'63 Tax Slash Isn't Likely, Senator Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., said today he doubts that the Senate will act on President Kennedy's tax cut bill this year.

Smathers, third-ranked Democrat on the finance committee, told a reporter the long delay in the House on the bill and the probability of a Senate tieup on civil rights legislation led him to the conclusion.

"Not long ago I thought it was a cinch to go through this year," he said in an interview, "but I've changed my mind."

Unlike the two higher-ranked Democrats on the committee, Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., and Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., Smathers has strongly supported a tax cut.

He said in June, "I believe that the greatest single need in our economy today is for a substantial income tax reduction at the earliest possible date."

The key to the Senate tax situation is the civil rights bill, Smathers said.

If debate on that measure starts as expected in October and is prolonged for many weeks, it will be impossible for the Finance Committee to make any headway with tax hearings, he said.

Smathers estimated the public hearings on the tax cut might run six to eight weeks, with additional time needed for committee action on the measure.

Based on past experience, the committee expects to hear about 200 witnesses on the bill. Byrd always has followed a policy of scheduling every applicant, although he has asked some industries affected by a bill to consolidate their testimony.

Normally, by meeting morning and afternoon, the committee hears about 10 witnesses a day. But during the civil rights fight it will be able to sit only in the morning and not even then if the Senate convenes earlier than the usual noon meeting time.

The Finance Committee now is expected to receive the bill in the latter part of September. As tentatively approved by the House Ways and Means Committee it will call for a net income tax reduction of $10.5 billion in two stages, with the first scheduled to take effect Jan. 1, 1964.

In a separate interview, Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware, senior Republican on the Finance Committee, said he had secured informal agreement not to begin Senate hearings for 10 days to two weeks after House passage.

This would appear to make it even less likely that there can be Senate action this session.

Williams said that the House Ways and Means Committee had made so many changes in the original bill that finance members should have a chance to study it before starting to take testimony.

Williams has contended that the tax cut would not be passed this year and that the Democrats secretly want it that way.

He insisted they would like it to take effect closer to the 1964 presidential election date.

Police Moves Crowd

State trooper and a Folcroft, Pa., policeman orders crowd to disperse at Folcroft house where more than 1,000 persons demonstrated in protest against attempts of a Negro family moving into the neighborhood. The house was damged during the demonstration and a fire bomb was tossed through a window. Mr. and Mrs. Horace Baker, the Negro couple, were turned away several times yesterday by the crowd but will make another attempt today, with aid of State Police. (AP WIREPHOTO).

Violence Flares As Negroes Seek To Enter White Sector

FOLCROFT, Pa. (AP) — State policemen and four white ministers were pelted with eggs and stones and two persons were arrested today as violence flared briefly among a crowd of 200, many of them children, who milled around a home in an all-white neighborhood awaiting the arrival of a Negro family that bought it.

One man jumped on the hood of a police car. As troopers grabbed him, some demonstrators jeered and yelled "nigger lovers" and "police brutality", while others hurled the eggs.

A teen-age boy was arrested for throwing stones.

Horace and Sara Baker, who tried three times Thursday to get into their home, were expected back today, but Maj. Singleton Sheaffer, of the state police, said business delayed them.

About 50 state troopers joined local police in patrolling the 1,500-home Delmar Village in Folcroft Borough, about five miles south of Philadelphia in Delaware County. Nonresidents were stopped at intersections and routed away.

About 1,000 persons demonstrated in the neighborhood Thursday night and before dawn a fire bomb was thrown through a second-floor window, causing minor damage.

Previously vandals had broken into the home, broke every window, upset the heater and ripped out plumbing.

On the brick front wall in foot-high letters was painted "Nigger's House."

In neighboring Darby Township, has a heavy Negro population, William Powell, 40, a Negro, was shot in the side early today. He said the shot was fired from a car occupied by several white teen-agers.

A white man Harold Weber, 38, of Secane, said he was beaten by Negroes who drove through Folcroft Thursday.

Cars occupied by whites were stoned in Darby Township and several fires were set by juveniles in Darby.

The home was damaged by thrown rocks and paint and the daubing of derisive signs. The Bakers, on police urging, gave up in an initial attempt to enter the house. Twice later they returned and twice continued on their way in the face of the milling crowd. Stones were thrown at other cars carrying Negroes.

Henry said that in addition to his uniformed troopers, he had scattered a number of plain-clothesmen through the area.

SCENE OF VIOLENCE

5 Men Saved In Utah; Dead Toll Now 18

Search Ends, Probe Begins After Disaster

MOAB, Utah (AP)—Five more trapped miners were rescued alive and in good condition Thursday night, but 10 others were found dead.

The final toll was 18 killed. Seven survived; two were rescued earlier.

The five found Thursday night were in surprisingly good condition in the same deep tunnel from which the other two escaped Wednesday morning, the day after 25 miners were caught 3,000 feet down by an explosion.

Eight men were already known dead when two rescue teams started a now-or-never search for the remaining 15 late in the afternoon.

Within 90 minutes, June Crawford, chief engineer of the Texas Gulf Sulphur Co., owner of the potash mine, announced emotionally: "Five survivors have been found in the east shaft. The men are walking out of that drift!"

Then up they came by the lift, grimy but smiling, in such good condition there was little need of treatment. And one of them, Grant Eslick, said, "Sure, I'm ready to go back to mining."

Three hours after the rescue, Crawford had to tell the tearful wives and parents still waiting by the mine what most of them had feared: The last 10 men in the other tunnel where the blast occurred were dead.

JOINT PROBE

Amid some miners' charges that safety precautions were lax at the mine, plans were announced for a joint state-federal investigation starting Monday. A state official said: "We'll subpoena and question everyone who might have anything to say."

The last five survivors owed their lives to the first two and their own makeshift barricades that kept out deadly gases while they awaited rescue.

When Paul McKinney and Donald Hanna started out the tunnel toward safety Wednesday, they came across a ruptured air line leading back to the other five. They paused to fix it, weren't able to get the ends completely together, but came close. It was enough.

Thomas Trueman of Toronto, Canada, propped himself up on one elbow in a hospital bed, turned to Hanna in the same room, and said:

PATCH JOB

"You may have got us only a little air with that patch job on the line, but boy it was enough."

"It was the best we could do, Tom," Hanna replied.

Trueman said the trapped miners could only wait for the rescue they were certain would come.

"There wasn't much to do down there," he said. "I guess we did not do anything."

But Eslick said it wasn't as simple as that. "We were nearly hysterical at one point," he said. "But fortunately it passed."

He apologized to his wife and daughter with:

"I'm sorry that you all had to go through such an ordeal."

Eslick's daughter, Trudy, 20, laughed and said:

"Dad, you look just about like you do when you come home from hunting."

Ironically, three of the victims, might still be alive if they had joined the original seven in building the barricades far to the rear of the tunnel and away from the blast.

Hanna said the trio refused to join his crew in heading toward the rear of the tunnel.

BADLY CHARRED

Mrs. John Pinall, told by authorities her husband's body was too badly charred to identify, turned to a sheriff's deputy and commented bitterly:

"Maybe next time they will put dog tags on them."

Then she burst into tears.

Criticism arose Thursday when rescue operations were suspended by trouble with air lines needed by the workers.

Most of the day was spent repairing the lines and Hanna and McKinney were sharply critical of some phases of the operation, blaming the state for a "lack of inspection."

In Washington, the Bureau of Mines ordered a federal probe and sent a team here. Gov. George D. Clyde promised a state investigation.

Hanna and McKinney left their hospital beds when the rescue

Waiting, Danger Of Smoke Worried Rescued Miner

EDITOR'S NOTE—Grant Eslick, 47, Moab, Utah, one of five miners rescued Thursday night after 49 hours trapped deep underground, sat in a hospital bed and told the story of his ordeal.

By GRANT ESLICK

MOAB, Utah (AP) — Am I going back down in the mine? Of course, I am.

I knew we would get out.

We had been waiting there so long. Suddenly I heard my partner say something, and I looked up and there was someone with a light. The rescuers were hollering, but the first thing I did was whistle.

After the explosion—it was like a coal mine down there—my worst moment came when our group rushed up the tunnel and ran into smoke.

But then we calmed down and built those barricades. We worked an hour and a half putting up those smoke curtains made of plastic.

We even kept one light on for one of our men. He had claustrophbia. But when that light went out, he was on his own.

There was one point when we were all bordering on hysteria, just lying there. It was the waiting.

But I always had confidence because we didn't have smoke, because of what we put up around us.

When those other two (Donald Hanna and Paul McKinney, the two rescued first) hooked up that compressed air to the barricade, it was a helluva morale booster to hear that air coming through.

I thought it (the explosion) was a dynamite blast. Part of my responsibility as a section boss for Texas Gulf Sulphur (owner of the mine) was to test for methane.

And I had tested for it. There wasn't any.

We were all in the east tunnel doing our work. But after the blast we moved way to the back of the tunnel to escape the gasses.

I almost hate to get up now, I've been sitting so long. A friend came up to me in the hospital. I excused myself for not getting up.

Reds Kill Two GI's

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Communist guerrilla ground fire downed a U.S. Army helicopter today, killing two U.S. aviators and wounding four.

In the same area northwest of Saigon 17 other American helicopters were hit by guerrilla ground fire, American sources reported. A U.S. military spokesman said five other helicopters were forced down by mechanical trouble.

An American spokesman said both Americans died as they were flying a few feet above ground to pick up combat troops at Tay Ninh, 50 miles northwest of Saigon. Their deaths raised to 99 the number of Americans to die from all causes in the anti-Communist war.

2 Unionists On Rail Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two union representatives were named today to serve on a seven-member arbitration panel in the railroad work rules dispute.

They are H. E. Gilbert, president of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and R. H. McDonald, vice president of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

The carriers announced Thursday their representatives on the panel will be J. E. Wolfe, their chief negotiator, and Guy W. Knight, vice president in charge of labor relations for the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Provision for the seven-member arbitration board composed of two railroad members, two chosen by the five operating unions, and three neutral members was included in legislation signed Wednesday by President Kennedy to halt a threatened nationwide strike.

A union spokesman said the four panelists will meet Wednesday to discuss their choices for the three neutral arbitrators to complete the panel.

Under terms of the new act, the arbitration board will work out a binding solution to the use of firemen on diesel freight engines and the issue of makeup of train crews. Other issues in the tangled dispute would be left to negotiation by the two sides.

'FREEDOM NOT CHEAP'

Kennedy Appeals For Restoring Aid Funds

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) —President Kennedy appealed today for restoration of foreign aid funds slashed by the House, saying "freedom does not come easily or cheaply" and the full program is needed at a time of "very intense" peaceful coexistence.

Standing with Kennedy at an impromptu press conference, Gen. Lucius Clay said that in slicing $600 million from the aid authorization bill, the House has "gone too far and seriously endangered the program."

Clay, chairman of a committee that recommended gradual reduction of aid programs earlier this year, said he was particularly disturbed about reductions in funds for military assistance and the Alliance For Progress.

The Alliance For Progress involves aid for Latin America.

Kennedy said "it is important that the American people understand that this affects security and the balance of power all over the world."

He argued that if Congress does not restore the money, "This means the United States will not fulfill its obligations of the Alliance For Progress—it would limit very much our ability to influence events."

Asked if he wanted the full $4.5 billion he asked originally, Kennedy said he wants to get as much of that amount as he can but recognizes some reductions are inevitable.

Kennedy at first planned to seek $4.9 billion for aid but voluntarily lopped $400 million from that amount after the Clay committee recommended a cutback. The House then cut the total to $3.5 billion.

Kennedy, Clay, Aid Director David E. Bell and presidential assistant Ralph Dungan conferred for more than an hour at Kennedy's seaside summer home here.

Mundt Says Treaty Vote Doesn't Ban Alterations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., questioned today whether the top-heavy committee vote to put the limited nuclear test ban treaty before the Senate necessarily means the pact will be ratified without reservations.

He had some support among other members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which voted 16 to 1 Thursday to recommend ratification without the attachment of special provisos, but most Democrats and some Republicans disagreed.

Mundt was one of the majority in the committee vote, but in a statement today he pointed out that he and a number of other committeemen reserved the right to vote "for any needed reservations or against ratification of the treaty itself."

Mundt, along with some of the others, said he will study any additional data on the pact from the Senate Armed Services Committee or the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee before taking a final position. Debate starts Sept. 9.

Meanwhile retired Adm. Arthur W. Radford, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, sharply criticized the treaty in a letter to the Foreign Relations Committee.

Radford's statement called the pact inprecise and vague and said that "unless we insist upon clarification now — we will find ourselves in great difficulties later on."

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the foreign relations committee, predicted there will be no more than 20 votes against the pact and he expects and hopes "there will be less."

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., who originally forecast at least a 4 to 1 majority, said today he would not be surprised if opponents mustered no more than 12 to 15 votes. Ratification requires a two-thirds majority, or 67 if all the 100 senators vote.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., cast the only committee vote against recommending ratification without any reservation. He called Thursday's vote "premature," and said his action does not necessarily mean he will oppose the treaty on the floor after further study.

The treaty would ban testing in the atmosphere, under water and in outer space, but not under ground.

A formal report will be submitted Tuesday or Wednesday making clear the U.S. position that, in the event of any armed aggression endangering a vital interest of the United States, this nation will be the sole judge as to when and where it will use its nuclear weapons in self-defense or in support of its allies.

Fulbright said there will be no effort to rush action in the Senate, saying he favors "a full and thorough discussion."

He added he doesn't believe debate should take more than a week.

CARRIER BOYS IN SCHOOL

School starts this week, and your Herald carrier boys, because of class schedules, will be a bit later starting on their routes than they have been during the summer months.

But they will make every effort to be prompt. Please understand that school hours will delay them some, and your paper of necessity will be some later reaching your door.

BIBLE FUND UP SLOWLY

The Bible Class fund received another steady boost today and edged near the $1,700 mark, about half of what is needed to insure the course for nearly 100 high school pupils this year.

Help is desperately needed. If you haven't sent in your investment in this class, please mail or bring it to the Herald promptly for grateful acknowledgment.

Showers Spot Area

Spotty showers, moving in late Thursday afternoon, dampened a few parts of the county but passed over most communities. Best rain reported was about a mile and a half north of Knott where 1.5 inches fell. In Knott proper, .25 inch was gauged.

There was a report of another 1.5 inch rain about five miles north of Big Spring.

Near Ackerly, rains up to half an inch were gauged. No rain fell at Vealmoor nor at Luther.

The clouds hovered well into the night but the promise of relief from the drought did not materialize. Showers did break the heat temporarily.

The Big Spring Experiment Station gauge showed .13 of an inch while the city had only a trace. To the east, Sand Springs reported an inch, and four to five miles north an inch and a half was reported. Coahoma got only a trace.

Texas Electric Service Co. reports showed a trace at the switching station, .30 of an inch at Chalk, .26 at Eskota, east of Sweetwater, and .18 at Sweetwater.

Negroes Enroll At Charleston

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Five Negro students were enrolled without incident today at three previously all-white Charleston public schools in South Carolina's first school integration below the college level.

One policeman was on hand as Negroes enrolled for the first time at Rivers and Charleston high schools and at the James Simons elementary school. Except for a handful of newsmen at each school, there were no crowds and only students looked on as South Carolina lowered racial barriers in its secondary and elementary schools.

Public school integration came a day after the Roman Catholic Church opened its eight white elementary schools here to Negroes. Calm prevailed as 15 of 202 eligible Negroes chose to attend integrated classes.

Last January, Negro Harvey B. Gantt entered Clemson College to mark the first desegregation of any tax-supported school in South Carolina.

Businesses Near Halt

Business this weekend will be at a standstill an extra day for the Labor Day holiday Monday.

All banks, schools, state and federal offices will close their doors. Most retailers, except restaurants, service stations and similar service agencies, will also close for the official holiday.

There will be no mail delivery Monday, E. C. Boatler, postmaster, said. A small crew will work up the mail that morning, but will then participate in the holiday.

Skeleton crews will continue to operate at the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital and the state hospital, but all offices will be closed Saturday through Tuesday. The same holds true for Webb Air Force Base. There will be no flying Monday.

Drillers Prepare To Lower Man 300 Feet To Find Bova

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP)—A man will be lowered today down the escape hole from where miners David Fellin and Henry Throne were rescued Tuesday to see if Louis Bova is in the same cavern 308 feet underground.

H. B. Charmbury, state secretary of mines, said the decision was made after a television camera lowered into the chamber showed "what appears to be a man's body."

Charmbury, at the scene of the mine in nearby Sheppton, told a news conference "as a result of seeing the television this morning it was decided, though there was not unanimous agreement, that we think we have enough evidence for someone to go down the hole.

"The plans are in motion and someone has been chosen," he said, adding the identity of the man — "a pretty husky boy"— would be kept secret for the present.

Charmbury said he hoped the descent down the 17½ inch wide shaft would be made this afternoon, at a time still undetermined.

Charmbury had visited Fellin, 58, in his room at the Hazleton State Hospital before dawn today and showed him six pictures. These were of the cubicle where the two miners had waited for 14 days until they were pulled to the surface Tuesday.

Fellin could not be reached directly for comment.

Ira Mills, state commissioner of hospitals, said "Fellin told me later 'I don't feel so good' and is definitely very confused now."

Charmbury and Mills both said that Fellin was not told about the spotting of the body or image of a man in the TV picture.

Charmbury said the camera, raised up from the 308-foot shaft was being re-adjusted and would again be lowered into the hole for a closer look at the object.

The unidentified object first was sighted early today by Dan Bova, a brother of the miner missing since the cave-in, Aug. 13.

But because the picture came from the same chamber where Fellin, 58, and Throne, 28, had been trapped 14 days before their rescue, most people — before Charmbury held his news conference—treated Dan Bova's observation with skepticism.

Both Fellin and Throne had said they did not see Louis Bova, 54, from the time of the cave-in until they were hauled to safety more than 300 feet on Tuesday.

Charmbury told the news conference, "If we see fit, someone will go down there to take a real close look."

The earlier report that a human form had been sighted said that it was in a sitting position, head bent over drawn up knees.

Fellin and Throne were in total darkness in the chamber for five days before a six-inch lifeline hole was drilled to them and they were given light.

Both have insisted since rescue that Bova was alive, trapped some distance away from where they were and separated by a wall of coal and debris.

The TV camera had sent back pictures of remarkable clarity.

As Charmbury described it, the TV picture appeared to show a man propped up against a wooden mine support.

Charmbury said that what appeared to be a miner's helmet was on the head and there seemed to be a pair of boots "with legs in them."

"I couldn't believe what I saw," Charmbury said. "I was shocked."

Hopes of finding Bova apparently remained mostly in the big hole drilling to a spot where Fellin had estimated Bova might be found. Five holes have been drilled around that area, hitting voids at various levels. Each void is believed to be a side tunnel off the main mine shaft.

From Hazelton State Hospital, Fellin, Throne and their families issued a statement saying they were "eternally grateful to all the people who worked both in official and unofficial capacities for thousands of hours in order to rescue us."

"Nowhere else but in this great country of ours would you find people uniting to help two simple coal miners," they said.

"God bless you all. We will never forget it."

Cuban Forces On Alert For Threatened Raiders

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government put its armed forces on a state of alert today and posted bigger concentrations of soldiers and militiamen at strategic points throughout Havana.

Armed forces had been put into a "state of preparation" Thursday, but beefed-up military measures were reported then only outside the capital and not in Havana.

The new moves followed intelligence reports of possible incursions by anti-Castro exiles against installations on the North Coast. According to military intelligence, these raids would be somewhat larger than the hit-and-run attacks made by exiles recently.

(At this point, telephone connection between New York and Havana was cut, presumably by censorship. Earlier dispatches from Havana had reported the following:)

Sources said Thursday night the alert had been in effect since Monday. The military was understood to be watching particularly for any attack from Nicaragua or other Central-American nations which have offered refuge to anti-Castro exiles.

(In San Jose, Costa Rica, reports circulated of unusual activity among Cuban exiles in Costa Rica and Nicaragua. Manuel Artime, refugee leader who participated in the abortive Bay of Pigs invasion in April 1961, arrived in Managua, Nicaragua, to confer with anti-Castro exiles, sources said.

The Cuban command apparently braced for a repetition of a recent series of hit-and-run raids. The last occurred Aug. 19 at a metal plant on the north coast where there are many oil refineries and factories.

The Castro government has accused the United States of being directly responsible for the raids. It said the forays proved there was a new plan of aggression against Cuba and said Cuban defenses would be stengthened.

A spokesman for a Cuban exile group called Mambises Commandos told newsmen in Guatemala City his organization made the Aug. 19 raid. He said the commandos operated from secret bases in the Caribbean and from inside Cuba.

* * *

Cuban refugees arriving in Florida have reported Soviet troop activity in the Cuban capital. They said bridges and strategic points around Havana have been taken over by Soviet soldiers, causing some apprehension among Fidel Castro's forces.

At a news conference Aug. 20, President Kennedy said there had ben a futher decline in the number of Soviet troops in Cuba the last few months, but added it was difficult to say how many remained.

Kennedy said the primary emphasis of the remaining troops apparently was for training purposes and not as concentrated military units.

Patton Honored With Monument

BRUSSELS (AP) — The late Gen. George S. Patton Jr. will be honored in Bastogne Sept. 8 with the dedication of a $60,000 monument, it was announced in Brussels. Patton and his troops played a vital role at Bastogne in the Battle of the Bulge in 1944.

The memorial will be unveiled by Army Lt. John Waters, grandson of the general.

Fire Causes Heavy Damage At Brownwood

BROWNWOOD (AP) — Flames roared through a two - story building in the business district today, ruining quarters of the American Legion and causing heavy damage in a large drug store.

Estimates of the loss ranged up to $150,000.

Firemen battled for hours to control the blaze, which was discovered about 2:30 a. m. It apparently started at the back of the second floor, occupied by the Legion.

No Bond Set

No bond has been set in the case of statutory rape filed earlier this week against Steve Harper. He is alleged in the complaint to have assaulted an 18-year-old girl and was arrested by city police. The charge against him was filed in the court of Jess Slaughter, justice of the peace. Slaughter said no request to have bond set had been made late Thursday afternoon.

DeGaulle Wants To Regain French Far East Prestige

By PATRICK McNULTY

PARIS (AP)—Diplomats believe President Charles de Gaulle is trying to use the Vietnamese crisis to re-establish French prestige in Southeast Asia at the expense of the United States.

De Gaulle told his Cabinet Thursday Viet Nam — North and South — would be better off free from "foreign influence."

The statement was interpreted as a slap at the U.S. role in South Viet Nam and De Gaulle's belief he could do a better job in an area France occupied for a century.

The statement was made at a closed-door meeting but, surprisingly, De Gaulle authorized its release to newsmen.

NO COMMENT

Washington had no immediate comment.

Some observers believed the statement was intended as belated balm to French prestige, shattered in Southeast Asia by France's humiliating defeat in Indochina. France pulled out of her former colony after the fall of Dien Bien Phu in 1954 and the Communists took over North Viet Nam.

U.S. military power then moved into the vacuum to keep the Communists from overrunning the entire peninsula.

Many Frenchmen, presumably De Gaulle included, found that a bitter pill.

De Gaulle's rap at foreign influence in Viet Nam also was seen as another maneuver for a more important voice in international affairs, not only within the Atlantic alliance but in nuclear war councils in Washington.

FRIENDSHIP TOLD

De Gaulle's remarks at the Cabinet meeting stressed the friendship of France for its former colony. However, he didn't mention the Viet Minh uprising in 1946 that developed into the eight-year Indochina war.

De Gaulle also did not mention the massive aid the United States gave France during that ill-fated Indochina war, which many Western military leaders thought could have been won by better French strategy.

Absent, too, in De Gaulle's remarks was any hint of concrete French action. The general spoke in abstract terms.

He said France has a special affinity for Viet Nam and offered to "organize a cordial cooperation" if the Vietnamese undertook to shake off foreign influence and establish internal peace and unity in all of Viet Nam. He made no distinction between the Communist north and the U.S.-supported south.

And he failed to spell out the terms of France's cooperation. He said only France was ready to help "within the extent of her own possibilities."

Informed sources point out that France is not in any position to contribute meaningful aid to South Viet Nam.

De Gaulle's remarks seemed to be predicated on the notion that the Communists and United States would withdraw from that troubled Asian country.

As usual, De Gaulle raised more questions than he answered.

Governors' Oil Stand Lauded

WASHINGTON (AP)— A call by the Southern Governors Conference for tighter curbs on oil imports has drawn applause from a coal industry spokesman and a coal state member of Congress.

Joseph Moody, president of the National Coal Policy Conference, and Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W.Va., are urging President Kennedy and Congress to give careful consideration to the governors' recommendations.

New England congressmen maintain opposition to controls on residual oiil imports. Residual oil is a heavy oil used for industrial and other heating purposes.

The governors' conference, meeting earlier this month, adopted a resolution calling for strengthening of the government's program for regulation of oil imports, including residual oi.

Moody said the resolution showed that the Southern governors recognized the damage being caused "by excessive imports of both residual and crude oil" to the domestic fuels industries.

He said that while oil imports, including residual fuel, have been limited by executive order since 1959, the permissible quota levels for residual oil have constantly been increased until they now are running about 84 million barrels a year above the rate established when the program began.

Moody said imports this year would be equal in heating value to more than 50 million tons of coal. He declared this "vast amount of waste foreign oil, dumped on the east coal utility and industrial - commercial market" is having a considerable impact on economy of coal producing areas.

Oil producing states have been hard hit by imports of both crude and residual oil, he continued.

Declarer's seemingly double-dummy performance in his four heart contract was based on nothing more mystifying than an accurate count of his opponent's distribution.

West opened the queen of diamonds which was taken by South's ace. A small spade was led from the closed hand, and West went up with his ace in case declarer had a singleton. A small diamond was led to East's king and the continuation was ruffed by South.

A heart was played over to the ace and a small one returned to the ten. When both hands followed, the last trump was drawn with North's jack. The king-queen of spades were cashed and both East and South discarded small clubs.

A club was led from dummy and, when East played the nine, declarer permitted him to hold the trick, following with the seven from his hand as West showed out of the suit. East was down to nothing but clubs and his forced return of the ten was ducked around to North's queen. In all, South lost one spade, one diamond and one club.

After accepting North's plaudits, South was asked to explain his unusual play in clubs. "It was obvious once I counted out West's hand," was his answer. "He showed up with six spades, two hearts, and three diamonds by the time I cashed dummy's last spade. Since West had led the queen of diamonds originally, he rated to have the jack as well which had not yet shown up. He could therefore have at most one club. If it was the king, then it would show up on the first lead of the suit. If not, then I could not make the hand unless East could be thrown into the lead at that point to play a club for me."

Bell Says Foreign Aid Cut To Cripple Alliance Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

ASSISTANCE: Foreign Aid Director David E. Bell says the slash in aid authority voted by the House would — if allowed to stand—undercut the Alliance for Progress program and force a one-third reduction in arms help to countries which rim the Iron Curtain.

Bell also said at a news conference Thursday that if the $585-million cut is sustained by the Senate, the result would be "a severe setback to U.S. efforts to . . . defeat the Communist thrust around the world."

The foreign aid authorization for this fiscal year now stands at $3.5 billion—$1 billion below President Kennedy's request. Actual funds will be provided in a separate appropriations measure.

JUNKETS: State Department plans to send U.S. delegations to 531 different international conferences this fiscal year have nettled Sens. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash.

"I think some of this is being overdone," McClellan told Richard Gardner, deputy assistant secretary of state for international organization affairs, Thursday when he urged a Senate Appropriations Committee to restore $197,000 cut by the House from funds to finance the delegations.

So many government delegations are circling the world on missions "they may be working at cross purposes," Magnuson said. "I'm afraid that the right hand may not know what the left hand is doing."

Gardner proceeded to explain the purposes of the conferences, but the senators showed little enthusiasm for them.

RECORD: Federal civilian payroll costs reached an all-time high of $115,346,000,000 in fiscal 1963, a Senate-House committee reported today.

This was an increase of more than $1 billion over the $14,296,-000,000 cost in fiscal 1962. Postal workers got an 8.6-per cent pay raise last fall and classified Civil Service employes a 5.5-per cent boost.

Total civilian employment by the government averaged 2,493,-374 in the fiscal year ended June 30 compared with 2,443,808 in the preceding year.

FISHING: Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, (D-Mass.) expressed concern today with activities of a fleet of Russian fishing vessels off Cape Cod.

"I have been following the situation closely with the Coast Guard which has the Russians under surveillance," Kennedy said in a statement.

The Coast Guard has counted 169 vessels in the fleet, he said and added: "There are undoubtedly many more . . . concealed by fog cover."

He called this an "ominous pattern" and said "intrusions can be anticipated" from a fleet of that size.

The President's youngest brother is pressing for legislation that would permit stronger penalties, including seizure, against ships fishing illegally in American waters.

UNFAITHFUL SERVANTS

The unfaithful servant of Christ does not make it to heaven striped of special rewards. He was wrong who wrote, "They will enter heaven stone broke". No, they will not enter at all! In Mat. 25:1-13, all ten of these women were "virgins". The lamps of the foolish ones had once burned; but went out. And they failed to enter with the Bridegroom. The door was shut.

In Mat. 25:14-30 a man who was the Lord's servant (v.16) was lost. "And cast ye the unprofitable servant into outer darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth" (v. 30).

In Mat. 25:31-46, people are told, "Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels" (v. 41); and the determining factor was their lack of Christian benevolence.

Dear reader, If you are an unfaithful servant of the Lord, won't you get back in line of duty, that heaven may be your home?

Time To Mend Nets

Sue Bellos of Corpus Christi does some mending on a shrimp net in preparation for the 1963 Shrimporee, to be held at Aransas Pass, this weekend.

Students Home Off Cuba Jaunt

NEW YORK (AP)—Fifty American students who defied a State Department ban on travel to Cuba returned by plane from Madrid Thursday night, many of them still defiant of U.S. policies.

Some of the students staged a "stand-in" at Idlewild Airport to protest a government announcement that their passports would be invalidated.

The "stand-in" ended two hours later when they were told their passports would not be marked invalid. However, each student was presented with a State Department letter noting that his or her passport had been suspended because of the trip to Cuba.

"We consider this another victory," said Lee Levi Laub of New York, a former Columbia University student.

Ten of the students were subpoenaed to appear Sept. 12 before the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

When the group left their plane, most of them walked into the Customs Building quietly.

KISS GROUND

But one student, not identified, fell to his knees and kissed the ground.

A spokesman for the group said five students decided not to take part in the Idlewild demonstration. The spokesman added that only about five "disliked what they saw in Cuba."

Larry Phelps, one of those served with a subpoena, said he is from North Carolina and is a graduate of the University of North Carolina.

"I can't understand why I was served," Phelps said. "Of course, I'll have to go there (Washington)."

Philip Luce of New York City contended that in going to Cuba the students had exercised their constitutional rights and had violated no rules or laws. He referred to the Cuban visit as "a magnificant experience to all."

The United States restricts travel to Cuba, with which it has no diplomatic relations.

LETTER DENIED

Laub denied a report originating in Cuban underground sources at Miami that Cuban students had given him a letter criticizing Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Richard Thorne of Berkeley, Calif., a Negro, told newsmen: "I saw schools in Cuba and no discrimination. The party leaders were honest."

Don Rainman, a University of California student, remarked: "The people have an unprecedented enthusiasm for Fidel Castro. They have not lost their zeal for the revolution."

Luria Castell, a student at San Francisco State Teachers College, said: "Cuba has made some errors. It had to pull itself out of the 17th or 19th century but they're trying to build something now."

Said John Wayne Thomas of Oakland, Calif.: "Cuba is a damned fine country. It works pretty well."

CONTINUE STUDIES

Martin Nicolaus of Fontana, Wis., said he had allowed hisd passport to be invalidated because it expired at midnight Thursday night anyway. Nicolaus, a graduate of Wesleyan University Middletown, Conn., said he will pursue graduate studies this fall at Brandeis University, Waltham, Mass.

The students who originally numbered 59, went first to Czechoslovakia, then Havana. They went to Madrid from Havana last Sunday.

Of the original 59, one died in Cuba, three remained there, one returned earlier to Boston, and four decided to stay in Madrid a bit longer.

Concerning the invalidation of their passports, Clark Foreman, director of the Emergency Civil Liberties Committee, said the courts would have to decide whether such a procedure was legal.

Scientists Hoping Love Will Be Fatal

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Florida bug experts want to play cupid, but they have malice instead of love in mind.

About 350 University of Florida scientists, government rsearchers and industrial entomologists will discuss various methods of ridding the state of insects during the 46th annual meeting of the Florida Entomology Society Sept. 11-13.

Among the proposals to be considered is one involving the germ-carrying house fly, the pesky eye gnat and the blood-sucking mosquito. The object is to introduce a fatal love triangle that would spell their doom.

McGowan Retires As Chief Of National Guard Office

WASHINGTON (AP)—Maj. Gen. Donald Wilson McGowan, with almost half a century of military service and two world wars behind him, retires Saturday from service and as chief of the National Guard Bureau.

McGowan, who has headed the bureau since July 1959, will be succeeded by Maj. Gen. Winston P. Wilson, deputy chief of the bureau.

McGowan reaches his 64th birthday today four years beyond the age at which most Army officers are retired. He was born in Orange, N.J., on Aug. 30, 1899.

The general started out his military career with enlistment at the age of 16 in the New Jersey National Guard, for service on the Mexican border. He is the last veteran of the border campaign to have been on active duty.

As a battalion sergeant major, McGowan went overseas with the 29th Division in June 1918. He was released from active duty in November 1918, to become a cadet at West Point, but resigned the following year and rejoined the New Jersey National Guard. He came up through the ranks and in January 1941 was called to federal service in the rank of colonel. As commander he took the 102nd Mechanized Cavalry outfit to Europe in 1942. He fought in the D-Day assault, in Brittany, Belgium and Holland, returning to the United States in late 1945 and then to become deputy adjutant general for New Jersey.

He was sworn in for a four-year term as chief of the National Guard Bureau on July 20, 1959.

Cotton Farming Income Varies Widely In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A typical operator of a big irrigated cotton-general crop farm in California's San Joaquin Valley had a net income of $79,731 last year.

On the other side of the coin, the average small cotton farmer in the Mississippi Delta had a net take of just over $2,000.

These were the extremes reported by the Agriculture Department in a study of how 39 important types of commercial farmers in 22 major farming areas fared financially in 1962.

Net incomes were higher than a year earlier in 24 and lower in 15 types of commercial farms, the department said.

The greatest change in income occurred on wheat - small grain-livestock farms in the Northern Plains. Net farm income increased from an average of $135. per farm in 1961 to $11,081 in 1962. Income in 1961 was the lowest since 1937 on these farms because of severe drought.

The largest decline in income, 49 per cent, occurred on the non-irrigated cotton farms in the High Plains of Texas, but 1961 on these farms was a record high. Returns in 1962 were near those in years previous to 1961.

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Ex-Dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez, confined here in a luxury cell, claims he was treated "like a pig" in a Florida hail.

"Any time I talked to him he said he was fine," Robert Scharlau, captain of the jail, said in Miami. "He did lose weight because he got nothing but plain food, the same as the other prisoners."

Perez Jimenez, brought here earlier this month for trial on embezzlement charges, is in an air-conditioned cell. He has a television set and is allowed any other comforts he can buy.

MADRID (AP)—More than 500 cheering fans greeted Argentine-born soccer star Alfredo di Stefano today on his return from Caracas, Venezuela, where he was kidnaped and held for three days by pro-Communist terrorists.

The terrorists, members of the Armed Forces for National Liberation, said they kidnaped the center-forward of Spain's Real Madrid soccer team Aug. 24 to publicize their fight against the pro-Western government of President Romulo Betancourt.

C-City Plans To Integrate

COLORADO CITY (AP)—Supt. Frank Wilson said Thursday night that the school board has set up a tentative plan to integrate classes in this West Texas town.

He said the plan includes integration of the first grade at the start of the 1964-65 school term, with other grades to become racially mixed within six years.

Negro students in Colorado City, estimated to number 300, attend the Wallace school on the east edge of Colorado City at present.

They're Ladies On The Links Says Champion

NEW YORK (AP)—Friendly, chubby-cheeked Mickey Wright, who's considered America's top woman golfer, is one of the most even-tempered girls to swing a club.

But if there's one thing that will make her blue eyes flash in anger it's the suggestion that maybe professional women golfers are not very feminine.

"Either you're feminine or you're not," retorts Mickey, who can draw herself up to an imposing 5 foot 9 and glare if necessary.

"I don't see what golf has to do with it. The thing is, we're pursuing a male occupation and some people may think that makes us masculine. That's rather unjust. It's a misconception by people who have never taken the trouble to come out and see us and instead they decide that all women athletes are mannish.

"Actually," she goes on, and you can feel the slow grin coming, "you'd have to go into show business to find a better-looking group of women. We have a healthy tanned look, that's true. Maybe that's what they think is unfeminine."

GOAL IS SET

Mickey, born Mary Kathryn 28 years ago in San Diego, has been the leading money-winner among women golfers since 1961. This spring she won four tournaments in a row, and her goal is to become the first to lead the money earners three straight years.

Experts and women who've played with her almost invariably say that she plays a better all-around game and hits the ball longer than the late great woman athlete, Babe Didricksen Zaharias.

Recently, while playing in a tournament at Brookville, N. Y., Mickey sat down to answer some questions about herself:

SOCIAL LIFE

Doesn't traveling from tourney to tourney interfere with a social life?

"No. We have a choice of just as much as we want. Lots of girls date quite a bit, others not at all. But we always have a social life built in, dinner together and going out with club members."

What about marriage?

"Well, that's a difficult area. It's an either-or situation. You either marry or you play golf. None of us are willing to give up golf right now. Oh, I guess a very few combine the two. But with my idea of marriage you can't. I don't think you can be away traveling 10 months out of the year and have a marriage. I came close to marrying a couple of years ago, but gave it up."

EARNINGS

How much money do you make a year?

"Between $25,000 and $35,000 from tourneys and tieups with manufacturers and being pro at the Oak Cliff Country Club in Dallas. I turn down some endorsements, but you don't have too many offers unless you have a manager who seeks them out for you."

How long do you intend to play?

"I plan to stay at it about seven more years, until I'm 35. There should be a trend down about then. I hope I have enough sense to get out before I slip."

Shade Maid

Mickey Wright watches from under umbrella at women's golf tour stop at Brookville, N.Y.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Is there any way to clarify bacon grease and leftover shortening? Straining just doesn't. I still end up with particles in the grease.

Farmer's wife

* * *

HELOISE

Dear Friend:

Put cold leftover bacon grease in a pan of cold water. Put it on simmer on your stove, and let simmer for about ten minutes after it bubbles.

Turn out the fire and let it cool. Then put the pot and all in your refrigerator for a day. The clarified shortening will rise to the top of the pot.

Take a knife, cut the solidified fat in pieces and lift it out. The soiled water will remain in the bottom of the pot. Naturally . . . pour that out.

Some people do this twice. I never waste my time anymore. Once is enough for me.

You will find (and be mighty surprised) that you will have more residue in the bottom of that water than you ever realized.

Heloise

PS. CAUTION: Never pour hot grease into cold or hot water, or vice versa. Also, be sure your pot is big enough to hold all the shortening and water.

* * *

Dear Heloise:

Here's an idea for little girls with long fine hair that is forever in their eyes, and barretts won't hold . . .

Take their barrett and glue a small piece of foam rubber inside the "clip" part. This can be used on any type of barrett. The foam rubber will hold that fine hair within the barrett.

Ellen Norris

Dear Heloise:

When one goes on a picnic or camping trip . . . little children can easily become lost . . . they become so absorbed with the outdoors, they wander away from parents.

I have found it a good idea to give each child a whistle before we start out on hiking trips, picnics and the like . . .

This way, if the child does get lost, all he has to do is blow his whistle and we can find him easily.

Mrs. Madeline Zachary

* * *

Dear Heloise:

I always bake potatoes in my electric skillet. It only takes about an hour, and saves lighting the oven and wasting all that heat. Those who have electric skillets should try this method.

Daily reader

* * *

Dear Heloise:

We have a large aluminum awning and every spring the birds build a nest at each corner. Result: a not very neat porch.

I tied a medium-sized piece of plastic bag on one corner and each time the wind blew . . . the bag rattled and scared our birds away. Result: no bird nests and a very neat porch.

Mrs. William Campbell

* * *

Dear Heloise:

Here's a tip for expectant mothers:

To eliminate tie strings on skirts (that feel too tight across the tummy when sitting or standing) go to your dime store and buy a pair of men's suspenders. Attach to your skirts . . . etc.

These are much more comfortable "over the shoulders," than a tight "something," across the tummy! The suspenders also keep the hem line down on your skirts in front!

(Mail letters to Heloise in care of the Big Spring Herald).

4-H Books Judged

Record books for district record judging in Lubbock were entered by seven Howard County 4-Hers. Judging took place Tuesday.

Senior girls, entering their books, were Kathy Shaw, in the home economics awards program, and Martha Robinson, the Santa Fe awards program.

WIVES TO MEET

The International Wives Club will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the First Federal Savings and Loan Building. This will be the first meeting after the summer recess.

Quarterly Event At Citadel Notes Birthdays

Birthdays were celebrated by six members of the Ladies Home League of the Salvation Army at a gathering Wednesday afternoon in the Citadel.

Recognized at the quarterly birthday party were Mrs. Jimmy Moore, Mrs. Gene Thompson, Mrs. Bill Hand, Mrs. Bob Hutchison, Mrs. Arvin Hart and Mrs. Jackie Machall.

The devotion was given by Mrs. Charles Morrell and the business conducted by Mrs. J. R. Kirby.

Wednesday evening, 38 members of the Big Spring Corps met in the Citadel basement at 7 o'clock for a covered dish supper. Honored guests were Capt. and Mrs. William Thomas, who have been transferred from Longview to direct the Salvation Army work here.

Pre-Nuptial Shower Held For Miss Joann Phillips

A miscellaneous shower honored Miss Joann Phillips Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. A. D. Harmon, 405 Edwards Blvd.

Miss Phillips, attired in a two-piece dress of turquoise, received a corsage of pink carnations. Her mother, Mrs. Cecil Phillips, and the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Earl Hollis, were given corsages of white carnations.

The refreshment table, covered with a white linen cutwork cloth, was centered with a milk glass figurine of cupid holding lighted pink tapers. The arrangement was tied with maline bows. Appointments were of crystal and silver.

Twenty-five guests called during the hours from 7:30 to 9 o'clock. Hostesses, whose gift to the honoree was an electric percolator, were Mrs. Harmon, Mrs. Don Cannon, Mrs. J. D. Kendrick, Mrs. Howard Shanks, Mrs. R. S. Peterson, Mrs. B. H. Williams and Mrs. Ben Hitt.

Also, Mrs. Harold Cain, Mrs. Bob Jones, Mrs. Bill Hanson, Mrs. H. M. Macomber and Mrs. Dick Davis.

Miss Phillips will become the bride of Preston Hollis, Sept. 7.

Look For Quality

When buying furniture, a knowledge of what little signs of quality and good workmanship to look for may pay off far better than just taking the word of a tag that says high quality. Often, the caliber of workmanship on the surface of the chair provides a clue as to the care taking in making the insides.

Bride-Elect Is Honored At Luncheon

Miss Katie Bess Morgan, bride-elect of Henry Franklin Williamson, was complimented at a Tuesday luncheon in the Gold Room at the Big Spring Country Club.

Miss Morgan received a corsage of white carnations, from the hostess, Mrs. Horace Garrett.

Twenty-four guests were seated at a U-shaped table where the centerpiece was formed of white carnations, mums and kitchen gadgets. The arrangement was presented to the honoree, and guests were given favors of rice bags tied with green and white ribbon.

Other honored guests were the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Kent Morgan, and the prospective bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. H. F. Franklin.

Miss Morgan and Williamson will be married Sept. 7.

Mrs. Arcand Here To Be With Father

Visiting in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rosson, 108 Lincoln, is Mrs. Andre Arcand, Springfield, Va. Rosson is confined to Room 225, Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital, following major surgery.

Brunch Is Today

A patio brunch this morning at the home of Mrs. Ann Gibson Houser, 103 Cedar, was a prenuptial compliment to Miss Lyn Anderson, bride-elect of Thomas Ed Brewer. The couple will be married this evening.

Seated with the couple at the bride's table were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Anderson, and the prospective bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Brewer, of Borger.

Serving was from a buffet centered with a tiered milk glass epergne holding fruit and flowers. On the guest tables, smaller milk glass containers held artificial grapes. Bright colored place mats and napkins were used.

Hostesses, who presented the honoree with a gift of crystal, were Mrs. Houser, Mrs. Joe Pond, Mrs. John L. Dibrell and Mrs. Arch Carson. Thirty-five guests were served between the hours of 9 and 11 o'clock.

Luncheon Held For Bridesmaids

Miss Lyn Anderson and her bridesmaids were honored today at a luncheon held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper, 902 Mountain Park Drive. Hostesses were Mrs. Cowper and her daughter, Miss Jane Cowper.

The honoree was presented a corsage of gold-colored flowers and a hostess gift of china.

Nine guests were seated at a white linen covered table which was centered with an arrangement of gold chrysanthemums.

Leaving Today

Leaving today to return to their home in College Station are Dr. and Mrs. Carl W. Landiss and son, Billy Cole. The family has been visiting here in the home of her mother, Mrs. G. E. Fleeman, 901 Lancaster.

Sorority Has Supper

Games followed a salad supper when members and guests of Mu Zeta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, gathered in the home of Mrs. Louis Wolfson, 2613 Lynn, Monday evening.

Guests were seated at tables for four. Gracing the buffet was a hurricane lamp in a white base, surrounded by multi-colored flowers and foliage.

Guests were Mrs. Doc Pilcher, Mrs. Truett Newell, Mrs. Roy Grandbery, Mrs. Don Baker, Mrs. Clement Twiford, Mrs. Derle Everett, Mrs. Jerald Johnson, Mrs. Billy Ray Badgett and Mrs. Clinton Cox.

The first fall meeting of the chapter will be at 7:30 p.m., Sept. 9, in the home of Mrs. Ed Waite Clark, 2709 Carol.

Assistants Are Hosts

Dentists and their wives from Monahans, Odessa, Midland, Lamesa and Big Spring were guests of the Permian Basin District of the American Association of Dental Assistants Thursday evening. Forty-five members and guests were seated for dinner, served at the Cosden Country Club.

For the occasion, an array of flowers was provided by Metcalfe and Thomas Dental Supply. Dr. J. Glenn Allen offered prayer, and Mrs. Neva Harris of Odessa introduced the guest speaker, Dr. Preston Harrison, who talked on hypnosis in the field of dentistry.

Gifts Given To Mrs. M. Arnold

Mrs. Mike Arnold received pink and blue wrapped gifts and a corsage made of infant articles, Thursday evening, when a shower was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Dunnam, 1309 Baylor.

The refreshment table, where 30 guests were served, was spread with white linen and an overlay of lace. Miniature bootees were suspended from a pink-based arch, forming the centerpiece.

Cohostesses were Mrs. Bob Newsom, Mrs. Alvis Harry, Mrs. Fred Overton, Mrs. Mike Moore and Mrs. Ernest Smith.

Duplicate Play Held At Clubs

Afternoon and night duplicate sessions were conducted Thursday at the Big Spring Country Club and the John Lees Service Club, Webb AFB.

BIG SPRING CLUB

Placing in north-south position for the afternoon session were Mrs. J. H. Holloway and Mrs. B. B. Badger, first; Mrs. O. E. Ellington and Mrs. Ward Hall, second; Mrs. R. D. Robertson and Mrs. John Stone, third; and Mrs. Elmo Wasson and Mrs. E. L. Powell, fourth.

East-west places went to Mrs. Hudson Landers and Mrs. Charles Tompkins, first; Mrs. Ladd Smith and Mrs. Gerald Harris, second; Mrs. Ben McCullough and Mrs. Ayra McGann, third; and Mrs. R. E. Dobbins and Mrs. Don Newsom, fourth.

The group will meet next on Wednesday afternoon instead of Tuesday, because of the club's golf tournament.

NIGHT SESSION

Mrs. Riley Foster and Mrs. Rogers Hefley were first place winners for north-south position in the charity game at John Lees Service Club. Mrs. Powell and Mrs. Wasson placed second and Mrs. Ron Kibler and Mrs. B. F. Yeargin were third.

Capt. Kibler and Kent Jones placed first for east-west; Mrs. John Stone and Mrs. Joe McCullough, second; and Mrs. R. E. Dobbins and Mrs. Bill Emerson, third.

Homemakers Are Guests Of Member

Homemakers of the First Christian Church gathered in the home of Mrs. Eugene Thomas Tuesday afternoon. Cohostesses, Mrs. Beulah Morrison and Mrs. Thomas, honored Mrs. J. D. Benson, presenting her with a birthday gift.

Eleven were served refreshments, and they voted to give $20 to the Bible fund. An array of permanent flowers was used throughout the home.

Prayer was led by Mrs. Shelby Hall, and reports were made on members who are ill, to whom cards were mailed.

Dinner Companions

Stephan Watson, 2, of Waco, watches with interest as Speck, a white-tailed deer, and Lady, a spotted hound, share a meal at the home of William Morgan Craig in Streetman. Craig, little Stephen's uncle, acquired the year-old deer when it was just a few weeks old after a hunter found it nearby and turned it over to Craig. The deer soon began frolicking with the dogs and now travels with the pack over the 1,000-acre ranch where Craig lives.

JFK, IKE, TRUMAN

News Photographer Hears From Friends

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Henry Griffin, an Associated Press photographer, went to the hospital, his old friends wanted to cheer him.

So he got phone calls from President Kennedy and former Presidents Eisenhower and Truman. Kennedy also wrote a letter, as did Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and scores of senators and representatives.

At 47, Griffin is a legend, and as friendly, as unabashed, as noisy, as cheerfully democratic as a pack of Airedale puppies.

The hundreds who know him, with his loud, husky voice and his loud braying laugh, were shocked at the diagnosis: Cancer of the throat. And there's relief that although his voice box has been removed, he is getting along nicely.

"I just wanted you to know," Kennedy wrote, "That we will be thinking of you," and at the bottom he scrawled in his own hand, "Best of Luck."

Offhand, Griff doesn't appear like the type the world's great cotton to. He got through a year of high school, but all that education didn't corrupt the primitive man. His talk remained pungent, and on him, it sounded natural.

On Jan. 2, 1933, he joined the AP in his native Baltimore, and soon showed the stuff required for the rough life of a spot news photographer.

A year later, he came to Washington. Then, the war: North Africa, Italy, France, Germany, Poland. In December, 1945, he was back home.

Legends become impossible to unravel.

It certainly was true that he once almost knocked Eisenhower out.

This came on Nov. 4, 1952, at the end of Ike's presidential campaign. The general was posing for pictures in Boston, and Griff was trying to move a clock that messed up the shot. But it slipped, and down it went on Eisenhower's bald head.

For once Griff was mortified. he fled—and returned only after Eisenhower, his wound swelling but not serious, insisted he come back.

It's also true he fell for Truman. Griffin was on a press plane accompanying Truman to Kansas City. The ramp was pushed up to the door, and then unaccountably removed. Griff, always in a hurry, fell 12 feet to the concrete below.

He fractured six ribs, one of which pierced a lung.

Truman sent his own physician, Gen. Wallace Graham, along to make sure Griff got the best of care.

Well, it seems strange to find noisy, brash Griff silenced, forced to learn to speak again and now reduced to tapping out replies over the phone, two taps for yes, one for no.

But his friends, great and low-ly, will be pleased to know the tap-tap sounded jaunty, like a man who soon will be ready for anything.

Some Shows Are Called More Lucky

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—There are no bad television shows. Some are just luckier than others.

At least that's the way it seems if one listens to discussions by producers, directors and stars.

The most common cause of program mortality appears to be an ailment called "bad time slot." This means that if a program failed in the late evening, it would have succeeded in the early evening. Or vice versa. Or that, if it died on a Monday night, it would have been the hit of the year on a Thursday.

Usually, however, it means that it was murdered by the competing program which attracted most of the viewers.

Never has a program died because it was too bad for the public. But television's Boot Hill is heavily populated with series that succumbed because, it is alleged, they were "too good for the public."

Two program deaths last season were attributed to this fatal ailment: "It's a Man's World" and the "Merv Griffin Show."

By general agreement, the best television horse opera made was a short-lived series called "The Westerner." It succumbed, according to most expert diagnoses, because, the same experts assert, they were too fanciful.

Now, on the eve of a new television season, schedules are being studied meticulously, and chances for survival of new shows are being anxiously weighed. Some — a very few — will be hits and some will quietly disappear. Survival will be attributed, as usual, to superior quality. Failure, as usual, will be nothing but bad luck, poor position or that unappreciative public.

Arthur Godfrey will do a special for NBC — a Thanksgiving program. The veteran performer, after all those years as a CBS star, now is free to make television appearances on other networks, and is anxious to get a regular, weekly series.

There is one television trend very evident at this moment: Longer and longer programs. NBC, for example, is announcing several 90-minute specials for this year and is deep in plans for a series of two-hour shows next season.

"Wagon Train" now expands to 90 minutes, following "The Virginian's" lead, and there is the 90-minute "Arrest" and "Trial" show.

Greatest advantage of a longer show is that it is likely to keep the home audiences glued to one channel and reduces the amount of dial switching.

Performers, however, deplore the trend because it reduces still further the amount of work available. With all the long shows—45 this season—and the comparatively small number of feature movies currently being made in Hollywood, there are a lot of unemployed actors around, including some big star names who are available — nay, eager — for any kind of work.

Accomplishments Sadden Hirohito

TOKYO (AP)—"I regret that I have lived 62 years without being able to accomplish even one fine thing," said Emperor Hirohito of Japan.

"From now I want to do everything within my power for the benefit of our nation," he added.

"I also want to contribute to international good will."

The emperor made the statement during a news conference Thursday at his summer residence at Nasu, 90 miles north of Tokyo.

DEAR ABBY

Wrong One In Hospital

DEAR ABBY: Why does a woman hang on to a man when she knows he's in love with another woman? I met this man and we became interested in each other. His wife was in the hospital for a month, so nobody could blame him. After his wife came home we continued to see each other, but not so much. I know he loves me because he said so. I wanted to help him bring things to a head, so I called up his wife, pretending to be a third party, and told her all about her husband and myself. I gave her my name and address in case she wanted to check. She said she wasn't interested in anything I had to say. I hear she is back in the hospital again. Should I visit her there and have a woman-to-woman talk with her?

TIRED OF WAITING

DEAR TIRED: You rank high on my list of predatory women. Someone should put a bounty on your kind. And I'm afraid in this case, the wrong woman is in the hospital.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: How old do you think I should be before I can (1) Wear the kind of make-up I want to wear? (2) Go in cars with boys? (3) Pick out my own clothes? My mother and I fuss about this all the time. I would like your opinion.

"SOMEBODY"

DEAR "SOMEBODY:" Every girl must live by the rules set down for her. If she is lucky enough to have a mother, she should listen to her mother. I could tell you what MY regulations would be for a daughter, but it wouldn't help you because I'm not your mother.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am going to be married in two months. My mother dug up her grandmother's wedding gown and she wants me to wear it. I tried it on and it is still in very good condition, but it looks so old-fashioned! Some very fashionable people will be attending my wedding and I would rather have a new wedding gown. Am I wrong? It's not a matter of money because my father can well afford to buy me a new one.

MIXED EMOTIONS

DEAR MIXED: An heirloom wedding gown is considered VERY fashionable—and the older the better! Most girls would give their blue garters for the opportunity to be married in their great - grandmother's gown, but if you can't see it, buy a new one.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO "BEEN HAD": If you don't mind the publicity, you could take him to court and probably get some of your money back. And in the future, young lady, I advise you to tell him that from now on all he can count on is his fingers!

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Robbery Repeat Perplexes Driver

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — On Aug. 8, Michael Schlafer parked his company's truck and entered the Jewish Home and Infirmary to service a cigarette vending machine. When he returned, $800 had been stolen from a safe in the truck.

The same thing happened Thursday.

The truck was parked in the same spot and the money, again $800 taken during the same time of day, police said.

Forecasts Hits Home In Mobile

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — A force of scattered thundershowers by the Mobile Weather Bureau came true—and knocked the bureau out of commission.

Flickering lightning around the Bates Municipal Airport Bureau Thursday put numerous field instruments, radar equipment and teletype circuits out of order.

"We were knocked pretty well out of commission for about 20 to 30 minutes," William Tilson, meterologist in charge said.

THE HOLY SPIRIT AND THE SINNER

The Holy Spirit works in conversion! He convicts the world of "sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment." (John 16:8). How does He do this? Is it a miraculous out-pouring of the Spirit upon the unsaved?

There is not any record of such an out-pouring of the Spirit upon the lost in order to save him in the New Testament church. While the Spirit's work was vitally connected with salvation it was not through a direct regeneration of the unsaved.

The Spirit takes the part of the father of the physical birth in the new birth. He brings a soul into a new life through the means of water (corresponding to the womb of woman in a physical birth).

DAVID TARBET

The Scriptures are said to be the "seed" of the kingdom. (Matt. 13:38). The Spirit works through the Scriptures to convert the world. (Eph. 5:17). Thus, the seed with which the Spirit begats us to the new life is the word of God. (I Cor. 4:15).

Sinners are convicted by the preaching of the gospel. (Titus 1:9; I Cor. 14:24 R.V.) when we "receive the gospel" (I Cor. 15:1-2) we are being begotten by the incorruptible word of the Spirit. (I Pet. 1:23). And as we are brought forth through the water of baptism we are truly born of water and the Spirit. (John 3:5).

Have you been born of water and of the Spirit? Without the new birth you cannot enter the kingdom of heaven! Obey the gospel today! Be begotten by the word of God which liveth and abideth forever, and be baptised into Christ for the forgiveness of your sins.

O

The Northside church of Christ welcomes you! 601 N. Runnels.

How You Benefit From Our Contact Lens Experience

Science has made great strides in the design, processing and fitting of CONTACT LENSES. Yet, they are made better by some laboratories and fitted better by some practitioners . . . those who have kept abreast of improved techniques and procedures by way of RESEARCH and EXPERIENCE. ■ Some have only recently begun to fit contact lenses, because so many people now want them. Most of these practitioners are using the latest fitting procedures in an effort to bring about perfection. But the proper fitting of contact lenses is aided greatly by knowledge acquired through persistent RESEARCH and EXPERIENCE. ■ TEXAS STATE OPTICAL has successfully fitted many thousands of patients with contact lenses. These are produced in our own contact lens laboratory where improvements in design and processing have been effected through RESEARCH and EXPERIENCE.

The practical application of this vast EXPERIENCE provides you with EXTRA ASSURANCE of PRECISION-FITTED CONTACT LENSES. ■ Because we produce contact lenses in our own laboratory, our cost is greatly reduced. As a result, T S O patients get the benefit of a most reasonable price for contact lenses of unsurpassed quality. ■ Combine EXPERIENCE, KNOWLEDGE, and COMPETENCE with LOW COST and CONVENIENT CREDIT TERMS and you will realize how smart it is to consult a DOCTOR OF OPTOMETRY at TSO about CONTACT LENSES for YOU. Finest quality, precision-fitted TSO CONTACT LENSES are ONLY $65, complete with examination. BIFOCAL CONTACT LENSES ARE ALSO AVAILABLE AT REASONABLE COST. South America In Need Of Close Friendship

"We can only hope that Communists can be kept from taking over South America," Dr. Roscoe B. G. Cowper, Big Spring surgeon, told the Kiwanis Club Thursday. "The countries are backward and are badly in need of our friendship and our understanding. If we fail to provide proof our friendship, there is a danger the Russians will move in."

He has recently returned from a trip which took him through most of the South American Republics. He told of his trip and illustrated his talk with color slides he made of cities, towns and people.

Announcement was made that a ladies night is planned for Thursday, Sept. 5. This meeting at 7 p.m. will be at the Cosden Country Club. Purpose of the meeting is to welcome John Moravcik, Odessa, lieutenant governor of Kiwanis Clubs of this district. It will be his first official visit to the club.

OIL REPORT

Wildcat To Check Deep Formation

The hunt for oil from the Wolfcamp in northern Sterling County continues. Chambers and Kennedy and Champlin, Midland operators, have filed a new location seeking this pay formation.

No. 1 Foster, about 10 miles north of Sterling City, is a rank wildcat projected to 6,200 feet. It is about seven miles southeast of the Triple M (Wolfcamp) field in an area which has been drilled unsuccessfully before. The site is one mile southwest of an 8,384-foot Ellenburger test which was plugged and abandoned March 27, 1948 and one mile northeast of an 8,469-foot duster abandoned Dec. 24, 1955.

Location is 660 feet from the west and 710 feet from the north line of section 55-2, H&TC survey, on a 40-acre lease.

New Field Gets Site

A third location has been filed for the recently-opened MAK (Spraberry) field in Martin County. The new project is spotted by Gordon Knox and Associates, who opened the field, as No. 1-A University.

The new venture is slated to bottom at 9,000 feet by rotary tool C NW SW, section 42-6, University Lands survey, about 16 miles northwest of Tarzan. It is on a 160-acre lease.

Currently Keystone Drilling Co. of Midland is attempting to complete No. 1 University as a one-mile southeast extension to the field.

Two other area projects are slated to be drilled. In Howard County Soconomy Mobil Oil Co. has filed No. 26 DD Dora Roberts for deepening to 2,100 feet. Location is on a 480-acre lease about 13 miles southeast of Big Spring and 786 feet from the north and 2,314 feet from the west lines of section 136-29, W&NW survey.

A Mitchell County prospect is Coastal States Gas Production Co. of Abilene No. 2 L. E. A. Smart, which spots 330 feet from the north and 1,640 feet from the east lines of section 16-28-1n, T&P survey. This Westbrook location will be drilled to 3,100 feet by rotary on a 220-acre lease about 4½ miles northwest of Westbrook.

DAILY DRILLING

DAWSON

Monsanto Chemical Co., Midland, No. 1 Gordon, half-mile south of the Triple D (Pennsylvanian) pool, is making hole below 3,800 feet. It is slated to test the Wolfcamp with a projected bottom of 9,000 feet. Location is 1,000 feet from the north and 700 feet from the west lines of section 3-3, D. L. Cunningham survey, about 11 miles northwest of Lamesa.

Cities Service No. 1-A Miers is drilling out cement after squeezing the third stage with 100 sacks. The project is bottomed at 8,416 feet and has been plugged back to 8,334 feet. Drillsite is 550 feet from the south and 1,650 feet from the west lines of section 2-3, D. L. Cunningham survey.

Prisoner Cuts Wrists

James R. Sims, 28, indicted Tuesday for rape, was removed to the Big Spring State Hospital late Thursday after he slashed both wrists with a razor blade in his Howard County jail cell.

Miller Harris, sheriff, said that Sims lost a considerable quantity of blood. He was first taken to Cowper Hospital and Clinic where the cuts on his wrists were treated. Harris then took the prisoner to the state hospital and papers for his admission for observation were obtained.

The sheriff said that apparently the injured man is making satisfactory progress today.

Frank Glasscock, jailer, said that Sims was in the cell block with a number of other prisoners Thursday about 2:30 p.m. His wife had visited him a short time earlier, and he had signed some papers she had with her. She left and said she would be back in a little while to bring her husband some spending money.

While she was gone, Glasscock said that Sims joined the other prisoners in the open area in the cell block. Suddenly he left the group, the jailer said, and went into a cell. A few seconds later he called for help. "I'm bleeding to death," he cried.

Sims, 1203 Ridgeroad, a switchman for the Texas and Pacific Railway, is under indictment for allegedly criminally assaulting his teen-aged stepdaughter. Bond was set in his case at $10,000.

Employment Agency Joins National Unit

The Big Spring Employment Agency has been accepted into membership of the National Personnel Association. The NPA is a franchised group of 92 private agencies located across the United States. Membership is by invitation only, and it furnishes a link between agencies for quality job openings and placements on a national as well as local basis.

More Debris, Gear Spotted In Jet Search

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Search planes and surface vessels turned up more debris today in an intensive hunt for survivors of two Air Force KC135 jet tanker planes that may have gone down about 335 miles southwest of Bermuda with 11 crewmen aboard.

"One pilot described the areas as a 'floating junkyard'," said John Vandegrift, spokesman for the Air Rescue Service Center at Orlando Air Force Base, Fla.

Vandegrift said the debris, including parts of KC135 aircraft, a pilot's helmet, life rafts, and survival suits, were scattered over a ten-mile area.

Coast Guard headquarters in New York, in charge of the overall rescue operation, said that the cutter Owasco had picked up a number of items normally carried by planes about 335 miles southwest of Bermuda.

The guard said the items, which included navigation charts, pieces of plywood and various rubber products, all had Air Force markings.

Debris indicated the planes might have plunged into the Atlantic about 750 miles east-northeast of Miami. It was located in an oil slick and airplane panels were found in the area.

The Air Force refused to comment on the possibility of a collision.

The key items were three liferafts, identified as the kind the four-engine KC135s would have carried. Each plane would have had only two aboard, the Air Rescue Service said. The rafts were found within 60 miles of each other.

West Texas Tantalized By Light Rains

By The Associated Press

Showers and occasional brisk thunderstorms churned down the Red River Valley from west to east and spattered a few West Texas points Friday.

They stemmed from the same turbulence—stirred up by a mild cool front—which sent two tornadoes dipping to earth briefly near Plainview in the Panhandle-Plains sector late Thursday. Both funnel clouds spun harmlessly back aloft.

As for the dawdling cool front, its forward edge by daylight Friday lay along a line linking Longview, Hillsboro, San Angelo and an area just north of Del Rio.

The cooler air started pushing into Texas 24 hours earlier. It held temperatures at some points in its wake 20 degrees lower Thursday than they were the day before. Scorching heat kept its grip on the rest of the state.

Light showers dotted the broad area from El Paso to Texarkana to raise tantalizing hopes Thursday, but none was heavy enough to afford real relief from protracted drought.

By early Friday a broken area of showers and a few heavy thunderstorms stretched over a sector including Wichita Falls, Bowie, Archer City, Denton, Denison, Bonham, Paris, Sulphur Springs, Clarksville and Mount Pleasant.

Scattered showers fell southwest of Lubbock on the South Plains and around El Paso.

Weather Bureau observers expected shower activity along the Red River, which at times covered a belt 60 miles wide, to spread slowly southward, cooling as it advanced. The showers were due to continue Saturday in Central and South Texas.

Heavy Highway Travel Forecast

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Safety Council predicted today that highway travel this weekend will be the heaviest in history for a Labor Day holiday period.

Statisticians figured it will total 8.4 billion miles.

The council had estimated earlier that between 430 and 520 Americans may die in traffic accidents in the period that begins at 6 p.m. today and ends at midnight Monday.

* * *

AUSTIN (AP)—About 150 extra cops will patrol highways over the long Labor Day weekend in an effort to keep the highway death toll below the predicted 31 fatalities. Last year, 32 persons died in Labor Day accidents.

Graveside Rites For Lupo Baby

Bradley David Lupo, 9-day-old son of S. Sgt. and Mrs. Lonnie J. Lupo, 1510 Robin, died at 5:30 a.m. Friday in a hospital here. The baby was born Aug. 23.

Graveside rites will be at 10 a.m. Saturday with Lt. Col. Benjamin F. Meacham, wing chaplain at Webb AFB, officiating. Arrangements will be in charge of Nalley - Pickle Funeral Home at Trinity Memorial Park.

Survivors are the parents; two brothers, Larry Eugene and Franz Peter Lupo; the paternal grandmother, Mrs. Corrie Lupo, Marianna, Fla.; and the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Helene Scheeiger, Dusseldorf, Benrath, Germany.

Vealmoor Consolidation Election Set Saturday

VEALMOOR — Patrons of Howard County Common School District No. 25 (Vealmoor) go to the polls Saturday to say whether they want to consolidate their school with Borden County Independent School District.

The election, which will match a similiar vote being cast in Borden County, will be held in the Vealmoor school. Mrs. Leoland Edwards, judge of the election, said polls open at 8 a.m. Voting closes at 7 p.m.

All qualified electors who reside in the school district are entitled to vote.

This will be the second attempt to consolidate Vealmoor school with another district. The last election on this questiion was Nov. 18, 1961. At that time, a proposal was before the patrons to consolidate with Sands Consolidated school (Ackerly). In this election, the proposed consolidation was rejected by the narrow margin of three votes. Thirty-two patrons of Vealmoor voted against the proposal and 29 favored it.

The Herald incorrectly said in a previous story that an election was held to consolidate with Borden County. This is the first vote on a proposed merger of these two districts.

Youngsters iin the Vealmoor district go to junior high school and to senior high school in other districts than their own. The Vealmoor school does not teach beyond the sixth grade. It is now in the fifth day of its new school year and so far the enrollment is 16. This is a few less than enrolled at the beginning of school in 1962.

Some of the older children liiving in the district attended secondary schools at Gail. Others go to Sands.

The Vealmoor district extends across the county line and a part of iits territory is in Borden County. The school house itself is in Howard County—just a short distance from the county line. The western boundary of the district abuts the Sands district.

In Borden County, where only one school serves the entire county, all of the residents are eligible to vote in Saturday's consolidation election.

When the proposal was presented to annex the district to Sands, the Sands patrons endorsed the plan heartily. It is anticipated a heavy favorable vote will be cast Saturday in Borden County for the proposal. However, for the consolidated to be approved and become effective, the vote in both districts involved must be favorable to the plan.

Legion Makes New Plans

New officers for 1963-64 took over operation of the Howard County Post of the American Legion Thursday night. Commander Tim Jones announced some committee appointments and was given approval for a renovation program of the Legion Home.

Jones announced re - appointment of Dr. Halvard T. Hanson to head the Americanism Committee. The committee, with the organization's largest budget, conducts the Legion's youth program. Under Dr. Hanson, the program reached an all time high last year and finances and adult leadership for further expansion are being requested.

Joe Maenner, Air Force Sergeant, who completed a successful year as officer in charge of house activities, assumes membership responsibilities as first vice commander. The "mileage" on Legion dues plus some work, equals the biggest bargain in Americanism, he said in inviting membership of all veterans.

Renovation of the Legion Home is to be under direction of Tommy Stephens and work parties are called for Saturday, Sunday afternoon and Monday.

Jack Pearson, who has headed the Legion Baseball program for teenagers for many years, announced that his budget was in the black and that scouting for the spring team is under way.

A meeting of the executive committee will be held Tuesday night to begin plans for the Oct. 26-27 convention of the 19th District, Jones announced.

Charles C. Robey and Sgt. Leonard Barlow announced a family and friends night each Saturday at the Legion Home.

MINE

operations were suspended. They wanted to go into the mine to assist workers, but the firm refused because of their ordeal.

Hanna, shortly before, had walked dramatically out of the hospital, telling McKinney:

"We know where those guys are, let's go get 'em."

They said expansion of the fresh air base "was something we told them should have been done a long time ago."

18 MONTHS

Hanna claimed he hadn't seen a state inspector in the mine in the 18 months he had worked there. "The state was responsible for not inspecting and enforcing state laws," he said. "There was no safety program down there."

But Texas Gulf said supervisors inspected the mine daily for gas, ventilation and roof conditions. Steve Hatsis, state mine inspector, said a state inspector had been assigned to the mine and that he had heard of nothing improper.

State records show 10 inspections had been made since May 24 1961. Three were investigations of fatal accidents. There also was a fourth accident.

The U.S. Bureau of Mines said it also probed the four fatal accidents, and said three were preventable. The bureau said the fourth, involved an outburst of rock, which "is not entirely controllable."

But the bureau assigned three scientists to the mine to study and measure rock stresses.

NARROW ESCAPE

"These three men had just come off shift before the explosion occurred and narrowly escaped with their own lives," the bureau said.

Casper A. Nelson, safety inspector for the Utah Industrial Commission, said some of the 18 victims apparently were killed instantly, other died later of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Bodies of three men were found with their heads in a ventilation pipe, a vain effort to get air.

Frank Tippie, general manager for Texas Gulf here said bodies of the victims were so disfigured identification will be difficult.

Tippie rejected claims safety precautions were lax. "I think we have maintained good safety regulations all along, and I think we'll tend to be even more careful after this."

Nelson said he now had reason to believe the explosion didn't occur at the end of one tunnel as first believed.

He said it probably was "near the base of the main shaft." He said some objects at the bottom of the shaft were blown in one direction, some in the other.

Enrollment Picking Up

The second day of school Thursday found 110 pupils added to the rolls, bringing the enrollment figure to 7,152 pupils. The count Wednesday was 7,043 students.

"I do not expect any large increase until Tuesday, when the Labor Day Holiday ends and everyone settles down for another school year," Sebron B. Williams, assistant superintendent, said.

At this point the enrollment is ranging upwards of 100 more than the same time last year, indicat- over 7,600 students. The 1962-63 high was 7,484.

New facilities pressed into service have alleviated crowding which existed last year at some schools. At this time only at College Heights do some classes have 30 or more pupils. The Kentwood School is not serving as many pupils as was expected. There were only 55 enrolled at the school Thursday, about half the number the school can handle.

A breakdown of the enrollments shows 4,114 pupils in elementary grades, 807 at Runnels Junior High, 820 at Goliad, 64 at Lakeview, 1,248 at the high school and 99 in Special Education.

Man Injured In Fracas

Bobbie J. Land, 809 Runnels, was taken to Howard County Hospital about 2 a.m. today for treatment of injuries received in an affray. Police were called to investigate, but the man has been unable to talk. Investigation revealed that he was assaulted by some unknown man about four hours before he was taken to the hospital with a broken jaw, missing teeth, and other face and head injuries.

Police, said Land indicated he does not know who assaulted him.

A minor accident was investigated at Northwest Seventh and Lamesa Drive at 1:30 p.m. Thursday. Drivers of vehicles involved were Loretta Boyd Burley, 510 NE 11th, and Stanley Henry Hudson, 815 W. 3rd.

A walking-type lawn sprinkler was reported stolen several days ago from the Byron Lillie home, 1717 Harvard.

A report of "kids" trying to break into a pay telephone was investigated. Police reported the "kids" talking to a girl.

Sailor Convicted In Murder Trial

BEAUMONT A(P) — Lloyd Champagne, 26, a seaman from Duson, La., was convicted of murder today and given a 99 year sentence.

He was charged in the March 17 shooting of a Port Arthur cab driver, Herbert Hebert, 37, who was found shot to death in a drainage ditch.

Jehovah Witnesses Leave For Meeting

Members of the Big Spring Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses left this week for an eight-day international convention at the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif., Sept. 1-8.

A total of 22 members of the religious group will join other delegates at the Rose Bowl who are coming from all 50 states and 34 foreign countries.

A. D. Turman, presiding minister of the Big Spring congregation, said that all meetings of the local congregation will be cancelled until after the convention.

A total of 40,000 delegates will be placed through the convention rooming department. Other volunteers are staffing information booths throughout the greater Los Angeles area to provide conventioners with travel data, freeway routes and location of accommodations in relation to the convention site.

Base Civilians Receive Awards

Ten civil service employes at Webb AFB this week received awards ranging from $15 to $65 for suggestions which the board believed would improve the overall operation of the base, or would result in savings to the government.

Those receiving awards were: Mrs. Dorothy Baker, $15; Mrs. Barbara J. Daniel, $15; Mrs. Ruth Gibson, $15; Robert L. Mullins, $15; William H. Bokelman, $65; Clarence V. Bowen, $15; Thomas J. Dimphl, $15; Arthur B. Parker, $35; Elton A. Weaver, $40; William A. Shafer, $20.

Man Released In Contempt Case

George H. Loflin, held to be in contempt of 118th District Court late Thursday afternoon and ordered to jail until he purged himself of contempt, was released from custody Friday morning. He posted the $325 the court had ruled he owed in back payments to his divorced wife for child support and the costs in the case. His former wife had filed a complaint against him alleging he was not complying with the order of the court relative to child support payments.

Labor Official Sees Increase In Politics

HOUSTON (AP) — The president of the Texas AFL-CIO says increased allocations for political and educational work approved by delegates will enable the labor organization to play a decisive role in the 1964 state and national elections.

Hank Brown sounded the optimistic note as delegates to a week - long convention adopted what Brown called an ambitious legislative program.

The delegates gave a vote of confidence to Brown and Sec.-Treas. Roy Evans of Austin not only by re-electing them for another two years but by also approving the programs and plans the two had recommended.

Brown had no opposition. Evans defeated Allan Maley of Dallas 90,452 to 40,820.

CONVENTION SITE

For the 1964 convention, the executive board will choose between Dallas, Brownsville or Auston in a few months.

Brown said the legislative program is "quite ambitious."

The program ranged from a demand that the State Unemployment Compensation Act and Commission be abolished to renewed opposition to the bracero Mexican labor program.

Delegates voted to refuse to support any statewide candidate whose platform includes retention of the state's controversial right-to-work law. The vote was an indirect slap at Gov. John Connally.

The convention asked the nation AFL-CIO to set up a "supreme court" of labor to assure speedy settlements of jurisdictional and other disputes.

The union products and services committee apparently watered down, a resolution involving the Coca Cola Co. Brown had indicated action would be sought against the company but the convention voted only to call alleged "anti-union actions" at Big Spring to the attention of all union members in that area.

A resolution asked the House Un-American Affairs Committee to investigate the John Birch Society "and other so - called civic and religious groups" to determine if they are Communist-directed and influenced.

The Latin - American affairs report opposed any extension of the bracero program and reaffirmed approval of the so - called Aliance for Progress program.

The convention asked all union members not to patronize the El Paso Natural Gas Co. because of alleged "disregard for the rights of Texas working people."

County Takes Gas, Oil Pacts

Gasoline to be used by the Howard County road and bridge department vehicles and equipment in the year ahead will cost the county 13.64 cents per gallon. A contract was made with Gulf Thursday to supply the fuel.

Gulf was also awarded contract to supply Diesel motor oil at 74 cents per gallon and hydraulic oil at 35 cents a gallon. Gas motor oil contract went to Mobil for 47 cents a gallon.

Conoco will supply transmission differential oil at 10.3 cents a pound; lubricating grease at 13 cents per pound; and diesel fuel at 10.58 cents per gallon.

New Substation To Open Sept. 3

Big Spring post office substation No. 4 will be in operation Sept. 3 at Toby's Drive-In grocery, Birdwell and Marcy Drive.

E. C. Boatler, postmaster, said the drive-in's bid of $600 a year for the station had been accepted and the new place will be put in service.

Like other substations, letters and packages can be mailed, money orders and stamps purchased, and other postal services obtained at the new station.

He said that residents of Kentwood, Worth Peeler Addition and other areas in the district had been asking for a substation post office in their vicinity.

Turkey Crop

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department estimated today that 92.7 million turkeys will be raised this year, about the same as last year's crops.

U.S. Turncoat 'Disillusioned'

HONG KONG (AP)—Albert Belhomme, a U.S. Army turncoat in the Korean War, came out of Red China today, disillusioned with communism.

The former sergeant from Ashland, Pa., entered Hong Kong accompanied by his Chinese wife, Hsio Ying, 28, and their three sons, ranging from 1 to 6 years. All looked fit and happy.

Belhomme, 34-year-old native of Belgium, said he planned to take his family to Antwerp, Belgium, in a few days. He said his mother still lives at Ashland.

Sources at Ashland, however, said Belhomme's mother had left there some years ago, that her whereabouts was not known, and that the sergeant had no other relatives there.

He was the second turncoat to cross the border this month after nearly 10 years in Communist China. The other, Lowell Skinner of Akron, Ohio, left his Chinese wife behind and returned to the United States.

"I was burned politically," Belhomme told newsmen at the border. "I was politically disillusioned.

"My main concern now is my family. I want my children to have a better future."

Retired Persons Housing Mapped

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston corporation has drawn plans for a $14 million housing project for retired persons in the Conroe area.

A spokesman for the Guidemaster Corp. said a 500-acre tract about 8 miles northeast of Conroe has been purchased.

The development will be known as Echo Valley Manor. It will have a complex of apartment buildings one to four stories high, John Regner, Houston lawyer who heads the corporation, said Thursday.

He said there will be 1,000 units, expected to house about 1,600 residents.

This Co-Signer Carries Weight

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A Coral Gables loan firm several days ago turned down a young man's request for money because he was under 21.

"Come back with a co-signer," said Charles Jones, the manager. The young man returned Thursday with another youth and a revolver.

They fled with $512.

Lone Bandit Robs Texarkana Office

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP) — A lone robber wearing a heavy green sweater used a sawed off shotgun to hold up the Texarkana Western Union office Thursday night.

Clenton Fetters, the only employe on duty, said he didn't get much money. He related these details:

The man asked to send a message and started filling out a form. Fetters walked to the counter to help and the man handed over this note:

"Give me all the money. No monkey business. These sawed off shotguns sure make a mess of people."

The bandit pulled a gun from beneath his trousers and handed Fetters a brown paper sack.

There were 10 or 15 people standing no more than 15 feet from the office door during the robbery. The man escaped on foot.

Complex World

LUBBOCK (AP) — Lt. Gov. Preston Smith warned graduating Texas Tech students Thursday night that today's world is too complicated for an uneducated person to compete economically or socially. Tech graduated 552 students.

Making Bed Comfortable

Nurses taking the first aid course at Big Spring State Hospital get a refresher on proper body position for patients confined to bed for long periods. Taking this Red Cross course are Mrs. Winifred Day, Bill Breeding, Red Cross field representative from Midland, Mrs. Otillie Jolley, Mrs. Bonnie Haley, Catherine Blasena, instructor, and Mrs. Moree T. Sawtelle, executive secretary of the Howard-Glasscock Red Cross Chapter. Mrs. Ellen Tamplin, also a student, becomes a patient for this practice session.

Hospital Nurses Qualifying As First Aid Instructors

Registered Nurses at the Big Spring State Hospital this week are preparing themselves to be teachers of first aid.

The trained nurses will teach fundamentals of first aid to patients about to leave the hospital and to hospital personnel. Similar training currently is given employes of the hospital, although not in as much detail. Later, these same teachers will serve as instructors for training courses to be conducted in the community. They will get pins and certificates.

Taking the course are Mrs. Bonnie Haley, Mrs. Otillie Jolley, Mrs. Winifred Day, Mrs. Ellen Tamplin, all nurses at the State Hospital, and Bill Breeding, Midland, a Red Cross field representative for 33 West Texas counties. Instruction began Monday and will continue through Friday.

Here to teach the course is Catherine Blasena, nursing field representative of the American Red Cross. Miss Blasena is with the area office in St. Louis, Mo. and works out of San Antonio, covering the southwest Texas area. The course is a joint project of the local Red Cross Chapter and the hospital.

"Being registered nurses, these students are not learning anything new about first aid. Rather, they are learning how to impart this knowledge to others," Miss Blasena said.

The nurses will be qualified to teach a regular 12-hour home nursing course. Content of this course includes recognizing symptoms of illness and injuries, preventing illness and the spread of infection, bed and sickroom preparation, correct diet for both sick and well persons, correct body posture, essentials of a home medicine chest and baby care.

The training, which later will include films, can provide an invaluable aid for any family and can be put to good use in the event of atomic or natural disaster, Miss Blasena said.

No intensive program to train Red Cross first aid instructors has been carried on in this area for several years. Now, four such instructors will be available as teachers whenever demand justifies forming a class, Mrs. Moree T. Sawtelle, executive secretary of the local chapter, said. About 15 persons is a minimum for each class. Anyone interested in taking the Red Cross course in first aid should contact Mrs. Sawtelle.

No Dearth Of Crises For U. S. In Far East

By CONRAD FINK

TOKYO (AP)—There was death in Viet Nam's jungles, political intrigue in Saigon. There was discontent in dusty Seoul; economic crisis and international wheeling and dealing in a host of other places.

The fighting, squabbling and hunger were far from America's shores but the United States was up to its neck in all of it.

After 18 years of bloody, expensive American involvement in the Far East, there were as many crises as ever and the United States was receiving as many hot-potato questions as ever before.

The American creed, spread with missionary-like zeal, was democracy, anti-communism and economic stability — hopefully all three at the same time.

EVANGELISM HIGH

The cost of evangelism was high.

In Viet Nam the cost stood at $1.5 million a day and 96 American lives so far. No end was in sight.

It is almost impossible to calculate the total cost of America's attempt to guide the destinies of millions of the Far East since World War II.

You could add the 96 Americans killed in Viet Nam to the 20,617 who died in the 1950-53 Korean War. But that overlooks those who died unsung—Special Forces men lost in combat in places like Laos and pilots who disappeared in the Japan Sea on training flights.

Accountants of the Agency for International Development are more specific in adding up the dollar cost: $13.7 billion for economic aid and $8.1 billion for military aid in the Far East from July 1, 1945 to June 30, 1962.

Surveying the results, an AID man in Tokyo said: "It's a discouraging business we're in."

AMERICAN BABY

There was no mistaking that the "discouraging business" was America's baby. Asia's resurgent power, Japan, wanted to avoid entanglement and continue making money. The French were long gone from Viet Nam, the Dutch a memory in Indonesia, the British almost impotent in areas they once ruled with dash and vigor.

All were onlookers and their attitude may have been summed up in Tokyo by a French newspaperman who whirled on his American listeners and heatedly declared:

"You wanted to replace us in Indochina and you did. Well, let's see you do better."

One thing seemed clear: But for America's involvement, the Soviets' hammer and sickle on Red China's five yellow stars on a field of red would be in many places where they are not.

Here's how crucial spots seemed to be shaping up:

MORE AID

South Viet Nam—$1.6 billion in U.S. economic aid, $759.5 million in military aid up to June 30, 1962, and much more after that.

Filtering through the news censorship in Saigon came word that the war against the Communist Viet Cong had slowed as President Ngo Dinh Diem struggled with the political situation.

American advisers, now 14,000 strong, long have been dissatisfied with Diem's reluctance to grant economic and political reforms that would consolidate military gains. The crackdown on Buddhists soured many Americans.

South Korea—$3.4 billion in economic aid, $1.8 billion in military aid up to June 30, 1962. Strongman Gen. Chung Hee Park, his economic plans a shambles, has scheduled elections for Oct. 15 and promised to run as a civilian. Free, honest balloting was promised but one outspoken critic, former Premier Yu-Chan Song, was arrested on old charges in what was interpreted as a warning to civilian politicians not to try too hard.

TRYING HARD

The politicians gave every indication of trying hard, however, and presented Park the risk of losing the election and the temptation to crack down on his opposition, which is unified as never before.

Indonesia — More than $681.5 million in economic aid so far. President Sukarno's island republic of more than 100 million persons — its allegiance sought by both East and West — faced a crucial choice.

A Devotional For The Day

Do not be ashamed then of testifying to our Lord, . . . but take your share of the suffering for the gospel in the power of God. (II Timothy 1:8. RSV.)

PRAYER: Make us channels of Thy love, O God, that those who have lost hope may find the meaning of life in Thee. Grant that the witness of a good life may be our testimony of Thy goodness and love for us; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Another Price-Fixing Bill

Rep. Oren Harris, (D-Ark.), chairman of the House Commerce Committee, has for reasons of his own given a boost to the so-called "quality stabilization" bill (HR3669) that makes its passage this session a possibility. It is hoped, however, that enough consumers will voice opposition to stall this latest scheme to legalize price-fixing in our supposedly free-enterprise economy.

HR3669 has nothing to do with stabilizing quality. It would authorize manufacturers of branded or trade-marked products to fix their retail sales prices and subject retailers to penalties for selling below such prices even if they could do so profitably. That is the same purpose that has been pushed in so-called "fair trade" laws in the states, which had nothing to do with fair trade.

In 18 states, such fair-trade laws have either been repealed or invalidated. Texas, which has relatively strict antitrust laws, never authorized such price-fixing. And the United States Supreme Court has held that dictation of retail prices by manufacturers violates federal antitrust laws.

The bill now pending in Congress is an attempt to salvage the failure at the state level to circumvent antitrust law. And whatever euphemistic label may be pinned on it, the aim of such legislation is to empower manufacturers to regiment retailers into fixing prices charged to consumers above the level resulting from free competition.

The result would be higher living costs, impairment of the efficiency of the nation's distribution system, and adverse effects on employment and production. Congress should be urged to resist this backdoor attack on anti-monopoly law.

Lazy Language

In recent years the use of alliteration in prose, a practice good stylists carefully hold to a minimum, has become far more common than in the past. The notion that any sentence is the better for having two or three words in a row with the same initial letter has been fostered by articulate men who ought to know better.

Some writers and speakers, instead of shying away from all but the most sparing use of a literary device that quickly palls on the reader, season their every utterance with alliteration. Some are so addicted to this—"hooked on the habit," as they might say, or perhaps "sappy on the subject"—that they no longer make any effort to avoid overuse of this pungent spice. They are like cooks (heaven forbid that any such exist!) who sprinkle oregano into everything from stew to pancakes.

These disgruntled observations have been simmering for awhile. They come to a boil as the result of a phrase that appeared in a story about the railroad issue. The dispute was referred to as "this politically prickly problem." That is a rather promising new tongue twister. It is also an example of what happens when a man grows careless about alliteration, which is at best a lazy way of holding reader interest.

Lincoln On The Racial Question

WASHINGTON—They stand before the shrine of Abraham Lincoln—before the impressive edifice which memorializes a great man. But do all those assembled this week before the massive statue of the country lawyer who became President of the United States know what he really said about the race problem? Would the Negro leaders of today venture to quote what Lincoln actually said in his public speeches more than 100 years ago?

IS IT GENERALLY realized, for instance, that Lincoln didn't favor the social equality of Negroes and whites and frankly stated that he didn't believe this should be established by law or otherwise?

Yet it's all in a book published in 1958 by the Library of Congress, giving the stenographic records of speeches made by Abraham Lincoln in his famous debates with Stephen A. Douglas. Lincoln denounced slavery, and then explained his position on the race problem generally as he said:

"I HAVE NO purpose to introduce political and social equality between the white and the black races. There is a physical difference between the two, which in my judgment will probably forever forbid their living together upon the footing of perfect equality, and inasmuch as it becomes a necessity that there must be a difference, I, as well as Judge Douglas, am in favor of the race to which I belong having the superior position.

"I HAVE NEVER said anything to the contrary, but I hold that notwithstanding all this, there is no reason in the world why the Negro is not entitled to all the natural rights enumerated in the Declaration of Independence, the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. I hold that he is as much entitled to these as the white man. I agree with Judge Douglas, he is not my equal in many respects—certainly not in color, perhaps not in moral or intellectual endowment. But in the right to eat the bread, without leave of anybody else, which his own hand earns, he is my equal and the equal of Judge Douglas, and the equal of every living man . . .

"WHAT NEXT? Free them and make them politically and socially our equals? My own feelings will not admit of this; and if mine would, we well know that those of the great mass of white people will not. Whether this feeling accords with justice and sound judgment is not the sole question, if, indeed it is any part of it. A universal feeling, whether well or ill-founded, cannot be safely disregarded. We cannot, then, make them equals."

In another speech in 1858, Lincoln said:

"I WILL SAY then that I am not, nor ever have been in favor of bringing about in any way the social and political equality of the white and black races—that I am not nor ever have been in favor of making voters or jurors of Negroes, nor of qualifying them to hold office, nor to intermarry with white people; and I will say in addition to this that there is a physical difference between the white and black races which I believe will forever forbid the two races living together on terms of social and political equality. And inasmuch as they cannot so live, while they do remain together there must be the position of superior and inferior, and I as much as any other man am in favor of having the superior position assigned to the white race . . .

"I WILL ADD to this that I have never seen to my knowledge a man, woman or child who was in favor of producing a perfect equality, social and political, between Negroes and white men."

Lincoln in another speech quoted with approval a letter from Thomas Jefferson, written in 1820, which declared that, if the judges of the Supreme Court are to be considered as "the ultimate arbiters of all constitutional questions," this could be a "very dangerous doctrine indeed and one which would place us under the despotism of an oligarchy."

SO, IRRESPECTIVE of the homage being paid to Abraham Lincoln this week for a particular purpose, there are plenty of quotations which, if uttered by anyone else today, would cause many whites and Negroes to denounce such a spokesman as a "racist" or "extremist." Yet the fact is that many people who want to see the Negro given every opportunity to advance in the economic field and enjoy the political privileges and benefits of life probably share the historic views of Abraham Lincoln.

Billy Graham

Our church is very active in foreign missions. I believe that it is an insult to the countries where missionaries are assigned. S. A.

But for the grace of God and men in past centuries who left Jerusalem and started out on the great world mission enterprise, you and I might be living in complete spiritual darkness. Christian missions are not an elective, they are an imperative for our Lord gave the command. Just before He went back to heaven, He directed His disciples to start out telling the good news of the Gospel. This has been going on for centuries. In the past 100 years there has been the greatest emphasis on world missions, not because it is pleasant to leave home and loved ones and to go to other countries where the language and customs are different, but because the love of Christ has constrained those who have gone. It has been my privilege to see the results of this mission work in many lands and I can testify personally to the fact that because of such mission work, untold millions have been won to Christ, bodies have been healed, minds have been trained, and, as a by-product there has been built up a great reservoir of good will and friendship. It is not an "insult" to other nations to send Christian missionaries and to open hospitals and schools: rather it is tangible evidence of love and good will and of the fact that the good news deserves to be told to the farthest points in all the earth.

Kennedy Deaf To Party Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has a tendency to political amnesia when his Democrats join Republicans to do him in. He finds it easier to remember what the Republicans did.

He said once Republicans have made "no" a political program, but so have a lot of his Democrats.

THE COUNTRY has in effect three political parties—Democrats, Southern Democrats, and Republicans — just because the Southerners have gone against him so many times.

They operate under the Democratic label but can make the Democratic party's campaign promises look like balloons in a tack factory any time it suits them, which is often, to clasp hands with Republicans.

Two recent examples:

1. Southern Democrats against Kennedy's civil rights program from the start, are expected to try to filibuster it to death.

2. Just last week they harpooned him when the House voted to cut foreign aid $585 million below what he asked.

Kennedy that same afternoon rushed to denounce the Republicans for the blow. But they could not have done it if a big bunch of Democrats hadn't joined them.

THE DEMOCRATS have such a majority over the Republicans in both houses of Congress they could put through any program Kennedy wanted — provided they stuck together — even if all the Republicans voted no. They don't stick together.

In the 435-seat House, with three vacancies, Democrats outnumber Republicans 256-176. In the 100-seat Senate the lineup is 67 Democrats, 33 Republicans. On foreign aid in the House this was how the voting went:

Against the cut: 188 (172 Democrats, 16 Republicans); for the cut: 222 (66 Democrats, 156 Republicans). If only 18 of those 66 Democrats had stuck with Kennedy the vote would have been 204 for the cut but 206 against. The over-all aid bill then went to the Senate on a final 224-186 vote.

THERE WOULD have been no cut. All but three of the 66 Democrats lining up with the Republicans were from Southern or border states. This defection of the South has haunted Kennedy. There was a shining example of it last year.

That was when the Senate, with Democrats outnumbering Republicans 64-36, killed Kennedy's program of medical care for the aged. That majority of 28 could have swamped the Republicans on any issue.

But this happened on medicare:

The vote to kill was 52-48, with 21 Democrats and 31 Republicans doing the killing. All but 4 of the 21 Democrats were Southerners. If just 3 of the 21 had stayed with their party the bill would have carried.

KENNEDY MADE this a campaign issue in the 1962 elections, blaming "nearly all the Republicans and a handful of Democrats" who joined them for his defeat. It was more than a handful. It was almost a third of all the Senate Democrats.

They Have A Secret

NEW YORK (AP)—If fortune ever favors me with a rebirth, I've decided to come back to earth as a painter—just as a house painter—a plain ordinary house painter.

In a world of raging conformity, the house painter is about the freest soul I know. He bows to no man's bidding, and yields to no woman's whim or will.

It is probably their ability to defeat a woman on her own battlefield—her home—that most makes me admire painters. You have to take off your hat to a guy who can do that.

We have had our apartment painted a number of times in the 25 years we have been married—about as many times as my wife has been able to face up to the chaos it causes.

Each time it has been a battle of wits between my wife and the painters as to who would have their way. Each time the painters won—hands down.

The same thing happens in every household I know. Napoleon fought 12 campaigns and won six and lost six. But I never heard of a painter who succumbed to a housewife's strategy. He wins every battle.

To begin with, the painters won't even come to your apartment until you've got it in perfect disorder. The rugs have to be removed, the furniture stacked in piles they approve of.

You leave for your own work, and the battle between wife and painters begins.

Tactfully, your wife makes them coffee and sandwiches, even runs to the supermarket to get them some luncheon beer. They take these offerings with the sullen air of gods accepting the unsatisfactory tribute.

"It would be nice if you'd do the bedroom first," the wife then suggests.

The painters exchange looks. One silently heads for the living room, the other for the kitchen. Without saying a word they have made a silent pact. The bedroom will be done last.

"That isn't quite the shade of blue I chose," the wife tells the man in the kitchen.

"That's the color in the bucket" says the painter, slapping another brush of it on the wall with the bold stroke of a born sadist.

Each night the husband comes home his wife wails, "I never saw such terrible men in my life. So uncouth! They won't do a single thing the way I tell them."

She tries bribery, cajolery, threats, tears and tantrums—all the usually successful weapons in the feminine arsenal. All to no avail.

The painters go on brushing, paying no more attention to the housewife than if she were a buzzing housefly.

When the job is done a truce is declared. Husband and wife pour drinks, and all shake hands.

"I'll say one thing, lady," says one painter, "you sure got good taste. This is the prettiest apartment we painted all year. Eh, Joe?"

"Why not?" replies the second painter, pouring himself a second drink.

After they have gone, the wife looks around the kitchen critically and says: "They did do a nice job, and I do like this color blue. I guess they weren't such bad fellows after all."

How do painters get away with it? What do they know about handling women the rest of us male mice don't?

To Your Good Health

Anti-Pregnancy Pills Require Prescription

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

Dear Dr. Molner: In the beauty shop the other day I first heard about anti-pregnancy pills. I haven't been married long and am very bashful and I can't bring myself to discuss this with my doctor yet. Can they be obtained without a prescription? Are they harmful?—MRS. R.

I understand you can hear about all sorts of things in beauty shops. If the press is the "fourth estate," maybe beauty shops should be called the "fifth estate."

Anyway, these anti-pregnancy pills require a prescription. In extensive testing they have proved very dependable and safe, but precise instructions are necessary for their use. On occasion there may be some side-effects. A small number of women should not use them, which is good reason for requiring a prescription. I hope that, for many reasons, you will gradually realize you can talk to your doctor about anything regarding your health or well-being. After a few more visits, you'll realize that there isn't any reason to be "bashful."

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: Mine isn't a real problem, but it has our office in a state of confusion. How do you pronounce "duodenal"? The medical dictionary and Webster's say it is "due-oh-DEE-nal," but doctors and nurses on TV are saying it like "due-ODD-ee-nal."—MRS. W. W.

And Blakiston's medical and the Oxford Dictionary also say it's duo-DEE-nal, which I prefer, but the other pronunciation has a lot of devotees. (Pronounced "dev-oh-TEES.") Either's okay.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: How long can a mother carry a dead baby? What danger is there to her?—MRS. F. M. L.

The foetus (baby in formative stages) usually is expelled by Nature within two weeks after its death. Changes can occur in the coagulation of the mother's blood—this can be measured by special tests. If it approaches a dangerous level, then the foetus can be removed surgically.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: My family likes fruit (grapefruit and oranges) prepared the night before, sugared and ready to eat. A friend tells us this is not only dangerous but the fruit has, by morning, lost all its quality. Is this true?—MRS. F. G. W.

No. I assume that you put the fruit on ice, or in the refrigerator, overnight. This will not sacrifice any of the energy value of the fruit (mostly sugar) and will result in no more than trivial loss of Vitamin C. After all, you keep orange juice in the icebox for a matter of days.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: Can anything be done to change one's tone of voice? I mean the actual pitch. My harsh accent is no help. When I find it necessary to yell at my daughter when she is being naughty, or simply in the course of an argument, my voice becomes "whiney" and I find it almost impossible to modulate. I realize that self-control is important but it can be difficult sometimes. I know my husband sometimes finds this unbearable.—MRS. T. D.

Don't expect medicine to turn your twang into dulcet tones. And don't expect somebody to provide you with a "double dip" of self-control. That you must learn for yourself.

However, professional voice training can help you, and in a short time. A little coaching in how to breathe and how to avoid "talking through your nose" can do a lot of good.

Around The Rim

Single-Shot Concern

Few things can attract and hold the interest of an entire nation as a single, prolonged personal tragedy. In the past we have had such examples as the Kathy Fiscus epic, and more recently, the successful rescue of two miners who for almost two weeks were trapped underground in a coal mine at Hazelton, Pa.

THE EFFORTS to free the men were watched closely by the nation and sympathy of the populace for the suffering miners was overwhelming.

The recent tragedy, although not unusual except in the efforts to right the wrong which had befallen the men, served another purpose. Suddenly all similar tragedies elsewhere on earth took on more significance. Two similar accidents, which otherwise might have received passing notice, have been displayed by news media with prominent headlines.

THAT THE incident in Hazelton occurred poses a question. Why could not something have been done to prevent it? We are a nation whose technological advancement will carry a man to the moon in the next decade, yet we cannot or do not keep a small subterranean tunnel from collapsing or explosive gases from collecting where they can be ignited.

IT IS good that the interest of a nation can be fired concerning the plight of an individual or two and that the people should respond in this amazing fashion when that spark is kindled. But their action also serves to point up the fact that these same people do not respond to circumstances even more tragic when large numbers of persons are involved. Men, women and children die of starvation in all parts of the world each day, and few are aroused enough to attempt to correct the evil. Americans flock to border tourist traps and witness misery, squalor and waste even more tragic than that of a man who took a calculated risk in a mine and lost, yet few headlines scream the inequity, few television cameras focus on the problem, few drives are launched to help the unfortunates.

THE QUESTION ARISES— after paying little heed to the afflictions of the masses, do we respond to the instance of single suffering out of a sense or love or guilt? Perhaps it is out of a need to assuage conscience. Now we have had our dose of pity and brotherly love. Shall we be content to drift along in the same pattern for a few years? Indications are that we will.

Consider the public greeting to the mine disaster in Moab, Utah. Using actions of the Hazelton case as an example, interest in nine trapped men should have been even higher. Instead, word dribbles out that some of the men have been rescued and others remain alive in their man-made trap. It is all considerably more casual than at Hazelton.

How To Take Care Of Guests

WASHINGTON—Ever since I heard that the King of Afghanistan and the Emperor of Ethiopia were to pay autumnal visits to Washington, I have been wondering what elaborate goodies would be prepared for their ease and entertainment.

Small nations and their rulers have never had it so good as in these days of the cold war and the high-powered, high-cost rivalry between the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R. for their favors. Neither nation can afford to lag behind the other in the hospitality sweepstakes.

WHEN THE AFGHAN king, his queen and one of their daughters arrive in Washington next Friday, they will be domiciled, as will the emperor a month later, in one of Washington's most elaborate mansions. The government has rented it especially for these two occasions.

For the pleasure of his royal visitors Uncle Sam has rented, if not actually a palace, the large and luxurious residence of George Wilmot Renchard, U.S. Consul General in Bermuda, and Mrs. Renchard. In addition to extensive and exquisite drawing and dining rooms, a library, and a kitchen right out of 1975, the house also boasts nine bedrooms, six baths and a heated swimming pool in a garden setting.

IN THE YEARS since World War II, the United States and Russia have been wooing Afghanistan with a variety of projects. The U.S.S.R. has been specializing in roads in a country which is just discovering the wheel, and Uncle Sam has been building an elaborate airport in a land unaccustomed to the combustion engine.

When I was in Russia four years ago I had an illuminating glimpse of just how importantly the small border state of Afghanistan is regarded by the Kremlin.

ON THE MORNING I was to leave Moscow for Copenhagen via British European Airways, the departure of the plane was peremptorily delayed two hours. The delay was caused by the unexpected arrival of Premier Khrushchev to bid adieu to the Prime Minister of Afghanistan, who had been a guest of the Russian government on a plush tour of the U.S.S.R.

All of us departing passengers, no matter what our destination, were locked in the air passenger terminal while Khrushchev, the picked Kremlin honor guard and a band did the honors for the departing prime minister.

THROUGH THE terminal's picture windows we could watch the handsome guards, each a uniform six feet two inches in height and resplendently decorated, wheeling and dealing in honor of the guest. And we could see Khrushchev and attending dignitaries buttering up the prime minister with farewell speeches and gifts.

A two-hour farewell is a lot of farewell, but the Kremlin was laying it on. When the moment of departure finally came, there was wheeled in front of the terminal building the biggest jet aircraft I had ever seen. Painted a gleaming white, it glistened like a diamond in the pale morning sunlight.

WHEN THE PRIME minister started to mount the flight of steps to the plane, he was so burdened with huge bouquets of red roses that he had to give a few to his secretary before he could stagger into the jet.

If the Russians do this much for a prime minister, it is obvious that Uncle Sam has to raise the ante considerably for the king and his queen. Those nine bedrooms and that heated swimming pool are at least a partial answer.

Suffering From Illusions

WASHINGTON — All the claims for past neglect, indifference, and deliberate disregard are falling due on a kind of nighmarish end of summer deadline.

A sluggish Congress and a harassed executive are called upon to come up with instant answers to long-festering problems conveniently kept out of sight. Whether the system of divided powers can function under the pressure of one crisis piled on top of another is the question asked with more and more insistence here today.

THE FAMILIAR landscape has abruptly and shockingly altered. The reality has been there all the time. But Congress, along with most Americans, preferred illusion instead. What this means in three principal areas we are now seeing.

In race relations the comfortable belief was that gradualism would be enough. Changes were taking place slowly but surely and the Negro was willing to wait. Birmingham and the courage with which the demonstrators stood up to police dogs and fire hoses shattered that illusion.

THE MARCH on Washington was a dramatic demonstration of the refusal to wait for gradual changes over the decades to wipe out the sitgma of second-class citizenship and second-class living by reason of color and previous condition of servitude. Whether the Congress will heed the warning—the long pent-up unrest and resentment in Chicago, in Harlem and elsewhere—is still to be determined.

But it is there in massive and unmistakable form. Apathy, hatred, a sullen alienation from the white man's civilization are part of the Negro attitude. The march is a positive expression of faith by the Negro leadership that the Congress and the country will respond in the American way to a long-deferred need.

IN SOUTH VIET NAM another illusion is being shattered and the reality is just as painful, even though it is 8,000 miles away. To all questions raised about popular support of the regime of Ngo Dinh Diem the American military have replied that it didn't matter. The important thing was to get on with the war against the Communist guerrillas.

Diem was an instrument in that war and, therefore, he would be kept in power. This comes dangerously close to the essential evil of communism—the confusion of ends and means with any abuse justified if it contributes to the desired goal.

AS WAS SHOWN in China after 1945 billions in American aid could not shore up the corrupt and widely hated regime of Chiang Kai-shek. More recently in Laos the choice by American officials of a strong anti-Communist leader and the simultaneous ousting of a neutralist was no prescription for success. On the contrary it had a lot to do with precipitating the present mess.

This is a lesson that seems to come very hard. Now with painful and perilous decisions to be taken in Washington as the regime of Diem nears collapse time has run out.

FINALLY, there are the railroads and the Damolean sword of a strike still suspended over the nation. Highways financed at enormous cost by the taxpayer for the benefit of the trucking industry helped to undermine the railway structure. Subsidized airlines furthered the process. And while this was going on a combination of traditional, strongly entrenched unions and management with little or no imagination failed to move with the times.

A GOVERNMENT that could move quickly and efficiently, and with evidence the will of the majority is within reason to prevail, would bring an enourmous sense of relief. These same crises have been on the boards for so long that no one can complain they have been suddenly pushed onto the national stage. But the stalling can continue, since obstructionism has been built into the system over the years.

It will be with an increasing ratio of risk, and not just to one group or one class or one kind, if it is allowed to continue. The realities of the mid-sixties can no longer be concealed behind the front of an outwardly affluent society.

Missouri's Stored Food

RICH HILL, Mo. (AP) — Food storage pits dug by the little-known Missouri Indians for which this state was named have been unearthed near this southwest Missouri town by University of Missouri archaeologists.

The Missouri Indians were almost wiped out by the Sac and Fox tribes late in the 18th Century.

Stricklan Tells Of A Fascinating Trip

In contrast to the gilded, onion domed Eastern Orthodox cathedrals, the Baptist church in Moscow is an austere structure. Yet four times a week services draw a capacity crowd in excess of 1,500.

Sitting in on a service was an unforgettable experience for the Rev. Jack Stricklan, pastor of the East Fourth Baptist Church. He came away from a six-day visit in Russia with mixed emotions about religion behind the Iron Curtain.

He had a feeling of sincerity by Christians, of the Scriptural soundness of preaching, of spiritual hunger. Yet, religion exists through the sufferance of the government and the pressures against it are great.

The visit inside Russia was the climax of an extended tour which took him through the Bible lands and several European countries. Retracing the paths of Jesus in the Holy Land undoubtedly will mark his ministry henceforth, he said.

Noting the preponderance of mid-aged and older people in the congregation, he asked a member where her children were.

"In Pioneer camp," she answered. All Russian children, when they reach certain age, are required to attend Pioneer camp, which is the first rung of Communist indoctrination. On the other hand, he was told that there had been a 20 per cent growth of young people in the Baptist congregations during the last decade. This had provoked a stepped-up emphasis on some phases of the Pioneer program.

Baptists claim 545,000 members in Russia, which is more significant because none is baptized into the church under 18 years of age. By some estimates, there are some four to five millions attached to families of Baptist faith, which is by far the largest among the evangelical groups. The Orthodox Church, which has regained some of its wealth due to Stalin's deal to avert aid to Nazis, has the preponderance of professing Christians.

Rev. Stricklan found the sanctuary comfortable though plain, the music superb. The choir sang four or five anthems, making each sound like an operatic chorus. The parting song, "God Be With You," brought out a waving of handkerchiefs and was deeply moving.

The ministers—the church has two pastors and half a dozen assistants — preached with power but stayed with non-controversial subjects of salvation, the resurrection and life eternal. There was no invitation at the end of the service. Emphasis was put on the inward religion, and on personal witnesses of the members. Home teaching also was stressed.

There appeared to be pressure rather than outright persecution of the church, if a short visit can be the basis for a conclusion, Rev. Stricklan said. For instance, church vigor provokes similar vigor of government programs which would compete for time and devotion. If the church wished to build more adequate quarters or start a new congregation, the application for a permit would be bogged in red tape.

There is an acute shortage of Bibles. The last printing in Russia was in 1957, and that was for 10,000 copies. Once some visiting ministers managed to get in a few copies of the Bible in Russian, and Russian pastors wept when they got them, saying they were more precious than gold.

Ministers gave the impression of sincerity, but as one might expect, they are loyal to their country.

Yet it is in the church and in the great emphasis upon education that there might be some day a basis of reconciliation with other systems and nations, the Rev. Stricklan thought. The ascendancy of education already has made the party line suspect, for much textbook propaganda under Stalin now has been tossed out as lies. This has raised questions in the students' mind. The inquiring mind and the inquiring spirit may have much in common, and the Rev. Stricklan thinks there may be some basis for hope that they represent man's innate search for God.

"You might expect this from a preacher, but the look on the faces of the Russian people seemed to me to be one of spiritual hunger," he said. "They had a hard look, one reflecting tribulation, yet they smiled!"

As a lot, the Russians were stocky, particularly the women. Clothes were ordinary and women's styles were plain. He saw few pairs of hosiery. Hair mostly was merely combed, but here and there he saw a few coloring jobs. Women make most of their clothes at home and they are outmoded by our standards. Women also work, even in heavy construction. Despite denials, it was obvious that they needed to work to help keep families going.

The people appear to be doing a good job of production. They compare their system with yesterday — with what they had, not with other systems. They have an amazing ignorance of what it is like outside of Russia and seem to listen in disbelief when they are told. Consequently, they appear not only content with their life under communism, but willing to work and sacrifice for it. They seem to have a sense of purpose.

Everywhere there are evidences of emphasis upon education, particularly higher education. The University of Moscow is a show place, and indeed the whole of Moscow is evidently the showcase of Communism for its people. Many of the buildings are modern and impressive and the Metro (subway) defies description. Still, by our standards, much of the building and goods are mill-run.

Rev. Stricklan came back with one clear conception, and that was the importance of separation of church and state. The seedbed for communism was in the total power and total tyranny exercised through the alliance of the czarist government and orthodox church. This should be a lesson to any nation, he said.

AT THE CHURCHES

Minister Arrives, Series Scheduled

The Fourteenth and Main Church of Christ Sunday will greet a new minister, Perry Cotham, who will preach at all three services of the day at 8:30 and 10:30 in the morning and 7 in the evening. Mr. Cotham comes here from the church at Grand Prairie.

At the First Presbyterian Church, Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, minister, will begin an important series of sermons on "Faith and the Crises of Life." These will be delivered each week at the 7:30 p.m. service.

Slides taken during a recent tour of the Bible lands and of Russia will be projected by the Rev. Jack Stricklan, East Fourth Baptist pastor, at the 8 p.m. service of Iglesia Bustista El Buen Pastor. Northside Methodist will have Rosario Moreno as the layman's day speaker at 11 a.m.

Two Retrace Pioneer Route As Memorial

Circuit riders and pioneer preachers have little on two Big Spring men who have just completed an unique memorial journey.

Rupert Ricker, who has given his time to a lay ministry, and the Rev. Mack Alexander, pastor of the Central (Elbow) Baptist Church, sought to retrace the route the Ricker family followed in coming to this country nearly 60 years ago.

As they journeyed, they stopped at every town and hamlet and sought to preach, sometimes in the open, sometimes in churches. Ricker explained that the Lord had laid it on his heart to do this as a memorial to his parents and other pioneer families. He said he also felt impressed to undertake this adventure as a demonstration that spiritual revival can take place anywhere. He was joined by his friend, the Rev. Alexander and they both felt richly blessed by the experience and reported several decisions.

It was on Jan. 1 ,1907 that the late Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ricker bundled up their possessions, together with their son and daughter, and started in a covered wagon for a ranch site in northern Reagan County. Seventeen days later they arrived at their destination. On their circuit retracing the route, Ricker and Alexander spent 10 days, not following any formal schedule.

Church Plans Bond Refinance

East Fourth Baptist Church is calling in its outstanding bonds as part of a refinancing program.

The church voted to float a loan of $215,000 through the First Federal Savings and Loan Association in Big Spring to retire present outstanding bonds and to provide some extra funds for remodeling part of the educational unit.

Effective date for liquidation of the bonds issued originally by Institutional Investment Company of Fort Worth to build a new sanctuary is Oct. 1. Interest will be paid to the date of retirement of the issues which were 6 per cent up to a maximum of 15 years.

Plans are to use part of the new loan to improve and enlarge the nursery on the first floor and to renovate the adult department on the second floor of the educational plant. Costs are estimated from $25,000 to $30,000 for the work.

NEW NATURE COMES FROM MEETING GOD

Meeting God means we yield to him and acquire a new nature, is the substance of the International Sunday School lesson for Sunday. The Scripture is taken from Genesis 32:22-32 and tells of Jacob's wrestle with a Stranger, later naming the place Peniel. The Golden Text is I Peter 5:6.

Jacob becomes a mellow man after his struggle with this Stranger and becomes God's man. This meeting shows us God's dealings with man, as it did Jacob.

Perry Cotham Arrives To Serve 14th & Main Church

Perry B. Cotham, new minister of the Fourteenth and Main Church of Christ, has moved his family to Big Spring and will fill the pulpit at both services Sunday. They are living in the church parsonage at 1200 E. 17th.

The new minister comes from a Grand Prairie church where he served for six years, and replaces Curtis Camp who has gone to Amarillo. In Grand Prarie he was active in civic programs and was a member of the Rotary Club and P-TA.

Mrs. Cotham, is the daughter of the late Coleman Overby, Church of Christ minister in Dallas. Their oldest son, Perry C. Cotham, 21, is a senior at David Lipscomb College, Nashville, Tenn., where he is a ministerial student. He filled the pulpit at the Fourteenth and Main Church for his father, at all services, last Sunday. A daughter, Nan, 18, is a freshman at David Lipscomb College. Their youngest, Harry Don, 11, is in the College Heights Elementary School in Big Spring.

Mr. Cotham is a native of Murray, Ky. He attended Fred-Hardeman College, Henderson, Tenn., and Murray State College, Murray, Ky. He has been minister of Churches of Christ in Duncan,

PERRY B. COTHAM

Wewoka, and Shawnee, Okla., and Paris, Texas, before going to Grand Prairie. He made a tour of Bible Lands in 1953 where he made colored movies and slides, and later lectured on the tour. He has also held revival meetings in more than half the states in the nation.

Sunday sermon topics announced by the new minister are: Both Sunday morning services, "The Supreme Beatitude," and at the evening service, "The Providence of God."

THE CHURCH
The Lord promised, as recorded in Matt. 16:18, "Upon this rock I will build my church." Under the guidance of the Scripture we learn that He accomplished this promise, hence we note in Acts 2:47, "The Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved." Under the instruction of the Bible, we are shown that to become a Christian is to become a child of God, and that becoming a Christian and a child of God is also to be saved from one's past sins; this therefore means to be called out of sin. The word "church" means "called out," those who are called out of sin compose the church, the church is made of Christian people, children of God; let us remember the statement of Acts 2:47, "The Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved;" the Lord does not add anyone unless they believe, in believing, as an act of Faith men must repent of their sin and confess their faith and be baptized into Christ. There is only one way of making Christians and that is by faith on the part of a man and by his repentance, confession of his faith and by his submission in baptism for (in order to obtain) the remission of his sins. "The church" and "my church" and terms that admittedly show the fact that there is but one church. The one body or church is affirmed and taught many, many times in the New Testament and one reason this is true is because there is ONLY ONE WAY of becoming a Christian.

EAST FOURTH STREET BAPTIST CHURCH

IN 32nd INVITATIONAL

Bill Craig Gets Nod

Colorado City's veteran Bill Craig rules as a slight favorite to win his fourth Big Spring championship in the 32nd annual Labor Day Invitational Golf tournament getting under way today at the Country Club course.

The popular and urbane Craig, however, could run into trouble. For one thing, this is an all-medal play type meet and Bill does better in matched play.

For another, the championship linksters will be required to play the final 36 of their 72 holes Monday and that could be a definite advantage to the younger players. Craig is in his middle 40's.

Bill has always played the local course well, however. He's held a membership in the local club for the past year and has had not infrequent chances to take advantage of it. A year's honorarium goes to the titlist here every year. And he can rightfully figure himself as the king of the hill unless and until some opponent knocks him off.

The championship flight will be made up of 32 players and they'll start off after qualifying play is over today.

The tournament medalist almost surely will emerge from the annual Fina-Cosden Cup matches, which were booked for 18 holes and scheduled to start around 1 p.m. today. Eddie Don Harris, the local captain, and Midland's Dewey Burkhart, the visiting leader, have both lined up splendid teams for the matches.

In all flights but the title division, winners will be determined by match play the first two days, after which survivors will switch to medal play.

Jerry Green, the club pro, says there are apt to be a third again as many players in this year's tournament as played in the 1962 meet. Only 140 teed off in the links show last year. If Green has gauged the interest accurately, more than 200 will ante up their $20 entry fee and make the rounds.

Some top-flight entertainment has been lined up for the participants. There'll be a buffet dinner in the clubhouse after play has been completed tonight. A dance is scheduled for Saturday night and a cocktail party and bridge tournament Sunday evening.

BILL CRAIG

As many as a dozen sets of irons (Ben Hogan AMF) could be given away to flight winners at the conclusion of the meet. Flight runnersup get sets of woods and third place winners golf bags. In all, the tournament loot is valued at more than $4,000.

Only those playing the course today are eligible for the medalist's award, which is due to be a wrist watch.

Gil Barnett of Fort Worth, a one-time Big Springer, will serve as starter. Harold Hall is the tournament chairman.

Bobby Wright won't be competing here due to a commitment in Alexandria, La. For that reason, Big Spring's best bet to field a winner could be Jimmy Patterson, who led the Fina-Cosden Cup qualifiers in qualifying rounds and who has been playing some splendid golf.

Burkhart and Ted Wright, also of Midland, are considered among the leading out-of-town threats, along with Craig.

From the championship tees, the Country Club course extends 6,940 yards. Par is 71. The course is playing so well some of the qualifiers are due to get into the 60's. A 76 or lower may be required to rate the title flight.

A total of 143 players had registered for the tournament at 8 a.m. today, with the 'crush' just starting. Entries will probably be accepted up until about 3 p.m.

U.S. Tennists Likely To Win Coveted Cup

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — This should be Uncle Sam's year to win back the Davis Cup, Bill Talbert predicted today, but he warned that we'd better watch out for that old Australian fox, Harry Hopman.

"The way Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston are playing, we really should bring back the cup," the former captain added. "But we'll have to play it very smart and beat Hopman at his own game.

"Harry has a remarkable faculty for getting his boys up to a peak at just the right moment. We must see to it that the same is done with Chuck and Dennis."

America's chances of recapturing the famous silver bowl, which has resided down under for 11 of the last 13 years, should be determined in the National Tennis championships, opening formally today at the West Side Club.

McKinley, the Wimbledon winner, is seeded No. 1, followed by Roy Emerson of Australia, No. 2, and Ralston, No. 3. Australia's No. 2 player, Ken Fletcher, is seeded fifth.

Emerson who already has won the Australian and French titles and who was champion here in 1961, makes his debut today against Chauncey Steele III, a 19-year-old Harvard student from Cambridge, Mass. Ralston, 21, the star of the recent zone matches against Mexico, faces Walter Johnson, 11th ranked junior from Hollywood, Fla.

"I'd have to pick McKinley to win the championship, because of his tenacity and his experience," Talbert, who captained the Davis Cup team that won in 1954, said.

McKinley is idle today, opening his tournament campaign Saturday against Orlando Zuleta of Ecuador. Also on the sidelines for the first day is Margaret Smith, the Wimbledon queen and top-seeded favorite from Australia, who drew an opening bye.

Featured first round matches include:

Ken Fletcher of Australia vs. Premjit Lal of India; Allen Fox of Los Angeles vs. Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico; Owen Davidson of Australia vs. Thomas Halberg of Sweden, and Roger Taylor of Britain vs. Bill Lenoir of Tucson, Ariz.

The women's headlines send Maria Bueno of Brazil, seeded No. 3, against Mary Ann Eisel of St. Louis and Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., against Almut Sturm of Germany.

Red Raider Primary Should Be Rugged

LUBBOCK — Most of Texas Tech's returning strength is found in the Red Raider line.

Five of last year's starting forwards are among the candidates, and 15 of the 19 returning lettermen are in the line. Two of the latter, however, were backs in 1962.

Thanks to some juggling, the Raiders can be two-deep or better at the forward positions—including four ends, four tackles, four guards, and three centers. A 201-pound average in the line indicates that the Raiders will be adequate in size although by no means mammoth. Bigger than last year, the Raider forwards will still be outweighed by most foes.

Probably the strongest position is end, where last year's starters, senior David Parks of Abilene, all - Southwest Conference, and junior Charles Gladson of Snyder, are again on hand. David Rankin, Midland senior, a starting halfback last season, has been moved to end along with Sam Cornelius, Spearman junior squadman, a wingback until hurt in the Texas Christian game. Junior Jerry Don Balch of Lubbock is making a strong bid to start. Among the top sophomores are Jerry Shipley of Lubbock and Tommy Doyle of Lamesa.

No tackle currently is head-and-shoulders above the others. Returning lettermen are Bill Malone, Phillips junior; Dennis Watkins, McCamey senior; Jimmy Walker, Seminole junior shifted from guard; and Ronnie Reeger, Merkel junior who lettered at end last season. Three sophomores are rated highly—Bill McLelland of Ennis, John Carrell of Lovington, N. M., and John Porter of Lamesa.

At guards the top candidates are Bill Shaha, Dumas junior who started at tackle last year, and Glen Koch, Brownfield junior, who gained a starting berth as soon as he recovered from a cracked ankle. Richard Willis, Fort Sumner, N. M., senior, and William (Buck) Washerlesky, Bonham junior, are the other lettermen contending. Depth depends mainly upon these sophomores—Wesley Nelson of Vernon, Ray Garrett of Odessa, Marcell Dorethy of Denver City, and Marc Bryant of Waco.

C. C. Willis of Bay City, one of the best linebackers in the Southwest Conference as a sophomore last season, returns to center. He's backed up by junior Reg Scarborough of Snyder, junior Clarence (Butch) Thompson of Lubbock, and Kenneth Gill of McKinney. Scarborough and Thompson both lettered last year, the latter at fullback, a position Gill played as freshman.

Chief graduation losses were end Larry Jones of Lubbock, a defensive specialist, end Jerry Garrison of Levelland, tackle Nathan (Sonny) Armstrong of Sweetwater, a starter when not hurt; tackle Ken Milliken of San Angelo, guard Kelly Mitchell of Hobart, Okla., and center Jerry Elbert of Wellington.

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Technological Institute officials at Guadalajara have agreed to let a Mexican League baseball team use their field, almost assuring Mexico's second largest city a league entry next year.

This would boost to eight the number of teams in the Class AA league.

Gil Hodges Feels Shock Waves As Twins Unload

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Even 225 miles away, Gil Hodges must have felt the shock waves.

Hodges was home in Brooklyn and the blasting went on in Washington, where Minnesota's muscular Twins creamed his Senators for 12 homers among 35 assorted hits Thursday for a runaway doubleheader sweep, 14-2 and 10-1.

By hitting eight homers in the opener, the Twins matched a single game major league record, and by adding four more in the second game they picked up a pair of big league marks—15 for three consecutive games and 17 for four. They collected five in their doubleheader split at Washington Monday.

Between the doubleheaders, Hodges spent the two days off in Brooklyn—and was stuck there when he got hit by a virus. The Washington manager still was confined to his home when the Senators got hit by the Twins.

Rookie lefthander Gary Peters registered his 11th straight victory and smacked a two-run homer for the Chicago White Sox, who clipped Cleveland 7-2 and stayed in ahead of the Twins in their battle for second place in the American League.

Boston and Bill Monbouquette stopped New York's front-running Yankees, scoring on Elston Howard's passed ball in the ninth inning for a 4-3 decision. That left the Yanks 11 games ahead of the White Sox, with the Twins another one-half game behind in third.

In the AL's other game, Hank Aguirre fired a two-hitter and Al Kaline took over the league batting lead as the Detroit Tigers rolled to their eighth straight victory, 6-1 over the Los Angeles Angels. Kansas City and Baltimore were idle.

Harmon Killebrew was Minnesota's biggest belter at Washington with three of the 12 homers, while Vic Power, Jim Hall and Bernie Allen each had two. Bob Allison, Rich Rollins and Zoilo Versalles added one apiece. The dozen was one shy of the major league high for two games.

Lee Stange, coasting behind a 20-hit offense, was the opening game winner. He held Washington scoreless until Ken Retzer homered with one on in the seventh. Dwight Seibler, a recent addition to the Twins staff, gave up only three hits in winning the second game.

Don Rudolph and Jim Duckworth were the well-battered losers.

Trojans Ranked Tops In U. S.

NEW YORK — The Trojans of Southern Cal, will be the nation's No. 1 college foothall team in 1963.

This prediction was made by Look Magazine this week in its pre-season analysis of teams and schedules.

The Rebels of Ole Miss, ranked No. 2 nationally and picked to win the Southeastern Conference title, will be the only major team to go undefeated, according to the forecast.

The "Top Twenty" as named in the forecast:

1. UCLA; 2. Miss.; 3. Wisconsin; 4. Alabama; 5. Okla.; 6. N. Western; 7. Arkansas; 8. Texas; 9. Ga. Tech; 10. N. Dame; 11. Florida; 12. Wash.; 13. Ohio St.; 14. Purdue; 15. LSU; 16. Navy; 17. Pitt.; 18. Oregon; 19. Nebraska; 20. Syracuse.

Giants Face Uphill Fight In National

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sandy Koufax, who took San Francisco to the cleaners for his 20th victory, has sent Red Patterson to the barbers.

Koufax' three-hit pitching and a 15-hit Los Angeles attack that provided the most runs lavished on a Dodger pitcher in 45 games, combined to give the National League leaders a 11-1 victory over second-place San Francisco Thursday night.

By taking the opener of the four-game series, the Dodgers dropped the defending champion Giants 6½ games behind, and into an almost impossible situation. If the Dodgers win half of their remaining 30 games, the Giants must win 21 of 29 to finish in a tie for the pennant.

The Dodger explosion, coming after a seven-game drought also assured Patterson of a long overdue haircut. The club's assistant general manager had vowed not to clip his locks until the Dodgers scored four runs in one inning.

In the third inning before a crowd of 54,978—largest in the majors this season—the Dodgers trimmed the Giants for five runs.

While Koufax was posting his 20th victory, Dick Ellsworth won No. 19 as the Chicago Cubs edged Philadelphia 2-1. The New York Mets whipped Pittsburgh 7-4 in the only other NL game scheduled.

Koufax, bringing his record to 20-5, allowed only a single by Jim Davenport in the first, a homer by Orlando Cepeda in the second and a single by Jose Pagan in the fifth. Koufax struck out seven for a league-leading total of 246 and allowed only one walk.

The Giants started Bob Bolin. He lasted into the second inning when Pierce, 3-10 took over. Ron Fairly accounted for the first of his four runs batted in with a single in the first before the Dodgers batted around in the five-run third.

Wally Moon's one-out single got the Dodgers started. Tommy Davis then doubled and both scored on a single by Fairly. Frank Howard followed with his 23rd homer. A double by Willie Davis and a single by Maury Wills accounted for the final run of the outburst that put it away.

Ellsworth, now 19-7, became the winningest Cub left-hander since Jim Vaughn won 19 in 1920 when singles by Ellis Burton and Billy Williams and a double by Ken Hubbs snapped a 1-1 tie in the eighth. Ellsworth checked the Phillies on six hits—one Earl Averill's homer in the sixth that had tied the score. Burton drove in the first Chicago run with a sacrifice fly in the fifth.

PAT WASHBURN'S Sports Round Table

COLORADO CITY—SAM CHRISTY is refreshing. He's one of the few football coaches who isn't predicting a worse season than last year. He never complains about his team, he just chuckles. That's Sam—have a bad season and laugh it off. Just come back trying harder next year.

The Colorado City Wolves had a fiasco in 1962. Their 1-9 record was embarrassing—their one win wasn't in the conference. It was a football coach's "effigy lynching" season. But Sam survived and now he's back with a team he vows "won't be in the cellar again this year." Sam will win some upsets.

* * * *

"We've got good talent this year and we'll be muchly improved," Sam said cheerfully a few days ago. "We won't be real big, in fact, we'll have some real small boys, but we'll be faster. We'll be able to score more. We'll be mostly a running team off the wing-T but we'll be able to do the passing if necessary. We've got better passers and better receivers this year and that's what is going to make us move. Our defense should be a lot better this year—we won't be giving up as many touchdowns as we did last year.

"Our kids have got a real good attitude. They're working real hard and trying to do better. Next year we'll have an even better team. We've got a good bunch of juniors out for the team now who'll make up the nucleus of our 1964 team."

* * * *

Football powers are built, rarely born. Even with the smallest school in the district, the lean years may be vanishing for Colorado City. The 1963 outlook is tough but it could be the start of a gridiron dynasty. Sam has 60 men out for the squad and 10 of his 15 lettermen are returning starters. There are 12 seniors but only six or seven will see much action.

GILL McGUIRE, a 190, 5' 11" offensive tackle and defensive linebacker, has been tagged by Sam as his outstanding player. The biggest boy on the squad, he's got good speed and he's strong. Sam says simply, "He's got a good attitude and he loves to play football. He'll be outstanding."

Joining McGuire as natural leaders will be two other returning starters—MELVIN MORGAN and DEE DEAREN. Morgan is an offensive guard and defensive tackle who weighs 185 and is 5' 11". His main asset is good agility. Dearen is 150 and stands 5' 9". He's the other offensive guard and he shifts to a linebacker on the defense. In typical Christy terminology, "He's tough. He'd tie into a saw if we'd ask him."

Other returning starters are BILL BOREN, an offensive fullback and defensive halfback; LARRY DAMBORSKY, an offensive wingback and defensive halfback; DANNY KENNEMUR, an offensive and defensive end; CORKY McADAMS, an offensive and defensive end; TERRY REDWINE, an offensive wingback and defensive safety; LEON SWEATT, an offensive tackle, and defensive guard; and DALE WALKER, an offensive tailback and defensive linebacker.

* * * *

District 3-AAA looks this way to Sam:

"Lamesa will win. It has good speed and power and it has JAY WHITE back at fullback. AL LANGFORD says he has the best team he's ever had and when he starts saying that you better watch out.

"Brownfield, the district champion, is going to have another good team. It'll have eight returning men who were mentioned on last year's all-district team. They've got most of their line back. They'll rely on speed.

"Snyder is going to have the best ball club it has had since 1959. They'll depend on speed and with a lot of lettermen returning they'll be tough. I don't know much about Sweetwater except that they'll have a big and strong line. Lake View lost pretty heavily. They won't be as strong as last year because they'll be relying on a lot of young boys."

* * * *

Sam coaches at a school that's "so small that it's not supposed to win the district." But he won the title in 1960. With a little luck 1964 could be another big year. Sam and his next ten games should prove to be an indication of that.

The Wolves 1963 schedule:

Sept. 7—at Winters; Sept. 13—open; Sept. 20—at Monahans; Sept. 27—Stamford here; Oct. 4—Ballinger here; Oct. 12—Anson here (Homecoming); Oct. 18—open; Oct. 25—at Brownfield (C); Nov. 1—Sweetwater here (C); Nov. 8—Lake View here (C); Nov. 5—at Snyder; Nov. 22—at Lamesa (C).

(C) denotes conference game.

EQUIPMENT ISSUED TO 90 BOYS AS FOOTBALL WORKOUTS BEGIN

Equipment was issued to 90 boys down through the sophomore level in the Big Spring High School football headquarters this morning.

The Longhorns took a short workout before classes took up at school and are due to report back for an extended workout after school.

The Bovines are due to work on techniques and spend a lot of time on defensive drills this evening.

They'll work out twice tomorrow and again two times Monday as the coaches strive to get them ready for their Sept. 13 opener against Lamesa, which will be played here.

Thirteen lettermen are included in the group who checked out equipment. The mentors report no absentees among those who had been expected.

The gridders didn't work out in full battle dress this morning but are due to go full throttle this evening.

Some of the boys reported overweight and coach Don Robbins said they were going to have to work very hard to catch up with the others.

The Steers have a scrimmage scheduled a week from Saturday with Amarillo High at Levelland.

El Pasoans Win At R. Island

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (AP)—Dick Brubaker pitched Rock Island to a 2-0 victory over Phoenix, Ariz., Thursday night in the International Softball Congress World Tournament.

Both Dubuque, Iowa, and Long Beach, Calif., came from behind to win.

Dubuque trailed Ogden, Utah, 3-1, into the last of the sixth, then scored three runs on a single, a hit batsman and two doubles to win 4-3. Long Beach trailed Dinuba, Calif., 1-0, but scored three runs in the fourth and two in the seventh to wip 5-1.

In the losers bracket of the double elimination tournament, defending champion El Paso, Tex., won its second straight game 3-0.

QBC Membership Drive Is In Full Swing Here

Membership drive for the 1963-64 school year was set in motion by the Board of Strategy of the Big Spring Quarterback Club last night in the high school cafeteria.

Dues were set at $5 per person or for man and wife. The drive for members will continue right up until the opening game against Lamesa, scheduled for the night of Sept. 13.

The club also embarked upon a plan to sell black and gold plaques to business men at a cost of $10 each. Words will be inscribed on the plaques to the effect that the purchaser is a supporter of the football team and is a sustaining member of the QBC.

Also included on the plaques will be a schedule of the games. Each can be displayed in a store or office.

Large individual pictures of each A team player will be sold to patrons of the school for display purposes at a later date. Each will be available at cost.

Those purchasing membership cards will get an added bonus—two tickets to the annual barbecue at the city park honoring the 1963 team. The barbecue is now scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 5. The price of the barbecue ducats alone are $1.50 each.

All children under 12 will be admitted free to the barbecue, if they are accompanied by their parents. The membership card will entitle the holder to attend all weekly meetings of the QBC and see films of games the preceding week, hear scouting reports given by coaches and engage in other entertainment provided by the club.

The booster club is firming up plans to support all phases of athletics at the local high school.

"This is an organization for the support of our youth," co-captain Omar Jones of the QBC said, in announcing plans for the membership drive. "Whether a person's boy or girl participates in sports or not, he should join and support the teams that are a part of his community. We urge all parents of all students in athletics to please join, so that we can all work together in support of them."

When the membership drive is completed Sept. 13, the QBC's fund-raising drive will be completed for the year, Jones emphasized.

Membership tickets or barbecue ducats can be purchaesd the night of the barbecue at the gates to the amphitheatre, Jones said. Choice meat, beans, drinks and all the trimmings will be prepared for the meal by co-captain Herb Smith and his corps of workers, Jones added.

The Board of Strategy met with the seniors on the Steer team, numbering 21 in all, last night and reminded the boys of their responsibility to serve as leaders on the squad. Several of the boys responded with short, inspirational talks that drew praise from QBC members and coaches alike.

Smokejumper Has Large, Strong Foe

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP) — A smokejumper is somewhat like a frail judo expert who climbs into the ring with a heavyweight.

He faces a larger, and stronger foe. But he knows that one swift, precise blow—if timed and placed correctly—can topple his opponent.

An elite corps of 175 men, on standby at Missoula throughout the summer, can be ready in minutes to fly to any area in the nation. Actually, most jumps occur in the Pacific Northwest, principally Montana and Idaho. But Missoula-based men also parachute into fires in Alaska or New Mexico.

Dedicated in 1954 by President Eisenhower, the Missoula smokejumper center was officially named the Missoula Aerial Fire Depot. The site includes a sizable training area that looks much like an Army paratrooper school. It is the largest of eight such facilities in the nation.

"We take considerable pride in our training program," says Henry J .Viche, air operations officer. "We've made 55,000 jumps since 1940 without a fatality caused during the descent or landing.

"About 1,000 young men apply for smokejumper duty at Missoula each summer. We take about 60 of them. We're choosy and we keep our standards high."

An applicant is rejected if he hasn't worked one summer on a regular fire suppression crew .

"Our typical smokejumper," says Viche, "is a college student about 24. He must meet demanding physical requirements but there are no limitations on academic background. We get them from all fields—we often get applications from divinity students.'"

Viche, born in Missoula, has been with the U.S. Forest Service for 34 years.

Viche directs all aerial operations in Region One—33-million-acres that includes all of Montana and parts of Idaho, Washington and North Dakota.

A smokejumper looks like a low-level astronaut. He wears a white nylon suit, heavy gloves and shoes, crash helmet, wire mask, two orange and white parachutes and other equipment to aid him in any emergency.

He carries in a three-pound cylindrical belt kit a protective fire shelter that looks like a baby tepee. If trapped by a blase, he huddles inside the recently developed aluminized cone capable of withstanding temperatures of 750 degrees.

"It's kind of a last resort," Viche says. "It has great potential in saving lives."

Once on the ground, the smokejumper cuts a trench ahead of an advancing fire. Eventually, he encircles the flames with a wide path, utilizing heavier equipment as power saws dropped separately.

Foresters say the secret of the smokejumpers' success is speed.

"The sooner we get to a fire, the better the chance of controlling it," says Viche. "Once a fire spreads over thousands of acres, we have to work on several fronts.

"Eighty per cent of the fires still are small when we get to them. We're able to confine them quickly.

First-year men are paid $2.20 an hour—a rate that also applies for overtime.

Veronica Lake Returns To Acting Career

NEW YORK (AP) — Veronica Lake, who became a movie sensation in the 1940s with her peekaboo hairdo then faded into obscurity, returned to acting Thursday night.

"I was scared silly," said Miss Lake after the performance, her debut on the New York stage.

"But it was great. Damn, it's great to be back."

When she came on stage midway in the first act of "Best Foot Forward at the off-Broadway Stage 73 Theater, applause stopped the action momentarily.

In the musical comedy, a revival of the 1940 Broadway hit, she plays Gale Joy, a tarnished movie queen whose star has begun to set.

Veronica, who once earned $4,500 a week, also is trying to start a comeback.

"I think that in this show, people will be able to see what I can do," she said. "I'm really playing a burlesque of myself, of Veronica Lake. But I don't mind because I like to clown, and how else can you explain clowning?"

She appeared in 26 movies. In her first big one, "I Wanted Wings," her long blonde tresses fell over her right eye obscuring it. Almost immediately she became known as the peekaboo blonde.

"It was all an accident," she said. "I couldn't control the blasted hairdo."

She long ago changed hairstyles.

After the curtain fell Thursday night, a few well-wishers went backstage. One was actress Helen Seamon, an MGM contract player with Veronica more than 20 years ago.

"She was great, wasn't she?" said Helen.

A handful of old friends, who remembered her as Constance Ockleman of Brooklyn, also showed up.

Veronica gave them a report on her newest grandchild, an infant who hasn't been named yet.

Compulsory Arbitration Adds Another Challenge

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Compulsory arbitration of the rail labor dispute adds still another challenge to a year of change in labor-management issues and solutions.

Sabbaticals for long-time employes, bonuses as compensation for automation, continuous negotiations to minimize strike threats, stress on fringe benefits rather than pay boosts, charges of racial bias in some unions and lack of equal job opportunities, and an increased emphasis on the public interest in labor disputes — all seem to be chiselling out a new look in labor-management relations.

Congress has ordered compulsory arbitration for the first time in a peace year. It has put off—at least for six months—the threat of a strike that would idle the nation's railroads.

The chief issue was over what management calls featherbedding —union - protected jobs that the companies say are no longer needed. This issue is debated in a number of other industries.

The basic problem may or may not be settled by the board set up by Congress. But changing work rules to fit new operation techniques is increasingly involved in labor negotiations.

The issue is a variant of the chief concern in this year's labor talks. The unions primarily are worried over job security—the loss of jobs to machines or new work techniques, or to the changing consumer demand for different products or services. Management is equally concerned over cutting costs or getting into new lines that consumers now fancy. This often means more mechanization, greater output per man hour, and fewer employes turning out more sellable goods.

The steel industry furnished clues to the new trend in three ways this year. First, Kaiser Steel is paying bonuses to workers, their share of savings made through automation. Second, the industry adopted a long-vacation plan that gives workers with seniority extended time off every few years. And third, the industry licked the strike threat pressure on contract negotiations — this year at least—by setting up a continuously negotiating committee to tackle labor problems as they arise and hammer out a contract ahead of a fixed deadline.

The electrical industry also has had study committees at work well ahead of contract terminations. Now the talks are coming out into the open. General Electric's contract expires at the end of next month and Westinghouse Electric's two weeks later. Longer vacations, more retirement pay are among the proposals.

Overtime and moonlighting also are coming to the front as issues because of this year's special conditions, chiefly the hard core of unemployment and the fear of many with jobs that they may lose them.

Many industries prefer to pay overtime when orders call for more output rather than hire new workers and become involved in all the fringe benefits and additional paper work that are an increasing part of the job scene.

And many employes, especially those subject to periodic work week shortening look for other jobs after work, or moonlighting. Often such work is merely in agriculture by farm owners with jobs in town or factory employes helping out in family stores or other business ventures.

But it's all part of today's labor picture, and the seeming paradox which sees more persons employed than ever while too many persons can't find work.

To this is now added the example of government embarking on compulsory arbitration in the public interest, and perhaps a trend toward a revamping of labor and management relations on many fronts.

DAILY GUIDE—"And the music lingers on" can be said of today. Those who took advantage of the fine aspects yesterday can enjoy the afterglow. This might not have been of great importance, but who doesn't enjoy a break for light, refreshing nonsense, or a compliment now and then.

Fortunately, there is a lingering of the charm, of the general inclination to savor a happy announcement, or some special entertaining prospect, to be enjoyed over the weekend, so make plans to enjoy a little time off for recreation. Women and children are highly favored, so they can be expected to go to town.

In business, count the costs before you act. The moon now in Capricorn suggests keeping practical values in mind.

Tomorrow rather too energetic for comfort, but that may be because everyone is on the move. Outdoor activities strenuous, people rather aggressive. Virgoans need to be tactful.

* * *

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, VIRGO!—These can be high-tensioned days for you, so watch your tendency to nervous worry over little details. You should be ready for big changes and dramatic events.

Your popularity holds for a few weeks, but do not be too outspoken. Gains financially are promised through the year and into next spring. However, do not be rash next month. The rather illusive quality of your neighborhood environment, neighbors, near kin, day - to - day routines, remains, with the danger of emotional upset around Oct. 3. Health can be a factor since you could have to work harder and be restless or high-pressured into greater activity.

Embarassing For All Concerned

MIDDLETOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Firemen went to the home of Charles Wolfe to put out a minor fire in his heating apparatus.

Wolfe sells furnaces, and it was one of his products that caught fire.

Another blaze broke out outside the Wolfe home. Firemen put that out, too. It was in a hose-winding electric motor on the fire engine.

Parents Blamed For Tardiness

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y. (AP) — Parents are getting it in the neck again.

"Almost always, tardiness is the fault of the parent, not the child," says a publication of the Port Washington schools.

"The simple and hard fact is that the only way to avoid being tardy is to be convinced that it is important to be on time. One of the reasons for insisting upon promptness is that the habit will stand a boy or girl in good stead all his life."

The publication quoted notes from various mothers on typical reasons given for tardiness:

"She had to call for two friends on the way to school."

"He's a natural born dawdler!"

"I couldn't find his shoes! Sorry."

"The alarm did not go off."

"We all overslept."

Cunningham To Return To School

Grover Cunningham Jr., member of the Howard County bar and practicing attorney here for a number of years, leaves this weekend for Austin to enroll in the University of Texas. He will study marriage counseling and plans a second year's advanced study in the same subject at University of Pennsylvania. He has closed out his office and practice here in preparation for his new career. He plans, he said, to return to Big Spring after he has completed his study.
