U. S. Bombers Lash Wewak

Cargo Vessel Pounded As 19 Tons Of Bombs Loosed

(By The Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Saturday, March 27—Wewak, New Guinea, has been heavily bombed in a new raid by Allied planes in which a Japanese merchantman was damaged, the high command announced today.

Wewak is 320 miles up the coastline from Japanese-occupied Lae and is 370 miles northwest, across New Guinea, from the Allied base of Port Moresby.

Allied heavy bombers were over Wewak in a night attack which lasted three hours.

Two Direct Hits

They dropped low to loose 19 tons of bombs. Two direct hits were scored with 500-pounders on a 4,000-ton cargo vessel.

"Thousand pound bombs were reported to have caused especially serious damage among shore installations," reported the noon communique from General Douglas MacArthur.

The wharf area was a particular target.

All the bombers got back to base after flying through anti-aircraft fire.

Sixty miles above Lae at Finschhafen on the Huon peninsula of New Guinea, the bock area was bombed by four-motored Allied planes.

In the Lae area "our attack units executed a low level bombing strike against enemy-held positions along the Markham road, starting numerous fires which gradually merged into one large blaze visible for 20 miles away."

Below Lae in the Salamaua vicinity, bombs were dropped on Kala village.

Mubo Positions Strafed

Some 15 miles south of Salamaua at Mubo, attack planes made 14 bombing and strafing passes over Japanese positions, silencing machinegun positions and starting fires. Nowhere in the Lae-Salamaua area, which has Japanese aidromes, was any attempt made at interception.

The communique reported that in Thursday's raid on Amboina island 600 miles north of Australia the two Japanese cargo vessels which were attacked were set afire by 500 pound bombs. It also was disclosed that the Allied bombers were engaged by six Japanese fighter planes, shooting down one and damaging and driving off the others.

Reds Pushing On Near Smolensk

Nazi Blows Turned Back Along Donets

By JAMES M. LONG
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Saturday, March 27 Russian troops beating against Smolensk's distant defenses wiped out a German garrison at one strongpoint and captured another, while holding firm against Nazi counter-assaults on the Donets river front near Kharkov in the south, Moscow announced today.

The new central front gains announced in the midnight communique recorded by the Soviet monitor were said to be south of Bely, presumably near Dukhovschina, 32 miles from Smolensk.

Tanks Break Into City

A Stockholm dispatch said Russian tanks already had broken into Dorogobuzh, 50 miles east of Smolensk, in a frontal assault supporting the northeastern wedge in Smolensk's outlying defense belt.

The communique said 500 Germans were killed in the capture of the two enemy points, 300 of them in the garrison which was outflanked and then attacked from the rear after a group of Red Army men stole across a river.

Four enemy guns, 20 machineguns, five anti-tank rifles and other war material was captured in one of these actions.

Several populated places were taken in this continuing drive over difficult terrain, but the communique suggested part of the Russian troops were consolidating their hard won gains in the great salient which so long had threatened Moscow.

1,100 Germans Said Slain

Approximately 1,100 Germans were reported slain in futile efforts to breach Russian positions between Belgorod and Chuguev in the Kharkov sector of the Ukraine during yesterday's fighting which found the Germans still using a considerable number of tanks.

Near Chuguev, 22 miles southeast of Kharkov, the communique said numerous tank and infantry attacks were repulsed, one Soviet

Judge Ben Lindsey Is Heart Attack Victim

LOS ANGELES, March 26. (AP) — Benjamin B. Lindsey, jurist, writer, lecturer and lifelong campaigner for the integrity of the American [illegible] a heart attack to Judge [illegible], and known as the founder of the American juvenile court system, was stricken Wednesday, but the day before had presided as usual, over the children's court of conciliation, which he started. He had been a superior court judge here since 1934.

He gained perhaps his widest fame as an advocate of "companionate marriage," a term which he always contended was generally misunderstood. In a widely-discussed book he advocated experimental, legal marriages for young persons, of perhaps a year's duration, with parenthood not contemplated. If a young man and wife then found they were not suited for each other, a divorce might be advisable, under Judge Lindsey's theory.

Six Fliers Killed In Crash At Alamogordo

ALAMOGORDO, N. M., March 26. (AP)—Six flyers were killed late last night in the crash of an Army heavy bomber several miles southeast of the Alamogordo air base, the base public relations office announced tonight.

First Lieut. Wray G. Zelt, public relations officer, said the plane was on a routine training flight. He identified the dead as including:

Woman To Face Murder Charge

TULSA, March 26. (AP) — Mrs. Ella B. Howard, a prematurely gray 44-year-old divorcee, maintained her composure tonight as she awaited arraignment on a charge of murder in the fatal shooting of Mrs. T. Karl Simmons, 55, widely known horsewoman, in a hotel room scuffle.

The dead woman's husband, a wealthy oil operator, still unnerved by the tragedy which rocked Tulsa's social circles, was unable to appear before assistant County Attorney M. S. Simms to make a statement.

Telephone Statement

Simms talked with him briefly by telephone. The assistant county attorney said the oil man told him that he had seen neither his wife nor Mrs. Howard yesterday. Mrs. Simmons was killed late yesterday.

Simms filed a murder charge against Mrs. Howard today and Sheriff A .Garland Marrs said she would be arraigned at 9 a.m. (cwt) tomorrow in common pleas court.

"Mrs. Howard is maintaining her calm," said Marrs, "she's getting along all right."

Mrs. Howard, who lives in an expensive section of Fort Worth, Tex., was being held in the matrons quarters of the county jail. She has refused to see reporters and has talked with county officials only in the presence of her attorney.

Simms said the slender, brown-eyed Mrs. Howard told him that Mrs. Simmons knocked on her door yesterday, calling "telegram, telegram," and then forced her way into her room of the fash-

J. P. Morgan Will Filed For Probate

MINEOLA, N. Y., March 26. (AP) —The two sons of J. P. Morgan, who died March 13, will share the residuary estate of the financier under the terms of the will filed for probate in surrogate's court late today.

No estimate of the size of the estate was contained in the petition for probate.

Under th terms of the document, $25,000 each was left to his two daughters, and liberal bequests ,based on length of service, to 27 domestic servants in his homes in this country and Great Britain. Provisions also were made for employes of his business interests here and abroad.

BIRTHRATES: U. S. vs. AXIS

THESE SYMBOLS tell the birthrate story of 20 years—and the failure of an Axis program. Despite continuous propaganda programs, with bonus payments and other incentives, the birthrate in Axis nations is far behind pre-dictator days, while in the United States, where there has been no such fanfare for fecundity, births have increased from a rate lower than that of any of the Axis trio, to a present rate second only to the Japanese. Italy has fallen steadily since 1922, the year of il duce's rise. Germany's peak rate under Hitler, 20.4 in 1939-40, did not reach the pre-fuehrer peak of 23 in 1922. Japan's rate has fluctuated, and is again trending upward. Lowest U. S. rate in the 20 years 16.6 in 1933. Chart is based on U. S. census figures and population index reports of the other countries.

Farm Measure Goes To FDR; More Machinery Promised

WPB Admits Error On Equipment And Changes Its Plan

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—President Roosevelt disclosed today that plans are in the making to get more machinery and labor on the farms to carry out the programs of Food Administrator Chester Davis who, it was made clear, will have virtually a cabinet officer's status independent of Secretary of Agriculture Wickard.

In a press conference discussion, the President smilingly said he thought no one is going to starve, spoke in generally optimistic terms of the food outlook, and reported:

1. Davis, when he begins his duties Monday, will take up immediately the question of forming a land army of boys, girls and women to help produce needed wartime food. Mr. Roosevelt mentioned also that some communities are doing a great deal on their own initiative, toward helping with farm work, and indicated this would be encouraged. He said 500,000 farm workers already had been deferred from military service, selective service estimated 3,000,000 more would be this year, and that some experienced farm workers would be furloughed from the Army, but each case must be handled individually.

WPB Admits Mistake

2. The War Production board now admits it made a mistake in handling the farm machinery program, and it is being revised. WPB had most of the larger manufacturers convert to arms production, Mr. Roosevelt explained, but it developed that the smaller firms lacked the distribution facilities which the bigger ones had through branch offices. Some of the bigger concerns, he said, will return to manufacture of farm machinery and also will distribute the output of smaller ones. He added that steel had been allocated for all the machinery needed.

3. Mr. Roosevelt mentioned, too, as a favorable sign last week's advice by the federal crop reporting board that a nationwide survey indicates farmers will plant 10,000,000 more acres to food and feed crops this year than last, when production records were broken.

Fat Stock Show Set At Littlefield Today

LITTLEFIELD, March 26. (Special)—The biggest Fat Stock show ever held here by the FFA and 4-H club boys of Lamb county is expected here tomorrow. The first one was staged in 1940. There are 14 classes, 150 entries, and competition is keen.

Ray C. Mowery of Texas Tech, as is customary, will do the judging. This will begin at 11 a. m. The show will be held at the Higginbotham-Bartlett storage yards. Miss Billy Kate Higgins, FFA Sweetheart, will present ribbons to the winners. Chamber of commerce officials will present cash prizes. The Littlefield high school band will render a concert at 1:30 p.m. Lunch will be served on the grounds by mothers of the FFA boys, who will turn proceeds into club sources.

Sale of the animals offered in the show, as well as other exhibits, will be held at an auction to begin at 4 p.m.

Lewis Insists On Wage Hikes

Says Miners' Diet Far Below Needs

WASHINGTON, March 26. (AP) —In a dramatic hearing, frequently punctuated by sharp exchanges with investigating senators, John L. Lewis insisted today that coal miners must have higher wages and contended they are under no obligation not to strike if they fail to get them.

The president of the United Mine Workers said he joined with "all Americans in hoping no work stoppage will be necessary," but repeatedly declared he was not "necessarily bound" by the no-strike pledge labor leaders made in 1941.

Says Agreement Voided

That agreement, he asserted, was voided by the War Labor boards adoption of the "little steel" formula for fixing wages.

Indicating he would insist on the full $2-a-day increase he is asking for the miners, Lewis said this figure was based on the miners' instructions to him and the increased cost of living in mining communities.

He argued, too, that industry is waxing fat off government contracts while miners are forced by low incomes to follow a diet deficient to the point of endangering productivity.

When Senator Ball (R-Minn) questioned his statement that miners aren't "getting enough to eat," and called it "demagoguery, pure and simple," the president of the United Mine Workers thundered:

"When you call me a demagogue before I can reply, I hurl it back in your face, sir." He contended the senator had not allowed him to substantiate his claim.

Wants Bellies Inflated

Urged by Senator Burton (R-Ohio) to help Congress combat inflation, Lewis shouted again:

"I wish you'd inflate the bellies of these miners."

The hearing before the Senate War Investigating committee headed by Senator Truman (D-Mo) lasted more than four hours.

Efforts to pin Lewis down on whether there would be a strike

Presidential Veto Believed In Store On Parity Benefit

WASHINGTON, March 26. (AP) —The Senate today passed and sent to the White House—and an expected veto—legislation to boost farmers' incomes by prohibiting the deduction of benefit payments in computing agricultural parity price ceilings.

Approval of the measure came swiftly and without a sign of opposition after the faltering farm bloc conceded defeat in its effort to bring to an immedaite vote an even broader bill designed to raise agricultural prices by requiring that the cost of all farm labor be included in parity standards.

Thus the Senate took a middle course in the parity battle. It approved a change in the farm price structure which Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown has said would boost the cost of living $1,500,000,000 if it became effective, but temporarily delayed consideration of a proposal he said would add $2,333,000,000 to consumers' food bills.

Back To Committee

The latter measure, previously passed by the House, went back to the Senate Agriculture committee which approved it unanimously at a 10-minute session last Monday without the formality of holding hearings.

There was ample evidence, however, that it would be back on the Senate calendar in a matter of 10 days or two weeks, there to plague the administration leaders who insisted that its passage would provide a crowbar by which organized labor could pry wage increases out of the War Labor board and thus break down inflation controls.

A coalition of Democrats and Republicans, headed by majority leader Barkley of Kentucky and minority leader McNary of Oregon, broke the farm bloc apart to force adoption of a motion by Senator Lucas (D-Ill) to return the bill to committee. Although the issue had been close, the motion was adopted on a voice vote without dissent.

DeGaulle Emissary Arrives At Algiers

ALGIERS, March 26. (AP) —Gen. George Catroux, Fighting French liaison man between Gen. Charles De Gaulle and Gen. Henri Giraud, French high commissioner in north Africa, arrived were today to engage in the preliminary negotiations looking to final unity of all the anti-Axis French forces.

Catroux, delegate-general to Syria, made the trip from Cairo in a single day in his American-built plane. He landed just before a heavy thunderstorm broke over the mountains.

Going immediately to a villa which had been prepared for him, Catroux said he excepted to see Giraud in the morning.

Laval Shuffles Vichy Cabinet

Diplomats Shift Their Allegiance

(By The Associated Press)

THE BERLIN radio announced last night a shakeup in Pierre Laval's Vichy cabinet in which five ministers were dismissed, and this development came amid continued desertions from the Vichy government by foreign diplomats who were switching their allegiance to Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, French high commissioner in Allied northwest Africa.

The ministers "taking leave of Chief of State Petain," said the broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, were:

Joseph Barthelmy, justice; Admiral Jean Marie Abrial, Navy; Gen. Jean Francois Jannekyn, aviation; Jules Brevie, colonies, and Rear Admiral Rene Platon, secretary of state in the foreign ministry held by Laval himself.

Shakeup Said Harmonious

The Berlin radio stressed that the shakeup was "harmonious, insuring unconditional support of the Laval government," and said some of the posts were being telescoped to give a greater concentration of power.

Actually, most of the French ministeries are obsolete because of war developments. France has lost nearly all of her colonies to either General Giraud or Gen. Charles De Gaulle, Fighting French leader, and the Germans demobilized all the French military services when they occupied all of France last fall following the Allied invasion of north Africa.

The change occurred a short time after French Guiana had joined the Allies, and appeared also to have been dictated by concern of an approaching union of the two anti-Axis French leaders, Giraud and De Gaulle.

Rebellion And Unrest

A further indication of rebellion and unrest inside Axis-occupied France was Berlin's report that Robert Bousquet, secretary general for police in the interior ministry, "will be promoted in rank," and that "there's talk of a new police ministry to be established."

Bousquet is the man Vichy has assigned on many expeditions against dissidents in France. He and his police cooperated with Nazi troops to crush a rebellion

RAF Out Again Over Naziland

LONDON, Saturday, March 27. (AP) — British bombers were over the industrial Ruhr section of Germany during the night, it was learned authoritatively today.

There were indications that the RAF was out in force.

One of the biggest raids of the year was delivered in the same area when Essen was blasted March 12.

RAF "PLAYS TAG" OVER ROME; TRAINS STRAFED

LONDON, March 26. (AP)—RAF Intruder planes, taking off from battered Malta where for months the words "Bomb Rome" have been chalked on the walls of ruined buildings, sallied boldly over the Italian capital and environs last night, and one of the pilots on his return expressed regret at not having been able to single out the "Big Bullfrog"—Mussolini.

First reports from Malta quoted only the pilot who wanted to find Mussolini, but later it was learned a number of attacking craft had flown over the capital area for the first time.

Big Play In London

Early editions of the London morning papers gave the story top display and the Daily Mail headline said: "RAF Over Rome Suburbs."

Only one pilot told of what the Italian capital looks like at night from the air.

Union Of All French Pledged By DeGaulle

LONDON, March 26. (AP) — Gen. Charles De Gaulle pledged tonight that he and Gen. Henri Giraud would insure a fighting union of all French forces and end all doubts and rancor at a forthcoming meeting in north Africa.

"I am going very shortly to north Africa," he said in a French broadcast over the British radio. ". . . I shall see General Giraud, a great soldier and a noble figure.

"Together, loyally and in a friendly spirit, we shall seek and we shall find means to insure that the French empire shall be but one empire, that French strength shall be but one strength, that the voice of the French people who fight shall be heard in the world as one voice and, above all, that this empire, this strength, this voice shall be those desired by the nation."

Many Auxiliary Carriers In Use

Others To Follow In U-Boat Battle

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP) —The Navy disclosed today that the first of a fleet of auxiliary aircraft carriers are in combat areas and scores of others are building in shipyards on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

The primary function of the auxiliary carriers at this time is to help smash the German U-boat offensive in the Atlantic, but they are by no means limited to furnishing convoy protection, having uses also as ferrying craft and in fleet operations. The greatest need for them now, however, is in the North Atlantic and indications were that that was where the bulk of the force would be disposed.

Disclosed By Knox

The report on the new program was made public at a press conference of Secretary of the Navy Knox.

Converted from merchant-type vessels or built keel-up as auxiliaries, these carriers have a force of aircraft adequate to patrol vast reaches of the ocean in convoy duty and, the Navy secretary said, provide a "triple menace" to the enemy's undersea, surface and air raiders.

Vice Admiral Frederick J. Horne, vice chief of naval operations, joined Knox at a press conference to tell of the auxiliary aircraft program as "coming along very rapidly."

Horne reported that the auxiliary carriers have "been very successful, but the nature of a carrier of this type without high speed" has limitations due to weather.

Some Already In Combat

Some have already been in combat, he said, and have been in "all of the seven seas."

Seven Die As Bomber Hits Mountain Ridge

TRINDAD, Colo., March 26 (AP) An Army detachment struggled through timber and snow today, working toward the wreckage of a bomber which crashed against an 11,000-foot ridge in the Sangre De Cristo mountains of southern Colorado, killing seven men.

The death of the Army plane crew was reported by public relations officers at the Army internment camp in Trinidad, from which a detachment set out this morning on a 50-mile trek to the crash scene northwest of the town.

Identities of the victims and the home base of the plane had not been established early tonight, but officers at Lowry Field, Denver, reported the craft could be one which was unreported after leaving Biggs Field, El Paso, on a scheduled flight to Denver.

The big Bomber sheared off the tips of trees for about 150 yards and then crashed and burned less than 100 feet from the top of a mountain ridge last night, State Highway Patrolman E. W. Hammons reported.

Total Casualties In Navy Reach 24,552

WASHINGTON, March 26. (AP) —The Navy announced today 26 casualties in Navy forces, including 18 dead, 2 wounded, and 6 missing.

This brings to 24,552 the total of Navy, Marine corps and Coast Guard casualties reported to next of kin since Dec. 7, 1941. The grand total includes 6,946 dead, 4,646 wounded and 12,960 missing.

Americans Hold Control Of Road

Allied Air Attack Heaviest Of War

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, March 26. —Infantry of the British Eighth Army inched slowly forward into fortifications of the Mareth line under a hail of gunfire today while American forces 70 miles away fought grimly to keep Marshal Erwin Rommel's flank pinned to the Tunisian coast.

The seventh night of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's attack on the deep Mareth belt of minefields and pillboxes backed up by concentrations of armor and artillery found the British and the enemy still locked in a struggle reminiscent of the first World war's many "battles of position and attrition."

North British Column

There was complete absence of information on the situation in the El Hamma area, where daring units of the Eighth Army had struck far around and into the rear of the Mareth line. But continued heavy attacks by the Allies western desert air force on enemy armor in the vicinity of El Hamma indicated that the flanking British force was holding its initial gains there despite its long supply line.

(The Algiers radio said the British before El Hamma, which is 20 miles from the Axis supply port of Gabes, were meeting an "extremely dense anti-tank defense system," but that they had captured the height of Djebel Tobaga, dominating Gabes. There was no Allied confirmation of this report.)

American troops entrenched on the heights dominating Guetaria pass, through which runs the southernmost road from Gafsa to the sea, were counter-attacked again by German infantry seeking to infiltrate and outflank their rocky positions.

Yanks Control Road

Although the Germans got a foothold on the southern slopes of Djebel Derba, which is on the south side of the pass, front line dispatches said the Americans kept control of the road.

Gen. George S. Patton, jr.'s other American forces were engaged in difficult mopping up operations against the enemy hold-

Fight To Finish Pledged By Eden

By WADE WERNER

ANAPOLIS, Md., March 26 (AP) Britain is out to crush Japan as well as Germany, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Britain assured Americans tonight; there will be no rest until both ends of the Axis have been smashed.

"Let there be no mistake," Eden said in an address prepared for the Maryland state assembly and for broadcast to the nation over CBS; "we shall not rest upon our arms until every one of our enemies has unconditionally surrendered. We, no less than you, and our partner China, have a score to settle with the Japanese; nor shall we cease fighting until that evil growth in the Pacific has been cut back. We shall be with you in this to the end."

Message For China

"Let China not misdoubt us," he said. "We shall not forget how for years she resisted aggression single-handed . . . The day will come when the Burma road will once again be open."

Britain's foreign secretary mentioned only briefly his fortnight of conferences with President Roosevelt, Secretary of State Hull and others. He said he was "well pleased at the result," but added:

"You will not expect, I trust, sudden and sensational developments. For there will be done. But there has been a meeting of minds between us about the present and the future that will, we are sure, bear fruit."

Eden emphasized but did not dwell on the question of close collaboration with Russia, mentioning it only in connection with the broader theme of United Nations cooperation in war and peace.

Nine Stars On Service Pin, "Mom" Has No Place For 10th; Two Others Coming

By EDITH EVANS
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, March 26—"Mom" Van Coutren, as fellow clerks call her in the ten cent store where she works, is wondering how she can add another star to the nine on her service pin.

For the tenth time, one of Mrs. Emma Van Coutren's children, a girl this time, has joined up with Uncle Sam, and is getting out of civilian clothes into a uniform.

"Maybe a jeweler could add a small bar to it, across the bottom," she said, "that way there would be room for two more stars if my other two boys are inducted—and it looks like they will be."

The pin was the gift of the American Women's Volunteer society, honoring her for being the mother of seven sons and two daughters in the armed services.

The smiling, white-haired mother explained there used to be too many long-faced neighbors coming to call and sympathize, and too many invitations to luncheons that invariably ended up in tears.

"Now I have a good excuse," she beamed. "I say, 'I'm sorry, I can't come to your luncheon because I go to business.' And when the long-faced callers come, I am not at home."

Letter writing—one a week to each child — keep her busy evenings.

BRITISH CHILDREN

WHAT THE blitz did to the children of England is made to live vividly, dramatically and humanly in the drama, "Journey for Margaret," that is showing at the Lindsey theater with a little American girl named Margaret O'Brien showing Robert Young and Laraine Day something about acting. She's no dimpled Shirley Temple darling but she is an amazing little girl who can break your heart when she cries.

There are a lot of people writing and talking these days about the post-war world. They are worried about trade relations and big business and the transition of a soldier to the life of a civilian. But what is being done to the children of these war-torn countries? What are the terrors that fill their hearts as they go to bed at night only to be awakened by bombing raids and explosions and the horrors of the blackout?

You'll have some of these questions answered if you see "Journey for Margaret," which is adapted from the best seller of the same name written by W. L. White. Little Margaret is a big-eyed child, an orphan of the blitz, whose most cherished keepsake is a "magnesium bomb" and who re-lives the terror that took her family.

The picture has its lighter moments and it is not as depressing as we perhaps have indicated. But it won't leave you shaking with laughter at any time and it may cause you to realize afresh how fortunate we in America are in being so far from the terrible Nazis.

It might not be amiss to send some of the teenage children; youngsters who haven't taken the war seriously yet.

VICTORY CAKE

HERE is a recipe for fluffy yellow cake that was called in by Mrs. R. E. Guthrie who lives near town. So many of her friends have asked for it that she consented to having the recipe appear in this column.

One-half cup shortening, 2 teaspoons orange rind, 1-2 teaspoon lemon extract, 1 and 1/3 cups white corn syrup, 2 and 1/3 cups sifted all purpose flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 3 and 1/4 teaspoons baking powder, 2 large eggs, 1/2 cup milk. If you wish you may leave out 1/3 cup of the white syrup and substitute 1/3 cup honey, Mrs. Guthrie said.

Cream the shortening, flavoring and corn syrup. Sift flour, baking powder and salt three times and stir 1/4 of the dry ingredients into creamed mixture. Blend in well beaten egg yolks and stir in rest of dry ingredients alternately with the milk. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into three well greased and floured cake pans and bake from 20 to 30 minutes in a moderate oven of 350 degrees, Fahrenheit.

The icing is made by heating 3/4 cup white corn syrup to the boiling point and pouring it over 2 stiffly beaten egg whites to which a pinch of salt is added. Pour the syrup over slowly and beat well. Blend in 1/2 teaspoon lemon extract.

Mrs. Guthrie makes the icing before she bakes the cake since it takes some time to cool, she said. She sometimes adds the yolks from the icing to the cake batter.

H-D Agent Gives Tips To Poultry Raisers

Families in villages and the suburbs of cities often can supply their tables with eggs and poultry by raising chickens in their backyards. Male birds are needed only when the eggs are to be used for hatching. According to Miss Clara Pratt, county home demonstration agent for the A. and M. College extension service, Texas' 1943 poultry production goal calls for 11 per cent more chickens on farms than in 1942. Poultry raised on backyard town lots will supplement farm supplies.

Chickens and other poultry can thrive on ground which is too shady or too poor for a vegetable garden, Miss Pratt says. But town and city folks desiring to raise a small flock should first find out whether zoning laws permit it, and have enough fencing on hand. New fencing of close mesh, woven wire, the kind needed to keep the chickens at home, is hard to get. But it often is possible to salvage enough to make a small pen.

Backyard Flocks

Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds and New Hampshires are especially suitable for backyard flocks. If bred for egg production they lay well and also make good table poultry. Leghorns also are good layers but are more inclined to fly over fences than the other and heavier breeds.

Miss Pratt says that a backyard flock may be started with day-old chicks, three or four weeks old started chicks, or ready to lay pullets. Twelve to 16 layers should be sufficient to provide a family of five with a liberal supply of table eggs for most of the year. The cost of feed, if kitchen scraps are used to supplement a balanced commercial feed, generally is small in proportion to the food produced. The chicken houses should allow three square feet of floor space per bird, and the roosts, nest, feeders and waterers should be designed so as to take up little floor space.

Detailed information on poultry raising may be obtained from the county extension agents.

Candidates Are To Be Initiated By Pythians

Mrs. Russell Hardin presided. It was announced a delegation will attend the Grand Lodge convention in Fort Worth May 11-14.

A Red Cross nutrition class the Temple sponsored has been completed.

Hostesses were Mesdames Royal Furgeson, C. O. Campbell and J. B. McManus. Eighteen were present.

Husbands Honored At Forty-Two Party

To honor husbands, members of the Merry 12 forty-two club members entertained with a party Thursday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Rozzell, 1916 Sixth street.

Special guests were Mrs. Harry Urguette of San Angelo, Mrs. Cavett Hunt and Wilbur Hunt.

Members and husbands were Messrs. and Mesdames H. E. Goeth, Hugh Slagle, Arthur Quest and Paul Williams.

The club will meet next with Mrs. Slagle.

Vitamin C, provided in fresh fruits and vegetables, helps to heal wounds quickly.

Needle Club Members Elect Officers

At a covered dish luncheon in the home of Mrs. T. F. Rodgers Thursday, Betsy Ross Needle club members elected officers. Bluebird gifts weer exchanged.

Elected were Mrs. George W. Sawyer, president; Mrs. Watson Wilson, vice president; Mrs. W. G. Tarrance, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. W. M. Chaney, reporter.

Mesdames Boyd, Millsap and Wilson were received as members and Mesdames Ralph Sleep and Dean Rodgers were special guests.

A husbands' forty-two party Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Trippe, 2116 Twenty-sixth street, was planned.

The next club meeting, April 8, also will be with Mrs. Trippe.

Members present other than those named were Mesdames Elmer Haass, O. D. Peden, E. L. Rabun, Fred Rogers, Oscar Ragland, E. E. Rodgers and R. E. Garrett.

P-TA Gives Student Party In Gym

Lubbock Senior High school students were given the second party of a recreational program sponsored by the high school Parent-Teacher association last night from 8 to 11 o'clock in the school gymnasium.

Games, directed by Mesdames Anne Earle Arrington and John W. Wilson, high school physical education teachers, were played from 8 to 9:30 o'clock.

Eleven members of the Westerner band played for folk and social dancing from 9:30 to 11 o'clock. Members of the band were Hubert Burgess, Earl Jones, Richard Collier, O. T. Ryan, Elmer Reed, Tom Hodges, Joe D. Baldridge, Mickey Sweeny, Billy Medley, Clyde Neville, and Billy Aycock.

Personals

Auxiliary Drucille M. McElvaney, 2414 Twenty-fifth street, has completed basic training at the First Women's Army Auxiliary corps Training center in Fort Des Moines, Iowa, and has been selected for specialist training in the administrative school, it was announced today by the public relations department.

Lt. Grace H. Siegmaster, WAAC third officer, arrived in Lubbock from Newark, N. J., where she has been on duty with second service command. A native of New Jersey, she asked to be assigned to Texas because of a long desire to see the famous state and learn to know its people. Lt. Siegmaster will be with the Recruiting and Induction office here.

Miss Grace White and Miss Doris Mae Burdett are attending the South Plains Speech and Art Association in Amarillo this week end. They are to spend the week end with friends there.

Lt. and Mrs. Jack O. Stone of Lubbock and young daughter are visiting here with friends for several days. Lt. Stone, former South Plains Area Scout executive here, is now public relations officer for Majers field at Greenville.

Thomas Is To Sing In Concert Tonight

Under the auspices of the South Plains Civic Music association, Thomas L. Thomas, whose rich baritone voice is known to many Lubbock radio listeners, will be presented in concert tonight at 8:15 o'clock at Senior High school auditorium. He will be accompanied by Marino Mardelli at the piano, who is to play a group of selections during the evening. This will conclude the season's programs.

Mr. Thomas' songs will include: "Tu lo sai" (Torrelli); "Chi fiero costume" (Legrenzi); "Nina" (Pergolesi); "La Danza" (Rossini); "Mandoline" (Dupont); "Belle Aminte" (Traditional French); Aria, "Drinking song" from "Hamlet" (Stojowski); "Jeunnes Filles au Jardin" (Mompou); "Capriccio" (Dohnanyi), Mr. Nardelli; Aria, "Largo al factotum," from "The Barber of Seville" (Rossini); "Al pano moruno" (De Falla); "Seguidilla" (De Falla); "Dafydd y Gared Wen" (Welsh Folk song); "Syfrir Geifr" (Welsh Folk song); "Cloths of Heaven" (Dunhill); "Elegy on the Death of a Dog" (Milford); "Sweet Lil' Jesus Boy" (MacGinsey); "Daniel in the Lion's Den" (MacGimsey).

Delta Kappa Gamma Is To Meet Today

Alpha Sigma chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma teachers honorary fraternity is to meet at the Hilton hotel at 5 o'clock this afternoon for an initiatory ceremony, followed by a six o'clock dinner. The hour was moved up because of the Thomas L. Tomas concert at Senior High school audtitorium later in the evening.

Karen Gearhart, Five, Honored With Party

To honor her daughter, Karen, on her fifth birthday, Mrs. Horace Gearhart, route one, entertained Thursday afternoon.

Guests were Carolyn and Dick Peel, Gwen Newton, Patricia Ann McGaw, Mickey Smith, Bobby and Butch Young, Carma Jean Williamson, Ann Novak and Betty Cheatham.

Lower Values Seen On Fruit, Vegetables

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—Sunday morning newspapers will tell American housewives of new point values for processed fruits and vegetables, and the best guess is that coupon costs will be substantially lower.

OPA officials declined to cite specific figures but indicated numerous reductions, and a few increases, could be expected when the new table is made public.

Camels Also Relish 'Phone Equipment

AT THE TUNISIAN FRONT, March 25. (Delayed) (AP)—The difficulties of this war are not all concerned with front line fighting.

Consider the crisis at (blank) headquarters, for instance.

At the headquarters signal office, an important communication line suddenly went dead, and dismay at the unaccountable trouble was considerable until a sergeant discovered the difficulty.

A drove of camels, loaded with heavy packs for a trek across country, had been driven into a shady patch beside the headquarters. With disdainful indiscrimination they began to munch at grass and telephone lines on the ground with equal relish.

The sergeant spoke fast and the Arab camel driver drove the beast away.

U. S. Leadership Is Favored By Willkie

NEW YORK, March 26 (AP) — Wendell L. Willkie said here last night he is dedicating his life "to arousing the American people so that the Senate cannot prevent the United States from taking its place in world leadership."

The 1940 Republican presidential nominee, addressing a Greek independence day dinner of the American friends of Greece, said that "failure of the United States Senate to set up a peace recovery program 23 years ago is the cause of today's chaos."

Crow Is Eaten To Start Bond Sales

HOUSTON, March 26 (AP) — Three hundred persons ate crow here last night to start the Houston war bond sports committee off with $200,000 of its 1943 quota of $2,000,000.

Crows for the dinner were killed by defense guardsmen and were served camp style — a sort of fricasee in which they were tenderized two hours under a pressure cooker.

The war bond sale was conducted by the Houston sports writers who make up the committee. Last year these men sold $1,589,000 worth of bonds.

Eight Ambassadors Confirmed In Senate

WASHINGTON, March 26. (U.P.) —The Senate today unanimously confirmed the nominations of eight U. S. ambassadors to Latin-American countries. They were:

Guatemala—Boaz Long, New Mexico; Ecuador — Robert M. Scotten, Michigan; Costa Rica — Fay A. Desportes, South Carolina; Nicaragua — James B. Stewart, New Mexico; El Salvador—Walter Thurston, Arizona; Honduras — John D. Edwin, Tennessee; Dominican Republic—Avra M. Warren, Maryland; Haiti—John Campbell White, New York.

News Briefs

Fire in the Jones Wrecking Yard, 1605 Avenue H, Friday afternoon half destroyed the place. According to Fire Marshal Guy Casey the fire probably was due to defective electrical installation. The amount of damage was undetermined.

J. Ray Dickey, Jimmy Wilson, Clarence Wiginton, and other American Business club members, led the program at Friday's luncheon at the Hilton. Efforts are being made to list all men in service, with post office addresses, from which a printed list may be formed to send each of the 25 or more men who have gone from civil life into the armed forces. Dickey and others called attention to the need for manpower in the local company of the Texas Defense guard, which now is having its ranks thinned by men who are going into the armed forces. The program next week will be in the hands of Dickey once more.

Freddie Bartholomew Army Grease-Monkey

AMARILLO, March 26. (U.P.) — Freddie Bartholomew, known to millions of movie fans for his British accent and portrayal of Little Lord Fauntleroy roles, was garbed in coveralls today and learning to be a grease-monkey for Uncle Sam.

Happily swapping starring roles for a monkey wrench and a soldier's uniform, Bartholomew arrived yesterday at the Amarillo Army Air Forces technical training school.

So far, he said, he likes the Army and he likes Texas.

The use of horses for peacetime work followed long after the discovery of their value in war.

Packers Urged To Assist OPA

WASHINGTON, March 26. (AP) —Price Administration Brown, asserting he wants "the coupons to be good when meat rationing starts," asked packers today to work with the OPA in ironing out problems arising in the first few weeks after the point system is applied to beef, pork and mutton, beginning Monday.

Announcement of slaughter quotas for the April-June period showed that civilians will get slightly smaller percentage of all meats, except pork, than now.

"There has been an extraordinary demand for meat in the past three days," Brown commented after a conference with representatives of the American Meat institute and the National Independent Meat Packers association.

Wilbur La Roe, jr., counsel for the independent association, said the conference, besides discussing whether there should be a ceiling on live hogs, also talked of the possibility of adjusting prices or quotas as a means of getting meat to butcher shops to satisfy the public's demands.

Brown Declines Comment

Brown declined comment on La Roe's assertion, except to say "I want the coupons to be good when meat rationing starts." This reflected a feeling of some butchers, especially on the Pacific coast, that many persons would be disgruntled if they have meat coupons but no meat next week.

As for the ceilings on live hogs, aides of Brown said this may be necessary eventually, but the administrator will not press for them at this time. However, La Roe told reporters:

"The small packers urged live hog ceilings now. Large packers want to wait. We, the small packers, made a strong case and Mr. Brown said he would take it up with Chester C. Davis, the new food administrator."

For most people, tomorrow (Saturday) is the last day to buy meat and cheese without using ration coupons. Beginning Monday, all beef, veal, pork, lamb and mutton will be rationed, along with cheese, canned fish and fats and oils.

Pepper Sees Bricker As GOP Candidate

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., March 26 (U.P.) — Sen. Claude Pepper, (D., Fla.,) in an address today at the second meeting of the governor's conference here, predicted that the Republican presidential candidate for 1944 would be Gov. John W. Bricker, of Ohio.

Pepper appealed for party loyalty and adherence to the principles of "Jefferson democracy upon which the nation was founded."

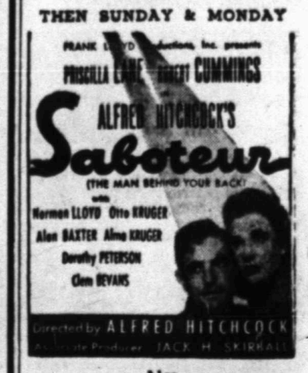

"I don't see any advantage," Pepper declared, "in the south switching allegiance to another party at this time. The Republicans, like a leopard, cannot change their spots. They will continue to represent vested interests and throttle development of industry in any section which might compete with their own manufacturing area."

"I will bet five dollars right now that I can name the Republican presidential candidate for 1944. He will be Gov. Bricker of Ohio who is worried about nothing except the comparisons being made between him and the late President Harding."

Davis Says "Team Work" To Be Plan

WASHINGTON, March 26. (U.P.)—Chester C. Davis disclosed today his plan for administration of the war food program—"team work."

"I hope that we can have the cooperation of all the many people who must pull together to make the food program a success," he told the United Press by telephone from St. Louis. "The main thing is team-work."

That is typical of Davis. Much of his success as a newspaperman, farm leader and banker has been the result of cooperation with his associates.

On Right Track

Farm leaders here who have watched the delay and confusion resulting from lack of administration team-work believe Davis is on the right track. They say he wouldn't tackle one of the nation's toughest jobs without assurances of cooperation.

Davis was born 55 years ago on a farm in Dallas, Ia. He enrolled at Grinnell college and after interrupting his course to edit a weekly paper at Redfield, S. D., was graduated in 1911. His scholorship won him a Phi Beta Kappa key.

As a young man he went west to seek his fortune — as a newspaperman in Miles City and Bozeman, Mont. He later became editor and manager of the Great Falls, Mont., farmer.

Early FDR Supporter

He organized Montana's department of agriculture and became the state's first commissioner of agriculture, serving from 1921 to 1925. He first attracted national prominence by his battle for farm relief during the Harding and Coolidge administrations.

He left Montana in 1925 to join George N. Peek, Illinois farm leader in a battle for the McNary-Haugen farm relief measure. He became director of Peek's Illinois agricultural association.

Davis was among the first of the farm leaders to support Franklin D. Roosevelt for president in 1932. He helped Henry A. Wallace, the first New Deal secretary of agriculture, plan the Roosevelt farm program.

When the Agricultural Adjustment administration was formed in 1933, Davis came to Washington as first lieutenant to Peek, the first AAA head. He succeeded Peek in 1934 and continued as AAA head until 1936. From 1936 until 1940, when he became director of the federal reserve bank of St. Louis, Davis was a member of the federal reserve board.

Davis is anxious to tackle his new job, but, he said, "I've got a little job here in St. Louis to finish — a matter of selling $8,000,000,000 worth of war bonds—and it'll take me until the first of next week."

A former associate gave this thumbnail character sketch of Davis:

"Genius for practical, undramactic administration. Forgetful of self. Anxious for others. Knows human beings. Likes handball and symphony concerts."

Lewis' Demands

if the bituminous coal negotiations failed were unavailing, but he reiterated that he was not "necessarily bound" by a no-strike agreemen labor leaders reached with the government in 1941.

He said he was not bound because the War Labor board "beached that agreement" when it adopted the "little steel formula" for fixing industrial wages.

"It does not allow a judicial determination of the equities involved," he declared. 'In the coal mining industry, instead of a hearing, we are handed a formula."

Says Diets Deficient

Thousands of miners, he asserted, are suffering from "dietary deficiency."

"With a food budget of $85 a month for their families under present wages?" Senator Ball asked.

Lewis read from statistics which he said showed increased costs of food in one western Pennsylvania area, and asserted they proved that miners weren't getting enough to sustain them.

The boys are: Cyril, 36; Joseph, 35; John, 24; Paul, 23; Vincent, 22, and Victor, all in the Navy, and Thomas, 26, in the Army.

The two civilian sons are Leo, 32, a Columbia, Mo., business man, and Jess, 30, a policeman in St. Louis.

The father, L. M. Van Coutren, of St. Louis, is a window decorator. Mrs. Van Coutren, who came east to visit her daughters, and remained to keep house for them, said that she would return to St. Louis after her daughter, Helen was inducted."

The funeral of R. O. Jones, Meadow, will be held at the Baptist church, Meadow, at 3 p. m. Sunday. Mr. Jones died suddenly Thursday, believed from a heart attack, while in apparently good health.

LaGuardia Call Said Prepared

NEW YORK, March 26. (AP) — The Daily News said tonight in a copyrighted story from Washington that a presidential order directing Mayor F. H. La Guardia of New York to enter the Army was being held in the War department awaiting official clearance.

Written by George Dixon, the story says the orders commands the mayor to report to Governors Island next week for a physical examination and that the President has suggested that any physical defects the mayor might have be waived.

The President also has prepared papers nominating La Guardia to the rank of brigadier general, the news says, adding that where La Guardia would serve was not made known but that War department officials said "it was a cinch that the first assignment would be Africa."

Efforts to contact the mayor at his official residence, Gracie Mansion, regarding the story were met with the statment that the mayor had gone to bed.

The news story recalled earlier speculation about La Guardia entering the Army, pointed out that he spoke Italian and that the state legislature recently passed a bill which would permit him to take a leave of absence from his civic position.

Tulsa Slaying

ionable Mayo hotel at the point of a gun.

Said Life Threatened

Mrs. Howard, in a statement to Simms, said Mrs. Simmons threatened to kill her.

"I made a grab for the gun, and the next thing I knew she fell to the floor and I could see she was shot," Simms said Mrs. Howard related.

Mrs. Simmons was shot three times, in the heart, the shoulder and the hand. She died almost instantly.

Simms said Mrs. Howard offered no reason why Mrs. Simmons should have threatened her life. She said she knew Mrs. Simmons only slightly.

After the shooting, Mrs. Howard ran from her room—926—into the hallway and down to room 914, occupied by F. G. Eastman of Chicago.

"There is a woman trying to kill me," Eastman said she cried.

Calls An Attorney

Eastman admitted her to his room, and Mrs. Howard called an attorney from there. A short time later Deputy Sheriff Burnis Brown found her. On a dresser was a .25 calibre pistol.

Simms said he was "sure in my own mind" that the gun belonged to Mrs. Simmons, although a complete check of ownership had not been made.

Mrs. Howard said she came to Tulsa on business Wednesday and had intended to return to Fort Worth that night, but was unable to get a plane reservation until last night.

Simmons, summoned to the scene of the slaying last night, found his wife's body sprawled in a corner of the room. Overcome by grief he was taken home.

Operate Stock Farm

He and Mrs. Simmons maintain a stock farm near suburban Bixby. Their show horses have taken blue ribbons in the nation's top shows.

They have one daughter, Mrs. W. G. Lackey, Jr., who lives only a few blocks from Mrs. Howard in Fort Worth.

Mrs. Howard was described by friends as a quiet woman who led a comparatively secluded life. She moved to Fort Worth about eight years ago, after she was divorced from Louis Howard, Lubbock, Tex.

She has a son, Louis Howard, Jr., 20, and a daughter, Jan, 13, a junior high school student in Fort Worth.

MRS. HOWARD LIVED IN LUBBOCK FROM 1928-33

Mrs. Ella Howard, named in connection with a Tulsa fatal shooting, moved here in 1928 with her then husband, Louis Howard, a road contractor. They lived here until the spring of 1933. Mrs. Howard on March 18 of 1933, sued her husband for divorce, charging "harsh and cruel treatment." The divorce was granted in 99th District court and Mrs. Howard, who was given custody of the two children—Louis, jr., then 10, and Jan, a daughter, then four—went to Fort Worth where she has since made her home.

The Howards built the attractive, two-story brick home at 2801 Nineteenth street, owned in recent years by William D. Green, local capitalist now in the Army. Although they were considered to be financially well off they did not move about socially to any great extent. Howard's business kept him out of town a great deal of the time and although the couple held membership in a local dancing club and Mrs. Howard belonged to an afternoon bridge group, they were not widely known here.

Mrs. Howard, then in her early or mid-thirties, was prematurely gray and a woman of extreme beauty. To this day, conversations among local women regarding "best dressed women of Lubbock" frequently list Mrs. Howard in that category.

The Howards were married in Garza county in 1919, according to best information here. Louis Howard, jr., was a pre-medical student at Texas Tech last fall but withdrew in November.

Theory On Nazi Tank Said Myth

CHESTER TANK DEPOT, Chester, Pa., March 26. (AP)—The widely-heralded superiority of German armored equipment is a myth, Army ordnance officers asserted here today.

Even the celebrated German 88 mm combination anti-tank and anti-aircraft gun is obsolete, said Brig. Gen. Julian S. Hatcher, chief of field service for the ordnance department, and the German trap which destroyed a large number of British tanks in Libya last summer was successful because it was a well-placed trap—not because of any inherent superiority of the 88.

This conclusion came from Maj. F. F. Duerth, British Army representative at the tank depot here.

"The success of the 8th Army's push across Libya and Tripolitania," said Duerth, "was due very largely to the American equipment which was received over there.

"We regard the M-4 as the most valuable and the most handy general utility tank we are getting."

Visit To Tank Depot

The discussion followed a visit to the tank depot, where about 4,000 armored vehicles of all types are undergoing modification and receiving their final equipment before shipment to combat zones. This is not a static number, since the depot is shipping out about 200 vehicles a day from the 30 types that are handled here — tanks of all sizes, half-track scout cars and troop carriers, armored cars, and self-propelled artillery. Among the latter are the tank destroyers and a new 155 mm gun, the most powerful self-propelled artillery in the world.

Chester is the largest of four tank-modification centers in the United States, is operated by the Ford Motor company, and occupies what formerly was Ford's export assembly plant.

Armored vehicles manufactured by 18 companies are sent here for installation of radios, some of the machine guns, and other equipment, as well as for minor changes dictated by battlefield experience but not requiring a change in the manufacturing process.

Equipment is shipped with spare parts for maintenance for an entire year—in "sets" for 100 vehicles, or "quarter sets" for 25. In the case of the M-4 Sherman medium tank, a quarter set of maintenance spare parts comprises 3,800 separate items, weighs about 250,000 pounds, and requires three freight cars to ship.

Three Fort Worth Escapees Retaken

FORT WORTH, March 26 (AP)—Four inmates escaped county jail today after threatening two jailers with iron clubs and pistols and robbing a car while many afternoon shoppers looked on.

A minor traffic violation resulted in the arrest of three of the prisoners within 15 minutes after their escape. The fourth was still at large late tonight.

Those who escaped were Harold McMurray, William Wayne McCart, Frank James and William Lloyd Carter. McMurray, James and McGart were caught.

RABBI WAR CASUALTY

NEW YORK, March 26 (AP) — The National Jewish Welfare board announced today that Chaplain Alexander Goode, formerly rabbi of Congregation Beth Israel, York, Pa., died when a ship was sunk in the Atlantic early in February and said he was the first Jewish chaplain casualty of the war.

TIRE DEALERS TO MEET

DALLAS, March 26. (AP) — A statewide meeting of all independent tire dealers has been called here next Monday night to form a state organization and establish in Texas a program similar to that formed in other states in connection with the national recapping and repairing program.

OIL WORKER KILLED

FORT STOCKTON, March 26. (U.P.)—Walter J. Wooten, 23-year-old field roughneck, was killed last night at a rig in the Warner field, 22 miles northeast of here, when a cable broke and a guard off an overhead block plunged to the drilling floor.

CYCLIST KILLED

ODESSA, March 26. (AP)—Jimmie Lee Palmer, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Palmer, was killed last night when a truck struck his bicycle at a street intersection. Justice of the Peace Paul Argaud said the accident apparently was unavoidable.

No Arrests Made In Slaying At Alpine

ALPINE, March 26. (AP) — No arrests had been made late today in connection with the robbery and fatal shooting of A. F. Robinson Wednesday night, Texas Ranger Leo Bishop announced.

Robinson, employed in the quartermaster department of the air forces flying school between here and Marfa, was shot at his home. When he reached the upper floor of his home about 10:30 p. m. the bandit confronted him and robbed him.

Then Robinson was shot and members of his family rushed to his aid, but the intruder escaped before officers arrived.

Robinson, who died within 10 minutes ,said he did not know his assailant.

Funeral services will be held here tomorrow. Robinson's survivors include his wife, daughter and a son, Second Lt. A. F. Robinson, Jr., of the U. S. Medical corps, stationed in Mississippi.

Citizens Of US, Britain Moved

BERN, Switzerland, March 26 (AP) — British and American men who had remained in the former Vichy-controlled part of France after the total occupation by German troops were reported today to have been taken to Germany.

The United States legation here said it had no confirmation of the report but said it had been notified that all British and American citizens in the area — men, women and children numbering some 3,600 — had been arrested.

According to the report that British and American men had been taken to Germany, the Germans explained the measure was necessary to remove alleged trouble-making elements from France in event of military operations.

This presumably was in reference to possible Allied invasion.

It was not known here definitely how many American men had remained in the zone occupied by the Germans after the Allied campaign against north Africa opened but the legations here said it was relatively small.

Freight Rate Hearing Set To Open Monday

AUSTIN, March 26. (AP)—Assistant Attorney General Cecil C. Cammack left for Washington today to represent the state before the Interstate Commerce commission Monday in an investigation of relative levels of freight rates in various territories.

The hearing is the fourth in a series in which the attorney general's department has appeared to protest alleged inequalities between Texas and western freight rates and the eastern, or official zone rates.

It has been contended by the state that there is no justification for disparity between the cost to shippers in the southwest for shipping goods a certain distance, over that charged eastern shippers for shipping similar goods for the same distance.

58 Navajo Indians Given Marine Oath

SANTA FE, March 26. (AP) — Before the New Mexico Senate, 58 Navajo Indian youths were sworn in as U. S. Marines today.

In the first such ceremony which Marines officers could recall, Lieut. Gov. J. B. (Jawbone) Jones, a former Marine, read the oath of allegiance and members of the Senate stood at attention.

The youths came from Indian schools at Farmington and Wingate, in western New Mexico. Marine officers said they would be assigned to the signal corps.

MINISTER TO ETHIOPIA

WASHINGTON, March 26. (AP) —President Roosevelt today nominated John K. Caldwell of Berea, Ky., to be the first United States minister resident and consul general to Ethiopia since the Italians were chased out of that country by the British and Emperor Haile Selassie restored to his throne.

NO SOAP RATION

WASHINGTON, March 26. (AP) — The Office of Price Administration asserted last night it plans no rationing of soap and contemplates no order which would freeze sales of soap.

WAR DEBT PAID

MADISON, Wis., March 26 (AP) —Governor Walter S. Goodland today signed the Republican-sponsored bill paying off Wisconsin's civil war debt, amounting to about $1,200,000.

MRS. KINCAID DIES

SAN ANGELO, March 26. (AP)—Funeral services will be held at Ozona tomorrow for Mrs. T. A. Kincaid, 72, who died here today after a long illness.

Slaughter Gets Two Producers

Completion of one well each in the Hockley and Cochran county sectors of the Slaughter field, and advanced drilling depths reported from a trio of important wildcat wells featured Friday's development in the South Plains area.

J. R. Sharp and Associates' No. 1 R. D. Martin, western Lubbock county wildcat 10 miles west and two miles south of the city, is drilling below 4,115 feet in anhydrite lime. It is in the upper part of the San Andres lime, which was topped at 3,730 feet.

Farther southwest, a wildcat east of Ropesville in extreme southeastern Hockley, George P. Livermore's No. 1 G. C. Thomas, is drilling dolomite at 4,771 feet.

Southwest Hockley

In Southwestern Hockley Jersey C. Hawkins No. 12-A Mallet Land and Cattle company, Slaughter field well, flowed 833-52 barrels of 32 gravity crude per day, with gas oil ratio of 647-1 after acidizing with 11,500 gallons in pay lime from 4,935-80 feet, the total depth.

On the Cochran side of the Slaughter, the Bay Petroleum corporation's No. 3 Humble Mallet flowed 165.96 barrels of 29.5 gravity oil daily, plus 3 per cent water, after a 4,000 gallon acid treatment in pay between 5,035 and 5051 feet, bottom of the hole. Gas oil ratio measured 568-1.

Humble Oil and Refining company's No. 1 Tannehill brothers, inc., and others, southwestern Yoakum county wildcat four miles west of Wasson field, is drilling unchanged at 5,085 feet in lime. Humble has installed a mud logging device in the event oil or gas showings are encountered in the regular Wasson pay horizon. Should the Wasson zone prove non-productive, the wildcat will be taken to 7,500 feet, if necessary to test the lower permian.

Cabinet Shakeup

not long ago in Marseille where German authorities ordered the civilian evacuation of the old port section to make way for anti-invasion fortifications.

Madrid dispatches earlier said a crisis was developing in Laval's regime, and indicated that the resignation of 14 members of the Vichy diplomatic and consular services in Spain had contributed to the tension.

These men switched their allegiance to Gen. Henri Giraud, French high commissioner in North Africa, who soon will confer with Gen. Charles De Gaulle, Fighting French leader, for a union of all their anti-Axis countrymen.

Refuse To Follow Vichy

Radio France at Algiers, in a broadcast recorded by the FCC, said that the French charge d'affaires at Lisbon and other personnel in the legation there also "refuse to follow Vichy's policy any longer."

Vichy reports reaching Madrid said that these foreign service resignations gave German occupation authorities in France another opportunity to emphasize their stand that Vichy doesn't need further representation abroad.

But Laval was said to be contending that a foreign service was needed to maintain "face" for his Axis-collaborationist regime.

The resignations in Madrid were said to have been a blow to Laval because the embassy there had been one of Vichy's largest. Only Ambassador Pietri and several attaches remained. The entire consular staffs in Barcelona, Bilbao, Valencia and Malaga were said to have quit.

The ranks of dissident Frenchmen inside France also were said to have increased heavily because of the arrest in France of Col. Francois De La Rocque, former Croix De Feu leader.

unit alone destroying 42 Nazi tanks and wiping out a batallion of infantry.

Near Belgorod, 50 miles above Kharkov, 100 Germans fell and two tanks went up in flames in an unsuccessful attack, and near an unidentified height the Russians said a company of Germans was wiped out and two big guns destroyed in another repulse of the enemy.

Moscow announcements yesterday suggested the same course of the struggle, a continuing push by the Red Army toward Smolensk and a firm stand in the Ukraine.

TEXAS PILOT KILLED

WAYCROSS, Ga., March 26. (AP) —Lt. James B. Tubb of the Waycross Army airport was killed last night in routine training flight near Waycross, airport authorities reported today. Lt. Tubb is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther E. Tubb of Oakwood, Texas.

Buildings Wrecked For Nazi Defenses

LONDON, March 26. (AP) — The Netherlands information service reported today that the entire coastal area of Holland for a distance of nearly 15 miles inland was being cleared of inhabitants by the Germans, who were wrecking thousands of buildings and erecting coastal defenses against an Allied invasion.

It said that probably 24,000 houses had been destroyed in The Hague alone as the Nazis worked desperately to perfect their fortifications.

Tunisian Front

ing high ground five miles south of Maknassy and elsewhere in the long Orbata range.

The Allied air offensive for the week was the heaviest in the history of the African war, inflicting serious strategic blows as well as staunchly supporting the British and American ground attacks with a record number of tactical missions.

Full reports of the American Flying Fortress raid Monday on Palermo showed that it was one of the most damaging of the campaign. One large ship, believed loaded with ammunition, blew up and several small ships disappeared completely. Two small ships were blown out of the water onto the quay and a number of nearby buildings were demolished.

Aerial photographs taken during the raid revealed that the Palermo waterfront and harbor were blanketed by bomb bursts. The earlier report had said merely that one ship was blown up.

(The Berlin radio broadcast a commentary by Capt. Ludwig Sertorius saying the lull in the Tunisian battle by no means meant that the fighting was over because the "enemy is determined to enforce a decision." He added that while Allied losses had been serious, the British and Americans have ample reserves and have "not exhausted their offensive power."

There yet was no indication that the Germans and Italians were cracking under the Eighth Army's sledgehammer blows, but the decreasing power of the counterattacks launched by Marshal Erwin Rommel attested the effectiveness of the British assault by land and air.

Today's Allied communique gave the first indication that Montgomery's fighters had recovered completely from the setback they suffered last Tuesday, when great forces of German tanks and infantry threw them back to their original positions, and were slashing forward again.

Deadlock Holds In Mine Wage Dispute

NEW YORK, March 26. (AP) — United Mine Workers and southern Appalachian soft coal operators remained deadlocked today as northern miners and operators worked on a tabulation of living costs and wage demands to serve as a basis for further negotiations.

The UMW rejected the southerners' motion to continue negotiations for a new contract without a time limit, as proposed by President Roosevelt. In turn, southern operators again rejected the UMW proposal for a 30-day limit on negotiations.

Both proposals contain clauses making any wage agreements reached in negotiations retroactive to April 1. The current contract for 450,000 soft coal miners expires March 31.

Federal Food Plan To Be Discontinued

WASHINGTON, March 26. (AP) — The agriculture department announced today that it will discontinue the distribution of foods through state welfare departments to local communities for use in school lunch programs on April 30.

Under a new program, however, schools may purchase foods locally for their lunch program and receive partial reimbursement from the Food Distribution administration. Schools still operating under the old system will be allocated enough food by April 30 to enable them to continue operation until the end of the school year.

NO MILK CARGO

LONDON, March 26. (AP) — The British government has informed Hubert Pierlot, premier and minister of national defense of the Belgian government in exile, that the United States and Great Britain cannot comply with his request to allow the freighter Caritas to carry a cargo of powdered milk to Belgium on her next voyage.

War Bond Sales Drive Outlined

The April drive to sell war bonds in the Amarillo region was launched in Lubbock Friday night at a meeting in Hotel Hilton.

The "region" is comprised of 46 counties, and the quota is approximately $2,000,000, exclusive of amounts to be taken by banks.

(In all that follows it should be understood that facts, figures, and dates are approximate, and adjustable, as no irrevocable decisions have been made, according to C. M. Smith, regional director, of Plainview, who wished it made clear that the whole plan is fluid, and that it may and must be altered to meet requirements.)

The meeting at the Hilton was conducted by representatives of the War Finance committee, including, besides Smith, George Benson, vice-president of the Citizens' National bank, Lubbock, and Charles Ware, president of the Amarillo National bank.

Hills Is Chairman

The bond-selling committee in Lubbock is organized under the chairmanship of Rayford B. Hills, who has 55 "salesmen" under him. Each of these salesmen has 15 clients, who will be his clients for the duration of the war. Otherwise, personal calls have been arranged for, on every individual, every institution, every trust fund. The calls will be continuous, and investments in war bonds will be expected so far as they are legal.

The April drive is just beginning. A similar drive will be launched in July or August.

War bond sales prior to April 12 will not count against the April quota.

serving the capital and an outlying railway station.

"The moon was quite bright," the pilot said, "and although it was very hazy we could see flashes of electric trams or trains in Rome itself and the buildings of the city."

Enemy planes, apparently attempting a reprisal for the closest known hostile approach to Rome, caused an alert today on Malta for the first time in 22 days. RAF planes rose to meet them, and one enemy raider was reported downed on two approaches to Malta.

Italy Admits Attacks

The Italian high command communique acknowledged attacks last night on Campo Leone, 21 miles by rail from Rome, and Cisterna, 31 miles outside the capital, but said there were no casualties. Both are on the route from Rome to Naples.

"We left Rome," the RAF pilot said, "and flew down the railway toward Naples, strafing trains as we went. In two or more instances we saw tremendous flashes, similar to those we had seen after we gunned trains outside Rome. We gave railroad signal boxes a pasting, too."

Eden's Pledge

tween the two world wars the intentions of the peace-loving nations were excellent but their practice weak, Eden said:

Can't Isolate Selves

"If there is one lesson we should have learnt from the distresses of those years, it is surely this: that we cannot shut our windows and draw our curtains, and be careless of what is happening next door or on the other side of the street. No nation can close its frontiers and hope to live secure. We cannot have prosperity in one country and misery in its neighbor, peace in one hemisphere and war in the other. We shall never find security or progress within heavily defended national fortresses. We shall only find them by the greatest possible measure of cooperation. The United Nations, and in particular the United States, the British commonwealth, China and the Soviet Union, must act together in war and peace."

Olton Youth Ready To Marry Convicted Poisoner Of Child

AMARILLO, March 26 (AP) — Monroe Turner, husky, 18-year-old farm lad from Olton, today was busily trying to arrange to marry Dorothy Frisbie so he could give a name to the expected child of the girl who yesterday was sentenced to ten years in prison for poisoning 16-month-old Johnnie Scott.

Dorothy, also 18, testified at her trial that she poisoned the boy and his sister on Feb. 8 to get them out of the way so she could have their father, Homer Scott.

She said she needed a husband.

Turner was here during the trial and conferred frequently with the girl's mother, Mrs. Lida Frisbie. He said he came here for the express purpose of marrying Dorothy, regardless of the outcome of the trial.

"At least, the baby will have a name, and I can take care of the baby," Turner said. He added he had known Dorothy several years ago.

Sheriff Bill Adams said he would allow the wedding if a marriage license was presented.

The farm lad said he didn't want the ceremony to take place in jail but in the sheriff's office and Adams indicated he would grant this permission if the boy and girl and their families approved the wedding.

Mrs. Frisbie told Deputy Sheriff Less Whitaker that she had given her consent to the wedding. She had consulted with Dorothy in her jail cell.

Counsel for Dorothy had filed no motion today for a new trial.

Auxiliary Carriers

airplanes," the Navy disclosed. "They can carry fueled-up planes to within flying range of combat areas and catapult them into the air for immediate service in fighting the Axis from the skies. A substantial number of planes now operating in North Africa were taken across the Atlantic by these vessels."

This carrier program arose from an experiment made two years ago when a Maritime commission vessel was fitted out with a flight deck and equipped with a number of planes for use as an escort vessel.

Converted, she became the U. S. S. Long Island and now is with the fleet.

Program Expanded

So successful did the Navy find the experiment that a program of greater magnitude was ordered and it included also conversion of a number of oilers into auxiliary carriers.

A sharp increase in the number of such auxiliaries was ordered in 1942, the Navy disclosed, and that number later in the same year was boosted materially "so that literally scores of them are now under construction on the ways of several shipyards located along both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts."

Immorality Spread Seen In Draft Plan

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP) —Several women told the Senate military committee today that drafting of women for war jobs would tend to increase greatly the "spreading immorality among boys and girls."

Testifying against the Austin-Wadsworth civilian draft bill, Mrs. Mildred Scott Olmsted, of Moylin, Pa., director of a national committee to oppose conscription of women, said that in the Philadelphia area from 1941 to 1942 juvenile delinquency increased 82 per cent among girls under 16 years and 26 per cent among girls 16 to 18 years.

Texas Spills Washington In Western NCAA Play-Offs

Wyoming Drops Oklahoma Quint

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 26 (AP) — Wyoming's highly-favored Cowboys and a surprising herd of Texas Longhorns shot their way into the finals of the Western NCAA basketball play-offs here tonight with victories over Oklahoma and Washington, respectively.

The championship game will be played here tomorrow night.

After Wyoming had eked out a 53-50 decision over the Sooners in the opening half of tonight's doubleheader, Texas thrilled the crowd of more than 6,000 with an amazing second-half comeback that ousted the favored West coast Huskies, 59-55.

Hargis Stars

Lanky John Hargis, Texas' great all-conference forward, proved the difference in the closing battle. The Longhorn shotmaker dropped 30 points—including 10 of 12 attempted free shots—through the hoop to best Washington's Morris in a two-man scoring bee. The Huskies' ace shotmaker had 22 points, most of which came on long shots.

After trailing 33-28 at halftime, Bully Gilstrap's Longhorns, paced by Hargis and Buck Overall, who had 15 points for the night, burst loose to go into a slight lead they protected in the fading minutes.

The box score:

WASHINGTON (55)	G	FT	F	TP

Soldiers Will Compete With Collegiate Stars

AUSTIN, March 26 (AP) — At least eight Army camps and flying fields will have entries in the sixteenth annual Texas Relays here April 3 but they will compete against college athletes and not in a class by themselves.

Director Clyde Littlefield was asked to create a special division for the armed forces but he felt the service men would rather run against college athletes than against each other, so he arranged a program which will allow any man in the armed forces to enter any division of competition he desires—except the high school class.

"We feel," he explained in a letter to a Texas Army camp, "that the men themselves will have a very good idea what division of competition they will fit into best, and we're going to leave it to them to place themselves."

The Relays will attract teams from Hondo Flying school, Fort Sam Houston, Moore field, Norman (Okla.) Naval Air station, Altus (Okla.) Advanced Flying school, Eagle Pass Advanced Flying school, Tarrant field, Camp Swift and perhaps Camp Hood.

Sgt. Lawrence J. Cohen of the Altus base will enter the discus competition against Rice institute's Bill Blackburn, Texas' Jack Sachse and Texas A. and M.'s Bill Henderson. Sgt. Cohen, formerly at Temple university, was holder of several Eastern records.

Only three U. S. cities—New York, Boston and Philadelphia—have full-fledged subway systems.

Addition Of Miller Expected To Boost Chances Of Reds

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 26. (AP) — Unless the Cincinnati Reds' special course under the "muscle magician" causes them to collapse instead of relax on the National league playing fields this summer, they should be a solidly improved ball club, with Shortstop Eddie Miller the kingpin in a tightened infield setup.

The Reds, who finished fourth last year by breaking even in 152 games and playing two ties, acquired Miller from the Boston Braves during the winter, and Manager Bill McKechnie thinks he will help the team considerably.

"He's a great team player," the Deacon said today. "Eddie should make the difference between our fair club of last year and a good team this season. Miller is the kind of boy who runs the infield, telling the others where to play, and sets a good example by his own performances.

Still Need Outfielders

"We're still looking for outfielders, however. We've got good outfielders, but there are better ones than those we have."

Using the spacious facilities of the Indiana university fieldhouse and the excellent diamond just across the street, the Reds have undergone heavy workouts every day. Each starts with an hour and a half session with Bill Miller, the Tulsa muscle expert, who achieves his aim not by formal calisthenics or rubbing-down ministrations, but by mass exercises tending to make the boys utterly relax.

Eddie Miller will guard the left side of the infield along with Bert Haas, who batted .239 in 154 games last year, at third base. McKechnie says Haas is better right now than he was at any time last season and the Deacon expects more improvement as the race gets under way.

Lamanno Gone

Linus Frey, an artful fielder but not a prodigious hitter, and Frank McCormick, the league's most valuable player in 1940, will complete the infield at second and first. Ray Mueller, who saw previous major league service with Boston and Pittsburgh, is slated to be the No. 1 catcher, succeeding Ray Lamanno, now in the Navy.

With Gerald Walker a holdout, Mike McCormick, Max Marshall and Frank Kelleher are the outfield nominees. McCormick was out with a broken leg much of last year, Marshall hit .255 in 131 games with the Reds and Kelleher divided time between Cincinnati (.182 in 38 games) and Newark (.295 in 88 games).

The pitching department is where the Reds may rise and shine this campaign. Veterans like Bucky Walters, Ray Starr, Johnny Vander Meer, Elmer Riddle and Joe Beggs are back, with Starr and Vander Meer ready to go nine innings right now.

As McKechnie says, "I'll bet a manager never had to tell his pitchers to take it easy on the batters this early in any spring training season."

Spring Training Notes

CAIRO, Ill., March 26. (AP) — Manager Billy Southworth actually smiled today when weather forced the St. Louis Cardinals indoors. He said he felt the gymnasium drill, including strenuous calisthenics, would help the players after three straight days of intra-squad practice games.

ANOTHER PHYSICAL

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 26. (AP)—Pitcher Hal Newhouser, 21-year-old Detroit Tiger southpaw who was classified 4-F last summer, received word today from his Detroit board of a forthcoming call to report for another physical examination.

WILL GET ACTION

LAFAYETTE, Ind., March 26. (AP)—Russ Peters, who has been subbing at shortstop ever since he joined the Cleveland Indians, viewed the club's manpower shortage today as a personal boon.

He's almost certain to get a regular job this year. Peters can play anywhere in the infield, and this is expected to assure him plenty of action — especially in view of Second Baseman Ray Mack's draft classification from 3-A to 1-A.

SAME OLD JOB

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., March 26. (AP)—George Caster, ace relief pitcher for the St. Louis Browns, has been assigned the important role of "fireman" again this season.

Caster, who appeared in some 40 games last year with an official record of eight victories and three defeats, was "a very valuable man to us the way he pitched and I don't plan to change him," Manager Luke Sewell said.

ROSS PROMOTED

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP) The Navy said today that Barney Ross, the former prize fighter and Marine hero credited with killing 22 Japs on Guadalcanal, had been promoted from corporal to sergeant.

Ross is at present undergoing treatment for a recurrence of malaria contracted while fighting in the Solomons.

Chisox Destined For Low Berth

Castino Potentially Club's Top Hitter

FRENCH LICK, Ind., March 26. (AP)—The only thing standing between the Chicago White Sox and an American league pennant this season is about six other clubs.

The Sox, plugged up with rookies after a drain of 24 men to the armed forces, seem destined to remain deep in the heart of the second division.

Their outfield must be patched around the only returning regular, Wally Moses, who batted .270 last year and tried to talk the club into trading him to Philadelphia this year. Wally is a cinch for right field.

Manager Jimmy Dykes likes Texan Thurman Tucker, who clipped .313 for Fort Worth, for center field; or big "Moose" Solters, who clubbed over .300 for the Sox in 1940 before being beaned, spiked and generally bunged up in 1941. The "Moose," who has dropped some 20 pounds of suet to present a trim figure of 190, was inactive last year after refusing to cavort for St. Paul.

"Your guess is as good as mine for left field," said Dykes.

Mound Corps OK

"I'm spiking talk right now," expounded Dykes, "of Luke Appling taking over third base. He's still going to be at short. We have regulars Joe Kuhel at first and Don Kolloway at second—and in this boy Jimmy Grant I think we have found a third baseman."

Then, too, Dykes has Shortstop Dick Culler, a slim 155-pounder who hit .262 with the Saints, and veteran Jim Webb, a utility infielder.

The pitching corps appears fairly strong despite the departure of Ted Lyons. Starters will be Bill Dietrich (6-11); Orwal Grove (4-6); John Humphreys (12-12); Thornton Lee, now bed ridden with the flu germ (2-6); hard-luck Edgar Smith (7-20); and Jake Wade (5-5)—three southpaws and three right handers.

Mike Tresh (.232) is back behind the plate, bolstered by Tom Turner, (.242) and freshman Vincent Castino, a 24-year-old Chicago boy who is potentially the healthiest hitter on the squad having notched .375 in 88 games with Lubbock last season.

Plans Begun For Title Bout In Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, March 26 (AP)—Plans to bring back professional boxing to Fort Worth after an absence of eight years and at the same time stage a world title match were announced today by the Lions clubs of this and surrounding cities.

Roger Neely, representative of the Fort Worth Downtown Lions club, said an opponent would be sought for Manuel Ortiz, bantamweight champion, for a ten-round fight at Will Rogers coliseum May 5.

The fight would be for the benefit of the Light House, an organization that helps the blind of Tarrant and surrounding counties, and would be coordinated with a war bond selling campaign.

Dick Griffin, former top-ranking boxer, will serve as matchmaker.

Present Day Pitchers Don't Work Hard Enough—Mack

By JUDSON BAILEY

WILMINGTON, Del., March 26 (AP)—Present day pitchers don't work hard enough in spring training and seldom carry a full load even in regular season, sage old Connie Mack said today.

"Pitchers ought to get themselves in shape," he explained. "Nobody should have to tell them to work every day but dammit (Connie usually says 'gracious' but he was wound up with earnestness at this point) they want to take a day off now before they throw batting practice. And in a game, if somebody hits a home run, they suddenly get an ingrown toe-nail and have to be taken out."

The octogenarian manager of the Philadelphia Athletics was interrupted to greet a caller, who turned out to be John (Sadie) McMahon, whom Connie called "the one-man pitching staff of the greatest team in baseball" — the old Baltimore Orioles.

McMahon, who lives in Wilmington, supported Mack's opinion. "In 1890 I pitched in 56 game and won 43 of them," he asserted. "Why in the last six weeks of the season I pitched 18 games and won 15. In my whole career I never was knocked out of the box. I finished every game I started and another thing, I never gave an intentional base on balls.

"In about ten years I only had a sore arm once. I usually pitched about every other day and I never had a chance to get out of condition."

Connie's attitude toward the activity of his pitchers is pertinent to the present Athletics because he has only seven hurlers on his roster—not counting three or four extras, including a couple of ambitious sandlotters, who are working out with the A's.

"I would be perfectly satisfied to start the season with five or six pitchers," said Mack, "if they were men I could rely on—but—

Here Mack's voice trailed off into a whisper indicating he had no illusions about the calibre of his 1943 curving corps.

SAL BARTOLO WINS

BOSTON, March 26 (AP) — Sal Bartolo of Boston, who has a date two weeks hence with Willie Pep, the New York Boxing commission's featherweight king, got little more than a workout tonight as he scored an easy 10-round decision over Joey Archibald of Providence, the former title holder.

McMurry College Has A "Clown Prince" Of Its Own In Doug Cox

ABILENE, March 26 (AP) — Around McMurry college they'll tell you Al Schacht is an imposter compared to the real "clown prince of baseball"—baldish Doug Cox. 20-year-old Irishman.

Cox goes Al one better: He's a musical comedy, too.

Doug needed only one cut at a baseball to indicate his place wasn't in the batter's box. But his wisecracks were good, and his horn loud.

Clad in baggy baseball pants, topped by an outmoded corduroy cap, he charms his teammates and rattles the opposition.

When McMurry is in a hole he blasts "Hold That Tiger"; when the opposing pitcher is hit hard he gently blows "Taps." Appropriate gesticulations accompany each toot.

He also likes "Peruna," a tune picked up when he was a freshman football player at Southern Methodist university.

Remove Pressure

But Doug isn't just a musical comic. He was voted the outstanding schoolboy gridder of his district and the big colleges sought his services. Cox decided on Southern Methodist to play football and major dramatics. "I flunked when my speech teacher said I strayed too far from the script," he said.

Doug went to San Angelo Junior college in 1941 but broke his leg playing football. He didn't mind. He joined the college band and also played for dances.

Captain Levi Garrett of the McMurry basketball team said Cox had as much to do with "our beating Abilene Christian (traditional intra-city rival) for the first time in seven years as any player on the court."

"Any time," added Garrett, "we got in a tight, we just called time, looked at Cox and the pressure was off."

DiMaggio Goes Hitless In First Army Game

FULLERTON, Calif., March 26. —Pvt. Joe DiMaggio, making his first diamond appearance since he doffed his uniform as a New York Yankee outfielder for Uncle Sam's olive drab, went hitless today as he helped the Santa Ana Army Air base nine defeat Fullerton Junion college, 6 to 4.

DiMaggio managed to score, on one of his two free passes, but he flied out the other two times he was at bat.

Bill Lewis of Fullerton pitched to baseball's erstwhile highest paid player. Jack Jacobs, former University of Oklahoma football star, was one of the air base team's three hurlers.

Greco Decisions Shans Handily

Canadian Slugger Misses Knockout

NEW YORK, March 26. (AP) — Zooming toward the head of the lightweight parade, Pvt. Johnny Greco made it two-in-a-row over California Cleo Shans with a 10 round decision tonight at Madison Square Garden in their second brawl in a month. Greco weighed 135; Shans, 133.

Greco had his guns set on a knockout all the way, but though he floored Shans once and staggered him on at least three other occasions, he was short of a kayo in winning by a clear-cut margin.

Semi-Pro Candidates Will Register Today

WICHITA, Kas., March 26. (AP) —Ray (Hap' Dumont peered into his crystal ball today and came up with a prediction.

'Enough players to form at least 80,000 teams will sign up tomorrow in our nationwide registration of men and boys who want to play sandlot baseball," said the president of the National Semi-Pro Congress.

Dumont explained that arrangements have been made for 8,000 sporting goods stores to handle the registration. All the prospective players has to do is give his name, age, address, playing position and experience, if any.

Then the inner workings of the Congress will swing into action and attempt to find teams on which the registrants can play. Three groups are planned—semi-pro, amateur and junior.

The nation's sandlotters will open their season May 2.

Rice Sets New Indoor Record In Columbian

CLEVELAND, March 26 (AP) — Gregory Rice, former Notre Dame star, broke his own world's indoor record tonight in the Columbian two-mile, feature event of the Knights of Columbus games at the arena.

The "Toy Bulldog" was clocked at 8 minutes, 51 seconds, one-tenth of a second faster than his previous mark.

In making track history, Rice won his 64th consecutive race. He lapped the other two contestants, Glen Master of Colgate, the intercollegiate champion, and Dave Williams of Georgetown. Masten finished second with Williams trailing.

The CHIROPRACTOR-and You

No. 10 of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the practice of Chiropractic.

WHAT IS PARALYSIS? Paralysis is a disease which affects muscular tissue, which is the only form of tissue, which, by shortening itself (contracting) is capable of producing movement. For example: an arm or leg moves because muscular tissue contracts. Paralysis is the inability to move . . . therefore, it is the inability of muscular tissue to contract.

Here's a curious fact. If you were to examine microscopically a piece of affected muscle and also a piece of normal muscle, you would find the structure of both to be identical. In other words, in the condition of paralysis, the paralysed tissue itself reveals no cause of dis-ease. We must look for the cause of paralysis in the mechanism upon which the muscles are dependent for their contraction.

WHY MUSCLES WORK. The Chiropractor knows beyond all doubt that contraction of all muscles in the body is dependent upon one thing only—and that is, upon the "messages" or "commands" which are "telegraphed" to the muscles by the brain. For example, we decide to move our hand, and immediately the brain telegraphs this "command" to the muscles, and they contract. This is true of the muscles of the legs, the arms, the neck, and even though we may be unconscious of the fact, every muscle, even those of the heart, stomach and intestines, must receive "commands" before they can produce movement.

It is the nervous system over which these "commands" from the brain are carried to the muscles. If for some reason, these commands" are unable to travel over the nervous system, the muscles do not contract. For example: if, through some interference with the nervous system, "commands" from the brain are not reaching the muscles of the leg, then the leg will be paralysed.

LOCATING THE CAUSE. The first object of the Chiropractor is to locate that point in the nervous system where there is interference in the flow of "commands" from the brain to the paralysed part. He knows that there is only one point at which this interference can and does occur—and that is, in the spine.

The spine is composed of many movable bony segments. Nerves leading from the brain to each and all parts of the body pass between these segments. When one or more of these bony segments are jolted, pulled or pushed out of their normal position, the adjacent nerve fibres are "pinched" and rendered useless as part of the human "telegraph system," thus curtailing the flow of vital forces between brain and one or more parts of the body.

For example, if the nerves leading to the muscles of the heart are "pinched," the function of the heart will be affected. Similarly, if the nerves which supply leg muscles are "pinched," paralysis of the leg results, and will remain so as long as there continues to be a point of interference between the brain and the leg muscles.

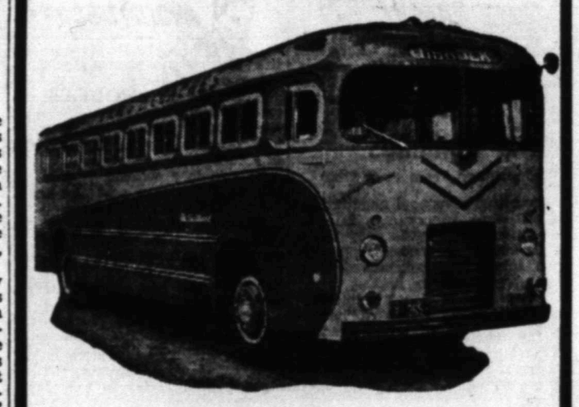

REMOVING THE CAUSE. The trained and experienced Chiropractor is able to determine the exact point of nerve interference in your spine. And having located it, he has the skill to remove it. By careful and precise adjustment with his hands only, he restores the misplaced segments of the spine to their normal position. This releases the pressure upon the nerves and contact is re-established between the brain and the dis-eased part. Health can be the only possible result.

Sour Crude Survey Underway In Texas

AUSTIN, March 26. (U.P.)—Texas railroad commissioners today mailed inquiries to all refiners asking information as to the extent sweeter crude oil is being refined in preference to West Texas sour oil. Sour crudes have high sulphur content.

The information sheet asks refiners if they are now using sour crude, what amounts, whether refineries are equipped to handle sour oil and if so, how much, whether the refinery is located so that pipe lines can furnish it sour crude, and under what conditions the refinery would buy and use sour oil.

"It is our belief that the time is fast approaching when sour crudes are going to have to be used," said Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson. "It is our thought that it should be used in increasing quantities now, and that refineries that are not equipped to use it should so equip themselves that a fair share of the market may be enjoyed by all fields of Texas."

Thompson said it was difficult to understand why sour crudes moved freely to refineries in the past but are not being moved now.

He also pointed out that prices for oil should be increased, that discoveries are declining and prices do not meet replacement costs. Independent wildcatters — who have made three-fourths of field discoveries—are rapidly decreasing because of low prices which do not permit operating, Thompson said.

False Rumor Sets Off Run On Soap Stocks

PALESTINE, March 26. (U.P.)—In Palestine, it's just no soap.

Stirred by a false rumor of a soap shortage, Palestine housewives staged a run on soap counters in the city, completely cleaning out all stocks.

Man Learns His Right Name, Loses His Wife And Heads For Army

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 26 (U.P.) Louis Farney, who grew up believing his name was Louis Wilson, found himself without a wife and headed for the Army today.

Wilson, or Farney, said he didn't know his real name until after his marriage. He said his mother had married again soon after his birth and he had taken his step-father's name.

When he learned his mistake, Farney notified his draft board and was told his marriage was void. He was reclassified as 1-A. He said he then asked his wife to remarry him, but she refused, saying she "didn't love him anyway."

Is Public Opinion Working?

PROSPECTS regarding the type of new tax regulation to be enacted seem to have undergone a remarkable change in Washington during the past four or five days. If this actually is true, as it seems to be, then the change can be credited to the power of public opinion.

At the beginning of the past week, a clear cut fight seemed an assured prospect. On one side were administration members of Congress who supported the tax boosting bill recommended by the majority of the House Ways and Means committee. On the other side were supporters, led by Republicans, of the Ruml pay-as-you-go income tax plan. From each side came declarations of intent to "fight to the last ditch."

But a change has been taking place. Some, at least, among members of the committee who said only last week that Americans endorsed their proposed plan overwhelmingly apparently are experiencing a change of heart. Perhaps they have been getting some mail which leads them to believe they might have erred in their judgment of public opinion on the matter. Certainly, hugh quantities of mail have been pouring in upon congressmen and it is conceded as a fact that a lot of it condemns the administration endorsed tax increasing bill.

The kind of measure which finally will be enacted still is extremely uncertain, of course. The committee measure may be passed. The Ruml plan still is a possibility—a very strong possibility if the choice must be made between the committee measure and the Ruml pay-as-you-go proposition. But the brighter prospect seems to be that the measure finally enacted will be the sort of compromise that the Ways and Means committee should have reported at the outset.

Best Be On Your Guard!

PROBABLY this won't happen in Lubbock or on the South Plains. But it did happen in Tulsa, Okla., so a word of caution might be in order.

In Tulsa, according to the report, two men posing as inspectors of the Office of Price Administration gained admittance to a home for the pretended purpose of checking up on canned goods there. They told the owner, a 72-year old woman, that she had two cans more than regulations permitted, and they took the extra cans.

Of course the men were fakes. The OPA does not make, and does not have the authority to make, inspections of this kind. True, something like it was attempted in Baltimore, Md. Men who were OPA inspectors did high-pressure their way into various kitchens to count the canned goods kept in private homes. But they also kicked up such a storm of public indignation that the highest OPA officials disavowed responsibility. It isn't likely anything like that will be attempted again.

True, this almost certainly will mean that some hoarding will go undetected. Even so, it is much to be preferred to the risks of violations of the privacy of homes by officials with exaggerated notions of their own importance who don't know how to use authority.

So, if you should have an experience of this kind, don't hesitate to slam your door in the face of the pretended inspectors. If they present official-looking papers—as did the Tulsa pair—don't admit them until you have satisfied yourself completely that they are authentic. This might be done by telephoning the district OPA office here. The number is 7431. Or you might call police. A call to police would be advisable in any event.

Such a call can do no harm if you actually are dealing with inspectors who are engaged in a lawful business. In such case, they can have no objections to any precautions you may take. If they should object, that is just all the more reason for precaution. It likely would mean that they are the sort of men that police and the OPA would like to jail.

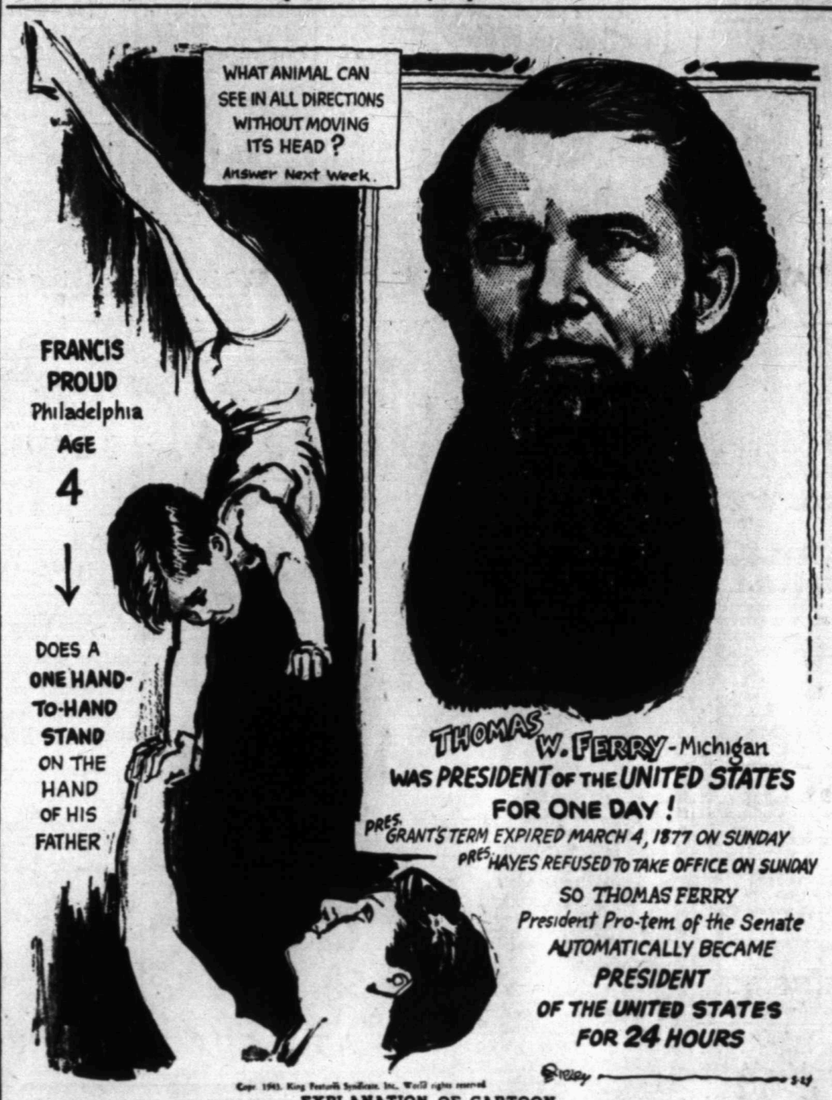

The One Minute Sermon

Moreover as for me, God forbid that I should sin against the Lord in ceasing to pray for you: but I will teach you the good and the right way.

Only fear the Lord, and serve Him in truth with all your heart: for consider how great things he hath done for you.

But if ye shall still do wickedly, ye shall be consumed, both ye and your king —1. Samuel 12:23 through 25

Problem of the Wire Cage

By John Dickson Carr

Chapter 20

Hadley hitched up his shoulders. "I suppose it's partly my own damned fault. I warned the old man — Dr. Young — about Chandler. If he hadn't been so ha-ha about the whole thing, I was going to suggest police protection. But, oh, no. I lost my temper and walked out. When I learned that Chandler had been seen in this neighborhood this afternoon, I was back here in a hurry. Only to find this."

He pointed.

"Now, Fell, I'm practically certain Chandler was here at this tennis-court too. Mrs. Bancroft tells me that somebody got into the shed and left a newspaper, conspicuously headlining Madge Sturgess's case. If anybody would think of a trick like that you can bet it would be Chandler. The newspaper isn't there now, by the way. If anybody would think of a trick like killing Dorrance in someone else's shoes, it would be Chandler. When I first heard about the murder, I plumped for him immediately. I still think he's the likeliest person. Only he could no more have made those tracks in number four shoes than young Rowland. Chandler is a tallish, lanky fellow with feet like canal barges. It's impossible.

"Then again, as a possibility, there's Madge Sturgess herself. I don't consider her very seriously. I don't think it's very likely that any woman would attempt suicide one night and murder the next. But she must have felt pretty sick when her suicide didn't come off; and the 'farewell' note she left shows enough bitterness against Dorrance to sound capable of anything.

Again Hadley paused.

Leaning forward with some intensity, he tapped the finger of his right hand into the palm of his left.

"Are you beginning to see," he asked, "why this case is a simple i: e and a nightmare at the same time?"

"Yes," said Dr. Fell.

The police-surgeon had come off the tennis-court. He was carrying the scarf with which Frank Dorrance had been strangled.

"Well, Doctor?" inquired Hadley.

"I suppose," said the police-surgeon, "I've got to do a post-mortem as a matter of form. But I can tell you now what killed him. This did." He shook the scarf. "I'm taking him away now, if you'll give me a receipt for him. I thought you might want this scarf, though. There are some fingernail-tears in the end of it."

Hadley grunted. "I'd noticed that. Yes, you can take him. I've got the stuff out of his pockets."

He waited in silence while the body was carried past them. The police-surgeon hesitated.

"I can tell you something else," he offered. "Somebody's been monkeying with your evidence."

Both Hadley and Dr. Fell turned round sharply.

"Somebody," the police-surgeon continued, "tried to untie that scarf and pull it loose after the boy was dead."

"The murderer, you mean?"

"Couldn't tell you that. Might have been. Stranglers don't, though, as a rule. Usually, when they find out what they've done, they lose their heads and bolt."

Hadley stared. "They lose their heads and bolt," he said, looking at the scarf. "I don't think this murderer lost his head, though. Now look here, Fell. I've told you what the difficulties are. I've told you what . . . Hoy! Fell! Wake up!"

Dr. Fell did not seem to have been listening. First he had peered from one end of the tennis-court to the other; then up over its high wire and down to the narrow strip of grass inside. Hadley's mention of the acrobat seemed to fascinate him.

"I'm awake," he answered. "I was thinking—well, to tell you the truth, I was thinking about somebody's presence of mind."

"Oh? Whose?"

"Brenda White's."

"Go on," said Hadley very quietly.

Dr. Fell chewed at the cigar. "Let us for the moment reconstruct the finding of the body by Miss White. Let us suppose that she is telling the truth. At twenty minutes past seven, then, she starts down here to . . ." He stopped. "By the way, I don't think I heard that. Why did she come down here?"

"To get a picnic-basket."

"What did she want with a picnic-basket?"

"Maria sent her for it," explained the Superintendent. "It sounds like a useless errand, but then you don't know maria. Which reminds me—I can't quite make out Maria's position in this household. She gets excited and calls the boss by his first name; but she does all their washing and ironing. She gives orders even to the White girl; but takes 'em from the other servants. What's she doing in the business anyhow?"

Dr. Fell did not seem to hear.

"A picnic-basket," he ruminated. He glanced in through the window of the shed. His gaze wandered incuriously over two benches, a row of lockers, and a dilapidated object like a large suitcase. "I don't see any basket there. Did she get it?"

"No. She saw Dorrance's body, and——"

"And did't run out on the court to see what was wrong," said Dr. Fell.

They looked at each other squarely.

"Hadley," the doctor continued, with thunderous earnestness, "I say nothing against the young lady. You have obviously been impressed by her beaux yeux. She may be a combination of Florence Nightingale and Dame Alice Lisle. But aren't you a bit staggered by her inhuman presence of mind?"

"Yes, but——"

"One moment. Put yourself in her place. She comes down here after a picnic-basket and finds the body of the man she was to marry. The natural impulse—in anybody — would have been to rush out and see what was wrong. Hey?"

"I know; but——"

"Now what restrains her, even from going just a little bit closer than the door of the court? Shock? Fear? Repulsion? We could understond that. But she says not. She says she noted the tracks in the court. She observed something queer about them. She noted that they were the same size as her own shoes. She compared them with her own, and remembered a pair of spare shoes she had left in this shed. And, realizing it was all a frame-up against her, she stopped on dry land."

Again Dr. Fell screwed up his eyes behind the glasses on the broad black ribbon.

"It is not impossible. It is only incredible."

Hadley nodded with a certain grimness.

"Superintendent!" called a sharp voice from the tennis-court.

One of the men who were taking casts of the footprints, a plain-clothes sergeant, got up hastily from his knees.

"I've got something here that may interest you, sir," he went on. "It's a piece of fingernail, sir," he said. "Broken or torn off. Looks like a woman's: at least, it's got that pink varnishy stuff on it. It caught the light off these flood lamps."

"Where did you find this? Near the body?"

"No sir. Between two of the sets of tracks. We've called the sets of tracks A for the dead man's, B for the woman's, and C for the other man's.

Hadley examined it. He looked at Dr. Fell, who muttered to himself and did not look back.

"Put this in a cellophane envelope," said Hadley curtly. "Mark it. Also mark its position on that plan you're drawing." He glowered at Dr. Fell. "I don't know whether the White girl had a part of a fingernail torn off. I didn't notice. But we'll soon have an opportunity to see. And, by the Lord Harry, if that young lady has been telling me a pack of lies—"

He took his notebook out of his breast pocket and put it on the porch of the pavilion. He placed the blue-and-white scarf beside it. Taking out a pencil and a pen-knife, he opened the blade of the knife. "A piece of fingernail torn off! Fingerlail scratches in that scarf! Do? I'm going to have that young couple in here straight away, that's what I'm going to do. And if they don't tell me an absolutely straight story . . . ! All right, Inspector. Send 'em along."

He began to sharpen the pencil.

"Buy A WAR Bond TODAY"

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

WENDELL WILLKIE'S friends advance a new and novel argument in favor of his renomination by the Republicans should Franklin Roosevelt head the Democratic slate. It emanates from sosurces so close to the 1940 standard-bearer that it may be described as his "official platform" in the pre-convention skirmishing and in the campaign if he again tops the opposition ticket.

His virtual endorsement of the President's foreign policy, his front men maintain, removes that question from the contest as a major issue. While anti-Willkieites consider the absence of any basic difficulties on this point a handicap to him, his backers proclaim it as an asset. It will insure, in their opinion, that the election will be fought on domestic problems with high taxes, alleged bungling of the war effort and bureaucracy as predominant subjects. In recent tests the voters have condemned Washington achievements, or the lack of them, in ballot-box terms.

Although this is obviously a pre-Willkie thesis, it has made some impression on influential GOP-ers who honestly believe that they have a chance to win if they do not muff the ball by misjudging public sentiment.

The admittedly personable Hoosier will soon toss away the flimsy wraps which cover his ambitions. He will begin to deliver speeches periodically before important groups in mass production manner. He believes that his sales talks which have charmed Stalin, Madame Chiang Kai-shek and other potentates, will gain powerful support for him.

INVESTMENTS: The "good neighbor" policy must be supplemented or supplanted by a "good financier" program if the United States expects to promote better business tieups with a South America anxious to capitalize on the conflict. The proud and prosperous people below the Isthmus insist on being taken into partnership in future expansion. They will resent exploitation by profiteers or New Deal authorities.

That is the message which Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, delivered to FDR after a month's tour of the continent. He made the trip as head of the U. S. Inter-American Development campaign, a planning agency which has been formed for all the 21 republics. He submitted these views at the request of Latin leaders.

South Americans prefer the practical arrangements sponsored by Under Secretary Sumner Welles and Nelson A. Rockefeller to the philanthropic and utopian ideas of Vice President Wallace, who manages the Board of Economic Warfare. They want to be treated as economic grown-ups instead of Washington wards.

The Wallace theory of state control of trade and finance may serve in the emergency but they disapprove of it as a permanent setup. They demand that new factories should be financed by private funds rather than by federal money granted under the shadowy system of "state capitalism." In the modernization of their countries they hold out for local participation. They gave high praise to the American Foreign Power corporation, which owns vast holdings, for selling shares to their citizens.

They remember the days when our Marines and warships intervened whenever domestic disturbances threatened Wall Street's investments. And they suspect that, if U. S. Treasury cash is used to underwrite improvements, some furture administration may fell it necessary to call out the armed forces to protect its official commitments.

WEALTH: South Americans are saturated with diplomatic pledges which never materialize and visits of second-rate movie stars, grand opera singers and other stunts smacking of patronizing. Referring to such amateurish activities, Oswaldo Aranha, brilliant foreign affairs minister of Brazil, said to U. S. Ambassador Jefferson Caffery, "If you send us one more 'good will' mission like some of those which have come down here, we will break off diplomatic relations and declare war on you."

Profiting from this tip, Johnston prefaced all his addresses with the remark, "This is a 'good will' mission. I am talking enlightened self-interest. A nation, like a person, cannot grow strong on gratuities and handouts. What helps you helps us. Economic improvement will create mutual markets for all."

The commercial chairman also soothed grievances arising from the fact that promises of shipments of raw materials, machinery and finished goods have not been kept. He explained the strain which outfitting the armies of United Nations soldiers had imposed on North American industry and vessels.

Our sister republics are unscathed by the war, which has hardly touched their shores. Workers are making money, spending it in night club style and are optimistic about the future. With their new wealth they are buying stock in foreign corporations, especially British, and trying to gain control of home enterprises. Like the U. S., which became a creditor and a more self-contained country after the first World war, the Latins have become a bit bumptious and adventurous. They do not want to be milk-fed (or milked) by Uncle Sam.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

HITLER'S gloomy speech, in which he admitted that Anglo-American aviators have turned the Reich home front into "a war zone" suffering from the brunt of our round-the-clock strafing, has revived the intra-Service controversy between the champions of airpower's omnipotence and those who scoff at the ability of flyers to knock out the enemy.

Just before Der Fuehrer, an unwilling witness, confessed that his Vaterland was taking a terrible hammering, the old-school debaters compiled some statistics on Stalingrad to discredit the blitzkrieg doctrine. On many days the Luftwaffe launched as many as 2,000 flights over that hard-pressed river port.

According to the Douhet theory, the weight of this bombardment should have completely disrupted the Reds. Actually it had scant effect. Hence, it is argued, if such a series of blows failed to crush the Russians in a single city, how can wing commanders hope to batter the whole of Germany into submission?

RAIDS: Current endless chain attacks on factories and submarines bases have furnished fresh material for the proponents of cloud warfare. They assert that teamwork between the U. S. Air Forces and the RAF is stretching Goering's defensive system to the limit. Allied ships carry the following bomb loads: Hurricane, one-half ton; Mosquitos one ton; Mitchell one and one-half tons; Fortress, two tons; Liberator, four tons and Lancaster eight tons. These cargoes of death and devastation are wrecking the Axis production plant.

But the uninterrupted forays accomplish further valuable strategic objectives. The Fortress and Liberator are designed for high level work against which interception is extremely difficult and costly. The other craft fly so low that they cannot be detected by Nazi radio-location apparatus. The enemy must keep every class of fighter tuned up for instant take-off because he never knows which particular model or style of assault we shall use. Ceaseless watchful waiting by aviators and anti-aircraft crews imposes a severe strain on manpower and material.

Heavy raids attract headline attention. While these are in progress less sensational sweeps are made against canal barges and railroads. These supplementary onlaughts paralyze transportation and prevent repair equipment from reaching the stricken cities. If strikes and absenteeism slow down output in the United States, one can estimate how much more time is wasted in Germany by stoppage of work caused by our thunderbolts.

Here And There In Texas

By GORDON SHEARER
United Press Correspondent

AUSTIN, March 26 (U.P.)—How to contest elections with a secret ballot had many Texas senators puzzled when the Secret Ballot bill was before them for consideration.

The ballot will have a number corresponding to the number of the voter, but the number on the ballot will be put on a perforated corner or edge and will be torn off before the ballot is put in the ballot box. The detached number is put in another box.

Senators asked how it would be possible to throw out a ballot if there were no way to show which voter cast the ballot.

Testimony Answers Question

Sen. Weaver Moore tried to explain.

Moore got the doubting senators to go with him far enough to agree that it would be entirely possible to show how many voters participated in the election and who the voters were—but they had not been convinced that was enough.

Moore said that voters could testify how they voted. He quoted cases to show that before the ballot box can be opened the court must be convinced that there is enough error to change the result of the election, and said the ballots seldom are opened in court.

"Most of the election errors are due either to miscalling or checking by election judges," Moore said.

THE secret ballot will not make any change in the present law under which voting machines may be used. Where printed ballots and ballot boxes are used, the ballot with the detachable number would be obligatory.

It is not proposed to make the secret ballot law effective before July 1 in order that the present type ballot may be used for the school trustee elections next month and city elections this spring.

Governor Confesses

Gov. Coke R. Stevenson confessed recently to having played three games of golf in his 55 years of life.

None of them was since he became governor.

Despite his unfamiliarity with the ancient game, the Texas governor is no duffer. He won all the matches.

The secret of this unusual success for a man who had no previous instruction is in the governor's long drives. He admits a lucky 25-foot putt was the deciding factor in one of the matches.

His long drives are due to his cedar chopping.

"Swinging a golf club just comes natural to a cedar chopper," Governor Stevenson said.

Cedar chopping is his combination way of getting exercise and improving his goat ranch. To see him twirl a full sized tree about after having chopped it down makes it easy to understand how the commandos can train by throwing tree trunks about.

TALL Rep. Mainor Westbrook of Magnolia Springs and short Rep. Arthur Cato of Weatherford were enactors of a comedy that had the Texas House of Representatives in repeated laughter.

Westbrook had offered a bill to require school instruction in the ill effects of alcohol and narcotics. Cato sent up an amendment to include tobacco. The "previous question" was ordered on the bill and amendments already on the speaker's desk. Some one suggested to Cato that snuff be included. Cato wrote "and snuff" on his amendment that was already on the desk. Westbrook accepted the amendment and later raised the point of order that snuff could not be added after the previous question had been ordered.

Looking down at Cato, Westbrook said Cato had "sneaked in" the snuff.

Looking up at Westbrook, Cato said he hadn't sneaked—that he did it right at the desk and that it was read to Westbrook when he accepted the amendment.

The House disentangled the confusion by taking off the previous question and taking out the snuff.

An East Texan suggested to Cato that if he didn't know that snuff was a form of tobacco, he ought to come to East Texas.

Legion Is Happy

Whatever some people may think about this legislature, the American Legion is ready to pin some sort of a medal on it. Chairman George S. Berry, Legion legislative chairman, says in a report of the committee that the legislators are doing an "excellent" job. Berry lives in Lubbock.

The Legion legislative program is not entirely concerned with benefits for soldiers and ex-soldiers. One of its sponsored measures is a child welfare bill setting up county advisory councils to prevent the spread of juvenile delinquency.

Other members backed by the Legion call for increased appropriation for the veterans' state service office, creation of the office of county service officer, extension to veterans of World War Two of the state college tuition exemption allowed veterans of the First World War, and a civilian defense bill giving official status and protection to various persons engaged in civilian defense activities.

Private And Bride On Different Honeymoons

MIAMI, Fla., March 26 (U.P.)—Pvt. Jules F. Mayer and his bride of less than a week were happily celebrating their honeymoon today—without each other.

The soldier is stationed with the Army Air forces at Miami Beach. His wife, the former Helen Trout, is at her home in Dallas, Tex. The couple was married Monday night by long-distance telephone.

Also participating in the "party line" ceremony were several friends of the bridegroom and the bride's parents in Eagle Grove, La. All listened in on the telephone hook-up while Judge W. L. Sterrett of Dallas pronounced them man and wife in a 20-minute ceremony.

Girls Doing Most Of Shell-Loading Jobs

LA PORTE, Ind., March 26. (AP)—You've heard of Rosy the Riveter and Susie the Steelmaker. Now here's Tillie the T.N.T. girl to take her place alongside them as symbols of America's womanpower in industry.

Newsmen learned about Tillie today in an Army-approved tour of the 13,000-acre, government-owned Kingsbury ordnance plant, where pouring T.N.T. into shells is done almost exclusively by female workers.

Women make-up nearly half of the vast plant's approximately 14,000 employes, manning all assembly lines, putting together various types of shells, hand grenades, land mines, bombs and other death-dealing projectiles that roll from the plant 24 hours a day. Men do the heavier work.

Oil Shortage Threat Is Said Facing U.S.

DALLAS, March 26. (U.P.)—The United States faces an immediate shortage of oil and Washington alphabetical agencies have not done much about it.

That is the charge made by Russell B. Brown of Washington, chief counsel for the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

Brown was scheduled to speak at an open meeting in Dallas today, sponsored by local directors of the IPA.

Said Brown:

"Our country faces an immediate shortage of oil, yet we have not been able to get the Washington alphabets to do very much about it except send out directives."

PRESS RIGHT UPHELD

MEIXO CITY, March 26. (AP)—The right of the press to criticize public officials was upheld yesterday by the Supreme court, which ruled in favor of a newspaperman accused of libeling an official of Tiajuana, lower California.

The first successful air-cooling device for railroad cars was inaugurated in 1906.

STOCKS CONTINUE RISE

NEW YORK, March 26 (AP)—Stocks generally surged into new high ground for nearly three years in today's market with dealings the broadest and liveliest since late 1941.

The Associated Press 60-stock average ended with a net plus of .4 of a point at 47.7, a peak since May 11, 1940, and the fifth successive forward tilt. Low priced issues came out in blocks of 1,000 to 15,000 shares in the morning and helped put the day's total at 2,142,880 shares compared with 2,131,410 the day before. It was the largest since Dec. 30, 1941.

Farm implements climbed when the President gave assurances of bigger production of agricultural machinery. Oils came to life on relatively pleasing earnings statements. Rails had the benefit of a substantial jump in January-February net over last year.

J. I. Case held a gain of 5½ points. Up 1 to 3 were Oliver Farm, International Harvester, Deere, Sears Roebuck, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber, Southern Railway, U. S. Gypsum, J. C. Penney, Eastman Kodak, Johns-Manville, American Can, Westinghouse and Dow Chemical. In front were Standard Oil (NJ), Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Bethlehem, Kennecott and Texas Co. Declines were shown for Loew's, Paramount, American Telephone, Western Union, Anaconda and Douglas Aircraft.

Secondary railway bonds pushed higher.

Curb favorites were Humble Oil, Lehigh Coal, American Gas, Aluminum Ltd., Brazilian Traction and Singer Mfg. The aggregate here was 436,715 shares versus 417,670 Thursday.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, March 26 (AP)—Cotton futures closed 60 to 80 cents a bale higher today after the Senate sent to the White House a measure to boost farmers' income by preventing deduction of benefit payments made to farmers in calculation of parity price ceilings.

Demand came from price-fixing and trade buying. The Pace bill, requiring inclusion of farm labor costs in calculating parity, was returned to committee in the Senate compromise action.

Service Wives Will Get Maternity Care

WASHINGTON, March 26. (AP)—Wives of non-commissioned service men will be able to get maternity care for themselves and their babies under a program to start within the next three weeks, Katherine F. Lenroot, children's bureau chief of the department of labor, announced today.

State health departments in the 48 states, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the District of Columbia will provide the care, she said, under federal funds voted by Congress.

HEALTH DAY SET

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—President Roosevelt, "in recognition of the vital importance of the health of children to the strength of the nation," today proclaimed May 1 as child health day.

FDR Signs Bill Which Allows Sale Of Wheat

WASHINGTON, March 26. (AP)—President Roosevelt signed legislation today authorizing the Commodity Credit corp. to sell an additional 100,000,000 bushels of government-held surplus wheat for feed.

The act stipulates that the wheat be sold at the parity price of corn, a competing feed.

Previous legislation authorized the corporation to sell 125,000,000 bushels of wheat at 85 per cent of the corn parity price. Most of the 125,000,000 bushels already has been sold.

"V" KNIVES

AUSTIN, Mar. 26. (U.P.)—Thanks of Texas legislators, the makers of laws, were on the way to the men who break the laws, today.

The Texas house of representatives commended convicts at Retrieve state prison farm for donating 50 hidden knives to a drive for weapons for soldiers. The prisoners have also subscribed fully to war bonds and stamp sales.

SOLDIERS' MAIL LOST

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—The Army reported today that 2,000 sacks of mail destined for American soldiers overseas were lost in recent weeks in the sinking of United Nations ships by enemy action.

Grain..

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, March 26 (AP)—Grain prices forged ahead today when the Senate passed and sent to the White House a bill to prohibit deductions of benefit payments in setting ceilings on agricultural products. Wheat paced the upturn, wiping out early losses, and rye and oats followed the bread cereal higher.

The market fluctuated erratically, dropping a cent in wheat and almost 2 cents in rye soon after the opening on commission house selling, and then recovering later when buying by brokers with commercial connections entered the wheat pit.

Wheat closed on gains of ¼-⅝, May $1.45-1.45⅛, July $1.45⅛, corn was unchanged at ceilings, May $1.01, oats advanced ¼ and rye was ¼ lower to ⅛ higher.

Fraud Charged In Plant Construction

TOPEKA, Kan., March 26 (U.P.)—An informers' suit, charging fraud by a group of contractors in connection with the construction work on the huge Sunflower ordnance plant near Eudora, Kan., was on file today in federal district court here.

William V. Ryan, former chief engineer at the plant, brought the suit in his own behalf and on behalf of the federal government.

The action was taken under a federal statute which permits collection of damages by the government and an equal amount by the person bringing the suit.

Although no figures were given in the petition, it was estimated that damages would total approximately one-fourth of the $70,000,000 which the government in investing in the plant.

In the petition, the contracting firms were charged with destruction of lumber and materials in an alleged plot to hike the cost of operations. The companies were working on a cost-plus basis. It was charged in one instance that lumber was destroyed in fire pits.

Oriental Law Change Is Up To Congress

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—Congressmen interested in repeal of Oriental exclusion laws, particularly those which bar Chinese from this country, have been told by the State department and the Justice department that any change is a congressional matter.

That was President Roosevelt's comment today when asked if he had anything to say about such repeal. He told a reporter he was dreaming when the latter remarked he had heard that repeal could not be put over without administration or executive support.

O'Daniel To Attend Texas Farm Meeting

WASHINGTON, March 26. (AP)—Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex) said today he expects to catch a plane from New York Sunday evening for Dallas, to arrive there Monday morning to attend a farm meeting called by Texas agriculture commissioner J. E. McDonald.

He probably will stay in Texas several days, visiting also in Fort Worth. In New York he plans to take part in a radio program.

Russia-Jap Treaty Big Quirk Of War

By GLENN BABB
Associated Press War Anaylst

The major short circuit in the United Nation's war effort against Japan persists; the same is true of the Axis war on Russia. Tokyo and Moscow have given renewed evidence of their present determination to remain at peace by renewal of their perennially troublesome fisheries pact.

Again Adolf Hitler's most powerful and successful ally has given notice that she is having no part of his crusade against bolshevism although six years ago it was the Japanese military clique, now in control of imperial policy, that was the guiding spirit of the anti-comintern treaty which led to the three-power Axis military alliance.

GLENN BABB

The fisheries pact fixes the terms on which Japan is permitted to send his fishermen into the far eastern territorial waters of the Soviet Union, a right granted by the 1905 Treaty of Portsmouth. Since 1936, when the Kremlin, offended by the anti-comintern treaty, refused to consider any long-term agreement, it has been subject to annual renewal. Each year the negotiations have been difficult and protracted, but somehow the renewal has been negotiated. This annual performance is anxiously watched by all the major powers; failure to renew would be taken as evidence that the long-expected Japanese-Russian conflict was at hand.

Reds Had Whip Hand

The indications are that the Russians held the whiphand in the parleys which led to the accord initialed in Kuibyshev Thursday. For the second year in succession the Japanese had to pay an extra fee. The Siberian fisheries are an important factor in the Japanese food supply. Fish takes the place of meat in the Japanese diet and in normal times ten percent or more of the entire supply comes from Russian waters, chiefly around the Machatka peninsula. Under war conditions this source of food is probably of more importance than ever to the Japanese people, for years on slender rations.

It is understandable that neither Japan nor Russia wants to take on new military commitments at this time, when each is engaged in a fight for life. But the Japanese appear to be even more anxious than the Soviets to avoid war.

Fear Of Air Assault

One reason undoubtedly is the fear of air assault. The Japanese command probably feels that on the east, south and west it has rushed the United Nations beyond the range of effective and intensive air attack; it hopes at least that it can hold the ever-growing American air power beyond that protective cordon.

But in the north there is no such security. There are bases around Vladivostok from which bombers could reach Tokyo in less than three hours, Osaka in two. War with the Soviet Union might mean that these would be placed at disposal of the United States. It might not, Russia's penchant for playing a lone hand being what it is, but in any case the Red Army also has an air force of terrible striking power.

The fisheries renewal reinforces Foreign Minister Tani's declaration two months ago of Tokyo's intention to honor the Moscow neutrality accord of 1941. It would be unwise, of course, to place full reliance on Japanese professions of peaceful intent. But it should be remembered that although Japan has struck treacherous blows to open her two major wars of this century — against Russia in 1904 and against us in 1941 — in neither case was the blow delivered entirely without warning. Tojo was blustering about expelling the white man from Asia for weeks before Pearl Harbor.

United Nations Advantage

For the United Nations it undoubtedly is an advantage to have Russia free to concentrate on Germany at this juncture, probably out-weighing the immediate gains which would come from a Russian-Japanese war. But it has its obverse side.

As long as the wily gernerals and admirals who direct Japanese policy are content to leave well enough alone on the Siberian frontier Allied hopes of obtaining Russian bases from which to blast the cities and war industries of our oriental enemy are dim.

Rationing Calendar

Meats and Fats Rationing—Red stamps in War Ration Book No. 2 will be used, beginning March 29, in the meats and fats rationing program. The government has announced the program will include fresh, frozen, cured and canned beef, veal, pork, lamb and mutton, including all variety meats such as liver, heart, kidney, brains,etc., and all sausage; canned fish; most natural and processed cheeses and most of their derivitives, but not the cottage type and cream cheeses; most edible fats and oils, includingf butter, lard, margarine, shortening, salad oils and cooking oils (excluding mayonnaise and salad dressings). One set of stamps valued at 16 points will become valid each week. The A stamps will be valid from March 29 to midnight, April 30; B stamps, April 4 to midnight, April 30; C stamps, April 11 to midnight, April 30; D stamps, April 18 to midnight, April 30, and E stamps, April 25, until the expiration date to be announced by the Office of Price Arministration.

Rationed Food Commodities

Processed foods—Blue A, B and C stamps in War Ration Book No. 2 valid for purchase of rationed processed foods until midnight, March 31. D, E and F stamps, valued at 48 points, become valid March 25.

SUGAR—Stamp No. 12 in Book No. 1 good for 5 pounds until midnight May 31.

COFFEE — Stamp No. 26 (for those 14 or older on the date the book was issued) good for 1 pound until midnight, April 25.

Mileage Rationing

MILEAGE RATION BOOKS—Books A, B and C used for pessenger car gasoline; E and R books for non highway uses; D, for motorcycles; T for trucks and commercial vehicles.

GASOLINE — Value of each coupon in A, B, and C books is 4 gallons. No. 5 coupon valid until midnight, May 21. Those who think they are eligible for supplemental rations should see their local ration board.

TIRE INSPECTION—All "A" book holders must have first official tire inspections by March 31, 1943. Subsequent inspections for A book holders will be once every six months.

SHOES—Stamp No. 17 in Book No. 1 good for 1 pair of shoes through June 15.

Eligible purchasers needing new automobiles, typewriters, rubber footwear and other commodities on which sales might be restricted should see their local ration board.

TIRES—If tire inspector recommends a replacement, see the rationing board with inspector's certificate. If inspector recommends recapping, it is not necessary for owner to see ration board. Tires are recommended only on basis of rationing quotas for the county.

Nine More WAACS Are Recruited Friday

West Texas' quota of women recruited for the WAAC received a boost of nine yesterday, the Army recruiting office reported. Two Lubbock women are in the number enrolled. The district quota of 584 is less than half filled, with only 6 days to go.

Following is the list of new enrollees:

Miss Catherine Rodgers of Borger brought Hutchinson county's quota from 14 down to 7; Miss Grace Roach of Rankin brought Upton county's quota of 3 down to 1; Miss Jane Cook of Plainview, daughter of Maj. Dan Cook, brought Hale county's quota of 14 down to 3.

Miss Ida La Verne Tyler of Tahoka, brought Lynn county's quota down from 9 to 4; Mrs. Bassie Moseley of Colorado City, reduced Mitchell county's quota of 9 to 6; Miss Avis Lightfoot of Mertzon makes three volunteers on an Irion county quota of 2; and Miss Helen P. May of Perryton gives Ochiltree county 5 WAAC's on a quota of four.

Mrs. Lizzie Bell Ousley, 811 Ave. S., and Miss Imogene Neil, 1710 Main St. are the two Lubbock recruits. Miss Neil has a brother in the Marines, who served in the Solomons.

About 30,000 Albanians are residents of the United States.

Rommel Power Proves Surprise

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press War Analyst

Marshal Erwin Rommel has shown such unexpected strength in the defense of his Mareth line positions that a different aspect is being put on the question of how long it will take to drive the Axis out of Tunisia.

Rommel had not been expected to make a real stand on the Mareth line because of the grave danger of encirclement which might cost him the cream of his Afrika Korps. He appears to have weighed and discounted this danger for the time being.

British Forces Superior

It would be wide of the mark to suppose that Rommel has elected to make his final stand at Mareth. He is facing a superior British Eighth Army, has inadequate air support and is threatened by Allied columns from the west and northwest.

If he persists in fighting to a decision at Mareth, a crushing defeat probably would result and the backbone of Axis resistance in Tunisia would be broken. The operation of cleaning out the Bizerte-Tunis corner and driving the Axis out of Africa would be simplified.

Rommel obviously has no intention of risking any such outcome. He had been expected to make an orderly retreat along the coast to Gabes and Sfax soon after the full offensive of the Eighth Army started to avoid the danger of being cut off by American thrusts towards the coast from south-central Tunisia.

May Depend On Americans

Instead, he elected to fight a strong delaying action from positions which the Allies are finding it extremely difficult to crack. The length of his stand at Mareth may depend to a great extent on the progress which the Americans are able to make in their push seaward from beyond Maknassy and El Guettar, and on the strength of the desert column which has pushed to his rear to reach the El Matmata heights west of Gabes.

Rommel presumably has disposed his forces so that he is confident of being able to hold the Americans in check long enough for him to withdraw his main forces northward along the coast when it becomes necessary to pull out.

Might Delay To Summer

The strength of the El Matmata force is not known. It is more than likely a mobile desert column without the artillery and heavy mobile equipment needed to match blows with Rommel.

It appears that if the battle of Tunisia goes the way Rommel has planned it, there will be continuous and heavy fighting all the way up the coast, with Rommel contesting every mile he withdraws for the final stand in northeastern Tunisia. By such tactics, the campaign might be dragged out long into the summer or even beyond.

Recreation Program For Soldiers Heavy

Miss Leona Gelin, supervisor, said a busy weekend program had arranged for soldier recreation centers here.

The usual dances will be held in the white center, 1211 Thirteenth street, tonight and Saturday night. A floor show is scheduled tonight. A special party is planned Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for soldiers whose birthday anniversaries occur during March.

The event in the negro center, East Twenty-first street and East Avenue C, will be a "hell and Heaven" party tonight. The party obtains its name from the fact that hot food will be served on one side of the center and cold food on the other. A pingpong tournament is planned Sunday afternoon.

Cadet Is Killed In Crash At Coleman

COLEMAN, March 26. (AP) — Aviation Cadet Richard Law, 23, of Rochester, N. Y., died Tuesday in the crash of a training plane while on a routine flight, officials of Coleman Flying school announced today.

The craft crashed after the instructor, O. H. Stansel, jr., fell from the ship and parachuted to safety.

Farm Income In Texas Mounting

AUSTIN, March 26 (U.P.)—Farm income during February continued to mount, and the prospect of further increases in prices is a "practical certainty," Dr. F. A. Buechel, University of Texas Bureau of Business Research statistician, said today.

Cash income from agriculture in Texas during February totalled 50 million dollars compared with 35 million dollars during February, 1942, Dr. Buechel said. Aggregate farm cash income in Texas during the first two months of the year was 108 million dollars compared with 75 million during the corresponding period of last year.

"The principal sources of gain were in livestock and livestock products," Dr. Buechel explained, "though fruits and vegetables made a considerable contribution also. The 114 per cent increase over February, 1942, in the income from cattle and hogs was particularly important, since it was mainly the result of increased marketings rather than of an increase in price."

Negro Girls To Aid Soldier Recreation

Negro girls are organizing to serve as dance partners of soldiers at the recreation center at East Twenty-first street and East Avenue C.

The organization is to be sponsored by the Double Victory club. The girls are to be known as the Vee Bees—which is an abbreviation of Victory Belles.

Girls and women 18 years of age and older are eligible to apply for membership. Application blanks can be obtained and filed at the center with Corinne Fair, hostess. They will be passed upon by members of a secret committee of five.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.
