know why. Just a gut feeling. I know one thing, we'll be there."...

McCamey's Adam Arana surges for yardage against Morton Friday night in Andrews. McCamey, the Cinderella playoff team of West Texas, won its quarterfinal battle with Morton by a 13-12 margin and now moves to the Class 3A semifinals next week.

McCamey stuns unbeaten Morton

Badgers pull off 13-12 quarterfinal upset

By BRUCE CASTLEBERRY
Sports Writer

ANDREWS — The McCamey Badgers wouldn't say die here against the unbeaten Morton Indians Friday night.

"Ever since we started practicing in the summer, I told them to keep plugging," said McCamey coach Buster Leaf. "We stay after it and never give it up."

Against Morton, quarterback Ray Zarate simply played his heart out. The result was Zarate having a hand in all of the Badger points in a 13-12 Class AA quarterfinal playoff victory for McCamey.

McCamey, 11-3, will face Boyd, a 25-14 winner over Cisco, in Sweetwater Friday to determine one of the state's finalists.

Against Morton, 13-1, even McCamey die hards had reason to doubt. The Indians, however, began to celebrate too soon. With less than 1:30 to play, Zarate rolled right and avoided a tackler long enough to hit split end Steve Brown in the back of the end zone for a 32-yard touchdown pass.

The stunned silence that grabbed the Morton sideline was offset by McCamey mania of the far side.

Brown clinched a victory moments later, intercepting a desperation pass by Morton's Ron Kuehler with 16 seconds remaining.

But it was Zarate who made the difference in guiding McCamey to its seventh straight win. Zarate, a 5-foot-10, 147-pound senior, led all ball carriers with 81 yards on 22 carries. Besides throwing the winning touchdown to Brown, Zarate got McCamey back into the game in the third quarter.

Behind 6-0, McCamey took advantage of one of nine Morton fumbles. On the Badgers first drive and facing third and five, Zarate ran an option left, kept and cut up field. The quick burst sprung Zarate into the secondary and he was gone, 37 yards for the touchdown. He added the extra point to give McCamey a 7-6 edge 3:30 into the quarter.

"I just took the correct option, cut up as fast as I could and it opened up," said Zarate.

On the TD throw to Brown, Zarate picked up a secondary receiver. "It was supposed to be a tight end out. We hardly ever run it and he made a great catch."

Morton had gotten on the board first after a scoreless opening period. The Indian attack of twin backs Don and Ron Kuehler orchestrated the only first half score. The half was played in a driving cold rain and the weather was generally nasty.

McCamey, which got the ball inside the Indian 20 seven times, had just missed a 32-yard field goal from Zarate. Morton's Venie Evans returned the miss only to his own three but the Indians jolted McCamey with two big plays.

The first came when quarterback Ron Kuehler hit Evans deep down the left sideline for 42 yards. On the next play, Don Kuehler bounced away from what looked to be a five-yard loss, broke outside and zoomed 55 yards for the half's only score.

McCamey answered by driving to a fourth and goal at the one but fullback Robert Day was stopped cold.

It remained 6-0 until Zarate's TD run. After that things got out of control a little bit. On the ensuing kickoff after Zarate's score, Morton fumbled the ball away, but Zarate was intercepted two plays later.

The Badger defense, led by James Kennedy, gave ground only once but Morton took the opportunity to go 67 yards for a score. Ron Kuehler got the score on a one-yard keeper to make it 12-7.

Before Brown's last second heroics, McCamey had gotten the ball twice inside the Indian 20 but came away empty. The last time came when Zarate was turned away on fourth and goal from the one with just over three minutes to play.

Four plays later, McCamey began their final drive and their date with destiny.

Lee Rebels mash Abernathy, 64-56

By BOB BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

After trailing the Abernathy Antelopes 4-0 in the opening minute of play, the Midland Lee Rebels exploded for 12 unanswered points and went on to post a 64-56 victory Friday night at Chaparral Center.

Abernathy, which was eliminated from the Regional tournament last year by District 2-3A rival Dimmitt, fell to 3-1 on the year while the Rebels improved to 5-1.

This was the second year the two teams have met in early-season play and Antelope coach Carl Irlbeck noticed quite a difference.

Paced by wing Alvin Henry with a 5-of-8 first quarter performance including Lee's first two buckets to tie the game at 4-4, the Rebels hit 53 percent of their shots with 9-of-16 two-pointers coming from the 12-20 foot range. Three inside shots were hit on offensive rebounds, one came from a Henry layup on a Tim Hill steal and the remaining two inside shots were short jumpers.

"LEE IS a much better team than last year," said Irlbeck. "They shot super in the first half, to me it was awesome. From last year to this year there is no comparison. Last year we let them have the outside shot. We were going to let them have it this time until the hit about six straight."

Lee coach Paul Stueckler was also pleased with the outside performance saying, "Our perimeter shooting was pretty good from Derek Westbrook and Alvin Henry and I though Anthony Dickens was a dominate force on the boards."

The Rebels finished the first quarter with a 16-12 lead and used two big spurts in the second quarter to set up a 35-22 halftime margin. The Antelopes fought back to within five with about three minutes to play, 41-36, but Lee pulled away again to lead 50-38 going into the final quarter. Abernathy managed to get within six in the final quarter, 60-54, but the game was in the final seconds and Lee wasn't going to give it away.

STUECKLER, WHO suffered through a 3-27 season last year — as did most of the players on this year's team — said, "the Rebels are happy to be 5-1," and feels Abernathy "has got a very good basketball program. They have four players back, including one who was all-state (second team), and they only lost about two games (last year)."

Irlbeck likes coming into Midland to play the Rebels and would like to see his team play more 5A schools even though he wanted to go all the way in 1983-84 unbeaten.

"The reason we like to play Lee is because, win or lose, the better the teams you play this time of year the more it will help you get to state. I want to go to state every year. We've been able to compete every year. We were state champions in 1980 and we're knocking at the door to get back and hopefully this is our year."

The one weakness Abernathy seems to have this year in its quest for a state title is a lack of depth. Only seven players saw action against Lee and of those three did most of the scoring: Ed Teal (the '82 all-stater) with 18, Sammy Galloway with 16 and Larry Perkins with 12.

For Lee, Henry led a four-man scoring contingent with 18 points followed by Westbrook with 18, Dickens with 12 and Victory Brown, who hit four key free throws late in the game, 10.

Lee returns to action on Tuesday when the junior varsity and varsity travel to Lubbock to take on Dunbar at 6:15 and 8 p.m.

Dorsett to see Dorsett?

Seattle's Warner is the lookalike

SEATTLE (AP) — The real Tony Dorsett will get a first-hand look at a new National Football League Tony Dorsett lookalike Sunday when the playoff-bound Dallas Cowboys face the playoff-hopeful Seattle Seahawks.

The Tony Dorsett lookalike is Seahawks' rookie running back Curt Warner, who is tearing up the American Football Conference and is coming off a club record 207-yard rushing performance.

Warner, who led Joe Paterno's Penn State Nittany Lions to the national collegiate football championship last season, is trying to lead Chuck Knox's Seahawks into the NFL playoffs this season.

Because of his size and running style, Warner is compared constantly with Dorsett, 1976 Heisman Trophy winner from Pittsburgh who has achieved superstar status in his seven NFL seasons.

"Curt Warner is more like a Tony Dorsett than he is like an Eric Dickerson because Dickerson is so big," said Knox. "Curt Warner is a great talent with great vision and great quickness."

The 11-2 Cowboys, with Dorsett already turning in his sixth 1,000-yard rushing season, are six-point favorites to beat the 7-6 Seahawks.

While Dallas already has clinched a playoff berth, the Cowboys are tied with defending Super Bowl champion Washington for first place in the National Football Conference East.

Seattle probably needs to win its final three regular-season games to get into the playoffs for the first time in the eight-year history of the franchise.

While Dorsett has rushed for 1,138 yards this year, Warner leads the AFC in rushing with 1,249 yards. Warner ranks second to the Los Angeles Rams' Dickerson, with 1,531 yards, in the entire NFL.

When Warner ran for his 207 yards here last Sunday, he also scored three touchdowns in a 51-48 overtime victory over Kansas City.

Dallas has met Seattle twice before in regular-season games. In 1980, the Cowboys walloped the Seahawks 51-7 in Dallas. In 1976, the Cowboys won 28-13 in Seattle.

Ironically, Dorsett could be a member of the Seahawks today, instead of the Cowboys. In 1977, Seattle traded its top draft choice to Dallas, allowing the Cowboys the second overall selection, with which they went for Dorsett.

Jack Patera engineered the trade as Seattle's head coach. He was fired last season.

"I didn't have anything to do with that," said Knox, first-year Seahawks' coach when asked about his feelings on the Dorsett draft-choice trade. "I wasn't here then so I don't know all the facts. I'm not in a position to even think about that."

Knox has more on his mind than the Cowboys these days. He's scratching his head about the plight of his new quarterback, Dave Krieg.

Although Krieg ranks first in the NFL in passing after replacing Jim Zorn as Seattle's starting quarterback five games ago, he has made 10 turnovers the past two games. Five were interceptions and five were fumbles.

"That's something that has to come with playing experience and being in the heat of the battle," said Knox. "It's got to be an awareness thing."

Bulldogs win crown

ARTESIA (AP) — Diminutive halfback Jeff Sanders rushed for 186 yards and three touchdowns Friday night as defending champion Artesia beat Portales 22-8 to capture the Class AAA prep football title.

The championship was the 13th for Artesia in football and the seventh since the Bulldogs joined the AAA ranks in 1974. The title also capped another Artesia turnaround. The Bulldogs began this season with four straight losses but won eight of their last nine games en route to the title. Artesia has won all seven AAA titles under Coach Mike Phipps.

Sanders, a 5-foot-7, 145-pound speedster, rallied Artesia from an 8-0 first quarter deficit with scoring runs of 10 and 21 yards in the second quarter. He also scored on a 6-yard run on the final play of the game. For the night, Sanders carried the ball 34 times.

The Bulldogs also got a 30-yard field goal from Martin White as they avenged an 8-6 loss to the Rams during the regular season.

Soccer players for Alpine Oil and Berg Bandits fight for the ball during a recent women's soccer game. The two teams plus two others from Midland, Exodus and Marathon Oil, are competing in the West Texas Women's Soccer Association winter tournament in Lubbock.

Midland women get 'kick' out of soccer

By BOB BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

Soccer in the United States is a rapidly growing sport. It's already swamped the younger age groups, making it difficult to keep up with the number of teams and facilities needed to accomodate everyone.

Midland is no exception. From the little tykes, the sport has spread through the age brackets, reaching the adult level. Now, interest is reaching the point where a women's league is close to being formed. There are already four established teams and a fifth nearing organization.

Since there is no women's league in Midland, the four teams now playing contend themselves with playing each other and entering tournaments, one of which they will compete in this weekend in Lubbock.

Exodus, the longest established team, will compete in the open division of the West Texas Women's Soccer Association winter tournament Saturday while the remaining three, Berg Motors Bandits, Alpine Oil Slugs and Marathon Oil, will fight their way through the rec division.

"We're strictly tournament teams right now," said David Vanhouten, coach of the newly formed Berg team. "We're thinking of making a league next year. Now we play in five tournaments per year, two in Dallas, two in Lubbock and one in San Antonio. Of course, this is the Bandits' first tournament but just about all the others (teams) went to Dallas, two went to San Antonio and all to Lubbock."

Since the Midland teams are playing against teams that have their own leagues to compete in during the regular season and are at a distinct disadvantage in the tournaments.

"Most teams we play against have been formed for some time and have leagues to play in," said Vanhouten. "So, whenever we (one of the Midland teams) come back with a couple of wins under our belts we're pretty proud of that. I believe there's been some hardware (trophies) brought home by Exodus but I'm not sure if it was for first or second place."

The hoped-for league is taking the television series spinoff route toward a schedule. That is, one team picks up more players than it can possibly use so they form a sequel.

"Personally, I think the sport is growing quite a bit," said Vanhouten. "The Bandits are a spinoff from Marathon and that's the way most got started. Now, we've got more girls than we can handle so I'd say another team will be forming pretty soon."

Ballesteros has Challenge lead

SUN CITY, Bophuthatswana (AP) — Seve Ballesteros of Spain finished with a 5-under-par 67 Friday and led by a stroke after two rounds of the Million Dollar Golf Challenge.

The U.S. Masters champion's 136 total put him at 8-under, a stroke ahead of partner Nick Faldo of Britain.

"It's always nice to be a shot ahead, but there's a long way to go," said Ballesteros, who got his fifth birdie on the par-4 17th hole.

He dueled with Faldo over the front nine, where the Briton bogeyed the par-4 sixth hole but birdied the second, seventh, eighth and ninth.

Faldo finished with seven birdies and shot a 67 for the day. He is 7-under with a 137 going into Saturday's third round.

The challenge is one of golf's richest tournaments. The winner in the 10-player field on Sunday will win $300,000. Even the last-place finisher gets $50,000.

Australian David Graham, the first-day leader, bogeyed twice on the front nine but birdied three holes coming in for a 1-under-par 71, standing 6-under with 138 at the halfway mark.

Americans Lee Trevino and Larry Nelson were 4-under for the tournament at 140. Trevino finished Friday's round with a 68, and Nelson shot a 71.

Nelson and Ballesteros were tied for second place with 69s after the first day. Trevino had been fifth after an opening par-72 on the 6,691-yard Gary Player Country Club.

American Ray Floyd was in fifth place after shooting a 2-under-par 70. He was 3-under for the two rounds at 141.

Craig Stadler of the United States was at 1-under for the tournament with a second round of 69, followed by American Johnny Miller, who shot a second-round 70.

Nicky Price of South Africa was 1-over with a strong second-round 68 after his opening 77, for a total of 145. American Fuzzy Zoeller fell to last place with a second-round 72, for a 3-over total of 147.

Ballesteros has appeared in all three challenge tournaments since the inaugural event in January 1982. He lost that one in a sudden-death playoff to American Johnny Miller, and a year ago led for two days before shooting over par for the last 27 holes.

"The difference is that I'm one year older," he said.

This gambling-golf resort is located in the South African-created homeland of Bophuthatswana, which South Africa alone recognizes as an independent country.

Trades likely on baseball front

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Baseball executives convene their annual Winter Meeting Monday with renewed interest in player deals and an eye on the panel that is looking for a new commissioner.

Several club officials said they expect to see a reversal in the trend of fewer and fewer trades and sales of players, which had occurred as free-agent signings gained in popularity.

At last year's meetings in Honolulu, there were only eight transactions involving 22 players, compared with 23 deals involving 64 players in 1975 — the year before the first free-agent draft.

The matter of finding a replacement for Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, however, could steal some of the limelight, depending on the nature of a report from the search committee headed by Milwaukee Brewers owner Bud Selig.

SHROUDED IN secrecy, Selig's committee has been hunting for a new commissioner for a year. Selig has asked that a report from his committee be placed on the agenda for Thursday, but he would not say if any names would be presented to owners.

"There's nothing I can say," Selig said. "I can only say what I've said all along. We'll see what happens in Nashville."

California Angels Executive Vice President and General Manager Buzzie Bavasi, however, said he understood "they will release some names to us. We'll have time to consider them. Whether we'll vote, I don't know."

The two most recent names mentioned as a possible Kuhn replacement were those of Frank Dale, former newspaper publisher and Cincinnati Reds executive, and Mike Trager, former vice president for NBC-TV and now a private consultant working with the U.S. Olympic Committee. There apprently is no clear frontrunner for the job, though.

Kuhn's 15 years as commissioner come to an official end on Dec. 31. If owners cannot agree on a successor by that deadline, baseball has the option of naming an interim commissioner until a permanent replacement can be found.

In addition to the commissioner's job, American League owners must also find a replacement for league President Lee MacPhail, who has taken over as head of the Player Relations Committee, the owners' collective-bargaining arm.

According to a source, MacPhail was Selig's first choice to replace Kuhn. But with labor negotiations coming up next year, owners felt it was more important to keep MacPhail in his role as baseball's labor negotiator.

That feeling may have been underscored last month when the Major League Baseball Players Association unexpectedly fired executive director Kenneth Moffett, a moderate who was the federal mediator in 1981's baseball strike. Replacing Moffett on an at-least interim basis is Marvin Miller, a hard-line negotiator who headed the union during the walkout.

OTHER ITEMS on the agenda for the week-long meeting include the use of the designated hitter in the World Series; drug abuse by players, and some minor rules changes. The meetings open officially on Monday with a draft of major league players not on any team's roster. The leagues meet separately on Thursday and jointly on Friday.

The inter-league trading deadline is 5 p.m. CST Friday, and Bavasi was among several owners who felt a flurry of trading activity would precede that hour.

"Years ago, you made a deal on a handshake," Bavasi said. "Now, you need a lawyer. But I don't think that will have any bearing this year. If you want somebody badly enough, the price doesn't make any difference.

"The reason I say there will be a lot of deals made is because there weren't a lot of premium players in the draft. There were some good ones, but not enough of them. We've talked to five clubs today alone."

Player agent Dick Moss, one of the lawyers who gets involved in player trades, was more reserved in his forecast.

"That's what they (club executives) say every year," Moss said. "The purpose of that is to make sure the reporters come.

"Everybody wants to go to make a good deal. But the way they define a good deal, nobody wants to deal with them. Then, guys go away from the meeting and say, 'Gee, why couldn't I make a deal?'"

In addition to player trades, the Winter Meeting traditionally yields several free-agent signings. Some of the top names this year include relief pitchers Rich Gossage and Kent Tekulve, and infielder Darrell Evans.

Gossage has been with the New York Yankees and past six seasons, while Tekulve has played all nine of his major league seasons with Pittsburgh. Both clubs are trying to re-sign their players, but, should they fail, the clubs showing the most interest in them reportedly are Atlanta and the Chicago White Sox. Evans declared his free agency from San Francisco, and the Los Angeles Dodgers reportedly are leading a group of bidders that also includes the Yankees.

"Most people are looking for the same thing, pitching," Bavasi said.

The rules change that would be of greatest interest to the fan concerns the World Series and designated hitter. The Official Playing Rules Committee and the two leagues will consider a proposal that the DH be used in all World Series games played at the home park of the American League champion. Currently, the DH is used in all World Series games in even-numbered years.

King status uncertain

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The status of Kenny King for the Los Angeles Raiders' next game is uncertain, a spokesman for the National Football League club said Friday, adding that the injured running back will have 10 days to recover since the team doesn't play again until Dec. 11.

Bradshaw might play

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Steelers quarterback Terry Bradshaw will be reactivated Saturday and will be available to play Sunday against the Cincinnati Bengals, the team said Friday.

But the Steelers said Cliff Stoudt will start as quarterback against the Bengals.

"It does not mean he (Bradshaw) is playing," said Steelers spokesman John Evenson. "He was just added to the active roster. Cliff Stoudt still is starting."

Bradshaw, 35, a 14-year veteran, has been sidelined since last March when he underwent surgery on his right elbow.

He has tried to return to active duty several times since hurting his arm at summer camp, but each time he has had to stop because of recurring pain in his throwing arm.

Bradshaw returned to Pittsburgh from his home in Grand Cane, La., early this week to resume workouts with the team at Three Rivers Stadium.

Bradshaw admitted during the workouts that he was taking it slowly and was rusty in timing and sharpness.

In Louisiana, Bradshaw underwent treatments on an electro-acuscope machine, which changes the electrical activity of human cells to reduce pain.

Stoudt, meanwhile, has led the Steelers to a 9-4 record and first place in the AFC Central Division.

Yates downs Aldine, 13-10

HOUSTON (AP) — Sophomore running back Johnny Bailey scored from the 2-yard line, capping an 80-yard drive, to give the undefeated Yates Lions a 13-10 victory over Aldine in a quarterfinal high school football playoff game Friday.

Aldine responded by driving from their own 20 to inside the Yates 20, but time ran out before the Mustangs could score.

The Lions had to come from behind to salvage their 14-0 record.

Center Jerald Davis kept the fourth-quarter drive alive when he caught, then fumbled, a deflected pass from quarterback Darrell Foster. Yates guard Derron Nash's recovery gave the Lions a first down on the Aldine 18-yard line.

Yates faces Converse Judson in a semifinal game next week.

Bailey's fumble at the Yates 28 set up Aldine's only touchdown just before halftime.

Quarterback Darcy Davis passed 2 yards to Gerome Sweat with three seconds remaining in the half.

Steve Kennard, who earlier kicked a 32-yard field goal, added the extra point.

Yates scored first when Bailey dragged a stack of Aldine defenders into the end zone from 6 yards out.

Bailey led all rushers with 80 yards.

Judson blanks Churchill

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Fullback Chris Pryor rushed for 206 yards and scored two touchdowns to lead Converse Judson to a 39-0 victory over San Antonio Churchill in a high school football quarterfinal game Friday.

The victory was Judson's fourth in two years over the Chargers.

Pryor's rushing yardage came on 34 carries and increased his total for the year to 2,343 yards through 14 games. The two TDs game him 28 for the season.

The Rockets jumped to a 16-0 lead when Pryor carried seven straight times for all 55 yards of an opening drive, then ran the final 4 yards around left end for the TD.

The Rockets made it 9-0 on a safety as defensive right end Mark Milligan blocked a punt out of the end zone.

Judson took the resulting kick and went 51 yards with Pryor scoring from 1 yard out, with 4:22 left in the first quarter.

John Tomasai added a 43-yard field goal midway through the second quarter to make it 19-0. Two minutes later, A.J. Jones returned a punt 76 yards for a touchdown to make it 25-0.

Six seconds before halftime, the Rockets made it 32-0 when halfback Chip Lambert caught a 6-yard pass from quarterback Allen Dear.

In the third quarter, Dear passed 14 yards to flanker Alton Martin.

Churchill finishes the season with an 8-4-2 record. Judson is 13-1.

Rookie puts fire in Rockets

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston rookie forward Rodney McCray scored a career-high 22 points and grabbed nine rebounds in his first start to pace the Rockets to a 125-102 victory over the Seattle SuperSonics in a National Basketball Association game Friday night.

Rookie center Ralph Sampson, Houston's top scorer and rebounder, drew three fouls in the first six minutes as Seattle took a 32-31 first-quarter lead.

Elvin Hayes took Sampson's place and keyed a Rocket surge with 10 second-period points.

Along the way, the 38-year-old Hayes joined Wilt Chamberlain and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar as the NBA's only 27,000-point scorers.

Hayes reached the milestone with a layup off an Allen Leavell feed with 3:40 remaining in the first half, and hit an 18-foot bank shot with 2:55 remaining to give Houston a 19-point bulge, 65-46.

After leading 67-52 at halftime, the Rockets raised their lead to 20 points, 82-62, on Hayes' layup off a James Bailey pass with 5:37 remaining in the third period.

The 7-10 Rockets posted their fifth home win in seven starts. Houston did not win its seventh game until its 42nd outing a year ago.

Jack Sikma scored 23 points to pace the 9-9 Sonics, who lost their third straight road game. Tom Chambers added 20 points.

Leavell ended with 18 points for Houston. Hayes and scored 16 points.

Gervin paces San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — George Gervin scored 32 points, 18 in the third quarter, to lead the San Antonio Spurs to a 123-94 National Basketball Association victory over the Chicago Bulls on Friday.

Gervin and forward Mike Mitchell broke open a close game in the third period with Mitchell scoring 10 of his 30 points.

The Bulls trailed the Spurs by only 6, 67-61, at the half. But the Spurs led by 23, 101-78, at the end of the third period.

Orlando Woolridge led the Bulls with 21 points, and Mitchell Wiggins scored 14 points.

The win snapped a three-game losing streak for the Spurs, who are now 7-12. The Bulls are now 1-8 on the road this year and finished the night at 5-10.

Spurs Center Artis Gilmore won the battle in the middle with 10 points and a game-high 11 rebounds. The Spurs out-rebounded the Bulls 50-30, scoring 23 points on 14 offensive rebounds.

Reserves played most of the fourth quarter for the Spurs, and they were led by Keith Edmonson, who scored 17 points. However, the Bulls' bench outscored San Antonio's 47-38.

The Bulls scored only 33 points in the second half. The Spurs biggest lead was 31, just before the end of the game.

Oregon State rolls on

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — No. 10 Oregon State, led by Rick Berry and Charlie Sitton, used a tight zone defense to offset a sluggish offensive performance and recorded a 49-40 victory over Arkansas State Friday night in the opening round of the Amana-Hawkeye Classic basketball tournamaent.

Fifth-ranked Iowa, the host team, met Baylor in the other first-round game.

Oregon State, playing its season opener, took only 37 shots, but was able to make Coach Ralph Miller's return to Iowa City a success. Miller, who coached at Iowa from 1964-70, was making his first appearance at his former school since leaving.

Berry, a freshman guard who played in place of suspended starter Darryl Flowers, led Oregon State with 13 points and Sitton, a senior forward, added 12 , all but four from the free throw line.

Flowers, starting forward A.C. Green and reserve forward Tyrone Miller were declared ineligible for the first six games for selling complimentary tickets, a violation of NCAA rules.

Arkansas State, also playing its first game of the year, kept pace with the heavily favored Beavers for much of the game, but scored only four baskets in the final 16½ minutes. The Indians were led by Duayne Harris' 14 points.

After trailing 28-25 at halftime, Arkansas State twice tied the score early in the second half, the last time at 34 on a basket by Marvin Stevens with 13:58 left. However, the Indidans scored only once in the next 13 minutes and Oregon State pulled away.

Midland Christian nips Jal, 43-40

Midland Christian's girls basketball team won a narrow 43-40 victory over Jal, N.M., Friday night to run the Mustang record to a perfect 3-0 for the year.

Anissa Wyatt led the Midland Christian attack with 16 points while Lisa Crocker had 10. Laura Woolard had seven points and Amanda Hendrickson six. Jal was paced by leading scorer Joyce James with 17 and Jackie Kemp with 10.

The Mustang girls will travel to Fort Stockton Monday to face the Panther junior varsity.

NC State wins again

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Lorenzo Charles muscled his way through North Carolina-Charlotte for 24 points Friday night as No. 7 North Carolina State and claimed a 79-60 college basketball victory over the 49ers.

The victory extended the Wolfpack's winning streak — longest in the nation — to 15 games. None of the victories has come on N.C. State's home court in Raleigh, although the latest victory came at the Greensboro Coliseum, 90 minutes from the campus.

Terry Gannon added 23 points for the Wolfpack, who climbed to 5-0.

Hawkeyes rip Baylor in tournament action

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Center Greg Stokes tossed in 23 points and guard Steve Carfino added 14 as fifth-ranked Iowa methodically wore down Baylor for a 67-44 victory Friday night in the opening round of the Amana-Hawkeye Classic Basketball Tournament.

Stokes' strong inside play — which included 10-for-13 shooting from the field and 12 rebounds — and Carfino's outside shooting propelled the Hawkeyes', 2-0, into the tournament championship game Saturday night against No. 10 Oregon State.

Oregon State, led by Rick Berry and Charlie Sitton, used a tight zone defense to offset a sluggish offensive performance in a 49-40 victory over Arksansas State in the other first-round game Friday.

Iowa, employing a full-court press that rattled Baylor, scored the first eight points of the game and held the Bears scoreless for nearly four minutes.

Baylor came back to trail only 18-14 with 8:44 left in the half, but Stokes contributed two baskets to a 10-2 spurt that put Iowa ahead 28-16 and the Hawkeyes went on to forge a 40-26 halftime lead.

Consecutive baskets developed by Paul Kuiper, who led Baylor with 14 points, cut Iowa's lead to 43-32 with 16:26 left in the game.

NFL still rebounding from possible 1983 disaster

An AP Sports Analysis
By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Sports Analysis

It is not as though cobwebs are growing on the 50-yard-line seats, as though pink slips were being handed out in National Football League front offices.

On the whole, things are still pretty good around the NFL.

But after years of an unceasingly upward spiral of popularity, during which the NFL could claim with some validity that football, not baseball, had become the national pastime, there has been a noticable leveling off of the curve.

TV ratings may be off a bit, and some advertisers are complaining. But the league says that, after a plunge at the beginning of the season, attendance is gaining momentum. And by the end of the year, the NFL says, the numbers could approach — perhaps even match — the 1981 season, whose records have become the yardstick.

THIS SEASON started out an acknowledged disaster. The aftertaste of last year's players' strike, the eruption of negative publicity from players linked to drugs or gambling, some spectacular late-summer weather and the start of an NFL season coming right after the end of the United States Football League season — all combined to knock the NFL's attendance down a dramatic 7 percent from the start of '81.

But that was September. This is December. After 13 weeks of 1983, the average paid attendance is just 2 percent behind its record pace. The NFL says that, if the records of '81 are not matched, attendance still will finish no worse than the second-or third-best season in its 64-year history.

The spate of recent stories suggesting the NFL is experiencing a recession of sorts could be premature, says Commissioner Pete Rozelle, "especially when our attendance trend is the going other way. We continue to close the gap in attendance with the record 1981 mark ... Our paid attendance this past weekend was higher than any of the final five weeks of the record 1981 season."

And with the prospect of 10 sellouts this weekend, Rozelle adds: "Our attendance total is gaining momentum, not slumping."

Rozelle's predecessor, the late Bert Bell, once said any NFL team could beat any other "on any given Sunday." That phrase has been distilled over the past few years to "parity." The league uses it proudly; beyond NFL domain, a certain amount of sarcasm creeps in.

Going into this weekend, 15 of the 28 teams are within one game of .500. Mediocrity, the critics complain, citing that as one reason for what is perceived to be declining interest.

But at the end of 1981, when the attendance and ratings records were set, 12 teams were either 9-7, 8-8 or 7-9.

This year, more than a few teams that were supposed to be major attractions have turned out to be anything but, and nowhere is that more noticable than on Monday nights. That is the NFL's weekly showcase.

BUT CINCINNATI wasn't supposed to be a 1-4 team when it played Pittsburgh on Oct. 10.

The New York Giants weren't supposed to be among the league's biggest losers when they played in St. Louis Oct. 24 and in Detroit two weeks later.

The Los Angeles Rams at Atlanta on Nov. 14 and Green Bay at Tampa Bay on Dec. 12 looked like promising Monday night matchups when the schedule was drawn up.

"If the Raiders had played Dallas on a Monday night, it probably would have been our second-best game in the ratings this year," said one NFL official, who asked that his name not be used. Instead, it was a Sunday night game and the numbers were only average. Similarly, "you had to remind people we had a game Thursday night" when the Los Angeles Raiders played San Diego. It would've been a far better draw on a Monday night — if the Chargers had been a contender.

The way things are going, ABC and NBC will likely wind up with ratings down from 1981 while CBS's ratings could be a bit up. "Washington-Dallas (next Sunday, as the nationally televised doubleheader game) will probably set a record for CBS ratings," the league official said. The shift in ratings from NBC to CBS can be traced in part to a swing in offense from the American Conference, the NBC "conference," to the National Conference, most of whose games are shown by CBS.

Not every national TV game can be a Dallas-Washington, like the Cowboys' 31-30 season-opening victory over the Redskins. Not every game can be a mind-boggler, like Green Bay's 48-47 thriller over Washington on Oct. 17.

A year ago, the Monday night games included not only San Diego 50, Cincinnati 34, but also Dallas 37, Houston 7.

Also a year ago, fans returned after a spring and summer free of football. This year, the USFL was just winding up when NFL camps were opening. Football had become a year-round sport.

WHAT IS now perceived as the NFL's problem right now — a surfeit of the sport — could become the USFL's problem next March, says Art Modell, the president of the Cleveland Browns.

"Sure, there's been a tendency toward overexposure," he said. "Anything that's shown year-round is going to be like that. The USFL's presence during the summer eroded some of the fan interest we'd normally have when we started this fall — but I think now that our fan interest is returning, it might hurt the other league when they start up again ... and if our ratings are off, it should worry them, too."

The ratings are worrying the advertisers who pay for the time to pitch their products. That money goes to the networks who shelled out more than $2 billion to televise NFL games for five years (the contract is in its seconbd season). And sponsors believe they aren't getting their money's worth.

"If I had to guess right now, I would think that the three networks will have some trouble selling football next year," says Jerry Solomon, executive vice president and director of sports programming for D'Arcy-McManus & Masius, an advertising agency.

When advertisers buy time, paying as much as $185,000 during the season for a 30-second spot on a Monday night game, they are not guaranteed specific ratings. But, as John Lazarus, vice president in charge of sports marketing for ABC, says, "We are in the business of getting renewals and we want them to leave the '83 season feeling good." That means the networks are willing to listen to advertisers' demands for smaller rate increases (generally 5-10 percent per season) and bonus spots on other sports or prime-time programs.

JIM SCHAAF, the general manager of the Kansas City Chiefs, believes that "after a long period of peace and tranquility ... this is the first year after the strike, and with all the things that have happened relative to drugs ... I think the public is a little turned off."

Auerbach calls it quits

BOSTON (AP) — Red Auerbach, who has spent half his life building the Boston Celtics, said Friday he will step down as general manager of the team after next year's National Basketball Association draft.

Auerbach, 66, said he will stay on as Celtics' president and consultant and operate out of Washington, D.C., where he lives. He also said he wants Jan Volk, the team's vice president and assistant general manager, to succeed him as general manager.

"I made up my mind a year ago that there comes a time when I want to spend more time in Washington and do a few other things and just stay home more," said Auerbach, the winningest coach in NBA history. "I don't want to get on those airplanes as much as I have been."

He said he attended 39 of Boston's 41 regular-season home games last season and "if I do 15 (next season) that's plenty."

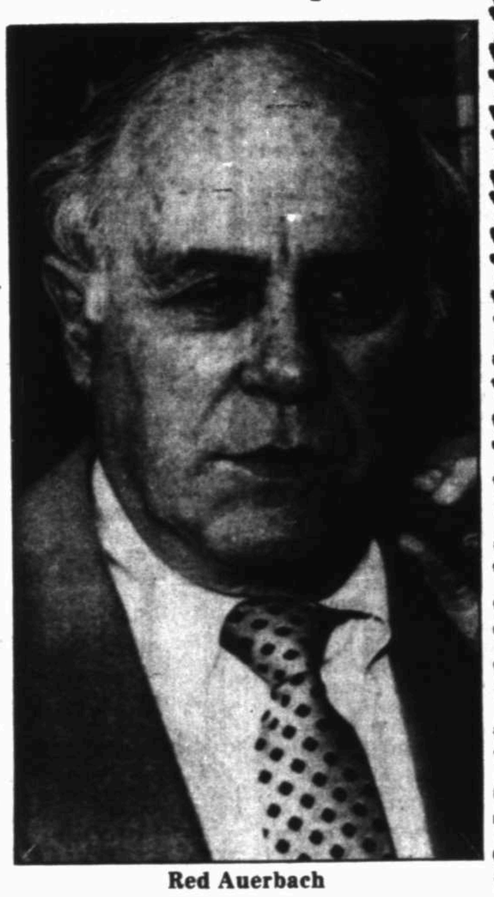
Auerbach, in his 34th season with the Celtics, has said many times during recent years that he wanted to retire.

Former owner Harry Mangurian Jr. said Auerbach told him in 1979 that he planned to retire after the 1980-81 season. But in March 1981, Auerbach signed what Mangurian called "a lifetime contract" under which Auerbach would follow his present job with a "consulting arrangement."

Auerbach said Friday he would have left the general manager's post after last season if Mangurian hd not sold the team. Don Gaston, Alan Cohen and Paul Dupee Jr. bought it last August.

Auerbach remained this season "to start these guys out right because they're good people, really good people," he said. "These people impressed me tremendously so I stayed on. Otherwise, I wouldn't have."

He doesn't anticipate a dramatic change in his duties immediately after he leaves the general manager's position and said, "I'm sure they'll consult me before they make any moves" regarding players.



Red Auerbach

"I just don't want to go to those general managers' meetings and have the day-by-day operation in the office. I've been kind of turning it over to him (Volk) the last three years."

Volk, who turns 37 Sunday, joined the Celtics' organization 13 years ago as head of season-ticket sales after obtaining a law degree. He said Auerbach, a shrewd dealer in the NBA trade market, would continue to be involved in player personnel decisions.

"So much of this is speculative because it hasn't happened, but this organization would be crazy, I suppose, not to utilize the best mind in the business," Volk said. "I've had a seminar in sports management for 13 years here. At different points in time I've gone to the head of the class and to the corner."

"He's paid his dues. He's done a heck of a job," Auerbach said. "He's been with me a long time. He's an attorney. He knows the game, a good businessman, good negotiator, good man."

Does he expect Volk to seek his advice?

"He's smart enough to ask for help," Auerbach said.

After three seasons as coach of the Washington Capitols and one with the Tri-City Hawks, Auerbach started his historic association with the Celtics when he became their coach in 1950.

He held the job for 16 seasons, never had a losing record and led Boston to nine NBA titles. His Celtics' teams had a 795-397 regular-season record and a 90-58 playoff mark. In 20 years as an NBA coach, his teams had a 938-479 regular-season record and a 1,037-548 mark including playoffs.

With the death of then-owner Walter Brown, Auerbach became general manager in September 1964. He ended his coaching career after the Celtics' won their eighth consecutive championship in 1965-66 and he later was inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame.

"I don't know" if the Celtics will change much after he steps down, Auerbach, a colorful figure noted for lighting cigars when a victory was assured, said with a laugh.

But Volk hinted that that was unlikely.

"The practicality of it will be very similar to what we have right now, that the business operation wil be handled out of here on a day-to-day basis and that any major decisions that involve players we'll rely to a great deal on his (Auerbach's) input," Volk said. "I don't anticipate Red retiring in the normal sense of that word."

Saints being probed by FBI

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — George Rogers and six of his New Orleans Saints teammates told a federal grand jury on Friday what they know about an FBI narcotics investigation, but U.S. Attorney John Volz said there is nothing to indicate any wrongdoing by any of the National Football League players.

Subpoenaed with Rogers to appear on Friday were fullback Wayne Wilson; defensive ends Frank Warren and Reggie Lewis; wide reciever Lindsay Scott, a first-round draft choice two years ago, and defensive backs Russell Gary and Rodney Lewis.

Citing rules of secrecy surrounding grand jury proceedings, Volz said he could provide no details of what Friday's testimony involved or what he hoped to prove.

He did say there was nothing on which to prosecute any of the Saints under either federal or state law.

"Perhaps it's somewhat unusual to make that sort of comment," he said after the grand jury session. "I feel like in view of the speculation about the conduct of professional athletes, it's only fair to say that.

"I might also say there is absolutely no connection between this instance and what happened last year."

Last year, Volz prosecuted former Saints running back Mike Strachan, who pleaded guilty to charges of selling cocaine and conspiring to sell cocaine. Strachan is serving a 3-year sentence at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala.

Rogers and Warren were among those listed as potential witnesses who would have been called to testify about cocaine purchases from Strachan, had the case gone to trial. During the Strachan case, Rogers checked into a drug rehabilitation clinic and alter admitted he had used cocaine "recreationally." He said last year that he had sworn off drugs.

Four of the seven players ducked reporters Friday, finding a back way out of the federal office building.

Houstonians lead tourney

TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES, N.M. (AP) — A six-man team from Houston, Texas, was leading the Western Bass United States Club championships at Elephant Butte Lake by almost 7½ pounds after Friday's first round.

The Port City Bass Club finished the first round with a total of 31.90 pounds to lead runnerup St. Louis Bass Busters with 24.55.

The final round will be on Saturday.

Coaches see Shootout II replay as possible 'classic'

Dick Winder, Cooper—"I know one thing, I won't miss it."

"I think you can discount our (Cooper's) victory over Lee. Their bus broke down on the trip here and we played two quarters by ourselves and scored a couple of times before Lee got on the field. We got lucky.

"Saturday's game will be between two of the finest in the state. Both are well coached and are blessed with great athletes.

"Since they played before, you are probably going to see some different things from both sides.

"It will be a game of contrasting styles, a Power team vs. a Finesse team. Weather definitely will be a factor. The team that makes mistakes will lose."

What effect will Lee's first game win have? "People say that Permian will have an edge because it lost the first game. But on the other hand Lee beat 'em once so they know they can to it. They could have an advantage from that standpoint."

Pick a winner, coach. "I wouldn't dare put a hex on anyone by picking a winner. I'm just going to sit back and enjoy it."

Jerry Millsaps, Odessa—"Both Lee and Permian beat us by five points. I'd say they are very even. I wouldn't want to pick a winner. Both are outstanding teams. Lee is a big strong team. It doesn't throw the ball well. Rather I should say I don't know whether they can or not. They haven't thrown the ball.

"If Permian, can stop the running game, Lee could be in trouble.

"Lee has an outstanding defensive team.

The effect of the first game, Lee's 20-7 victory, on this one: "I really don't think the first game will give Permian a pyschological edge. The first meeting will have no bearing on Saturday's game.

"What would I do differently if we played either again? I'd try to outscore both of 'em. Seriously, I thought our game plan was sound. Against Lee we had a couple of bad breaks and also against Permian. I wouldn't have changed a thing, except the score."

What effect will this game have on next week's game for the winner. "I'm not sure. It could hurt the winner next week. It's a big game.

"The solution is that both teams need to treat it as just another playoff game. Just another step. The problem is that you are still looking at two teams out of the same district. And when you've got rivarly such as exists between Midland and Odessa involved, I really don't see how it could be treated as another playoff game. It could hurt both next week. It's not like playing some team out of Fort Worth or El Paso."

Jimmie Keeling, San Angelo—"It's a gonna be one heckuva game. Both are excellent teams with good athletes. Both are extremely well coached. It shapes up as the prime game of the year, a classic. I don't know how you'd get a better game. Lee has beaten them earlier. That has got to be a confidence factor. At the same time it has to be an incentive for Permian.

"The key factor in the game will be the team that plays without errors.

"As far as the emotional nature of this game effecting the winner next week, it is a possibility. This game will take a lot of adrenalin. But I also think the incentive to go on and win it all should be an over riding factor and I think coaches will handle it well. When you get this far along, only two more, I think the winner will be ready to go on.

"I wouldn't dare pick a winner. The Lee kids are competitive. I think it will boil down to the team that can maintain greatest intensity. That's the way the games are in our league."

"I'm looking forward to watching the game."

Quinn Eudy, Big Spring—"Both are great defensively. We felt like we had to stop the run cold against Lee. Against Permian, their attack is more diversified. The things that impressed me with Lee were offensive line and speed. With Permian, it was the tradition, ability to throw and catch the football. Both are well coached. I'm gonna be there to see it. It's a game that has classic possibilities.

"I'm picking Lee. But wouldn't bet on it. At this stage I don't think any advantage or disadvantage will emanate from the first game victory by Lee. If both are injury free, it should be one of the most classic games ever to come out of this area.

"As for next week, since this is a battle within district, it might hurt the winner. But both are in the playoffs and both know that when they lose one, they're out. I think the coaches are experienced enough to overcome it."

Mike Rozier leads Heisman race

NEW YORK (AP) — The Downtown Athletic Club will name the 1983 Heisman Trophy winner tonight, and it won't come as any surprise to the other two top candidates if Mike Rozier of Nebraska wins the award.

Rozier, a senior running back, was one of three Heisman candidates reportedly invited to attend the awards ceremony and news conference, which begins at 4 p.m. CST. The actual announcement is scheduled for 6:50 p.m.

The other two were quarterbacks Steve Young of Brigham Young and Doug Flutie of Boston College.

"I don't know if I'm the best guy in my own locker room, and you're talking about the nation," Young said recently when asked about his chances of winning the award as the nation's best college football player.

"I just approach it as, 'Hey, that'd be great.' It's flattering to be considered, just to be in the same breath as some of the guys around the nation that are being considered," Young said.

Flutie, a junior, said he really didn't expect to be in the top three. "I thought I might be in the top 10," Flutie said, "have my name mentioned here or there, but that's about it."

Most consider Rozier, a senior, the frontrunner for the Heisman, which has been awarded by the Downtown Athletic Club every year since 1935. This season, Rozier ran for 2,148 yards, becoming only the second player in NCAA history to surpass the 2,000-yard mark in a single season. Marcus Allen of Southern Cal rushed for 2,342 yards in 1981.

Rozier's 4,780 career rushing yards is a Big Eight Conference record, and his 29 rushing touchdowns set an NCAA mark previously held by Lydell Mitchell of Penn State, who ran for 26 TD's in 1971.

"There are other players out there with talent, but none that make use of it like Mike has," says Nebraska backfield coach Frank Solich.

This year, Rozier led the Cornhuskers to a 12-0 regular-season record and a No. 1 national ranking. Nebraska will be going for the national championship in the Orange Bowl on Jan. 2 against Miami, Fla.

Young was the top-rated passer in the NCAA this year, throwing for 3,902 yards and 33 touchdowns. He led Brigham Young to a 10-1 mark, a No. 9 national ranking and a berth in the Holiday Bowl on Dec. 23 against Missouri.

Flutie passed for 2,724 yards and 17 touchdowns, helping Boston College to a 9-2 record and No. 13 national rating. The Eagles will play Notre Dame in the Liberty Bowl on Dec. 29.

Last year's winner was running back Herschel Walker of Georgia. If Rozier wins, he'll become the 33rd running back to do so. The last non-running back to win the award was Nebraska flankerback Johnny Rodgers in 1972. Rodgers also was the last 'Husker to win.

LSU fires Stovall for Arnsparger

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Jerry Stovall, who took Louisiana State to the Orange Bowl a year ago, was fired Friday as the Tigers' football coach and Bill Arnsparger, defensive coordinator of the Miami Dolphins, was quickly hired as his replacement.

"I am no longer the LSU football coach, I am now the team's biggest fan," Stovall said. "I don't have any plans, except that I'm looking for a vocation. I have no intentions at this time of staying in coaching."

ARNSPARGER TOLD reporters in Florida,"I feel real happy to be selected and I look forward to doing the job."

The LSU board of supervisors voted 13-5 to buy out the last year of Stovall's contract — which will cost the school at least $80,000.

Stovall, an LSU All-American, a runner-up for the Heisman Trophy in 1962 and an All-Pro with the National Football League St. Louis Cardinals, was 22-21-2 in four seasons.

He took over in January of 1980 as a replacement for Bo Rein, who was killed in an airplane accident after being named to succeed the retired Charley McClendon.

A year ago, the Tigers were 8-3-1, including a 21-20 loss to Nebraska in the Orange Bowl and Stovall, 42, was Southeastern Conference Coach of the Year in 1982 and the Walter Camp Foundation's coach of the year.

This year, they skidded to 4-7 and failed to win a Southeastern Conference game for the first time in their football history. The Tigers were 7-4 in 1980, but were 3-7-1 in 1981.

Athletic director Bob Brodhead, who recommended the firing, said he had decided Stovall's game plan was inflexible. On occasions, he said, the Tigers seemed to be "trying not to lose rather than aggressively win."

"The more games we played, the more predictable we became and the harder time we had beating opponents regardless of the strength of their ballclubs," he said.

HE NOTED LSU was favored in 10 of its 11 games, indicating they had talent.

Arnsparger will continue with the Dolphins until the end of the NFL season, but will work with LSU recruiters at the same time. He said he would stop at Baton Rouge Sunday night to meet with Brodhead, former business manager for the Dolphins.

Brodhead told the board that Arnsparger is "in my opinion the most respected and finest football coach I could find."

In recommending the firing, Brodhead said, "A coaching change is imperative if LSU is to have the kind of quality program expected of the university."He told the board he would recommend a four-year contract for Arnsparger, but no salary was mentioned.

The only question about Arnsparger came from Charles Cusimano, who noted that as a head coach for 2½ years with the New York Giants Arnsparger had a losing record. But Brodhead said that had happened a long time ago.

Arnsparger, 57, was 7-28 during a stint that ended midway through the 1976 season. However, he returned to the Dolphins and has earned a reputation as one of the pro game's top defensive assistants.

Brodhead said he has had two talks with Arnsparger about the job and told the board the new coach would be "available only periodically until around Jan. 1" because the Dolphins will be in the NFL playoffs.

RECOGNIZED AS a top-notch recruiter of high school talent, Stovall said he had no idea what effect the change of coaches would have on this year's efforts.

"That's in somebody else's hands, now. That's not in mine," he said. "I would be reluctant to forecast on things I have no control over."

Stovall said he doesn't intend to coach again at the college level, but would consider offers from the NFL. "I would not coach in professional football just to be coaching in the pros. There are certain men I would like to work with," he said.

He said after the season-ending victory over Tulane that he had talked with the state's new superintendent of education, Tom Clausen, about a possible job with the state Department of Education.

The board's action came on the recommendation of their athletic committee, which voted 10-2 after a heated 1½-hour debate.

Board member Tommy Neck, a former teammate of Stovall's, voted for the buy-out but nearly cried, saying "God, I wish I didn't have to vote that way."

Several supervisors lauded Stovall's integrity and loyalty, but added they had to go along with Brodhead's recommendation for the good of the university.

Brodhead said Stovall won only 48 percent of his games and 14 of those victories came against weak teams — ones winning only 20 percent of their games.

THE ACTION was opposed by former Gov. John McKeithen, who said the dispute was tearing the university apart. He said Stovall should be told he has the final year of his contract to turn out a winner.

Chancellor James Wharton, who backed Brodhead's recommendation, apologized to the board saying he "regretted deeply the controversy that has developed." He said part of it was because "the football program didn't handle adversity well."

For more than a week, Arsparger had been rumored as the top candidate, although Brodhead said Friday he had talked to several other candidates, but refused to say who they were.

Moses, Marsh plan different 1984 routes

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Edwin Moses, world record holder in the intermediate hurdles, and steeplechaser Henry Marsh, American record holder at 3,000-meters, are planning different routes to the 1984 Summer Olympics in Los Angeles.

The two discussed their training plans Friday after being named, along with long jumper-sprinter Carl Lewis, winners of three new awards presented by The Athletics Congress, national governing body for track and field.

Moses received the Harrison Dillard award at the TAC awards luncheon as the nation's outstanding male athlete in the sprint and hurdle events. He lowered his world record in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles at 47.02 seconds at Koblenz, West Germany in August.

He said said he won't compete indoors, then will decide in February when he will try to extend his streak of 87 consecutive wins in the intermediate hurdles.

Marsh, who received the first Glenn Cunningham award as the top male distance runner in the United States, said he would run a few indoor races, probably at two miles.

Lewis, who won three gold medals at the World Championships in Helsinki, Finland in August, did not attend the luncheon where he was named as the winner of the Jim Thorpe award as the outstanding male athlete in the field events and decathlon category.

Lewis shattered his sea-level record for the long jump with a leap of 28 feet, 10½ inches last June 19. He also broke the American record in the 200-meter dash with a time of 19.75 and later ran on the U.S. 400-meter relay team that set a world record of 38.76 in the world championships.

Marsh received his award after smashing his American record in the 3,000-meter steeplechase by more than two seconds with a clocking of 8:12.37 Aug. 17 at Berlin. That came after he tripped over the last hurdle while running second in the world championships.

Other winners included Boston Marathon winner Greg Meyer, outstanding men's long distance runner; and Joan Benoit, the first-place women's finisher at Boston, named Runner of the Year by the Women's Long Distance Running Committee.

Rose Bowl tickets are scarce for Illini fans

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — About one-third of the 100,000 football fans at the Rose Bowl on Jan. 2 will be cheering for Illinois, but thousands more will be turned away, says the director of the Alumni Association.

"We could sell 50,000 or more, but the problem is there just aren't enough tickets for Illinois," said Louis Liay. "The sad part is that many of those who are left out are our alums right there in L.A."

Liay is angry about the Rose Bowl policy that allowed UI just 20,000 tickets, and about legalized ticket scalping in California that has pushed the price of some $30 seats to $200 or more.

Since Illinois earned its first trip to the Rose Bowl in 20 years by winning the Big Ten championship, Liay's office has been flooded with letters and telephone calls from former UI students wanting tickets.

"I've gotten calls from Mexico City, Toronto and all over this country," said Liay. "Some people are irate. How do you tell an alum that you don't have tickets?"

The demand is great because Illinois has not been to Pasadena for so long, and because there are so many UI graduates, he said. More than 100,000 people have earned degrees at Illinois since the 1964 Rose Bowl, and "they all want to go" to this game, said Liay.

A lottery will determine which season ticket holders — students, faculty, staff and Athletic Association donors — may buy tickets through the university.

In addition, fans in the state have been signing up for package tours through travel agents since the week before Illinois beat Michigan — its main foe for the Big Ten crown. One Champaign agent said she has booked about 1,200 people already and can accept about 500 more for a plan that includes transportation, lodging and tickets.

But, Liay said Illinois has many graduates outside the state, including about 15,000 in California, and some may be forced to pay ticket brokers $200 or more to get a seat in the Rose Bowl.

Bill Nicholas, chairman of the Tournament of Roses football committee, said the tournament takes applications for 3,500 tickets from the public in October, and about 17,000 are used for people involved in the parade. He said 50,000 bowl tickets are allocated to the Pac 10 Conference, and some of them fall into the hands of ticket brokers.

The tournament has supported legislation to ban the legalized scalping of tickets but "their lobbyists are so strong" the effort failed, said Nicholas.

By contrast, it is against the law in Illinois to re-sell a ticket for more than its face value. Violation is a misdemeanor with a fine up to $5,000.

'Skins, Cowboys try to keep pace

By The Associated Press

The Washington Redskins and the Dallas Cowboys will try to keep pace with one another Sunday, one week before their National Football League showdown in Dallas.

The two clubs, both assured of playoff spots, are tied for first place with 11-2 records in the National Conference Eastern Division.

Washington will be at home against Atlanta, 6-7, while Dallas is at Seattle, 7-6.

Two teams can clinch playoff spots Sunday. Miami, 9-4, can win the American Conference East with a victory at Houston, 1-12, while Pittsburgh, 9-4 and first in the AFC Central can clinch at least a wild-card berth by winning at home against Cincinnati, 5-8.

Regular quarterback Steve Bartkowski did not play last week in Atlanta's 47-41 overtime victory over Green Bay and is questionable again Sunday. Backup Mike Moroski completed 22 of 35 passes for 303 yards and two touchdowns against the Packers.

The Atlanta defense, which couldn't stop Green Bay, will be faced with the passing of Joe Theismann, who has completed 232 of 386 passes for 3,117 yards and 22 touchdowns, and the running of John Riggns, 1,049 yards, and Joe Washington 682 yards.

NFL Roundup

Seattle scored 51 points in beating Kansas City in overtime last Sunday — a total the Seahawks should not approach against the tough Dallas defense. But the Seattle defense gave up 48 points to the Chiefs, a total which almost certainly would get the Seahawks mauled by the Cowboys, who have won two previous meetings between the two clubs.

Miami needs to win just one of its three remaining games to clinch the AFC East and if they fail against Houston on the road Sunday, they can do it at home against Atlanta and the New York Jets. But both the Falcons and Jets are tougher than the Oilers, who last week lost 35-24 to Tampa Bay to become the NFL's losingest team. It was Tampa's Bay second win against 11 losses.

Terry Bradshaw is practicing again, but Cliff Stoudt, who has been the starter all season, will be at quarterback when Pittsburgh tries to snap a two-game losing streak in a battle of two teams that both were embarrassed in their last starts.

Pittsburgh looked inept in getting whipped by 45-3 by the Detroit Lion on Thanksgiving Day, while Cincinnati got picked apart by rookie quarterback Dan Marino in losing 38-14 to Miami last Monday night.

Other Sunday games will be Cleveland, 8-5, at Denver, 7-6; the Los Angeles Rams, 8-5, at Philadelphia, 4-9; Tampa Bay, 2-11, at San Francisco, 7-6; New Orleans, 7-6, at New England, 6-7; Chicago, 6-7, at Green Bay, 6-7; Buffalo, 7-6, at Kansas City, 5-8; the New York Jets, 6-7, at Baltimore, 6-7; St. Louis, 5-7-1, at New York Giants, 3-9-1.

Monday night, Minnesota will play at Detroit, which are tied for first in the NFC Central with 7-6 records.

Thursday night, the Los Angeles Raiders, 11-3, clinched the AFC West title with a 42-10 rout of San Diego, 5-9.

Cleveland has fought its way back into the AFC Central title hunt and hopes to tie Pittsburgh for first place or remain just one game behind the Steelers by beating Denver, something the Browns have not be able to do in five straight meets. In their last game, in 1981, the Broncos won 23-20 in overtime.

Los Angeles will try to hold its one-game lead over New Orleans and San Francisco by beating Philadelphia, a club which has lost seven straight times to the Rams.

Against Tampa Bay, San Francisco will be trying to halt a slide that has seen the 49ers drop four of their last five games, while New Orleans will be trying to win for first time in three weeks at New England.

Smith celebrates despite being with Oilers

HOUSTON (AP) — Two events worth celebrating can happen when Houston Oilers wide receiver Tim Smith is on a football field.

He's going to catch a lot of passes or his wife will have a baby.

The Smiths' first child was born in 1980 while Smith and the Oilers were playing the Baltimore Colts.

It almost happened again last week when Timothy Andrew Smith was born several hours after the Oilers were embarrassed 33-24 by Tampa Bay.

Despite the loss, Smith was passing out cigars at the Oilers practice facility Monday morning and he hopes to have more to celebrate Sunday when the Oilers host the Miami Dolphins in the Astrodome.

Smith has 63 receptions this season for 921 yards and could become the first Oilers receiver to gain 1,000 yards since former Oilers Ken Burrough gained 1,063 yards in 1975.

The emergence of Smith as an offensive threat has been one of the few success stories of a dismal season that now stands at 1-12.

Smith, in his fourth pro season, had caught four passes for 58 yards in three previous seasons with the Oilers but when injuries riddled the Oilers receiving corps, Smith got his chance prior to the start of this season.

He didn't let it pass. Smith caught nine passes for 197 yards and one touchdown in the season opener against Green Bay and he hasn't slowed down since.

Smith's 63 receptions ties for fifth in the American Football Conference.

Smith's chance to play coincided with the installation of an offense that put a premium on reading defenses and running precise routes, strong qualities for the former Nebraska receiver.

Offensive coordinator Kay Dalton's offensive alignment fit Smith perfectly, the receiver said.

FTC investigates NFL draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission has begun a preliminary investigation into pro football's four-year rule, which bars the drafting of college players until their eligibility expires, an FTC spokeswoman said Friday.

The FTC, which shares antitrust responsibility with the Justice Department, sent letters to the National Football League and the United States Football League requesting voluntary cooperation in the investigation to determine whether the four-year rule can be justified.

Both leagues confirmed Friday that they had received the letters.

"We are in the process of reviewing the letter, and we will have no comment until this process is complete," said Joe Browne, director of public relations for the NFL.

However, he also said: "We feel that the NFL policy on undergraduate players is both reasonable and proper, in the circumstances of professional football. However, the simple fact is that the NFL interests are largely unaffected if we were required or ordered to draft or sign undergraduate athletes."

Jim Byrne, a publicist for the USFL, said: "We have received the letter, but the commissioner (Chet Simmons) is out of town and he won't be here until next week. We're not prepared to make a statement at this time."

Byrne also reiterated Commissioner Chet Simmons' position that he would "abide by the four-year rule" if necessary.

"Obviously, we would like it clarified," Bryne said.

The FTC spokeswoman, who asked not to be identified, did not release details of the investigation. But she said a report of the probe in Friday's editions of The New York Times was "basically accurate."

The Times said the investigation was expected to be completed by next summer. At that time, the staff could recommend action by the five-member commission.

'Boudoir photos' prove popular for Christmas

By SCOTT RECKARD
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES — After a glass of wine, they may curl up on a velvet ottoman, soothed by soft music and clad in negligees or even less. They're professional women with money to spend and this Christmas they're spending it on "boudoir photos" for their men.

"It's not what you'd consider dirty in the '80s," says portrait photographer Stuart Naideth. "The most risque one was of a very attractive lady who took off all her clothes, but it was more like a Playboy centerfold than anything else."

He says his customers — mostly professional women from 30 to 45 — are flocking to his studio in increasing numbers as Christmas approaches. On average, each pays $600 for a series of soft-lighted, seductive shots, usually one large wall photo and several small prints.

His soft-focus lens is adapted from the kind used for movie studio portraits of such classic stars as Jean Harlow and Marlene Dietrich.

Negligees are provided by the house. So is the soft music and the wine that most customers accept before the photo session.

Naideth and his wife Joan, who helps run the business, said that most of the women relax quickly. Then they recline on such props as a velvet ottoman, perhaps posed in front of an ornate mirror on a wall with flocked paper or an Oriental screen.

Naideth says his clients included a bank vice president and the wife of a state senator.

"At least 95 percent of them are career women," he says. "Lawyers, people in commodities, brokers and a lot of sales people.

"I think I've only done two housewives," he adds. "I guess if I was going to philosophize about it, I'd say they feel since they are successful in business, and are making money, they are comfortable with themselves and are comfortable doing this."

Naideth, 32, was shooting mostly weddings when, four years ago, a woman walked into his studio in the Orange County community of Costa Mesa and proposed to shed most of her clothes for a portrait to be given to her husband.

"Then I spent a day or two with a guy up in Las Vegas who'd been shooting similar things," he said. Word of mouth produced a steady stream of women seeking what he calls "boudoir photos." Business really soared six months ago when he began to advertise in an Orange County magazine and newspapers.

Surfing carpenter named Playgirl's Man of the Year

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Playgirl's Man of the Year for 1983 is a fanatic surfer whose style recalls the beach boys of the '50s and early '60s.

"Surfing's my release," said 22-year-old Kory Bryan Wolf, a carpenter by trade. His sun-bleached blond hair testifies to the hours he spends outdoors.

"I can never get enough of it," the 6-foot-3 Wolf said in the January issue, in which he is featured on seven picture pages plus a three-page pullout. The magazine said he "received an overwhelming approval rating from Playgirl's admiring readership."

Wolf, of the San Diego suburb of El Cajon, appeared nude in the magazine's August 1983 edition as well as in a later centerfold. He got word of his selection as Man of the Year while camping with his parents, the magazine said.

"I knew about the possibility of the title, but I was never that sure," said Wolf, described by the magazine as "a party-man extraordinaire."

The Beginning

They met in church school. Right now I think you could call them childhood sweethearts. You can bet that in a few years they will be embarrassed that Aunt Jessie snapped this picture. But later, who knows? Perhaps they will discover each other again.

Whether they do or not, both these youngsters are luckier than they know. Not because they met in church school, but because they are in church school. They have made a beginning that will sustain them throughout their entire life.

You can't give a child faith. But you can open the door so that he has a chance to find it — the door that leads to church school as well as the door that leads to a life of useful Christian service.

If you never went to church school, that is all the more reason to enroll your youngsters now. If you missed out, don't let them!

Grove City College stands on principle

By MARY MacVEAN
Associated Press Writer

GROVE CITY, Pa. — Grove City College — avowedly Christian, adamantly conservative and afraid of losing its old-fashioned outlook — wants the U.S. Supreme Court to tell the federal government to mind its own business.

The U.S. Department of Education insists that Grove City College sign a piece of paper pledging that it does not discriminate on the basis of sex.

The form is required of any school receiving federal aid, but the college maintains that it already treats its male and female students equally and that signing the paper would be signing away its independence.

College President Charles S. MacKenzie sees the case, which the Supreme Court heard Nov. 29, as a lesson in what Grove City College tries to teach its students.

"We hope students perceive that Grove City is trying to live by its principles," he said. "That's what life is all about."

Since 1977, the college has been fighting against signing the affidavit, which is required under Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972. Title IX states that federally funded education programs cannot discriminate on the basis of sex.

Grove City College maintains that it is not federally funded because it has never accepted a penny of direct aid. The Department of Education, however, says that the $250,000 to $500,000 in grants and loans the federal government provides to Grove City students each year is federal aid to the college.

What worries college officials is that if the government wins the case, it would have the power to make Grove City College obey other regulations.

"If we lost or gave jurisdiction to the government, it would, over the long term, change the character of this institution," said MacKenzie, a Presbyterian minister. "If we lose, there may be no truly independent colleges left in the country."

For 107 years, the college has provided men and women with a liberal arts education. Affiliated with the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.), its enrollment has grown from 13 to 2,200 students.

The serene 150-acre campus, 70 miles north of Pittsburgh in Mercer County, is tidy and quiet. Its 27 brick or stone buildings are spread across gently sloping grassland bisected by Wolf Creek.

"Ours is a loving community. You will love and be loved back," MacKenzie tells students in a brochure.

"You meet the kind of girls you marry here," says senior Randy Oates.

"It scares me," says senior Marcie Dahl. "Where will I meet people like this when I'm gone?"

Some students say they don't mind the rules; others get around them. For example, students are required to attend 16 chapel programs a semester, but some pay fellow students $1 a service to go in their place and turn in their cards.

The 1981 edition of the Comparative Guide to American Colleges says students at Grove City seem "to have more influence on curriculum than on rules governing their social life."

"Being 22, I could have a little more choice," said Tim Daigle, president of the Interfraternity Council, which has unsuccessfully pressed to relax the rules.

Despite the social restrictions, Grove City College emphasizes personal freedoms in the classrooms.

"We hire people who have a commitment to students, an orientation to Christian values and belief in the paramount importance of economic and political freedoms," said Dr. Thaddeus Penar, academic vice president.

Students learn the free market theory of economics, and say they are taught the dangers of government intervention into life and business.

"Academically, I believe in the college very much," said Matthew Frankovitch, a junior who opposes the social rules. "We're getting the most possible for the price."

The $2,880 annual tuition is far less than the more than $4,500 charged at the average private college, according to the College Scholarship Service in Princeton, N.J.

"I looked at a lot of schools, but what eventually swayed me was the excellent education for the bucks," said Bill Collier, a 21-year-old accounting major.

Grove City College is "a successful little school operating at a low cost," MacKenzie said. Despite an endowment of just $7 million, it runs on a balanced budget and has no debt. The faculty has no tenure; there are no labor unions. In each of the past six years, alumni have set records with contributions.

One growing expense for the college, however, is its legal bill for the Title IX fight. Grove City College has spent $340,000 since 1977 arguing its right to independence.

"Since it's already illegal to discriminate, we don't feel this (affidavit) would make a difference," MacKenzie said.

The administrative law judge who first heard the case in Philadelphia agreed with the college president.

"There was not the slightest hint of any failure to comply with Title IX, save the refusal to submit an executed assurance of compliance," wrote Judge Albert P. Feldman. "This refusal is obviously a matter of conscience and belief."

RELIGION

Robert Smith, who graduated in 1959, found the atmosphere so inviting he returned a decade later to work in the public relations office.

"The small town also has a Christian orientation, and we thought it would be a good place to raise kids," said Smith, whose son attends Grove City and whose 17-year-old daughter will enroll next September. Almost 25 percent of the Grove City students are related to an alumnus.

"It's important for me to be a Christian every day, not just on Sundays," said Denice Brown, who chose Grove City College after a visit convinced her of the intimacy of the campus community.

The campus community, however, is also governed by strict rules of behavior.

Alcohol is prohibited, and ice cream socials are popular.

Students are allowed in dorms of the opposite sex only on weekends, and then must leave by 1:45 a.m.

Students may live off campus only if they live with their families.

'Sunshine Tree' to be broadcast

A network of 24 television stations across Texas and New Mexico will broadcast the story of one of United Methodist Church's most successful children's homes, The Methodist Home in Waco.

"The Sunshine Tree" will be broadcast on KOSA Channel 7 at noon Sunday. The 30-minute program takes the viewer through a tour of The Methodist Home's main campus, the boy's ranch and into a foster care home. It begins with the Rev. Jack Kyle Daniels recounting his experience at the home when he was a child. Daniels, who is administrator of The Methodist Home, was formerly director of High Sky Girl's Ranch, Midland.

" 'The Sunshine Tree' is the story of children and their tremendous needs. It's the story of children caught up in the chaos of divorce, economic and emotional pressures, with mothers trying to raise children on their own," says the Rev. Thomas A. Strother, director of development for the home. "It's the story of the unique and innovative work being done by The Methodist Home in response to those needs."

Presbyterian join in economic discussion

NEW YORK (AP) — Approximately 2,000 Presbyterians will gather today to take part in a televised two-way discussion on economic justice issues.

Parishoners from the 3.2 million-member Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) will meet in about 30 communities to listen to a two-hour program of panelists discussing economic policy from a studio in Atlanta.

After the the panel discussions, the participants will spend two hours discussing what they heard. Then the panelists will return to the air and answer questions and comments phoned in from the participating groups.

The purpose of the event is to help the church's advisory council on Church and Society prepare recommendations about economic policy to be presented at the church's General Assembly in 1985.

The best place to be for a recent Christmas parade in Chehalis, Wash., discovered 6-year-old Brandon Dixon, is inside a big coat with mother. Providing extra warmth is Ilene Horton.

Polar bear nursing softball-sized twins

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — No bigger than furry softballs, a pair of day-old polar bear twins nestled against the warm bulk of their 400-pound mother Friday, as officials worried that the babies might be crushed under Mama Bear's weight.

Each time the 18-year-old mother, Ursa Minor, moves in her cage, officials hold their breath, said James Loomis, a spokesman for the Worcester Science Center zoo. Twice before, twins born to the bear have died.

"Everything is status quo and nip and tuck," Loomis said after Thursday's birth. "Fortunately, she's not moving much. That's a very good sign. That means she's protecting them properly.

"They are so small, 20 to 24 ounces, with a 400-pound mother. They are handfuls, not a heck of a lot bigger than a baseball, the size of a softball maybe.

"The only way they survive is to be held next to the mother's breast. It's the heat of the mother's body and her breathing on the newborns that lets them survive. If they get out of the environment, they can catch pneumonia."

Zoo officials want the mother to nurse her cubs in as natural a setting as possible, he said. The mother is unlikely to bring the cubs out of the den until March, and Loomis said zoo workers wanted to avoid going into the den to get the young animals.

The father, Ursa Major, a 700-pound Siberian polar bear, dozed in a tranquillized sleep during the morning delivery after he was lured away from the den with apples and then barricaded behind a steel door in another part of the bear exhibit.

Caribbean nations allowed duty-free exports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eleven Caribbean nations now are eligible for special trade status allowing them to export goods duty-free to the United States.

The countries are Barbados, Costa Rica, Dominica, Dominican Republic, Jamaica, Panama, Netherlands Antilles, St. Lucia, St. Vincent and the Grenadines, Trinidad and Tobago, and St. Christopher-Nevis.

The designation will extend duty-free treatment from Jan. 1, 1984 until Sept. 30, 1995 for goods, except those excluded by law.

Sailor who plotted location of Japanese ships identified

WASHINGTON (AP) — The anonymous sailor reported in a book last year to have plotted the location of Japanese aircraft carriers on their way to attack Pearl Harbor has now been identified and is living in a San Francisco suburb.

A retired Navy officer who interviewed the man on behalf of Navy code-breakers says he is unable to reach any conclusions about his story because "some areas are simply dead ends."

The sailor, Robert D. Ogg of Kentfield, Calif., now a retired businessman, was described as "Seaman Z" in the book "Infamy: Pearl Harbor and Its Aftermath," published last year by World War II historian John Toland.

As a 20-year-old assigned to the intelligence section of the 12th Naval District in San Francisco, Ogg was reported by Toland to have noticed, five days before the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, radio signals from an area of the North Pacific where there was no shipping.

HE WAS asked to check with companies carrying radiograms across the Pacific and with shipping firms to see if they had noticed anything — and they had.

Toland said Ogg plotted the location of the mystery transmitter and gave it to his superior, Lt. Elsworth A. Hosner. Hosner passed it on to Capt. Richard T. McCullough, his boss, and believed that it reached President Franklin Roosevelt because McCullough and Roosevelt were friends, Toland wrote.

Ogg's identity is recorded in an interview conducted by retired Cmdr. I.G. Newman, a consultant to the Navy Security Group who has a degree in history and who served as a cryptologist — code-maker — on active duty.

Newman said from his suburban Washington home Wednesday night that he spent three days with Ogg and recorded 3½ hours of questions and answers. The transcript was deposited in the Navy historical section after it was determined that it contained no classified information.

Newman said he was asked to interview Ogg after the head of the group "was advised by someone he knew that Mr. Ogg was willing to shed his anonymity."

THOUGH OGG cleared up some ambiguities in Toland's account, Newman said, "I did not get answers that would lead me to unqualified belief" in that account because "some areas are simply dead ends."

For instance, Ogg "was given information (bearings) on a piece of paper from a commercial organization, one of the commercial companies," but he did not know the kind of equipment the company was using.

Toland concluded, from the account of "Z" and other evidence, that Roosevelt had known of the impending attack and did nothing, knowing that it would throw the United States into war with Germany, Italy and Japan — something he was said to have wanted but could not bring about on his own because of strong domestic opposition. This has been an accusation of many critics of Roosevelt over the years.

Most historians have concluded that although it was clear that the United States knew that Japan was going to strike British and Dutch possessions in Southeast Asia — American analysts were tracking those Japanese invasion forces — there was no evidence at the time that Japan would stage a surprise attack on the Pacific Fleet at Pearl Harbor.

The attack killed 2,248 Americans. Congress declared war on Japan the next day with only one dissenting vote.

HISTORIANS have criticized Toland's conclusions as unfounded, pointing out, for instance, there is not a shred of evidence in the Japanese archives that the Pearl Harbor strike force ever broke the stringent radio silence imposed by its commanders as essential for surprise.

Newman said he was "not in a position to answer" the question of whether the Japanese broke radio silence.

Homecoming queen also mother

DALLAS (AP) — Asyle Martin is pretty, popular, and ambitious. But her coronation as homecoming queen at Hillcrest High School earlier this month is a sore spot with some parents.

Ms. Martin, 17, a senior, is the unwed mother of a 2-year-old girl, and that, some parents told the Dallas Times Herald, prevents her from being a good role model for other high school students.

"Anyone who has an illegitimate child at an early age cannot be a proper role model for teen-agers (whom) we're trying to teach to become responsible adults," said Bernice Launius, publicity chairwoman for the Hillcrest Parent Teacher Student Association.

"She represents the school, and we just don't think that's proper representation," said Pat McConnell, president of the Hillcrest PTSA.

But Ms. Martin, who also was the only black in a field of eight candidates and just the second black to be chosen homecoming queen in the history of the predominantly white school, believes the honor is just a popularity contest.

"It's not like you need to have any talent or anything," Ms. Martin said. "It's just how many people you know, really. We didn't have to do anything."

"I was kind of like in shock when I won," she said. "I feel lucky to be homecoming queen and some of my friends told me some whites weren't happy that I won. But I haven't heard anything myself."

After Ms. Martin's crowning on Nov. 5, the school received 20 calls from angry parents, who said they were worried the high school appeared to be condoning teen-age pregnancies.

As a result, school principal Ken Harris created a committee to set up new guidelines to choose future homecoming queen candidates.

Harris said that a planning committee was reviewing guidelines, but added that "doesn't necessarily mean it would eliminate the type of student we now have as homecoming queen."

Some students said they did not know Ms. Martin had a child until she showed up at the dance with her baby, Anisha Nicole, and the child's father. Others students said they knew but did not care.

Julie Sterling, a varsity cheerleader who was also a homecoming queen candidate, said Ms. Martin's race has nothing to do with the controversy.

"It doesn't have anything to do with her color. I think it's good that she won in a way. She's a really pretty girl," she said. "I just think it's incredible that she has a child and she'd supposed to represent my school."

Kenneth Hill, a senior Hillcrest football player, said he nominated Ms. Martin because "she's the sweetest person up there."

Asyle Martin, the 17-year-old homecoming queen at Dallas' Hillcrest High School, poses with her two-year-old daughter Anisha Nichole. Ms. Martin, a senior, is an unwed mother. Her election prompted complaints from angry parents worried that the school appears to be condoning teen-age pregnancies.

"There's nothing wrong with her having a baby. I knew she wasn't in too many school activities but I thought she was a nice person who could do the job," Hill said.

Under the current rules, the football team makes nominations and the student body elects the winner. One faculty member said Ms. Martin beat the runner-up by more than 100 votes.

Ms. Martin said she was 14 years old when she got pregnant and said the father, a 1982 Hillcrest graduate, has been her steady boyfriend for almost four years.

"I don't know if we'll ever get married," she said. "I'm going to college when I get out of school."

Letter returned after eleven years

LONG BRANCH, N.J. (AP) — On March 29, 1972, Agnes Keimig mailed a letter to her brother in Australia. This week, the letter was returned to her home here marked "not known at this address" but her brother still is unaccounted for.

"Where was (the letter) for 11 years? Wouldn't I like to know!" Mrs. Keimig said Wednesday, adding that she had forgotten she had mailed it. "I never wrote anymore because there were never any answers."

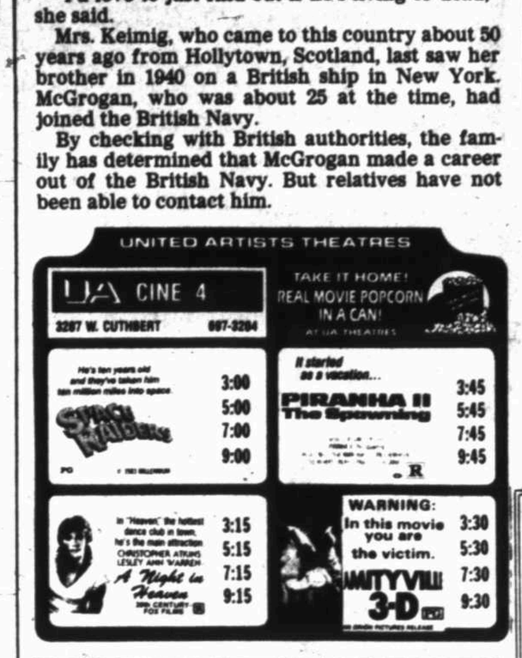
But she never lost interest in finding out what became of her brother, John McGrogan, who has not been seen by any member of his family for 43 years.

"I'd love to just find out if he's living or dead," she said.

Mrs. Keimig, who came to this country about 50 years ago from Hollytown, Scotland, last saw her brother in 1940 on a British ship in New York. McGrogan, who was about 25 at the time, had joined the British Navy.

By checking with British authorities, the family has determined that McGrogan made a career out of the British Navy. But relatives have not been able to contact him.

Mrs. Keimig, who has another brother and three sisters, said she has "no idea whatsoever" why her brother lost touch with his family. She said she was always close to her brother and can't understand why he broke off ties with her.



New York police official honored despite his illness

NEW YORK (AP) — A cancer-stricken police administrator's three decades of service will get unprecedented recognition when he is named for 48 hours as "official police commissioner," Mayor Edward Koch says.

The appointment of First Deputy Police Commissioner William Devine, who has terminal cancer, was announced earlier this week by the mayor.

"He will be the official police commissioner for the last two days of this year," Koch said of Devine. "He will be performing all the duties of the police commissioner of the City of New York."

Devine will briefly succeed retiring Commissioner Robert McGuire, who will resign two days earlier than planned. Benjamin Ward, the city's correction commissioner, has been named to take over Jan. 1.

Devine's picture will hang on the wall in the Police Commissioner's conference room alongside those of all the other city police commissioners, beginning with Theodore Roosevelt, said Koch during a ceremony at the mayor's residence, Gracie Mansion.

Koch noted that Devine's father, Edward Sr., was a detective on the New York City force. Devine's two brothers, Edward and James, both are police lieutenants.

Thousands apply for 150 jobs

For years the federal government has had at least nine applicants for every job opening. Not long ago 27,000 hopefuls applied for 150 jobs as junior Foreign Service officers in the State Department.

"WE WANTED A QUALITY LIFESTYLE, NOT GIMMICKS AND GIVEAWAYS..."

"...That's why, when John and I were transferred to Midland, we chose to live at Oakridge Apartments. Sure, we passed up a few gimmicks and giveaways offered by the other communities. But what we got instead is an apartment community superior to anything else we saw. New on the market this year, Oakridge Apartments are bright and beautiful with sparkling new amenities and lots of extras. But more than that, Oakridge is a real quality neighborhood. The people out here are just great, and the management team is the best we've ever had."

1-, 2- and 2-bedroom studio apartment homes are available now. Take Loop 250 to N. Holiday Hill Road and look for the giant American flag.

"It's good to have a place where you really like to live."

Debbie Allen talks about living at The Clusters:

"There's a lot of activity around here. Like this aerobics class.

"I can swim, play tennis, aerobics, jog. I can stay in good physical shape just living at my own house.

"I've lived here 8 months and I've been an apartment dweller for several years. I looked at several other complexes, but they were all the same...just four walls, a bathroom and a kitchen. This one is quite different. It has all the other luxuries."

No other Midland apartment community combines a multitude of activities with truly luxurious living. Featuring your choice of decorator wall coverings, side-by-side icemaker refrigerators, built-in micro-waves, ceiling fans, dishwashers, washers and dryers, trash compactors, mini-blinds and French doors to patios/balconies.

Come and visit and you'll see why Debbie Allen says, "I would really hate to move from here...I love it."
