JEFFERSON.

Thomas Jefferson, whose birthday we celebrated yesterday, was one of those "certain" persons who used to be more common in days when life was simpler, statesman, diplomat, linguist, book-collector, and a man of letters.

Jefferson was a man of many talents. He was a statesman, a diplomat, a linguist, a book-collector, and a man of letters. He was a man of many talents. He was a statesman, a diplomat, a linguist, a book-collector, and a man of letters.

ENTERTAINING.

Social entertaining grows difficult, as rationing takes root in this country and spreads and tightens its grip. Many of the materials normally required for such purposes are vanishing, and the "point" system grows ever more tyrannical. What to serve one's guest becomes a national problem, which possibly even Mrs. Roosevelt can't solve. Chicken and fish and eggs are all right in their way, and anybody is lucky to have them in these times, but nobody can eat the same food right along—unless it's bacon, perhaps. But even that is now hard for people to get. And besides, probably no hostess would think of serving bacon for afternoon tea. Still, the very difficulty of social entertaining, as time goes on, may be entertaining. What with guests cooperating, and bringing their own food in baskets, as experts say they'll be doing soon, Married men aren't more polite than bachelors. They merely have somebody to make them answer invitations and write thank-you notes.

Friends are people who needn't be told your side of the story or have anything explained.

This Dinner-Table War

Is Your Family in Fighting Trim?

OF COURSE it's more trouble to feed a family in wartime!... That's what war is; trouble. But even so, aren't America's dinner tables banquets, compared with those in the other nations that are fighting to save mankind's freedom? That's why American women can swing market baskets and count ration points, and think nothing of it. They are helping to win. And in this war, we win or we die.

Gas Ranges Simplify Nutrition

If you take good care of your modern Gas Range, it can feed your family for years and years. Put it through its paces. Use the simmer-burners, for instance, for flawless vegetables; the thermostat-control for correct baking and roasting; the smokeless broiler, on half-bearings, for sizzling foods in their own juices. Follow a Nutrition Guide. Even with war restrictions, you can have good-tasting meals that guard the health and good looks of your family.

SECOND War Loan

HOW MANY BATTLES must a soldier fight? No one can answer — we only know that American soldiers, sailors and marines will fight until the enemy is defeated. How many war Bonds should a citizen buy? Only you can answer — but American citizens will keep buying Bonds so that American soldiers can keep fighting until the enemy quits. Leave it to the enemy to QUIT. Let us KEEP ON buying War Bonds.

ANNUAL REPORT TO TELEPHONE USERS

A Summary of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's 1942 Annual Report. Recently issued.

PEARL HARBOR was only three weeks old as 1942 started, but already the telephone system had felt the first of war's pressing demands.

Most metals vital to war are also vital to telephone service. During the year we were able to get, for example, only 4 tenths of the copper normally needed.

Telephone people somehow had to make this bare trickle of materials meet demands for entire telephone systems at Army camps and Navy bases, for services to new war industries, for new telephones in thousands upon thousands of homes.

Service held up rather well

The skill and "know-how" of these people were in most cases equal to the job. During the year the company gained 123,689 telephones. It ended the year with 1,867,781 telephones in service. But in many cities, lines and equipment simply could not serve all who wanted telephones.

The quality and speed of telephone service held up rather well during the year. There were exceptions, of course. On many crowded long distance lines delays were unavoidable.

It was inevitable, in such a year, that some new high marks as well as some low marks should be set.

For example, the money taken in by the company for its services was 120 million dollars—11 per cent above 1941. That seems a lot of money.

Expenses mount faster than revenue

But expenses climbed even faster. They jumped from a little over 88 million dollars in 1941 to more than 101 million dollars—an increase of 15 per cent. Most of this increase was a result of sharply higher payrolls and taxes. Taxes grew from slightly less than 20 million dollars in 1941 to more than 24 million dollars.

The result was that the company matched its high record with a low.

Earning rate lower than in depression

The company's earnings for the year were at the rate of 4.4 per cent on the money it has put into the buildings, wires, and equipment needed to furnish telephone service—a lower rate of return than was earned at the lowest point of the depression.

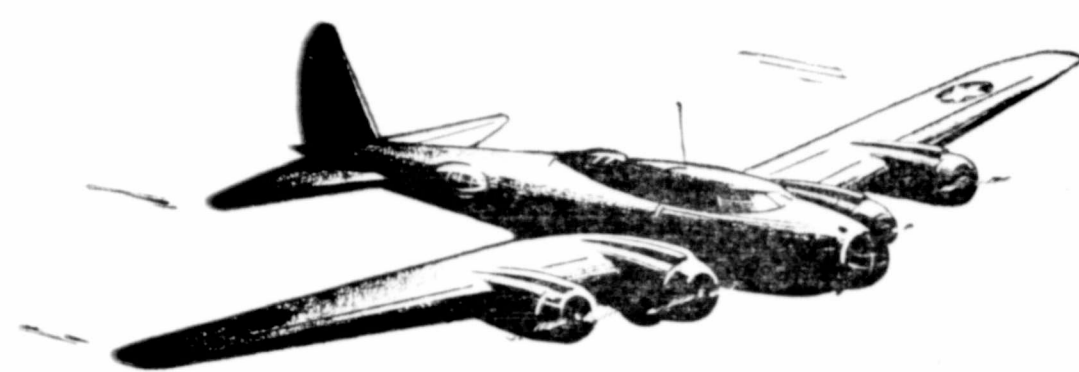

On the whole, telephone service was better in 1942 than telephone people had dared hope it would be. This was due in large part to the competence and fine spirit of service of the telephone men and women in the Southwest. It was due also to the understanding and sympathetic co-operation of the people who use the service.
