Two Others Reported Killed In Nearby 'Drunken Brawl'

HARLAN, Ky., July 15 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Ellerbe Carter, national guard commander, said Bill Roberts, 35, idle union coal miner, was shot and killed tonight and that Willie Fee, 36, miner, was held for questioning.

The shooting occurred near a roadhouse at nearby Stanfill, Carter said.

Fee, employed by the Mahan-Ellison coal company on whose property Wednesday's fatal "pitched battle" between troopers and pickets occurred, signed warrants against 233 pickets, the general said, adding:

"I wouldn't be surprised if the shooting was not connected with Fee's signing of the warrants."

Carter said he dispatched militia officers to the scene but that Roberts died before a physician arrived. Roberts had worked for the Mahan-Ellison company until last April 1 when the old United Mine Workers Union contract expired.

HARLAN, Ky., July 15 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Ellerbe Carter said tonight two men were shot to death at Wallins creek, 9 miles west of here, in what he described as a "drunken brawl."

Carter, commander of national guardsmen on duty in Harlan county, said the shooting had "no connection" with current labor troubles.

Frank Bryant, 30, miner and Bradley Simpson, 29, truck driver were slain and two men were held for questioning, the general said.

Dr. Rainey Is Back In Baseball Again

HOUSTON, July 15 (AP)—Dr. Homer F. Rainey, new president of the University of Texas, today was reinstated in organized baseball and Houston planned to ask waivers on the one-time hurler who abandoned the game in 1919 to become an educator.

Judge William G. Bramham, czar of minor league baseball, advised President Fred Ankenman of the Houston-Texas league club that the educator had been reinstated.

TIMELY RAINS HALT FOREST BLAZES

PORTLAND, Ore., July 15 (AP)—The weather came to the aid of fighters on a score of northwest fire fronts today, and all major blazes were reported to be either controlled or put out.

A soaking rain fell on northwest Washington and scattered showers and other favorable weather conditions were reported in north Idaho and parts of Oregon.

Eight hundred men, aided by favorable wind, checked the 7,000-acre Calimus butte fire on the Klamath Indian reservation in southern Oregon.

REVIEWING THE BIG SPRING WEEK

BY JOE PICKLE

It can rain in this territory. Some of us had begun to doubt it, but the slow outpouring of moisture Thursday proved that nothing—not even rain—is impossible in these parts.

All of our good soakings once were known as "million dollar" rains, a term that frequently was exaggerated. But if the precipitation of the past week wasn't worth a cool million in actual agricultural production, it was worth plenty more in better local business morale.

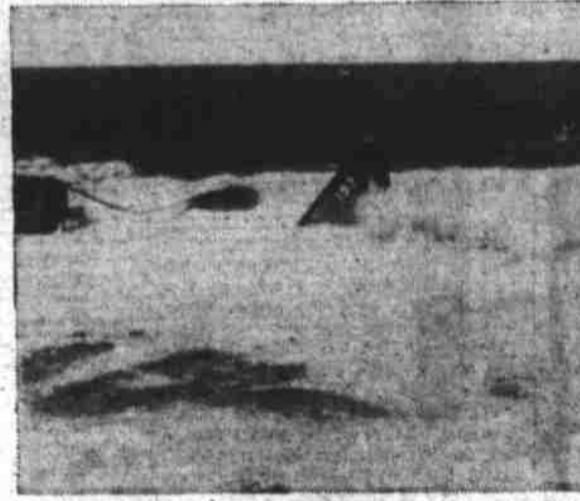

Governor O'Daniel slashed biennial appropriations last week like he was slicing somebody else's butter for one of his biscuits.

What the net result of his clipping $5,000,000 from the $71,000,000 appropriated by the legislature will be none can say at this time. If the economy is not counter-balanced by lost efficiency, it is a most excellent move. At any rate, you've got to admire the governor for trimming instead of talking.

Here in Big Spring the effect of his economy drive will be felt sharply, for two new hospital buildings were eliminated at a cost of $172,500 and the biennial hospital

KENTUCKY MINE BLAST KILLS NINETEEN

SQUALUS POKES HER NOSE UP, SHAKES HER LIMES, PLUNGES AGAIN TO BOTTOM OF ATLANTIC

This graphic series of pictures shows the submarine, Squalus, as she rose to the surface off Portsmouth, N. H., sticks her nose out of the water, and then as it deflated, plunges again to the bottom of the ocean, free of the cables which brought her to the surface.

In the first picture the water churns violently just to the right of one of the pontoons as the undersea craft nears the surface. Note in the background the boat load of sailors who almost were caught in the swirl.

In the second picture the nose breaks through and in the third picture, rises to the peak of its ascension.

LITTLE HOPE HELD FOR NINE OTHERS TRAPPED IN MINE

Ten Of 38 Workers Are Rescued, Cause Of Explosion Unknown

PROVIDENCE, Ky., July 15 (AP)—Nineteen soft coal miners are dead and weary rescue squads pressed on late today in an attempt to save nine other men entombed 20 to 250 feet below the surface by an explosion last night.

F. V. Ruckman, president of the Duvin Coal company, owner of the mine in which the accident occurred, announced 19 had perished, but expressed hope the remaining nine might be saved. He said if they had "sealed in" behind an air-tight door, they might have enough "good" air to "last three or four days."

Small Chance

Fred Ferguson, director of the Indiana bureau of mines, assisting in rescue work, however, predicted the nine had "only one chance in a thousand" of being found alive.

The disaster was the second to strike Kentucky within 10 days. At least 71 persons drowned in "flash" floods in the eastern Kentucky mountains last week. Search is continuing there for approximately 10 missing persons.

Ruckman said the cause of the blast was undetermined but other mine people expressed belief it was touched off by some kind of spark.

Ten other of the 38 miners working in the mine, the third largest in western Kentucky, at the time of the mishap, were rescued. They PROVIDENCE, Ky., July 15 (AP)—John Daniels, Kentucky's chief mine inspector, expressed fear tonight the death toll in a mine-gas explosion would reach 23 as hope waned that nine of the men would be found alive. It previously was announced 19 miners were dead.

"With all that carbon monoxide gas down there," Daniels said, "it doesn't look like they have any chance."

The men were entombed last night 200 to 250 feet underground and approximately two miles back from the surface entrance.

suffered from "bad air" but none was hurt seriously.

The 19 dead were found at or near the scene of the explosion about 12,000 feet from the shaft entrance and approximately 250 feet underground.

The nine still trapped were working in another section about 50 feet above the 19 while the remainder of the 38 were scattered from the shaft entrance back along various levels, some distance from the explosion site.

Ed Gold, 52, who went down with the first rescue party and worked without relief for 15 hours, disclosed bodies of some of the victims had been maimed. He said, however, no timbers or slate had fallen.

Tax Payments Officers Hold May Show Gain

CITY and county tax collections promise to show percentage and volume gains, a survey showed here Saturday.

Although exact figures were not available, Tax Collector John F. Wolcott said that collections of county, state and school district taxes likely would amount to 95 percent of the total roll. He anticipated only $11,000 delinquent taxes from the 1938 levy, most of this amount on personal property and less desirable real property. Aggregate collections may exceed $200,000.

The city, according to a tabulation by H. W. Whitney, city secretary, already has collected 82 percent of its 1938 roll or a total of $95,757.13. An anticipated $2,253.47 in last quarter payments due on July 21 will boost the percentage to 85 on the $90,276.95 levy. While the percentage is about on a par with last year, the amount shows a sizeable increase.

WINFIELD SCOTT, JR. CITED FOR CONTEMPT

DALLAS, July 15 (AP)—Texas rangers were put on the trail of Winfield Scott, Jr., wealthy Fort Worth cattle heir today as Judge W. L. Thornton of Forty-Fourth District Court here, sought to serve Scott with a summons to appear and show cause why he should not be held in contempt.

Discovery of Hamilton's body, stripped to an undershirt and shot in the head, convinced police that he was the motorist who was abducted by Russell near Pittsburg, Kas., Wednesday.

FDR SAYS THERE ARE DOZEN PRESIDENTIAL ELIGIBLES

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—President Roosevelt's observation this week that there were a dozen charming young men who might be classed as potential presidential candidates set political tongues wagging so fast that by today the list had been built up to three times that number.

Just who was on the president's list was a favorite guessing game in Capitol cloakrooms, but there was no unanimity of opinion. Mr. Roosevelt did not mention any names, merely telling reporters who wanted to talk about Paul V. McNutt that he thought the new federal security administrator would not be found running as a candidate any more than a dozen others, some of them in the cabinet.

Senator Ellender (D-La.) said the president's list "might include" Harry Hopkins, secretary of commerce and former relief chief; Frank Murphy, attorney general and former governor of Michigan; Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to England and former securities commission head; W. O. Douglas, new supreme court justice and former SEC; Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture; and Robert H. Jackson, collector general.

If the president included republican possibilities, Adams said the following senators should be listed: Vandenberg (Mich.), Taft (Ohio), Bridges (N.H.), and Austin (Va.).

Senator Minton (D-Ind.), one of the leaders in the McNutt presidential boom, when asked about the presidential list of dozen, said "I don't know of anybody but McNutt and possibly Roosevelt."

CENTENNIAL QUEEN WEDS AT SEAGRAVES

SEAGRAVES, July 15 (AP)—Miss Geraldine Robertson, 1935 Texas Centennial queen, was married to Britton Green here today at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Robertson.

Miss Robertson made her first step toward the centennial title by winning a beauty review here, and recently winning at Dallas. She was given a big part in a song later.

WPA PROJECTS HALTED AFTER RIOTS

Relief Fight Is Abandoned

(By The Associated Press)

Fatal rioting at Minneapolis in the WPA strike was followed yesterday by an administration order closing all projects in that city and the abandonment of efforts by a group in congress to amend the new relief law.

Regional WPA officials said that with the approval of Col. F. C. Harrington, national WPA commissioner, they were closing all work projects in Minneapolis for the time being. They added that the work quotas might be given to other parts of Minnesota.

The announcement came twelve hours after rioting near a sewing project had resulted in the death of one man and the injury or gassing of 17 others.

Meanwhile, Senator Murray (D-Mont.), author of an amendment which would restore the prevailing wage scale to relief projects and terminate the new 130-hour work month requirement, said the senatorial group supporting this idea had decided against pushing for action at this time.

The strikes, he said, had proved "embarrassing" to the effort to amend the relief act.

The widespread walkouts are in protest against the new work requirements which Murray had proposed to change. These regulations had the effect of requiring some skilled WPA workers to work much longer to earn the same monthly pay they received under the old prevailing wage rule.

Mayor George A. Leach of Minneapolis telegraphed an appeal to Attorney General Murphy for "cooperation" of the federal government in handling the situation in his city. He said that "certain labor elements have openly rebelled against the federal government" and asserted that "nothing short of federal intervention can restore law and order."

JAPANESE LEADERS SCHEME TO IMPROVE RELATIONS WITH U. S.

TOKYO (Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Some of Japan's leading public men are searching assiduously for means of mending the tatters in Japan's relations with the United States. Business leaders, especially, are eager to patch things up with America.

This movement has considerable public support. The Japanese people have given ample evidence of their wish to retain the United States' friendship and their hopes are encouraged by official policy of withholding much information of American-Japanese friction.

All this fits in well with government policy. If there is one bogey Japanese leaders fear more than others it is the possibility of concerted policy and action in the Far East by the two great Anglo-Saxon powers to oppose Japan's ambitions to dominate East Asia. Ever since the invasion of China began two years ago, there has been a studied effort to differentiate between the treatment of Britain and America in China and to cultivate in the minds of the people a distinction between the two English-speaking nations. Japanese diplomacy seeks to keep the two apart.

Britain is consistently pictured as the chief villain of the piece; America as the understanding and condoning friend.

There are many evidences of the anxiety of the Japanese people to believe this. Some leaders would have Japan even turn her back on her totalitarian pals—Germany and Italy—and cut her lot entirely with—not the so-called European democracies—but the United States.

CONFEDERATE VET DIES AT BYERS

BYERS, July 15 (AP)—George Washington Allard, 92, one of the last surviving Confederate veterans of this section, died at his home here today.

He had been active under two weeks ago and a year ago made the trip to Gettysburg, Pa., to attend the last reunion of all veterans of the Civil war.

Evangelist Cleared Of Morals Charge In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, July 15 (AP)—Rev. "Joseph" Jeffers and his attractive wife, Zella, were acquitted today on all four counts charging them with giving immoral exhibitions in their home.

The jury had deliberated since late yesterday afternoon.

"Thank God," said the self-ordained pastor, "we had our fate in the hands of the Lord and the Lord has never lost a case."

Spontaneously the evangelist's followers, many of them elderly persons, burst into "Onward Christian Soldiers," shouting the words more than singing them.

Jeffers led his followers in prayer outside the courtroom, where sensational testimony had been presented during the three weeks preceding.

The Jeffers testified they had been given liquor containing a powder by Vincent Higgins, district attorney's investigator, whom they knew under another name as a Hollywood film writer.

The state showed motion pictures of persons in the nude which it claimed were taken by district attorney's investigators as they raided the Jeffers rooms March 20.

Superior Judge Charles W. Fricke had instructed the jurors that they were to consider the claim of the Jeffers that they had been "doped" as applying only to the count charging a morals offense on the night of the raid. He pointed out they were accused of having given immoral exhibitions previously before Miss Morgan, identified as a beauty parlor operator.

Local Postal Staff To Be Increased

Approval of a plan to add an extra regular clerk and a regular carrier to the local postal force was announced here Saturday by Postmaster Nat Shick.

The postmaster had received sanction of the plan from W. W. Howes, first assistant postmaster general. Cornell Smith, substitute carrier, will be advanced to regular carrier and Glenn W. Petefish, substitute clerk, will be advanced to regular clerk.

In turn, this will call for advancement of temporary substitutes to substitute positions and the addition of temporary substitutes. There is a strong possibility that by the time the change goes into effect on August 1, there will be two regular carriers instead of one added.

International Tension Eases

(By The Associated Press)

Comparative calm characterized the international scene yesterday (Saturday) ushering in what on the surface promised to be one of the quietest week ends the world has seen in recent months. Nevertheless, anxious eyes watched two trouble zones—the Orient and Danzig.

All the old world's big powers were making the most of the lull to prepare for any upheaval.

Britain was one of the busiest. Starting her first peace-time conscription in modern times, Britain mustered 34,000 youths into her new conscript army. They were the first of 200,000 to be called for six months training.

Addition of these recruits was the latest British move in the past week to place manpower and resources on virtually a war-time basis.

AUTHORITY PLANS SURVEY FOR LOW COST HOUSING

Big Spring's housing authority survey will be the number of people, in private employment, who have monthly incomes ranging from approximately $40 to around $70, whether they rent homes, and if so, whether the homes are substandard (lacking in sanitary facilities, lights, etc.).

As Johnson explained the low cost housing plan, the federal authority makes a loan of 90 per cent and puts its credit behind the remaining 10 per cent which must be sold locally or privately. The 10 per cent, however, has a coordinate lien with the government and is given priority in that it is retired within 15 years. The loans draw the prevailing government bond rate plus one-half of one per cent for a subsidy fund, making the approximate rate three to three and a quarter per cent.

In the case of Big Spring, Johnson thought that small units, possibly duplexes, would be the most advisable type of construction. Rents would likely average about

Russell Sought In Kidnaping

CHICAGO, July 15 (AP)—A slaying and a kidnaping put police on the trail of Singing Jack Russell today and led them to the honky-tonks of West Madison street.

The fleeing convict was sought by state and federal authorities as the man who killed Billy S. Hamilton, 23, of Arkansas City, Kas., and left his body in a ditch near Ringwood, Ill., yesterday.

Authorities also sought him on a "Lindbergh law" charge in the kidnaping of R. E. Brown, a McAlester, Okla., photographer, shortly after the convict fled from prison. Brown was held captive 24 hours during a wild ride through Kansas, Missouri and Arkansas and released near Pittsburg, Kan.

He was also wanted for the kidnaping of Bud Egholm, 23, of Oklahoma City, Okla., in Kenosha, Wis., last night.

State highway police, patrolling all roads surrounding the metropolitan area, carried orders to "shoot to kill" if the fugitive was sighted.

Russell, a former cowboy, 39 years old, escaped from the Oklahoma prison guard at McAlester Tuesday and headed for Chicago, where he has a wife, Mary, and a reputation as a barroom yodeler.

Discovery of Hamilton's body, stripped to an undershirt and shot in the head, convinced police that he was the motorist who was abducted by Russell near Pittsburg, Kas., Wednesday.

The family moved to Big Spring 32 years ago. Mrs. Clingam had been a life-long member of the Methodist church.

Surviving are two daughters, Lois Clingam, Big Spring, Mrs. Eva McPherson, Los Angeles, Calif.; one son, H. L. Clingam, Los Angeles, Calif.; one grandson; two sisters, Mrs. Gertrude Freeman, Bayona City, and Mrs. Henry Sealy, Red Oak; and two brothers, T. C. and Ed Jones, Red Oak.

Hogg Estate Left To Texas University

Institution To Get $2,500,000 Holdings For Foundation

AUSTIN, July 15 (AP)—Valued at approximately $2,500,000, the residue of the estate of the late Will C. Hogg of Houston, son of the famed former Texas governor, James Stephen Hogg, was given the University of Texas today. It will be used to establish a lecture foundation at the school.

Stephen L. Finney of Houston, counsel of the Hogg estate, presented to the university board of regents the deed transferring title of the philanthropist's holdings. A regent resolution accepted the bequest.

The will of Hogg called for disposal of the estate residue—at the discretion of his brother and executor, Mike, counseled by his sister, Miss Ina—along one of the following three lines:

Establishment of a Brazoria county agricultural school for South Texas boys, foundation of the university distinguished lectureships or creation of a trust fund, in which brothers and sister might cooperate, for use and benefit of an foundation or benefaction for the "common good of all or any part of Texas."

Hogg, great friend of Texas education, died September 12, 1890, in Baden-Baden, Germany, at the age of 55. He was one of the leading organizers of the University of Texas Ex-Studens' association and a former regent of the school.

Of about $1,000,000 in specific bequests delivered in the years following Hogg's death, more than $600,000 was stipulated for establishment of student loan funds at all the state supported colleges and universities and at Rice institute. The present bequest comprised the residue.

The hospital reported she was "doing very well." Mrs. Knox collapsed as she was arrested yesterday on a bad check charge as she sought to cash a $75 check in a department store.

DALLAS, July 15 (AP)—District Attorney Andrew Patton said today Mrs. Lillian Knox, held in a Los Angeles hospital after she collapsed when she was arrested, would be extradited here to face five new indictments for check forgery.

SHREVEPORT, La., July 15 (AP) Postal Inspector C. A. Rose said tonight that Mrs. Lillian M. Knox, 46, of Hemphill, Tex., arrested yesterday in Los Angeles, Calif., is under federal indictment here on charges of using the mails to defraud and that steps had been taken for her return to Shreveport to face the charges.

Rose said the indictment, voted by a federal grand jury last February, charges Mrs. Knox with forgery and issuance of several worthless checks which were sent through the mails.

Old Melodies Milestones Of Romance In Film, 'Rose Of Washington Square'

Tyrone Power And Alice Faye Star In Ritz Feature

The romantic stars of "Alexander's Ragtime Band" — Tyrone Power and Alice Faye — are joined by Al Jolson, the star who sings back the past everyone wants to remember, in "Rose of Washington Square," hailed by critics as the entertainment highlight of 1939.

The picture is at the Ritz theatre today and Monday.

Featuring, as did "Alexander's Ragtime Band," the heart songs and hit songs of today and yesterday, the 20th Century-Fox film opens the gates of memory, rich with the emotion of years of beloved melody, and tells the stirring dramatic romance of Rose, a girl on the level about love, no matter how it trickles her.

These milestones of melody fill the film: "My Man," "Toot Toot Tootsie, Goodbye," "I'm Sorry I Made You Cry," "Ja-Da," "The Vamp," "The Curse of an Aching Heart," "April Showers," "Mammy," "Rose of Washington Square," by James Hanley and Ballard MacDonald, "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows," "I'm Just Wild About Harry," "California Here I Come" and "Avalon."

In addition there is Gordon and Revel's latest hit, "I Never Knew Heaven Could Speak."

The screen play by Nunnally Johnson, who also served as associate producer, opens in a popular burlesque house on Fourteenth Street in New York, just after the war. Al Jolson is a candy-butcher in the theatre, but he has great ambitions for the stage. The film traces his ascent, as well as the climb to fame of Alice Faye, a singer who wins an Amateur Night performance at the start of the story. It tells, also, the tender, heart-breaking romance between Alice and Tyrone Power, a handsome young man who unfortunately prefers to live by his wits.

Directed by Gregory Ratoff with Derryl F. Zanuck in charge of production, the film is based on an original story by John Larkin and Jerry Horwin. William Frawley, Joyce Compton and Hobart Cavanaugh are featured in the cast.

STELLAR PERSONALITIES IN MUSICAL ROMANCE

Here are scenes from "Rose of Washington Square," presenting the stars, Tyrone Power, Alice Faye and Al Jolson, as they appear in the dramatic romance playing today and Monday at the Ritz. Reminiscent in theme of the popular "Alexander's Ragtime Band," the newer production also uses melodies of a period gone by to recapture the mood and atmosphere of the times.

BOY SCOUT, WHO HAD EARNED LIFESAVING BADGE, SAVES YOUTH

DALLAS, July 15 (AP)—A 15-year-old Boy Scout who had just passed his life-saving merit badge tests towed a drowning youth forty pounds heavier than himself from a gravel pit here today.

Fighting off the frantic arms of the victim who dragged him under once, Clarence Stout, 13, piloted the unconscious form of Karl Kaiser, 16, to the bank; then stood by while an experienced life-saver brought Kaiser to with artificial respiration.

The most disastrous forest fire in U. S. history occurred in Wisconsin in 1871, burning 1,200,000 acres and claiming 1,500 lives.

William Blake And Phil Stong Will Be Heard On 'Author, Author!' Program Over KBST Monday

Fresh from their latest round of literary achievements, two notable figures in the American world of writers will be on hand next Monday when Mutual's "Author! Author!" goes through its usual sprightly paces. The program is on KBST from 7:30 to 8 p. m.

The visiting authors will be William Blake and Phil Stong. Blake's most notable effort was the penning of "The World Is Mine." The next volume in his varied career, to be published this fall, will bear the title of "The Painter and the Lady."

Stong is remembered for his colorful novel, "State Fair." He also authored "Long Lane" and will shortly present readers with his new opus, "Ivanhoe Keeler." "Author! Author!"—as usual—brings its personnel of old reliables to the microphones in the person of S. J. Perelman, master of literary ceremonies, and Ellery Queen, the writing team which has proved conclusively that two heads are better than one when it comes to producing mystery fiction.

TO THE LADIES During the past week, KBST inaugurated "Listen, Ladies," half-hour variety program especially for feminine listeners. Featuring society notes by Mary Whaley, woman's page editor of the Daily Herald, highlights from behind the mike and inside information from Hollywood by Ralph Karns, and music chosen for its morning appeal, "Listen, Ladies" will be a regular attraction on KBST from 9 to 9:30 o'clock Tuesday and Thursday mornings. 'House Of Fear' Is Story Of Backstage Murder

Latest mystery drama from the studio that has produced an outstanding share of Hollywood's super-shockers, Universal's "The House of Fear," plays today and Monday at the Queen theatre.

William Gargan, Irene Hervey, Alan Dinehart, Walter Woolf King, Dorothy Arnold and El Brendel head the cast of the film. It is the newest thriller from the studio that made the Lon Chaney pictures, "Dracula," "The Invisible Man," the three "Frankenstein" thrillers and others.

In fact, "The House of Fear," story of backstage murder and subsequent machinations of a dead actor's "ghost," was photographed on the studio's famed Phantom Stage, site of production of "The Phantom of the Opera."

Gargan is cast in the new mystery as a detective who turns producer to re-stage a play that originally proved the setting for a notorious Broadway murder.

Joe May directed and Edmund Grainger was associate producer. Screenplay is by Peter Milne from an original story by Thomas J. Fallon.

PHILLIPS TO CONFER WITH ENGINEER ON DENISON DAM JOB

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 15 (AP) Gov. Leon C. Phillips said today he would confer next Saturday with army engineers concerning the Denison dam and its effect upon Oklahoma.

However, Phillips did not indicate any change in his opposition to the project. "My position on the matter hasn't changed," he said. "I said while I was in Washington last month I would be glad to look at anything they have to show me."

The governor has actively opposed the project before congress through his attorneys, W. O. Coe of Oklahoma City and C. C. Hatched of Durant.

BROTHER TO VISIT

William F. Cushing said Saturday he expected his brother Richard W. Cushing of Washington, D. C., to visit him soon. It will be the first time he has seen his brother in 18 years and the first time Richard Cushing has visited here in 30 years. Cushing will be accompanied here by his wife and two children. He is associated with the federal power commission in Washington.

Reunion Plans Are Advanced

Plans were shaping up Saturday for the 15th annual reunion of Howard county old settlers here July 28.

B. F. McKinney, president, said that many pioneers were indicating attendance and that he looked for a large gathering at Cottonwood park, one mile east of here.

In addition to Howard county old settlers, the pioneers of Martin, Dawson, Borden and Glasscock counties are being urged to join in the event.

A new 60 foot dancing platform has been secured for the featured old fashioned dancing which will be a feature of the reunion. T. J. McKinney, vice-president, said that Earl Thompson, left-handed fiddler, was organizing a string band to play for the occasion.

The old timers were reminded to bring picnic lunches. There will be some food on hand to supplement the basket fare, but those who wish coffee must bring their own cups.

'Rose Marie' Returns To The Lyric

MacDonald And Eddy Co-Starred In Popular Musical

Considered one of the most popular of the Jeanette MacDonald-Nelson Eddy musical productions, "Rose Marie," is returned here for revival showings at the Lyric theatre today and Monday. Many fans will remember the outdoor musical extravaganza which blends the voices of two of Hollywood's ablest songsters.

Replete with haunting music, a tender love story, magnificent photography and backgrounds, "Rose Marie," still is regarded as an outstanding production.

Miss MacDonald plays the title role, an opera star who travels disguised into the wilds of the Northwest in search of her dissolute brother, a fugitive. Nelson Eddy portrays Sergeant Bruce, the "Mountie" assigned to bring the criminal to justice. Naturally the paths of the officer and the opera star cross, and complications arise as they are attracted to one another. Love and justice emerge victorious in the end.

"Rose Marie" is a pictorial work of art, having been filmed in the lake country of the Sierra Nevada, with sweeping scenes of mountains, lakes and great trees adding scope to the outdoor treatment.

Outstanding sequences, of course, are the musical numbers, with Miss MacDonald and Eddy presenting both solo and duet numbers.

Workers Advised Not To Walk Off Job

Workers in Howard county this week were advised not to walk off a job and expect to draw all their unemployment benefits. H. H. Rump, supervising examiner for this district, said, "Quitting without good cause may result in a claimant's being assessed one of the stiffest penalties of the unemployment compensation law." He explained that the penalty for quitting without good cause ranges from the loss of one benefit check to the loss of all benefit checks. "The intent of the law is to help the worker who is unemployed through no fault of his own," Rump declared, "and it is not to be confused with old age benefits or relief."

Women At Work Cashier For Refining Company

Working most of her life because she "prefers to be doing something," Mrs. C. L. Rowe for six years has been cashier at the Humble Oil Refining company here.

She started in 1933 when her husband became agent for the company and they moved here from Breckenridge. She had worked in Breckenridge as bookkeeper for Mr. Rowe and she just changed her title to cashier and went to work to learn the new business.

Mrs. Rowe was totally unfamiliar with the distributing business and says that she "didn't know what it was all about for a long time," but after six years at the job she admits she likes it a lot.

Her duties consist of making daily sales reports to the head office and listing every sale made. She takes care of collections and in her words "I'm chief flunky, I just do what there is to be done."

Mrs. Rowe says about her job that it is all detail work and since she is responsible to another office, every quart of oil must be accounted for. There can be no slipshod methods and guess work.

Mrs. Rowe, who was born at Teague, Tex., attended C. I. A. at Denton and later taught school. She has worked in a photographer's studio and kept books for her father. Always she has liked the feeling of working and dealing with figures.

The commissioned agency here services Seagraves, Seminole, Denver City and Youssou county and it is Mrs. Rowe's job to see that sales balance with what is left in stock, which requires careful work.

The one feature of her job that she sometimes regrets is that if she is away even a day or two from the office, work piles up so high that it takes her several days to catch up. She admitted with a laugh that some people accuse her of thinking no one else could handle the job but she says "of course that isn't true but I want to see the thing done right and as it is my work I want it to be correct."

Since the Rowes have taken over the agency here their business has increased as reward of persistent effort.

Mrs. Rowe, who is the mother of four daughters, still finds time to be a pal to them, hold down a difficult job, and get enormous enjoyment out of life.

Children's Play Activities Under Supervision On Broad Scale, In WPA Recreational Project Here

By RUTH MINTER

The old saying, "An idle mind is the devil's workshop" must have been recalled in the setting up of the WPA recreation projects, in which the supervised play program has been advanced on the theory that under such circumstances children are turned from wasteful idling to healthful, citizen-building enterprises. One of the recreation projects is being carried on here, under city sponsorship, with W. F. Malone as superintendent.

Playgrounds have been converted from wrecking yards and idle brush land into places where children might come to play, be entertained, and taught new crafts and arts. Private landowners have contributed the use of their lands for these playgrounds that have been made into recreational centers by the WPA workers with the assistance of the city.

With the aid of the 12 workers, Malone is in charge of the activities at the parks and playgrounds of Big Spring and the Moore community. Throughout the seasons of the year, most of the sports, games, and entertainment that young people like are offered and supervised by these workers. Golf, tennis, softball, basketball, croquet, dramatics, music, archery, games, and contests of all kinds, and the arts and crafts are enjoyed by the youngsters of the city.

Improvements Sought
Since the project was opened in this city on Aug. 27, 1937, it has progressed steadily with new plans being made all the time for improvements and better work. With the assistance of a recreational advisory council, which gives advice and offers suggestions for improvements, the recreation department is always striving for increased facilities and better work, Malone said.

The advisory council is composed of 12 men in various fields of work in the city, all interested in recreation and sports. These are Pat Murphy, Harold Akey, M. K. House, William Dawes, Arah Phillips, W. B. Morrison, W. C. Blankenship, Lola Smith, E. V. Spence, Ben Daniel, Hank Hart and Malone.

The recreation office, located in front of the health department in the city hall, has a library that is for all persons regardless of age. Although small, it is complete in the offerings of its fields. Books concerning singing games, contests, relays, grown-up party fun, games for social recreation, quiet games, stunts, story telling, dramatics, and special holiday games are offered to the public.

Music Project
On July 5, a music project was started under the guidance of Mrs. Elizabeth Brader. Children and adults go to the city auditorium on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 9 to 11:30 in the mornings to play and sing. Participants, from four years old on up, receive group lessons in guitar, violin, harmonica and voice. Children enjoy group musical games, rhythm bands, string bands, and folk games. Programs are always planned with special features for added enjoyment.

In the spring, playdays are popular at the playgrounds and leagues and contests are organized under the supervision of the workers at each playground. Regular sports are offered to the boys while girls visit with each other at jacks and rope-jumping. Champions of each playground are found, then city-wide tournaments are held to determine the city champion. During the summer parties are held with games and contests as the diversion. Some of the most popular types of events have been peanut rolling contests, tacky parties, water baseball games, picnics, miniature boat races, and pet shows.

Story Hour
A daily story hour, where youngsters might hear and tell stories, was inaugurated on June 2 at the city park. Other facilities at this park are for tennis, water games, washers, horseshoes, croquet, and quiet games such as checkers and dominoes. Group games for different ages are organized each afternoon by the worker in charge at this park, who also plans parties, picnics, and sewing clubs.

Sponsored by the American Business club the West Side park has many facilities that are not offered at the other small playgrounds. "Slides and merry-go-rounds are so popular there, we had a difficult time keeping the youngsters orderly on them when they were new," Malone declared. Also at this playground is a softball diamond, a basketball court, a volleyball court, and croquet grounds. A wading pool, built by the city, is maintained and cared for by the recreation department and offers the opportunity for water sports.

Other Playgrounds
The East Side playground, on property furnished by a private landowner, was a wrecking yard until the department saw the need for a playground in this vicinity, and chose this spot to be cleared off and made into a recreational field. A miniature five-hole golf course is the most popular activity here.

Sponsored by the Lions club, the Mexican plaza is in connection with the school. A wading pool and slides are the favorite spots here with badminton played with rubber balls and wooden paddles made by the boys closely following in popularity.

The South Side playground, converted from idle brush land loaned by private owners, has been made into a play spot of the youngsters in this part of town in less than a year. Regulation equipment is offered here along with croquet and quiet games.

At Moore, a community night is held each Friday in which young and old persons take part. Teachers in the Moore school assist with the recreational work. On these Friday nights games such as dominoes, checkers, and group activities are played.

Charity Must Return

Some answer to the problem of continuing the care and feeding of underprivileged youngsters at the pre-school nursery was given by the city commission this past week in the provision of $25 per month toward the cost of milk for these kiddies.

The word "emergency" is used advisedly, and the city commission acted with wisdom in limiting its contribution to one year. For, whether we like it or not, the time is coming when a good many of our humanitarian and social enterprises now "left up to the government" will have to be shouldered again with private donations, just as they were before the day of "relief."

The insidious thing about the principle of public relief, as has been pointed out by many an expert in the social service and governmental fields, is that it creates the attitude of depending solely upon the government agencies and weakens both the independence of the recipient and the responsibility of those who should do the helping.

It must be recognized that many of the so-called social functions that have been established since the first days of the depression are here to stay. These include old age assistance, unemployment insurance, aid to the crippled, the blind and similar unfortunate.

But there is no argument to justify the continued use of public monies to cover every case that falls within the category of charity. The case of the underprivileged children here is one in point. Already the WPA is retrenching on its expenditures for such projects, on the theory that they are primarily a local responsibility. Once such undertakings are set in motion, it has been the hope that local sponsors will be found to continue them.

Preston Groer

Washington Daybook

By REAR ADMIRAL EMORY S. LAND, Retired Chairman, United States Maritime Commission (Finch hitting for Grover during his vacation.)

WASHINGTON—In my state of Wyoming a cat-man should not allow himself to be without two essential weapons: a gun and a horse.

Few persons will question the need of a gun. The gun protects the herd against predatory animals. The horse, on the other hand, is not ordinarily considered a weapon. To most of us a horse is a prosaic, everyday beast of burden whose value lies solely in the fact that he can carry a cowhand around the range and to town and back on Saturday night.

But the horse is a vital part of the cowhand's program for defending and protecting the herd. Without the horse, the gun would be valueless. Without the horse, the cowhand could not get within range of the mountain lion.

In the protection of the United States against potential or actual foreign marauders, the merchant fleet is a prosaic, familiar beast of burden that becomes indispensable.

The maritime commission, at the direction of Congress, is now engaged in strengthening the American merchant fleet.

Defensive measures are not always military. An efficient merchant fleet has an even greater defensive value in making it possible for this country to sell its goods abroad and to bring in the goods of other nations.

The United States needs sugar and rubber, coffee and tin, and other foreign products. Large sections of our country experience prosperity only if their product can be sold abroad. The Merchant Marine Act of 1920, which created the maritime commission, set up as one of the prime policies for the commission the fostering of our export and import trade.

The Thrill That Comes Once In A Lifetime

FOUR BLIND DATES.

By Edwin Rutt

Chapter 35 RETURN OF THE NATIVE. Though mythology does not believe the point, it is conceivable that at the moment when the returning Ulysses crossed his threshold to find a bevy of lounge liards making time with the fair Penelope, a waxy silence settled over the palace. Conversation, indubitably, stopped abruptly; wise crack died on shocked lip; lutes were muted. For it is moments like these that breed silence.

For two awful moments Richard Craftonbury Adams glowered at the assemblage. Then he folded his arms and spoke. "What the devil's going on here?" quoth Richard Craftonbury.

No one seemed prepared to reply to this simple inquiry. Richard Craftonbury tried exhortatory measures. "Well, speak up, dammit," he said. "Speak up, somebody!" As he said it, he peered at the group and discovered two individuals with whom he had a nodding acquaintance. They were Van Harkness and Jumbo Cutler. He picked on Van. "Ha! You, Harkness! What does this mean?"

"Er—ugh..." began Van and stopped, finding himself superseded by someone possessed of a better gift of language. It was, surprisingly enough, Miss Dorothy South. For some seconds Miss South had been studying Richard Craftonbury. Now she had him categorized. He seemed to her the incarnation of a breed with which she had had a world of experience, namely, the tired business man. He looked like a harassed sugar daddy. And, such being the case, she held it in no awe whatsoever. She addressed him as she was wont to address sugar daddies.

"Hello, Pops," she said. "Come on in. The water's fine." Richard Craftonbury jumped. "Eh?" he ejaculated. "I said oil up the joints and let's you and me touch off a shumba. You look as if you could bend a wicked ankle, Pops."

"That's okay, Pops," Miss South said. "Come on over and sit by me and let's let our hair down." On the point of obeying this command Richard Craftonbury was diverted by a slight noise behind him. Jonathan Harland, was coming along the hall conveying a most attractive young woman.

"You young rascalion!" Spiritually, Richard Craftonbury was over on the divan letting down his hair with Miss Dorothy South. But, corporeally, he remained in the doorway of the living-room. Now that he had culled a speaking acquaintance with Miss South he was willing to join the party. But, under the circumstances, it was a point of honor with him to bawl somebody out before becoming a member of it. And here, made to order, was his nephew Jonathan. He took a breath and began.

"You young rascalion," he thundered. Tacks halted, an arm around Packy. "U-uncle D-Dick," he stammered, mouth agape. He had thought Uncle Dick safe in Europe. Richard Craftonbury whipped around a cigar. He could have done better when champing on something.

"Well," he snapped, "speak up. Don't stand there like a driveling idiot. Explain this! I demand an explanation of this. I come home from Europe for peace and quiet and what do I find? What do I find? Hey? A brawl. A shambles going on in my house. A blowout, a jamboree and every light in the place blazing." He moved to the table and pounded it. He could enunciate better when pounding. "I won't have it, I tell you, I WON'T HAVE IT."

Under this barrage Jonathan Harland Adams wilted like a rose in the desert. "Nothing but a little party," he muttered sheepishly. "Party? Ha!" Richard Craftonbury's cigar bobbed up and down like a light on rough water. "I'll knock your party into a cocked hat. Mr. Adams had not the slightest intention of dispersing the gathering but, at this point, he thought it strengthened his position to avow such. "Entering my house, tearing up my living-room, playing my radio. I ought to have the law on you. Dammit, I will have the law on you. I... Ouch!"

Nothing she could have suggested would have been better calculated to mollify Richard Craftonbury. He loved exhibiting the sumptuousness of Saltair Acres. "All right," he said. "Let's leave these caterwauling idiots." They crossed the room and entered the library.

"This is the library," Richard Craftonbury announced. "I'll remember," said Miss South. "I won't speak above a whisper." "Five thousand volumes here," pursued Richard Craftonbury waving his hand.

The other shows you the power of the movies. A cop in Central Park was flabbergasted to find two youngsters with an axe. They were preparing to chop down a tree. They were going to build a log cabin, they said, like the one they had seen in the movies. Then they planned to set out a trap line and sell their pelts to the Hudson Bay company. At that, they might have had better success than most people realize. Though this is a great city, Central Park is alive with game. For some reason animals and fowl lose their timidity in the city. Wild ducks abound on the reservoir. Squirrel, coon, woodchuck, rabbits, muskrat, and similar small game are found in abundance.

In case you are wondering how the log cabin is progressing, the young trappers were disheartened. Their mothers promised that no more axes would be left within their reach. However, they are to have a real taste of roughing it. The boys have been invited to spend two weeks in a real log cabin in the Adirondacks. If they hadn't seen that movie, and if they hadn't found that axe, they might have spent the whole summer in Manhattan, learning nothing from nature.

On a subway the other evening I saw five girls reading "Grapes of Wrath." Not together. They weren't even acquainted. But all had copies on this very odd book which everyone is reading. You see hundreds of people reading on subways in New York. Often that is the only time, and place they have to read. The subway is their library and the commutation hour their time of reading. The fact that all these people were reading the same book is not necessarily an indication that it is the most popular book of the moment. It indicates that these young ladies patronize lending libraries, and these libraries have the same books at the same time.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

HOLLYWOOD—The circus came to town, a circus unlike any you've ever seen before. It set up for business on one of M-G-M's back lots, and it was different from all other circuses because money wouldn't buy your way in; you had to have a pass.

Very serious business, this circus; a complete one assembled for the Marx brothers to have "A Day at the Circus." Mammoth elephants, waiting in line for the camera, swaying rhythmically in the way of elephants; clowns in make-up and clownish habiliments, and balloon-vendors; bareback riders in lights and fluffy ruffles; clowns and proud white beauties called horses, tants flying pennants, and midgets strolling and seeming to strut, in the way of midgets; acrobats and—is it acrobates, is a Billy Rose? Anyway, ladies of the trapeze and tight wire, and one who walks upside down on a platform under the big top.

The same, and somehow different. What has happened to the circuses that used to tour the world each summer, their coming an event and a celebration in towns small and large?

What's the matter with the circus, anyway? I asked S. L. Cronin, the veteran circus man who is in charge of all this for the picture. Circus manager, he started out in the "backyard" of the big tops, rose to bull-hand, came to be manager of one of the biggest, now defunct like the rest.

What's the matter with the circus? "It's 20 years behind the times," said Cronin, "for one thing. And the nut's too big—that runs about $4,000 to $4,500 a day. The circus needs streamlining. To fit the modern taste. Streamlining in tents, in wagons, in presentation. Take a look about here. This circus we've got here would fill the bill—if it could be moved. It could be, at that, but not for one-night stands. Maybe for one-week stands, though. Some day, maybe next year, I'm going to try to take a circus out. Take a look around. This is a streamlined circus. The wagons—streamlined, and the tents. The big top is round—only one pole, in the center. Audience can see everything. And the seats—no more benches, but comfortable individual chairs. See that managerie: the cages are set in frames typifying the native homes of the different animals. Showmanship. And neon lights. All modern, all new ideas. That's what's the matter with the circus. Twenty years behind the times."

But the acts, Mr. Cronin? Anything streamlined there? How about the clowns? Are they still up to the same old tricks? Maybe the kids who hang on the loud-speakers and follow gang-busting, shoot-em-up radio serials are too durned sophisticated to pop their eyes at clowns?

"The clowns," said Cronin, "rate according to the new stuff they think up. Doubt if any circus could get together a company like this here. Takes a movie studio. We've got top acts, headliners—and they're getting real money. Might think circus people would be glad to work for anything, circus business being so slow nowadays, but these people are getting top money, same as always. Yes, sir, the circus is coming back—but only when it gets itself streamlined."

Neon signs, chromium trim, up-to-date clowns, and no pink lemonade. (Pink lemonade is long gone because of sanitary regulations.) It might be a big hit, that way, but would it be a circus? Would it be the sort of thing the kids would get up before daylight for, just to see the cars rumble in and unload? You can bet your life it would! That's what Cronin says, anyway.

George Tucker

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—Holidays in New York are dreary affairs. No place in the world can be so lonesome as a great city on a summer holiday. Those who remain in town are out in the ball stadiums, in the theatres, or swimming. Other flee to the country. The streets have that pestilence-ridden look, as if men had hurried and with one accord left them forever. There is an emptiness, and a dry, hollow quality of desertion that is depressing. For once there is little or no traffic. The taxicabs crawl past you in puzzled wonderment. People talk in monotonous. Even the pigeons forget to hover around the squares. The whole city seems in a daze. And maybe it is. Geared to hurry and nerve-wracking speed, the sweet lassitude of a summer's holiday is too much for it. It's like returning to a quiet crossroad store after four years in the trenches.

Two strange things happened in New York courts the other day that stunned everybody. First, a young man charged with vagrancy suddenly socked a detective and escaped—he did it with the judge and everybody looking right at him. They still haven't found him, and it will be a good thing for him if that detective never catches him.

The other shows you the power of the movies. A cop in Central Park was flabbergasted to find two youngsters with an axe. They were preparing to chop down a tree. They were going to build a log cabin, they said, like the one they had seen in the movies. Then they planned to set out a trap line and sell their pelts to the Hudson Bay company. The origin of nicknames is often interesting. Take, for instance, the name of a Harlem number writer, who, despite the worthy and effective efforts of Mr. Dewey, Police Commissioner Valentine and other officials, continues to do a pretty substantial business in and around his home sector. His nickname is "Gittie." It seems that, among the numbers he has sold, the percentage of winners is unusually high. Clothing, fuel and groceries have been bought by Harlemites with the money won from Gittie's numbers. In fact, this writer socked earned the reputation of being a bearer of gifts. Hence, that descriptive and unique nickname, Gittie.

Insane Care Hampered By Fund Veto

Insane care hampered by fund veto. Dallas radio station gains power increase.

DALLAS, July 15 (SpI)—Dedication day for the new 60 KW transmitter of KRLLD, Dallas, will be Sunday. The power increase will make Dallas one of the four cities in the United States having two 50,000-watt transmitters, the others being New York, Chicago and Los Angeles.

The station, owned and operated by the Daily Times Herald, was first opened in 1926 by Edwin J. Kiest, owner and publisher of the Herald, and his associates. The newspaper assumed full ownership of KRLLD the following year. That same year it joined the network of the newly-organized Columbia Broadcasting System, starting a relationship that has been maintained for twelve years.

The high spot of the day's schedule will be the station's own dedicatory program at 6:30 p. m. (CST). Notables who will appear on this special broadcast are Edwin J. Kiest, W. Lee O'Daniel, governor of Texas; Woodall Rodgers, mayor of Dallas; J. E. Adoue, president of the Dallas chamber of commerce; and Tom Gooch, president of the KRLLD corporation and editor-in-chief of the Times Herald.

Insect pests are estimated to rule about 10 per cent of the world's potential food supply each year.

Roden Steadies Late To Snare Junior Title

By HANK HART
Settling down to serious business after exhibiting a spotty game on the front nine, Bill Roden, a carrot top from Glen Rose, thumped Jack Johnson, San Angelo, 4 and 2, in the finals of the West Texas Junior tournament here Saturday afternoon, succeeding the vanquished as the monarch.

Roden had plenty of trouble in negotiating the first nine but made the turn one up despite a putter that went completely sour.

His game picked up with experience on the back nine, however, and he methodically put an end to the duel.

Both had 45's on the front nine with the red head pulling away on seven after Johnson had rallied to tie the count on the short sixth. Roden birdied the first two holes and played safely the 375-yard No. three to jump in front with a two hole advantage only to have the defending champion come to life on the fourth. The Glen Rose ace was in plenty of trouble on four, gaining the ditch on his second wood shot, which was fired from the rough. His attempt at recovery failed miserably, the ball rebounding after striking a rock and he finally finished with a nasty six. Johnson had had his troubles but carried over the ditch on his second wood shot and he played easily to win.

Par fives enabled the pair to split the honors on the "dog-leg" five but Johnson's tee shot on six screwed a foot from the cup and, after Roden had failed miserably to find the green with his second shot, the hole was conceded.

On the long seventh Roden's 265-yard drive was down the middle, some ten yards farther than Johnson who failed to find the fairway. Roden's second shot was wide to the right with Johnson going in the opposite direction. Jack's two putt after finally getting to the green cost him as Red succeeded in running down a five footer.

Johnson's tee shots were erratic on the last two holes but he brought a steady short game into play to fight the favorite on even terms. Bad greed work brought each bogey on the stretch.

Roden roared away after the turn with a nicely played par to gain a hole when Johnson two putted but he promptly lost it in an inning later when Johnson holed out from the edge of the green after both were on in two.

After halving the 365-yard, par four 13th in standard figures, Roden's short game paid off on 15 when he bowled his tee shot down the middle, fired away to the frog hair with two other tremendous wood shots to the frog hair, then played it safe for a par. Johnson matched him all the way until he got on the green but there he two putted.

With a two hole advantage safely pocketed Roden proceeded to add to it by producing another par on 14 as Johnson lost his drive in the parallel ditch and was penalized.

Fifteen was halved with pars as Roden went dormie three and Johnson offered his hand as the red head exploded with a par on the sixteenth for a stroke better than the Angliolan's best.

Their scores:
Roden out 354 655 536-42
Johnson out 346 552 636-42
Par out 444 453 444-38

Roden in 344 545 4
Johnson in 454 635 5
Par in 344 545 4

Roden had reached the last round by virtue of a 2 and 1 morning victory over Josh Billings, Sweetwater, Friday he disposed of Junior Yates, Abilene, medalist, 3 and 2, and Dale Young, Big Spring, 5 and 4.

Johnson defeated Harry Sandoz, Midland, 6 and 4, J. L. Hall, San Angelo, one up, and Curley Bowman, Plainview, one up, to earn the right at Roden.

Bobby Decker Leads Locals To 23-10 Win

Victory Enables Rego men To Stay In First Place In Standings

AMARILLO, July 15 — A 23-10 victory scored over the Amarillo Gold Sox here Friday night enabled the Big Spring Barons to break even on their six game road trip and go home in first place in WT-NM league standings.

A blistering 20-hit attack came at the expense of four Amarillo twirlers with Don Thomas receiving credit for the reversal.

Edison Bahr took the rubber for the Big Springers, surrendering 14 base blows. Outside of a bad seventh round, when the Sox got to him for four runs, he was usually effective.

Bobby Decker paced the Barons' mace assault with a triple and four singles while every player in the lineup, including Bahr, collected at least two blows.

The Big Springers counted four times in the initial half, chasing Thomas from the mound. The righthander could retire but one man before Phil Margavio took over and was routed in the second when the Barons steamed up with a six-run assault. His successor was Rube Conroy who finally gave way to Bus Dorman in the sixth.

The victory enabled the L77 Yankees to gain a full game on Lubbock, now closest in pursuit pulling a game and a half in front of the Hubbers. The defeat dropped

Nelson's Game Succumbs Before Picard's Attack In PGA Tourney Finals

Ten Foot Putt On 37th Gives Henry Edge
By BILL BONI
NEW YORK, July 15 (AP)—Handsome Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., showed more fight than an aroused J. Louis and a better finishing kick than Glenn Cunningham, left loose with all he had on the closing holes today to beat U. S. Open Champion Byron Nelson, 1 up in 37 holes, and win the National P.G.A. golf championship.

Before a gallery of 1500 that saw one of the toughest yet one of the friendliest finals in the history of the professional tournament, Picard won with two booming tee shots and two fine putts that gave him birdies on the 36th and 37th holes. The lanky stylist had the shots when he needed them and the courage to make them, and even Babe Ruth never came through better in "the clutch."

Picard, whose victory was worth $1,100 and a place on the U. S. Ryder Cup team that will meet the British in Florida in November, turned the tide of battle by coming out of a trap and canning a 25-foot putt to save a half at the 34th hole. That left him 1 down with two holes to play.

The 35th, a short one, was halved in par 3's and Nelson, who had played sensational golf all day, was within one hole—one shot, in fact—of becoming the second man in American golf history to win the Open and the P.G.A. in the same year.

Drops Putt
Nelson putted and his ball went wide. Still Picard had to sink his putt to square the match. The gallery hushed, Picard sighted along the line, tapped the ball, and it dropped in for a birdie 3.

They went to the 37th, for the first extra-hole since Denny Shute had to go 37 holes to down Jug McSpaden in 1927, and the fourth in the tournament's history. This time it was Picard's honor off the tee, and again the big six-footer gave it all he had. There was a slight slice on it, though, and the ball dropped into a group of galleryites lining the fairway, headed for a sand trap, but instead caromed off a news reel truck.

Special Ruling
To give Henry room to play his approach, Nelson's dust ball split the middle of the fairway—the truck backed up. As it did so, one wheel rolled over Picard's ball and pushed it down into the dirt. They had to call for a special ruling and Henry was informed he had the right to pick it up and drop it back over his shoulder.

Meanwhile, Nelson had played his approach six feet from the line. Picard looked at that, took out his number 8 iron, and put his own ball within 10 feet of the flag.

Henry studied that putt carefully. He walked up the line to the cup and back again. He knelt down to study the conformation of the green, something he rarely does. Then he hit it and, with never a wave from its proper line, the ball went straight for the cup.

That left Byron squarely on the spot but, in the friendly atmosphere that had surrounded the entire match, he looked the putt over, then turned to the gallery and said:

"Would anyone like to putt this ball for me?"

With that, he stroked the ball. It rolled up, then veered wide of the hole.

to the Chrysler and Ape Cobelli. And even now the Ape was lurking beneath the porch upon which it opened, nursing his blackjack. As this thought crossed her mind, Richard Craftonbury began steering her toward the French doors. "I'll show you around outside first," he decreed.

"No," she said quickly. "Let's not go out this way."

Richard Craftonbury regarded her.

"Why not?" he wanted to know. "It's had luck going out of side doors."

"Rubbish!" His grip tightened on her arm.

Still Miss South protested. "The grass is wet," she said. "It ruins my slippers."

With his free hand Richard Craftonbury swung open the French doors.

"Nonsense!" he said. "Dry as a bone out."

You can't buck an oil tycoon and get anywhere and Miss South should have known it. Inexorably Mr. Adams did what out on the porch.

"Now from here," he explained, "you can get an unobstructed view of the Sound."

Miss South shivered. "It's cold," she said.

"Cold? Ridiculous. It's stifling tonight. What you need is a good brisk walk." He started down the steps, dragging Miss South with him.

She made a last futile protest. "B—but I—I don't want to go down there," she insisted, her voice rising to the proportions of a low scream.

The blood of Mr. Adams, however, was up. He was bent upon stalking down his estate and there was no stopping him.

Wildcat Deep Test Slated Near Roscoe

ABILENE, July 15—Staking of a Nolan county wildcat near Roscoe by Plymouth Oil company and indicated opening of a new Caddo lime pool in western Stephens county...

The Pittsburgh firm staked location for the rotary deep project—slated to test all known producing horizons in this area to the Ordovician east of Roscoe...

Near the Shackelford county line in Stephens county, Wittmer Oil & Gas Properties of Pittsburgh and Knight & Ewing of Brackenridge No. 1 E. D. Loving was underdraining six-inch casing to test a favorable showing of oil and gas in the Caddo deep lime at 3,470 feet.

Originally projected to the Ellenburger, the wildcat is east of the DeLafosse ranch properties where several deep tests were drilled in recent years by Humble Oil & Refining company and Pitzer & West...

Third producer and north extension for the northwestern Jones county Appaling pool was completed on a railroad commission gauge flowing 183 barrels of oil in 24 hours.

Gap between the eastern Jones county Lewis and Steffens fields was cut to less than half a mile with an indicated output producer in the Fain-McGaha Oil corporation of Wichita Falls No. 1 H. W. Ferguson et al. The test, drilled with rotary, took saturation at 1,850-93 feet and cemented casing at 1,820 feet.

The same firm earlier in the week had completed a one-location east extension on the Shaheen lease, with No. 6 Ann Shaheen flowing 263 barrels of oil in 11 hours and 45 minutes.

The Steffens pool was given a quarter mile extension with the Sandy Ridge Oil corporation No. 1 W. J. Alton flowing 257 barrels of oil in 24 hours through a 20-64-inch choke natural. The well had two feet of lime pay, the Flippen, from 1,901 to 1,903 feet.

West extension of the Shackelford county Ivy field was promised again by the Alvord Oil company of Dallas No. 2 E. P. Swenson, two locations west of the recently completed No. 1 Swenson. The test had cored oil saturation at 3,203-05 feet, total depth, before running casing. It is in section 108-BBB&C survey.

Road Bond Statute To Make Million Dollars Available

46 Counties To Share In Nearly That Amount Under Terms Of Bill

AUSTIN, July 15—Forty-six West Texas counties this week became entitled to almost a million dollars from the county and road district fund's first available surplus as the result of Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel's approval of the road bond assumption bill.

The bill provides for assumption by the state of all county bonds outstanding against roads which have become a part of the state highway system. These bonds are to be paid, as since 1922, with revenue from one cent of the four-cent state gasoline tax.

How may the counties use this money? First, they are required to retire bonds or warrants issued to acquire rights of way for state designated highways.

Second, commissioners courts may use the remaining funds for retirement of local road indebtedness and thereby reduce the tax rate for this purpose, or they may use the money to build new lateral roads.

Following is a tabulation of 1) reimbursements to be made by the state, less seven or eight per cent, to the various West Texas counties, and 2) estimated grants over the next 25 years for local purposes:

Table with columns: County Name, Reimbursements, Estimated Grants. Total Over $963,084.

Travelers on ancient highways were often protected by a "bleating" placed upon the road and respected by persons dwelling along the route.

YOAKUM, SCURRY FIELDS EXPAND

Another Test Completed In Scurry For 182 Barrels Following Shot

SAN ANGELO, July 15—Further closing of the gap between the Denver and Walker pools in Yoakum county, a high Yates sand top in an outpost to the southwest extension to the Bennett field in Yoakum and a half mile northeast extension to the rapidly developing Sharon West Texas oil developments this week.

H. C. Wheeler No. 1 Sims, extending the Sharon pool in Scurry county one-half mile northeast, pumped 182 barrels of oil in 24 hours at 2,509 feet, having been shot with 690 grains. It is 2,310 feet from the north and east lines of section 141-97-H&TC.

Broadening of the north end of the Foster field in Ector county was indicated, the Dune pool on University land in eastern Crane county registered a record well and a test one-half mile northwest of the Permian lime discovery in Pecos county four miles west of the Masterson pool struck gas and oil.

Allowables in the Duggan pool in southeastern Cochran county and the Slaughter field in southeastern Hockley county were raised from 450 to 1,850 and from 1,851 to 4,800 barrels daily, respectively, to supply the Motor Fuels Corp., new refinery at Levelland. Week-end shut-downs were lifted in the Iatan, East Howard, Bryson and Howard Glascock fields to supply market demand and enable the Cosden refinery at Big Spring to fulfill contracts.

Mid-Continent No. 1 J. G. Comer, in the northeast quarter of section 760, topped the Yates sand at 3,120 feet, 26 feet higher than in Mabee No. 1 Mabee, southwest extension to the Bennett field, and drilled ahead below 4,070 in anhydrite Shell No. 1 Waples-Platter, 1 3-4 mile northeast outpost to the Bennett field, completed on the pump at 5,312 feet early in June for 162 barrels of oil and 75 barrels of water in 24 hours, plugged back to 5,305 and perforated the formation. In 24 hours it pumped 178 barrels of fluid, cut by basic sediment and water an average of 52 per cent. Treating continued.

Texas No. 7-D Mallett, between the main part of the Slaughter field in Hockley county and Texaco No. 1-C Mallett, a southwest extension, swabbed 75 barrels of oil in 12 hours naturally at 5,033 feet. Farther east, Honolulu No. 1-10 Mallett was swabbing after treating with 1,500 gallons of acid at a plugged back depth of 5,022 feet.

Western States No. 2 Humble-Coons, west outpost to the most southeasterly well in the field, showed the first oil and gas at 4,950 and drilled ahead below 4,967 in lime. Richmond, Hanagan and others No. 1 Stanolind-University, wildcat in the southeast corner of Andrews county, in section 25-12-U, was abandoned at 5,005 feet. Magnolia No. 1 Leta Jones, half-mile north.

For the first time in 10 years, the Dixie Furnace Co. this week will stage a major store-wide sale. Cotton Envisioned As Insulating Material For Building Purposes

AUSTIN, July 15 (AP)—Possible widespread use of cotton as an insulating material in construction of homes, office buildings and other structures was envisioned today by Agriculture Commissioner J. E. McDonald.

McDonald said one Texas manufacturer had developed a process of mixing medium staples and linters, fireproofing the mixture and placing it in thick mats between inner and outer walls of buildings.

He added the federal government, after subjecting the product to laboratory tests, had placed orders for use in construction. The processors claim, he said, the average cost of insulating a six room residence would be $125.

"It is my opinion this use has merits from the standpoint of consumption than all other new uses that have come to light in recent years," the commissioner added.

The quest for utilization of cotton of which there is a tremendous surplus had led to many experiments. Some states, including Texas, use cotton mats for curing concrete. McDonald said irrigation ditches and sides of highway cuts have been lined with cotton fabrics which serve satisfactorily against erosion.

The Texas legislature recently appropriated $10,000 as an award for any Texas inventor of a new use by which consumption would be increased at least 300,000 bales annually.

Proposal May Cut Pensions

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—The average old-age pensioner in Southern states faced a threat today that his monthly check would be cut to $4.90—if a senate amendment to the social security act prevails.

Under it there would be no federal contributions to the needy aged after Jan. 1, 1941, unless the state in which the pensioner lived provided at least $10 a month per pensioner.

Only 20 states qualify under such a requirement. Unless the state provided more money, no Southern beneficiary would be entitled to federal payments.

The average recipient in a dozen Southern states now gets $9.50 a month, half contributed by the government and half by the state. Only the state's half would be left for him if the senate amendment prevailed.

For any state which did provide the $10, the federal government would put up $15, making the total monthly payment of $25.

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—Representative Poage (D-Tex.) estimated today that if senate amendments were retained in the measure liberalizing the social security act, Texas would be faced with an increased monthly outlay of $1,000,000.

This would be the amount necessary, he said, for the state to continue to meet its obligations and to receive old age pension funds from the federal government under the senate measure.

The U.S.S. Lexington and U.S.S. Saratoga, aircraft carriers, have the most powerful engines ever installed in warships.

Lee Harris Tops Hurlers, Marek's 11 Wins Lead

Lee Harris, Lubbock righthander, led hurlers working in ten games or more during the first half of the West Texas-New Mexico league, winning eight decisions with only one reversal.

Abilene's Clem Hausmann got a late start but turned in three straight victories, compiling the low earned run average of 1.29 for the 27 innings he toiled. George Amthor of the Hubbers whiffed 109 batters to lead Bus Dorman, Amarillo wronghanders, by three.

For regulars, Mel Kramer of Lubbock turned in the best earned run average at 2.45. His teammate, Clovis Eirdwell, was close behind at 2.50 and Dorman had 2.76.
