Where Bank Robbers Struck

The steel door leading to the filing room of Trust Company, Societe Nationale Fiducie, in Montreal, Canada, has a gaping hole made by robbers who smashed through and then used dynamite, acetylene torches, electric drills and crowbars to blow holes through the side of the vault. They escaped with an estimated $1,500,000.

City, School Sign Contracts For Revaluation

City and school officials signed contracts with Pritchard & Abbott, property appraisal firm, last night for a general revaluation of property within the limits of the city and school district, and a similar contract will be submitted to county commissioners next Monday to complete arrangements for the revaluation on a county-wide scale.

Police On Trail Of Canadian Robbers

MONTREAL (AP) — Police today followed a "number of promising leads" in the weekend theft of $1,800,000 in negotiable bonds from a downtown trust company.

Using explosives and acetylene torches, the burglars took an estimated 12 hours to bore holes in two steel and concrete vaults of La Societe Nationale de Fiducie, a trust company, and its banking subsidiary, La Caisse Nationale d'Epargne.

Fay's Wife Got Salary While He Was In Jail

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor racketeer Joey Fay acknowledged today he and his wife have received more than $100,000 from his Newark union local since the day he went to prison as an extortionist in 1947.

The precise amount was not immediately planned down in hearings by the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee. Real estate deals Fay had with the union were involved, as well as direct payments.

THE NEWS WIRE HAD SOME ODD ITEMS THIS MORNING—

THERE WAS THE CURIOUS LITTLE BOY... LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Eight-year-old Joe Oliver asked teacher Betty Benson how to spell the word "sex." An odd request, thought Miss Benson, but she complied. Later, Joe read the story he had written. It concluded: "I like turtles and in-sex."

U.S. Satellite Awaits Launching

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Hurricane-force winds in upper altitudes made uncertain today the time when the Army will fire its Jupiter-C satellite launching vehicle.

Strict secrecy has been maintained in official circles about the Army's firing plans but it has been generally expected that the attempt would be made this week.

CRMWD Sells Big Revenue Bond Issue

The Colorado River Municipal Water District—which supplies water to Odessa, Big Spring and Snyder — Tuesday marketed $4,600,000 in revenue bonds to set the stage for major expansion of the system.

Thomas Lodge was approved. The remainder of Sanders' advance for this work will be retired as soon as funds become available from recreational charges.

On the ground, winds of 20 to 30 miles an hour were forecast this afternoon and there was a chance of even higher winds in squalls along this portion of the Florida coast.

Although there was no official word, the attempt undoubtedly would be delayed until weather conditions are more favorable.

Jury Foreman Urges Boycott In Crime-Ridden Schools

NEW YORK (AP)—The foreman of a special grand jury investigating crime in Brooklyn public schools has suggested that parents have their children boycott schools where crime is prevalent.

Foreman A. George Golden made the suggestion at a jury session yesterday.

At the time, the grand jury had not yet learned that George Goldfarb, 33, principal of violence-tormented John Marshall Junior High School in Brooklyn, had plunged to death from the roof of his home.

The district attorney's office pronounced him a suicide.

County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz promised to study Golden's proposal, which was made in the form of a question.

"Is there anything in the law that could prevent thousands of mothers and fathers from having their young children boycott the schools until something is done?" Golden asked.

Leibowitz said he will confer with Brooklyn Dist. Atty. Edward S. Silver and report back to the grand jury.

When notified of Goldfarb's death, Golden said the jurors will call in Board of Education officials to find out whether the principal had been under pressure or had been threatened with disciplinary action for reportedly telling the jurors last Thursday that he would like to have a policeman stationed inside his school.

The grand jury and Leibowitz favor stationing a policeman in every school in the city. This suggestion has been turned down by the Board of Education, School Supt. William Jansen and Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy.

It was disclosed that Goldfarb had notified the police he wanted a patrolman stationed inside his school. A later request was mailed Monday night.

When Jansen was told about this, he said the Board of Education "would certainly have approved his request."

RAPE CASE

Last week a 13-year-old white girl at John Marshall reported she had been raped in the school basement by an unidentified Negro boy.

The rape resulted in Goldfarb's appearance before the grand jury. He was due to appear again yesterday.

Last Thursday, two other incidents involving violence were reported at his school.

Patrolman Thomas Fleming, on duty outside the school, was punched by one of six youths he ordered not to loiter around the building. The school's recreation director was assaulted by a youth in the basement of the school.

The John Marshall student body is 45 per cent Negro and 10 per cent Puerto Rican.

The grand jury also heard testimony that teen-aged hoodlums forced an assistant principal to quit one Brooklyn school under fear of harm, while another youth gang took control of a Brooklyn elementary school and attacked a woman teacher.

Later, Dr. Joseph C. Noethen, an assistant superintendent of schools, said reports of a youth gang taking over a school were "not true."

"Some high school students got into the building and the police ejected them. No teacher was touched or assaulted and no damage was done," he said.

Two-teen age white girls were stabbed in the back as they were changing trains on their way home from a Brooklyn parochial high school.

Sharon Gallagher, 15, and Katherine Guilfoyle, 17, were taken to a hospital with superficial wounds. They were later released.

Police held five Negro boys, 15 to 17, and sought three others for the attack. The boys, police said, had been drinking wine in the neighborhood and were "pretty high."

The girls were attacked when they refused to give the youths money, according to police.

Doomed Yank Called Moron

SENDAI, Japan (AP)—A Japanese court psychiatrist said today the first American sentenced to die in Japan is "a moron whose mentality is near non compos mentis (not of sound mind)."

Dr. Tsunehisa Takeyama testified about his three-month examination of Pvt. Orvis Boone, 24, a Galveston, Tex., Negro sentenced to hang for murder, arson and robbery.

Another court psychiatrist, Dr. Toshimi Ishibashi, said Boone's Japanese girl friend, Shigeko Sasaki, 20, also is a moron but her "low mentality does not prevent her from adapting herself to normal social life."

She also is sentenced to hang. Both have appealed.

Both pleaded insanity in their Japanese trial for the strangling of Kikuko Muraki, 26, a friend of Miss Sasaki, Sept. 4, 1956. They robbed her and then tried to burn her home and the body inside. Boone also is under an Army life sentence for the slaying of a Hawaiian soldier. The Japanese sentence takes precedence.

Senators Think Debt Ceiling Hike Made Easier By Ike Doubt

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two senators said today efforts to raise the national debt limit may be made easier by senatorial doubts over the accuracy of President Eisenhower's budget estimates.

Sen. Edward Martin (Pa.), senior Republican on the finance committee, said many senators fear the revenue will be less and spending higher than Eisenhower predicted in his budget message to Congress.

He said Congress may force more spending than the administration has proposed.

Sen. Byrd (D-Va.), the committee chairman, said he would be more confident in the success of his proposal to limit the increase to three billion dollars if members of his committee trusted the budget figures.

The administration has asked, and the House has voted, a five billion dollar increase, to 280 billion dollars, in the debt limit through June 30, 1959.

A compromise plan to include the five billion increase but to limit it to about a year, giving Congress a chance to extend it early next January if necessary, was discussed by the GOP Senate Policy Committee at a closed session yesterday. Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.), the Republican floor leader, said he believed the administration had made a substantial case for its proposal.

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.), a committee member, told a reporter he was inclined at this time to go along with the five billion request.

Budget Director Percival F. Brundage, appearing before the committee yesterday in behalf of the request, ran into a stormy time.

Several senators told him Congress was most unlikely to follow recommendations in the budget for cutting back on such domestic programs as veterans' pensions, public assistance payments and hospital grants, and federal assistance to school districts crowded by U.S. activities, or to shift the cost of some items from the budget to the separate highway trust fund.

Bigger Mace For Defense Aide Reported In Pentagon Cleanup

WASHINGTON (AP)—Greatly increased authority for the secretary of defense reportedly is included in the administration's preliminary planning for Pentagon reorganization.

Authoritative sources said the tentative recommendations would give Secretary McElroy broad new powers to control military spending.

This would be in line with one of the proposals made to the Senate Preparedness subcommittee by retired Gen. Lucius Clay, long-time adviser and close personal friend of President Eisenhower.

Clay, a member of the Rockefeller study committee which recommended defense reorganization recently, said the secretary now has "practically no control" over money Congress makes available to individual services. He said McElroy could cancel a missile project he found unfeasible, but could not use the funds to finance a more promising missile project under development by another service.

Clay also recommended a single military command, with the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff being given authority to assign roles and missions to the individual services.

There has been criticism in Congress of the dual role of three of the Joint Chiefs, who are responsible for operating individual services while being called upon to do over-all military planning. Only the chairman, who has no vote, is free of direct links and operational responsibilities.

In testimony released this week, however, McElroy said the Joint Chiefs of Staff are doing a good job of military planning for both short- and long-range emergencies.

In view of McElroy's stand, informed members of Congress doubt the administration will propose a single command. But they expect a recommendation for more flexibility in assigning roles and missions of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) said after a White House conference that Eisenhower may send Congress a series of separate reorganization proposals rather than a single comprehensive plan.

The Senate Armed Services Committee approved a preliminary defense funds authorization measure, also passed by the House.

The committee recommended $29,670,000 for the aircraft detection system known as semiautomatic ground environment; 189 millions for a ballistic missiles detection system; $112,400,000 for ballistic missiles bases; and 194 millions for dispersal of Strategic Air Command bases.

Boy Abandons Sputnik Dream

MICKLEOVER, England (AP)—Having thought the matter over at some length, 13-year-old Lloyd Lee has abandoned his dream of becoming the world's first Sputnik boy. What business has a chap got in outer space when he swoons at sea level?

It is hoped the Russians can take a joke. In any case the Soviet Embassy in London may as well ignore Lloyd's letter of Jan. 21 offering to man (or boy) a Sputnik for them. He is no longer available, and he wasn't very available to begin with.

Lloyd is a student at the Queen Elizabeth Grammar School, where recently a rumor went the rounds that the Soviet Union stands ready to fork out $140,000 a head for Sputnik skippers.

Lloyd, an imaginative, curly-haired little fellow, fired off a letter of acceptance to the embassy in London.

Two days ago Lloyd received a letter headed "Russian Embassy" and typed in red, yet it advised him that he had been chosen as a prospective Sputnik jockey and added: "You will be required to do some training in Siberia. Our agents will be contacting you within the next few days to take you away for training."

At this point it became obvious that Lloyd was far short of starting condition for a space flight—he fainted.

"I was frightened out of my wits," his mother said later. She summoned his father home from work to guard Lloyd from the Red press gangs, locked all the doors and windows, and telephoned the police.

A Bible Thought For Today

Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me. (John 14:6)

Not The Complete Answer

The President has submitted his plan to Congress for federal assistance in education. His frequent reference to the emergency status of his proposals made it plain that his program was not intended as a permanent pattern. Over a four-year period, the plan would call for an aggregate of about a billion dollars to be paid out in federal aid to states to finance 10,000 scholarships and another thousand fellowships. The idea met with enthusiastic reception on the one hand and coolness on the other because it did not include any funds for construction. While scholarships may be fine in a type of emergency or crash program to encourage studies in selective fields, they do ignore part of the over-all educational problem. Whether the approach is by the federal or state government, or by other agencies, there is one fundamental fact that should not be overlooked. Schools, colleges and universities do not suffer today for lack of pupils and students. Hence, the scholarship approach is unilateral in that it aids the individual to pursue a particular line of study. It does not take into account that each additional student creates new demands for classroom space, equipment, maintenance, and most of all competent instructional costs. A number of private firms have taken this into account in their new programs to aid education. When they grant a scholarship to the individual, they make a commensurate grant to the institution, for there is not a school in the country which can operate, let alone improve, on tuition and fees.

Off To A Poor Start

There are some signs of restiveness among Southerners over the makeup of the 23-man commission named to plan for the centennial observance of the War Between the States. As a consequence, some are predicting the South won't look upon the observance with much enthusiasm—and not because the chairman is Major General U. S. Grant III.

Of the 23 members of the commission, which is to report its findings by March 1, only two hail from the South. One is Rep. William M. Tuck of Virginia, the vice chairman, and Dr. Bell I. Wiley of Atlanta, an historian.

Most of the members are presidential appointees, but both the House and Senate are represented. Texas, which became a state in 1845, is not represented, but New Mexico, admitted less than 50 years ago, has Senator Clinton P. Anderson as a member. Some of the Western States not admitted until long after the Civil War also have representation.

The planning group is officially called the Civil War Centennial Commission. The celebration itself is planned to cover a period 1961 to 1965. The commission's first meeting was held in Washington this month, followed by a two-day gathering of various patriotic, civic, historic and other groups to discuss events appropriate to the occasion.

A Dallas News bureau man in Washington, Robert E. Baskin, reports that "there is every likelihood that a number of Southern States will not be satisfied with celebrations under federal auspices and will stage their own events."

He points out that "Texas appropriately could hold some sort of observance on the anniversary of Dick Dowling's victory over federal naval forces at Sabine Pass in September, 1863. In the Lower Rio Grande Valley the last shot of the Civil War was fired in May, 1865."

Since the South has one-half of the War Between the States and is now a member in good standing of the 48, the failure to name more than two Southerners on the commission seems to have been a blunder of singular inexcusability.

Perhaps Congress or whoever is responsible for it should rub out and start all over again.

Your Income Tax Revenue Service Will Give You Help

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the final story in a series on your federal income tax. It describes some common mistakes and tells you how to avoid them. If you have saved all right of the articles, you are now ready to begin work on your own return.

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Assuming you are an average taxpayer with no particular income or tax problems, you should now be able to sit down, fill out the proper form, and square your account with Uncle Sam.

One point can hardly be over-emphasized: If you have any doubts or questions, don't leave it to hunches or guesswork. Contact your nearest Internal Revenue Service office, by telephone, preferably, or in person or by mail, and tell them your troubles. It won't cost you a thing, and it might save you considerable time, trouble and money.

If you underpay your income tax for any reason, you must pay 6 per cent interest on any additional tax due. More than that, you might get slapped with a penalty that could make things really rough.

The revenue service has figures to show that about one out of every four tax returns filed by individuals contains a major error. About nine out of 10 of these errors are in the taxpayers' favor, and only one out of 10 in the favor of Uncle Sam.

Last year the government found errors in arithmetic alone on over 1,300,000 returns. These called for refunds of 33 million dollars, and bills for additional taxes of over 75 million dollars.

DON'T DELAY
Give yourself plenty of time to make out your return. Don't put it off until the last minute, when you are more apt to make a mistake. And, once you've finished it, put it aside for a few days. Then pick it up again and make a line-by-line check. Here are some things you'll want to watch:

Be sure your name and address on the top lines are printed carefully so they can be read easily. The revenue service is holding thousands of refund checks for people whose names and addresses they haven't been able to decipher.

Be sure you sign your return in the proper place. And, if it's a joint return, be sure your wife or husband signs it too. The return isn't complete until it has been properly signed.

Be sure you have attached a copy of your form W-2 to your return (and that you keep one copy for your own records).

His Hour Of Decision

James Marlow Summit Idea Still Getting Nowhere

WASHINGTON (AP)—The summit conference idea was getting nowhere. Then President Eisenhower's press secretary, James Hagerty, got into the act. So did Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev. The result: the idea is still getting nowhere.

This country and Russia have agreed in a general way that a summit conference is a nice idea. They don't agree on how to go about it.

Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles take this position: because of all that could be discussed, there's no sense in a summit meeting until there are preparations on what should be discussed.

The Russians haven't flatly rejected that. But they seem to be saying: just let's get together and start talking right at the top.

Russian Premier Bulganin, in a December letter to Eisenhower, didn't go into details on how to have a summit get-together. He just said there ought to be one.

Then he wrote another letter to Eisenhower Jan. 9. This time he expressed doubt that the American and Russian foreign ministers would ever agree if they met first to decide what should be discussed at the summit.

The next day Dulles called for preliminary preparations. He didn't say only the foreign ministers could make them. He said foreign ministers could, or diplomats could, or both could do it.

Then Khrushchev sounded off Jan. 26. He appeared to be telling this country that if it expected any kind of worthwhile summit conference it would have to be on Russian terms.

He said Russia would discuss— he didn't say agree on—a ban on intercontinental missiles (a suggestion by Eisenhower to Bulganin) only as part of a package that included discussion on points this country has never yet agreed to.

That same day, Jan. 26, Hagerty appeared on a TV press interview. He said the diplomats and foreign ministers should meet before a summit conference. But he said they didn't have to agree on anything except what would be discussed at the summit.

Hagerty didn't stress the fact that both Eisenhower and Dulles gave themselves if the preparations didn't look good—their reservation that before going to a summit conference they wanted to feel sure it would do some good. But Hagerty said later he didn't mean to go beyond anything Eisenhower had mentioned.

How Is Your Mental Age?

NEW YORK (AP)—Is the mental age of the average movie fan only 14 years?

This has long been the privately held but rarely spoken view of some members of the motion picture industry.

It isn't shared by David Lean, British director of "The Bridge on the River Kwai," who is an odds-on favorite to win an Oscar this year.

"If we lack a larger adult audience," he remarked quietly, "it merely shows we need to make more adult films."

"When it comes to judging the truth and sincerity of a movie, I have a great respect for the verdict of the audience. That is one of the wonderful things about an audience—it has a mass horse sense."

"If they laugh at the wrong place in a movie, nine times out of ten those who made the movie are wrong—and the audience is right."

"An individual, even an individual who makes a movie, may lack horse sense. But a large group usually has it."

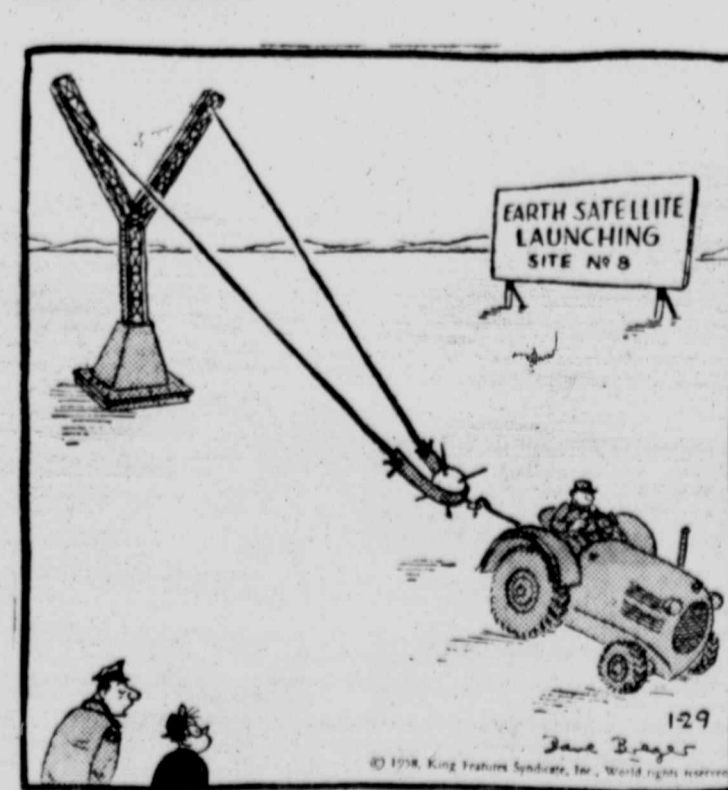

Lean, once acclaimed by fellow director John Huston as "the world's best," is a slender, dark-haired artistic genius with crazy brows and brown eyes that hold an animal intensity. His quizzical expression and wry way of talking are both reminiscent of the late Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York.

Although at 45, Lean has been 30 years in the industry. He has directed only a dozen films. All his work bears the stamp of patient craftsmanship and he likes to take his time about it. He spent a full year studying and polishing the script for "Bridge on the River Kwai," another six months shooting and cutting it.

Lean believes Sir Laurence Olivier is the greatest actor alive. But he likes to work with American actors.

"They learn their lines, they get to work on time, and they're keen as mustard about anything they are doing," he remarked.

Around The Rim

An Obstacle In Every Path

Something has always come up to spoil careers for me.

I might have, on my own account, become quite a linguist except for a little thing called the subjunctive mood. I could be in the straight A row until we reached the first lesson on the subjunctive mood; thereafter I was lucky to get out with my shirt.

As for history, the fascination of it faded in the face of a troublesome combination—names and dates.

I was well grounded in arithmetic, having spent two semesters at it in the high seventh, but nobody warned me about algebra. How come you can line up the alphabet, scratch out a few of the characters you don't like, and still come up with an answer?

In chemistry, I proceeded with great gusto through the simple tests and the gunpowder experiment until we came one day to something called equations. From that moment on they might as well have put me to splitting the atom with a hatchet.

As for business, I might have found a niche except for a minor process called accounting—a little device to tell where you were, where you had been, and maybe where you were going and how come. I got lost in the debits.

If ever I aspired to music, my delusions were shattered against a little thing called key, the art of transposing. With great effort I could play what was on the paper, but when the maestro would play it in four flats, he might as well have asked me to play in a bucket.

And when it comes to singing, pitch has been my undoing. I did not fully realize this until one miserable evening when I got trapped in a choir and was plumped down squarely between the bass and the tenor section. I know how a schizophrenic feels.

Although I admire to putter around with a pencil, I fell off the art wagon early through an unhappy ability to draw a curve when I wanted a straight line, and a line when I wanted a curve. Consequently, all my people looked like the hunchback of Notre Dame in a lean year.

No one loved baseball more than I in my sandlot days, and I prided myself on being able to chase a fly and run the bases and rifle a throw with the best of them. But alas, someone had invented a diabolical bar to a big league career. It was known as the curve ball.

In football, one of my difficulties was weight. It was not until I passed into the fifties and was fixed to my chair that I amassed enough avoirdupois to knock heads with a rival.

Even in this business I might have been a substantial success as a writer except for one inconsequential impediment—words.

Like I say, something always is spoiling careers for me.

Hail And Farewell To A Newspaperman

The newspaper business, in one woman's opinion, is a nonpareil because, to many of us in it, it is both vocation and avocation. It provides us with both bread and circuses, with a livelihood and entertainment.

Every so often, in a newspaper gathering, there is considerable mourning at the bar because the profession, what with unionization, 8-hour days and Social Security, ain't what she used to be in the old days that produced "Front Page" and "Five Star Final."

But I still find a most hopeful percentage of free-wheeling, rugged individualism left in the business. And I can't figure out whether newspapering makes colorful characters or attracts them. At all odds, these long thoughts were induced by the death, far too soon, of a newspaper pro and old friend, George Lait, son of another pro, the late Jack Lait.

George was full of color, bounce and fun. He was a distinguished and unique war correspondent in Europe, Africa and the South Pacific in World War II, when no one would ever have bet a nickel that George, shoes off, would die in bed. As a war correspondent, George was an inspired writer, fighter and souvenir collector. Where other correspondents might liberate a pistol or a helmet, George liberated machine guns, bazookas, tanks and one had to be persuaded not to put the snatch on a Messerschmidt. It was a big war, George said, and he wanted something big to prove it.

His room at the old Shepherd's Hotel in Cairo, where he headquartered during George's North African campaign, was the finest arsenal on either the Allied or Axis side. The hotel forced him to park his German tank and half-track in its gardens, but his room contained more weapons and ammunition than Pickett commanded at Gettysburg.

Indeed, George had a passion for guns. In fact, he was a Dead-Eye Dick with any kind of shootin' ar'n. So George and some 20 other American newsmen, including myself, who were stationed in England during the winter of 1942, were elated when he was invited to Sandringham to shoot with His Majesty, the late King George VI. In an unprecedented campaign to humanize the shy king and sell him to the American public as a man no less than a monarch, the British government was then inviting two or three reporters to Sandringham each weekend to shoot with George VI.

We rejoiced in our George's invitation, not because he had reached such a lofty pinnacle of social success, but because he invited all of us to a great feast of pheasant and assorted game, to be given the night after his return from Sandringham.

Meat was mighty scarce in London that winter and such was our confidence in George's marksmanship that we were drooling in anticipation of a dinner at which there would be meat and to spare.

We knew George would shoot the biggest bag of the weekend, and so he did. But the feast never came off. Our George returned to London a broken man. Oh, he had shot brilliantly, all right; he had astounded the king, no slouch himself with a gun.

But no one had told our George—or us—that in wartime George VI had ruled that all the birds killed, except a token brace for each guest, be distributed among British hospitals. Our George, a shaken man, returned to London with two pheasants, which he gave to the office boy. And then took the rest of us, as shook up as George, to a restaurant where the spaghetti sauce was rumored to contain a trace of meat.

Frankly, everyone felt the pheasant policy wasn't apt to popularize the king with the American press. When we asked our George about their George, all he would say was, "He's all right in his way."

There's an old saw that "newspaper men meet so many interesting people," and it's true—all other newspaper men. That goes for George Lait, hail, farewell and happy hunting.

Military Moves Back Of Red Propaganda

WASHINGTON (AP)—The strenuous effort already begun to push through a reorganization of the Department of Defense and the military establishment is stirring a political storm reminiscent of 1947 when the Battle of the Pentagon followed Washington April.

Following Admiral Arleigh Burke's talk at the National Press Club, in which Burke attacked the concept of a single Chief of Staff, the White House put a tight censorship on the services. So stern was this edict that Assistant Secretary of Defense Murray Snyder ordered one of the top commanders to cut out half of a speech he had scheduled.

For the veteran of two wars with four stars on his shoulder there was no recourse but to take back his censored speech. Whether the censorship will work is another question, for the Navy is as aroused today over what Navy spokesmen insist is an attempt to impose a dictatorial system as it was 10 years ago.

They cite two suppressed reports which they believe sustain their argument for continuing the system that gives each of the three services a voice in determining plans and strategy under a non-voting chairman.

One is the report of a group of officers from the three services named by the chairman of the JCS, General Nathan F. Twining, in early December to evaluate the present method. According to the Navy, they found that on the whole it was working well, and Twining also inclines to this view. But the report has been concealed under a top-secret stamp.

The second report has been so carefully suppressed that it has not even been seen by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson's Preparedness subcommittee. This is Joint Strategic Objectives Plan, 1961, known as J-SOP-61.

It shows that each service separately reported beginning in 1956 that with anticipated budgets and present defense planning they could not assure the security of the nation in 1961. The Navy cited the failure to plan sufficient submarine construction to counter Soviet Russia's 400 to 500 submarines. The Army cited the failure to equip diminished divisions with modern weapons. The Air Force pointed to cutbacks in production of bombers at the same time that missile development was being held back.

J-SOP-61 is said to have angered the President's military advisers, who offer it as example No. 1 of the failure of a three-man Chief of Staff system to work. But the Navy implies that J-SOP-61 really shows what happens when military budget ceilings are imposed for reasons of economy and politics.

This is bound, of course, to become a political issue of the first magnitude in this political year. The President, with considerable support from the Army and the Air Force, believes the public is fed up with the inter-service bickering and ready to accept a drastic reorganization.

The present intention is to send up to Congress, under the reorganizing power of the Hoover Commission, a comparatively moderate plan that would create a military planning staff independent of the Joint Chiefs and responsible to the Secretary of Defense. But, in the view of those in Congress implacably opposed to the single Chief of Staff, this is only the first step toward the "Prussian system."

Foremost among these is Chairman Carl Vinson of the House Armed Services Committee, who says with the confidence of years of experience that he can block such a plan if the President sends it to Congress. And in agreement in opposing anything approaching a single chief is the ranking Republican on that committee, Leslie C. Arends of Illinois.

Thus are the political battle lines drawn for a contest that seems certain to explode into the headlines regardless of the efforts to hold it down.

New Hats High, Wide, Handsome

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Everything's looking up in the spring hat lineup.

Millinery designers have decided that 1958 is the year for the "up-swept look," and are showing towering creations of all shapes and sizes. There are many wide-brimmed picture hats, but these conform to the main theme by having the brims turned up.

With the straight chemise the big news in spring dresses, milliners point out, logically enough, that since there is going to be so little to look at elsewhere, hats might as well be big, bold and dramatic.

Citrus colors also are favored for the newest toppers, ranging from grapefruit, lemon and lime to all tones of orange and tangerine.

Bowing to the widespread travel urge of Americans, milliners show a large number of packable travel hats, which can be folded flat or rolled in a suitcase. Some are of crocheted straw, some have collapsible crowns, some are cloth turbans, but all are handsome.

Flower hats also will have their annual airing in the Easter parade, and may be either tall flower-covered toques and turbans or upturned cartwheels with king-size flower trim.

Baptist Women Visit

Instead of a regular meeting Tuesday afternoon, the Northside Baptist WMS group met at the church to begin visitation in preparation for the churchwide revival which opens tonight. Services will continue for ten days, with sessions at 6:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. daily. The nine women recorded 18 contacts during the afternoon.

Rosebud Garden Club Sees Making Of Corsages; Meets New Members

A demonstration of corsage making, reception of three new members and general business was heard by members of the Rosebud Garden Club Tuesday morning in the home of Mrs. Jess Thornton.

John Quigley, florist, gave the club a demonstration on making a corsage from candy striped carnations. He showed how the seed

Birthday Party For Kent Yates Follows Robin Hood Theme

A birthday party in the Robin Hood theme was given by Mr. and Mrs. Wayland Yates Monday afternoon for their son, David Kent.

Guests wore green togery and were presented Robin Hood caps. Timmy Copeland was winner in the game contests and received a bow and arrow.

The birthday cake, in the form of a target, was iced in green with yellow and red circles marking the bull's eye. This and other refreshments were served in dishes which followed the theme.

Attending were Joan Allen, David, McElrath, Stephen, Smith, Karen Hughes, Perry Scripps and Paul David Pickle.

Copper Is Theme For MOD Coffee

Dollar bills for leaves and strings of pennies for blooms on a money tree were used for the March of Dimes coffee Tuesday morning at the Big Spring Country Club. Hostesses were members of the Ladies Golf Association.

The tree, which was coppered, stood in a copper bowl in a base of silver dollars. Copper accessories were used in serving from a table covered with a cloth in a copper shade.

Arrangements for the coffee were made by Mrs. James Duncan, Mrs. Ell McComb, Mrs. Hayes Stripling Jr., Mrs. Frank Sabbato, Mrs. A. K. Guthrie.

Mrs. A. K. Turner, president of the association, assisted in receiving guests.

Valentine Events Planned By Spoudazio Fora, Junior Forum

Two units of the Forum met Tuesday in the homes of the members. Both groups planned Valentine parties, one for their husbands, and one planned a party for the handicapped class at South Ward.

A banquet for their husbands was planned by members of the Junior Woman's Forum Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Charles Neele. Mrs. L. D. Grice was cohostess.

Planned as a Valentine event, the party date will be set and the place announced later.

Mrs. Johnny Johnson reported on the recent meeting of the City Federation, which she attended as representative of the club.

The way of parliamentary rules of order was explained by Mrs.

C. W. Shouse, who discussed parliamentary procedure.

Mrs. Jack Taylor touched various ages of sculpture and showed examples of several when she spoke for the group. She told of Michaelangelo's work and displayed pictures of his sculpture.

As examples of Greek sculpture, the speaker showed specimens in various media—clay, wood, marble and bronze.

Refreshments for the 17 attending followed a Valentine motif and were served from a table done in red.

SPOUADZIO FORA
Members of the Spoudazio Fora will give a party for the handicapped class at South Ward, and Tuesday evening, the entertainment was planned for the affair. Date was set for Feb. 12.

The group met in the home of Mrs. Boyd Gibson on the Gail Road, with Mrs. Bill Lansing as cohostess.

It was decided that a donation will be given to the March of Dimes rather than for the group to sponsor a coffee. Each member promised to attend at least one of the MOD coffees being given.

The program consisted of a safety day forum, with Mrs. Ben H. Erwin discussing Safety in the Home; Mrs. C. C. Ryan Jr., Safety Behind the Wheel, and Mrs. Bertil Anderson giving tips on first aid.

Members answered roll call with the story of an experience in safety. Mrs. Ryan was awarded the special prize.

Refreshments were served from a table decorated with a Valentine and white carnations in a styrofoam base. A small bear figurine held a miniature heart.

The next meeting was announced for Mrs. Richard Patterson's home, 407 Edwards Blvd., with Mrs. Ladd Smith as cohostess.

Pre-Lenten Dance Is Announced By Altar Society

St. Thomas Altar Society, meeting Tuesday evening at the church, made plans for the pre-Lenten Dance to be held Feb. 15 at Cosden Country Club. All members and friends of the church are invited to attend. Tickets are now on sale.

Mrs. L. D. Jenkins was appointed chairman of the membership committee. Mrs. J. E. Flynn, who presided for the session, named Mrs. W. E. Blanchard and Mrs. Harry Jordan as the visiting committee.

A St. Patrick's Day dinner will be staged by the group, details to be announced later. Mrs. Riley Ward discussed the use of the sick call set.

Refreshments were served to 14 by Mrs. Flynn and Mrs. Otto Schuerger.

Knott Club Gives White Elephant For MOD Tuesday

The white elephant collection, taken regularly by the Knott Hofe Demonstration Club, was given to the March of Dimes at the Tuesday meeting.

Mrs. A. H. Shroyer Jr. was hostess to the group, which answered roll call with the way to be a good neighbor.

Mrs. Shroyer and Mrs. Emmett Grantham were demonstrators who showed the preparation of a one-dish meal.

It was announced that the next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. O. B. Gaskins on Feb. 11. Seven were present at the session Tuesday.

Rebekahs Plan MOD Coffee; Honor Officer

Two local Rebekah lodges, meeting Tuesday evening, made plans for a March of Dimes coffee and recognized an officer with a certificate of perfection.

BIG SPRING REBEKAHS
The second March of Dimes coffee sponsored by members of the lodge was announced at the Tuesday evening meeting of Big Spring Rebekahs No. 284 in the IOOF Hall. This event, open to the public, will be staged at the home of Mrs. R. V. Forestry, 1104 Nolan, all day February 5.

JOHN A. KEE REBEKAHS
Mrs. Ralph Barnes, financial secretary, was given special recognition at the meeting of the John A. Kee Rebekahs in Carpenters Hall Tuesday evening. Because of her perfect semi-annual report on finances, she was given a certificate of perfection by Mrs. W. C. Cole, lodge deputy.

A set of stainless steel tableware was given to the lodge by Mrs. Velma O'Donald. This is to be sold for the benefit of the group's treasury.

Visits to the sick were reported by the 23 attending the meeting.

Lions Auxiliary Has Dinner Meet Tuesday

The Wagon Wheel was the scene of a dinner meeting of the Evening Lions Auxiliary Tuesday night.

Mrs. Roy Rosene, president, led the discussion of plans for the new club year. Resignations were accepted from Mrs. Bobby Robbins and Mrs. Richard Askew, both of whom are moving from Big Spring.

Mrs. O. D. Bigham of Littlefield joined the seven members as a guest.

pod is removed and the petals wired together and taped to fashion a smooth-stemmed and less bulky flower. For accent he used small hearts made from red wire.

He told the group that there is no set way of wearing flowers. They should be worn such as accessories. In making their own corsages the florist warned the women not to use too much accent, such as maline puffs, etc. He said that almost all flowers are usable in corsages and pointed out the orchid as the heartiest.

During the business session, three members were received into the club. They are Mrs. Charles Sweeney, Mrs. E. P. Driver and Mrs. Travis Wyatt.

Mrs. Omar Jones was elected to fill the office of corresponding secretary, an office left vacant by the resignation from the club of Mrs. W. N. Norred. Mrs. J. F. Wheat will serve as the new council representative with Mrs. Odell Womack as alternate.

Named to the nominating committee were Mrs. Tip Anderson, Mrs. W. B. Younger and Mrs. G. Morehead.

Mrs. Morehead announced plans for Flower Show School No. 4, which is scheduled to be held here on March 12, 13, 14 in the Texas Electric Service conference room.

The hostess arrangement in the milk glass epergne was of small white chrysanthemums with a Valentine motif used in the accent. Accessory was a small doll dressed in red net and holding a single white flower. Mrs. Younger assisted the hostess.

Nineteen members were present.

Monday Meetings Held By Forsan P-TA, Baptists

FORSAN—Members of the P-TA visited the classrooms and shop at the meeting Monday. A social hour, with Mrs. W. C. King and Mrs. Ted Henry as hostesses, followed the tour.

Mrs. Charles Wash was hostess Monday evening for the Willie Mae Kennedy Circle of the Forsan Baptist Church. A study of stewardship was conducted by Mrs. Rommie Gandy for the eight attending.

Stewardship was also the study for the all-day meeting held at the church Monday by the circles when they combined several meetings into one.

Other subjects studied were great joy of the Bible and a Royal Service program. The next all-day meeting will be Feb. 24 at the church.

French Designers Modify Sack Severity With Drapery, Frills

By NADAEANE WALKER
PARIS — Sacks with a puff of drapery on the skirt front ran away with the Guy Laroche and Jean Desses collections this morning.

Generous gathers above and behind the knee solved the problem of how to get around in the sack. Instead of hobble-hopping, you can stride if you feel like it.

Laroche's second favorite is a long, loose-bodied dress with a very frilly or puffy skirt gathered at mid-hip. Now that the designers are playing around with the plain old sack, it's often in danger of being submerged in drapes, frills or frou-frou.

Desses declared: "The sack had to be made attractive. It was despised by every man."

It was also, some suspect, too easy to copy. The new versions would drive a home dressmaker to despair.

There is one sort of penguinfronted sack, shown by both Desses and Laroche. It has a wide "V" or horseshoe shaped cutout to just below the waist, and the bodice is filled up with what the French call a "modesty," or elongated bib, often in white.

Others might be called sacks on the half-shell. A false coat is loose behind and reveals a fitted sheath in front. Laroche does another version with a false jacket.

The "baby doll" dresses that have been turning up all over, full from neck to knee, are not missing at Laroche, but he fits them in front.

Low back drapery is sometimes supported by what might be described as flying buttresses from the shoulder blades. Other full backs are tied into a tube just behind the knees.

The collection of relative newcomer Laroche — he opened with the spring season a year ago — was not as warmly applauded as his first two collections. Fashion writers looking for originality are not finding too much of it anywhere. So far, Pierre Cardin has had the top reviews. His sacks are the sackiest of all.

Hemlines have hit high-water mark at Heim and Cardin, where they only half cover the knee. Desses gives you a peek at the bottom of the kneecap, and Laroche is a little more concealing. He also lets frilly petticoats peek out.

Forsan School To Have New Teacher

FORSAN—The local school will have a new teacher Monday when Margaret Lloyd arrives to assume duties in the high school. She will take the place vacated by Irene Cedarvall, English instructor, who has resigned to return to her home in Mexico City.

Miss Lloyd, a graduate of North Texas State College, is a San Angelo girl.

Spending the mid-semester holidays here have been Alfred Thieme Jr., Pat Brunton and Mervyn Miller, all of Texas Tech, and Tommy Henry of NTSC.

Bethany Class Meets With Mrs. Kinman

Mrs. L. B. Kinman was hostess to the Bethany Class, East Fourth Baptist Church, Tuesday night at her home.

After the opening prayer by Mrs. Ernest Stewart, Mrs. Delmer Simpson brought the devotion from Eph. 5:7-16. Reports were heard from various class officers and were followed by prayer by Mrs. George Holden.

Refreshments were served to nine members and two guests, Mrs. Stewart and her daughter, Annette.

Mrs. Lovelace Speaks For Church Circle

Mrs. D. M. Lovelace was guest speaker for the Bethany Thomas Circle of First Methodist Church Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. John B. Knox.

Mrs. Lovelace, who has recently returned from Japan, where she has lived for over two years, told the circle of the homes, customs, food and other aspects of Japanese life. This is in line with the study of Japan, which the WSCS Circles are making.

Eleven members were present, with Mrs. C. R. Creighton, a guest.

Las Artistas Meets In Business Session

Las Artistas held a regular business meeting Tuesday night in the new meeting place, the education room of the Police Building.

The club scrapbook was displayed by Mrs. E. A. Jones. Mrs. D. W. Conway reported that the yearbooks will be ready for the February meeting.

There was a discussion on holding an exhibit for the patients of the state hospital. It was suggested that the VA Hospital might also welcome some paintings. Members will continue to display their work at Carlos.

Rex Browning, read a memorandum from the exhibitions chairman of the Midland Air Park Arts Center in Midland, in which it was stated that the Center will hold its annual exhibit of paintings on "Romance of the Oil Industry" in the latter part of October.

This memorandum was sent as a reminder of this event and further correspondence was promised as developments progress. The exhibit is to be held concurrently, and in conjunction with the Permian Basin Oil Show and Oil Progress Week.

The subject matter of the paintings will be limited to the artist's interpretation of the oil industry and may be done in any medium. All interested persons are invited to participate. The usual entry fee is $2 per picture.

The club discussed its annual regional show to be held at Howard County Junior College in March. Winners from this show will exhibit at the Texas Fine Arts Association Regional Show in Austin in June.

Mrs. Richard Patterson, TFAA chairman, and Mrs. Eismark Schaefer, trustee, will work with the committee from Las Artistas in arranging for the show. A list of rules and prizes will be announced later.

The club voted to send $5 to the March of Dimes.

Valentine Party Set By Baptist Circle

Members of the Horace Buddin Circle of Baptist Temple will give a Valentine party for patients at the state hospital on Feb. 14, it was decided at a meeting of the circle Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Robert Leeper was hostess for six members.

Names of missionaries having birthdays on Tuesday were attached to a bouquet of flowers, and each member drew a name. A prayer was then offered for the missionaries.

Missionaries with birthdays in February will be remembered with cards sent by various ones of the circle.

Toughest automotive tests of all time prove

LOW-COST PLYMOUTH LOOKS, RUNS LIKE NEW—AFTER 58,000 MILES

It's America's biggest automotive value—when you buy it...and when you trade

Dramatic braking test made before top automotive editors. The Plymouth on the right had just completed a 58,000-mile cross-country run. Other tests included acceleration, ride smoothness, gas economy, handling ease. The 58,000-mile veteran performed like new!

One of the Plymouths above is fresh from the assembly line. The other, a veteran of the toughest test run of all time: 58,000 continuous miles in 58 days. A thousand miles a day through 37 states.

What does it all prove? Just this: from the day you buy it, to the day you trade it in, your new Plymouth will take you to wherever you're going... faster, smoother, easier, safer. You get more value now... and you look forward to more dollars when you trade.

Why not see your Plymouth dealer now? He'll give you a fair appraisal of your present car. Then you'll see how easy it is to own America's biggest automotive value.

Plymouth stays young and proves it!

DOT's Code Of Ethics May Get Brushoff At Demo Meet

AUSTIN (AP)—Indications were today the DOT's code of ethics will get a polite but firm brushoff when the State Democratic Executive Committee meets here Saturday.

The Democrats of Texas (DOT) will make a strenuous effort to win endorsement of their code, but an inside source from the SDEC leadership predicts it will be overwhelmingly shelved after a full hearing.

This source said that while the SDEC is not planning to counter with its own "code," it has definite plans to offer Texas Democrats a firm guarantee of fair play at conventions on all levels from precinct to state this year.

The DOT is a liberally-led organization competing for party power with the SDEC, which is the official Democratic organization.

The SDEC insider said that the DOT is using the code of ethics as an issue this year because it can no longer "hit us over the head with the party loyalty issue."

The present state committee is fully affiliated with the Democratic National Committee. In some times past, the official state party committee has not been. That has led several years ago to formation of the Democratic Advisory Committee made up of Democrats loyal to the national committee and party and informally recognized by it in conducting party business in Texas.

The DAC was dissolved and the DOT was organized in its place. Gov. Price Daniel has called it a leftwing splinter group. Its chairman, however, is Mrs. R. D. Randolph of Houston, Democratic National committee woman from Texas.

Mrs. Randolph has not been formally invited to attend Saturday's meeting of the executive committee, but she plans to be there to make a personal plea for adoption of the code. The national committee man and woman usually are welcome at SDEC meetings.

A spokesman for the state committee said that she or some member of the committee would be given a full opportunity to speak for the proposed code.

He said the SDEC position probably will be that there is no need for a code, and that the committee is planning a sincere statement designed to eliminate any fast dealing at precinct conventions this year.

The code was adopted by the DOT Nov. 23, 1957. The demand for it grew out of a long series of incidents in which charges of unfair play were hurled by whatever factions of Democrats happened to be fighting at the time.

Benson Must Make Decisions Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson must come up soon with a whole set of decisions to round out the government's 1958 crop program.

These decisions relate to crop controls, price supports and the soil bank program.

As yet undetermined are the rates at which the government will support this year's crops of cotton, cottonseed, soybeans, corn, oats, rye, barley, sorghum grain and flaxseed.

It is the usual policy to announce these support rates well ahead of the planting seasons to give farmers time to adjust operations to prospective prices at harvest time. Planting time is near at hand for cotton in South Texas and for corn in some Southern areas.

Benson undoubtedly is waiting until the Federal Crop Reporting Board issues a report Friday on parity prices. The supports for most crops are based on the parity quotations. Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to their costs.

Awaiting a Benson decision is a request of the cotton industry for a 25 per cent increase in 1958 planting allotments. The industry says more cotton is needed to avert a possible shortage of better grades.

A decision must be made soon on distribution of 180 million dollars allotted for payments to farmers reducing cotton acreages under the acreage reserve part of the soil bank program.

In some cotton states, more land is being offered for retirement under the soil bank than there are funds available.

The department may decide to give its state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committees free rein in allocating funds among farmers wishing to participate in the program.

It's Wintertime Throughout Nation

By Associated Press

Normal winter time weather prevailed throughout the nation today with light snow in the Northeast, rains in the Pacific Northwest, light rain in the Gulf Coast and some near zero weather in the Dakotas.

While the mercury sank to around the zero mark in an area from Bismarck, N.D., to Watertown, S.D., temperatures elsewhere were above normal levels for this date.

From the Dakotas (except for the frigid area) southward temperatures rose to the 40s near the Gulf Coast and went up to the 50s westward to the Pacific.

New England still had snow with the nighttime fall ranging from 1 to 2 inches.

Dusty Plaque Reminder Of Dogtown's Finest Hour

MEGALIA, Calif. (AP)—A bronze plaque along a sunbaked canyon road is all that stands today as a reminder of Dogtown's finest hour—the day in 1859 when a 54-pound gold nugget was found.

Back in those days there was shouting in the streets and free drinks at the saloon.

First, it is necessary to explain that this sleepy little community in the rolling hills of northern California once carried the name of Dogtown.

An early writer tells why: "Dogs in the stores, dogs in the saloons, dogs in the hotels, dogs in the roads, dogs in the woods, dogs in the miners' camps—in fact, dogs everywhere!"

But getting back to the nugget. It was washed down during hydraulic mining operations on the Willard Claim, along a gulch.

The three owners of the claim were absent on the big day, but here's an account given by one of them, Ira A. Wetherbee:

"I was playing a game of poker in the afternoon of that day in the saloon at Dogtown when several of the miners demanded that I set up the drinks . . . Quite a pot was on the poker table where we were playing, amounting to about $1,300, and I insisted the game be finished before I responded to their request."

"No attention was paid to my desire . . . They picked me up from the chair . . . and set me on the bar and demanded the drinks."

"Thinking some calamity had befallen the mine, and wanting to know all about it, I ordered the drinks. After which I was told of finding the nugget."

The massive chunk, the size of a cantaloupe, was put on exhibit under guard at the Wells, Fargo & Company office for a few days.

Another 'P' Added To GOP's Slogan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 1958 Republican campaign slogan of "Peace, progress and prosperity" has a fourth "P" for "preparedness" in the 1958 version.

William H. Rentschler of Illinois national campaign director of the Young Republican National Federation, suggested the new battle cry in a talk to some 300 Young Republicans attending a five-day leadership training school.

Animal Lovers Spike Space Trip

LITTLETON, Colo. (AP)—A live mouse was wrongfully lofted high into space in a rocket fired by Littleton High School students last month. Principal Hazlett Wubben said today.

Wubben said he learned of the experiment only last night and that nothing of the sort will happen again.

He canceled the students' plans to fire a mouse named Flash in a two-stage rocket sometime soon. The Littleton Board of Education concurred.

Apparently, Wubben said, the 20-gram mouse that was parachuted last month was parachuted to safety. That is his understanding, the school official said.

The Humane Society of the United States made public in Washington, D.C., a telegram to Wubben in which it cautioned Littleton school authorities against use of live animals in rockets.

Reminder

This tablet is the sole reminder of a rowdy day in 1859 when a 54-pound gold nugget was found. It brought $10,000 to its owners, free drinks to the town.

then was taken to San Francisco and smelted, returning its owners about $10,690.

Hopes Rise In Search For Boy

WILLOWS, Calif. (AP)—Small footprints discovered in the snow raised hopes today that a 12-year-old Tenderfoot Boy Scout would be found alive in Mendocino National Forest. He has been missing since Saturday.

A football coach who joined the searching party of 600 died yesterday, apparently of a heart attack, while hunting through Grindstone Canyon with three friends.

The footprints were found about seven miles northwest of where Dennis Wurschmidt of Willows vanished while playing "capture the flag" with 11 other Scouts. A blizzard struck soon afterward, dumping three feet of snow in the area.

Gus Manolis, head coach at Chico State College, died during the hunt. Two of his friends remained with the body overnight while the third returned to Chico and notified relatives and college officials. Arrangements were made to bring out the body today.

Skies Clearing In Wake Of Snow Flurries

By The Associated Press

Skies were clearing over Texas Wednesday in the wake of a low pressure system that dumped up to 8 inches of snow in parts of the Panhandle before it began melting.

The Weather Bureau said skies were clear to partly cloudy throughout the state with freezing temperatures in Northwest Texas.

Ground fog was forming early Wednesday across the northern part of the state.

The snow belt extended from Lubbock northward and from Northeastern New Mexico eastward across the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandles. Up to 3 and 4 inches blanketed much of that sector but no significant wind was reported and the snow didn't drift heavily.

The State Highway Department said all roads were open. The Weather Bureau said none of its stations reported snow on the ground by late Tuesday night, but some other areas might still have some snow.

The 8-inch snowfall was at Black, a roadside stop 11 miles east of Spearman in the northeast edge of the Panhandle. Showers and thunderstorms spread over other areas.

One shower dropped .69 inches of rain at Gonzales. Lightning knocked out transformers and left the town without electrical power for a time.

Showers and drizzle spread over wide sections.

High temperatures Wednesday ranged from 37 at Amarillo to 73 at Brownsville.

Early morning temperature reports were warmer than anticipated, ranging from 52 at Brownsville to 27 at Wink. Some lower temperatures were expected during the morning, however.

The Truth About Air Ride

-and why it's better

in a Buick

Every window of every Buick is safety PLATE Glass.

Most cars have always used horizontal leaf springs. Some use horizontal torsion bars. For two decades, Buick has used nothing but upright coil springs at all 4 wheels for better, softer cushioning. And to get the most out of these buoyant upright springs—to bring additional solidity, balance and stability to the ride—Buick developed a new kind of chassis. This exclusive Buick chassis has the rugged roadability of a massive X-braced frame and the true-tracking steadiness of Buick's Rotoflow

Torque-Tube Drive. Developed and perfected by 20 years of experience with upright springs, Buick's Miracle Ride Chassis today turns out to be a "natural" for replacing upright coil springs with upright air springs. It's this exclusive chassis engineering experience that gives you in Buick the smoothest, most advanced, most experienced air ride* in the world.

*Buick air ride optional at extra cost on all Series.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

If the two parties who blew the whistle in last night's high school basketball game here began officiating as a hobby, I suggest they take up gender pursuits — like tossing pebbles into the crater of a restless volcano or crossing Grand Canyon on a tight wire.

If they adopted the vocation because they need the money, I'm sure there are any number of people here who would contribute to a fund to hasten their retirement.

If they began the chore because they like to live dangerously, then they're in the right business. Never have so few done so much to agitate the digestive juices of so many.

Sheriff Miller Harris, reading here about the great T&P baseball team of the early '20's, recalls the first came to Big Spring in 1926 and successfully sought a place on the team.

Harris, whose swing in baseball was often likened to that of Babe Ruth and who had about as much power as that of the Bambino, was playing football for Hardin-Simmons University, then known simply as Simmons. He read in the Abilene paper about the exploits of the local team and decided to head west and seek a summer job.

Miller received a trial with the local club and eventually went to work for the railroad here. He played with a Midland team the following summer and accompanied that club to a tournament in Denver where a Philadelphia A's scout, Ira Thomas, spotted him and signed him to a contract.

Harris spent one year in the A's organization and later joined the New York Yankees' farm system. He was regarded as a big league prospect until his arm went bad on him and he was forced to quit.

Paul (Bear) Bryant endorsed his assistant, Phil Cutchins, for the Texas A&M coaching job before Jim Myers was hired to fill the post. Cutchins is one of those who made the shift to Alabama with Bryant. Bryant insists Cutchins is ready for a head coaching post.

Henry Frnka, the former Tulane mentor, was one of those who made a pitch for the A&M position before Myers landed it.

The track exploits of Bobby Morrow are something the Abilene folks read about and rarely get to see. In his four years at ACC, Bobby has never been able to appear in but one track meet in Abilene.

Texas' best known racing stable, outside of the one assembled by the Kieberg clan, is owned by mercurial Ralph Lowe of Midland.

Lowe's Gallant Man missed winning the Kentucky Derby last year only because Wee Willie Shoemaker, his rider, took a wrong sighting on the finish pole.

Our Town's Johnny Ray Dillard sold Lowe his first horse, incidentally, and did much to firm up his interest in the game.

Now Lowe has imported a six-year-old European animal named Five Aces to West Texas for stud purposes, said to be the finest blood horse ever to graze an arena pasture.

Five Aces, who can brag about his ancestors and be backed to the hilt 'by the book,' won some outstanding races in Europe before shipping to this country—among them the Red Hoes Stakes, the Hurstbourne and the Wilburton Stakes.

Five Acres' sire, Court Martial, was unbeaten as a two-year-old and won a half dozen of England's top stake races as a three year old. Five Acres' sire has been named the leading juvenile sire in England no fewer than six times.

Five Acres' grandfather, Fair Trial, never ran out of the money in his racing career.

Such illustrious horses as Bahram, Scapa Flow, Blandford, Poly-melus, and The Tetrarch are in Five Acres' background.

Present plans call for him to stand in Texas for two years. His fee now is $250. His lessee is W. F. Willis, whose mail address is Rt. 2, Box 77D, Midland.

Fred Russ, who officiated in the Big Spring-San Angelo basketball game here the other night, is a brother to Bob Russ, the former Lake View and Plainview football mentor, who is currently in South America.

Controversial Call

Here is the shot that local basketball fans thought won the decision for Big Spring over Odessa here Tuesday night. Benny McCrary of Big Spring (with the ball) is shown going up for a field goal that would have put Big Spring ahead, 55-54, but one of the officials ruled McCrary was fouled. He was given only a 1-and-1 shot, however, and missed the first one. Odessa thus won the game, 54-53.

Bronchos Rally Late To Topple Bovines

Jackie White's puffer of a Big Spring ball and pass off to Don Brownlee, who fast broke and sank a crisp shot in the final 15 seconds of play, enabled the Odessa Bronchos to defeat the Big Spring Steers, 54-53, in a blood-chilling District 2-AAAA basketball game played before some 1,600 fans here Tuesday night.

A jubilant Big Spring crowd first thought Big Spring had pulled the game out of the fire and swarmed the court to celebrate. It took several minutes to clear the arena before McCrary could take his free shot.

Odessa never led during the ball game except in those last 15 seconds. The Bronchos were behind by five points at the end of the first period, five at the half and four at the end of Round Three.

Jan Loudermilk, who the officials ruled committed four fouls in the first 12 minutes of the game, was hobbled throughout by Odessa's badger-tough defense. He wound up with ten points, his low for the year. He was exiled to the bench in the final 32 seconds of play with his fifth foul, at which time Big Spring had a four-point lead.

The Steers were also grievously wounded when Jimmy Evans had to depart the court for the same reason with 5:10 to go in the game. Odessa lost two boys, Harris and Butler, on penalties.

With four minutes to go in the second period, Big Spring boasted a 29-18 lead. Loudermilk was taken out at that stage and the Bronchos closed the gap in a hurry.

Preston Hollis, who played a fine all-around game for the Steers, popped in 14 points to pace the herd in scoring. Brownlee had 18 and Tommy McMorris 15 for Odessa.

The victory enabled the Odessans to take sole possession of first place in District 2-AAAA, with a 4-0 record. Big Spring now has a 3-1 mark.

Big Spring won both the B and C team games. The Bees prevailed, 63-55, thanks to a furious rally in the final period. The two teams were tied, 47-47, going into the final eight minutes.

PORKERS IN CHARGE IN SWC SCRAMBLE

By JERRY MARTIN

Arkansas was shaping up Wednesday as a definite threat to walk off with its first undisputed Southwest Conference basketball championship since 1941.

The Razorbacks rolled past Texas A&M 67-51 at Fayetteville Tuesday night to rack up its fifth straight conference victory without defeat.

The Hogs also are making somewhat of a prophet out of Arkansas Coach Glenn Rose, who early in the season predicted a 10-4 conference record would win the title. Rose said then the team that could win its home games and pick up a few victories on the road would win the championship.

Arkansas tries to add one of those crucial road victories Saturday when they clash with defending champion Southern Methodist at Dallas, SMU, in addition to being within striking distance as a challenger, is one of the nation's toughest teams to beat on its home floor.

The Mustangs have won 41 consecutive regular season games at home in winning three straight conference titles.

Southern Methodist's only home floor setback in nearly three seasons was at the hands of Kansas in the Western Regional NCAA playoffs last year.

Arkansas tied for the conference championship in 1942, 1944, 1949 and 1950 but hasn't taken the title outright since 1941.

Rice, Texas Tech and SMU are tied for second in the league with 3-2 records. The loss dropped the Aggies to fifth with a 3-3 mark.

Texas and Texas Christian are 2-3 and Baylor has a 0-6 mark.

The Razorbacks rode a comfortable lead throughout the game in whipping Texas Tech 68-48. Wayne Dunn and Fred Grim led the way and the Hogs at one time held a 21-point margin before Rose started using reserves. A torrid first half shooting pace and control of the backboards helped the Razorbacks.

Grim topped the scoring with 18 points. Larry Grisham contributed 12 and Dunn had 10. Archie Carroll was the Aggies' top pointmaker with 15.

Texas Christian and hapless Baylor clash at Fort Worth and Texas A&M meets Texas Tech at College Station Saturday in other conference action this week. Rice meets Trinity at Houston Saturday in a non-conference affair.

OVER KLONDIKE

Ackerly Eagles Triumph, 59-40

ACKERLY (SC)—Ackerly, runners-up in the Flower Grove tournament last weekend, eased past Klondike here last night for a 59-40 conference win.

The Ackerly girls also kept on the victory note with a 58-39 decision over the visitors.

The Eagles now stand 3-2 in the league, while the girls boast a 4-1 standing.

Garden City Remains Game Ahead In 19-B Cage Race

GARDEN CITY (SC)—Garden City remained ahead in the torrid District 19-B basketball race by defeating Knott, 65-45, here Tuesday night.

Knott's girls continued at the head of the parade in their division by flogging the home club, 49-32.

In the boys' game, Harold Jones paced Garden City with a 15-point output. Thomas Day had 15 and Buck McNew 12 for the losers.

Wanda Williams tossed in 20 points for Garden City in the girls' game. Team-mate Mary Ruth Asbill, who also played guard at times, wound up with six.

For Knott, Jean Sample accounted for 25 points. Ann Rogers had 11 and Sue Paige eight.

Knott led at the end of the first quarter, 12-9; at half time, 29-15; and at the end of the third, 38-25.

Neva Jackson, Alice Day and Sue Ulmer played outstanding defensive ball for Knott. Sarah Foster, Mary Asbill and Joan Maxwell looked outstanding in the back courts for the losers.

The boys' victory left Garden City with a 4-0 record in the conference and 13-7, overall.

GARDEN CITY (65)—Mow 6-0-12; L. Jones 4-8-12; H. Jones 4-3-11; Murphy 6-0-12; Childress 6-0-12; Parker 1-0-2; Totals 23-45.

BIG SPRING JAYCEES

BY WRANGLERS

Jayhawks Beaten At Penalty Line

ODESSA (SC) — Odessa JC thrashed HCJC by Big Spring, 83-71, in a rattling good West Zone basketball game played here Tuesday night.

The win was the first in two conference starts for the Wranglers, HCJC is now 6-1.

The Jayhawks were in the game until the final 90 seconds, when they had to use a full-court press in a gamble to wrestle away the ball, and started fouling.

Actually, the game was won at the free-throw line. Odessa hit a remarkable 88 per cent, getting 43 of 49. The quintets sunk the same number of field goals. HCJC had only 70 per cent.

HCJC trailed only by a score of 64-62 going into the last five minutes of the game but could pull no closer. With 60 seconds to go, it was 76-71, Odessa.

HCJC jumped out in front early and led, 7-6, after three minutes of play, thanks to some torrid shooting by Benny Carver. After ten minutes of play, the Jayhawks were in front, 23-17. The Odessans then began to pull up, however, and went ahead with the help of two field goals just before the half.

Throughout most of the third period, Odessa led anywhere from five to nine points.

Odessa went into a stall in the last five minutes and it worked. Gary Robertson, who became eligible only at midterms, was the difference in the game. He tossed in 23 points for Odessa. Larry Glore paced HCJC with 18 points.

HCJC got only 28 per cent of its field goal shots in the first half but 23 per cent in the final 20 minutes. Odessa had a shooting record of 32 per cent.

The Hawks will try to return to winning ways in Borger Friday night, at which time they play Frank Phillips.

Stanton Upset By Bulldogs

COAHOMA (SC)—Stanton might have lost its chance to remain in the running for the District 6-A basketball race by virtue of a 58-47 loss from the hands of Coahoma here last night.

Previously, the Buffs scored 4-1 with the sole loss coming from league-leader Merkel. The win was Coahoma's first in five.

Mac Robinson canned 20 markers for the winners. Stanton's Norman Donelson posted 13.
