Officers are Installed In Presbyterian Senior Society

Sam Womack, was installed as president of the Senior Christian Endeavor society of the First Presbyterian church Sunday evening succeeding Dale Wallace, who has served during this year. Rev. Jack M. Lewis, pastor of the church, conducted the installation service at the evening preaching hour.

The C. E. had observed Mothers Day with a special program at the regular society meeting. At this time, special numbers had been a reading, "The Dearest Mother," by Mrs. Elmer Stotts; "A Clock Story," Miss Margaret Cooper; "His Mothers Accomplishments," Miss Kate Hendricks; a toast to mothers, Harold Gordon.

Other officers who were installed were as follows: Vice-president, Peyton Waddill; secretary, Mrs. Norman Morgan; treasurer, Towns Waddill; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Josephine Balonger; chairman of the prayer meeting committee, Miss Margaret Cooper; chairman of the missionary committee, Harold Gordon; chairman of the publicity committee, Gerald Gordon; social committee chairman, Miss Berne Green; music committee chairman, Miss Helen Chase.

Camp Fire Group To Give Show Program At Canyon

Preparatory to organizing a Camp Fire group in the Canyon community, the Toyoko group here is to give a program at the Canyon school house Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. It was announced today by Mrs. O. L. Esterman, chairman of the program, which is to demonstrate the work of Camp Fire, and she is to make a short explanatory talk. About forty girls and Camp Fire organization members expect to make the trip. Mrs. A. M. Eubanks, who teaches at Canyon, is to sponsor the group there.

Picnic At Buffalo Springs Attended By S. S. Groups

About forty young men and women attended a picnic at Buffalo Springs Saturday evening when the Tech 'Girls' class of the First Baptist church entertained the Tech 'Boys' class. A picnic supper was served and swimming and the usual outdoor recreations were enjoyed.

him. He also asserted that Gray never struck Albert Snyder with the snash weight.

"He struck him but missed," the lawyer said, "and the blows that stunned Snyder were all delivered by a woman, Mrs. Ruth Snyder."

Motive Lacking, Said
Millard told the jury that Gray had no motive for the murder whereas Mrs. Snyder, if her plan went through, got $50,000 insurance.

Millard spoke for one hour and 20 minutes.

Diana Wallace for Mrs. Snyder told the jury that "this is a case of the people of New York and Henry Judd Gray against Ruth Snyder," and Henry Judd Gray, he said, "is the most despicable creature that I have ever seen. Ruth Snyder has been put in a position by this double prosecution that is extremely unfair."

Confession Is Rapped
Wallace read from the opening statement for Gray in which it was said his confession was untrue and was obtained under duress.

"Why then," he shouted, "if that was what they meant to do, why did Gray get on the stand and say the confession was voluntary and true? Was Gray lying to us or had he lied to his own lawyer? which is the more likely?"

FLOODS WORSE

The peril along the main Mississippi levee front, danger of a break there was not believed imminent. Above Baton Rouge, along Bayou des Glaives, where the levees are encountering the crest of the inland lake, pushing down upon breaches in the embankments along the Mississippi and Arkansas, a break was declared inevitable.

The crest of the flood had been hit by observing experts. Apparently, they said, it was somewhere in the surging seas which covers northeastern Louisiana. The river at Baton Rouge remained stationary, although a rise of 3 of a foot was shown at Donaldsonville, between that point and New Orleans.

No Work At New Orleans
The work of widening the breach at Bayou des Glaives continued with the river still remaining stationary at the Crescent City.

Altogether 12,000 refugees from north eastern Louisiana were being cared for at Monroe, with an estimated 8,000 more from Louisiana adding to the flood population of Cadeaux and Natchez concentration camps.

Making Her Georgia Acres Pay Is Final Success Of Mrs. Felton

Mrs. W. H. Felton, the only woman who ever served in the U. S. Senate, photographed on her Georgia farm.

By NEA Service.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., May 9.—At the age of 91, Mrs. W. H. Felton, of Cartersville, Ga., the only woman ever admitted to the United States Senate, is actively managing a 500-acre farm here.

Age doesn't affect the pretty, unlined little woman who was appointed by Thomas W. Hardwick, then governor of Georgia, to fill the vacancy in the United States Senate caused by the death of Senator Thomas E. Watson, of Georgia.

Mrs. Felton went to Washington, was seated as a member of the senate for one day, and otherwise honored as no woman ever had been before.

A Triple Success
Mrs. Felton, who will celebrate her 92nd birthday on June 16, has succeeded in politics, farming, and newspaper work, and is probably the most active woman of her age alive. She goes alone from Cartersville to Atlanta, a distance of about 50 miles, writes vigorous newspaper articles, personally supervises her farm, and is an influence in public life. She also makes her own newspaper. Mrs. Felton is not the type of public woman who knows nothing of housework. Cooking and sewing have had a place in her life as well as journalism and statesmanship, and it is a hobby of hers to make her own hats, and you never see a such pretty ones. Bits of black ribbon and lace against her white hair, they cannot be matched by Parisian creations. Like all else she does, they are individual and fine.

All outstanding Second Liberty Loan 4 per cent bonds of 1927-42 (Second 4's) and outstanding Second Liberty Loan Converted 4's per cent bonds of 1927-42 (Second 4's) are called for redemption on November 15, 1927, pursuant to the terms of their issue. Interest on all Second 4's and Second 4's will cease on said redemption date, November 15, 1927.

Holders of Second 4's and Second 4's will be entitled to have the bonds paid all and paid at par on November 15, 1927. Such holders must, however, in advance of November 15, 1927, be offered the privilege of exchanging all or part of their bonds for other interest-bearing obligations of the United States. Holders who desire to avail themselves of the exchange privilege, if and when announced, should request their bank or trust company to notify them when information regarding the exchange offering is received.

ors, Eastey and otherwise, and did a bit more work about the house, and saw to their own children instead of leaving them to nurses, the world would be better," said Mrs. Felton.

Soon after she married, Mrs. Felton entered politics by becoming an active manager of her husband's political campaigns. It is an open secret that she wrote his speeches for him, answered his letters, and drove with him in a buggy over the 14 counties of his district while he campaigned for Congress.

During his three terms in Washington, she was his chief adviser, and was known as one of the most intellectual women in the capital.

A Wise Agriculturist
Later, when the farm at Cartersville failed to yield the return due from 500 rich Georgia acres, Mrs. Felton took active control of it, and under her wise guidance it became one of the most productive farms in that part of the state.

She is not a theoretical farmer. She is practical in every sense of the word, and she believes firmly in the old adage, that to have a thing well done, do it yourself. Accordingly, she supervises the planting, cultivation and harvesting of all the crops on her farm.

CARDS AND YANKS DEMONSTRATE THEIR CHAMPIONSHIP CLASS

LEADERS DRUB OPPONENTS IN BOTH LEAGUES

YANKS BEAT CUBS AS McMANUS HITS TO PUT TIGERS UP

(By Associated Press)

Smashing victories by the Cards and Yanks left no doubt in the minds of fans today that the leaders of the major leagues have things power as well as slugging.

One of the finest hurling exhibitions seen this year in either league was turned in by a Redbird, Phil Cramer, as he held the Robins to two hits for 2 to 1. Cardini won at Brooklyn. Three of his runs were scored on fast runners by his hard waloping mat. Cramer.

Yanks Hammer, Too

While the Cards were showing a coast what kind of baseball it is that won them a world crown in 1925, the Yanks were hammering a position of their own in how to win a pennant.

For the second time in two days the Yanks blanked the White Sox at Chicago, the burden of their victory being borne on the broad shoulders of the competent "Wallop." Backed by scoreless hitting, the vicious hitting of his bats, the veteran held the White Sox to nine scattered hits for a 9 to 0 win. No Yankee game is complete without its homer as pitcher Pat Collins stepped up in the seventh and bounced one into the bleachers.

Generally in victory, the members of the White Sox in the year the day has been saved, all seemed lost by the final out of the inning, but the pitcher in the ninth that failed this time and I. J. Connelly's last one that Colman made it for the Sox.

Chicago's first two for New York at Chicago the Giants at the time were nosing out a close decision in their game at St. Paul grounds with the Cubs. The Yanks doubled in the ninth and drove home, the game was anybody's. Detroit's 3 to 2 win over the Red Sox also was made in the ninth when Marty McManus singled with the bases full, and a home run to tie the score. The St. Louis Browns, sixth in standing, topped the fourth place Cardinals, 8 to 1, to square their record at one all.

Another Speed Record Made! Frank Lockhart Gets It

THE latest speed record is 171.02 miles an hour! Frank Lockhart, driving a 91 cubic inch motor, one-thirtieth the size of Major Scurry's Sunbeam that burned the tracks at Daytona, Fla., covered one mile in 21.05 seconds, a speed of 171.02 miles an hour. The feat was performed at Alamo Lake, Calif. Lockhart is shown with his famous smile after the record was made.

GAS QUESTION AGAIN FACING CITY COUNCIL

SECOND FRANCHISE IS REQUESTED; SPLIT IN LINE LOOMS

With an application for a franchise to supply this city with natural gas from the Panhandle oil fields now pending for action by the city commission of Lubbock, and a franchise already effective with the McMahon interests for a similar purpose, the situation as regards the possibility of the South Plains securing natural gas this winter, is holding the spotlight of attention all over this section of the state.

Sentiment apparently is divided, both officially and otherwise, regarding the possible issuance of another franchise to the C. L. Ballock interests of Wichita, Kansas, applicant for the second franchise, some urging issuance of the second franchise and others opposing it on the grounds that such action would be detrimental to speedy construction on the proposed McMahon project, a portion of the work on which line already is done.

Work May Be Held Up

In connection with the statement of representatives of the Ballock interests made to the city commission here Saturday that franchises have been secured from Plainview and all towns between there and the field and that a line is to be built at least as far as Plainview, legal representatives of the McMahon project said today that such franchises, if such have been granted, will have little or no effect on the project already under way, except that there is a possibility of causing a delay in ultimate completion of the line.

Montana to Honor Three of School's Leading Athletes

MISSOULA, Mont., May 9 (AP)—Three nationally known athletes, products of the Montana State university are to become charter members of the Hall of Fame.

They are Russell Sweet, William Kelly and Arnold Gillette. Their pictures will be used in starting a gallery of the university's star athletes. All are natives of Montana. Sweet, hailing from Missoula City, Kelly from Missoula and Gillette from Lewistown.

Sweet, track star, left Montana at the end of his third year of college work to join the San Francisco athletic club. He also played basketball and football, holding the Pacific conference punting title for two consecutive years, averaging 40 yards for all games.

Gillette is the two-mile champion of the United States, winning the title last year at the national collegiate meet in Chicago, where on the same day, he placed second in the mile run.

"Wild Bill" Kelly starred at halfback in a number of the Pacific coast team in the East-West battle at San Francisco, New Year's day. He was captain of the 1925 and 1926 football team and in 1927 captain of the baseball team. He expects to enter West Point in June.

NEW PARK TO BE IMPROVED

Six Kilns For Cooking Are To Be Erected; Swimming Pool Opens Soon

At least six brick kilns, to be used in cooking by pioneers, will be erected at the new city park, located just off the Lubbock-Plainview highway, about one mile north of the courthouse, and the swimming pool, formerly known as "Tumble-N" pool, adjacent to the park and now the property of the City of Lubbock, will be opened for the year within the next few days, members of the two park committees announced Saturday.

The park, which has two groves of trees already planted and some difficulty has been recently experienced with pioneers who have built fires too close to the trees, it was said. For that reason the kilns will be erected this week and the public asked to use them. The city commission and the two park committees are expressly anxious for the 526 trees on the site to be given good care so that they will grow and make the plot even more of a beauty spot than it now is.

Committees Are Active

Members of the park committees are as follows: from the Board of City Development, Harley D. Woods, chairman; Hubert L. Allen and Ted A. Rix; appointed by the city commission, Meslames C. F. Stubbs, J. E. Vickers and Harley D. Woods. Mrs. Stubbs is chairman of the second committee which will turn most of its attention to the improvement of the tract and which has largely instrumental in the setting out of the trees and the other improvement work and plans thus far this year.

A nominal charge, probably not to exceed ten cents per person, will be placed into effect at the swimming pool but an attendant will be on hand at all times, the park committee said. It is expected that the pool and the park will be the most popular places in this vicinity during the coming months.

Members of the two committees urge the use of the park by the public at large and, as one said "it belongs to all the people and is for the pleasure of all the people."

Playground equipment for the park has been discussed by the city commission recently and it is probable that other improvements on the tract will be made soon.

Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt And Her Famous Horses May Take New Honors

By JIMMY POWERS

NEW YORK, May 9.—When a man bites a dog—that's news, provided it is not a hot dog garnished with mustard. Then, of course, it's not news. It's a meal.

And it seems to be some sort of news that a certain Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt has taken a lot of dogs, which is racketeer slang for horses or buggies, and run them into a lot of money. So much money that this year she takes a commanding position among the owners and ranks at the head of the ladies in the business.

Mrs. Vanderbilt, making money on a hobby is like Mr. John D. Rockefeller, who bought a dime—it's just too good for anything.

This season will be her biggest year.

She has seven big shots in training here at Belmont Park, headed by the fast but erratic Sarazen. But Sarazen will not be Mrs. Vanderbilt's stake horse. Nicholas, the gray gelding she bought for $60,000, is expected to develop into the champion cross-country horse of the year.

This son of Stephen the Great is a fast horse, but like Sarazen, he was temperamental when racing on the flat. He was so erratic his owner tried him through the field. He jumped well and he ran fast, but he also ran green. He used to rush at the obstacles at full speed and was a reckless, confident, steady him. At a result he bungled and went down when he had races at his mercy.

Horsemen predicted, after watching his steeplechase races, that he would be the best cross-country shot in America if he would settle down and race through the field a little slower.

During the winter he took on a lot of flesh and is now one of the biggest horses at Belmont. He has been galloping every day and in his trials over the obstacle has shown great improvement.

Sarazen is being pointed for the Dixie Handicap at Pimlico, the rich stake he won last year.

In War Flier, a son of Man o' War and True Flier, which cost $25,000, Mrs. Vanderbilt has a juvenile you will hear from in the important stakes. He is a good looking colt, and although he has not been highly tried for speed, acts as if he is a real runner. He has been entered in all the big stakes.

Mrs. Vanderbilt has two other juveniles, a bay colt called Fire Watch and a chestnut colt named Jiffy Kragh. Fire Watch is a son of On Watch out of Inesdale. Jiffy Kragh is a German bred by Nungate out of Hoggia Sofia.

The German bred is a big leggy fellow who is improving daily. A month ago he looked like a city horse, now he is a fine looking specimen. He shows good acting in his gallops, will develop into a

Girls Don't Help College Athletes

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., May 9.—Good-looking girls don't cause an athlete to raise to the heights.

That's the philosophy of Willie Green, star halfback, and other Marshall college athletes.

"We all talk about some player fighting hard because of a good-looking girl on the sidelines rooting for him," Green claims.

All other athletes, from captains on down to scrubs, agree with their spokesman.

Only three blocks were added to the city mail delivery as a result of the survey just completed by the department. Postmaster John L. Vaughn announced Saturday. The blocks on Avenue X from 18th to 19th street were the blocks to receive the service.

Lack of improvements, 50 percent required, and continual sidewalk were the reasons given for refusing the service, Mr. Vaughn said.

In Spain, worn-out automobiles are being made into special apparatus to be used for protecting horses during bullfights.

Editorials Education and Myths

The spread of education in Ireland is rapidly killing the picturesque old Irish legends, according to Ella Young, Irish poet and author.

Miss Young declares that the Irish children are growing more and more to find fairies and elves and the like unbelievable, in a short time, she says, Ireland's mass of folklore will exist only in memory.

To a sentimentalist this decision will seem too bad. Yet the Irish fairies are only going the way that countless other generations of fairies have gone before them.

One after another the races of invisible, unearthly creatures with which men's imaginations have peopled forests and fields and mountains have disappeared before the rising tide of knowledge.

In the not too distant future there will not be left one of them on earth.

Tracing their decline and fall is interesting. There was a time when every man on earth believed devoutly that every tree, every bush and every stream sheltered strange, immaterial creatures who could profoundly affect his life for good or evil, and whom he behoved him to propitiate.

To these beliefs can be laid many of the customs, manners, human sacrifices, blood atonements, elaborate rituals, systems of taboos and so on. They hedged a man's life in sharply, the "carefree" savage was actually far more wary about his comings and goings than we imagine.

But the old credulous days are gone. In their passing man has freed himself of many worries, has released his spirit from a whole host of incomprehensible fears and superstitions.

Yet, at the same time, the old myths were beautiful—many of them were, at all events. And they held, here and there, grains of truth. An ancient Greek might believe that fauns and nymphs inhabited the woods behind his home.

He might believe that mountains on the horizon was the home of all-powerful gods; and these beliefs might cramp his course of action and narrow his horizon. Yet they helped to build buildings and to carve out statues that the world still admires; and they kept him eternally aware that life is a powerful mystery, a wondrous and insecure wayfinding in the midst of forces that no mind can comprehend.

So they kept him from growing too complacent and cocksure. He was not arrogant; and the beauty and majesty of nature and life were ever before his eyes.

We have killed all of his gods and discarded all of his myths. And sometimes it seems that we have grown too sure of ourselves, too matter-of-fact, too blind to the power and the glory that unlightened ancients beheld so clearly.

That is our loss. It is good for us to become enlightened. But we must watch that we do not let the light that has come to us blind our eyes.

It has been the custom of New York to speak lightly of other parts of the country as "the provinces." Particularly is this true in the world of the theater.

But now, it appears, New York's theaters of the provinces type the theaters that is operated especially to foster worth while drama and not for profit—was falling on evil days. One after another they are closing, and a prominent New York critic the other day remarked that this work apparently must be carried on by the little theater movements of cities like Dallas, Cleveland, St. Louis and Denver.

It would be exceedingly odd if New York the proud should find herself taking pointers, theatrically, from the despised "provinces." But it may well come to pass. The provinces are still pretty well free of Broadway's influence.

Fish are becoming scarcer, according to the federal fisheries bureau. Probably the Barium influence still persists.

THE PLAINSMAN

The Plainsman knows a man who is so dumb that he thinks the Pope manages the Saint Louis Cardinals.

This is the time of year that it is impossible to get too much strawberry shortcake.

What kind of a law do we have, any way? The Snyder-Gray case has been going on about two weeks—the murder and the revolting details of an animal attraction of a man for a woman and a woman for a man, have been forced upon society all this time—and still no verdict.

Ruth Snyder and Murderer Gray committed a murder—premeditated murder and they admit it. They killed a man who was unsuspecting, unarmed and unable to defend himself for no other reason than because they "wanted him out of the way" so they could spend his insurance money and be unmolested in their sordid relations.

We have so many laws which haven't one which would provide for the death penalty upon confession in cases like this one, thus saving society from the burden of the evidence and assuring certain punishment for the vandals.

I see by the papers where they're going to start international delivery of mail by airplane. That'll be fine until some airship is lost in the Peruvian mountains with a couple of sacks of important letters. Stick by the railroads, boys, when you write your girl. The system's slower but you know she'll get it!

Old Master's Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey, Where wealth accumulates and men decay: Princes and lords may flourish or may fade; A breath can make them, as a breath can make them, as a breath can make them, as a breath can make them.

But a bold peasantry, their country's pride, When once destroyed, can never be supplied.

A time there was, ere England's grief began, When every nook and ground maintained its man. For him light labor spread her wholesome store, Just gave what life required, but gave no more: His best companions, innocence and health; And his best riches, ignorance of wealth.

But times are altered, trade's unfeeling train Urps the land and dispossess the swain: Along the lawn, where scattered hamlets rose, Unweildly wealth and cumbersome repose, And every want to luxury allied.

And every pace that folly pays to pride. —Oliver Goldsmith, From "The Deserted Village."

WASHINGTON LETTER

HOW BRITAIN PUNCHES WITH ONE HAND AND TRADES WITH THE OTHER

By RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, May 9.—A fairly reliable authority recently voiced the thought that Russia was working two foreign policies in lining up other nations beside her, one for countries which seemed ripe for communism and the other for countries where communism hadn't a chance.

It is much, he says, as if a candidate were to run for the presidency and have one wet platform and one dry platform.

Thus while one section of the British government, headed by Churchill and Birkenhead, rants and hollers against Russia and all its works, the other and more moderate part of the same government works right along building up trade relations with Russia so that business between the two countries continues to increase quite regardless of the anti-red vituperations from London.

Only one possibility is likely to break off both diplomatic and trade relations with Russia. It is suggested, and that is the possibility that Russia might attempt to tamper with India, England's control over India is far more valuable than her trade with Russia, so that her course in case India were endangered by communistic influence seems to be obvious.

The most interesting angle of the situation seems to be that the British government is giving the United States its full co-operation in this country's effort to keep advised of the ramifications of soviet and communist intrigue. Our most excellent authority says that the British make available to the state department all documents tending to prove a red menace that they get their hands on, such as intercepted messages of the Third International.

The United States of course has never recognized the soviet government and its alleged designs upon Latin America have been glibly up by Secretary of State Kellogg and even Secretary of the Navy Willbur.

A FINE IDEA

More than a score of pupils from rural schools, some of them accompanied by their parents, were guests of the Abilene Kiwanis Club at the luncheon this week.

These rural boys and girls put on a program that will long be remembered by those fortunate enough to be present.

Here is a splendid idea that might be worked more frequently, with profit to rural and urban citizens. Why not have these city-country luncheons every month or two? They would give the city folk a better appreciation of their rural cousins and the rural folk a better understanding of their town cousins.

What the Kiwanis Club did this week other clubs could do, and the effect in time would be far-reaching. Let us have more of it.—Abilene Reporter.

A GREATER CARSON

A greater Carson county is in the making. The day of the depression through all apparently is past for Carson county.

Announcement this week of the formal application of the Santa Fe for a permit to build 21 miles from White Deer to Skelly, Roxann and Badger should mean increased activity in Carson county.

Practically the entire line applied for will be in Carson county. This will mean that Carson county is going to be probably the greatest railroad county in the Panhandle.

Mileage today is already possessed by Carson county and the new line, application for which undoubtedly will and should be granted, will add to the county's record.

With a great network of railroads and highways, Carson county is on the way to be the best in the Panhandle of Texas from the standpoint of transportation.—Panhandle Herald.

BARBS

A Little Music, Professor! The new music, such as "Ballet Mechanique," "Flivver 10,000,000" and "Pacific 291," written for river-crafters, motor cutters, airplane propellers, bells, locomotive whistles and foundries, is all right, but it doesn't go far enough.

The ideal will be reached when the vinegar makers collaborate on a few notes that really are sour. A "knock-out" could be written in the Chicago stock yards. It might be called "Adventures of Cow No. 2,523,456." Is it necessary to say that this must be for horns only? Another number, representing factories, could be done in one of the cash register plants. It could be called "Tittling Till," and a good place for an opening audition would be Edinburgh, Scotland. What this needs is a symphony that illustrates the racket created by a deaf and dumb man sewing up a sofa pillow.

Quite certain as he has previously had the threat of losing his seat hanging over him.

Borah is remote from "radical row" in another corridor of the same floor, which is not inappreciate. Other progressives are pretty well disappointed with Borah, for Borah is more than ever the lone wolf of the upper house.

He doesn't travel with the regulars and he doesn't travel with the progressives. He acts as if he were afraid of "something," the latter complain.

IN NEW YORK SEE-SAWING and down BROADWAY

NEW YORK, May 9.—Before Greenwich Village "went commercial" he had a little shop in the green V-shaped building that now blazes with the bright colors of bearded gowns just beyond Sheridan Square.

His shop combined a little bit of everything, but once you won his confidence he might take you upstairs to the little studio, the walls of which were plastered with sketches and paintings. Here was sort of a personal "rogue's gallery" of all the Village characters. He had some slang name for them; I forget just what it was.

Anyway he went on running a shop, but his heart was set on recovering the people about him and manipulating new forms of expression. He wasn't a particularly good shopkeeper; he was too good a Bohemian. He disliked taking money from his fellows and I have seen many an artist walk out with brush or canvas and leave no pay behind.

As I say, all this was before the village went commercial. There came a time when landlords found this colorful type of tenant unprofitable and a batik shop moved in.

THEY used to say of Clivette that he had lived a life brimmed over with romantic exploits. He had been a magician in England, followed a circus in America, been a crick shot and heaven knows what all. And he was no longer young.

Forty years of dreaming lay behind Clivette—Some day, said he, his works would find their way to the world. Some day he would have an exhibition—a show of his works as age goes. He must be somewhere around his seventies.

No so long ago a moneyed man stumbled somehow across some of Clivette's works. He saw possibilities. He called in a group of important, painters and critics. He bought up the works of the old man by the dozen and gross.

THE other day I happened to be wandering along the art mecca of America—the Village in New York. I was in Fifty-seventh street and a big dogger hit my eye. In large type across the top was one word—"Clivette."

Below was the announcement of a big exhibition in a leading gallery and fine words of praise from names that mean something in the world of art.

So, it would seem, Clivette has seen a dream come true. I didn't go to the exhibit—I don't care to—I prefer to recall the kindly old fellow who rather wistfully led me up the stairs to the little V-shaped studio to look upon his hidden treasures.

THERE was another, also well known to the Village in years ago—She was, perhaps, the most famous of the cigar girls. She would go from her room to tea room and sell her cigars. Her name was written in gold letters on at least two cafe walls and young men whose names now cause the literary world to pause have indited verses to her on paper napkins. She dressed in "village" garb, affecting sandals and peasant shawls. A millionaire came through one day.

She got out of a big car in front of one of her old haunts. She has been living in Chicago, I believe. Diamonds glittered from her fingers and her throat. When the cigar girl came by she tossed a $10 bill and took no change.

But then, they tell me, all of the Village cigar girls of the old days married very well.

Legion Rehabilitation Fund To Be Explained During Convention Here

EX-SERVICE MEN WILL HEAR OF PLAN TO AID HUMANITY

The American Legion edowment fund, sponsored by the national organization, and designed to supply funds with which to carry on the rehabilitation work of the Legion among disabled veterans of the world war and their families, and children orphaned by the war, is to be explicitly explained during the Fifth Division convention of the Texas department here May 23 and 24.

This feature of the Legion's program, recently inaugurated, is considered as one of the most far reaching steps ever undertaken by the ex-service men's organization and will be of untold benefit to suffering veterans or orphans of veterans who paid the supreme sacrifice during or since the war.

Quotas for the fund have been assigned the various states by the national headquarters, and Texas' quota in the fund was fixed at $225,000, of which $131,900 has been raised. Efforts are now under way to raise the balance.

During 1926 disabled veterans of the world war received in cash and hospitalization from the government approximately $400,000,000, of this amount approximately $40,000,000 came to Texas. During the year an additional $45,000,000 was obtained by the Legion national rehabilitation committee, of which disabled veterans of Texas received their proportionate share, and in addition to this 585 dependent or orphan children were cured for by the Legion at a cost of more than $100,000.

"If we were forced to do away with our rehabilitation committee every disabled man in your community would suffer," Wayne Davis, former state commander in Texas, now national executive committee man, has advised H. D. Woods, executive committee man in this district. "If we do not have the money to meet the emergency that is sooner or later to be presented by your community in the matter of orphan children, they also will suffer. I cite these facts to you as a business man in the hope that you will help us rectify a situation in Texas that should no longer be tolerated. I refer to the failure of Texas to provide our just share of the American Legion edowment fund on which our entire program for the disabled and for the care of the orphans depends."

First at Rock Springs Mr. Davis explained that the Legion edowment fund was the most important fund of the Legion, and that it was the only fund of the Legion which was not subject to the whims of Congress.

It is the only fund of the Legion which is not subject to the whims of Congress, and it is the only fund of the Legion which is not subject to the whims of Congress.

Why Firestone GUM-DIPPED TIRES Wear Longer

WE recently were given the tremendous advantage of having the mammoth Firestone factories brought to us. In Tire Educational Meetings we were shown, by means of motion pictures, charts, tire samples and complete engineering data, the details of Firestone tire design and construction—and how Firestone and Oldfield tires and tubes are made in the world's most efficient and economical rubber factories.

Firestone pioneered the original low-pressure tire and made it practical by Gum-Dipping. The motion pictures showed us how the cords of the carcass are dipped in a rubber solution, thoroughly saturating and insulating every fiber of every cord with rubber. Simple demonstrations and tests illustrated the great advantage of this process

SAINT AND SINNER

BY ANNE AUSTIN

CHURCHILL did not cross-examine Purdy, since the man's story tallied exactly with the account of Cherry's doings on that Thanksgiving night which she would tell when she was old enough to take the stand in her own name.

Mr. Ralph Cluny, Jr., Band director, directed the clerk.

The young assistant district attorney, grandson of the murdered man, appeared superbly unconscious of the ripple of excited interest that the rather bored audience took the stand. He was a thin, young man, with straight, wavy hair, smoothly brushed over his head. His pale grey eyes, like his dead grandfather's, looked persistently behind thick-rimmed glasses.

After Banning had established the relationship of the witness to the murdered man he asked abruptly, "Mr. Cluny, when did you last see your grandfather alive?"

"About four o'clock on Thanksgiving day, in the afternoon," young Cluny answered precisely.

"Where did you see him, Mr. Cluny?"

"At his home, my father Alexander Cluny, and I had dinner with him. Father left the house at three, but at my uncle's request, I remained with him until five. He is in good spirits, happy and smiling."

"What time did you see him?"

"At an hour after dinner, when he began to suffer from indigestion. The young man answered. His eyes flashed indignantly when he saw the audience laughing.

"Was there any conversation between yourself and your grandfather relative to his prospective bride?"

"After my father left, yes. My grandfather seemed depressed and unhappy over the family disapproval of his marriage, and fearful of the effects upon his health of a three-month tour of Europe. I asked him why he did not call the trip off, and he answered to this effect, 'My little girl has her heart set on going to Europe, and I'm afraid to cross her.'"

"He used the word afraid?" Banning demanded loudly.

"Yes, sir. He said 'I'm afraid to cross her. She's a mighty sweet girl when she has her own way, but she has the devil of a temper, my boy.'"

Banning questioned the grandson a few moments longer, but elicited nothing else of importance.

There was a sharp edge of sarcasm to Churchill's booming, rich voice as he opened fire upon the witness.

"Your grandfather was in the habit of making you his confidant in his affairs of the heart?"

"No, sir."

"And yet he criticized to you the girl he was going to marry, the girl whom he knew the family hated because she would be an heiress to a large part of his fortune?"

Banning's furious objection was sustained by weary old Judge Grimshaw.

"That is all, Mr. Cluny," Churchill dismissed him contemptuously.

When Banning had dismissed the witness also, he rose and addressed the court:

"We have presented our case, your honor. The state rests!"

A half dozen local reporters dashed for exits; the jury stopped yawning and looked intensely relieved; the audience buzzed with surprise and excitement.

TOMORROW: Cherry faints in court.
