Toys now sought in Yule campaign

The annual Christmas Toys For Tots drive has begun in Snyder and, for the second year in a row, Sharyon Bond is heading up the effort.

Applications will be accepted starting three weeks before Christmas and toys will be distributed on Dec. 21 and 22, she said.

Volunteers have secured the old newspaper office at 2103 25th St. as a headquarters and Bond said they are currently in the process of readying the building for the annual toy drive.

Toys are being accepted now and can be delivered to any of several locations including the old newspaper office. Other locations include the central fire station at Hidetown Drive and 27th St. and Ben Wilson Supply at 1507 25th St., which has a large box behind it for collecting toys.

Goodfellows seek out needy

The 1985 Snyder Goodfellows Christmas program has officially begun with the publication of the assistance application on page 2 of this paper.

The Goodfellows program — sponsored over the past several years by the Snyder Kiwanis Club — provides aid to needy local families by providing boxes of food given out just prior to the Christmas holiday.

The annual fund drive to defray costs of food purchased for distribution will begin the first week in December with volunteers stationed in all three local banks to take cash donations.

The annual public schools canned goods drive — in which students are asked to donate individual cans of food for distribution — will also begin shortly after the first of December.

Families in need of assistance are asked to fill out the application form included in the SDN and to mail it before Dec. 5 to Goodfellows, P.O. Box 676, Snyder, Tx., 79459.

The form will be repeated in future editions of the SDN.

Information asked on the form will be used to determine eligibility and the amount of food to be provided for each family.

The applications will be reviewed by a screening committee. Those who qualify will be mailed acceptance cards no later than the second week in December.

Those accepted for the program will then be able to redeem

U.S.-Soviet accord may be possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is expected to announce to the nation tonight completion of a new agreement with the Soviet Union providing for broader exchanges of culture, students and scientists.

In a nationally broadcast address at 8 p.m. EST, Reagan also was likely to outline his hopes for success at next week's summit meeting with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

State Department officials said after a year and a half of negotiation, an "umbrella framework" for the exchange agreement had been worked out through emissaries in Moscow and Washington. It replaces an agreement suspended in 1980 to punish the Soviet Union for sending more than 100,000 troops into Afghanistan the year before.

Reagan and Gorbachev could sign the new accord when they sit down together in Geneva, Switzerland, next Tuesday and Wednesday, said the State Department officials, who insisted on anonymity.

"There are a few dots and dashes remaining, but they should not present a problem," one of the officials told The Associated Press Wednesday night.

"It's good news. It's a gain," the official said. "It can yield a lot of understanding."

Meanwhile, The New York Times reported in today's editions that the two nations will announce at the summit that they have agreed to combine efforts to halt the spread of chemical weapons.

Although the cultural exchange agreement was suspended after the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan, there have been cultural exchanges between the two superpowers, on a case-by-case basis. Negotiations on the new, formal agreement picked up over the last six months, with most of the work being done in Moscow, the State Department official said.

But despite the breakthrough, U.S. summit expectations remain modest.

Dish owners face future scrambling

By Shirley A. Gorman
SDN News Editor

On Jan. 15, 1986, Home Box Office, Inc. will begin scrambling its HBO and Cinemax pay-TV services 24 hours a day — making it the first satellite programmer to take this step.

The change will affect the estimated 90,861 owners of home satellite systems (TVROs) in Texas.

These owners still will be able to adapt their equipment to receive these channels, but the ability to do this will not come cheaply.

Six other pay TV services have expressed an interest in scrambling their signal, but thus far only Showtime/The Movie Channel has made a committment to do so.

The other pay TV services (CNN I and II, MTV, ESPN and the USA Network) have made no commitment to purchase the necessary equipment, according to Christopher J. Schultheiss, editor and publisher of "STV," a magazine for owners of satellite systems.

Schultheiss said the TVRO industry has always been willing to pay a reasonable fee to entities such as HBO Inc., but he said the prices being quoted to satellite owners have them "up in arms." In fact, some 2,000 TVRO owners marched on Washington D.C. last week to protest the higher prices, Schultheiss said.

For instance, HBO, Inc. proposes to charge home satellite owners $12.95 per month for either HBO or Cinemax while cable subscribers pay $9.95. A package deal for both HBO and Cinemax is available for $19.95.

CNN 1/CNN Headline proposes to charge satellite owners $25 per year while cable companies pay only $2.16. ESPN would charge $19.95 and $1.20 per year for satellite owners and cable companies, respectively. These figures were quoted from the October issue of "STV."

According to Schultheiss, "STV" recently conducted a survey in which 14,000 people responded to the question "Would you subscribe to a scrambled channel?" Ninety-one percent of those sending in questionnaires indicated they would not.

A second question asked was "Which programs would you subscribe to?" Of those responding to the survey, 22.2 percent said they would subscribe to CNN I and II; HBO (15.7 percent); Cinemax, (13.8 percent); ESPN, (27.7 percent); USA, (12 percent); and MTV, (8.3 percent).

'Music, fun' slated at United Way end

With donations approaching 85 percent, United Way officials said they are looking toward Saturday's grand finale at Shakey's Pizza as the last public fund raiser of the 1985 campaign.

"And we plan to go out like we came in," said Drive Chairman Mike Banta, "with music, fun and good feelings," a reference to the Jamboree at the courthouse bandstand which kicked off this year's $100,000 effort.

Owners of Shakey's have volunteered to donate one-half of their gross receipts at the restaurant Saturday to the United Way effort.

"If you're planning to eat out Saturday, we'd encourage you to come by," Banta said. "We're still working and we expect to reach $100,000."

As an incentive, two local country and western bands will be providing music during both the noon and evening meal times. During the afternoon, United Way volunteers will also be giving away free helium balloons to the kids.

The entertainment will be from 11:30 a.m. until 1 p.m. and again from 5:30 until 7 p.m. During the noon hour, music will be provided by the Jimmy (Hoss) Clayton band and during the evening by Hank Davis and the Westerners.

Band members who will be playing during the day include Jack Denman, Aubrey Wilson, G.W. Kitchens, E.L. Hill, Gary Sisson, D.W. McCommas, Dixie Rogers, Joe Vincent, J.C. Burton and Hank Davis.

United Way officials noted Wednesday that many campaign packets are still out and they expect these to be coming in through December.

"We probably won't meet again until next month some time," Banta said. "At that time we'll take a final count toward our $100,000 goal this year."

In addition to Banta, division chairmen for this year's effort have been: Pacesetters, Don Newbury; Special Contributions, Rex Robinson; Oil and Industry, John Daniel and Bill Jacobi; Royalty Owners, Lyle Deffebach; Commercial, Eddie Johnson, Ralph Williamson, Jeff Lowrance and Blanche Chisum; Professional, Wilma Dillard and Bid Cooper; Public Employees, Polly Underwood and Fran Farmer; Rural, Jay Martin; and National, Mort Ewing.

United Way dollars go toward eight agencies. In addition, this year the campaign will make two special contributions to Noah Project of Snyder, a haven for abused women and their children; and SCOOP, a long term care facility of neglected teenage girls.

Agencies aided by United Way include the Boys Club, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Oilpatch Foster Parents, Snyder Child Day Care Center, West Texas Rehabilitation, Red Cross and Salvation Army.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Experience is being able to say you don't know in such a way that people don't know you don't know."

It's been an almost perfect fall. Those temps hovering around the freezing mark indicate that nice time of year is about to be replaced by those dreaded cold months.

With all the moisture in 1985, fall flowers have been especially abundant–and that's another reason we hate to see cold weather come.

Carl Kunkel, former West Texas Bank employee who lives at 2902 37th, has one of the best crop of roses we've seen. Carl sent some roses to the office this week. They are almost six inches in diameter and the largest we've seen.

The best thing about winter is spring and Carl Kunkel's flowers are sure to follow.

Henry Clark, who retired earlier this year as manager of Texas Electric, may be able to tell you the season of the year, but don't ask him the time of day.

Clark looked forward to retirement for many months, and we've never seen a guy adjust to full-time golf any better than Henry.

Clark is so dedicated to doing nothing that he has taken his wrist watch and put it away. Henry says he doesn't need to know the time, and if something important comes along, wife Virginia will surely inform him.

"She did that when I wore a watch."

They're still working to simplify the tax code. Skipper Joyce says they ought to consider replacing the American Eagle emblem with a sprig of mistletoe.

In Brief

Extend debt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House today approved and sent to President Reagan a bill temporarily refilling the Treasury's empty coffers with borrowed money, apparently averting a government financial crisis tomorrow.

The House, by voice vote and without debate, accepted the Senate's version of a short-term increase in the government's debt limit.

The bill would avoid potential embarrassment for the president as he leaves for his summit with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev. Reagan has indicated through a spokesman he will sign the legislation.

Volcano blast

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — A volcano in western Colombia erupted twice triggering floods and mud flows that hit a town of 50,000 before dawn today, Colombian radio stations reported. Thousands were feared killed.

Officials said Armero, a town about 30 miles from the volcano and 105 miles northwest of Bogota, was inundated by mud that was swept down the Langunilla River after the eruption of the 15,500-foot high volcano, Nevado del Ruiz.

Clifton High principal pleading 'not guilty'

MERIDIAN, Texas (AP) — Clifton High School Principal Joe Bryan has pleaded innocent to a charge that he shot and killed his elementary school teacher wife.

Bryan made the plea Wednesday at an arrignment before District Judge James Morgan.

Bryan has been indicted by a grand jury on a charge of murder in the Oct. 15 shooting death of Mickey Bryan, a fourth grade teacher, at their home here.

Defense lawyers Charles McDonald and Lynn Malone, both of Waco, protested the way prosecutors were conducting their investigation, saying subpoenas were not being served properly.

Judge Morgan ruled that law enforcement officials should not serve three subpoenas that have been issued until he studies the matter further.

Defense questioning about five subpoenas that have been issued revealed the course of part of the law enforcement investigation in the case.

Texas Ranger Joe Wilie said he served a subpoena on InterFirst Bank of Clifton. He said he was looking for a record of an $850 deposit into Bryan's account. That's the amount of money that had been reported stolen from Bryan's residence the night of the killing, he said.

Wilie said the Hyatt Regency Hotel of Austin also had been subpoenaed for any dated transactions by Bryan when he stayed there for an education convention about the time of Mrs. Bryan's death.

Both Gulf and Exxon had been subpoenaed for credit card records of a reported gasoline purchase at a Waco Interstate 35 Gulf station in mid-October.

After the arraignment, Clifton Police Chief Rob Brennand said police were looking to see if Bryan's gasoline purchases matched the miles from Austin to Clifton and back.

"Is this just hoping, and looking for something, for anything?" McDonald asked during arraignment questioning.

Both Wilie and Brennand said they were trying to verify transactions that Bryan said he had made.

McDonald said law enforcement officials were studying Bryan's personal property without notifying him and without bringing the subpoenaed material before the court first.

District Attorney Andy McMullen said all of the subpoenaed materials were in the hands of a third party, and that therefore the transaction was not a search.

A pretrial hearing on the case is scheduled for Nov. 27 here.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR READERS: First this appeared in my column:

"DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of four lovely daughters. The eldest is 11. I'll call her Agnes. When Agnes was 3, her father died. Two years later, I remarried. Every summer, the parents of my first husband take Agnes for a month. Their son was their only child, and Agnes is their only grandchild. So far Agnes has been to Disneyland, Hawaii, Mexico and Europe. My husband and I cannot afford to take our other three children on trips like that, and they are understandably envious and resentful. I'm sure with all the divorces, deaths and remarriages, this is a common problem. If you or any of your readers have a solution, I'd appreciate knowing it.

TORN

"DEAR TORN: What are your alternatives? To deny Agnes those exotic trips with her grandparents in order to avoid being envied by her half-sisters? Not fair to Agnes. To ask the grandparents to take one of the half-sisters along every year in the interest of family unity? Rather presumptuous. It would be very generous if they were to offer, but that idea would have to originate with them. Readers?"

Did I get letters!

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to "Torn" was appalling! How can you be so insensitive to the feelings of the younger siblings? Look ahead: Agnes will grow up to be a snob, thinking she is better than her sisters, who will surely grow to hate her. It's just human nature.

"Torn" should not permit those grandparents to take Agnes anywhere unless the sisters are included. Admit you were wrong, Abby.

LOS ANGELES

DEAR ABBY: The solution to "Torn's" problem is so simple, I'm surprised you didn't see it. While Agnes is off with her grandparents, the parents should treat the other girls to picnics, visits to the children's museum, the amusement park, the zoo, an overnight camping trip or a fun weekend staying at a motel.

It would be as thrilling for them as a trip to Disneyland. And that way the sisters at home wouldn't feel so left out.

J.J., ROCHESTER, N.Y.

DEAR ABBY: "Torn" could be expressing her own feelings of anger and resentment rather than that of her three younger children. Their ages must be anywhere from infancy to 6 years old—too young to have formed their own feelings of envy and resentment. Instead of harboring such feelings, "Torn" should rejoice in the knowledge that her 11-year-old has loving grandparents who can afford to take their only grandchild on exotic trips.

MICHIGAN SOCIAL WORKER

DEAR ABBY: "Torn" should use this opportunity to teach her children two valuable lessons: (1) Learn to accept the things you cannot change. (2) Life is not always fair. The earlier they learn these lessons, the stronger they will be. I think we parents try too hard to protect our children from "bumps" and bruises, so their childhood will be as painless and smooth as possible. This is doing them no favors. They need to be equipped to live in the "real" world where they will be dealt more serious bumps.

MARY IN CORBIN, KY.

DEAR ABBY: "Torn" seems to expect that Agnes' grandparents treat her (Torn's) three younger children like they treat Agnes. May I ask "Torn" how she treats her former in-laws? Does she take all her children to visit them, and refer to them as "Grandma and Grandpa Jones"? Are Mother's and Father's Day cards signed by all the children and sent to them? Are the girls encouraged to make presents for them on birthdays and St. Valentine's Day? Does "Torn" invite them for family dinners on Thanksgiving and Christmas—or any other time? To put it bluntly, do "Torn" and her three younger daughters treat these people as well as she treats her new in-laws?

There are exceptions, of course, but I think the grandparents will treat the "new" kids equally if the kids and their mom will make the first move. The ball is in "Torn's" court. Feel free to use my name.

LAURA B. IN MAPLE VALLEY, WASH.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: You'd better tell "Corney Venhemann" that Dizzy Dean must have been listening to radio when he "originated" that line, "Lot's of people who don't say ain't, ain't working."

Will Rogers said it first.

But, on the other hand, it was a laid-back zany football player named Joe Don Looney who first said: "I never met a man I didn't like—except Will Rogers."

Your Birthday

Nov. 15, 1985

In the year ahead you will have more opportunities than usual to partake of the fun things that life has to offer. Lots of travel for pleasurable purposes is likely.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov.22) You will impede your own progress today if you resurrect something that has previously angered you about someone pertinent to your immediate plans. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Financial conditions could be a mixed bag for you today. If you don't handle your resources prudently you're apt to spend more than you take in.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It behooves you to keep outsiders out of your business affairs today so that someone who isn't overly fond of you can't cause you complications.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Although your intentions will be good, it's best that you do not butt into situations today that don't concern you. Instead of helping, you could cause a problem.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This is one of those days when business and pleasure might not make a good mix. Don't try to promote deals at a social gathering.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be extremely fair and tactful today in handling people over whom you have authority. Don't single one out for reward while berating the others.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be mindful of how you phrase things to co-workers today so you don't create a situation that pits one listener against another, causing both to be disturbed with you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Subdue possessive tendencies today. If you behave poorly, the measures you take to correct matters aren't apt to soothe the hurt feelings of one who loves you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Before extending impromptu invitations to friends to come to your place today, it's best you consult with your mate. He or she may have other plans.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) To perform productively today, you must pace yourself sensibly. Rushing through tasks will greatly reduce your efficiency.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There could be a contest today between your prudent judgment and your extravagant impulses. Do yourself a favor and try to make it at least a draw.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A financial issue could generate a needless family dispute today. Try to make certain that you're not the one who provokes it.

CRMWD ahead on budget projections

Through the first 10 months of the year, the Colorado River Municipal Water district was $619,100 ahead of budget projections in net income.

As in former months, this resulted largely from underrunning the power bill estimates by $759,892 or 17.45 percent. Most of this was due to budgeting for rate increases that were not as great as anticipated, also somewhat less water pumped than projected.

For the 10 months total income was $10,608,947, or 3.27 less than estimated; total operating expenses were $5,940,885, or 13.28 less than estimated. In actual operation and maintenance, 75.29 percent went for energy costs.

At the end of October, Lake E. V. Spence contained 208,600 ac. ft. and was 42.66 percent of capacity; Lake Thomas has 33,170 ac. ft and was 16.25 per cent of capacity.

Together the lakes were 34.89 per cent of capacity. In October, there was a net gain of 12,918 ac. ft. most of it in Lake Thomas which has a net gain of 3.68 vertical feet.

The youth department of the Hermleigh United Methodist Church sponsored a special service on Nov. 3 to dedicate a memorial marker to the late Rev. M.H. Hudson. The marker bears the words "United Methodist Minister" and a drawing of a circuit riding preacher.

Special guests attending the ceremony included Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Stamps and daughter Becky and Mr. and Mrs. Wiley McMillan, all of Lubbock, and Mrs. Don Baremore of Snyder. Mrs. Stamps and Mrs. McMillan are granddaughters of Rev. Hudson.

Mr. and Mrs. Olin Johnson recently returned from a two-week visit with their daughter Sherryl and her husband Major Sandy Hoffpauir and family Kristi, Nikki and Dusty of Upper Marlboro, Maryland.

The Thursday afternoon Canasta Club met at the Hermleigh Community Center last Thursday with Frances Thomason as hostess. Attending were Elgene Beane, Gaye Stahl, Faye Robbins, Verda Johnson, Amy Townsend. Ida Chitsey, Maurine Wall, Marlene Richburg, Oma Houston, Hilda Etheridge and Jeanie Henderson. Maurine Wall and Verda Johnson won high scores.

Mrs. Leta Lloyd visited her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Truett Vines of Coleman, last Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Reeves of Potosi, their oldest son Kenney, who is home on furlough from the Navy, and a friend Lora Scobel with her two children, four-year-old Jenforie and three-year-old Jolene of Ocean Drive, Calif. were recent guests of Effie Wright.

Coker, Jane and Ross Lassiter of Brownfield visited their aunt and great aunt, Adala Drennan, Saturday afternoon. They stopped while enroute to San Angelo, where they visited their daughter, Lea Ann, a junior at Angelo State University. While there, they enjoyed Parents' Weekend activities.

Steering techniques

LEONIA, N.J. (AP) — Drivers can make smoother turns by using the hand-over-hand steering technique during the turn and using the controlled slipping method to get back to a straight-ahead position, according to Jaguar.

The car firm says the handover-hand method gives the driver the most steering control. To recover from a turn, a driver should simply let the wheel slip back through her hands until the car is pointed in the right direction.

Backward runs the finesse

An elementary rule states that you should respond to partner's opening bid when you have six high-card points. It's a good rule, but it has a disadvantage. When you don't respond, your opponents as well as your partner will know you don't have as much as an ace and a queen. Watch how this knowledge helped today's declarer to play his contract.

South jumped to two spades when West's opening heart bid was passed around to him. He meant that bid to show opening strength and a six-card suit, a reasonable way to bid in the passout position. North raised to four, also OK.

West led the heart king. East overtook with the ace and returned the suit. So the defenders quickly took the first three tricks. West then played the club king, which declarer won with the ace. Now a declarer just pushing cards around to pass the time would probably draw trump and after a while take the diamond finesse, hoping to find the queen with East. But our declarer knew better. East could not hold the diamond queen in addition to the heart ace or he would have responded to the one-heart opening bid. Accordingly South pulled trumps, ending in his hand, and led the jack of diamonds. West covered with the queen. Declarer won the king in dummy and led a diamond back, putting in the nine when East played low. Remember this play. It's called a backward finesse. Please don't try it unless you're 90 percent sure that the queen is in the West hand.

Rest can help back problems

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My wife has something wrong with the muscles in her back. Her doctor has ordered her to stay in bed. I think maybe if she would get out in the sun, it would help her back. What do you think?

DEAR READER — The sun may feel good on your wife's back, but it is unlikely to affect the deep muscles. Neither does Ben-Gay or any other liniment.

After trying a period of rest, your wife will need back X-rays to make sure she does not have a problem, like osteoporosis, with her spinal bones. If her problem is truly muscular, she may be helped by massage, hot packs, ultrasound, chiropractic, pain medication or a full course of physiotherapy. She should try the bed rest for a week, then move on to other options as indicated. Perhaps the bed is contributing to her back problems.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have had sinus trouble since I was a teenager and I will be 70 next birthday, providing the good Lord spares me. My nose runs frequently, and especially when I eat. I asked my doctor, but didn't get any help. I think this is rather strange. Can you shed some light on the subject?

DEAR READER — Your long history of sinus trouble is probably a manifestation of allergy, a form of hay fever. There are many antihistamines now available without a prescription. I suggest you ask your doctor to recommend several; try each until you find out which agrees with you and controls your symptoms. I think you should first ask your doctor, because at the age of 70, you may have some condition — such as high blood pressure or heart trouble — that would rule out a specific remedy.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband is 67. He has a spur on the bottom of his foot. He refuses to take any calcium, saying this has brought on the spur. I feel that, at his age, he needs calcium for his bones. Who is right?

DEAR READER — You are right. Bone spurs are not produced by dietary calcium. They appear with age in some people, through no fault of their own. Your husband might be aided by cortisone injections administered by an orthopedic surgeon. An operation to remove the spur would be curative. Meanwhile, calcium supplements — in the form of milk or pills — are appropriate for a man of 67.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott in care of this newspaper at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101. Due to volume of mail, individual questions cannot be answered. Questions of general interest will be answered in future columns.

Rents skyrocketing in Mexico City

DALLAS (AP) — Thousands of people left homeless by Mexico City's twin earthquakes are battling for already scarce housing, pushing rents up as much as 100 percent in some parts of world's largest metropolis.

Burgeoning inflation coupled with the peso's declining value is aggravating the housing crunch, urban planners, real estate agents and tenants told The Dallas Morning News.

"In many cases, rents for housing have at least doubled," said Martha Schteingart, an urban planner with El Colegio de Mexico, a Mexico City-based think tank.

The Sept. 19 and 20 quakes destroyed or damaged an estimated 3,300 structures and caused approximately $4 billion in damage in the Mexican capital, the Morning News said in a story published Wednesday.

Officials said about 20,000 housing units, mostly rental property, were destroyed and hundreds of office buildings collapsed or were irreparably damaged.

"The effect this loss has had on the rental market is great," said Mrs. Schteingart. "Housing was expensive before, and this has made it worse."

In addition, the annual inflation rate was expected to be 60 percent to 65 percent, substantially above the government's target of 35 percent, officials said. The peso, trading at about 380 to the dollar just after the earthquake, went as high as 500 to the dollar last week.

The Mario A. Macias engineering firm, for instance, wasn't prepared for the time it took to find new office space or the cost of the new quarters.

"It took three weeks to find another office, and we are paying 100 percent more in rent," said Noemi Fuentes, a firm employee.

President Miguel de la Madrid said after the quakes that the government would strictly enforce existing laws on rent increases to protect tenants' rights.

But the Federal Consumer Protection Agency has received scores of complaints daily that landlords are trying to raise rents beyond legal limits.

Raul Cervantes, an agency spokesman, said Mexican law prohibits rental charges in U.S. dollars and annual housing rent increases over 85 percent of the yearly increase in the minimum wage.

But daily advertisements in Mexico City newspapers quote dollar prices for rents. And residents pay higher and higher percentages of their salaries for rents.

An advertisement appeared recently for a two-bedroom apartment in the fashionable Polanco neighborhood and a price of $800 was quoted in a telephone conversation.

The owner, who would not give the Morning News her name, said payment would only be accepted in U.S. dollars.

Another Polanco apartment which rented for 72,000 pesos in August was being offered for 300,000 pesos last month.

SS, police raid home in Texas

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — A Wichita Falls man was committed to a state hospital here after Police and Secret Service agents forced the man from his home with tear gas, police say.

Neighbors of the man said Secret Service agents had questioned them about the man's whereabouts during a recent visit to this North Texas city by Vice President George Bush.

Another neighbor told the Wichita Falls Record News Secret Service agents had been questioning him about the man's activities on occasions for several years.

Secret Service agents at the scene Wednesday refused comment. Wichita Falls Police referred reporters to Secret Service agents and the judge who signed the order committing the man to the hospital said he could not comment because the matter was "confidential."

No one answered the telephone at the Secret Service office in Dallas early today when The Associated Press attempted to reach agents for comment.

Police spokesman Jim Bernethy, who arrived at the scene after the raid, said he had heard that SWAT team officers and Secret Service agents were about to arrest a man for threatening Bush.

Police said the man barricaded himself inside the home after he was contacted by Secret Service agents about noon Wednesday.

After repeated attempts to communicate with the man failed, Wichita Falls SWAT team members shot tear gas pellets into his home.

"It was felt he was probably armed," said Wichita Falls police Capt. R.E. Wynn.

"I know it was in reference to a political threat, but I don't know who it was," Wynn said.

Secret Service agents from Dallas began warning residents of the block where the man lived to stay indoors and in the back rooms of their homes about 11 a.m. Wednesday, neighbors said.

Several hours later, police blocked off the street.

"They (police) told me not to let the kids play in the front yard," said a woman who lived nearby. The woman said Secret Service agents questioned her about the man's whereabouts on Nov. 2, the day Bush visited Wichita Falls.

About an hour after police blocked off the street, Secret Service agents began evacuating residents of the block.

"I grabbed my baby and boogied," said Jim Russell, who lives across the street from the raided home.

Russell, who described the man as "very reclusive," said Secret Service agents have been asking him questions about the man for the past five years.

The man, described as being his mid-50s, lived alone, Russell said. He said he only spoke with him one time.

"I was sitting on my front porch reading the Bible. He went past and said, 'That's sure a good book you are reading.'"

Charred body said belongs to banker

HOUSTON (AP) — A charred body found in an expensive sports car last week has been identified as that of Houston banker Edward G. Baker, Harris County medical examiner's officials said.

Harry Hall with the medical examiners office said Wednesday that Baker, 52, had been identified through dental records.

The banker's charred 1984 Jaguar was found Friday in far west Harris County. Baker founded Vanguard Group Limited, an investment company, in 1977.

His wife of six months, Sandy Baker, told reporters Sunday she feared two Miami mobsters ordered her husband executed after they lost about $1 million in a Vanguard investment venture.

"He told me they were going to kill him," Mrs. Baker, 41, said.

Houston private detective Clyde Wilson, hired by Mrs. Baker, said Baker was trapped in a serious financial bind.

One of the largest debts he owed was to two Miami investors with reputed underworld connections, he said. One of his deals with the men soured, and they lost about $1 million.

Despite numerous leads, Sgt. Earl Bockel said, "I'm afraid we're still at square one. We've developed no real suspects at this time."

Investigators also were checking on a second unidentified body found a quarter-mile away from the charred Jaquar car.

Baby sitter is charged in death

DALLAS (AP) — Grand jurors have upgraded to murder the injury to a child charge against a man police say posed as a woman to get baby-sitting jobs.

Richard Arthur Gilbert initially was charged with injury to a child because the medical examiner's office had not ruled a baby's death homicide when the original indictment was returned Oct. 23, prosecutor Rider Scott said.

Gilbert, 29, is accused of dipping a 4½-month-old University Park boy he was caring for in scalding water on Sept. 26. The child died of his injuries on Oct. 16.

Both the murder charge, issued Wednesday, and the other count carry a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

Gilbert is also accused of sexually assaulting a 2-year-old boy he was baby-sitting earlier this year.

Police said the two children's mothers thought Gilbert was a woman. He used the name Jean Gilbert and wore women's clothing and makeup, they said.

The United States is its largest single market and accounts for more than 50 percent of car sales, according to Jaguar. The firm says it expects to increase its 1985 production to 38,000 cars and estimates 20,000 will be sold in the U.S.

Woman, pupils have uneasy coexistence

DALLAS (AP) — It took a shooting, an aggravated assault charge and a week of litigation, but students concede that Betty Minyard Stein made her point: Leave her alone or face the business end of her gun.

"She got her point across," said David York, an 18-year-old student at Highland Park High School. "She took the law into her own hands and made us more afraid of her."

Jurors sentenced Mrs. Stein to 10 years probation Tuesday for shooting a student who screeched out of a parking spot near her house. Mrs. Stein, 65, says she's been harassed by students for years and she won't hesitate to fight back.

And now, students say they plan to steer clear of the eccentric woman who lives in a shrubbery-shrouded house across the street from their school.

To make the point even stronger, school officials, worried that she showed little remorse for the July shooting of 18-year-old Ward Huey III, say they have warned students to stay away from her.

Mrs. Stein, who said before her trial she had no regrets about the shooting and would fire at students again, has vowed to appeal her conviction and the $5,000 fined it carried.

The woman said during her trial, too, that she would do whatever was necessary to protect herself.

"The problem is still there, and something else could happen," said 16-year-old Amy Arnold, a junior. "My mom doesn't want me to walk out that side of the school. I want to stay away from her."

"I think it's dangerous that she's not going to jail," said 18-year-old John Wellborn. "It's unfortunate she's been harassed, but she shot someone and then said in court that she'd do it again."

Mrs. Stein had been plagued by students who taunted her relentlessly and mistreated her pets over the past 30 years, testimony before visiting State District Judge B.D. Moye showed.

Gooden becomes youngest Cy Young award recipient

NEW YORK (AP) - There were still three days left before Dwight Gooden would turn 21 years old, and already he had added the National League's Cy Young award to his list of birthday presents.

"I guess things have moved along pretty rapidly in my career," Gooden said Wednesday from the dais, a birthday cake with 21 candles on it in front of him.

At the tender age of 20, Gooden had been voted unanimously as the best pitcher in the league, one year after he had been recognized as the league's best rookie.

"Last year, I won the rookie award, and that was special because you only have one chance," Gooden said. "And the Cy Young is a great honor after finishing second last year."

With his birthday coming on Saturday, Gooden became baseball's youngest Cy Young winner ever and also the first player to win the rookie and Cy Young awards in successive years. The right-hander had a record of 24-4 and led the National League in earned run average, strikeouts, complete games and innings pitched in 1985.

Gooden received 120 points, including all 24 of the first-place votes cast by the Baseball Writers' Association of America. He thus became the seventh pitcher to receive the award unanimously.

John Tudor of St. Louis, 21-8 during the season, was second with 65 points, followed by Orel Hershiser of Los Angeles with 17, Joaquin Andujar of St. Louis with 6, Fernando Valenzuela of Los Angeles with 4, Tom Browning of Cincinnati with 3 and Jeff Reardon of Montreal with 1. Tudor was listed second on 21 ballots, with the other second-place votes going to Hershiser, Andujar and Valenzuela.

The other unanimous Cy Young winners were Sandy Koufax in 1963, 1965 and 1966 - years when the Cy Young voting covered both leagues - Denny McLain in 1968; Bob Gibson in 1968; Steve Carlton in 1972 and 1977; Ron Guidry in 1978, and Rick Sutcliffe in 1984.

Votes are cast by two members of the BBWAA from each National League city with a first-place vote counting five points, second three points and third one.

Gooden was 13 days younger than Valenzuela when the Dodgers lefty won the award on Nov. 11, 1981 - 10 days after turning 21. And although Valenzuela is the only pitcher ever to win the Cy Young and rookie awards in the same year, Gooden was the first pitcher to win the awards in successive seasons.

In fact, only four players other than Gooden have won both awards - Valenzuela, Sutcliffe, Tom Seaver and Don Newcombe.

Celtics chalk up seventh straight

by The Associated Press

One reason the Boston Celtics have been in the National Basketball Association finals for two consecutive years is that they can play well even when Larry Bird isn't.

Bird, the NBA's Most Valuable Player the last two seasons, led Boston with 15 rebounds and seven assists Wednesday night, but shot a dismal 6-for-21 from the floor and finished with 18 points.

Nevertheless, Dennis Johnson compensated for Bird's "off-night" with 30 points, his high since joining the team in 1983, as the Celtics defeated Indiana 118-114 for their seventh consecutive victory after a season-opening loss to New Jersey.

"Larry has been shooting bricks out there and D.J. has been picking up the slack," Celtics Coach K.C. Jones said. "Dennis is pumped up on both ends and is doing the job."

Johnson scored 11 points in both the third and fourth periods as Boston broke away from a 58-58 halftime tie.

The Pacers were led by Herb Williams with 27 points, Vern Fleming with 22, and Clark Kellogg with 21, while Robert Parish contributed 23 for the Celtics.

In other NBA games, it was Philadelphia 110, Chicago 106; Atlanta 108, Phoenix 101; Milwaukee 137, Detroit 118; Dallas 115, Utah 100; and Seattle 93, Los Angeles Clippers 89.

Mavericks 115, Jazz 100

Dallas, struggling with a 3-6 record after being touted as one of the best teams in the Western Conference, got 37 points from Rolando Blackman to win on the road against Utah.

"I tried everything on Blackman," Jazz Coach Frank Layden said. "I almost put Barbara (Layden's wife) on him at him at one point. This is the real Dallas team. The Mavericks are a polished team, much better than their record indicates."

Blackman, who played only 11 minutes in Dallas' loss to Seattle on Tuesday after dislocating a finger in practice Monday, made 17 of his 23 field-goal attempts and scored 16 points in the third quarter as the Mavericks pulled away to a 90-70 lead after three periods.

The Mavericks led 30-18 after one period as Utah shot only 30 percent from the field. Adrian Dantley led the Jazz with 17 points, 14 under his average.

Bucks 137, Pistons 118

Milwaukee moved into first place ahead of Detroit in the Central Division as Ricky Pierce and Alton Lister both scored 22 points.

The Bucks scored 11 straight points to grab a 36-22 lead late in the first quarter, and the Pistons moved no closer than eight points the rest of the game.

Pierce hit 10 of 13 field-goal attempts for Milwaukee, while Lister was 9-for-13 and added 12 rebounds. Terry Cummings scored 21 points for the Bucks, who had seven players in double figures.

76ers 110, Bulls 106

Philadelphia got 21 points and 15 rebounds from Moses Malone and outscored Chicago 30-18 in the second quarter to build a 17-point halftime lead, then held on to hand the Bulls their sixth loss in their last seven games.

The Bulls, who got 32 points from Orlando Woolridge and 25 from George Gervin, trailed 77-59 midway through the third period before scoring 10 consecutive points to get back in contention. Chicago cut the deficit to 84-78 on a layup by Gene Banks with 15 seconds left.

But seven straight Philadelphia points, four of them by Julius Erving, rebuilt the 76ers' advantage to 102-90, and the Bulls got no closer than four points.

Sonics 93, Clippers 89

Jack Sikma scored 13 of his season-high 20 points in the fourth quarter to keep Seattle ahead of Los Angeles.

Sikma and reserve guard Ricky Sobers combined to score 11 of the first 13 points of the final period as the SuperSonics, who trailed by 13 points in the first half, built a 79-69 lead.

But Derek Smith, who led the Clippers with 26 points, led a 15-8 spurt that cut the deficit to 87-84, but Los Angeles could get no closer.

Hawks 108, Suns 101

Cliff Levingston scored 23 points and Atlanta withstood a late three-point shooting display by Walter Davis to beat winless Phoenix.

Washington Bullets file protest

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) - The Washington Bullets have filed a protest with the NBA over a disputed free throw call during the team's 124-122 overtime loss Tuesday to Detroit, the team said.

With 40 seconds left in regulation, Washington forward Dan Roundfield was fouled and consequently sank two free throws to tie the score at 110. But referee Jim Capers ruled the second shot was made after a Detroit player had requested a time out and made Roundfield take the second free throw again - which he missed.

Ira has something to prove in zone playoff with Weinert

JAYTON -- Coach Mitch Lee believes the Ira Bulldogs are going into tonight's playoff game with most of the advantages. He just hopes those can be turned into a victory over Weinert.

Kickoff is 7:30 this evening. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for students.

Friday, North Zone champion Jayton will test South Zone runnerup Grady in Gail at 7:30.

The advantages include a week's rest - the Bulldogs played a junior varsity game with Hermleigh last weekend - and an underdog's role.

Ira got its role as a underdog by losing four of its first five games this season. The 'Dogs came on strong to finish with a 6-4 mark over the regular slate. Weinert, meanwhile went 9-1.

A look at common opponents is shockingly in Weinert's favor. The North Zone runnerup team defeated Paint Creek 62-14, Rockester 61-26 and Borden County 61-20. Ira lost to Paint Creek, 56-30, and to Rochester, 40-18, before beating Borden 51-14.

"We're definitely not the same team we were earlier in the season," said Coach Lee. "We feel like we've got something to prove."

Adding fuel to Ira's fire was a comment from a six-man football publication which eluded that the best team from the South Zone wouldn't finish any higher than fourth in the North Zone.

"That got our attention in a hurry," said Lee. "I can understand where they got that. This zone didn't have a good record against other teams. But it just gives us a little more incentive. I don't think anybody feels like we'll even be in the ballgame with Weinert. I hope we surprise a lot of people."

To stop Weinert, Ira will have to contain all-state caliber quarterback Shannon Forehand and the Perez clan - Louis, Edward, Ricky and John. The team also has an accurate kicker in Kevin White.

Ira will counter will a capable quarterback of its own - senior Jay Clark. The Bulldogs feature a variety of running backs, including Steve Denson and Lancer Hughes.

Weinert is rumored to have the edge in speed while Ira has a 10-14 pound per man weight advantage.

Frosh try for 10-0

Snyder freshmen try to make it an undefeated season when they entertain Andrews here this evening at Travis Field.

The game is scheduled for an approximate 7 o'clock start. It will follow a pair of eighth grade games with Lamesa which are slated for 4 and 5:30.

Elsewhere, Snyder seventh graders play in Lamesa at 4 and 5:30 and the junior varsity plays in Andrews at 7.

Snyder's freshmen are 9-0 on the season and have recorded seven shutouts. The Cats have given up only two touchdowns.

"We don't want to make a real big deal about it, blow it up or anything like that," said Coach Albert Lewis of the freshmen's contest with Andrews. "But really, these kids deserve some credit. They've played real aggressive defense all season long. They are a talented group and they are going to make fine Ragin' Tigers in the future. Thursday, we're not worrying about another shutout but I know we'd like to go undefeated."

Andrews has lost once once this season, a 14-13 decision to Monahans.

Monahans, Lake View clash for 2-4A runnerup position

It's the final weekend of District 2-4A football action but there is plenty of action to be had as the Monahans Loboes and Lake View Chiefs square off in San Angelo.

The Chiefs, 5-1 in district play, host the 4-1-1 Loboes in a game which will name the loop runnerup.

Sweetwater locked up the district championship a week ago. The Mustangs don't look for much trouble this Friday, as they host conference cellar-dweller Fort Stockton, 0-6.

In games for pride, 2-4 Snyder entertains 3-2-1 Andrews while 3-3 Pecos is at 1-5 Lamesa.

The winner of the Monahans-Lake View contest will be paired off with District 1-4A champion Lubbock Estacado in first-round playoff action. Incidentally, Monahans and Estacado fought to a scoreless tie in regular season action earlier this season.

Sweetwater will play the 1-4A runnerup. That team will not be determined until Friday night.

Tickets sky high for Cowboy game

DALLAS (AP) - Summer should be so hot.

Fans are so desperate for tickets to Sunday's showdown between the Chicago Bears and the Dallas Cowboys that the usual $19 stubs have soared as high as $250 apiece, ticket brokers say.

"This is the biggest regular-season game they've (Cowboys) ever had in terms of demand," said Texas Tickets owner Scott Baima.

"Maybe a Washington game several years ago, but the price wasn't this big," he added. "You could get in for $50. This is off the wall because of the Bears."

Those Bears are the only undefeated team in the National Football League, and the Cowboys are now tied for first in their division.

Baima said his tickets are selling for $100 to $250, depending on location. He said only tickets to this fall's Bruce Springsteen concerts surpassed Sunday's game in demand. But he said supply is high as well because fans are convinced they will get a high price for their seats.

Cowboys ticket manager Steve Orsini says the game at Texas Stadium has been sold out since Oct. 1, but pleading fans continue to call.

"Either they don't know or they're hoping something was returned, (that) somehow we got our hands on some tickets," he told The Dallas Morning News. "But no returns have come back and we don't expect any."

A local radio advertising salesman, who asked not to be identified, offered 10 50-yard-line seats in the classified section of Tuesday's newspaper.

His friend's wife is due to give birth Sunday in a Caesarean delivery, so the two men, who have owned the seats since 1972, decided they might as well make some money if they have to miss the game.

After fielding 40 calls at his office before lunchtime, he sold the tickets to two local businessmen for $150 apiece.

Pro Football Hall of Famer Roger Staubach led the Dallas Cowboys to 14 come-from-behind victories in the last two minutes of games during his career.

From the sidelines...

Bulldogs will shock Weinert

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

Okay, okay. So the Redskins didn't rope the Cowboys. So what. So Houston didn't make hamburger out of Buffalo. Big deal.

So I almost had to eat my column. Does that prove anything?

Not only did I miss 13 out of 30 picks last week (.566, season 199-101, .633) but I also managed to screw up our Coffee Drinker's percentages. If you'll check out those this week, they should be correct. Bell-Seale leads with .635, followed by Stinson Drug with .615 and Spanish Inn with .610.

Sorry, guys. I'll try not to do it again.

Let's get on with the picks...

Andrews at Snyder: Snyder has posted losing seasons the past five years in a row and I think this year's seniors would like to be known as the group that changed all that. Pick it...RAGIN' TIGERS 21, ANDREWS 13.

Monahans at Lake View: The Loboes will clinch the second playoff spot in District 2-4A...MONAHANS 28, LAKE VIEW 7.

Pecos at Lamesa: One of the better ballgames in the district this weekend. Some will consider this an upset, but choose the Tornadoes by three...LAMESA 21, PECOS 18.

Fort Stockton at Sweetwater: Look for a close halftime score, say 14-7, but after that, well...MUSTANGS 35, PANTHERS 7.

Ira vs Weinert: A District 4-1A zone playoff game. Weinert will be favored, but Coach Mitch Lee finally has the Bulldogs where he hoped they'd be all season...IRA 35, WEINERT 28.

Arkansas at Texas A&M: Anybody's ballgame, but Arkansas will pull it out...RAZORBACKS 21, AGGIES 20.

Rice at Baylor: The Bears are still thinking Cotton Bowl...BAYLOR 45, RICE 14.

TCU at Texas: The Horned Frogs won't be humiliated like they were last week, but it won't matter much...LONGHORNS 34, FROGS 17.

Texas Tech at SMU: They are playing the ballad of Billy Joe at Texas Tech, but the Mustangs aren't TCU. Still, the Raiders could make it exciting...SMU 31, TECH 24.

The other collegians...

Penn State stays in the number one spot with a 24-21 win over Notre Dame, while Air Force and Brigham Young play to a 28-28 tie. That's right, a 28-28 tie. For the others, pick Auburn to nip Georgia 21-20 but give Minnesota a 14-7 win over Michigan. Also, pick Iowa over Purdue, 31-14; Nebraska over Kansas, 41-7; Oklahoma over Colorado, 24-12; and Ohio State over Wisconsin, 35-13.

The pros...

Okay, I'll give the Cowboys credit for being able to knock off Chicago, 21-17 (and probably lose next week to Philadelphia). Also, Miami will clobber the Colts, 31-14. Pittsburgh will hook Houston, 24-14 (for you, George) and the Eagles will stupify St. Louis, maybe, 21-7. Pick the fast-charging Chargers to deflate Denver, 28-21; New England to shush Seattle, 17-14; Cleveland to bluff Buffalo; the New York Jets to tamper with Tampa Bay, 27-17; Green Bay to simonize the Saints, 21-7; Minnesota to dilute Detroit, 23-18; the Rams to alarm Atlanta, 41-14; the Raiders to censor Cincinnati, 28-24; and the 49ers to clobberify Kansas City, 31-3.

TEXAS INDEPENDENT GINNERS ASSOCIATION

INDEPENDENT

The restless, independent spirit that settled the west is still a vital force in Texas. Independent thinkers, people who are willing to take the risk of making their own decisions instead of following the crowd have been a basic ingredient in the history of Texas.

Since 1822 when the first Texas cotton gin was built, independent thinking cotton ginners have brought innovations and improvements that have produced major cost savings for all cotton farmers. TEXAS INDEPENDENT COTTON GINNERS are proud to be a part of the independent thinkers that have made the state of Texas great.

Competitive ginning prices and services. Telcot quotes and marketing available if you so choose. Outside buyers with top cotton prices.

Might regulate concerts

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The City Council is weighing the beat of heavy metal rock music against the cries of conservatives in considering a proposal to make the city the first in the nation to impose age restrictions on concert-goers.

City Hall is under pressure from groups who object to rock lyrics and on-stage violence and illicit sex acts at the city-owned Convention Center Arena.

But opposition to any crackdown is just as vocal in the nation's 10th largest city, considered one of the top heavy metal concert markets in the country.

A proposed ordinance would bar children younger than 13 from concerts where certain sexual and violent acts are depicted on stage. The proposal, which comes up for debate Thursday, specifies sadistic or masochistic sex, rape, incest, bestiality and exhibitionism.

Earlier in the year, the council considered ways of banning objectional lyrics at rock concerts.

When City Attorney Lowell Denton determined any such action would be unconstitutional, council members took aim at concert theatrics.

The parents found a surprising ally in Mayor Henry Cisneros, a liberal Democrat who supports efforts to impose restraints on the concerts.

"I think reasonable people would agree (those activities) ought not to be entertainment for children," Cisneros said.

"We're following a common sense rule here," he said.

The council ordered the ordinance prepared after a city-hired child psychiatrist conducted a $2,000 study on the effects of rock music on youngsters.

"Glamorization and the glorification of rape, suicide, incest, dehumanizing sexuality and violence as a way of life — all of these are potentially harmful to young people — especially those predisposed to having difficulties," said Dr. Robert Demski.

"In the past, rock 'n roll has dealt with innuendeo and double entendre. Now it's overt and graphic. There is no longer any hinting."

"It's potentially hazardous," he said. "If a child is already depressed, as many of them are, this may be the final push over the edge."

The Community Families in Action, formed over drug abuse among children and teen-agers, selected other targets after attending rock concerts.

Board member Sylvia Branch identified such problems as teenage suicide and pregnancy and the health hazards involved with loud music.

The group asked the council to outlaw smoking at the arena, which it did, establish a noise level and to "consider an age level at which young people could not attend alone.

"We just want parents aware of what their children are being allowed to go in and see," said Mrs. Branch, a mother of five. "We are interested in protecting our children from influences detrimental to their health and welfare. We just felt the content of rock concerts we attended was not healthful."

Concert promoter Jack Orbin contends the city would suffer financially if the law passes because major mainstream rock groups will not play "in the repressive state of San Antonio ... It would be sort of like playing South Africa."

Orbin, who said he books about 90 percent of San Antonio's rock concerts, said he believes the council is intent on censorsing lyrics and not of any graphic depictions.

"We don't believe rape and mutilations occur on the stage, period," he said. "We don't feel our groups are advocating or glorifying this kind of activity."

Orbin is cooperating with a parents group called Parents Against Subliminal Seduction in setting up interviews with rock groups and providing previews of lyrics to be sung at upcoming concerts.

"We're a middle of the road organization made up of old rock 'n' rollers who enjoy rock music," said Lynn Gladhill a 39-year-old mother of two who heads the group.

"Obviously, the people of this city have not done their homework," she said.

Nurse's actions enable doctors to reattach arm

WEATHERFORD, Texas (AP) — A nurse who cut off her arm with a bandsaw kept a cool head that enabled surgeons to save her — and the arm. She staunched the bleeding, wrapped up the severed limb and then phoned for help.

Neoma Patterson was in stable condition Wednesday at Harris Memorial Hospital, where she was recovering from 8½ hours of surgery performed after the accident last week.

"If she had panicked, she would have definitely lost her arm," said Dr. Manucher Nazarian, who took part in the operation.

Said her husband, E.A. Patterson: "This lady's tougher than a keg of nails."

Doctors say Ms. Patterson, 56, should be out of the hospital in a couple of weeks, but faces extensive physical therapy.

She severed the arm last Tuesday while working with an electric bandsaw outside her farm home northeast of here.

"It was cool that morning, and I had put on a flannel shirt," she said. "Some way, the suction from the saw sucked my shirt sleeve into the saw, and there my arm lay on the table, suddenly just cut off."

"I can't put into words what my eyes saw. There's no way," she told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. "First and foremost, I knew I was going to die."

She said wrapped the arm, which was still attached about an inch of skin, in a her shirttail, and held it to her chest while using her right hand to staunch the terrifying rush of blood.

"I put my finger in the artery. They were all bleeding, but I could plug the biggest one with my finger and I said, 'Lord, help me; give me composure,' " she said.

Ms. Patterson walked about 50 yards to her house, kicked the phone off the table, let go of the bleeding stump long enough to place the receiver between her knees and dialed the operator.

"I have just completely severed my left arm and I'm bleeding to death," she said, asking the operator to call an ambulance and her physician-employer, Dr. Loyd Ripley.

Ms. Patterson said she went out to the patio to await help — or death.

"I said, 'I'm here to die. I'll die right here sitting in my chair.' But the good Lord didn't let that happen," she said. "I was so afraid my son was going to come home for lunch and find me dead in all that blood, and I was determined he wasn't going to have to go through that."

An ambulance arrived in about 10 minutes and took her from the Zion Hill community, about three miles northeast of Weatherford, to Campbell Memorial Hospital. She was later transferred to Harris for the reattachment surgery.

Doctors say her prognosis is good.

"Once the nerves grow back, we expect muscle function to come back, and she will hopefully have a useful arm," Nazarian said.

Ms. Patterson said the experience changed her profoundly.

"I have so much to live for. This has made me see things differently," she said. "Now it seems like what's really important is just to enjoy the people I love."

Yurchenko describes 'escape'

MOSCOW (AP) — Vitaly Yurchenko, the reputed KGB defector who returned home claiming he was kidnapped by U.S. agents, today said he escaped when his "CIA guard" excused himself in a Washington restaurant to go to the men's room.

Yurchenko, speaking at a 2½-hour news conference, repeated allegations that he was kidnapped, drugged and held prisoner by the Central Intelligence Agency. He denied that he had defected willingly, as U.S. officials maintain.

He also declined to say whether he worked for the KGB, as U.S. officials have said. He replied to questions from Western reporters about a possible affiliation with the Soviet secret police and spy agency by accusing them of working for the CIA.

Pressed for a specific response, Yurchenko replied, "I am a minister-counsellor of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. I worked in the Soviet Embassy in Washington on security matters."

The State Department has said Yurchenko defected while in Rome on Aug. 1 and sought asylum in the United States. U.S. officials described him as a KGB official who had run the agency's Washington office during his tenure at the Soviet Embassy there from 1975-80.

Yurchenko returned to the Soviet Union this month after appearing at a news conference at the Soviet Embassy in Washington, where he told reporters he had been kidnapped while in Italy and brought to the United States, where he escaped.

Press reports in the United States have said Yurchenko walked out of a restaurant in Washington and returned to the Soviet Embassy after asking the U.S. official with him if he would try to stop him.

Yurchenko's own account today conformed with that report in part.

On Saturday, Nov. 2, Yurchenko said he asked one of his three guards at the Virginia location where he was being held to take him shopping at a department store.

He identified the guard as Tom Hannah and said, "He was younger than the others and seemed to be a bit ashamed of his role."

Yurchenko said he was allowed to go to the men's department by himself, and that he quickly purchased an overcoat, a hat and an umbrella that he planned to use to change his appearance.

Sharon may be fired

JERUSALEM (AP) — Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir, who heads the shaky coalition government's Likud bloc, said today that if Prime Minister Shimon Peres fires right-wing Cabinet member Ariel Sharon, Peres must resign and bring down the government.

Rafi Edry, a spokesman for Prime Minster Shimon Peres' Labor Party, reiterated on Israel radio today that Peres plans to fire Sharon today unless the controversial minister apologizes for attacking Peres' peace efforts.

Toy effort again scheduled

Any donations of old toys will be welcome, but this year she said they are asking people not to donate bicycles. She noted it is too expensive to repair and refurbish a bike and that volunteer workers consist mainly of women and children who "are not very good at repairing bikes."

Another change this year is that the toys distribution will be limited to children under age 15.

Application requests will be published in the Snyder Daily News.

Volunteers are working in the old newspaper office every morning for about two to three hours plus after school until about 6:30 p.m. Each Saturday, workers are usually there between the hours of 1-4 p.m.

All donations of toys will be appreciated and they will be accepted "up until the last minute," Bond said.

Dish owners face scrambling

Since there are about 100 channels presently available to satellite owners and more being added each year, Schultheiss said he doesn't see the scrambling of a few signals as a problem. TVRO owners can simply opt to watch the other channels available.

He sees the "threat as much worse than the actual problem."

However, if the satellite owners want to continue to receive HBO and Cinemax after Jan. 15, they will have to do two things.

First, they must purchase a descrambler which is estimated to cost around $395. In addition, they must then subscribe to HBO and Cinemax either through the cable franchise in their area or direct from HBO, Inc.

While it is conceivable that if other pay TV channels decide to scramble, a satellite owner could find himself with a separate descrambler for each channel, Schultheiss does not see this as a likely event.

According to a news release issued by HBO Inc., the descrambler "may be used to receive other scrambled cable programming services in the future."

Presently, HBO, Inc. is already scrambling its signal for HBO and Cinemax 12 hours a day, from 5 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Scrambling became possible when the Cable Communications Policy Act of 1984 was passed since it recognizes that programmers can scramble to protect their services from being used without authorization.

However, Schultheiss questions why HBO, Inc. is targeting the home satellite owners with its scrambling since there are an estimated 2½-3 million illegal cable hookups which will not be affected by the scrambling of the signals.

He went on to say that HBO, Inc. first became interested in scrambling in the late 1970s as a means of forcing cable companies to pay its fees on time. But this new scrambling venture does not address that issue, he said.

According to Ron Letkowski of the Federal Communications Commission's radio and satellite division, satellite owners have the right to watch signals unless they are scrambled and there is a marketing plan. The programmer has the right to charge a fee and then scramble its signal to insure that the fee is paid.

At one time it was illegal for any satellite signals to be received, but Letkowski said that Congress changed the law to exclude domestic satellites and individuals who own satellite systems.

Worried that their television screens will go dark, owners of backyard satellite TV dishes want Congress to block plans by cable TV programmers to scramble the hundreds of shows they have been watching free.

A year ago, legislation made it clear that home viewers were free to point their dishes at any of the more than 100 TV signals coming from space. Congress also made it illegal for programmers to scramble their pictures full-time until decoders were widely available.

Decoders are now being built, scrambling tests are under way and prices have been announced.

But the Satellite Television Industry Association Inc. wants a new law that guarantees that prices are set by negotiation in a competitive marketplace.

That cannot happen, the association argues, if the same company that sells cable TV programs markets the decoders to viewers and sets the fee for each service it is programmed to decode.

Former nursing home officer testifies of falsifying records

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A former administrator at a Texas City nursing home admitted to her superiors she falsified time cards and other staffing records used for Medicaid reimbursement, the company's former treasurer has testified.

James Wise, former treasurer of Autumn Hills Convalescent Centers Inc., said news of the falsified records surfaced in early 1978 when a state welfare investigator visited a company nursing home in Texas City.

The former administrator, Marie Ritchie, telephoned corporate headquarters in Houston about the investigators' findings, Wise testified Wednesday.

Wise said he conducted a three-day internal audit and verified "that the nursing home had presented information to the state that workers worked and in reality they didn't work."

Wise offered the testimony in the murder-by-neglect trial of the corporation and five of its current and former employees.

They are charged in the Nov. 20, 1978, death of Elnora Breed. The 87-year-old woman died 47 days after she entered an Autumn Hills facility in Texas City.

Indictments against the defendants claim a pattern of neglect existed at the facility and that there was falsification of records there. "I found there was in fact falsification of time cards (and other staffing records)," Wise said. "It was extensive."

Wise said he and Autumn Hills President Robert Gay and vice president Ron Pohlmeyer, both defendants in the trial, then met with Mrs. Ritchie.

"She initially took the position that nothing had been done fraudulently," he said.

"But after I showed her several examples, she broke down in tears and admitted she falsified the records," Wise said.

A Galveston County grand jury later investigated the allegations of fraud.

7 arrests noted

Snyder police logged seven misdemeanor arrests Wednesday including one 20-year-old man on warrants for criminal trespass.

That arrest stemmed from a recent incident in which the young man reportedly refused to leave the home of his estranged wife's parents when asked to do so.

Other arrests included three for public intoxication and three for possession of marijuana in a quantity less than two ounces as a result of a routine traffic stop.

Army toughening fitness standards

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army, convinced that too many of its soldiers are passing their physical fitness tests without regularly exercising, has decided to toughen the semi-annual exam.

The changes, outlined last week in a directive sent to all Army units, will have the greatest impact on men over age 40 and women.

Female soldiers, for example, will have to perform nearly twice as many sit-ups as they do now to achieve a passing score. The new standards also will be applied to all members of the National Guard and Reserve.

The changes become effective next Oct. 1.

"Although some soldiers feel that existing test standards are adequate, there are several shortcomings in the current standards which have now been corrected," wrote Lt. Col. Robert, chief of the Army's Individual Training Branch.

Each of the nation's military services uses a different physical fitness test and scoring standards, with the Marine Corps' test considered the most difficlt. One event that is common to both services — sit-ups — the new Army standard will match that of the Marioes.

And unlike the Marines Corps, which makes its test voluntary for those over age 45, the Army is setting new, mandatory standards for all its soldiers right up to the age of 60. Currently, soldiers over the age of 40 must take the fitness test but need only pass a lower, "go-no-go" standard.

The current Army test is based on the number of sit-ups and push-ups performed in two spans and the time it takes to run two miles. Each event is scored on a 0-to-100 scale, with a score of 60 deemed passing. The minimums for that score of 60 differ for men and women as well as by age group.

For example, a man aged 17-to-40 must now perform a minimum of 40 push-ups and 40 sit-ups and run the two miles in 17 minutes, 55 seconds to pass. A woman the same age must perform 16 push-ups, 27 sit-ups and run the course in 22 minutes, 14 seconds.

Under the new standards, that same man will have to perform 42 push-ups, 52 sit-ups and run the two miles in 15 minutes, 45 seconds.

EPA likely to okay organisms' release

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency is leaning toward approval of the first deliberate release of a genetically engineered organism into the natural environment, one that nature already has put there, an EPA official says.

Advanced Genetic Sciences Inc. of Oakland, Calif., wants to test bacteria, Pseudonomas syringae and the related P. fluorescens, that appear to protect plants against frost. Use of such bacteria could significantly extend the growing seasons for crops.

EPA spokesman Dave Cohen said the agency was likely to grant the company a permit today to spray the bacteria on strawberry plants.

Nature makes the bacteria by the billions onplant leaves in two forms — about 99.9 percent "ice-plus" and 0.1 percent "ice-minus."

Ice-plus produces a protein that becomes the nucleus around which dew freezes. Ice-minus is missing the section of genetic material that directs the bacterium to make that protein.

The company makes the ice-minus form by gene-splicing techniques.

Leaves slathered in ice-minus will survive temperatures as low as 22 degrees, the company says, thus enabling a farmer to extend the growing season.

The practical problem, according to the company, is getting the ice-minus strain to survive for just a few weeks, because greenhouse tests have shown that ice-plus overwhelms it.

Since nature makes the ice-minus form and it has trouble surviving, and no foreign genetic material is added, government scientists tend to dismiss fears by some environmental activists that such an organism could turn out to be a another kudzu vine or worse, multiplying wildly in an environment without defenses against it.

Though nothing has been commercialized for agriculture, one genetically engineered product already is being sold — human insulin made by bacteria — and a hormone to treat dwarfism has been approved by the Food and Drug Administration. In those cases, the man-made bacteria never leave the factory.

The Advanced Genetic Sciences Team is nearly identical to one on potato plants for which Steven Lindow and Nikolas Panopoulos of the University of California sought approval of the National Institutes of Health.

Drug promising weapon against AIDS

BOSTON (AP) — Scientists searching for the Achilles' heel of the AIDS virus believe they have found a promising new strategy — drug that wrecks the crucial outer coat of the lethal microbe.

The medicine has not been tested on victims of acquired immune deficiency syndrome. But in the test tube, at least, it appears to be a powerful weapon that destroys the germ's ablity to cause an infection.

The medicine, called AL 721, seems to carry no dangerous side effects, a major advantage over other experimental AIDS drugs.

In a cautiously worded letter in today's New England Journal of Medicine, researchers said this apparent safety "makes AL 721 a promising new candidate for clinical investigation in the treatment of AIDS and AIDS-related complex."

The report continued, however, that "it should be emphasized that results are preliminary and that more work will be required to determine the clinical usefulness of this agent."

The letter by Dr. Prem S. Sarin of the National Cancer Institute and other researchers said that in test tube studies, the drug could protect vulnerable white blood cells from infection by the virus.

It attacks the virus but spares normal human cells.

"This compound is very nontoxic," said Sarin. "It doesn't do anything to normal cells at the concentration we used."

Researchers say that if it works, the medicine will represent an entirely new approach to fighting germs.

AL 721 removes cholesterol from the outer membrane, or evelope, of the virus, changing its structure. Wihout an intact envelope, the virus is powerless to infect and do harm.

Another of the researchers, Dr. Fulton Crews of the University ef Florida, said experts have long known that solents can kill viruses. But until now, no one has considered assaulting them inside the human body by drawing out the cholesterol that is part of their outer membranes.

"Cholesterol makes membrane rigid and hard," Crews said. "So when you pull the cholesterol out, the membrane does, in essence, melt."

Several other experimental AIDS medicines work by attacking transcriptase, an enzyme the virus uses to take command of infected cells. However, many of these drugs also have damaging side effects that could limit their long-term use.

AL 721 was developed at WEIZMANN Institute of Science in Rehovot, Israel. It is being tested in the United States by researchers at PRAXIS Pharmaceuticals Inc. of Beverly Hills, Calif.

Religious freedom defection reason

HOUSTON (AP) — A Romanian seaman who walked off his ship as it was docked in the Port of Houston said one of the reasons he decided to defect was because of religious freedom.

Paul Firica, 44, said he wanted to leave Romania so he could practice his Romanian Orthodox Church faith and not do "voluntary work for the communist party."

Firica asked U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service officials Wednesday for political asylum.
