Drug Ban Is Vetoed

AUSTIN (AP) — A resolution calling for condemnation of drug use by members of the "Students for a Democratic Society" SDS was vetoed by a narrow margin at the weekend session of the SDS national conference.

The resolution included a clause blaming "the ruling class" for what it called "injecting increasing amounts of drugs into the high schools, colleges, ghetto communities, army and factories."

After nearly four hours and 20 speeches a 10-point proposal for "liberation" of schools was adopted 95-92 Sunday. The resolution called for the "end of the track system in schools . . . end to flunkouts and displinary expulsions . . . and the teaching of history and social conditions of the people which exposes the true injustices of this racist, capitalist society and the just struggles of colonized and exploited working people against injustice."

Another resolution called for the removal of ROTC programs from campuses. A resolution supporting the black panthers, militant Negro organization, passed Sunday by a wide margin.

SDS leaders asserted that about 800 attended the two day conference after University of Texas officials, supported by two federal court rulings, refused to let them use the Student Union building. Meetings were held in the University YMCA-YWCA, the Roman Catholic Student Center, and campus religious centers.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, March 31, the 90th day of 1969. There are 275 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1854, the first treaty between the United States and Japan was signed, opening two Japanese ports to trade with the outside world.

On this date:

In 1832, the composer, Joseph Haydn, was born in Austria.

In 1889, the Eiffel Tower was opened in Paris.

In 1917, the United States took possession of the Virgin Islands after their purchase from Denmark.

In 1931, Managua, Nicaragua, was destroyed by an earthquake.

Also, in 1931, Notre Dame football coach Knute Rockne was killed in an airplane crash in Kansas.

In 1949, Newfoundland became Canada's tenth province following a plebiscite the summer before.

Ten years ago — Mexico ordered the expulsion of two Soviet Embassy attaches, charging they had been involved in a national railroad strike.

Five years ago — An army revolt broke out in Brazil against the government of President Joao Goulart.

One year ago — President Lyndon B. Johnson announced: "I shall not seek and I will not accept the nomination of my party as president."

NOTABLES HERE FOR FUNERAL

DeGaulle Calls On President

Tells Plans To Return

WASHINGTON (AP) — French President Charles de Gaulle and President Nixon talked together at the White House today for nearly an hour.

De Gaulle, riding in a small French-made Citroen sedan that barely accommodated his tall frame, came to the White House at 9:57 a.m. EST.

After their meeting, Nixon escorted him out of the South Portico entrance at 10:54 a.m. and they posed briefly for pictures before the French leader drove off, after a farewell handshake.

King Bauduoin of Belgium also called on Nixon at the White House, arriving at 11 a.m.

The two leaders were among notables here for the funeral of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

De Gaulle, who spoke to Nixon in Paris a month ago, has said he will return to the United States later for a formal visit.

Standing without hat or coat in a chill wind, Nixon awaited De Gaulle's arrival. The French president emerged from his car for a smiling exchange of handshakes, then joined Nixon in posing for photographers. The American and French flags whipped in the breeze beside them.

Although De Gaulle wore his military uniform when he went to the Capitol Rotunda Sunday night to pay his respects to Eisenhower, he appeared at the White House wearing a black civilian suit.

While posing, Nixon and De Gaulle chatted continuously, presumably in English since the American President does not have a speaking knowledge of French.

It was De Gaulle who signaled an end to the session with photographers, turning with Nixon to enter the executive mansion.

Eisenhower Mourners Pay Tribute

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The common people of this silent capital trudged in shuffling, ever-lengthening lines past the soldier's casket of Dwight D. Eisenhower today while world leaders assembled to pay their final tribute.

The funeral day of America's 34th President dawned radiantly clear and the file of mourners—two double lines, moving deliberately but steadily—quickly grew.

Soon it stretched from the hushed Capitol Rotunda, where the hero general of World War II lay in state, down the broad steps and far out into the Capitol Plaza where he twice took the oath of the presidency.

The leaders of American government and representatives of most of the world's nations would be there this afternoon at the start of his funeral procession.

Among them: President Charles de Gaulle of France, the Shah of Iran, King Constantine of Greece, King Baudouin of Belgium, West Germany's Chancellor Kurt Kiesinger and dozens more.

The march of mourners halted briefly while King Baudouin, clad in air force uniform with purple sash, presented a white floral wreath. He placed it gently, then stood at sharp attention and saluted.

Again the quiet, tearless, affectionate line moved. By midmorning fully half its numbers were children. Schools were closed and government offices excused on this day of national mourning.

At the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue, De Gaulle, here to mourn a World War II comrade in arms, conferred privately in the White House with President Nixon on the problems of a world not yet made safe for democracy.

Intruder Is Killed By Doctor's Wife

DALLAS (AP) — A doctor's wife shot and killed an intruder who attacked her husband Sunday night, in their home, police said today.

Mrs. Walter Dickinson killed John Walford Leyh, 19, a probation violator from Maryland, police said.

Dickinson said he saw Leyh on the patio and a struggle ensued.

He said his wife was sleeping, and was awakened by the commotion.

Mrs. Dickinson said she ran back to the bedroom to call police, and Leyh ran toward her. She then shot him.

Police said Mrs. Dickinson shot the man in the face, neck and a hand.

US Command Sees Cong Reassessment

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Heavy losses and allied blocking actions are forcing the Viet Cong command to reassess plans for its five-week-old spring offensive, U.S. military analysts said today.

Officers said the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese had lost more than 6,000 men during March in the 3rd Corps area stretching from the Cambodia border through Saigon to the South China Sea.

The analysts said the enemy during the first two weeks of April probably would limit his action to rocket and mortar attacks while he reassesses his plans and gets replacements and supplies.

But one officer said that more than 1,000 Viet Cong main force troops poised to the south and southwest of Saigon "could make a dash for the city for publicity purposes."

Enemy actions stepped up in Saigon over the weekend. In 24 hours, enemy gunners fired rockets into the city for the first time in two weeks, bombed a police station and a government post office and set off a claymore mine 100 yards from the national police headquarters. Twenty-three persons were wounded in the terrorist actions, but the rockets fell harmlessly in or near the Saigon river.

Military spokesmen reported that allied forces killed 582 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese in more than a dozen fights during the weekend. U.S. losses were put at 42 men killed and 158 wounded, while 20 South Vietnamese were reported killed and 116 wounded.

The U.S. Command reported about 20 attacks by rockets or mortars overnight on allied bases and towns, including a 150-round mortar barrage followed by an infantry assault on a night camp of U.S. 4th Infantry Division troops.

The ground assault touched off a night-long battle 25 miles west of Kontum, in the Central Highlands near the Cambodian border. Twenty-five North Vietnamese soldiers and six U.S. troops were reported killed and 37 Americans wounded.

At least half of the enemy dead were credited to massive American firepower, including bombers, helicopter gunships, artillery, the controversial new Sheridan tanks and armored personnel carriers.

Three American helicopters, a Sheridan tank and an armored personnel carrier were reported lost in the weekend fighting. Three of the helicopter crewmen were killed and five were wounded. A total of 2,481 American helicopters have been reported lost in the war.

Small Plane Is Missing On Flight

EL CAMPO, Tex. (AP) — A single-engine plane with five persons aboard on a flight from this South Texas town, to Syracuse, Kan., is being sought, the Federal Aviation Agency said today.

The plane left El Campo at 1 p.m. Sunday, a relative of a passenger said.

The relative identified those aboard as Milton Shult of El Campo; Charles Hermanson, a student at Texas Tech, the Rev. and Mrs. Laurence Trued of El Campo, and a daughter of the Trueds.

MEXICAN-AMERICANS MARCH

No Violence In Del Rio Rally

By RICHARD BEENE
Associated Press Writer

DEL RIO, Tex. (AP) — This border city was peaceful Sunday night, just as hundreds of marchers had been hours earlier when they strolled through city streets with words of a "Mexican-American manifesto" on their lips.

Police relaxed after staying on the alert for 48 hours preparing for violence that never came.

At the Val Verde County courthouse someone ripped down the copy of the "manifesto" that leaders of the march stuck on the front door after shouting that the "Cactus Curtain" had opened on Mexican-American problems.

The manifesto threatened that violence might erupt if Mexican-American demands for equality with Anglos were not met.

The three-page unsigned statement also demanded that Gov. Preston Smith, who acted at the urging of local county commissioners, rescind his request to throw a VISTA program out of Del Rio.

It warned of "serious social unrest" if he and the commissioners did not change their minds.

The commissioners charged that the 20 VISTA workers here were becoming too involved in local politics and were aligning themselves with the militant Mexican-American Youth Organization (MAYO).

The governor's action was at the heart of complaints in the demonstration here which began with an estimated crowd of at least 1,000 in the Del Rio Civic Center.

It continued in a march down U. S. 90 and 277 and ended with a Palm Sunday field mass in a city park on the edge of town.

Soon the crowd, tired, hot and quiet after the three-mile march, broke up and only picnickers remained at the park.

Crowd estimates for the march ranged from 1,200 by police to 4,000 by Mexican-American leaders. Marching four and five abreast the line of predominantly Mexican-Americans stretched back a full five blocks.

Voters Have Two Dates This Week

Local elections will be held this week by the city and school districts.

The city election is set for tomorrow at the city hall. At the same time, tomorrow, the deadline arrives for absentee voting in the school election, which is set for Saturday.

Snyder voters will elect three members to the City Council tomorrow. The polls will open at the city hall at 8 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

In the race for Councilman Place 1 are the Incumbent, John Thomas, and Joe Carrasco and Homer Godair. Seeking the Councilman Place 3 spot are Wayne Monroney and John H. Boren. R. C. Patton, incumbent Place 3 Councilman, is not a candidate for re-election. Incumbent Herbert Reed is unopposed for the Place 5 Council post.

Candidates for the Snyder Independent School District Board of Trustees in next Saturday's election are Ted Crenwelge and Dillard Teal, incumbents, and John Bollinger. Only two posts are to be filled on the Snyder board this year.

'PEI' Opens Here Tonight

A "Personal Evangelism Institute," one of several major activities associated with the Encounter Crusade, will begin at 7 p.m. today at the First Baptist Church.

Twenty - six congregations are due to participate.

The evangelism institute, which will have two-hour sessions, will continue through Wednesday evening, and churches cooperating in the Encounter Crusade have canceled other regular activities for the first three nights this week. The Encounter Crusade will be climaxed with a Central Crusade in the Scurry County Coliseum late this month.

Yahya Now President

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Gen. Agha Mohammad Yahya Khan was declared president of Pakistan today to serve until a new constitution is drawn up.

The 52-year-old army commander in chief took over as martial law administrator last Tuesday after Mohammed Ayub Khan stepped down as president.

Ayub's 10-year reign came to an end in the climax of four months of violence. With martial law in force, the nation now is quiet. Universities and schools are open again and factories are working.

Informants said legal experts had been working on Gen. Yahya's change of office for two days.

The experts maintain that Yahya had to assume the title of president in order to assure proper leadership of the country.

Session Reopens On Somber Note

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Legislature's pre-Easter week started on a somber note today in observance of a national day of mourning for former President Dwight Eisenhower.

The Senate and House, with 11 a.m. starting times, were expected to meet just long enough to pass a memorial resolution in honor of Eisenhower.

Gov. Preston Smith said he had no authority to close state offices, but he urged Texans "to join in mourning for the loss of our late, great leader..."

Smith said he hoped state employes would be given time off to attend memorial services for the former president.

Although Eisenhower's death cancelled a full day of the legislative week, including a long list of committee hearings, scheduled Monday, lawmakers had a busy agenda for the rest of the week.

They are scheduled to quit Thursday for the Easter holidays, coming back the following Tuesday.

The last step in approving a proposed constitutional change for water development is expected in the House. If the House accepts a Senate amendment, the proposal to allow the state to issue $3.5 billion in bonds to finance its share of the $10 billion Texas water plan would be submitted to the voters Aug. 5.

Rep. John Traeger, chairman of the House Constitutional Amendments Committee, also is optimistic that the committee will approve a Senate-passed measure Tuesday night repealing the ban on the "open saloon" and allowing the Legislature to pass a liquor by the drink law.

The $220 million teachers pay proposal will be heard by House and Senate committees Tue

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "WAITING" — the 41-year-old virgin — to keep waiting. A woman's virginity is still the greatest gift she can offer a man in marriage. Even tho a man makes excuses for himself, he still prefers a virgin for a wife. Please don't conclude from my signature that I know nothing about life. I was in the business world for over 30 years before I became a priest.

Respectfully,
SAN DIEGO PRIEST

DEAR ABBY: To the 41-year-old virgin who is holding out for marriage. Forget it. On her epitaph they'll inscribe: "Package returned unopened."

HANDSOME

DEAR ABBY: For "WAITING": Lady, you are to be commended. Don't let a clod sell you. If he says, if you don't give him what he wants, he will go elsewhere — let him. He will be doing you a big favor.

R. B., OKLAHOMA CITY

DEAR ABBY: Why all the emphasis on virginity? A man who insists that he be the "one and only" probably does so because he doesn't want the woman he marries to be able to make comparisons and find him lacking. Me? I don't have that problem.

A MAN NAMED "MANN"

DEAR ABBY: I am a U. S. serviceman with 18 years' service and three overseas tours of duty, and all my life I've practiced a code of morality some call "Victorian." I've taken tremendous ridicule for it, and I freely admit, it hasn't always been easy. I married a wonderful girl who held the same moral principles as I, and I cannot begin to express the closeness, trust and warmth of feeling it has brought to our lives. We've been married 16 years and have six fine children, and we're still "in love."

OLD SARGE
Vandenberg AFB, Calif.

DEAR ABBY: In reply to "WAITING," who claims she's been on her own since 17, lived abroad, is romantic, sensitive, and not ugly. She has got to be kidding! I'm all for purity, but at age 41, what kind of a "prize" does she think she's going to give a man?

No man, for example, is going to ask a Chinese girl, whose feet have been bound since infancy, to go on a hike with him. She'd be lucky to be able to walk around the block. And marriage is a long hike.

COMPASSIONATE IN L. A.

DEAR ABBY: My analysis of "WAITING": Immature, selfish, masochistic, inhibited, guilt-ridden, and a cold fish. She repeatedly lures her prey and then rejects it, laying claim to "virtue" — but punishing herself more than the man she has rejected.

D.W.H., M.D.

DEAR ABBY: For "WAITING": Maybe there is a Santa Claus, but a body is not a gift — unless, of course, you are Dr. Frankenstein.

ADOLPH G., L. A.

DEAR ABBY: Please forward to "WAITING": My advice to you is to go out in the country, buy a little farm, and start raising chickens. One rooster and a half dozen hens will do. Feed them yourself and keep your eyes open. You'll notice that the hens always run away from the rooster, but they never run so far or so fast that they avoid getting caught. Try it. You'll be glad you did. With love.

AN OLD ROOSTER

DEAR ABBY: This is for "WAITING": I was all for your clinging to your virginity — until I read your age. Come on now, at 41, what are you waiting for? There is a happy middle ground between waiting and swinging, and it's called "discretion."

DISCREET IN N. Y.

DEAR ABBY: If at age 25, an attractive, normal, fun - loving woman surrenders her virtue without marriage, I wouldn't think less of her. It's nice to marry a virgin, but I think it's more important how a woman conducts herself AFTER marriage than before. I married a virgin who didn't confine herself to me afterwards. That is why I am —

"SINGLE AGAIN" IN TULSA

DEAR ABBY: By what law of nature, morals, or divine sanction must a woman love only one man while we men may love as many women as our hearts desire, and without reproof of anyone's conscience — including our own?

If, indeed, the most precious gift a woman may bring to a man in marriage is her body, untouched, my first concern would be for the man. For surely there are better recommendations for marriage than never having loved.

Moscow Note To Chinese Unanswered

MOSCOW (AP)—The Red Chinese have not reacted to a Russian note seeking talks to eliminate tension on the Manchurian border, and the general feeling here is that the Kremlin does not expect them to.

Observers felt Moscow merely wanted to show its Warsaw Pact allies it is trying to solve the Soviet-Chinese border dispute in a reasonable way, hoping to resolve the disagreements it sparked among East-bloc countries.

These disagreements reportedly led to another postponement of the long delayed world Communist conference. At a recent preparatory meeting in Moscow, Romania was reported to have been most critical of Soviet handling of the border dispute.

The Soviets note, delivered to the Chinese Embassy here Saturday, got big play in Russian newspapers Sunday. It was calm and restrained, markedly different from the usual invective traded by Moscow and Peking.

"The Soviet government is firmly convinced the vital interests of the Soviet and Chinese people will enable them to remove and overcome difficulties in Soviet-Chinese relations," it said.

The note invited Peking to resume Chinese-Soviet border talks that started in February 1964 and were broken off that same year. But it indicated no softening in the Soviet attitude toward China's extensive territorial claims, dismissing them as "a concoction from beginning to end."

It also warned: "The Soviet government states and considers it necessary to reiterate that it resolutely rejects any encroachments by anyone on Soviet lands and that any attempts to talk to the Soviet Union in the language of weapons will be met with a firm rebuff."

The Soviet note indicated there were several disputed areas along the Manchurian border, which Chinese Premier Chou En-lai had called in 1960 "insignificant differences in the maps which are very easy to solve peacefully."

The border has been explosive for several years, with frequent reports of clashes. The only hostilities acknowledged by Moscow and Peking occurred on March 2 and March 14-15, when Soviet and Chinese border guards fought two bloody battles over an island, in the Ussuri River.

The Chinese call the island Chenpao and the Soviets call it Damansky. Each claims it.

Airman Hodges Is Promoted At Kirkland

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — Jerry C. Hodges, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Hodges of Rt. 2, Sweetwater, Tex., has been promoted to airman first class in the U. S. Air Force.

Airman Hodges, an aircraft electrician at Kirtland AFB, N. M., is assigned to a unit of the Air Weather Service.

The airman, a 1966 graduate of Hobbs High School, Rotan, Tex., attended Texas Technological College.

His wife, Anna, is the daughter of Mrs. Beth Curry of 3214 Fortieth Street, Snyder.

Pentagon Says Bomb Halt Brings Little Military Loss

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officers say the United States has suffered little militarily from the prohibition against bombing North Vietnam, begun in limited fashion one year ago today.

This attitude would seem to be an admission that the air campaign against the North, launched in February 1965, was not as vital as the Pentagon made it out to be.

But, military men say, the North Vietnamese have gained operating flexibility and are no longer paying as high a price to infiltrate men and supplies southward.

At the same time, however, Hanoi has not been able, or has not chosen, to build up a much larger force in South Vietnam. Its troop level today is about what it was when the bombs were falling—around 100,000.

Former President Johnson restricted U.S. bombing of North Vietnam last March 31 to the narrow panhandle beneath the 20th parallel to encourage Hanoi to enter peace negotiations. Last Nov. 1, with talks imminent, he made the prohibition complete.

There was some concern the bombing halt would bring a dangerous North Vietnamese threat to U.S. Marines stationed below the demilitarized zone separating the two countries. The United States warned Hanoi in advance to respect the supposedly mutual nature of the DMZ.

Officers say Hanoi still plays fast and loose with the DMZ but not to the extent that U.S. forces have been placed in serious jeopardy.

U.S. intelligence estimates 1,500 to 3,000 North Vietnamese operate continuously in the 12-mile zone but few are combat types.

Most are patrols or are in construction units sent in to repair fortifications in North Vietnam's six-mile portion of the DMZ. Small armed units do slip through occasionally to raid Marine outposts.

Four divisions, or around 40,000 men, which were withdrawn to North Vietnam last year remain scattered above the DMZ and pose a potential threat.

The United States still "attacks" North Vietnamese territory on occasion. There have been dozens of exchanges of fire between U.S. Marines in the south and North Vietnamese units in the DMZ. The U.S. military has recorded nearly 1,100 instances of enemy presence inside the zone.

American reconnaissance planes also fly with armed escorts over the North to maintain close surveillance over enemy troop movements—something President Johnson informed Hanoi would be done. When fired upon, these reconnaissance patrols are authorized to go after the antiaircraft batteries.

With the bombing halt has come an intensified air campaign against North Vietnamese units in Laos, the supposedly neutral country Hanoi has used for years as a pathway to South Vietnam.

Officially, the United States will not acknowledge what is going on. But Air Force sources say the full weight of American airpower once directed against North Vietnam has now been diverted to Laos, especially the jungle roads and highways referred to as the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

A source estimates the average number of U.S. missions over Laos at 3,600 per month—or 10,000 to 15,000 sorties.

Air Force officers say the North Vietnamese have taken advantage of the bombing halt to stockpile supplies closer to the DMZ. No longer forced to camouflage them, the North Vietnamese leave their supply dumps exposed near roadsides and railways.

The North Vietnamese now operate convoys supplying the war effort during the day as well as night. When the bombing campaign was on, they were generally restricted to moving at night.

This allows North Vietnam to rush equipment and replacements to the South on much shorter notice—days rather than weeks. The quicker reaction capability may have helped Hanoi wage the recent offensive, officers say.

To fuel trucks and other vehicles used in the infiltration program, the North Vietnamese have built an oil pipeline from Thanh Hoa south of Hanoi all the way to Vinh above the DMZ. The pipeline provides ROL (Petroleum, Oil, Lubricants) for trucks heading to the DMZ or through mountain passages into Laos.

Officers say enemy convoys were once forced to allot as much as one-fourth of their hauling space to fuel.

North Vietnamese air defenses have been beefed up and concentrated more toward the DMZ.

An Air Force source says since last October, enemy antiaircraft weapons just above the DMZ have been increased by 300 to around 1,500.

Infiltration is perhaps a bit higher with the bombing ended. Sources put the 1968 total at 200,000, or some 16,500 per month. But most got into South Vietnam before the full bombing halt began Nov. 1, further evidence the attacks were of limited value.

As the price paid by the North Vietnamese to run the bombing gauntlet has declined, so has the U.S. cost of conducting the air war.

Fewer U.S. airmen are being killed or captured.

After some three years of bombing last March 31, both the Navy and Air Force each listed 115 men captured. In the following seven months of the partial bombing halt, the Navy recorded 16 more as captured, the Air Force 24. Since November the Navy has raised its captured total by only 5 to 136. The Air Force reports none captured since the full halt began.

Numbers of men listed missing (some of whom may be imprisoned) also have tapered off.

The Navy listed 107 men missing one year ago, now has 114 missing. The Air Force recorded 467 missing last March 31 compared with 569 as of last week.

Aircraft losses have dropped sharply.

Fixed wing losses stood at 814 when the partial bombing halt began. Between April and November, the United States lost 100 more planes.

Since the full halt, only four more have been downed over the North, these during reconnaissance flights.

Scouts Show Off Variety Of Skills

Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts of the Lone Buffalo District showed off skills and exhibits of scouting to several hundred persons Saturday at their exposition in the Towle Park barn.

Commissions earned from ticket sales to the exposition will help support the units in their various activities. Some 100 Scouts received special uniform patches for selling 10 or more tickets. Eight who sold 30 or more tickets each received gift certificates for scouting equipment. Top salesman in the district is David Dearden, Webelos Scout in Pack 177, whose sale of 126 tickets won an expense-paid trip to a ball game in the Astrodome in Houston.

Exhibits were rated against an established national scouting standard with six winning blue ribbons for exceptional exhibits, three winning red ribbons for above average and two received special president's award ribbons for the outstanding Cub Scout and Boy Scout exhibits.

Cub Pack 2, sponsored by the Colorado City Lions Club, received a red ribbon for a demonstration of flower making. Cub packs receiving blue ribbons were Pack 36, sponsored by East Elementary P-TA for gardening and for its Cub Scout band; Pack 37, sponsored by West Elementary P-TA for its Hawaiian exhibit featuring dancers and souvenir leis; Pack 61, sponsored by North Elementary P-TA for its exhibit of history of the American Flag and various crafts; Pack 177, sponsored by Stanfield Elementary P-TA for its exhibits of geology, various crafts and a play. Pack 177 also received a president's award.

Snyder Scout troops receiving red ribbons were Troop 27, sponsored by First United Methodist Church, for exhibit and demonstration of animal traps; Troop 35, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Snyder for its exhibits and demonstrations of knot - tying and first aid. Scout troops receiving blue ribbons included Troop 36, sponsored by the Snyder Rotary Club, for exhibits and demonstrations of cooking and survival; Troop 177, sponsored by Stanfield Elementary P-TA, for exhibits of summer and winter camping and demonstrations of cooking and camp craft. Troop 177 also received the president's award ribbon.

Explorer Scouts from Midland presented Indian dances in authentic costumes.

Pope Urges Youth To Be Constructive

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI says the youth of the world should unite and perform constructive deeds.

In a Palm Sunday Mass, he criticized "the vitality of youth which expresses itself in a negative way," a reference to student and other disorders in various parts of the world.

Booed Off The Stage

HAMBURG, Germany (AP) — George Balanchine, leader of the New York City Ballet, was booed off the stage of the State Opera at the end of his production of the opera Ruslan and Ludmilla.

Other members of the company received hearty applause from a critical audience Sunday night.

Ford's New Maverick On Scene

CAREFREE, Ariz. (AP) — Ford's new subcompact Maverick car rolled onto the automotive scene today as the U.S. auto industry launched its long awaited move to slow down the ever growing import car market.

"It ought to be a heck of a donnybrook," said Ford Vice President Lee A. Iacocca on the eve of the press introduction of the newest U.S. car, which will carry a base price tag of $1,995—about $250 more than a Volkswagen.

Ford used a Western background to show newsmen the two-door, four-passenger car which will get its public introduction April 17—the fifth anniversary of Ford's last big success car—the trend-setting Mustang.

Ford invested an estimated $70 million in getting the new car to market once the Maverick program got the go sign in May 1966.

The decision to go into the subcompact market was not an easy one, for most Ford executives—along with those of the other major U.S. auto firms—had figured the car buyers' love affair with the Volkswagen and other imports would cool off. When it became apparent the romance was getting hotter instead of cooler, Ford was the first domestic auto maker to jump into the subcompact area.

General Motors came up with a new subcompact temporarily called XP887 which will make its debut in mid-1970. American Motors hurried plans to get a new small car, called the Hornet, to market this fall and another called the Gremlin to market in 1970. Chrysler has plans for a similar car on the drawing boards but reportedly still feels its Simca and Rootes car imports already place it in good position to meet the VW challenge.

Ford is ready to market an even smaller minicar, called the Phoenix, in 1971.

Seven Die In Crash

BRYAN, Tex. (AP) — Seven persons died Sunday night in a flaming automobile accident here.

The car in which the victims rode was struck from behind as it turned into a grocery-filling station, hitting a gasoline pump and causing an explosion.

Dead were Mr. and Mrs. Luke Collette of a Hearne, Tex. rural route and their three sons, Joseph, Johnny and Charles. Mr. and Mrs. Benny Degelia of Bryan were also killed.

Officers said the driver of the second car, Sammy Lee Miles, 51, of Hearne, was taken to a Bryan hospital in undetermined condition.

The accident occurred on Texas 6 just inside the Bryan city limits.

Cold Front Eases Back

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A nearly stationary cold front began to move northward in Texas early Monday, blanketing the upper half of the state with cloudy skies, drizzle and fog.

The front was along a line from Carlsbad, N.M. to Del Rio to Victoria and the upper coast at a pre-dawn hour.

Fog and drizzle stretched across vast portions of West Texas and into the Panhandle. At El Paso on Far West Texas were skies clear and the temperature was a mild 58.

Readings north of the frontal zone ranged from 38 at Amarillo to 44 at Dallas to 58 at Galveston. Deep in South Texas it was a warm 62 at Laredo.

Stuffed Baked Pork Chops

¼ cup butter
¼ cup minced onion
¼ cup minced celery
2 medium apples, pared and finely diced (about 1½ cups)
¼ cup seedless raisins
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
Salt
6 double center-cut loin pork chops (1¾ inches thick with pockets)
Pepper and paprika

In an 8-inch skillet, in the hot butter over low heat, cook onion and celery about 5 minutes. Add apples and raisins and cook another 5 minutes; remove from heat. Mix in bread crumbs and ½ teaspoon salt. Stuff into pork chops; close range chops in shallow baking pan (13 by 9 by 2 inches;) sprinkle with salt, pepper and paprika. Bake in a 350-degree oven until cooked through — about 1¼ hours. Remove picks. Makes 6 servings.

Homemakers Meeting Held

The Young Homemakers Club met Thursday in the community room of Snyder Savings & Loan with Debbie Smith as hostess. Suzanne Jackson led the THDA creed and Karen Pevehouse led the THDA prayer.

The group discussed the district THDA meeting to be held in Denver City on April 24, also having a booth in the park on July 4th. Miss Ruby Butts brought the program on "place of Carbohydrates in Your Diet."

Miss Butts received the hostess gift. Other members present were Jan Harris, Peggy Foster, Sue Cotton, Barbara Scrivner, and one new member, Diane Clifton.

The next meeting will be April 10 with the food leaders bringing a program on "Quick Breads." Lavette Sturdivant will be hostess.

Pineapple Cake

1 package pineapple flavor chiffon cake mix
1 can (1 pound, 4½ ounces) crushed pineapple in extra heavy syrup
1-3 cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
Whipped cream

Make up the cake mix according to package directions. Turn pineapple into a strainer over a measure to drain, mashing with a spoon; there should be 1 cup pineapple syrup and 1¼ cups drained pineapple. In a 1-quart saucepan thoroughly stir together the sugar and cornstarch; gradually stir in the 1 cup pineapple syrup, keeping smooth. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens, clears and comes to a boil; stirring gently, boil vigorously for 1 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in drained 1¼ cups pineapple (Makes about 1¼ cups sauce.) Serve at once, or cover and let stand at room temperature until serving time, on slices of the cake; top with whipped cream. There will be enough sauce for at least 8 healthy slices of the cake.

To remove the skins from small silver - color onions, pour boiling water over them and let them stand for about 10 minutes. Cut off the ends of the onions and then slip off the skin.

PROPHETS, SCIENTISTS DISAGREE

Superquake Coming To California?

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Against all scientific evidence prophets of doom say April is the month when a super earthquake will topple half of California into the Pacific.

Scientists say this talk is ridiculous and that while the danger of a major earthquake exists, no one can say when it will happen.

Nonetheless, nerves are getting jumpier day by day.

Here are some symptoms indicating the spread of California's newest attack of earthquake jitters

—Los Angeles Civil Defense Coordinator William Frank says he has received more than 1,200 phone calls and 500 letters since early March requesting pamphlets on what to do in case of an earthquake.

—A spokesman for Los Angeles city schools says children have become so disturbed by widespread rumors that many teachers have taken time out from studies to review disaster procedures for their classes.

—Eleven members of the Fellowship of the Ancient Mind, a psychic cult that claims to be 6,000 years old, showed up at City hall March 11 in flowing robes and clerical collars seeking a salvage permit that would allow them to help restore the city after an earthquake they said they expected soon.

—A calypso tune called "Day after Day" which forecast imminent disaster has jumped in three weeks from 20th to 7th place on radio station KHJ's compilation of retail record sales.

—Publishers report a bonanza in magazine articles and books dealing with fictional forecasts of a cataclysm. One of them, "The Last Days of the Late Great State of California," has become a best-seller in Los Angeles bookstores.

The book picks December as the month of catastrophe, but for some reason April is the popular choice of rumors.

The only April date which conceivably might have some scientific basis is April 16. On that date the sun and moon will be lined up, exerting a gravitational pull that will make the earth's crust bulge a foot or more in their direction.

Last March 7 Dr. C. Hewitt Dix, Caltech geophysicist, issued a report saying, "These gravitational forces may have touched off the disastrous July 21, 1952, earthquake in California's Kern County." That magnitude 7.7 quake and its aftershocks cost 14 lives and $60 million damage.

But the report also pointed out that the sun and moon line up once every 27 days and there is no way of predicting when or where this tidal force may trigger the stresses that lead to earthquakes.

Another Caltech release, issued March 9, said "Wild predictions of disastrous earthquakes—issued by self-proclaimed oracles and other visionaries—are not supported by scientific evidence and are frightening many Californians needlessly."

That release quoted Dr. Charles F. Richter, developer of the Richter scale for describing earthquake mangnitudes, as saying that in 1965 "we received spurious earthquake predictions for Jan. 17, Feb. 4, March 17, April 1, April 16, all of May and sometime in June or July. But it was a normal year—none came true."

Another Caltech seismologist, Dr. James N. Brune, said in the release: "A common characteristic in most of these dire predictions is the idea that a great part of California will split off and slide into the sea. This is clearly ridiculous."

A Caltech report released Sunday said new studies indicate the possibility of a quake in Southern California has been at least temporarily reduced.

Several experts have assumed that a strain is building up along a great crack that runs north and south through California called the San Andreas Fault, and that a major earthquake is overdue.

New studies indicate, however, that the strain has been significantly relieved by earthquakes near the fault in 1925, 1941 and 1952, Caltech said.

William T. Pecora, director of the U.S. Geological Survey, told a Senate Appropriations subcommittee March 25 it is inevitable that California will be hit in this century by an earthquake of the force of the one which wrecked San Francisco in 1906.

"We are predicting," he said, "another massive earthquake certainly within the next 30 years and most likely in the next decade or so."

Britons Feel Ike Snubbed

LONDON (AP) — The British government faced criticism in Parliament and the press today over what some newspapers called a snub to the memory of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Britain sent Earl Mountbatten of Burma, a friend of Eisenhower and a distant relative of Queen Elizabeth II, to represent the royal family at the funeral and Defense Minister Denis Healey to represent the government.

"This is not really good enough," said the Daily Telegraph. The pro-Labor Sunday Mirror headlined its story "America Bewildered at Royal Snub."

A Labor member of Parliament, Marcus Lipton introduced a motion saying Britain should have been "more adequately represented at the funeral of Gen. Eisenhower."

"A member of the royal family should represent the Queen, not Lord Mountbatten," said Lipton. "You might as well send the assistant postmaster general as Mr. Healey for all the American public knows of the defense minister."

Prime Minister Harold Wilson is on a trip to Africa, and the Queen and Prince Philip were attending the dedication today of a chapel in memory of her father, King George VI.

The Telegraph noted that Healey is the eighth-ranking member of the Cabinet and that Mountbatten, once Britain's top soldier, now holds no official position.

Cardinal's Teacher Among Well-Wishers

NEW YORK (AP) — Among the crowd at St. Patrick's Cathedral to congratulate Archbishop Terence J. Cooke on his designation as a cardinal was one of his former school teachers, Sister Anthony.

The Archbishop spotted her Sunday, gave her a kiss, and remarked

"She's the one who used to make me write on the blackboard 100 times, 'I will be a good boy.'"

SPORTS

Track Team Scores 61½

SAN ANGELO — Scoring points in every event, Snyder's Tigers continued to show improvement Saturday at the finals of the Relays here, compiling 61½ points to finish only 13½ points behind the winner.

Sweetwater and Lubbock Dunbar put on a close fight for the team trophy with the Mustangs getting it with 75 points. Dunbar had 73. Scores of other teams: Colorado City 32½, and San Angelo Lake View 9.

The Tigers' Mark Gilstrap took first place in the pole vault with a height of 12-5½. His teammate, Steve Burney, had the same height, but took second on more misses.

Two Tiger relay teams caused a few raised eyebrows. The sprint medley relay foursome of Steve Pierce, Larry Lofton, David McCommas and Roy Lee placed second to Dunbar with a time of 3:53.2. Another second went to the 880 yard relay. Pierce and Lofton joined Gary Shields and Willis Harrison in this race. They were timed at 1:32.6 behind Colorado City. This same foursome ran 3rd in the 440 with a 45.0 clocking.

Harvey Browning took second, and Craig Allred placed third in the mile run with times of 4:49.3 and 4:57.1 respectively. The distance relay unit of Barry Park, Bill Wilson, David McCommas and Rocky Cowan finished third with a 3:41.0 clocking.

Larry Allen continues to run smoothly in the hurdles. He took third in the intermediates with a 42.3 clocking while Norman Davis was third in the highs with a 16.6. Placing 4th in the highs was Jerry January (16.7), and 5th place went to Jeff Stewart (17.3).

Stewart also tied for 5th in the high jump by clearing 5-8. Gary Shields was 4th in the 100 yard dash with a time of 10.2, and Herbert Hodges took 5th in the shot with a heave of 44-8.

The Tigers will be in the Mustang Relays at Andrews Friday.

Second Trial For Liner

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) — The luxury liner Queen Elizabeth 2 headed today for Dakar on its second—and Cunard officials hope its last—proving cruise.

Last January the ship's turbine engines broke down during its first shakedown cruise, and the steamship company had to postpone the ship's transatlantic debut four months. If this voyage is successful, the first trip to New York will be made May 2.

The consortium of Clyde River shipbuilders that put the ship together are now believed to have remedied the turbine problems, but trouble still seems to dog QE2.

Just before it was to sail Sunday, 200 kitchen workers threatened to strike because they said noise and vibration from a propeller shaft kept them awake at night.

Cunard officials told them the situation would be corrected and meanwhile they would sleep in other quarters. They said the noise and vibration did not affect passenger quarters.

Juniors Shine At Sweetwater

SWEETWATER — Lamar and Travis Junior High Schools looked good at the Junior Track Meet here Saturday with Lamar 8th copping third place in its division.

The young Texan 1320 relay team took third place with a 2:50.8 clocking. Members included Henry Ramos, Tim Holder, Jim Waters and Jackie Hartsfield.

Don Dyess won a blue ribbon in the high jump by clearing 5.4, and he was runnerup in the high hurdles with a 10.5 clocking. Another red ribbon went to Hartsfield in the 660 yard run with a 1:36.4 time.

Other Lamar 8th results: Jim Waters, 4th, high hurdles, 11.0; Henry Ramos, 4th, broad jump, 16-10; Waters, 5th, broad jump, 16-3; Holder, 4th, 330, 40.6; and, Waters, 4th, pole vault 8-0.

Lamar tallied 29 points in the 9th grade division while Travis had 25. Team scores in the 9th grade division — Abilene Lincoln 128, Sweetwater 115, Colorado City 80½, Stamford 63, San Angelo Lee 34½, Lamar 29, Travis 25, San Angelo Glenn 19¾, Brownwood 12, Roscoe and Lakeview 2 each, and Ballinger and Edison of San Angelo 0 each.

The older Lamar boys took a blue ribbon when Mike Line heaved the shot 46-6, and Freddie Murphy ran the 880 in 2:15.5. Troy Hall was second in the pole vault. He cleared 9-0. David Wittie was 6th in the broad jump with a distance of 15-4.

Team scores in the 8th grade division: Edison 115, Lincoln 105, John Glenn 66, Lamar 8th 56, Brownwood 54, and Lakeview 45.

Travis 9th took a blue ribbon when Gary Patterson ran the 70 yard high hurdles in 9.5, and a 2nd when Albert Hernandez heaved the shot 46-0. Gary also was 6th in the 440 with 61.0, and Rudy Hernandez placed 6th in the 660 with 1:41. Billy Clayton was 5th in the broad jump. Albert Hernandez also took 5th in the discus.

Travis 8th got a 1st when Julian Suarez ran the 1320 in 3:48.1, Scotty Sullivan took 5th in the 100 and 220, and he placed 6th in the broad jump. Travis had 16 points.

Travis 7th's Hubert Crayton placed 2nd in the 100. The 440 relay team comprised of Crayton, John Miller, Widgeon Emerson and Michael Archie was 6th.

Owls Eye Longhorns

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Rice Owls have the opportunity this week to do what no other Southwest Conference baseball team has been able to do—stop the Texas Longhorns and James Street.

Quarterback-pitcher Street is 6-0 for the season, including a no-hitter against Southern Methodist during a weekend series, and the Longhorns are unbeaten in six conference games. They are 14-2 for the season.

The Owls travel to Texas Friday to begin a three-game series in a battle of the unbeatens. Rice is 4-0 in SWC games, following by Texas A&M at 4-2 and Texas Tech at 2-1.

In other games this weekend, Baylor is at Texas Christian for three games and Southern Methodist is at Tech for three games.

Texas Christian made the greatest strides in weekend games. The Frogs started the week with a 2-3 season record and finished Saturday with a 6-4 ledger, including two SWC victories over the Aggies, who entered the series unbeaten.

Tiger 9 Wins Consolation

EUNICE, N. M. — Snyder's Tigers rebounded from its setback at the hands of Monahans in the second round of the baseball tournament here Saturday with an 8-7 triumph over Roswell Goddard again and a 9-8 verdict over Lovington to win the Consolation crown.

Both games Saturday afternoon were exciting. The lead changed hands four times in the Goddard tilt. It was all tied up, 7-7, going into the bottom of the 7th when Jodi Williamson, Snyder's talented centerfielder, also showed he knows something about offense, too. He knocked a home run that brought victory to the Bengals and sent them into the Consolation finals against Lovington.

That last game also was close all the way with the Bengals fighting off a late rally to claim the crown. With nobody out in the last of the 7th, Lovington pulled within one run with a two-run homer by Palmer. But the pitcher bore down for the Bengals and retired the side on a popup to the catcher and two strikeouts.

Snyder continued to display the big bat as Richie Thompson knocked a two-run homer in the 3rd against Goddard to give Snyder a 6-5 lead after Williamson of Goddard blasted a three-run home run in the top half of the same frame.

Roswell tallied two in the first on errors and a single by Hall. The Tigers pushed three tallies across in the 1st on two walks, a hit batsman, a single by Larry Wall and another hit batsman. One run came across automatically when Randy Levens was hit by a pitched ball.

Bill Branson singled in the 4th, advanced on a sacrifice by David McGinnis, and scored on a hot grounder. Steve Holder received credit for an rbi on the play.

Hall singled in a couple of runs in the 6th following some Annie Oakleys, and then came Williamson's clout that decided the issue.

Ronny Lewis and Holder shared the mound duties in that first tilt.

The second tussle also was a slugfest. Holder had a big day at the plate, going 3 for 5 and socking a home run in the 4th to score two runs. Wesley Bishop also was 3 for 5, and he slammed two doubles. Holder had 3 rbis, and Wesley had two. Ronny Lewis hit two singles in five appearances. Williamson and Richie Thompson each singled in three trips to the plate. Jodi's hit drove in a run. Phariss also received credit for an rbi on a sacrifice.

The Bengals will host Lubbock Monterey here at 4 p.m. tomorrow (Tuesday) in their second district tilt.

Tremors Hit Volcano Area

CATANIA, Sicily (AP) — An earthquake before dawn struck the east slopes of volcanic Mt. Etna today, cracked walls in buildings and sent residents fleeing in terror.

There was no word of any casualties in the tremor, which shook the farming villages for three seconds. Numerous homes with walls of fieldstone and lava block were damaged.

The seismograph at the Acireale Observatory at the southeast base of Etna said the shocks were between the fifth and sixth grade on the 12-grade Mercali scale.

A similar quake Sunday spread alarm but caused no casualties in the area of Patti, near the north coast of Siciliy 30 miles west of Messina.

SHS Golf Team Grabs 3rd Place

ABILENE — Snyder's Tigers faltered in the concluding round of the Invitational Golf Tournament here Saturday, but they still finished third and came out ahead of several larger Class AAAA schools.

Leading Paschal of Ft. Worth by two strokes and Abilene Cooper by three going into the last 18 holes, the Tigers slipped to 320 after an opening round 305 for a 625 total card. Cooper made a great recovery, posting a 303 Saturday, to win with a 611. Paschal carded a 316 for a 623 total and second place. Scores of other teams: Stamford 318-321-639; Eastern Hills 324-320-644; O. D. Wyatt 332-324-656; Sweetwater 336-325-661; Brady 341-334-625; Arlington 325-352-677; Abilene 337-343-680; and, Del Rio 343-352-695.

Medalist honors went to Scott Adams of Abilene Cooper. He fired a 149. Runnerup was Tony Pfaff, also of Cooper, with a 150. Snyder's Mitch Rambin fired a 75-78-153 to tie for fourth place.

Other Tiger individual scores: Jay Kidd 77-79-156; Benny Ward 75-83-158; Phil Ator 78-81-159; and, Glenn Rambin 82-82-164.

It was cold and disagreeable in Abilene Saturday.

"We may get in a practice match this week if some of the other teams want to come here," said Coach J. P. Ward. The third and concluding round of the District 3-AAA Tournament will be held at the Snyder Country Club April 12. The Tigers hold an 11-stroke lead.

Bullets Have 1 More ABA Shot

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Los Angeles Lakers try tonight to break the division winners' jinx and get back into the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Lakers, regular season winners in the West, play the San Francisco Warriors in Oakland and a third straight loss would put them in the same boat as the Eastern kings, the Baltimore Bullets, who are down to their last shot against the New York Knicks.

The Knicks overcame a nine-point deficit in the last 6½ minutes Sunday and rallied to beat Baltimore 119-116 and take a 3-0 lead in the best-of-7 set. The dejected Bullets have until Wednesday to regroup for what could be the final game.

John Havlicek, Sam Jones and Don Nelson led the defending champion Boston Celtics to a 125-118 ictory over the Philadelphia 76ers Sunday night to grab a 3-0 lead in the other Eastern semifinal.

The Celtics, fourth-place finishers in regular season play, could wrap it up Tuesday when action switches to their home court and erase the embarrassment of their lowest finish since 1950.

The upset-minded San Diego Rockets, trailing the Atlanta Hawks 2-0 in Western Division playoffs, shift to friendly home courts Tuesday after Saturday's 116-114 loss to the Hawks. The Hawks had to use Walt Hazzard's two free throws with nine seconds remaining to clinch the victory.

In regular season play in the American Basketball Association Sunday, New Orleans defeated Los Angeles 123-111, Miami topped Minnesota 126-118 and Oakland trimmed Kentucky 119-112.

Walt Frazier, who set a New York playoff record with 17 assists, put the rallying Knicks ahead 115-114 with 1:29 remaining on a driving layup. Willie Reed, scored 35 points to spark the Knicks.

The Boston-Philadelphia game was tied 21 times before Bailey Howell completed a three-point play that gave the Celtics a 95-92 lead with 23 seconds remaining in the third period. The 76ers never caught up.

Havlicek scored 23 points, 19 in the first half, while Jones finished with 26.

Bunky Banks Big Tournament Cash

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Bunky Henry bounced his tow-headed, 2-year-old son—one of three—on his knee and talked about what he was going to do with the $40,000 he had just won.

"I am going to slap it in the bank," he said.

Henry 25, son of a Valdosta, Ga., banker and formerly a place-kicking specialist for the Georgia Tech football team, is the latest of succession of dark-horse winners on the $6 million pro golf tour.

Despite a triple-bogey 8 on one hole, the boyish-looking southerner overtook his best pal, Bob Murphy, for the first prize check in the bizarre $200,000 National Airlines Open Golf Tournament.

His best paycheck previously this year was $322.50 at Pensacola. He had missed the cut in two tournaments and in six others had finished between 41st and 79th.

In 13 tournaments so far this year, there have been 13 different winners. Jack Nicklaus and Billy Casper each won one, but the other top check cashers were largely outsiders. In five Florida tournaments, the winners were Tom Shaw, Ken Still, Jim Colbert, Ray Floyd and now Bunky Henry.

Henry said last Tuesday Murphy told him he, Murphy, felt great and thought he would win. "We'll finish 1-2," Bob predicted.

"On the putting green, before the final round, I kidded with Murf, saying 'I'm going to lick you,'" Heny explained. "Bob laughed and said, "Don't forget the order is me one and you two."

Henry shot a final 70 for 278. Murphy skided to a 7½ for 279, tying Dan Sikes, who had a hole-in-one in his 68; Australian Bruce Crampton, who shot a 66, and Dave Stockton, who had a 72.

Arnold Palmer shot a 72 for 283. He was tied with PGA champion Julius Boros and Sam Snead. Gary Player was at 285.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Final scores and money winnings Sunday in the $200,000 National Airlines Open Golf Tournament:

Tiger Net Team Takes Top Trophy

With a strong showing in the girls division, the Snyder High School tennis team won the team trophy in the "A" division at the Invitational Tournament here resumed Friday and concluded Saturday.

The Bengals had only one first place winner in the tournament with the doubles team of Bebo Boren and Terry Book. They defeated Monty Henson and Leonard Farrar of Brownfield 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Linda Miller got second place in the girls singles, "A" division, losing to Cindy Casseaux of Brownfield, 4-6, 2-6. Winning second place in "A" girls doubles were Deanna Boles and Carolyn Tyree. They were beaten in the finals by Donna and Susie Hefner, both of Estacado, 4-6, 2-6.

John Phillips, Snyder's talented singles player, had entered a tournament in Abilene and did not compete in the local tourney. Max Falls and Ronnie Maddux, the Tiger duo, also competed in the tourney in Abilene. They won second place, and John lost out in the semifinals.

Other first place winners here:

"A" boys singles — Keaton Grubbs of Colorado City defeated Norbert Zimmerman of Sweetwater 6-2, 6-4.

"B" boys singles — Eric Johnson of Ft. Stockton defeated Jack Byrd of Clyde 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

"B" boys doubles — McCallister and Fletcher of Ft. Stockton defeated Lee McElroy of Estacado 6-3, 7-5.

"B" girls singles — Doris Shelnutt of Clyde defeated Sue Dolan of Big Lake 6-0, 6-4.

"B" girls doubles — Slusher and Kirkpatrick of Big Lake defeated Goode and Williams of Ft. Stockton 6-1, 7-5.

Team standings; "A" division — Snyder 14, Brownfield 11, Sweetwater 8, Colorado City and Estacado (tie) 5, and Clyde 4; Big Lake 3, Littlefield 2, Ft. Stockton 1; "B" Division —Ft. Stockton "B" team and Clyde (tie) 13, Big Lake 11, Denver City 8, Snyder and Estacado "B" teams 5, Big Spring 3, Lockney and Brownfield 1.

"It was more successful than we hoped for," said Tiger Coach Ken McAllister, "since 12 teams returned to complete the tourney.

The Bengals will enter the Abilene Easter Tournament Friday and Saturday in Abilene.

Ike's Words Repeated At Eulogy

By MARTHA COLE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mamie Doud Eisenhower's eyes never left the flag-shrouded casket of the husband whose last thoughts and words were for her.

Twice she seemed to fight back tears.

Amid the great assemblage of world and national leaders in the Capitol rotunda, the former president's wife of nearly 53 years was calm and composed.

And so she remained during President Nixon's 16 minute eulogy, through the President's recitation of her husband's last words.

"I've always loved my wife. I've always loved my children. I've always loved my grandchildren. I have always loved my country."

Dwight D. Eisenhower, Nixon said, spoke these words to his wife just before he died last Friday.

When the eulogy was over, Mrs. Eisenhower returned to seclusion and private grief.

She and other members of the family have stayed close together in hotel suites while leaders of the world gather for the funeral.

Mrs. Eisenhower has sought to restrict this sorrowful part of her life to members of her family, a friend said.

Through it all, in public, Mrs. Eisenhower, 72, has clung to the arm of her son, John, 46, who has been seen often to give her black gloved hand a reassuring pat.

The four grandchildren have attended the public services, as erect and composed as their grandmother.

When Eisenhower's body was taken into the rotunda, the grandchildren walked slowly up the steps behind it.

David, 21 today, and Julie, his wife and daughter of President Nixon, and David's sister, Susan, 17, went first, all holding hands. Also there were Mary Jean Eisenhower, 13; and Barbara Anne, 19, and her husband, Fernanda Echavarria-Uribe of Bogota, Columbia.

Mrs. Eisenhower, John, and his wife, Barbara, did not stand at the steps for the ceremony there but went into the Capitol by a door beneath the steps and left that way.

Port Arthur Man To Assist Hickel

PORT ARTHUR (AP) — Dr. Donald Dunlop of Port Arthur has been appointed assistant to Interior Secretary Walter Hickel.

A resident of Norman, Okla., but a graduate of Port Arthur schools, Dr. Dunlop received his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Texas and his doctor's degree from Texas A&M University.

His new position will be a scientific advisor to Hickel in the oil recovery and oceanography.

ELECTRIC SERVICE COMING

A Better Life For Alaskans

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the nation's most ambitious and dramatic antipoverty campaigns is finally under way in the bush country of Alaska.

A number of federal agencies are cooperating to bring electric power and, hopefully, a better life to about 20,000 deprived villagers.

The Rural Electrification Administration began last week processing last week an initial $100,000 advance on a $5.2 million loan which had been approved last October for the Alaskan project.

When completed, perhaps in another year or two, some 59 villages for the first time will have electric service. Most of them will have their own generating facilities, thus eliminating the need for whale oil lamps, candles and wheezing gasoline lanterns.

The villagers are mostly Indians, Eskimos and Aleuts, native Alaskans who have traditionally lived by fishing, trapping and exploiting other limited resources at hand.

Gradually, as happened throughout rural America, youths have turned from the pursuits of their fathers. They've gone to larger towns and cities, seeking jobs which frequently did not materialize.

William F. Hensley, president of Alaska Village Electric Cooperative, Inc., says the project can do much in helping reverse the migration trend.With electric power, he says, villagers can expect better schools, local industries and the growth which has come to mean progress for much of the "lower 48" states.

Hensley, a 27-year-old Eskimo, was a guest of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association here recently. He and other project leaders were exuberant about the possibilities for the bush country.

"The primary effect will be economic," Hensley told a newsman. "Right now our people are having to pay as much as $1 a gallon for gasoline just to light their lamps.

"Gradually, we hope, electric power will mean more opportunity for small industry in the villages, maybe to help keep some of our people home and to give them income year 'round."

Trapping and hunting have faded as reliable sources of income, Hensley said. Summers mean construction work for many, but the long, hard winters often mean unemployment compensation and welfare payments.

Other government agencies involved in the project include the Office of Economic Opportunity, the Bureau of Indian Affairs and the Labor Department, as well as Alaska state agencies.

Large-scale central generating plants pouring electricity through transmission lines to the villages over Alaska's vast area are virtually out of the question. So small units will be set up in nearly every village.

Each illage will be rehponsible for operation of its own plant, under a contractual arrangement with Hensley's cooperative.

"What's really going to make this program go is the schools," Hensley said. "We plan to contract with the Bureau of Indian Affairs to provide electricity for these schools, which now have their own plants."

Other help includes an OEO commitment to pay the co-op's administrative costs for three years, during the construction period.

Hensley, whose home is in Kotzebue, 35 miles above the Arctic Circle, is a 1966 political science graduate of George Washington University and is a member of the Alaska House of Representatives.

Alaska's native population is among the nation's poorest, officials say. Unemployment averages 60 per cent, infant mortality is high and the average life expectancy is 34.4 years.

Hensley is confident electricity can help change all that, but the plan has emerged slowly since it was born in the early 1960s, he added.

"The difficulty has been to convince the government that this is a feasible project," Hensley said. "But it looks like we finally made it."

Junior Editors Quiz on ASIAN RICE

QUESTION: Why is rice transplanted in Java?

* * * *

ANSWER: To the peoples who live in Asia, rice is a vital food, meaning even more to them than corn and wheat do to us. A Japanese or Indian eats up to two-thirds of a pound of rice every day. To grow really well, rice plants need warm temperatures and much water. Sometimes rice seeds are scattered in flooded fields. Sometimes the plants are grown thickly together in well-fertilized nursery soil. After some 30 or 40 days, the crowded plants must be thinned out or transplanted to fields where they have more room to grow. These fields, called rice paddies, are small and have been flooded with water and cultivated. (1) Clumps of the plants are taken to them, and a bunch of one to six stalks is pushed down into the mud under the water (2). Such transplanting is carried out in many other Asian countries beside Java. The field are flooded even more as the plants grow (3), but by the time the rice is ripe, the paddies have been drained dry. Then the plants are cut and carried off (lower right) so the grain can be extracted by threshing.

People Had Faith In Eisenhower

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Trust. Inspiration.

Those two words most aptly sum up the hardware behind "Ike's" famous grin. By those two words he is most likely to endure.

A generation trusted Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, and he returned that trust by inspiring that generation. The people had faith in him; he had faith in the people.

A psychologist might sum up his career by saying that he satisfied America's desire for a "father image." To use a Southern colloquialism, he might be described as the "big Daddy Rabbit" of his time.

Certainly it is true that he came to have a paternal feeling for his country and it developed a filial affection for him. In health, he led it to victory in wartime; in illness, he gave to millions of ailing others an example of fortitude under duress, courage in ordeal.

It was a long journey that Eisenhower took—away from and back to Abilene, where a residual immortality awaits him in graven stone and stored words.

The 34th president of the United States won florid praise as a chieftain in war and a statesman in peace. He won florid dispraise, too, in both functions. We are perhaps too close to both the praise and dispraise now to be sure of how his fame will emerge.

Undoubtedly, however, history will have to certify his genius in a very vital field—the ability to get people to work together for a common purpose and a mutual goal. This talent, which alone can assure the nobility of mankind's potential glory, is as rare in the human race as plateaus are on horned toads.

Eisenhower was able to put dreams in harness and make them work.

His critics may say that on the field of battle the general was hardly another Napoleon. Indeed he wasn't. Napoleon had a .500 average in combat. He won half his campaigns and lost half of them, including his last one. Eisenhower didn't lose any.

There are so many fists and thumbs in the second world war that it is hard to say that any one man fished out the plum of victory. But it can be said of Eisenhower that he was the key architect of unity among the Allies on the western front.

Those whose carping jealousies endangered that unity of aim he curbed or dismissed; those who worked for that unity he promoted and sustained.

As president of his country, he tried to do the same thing—sustain and promote a unity. There are those who say that in politics he was inept and a caretaker rather than a creator. Some of this criticism overlooks Eisenhower's own conscientious idea of his task—to get disparate elements among his countrymen to get along and achieve essential goals, the goals he saw.

Perhaps a longer view from a later time may see those goals as limited. Perhaps not. But to dismiss Eisenhower as politically unsophisticated is in itself perhaps to show critical naivete.

It was during his administration that the United States, by taking in as member Alaska and Hawaii, changed its traditional structure that had hinged until then on contiguity. Now, if politically advisable, our country club can add to its roster and put new stars in its flag. At least the pattern of possibility is there.

Jan Stenerud of the Kansas City Chiefs scored 129 points by kicking last season. He made good on 30 of 40 field goals attempts.

A New Approach To Job Training

GREENVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi has begun a job-training program under which it finds the employer first—and then trains the worker. And training is given not only to the breadwinner of the house but also to the other members of the family.

"There is a lot more to ending poverty and filling empty stomachs than handling out piles of welfare money," says Dr. P.T. Bankston, associated director of the center.

About 12,000 field hands—both men and women, many of whom were cotton workers—have been thrown out of work in recent years with the advent of federal minimum wage laws, weed control chemicals and advanced mechanization.

Into this situation stepped the Mississippi Research and Development Center.

The state took over the unused Greenville Air Force Base to start a pilot project with money from state agencies, the federal government and the Ford Foundation. And the Delta Resources Development Center was born. Today, some 300 persons live, and work and learn at the center.

A trainee, sent to the project by the state welfare office, begins with a basic education class to learn to read and write. In the afternoon, he starts an evaluation program to determine his skills and special aptitudes. One such experiment requires the trainee to take a lock apart and put it back together, following pictorial instructions.

At the end of six weeks, a trainee has taken 100 tests and typically has shown ability in about 30 areas, indicating he could be trained for any one of several hundred jobs.

Then an employer is located before the training begins, so it can be directed toward a specific job.

The one facility in actual production at the center is a wire harness plant, turning out material for a washing machine company. Center officials say it is making money.

Another company, Trailco, Inc., has broken ground for its first plant in Mississippi and expects to be in operation at Greenville by September. In the meantime, a trailer-truck assembly line identical to the one used by Trailco will be set up at the center to train workers.

A manufacturer of knitted clothing plans to locate production operations in one of the large buildings on the base in the near future.

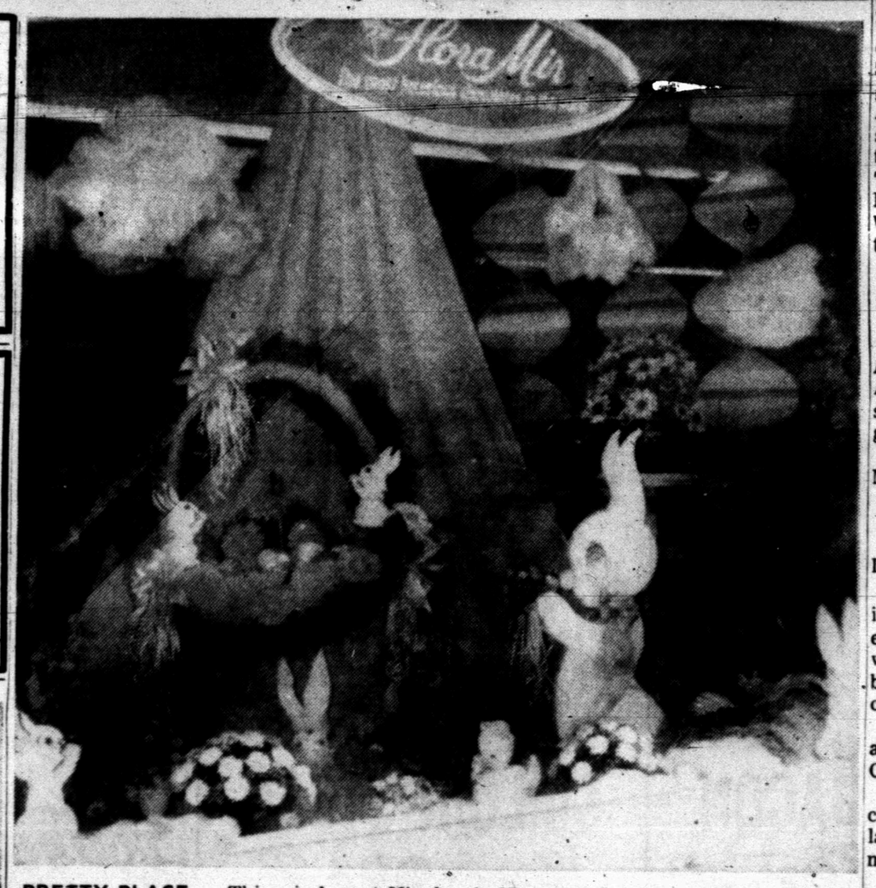
BOLGER FUNERAL HOME



PRETTY PLACE — This window at Hinshaw's House of Flowers, 2804 Avenue S, is decorated in an Easter theme with bunny rabbits and Easter eggs prominent in the design. You can get beautiful Easter lilies or other flowers at Hinshaw's. Whethr you want to make a purchase or just look around, visitors always are welcome at Hinshaw's.

Flowers Fitting At Easter Time

The Easter story is gloriously retold each year in the simplicity, beauty, cheerfulness and annual resurrection of flowers.

What couid be lovelier than a fresh Easter bouquet ablaze with color, or a radiant long-lasting flowering plant to make the Easter story sing for weeks?

Gifts of flowers are always in good taste and always joyfully received — especially at Eastertime.

Easter lillies, azaleas and hydrangias are some of the more popular flowers available at Hinshaw's House of Flowers, 2804 Avenue S, at this time of year. You can get corsages, potted plants or fresh arrangements at reasonable prices at Hinshaw's.

Other tasteful gifts, such as the world - famous Flora Mira chocolate candy, are available at the House of Flowers. Moreover, refrigeration is maintained at the floral shop and in the delivery equipment so that orders from Hinshaw's always are fresh when received by the customer.

Planning floral arrangements for weddings, of course, is a specialty of Hinshaw's. Arrangements may be made to suit every taste and pocketbook. Whatever the occasion, if you want to say it with flowers, Hinshaw's can help you.

Nothing expresses the spirit of Easter better than flowers. No remembrance is more appreciated.

Retires As Press Editor

FORT WORTH (AP) — After a 24-year career as editor of the Fort Worth Press, Walter R. Humphrey was to retire today and be succeeded by his long-time associate, C. A. "Bob" Sellers.

Jack R. Howard, president of Scripps Howard newspapers, announced the changes.

Humphrey joined the Press shortly after graduation from the University of Colorado in 1926. Following a period as editor of the Temple Telegram, he returned to the Press as editor in 1945.

He is a former president of the Texas Press Association and national president of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society.

Sellers is a 1948 Baylor University graduate and has been with the press since that time. He served as assistant city editor, telegraph editor and public service director before assuming the post of managing editor six years ago.

MAY BE A SMALL WORLD, BUT—

It's A Long, Long Haul To Alaska

EDITOR's NOTE— — It's a small world, it is said, but it's still a big, big country when you're traveling across it by truck. Hugh Mulligan, AP special correspondent, covered 5,260 miles in a trailer truck going from Cleveland, Ohio, to Anchorage, Alaska, through 12 states—in 155½ hours — for this trucker's eye view of America. This article, first of two, follows Mulligan as far as the state of Washington. Next Week: north to Alaska.

EN ROUTE CLEVELAND TO ANCHORAGE (AP) — Read America's past in her road signs; a history unfolds with the geography:

"James Whitcomb Riley Motel."

"Jesse James' Cave."

"Pony Express Dragway."

"See Grover Cleveland's Desk."

A sociology unfolds too, little islands of indivIdualism, vast expanses of prairie, horizon-wide Western valleys holding back the threat of a coast-to-coast megalopolis:

"Enter horse-drawn vehicle area"—Amish country, along Ohio's Route 42.

"Antelope crossing"—Medicine, Wyo., a wondrous wasteland waiting for a John Wayne movie crew.

"Extreme caution, moose on road"—the Alcan Highway, the last frontier of the wide open days on the open road.

Seldom a reptile farm anymore or a chained-up grizzly bear, almost never a circus billboard or carnival poster, but everywhere still the biggest and the best:

"Little America, World's Largest Gas Station. 55 pumps."

"Casbar Motel, World's Biggest TV Screen."

Burma Shave signs have vanished from the landscape with the advent of the interstates, and only occasionally will a weathered barn beseech the passerby to "Chew Mail Pouch Tobacco, Treat Yourself to the best."

But every quarter of a mile or so, local Chamber of Commerce poets deliver morality tales in rhyming couplets along the monotonous macadam, still singing of an innocent and boyishly America living out there beyond the smog and sophistication of the cities.

"It's still a big, big country" says Jim Jordan of Alliance, Ohio, "and you can see the personality of the country change as you cross it. People get friendlier as you go west. In the East, only the kids wave at you. In the West, everyone, even the cops, wave at you. In New England, you're just a dirty truck driver."

It's a big, big country, and Jim Jordan sees hundreds of thousands of miles of it every year, even when he's sleeping, it's rolling out under him, mile after mile, state after state. Enthroned behind the wheel of a huge tractor rig, 20 gears forward at his fingertips, pulling 20 tons of freight in tandem trailers at better than 50 miles an hour average, Jordan is a king of the road, an over-the-road trucker who is master of his rig and as meticulous about his equipment as the captain of a ship or the pilot of a plane.

When Jim gives the truck driver's wave to an approaching car or a passing truck, it is a lofty gesture, a gesture of authority and magnanimity, like a papal blessing and almost executed the same way: the hand lifted airily from the steering column and slowly replaced, command and a trifle condescending. Noblesse oblige, the bow of the big guy to those less privileged in horsepower and tonnage. Jim administers the truck driver's salute often, especially to kids who look bored in the back seats of out-of-state cars and to gal motorists in miniskirts who brighten his working day considerably with his advantageous view from the high slung truck cab.

"Miniskirts are one of the fringe benefits of this job," he says, "like breaking down in Vegas or Reno, an unexpected joy not written into the contract."

At the Denver terminal, Jim and George "pulled the pin" or "dropped the box," which means their run was over, and a West Coast team working out of Portland, Ore., took over for the run to Seattle. The new team, Gordon DeVore of Portland and Walter Dickson of Oregon City, might have been mated to their jobs by one of those computers that picks the right dates for college kids. Gordy was lean and soft-spoken, with a dry wit and a keen eye for all of the ordinary happenings in an ordinary day's run. Walt was burly and affable, with a booming laugh and endless cargo of anecdotes, mostly about truckers.

"You got to get along with the guy you run with," said Walt, going over previous partners in his mind like a man thinking back on previous wives. "Some guys get up from the bunk with a grouch. Others get black moods and won't talk for hours. Then there's the kind who are always contradicting what you say, or trying to top your jokes, or who want to swap the wheel every four hours like they were sailors on watch."

In the real life partners they left at home, truckers seem to have similar problems in compatability. "Divorce is pretty high among the drivers," Gordie admitted, "especially the younger ones. A fellow's on the road a lot, and if neither mate can trust the other, trouble has lots of time to happen in."

Both veterans of nearly two decades behind the wheel, Gordie and Walt had an enthusiasm for the freedom of the open road and fondness for the passing landscape and the diverse peoples it sustained that made the run to Seattle more than just 1,421 miles and 37 hours of grinding it out.

"You see something new every trip," exulted Walt, "and some things you'll never see again, like the two college girls naked to the waist in the open convertible near the weighing station at Lincoln, Neb. I damn near fell out of the cab."

Both Gordie and Walt had keen eyes for passing fauna: antelope in Wyoming, elk in Utah and Idaho, coyote, fox, jack rabbit almost everywhere, herds of Hereford in those vast western valleys like raisins in the snow and, in season, the migrating herds of hippies.

The way west could still boast many manifestations of individualism: the handless official at the truck weigh-in station in Fort Collins, Colo., who wrote the most beautiful script with his stainless steel claws; the 55-pump (Gordie counted them) truck stop at Little America, Wyo., luxurious with tablecloths, fountains, a gift shop, founded by a trucker who got stranded in a Wyoming blizzard; the marvelous fruit pies made by the stout lady in Jesse's, a luncheonette in Brigham City, Utah, which may rank as the smallest truck stop in the world.

Theirs was still a trucker's not a tourist's eye view of America.

The weather west was as variable as the scenery: bright sunshine all the way to Boise, sleet and ice lumbering up the 5 per cent grade through Deadman's Pass to Pendleton, thick fog and rain through the lovely Yakima Valley, then heavy snow, wet and pelting, in the Snoqualmie Pass outside Seattle, where people were skiing at 4 o'clock in the morning under swinging ribbons of lightbulbs.

"It's a great country," Gordie said, "and I'm sorry we reached the end of it," forgetting that the cargo he was about to drop would be picked up by another team and hauled all the way to Alaska—half a continent away in another even more splendiferous direction.

"This is the rollaid run," said Jim, banging on the bunk to wake his partner up for an early breakfast. "All along US36, clear to Denver, you won't find a decent truck stop. At least this one's clean."

While a sleepy-eyed teen-ager pumped 186 gallons of fuel into the huge tanks beneath the cab, Jim and George strode into the cafe with the toes-in-and-hips-high-Rod-Steiger swagger that all truckers seemed to effect and flopped into a back booth. Immediately, both fell to filling out their logbooks, a ritual that would be repeated at meal and coffee stops every couple of hours all along the tour. A pretty blonde waitress deserted a tablefull of high school kids and hurried over with menus. She seemed to be scribbling down scrambled eggs, home fries, toast and black coffee almost ahead of their familiar litany. As at most truck stops, the truckers got waited on first, ahead of everyone, out of respect for their schedule and on account of teen-agers and tourists not ordering fuel by the 100 gallon.

Conversation between the booths ran the gamut from girls to girls to girls, in that order, with occasional brief bulletins of weather information or to warn of a new radar trap. The waitresses, all pert and pretty, seemed more the collegiate pom-pom type than the saucy-eyed sirens who dished out the hash when Humphrey Bogart and George Raft drove by night.

"Open road ain't what she used to be since the interstates came along," moaned one of the drivers.

Times may have changed, but there's still a lot of the old oil left on the highway.

"I'm sure glad we stopped here, where the girls are so cute, instead of that last place," intoned one driver, as the most voluptuous redhead in the place sailed by with a tray of dirty dishes. She caught the pass with a delighted grin, then ignored it with a furious bellow to the chef.

"Let me have three short stacks, line 'em with links"—the slang for pancakes with sausage.

While Jim went out to the truck to remove his clothes and climb between the sheets of the narrow bunk, George lingered at the cashier counter to stock up on chewing gum and lifesavers and to have the two thermos bottles filled with hot black coffee.

"Bennys (benzedrin tablets) cost 12 cents apiece," he said. "Coffee and candy are just as good to keep you awake. Most of the pros, the guys like us who make $18,000 to $20,000 a year don't go for the speed bit. That's for the brokers and the fly-by-nights who got to drive their rigs into the ground to make a buck."

Leppert, a milk man for 13 years, joined Consolidated when competition from the supermarkets made his route unprofitable. "This is a hard life, but you're on your own and, if you don't mind being away from home for eight to 10 days at a time, it's an interesting life," he said, almost in a whisper over the hum of the motor.

One of the rules of the road, adhered to with exaggerated delicacy by almost all the driver-sleeper teams, is "don't wake the baby": easy over the railroad tracks, never slam the cab door, avoid blowing the air horn, smooth clutching, wake your partner only for meals or trouble that you can't handle alone.

Every seven or eight hours, Jim and George "broke," swapped the wheel for the bunk. They crossed the Mississippi at Hannibal, the Missouri at St. Jo, the south fork of the Republican at St. Francis. Dawn broke over western Missouri, backlighting the prairie skyscrapers — the silos and the grain elevators—against a vast pink sky; then all day across Kansas, the solitary farms looking lost in the bleak and endless snow, thin stands of hardwoods pencil striping the rolling prairies, horses in their Joe Namath coats huddling against the wind in the same dips and draws where the great buffalo herd used to congregate. A governor on the carburetor kept the speed at a maximum 58-miles an hour.

Climbing, climbing all the time in a gentle ascent toward the Continental Divide, Route 36 traversed bib overalls country into blue denim country; Kansas melted into Colorado with the twilight, and the towns had names like Cope and Last Chance, instead of Oberlin and Lebanon.

Then one final rise in the road, and the lights of Denver came up, twinkling in soft blues of fluorescent street lights and glowing reds of the neon signs; like a vast display of sapphires and rubys, spotlighted by the sweeping arc of the beacon light on the airport tower, and over it all a glittering canopy of diamonds burning in the cold, cobalt sky. Beyond the diadem of lights, the dark backdrop of the Rockies, unreal as a stage setting against the glow of the city lights and at the end of the immense stretch of plains.

"Coming in from the east by road at night, Denver has just got to be the prettiest sight in America," said Jim, barrelling his rig along a road that took an unexpected dip under a main runway at the airport, through a tunnel that the wind had packed with great balls of sagebrush.

The contract as executed by the International Brotherhood of Teamsters with consolidated Freightways, the nation's largest trucking firm, provides that Jim and his partner in the driver-sleeper team share 13.8 cents a mile, or roughly seven cents a mile each driving or sleeping, and $3.68 an hour waiting time for break downs or putting on chains, which puts the emphasis on keeping schedule, grinding it out mile after mile.

On a recent winter afternoon at Consolidated's freight terminal in Cleveland, Jim climbed into the cab of a White Freightliner, quietly closed the doors as not to disturb his partner, George Leppert of Mogadore, Ohio, asleep in the bunk behind, and set about grinding it out to Denver, Colo., a distance of 1,344 miles exactly.

Behind him in the boxes, as the two 29-foot-long trailers were called, were 37,000 pounds of general freight.

The towers and steeples of Celveland loomed indistinct in the pinkish smog of a declining day like a steel engraving, as Jim Jordan smoothly double-clutched into cruising gear and pushed the load toward the Indiana border. By the time he reached Ohio's Amish country near Plain City, snow was beginning to fall in big, wet blotches.

Night came on and town after town came and went in the metronome sweep of the windshield wipers: the inevitable pillared courthouse, the white wooden church, the Union soldier in the square leaning on his rifle, his shoulders caped in snow. Then the long empty stretches of farmland, broken by the neon glow of a diner or a service station.
