Southwestern Public Service Reports Ample Power Reserves

"Don't hold back, Use all the electric power you want whenever and wherever you want in the 45,000 square mile area that we serve. There is no electric power shortage in this part of the country," Roy Tolk, president of the Southwestern Public Service Company, said today.

The statement of the electric company president was made as a result of frequent articles in national magazines and other media which leave the implication that the whole nation faces a power shortage not only this year but "in the decade ahead", as one publication put it.

"At the end of last year, when we announced our plans to invest $25,000,000 in new plant and equipment this year, I said, 'ther'll be no blackouts in our service area in 1970.' That still goes. I'll add at this time that there won't be any in the future, either, as long as we have the right to plan our own future without outside interference. We have a responsibility to meet the electric service needs of this area and we have done the planning required to carry out that responsibility," Tolk continued.

Southwestern Public Service Company has generating capability reserves that are 18 per cent greater than the peak load which has been predicted for 1970.

"That's like saying you have $118 put aside to pay a $100 bill that you owe," Tolk pointed out.

Adequate reserves are normally considered to be generating capability that is equal to the largest single generating unit on your system. Southwestern's reserve capability for 1970 exceeds that margin of safety by nearly 100,000 kilowatts.

Southwestern is already looking down the line at its next 500,000 kilowatts of electric generating capability. At the present time, a 210,000 kilowatt unit, the first in a new facility southeast of Lubbock, is under construction and is scheduled to go into service in mid-1971. Projected units of 289,000 kilowatts of capability are in the planning stage for 1973 and beyond.

"With the help of our area development department and in cooperation with other local industrial development groups, I have started to write to presidents of some companies and to telephone others whose organizations are interested in expansion to tell them of the availability of electric power and other resources in this area. We have outstanding people, lots of space for expansion, a superb climate and energy reserves. Not many areas can say that these days and all of us should work to benefit from these advantages," Tolk concluded.

Mrs. Brooks Attends Meet

Mrs. Robert Brooks attended the State Meeting of the National League of Postmasters, which was held in Brownwood Sunday through Wednesday of last week.

She reports many changes in the mail service will take place in the near future.

Effective June 27th there will be window service from 9 a. m. until 11:30 a. m. on Saturdays and this may be discontinued at a later date, with no window service on Saturdays, Mrs. Brooks stated.

County ASCS Director Gives Crop Certification Reminders

Important points to remember about the 1970 cotton, feed grain and diverted acreage programs are cited by Charley E. Hill, county executive director for Castro County's ASCS.

1. Early certification means earlier payments. 2. August 3, 1970, is the final date to certify final acreage. 3. Acreage reports must be accurate-no guessing. 4. No adjustments for compliance permitted after certification.

5. Farm is subject to spot-check any time after certification. 6. There is NO acreage tolerance above the permitted acres without severe penalties. 7. Tolerance when acreage is within permitted is the larger of 2.0 acres or 10 per cent of the certified acres.

8. Diverted acreage should be average productive cropland on the farm. Payments will be reduced if it is determined that designated acres are substantially below average. 9. Diverted acreage must be devoted to approved conservation uses. Feed grain, cotton, wheat, sor-ghums, and most vegetables are not approved cover crops.

10. No crop can be harvested in any manner from diverted acres. Grazing is prohibited until after October 15th. 11. Control of erosion, insects, weeds, and rodents on designated diverted acres is required. 12. Diverted acres must be in whole fields or areas of reasonable size and shape within fields. Turnrows are not eligible as diverted acres.

13. Plant and cultivate crops in workmanlike manner. 14. Observe off-setting compliance regulations. Operators should consider owner's other farming interests before exceeding allotment or base on any farm.

LEWIS LLEWELLYN

Is This the Way We Will Go?

Is there such a thing as too much freedom — freedom to depart from established patterns of life, freedom to experiment with drugs, freedom to discard the accepted moral code?

Noted New Jersey sociologist Manheim Shapiro, addressing the Women's Committee of Jewish Family and Children's Service in Miami recently, said, "The family as we have known it for the past generations is finished." He believes that the pattern of the hippie communes will be widely adopted.

"Our society will become more Oriental in its permissive outlook on drugs," he predicted, saying that within the next 50 years the use of drugs will be generally accepted, with an increase in smoking of marijuana, hashish, and opium.

There will be fewer legal restrictions on abortions, and a continued increase in homosexuality, he predicted.

"Time to Call a Halt"

Is he right in these predictions?

Certainly he has analyzed the trends correctly — but must we continue to follow our present path? Or is it time to change direction?

Dr. K. Ross Toole, professor of history at the University of Montana, says, "I am terribly disturbed. . . . Our household is permissive, our approach to discipline is an apology and a retreat from standards. . . . It's time to call a halt. . . ."

"The psychologists, the educators, and preachers say the young are rebelling against our archaic customs and morals . . . our narrowness as parents. . . . Balderdash!"

The permissiveness that pervades our society is a kind of freedom which destroys freedom.

Freedom to burn, to smash, to break, to violate every law of God and man is a freedom that cannot continue. It must be stopped.

There is a freedom which preserves freedom.

Long ago, there was a Teacher Who said, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

What kind of truth did He mean? What kind of freedom?

He was referring to the kind of truth and the kind of freedom which are the foundation on which a truly free and stable society can be built.

A culture which is built on the Bible will not collapse.

What Kind of Freedom?

If Shapiro's predictions turn out to be true, whose fault will it be?

If we continue on our present course will history record that our civilization went down because we failed to look up?

As Americans, we are proud of our freedom.

But those who misuse their freedom will find that they have chosen the course which leads to disaster.

People in other times have exercised their freedom in this way.

The people of Sodom were free to sin — and free to burn.

The people of Noah's time were free to do all manner of evil — and free to drown.

Do we really want to be free from all restraint — and free to perish? Or is it "time to call a halt"?

Jesus said, "If the Son shall make you free, you shall be free indeed." This is the imperishable freedom.

What kind of freedom do you want?

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

Of all the sham techniques in the liberal-leftist bag, nothing is more shabby than the endless references to "the kids," meaning the campus demonstrators and protesters.

In the first place, the radicalized element in the country isn't made up of children -- the group to which the label "the kids" truly belongs. We have today in this country a new class of professional or permanent students, as Latin America has had for generations. Many of today's militant "students" are in their late twenties, thirties or even forties. University fellowships and grants are so abundant that shrewd, once-young people manage to hang around college and university campuses for years and years. They "study" revolution and disruption while millions of other Americans, who have to work for a living, are employed in offices, in factories and on the farms of the nation.

These "old" youths affect the wears and manners and dress of college students and speak in a special jargon that is supposed to be youthful. The cult of youth is carefully developed by many individuals whose own youth has long since passed. This kind of posing is tragic in a sense and also hurtful and misleading, for it involves deceit.

Then, too, this element with its artful poses also has produced a new breed of sympathetic commentator whose endlessly repeated slogan is "youth". Nothing is more absurd than the over-age TV commentator attired in extreme "mod" fashion and whose thinning hair is dressed by a youth stylist.

The liberal-leftist references to "the kids" are deliberate and purposeful. They are aimed at promoting the idea that there are two Americas with utterly different sets of values -- the young Americans who want radical change and the middle-age and older Americans who allegedly represent a dying society. One hears this theme stressed on television all the time. It is what has been called the Big Lie technique.

The condition of anarchy facing some parts of the country today isn't the result of American youth turning its back on America. Actually, the current disorders have their roots in the old radicalism of the '40s '50s and '60s. Many of the planners of contemporary protests are men and women who have been involved in communist and fellow-traveling organizations since the 1930s.

David Dellinger, one of the notorious "Chicago 7," is one of these individuals. As for the doctrines of the New Left, these are Russian anarchist and nihilist notions first enunciated a century ago in Czarist times. The New Left hasn't turned up a single really new social or philosophical doctrine.

What is so wrong and misleading about the use of the term "the kids" is that it suggests all American young people belong in the radicalized camp. Some of them are in that camp, especially the affluent protesters who can afford to attend Ivy League schools and travel around the country to various trouble spots, using credit cards supplied by permissive parents.

But millions of young people -- the real youth of America -- believe in the national ethic of work, saving, home ownership, a happy marriage, and service to community and nation. You don't read about these responsible "kids" in LOOK MAGAZINE. You don't find them getting the attention of TIME or LIFE or the TV networks. Almost all the space and network time are reserved for the kooks, the haters, and the destructionists.

The liberal pundits aren't interested in the example of youth achievers, young businessmen who are creating new enterprises. They would rather talk in sympathetic terms about those who threaten to burn down everything if they don't get their way.

Ask yourself how many interviews you have seen on TV with young construction workers marching in support of the President? How many interviews have been taped showing patriotic "Strike Back" students on campus who back their country and who oppose closing down universities?

How much attention is given to young people generally who believe in the American system, who embody its fine values and who stand up for America? The truth is that the liberals don't want to talk about these "kids." The liberals are engaged in a conspiracy of silence against young people who promote a sane society based on free enterprise and constitutional government.

The liberal technique is to lavish attention on the young SDS members and ignore the young people who believe in their country. It's time the public spoke up when the liberals start their deceptive talk about "the kids" -- their own special variety, that is.

Chance-Bennight Vows Pledged Saturday In Earth

Miss Doris June Bennight and Steven Paul Chance were united in marriage in an 8:30 p. m. garden ceremony at the home of the groom's mother Saturday in Earth.

James Welch officiated for the double ring vows before an archway decorated with greenery and blue and white carnations. The wedding aisle was marked with blue baskets filled with flowers.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Bennight and Mrs. Paul Chance and the late Paul Chance.

Given in marriage by her brother, Wesley Bennight, the bride wore a formal length gown of white lace over satin styled with gentle gathers at the waistline and long petal pointed sleeves with satin buttons.

Her full length veil of illusion was enhanced with appliques of re-embroidered lace motifs.

Mrs. Terry Widick of Hart was matron of honor. Glenna Marcy of Ropesville was bridesmaid.

Feminine attendants wore formal length dresses of ice blue linen fashioned with velvet ribbon belts accenting the Empire bodice. They wore shoulder length veils of blue net and ribbon.

Earl Keller of Earth was best man. Groomsman was Robert Richerson of Earth. David Dalton seated the guests.

A reception was held in the home of the groom's mother.

The bride's table was laid with a blue satin and net cloth.

For a wedding trip to Lake Altus, the bride wore an ice blue linen A-line dress and jacket with white accessories.

The bride attended Hart High School. Chance graduated from a Lubbock High School and attended Clarendon Junior College.

The newlyweds are at home on a farm five miles north of Earth.

Bible School Commencement Is Conducted

Commencement exercises for Vacation Bible School at the First Baptist Church were held Sunday morning preceding the worship hour. Rev. C. T. Cunningham served as superintendent of the school and directed the exercise.

"NO-PEST" Is the Message

Is there a communications barrier in your house? Do you have a problem making it clear to flying insects that they are not welcome? If so, your worries are over.

Shell Chemical Company has developed an unusual insecticide that seems nothing short of miraculous. It's NO-PEST® Strip Insecticide, a ten-inch strip of yellow plastic containing an insecticide. You hang it up indoors in its attractive gold foil container—one strip to an average-sized room (8' x 10' x 12').

When flies, gnats, mosquitoes and other small flying insects are exposed to it, they disappear within minutes.

Another great feature about NO-PEST is that it's clean, and easy-to-use. No stickum stuff to handle. Each strip is effective for a period of up to three months—day and night. Just hang it up—and forget about it. You can use these strips in your living quarters and in workshops, garages, kennels, and even garbage cans.

NO-PEST Strip Insecticide is sold in supermarkets, drug, hardware, and variety stores, as well as Shell service stations.

Shell Chemical Company is a division of Shell Oil Company. (NP Features)

Financial Facts

By Willis A. Hawkins, Jr.

It is common knowledge that people used a system of barter or direct trade before money came into use. The obvious supposition is that money evolved directly from these barter transactions after people finally realized that a better system was needed for determining values and exchanging wealth.

This is not entirely correct since monetary systems were already in use while barter was going on. The earliest money really originated in religious and social customs. It was used for ransom, purchasing brides, ceremonial offerings and showing-off with various forms of ornamentation. Used originally to discharge religious, legal and ritualistic obligations, its value as a medium of commercial exchange eventually became apparent to the tradespeople who then began to adapt it to the uses of the marketplace.

A very useful hint in baking is to break the egg into measuring cup before measuring shortening. For sugar cookies, cut in strips, squares, or diamond shapes, and save rolling time.

COCONUT COOKIES

1 1/4 c. sugar
1/2 c. soft shortening
1/2 c. soft butter or oleo
2 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla
2 1/4 c. flour
2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1 1/2 c. coconut

Mix ingredients as listed. Drop by teaspoons on greased cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees until set good. For variation - add 3 tablespoons cocoa for delicious chocolate cookies.

TYE COOKIES

4 T. butter
2 eggs
1 lb. dates
1 c. sugar
Pinch of salt

Cook together, stirring constantly. After it begins to boil, cook 7 minutes. Take off fire and add 1 cup nuts and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Let cool. Add 3 cups Rice Crispies. Make out in balls, then roll in coconut.

PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

Mix:
1/4 c. shortening
1/4 c. butter
1/2 c. sugar
1/2 c. brown sugar, packed
1 egg

Sift together:

1 1/4 c. flour
1/2 tsp. baking powder
3/4 tsp. soda
1/4 tsp. salt

Add dry ingredients to first mixture. Mix well. Chill dough. Roll into balls. Place on greased cookie sheet. Flatten with a fork that has been dipped in flour. Bake in moderate oven - 375 degrees - for 10-12 minutes or until set, but not hard.

CARROT COOKIES

Cream together:

3/4 c. sugar
3/4 c. butter

Add:

1 egg
2 c. sifted flour
1 c. grated hot carrot, that has been simmered and drained
2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt

Mix well. Drop on cookie sheet, 1/2 teaspoon at a time. Bake at 375 degrees.

FROSTING

Grate the rind of one orange and use the juice of 1/2 orange. Mix enough powdered sugar with this to make a glaze. Spread on cookies as soon as you take them out of oven.

BLOND BROWNIES

2 unbeaten eggs
1 box brown sugar
2 tsp. vanilla
1 c. flour
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. soda
2 c. nuts

Cook in large cookie sheet at 350 degrees for 20 minutes or until done. If desired, add 1 large package chocolate chips.

Janet's Jibberish

BY JANET McLAIN

Hi! I think this summer heat is beginning to get the best of all of us. Even when you decide to tan, you usually can't stay out but about an hour or you are already cooked. I guess if you're really desperate about getting a tan, you'll just have to sacrifice a little sweat!

DON'T IGNORE FRIENDS!

Around the corner I have a friend.

In this great city that has no end;

Yet days go by, and weeks rush on,

And before I know it a year is gone,

And I never see my friend's face,

For life is a swift and terrible race.

He knows I like him just as well

As in the days when I rang his bell

And he rang mine. We were younger then,

And now we are busy, tired men;

Tired with playing a foolish game,

Tired with trying to make a name.

"Tomorrow," I say, "I will call on Jim,

Just to show that I'm thinking of him."

But tomorrow comes--and tomorrow goes,

And the distance between us grows and grows.

Around the corner, yet miles away.

"Here's a telegram, sir,"

"Jim died today."

And that's what we get, and deserve, in the end:

Around the corner, a vanished friend.

REFLECTION OF LOVE

The height of man's mental and spiritual emotions is Love,-- love of parents for their children, love of children for their parents, and love of a man and woman which culminates in marriage, civilization's high sacrament.

True love is not an earth-born thing. It is rarity, and bears the characteristics found in rare things. True love is kind. It does not alter when it alteration finds. True love is a love that gives and takes, never dying of its own accord. It can weather hardships, sorrows, and all earthly things so long as the rules of love are not broken.

Love -- like friendship -- is governed by the law of cause and effect. The rewards of love are as great as the efforts contributed to gain it. If love is built on a strong foundation of respect and admiration and grows little by little with tiny deeds of kindness cementing it firmly,--with consideration for the welfare of both individuals, -- then, love will live forever, faithful and undying.

Like other rare things, love is destructible. Because love is an intangible thing, we do not always recognize the tangible attributes that control it. Because it is freely given, we often disregard its value. Love is most precious. It is fulfillment of the Law and deserves our knowledge and diligence to preserve it, guard it from tarnish, injury and destruction.

A THOUGHT TO THINK ABOUT

Grace is to the body, what good sense is to the mind.

He that cannot forgive others, breaks the bridge over which he himself must pass if he would ever reach heaven; for every one has need to be forgiven.

A child can ask a thousand questions that the wisest man cannot answer.

A wonderful discovery--psychoanalysis. Makes quite simple people feel they're complex.

Men should keep their eyes wide open before marriage, and half shut afterward.

I can see how it might be possible for a man to look down upon the earth and be an atheist, but I cannot conceive how he could look up into the heavens and say there is no God.

IN NEW MEXICO

Mr. and Mrs. David Irons and boys recently went to Carlsbad and Ruidoso, N. M. for the weekend.

WHAT IS A FATHER?

- ★ He is the man who leaves home in the morning to go to work - - -
- ★ He is also the one who lays down the rules.
- ★ He probably is the one who forgets his wedding date - - -
- ★ And no doubt he forgot to drop the letter in the post office.
- ★★ BUT there is another side to DAD. He is the one who can really understand - - -
- ★ He is the Dad who sits in the stands and root for his son at the game - - -
- ★ He's the man who takes time to listen to his daughter about -
- ★ He's the man mother loves to have at home, even if he is underfoot.
- ★ There is just no way to describe the Father whom you have at home.

LOOKING FOR GOD

Some say you find God just as well in a garden, in the woods, or on a golf course as in a church — that God is everywhere. But be honest about it.

Are you not more apt to think of weeds, or mosquitoes, or a poor shot than you are of God? And after all, you have made this outing to seek pleasure.

But when you go to church, it is with the specific intention of worshipping. Here you engage in prayer, praise and thanksgiving. Here you mingle with people who are seeking God and have come to feel His presence. In the quiet beauty of a church you find few outside distractions, and you know that this place is dedicated to the service of God.

For peace and happiness which comes from really feeling God's presence, worship in the house of the Lord this Sunday — make it a regular practice.
