Edible Cotton Makes Debut

DALLAS (AP)-King Cotton, the stately giver of cloth, now helps provide our daily bread.

Crunchy, nutty little cottonseed have made their Texas culinary debut in Dallas and Fort Worth - baked into a loaf of bread.

And a Texas A&M home economist says that may be just the beginning of high-protein cottonseeds as a food source for humans.

"We are interested in developing applications for cottonseeds in food," said Rhonda Simmons, who added her department is developing a cottonseed cookbook that will be available during the first part of 1980.

Dr. Ed Lusas said, "Cottonseed is higher in protein than sirloin steak. It contains 35 to 38 percent protein and steak has 17 to 19 percent."

But the A&M professor said cottonseed has been used chiefly as a feed for cattle because it contained gossypol, a substance poisonous to humans in its original form.

To Broadcast 'Johns' Names

NEW YORK (AP)-Names of men convicted of patronizing prostitutes in New York are going to be broadcast over the city-owned radio station, says Mayor Edward Koch, who hopes embarrassment will do more to stop the sex trade than some judges have.

"We're going to call it the 'John Hour,'" the mayor said Tuesday, using the slang word for those who hire prostitutes.

Koch said publicizing the names would be similar to the early American custom of locking lawbreakers in wooden stocks and putting them on public display.

EPA Wants To Clean Water

HOUSTON (AP)-Douglas M. Costle, chief of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, believes the nation's water can be cleaned and then cleared but that it will take billions of dollars and years of work and research.

Costle said at a Tuesday news conference, and then repeated to delegates at the Water Pollution Control Federation, that Americans must not lose patience, nor should Congress "waffle around about appropriations."

He also warned that serious environmental problems are coming, especially the dangers of disposal of hazardous chemical materials.

About 12,000 persons are attending the convention.

The SDN Column

This is that season when fans may choose from the greatest variety of sports. In fact, there is so much going on in the sports world that it not only confronts the fans with momentous decisions, but it has the television people hard-pressed to get their schedules arranged to cover it all. For example, the great mouth, Howard Cosell, had to miss Monday night football this week because the network needed him in Baltimore to prepare for the World Series of baseball.

Thus, Cosell was spared the agony of watching his favorite professional football team, the Miami Dolphins, go down in defeat in what must be one of the most pathetic exhibitions ever for a Don Shula team.

But, back to the proliferation of fall sports. The hockey leagues are cranking up, for those who care; college teams are playing soccer; professional basketball teams are playing exhibition games; high school, college and professional football teams are near the middle of their season; high school volleyball is in full swing in Texas; golf is going full blast and there is tennis, too.

Of course the spotlight is on the World Series and football, but a person out of touch the past 15 to 20 years probably would be astounded at the interest in basketball in this area. The roundball sport has truly come of age, and perhaps Snyder has had a bigger role in this upsurge in popularity than some of us realize. The WTC Westerners have been keeping the trail blazed to Hutchinson, Kan., the site of the National Junior College Athletic Association finals, and they even have a national championship trophy in their case.

So what? Well, a lot of basketball people know where Snyder is nowadays. But would you believe that a pre-season junior college scrimmage could attract three major college coaches as spectators? It did Monday. The WTC Westerners and Odessa College Wranglers had announced that they would work out for about three hours Monday afternoon in the WTC gym. Students, faculty members and a sprinkling of off-campus fans kept the bleachers about two-thirds filled, and it was not exactly a surprise when Gerald Myers, head basketball coach at Texas Tech, eased into a seat. But a few moments later, Myers was joined by a colleague, none other than Shelby Metcalf, the top basketball tutor at Texas A&M, and Jim Killingsworth, who holds a similar position at Texas Christian University.

It was reported that the thermometer had hit 100 degrees outside. But it didn't seem to make any difference to the WTC and Odessa players, or to those in the bleachers. They were dreaming of November.

Due To FRB Move...

Stock Market Continues Fall

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market plummeted in tumultuous trading today amid apparent fears that the medicine the Feeral Reserve has prescribed to treat inflation will have some potent - and painful - economic side effects.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped 12.37 points to 845.22 at 11 a.m. EDT, as prices declined for 1,245 stocks and rose for only 29 on the New York Stock Exchange. On Tuesday, the Dow lost 26.45 points in the largest daily decline in more than five years.

The record drop for the Dow was 38.33 points on Oct. 28, 1929, during the Great Crash that preceded the Depression.

As the price of gold rose to nearly $410 an ounce today, analysts said much of the stock market drop was due to selling by traders who bought their shares on borrowed money and who are growing reluctant to pay interest rates well above 15 percent.

The prime lending rate - the charge on loans to top-ranked borrowers - hit 14½ percent Tuesday, and rates on loans to brokerage house customers also rose.

But President Carter said at a White House news conference that he would do "whatever it takes," even if it hurts him politically, to beat inflation. Carter acknowledged that the rate of inflation, which exceeds 13 percent, has been surprising.

Meanwhile, in New Orleans, Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker told the American Bankers Association convention that the nation must reject the "seductive course" of a tax cut, while the banks must avoid "exotic lending" and speculation.

Volcker said the nation should be resolute in the face of unprecedented interest rates and unemployment, which some analysts say could go up to 9 percent from the current 5.8 percent.

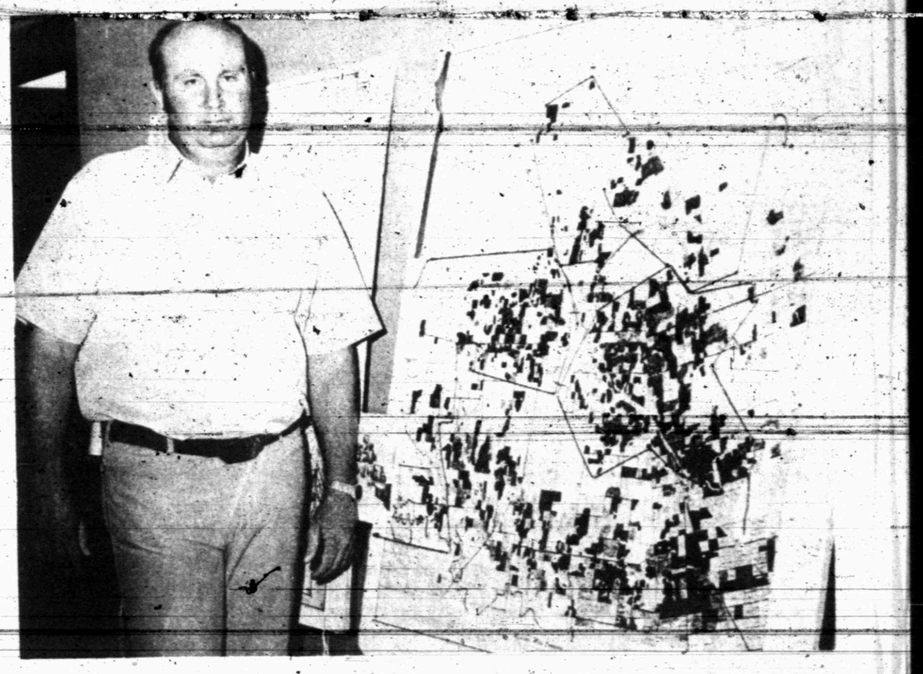
In London, the possibility of a new round of oil price increases - spurred by increases announced by Kuwait and Mexico - pushed gold up sharply, by $18.50 an ounce to $409.50.

The dollar lost ground today, after strengthening on most overseas foreign exchange markets Tuesday as traders continued to demonstrate approval of the Fed's moves to tighten credit.

Ask Us

Q--Why do those who put up mail boxes at the curb get priority delivery?

A--There is no priority. The Postal Service has had a campaign urging patrons to put boxes at curbside because they obviously could be served more quickly from a vehicle than by walking. Carriers who have some curbside boxes drive by these at the outset of their run and then walk the remainder, as always. Those without curbside boxes get their mail on the same schedule as always. There is no priority involved, but as a practical matter those with curbside boxes get their mail earlier, which, the Postal Service hopes, will be an incentive for more to install curbside boxes.



COTTON SPRAYING AREAS CHARTED--Johnny Richardson, president of the Scurry County Producers Association, displays a map of the county with areas marked off for boll weevil control spraying in cotton fields. The three major areas extended from the center of the county to the northeast, northwest and west with a strip down the west side almost to the south county line. Two sprayings are scheduled, one on Oct. 15 and another on Oct. 29. (SDN Staff Photo)

For Gifted, Talented...

'Project Excel' Begins Its Work With Children

A pilot educational program aimed at gifted and talented students will begin at the elementary level in the Snyder schools this fall.

Details of the project, known as Project Excel, were presented to the program's advisory board Tuesday afternoon at a meeting held at West Elementary School.

Snyder schools received funding for the program three years ago, and the program is being implemented at the classroom level this year.

The program began in 1976 when a task force was formed to study the need of such a program. A survey revealed that 3 to 5 per cent of the student population would be considered gifted and talented.

The first year was spent in planning, and the second year was spent in training teachers to work in such a program. A total of 45 Snyder public schools staff members were trained.

Work with children began this year in two separate areas. Mrs. Carole Haynes is the Project Excel teacher and coordinator.

One phase has already begun at Northeast Elementary School. Weekly a select group of fifth and sixth grade students are in a two-hour block program of accelerated language arts. A total of 19 students are in the language arts enrichment program under the direction of Mrs. Cindy Lickey, a sixth grade teacher.

The second phase is a pull-out program which will be conducted at West Elementary. Target for beginning the instruction is Nov. 8.

Six students from each of the six elementary schools will be brought to West for a half day each Thursday for Project Excel. Eighteen will come each Thursday morning and another 18 Thursday afternoons.

Mrs. Haynes, in cooperation with classroom teachers, elementary counselors and principals, is currently in the process of screening students for the project.

The screening process is involved and includes test scores, recommendations, peer comments and other educational measurements.

Goals of the special course will be to help students become more creative producers and better, more productive and critical thinkers. Special emphasis will be placed on analysis, synthesis and evaluation. Other curriculum methods will include the scientific method, thinking skills and research skills.

Weekly activities will include lateral thinking, logic problems, brainstorming and critique.

Members of the advisory committee are Mrs. Judy Barkowski, Mrs. Helen

Best-Known Concerto On Symphony Program

Rachmaninoff's Second Piano Concerto to be performed by the Texas Tech University Symphony Orchestra in its concert here tomorrow night is said to be the best-loved and most often-played concerto composed in the 20th Century.

William Westney, artist-in-residence with the symphony, will be piano soloist for the concerto.

Tickets for the concert, priced at $4 for adults and $2 for students, will be available at the door.

Sergi Rachmaninoff, a Russian by birth, became a citizen of the world and belonged to the United States by adoption. He wrote very little music in comparison with many other composers of recent times. Much of what he did write, however, has become enormously popular.

The concerto serves as a superb showcase for a pianist's skill, and balances the driving, percussive powers of the grand piano against the still mightier and more versatile resources of the symphony orchestra.

In the third movement, Rachmaninoff introduces his best-known melodic invention -- the theme which a Tin Pan Alley song-smith converted into a song titled "Full Moon and Empty Arms." The fire of this melody kindles and illuminates the impassioned Finale. Then, having hammered home its climax, Rachmaninoff concludes the concerto with a flourish on the four tense chords that serve as his customary signature on major scores.

The opening selection for the Tech orchestra will be "Night on Bald Mountain." The work to be heard is the heavily edited version by Nicholai Rimsky-Korsakov, completed after the death of the composer, Modest Mussorgsky, in 1881. This revision has taken the stage to the virtual exclusion of the composer's original conception completed in 1867 and revised by Mussorgsky in 1872.

When Johannes Brahms set out to write his first symphony, he wanted to create work monumental in proportions and spirit, complex in structure, and highly dramatic. The opening movement of the symphony is storm and stress; everything in it is tremendous, concentrated, richly developed, and packed together with great strength. The beginning contains some of the greatest orchestral music ever written. The striving phrase heard over the pounding drums is the basic theme of the symphony, and Brahms uses it again and again throughout the work.

The second movement is remote, although its exaltations are haunted by questionings and agitations of the spirit. The third movement is an allegretto rather than the customary Minuet or Scherzo, described by one critic as "a smile tinged

Reading In 30s Today

Snyder was one of the coolest spots in the state this morning, as the official thermometer logged a reading of 37 degrees.

This is the first time this season that the reading has dropped into the 30s and it comes on the heels of some of the hottest weather of the year, with maximum readings in the high 90s. The high Tuesday, following passage of a cold front through the area, was 66 degrees, in sharp contrast to Monday's high reading of 99 degrees.

Ft. Worth Man Hurt In Crash

A 28-year-old Fort Worth man was injured this morning as the motorcycle he was driving collided with a truck in the 100 block of 37th St.

Injured was Jimmy Henneck. He was picked up by Galvean Ambulance Service and transported to Cogdell Memorial Hospital with arm, leg, and head injuries. He is listed in stable condition.

The mishap occurred about 8:25 a.m. in the 100 block of 37th St. Police reported both vehicles were headed west but that the truck had pulled off to the side of the road and was attempting to turn around when the collision took place.

Driver of the truck was Douglas Leroy White, 24, of Snyder.

Investigating the wreck is police officer Dale Burns.

Jaycees Set Blood Drive

Snyder Jaycees will sponsor a blood drive Thursday at Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

The drive will be conducted from 3 p.m. to 8 p.m. in the hospital conference room.

Snyder area residents are being urged to contribute blood to the drive, since the supply banked for patients here has dwindled to a low level.

shaping your mind

Big brother is going all out to shape your mind, and guess who is paying for the shaping? you are.

But, you say, no government is going to shape your mind. Why, sir, or ma'am, you're strong-minded.

Yet every day from one direction or another the propaganda from Federalia drops upon you, and like the steady drip, drip, drip of cold water upon the forehead of a bound and prone individual, it is making an impression on you, whether you believe it or not.

The impression it makes on you may be such that it only heightens your anger at the growing power and arrogance of Federalia. Or, heaven forbid, you may be one of the millions "buying" what the government is selling, surrendering to the federal siren's promise, lulled by the narcotic of welfarism - in essence, mentally swindled by the propaganda for which you're helping to pay.

A headline in Update, the publication of the National Association of Manufacturers, the other day read: "Taxpayers Foot The Bill For News They Don't Want To Hear." And the item beneath it read:

"The federal government spends more money each year trying to influence the way people think than it spends altogether for disaster relief, foreign military assistance, energy conservation and Cancer Research.

The above was a quote from The U.S. News and World Report magazine, Update stated, which was a conclusion of a study recently conducted by that publication.

The present administration may profess a clean image, but it's pretty messy to one learning that "public-affairs and information efforts of the bureaucracy cost taxpayers at least 2.5 billion dollars annually."

The U.S. News and World Report article chronicles wasted funds for movies that are lost, huge salaries for workers whose jobs are supposedly illegal and vast sums of money spent on film-making and printing costs.

Some examples that appear in the article are: An agency spent $125,000 on a motion picture and then lost the film. Because a 1913 law forbids using appropriated funds for paying 'public experts,' government workers in this area are titled "information officers," "public affairs officer," "communications officers," and "press secretaries," many earning more than $40,000 a year. Agencies spend as much as $60 million annually making movies and other audio-visual programs.

Most of that is sheer waste. The article reported, "It was found that in many cases films were produced and equipment was purchased by agencies merely to avoid returning money left in budgets at year's end."

In the print area, which costs hundreds of millions annually, the author of the article says, "most government press releases wind up in the trash can."

a striking possibility

Strikebreaking is nothing new, but when it's undertaken by airline passengers it's worth noting.

There were 280 in their seats ready for takeoff on a flight to Marseilles, a recent wire dispatch from Paris reports, when they received a message from their pilot. It wasn't to inform them of cruishing altitude, speed, weather at their destination and the like, but that the pilot was calling off the flight and joining a strike of ground personnel.

Passengers are a long-suffering lot because, as anyone who has traveled on a thrift ticket or taken an economy charter well knows, they have to be. But these passengers were not about to take this development buckled down. They seized the plane and pilot, demanding alternate transportation. They got it.

Which may only prove that while you still can't fight city hall, the cockpit is another matter.

Or maybe the incident suggests a possibility for dealing with wildcat public strikes that usually see the public getting struck the worst. Commandeering and holding of equipment until the public was served might have an effect.

On the other hand, it could have its drawbacks - for example, in a sanitation strike.

You've got to hand it to Jimmy Carter for putting the Cuban situation in proper perspective.

"Politics and nuclear arsenals do not mix," he has decided after a closer examination of the status quo that so recently was unacceptable. "We must not play politics with SALT II."

What now makes the situation acceptable – well, let's say tolerable – is that one combat brigade presents no direct threat. Besides, the Soviets have not been persuaded to remove it in response to U.S. representations stopping carefully short of repeating the eyeball-to-eyeball Cuban confrontation of 1962. And who would want that?

"A confrontation might be emotionally satisfying for a few days or weeks for some people, but it would be destructive to the national interest and the security of the United States."

It's only a guess, of course, but it's just possible that observation was delivered with some specific people in mind. Such as several members of that highly political body, the United States Senate.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., for one, has been reading Cuba, as an "issue made to order" for a demonstration of presidential leadership. Only it is leadership of the order that would compel the Soviets to pull out not only their combat brigade but submarines, planes and virtually everything else stationed on the island short of embassy guards in Havana.

There is none of this in the new Cuban perspective. But the national security is by no means ignored, what with stepped-up surveillance of Soviet forces on the island, establishment of a new Caribbean Task Force, expanded military maneuvers in the region and, for good measure, a reinforced U.S. naval presence in the Indian Ocean. And just coincidentally, it has been announced that Secretary of Defense Harold R. Brown is going to China to discuss military matters, reversing a policy of avoiding the touchy topic with the Soviets' touchiest neighbor.

But nothing belligerent in this, mind you, since "the brigade issue is certainly no reason for a return to the cold war."

Meanwhile, back in the Senate a powerful member is having some difficulty keeping politics and arsenals separate. Frank Church, D-Ida., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, turned an intelligence leak on the Soviet brigade into a publicity river back in August. Now he welcomes Soviet assurances that there will be no build up of the brigade. But "something more" will be necessary "if the SALT II treaty is not rejected by the Senate."

That something may be forthcoming, although not from the Russians.

Again coincidentally, the White House has decided to approve construction of a new nuclear-powered supercarrier. This is the carrier the Navy and congressional leaders wanted included in the new budget but which was rejected as a waste of resources.

The president at budget-writing time could not seem to find "a single adviser who told me that we ought to go ahead with a nuclear-powered aircraft carrier."

Fresh advice, it is reported, found the carrier a means of securing Sepate support for continued economic sanctions against Zimbabwe-Rhodesia.

Offhand, there would seem to be no logical connection between a nuclear carrier and Zimbabwe-Rhodesia, although there might be with a nuclear weapons treaty. But then, the deal isn't a matter of logic but of politics.

Politics, that is, as in playing. Or as the late great and politically astute labor leader Sidney Hillman put it:

"Politics is the science of how who gets what, when and why."

You certainly do have to hand it to Jimmy Carter.

I know you've seen them advertised. Sometimes they're called lounging sacks. Other times they're referred to as body quilts.

Whatever, you can't open a magazine these days without seeing a family sitting around the living room in plaid sleeping bags zipped up to their throats with only their eyes peeking out. According to the blurb next to them, this is what the well-dressed family will be wearing during the coming winter's fuel crisis.

Okay, forget the fact that it will take you 32 ring-a-dings to reach the telephone. Forget that no matter how hard you try, you'll still look as sexy as an unmade bed. Forget what it's going to sound like when your son answers the door and says, "Mom can't come to the door now. She has a bag on."

Just ask yourself, "Is this the answer?"

This is not the first energy crisis I have lived through. When I was ten years old and coal was 50 cents a bag, a decision was made that winter to shut off all the rooms and heat only the kitchen. That decision had an unparalleled effect on my life. Not only did it build character, it unearthed talents I never knew I possessed.

I discovered in the mornings I could run the 50 yards from my bedroom to the kitchen in an unprecedented two and one half seconds (the record that year was five seconds) WITHOUT MY FEET TOUCHING THE FLOOR.

When I had to practice the piano in an unheated room, I could play the Minute Waltz in 26 seconds.

I could jump under the covers of my bed and emerge three minutes later fully clothed without so much as putting a wrinkle in my skirt.

Whenever the doorbell rang on the Siberian side of the house, I could go into self-hypnosis and feign deafness. To this day, I never hear a doorbell ring.

Oh, sure, we could sit around next winter like quilted mermaids, but where is the adventure of getting to the sealed-off room, the challenge of running through the darkness, dodging sofas and chairs, creating smoke when your warm breath meets the cold air and finally reaching the room with the oven on?

You can't get that kind of thrill sitting around in the sack.

debt fuels spending

NEW YORK (AP)-Business and consumer spending, to say nothing of that by government, is being fueled by debt. Nothing odd about that; it has almost always been so, and quite likely will continue to be so.

What worries many financial people, however, is the current extent of that reliance. There is too little restraint they say; borrowers are spending on projects that realistically might better be scrapped.

Interest rates haven't discouraged them, probably because a borrowing cost of 13 percent doesn't hurt much, if at all, when you repay in dollars that depreciate at the same rate. And earn tax deductions too.

If you understand that much you have at least a handle for examining the package of restraint announced last weekend by the Federal Reserve Board, which sets policy, monetary policy, for the U.S. central bank.

Because you do not understand the details does not reflect adversely on you or mean the Fed has failed to convey its message. The details are like the inside of a computer; the message is like the printout.

That message, it appears, is twofold: 1. To immediately make it more difficult for borrowers to borrow; 2. to change the psychology of the market, wherein a spirit of adventurism rather than restraint existed.

This is what the Federal Reserve directors agreed on unanimously:

-An increase to 12 percent from 11 percent - an unprecedented full-point jump - in the discount rate, or the rate at which commercial banks may borrow from the Federal Reserve Bank.

-Establishment of an 8 percent higher reserve on certain funds. That is, member banks must now retain a larger percent of certain deposits. To say it another way, they can lend out less of their deposits.

-A shift in policy emphasis. The Fed had been measuring the degree of restraint by the level of interest rates. Now, it said, it will pay attention not only to rates but to the amount of lendable funds.

Commercial banks quickly revealed the impact. By Tuesday, when bank officials had obtained the expertise of their analysts and digested the consequences, they raised the prime rate a full point to 14.5 percent.

While the prime does not immediately affect other borrowing rates, it is a weather flag, signifying in this instance a full gale, just short of a hurricane. Every borrower and lender is compelled to pause.

Brewing Tea Hazard To Child

WILMINGTON, Mass.– Special precautions should be taken when brewing tea to prevent severe burns and scars which may last a lifetime, Daniel J. Pender, MD, Wilmington Regional Health Center writes in a letter to the editor of The New England Journal of Medicine.

Dr. Pender suggests that the tea be brewed in a safely placed pot where it might cool for a while before being poured into a teacup. "This precaution may not reduce the number of spills," he writes, "but it should reduce the incidence of third-degree burns and deformities in children."

"Tea, prepared with boiling water and allowed to steep in a cup undiluted, is probably the hottest drink served in most households," Dr. Pender states. Coffee and cocoa are generally not served boiling and are frequently cooled with milk or cream.

Charles Stuart, dubbed Bonnie Prince Charlie and the Young Pretender, entered Edinburg in 1745 and was crowned king of Scotland. Charles raised 6,000 men and began a march on London. The army, however, was forced back at Derby and the 2,000 survivors were annihilated at the battle of Culloden. Charles fled to France where he died in exile.

Wives would rather go the dieting route alone than have their husbands help in losing weight. Do you wonder why?

More than three-fourths of the women who reached their goal weights through participation in a weight-control group said their dieting was simplified by their husbands not being involved.

Moreover, the women ranked the desire to please their husbands sixth in a list of seven reasons for wishing to lose weight. The list was headed by desire to improve personal appearance and health and to prove to themselves that they could do it.

Probably meaning well, husbands are far more likely to comment on their wives' dieting failures than to praise their dieting successes. Husbands are also unlikely to curb their own overeating to aid their wive's food-management efforts.

Unconsideration sometimes stems from reasons of fear of a wife's widening her social and work opportunities, threatening their marriage stability, to the idea that they will be surpassed by their spouses' personal success.

Some simply enjoy overeating with their mates and do not wish to lose that companionship. The accomplishment of a weight loss by a wife may present guilt feelings with the husband who is permitted his personal excess, such as heavy smoking or drinking. When the wife curbs her excessive eating, the husband often feels he will be expected to forego his self-indulgent pleasure.

But since there is only one-fourth of the husbands who may be totally supportive, according to a Dr. Richard Stuart's survey, there may be a need to have encouragement by choosing a friend who will lend a word of encouragement or a sympathetic ear.

Whether husbands help or hinder, an added positive force can often mean the difference between success or failure in reaching a desired weight.

Locally we are fortunate in having some organizations available and open to membership. Some of these are Weight Watchers, TOPS, Hope For Tomorrow and Overeaters Anonymous. These groups meet at different times allowing one to fit into a week's busy schedule. And, oh yes, husbands are welcome to these groups, too.

The modern tendency in bidding is to bid suits up the line. That is, when holding two four-card suits and hearing your partner bid, to announce your cheapest suit first.

South was no slavish follower of this tradition. He bid his strong four-card suit immediately. After hearing North's jump raise in spades, South cue-bid his ace of diamonds. North in turn cue-bid the ace of hearts and after Blackwood, South bid the slam.

South won the opening trump lead and surveyed his prospects. Slam was an excellent proposition. If the hearts broke 3-3, dummy's club loser could be discarded on the 13th heart. Even if hearts did not divide favorably declarer would then have the option of playing either East or West for the queen of clubs.

Declarer drew trump in three rounds and then played the ace, king and another heart. East won the third round with the 10 and played the jack, which was ruffed in dummy.

Declarer first played the ace and king of diamonds and then ruffed a diamond before deciding which opponent to play for the club queen.

The club play now had become a sure thing. East had shown up with two spades, four hearts, six diamonds and therefore only one club. When South cashed his ace of clubs and the queen did not appear from East, it was a certainty to take the finesse through West.

FUNNY BUSINESS

China Trip To Aid Texas Business

AUSTIN (AP)-All Texas businesses should profit from a recent trade mission to China, says Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

"There's obviously billions of dollars of business to be done," Hobby said at a news conference Tuesday. "Who will get the business and when they will get it depends on the companies."

Hobby, two representatives of the Texas Industrial Commission and 12 officers of Texas drilling equipment companies returned Sunday from a 15-day trip to China.

It was the first state-sponsored trade mission to China.

The officers included President J. Ray Pace of Baker World Trade, Inc., Houston, whose company has done $40 million of business with the Chinese in the past year.

Hobby said Baker "Was able to secure repeat orders and even more important he was able to meet with high officials that he had not been able to see before."

"Our list of business contacts is endless and all Texas businesses should benefit, particularly Texas' oil-related industry, which will most certainly be assured of lucrative business dealings with the PRC People's Republic of China in the very near future," Hobby said.

Absent from the mission was any representative of SEDCO, the international drilling company founded by Gov. Bill Clements.

Hobby said the Chinese have only about 600 drilling rigs in operation but their schedule calls for about 2,000 rigs to be in operation within the next five years.

A CIA report distributed at the news conference said China's oil reserves total approximately 78 billion barrels, with production expected to rise from 1.7 million barrels a day in 1976 to as high as 2.8 million barrels by late 1980.

Hobby said high-ranking officials such as Qin Wen Cai, vice minister of the Oil Ministry, and former Ambassador Han Xu "greeted us with open arms ...They also welcomed us back for future trade missions."

He said within six months, the PRC will announce the site of a proposed warehouse and assembly plant for the imported drilling equipment. The possible locations have been narrowed to Shanghai or Tientsin.

The state paid "only for the trips" of Executive Director Gerald Brown and Antonito Alagna of the Industrial Commission, Brown said. He estimated the cost of the trip at $4,200 per person. Other members of the trade delegation paid for their trips, he said.

"We feel that this mission accomplished exactly what we set out to do - open the door and introduce Texas businessmen to trade with China," said Hobby.

Using Heat To Recover Oil

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP)-Conventional methods of oil recovery leave almost two-thirds of the oil in the ground, according to Department of Energy official Lyle Reed.

By igniting part of this oil to produce heat, or by injecting chemical polymers, carbon dioxide or steam, 5 to 10 percent of that oil can be loosened and made to move to the production well, he said.

UNLIKE MANY 6-YEAR-OLDS, Betsy Burch has no fear of Twinkles, a large deer from a Georgia game ranch. But that's to be expected of the March of Dimes national poster child, who bravely faced 14 operations to amputate her malformed right leg, remove extra toes from her left foot and separate her webbed fingers.

Scared Of Dogs? Use Pig Instead

EL PASO (AP)-Burglars, bandits and theives beware, because CP is no ordinary boar. Instead he is 150 pounds of romping, stomping guard pig.

Marcel Leblanc says the attack porker may be just the solution for paranoid security seekers with a fear of dogs. And who should know better than the trainer?

The 42-year-old Canadian had his prize protector traveling with him Tuesday when he journeyed through El Paso in a rusty old Cadillac limousine.

Along for the ride on the return trip to Vancouver, British Columbia, were Leblanc, his assistant pig trainer, a driver and his wife, their three children, CP, and two smaller pigs trained as circus dogs.

"We're just like one big happy family. The baby sleeps next to the pig CP and the pig guards him," said Stella Biano, the wife of driver Franklin Biano.

The thin, tanned Leblanc said he has trained attack dogs for Canadian police departments for 17 years.

Leblanc said he bought CP-which stands for Canadian Pig - "to fatten up and slaughter for a friend's party."

But he said he noticed the 150-pound, 6-month-old, pink and white Yorkshire pig learned tricks quickly. So he placed the animal among the Doberman pinschers and German shepherds in a police carnine training program.

"The pig performed better than the dogs," said Leblanc.

"We have given him basic training. He attacks and charges," said Leblanc, adding he is trying to get the pig on a late night television talk show.

The pig gave newsmen a demonstration Tuesday when he charged assistant trailer Andre Rabi, 18, who leaped out of the way, outside Leblanc's motel room.

"That trainer is a little scared because CP bit him two or three times," Leblanc explained.

Leblanc left Canada in July with the three little pigs. Along the way he picked up the assistant and last week, in Beaumont, Texas, Biano and family joined the strange entourage.

The four-legged travelers are not hard to feed.

"They love Kentucky Fried Chicken, steaks and ice cream," said LeBlanc.

Roloff Suit Says State Licensing Limits Freedoms

LAREDO (AP)—Citing constitutional guarantees of freedom of religion, the People's Baptist Church has asked a federal court here to block state licensing efforts at homes for troubled children operated by evangelist Lester Roloff.

Eight parents of former Rebekah Home for Girls residents, two girls and four staff members of the Corpus Christi maintain in their suit that the state has deprived them of due process of law and religious freedom.

Roloff refused to comply with a court order to permit the licensing of his Rebekah Home, the Lighthouse Home for Boys near Corpus Christi, and the Anchor Home for Boys at Zapata.

Instead the evangelist closed the homes.

At that time the homes were an operation of Roloff Evangelistic Enterprises. The homes now have been restructured under the auspices of the People's Baptist Church.

The suit was filed Friday by William Ball, a Harrisburg, Pa., lawyer.

"The main thrust of the argument is that any attempt by the state to take over and regulate the church is unconstitutional.

"We recognize the very legitimate interest of society to provide for the welfare of children," said Ball, adding that "the church has different ways of taking care of children."

In the suit, the plaintiffs maintain the minimum requirements of the state "substantially limit and interfere with the religious mission of the church through its homes."

The plaintiffs also contended licensing denied the "church freedom to select its staff, programs and disciplinary methods and to set out its own philosophy in effecting the regeneration of children."

The suit named Gov. Bill Clements, Attorney General Mark White and Secretary of State George Strake as defendants.

White said his office is studying the Roloff reorganization plan. He said restructuring the homes under the church is not necessarily a way to get around state child care licensing laws.

"State law simply does not make an exemption to a facility without a license simply because it is operated by a church," said White.

Streamlining Electrical Regulations

WASHINGTON (AP)-The government says it can do without nearly a quarter of a million words dealing with electrical safety standards for workers. And it says the streamlined regulations will still protect employees.

The Labor Department's Occupational Safety and Health Administration said that it will reduce the 500-page electrical safety rulebook to about 50 pages. Labor Secretary Ray Marshall said the trimmed-down rules will make it "easier for employers and workers to understand and comply with these rules."

State Fair Open To Hare Krishna

DALLAS (AP)-For the second time in a year, the Hare Krishna religious sect has won court approval to solicit donations at the State Fair of Texas.

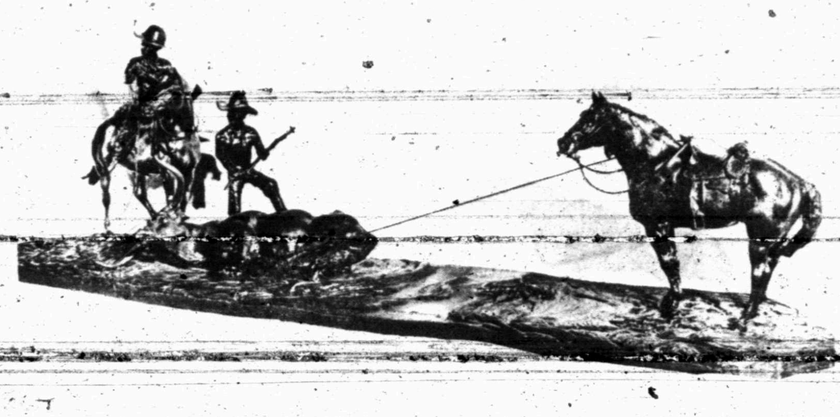
U.S. District Judge Patrick Higginbotham issued a preliminary injunction Tuesday ordering officials to admit members of the group to the fair. Since the fair opened Friday, the group had been soliciting outside the fair's gates.

The sect won the right a year ago after a protracted dispute with fair officials, who contended the Krishnas were harrassing fair visitors and obtaining donations through deceptive practices.

After Higginbotham's ruling last year that fair officials could not exclude the Kirshna solicitors or restrict them to booths, a message was recorded and played through "Big Tex" reminding fair visitors they were not obligated to give donations.

Higginbotham said evidence indicates the group's solicitations are close to being "pure commercialism" and weakens the sect's arguments they are practicing freedom of religion.

They wear wigs to cover their shaved heads and often distribute a flower, a small flag or a Big Tex button for which they seek a donation without offering any religious conversation, the judge added. But he said the group's freedom-of-religion argument still has enough substance to force a ruling in its favor.



CATTLE RUSTLERS -- "Changing the XIT to the Star Plus" is the title of this sculpture by Jim Thomas. The XIT is one of the historic cattle brands in Texas, and rustlers found they could change it to the Star Plus to make their newly acquired stock more saleable. Thomas and C. Warren Cullar will be at the Scurry County Museum from 6-8 p.m. Thursday as their new show opens there.

Reception At Museum...

Cullar, Thomas Return To Familiar Territory

Thursday's reception in the Scurry County Museum will be a sort of homecoming for one of the artists, C. Warren Cullar, in addition to marking the opening of the new exhibit scheduled to run through October.

Cullar was a member of the faculty at Western Texas College before he resigned in 1976 and moved to Bertram to become a full-time artist. A graduate of Abilene Christian College, Cullar received his Master of Fine Arts from the Intituto Allende in San Miguel de Allende, Guanajuato, Mexico, then began a career in commercial art. He taught at Hardin-Simmons University before joining the faculty at WTC.

Also included in the show will be bronze sculptures by Jim Thomas of Amarillo. Thomas is no newcomer to Snyder, having shown here previously as a member of the Texas Cowboy Artists Association. He is best known for his Western art, but one of his popular non-Western pieces is a 24-inch bronze sculpture of Earl Campbell. The University of Texas Ex-Student's Association and Thomas cooperated to form the Earl Campbell Scholarship, with a portion of the proceeds from the sales going into the scholarship fund.

Mrs. Cullar will accompany her husband to Snyder for the Thursday night opening, and will also be present for two programs scheduled in the museum on Oct. 15. The Cullars' gift to visitors on Thursday evening will be a set of line drawing prints depicting six of Cullar's favorite subjects.

Cullar will also have ready for delivery "Seacoast," the fifth in a series of 10 limited edition prints introduced at an earlier show. He will have the first 100 for collectors who purchased the entire set and will also have extra prints for others who wish to purchase "Seacoast."

"The past year has been an exciting one for Cullar Studio," Mrs. Cullar wrote to Sharon Sutton, museum director, in correspondence concerning the new show.

"First C. Warren was the subject of a 10-page story in the December issue of Southwest Art," Mrs. Cullar continues. "He was also featured in the July-August issue of Art Voices-South. His painting "San Miguel" received the $500 Alice Dinn Memorial award in the Texas Watercolor Society Annual Exhibition "Whispering Pine" received a merit award in the Southwest Watercolor Society Annual Exhibitions of West Texas-Watercolor Association and Southwest IV, the federation of watercolor societies of the Southwest. He produced three new limited edition prints that will be on display at the Scurry County Museum show."

The reception and show are open to the public without admission charge.

1 Man Strike Holds Up Train

EXETER, England (AP) - An Englishman was recently unable to find a first-class seat on his morning express train.

Angered, he staged a sit-down strike on the railway line in front of the train and refused to budge.

The man held up the train and its 600 passengers for 20 minutes.

Oklahoma Plans Enterprise Square

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)-In 1980, a theme-park atmosphere will be created here to sell "free enterprise."

Educators and businessmen in the state will use supergraphics, games and quiz shows to help educate those who may be economically uninformed.

The $15 million project, called "Enterprise Square, USA," will be a multimedia center adjacent to the campus of Oklahoma Christian College. Completion is scheduled for 1981.

DiBona Rejects Notion Of October Gas Lines

HOUSTON (AP)—Charles J. DiBona, oil's top Washington spokesman, says a gasoline shortage of just 2 to 3 percent can cause panic buying and long service station lines.

But the president of the American Petroleum Institute rejects a forecast motorists may be forming gasolines again by the end of October.

In an informal session Tuesday with petroleum and energy writers, DiBona reported reading that a West Coast newsletter on retail gasoline marketing trends had said motorists may be forming long lines by the end of the month.

The possibility was blamed on the federal government's emphasis on the industry building winter heating oil inventories at the expense of gasoline stocks.

"That is so unlikely, very, very unlikely," DiBona said of the long lines report.

"I don't think that is a viable prediction. I just don't know how that would happen."

DiBona said gasoline stocks are now about 11 million barrels higher than a year ago "and in a comfortable range."

August gasoline demand, he said, was 10 to 11 percent below year earlier requirements, adding there is no indication the not yet available September statistics will reflect a similar trend.

"Two-thirds of that decline resulted from increased prices," he said.

"If gasoline had still been selling at about 65 cents a gallon, demand would not have been down."

DiBona said there also is reason to "fell fairly comfortable" about heating oil inventories.

"A week ago heating oil stocks totaled 230 million barrels and were increasing at a rate of about a million barrels a day," he said.

A Department of Energy objective of inventories totaling 240 million barrels by the end of the month may have been reached already, he said.

"But a new report will not be ready for another couple of days," DiBona said.

Small savers can now pool their funds to buy $10,000 six-month market certificates which pay nine percent interest rate, says a family resource management specialist, Linda McCormack, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Spurs Will Stay In San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—The San Antonio Spurs have resolved their dispute with San Antonio city council members and won't be moving back to Dallas, says Spurs President Angelo Drossos.

Drossos had created a furor when he told the San Antonio Express-News in a copyright article Sunday that he was looking into the possibility of moving the National Basketball Association team to Dallas because of problems with the city council.

He now says he misunderstood the situation.

Drossos met Monday with council members to settle the dispute that had developed over the possible loss of some portable seats in the city-owned HemisFair Arena where the Spurs play.

The 568 choice seats had been allowed in the past and were pre-sold by the Spurs this year.

He's Played 'Em Both...

Alborn Picks Sooners Over Texas

HOUSTON (AP)-Rice University Coach Ray Alborn has an accurate track record for predicting the outcome of the annual Texas-Oklahoma football slugfest in Dallas.

"Oklahoma has a very explosive offense and unless they leave the ball on the ground (fumble). I don't see anyone stopping them," Alborn said.

When the Owls lost to Oklahoma 66-7 and to Texas 34-0 last year, Alborn predicted a Sooner victory. Texas Coach Fred Akers didn't like the forecast but the Sooners did win the game 31-10.

Rice improved against UT and OU this season, losing to Oklahoma 63-21 and to Texas 26-9 and Alborn has the same prediction for the 1979 game.

"Now if they Oklahoma have trouble pitching the ball, Texas could win but if they get the ball to the corner it could be a long afternoon. If I were going to pick a winner I'd pick Oklahoma," Alborn said.

The game shapes up as a battle between the potent Oklahoma offense led by Heisman Trophy winner Billy Sims and the rugged defense of the Longhorns, rated by some as the best in the school's history.

"Texas' defense tackle to tackle, manhandled us pretty well," Alborn said. "They put a big rush on and their secondary is good. We just couldn't get the ball to our receivers."

Sims and UT running back A.J. Jones each rushed more than 100 yards against the Owls but Sims played less than one-half of the game and Jones played the entire game.

"Jones is a good back, but he's not Billy Sims," Alborn said. "Not by any score. I mean, Jones isn't bad, but Sims is in a class by himself."

One stumbling block to the OU offense and Sims could be Longhorn safety Johnnie Johnson, Alborn said.

"Johnnie Johnson, their free safety, will be able to create some problems for the Oklahoma offense," Alborn said. "Texas will support him on both sides against the run."

Cowboys Took 'Too Tall' Instead, But...

Dutton Joins Dallas Anyway

DALLAS (AP)-The Dallas Cowboys almost drafted John Dutton five years ago, but instead took Ed "Too Tall" Jones.

With Jones now retired and boxing for a living, they traded two precious draft picks Tuesday, hoping to fill the void which Jones left.

The Cowboys signed Dutton, who stubbornly refused to play for the Baltimore Colts this season because of a dispute with management, to a multi-year contract for undisclosed terms.

Jones was the fifth person in the draft in 1974 and club President Tex Schramm said "We debated at great length whether to take Ed or John Dutton.

"Of course, our philosophy is the draft, but we are not totally against trading for a player who is quality and who is Dutton's age.

"Dutton is 28 and an All-Pro and we are not so hide-bound that we won't do what's proper. The loss of 'Too Tall,' who was on an All-Pro level, threw off our scheduling and our timing or we would not have done it."

The Cowboys surrendered a No. 1 and No. 2 round draft pick in 1980 for the somewhat stunned Dutton, who flew to Dallas for a late Tuesday night press conference.

"I just about gave up all hope of playing this year because I was not going to play for the Colts," said Dutton, who was obtained a mere 20 minutes before the trading deadline. "I didn't think the Cowboys would get me because I thought they had everything."

The 6-foot-7, 266-pound Dutton was an All-Pro in 1976 and three times has been to the Pro Bowl.

Coach Tom Landry said Dutton, who played right end at Baltimore, would be inserted in Jones' old left end position as soon as it was possible.

Landry said "There's no question that he can help us. It'll probably take him a while to regain his competitive edge.

"It would be wrong to say that he can come back right now and play like he did when he was at the top of his game."

Series Opener Is Rained Out For First Time Ever

BALTIMORE (AP)-The 1979 World Series still was tied 0-0 today because not even baseball's annual fall classic can fool around with Mother Nature.

It rained on the scheduled Tuesday night opener of the best-of-seven game confrontation between the Baltimore Orioles and Pittsburgh Pirates.

It marked the first time in the 76-year history of the Series that the opener was postponed. And it was the 26th time a Series game bowed to the elements - 25 to rain and one because of cold weather.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn called off the game at 8:32 P.M., (EDT) just two minutes after the scheduled starting time. The decision was booed by the fans, but justified by the continuing downpour and dire weather forecast for the rest of Tuesday night.

There was no way the American League champion Orioles and National League winning Pirates could have played on the sopping wet natural grass and dirt surface. Although a tarpaulin covered the infield, the outfield was full of puddles.

It wouldn't have taken long once the tarp was off to turn the infield into a quagmire. And, the valuable talent on both teams would have been subjected to possible injury. The decision was wise if slightly delayed.

The Series opens tonight 8:30 P.M. EDT and continues Thursday night. The teams will hustle to Pittsburgh for a third game Friday night. The fourth game is scheduled for Pittsburgh Saturday afternoon.

If needed, a fifth game is scheduled for Pittsburgh Sunday afternoon, with Monday off and a return to Baltimore if games Six and Seven are necessary.

Major-league pitcher Steve Trout is the son of former major-league star Dizzy Trout.

Spurs Must Trim; Mosley Latest To Go

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—The San Antonio Spurs have waived 23-year-old forward Glenn Mosley and must cut two more players before Friday.

Mosley, a 6-foot-8 product of Seton Hall, was a reserve with the Central Division champion Spurs almost all of last year. He averaged 3.3 points per game in the 26 games in which he played and scored 30 points in five exhibition games this year.

Mosley was the No. 1 draft choice of the Philadelphia 76ers in 1977, but was waived there after six games.

He was the last player cut by the Spurs in the 1978 fall camp and went to the Continental League. He returned to the Spurs Dec. 28.

The move Tuesday left the Spurs with 13 Players. National Basketball Association rules require the roster to be trimmed to 11 before Friday.

McEnroe Trips Up Alexander

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—John McEnroe outlasted Australian John Alexander 6-3, 4-6, 6-4 and Vitas Gerulaitis whipped Argentinan ace Guillermo Vilas 6-4, 3-6, 6-3 in the opening round of the $434,000 Super Challenge indoor tennis tournament.

Snyder-Pecos And Ector-Lake View...

Top Games Highlight 3A Slate

By BILL McCLELLAN

A victory sweep for District 3-AAA this week could not bring the loop up to a .500 season against outside opposition, but it could help quite a bit.

The conference, posting two wins and three losses on the gridiron last week, is 9-16 for the season. Only two 3-AAA teams, Lake View and Snyder, are above the .500 mark.

There promises to be some top action in the district Friday night, as 3-AAA squads close out the regular season to begin battles amongst each other.

Highlighting the action will be the Snyder-Pecos showdown. Other picks to watch are Lake View against undefeated Odessa Ector, and Monahans at Sweetwater. Brownfield will be looking for its second win of the season at Hereford, while winless Lamesa has the unhappy chore of taking on class 3A's No. 7 rated Lubbock Estacado in Lubbock.

And while we're nothing the ranked elite, let's point out that San Angelo Lake View rose in this week's poll from No. 9 to No. 8. Likewise, Pecos moved up a notch to No. 9.

Once rated No. 10 itself, Snyder will be trying to dislodge that undefeated Pecos team in Pecos, 8 a.m. Friday. The Tigers, who had been plagued with mistakes in four earlier games, got on track against Levelland in the second half last week to pound the Lobos 24-0. Meanwhile, Pecos was tripping Alpine 26-12.

It's an important game - needless to say - for Mike Jenkins Tigers, who stay on the road for a third consecutive week next Friday, taking on Lake View in the 3-AAA opener.

Lake View could lose that No. 8 ranking before it gets a chance at Snyder if the Chiefs look too far ahead come Friday. Undefeated Odessa Ector comes calling, and the Eagles will be shooting to upset the hosts themselves.

Sweetwater almost got its second win of the season last Friday, but was nipped by a fast-fading Fort Stockton team, 7-6. Stockton's Panthers posted a 3-0 record early, but lost to Kermit 14-0, and had their problems with Sweetwater last week.

This time around, Sweetwater plays host to 3-2 Monahans. The Mustangs begin loop play in a week, entertaining Lamesa.

Brownfield, 1-4, gave Andrews a hard time last Friday despite falling 26-12, and would like to earn a second-of-the-season victory this week at Hereford, 3-2. The Cubs open loop play two weeks from Friday, hosting Lake View.

Some thought Lamesa would break it's 1979 losing streak of four straight games last week when it played winless Lubbock Dunbar. But the Panthers rallied for a late 20-10 win to brighten their ledger, and darken Lamesa's to 0-5.

Things don't look any better for the Tornados this time around as they take on No. 7 ranked Estacado in Lubbock.

District 3-AAA Standings

Team	W-L	PF	APF	PA	APA	PCT.
Lake View	4-1	125	25	36	7.2	.800
Snyder	3-2	74	14.8	40	8	.600
Brownfield	1-4	39	7.8	75	15	.200
Sweetwater	1-4	53	10.6	116	23.2	.200
Lamesa	0-5	20	4	107	21.4	.000
3-3A	9-16	311	12 44	374	14.96	.360

Last Week's Scores: Lake View 42, Houston NW Academy 21; Snyder 24, Levelland 0; Brownfield 12, Andrews 26; Sweetwater 6, Fort Stockton 7; Lamesa 10, Lubbock Dunbar 20.

This Week's Schedule: (all games at 8 p.m.) Odessa Ector at SA Lake View; Snyder at Pecos; Brownfield at Hereford; Monahans at Sweetwater; Lamesa at Lubbock Estacado.

Jaskie Claims Classic Title

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)-Fred Jaskie started off with nine strikes and defeated Mark Roth 266-258 in the championship match of the Regional Champions Classic.

Jaskie, who won $6,000, left a 3-10 split in the 10th frame. He had thrown the game-winning shot the frame before to clinch the title for his second Professional Bowlers Association win.

Palmer To Try Southern Open

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP)—Arnold Palmer makes his first appearance ever in the $200,000 Southern Open golf tournament, which opens Thursday boasting the strongest field in history.

Jerry Pate, winner of the tournament the past two years, will be back to defend his title. The 10th annual 72-hole event will be worth $40,000 to the winner.

Others in the field are Kennesaw, Ga. native Larry Nelson, second on the money list this season, Ben Crenshaw, Hubert Green, Tom Weiskopf and rookie John Fought, who recently captured the Buick Open and the Napa event in consecutive weeks.

Pate, who won last year with an 11-under-par 269 over the 6,817-yard, par-70 Green Island Country Club course, is rated the one to beat.

Crenshaw, who has six tour victories, including the Phoenix Open this year, has finished second in five of his last seven tournaments. He as never finished better than a tie for fifth in the Southern Open, however, achieving that level in 1974 and 1975.

Green has two tournament victories this season and 16 in his career, including a Southern Open triumph in 1976.

Attendance at college football games in 1978 totaled a record 34,251,606.

BULLDOG CHEERLEADERS--These four girls will be leading the yells for the Ira Bulldogs for the 1979-80 season. They are (left to right) Theresa Meyer, junior; Shelly Maupin, senior; Julie Kellner, freshman and Marla Phillips, sophomore, (bottom). They attended the N.C.A. camp in Abilene Texas, on the Hardin Simmons campus and received seven awards for Superior and Excellence rating in the various activities.

Dibbs Scores Easy First-Round Win

BARCELONA, Spain (AP)-Harold Solomon eliminated Spain's Antonio Munoz 6-2, 6-3 and Eddie Dibbs crushed Australian J. Edwards 6-2, 6-2 in the first round of the $175,000 Count of the Godo international tennis tournament.

Tigers Consider Eagles A Challenge, Says Coach

The Snyder Tigers won't be awed by Pecos' No. 9 state ranking when the two teams meet Friday, feels Coach Mike Jenkins. Besides, with No. 8 San Angelo Lake View just around the corner, it just doesn't make sense to be star-struck by the Eagles.

"It just gives our kids a little more challenge," he commented via telephone this morning. "Pecos has a very good football team and our kids think we have a good football team. They're looking forward to playing them."

In recent years the teams have only met once, that being in 1978, when the No. 5 rated Eagles defeated Snyder 28-15 in an exciting contest at Tiger Stadium.

The fact that Pecos is ranked again won't make any difference, explains Jenkins, but having played the Eagles last year may benefit Snyder this time around.

"They were a new team for us last year. The kids didn't really know what to expect. This year they know. They've been working very hard. They know that we're playing good people and for us to defend our championship we have to defend it against good people.

"It's very important that we play extremely well against Pecos. We're coming off a good game (24-0 win over Levelland) and we still need to improve."

Snyder goes into the 8 p.m. game Friday as a 3-4 point underdog according to the Harris Poll, and perhaps by as much as 8 points elsewhere, but Jenkins believes that will give his athletes all the more incentive.

"We don't mind being the underdog. It's a challenge to us. We'd like to go over there and show that we can play football too. Besides," he laughed, "It's too far to go and get beat."

Pecos, 5-0, will enter the stadium with impressive statistics, averaging 236 rushing yards and 72.4 passing yards a game, for a total of 308.4. The Eagles are scoring 27.8 points per outing and allowing 9.6.

In comparison, Snyder, 3-2, averages 162 rushing and 91.2 passing for a total of 254, has scored to the tune of 14.8 and allowed 8.0.

To contrast, Snyder's defense ranks second (class 3A) in the area, having allowed 523 yards rushing and 393 passing for 916 or a 183.2 average. The most single-game yardage the Tigers have allowed in 1979 has been 218 - that to undefeated Midland Lee.

Defensive statistics were not available on Pecos. However, the Eagles do not rank in the top four. Fourth is Odessa Ector, allowing 197.0.

The only other rate of comparison between the two schools indicates that Pecos five opponents this far have a combined record of 6-18, while Snyder's are 15-8.

Dusters Set Scrimmage

Coach Joe Cushing's WTC Dusters have scheduled a scrimmage 6 p.m. Thursday with Angelo State in San Angelo.

The Dusters, 1978-79 conference co-champions, will host Hill College of Hillsboro in a scrimmage Tuesday at 5 p.m. in WTC Gym.

Fems Floor Dunbar; Vie Here Thursday

Coach Joyce Elrod's varsity and junior varsity Tigers yawned past Lubbock Dunbar in volleyball action here last night.

The varsity, 19-5, will take several days rest until hosting Colorado City on Monday. Snyder JV, 11-0, will compete in the Plains Tournament beginning 10 a.m. Friday.

Snyder upperclassmen ripped the Matadors 15-3 and 15-2 with Kim Harlin's 16 points leading the way. She served for 14 straight points in the second game. Shauna Pate added 6, while Suzy Fisher noted 5, Sherry Mayes 2 and Lisa Cobb 1.

The junior varsity rolled to wins of 15-2 and 15-9. Kelly Dryden served up a dozen points, followed by Sherri Rich with 9, Toni Elrod with 5, Ann Melton 3 and Shana Koonsman 1.

Snyder will face Andrews as its first opponent in the Plains Tournament. The winner will play a Big Spring-Lamesa victor at noon, while losers play at 12:30. The 16-team tourney continues through Saturday.

In other games of local interest, Snyder eighth grade Black hosts Lamesa at the high school gym 5:30 p.m. Thursday. A freshman game with the Tors will follow at 6:30.

Last week, Snyder frosh edged Big Spring 15-7, 3-15 and 15-10.

For Snyder's varsity unit, District 3-AAA tilts are drawing near. The group hosts Colorado City on Monday at 7 p.m., travels to Denver City on Oct. 16 and Seminole on Oct. 23, and opens loop play at Sweetwater, 7:30 p.m. on the 25th.

The remainder of the conference schedule, for Snyder, includes: at Brownfield on Oct. 30; host Lamesa on Nov. 1; host Sweetwater on Nov. 6 and Brownfield on Nov. 8, and at Lamesa on Nov. 13. The regional tournament is Dec. 1.

Cat Games Moved To Jr. High Field

Thursday and Saturday football games here will be held at Travis Junior High Field instead of Tiger Stadium as was originally scheduled notes SHS athletic director John Gary.

The turf at Tiger Stadium is not in good condition, and school officials have moved the games to prevent the surface from getting worse.

"The surface is actually better at the junior high field, so the kids will want to play there, I'm sure," said Gary, "but it won't please parents," he laughed.

The varsity has two more home games - which need to be held at Tiger Stadium - and officials want to insure the turf will be playable.

Thursday's home games call for Snyder eighth grade Black to entertain Big Spring Red at 5:30. A junior varsity game between the Tigers and Levelland will follow at 7.

Saturday, Snyder A and B freshman squads will host Big Spring at 10:30 a.m.

Snyder seventh grade is also in action Thursday, playing at Big Spring for two games, 5 and 7:30 p.m.

OBITUARIES

Bruce Nolan

ROTAN—Funeral service has been set for 4 p.m. Thursday at the Weathersbee Funeral Home Chapel here for Bruce Nolan, 17 of Topeka, Kan.

A former resident of Roby and Snyder, he died Monday in a Topeka hospital of a gunshot wound he received Saturday at his home.

Fred Bauman of Sweetwater will officiate at the funeral and burial will be in the Roby Cemetery.

A graduate of Roby High School, he had moved to Topeka about four months ago. He is survived by his parents, Bobby Nolan of Snyder and Mrs. Joe Andrews of Hamlin; three brothers, Barry Nolan of Topeka, Ronnie and Scott Andrews, both of Hamlin, two sisters, Wendy of Topeka and Christie Milstead of Hamlin.

Bennett Rites

ROTAN—Funeral service is set for 2 p.m. Thursday in the Weathersbee Funeral Home Chapel for Mrs. Mae Bennett, 80 who died Monday night in Cogdell Memorial Hospital in Snyder. The Rev. David Bugg of First Baptist Church will officiate and burial will be in the Rotan Cemetery.

A resident of Fisher County since 1908, she is survived by two sons, Edgar L. Bennett of Sweetwater and Roy M. Bennett of Snyder; two daughters, Geneva George of Fort Stockton and Belle Wiley of Gustine; two brothers, P. W. Coppedge of Seserva, Calif., and J. G. Coppedge of Bronte; 11 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

High Interest To Hurt Small Businesses Most

By GLENN RITT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Small businesses will be hit hardest - and first - by rising interest rates, economists say. Many won't find credit, while others may pay more than 16 percent interest in coming weeks.

Small manufacturers, particularly in the Midwest, will be most vulnerable, these economists say. But stores that sell specialty items and long-lasting consumer products also will feel the credit pinch.

As a result, many part-time retail workers will be laid off, the economists say. And since women hold many of these jobs, they can expect tough times ahead, the forecasters add.

People who buy, sell and build houses also will be some of the first victims of rising interest rates. Economists say prospective homeowners will find it more difficult to get mortgages, which in turn will slow homebuilding.

The Federal Reserve Board last weekend increased its bank lending rate from 11 percent to a record 12 percent and tightened its control on the availability of money and credit.

The moves generated immediate upsurges in other short-term interest rates. The overall effect resulted in stock prices recording their steepest drop in more than five years Tuesday.

Chase Manhattan Bank on Tuesday boosted the prime rate to its best customers by an entire percentage point, to 14.5 percent.

Small businesses, however, rarely qualify as "best customers." They usually must pay 2 percent to 3 percent above the prime rate, said economists Richard Landry of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

That is almost as much as consumers pay on credit card interest, and it makes borrowing very difficult for most small businesses with sales below $500,000 a year, Landry said.

Moreover, he added, there are growing reports that smaller, regional banks are hesitant to extend loans.

Consumers who want loans also will face difficulties, say economists.

"I would think that it's going to be a little harder to get a car loan, a little harder to get a mortgage," said economist William E. Gibson of the brokerage house Smith Barney, Harris Upham & Co. Inc.

"It will be very tough to buy or sell homes without mortgage financing available," said bank analyst Jonathan E. Gray of Sanford C. Bernstein & Co. Inc. "It's difficult to see institutions funding mortgages one or two months in advance when the cost of money is so uncertain."

The tight mortgage market is expected to slow homebuilding. And that is likely to mean slower sales and rising inventories for makers of appliances and home furnishings as their major market shrinks, economists explain.

Most of the small makers of machinery parts for appliances and cars are located in the Midwestern states.

NBC Optimistic After 2 Out 3 Nielsen Wins

NEW YORK (AP)-NBC is not about to declare the 1979-80 prime-time season a success - yet. But after winning the ratings competition in two of the first three weeks, last year's No. 3 network has cause for optimism.

"We're not going to make any preposterous claims, three weeks into the season," NBC's president for entertainment, Mike Weinblatt, said Tuesday. "But I said some time ago that we would all be closer this season, that we were going to surprise a lot of people."

NBC's quick start did, indeed, catch the competition flat-footed. Both ABC, expected by many in the industry to run away from the field as it did last season, and CBS, have already announced some schedule-shuffling.

And, in light of the most recent ratings report from the A.C. Nielsen Co. - NBC in first place for the week ending Oct 7 by nearly half a point over ABC - more program changes appear likely.

In the report, NBC had a rating of 19.4, which the networks say mean that 19.4 percent of the homes in the country were tuned to NBC in an average prime-time minute during the week. ABC finished second at 18.9 and CBS third at 17.7.

NBC president Fred Silverman, who left ABC in June after helping ABC establish itself as the industry leader, has set Christmas 1980 as the Target date for NBC to become the No.1-rated network.

Though NBC has been helped in the ratings by some outstanding films, a prime-time special starring "Tonight" show host Johnny Carson, and the big league baseball playoffs, Weinblatt said the success of the network's regular series is what pleases him most.

NBC, for the most recent week checked, had the Carson special and two series, "Little House on the Prairie" and "CHips," in the week's Top 20. Perhaps more significantly, the network listed only one show - "Prime Time Sunday" - in the bottom 10.

CBS had the top rated show, "Alice." The rating was 28.5. Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with television, 28.5 percent saw at least part of the program.

with melancholy; not a dance, but a walk through nature..." One of the highlights of the symphony is the plantive horn melody heard in the fourth movement.

The Symphony concert is a feature of the "Fall Into the Arts" series. Concert goers are also invited to visit the Scurry County Museum between 6-8 p.m. for the opening of a new art exhibit there. The artists, C. Warren Cullar and Jim Thomas, will be honored with a reception marking the opening of their show.

Cub Leaders Hold Session At Dunn

The Lone Buffalo District Cub Scout Roundtable met Tuesday at the Dunn Community Center.

Roundtable Chairman Linda Cox reviewed October's Cub Scout theme of fire prevention. She asked that each den leader bring a report of October activities to the Nov. 13 Roundtable meeting.

Mrs. Cox also introduced the November Cub Scout theme which is "Knights of Yore." She gave suggestions for crafts and games relating to the theme.

Eloise Gunset volunteered to take her 12-passenger van to the Cub Scout Pow Wow in Odessa Nov. 17. The Pow Wow will start at 9:30 a.m. and should end about 4:30 p.m. Cost of the Pow Wow is $4.50 for advance registration and $4 at the door. Cost of registration includes leader materials, training for skits, crafts, ice breakers and songs.

A travel trophy is awarded at each Roundtable to the pack having the highest percentage of leaders at the meeting. Winner of this month's travel trophy is Pack 36 of East Elementary. Mrs. Cox presented the trophy to Eloise Gunset, Jerry Gunset, Joan Marble, and Carolyn Derouen.

Other packs represented at the Roundtable were Pack 2 of Colorado City, 311 of Hermleigh, and Packs 37 of West Elementary, 36 of East Elementary, and 177 of Stanfield Elementary.

District Executive Larry Miller presented each leader present with Super Scout posters. He also discussed the Olympic Good Turn. Each Cub Scout and leader who performs a physical fitness feat is eligible to donate a dollar to the U.S. Olympic team. In turn the U.S. Olympic team will send a U.S. Olympic team patch which the cub scouter may wear on his uniform.

A committee of scout leaders was formed to work with the commercial division of the United Way. The packets will be delivered to businesses within the week. The Boy Scout program is partially financed by the United Way.

The meeting concluded with each leader sharing information of a rewarding experience he has had in his scouting activities, with the main thought being that time devoted to boys will be rewarded with the satisfaction derived from seeing young men grow into American citizens who live by the scout oath and law.

All Cub Scout leaders are encouraged to attend the next Cub Roundtable Nov. 13 at 7:30 p.m. at the Dunn Community Center, said officials.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Preventing trichinosis

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I've been married for 10 years and consider myself a fairly good cook. One evening I cooked pork chops and I know how careful one should be with pork. Halfway through the dinner, I noticed that my daughter had just about finished her pork chop. The meat around the bone was quite pink — almost red. I'm sure the middle of the chop was cooked because I cut it for her.

Anyway I'm quite upset and worried. I called my pediatrician and he assured me that in this day and age I wouldn't have to worry about it. That was two weeks ago and I'm still upset. All the material I have read tells me to worry. Everything I read says that whenever the pork is eaten raw or insufficiently cooked there is a danger of trichinosis or tape worm.

Would she have already been sick? And is there something I should be doing for her or not? I do not know how pork is inspected or if it can be inspected for the diagnosis of these dangerous worms.

DEAR READER — I don't blame you for being upset and I wish I could reassure you but I can't.

Trichinosis is caused by little worms and these parasites are in pork. It's true that the amount of infected pork has decreased in the United States to about one-third what it used to be but that still allows for an enormous amount of infected pork to be on the market.

Routine meat inspection doesn't always tell you that it's infected either, and the skin tests that were tried to detect infected pigs haven't really been successful. The only real safeguard against ingesting some contaminated pork is thorough cooking. That means that all of the meat should be cooked to an internal temperature of 60 degrees centigrade (140 degrees Fahrenheit) for at least 30 minutes and none of the pork should be pink or raw.

The first stage of the trichinosis involvement is when the male and female worms unite in the intestine. The intestinal phase may cause diarrhea and digestive symptoms. One form of treatment is given to eliminate any more of the adult worms that might still be in the digestive system.

The second phase is the migration of the larvae into the circulation and throughout the body, particularly forming little cysts inside the muscles. At this stage there may be swelling around the eyes, muscle pain and fever. Blood tests help establish or rule out the presence of the infestation and, if necessary, a muscle biopsy may show the characteristic parasites between the muscle fibers.

I'm afraid there's not much you can do at this late date about the incompletely cooked chop that your child has eaten. You should be alert to the problem and by now the intestinal phase or diarrhea, if it were going to occur, would have passed. If you're concerned about it, ask your doctor to do some blood tests to make sure that there's no evidence of an infection.

BACKACHES ARE one of man's most frequent complaints. There are things you can do to prevent them. Readers who want information on this can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for The Health Letter number 13-10, Backache And What To Do About It. Send your request to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Another Half Million Pledged Tuesday...

Connally Campaign Coffers Bulging

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—It had been a long, problem-filled day of campaigning for John Connally. But the Republican presidential hopeful had on his dancing shoes Tuesday night as supporters pledged to swell his already-bulging campaign coffers by about $500,000.

Airplane problems in flight forced the former Texas governor to miss a rich afternoon reception. But it had no apparent effect, as he made it in time for a later fund-raising dance and picked up a check for $125,000 and pledges for up to $375,000 more.

"This was organized by a bunch of young people who want to help" Connally said of the dance. He then quipped, "Its not my first choice for an evening's activity, as much as I'm on my feet. But if they want to dance, we're gonna have a dance."

Connally, 62, who has raised more than $4 million for his campaign to win the Republican nomination, was coming to San Antonio Tuesday afternoon for a private Connally Charter Club reception.

About 50 club members, each of whom has pledged to raise $10,000 for Connally's campaign, had gathered at a plush downtown hotel for the reception when it was announced Connally's plane had returned to Houston.

"We lost our electrical system. The pilot said we were going back to Houston and I said, "Fine, I'm with you,' " Connally jokingly explained.

Connally was able to borrow another plane, round up a crew and arrive in time for the $1,000-per-couple, formal dinner-dance.

Connally, who lives in nearby Floresville, was presented with a $125,000 check at the dance. Local Charter Club Chairman Shelton Padgett said that Represented cash collected Tuesday at both fund-raising functions.

Padgett said he had invited 75 persons to join the Charter Club and received pledges from 48 of those who said they would each raise $10,000. There were about 125 couples at the dinner-dance.

"We've been able to raise more money than any candidate in either party," said Connally, noting that federal law limits individual contributions to $1,000. "We have over 10,000 different contributors. That simply means we have a broad base of support."

Connally, a three-term governor of Texas as a Democrat in the 1960s and a Cabinet member under President Nixon, said his campaign organizations will be in place in each state by mid-November.

He said he is running "neck-and-neck" with Republican front-runner Ronald Reagan in Florida's non-binding, presidential preference convention Nov. 17. That, he added, is despite the fact that Reagan supporters control the process and that Reagan gains exposure through his syndicated newspaper columns and radio shows.

Connally said his campaign will spend "in the range of $175,000" in Florida, not close to $500,000 as his opponents have claimed.

Rocks From High And Low In Show

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)-Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Murray arranged to obtain a moon rock to display at the Toledo Gem and Rock hound Club Show. They also obtained nodules scooped from the ocean floor some 30,000 feet below the surface.

The show can thus display specimens from the highest and lowest points reached by man.

John Paul II, Brezhnev Discuss Arms Control

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pope John Paul II and Soviet Party Chairman Leonid Brezhnev, who don't have a whole lot in common, had some interesting things to say recently on the same subject: arms control.

The pope was subtly plugging for Senate passage of the SALT II nuclear weapons limitation treaty. And Brezhnev was trying to persuade the United States' NATO allies to turn down new U.S. rockets.

There is no reason to question the pope's motives. Reducing the risk of nuclear war is an appropriate concern of one whose mission it is to worry about the fate of mankind.

"The United States plays a particularly important part in the quest for greater security in the world and for closer international collaboration," the pope said from the White House steps.

"With all my heart, I hope there will be no relaxing of its efforts both to reduce the risk of a fatal and disastrous world-wide nuclear confrontation, and to secure a prudent and progressive reduction of the destructive capacity of military arsenals."

The pope's appeal must have cheered President Carter, who is having a difficult time scraping together the two-thirds vote needed for Senate ratification of SALT II. The appeal was a genuine call for arms control.

Your Birthday

October 11, 1979

This coming year holds enormous promise for you, because Lady Luck is in your corner. Set lofty and worthwhile goals for yourself and pursue them vigorously.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There is a channel for gain which is wide open and ready for you to move through today. Your hunches could serve as the current that pulls you in the right direction. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll fare extremely well in any situation where you are free to use your ideas and initiative. This is not a day to sit back and be idle.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) People in general are very responsive to your personal needs at this time, and are willing to offer any assistance you may desire. Speak up.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Something is now astir that could benefit your hopes or plans. It may come about through two helpful contacts who are in your corner.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Luck is your partner today, and will work for you to help further your status or reputation. This is especially true careerwise.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Have faith and act on your ideas today. Conditions are such that you can afford to take sensible risks if your thinking is reasoned and logical.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't hesitate to put into practice some of those creative ideas that will occur to you today. They'll turn out even better than you envision.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A social contact could prove very lucky for you today by putting you in touch with the right person to help further your ambitions.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Things that have a bearing upon your basic material security could take a turn for the better today, giving you cause to celebrate. Share your joy with a loved one.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It may be sheer luck, but today you could say the right thing at the right time to the right person to bring about a fortunate happening.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Rewards are in the offing today because of something nice you did which meant more to another than you realized. It pays to be a good guy.

VIRGO (Aut. 23-Sept. 22) Yield to your positive restless impulses and move about as much as possible today. It's visiting people and places that will bring you happiness.

TV Censorship Enters Baffling New Territory

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Television censorship, always an imprecise craft, is stumbling into a confounding new territory, where rules are fluid and limits change from network to network, program to program.

For example:

Last spring, CBS deleted some presidential blasphemy from its Watergate movie, "Blind Ambition," even though the language was lifted directly from the White House tapes. Most viewers, according to CBS' reckoning, would be offended by Nixon's use of "Jesus Christ" in vain.

A few months later, ABC ran the hit movie "Annie Hall" in full version. The movie attracted a large audience and virtually no public complaints about its strong language. The audience that CBS feared would protest against a presidential "Jesus Christ" as an expletive, was apparently unmoved when that particular blasphemy is uttered by a Jewish comic from Brooklyn.

CBS Bleeped Nixon, but it feels comfortable with a movie based on Pete Hamill's book, "Flesh and Blood," one of the central themes of which is the protagonist's incestuous relationship with his mother.

While the CBS movie airing Oct. 14 and Oct. 16 only implies the actual act of incest, there is much fondling and caressing between the mother and son throughout the movie. The implication will be lost on no one, especially one Rev. Donald Wildmon of Tupelo, Miss.

Wildmon's National Federation for Decency has been fighting CBS over "Flesh and Blood" ever since the group learned that the movie was being made last spring.

Indeed, Donn O'Brien, vice-president of program practices (the censor at CBS), says, "It has generated an awful lot of mail."

"We have a long record of doing quality television and we do not intend to put on a salacious, bad-taste movie."

Anyway, the moral imperatives of network television aside, there is the movie itself. Hamill's hot-blooded story of a street fighter's struggle with himself and a combustive environment has been made into a very nearly flawless film.

That "Flesh and Blood" is airing on network TV underscores the changing mood in network cutting rooms, "progress" some night call it.

Two factors may be behind the broadening of network television's limits: Pay television has broken the shroud of innocence that has kept strong language and sexual themes off TV for three decades.

And networks may be inclined to pay more attention to viewers who are defecting to uncut, uncensored pay TV than to the protests of groups such as Rev. Wildmon's.

That may be why "Flesh and Blood," after all the noise, will air as planned.

Smokers Shorten Life Expectancy

According to a report issued by the U.S. Surgeon General, the life expectancy of a two-pack-a-day smoker between the ages of 30 and 35 is cut by as much as eight or nine years compared with the life expectancy of a non-smoker in the same age group.

Dear Abby

Slim Chance For Fatties

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am sitting here, drinking my fourth cup of coffee and feeling very depressed. I need someone to talk to, so I am writing to you.

Three weeks ago I got laid off. Since then I've been all over town looking for work, but haven't had any luck.

I see a sign in the window saying "WAITRESS WANTED," so I go inside and the receptionist takes one look at me and says, "Sorry, the job is already filled."

I know why I get turned down without even an interview. I'm FAT!

Abby, can't people be a little kinder and just give me a chance?

Just because a woman is fat doesn't mean she can't work. In fact, a fat person would probably work twice as hard just to prove she can do the job.

I can't give up since I need a job. I feel better having been able to tell this to somebody. Thanks for listening.

FAT AND DEPRESSED

DEAR FAT: Friends do more than listen. They tell you what you need to hear.

Feeling sorry for yourself won't land you a job. And don't expect some kind-hearted soul to put you on his payroll out of charity.

Face it, most fat women are not as attractive as their slim sisters. (And they're not as healthy, either.) They may seem to be "jollier," but they're only trying harder to be accepted because they feel inferior.

So, do yourself a favor and quit asking for "kindness" from others. See your doctor about a diet. If you can't do it alone, call Overeaters Anonymous.

(P.S.: If your obesity is due to a glandular disorder or a condition that you can't control, this letter is not for you.)

DEAR ABBY: I've heard of guys who go around telling people they are bachelors when in truth they are married. But what do you think of a guy who tells people he's MARRIED when he's a bachelor?

CURIOUS IN RHINELANDER, WIS.

DEAR CURIOUS: I think he probably wants all the benefits of marriage with none of the responsibilities.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my daughter. (I'll call her Pam.) Pam is 15 and a women's libber already. She thinks it's every girl's right to do as she pleases as long as she's not hurting anybody and it's not against the law. This includes going braless, which is what she does.

Pam is a big girl. I mean top-heavy. If she wore a bra it would probably be a 38. Her teacher rang me up and told me that if Pam keeps coming to school without a bra, she'll be expelled.

Abby, do you know any 15-year-girl who lets her mother dress her? Well, neither do I.

Please help me.

PAM'S MOM

DEAR MOM: Does Pam's school have a dress code? If it does, and a bra is required, Pam is out of bounds in more ways than one. If there is no dress code, Pam's teacher is guilty of making threats she can't enforce, and SHE is out of bounds. Call the principal and get the facts.

If you need help in writing letters of sympathy, congratulations or thank-you letters, get Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for all Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

98 On Houston's Nov. 6 Ballot

HOUSTON (AP)-Houston's new 1-9-5 formula for electing city officials has attracted 98 candidates for the Nov. 6 city election.

Included are 88 candidates for 14 city council positions, nine of which will be filled on a single district basis.

Mayor Jim McConn and City Councilman Louis Macey are among nine candidates for mayor. Kathryn J. Whitmire is upopposed for a second term as city controller.

Houston residents voted in August to enlarge the council to 14 members, the Justice Department earlier having ruled 1977 and 1988 annexations had diluted the voting strength of minorities. The new 9-5 council system replaces an old formula under which all eight councilmen were elected on a city-side basis although five represented specific districts.
