C of C Happenings

The Chamber of Commerce has a guest register which they would like to have all winter visitors come and sign. Many times people stop by the Chamber office looking for friends or relatives spending the winter in the area and it is an easy way to locate these friends if they have signed the register and have stated where they are staying.

We urge all visitors to stop by the Chamber office and register and enjoy a cup of coffee or juice. Furnishing refreshments this week is the Port Little Company.

County Finances

County Auditor Bob Mosier listed the following in the financial report for Aransas County for October:

Cash balance Oct. 1, $149,066.68; receipts, $60,881.84; total funds available, $209,948.52; disbursements, $48,554.92; cash balance Oct. 31, $161,393.60; time deposits, $288,465.68; fund balance Oct. 31, $449,859.28.

First National Bank of Rockport will be closed Thursday, Nov. 26 for Thanksgiving Day.

More United Fund Leaders Named

With the Aransas County annual United Fund campaign underway, the Rev. Cecil Lang, drive chairman, announced appointment of additional campaign executives this week.

The Fulton Fire Department Auxiliary has accepted responsibility for soliciting in Fulton, with Mrs. Leslie Cole, president of the auxiliary, in charge. Each member of the auxiliary will enlist at least one additional solicitor, raising the team total to approximately 40.

Leaders for special groups include Mrs. Ruby Hart, who will be responsible for county employees; Herman Johnson, who has undertaken solicitation of the city employees; Mrs. Bea Shipman, who will seek pledges from employees of the H.E.B. store and James H. Sorenson, Jr., who will be responsible for members of the staff of First National Bank.

Carl Cribben will be in charge of soliciting residents of Holiday Beach. Members of the United Fund Board of directors are seeking contributions in the special gifts division.

First reports on the campaign, which has a total goal of $10,400, are due late this week, according to Lang, who added that this year's goal is slightly less than the total raised last year. Approximately 100 workers are involved in this year's drive during which house-to-house solicitations will be made.

Operating funds for 12 organizations will be raised in one united campaign, making it possible to save money and time for both the organizations and the contributors.

Pirates Win Final Game

By Bob Crawford

Closing out the 1970 football season, the Pirates of Rockport-Fulton High School gained their third win of the season at Pirate Stadium last Friday night over the Calallen Wildcats by a 22-6 score.

The game began on a bad note as the Pirates fumbled the opening kickoff and gave the Wildcats the ball on the Pirate 35-yard line. The possession for the Cats was short-lived, as defensive halfback Mark Wright, gathered in a pass to put the Pirates in business.

After the Pirates punted, Calallen set to work on their own 25-yard line, big Abel Salazar pounced on a Cat fumble to give the Pirates a scoring opportunity. With fullback Richard Schendel lugging the ball to the two-yard line in three plays, quarterback Craig Thornton called his own number and dove into the end zone for the first Pirate score. Halfback Robert Brooks carried the ball in for the two points after to give the Pirates a lead 9-0.

In the middle of the second quarter the Mean Green were marching toward another score, and Brooks broke loose on a 34-yard jaunt, and to everyone's eyes a score, but an illegal motion penalty wiped it out. The Pirates, however, moved on steadily toward the goal, but another penalty seemed to halt the drive, when Brooks punted for four yards, and then Schendel plunged into the end zone for the TD. The try for the kick after was not good, and the Pirates were held at a 14-8 lead at the half.

In the second half, the teams were plagued by strong gusts of wind, and at one point Brooks punted for 64 yards.

Interceptions played a key role in the stopping of the Wildcats. In addition to Wright's steal, Clay Gillis, Steve Arispe, and Charles (Continued on Page 8)

County 1969 Oil, Gas Revenue $10,767,992

Aransas County's petroleum industry produces 1,633,920 barrels of crude oil valued at $5,243,649 and 40,323,680 thousand cubic feet of natural gas valued at $5,524,343 for an annual economic value of $10,767,992.

These figures, just released by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, show the county ranked 95th among state counties in oil and gas production during 1969.

Texas production which has registered an increase over each previous year during the past decade hit another all-time high in 1969 with 1,151,775,000 barrels, according to U. S. Bureau of Mines statistics. This is a production increase of 24.2 per cent since 1960.

"Production from Aransas County helped meet this record demand," says Kenneth E. Montague, Association President.

"We are now calling on it and the rest of Texas to meet an even greater demand as events in the Middle East have again forced us to dip into our declining reserves. Unfortunately, the price for Texas oil is inadequate to stimulate enough exploratory drilling to replace reserves."

Aransas County landowners and others with mineral interests received $1,345,999 in royalty payments last year. Texas received $241,208 from (Continued on Page 8)

Troop 280 Holds Court of Honor

Boy Scout Troop 280 held a court of honor Nov. 9 at the Girl Scout Little House.

After the opening ceremony, an impressive candlelighting ceremony was held to induct three young boys into the troop. Melvin Mills, the scoutmaster, lighted each candle and Dana Wagner, a senior scout, gave the law and explained the boys' obligation to it. The parents pinned the tenderfoot badge on their son.

The boys receiving the badges were Brett Ashley, Bruce Barre and Gilbert Solis. The troop has been busy earning advancement and merit badges.

Alan Barre was presented the safety merit badge. Dwight Mills advanced to life scout and received the citizens' community merit badge, first aid, citizenship in the nation. Lynn Goff advanced to Star Scout and received citizenship in nation, nature, first aid and conservation merit badges.

Wade Armstrong advanced to life scout and received nature, citizenship in nation and first aid merit badges. Mike Meaker advanced to star scout and received first aid, swimming, conservation and nature merit badges. These advancement badges and merit badges were presented by Chester Barre and Scoutmaster Melvin Mills.

Throughout the evening Calallen moved into striking distance, but key tackles by Mike Morgan, who tackled the Wildcat quarterback three times in the game for a minus 35 yards, and the middle of the Pirate line, Bob Gillis, Peden Rogers, and Alvin Griffith stopped the Cats short. Adding to the defensive show, was Royce Court, deep safety, and who pulled in two Wildcat passes.

The Freshmen closed out the season with two wins and five losses, but the two wins provided enough to win the district in freshman play.

Trailing the Wildcats by 8-7 with four seconds left on the first half clock, the Pirate JV pulled into the lead at halftime with linebacker Benny Harris stepping inside the Calallen receiver on the Pirate eighth, and Harris set sail on a 92-yard return for a TD. With Harris running the length of the field, it appeared he would be caught from behind, but a great effort by end Bill Swann to catch up with the pursuer and block him allowed Harris to reach paydirt. John Vick kicked the extra point and the JV took a 14-8 lead to the locker room.

Earlier in the first half, the Pirates moved in for the first score, with quarterback Vick skirting the end for 17 yards and a TD. Vick added the kick for the point.

The only Calallen score came as a result of Pirate errors. It was also a fumble that allowed the Pirates to score. (Continued on Page 8)

Uncle Sam's Selective Service

Editor's Note: Below are questions now being asked at draft boards. The answers are by State Selective Service Board, 209 W. 78701. They will welcome your questions.

Q—Suppose the beliefs of a conscientious objector influence his views concerning the country's domestic or foreign policies. He is still entitled to the conscientious objector classification by the draft board?

A—If the board considers him eligible for conscientious objector classification on the basis of moral, ethical, or religious beliefs, he would be excluded from the exemption simply because those beliefs influence his opinions about the domestic or foreign policies.

Q—Does the law require that a man who claims conscientious objection be affiliated with any particular group in order to be so classified?

A—No.

Q—May boards give precedence to one religion over another?

A—No. All beliefs must be given equal consideration.

Q—If a man's objector claim is related to church membership, may the board inquire as to membership, the religious teaching, and the man's own religious activity?

A—Yes; however, the fact that he may disagree with some of the tenets of his church does not necessarily discredit his claim.

Q—If a claimant does not believe in a traditional "God" or a "Supreme Being," may he be considered favorably as a conscientious objector?

A—Yes.

Q—What is the primary test that must be used in establishing a base for the conscientious objector classification?

A—The test of sincerity which the belief is held.

Q—In the guidelines issued by the Director of Selective Service, may the term "religious training and belief" as used in the law include solely moral or ethical beliefs, even though the man claiming conscientious objection himself may not characterize these beliefs as "religious" in the traditional sense?

A—Yes.

Q—Does the board have to be convinced of this sincerity?

A—Yes. The board should be convinced by information presented to it that the claimant's personal history reveals views and actions strong enough to demonstrate that of his claim.

Q—I'm convinced a learned man has a better chance to get the conscientious objector classification. Are boards cautioned about this?

A—Yes. They are advised not to give particular advantage to a man who is learned or glib. A man need not use formal or traditional language.

Q—Somebody told me that college study deferments are out for the draft. Is this correct?

A—No, it is not correct. The person who told you this probably got the idea from the fact that the President has asked Congress to give him authority to stop student deferments.

Q—Is there more than one kind of student deferment?

A—Yes. There are actually five classifications in the Selective Service regulations which can affect students studying beyond the high school. Four of these involve deferment from military service, and one is an outright exemption from it.

Texas Trout Fishing Newest Recreation

Success in stocking rainbow trout in Texas for the first time was described in a color motion picture titled "Guadalupe Rainbows" presented at the weekly meeting of Rotary Club Wednesday at Corky's Restaurant by L. D. Nuckles of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The film explained that only in an 11-mile stretch of the Guadalupe River below the reservoir was the water cold enough all year to maintain trout. Also it was pointed out that river bed conditions in this stretch provided sufficient turbulence to supply enough oxygen for trout.

First trout were introduced in the Guadalupe in 1966 and additional fish have been planted annually since then. As yet it is not known whether trout will reproduce in the Guadalupe river, and it may be necessary to plant trout each year, as was the case in a number of other states where trout fishing has become a popular recreation.

Israel has issued a new 22nd Independence commemorative coin.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"I Thought It Was a Deer"

Thousands of times during the average hunting season, a bullet meant for an animal strikes a human being instead. Besides the personal tragedy, there may be important legal consequences as well. When is one hunter legally liable for shooting another?

The law's attitude is shaped by one basic truth: that firearms are inherently dangerous. What might be forgiven as minor carelessness, under ordinary circumstances, becomes grounds for liability because of the special caution called for in the use of guns. For example: Two duck hunters were sitting in a boat. One laid aside his gun loaded and with the safety catch off. When the boat bobbed and jarred the gun, it fired a charge of bird shot into the other man's leg.

The victim later filed suit for damages, and a court upheld his claim. The judge said: "The care required of a person increases with any increase in the likelihood of harmful consequences to others if adequate care is not used."

Besides having to pay damages, a hunter may even be punished on a criminal charge.

Thus, a hunter was sent to prison for manslaughter after he shot down a companion crouching in high grass. His excuse that "I thought it was a deer" was held inadequate, since there was sufficient visibility for him to make a more careful identification before pulling the trigger.

"If he is in doubt," said the judge, "he must not shoot."

Of course, the presence of danger also places a heavier responsibility on a potential victim. While he is in a hunting environment, he must keep in mind that his own heedlessness may spell disaster.

In another hunting tragedy, a court put the entire blame on the victim for wandering thoughtlessly into the line of fire—and also for not wearing the traditional red hat to give fair warning of his presence. The judge decided that he had, in effect, "asked for it."

Pack 49

Den 2, Pack 49 opened their meeting with a happy birthday song to Sammy Kelley. Denner of the day was Carl DeForest. We practiced the skit for our Nov. 24 den meeting, then planned our costumes for pioneer days. We went out to run the 50 yard dash and raced with T stick and wheel.

Sammy Kelley furnished refreshments which included a special treat of ice cream cones. We sang "Row, Row, Row Your Boat" and "Are You Sleeping."

TEXAS' ONLY TRUE RESORT

Sea Turtle Victim of Man's Activity

AUSTIN—The sea turtle is just another wild animal caught in the revolving door of humanity's machinations.

But somehow the plight of the several species of sea turtle which swim Texas Gulf Coast waters and reproduce on its sandy beaches is more pitiable than that of other declining species.

The kindly reptiles have a lot going against them. A slow maturation process, vulnerability to predation by man and a dependence on increasingly crowded and abused beach areas for egg laying have combined to diminish the turtle population.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials have no way of knowing how many sea turtles swim in the state's waters now. But they do know that there aren't as many as there were a few years ago, according to Howard Lee, the Department's director of programs.

The turtles' struggle to reproduce by crawling clumsily onto the beach probably is at best one of nature's most vulnerable reproductive processes. People and vehicles on the beaches, along with a host of natural enemies, combine to stack the odds against nesting success, Lee said.

One species of sea turtle which formerly nested on the shores of Padre Island lost its foothold there completely and has come close to being wiped out in its major reproducing area along Mexico's eastern coastline. The ridley sea turtle may return to Texas if the efforts of a group of private citizens meet with success.

Hundreds of ridley eggs were flown to Padre Island and buried in the sand in 1967, in an effort to re-establish the turtles' life cycle there. The results of this effort will not be known until 1973, when the hatched turtles mature enough to return and lay eggs. Whether they will return to Padre Island is unknown.

A complete review of the ridley turtle restoration effort will be featured in an upcoming issue of "Texas Parks and Wildlife" Magazine.

The Department has had only isolated, and in most cases unconfirmed, reports of turtle nesting activity on the Texas coast. Lee estimates the total hatch to be so small as to be insignificant to an overall study of Gulf turtles.

Most reproduction now apparently occurs on the Mexican coast and in islands of the Caribbean, he said.

All species of sea turtles were given protection under state law in 1963. It is unlawful to catch or kill them or disturb their nests.

Turtle catching formerly was a big business in Texas, but the danger signs were seen early. The annual Commissioner's Report of the old Game, Fish and Oyster Commission included references to the scarcity of sea turtles in the year 1904.

There even was an area of Copano Bay used as a penning area for turtles caught in the Gulf, and it retains its name to the present — Turtle Pen Flats.

The increasingly rare sea turtles, then, seldom find themselves featured in turtle soup as they once were.

However, another species on the coast still is popular among gourmets and still is found in significant numbers. This is the diamondback terrapin, a brackish-water turtle which lives in coastal marshes and is generally smaller than its sea-going relatives. It has feet similar to freshwater turtles instead of the paddle-shaped feet seen on sea turtles.

There is an open season on the terrapins from November through February, and a minimum measurement of six inches in length of undershell to prevent harvest of immature specimens.

The five species of sea turtle found in Texas coastal waters are the green, hawksbill, loggerhead, ridley and leatherback.

Perhaps nothing less than international efforts can save all the species of sea turtle found in the Gulf of Mexico and other waters. Whatever the requirements, the salvation of the sea turtle tribe would be a significant contribution to the overall ecology of the world's increasingly vital ocean systems.

Eco-Talk

By EDDIE BRADLEY

This is an open letter in response to an article by Mr. John Chamberlain entitled, "Needed: A New Breed of Conservationists," which appeared in the November 8, 1970 issue of the Corpus Christi Caller.

Dear Mr. Chamberlain:

After reading your column, I have arrived at the following points which it seemed you were trying to make: 1. We need industrial advances to support our populations and create new jobs—we do not need caribou or waterfowl, or at least these are not as important as industrial advances. 2. Conservationists should stop impeding "industrial progress" and rather use their ingenuity to devise methods of cleaning-up after "progress" has gone by.

If I have misread your intent in any way, please accept my apologies.

You have said, sir, that we must have industrialism in order to support our huge populations; conservationists say yes, but do our individuals have to be supported ten or more times better than individuals in other countries? Most conservationists take a more practical approach than is represented by your article. They realize that the resources we depend upon are limited and that we need to redirect our efforts before they are completely depleted.

And by redirect, I don't mean finding new places to carry out the same old techniques; I mean finding new methods and sources of power which will help us "keep alive in winter" as you put it, but will not pollute and destroy our environment.

For instance, if all the time, resources, money, and energy which are being spent to develop ways of getting oil from Alaska were put to the task of finding a completely pollution-free engine, we would undoubtedly have it in short order. The engine would of course, be a more efficient fuel consumer, and perhaps even use a different kind than is now being utilized. This might mean the resources we are now getting would adequately supply the remainder of our fuel and lubrication needs.

The main idea, though, is that we need to put the money on the polluter's back, where it belongs. If some madman were to begin spraying bullets around, you would think me foolish if I suggested leaving him and everyone else alone, and simply ran around trying to deflect the bullets before they did any harm. And yet, isn't that what you are suggesting we do in the case of killing of our environment?

You seem to display optimism that answers can be found to our pollution problems, short of shutting down all the factories. I couldn't agree with you more, but why isn't the stress put on industry to clean up its own house? And I don't mean coming up with ridiculous propositions such as your engineering friend's suggestion, which would have us building ramps so that caribou could get over those Alaskan pipelines! Industry has the money, manpower, and resources to do the job. Why shouldn't any company which is responsible for depositing tons of particulate matter on a town and its citizens be required to find a way to stop? Perhaps the process of diverting pollutants from our air, water, and land will ultimately lead to many more available jobs than industry now offers. It might also turn out to mean more profits for the individual companies through the re-use of materials they once threw away.

The point is, Mr. Chamberlain, that mankind is permanent.

wedded to the entire ecology. There is no separate system for the human and for the animal. If you destroy all the natural elements in the environment, the two-legged creature left standing will not be human; it will be something else. And I doubt that any of us will be pleased to find out what it is, even your "bright engineer," who sees building a bridge of some kind as the solution to every problem we face.

lowed the Wildcats to be on the Pirate 15, when the four seconds remained on the first half clock.

Great defensive efforts of the Pirates stopped Wildcat drives, with two drives being stopped by interceptions by Oscar Lara. Drew Carlin led the defense from his linebacking position, as the Pirate line closed down on the tough Calallen runners. Late in the game, Richard Garcia intercepted a desperation pass to check off any other Cat threat. Brad Ward also gave the Pirates a possession in the game with a fumble recovery.

To close out the Pirate scoring, Vick ran 11 yards for the TD and again kicked the extra point, putting the final score at 21-8.

The JV finished the year with a 4-4 record, and 3-2 in the district.

crude oil production taxes and $392,228 from natural gas production taxes.

Estimated drilling expenditures totaled $2,774,170 with $2,146,534 of that amount spent on dry holes yielding nothing for the driller. Ira Rinehart's Yearbook showed drillers completed four oil wells, two gas wells and 26 dry holes. Sixteen wildcats were drilled and all were dry.

The county's oil and gas processing plants also added to the economy. The Oil and Gas Journal listed one carbon black plant and two natural gasoline plants with a capacity of 85.0 million cubic feet daily. Reports from the Texas Employment Commission show some 151 persons were directly employed by the oil and gas industry in the county with an annual payroll of $1,098,468.

Pirates Win—

Cruser picked off stray Calallen aerials, with Cruser's setting up the last score for the Pirates, a one-yard blast by Schendel. Brooks added the two points after.

Calallen scored with 1:34 remaining in the game after taking the kickoff and going 63 yards before handyman Felix Figueroa, who has played guard, quarterback, and halfback this year, found the opening in the Pirate defensive line and fell into the end zone for the score.

The game marked the end of somewhat disappointing season for the Pirates and some members of this year's squad will surely be missed next year. Seniors who will not be around next year are Robert Brooks, Richard Schendel, Pete Perez, Mike McLead, Melvin Moore, Guy Richard, Daniel Burk, Carl Duckworth, Eddie Setterbo, John Cooling, Al Chernosky, Robert Little, Robert Moody and Russell Johnson.

Brooks will graduate with some 3,000 yards in offense to his credit. Schendel will have amassed over 1,000 yards.

Twenty-three players took part in Scotch foursome competition at Live Oak Country Club Sunday. Another will be held Sunday, Nov. 22.

Results of last Sunday's play were:

First, Frank Hameter, O. D. McCoy, Garvin Mitchell, Helen Dupre and Cheryl Jackson.

Second, Bill Miller, J. M. Ataway, Dick Richards, Vernie Bauknight and Kay Meyer.

In the ladies "blind partner" event Tuesday, 20 players competed, with the following results:

First, Lou McCleese and Cheryl Jackson, 154.

Second, Cheryl Jackson and Lou McCleese, 154.

Third, Stick Vance and Esther Wrinkle, 159.

Fourth, Rene Swann and Rose McCoy, 159.

160 Top Number For December Draft

Austin. — The December draft call for Texas is 489, and local boards will find the call with men with random sequence numbers 1 through 160, insofar as possible, Col. Charles M. Duncan, acting state Selective Service director, said Monday. He stated, however, that this does not mean that registrants with numbers higher than 160 may not be needed by some local boards.

Colonel Duncan stressed that under the new Executive Order signed by the President Sept. 26, 1970, all men in I-A, I-A-O, or I-O on Dec. 31, 1970, with numbers lower than the high number reached this calendar year by their own local boards will be assigned to the Extended Priority Selection Group to be called during the first quarter of 1971. Those with a higher number than the high number reached will be assigned to the Second Priority Group in 1971.

The Texas December draft quota of 489 is the state's share of a national quota for 7,000 men, all for the army. December inductions will occur Dec. 1 through 17.

The state quota for pre-induction physical and mental examinations in December is 3,376. Men sent for these examinations will be limited to those with random sequence number 1 through 195 from the drawing in December 1969 and numbers 1 through 100, from the July 1970 drawing for those born in 1951.

All volunteers at the draft boards must be inducted ahead of the non-volunteers selected and ordered to report for induction by random sequence number.

Local board quotas for induction and pre-induction examination in December are scheduled to be mailed to the state's 159 boards Monday, Nov. 9.

The Kinsey Report

For the time being I am trying my hand at a new "career" on Thursday afternoon, Friday and Saturday, after I finish my work at the Rockport Pilot. My new endeavor is selling cars for a Corpus Christi dealer.

I'm not sure that I will spend the rest of my life selling cars but I am going to give it a try. I'm really getting an education.

Here are some of the things things I've learned:

—It's tough work physically, mainly because you're on your feet so much. The first week, I was so tired that I went to bed at 8 p.m. on Friday night and 9:30 on Saturday night and I didn't even consider playing golf on Sunday.

—It's very satisfying to make a sale, not just because of the commission but also from the standpoint of helping a person find the car that is right for him or his family.

—There don't seem to be many tire kickers among prospective customers anymore. In two weeks of selling, I have seen only one tire kicker, a man about 65 who couldn't resist giving a good kick to a tire on a new car display.

—It doesn't take long to learn how to size people up.

There are the curiosity seekers who have absolutely no intention of buying; there are the hagglers who expect about twice as much for their old car than it is worth; there are a few who apparently are suspicious of all car salesmen and look at them with an "Oh yeah" look; and then there are those who obviously mean business, take a test drive, get a price offer on their old car, and then make a decision one way or the other.

Margaret Garrett has a certificate as the result of taking a course in the Corpus Christi area Emergency Care Training School, co-sponsored by the Nueces County Medical Society and the Texas State Department of Health, Division of Civil Defense and Traffic Safety. Topics included heart attacks, serious injuries, emergency childbirth, and other medical emergencies.

Telephone Cables Are Waterproofed

Water is usually considered a valuable commodity until it leaks into the network of aerial and underground telephone cables. Then it can become a nuisance—especially to telephone customers.
If floods or excessive rains should cause moisture to seep into the telephone cables, it could garble telephone conversations, create static or even temporarily wipe out service for hundreds of customers.
The people at Southwestern Bell work constantly to "waterproof" telephone cables, and their best answer to preventing the water problem is air.
"In addition to millions of miles of wire," said Bud Richards, manager for Southwestern Bell, "the lead-skinned telephone cables now carry a constant flow of dehumidified air which eliminates moisture."
Richards explained that dry air is pumped into the underground cables under a pressure of nine pounds per square inch, and into the aerial cables under a pressure of six pounds per square inch.
"The cables, formed upwards of 4,800 separate strands of insulated wire enclosed in a lead sheath, do not contain passageways for the air," Richards said. "Instead, the air is forced through infinitesimal spaces between the individual strands of wire, drying up any moisture which might have leaked in."
Theoretically, of course, the lead sheath on a cable which encases the mass of wires is waterproof, but cables have many enemies including nature and man.
"Rodents gnaw holes through the protective lead skin; it is eroded away by friction or broken by falling trees or branches; and the cable seems to be attractive targets for occasional vandals testing their abilities to use pistols or rifles," Richards said. "One type of beetle delights in boring tiny almost invisible holes, which release the air pressure in the cables allowing moisture to enter."
To combat these enemies, Southwestern Bell has perfected sophisticated instruments to detect and locate breaks in the skin of the cables.
One such instrument is a monitoring station where lights flash on to indicate low pressure areas in the cable system. Electronic meters indicate any unusual changes in the volume of air flowing through the cables in any given area.
"Occasionally, the monitoring station detects leaks so tiny that they cannot be readily located along the cable routes by telephone repairmen," Richards said. "When this happens, the repairmen strap drums of compressed dry air to utility poles. The drums feed air into the telephone cables."

Southwestern Bell has improved the air system with a new type of polyethylene insulation cable. The new cable is covered with a polyethylene sheath, and is proving to be highly resistant to most causes of punctures and breaks.
Floods and excessive rains may not wait until a perfect "leakproof" cable is developed. But until it is, the people at Southwestern Bell are keeping the calls rolling by fighting water with air.
Years ago curfews were sounded in towns as a signal to put out fires and go to bed to avoid the wood houses burning during the night.

Iles Barber Shop Receives Certification

Mr. Jim Markman, President of Sebring, is presenting to Jerry Iles the Sebring Emblem, certifying Iles' Barber Shop. At left, Joe Joy and right Earl Stephens.

In today's fast changing world, success calls for proper hair design and grooming. Hair frames the face and compliments the appearance. Successful hair design rests on the health, body and manageability of the hair itself.

For so long, men neglected and abused their hair with improper grooming aids and harsh shampoos. Sebring's researches have developed a hair-care program which results in hair that is NATURALLY handsome.

The Sebring concept gives a man the natural, well groomed look that is easy to care for daily.

Pecos Trail

AUSTIN—Third longest of the travel trails is the Texas Pecos Trail, which winds for an estimated 626 miles along a land of movies, caverns, and western lore.

Counties acting as hosts for Pecos Trail travelers are Crockett, Ector, Edwards, Kinney, Midland, Sutton, Upton, Val Verde, Ward, Pecos and Terrell.

Bracketville, center of a vast ranching complex 32 miles east of Del Rio, is the motion picture capital of Texas. It was here, at Alamo Village, that John Wayne filmed his movie, "The Alamo." Sets built for "The Alamo" and the other seven movies, filmed here have been left intact to create a frontier village featuring horseback and stagecoach rides.

Already well known for its Val Verde Winery (only one in Texas) and the Whitehead Memorial Museum near the grave of Judge Roy Bean, Del Rio is the site of the huge Amistad Dam construction. The reservoir formed by the dam backs water up 85 miles on the Rio Grande and Pecos Rivers and come within approximately 30 feet of the Devil's River Bridge on U. S. 90 west of Del Rio.

Continuing northward on U. S. 90, the Pecos Trail travels through Langtry, where legendary Judge Roy Bean's saloon stands as a reminder of the days when one man stood for "Law West of the Pecos."

At Sanderson, the trail leaves U. S. 90 and follows U. S. 285 into Fort Stockton, a town established as a military post in 1859. Comanche Springs there, at one time the largest flowing spring in Texas, was a popular watering stop for both Indians and settlers during the early frontier days.

State Highway 18 guides the traveler farther northward into Monahans, where nature has provided a 3,840-acre sandpile for camping, picnicking and jeep riding. Here, in Sandhills State Park, youngsters and adults romp among the sandy dunes reaching heights of 60 feet. The Sandhills Museum, at the entrance to the state park, contains numerous historical objects and features a permanent exhibit of botanical, archaeological, and geological interest interpreting the sandhills area.

Departing Monahans, the Pecos Trail takes U. S. 80 to Odessa and Midland — the heart of the rich Permian Basin oil kingdom. One of the newest Odessa attractions is the Globe of the Southwest Theatre on the campus of Odessa College. It is the only authentic replica of Shakespeare's famed 16th century Globe Theatre.

The presidential room in the Ector County Library in Odessa houses furniture, documents and other relics of the presidents of the Republic of Texas and of the United States. Odessa's Prairie Pete Park delights children with its accurate, small-scale illustrations of the prairie dog colonies which once blanketed this area for thousands of miles.

Only 20 miles separate Odessa from Midland and the cities are even closer in other ways. However, Odessa has expanded laterally while Midland has grown skyward. Some of its downtown buildings are the tallest between Fort Worth and Los Angeles. Like Odessa, Midland strives to please youngsters with its Cole Park Zoo, Dennis the Menace Park, Museum of the Southwest, Theatre Centre, and the Midland County Museum. The modern Midland-Odessa Air Terminal has its own museum containing an airplane built in 1911 and flown a year later between the two cities.

State Highway 349 serves as the southern route leaving Midland. It takes the traveler to Rankin, noted for its Upton County Historical Museum, and on to McCamey via U. S. 67. Billed as "The City of Beautiful Mesas," McCamey is best known for nearby Castle Gap, a pass used by Indians, calverymen, Butterfield stages, and '49ers. Landowners in the area joined together to create the Castle Gap Park, consisting of 232 acres located 14 miles northwest of McCamey along the Upton-Crane county line. Occasional treasure seekers still come to search for the legendary fortune supposedly hidden here by servants of Emperor Maximilian of Mexico.

Twenty-five miles west of McCamey on U. S. 67 are nine dinosaur tracks which were not discovered until 1965. A roadside park has been built near the site.

Continuing southward through Alley Oop Park in Iraan, the Pecos Trail passes historic Fort Lancaster, located in Crockett County about 33 miles west of Ozona on U. S. 290. Plans to restore the fort are underway. Next stop is Sonora, home of the famous caverns located eight miles west of town. The Caverns of Sonora, 60 million years in the making, are noted for transparent draperies and the "butterfly" fountain.

The Leonard LeBlanc family held a family reunion at their home Sunday. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Iles, Chris and Leigh-ton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles LeBlanc and daughter, Michele. Mrs. James Erspamer and daughter, Amy, Kenneth LeBlanc, student at San Marcos, and Mrs. Arthur Curry.

Mrs. James Erspamer and daughter, Amy, of Phoenix, Ariz., arrived last Saturday. She will be joined by her husband this Saturday to spend Thanksgiving with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard LeBlanc.

"I WONDER if I should have taken that, too." A derelict on New York City's 42nd Street seems to be wondering if he missed an addition to his collection.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on Federal tax matters is provided by the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) Should I make any change in my next estimated tax payment based on the expiration of the income tax surcharge in June?

A) No, although the surcharge expired June 30, the surcharge rate of 2½ percent shown on the estimated form you filed earlier this year pertains to income for the entire year.

Any taxpayer who has not filed an estimated declaration and finds it necessary to do so now, should use the 2½ percent rate for the surcharge. Forms and instructions for making estimated declarations are available at local IRS offices.

Q) When my divorce comes through will I still be able to claim a withholding exemption for my wife?

A) No, after your divorce you cannot claim her exemption. Make the necessary change in your withholding by filling out a new W-4, Withholding Exemption Certificate, and giving it to your employer.

Q) When my father died, mother collected benefits from his life insurance, is that taxable?

A) If the benefits are paid in a lump sum they are usually not taxable. Benefits paid in installments, however, may be partly taxable to the extent they represent interest.

Details on insurance payments may be found in Publication 525, Taxable Income and Non-taxable Income. Send a postcard to your IRS district office for a free copy.

Q) I want to protest the disallowance of some deductions by the IRS Agent who audited my return. Do I have to make a written request or can I just come and talk to someone?

A) You can ask for a district conference. If the amount of tax involved is not more than $2,500 for any one year, no formal written protest is required to obtain a district conference. This provides you the opportunity to present your side of the dispute to an impartial third party.

Q) Are strike benefits taxable?

A) Yes, in most cases they are unless the facts show that they were intended as a gift. A gift would be indicated where the benefits are paid to nonunion as well as union workers, on the basis of need, in situations where unemployment and public assistance programs are not available.

Q) I want to clear out some of my old bank records, check stubs, cancelled bills and the like. Is there any need to keep some of them for tax purposes?

A) As a general rule, the IRS may assess additional tax or you may claim a refund within three years of the due date of a return. Therefore, any record you might need to support an item listed on your return should be kept at least three years.

Naturally you will keep some records longer. For example, records on the purchase of a home or the acquisition of stock should be kept longer.

Q) I moved into a motel with my family for a few weeks while our home was being fixed up after a fire. Is it true the living expenses paid by our insurance for this period are not taxable?

A) Amounts you received for living expenses from your insurance company may be partially tax exempt under the Tax Reform Act of 1969. It provides that amounts received to offset an increase in your living costs as a result of the loss of use of your home need not be reported.

This provision covers situations where a taxpayer's home is damaged or destroyed by fire, flood, storm or other casualty, or he is denied access to his home by governmental authorities because a casualty occurred or may occur.

Spray Cattle For Lice

County farmers and ranchers should spray their cattle for lice in the fall instead of waiting until the cattle are noticeably infested, says County Agent Dan Pawlik.

Treating cattle for lice now is effective because of mild weather, shorter hair on cattle, and the lice population is small, explains the county agent. The low population found now is the source of this winter's population.

"Louse control should not be put off until cattle are infested," Pawlik warns. "By winter the cattle have suffered greatly, and a heavy population of lice is more difficult to control than a light one."

He offers these pointers for effective lice control:

Make thorough applications. If one animal or even a part of an animal is not treated, the lice could be a source of reinfestation for the herd.

Dipping is the most thorough way to treat cattle, but sprays are effective if applied with special attention to the brisket and flanks. The entire body should be wet to the skin. High water pressure and a course stream is best for penetrating the hair. Spray at close range and only a few cattle at a time.

Pawlik advises that he has a list of recommended louse control insecticides in his office and will be happy to supply this information to area farmers and ranchers.

Before buying insecticide for spraying cattle, read the label on the container completely. Paying particular attention to warnings and restrictions listed on the label, check on waiting periods, especially if some treated cattle may go to slaughter.

CARD OF THANKS

Our hearts will be eternally grateful to all our many friends for their prayers and kindness in our time of sorrow. May God bless each of you.
