Secret Probe News May Be Published

WASHINGTON (AP) - Newspapers cannot be criminally punished for publishing truthful information about secret government proceedings, a unanimous Supreme Court ruled today.

The high court struck down a Virginia law making it a crime to report about a state judicial commission's confidential investigations into judges' fitness to hold office.

That law was invoked against Landmark Communications, publisher of the Virginia-Pilot newspaper in Norfolk, after the paper published on Oct. 4, 1975 an accurate report that the state's Judicial Inquiry and Review Commission had studied complaints against a domestic relations court judge.

In other actions today, the Supreme Court:

-Said it will rule on how much discretion judges have in deciding when to keep reporters and the public out of court proceedings.

-Rejected arguments by a former Army doctor that he was denied the right to a speedy trial because authorities did not charge him with murdering his pregnant wife and two young daughters until five years after their deaths. The justice ordered him to stand trial.

-Turned down a request by 60 House members that it block the Panama Canal treaties from taking effect until it considers an appeal filed by the legislators, who contend the House should have the right to vote on the pacts.

-Let stand a decision by Michigan's highest court that local governments are not authorized to enact anti-obscenity ordinances.

"The article published by Landmark provided accurate factual information about a legislatively authorized inquiry and in so doing clearly served those interests in public scrutiny and discussion of governmental affairs which the First Amendment was adopted to protect," Chief Justice Warren E. Burger wrote for the court.

The court's vote was 7-0. Justices William J. Brennan Jr. and Lewis F. Powell Jr. did not participate in deciding the case.

Although the controversy involved a newspaper report, wording in Burger's 16-page decision clearly extended such First Amendment rights to broadcasters as well.

At the outset, Burger described the legal issue as "whether the First Amendment permits the criminal punishment of third persons who are strangers to the inquiry, including news media, for divulging or publishing truthful information regarding confidential proceedings."

May Day Marked

By The Associated Press

From Moscow's traditional Red Square parade to an unprecedented show of strength in post-Franco Madrid, millions of workers around the world today celebrated May Day, the international labor holiday.

In Istanbul, Turkish authorities took strict security precautions in Taksim Square to prevent a repetition of disorders last May day that claimed the lives of 34. An estimated 100,000 persons turned out for today's rally in the central plaza.

Although leftist unions for years have marked the day in Britain, today was the first government-recognized May Day holiday. Ordinary Britons enjoyed an extra three-day weekend.

Soviet Spy Freed

NEW YORK (AP)-Leaving a trial of cryptic clues and James Bond-ish allusions, convicted spy Robert Thompson left this country as part of a three-way international swap of prisoners.

"I was a spy for the U.S.S.R.," declared Thompson, 43, moments before he boarded a Pan American flight for the first leg of his journey to asylum in East Germany. But he refused to confirm reports that he is a major in the Soviet secret police.

Fukuda Arrives Today

WASHINGTON (AP)-Japanese Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda arrives here tonight on an official visit, hoping to reinforce a sudden turn for the better in Japan's often contentious trade relationship with the United States.

But officials from both countries say that several problems remain despite a milestone trade agreement last January.

Fukuda will spend 48 hours here, meeting with President Carter, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and members of Congress.

Deflation Talks Set

ATLANTA (AP) - President Carter's top inflation fighter said today the administration will talk soon with professional groups about holding down fees in line with President Carter's anti-inflation offensive.

"We do not intend to limit our efforts to the industrial wage and price arena," Barry P. Bosworth, director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, said in a speech prepared for the annual meeting here of The Associated Press.

Begin In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin arrived in Washington today for a White House reception celebrating Israel's 30th birthday amid continuing differences with the Carter administration over the sale of warplanes to Saudi Arabia and Egypt.

Begin was greeted at Andrews Air Force Base by Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance. They left together for several hours of meetings at the State Department and later with President Carter at the White House prior to a reception hosted by the president.

AP Reporter Expelled

BONN, West Germany (AP)—Associated Press reporter Robert H. Reid was expelled from Czechoslovakia today, apparently for interviewing a member of the Charter 77 human rights movement.

Reid told the U.S. Embassy in Prague he was summoned to the passport and visa office and told to leave the country by 6 p.m., an embassy spokesman said. He took the next plane for West Germany.

Reid said he was told only that he was being expelled because of a matter concerning the criminal police, the embassy duty officer reported by telephone.

Bishop Make Threat

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP)—Bishop Abel Muzorewa, considered the most popular black member of Rhodesia's new transition government, is threatening to quit the ruling executive council unless ousted black cabinet minister Bryon Hove is reinstated.

Muzorewa and other leaders of his United African National Council met for four hours Sunday and demanded Hove's reappointment as co-minister of justice.

Lebanese Fed Up

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - The average Lebanese finally is saying he's had enough - after 19 months of civil war followed by 17 months of sectarian feuding, economic stagnation, government paralysis, lawlessness and frequent bloodletting.

"The people of Lebanon, Christians and Moslems, are simply fed up," former Premier Saeb Salam said in an interview with The Associated Press, articulating a mood that can be detected around the country.

At Banquet Saturday Night...

Jaycees' Bennett Award Received By Mike Ezzell

Mike Ezzell, a state legislator from Snyder, was presented the Distinguished Service Award at a special awards banquet held Saturday night at the Snyder Country Club.

The award, henceforth to be known as the Harold Bennett Memorial, was presented by Bennett's widow, Lois. Outgoing Jaycee president Lynn Smith said the name change was made to honor the late Bennett, one of early-day organizers of the Jaycees and the founder of the local club. Ezzell represents the 63rd District in the Texas House of Representatives.

Robert Pinkston was installed as the local club's president, and Margaret White was named president of the Jaycee-ettes.

Other top awards went to Tommy La Roux, who was named outstanding Jaycee of the year, and to Billie Smith, who was named outstanding Jaycee-ette of the year.

The guest speaker at the awards banquet was Charles Cotton, president of the Texas Jaycees. Cotton lauded the group for its contributions to the community.

"The Snyder Jaycees have changed the way I look at a lot of things," he said.

Cotton said that in the one year he has been the state Jaycee president, he has been afforded the opportunity of meeting many young men with long lists of achievements to their credit.

"We have a saying in the Jaycees," he said, "that young men can change the world. I believe it."

"But," he added, "as much as we do there is still a lot to be done."

"The opportunity is yours," Cotton told the local Jaycee chapter. "It's all in the attitude you take."

Following Cotton's speech, a round of awards was presented. Following are the awards and the recipients:

Billy Can't Stand Flynt

AMHERST, Ohio (AP)-If Hustler magazine owner Larry Flynt is a born-again Christian, "he's reborn a lot worse than he started out with," says Billy Carter, the president's brother.

"I don't believe anything about Larry Flynt," Carter told a gathering at an auto dealership Saturday. "I've met him and I don't like him. I can't stand him. In fact, I was even accused of having him shot. My statement made to columnist Jack Anderson was 'if I had him shot from 30 feet with a rifle, he wouldn't be paralyzed.'"

Tornadoes Roar Across Texas

By The Associated Press

Widely scattered thunderstorms, including some possibly reaching severe proportions, were expected across much of the state today after an evening of tornadoes, high winds and heavy thunderstorms.

No one was injured Sunday evening as tornadoes roared across sections of the Texas Panhandle and North Central Texas. Twisters, including some that caused property damage, were reported Sunday evening at Arlington, southwest Dallas, the south portion of Fort Worth, Booker, Perryton and Cleburne.

Some of the heaviest damage was at Booker where eight members of a family escaped injury by moving into a cellar only moments before the twister destroyed their home. Dan Atwood said he walked outside his home and saw the twister just in time to return to get his family and his dog into the cellar.

The twister lifted the house off its foundation and moved it about 15 to 20 yards, Atwood said.

The tornado touched down and roared about 12-15 miles on the ground, tearing up farm equipment, farm buildings and power lines, according to Lipscomb County Sheriff Basil Duke Jr.

The heaviest damage in the Dallas-Fort Worth area was at the Oak Grove Airport in the southern end of Tarrant County where a twister tore the roof from an airplane hanger.

Aledo reported golf ball-sized hail at about the same time as the storms were reported in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Early today, a very heavy thunderstorm was reported over Texarkana and other shower activity was reported in a 100-mile wide area reaching from Bonham, Texas to southeast of Pine Bluff, Ark., according to the National Weather Service.

Most of the stormy weather dissipated during the early morning hours. Some fog was reported along the coastal plains of South Texas and low cloudiness was reported over the eastern one-third of the state. Skies were mostly clear over the western two-thirds of the state.

Forecasters warned that most of the state could expect widely scattered thunderstorms today and this evening. The strongest probability of severe thunderstorm activity was in North Central and Northeast Texas, forecasters said.

Highs were expected to range from the middle 50s in the Panhandle to the middle 90s in South Texas.

Absentee Voting Sets Fast Pace

If absentee voting continues for another day at the pace it reached by the end of the past week, Scurry County could have one of its heavier turnouts.

That was the indication this morning as the absentee ballot count for the Democratic Party Primary election reached 302. The deadline for absentee voting in the primary elections is Tuesday at 5 p.m. Absentee votes may be cast in the county clerk's office at the courthouse. Those eligible to cast absentee ballots are qualified voters who will be out of the county on the election day, May 6, and all voters 65 years old and above.

The absentee voting pace was continuing also in the liquor election which is scheduled for Monday, May 8. A total of 242 absentee ballots had been cast this morning in the liquor election. Only voters who reside within the corporate limits of the City of Snyder may cast ballots in the liquor election. The deadline for absentee voting in that election is 5 p.m. Thursday, May 4.

The absentee ballot total for the Scurry County Republican Primary had reached 10 this morning. The Republican Party has no candidates for local office, but has candidates for several state offices.

All primary elections will be held Saturday.

Tax Exemption For Elderly On Agenda

The Snyder City Council tonight will consider a resolution approving a homestead tax exemption for persons over 65 years of age, along with the second reading of ordinances annexing two tracts of land to the city. The meeting is set for 6:30 p.m. in City Hall.

The tax exemption resolution would provide a $3,000 homestead exemption for senior citizens, which is allowed by the state has been granted by other taxing agencies.

Up for second and final reading are an ordinance annexing 43.07 acres in southeast Snyder as requested by Rogers and Rogers, developers, and a 5.1 tract in the 100 block of 23rd Street as requested by Billy E. Grimmett.

Also on the agenda are proposals to authorize the city manager to seek bids for the purchase of an ambulance and equipment, and for the purchase of new police radio equipment.

A mayor pro-tem to serve until next April is due to be elected, and a rate increase for Snyder Community Antenna Television will be up for second and final reading.

a remarakable woman

In 1974 Betty Ford became a symbol of frankness and courage as a victim of breast cancer. It would be hard to measure the good that was done when the nation's First Lady shared a highly personal experience with the American people.

Not only did this draw the attention of women to the importance of breast examinations, but Mrs. Ford became an example of chin-up acceptance of a diagnosis of breast cancer that requires surgery.

Now Mrs. Ford and her family have made no effort to conceal her treatment at the drug rehabilitation center of Long Beach Naval Hospital. She had developed a dependency on a combination of drugs taken for the relief of arthritis. She has also told the public of her problem with alcohol.

"It's an insidious thing and I mean to rid myself of its damaging effect," said Mrs. Ford in a public statement that not many people in her position would be willing to make.

Dependency on alcohol as well as pain-killers and tranquilizers taken in connection with an illness is indeed an insidious pitfall for men and women who might assume that a drug and alcohol problem is the last thing they need to worry about.

Mrs. Ford's candor in admitting what happened, her willingness to do something about it, and the support she has received from her husband and family, carry a message to countless of others: such problems need not be battled alone or kept in the family closet.

Another message is one we first heard about in Betty Ford's bout with cancer: She's a remarkable woman.

last smallpox case

There is a strong chance that a young male citizen of southern Somalia has assured himself a place in history.

If the World Health Organization is correct, he had the world's last case of smallpox.

That was last October. He has since recovered and in the subsequent six months there has not been another case reported anywhere in the world.

It will be another 18 months before smallpox can be officially declared eradicated, since W.H.O. certifies a country free of the disease only after two years without a case have passed.

The last recorded outbreak of smallpox in the United States was in 1949. The worldwide campaign against the ancient scourge began little more than a decade ago and by 1975, all the continents were free except Africa.

Medical surveillance continues in Somalia's East African neighborhood and this may in fact not be the end of the road for the onetime killer and maimer of millions yearly. But it has to be awfully close to it.

The real heroes in this world don't necessarily swing a baseball bat, whirl around space, or go to Stockholm to pick up a Nobel Prize.

To me, the real heroes are the people whose human endurance is pushed to the limits and they do something about it. The I'm-mad-as-hell-and-I'm-not-going-to-take-it-anymore syndrome.

You read about them in the newspaper. The man who got fed up with traffic on the Los Angeles freeway and one night he just got out of his car, left it to tie up 300 cars and walked into the sunset.

Or what about the postman who carried mail for 37 years and one day decided he'd had it and dumped the entire contents of his bag down the sewer?

I loved the one the other day about the food concessionaire at the airport who was up to here in dirty dishes all day and finally loaded them into a truck and deposited them in a cemetery so he wouldn't have to wash them.

C'mon now, admit it, we all entertain fantasies of bucking the system. Don't tell me you've never wanted to throw grease down the sink when your husband isn't looking or lock the door on the children when they're out playing.

What mother has never been tempted to look at her child's bedroom and brick it up, or take a soiled diaper to the john, toss it in and flush it.

Is there a woman alive who has never spoon-fed a toddler with more strained squash coming out that going in and has never been tempted to take a butter knife and spread the gook all over the kid's face?

I have restraint and I hate myself for it. I also have a dream. One of these Monday mornings when I climb into the car and the gas gauge registers E, I am going to quietly get out of the car, remove the labels from my clothing and throw them into a gym bag. Then I will walk to the telephone booth two blocks away and call a cab that will take me to the bus station. I will board the first bus that comes in going anywhere, change my name, and open a massage parlor in another city.

Until I really pull it off...I don't deserve to have a high school named for me.

Quotation Sums Up Memoirs

NEW YORK (AP) - When Richard M. Nixon decided to terminate his presidency, he told two aides: "Well, I screwed it up for good, real good, didn't I?"

That one quotation sums up the tenor of the Watergate excerpts from Nixon's forthcoming memoirs.

Nixon admits that he treated Watergate at first as merely a public relations problem, that he did not tell the American people the truth and that he was involved in the cover-up.

He said he did not destroy the White House tapes when their existence became known because they "were my best insurance against the unforeseeable future."

The tapes, he said, "would give me at least some protection" in case other aides turned on him the way lawyer John Dean had. Dean was the first White House insider to tell federal prosecutors about the cover-up.

Ironically, the courts eventually forced Nixon to give up the recordings for evidence in the cover-up conspiracy trial of three men in his inner circle, H.R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and John N. Mitchell - all of whom were convicted and put in prison.

The first segment of Nixon's memoirs, syndicated by a subsidiary of The New York Times to 30 domestic newspapers, began with word reaching the Flordia White House about the five men arrested inside Democratic Party headquarters on June 17, 1972. The second segment ends with his emotional leave-taking of his presidency.

Most of what the two portions contain has been told before by others and by Nixon himself in this televised interviews last year with David Frost. The 1,184-page book, "R.N.: The Memoirs of Richard Nixon," will list for $19.95 when it goes on sale this month.

"I now believe that from the time of the disclosure of the existence of the tapes to the Senate Watergate Committee and my decision not to destroy them, my presidency had little chance of surviving to the end of its term," Nixon writes.

martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Republican efforts to wean black voters away from the Democratic Party appear to be paying dividends in many parts of the country, but deep-seated differences of perspective are likely to keep the gains relatively modest.

Since becoming chairman of the GOP National Committee some 16 months ago, former Sen. Bill Brock, R-Tenn., has fought vigorously to reverse his party's long-standing record of indifference and insensitivity towards black Americans.

Other Republicans have talked periodically of the importance of broadening the base of the GOP, but Brock is the first national chairman to put the party's money and muscle where its rhetoric is.

By the end of this year the national committee will have spent, at Brock's direction, nearly $1 million on programs aimed at recruiting black candidates and voters to the Republican cause.

The investment is producing tangible results. After an intensive effort by a team of black political organizers hired by Brock, Rep. Robert Livingston, R-La., won a special House election last August with 22 percent of the black vote. In his first attempt the preceding November, Livingston had polled only 3 percent of the black vote and had lost to a Democrat subsequently ousted on vote fraud charges.

Brock persuaded the charismatic Jesse Jackson to address the full RNC at its Washington meeting early this year, and Jackson electrified the audience-garnering a flood of additional speaking invitations from GOP state organizations.

The RNC recently intervened in a proceeding before the Federal Communication Commission urging the FCC to adopt policies promoting greater minority ownership of broadcast outlets.

And, again on Brock's orders, the national party has stepped forward to underwrite the financially starved public affairs television program, "America's Black Forum," which has been on the air nearly a year in 20 major media markets but was threatened by a lack of commercial sponsorship.

All this activity has unquestionable helped the GOP's image in the black community, but suspicions linger about the depth of Republican concern. And for all Brock's nuts-and-bolts work, and his efforts to emphasize GOP proposals that appeal to blacks, there remain some very real schisms.

A classic example is item one on the tentative agenda for an April 28-30 conference of elected state and national Republican officeholders in Easton, Md. "Resolved: we support affirmative action which removes all roadblocks to equal opportunity; however, we oppose government action which discriminates against any person by imposing quotas (numerical standards) based upon race, color, creed, sex, religion or national origin."

There is no question the issue of "quotas", by whatever name (goals, targets etc.) is a burning one in today's society. And Republicans, in opposing such numerical standards, are very much in tune with the white majority.

But this very same issue, and its companion, "reverse discrimination," constitute a red flag to black Americans fearful that no further progress towards equal opportunity can be achieved in the absence of such spurs.

Brock didn't draw up the agenda for the so-called "Tidewater Conference" in Easton. Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., chairman of the GOP Senatorial Campaign Committee, did - in conjunction with Iowa Gov. Robert Ray, co-organizer of the event.

But Brock knew the affirmative action item would be included for discussion, and did not protest. "It's an issue we've got to face," he said.

Maybe so. But it is also the kind of issue on which Republicans and blacks are likely to remain light years apart philosophically. And it is symptomatic of the very real differences of perspective that will probably limit GOP inroads among black voters.

pet theories defied

NEW YORK (AP) - The people on Wall Street are ready to call for help in explaining what's going on, because what's going on is to a very great extent in defiance of some of their pet theories. Inflation is getting worse. The supply of money is becoming tighter, the price higher. The imbalance of payments continues. Confidence in the President is said to be deteriorating.

But the stock market says "so what." And it says it while many of the big name stock analysts are warning about a bull trap, about recession, about double-digit inflation and other evils to come.

What this market needs, they seem to be saying, is an analyst of the psycho rather than stock type, because the subject plainly has become maniacally exhilirated while his environment deteriorates.

But the critics have their critics. Calling the market irrational is viewed as a copout, a refusal to make a decision, or perhaps an attempt to set up an alibi in advance. The suspicion is there.

For the first time in many months, even years, those who attempt to or claim to foretell the stock market are faced with the challenge of making a basic decision on the market's direction. They are out of practice. Week in and week out, as the market did little but listlessly slide lower, they could employ the same bland phrases that added up to "little or no change."

It's different now. Now they are being asked to earn their bread, and the risks are great, this being the kind of a market in which reputations can be made for a lifetime, or lifetime reputations unmade.

Using all their tools-estimates of profits, prices, interest rates, savings spending and the like-some arrive at the same conclusion they have for many months-that the market shouldn't be rising.

Even this they do with great fear. The market has shown such great strength, rising almost 10 percent in less than three weeks, that it might just roll on higher and leave them behind.

The best some stock analysts can do is declare the market out of touch with reality and subject to correction. With conventional logic and conventional tools they claim they can document their case.

But what is apparent from all this is that when a market makes up its mind it is never conventional. Furthermore, it doesn't take its orders from analysts. Additionally, it doesn't care what they say.

Which is to say that markets are dynamic. They are perhaps less mechanistic, less predictable than some seers are inclined to concede.

But wherever the market goes, over 1,000 points on the Dow Jones industrial average, as some expect, or to half that, as some fear, it isn't likely that it will be irrational.

The irrationality will be the sole possession of those who maintain that whatever it does it should have done the opposite. There are a lot of them around these days, making and breaking their reputations.

Proper diet is the secret

Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Do Surfak Stool Softeners and all natural raw bran do any damage? Would they give you canker sores? Is it safer to take a laxative once or twice a week? It seems everyone you talk to has trouble. There are times when fruits and vegetables don't do any good and too much roughage is hard on the stomach. If you will answer, we will all thank you.

DEAR READER — Before I started writing this column I knew many people had trouble with their bowels but I had no idea that it was such a common concern.

No, stool softeners and bran do not cause canker sores. Nervous tension can contribute to bowel disorders and canker sores though. That may be why you got the idea.

I don't think chemical laxatives that induce colonic contractions to empty the colon are ever useful. They can be, and often are, harmful. The first problem most people have is getting over the idea that you have to have a bowel movement every day. The frequency of bowel movements depends a lot on what you eat. If you don't eat foods that contain much bulk you cannot expect to have much indigestible residue and the net result is not enough bulk to stimulate daily satisfactory bowel movements.

The Surfak Stool Softeners do not contain any chemicals to induce colon contractions and are useful only to soften the stool for people who are ill or who need to avoid harder stools for various reasons. I can assure you a recent hemorrhoidectomy patient would be grateful for soft stools.

The secret to good bowel function for most people is a proper diet. I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-1, Irritable or Spastic Colon and Constipation to give you a program you can follow to help maintain good healthy bowel function. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. It will give you needed information on laxatives, enemas and diet.

It helps to develop a regular pattern. You do that by eating a good breakfast that includes bulk and at least two large glasses of fluid. The training process may take some time but you can do it.

Bran is sometimes difficult for people to handle. I am not convinced that the bran in breakfast foods is very irritating to the stomach after it is thoroughly soaked in milk before eating. It simply is not right to call that soft material roughage. It is really softage. The cereal fiber soaks up moisture and keeps your food residue moist and soft. It may look and feel rough when it is dry but it is not going into your stomach dry nor will it be dry in passage.

It usually takes several weeks for a person to adjust to adding bran to the diet. More gas than usual is noted. Some people have to start with very small amounts and gradually increase it until their system can handle it. A good way to do that is to switch to whole wheat bread first. Then add more bulky salads to your meal. Eliminate the sweets and fats. Then start adding more bran gradually to your diet. Doing it slowly and sticking with the program long enough for satisfactory results are the essential components for success.

Walking and other forms of exercise also help to improve bowel function. A good walk in the evening after your last meal helps the bowels, and tranquilizes the soul to prepare you for a good night's sleep.

Sheriff's Posse Wins First

The Scurry County Sheriff's Posse won first place in the Midland Rodeo parade in April. Fifteen members particiipated in the parade.

Englishmen once called the yo-yo "the Prince of Wales toy" after King George IV (1820-1830), who spent many hours playing with the yo-yo before he ascended to the throne.

Alan: "How about showing some standard expert plays, if there are standards for experts?"

Oswald: "Here's one that might qualify. The defense starts out with three rounds of diamonds. South wins the third diamond with the jack and is ready to go after trumps."

Alan: "The expert will lead the ten spot. This play is more than standard. It is an automatic play for him."

Oswald: "He plans to finesse, but West plays the king. Now we see why our expert led the ten not the queen."

Alan: "West's play of the king on the ten indicates that West held the singleton king. He would not have played it from king and one or more low cards since he might well be jeopardizing a queen or jack that East might be holding."

Oswald: "So our expert proceeds to play East for the rest of the trumps. He leads dummy's six and lets it ride if East fails to cover. Or if East does cover, South wins, gets back to dummy with a club and picks up the rest of East's trumps."

Golf Team Headed For Nationals...

WTC Takes 1st At Region!

ROSWELL, N.M.--Western Texas College shot a five-under-par 279 during the final 18 holes here Saturday to nail down a seven-stroke victory in the Region V Tournament. The win--coupled with a day-earlier victory in the 7th Conference Tournament held in conjunction with the region meet--qualifies WTC for the upcoming NJCAA National Tournament.

The Westerners, who can boast four golfers on all-conference and all-region teams this year, have now sent a player or team to the national tourney each year for the past seven years. McLennan Community College of Waco took second place and also qualified for the June tournament, to be held in Chatanooga, Tenn.

WTC started out the weekend action with a one-under 283, which netted it a four-stroke victory over Odessa College in the 7th Conference Tournament. The Westerners had already earned enough points to take their third consecutive conference victory prior to the competition, however, after winning the 6th meet in Hobbs, N.M. two weeks earlier.

Friday's win, which took place at New Mexico Military Institute Golf Course, par 71, gave WTC five of seven conference tournament victories. The Snyder-based college placed second in two others.

Ronald Koerth, named to all-conference teams and all-region teams, paced the Westerners through the top 18 holes with a 67 (tied for medalist). Coupled with his teammate's scores, WTC drilled a 283 for the day, while Odessa College had a 287.

Western Texas fired a 287 for the second 18, falling two strokes behind McLennan and Odessa for that round. However, the earlier score of 283 gave WTC a two-round total of 570 and was good enough for a two-stroke lead overall going into the final round. Odessa noted a 572 at the two-thirds mark, while McLennan boasted a 573.

The Westerners, led by Chris Brown, kept a slim lead going through the first final nine holes, then shot one-under-par the final nine. McLennan fired a four-over and Odessa went 11-over to fall back. Brown, another all-conference, all-region player for WTC, paced all contenders with a low of 68 on the final 18 holes.

WTC's 54-hole total of 849 won the tournament by seven strokes over runner-up McLennan College which knocked an 856. Odessa scored 862.

Brown, Koerth and Miller Scott all tied for runner-up medalist in the region tournament with 211's. Koerth rolled the low round, 67, for the tournament.

The top 10 players for the 54 holes were selected All-Region. They were: 1. David Davis, McLennan, 205; 2. Miller Scott, WTC, 211; 2. Chris Brown, WTC, 211; 2. Ronald Koerth, ETC, 211; 2. Selected JC Coach Of The Year...

Richardson Top In Texas

Nolan Richardson, already named conference and region coach of the year, has another claim he can boast of after only his first year as a junior college basketball coach - Texas Junior College Coach of the Year.

Richardson, who led Western Texas College to conference and region championships this season and a 30-8 season, was given the honor during the annual Texas Coaches Association Clinic in Waco Saturday.

To top off the award, Richardson's West All-Stars defeated the East 1-2-100 in an annual all-star exhibition game.

"This is probably the greatest honor that a coach can receive in the state...by his own peers," commented the coach. "I'm very honored. It's one of the climaxes to a wonderful basketball season," he said of the coveted award.

WTC's Jon Moorehead scored 12 points in the all-star game while Julio Gallardo scored 18. "They played super," commented the coach.

Gallardo, 6-9 from El Paso, has signed a national letter of intent to Baylor, while Moorehead, 6-8 from El Paso, inked a SWC letter with the Bears.

Cindy Luttrull, WTC's All-American, played on the women's West all-star team which was narrowly defeated during the clinic festivities. However, she won a shooting contest later with what Richardson termed "an outstanding performance."

Rangers Grab Sixth In A Row

ARLINGTON (AP) - They should have known they couldn't keep Ferguson Jenkins in the bullpen. After 13 years and 215 victories in the major leagues, the Texas Rangers right-hander is right back in the starting rotation - the place he's always wanted to be.

The wily, 34-year-old veteran - pressed into the starting rotation when Texas pitchers were shelled in the first 11 games - shackled the Boston Red Sox on four hits Sunday as the Rangers scored two runs in the ninth inning to edge Boston 2-1.

It was Texas' sixth consecutive victory, a string Jenkins, 2-1, started last Tuesday when he four-hit the Kansas City Royals in his first 1978 start.

Jenkins retired the first 10 Boston batters before walking Rick Burleson in the fourth inning. Burleson then went to third when Jenkins threw the ball away on a pickoff try and scored the unearned run on Jim Rice's sacrifice fly.

Pinch-hitter John Lowenstein drilled an RBI single in the ninth inning off Boston reliever Bill Campbell, 1-3, to cap the Rangers' two-run rally.

Boston starter Bill Lee had cut down the Rangers on six hits through eight innings. After Bert Campaneris singled and Al Oliver sacrificed in the ninth, Zimmer removed Lee.

Zisk then looped a double to tie the score.

"I had Bill Campbell ready and Lee had a blister on his pitching hand," Zimmer said. "Lee pitched his rear end off."

It was the fifth loss in six games for Boston.

Expos 2, Astros 1

Rudy May and Stan Bahnsen combined on a five-hitter and Andre Dawson blasted a homer to lead Montreal over Houston. May gave up all the Astros' hits, including Cesar Cedeno's ninth-inning home run.

Tiger Duo Qualifies For State Competition

ODESSA - Randy Courtney slipped over a 6-6 high jump bar to take first place in the Region 1-AAA track and field meet here Saturday.

The Snyder senior will be joined at the upcoming state meet by freshman teammate Dale Jenkins.

Jenkins cleared the pole vault bar at 14-6, taking second place behind Jimmy Faulkner of Levelland, who posted a meet record of 15-0.

"I never dreamed I'd go this high this year," Jenkins told reporters after the meet. "I was surprised when I cleared 13 feet for the first time and I just couldn't believe it when I went over 14 feet.

"My goal is 16 feet before I get out of high school," added the youngster, who has three more years to achieve it in.

Jenkins won the 3-AAA district meet last weekend in Lubbock with an effort of 13-6, setting a new record there. He actually cleared 13-9 in a tie-breaker, but the judges ruled the mark inelgible for a record.

Courtney's 6-6 winning leap in the high jump was anti-climatic after last week's 6-10 record-setting effort at district. His would-be competitor, Joe Sooter of Perryton, failed to qualify. Sooter leaped 6-8 last year.

Snyder's third entry, Jeff Terry, finished fifth in the 120 high hurdles, posting a time of 15.6 to give the Tigers 20 total points, team-wire.

Netter Twosome Wins Regional

ODESSA - Snyder's boys doubles team of Jay Wesson and Zane Sterling moved a step closer in their bid for the state championship here Saturday.

The duo, which edged out two teams to make the Regional finals, whipped Seminole's Rusty Conway and Mark Hodge 7-6, 6-3 to take the championship.

"They went into this thing strickly as darkhorses," commented Coach Bill Boles, referring to district competition in part, during which Snyder lost to Barron and Bristow of Lamesa. Barron and Bristow bowed out here early in the competition. In fact, the top seed and second seed were swept to the wayside by Wesson-Sterling and Conway-Hodge before Saturday's final put the Snyder twosome at the top of the ladder.

"Faith was the answer to it all," added Boles. "I felt like that if they ever put it together they could really do something. Right now they are almost up to their potential. They'll play better down the road, I feel. They've got faith in each other, faith in the tennis and faith in the coach now."

Gonzales Takes Regional Honors

LEVELLAND - Sprinter Al Gonzales captured a first and a second to lead Roby to a third place showing in the Region 1-B track and field meet held here Saturday.

Gonzales ran a 10.0 in the 100 dash for a blue ribbon, then grabbed second place in the 220 with a time of 22.22.

Roby also qualified its mile relay team with a mark of 3:31.25.

The only other Roby individual qualifying for state competition was Brad Stuart, who finished in second place with a 40.31 time in the 330 intermediate hurdles.

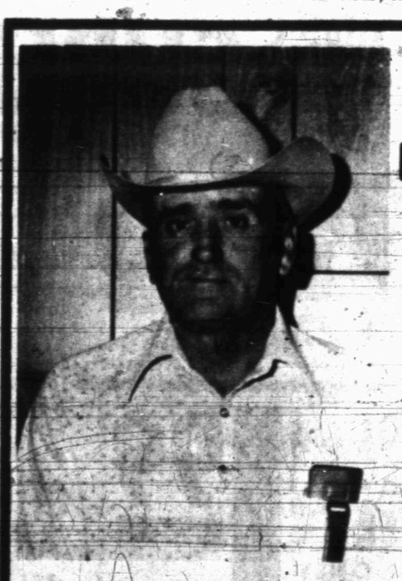

Team scores in the meet included Sudan 46, Amherst 45, Roby and Miami 42, Jayton 36, Lazbuddie and Motley County 29, Sanderson and Groom 26, and Anton 18.

Acorn To Represent Rotan Team

ODESSA - Freddie Acorn of Rotan seared the track for Regional wins in the 100 and 220 dashes here Saturday, qualifying for the upcoming state track and field meet.

Acorn, who finished fifth in the 220 last year, sped to a time of 22.3 to take a blue ribbon in 1978, and also won the 100 with a mark of 10.0.

Eight good men want to be your next Congressman.

How can you make sure you select the best man for the job?

You pick a man with mature, sound judgment, a man with a record of outstanding achievement.

Dusty Rhodes.

You pick a man who is intimately acquainted with the problems of three industries vital to the economy of the 17th Congressional District, a man with interests and experience in farming, ranching and the oil industry, a man who has the ability and experience to keep these industries alive and well, to protect the livelihoods of thousands in our District.

Dusty Rhodes.

You pick a man whose experience in business has helped him understand the dangers of government interference, which affects every person in our district, which contributes to soaring inflation that eats away your paycheck.

You pick a man who is used to fighting against odds—and winning—whose experience as a lawyer has thoroughly equipped him in the knowledge and procedures of law—a man who is not afraid to fight even when the cards are stacked up against him.

Dusty Rhodes.

You need a man in whom the indomitable spirit of the frontier—your spirit—is still alive—love of family, trust in God, achievement through hard work, honesty, concern for fellow men, courage and initiative—a man who is opposed to government interference in your life and your rights.

Dusty Rhodes.

Eight good men. But there's only one with the maturity, knowledge, experience, ability and fearless determination to serve you best of all.

Dusty Rhodes.

Candidates Step Up Pace As Election Nears

By The Associated Press

Airport rallies, helicopter tours, a lakeside picnic, a tennis match between a candidate and former President Gerald Ford and a virtual deluge of television commericials are on tap in Texas this week as the campaign for the primary elections draws to a close.

The politicians must put it all together this week prior to Saturday's elections. The fury of last-week campaigning was put into perspective by one campaign strategist.

"They'll all be campaigning clear down to the last dollar," he said.

Much of the attention is expected to center where it has throughout the campaign on the race between Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Attorney General John Hill for the Democratic Party's gubernatorial nomination.

GOP attorney general candidate Jim Baker plans a tennis match with former President Ford to attract attention to his campaign.

Gov. Briscoe, who normally dines on white linen with candlelight, is inviting supporters to a lakeside noon picnic in Austin.

Hill will be carrying around a special rubber stamp with the word "VETO" in 4-inch letters to emphasize that he would not approve an income tax.

In the battle for the Democratic Party's U.S. Senate nomination, U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger expects to be called back to Washington for two of the final crucial days to vote on a budget bill and an emergency farm bill.

But most of the candidates plan to cross as much of the state as they can during the final few days.

Here generally, subject to frequent change, are the plans of top statewide candidates for the final week:

Hill planned to be in Dallas and East Texas today and plans to be in Houston, San Antonio and the Valley Tuesday; in West Texas, Waco and back to Dallas Wednesday, hit the Panhandle, south Plains, El Paso and Midland-Odessa Thursday, and on Friday give a final fling at Dallas, Houston and San Antonio. The Hills will vote in Austin and there will be an election watch party at the Driskill Hotel.

Briscoe had a 14 hour schedule set today in Dallas. Tuesday it will be Austin, Houston and Baytown. Wednesday he will be in Houston and the Valley. Thursday, he is back to Dallas, and back to Houston. Thursday it's Houston, Galveston, Texas City and the area before returning to Austin. There will be an auto tour of South Central Texas Friday, ending with a rally in San Antonio and a final hometown rally in Uvalde. The Briscoes vote Saturday in Uvalde and will watch returns at the Uvalde headquarters.

Former Gov. Preston Smith, also trying for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, scheduled airport news conferences at Midland-Odessa and Big Spring today and is slated to address the Texas Thorough Breeders Association tonight in Dallas. He will be in Fort Worth Tuesday, followed by more airport news conferences at Wichita Falls and Abilene before winding up at San Angelo.

Ben Gage Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP)-Entertainer Ben Gage, 63, whose baritone voice was featured in several big name brands, died Friday in Los Angeles.

Four Mishaps Are Reported

Four minor traffic mishaps were investigated during the weekend by city police.

While all the mishaps were minor, one was listed as unusually expensive in police reports. That mishap occurred about 12:06 a.m. Sunday when a 1970 Buick driven by D.W. Lynch, 39, of Snyder, tore through a section of fence at the city barn at 3600 Ave. M.

Damage to the fence was estimated at $2,000 in police reports. Only minor damages were reported to the car, and no injuries were listed.

Two of the remaining three mishaps were reported as hit and runs. The first hit and run took place at 1:15 p.m. Saturday when a parked 1974 Volkswagen owned by Welton Cobb was struck by a vehicle which apparently left the scene.

The second hit and run was at 300 35th St., Vernon Groce told officers, where his parked car was struck by a vehicle that he said left the scene. That mishap was reported at 8:11 p.m. Sunday.

A two-vehicle collision took place at 2905 38th St. Saturday at 9:36 p.m. Involved in it were a 1977 Oldsmobile driven by Michael Clark and and a parked 1973 Pontiac driven by John Parker.

2 Grass Fires Are Put Out

Two weekend grass fires were doused by city firefighters.

Changes In Oil Plan Weighed

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration is preparing changes in energy regulations that could lower heat and power prices for East Coast consumers by as much as $500 million a year at the expense of the rest of the country, The Washington Post said in Monday's editions.

An Energy Department spokesman declined to comment on the report. But Sen. J. Bennett Johnston, D-La., said he had discussed the proposals with Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger last week "and I strongly oppose them."

The changes would be in the area of oil entitleements, a complex program designed to help ease the disparities between the costs to refiners using higher-priced imported oil and those using cheaper domestic oil.

Eastern refiners use more imported oil than those in the rest of the country and the entitlements are designed to help offset those costs.

The Post said the changes being considered by Schlesinger could save Eastern consumers about $500 million a year. It said the increased subsidies to Eastern refiners elsewhere and presumably passed on to those refiners customers.

"There seems to be no justification in my view to help one part of the country at the expense of another," said Johnston, chairman of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Subcommittee on Conservation and Regulation. "What we need to do is examine the whole area of entitlements. This is going in precisely the wrong direction."

The post said Schlesinger promised a group of Eastern senators and staff aides that the changes would be proposed "quickly" - perhaps this week.

Mixed Drink Taxes Are Distributed

Scurry County received $1,806.65 and the City of Snyder received $1,593.24 from mixed drink taxes during the first quarter of 1978, according to figures released by State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

The taxes came from a total of $12,044.35 in the county and $10,621.58 in the city from mixed drinks sold by private clubs during the three-month period.

Figures for other area counties and cities include Howard County with a total of $24,776.40 and a county share of $3,716.46, and Big Spring with a total of $21,987.38 and a city share of $3,298.11; Nolan County with a total of $12,138.18 and a county share of $1,820.73, and Sweetwater with a total of $7,678.37 and a city share of $1,151.76; Mitchell County with a total of $1,963.64 and a county share of $294.55, and Colorado City with a total of $1,687.96 and a city share of $253.19; Fisher County with a total of $350.40 and a county share of $52.56, and Rotan with a total of $350.40 and a city share of $52.56.

Texas cities and counties get 15 per cent of the mixed drink tax collected within their boundaries and the balance goes into the state general revenue fund. The City of Houston got the biggest mixed drink tax, $606,628, while Dallas got a check for $388,420 and Fort Worth got $91,964.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

May 2, 1978

You could meet a very unique individual this coming year who doesn't hit it off with everyone but who may select you as his special friend. Exposure to an exciting new way of life could result.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You would be wise to suspect an ulterior motive if one you know only casually heaps more than a reasonable amount of praise on you today. Find out who you're romantically suited to by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be as realistic as possible about your goals today. If they are not well defined you'll miss your mark by a mile.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If a coworker asks you for instructions on how to perform a task today, don't pretend you can do it if you really don't know the answer.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Make it a point today to steer clear of the complex financial or business problems of a friend. He could draw you into a never-never land.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today you must guard against a tendency to go to the wrong people for advice. An ineffective counselor could get you so confused you won't know which end is up.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Much valuable time could be wasted today on daydreaming or rationalizing. If you have a job to do, get right to it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) There's a strong possibility your expensive whims could gain the upper hand today. When it comes to pay, you may wish you had exercised greater self-control.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Disappointment is likely today if you expect those who love you to drop everything and cater to your whims. Be realistic regarding your demands.

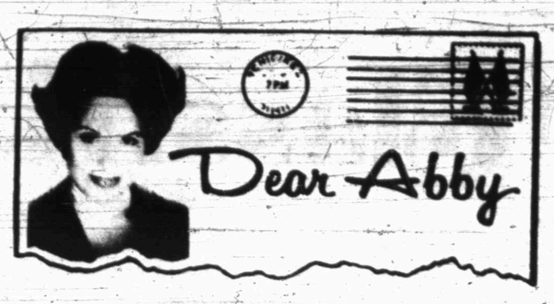

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Flattery is not a good tool to use today in order to achieve your purposes. Insincerity will be readily discerned by others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A friend who never seems to have the cash when the tab comes might use that ploy to stick you with the bill again today. Let her write a check.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Lack of accomplishment today won't be due to an absence of initiative. You have the drive, but you may not define your objective clearly enough.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're apt to take situations for granted today. Things will not happen as easily as you've led yourself to believe.

Baby's Coming Puzzles Child

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am 9 and my sister is 15 and we live on a farm with our parents. My sister is going to have a baby and she isn't married.

I never knew you could get this kind of service without a husband.

SURPRISED IN IOWA

DEAR SURPRISED: Well, you can. And that's why it's just as important for girls your age to learn how NOT to multiply as it is to learn how to add.

DEAR ABBY: I once felt that being a good samaritan was a nice way to be. However, after reading that you discourage kindnesses such as helping to carry a stranger's luggage at airports, it opened my eyes. So I have written a few don'ts to follow:

1. Don't assist anyone having problems with their car. You are competing with tow truck drivers, AAA and mechanics. They could be put out of work.
2. Don't drive the elderly, sick or handicapped to hospitals or senior citizen clubs. You are competing with public transportation and cab companies.
3. Don't do hospital volunteer work. You are competing with paid hospital personnel.
4. Don't offer to care for children of friends, family or neighbors. You are competing with public and private nursery schools.
5. Don't offer advice to anyone, regardless of how desperate they may be. You are competing with Dear Abby!

Sign me...

NO MORE NICE GUY IN L.A.

DEAR NO MORE: Aw, c'mon, you know I don't discourage good samaritans or volunteers from doing their thing. I merely pointed out that people who make a practice of hanging around airports looking for folks to help may run into trouble with the professionals.

DEAR ABBY: You sure missed the boat with your response to the problem of the nervy couple who always dropped in at mealtime.

I would have suggested that they meet them at the door with their coats on and say, "Oh, Jim is just taking me out to dinner. If Tom wants to treat you, we'd be glad to have you join us!"

Their decision will tell you a lot about your "friends"! Be tactful but firm, and beat them at their own game.

ANOTHER COUPLE

DEAR COUPLE: A couple who would consistently drop in around dinnertime in hopes of getting a free meal would not be the kind of people I would want to join me—even if they paid their own way.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (24 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Grocery Bills Rise

By The Associated Press

Grocery bills went up again last month, but the rate of increase was lower than it has been so far this year, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and non-food items, checked the price at one supermarket in each of 19 cities on March 1, 1973 and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. One item, chocolate chip cookies, was dropped from the list at the end of November 1977 because the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey.

The latest survey, taken at the end of April, showed that the bill for the list of items increased at the checklist store in nine cities last month, rising an average of 1.5 percent. The bill decreased at the checklist store in four cities, dropping an average of 1.5 percent. On an overall basis, the marketbasket bill at the checklist stores at the end of April was half a percent higher than it was a month earlier.

In contrast, in each of the first three months of the year, the marketbasket total increased by more than 1 percent per month, with a boost of near 2 percent in February alone.

Comparing today's prices with those at the start of the year, the AP found the marketbasket total at the checklist store increased an average of just under 5 percent during the first third of 1978.

Government economists have been predicting that food prices alone will rise 6 to 8 percent during the year, although the rate of increase has been much faster than that so far. The latest Consumer Price Index, released last Friday, showed that food prices went up 1.3 percent in March.

Rising meat prices have been responsible for much of the increase and the pattern continued in April. The AP survey showed that the price of a pound of chopped chuck went up at the checklist store in six cities and frankfurters increased in price in seven cities.

A look at the overall number of items in the AP survey showed that only 30 percent of them increased during April compared to 33 percent during March.

No attempt was made to weigh the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what percent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents. The AP did not try to compare actual prices from city to city to say, for example, that eggs cost more one place than another. Comparisons were made only in terms of percentages of increase or decrease-saying a particular item went up 10 percent in one city and 5 percent in another.

The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, milk, frankfurters and granulated sugar. The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Ga., Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, Salt Lake City and Seattle.

Angel With Brown Shoes On '79 Seals

DALLAS - Because a nine-year-old girl was concerned about angels and the possibility that they might get struck by "thunder," there's going to be an angel clad in brown shoes and a cocktail dress on the 1979 Christmas Seals.

"You can't have angels walking around all day barefoot. They might get struck by thunder. You know they have thunder, even in heaven," said little Rachel Ockels in explaining why the angel she drew for a contest at her elementary school is wearing any kind of shoes, let alone brown shoes.

Despite the fears of her art teacher at Lida Hooe Elementary school about the shoes detracting from Rachel's angel, the picture won top honors at the school. Later, it won the Dallas city contest and then won top honors in Texas, meaning that it will represent the state and appear on the 1979 Christmas Seals.

"I drew the angel wearing brown shoes. Everybody kept telling me angels don't wear brown shoes - particularly brown shoes," the third-grader said.

"But I was drawing the angel in a cocktail dress and if you wear a cocktail dress, you've got to have shoes," she is quick to explain, demonstrating her knowledge of fashion.

Mrs. Kay Giddens, Rachel's mother, said she was surprised when she was told that the picture took top honors in Texas.

"We were shocked. I had no idea what the picture even looked like. The original drawing is in New York, but they did send us a reproduction," Mrs. Giddens said.

"We are very proud of her," she said.

Four Sons Buried As Probe Continues

BY ROB ROBINSON
Associated Press Writer

WILLOW ISLAND, W.Va. (AP)-The funeral procession rolled slowly past the sprawling power plant on its way to a cemetery where four rectangular graves dug side-by-side waited for the sons of Lee and Mollie Steele.

From their car windows, mourners could see federal investigators perched atop a huge but incomplete cooling tower, attempting to find a clue as to why scaffolding peeled off the tower Thursday, dropping the Steeles and 47 other men 170 feet to their deaths.

While the Steele brothers - Larry 32, Ronald, 30, Miles, 26, and Ernest, 29 - were being buried, together with their uncle, Emmett Steele, in the Willow Island Baptist Church cemetery, investigators bored into concrete near the rim of the tower, taking samples to be checked for quality.

The collapse occurred a day after workers had poured concrete at the narrowest point of the Monongahela Power Co. tower, which was a third complete and will eventually soar to 430 feet.

"The concrete poured during that week was at an angle that was just going outward," said David Rhone, who heads the investigating team from the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, the director of OSHA's Philadelphia regional office.

It could have been that the structure was at its most vulnerable at that stage, he said.

The investigation into the accident, which slowed Sunday because of the funerals and because of Gov. Jay Rockefeller had declared a statewide day of mourning, intensified today.

Rhone said there may have been no single cause for the disaster.

"I'm inclined to feel there may be several factors involved here now," said Rhone, including such possibilities as the hoisting mechanism, which raised the scaffolding level-by-level as the four foot sections of concrete were poured, the quality of the concrete and the hourglass design of the structure.

"We know the failure, but we're trying to reconstruct those conditions that contributed to that," said Rhone.

When it is finished, the tower and its giant twin which stands nearby will cool water used in making steam to generate electricity. The cooled water then will be emptied into the Ohio River.

"We're building the cooling tower to keep from contaminating the river," said William Scharold, an insulation laborer from Alexandria, Ky., who witnessed the accident. "The plant will produce electricity that's needed to build factories and heat homes, and that's progress. It's the price we pay.

"But we don't have to die for them."

Three Children Die In Camper

EVERGREEN, Colo. (AP) - Three children on their way to visit an uncle died of carbon monoxide poisoning while riding in their parents' camper, the Colorado State Patrol reported.

Officials identified the victims as Donald James Moore, 11; his sister, Melanie Diane, 9, and a brother, William David, 8, all of Silt, Colo.

Police said the children had ridden in the cab of the pickup truck until the family arrived in Frisco. At that point, police said, they got into the camper shell for the rest of the trip to Evergreen.

When their father, James Moore, opened the camper door late Saturday night in Evergreen, he found the children unconscious, police said. Attempts to revive them failed.

Jefferson County Coroner Jim Buckley said the pickup's tail pipe did not extend all the way to the bumper - a condition, he said, that may have caused the fumes to rise and enter the camper shell.

"If a window had been opened for ventilation, this might never have happened," said Buckley.

The famed relief pitcher, Hoyt Wilhelm, hit a home run in this first at bat in the major leagues and a triple the second time up. He never hit either one again.

Ex-mother-in-law blues

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D.

DEAR DR. BLAKER — Even though I am a 30-year-old divorced woman, my ex-mother-in-law can still make me feel guilty about the way I am raising my two boys.

She is very upset because I let men sleep over. She is afraid it will have a bad effect on the children. I want to do what is best for them, but I also need an active social life.

Yesterday she presented me with a list of men who have slept over during the past year. There were five. She had a record of their names and the dates of their visits.

I was shocked and offended — and a little surprised she hadn't told me before how strongly she felt about this issue. I thought we were pretty close.

Do you think my ex-mother-in-law is right? Or should I tell her to mind her own business?

DEAR READER — First, ask yourself if you are at least partially responsible for the strained relationship with your ex-mother-in-law.

Someone might wonder how she managed to compile such a complete list without the cooperation of an inside informant — or the cooperation of the "guilty party" herself.

Have you, in fact, told her more about your sex life than you really want her to know?

A woman may confide in her former mother-in-law for a number of reasons. After establishing a close relationship with her husband's mother during marriage, she may want to keep her as a confidant even after the divorce.

She may give out information in hopes it will be relayed to her ex-husband, usually as a tactic for making him jealous. Or, in her insecurity as the head of a one-parent household, she may turn to her ex-mother-in-law for child-rearing advice.

Perhaps you have let certain information slip because you are uncertain about the impact of your social sex life on your children.

You probably have opinions about the relationship of sex to marriage, opinions you will eventually want to share with your children. Why not merely act on those beliefs?

For example, if you believe sex should be reserved for a marital relationship, stop inviting men to sleep over when your children are home. On the other hand, if you believe that sex is an important part of any serious relationship, invite only a few special men.

Just remember, your children will certainly lose respect for you if they see you acting counter to your stated beliefs.

If you are unsure about this issue, you owe it to yourself — and to your children — to think it through and come up with an opinion. Instilling values in children is one of a parent's most important responsibilities.

Write to Dr. Blaker in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Volume of mail prohibits personal replies, but questions of general interest will be discussed in future columns.
