Senate Investigates Tranquilizer Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators want to know why an American buyer has to pay $5.05 a batch for tranquilizer pills that can be bought in Paris for 77 cents.

The Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, which is looking into drug pricing, called more medical experts to testify today.

Chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) said he also wants more light shed on allegations that a dispute involving patent rights on newly developed medicines has been slowing the government's search for cancer cures.

Kefauver told the head of a Philadelphia firm Thursday its prices for tranquilizer drugs were "completely out of line." He said it is time to see whether something can be done about that.

Kefauver was addressing Walter A. Munns, president, and other officials of Smith Kline & French. Munns insisted the firm's prices are reasonable.

The subcommittee staff had produced evidence which, it said, showed that druggists pay $3.03 for 50 tablets of the tranquilizer chloropromazine produced by Munn's company under the name Thorazine. The tranquilizers then are sold to the public by the druggist, the staff said, at a price of $5.05 for 50 tablets.

The chart listed prices for 50 tablets of this drug, manufactured by a French firm, as 51 cents to the druggists of Paris, and 77 cents to the French patient. Canadian druggists pay $3.75 for 50 French-produced tablets of the medicine, the evidence showed, and retail them for $7.05 to the public.

While criticizing high prices, the subcommittee brought out: That Munns got a salary of $140,000 last year, that Francis Boyer, now chairman of the firm's board, held stock in the company which last year entitled him to dividends of over $940,000; and that company dividends accruing last year to the firm's honorary chairman, C. Mahlon Kline, amounted to $1,300,000.

Rand Dixon, subcommittee counsel, brought cancer research into the hearings. He said many articles have been published alleging that some large drug manufacturers are dragging their heels in cancer research because of dissatisfaction with the government's policy of handling patents on federally subsidized research.

Kefauver said the government reserves the right to let some other manufacturer produce a new medicine without paying royalties to the federally subsidized inventor, if the inventor is unable to get the substance into production quickly.

The senator said he has heard this "mild restriction" is causing the research program to drag.

Town Takes Gas Disaster In Its Stride

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—The Rev. Mark Randle put three big logs in the fireplace and went to bed hoping they would make up some of the difference between comfort and the 15 degree temperature outside.

It was the same all over town as Springfield and its neighboring communities (total population 125,000) settled down to what promises to be a two-day interruption of natural gas service.

A mechanical ditch digger gouged through the main supply line 18 miles southwest of Springfield Thursday afternoon. Emergency crews repaired the break Thursday night and a battalion of 800 workers started the door-to-door job of restoring service through 29,400 meters.

They must make sure all air pockets are out of the lines. They must relight the pilots on furnaces, water heaters and stoves. City officials hope to have full service restored sometime Saturday.

Were there hardships?

"I talked on the telephone with my wife," said Police Lt. Carl Gustafson. "She was in bed with two blankets and an electric heating pad. That's hardship, isn't it?"

At the year-old Randle house, in a new development of $20,000 to $30,000 homes, the furnace and water heater flickered out when the gas went off. But the Randle's have an electric kitchen so Sarah, 8, and Kirk, 5, didn't even miss their baths.

"The kids thought it was a big lark to have hot water poured into the tub from a pot off the stove," said Randle. "They slept under heavy blankets and everything seems to be all right.

Springfield's Red Cross disaster unit set up a shelter at the Shrine Mosque, Springfield's largest public building, moving in 65 cots and 200 blankets.

By 1 a.m., only 15 had taken advantage of the Mosque's coal-generated steam heat.

Mrs. Spears Knew Husband Was Alive

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Dr. Robert Vernon Spears' young wife admitted Thursday night she met the ex-convict and naturopath in Dallas two weeks ago—and that it was William Allen Taylor who died in a Nov. 16 airliner crash.

But she doesn't believe Spears placed a bomb aboard the plane which carried 42 persons to their deaths in the Gulf of Mexico, the 36-year-old woman said in a dramatic radio-television interview.

The interview with KRLD news director Eddie Barker came about 24 hours after the FBI found her portly, 65-year-old husband in Phoenix, Ariz.

Here was her answer when she was asked if she believes Spears —a man with a 33-year criminal record—bombed the airliner:

"Regardless of his past, . . regardless of what he has done or said, or what has been said about him, I know he is a very kind person to me, and to others. . . I do not believe he was capable of putting a bomb on a plane."

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKED

She said Spears gave his reservation on the flight to Taylor, a 60-year-old long-time friend from Tampa, Fla. He told her that he read the next day that the plane had crashed and seized the opportunity to disappear.

Spears told her of the deception during a secret visit to Dallas two weeks ago, she related. He hoped his young wife and two infant children would benefit from more than $100,000 in life insurance he carried.

"Did he mention Al (William Allen) Taylor?" she was asked.

"Yes, he did," she replied evenly.

"What did he say?"

"He (Spears) said that he (Taylor) was on the plane," she said. "He was sorry it had to happen to him, or anyone else."

"Did he indicate when the change of plans occurred for Al Taylor rather than Bob Spears to board the plane?"

"Not any actual time as to when the change was made. . .no," she answered.

ANOTHER STORY

Her account was made public here about the same time an Arizona friend of Spears, Dr. William A. Turska, told in Phoenix of finding a case of dynamite cached near a desert cabin where he hid Spears after the crash.

Mrs. Spears denied that her husband planted a bomb in the National Airlines-operated plane or had anything to do with the crash.

Turska, freed after six hours of questioning by the FBI in Phoenix Thursday, said he understood investigators found dynamite fuses in Spears' luggage. An FBI spokesman declined comment.

Both the Civil Aeronautics Board and a Senate Aviation subcommittee have been trying to determine whether bombs caused the Nov. 16 crash and that of another National Airlines plane Jan. 6 near Bolivia, N.C.

Mrs. Spears first gave her account in an exclusive interview which Eddie Barker, news director of Dallas stations KRLD and KRLD-TV, transcribed at her two-story brick home in East Dallas. She elaborated a bit in talking with a reporter after the broadcast.

FIRST KNEW

"I first knew about Dr. Spears being alive on Jan. 7 when Dr. Turska rang my door bell and handed me a letter from Dr. Spears in his handwriting," she said. Previously she had said the date was Jan. 8.

"At first I thought it was a trick. But I had to know. I went with Dr. Turska to the Lakewood Hotel the night of Jan. 7 and it was quite an emotional meeting.

Area Census Chief Named

Earl E. Kerr, Lubbock, will be the supervisor for the 19th congressional district of the 1960 decennial census.

Announcement of Kerr's appointment was made in Dallas by W. Stroud of the Bureau of Census regional office.

Kerr has established offices in the county courthouse at Lubbock. He will supervise a force of 24 crew leaders and 376 census takers in these counties:

Andrews, Bailey, Cochran, Crosby, Dawson, Dickens, Floyd, Gaines, Garza, Hale, Hockley, Howard, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Martin, Mitchell, Terry and Yoakum.

Taking the 1960 census nationally will require the services of 160,000 enumerators, 10,000 crew leaders, and 400 district supervisors, all temporary workers. The district supervisors, working under the general direction of the permanent regional field directors, are responsible for all phases of the census in their districts. Duties of the district supervisor include the recruiting of the crew leaders, obtaining space for crew leader training, recruiting and training a small office staff, reviewing the completed questionnaires, and direct supervision of the field canvass which begins on April 1.

Prior to the start of the census, all households will receive in the mail an advance census report form, a new census-taking device which is designed to speed up the field canvass and provide more accurate statistics. Distribution of this form, which contains the basic population and housing questions, gives the family a chance to assemble information about each member in advance of the census taker's visit.

Coahoma Is Put Under Probation

C-City Citizens, Neighbors Turn Out For C-C Meeting

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Colorado Citians, with neighbors from a half-dozen cities, turned out more than 250 strong Thursday evening for the 51st annual membership meeting of their Chamber of Commerce.

They heard an evangelistic-style speech from a professional chamber man, who urged them to think big, to think ahead and to think together for the improvement of their community. Speaker was Jack Lacy, general manager of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce.

Special tribute was paid to Bob Robinson, announced as C-City's outstanding citizen of the year. Robinson, a drilling contractor, has headed the chamber's Industrial Committee this past year.

New directors were introduced: R. P. Bates, Dr. H. Gene Steakley, Fred McKay and W. J. Turner. These replace Jeff Taylor, R. B. Baker, J. C. Costin and Luke Thomas; and will serve with the following holdover members:

Max Caddell, George Witten, Dr. Seth Cowan, Harold Maniss, Philip Berman, Wayne Shawn, Paul Boyd Hunter and James Boyd.

Caddell is going into a second year as president; Dr. Cowan and Philip Berman are vice presidents; Dr. Steakley is secretary and Shawn is treasurer.

Lacy delivered a message on the theme of "building your own ladder by which you rise," and said good citizens must take advantage of opportunities in a spirit of optimism. He scored complacency as the deadliest peril of the nation today, and the tendency to blame "the other fellow" when things go wrong. He reminded C-C members of their common responsibilities in working for spiritual and civic improvement in their community.

He was introduced by Bill Quimby of Big Spring, a former manager of the C-City Chamber. Eldon Mahon was master of ceremonies, and President Max Caddell introduced special guests. Invocation was by the Rev. J. F. Selcraig. Special musical entertainment was brought by a male quartet from Abilene Christian College.

At C-City's Chamber Meeting

Prominent figures at Colorado City's 51st annual Chamber of Commerce banquet Thursday night were these men (l to r): Dr. Seth Cowan, who is first vice president of the organization; Jack Lacy, general manager of the Amarillo C-C who was principal speaker at the banquet; Max N. Caddell, who enters his second year as president of the organization; and Bill Quimby, C-C manager of Big Spring, former Coloradoan who introduced Lacy.

Living Costs Fall; First In 4 Months

ART LINKLETTER

Linkletter Here Saturday

Art Linkletter, a man of endless talent and energy and whose magic touch has delighted millions who follow his programs and his writings, comes here Saturday to address the annual YMCA banquet at 8 p.m. in the Goliad gym.

Officials of the YMCA are to fly in a Cosden plane to Dallas this evening to meet Mr. and Mrs. Linkletter and bring them to Big Spring. Until their departure Sunday for Hollywood, they will be with their daughter and son-in-law, Lt. and Mrs. John Zweyer.

Linkletter loves people, and perhaps this is a key to his fabulous success. His uninhibited and sincere warmth long since has catapulted him to a top place in the national entertainment scene. He is the only performer in broadcasting (and telecasting) with mutually exclusive daytime and nighttime contracts with two major networks.

BEST SELLER

His book, "Kids Say the Darndest Things," was an instant best seller and topped all non-fiction works in three months of 1957 and led the field all during the following year. Linkletter also has established himself as a ranking producer of TV spectaculars such as "Inside Beverley Hills" and "Inside Baseball." More recently he has proven himself to be a seasoned actor in three GE Theatre productions.

In between these and his daytime Emmy award winning "House Party" (CBS-TV and Radio) and his nighttime "People Are Funny" (NBC and Radio), he somehow manages to find time to make guest appearances on other shows, emcee dozens of benefits and testimonial dinners, help raise money for charity, lend a helping hand to the YMCA, and take an active role in his business interests which range from toy manufacture to sheep and rice raising in Australia.

EXERCISES AT YMCA

To maintain his super-charged pace, he keeps himself in trim through regular swimming and handball exercises at the Hollywood YMCA. The Linkletters live in a comfortable Georgian brick home in Holmby Hills, a Los Angeles suburb. They have five children, Jack, who has his own successful show and who also relieves his father; Dawn (Mrs. Zweyer), Robert, Sharon and Diane, who are still at home. The Jack Linkletters have one son, Michael Arthur, which has led Linkletter to observe proudly that he has a grandchild—but that "I refuse to admit that I'm now a grandfather."

If Linkletter loves people, he certainly knows them — and through the intimacy of work. After his graduation from high school he took to the road to satisfy a lifelong curiousity about people and places. For 15 months he thumbed his way across the country, visiting nearly every state. He worked as a bus boy in Chicago, a harvest hand in North Dakota, forest fire fighter in Washington, theatre usher in Minneapolis, meat packer in St. Paul, bank clerk in Wall Street, deck hand on a South America-bound freighter.

NEEDED EDUCATION

His experiences convinced him he needed more education. Determined to become an English teacher, he enrolled at San Diego State College and hopped tables, punched a switchboard, and did odd jobs to earn his way. Here his seemingly boundless energy came into play, for he managed to distinguish himself in athletics as Southern California 50-yard backstroke champion, captain and

Food, Clothing Lead Decrease

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs as measured by the government declined one-tenth of one per cent in December. It was the first drop in four months.

Lower prices for food, clothing and durable commodities were largely responsible for the decline. Costs of services continued to climb.

The Labor Department announced today that its consumer price index declined to 125.5 per cent of the 1947-49 base period.

This is 1½ per cent above the level of December 1958. The December drop wiped out a slight November increase and returned the index to the October level.

Approximately 575,000 workers will nevertheless get pay boosts of 1 or 2 cents an hour based on the new index. Their wages are geared partly to changes in the official index.

The pay raises are due, despite the slight December decline, because the December level is higher than the living cost levels for June and September, the dates of the last adjustment of the workers' wages.

Ewan Clague, labor statistics commissioner, said he didn't see any signs of substantial change in living costs over the next few months.

The spendable earnings of factory workers—their wages less federal tax deductions—rose to a new high in December. The weekly average for the worker with three dependents increased from $79.97 in November to $82. This is 3 per cent higher than a year earlier.

Clague said that the yearly average of living costs in 1959 was about nine-tenths of 1 per cent above the 1958 average. This is the smallest annual increase in four years. Food prices averaged lower in 1959 than in 1958 but service rates, principally for medical care and transportation, were higher.

In December food prices declined one-tenth of 1 per cent. Meats, particularly pork products, averaged lower.

Egg prices declined nearly 4 per cent in December, also because of more plentiful supply, but fresh vegetable prices increased seasonally by nearly 7 per cent.

Transportation costs fell a bit, mainly because of higher discounts on prices of new cars, tires and lower costs for gasoline and oil. Public transportation costs edged up.

End-of-the-year sales, particularly for women's apparel, helped bring clothing prices down somewhat. Housing costs remained unchanged.

Martin Stock Show Saturday

STANTON (SC) — Two score choice lambs and pigs will go on the block here Saturday afternoon, culminating the annual Martin County Junior Livestock Show.

Steers will be judged but will not be sold.

Bob Johnson, county agent, said that around 50 hogs, 60 lambs and 20 steers were being readied this afternoon at the Martin County Show Barn.

Lamb judging by Ed Whitesides, Concho County agent, will begin at 8 a.m. Saturday and the swine and steer judging by William Griffin, Lynn County agent, will follow. The sale is scheduled immediately following the steer judging after lunch Saturday.

Classes are the same except for addition of an Angus class in the steer division. The event is sponsored by the agricultural committee of the Martin County Chamber of Commerce. Gerald Hanson is chairman. Last year Weems Williams had the grand champion steer. The sale of 40 animals grossed $2,632.

Hardesty Heads Red Cross Disaster Relief Setup

Frank Hardesty will assume duties as director of the disaster preparedness committee of the local Red Cross chapter.

Announcement of his acceptance of the important appointment came Thursday at a meeting of the Howard-Glasscock chapter advisory board of the Red Cross.

Hardesty, well known civic and political figure, will set up a fully coordinated group, ready to handle relief in event of natural disaster. He is replacing Dr. Lee O. Rogers, who had asked to be relieved of the job because of press of other duties.

The board honored Mrs. Thomas Casey, chairman of the Webb AFB Gray Ladies, for five years of service. She was cited for outstanding leadership in the efficient work being done by her group.

Mrs. A. W. Moody, chairman of the local Gray Lady Corps, reported that an orientation course has recently been completed at the VA Hospital, adding that the group has about 15 regular workers, with a few others who assist at various times.

Besides the Christmas activity at the hospital, Mrs. Moody said, the group decorated the dining room tables for the New Year observance.

Mrs. Casey told of an average of between 250 and 275 hours of service per month at the base hospital. She reported 28 volunteers. Members of the corps serve coffee and doughnuts on the wards, she stated, with funds supplied by the Officers Wives Club and the NCO Wives Club.

Clarence Hunnicutt, Red Cross field director, told the board that two classes in first aid are in progress at the base and are to be completed soon. Another course is set for February.

A report of local first aid classes, under the direction of Leslie Snow, stated that six classes are being taught with several more scheduled to start.

The Junior Red Cross chairman, Mrs. H. L. Derrick, announced that the safety material provided by the organization, has been approved by the Safety Council and is now in the hands of all teachers in the local schools.

Pupils will finish their first aid courses in a short time, Mrs. Derrick said, with 30 certificates due to be awarded.

Additional Junior Red Cross activity in the school includes 38 boxes sent overseas for Christmas, first aid classes at Howard County Junior College and an international album made by elementary pupils.

Lyndon Says Religion Not Proper Presidential Issue

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) says religion, ancestry or place of both should play no part in selection of the next president.

Johnson, Senate majority leader and a potential candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, spoke Thursday night in Brooklyn at a dinner honoring Rep. John J. Rooney (D-NY).

The affair was sponsored by the Cathedral Club, a social organization of Roman Catholic laymen. Johnson is a Protestant.

"Personally," said Johnson, "I believe that most Americans have become tired of this constant cross-questioning of men as to their religion, their ancestry, and where they were born.

"We must select our next president on the basis of grown - up, adult issues. We must select the man we feel is best qualified to lead this country in the face of the Communist threat. We must look to our strength and not fall into the Soviet trap of looking to our fears."

The senator added that "we must quit running away from the problems of bigotry."

"In the last war," he went on, "nobody objected that Marshall was a Virginian, that Nimitz, Wainwright and Chennault — and might I add Dwight D. Eisenhower—were born in Texas. No one objected that Wild Bill Donovan of New York was a Roman Catholic.

"No one objected that the man who thought out the theory of the atomic bomb was a German Jew named Einstein, and the man who put the uranium into the atomic bomb was an Italian named Fermi."

In a partisan view, Johnson said voters must choose from a "man from the one-child family of the Republican party which practices political birth control" (an obvious reference to Vice President Richard M. Nixon's lack of a party opponent) "or from the many strong young sons of the more vigorous Democratic family."

Earlier, at a reception tendered him by Mayor Robert F. Wagner, Johnson predicted that Congress would pass a "good" civil rights bill. He did not go into details, but said the bill would protect all persons in their exercise of constitutional rights, "and that includes voting rights," he said.

Tonight, Johnson will be guest of honor at a reception at the National Democratic Club.

U. S. Recalls Cuba Legate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States summoned Ambassador Philip W. Bonsal home from Havana today, less than two weeks after he returned to his post.

There were strong indications of official exasperation at indignities, authorities feel America has suffered at the hands of Fidel Castro.

The big question remained, what can Washington try next to change the course of the bearded Cuban Premier without hurting its relations with the other psychologically sensitive Latin American states?

Diplomatically, Uncle Sam was in the unhappy shoes of the visitor being kicked in the shins by a small boy of the family while not daring to lift his fist in reprisal.

ARRIVES IN P.M.

Bonsal was expected to arrive in the late afternoon. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said Thursday the career diplomat was being returned for "consultations." He had returned to Havana on Jan. 10 after a month of similar consultations.

The new move falls short of a break in relations with the Castro regime. But U.S. officials made plain they are in no hurry to send Bonsal back. The Havana embassy meanwhile will be tended by the No. 2 man there, Daniel M. Braddock.

The new low in U.S.-Cuban relations was struck Thursday after Castro went on a radio-TV broadcast. The Spanish ambassador became so outraged at Castro's allegations of criminal ties by his embassy that he stormed the broadcasting studio. Castro kicked him out of Cuba, and he too leaves there today.

MORE SEVERE

U.S. authorities viewed Castro's attack on American Embassy activities as even more severe. Herter told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, according to Chairman J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark), that Castro was "very insulting to the American ambassador, the American government and the American people."

American officials said the Castro broadcast came on top of:

1. Repeated attacks on the United States by Castro-run newspapers and radio stations.

2. Attacks on Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who recently said in Florida that the Castro regime is not creating an attractive climate for U.S. investment in Cuba.

3. Attacks on Bonsal, who has been applauded in public appearances in Havana by Cubans who don't share Castro's view.

4. Absence of any diplomatic reply to a U.S. note of Jan. 11 protesting what Washington said was illegal seizure of U.S. property in Cuba, in violation of Cuba's own laws. A Castro newspaper thumbed its nose at the U.S. protest in its columns.

UNDER STUDY

What course remained open to the United States was a problem under intense study at the State Department. Officials were anxious to maintain American dignity, without waving a big stick which would antagonize Latin neighbors.

One possibility was issuance of a strongly-worded statement. This might come from Herter, from the department or from Roy R. Rubottom, assistant secretary for Inter-American affairs, in one of the speeches he is scheduled to make around the country.

Another possibility was joint consultation with other American republics, perhaps through the Organization of American States. U.S. diplomats believe there is growing dislike of Castro in parts of Latin America.

There was the possibility of another note to Havana, but some authorities doubted how much this would accomplish since the last one is still unanswered.

The economic weapon of clamping down on Cuba's sugar exports to the United States—a prime source of dollars to Cuba—was not looked on with favor. This was regarded as a clumsy method which would hurt the Cuban people, antagonize others, and upset established sugar procedures for a long time.

However, Herter indicated to the senators that the administration will seek flexibility for setting sugar quotas in this year's sugar legislation instead of having a fixed amount set by Congress.

Big Pow Wow For Indians

More than 300 turned out for the Y Indian Guide Tee Pee affair Thursday evening as part of the YMCA Week observance.

The week continues with a folk dance feature this evening, to which the public is invited. Saturday the annual banquet with Art Linkletter as speaker, will be held at the Goliad gym.

The Indian Guide event saw the gym area packed as the Iraquois tribe won the tribal dance contest, followed by the Crow tribe. In the displays, the Cherokees won, with the Mohawks second. There was a period of group singing, followed by an Indian Dance demonstration by older youths, Jake Glickman, Arlen Bryant, Wiley Woodard, Ross Reagan and Bill Engle.

Odessa Church To Host Singing Unit Saturday Evening

The Permian Basin Singing Convention will meet Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Highland Methodist Church at Odessa. The church is located at 1808 E. County Road.

This non-denominational group has set the Sunday session at 10 a.m. in the East Side Community Center, 13th and Adams. Lunch will be served.

L. R. Nutt, president, said a large number of singers and specialty groups are expected and urged all interested West Texans to join the festivities.

He said music will be used from the Stamps-Baxter repertories.

George Hailey's Brother Dies

Funeral services were held in Lott on Wednesday for Clyde Hailey, 66, brother of George Hailey, 710 Edwards Blvd. Mr. Hailey, a salesman, died in a Wichita Falls hospital on Jan. 18 after a two months' illness. Burial was in Lott, where he made his home.

George Hailey was unable to attend the rites.

SPEARS

—for I thought Dr. Spears was dead, and there he stood in front of me."

How Spears induced Taylor to board the airliner in his place at Tampa was not clear.

In Tampa, Taylor's ex-wife Alice said—as she had earlier—that her former husband "was unduly influenced by Dr. Spears and betrayed." Expressing "great shock" at Mrs. Spears' statements, Mrs. Taylor added:

"I hoped against all odds something would turn up and that Mr. Taylor wasn't on that plane, although I felt all along he was on the plane because I had not heard from him."

POLICY BOUGHT

A $37,500 policy on Taylor's life, issued from a vending machine at Tampa's International Airport, reached Mrs. Taylor by mail two days after the crash. It showed Taylor, making a round trip flight to Dallas, obtained the policy only 13 minutes before the airliner took off.

FBI men questioned Mrs. Spears and searched her home prior to Thursday night's broadcast. They declined to say what was found. There was an unofficial report the agents paid special attention to 26 volumes on hypnosis in the Spears house.

Mrs. Taylor had voiced a belief to Tampa police earlier that her ex-husband must have been hypnotized to agree to board the airliner.

A Dallas lawyer for the Spears family, Charles W. Tessmer, told reporters he believed "hypnosis was involved" in the case.

Mrs. Spears said she asked her husband two weeks ago "why it had happened and what had happened."

NECK REPAIRED

"He said he drove Al's car so Al (Taylor) could fly here to have his injured neck repaired," she recounted. "He said he read about the crash of the plane and he saw an opportunity to leave me and the babies with some financial security.

"He felt he had been a burden, and it was a chance to free us of that burden."

Mrs. Spears, a thin and rather tall former secretary, and her husband have two children — 10-month-old Robin Deborah and 2-year-old Robert Kenneth.

Why did Taylor take the plane from Tampa in place of Spears?

"He said that Al's wife was giving him a rough time," Mrs. Spears said, "and he wanted to get away from her and see about his neck injury."

At another point Mrs. Spears related:

"He told me Al was on the plane, but he didn't say whether he saw him get on. I asked him if anything had been done to the plane and he said 'no.'"

Mystery Man

Robert V. Spears, 65, self-styled doctor and ex-convict, presumed killed in a mysterious airliner crash until he was found in Phoenix, Ariz., is escorted to an FBI car to be taken before the U.S. Commissioner for arraignment. He was arraigned on an auto theft charge and is being questioned about the Nov. 16 crash of a National Airlines plane in the Gulf of Mexico in which 42 persons died. He was listed as a passenger on the plane.

LINKLETTER

all-conference basketball center on the SD State championship team, and as a tournament handball player.

When he graduated with his B. A. degree, fate used $5 to divert him into entertainment. He had two offers— one to teach English at $120 a month and the other to be a fulltime radio announced at $125. He had worked some as part-time announcer to earn his way through school and elected to take this course. Soon he was interviewing local personalities, devising his own shows, writing, producing, directing with the special, homey touch that was to bring him fame.

In 1935 he married Lois Foerster of San Diego, then a student at the University of Arizona. He resigned his radio job to become radio and public address system director for the San Diego Exposition. He took the same job with the Texas Centennial in Dallas (and incidentally wrote the "Texas Cavalcade," the nightly historical spectacle) and with the San Francisco World's Fair until 1939 when he became a freelance writer, producer and emcee. He became one of the country's leading experts on the business of staging big outdoor spectacul s.

BIRTH OF A HIT

He got in all types of experience and broadcast from airplanes, dirigibles, battleships, submarines, aircraft carriers. He has talked with multiplied thousands of people and has seen them faint, fight, become mute or even curse. He's described everything from baby shows to cattle shows, and has been invited to entertain before three U. S. presidents. And always he has been the master of the ad lib.

Linkletter had established himself as a personable emcee in San Francisco when he met John Guedel on a trip to Hollywood in 1942. Guedel had an idea for a shot titled "People Are Funny," and Linkletter had been working on a similar show called "Meet Yourself." They pooled ideas and capital ($15 each) and cut an audition record. The show has been going nearly a score of years and consistently been in the top 25 TV shows since its TV debut in 1954. Their "House Party" caught on from the start in 1944 and has been seen and heard over 350 TV and radio stations and over the Armed Forces network. Both of these programs have the unbelievable record of continuous sponsorship all these years. "Linkletter and the Kids," Guedel-Linkletter syndication, has been a hit series.

PREACHER'S SON

Linkletter was born in Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan in 1912 and came with his adopted parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Linkletter, to Lowell, Mass. when he was two. His father was an itinerant evangelist and shoemaker and moved constantly from pulpit to mission to church to street corners until settling in San Diego when Art was five. One of young Art's first public appearances was playing the triangle and passing the plate for his father, a Baptist minister who also preached in the Church of the Four Square Tabernacle. Art gained a deep appreciation for ethics, fair play and the Word of the Lord. He also learned about the providential care of God.

He has been associated with the Hollywood YMCA for 30 years and is on its board of directors, has been a national spokesman for the Y's youth activities, a fund-raiser, emcee and producer for 11 years of an all-star show for Y youngsters at the Hollywood Bowl. He also is a member of the Y's national physical education board. He has a host of other activities, too, and has been awarded the Brotherhood Medal by the National Conference of Christian and Jews; has four foster children among war orphans; serves on the board of the Los Angeles Orphanage and of the National Goodwill Industries; takes an active part in Boy Scout Work; and has served as national campaign chairman for the Arthritis Foundation.

He will be met in Dallas this evening by R. H. Weaver, outgoing president of the Y, Dan M. Krausse, incoming president and Bobo Hardy, general secretary.

Officials Confer With Hiway Men

Two city officials journeyed to Abilene this morning for a conference with highway authorities.

A. K. Steinheimer, city manager, and Bruce Dunn, director of public works, made the trip for a conference with Jake Roberts, State Highway Department engineer.

The conference concerns state participation in the forthcoming assessment paving program.

Some Box 14 Poll Taxes Getting Wrong Numbers

Restoration last summer of the old Vealmoor voting box with an extension of area of some additional territory is resulting in some slight confusion in the issuance of poll tax receipts to certain residents of the precinct, according to Ellis Iden.

The box is officially Precinct 14. Some residents of the precinct, perhaps unaware of the box, have registered with the county assessor and have been issued poll tax receipts which bear the wrong numbers on their receipts to have a ed as residents of the Knott precinct and others of the Gay Hill precinct.

Iden urged all of the Box No. 14 residents who have improper nubers on their receipts to have a correction made in order to avoid further confusion at election time.

The time to take such corrective action, Iden said, is after Feb. 1.

Ed Carpenter, county judge, said that the commissioners set up the boundaries for the precinct last summer. He said that some territory was added to the old precinct area including a strip one mile south of Vealmoor and east to the Borden County line. Approximately 60 voters who reside in the area were forced to go to Gay Hill to vote under the former alignment. The change was made, Carpenter said, to make it more convenient for these voters.

He said that he had consulted with Mrs. Viola Robinson, county assessor, and she said it was possible receipts have been issued with erroneous numbers where residence location was not made clear.

2 Airline Survivors Look To Ship For Rest Of Trip

MONTEGO BAY, Jamaica (AP) —Two survivors of the Colombian airliner crash that killed 37 persons said today they will make the last leg of their jinxed trip to Ecuador by ship.

"I don't care if we have to go to Greenland to get a ship," said Ian Kelton, 46, a United Nations official traveling with his Australian wife to a new assignment in South America.

The Keltons, two Dutch passengers and five crew members escaped virtually unhurt in the crash early Thursday of the Avianca airliner from New York. All 17 Americans aboard were killed.

There had been one interruption before the Super-Constellation of the Avianca Columbian National Airline met tragedy on this Caribbean holiday island. A coughing engine forced a 10-hour stopover for repairs in Miami. Four passengers quit the plane there.

Kelton, a Scotsman attached to the U.N. Food and Agricultural Organization, told relatives who telephoned that he and his wife were "both excellently all right."

"We are not even blemished," he said. "But I think we might dispense with planes for a while. We intend to wait for a ship if we can get one to Ecuador. We might have to go to Miami to get a ship. I don't care if we have to go to Greenland."

When the big plane overturned and exploded in flames after setting down here, the Keltons wrenched their way out through an emergency exit and splashed through a swampy lagoon to safety.

"There was absolutely no warning of the crash," said Kelton. "We came out of a rain squall at Montego Bay and started onto the runway.

"We hit with a crunch, bounced and skidded along on one side with fire roaring past the windows on one side. Then the plane came to a halt. We were upside down, suspended in our seats by our safety belts and deoriented because the plane had flown around as well as overturning.

"I got free and unclasped my wife's seat belt. The only light was the glow from the fire. We heard no commotion from the rest of the plane. While I was looking for an emergency exit, the steward got it quite open and popped out, but flames enveloped the exit immediately after.

"Another passenger ripped open a door on the opposite side of the plane toward the water. We jumped in. It was only two feet deep, but I was still trying to hurry along because I feared the flaming gasoline would spread on the water."

The wreckage was splattered over 150 feet of the runway. The airport was reopened to commercial traffic Thursday night after the last body was removed and the runway cleared.

The Jamaican government appointed a special commissioner to investigate the crash. Some witnesses said the left landing gear collapsed after the airliner touched down.

Snow, Drizzle Are Forecast

A bitter cold wind and heavily overcast skies greeted early risers in Big Spring today. It was an uncomfortable morning even though the thermometer didn't offer a record breaking low reading.

The forecast for today and Saturday offers no relief from the cold. Cloudy skies, cold and occasional light snow is the menu offered for this afternoon. Tonight, the U. S. Weather Bureau says, the light snow may become a freezing drizzle. A low of 22 is foreseen for tonight.

Meantime, reports at 10 a.m. today said that light snow had been falling from Monahans eastward to Stanton. No precipitation was reported here. Low last night was 23 degrees according to the U. S. Experiment Station.

The ground was frozen—sufficiently so, to cause a postponement of plans by neighbors of Ralph Neill to plow his fields. Neill was painfully burned several weeks ago and has been hospitalized since then.

CTC Considers Panel Personnel

New committee appointments and recommendation for a traffic study were discussed during the regular meeting of the Citizens Traffic Commission Thursday.

The members will ask for city and state study of the traffic pattern at the U. S. 87 and Marcy Drive intersection. Installation of a traffic signal might result from the report.

Committee members for education, engineering, safety men, finance, speakers bureau, membership and a special study group were discussed. A future meeting will consider these appointments.

The special committee will consider the possibility of a board of directors for the CTC and a coordinating committee for officials.

Larson Lloyd gave the financial statement and Mrs. Lloyd gave a report on the speakers bureau. Sgt. O. E. Bice reported for the engineering committee.

Mrs. A. J. Conrad was in charge of the group from the Texas and Pacific Railroad Ladies Safety Council. The ladies modeled special hats, which they had designed, stressing safety.

Teen-Age Girl Bakes Cookies For Spacemen

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—A 14-year-old girl popped a batch of sugar cookies into the oven and came up with, guess what? Sugar cookies for space men.

Don't give Vicki Pilgrim too much credit, though. She used her father's recipe.

Vicki's father, Dr. Arthur J. Pilgrim, is head of the biochemistry unit of the Boeing Airplane Co.

The baking assignment was part of papa's work on an algae experiment.

Green algae, a kind of seaweed, long has been considered a likely source of food and oxygen for space travelers. One drawback: The stuff looks like scum and tastes like hay.

Boeing scientists tried blanching some under fluorescent lights. It came out looking sort of like flour.

Encouraged, Pilgrim asked Vicki to do the baking bit. She used algae in place of flour—green algae in one batch, white algae in another.

Then, like Alice in Wonderland, she took a bite of each.

The green algae cookies tasted like baked hay.

And the white algae cookies? They tasted like cookies.

"This represents considerable progress," said Dr. Pilgrim, "in providing a possible food for space travel. With all of the myriad other problems facing a space traveler, it will be important to make his meals as palatable as possible."

Pacific Rocket A Space Forerunner

MOSCOW (AP)—A leading Soviet scientist said today the superrocket fired into the Pacific Wednesday was the biggest the Soviets have launched and the forerunner of a heavy space satellite with equipment that can bring it back to earth.

Prof. V. Dobronravov said the test rocket's last two stages reached a speed of more than 26,000 kilometers an hour — better than 16,172 miles an hour.

The Soviet rocket that carried the satellite which photographed the moon last fall weighed about 3,323 pounds (without fuel) in the last stage. The satellite itself weighed only 614 pounds.

Sputnik III, launched on May 15, 1958, weighed 2,925 pounds.

The United States put a 1,700-pound satellite, Discoverer VIII, into orbit in November. Its maximum altitude is about 1,000 miles from the earth.

Dobronravov wrote in the Moscow Pravda, organ of the Moscow branch of the Communist Party, that this week's Soviet test firing shows "the final stage of the future larger space rockets will be able to develop not only the first astronautical speed of 11.2 kilometers (about 7 miles) per second but even a greater speed, sufficient for flights not only to the moon but to the planets of the solar system, too."

"The development of a heavy earth satellite may be useful for solving basic problems of space travel," he wrote. "The same holds true of the launching of heavier space rockets to the planets of the solar system."

He explained it will be possible to install "a space orientation system" for controlling the heavy earth satellite, fitted with a telescope and retro-rockets. The retro-rockets would slow down the Sputnik when it enters denser atmosphere.

"Finally," he added," a heavy Sputnik can carry a device permitting its safe descent through all the atmosphere to the point of landing."

HCJC Ready For New Semester

Last of the final examinations have been completed at Howard County Junior College, Dr. W. A. Hunt, president, said Friday.

A new semester will begin on Monday with registration. The enrollment will continue through Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. Registration will be held for evening school registration.

Dr. Hunt said there was no indication as to the trend for spring semester enrollment, but there had been more than a dozen new applications for dormitory rooms.

Fatherhood A Shock

Wallace E. Evans, of Columbus, Ga., was awaiting birth of his first child. When the doctor told him his wife had presented him with twin boys the shock was too great. Evans fell to the floor in a dead faint, broke his nose and a tooth, cut his lip and bruised his face. He was hospitalized 24 hours for shock. Mother Evans and sons Edward Kyle and Wallace Keith had less trouble than daddy who recovered to pose with his sons.

Reporter Finds Mrs. Spears A Loyal Wife, Full Of Love

(Editor's Note: Eddie Barker was the only newsman with Frances Spears when she got word that her husband was alive and well—and being questioned about the possible sabotage of the fallen airliner in which he has been listed as a passenger. Barker, news director of KRLD and KRLD-TV in Dallas, spent the ensuing hours with Mrs. Spears. Here he tells the story of a strange love).

By EDDIE BARKER
Written for The Associated Press

DALLAS (AP)—Frances Spears says she lived eight happy years with her stocky, suave husband before she learned he had been in trouble.

Two years ago she read in a Dallas newspaper about a naturopath being questioned about an illegal abortion. She recalls that she asked her husband about it and he replied:

"Yes, honey, that's me they're talking about."

Dr. Robert Vernon Spears is 65 years old. His criminal record dates back 33 years and ranges from vagrancy to fraud and from forgery to armed robbery. Through it all, he's obviously charmed many persons.

Frances Spears is 36—or 29 years younger than her husband. Severely thin and tall, one of 10 children, she perhaps had little male companionship when she was a young lady. You get the idea, after being around her, that here was a woman who needed affection and love.

Dr. Spears, described by neighbors as apparently a good husband and father, evidently gave Frances Spears that affection and love. But the real story is in the full measure in which she returns it.

Tearful, bewildered, distraught—Frances Spears is all of these, but she's standing by her husband. She closes her eyes to his 33-year record of fraud, forgery, larceny, vagrancy and armed robbery.

The FBI wonders if Dr. Spears had a hand in sabotaging the National Airlines plane which crashed in the Gulf of Mexico Nov. 16. Forty-two persons died in the mystery crash. Spears himself was listed as a passenger. The FBI is trying to find out if he sabotaged the plane, induced someone else to take his place aboard, all in hope that Frances Spears would collect $100,000 in insurance.

"He was so good to me and to the babies," sobs Mrs. Spears. "He was such a good husband.

"I know if there was a bomb on that plane Bob Spears didn't do it. He is just not that kind of person. He is kind. He loves his children. I always knew that if anything ever came up about that plane that Bob Spears would be blamed because of his past."

Officers have speculated that Spears might have induced an old friend, William Allen Taylor of Tampa, Fla., to take his place aboard the doomed plane. Mrs. Spears told me that if Taylor's body is found in the wreckage he'll probably be dressed in Spears' clothes—because Spears was always kind to Taylor and gave him money and discarded clothes.

Robin Debra, 10 months old daughter, and Kenneth, 2, both have the influenza which has been spreading around Dallas. Mrs. Spears is a worrying mother. She stays close to her children.

"We never discussed his past," she told me during the long hours we talked about Spears. She refused to see other reporters, except for a tearful few minutes when she stepped out on her front porch. She answered a few questions there. The cameramen's flashbulbs blinded her.

I asked her once if she still loved her husband.

"Love is not something you forsake just because somebody is in trouble," she replied. "I'll stick by him as far as I can."

It was difficult to see her other than as a troubled mother—more difficult to believe she had any inkling of the fantastic role her husband has lived.

She was a 26-year-old secretary and he was a jovial and successful middle - aged man of 55 when they married in 1950. Family pictures she showed me reflect her happiness then and her joy as the children arrived. Little Kenneth bears a close facial resemblance to Dr. Spears.

In the furnishings, the family pictures, the children and the very atmosphere of their two-story brick house is told the story of a normal, happy family.

You get the idea that this is what Frances Spears wanted.

Desert Host Tells Of Spears Visit

By BOB WOOD

NEW RIVER, Ariz. (AP) — "I thought he came to rest and relax in this place of solitude. After he left I found a case of hidden dynamite."

Dr. William A. Turska, Arizona naturopath, thus described a two-month visit to his lonely desert home by Dr. Robert Vernon Spears.

Spears, 65-year-old Dallas naturopath, was arrested by FBI agents in Phoenix Wednesday. He had been listed as a passenger on the National Airlines plane which fell into the Gulf of Mexico, killing 42 persons, Nov. 16.

The Civil Aeronautics Board and the Senate Aviation subcommittee are investigating the possibility that this crash and that of National airliner near Bolivia, N.C., Jan. 6 were caused by bombs.

Both Spears and Turska were questioned throughout the day by the FBI. After the interrogation, Turska refused to talk to newsmen. Later, however, he permitted three reporters to interview him at the 5-acre desert retreat.

Th small frame house and what appears to be a clinic are near New River, 40 miles north of Phoenix. The nearest highway is five miles away. One narrow, rocky road leads to the desolate homesite. The nearest neighbor is about one-fourth a mile away.

The dynamite was discovered, Turska said, in a small building near his home. He also said he understood dynamite fuses were found in Spears' luggage after his arrest.

The FBI would neither confirm nor deny the report.

Turska said Spears arrived at the house about Nov. 20.

Turska said he knew nothing about Spears possible connection with the airline crash, "until I heard it on television early this week. We don't get newspapers out here. We are away from all things."

"Dr. Spears spent his time near the 'house,'" said Turska. "He helped me build a patio and a bath. At night we talked. You might call it shop talk. We discussed hypnotism and semantics.

"Dr. Spears was quite familiar with hypnotism. He told me of how he hypnotized his wife during the birth of their two children.

"Dr. Spears never seemed to be under any strain. He never once mentioned the airplane crash. He missed his family and spoke of them often. He never had any company nor did he visit with the neighbors. He knew no one in Phoenix."

Turska said after he realized the seriousness of the situation he contacted an attorney and on his advice whisked Spears to a Phoenix motel. He said he signed the register for Spears, using the assumed name of George Rhodes. The alias, Turska said, was suggested by Spears.

"I signed the register for him because he was a very sick man. He was suffering from flu and bronchitis," Turska added.

A short time later, Turska said, he notified the FBI.

Turska said he first met Spears about eight years ago at a convention in Portland, Ore.

At Portland, U.S. Marshal Paul Kearney said Turska received a five-year suspended sentence in that city on March 24, 1949 for possession of marijuana. Kearney said that last summer, Turska's application for re-instatement of his naturopathic license was denied by the Oregon Board of Naturopaths because of "habitual intemperance and unprofessional conduct."

Turska described Spears as "quite stable." Then he added, "I don't believe he was involved in any bombing."

Spears was questioned again Thursday night for 1½ hours apparently concerning Mrs. Spears' statement released in Dallas. FBI agents again refused to disclose any information. Shortly after 1 a.m., Spears was returned to his cell.

Bank Indictment

Finch Prosecution Nears Final Stage

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The prosecution plowed into the final stages of its massive case in the Finch murder trial today following testimony by a hoodlum that he positively was hired to kill Barbara Jean Finch, not to seduce her.

The state contends Dr. R. Bernard Finch and his red - haired mistress Carole Tregoff paid Jack Cody to kill the tennis - playing surgeon's estranged wife — and that they did the job themselves when Cody failed to go through with the bargain.

The defense suggested Thursday that Cody was approached to get divorce evidence against Mrs. Finch and that Cody bragged he would get it if he had to sleep with the doctor's wife himself.

Cody, 29, bad check passer on leave from the Minneapolis workhouse, heatedly denied this.

"I was hired to kill her, that's all," said Cody, who describes himself as a former dance hall bouncer, butcher, gambling hall shill and ladies' man.

Mrs. Finch, attractive 36-year-old brunette socialite, was shot to death July 18 outside the Finch estate in suburban West Covina. The state contends the crew-cut doctor and his attractive paramour killed Mrs. Finch so she couldn't win a large divorce settlement.

The prosecution also tried to show that Finch probably forged his wife's name to a $3,000 check two months before her battered body, shot once in the back, was found sprawled on the lawn.

Donn E. Mire, a district attorney's handwriting expert, said the signature on the check was copied or traced. And, basing his conclusion on a specimen of the doctor's handwriting, Mire said Finch quite probably was the one who signed his wife's name.

The packed courtroom gasped twice when Mire, by a slip of the tongue, confused the name of Barbara Finch with that of Barbara Graham — executed California murderess whose stormy life and death in the gas chamber was the basis of the film "I Want to Live!"

Mire, who testified during the celebrated murder trial that sent Barbara Graham to her death a few years ago, quickly corrected himself each time with an embarrassed: "I mean Barbara Finch."

But each time Miss Tregoff, once voluptuous but now growing plump after six months of jail food, shuddered noticeably. The second time Barbara Graham's name slipped from Mire's mouth, Miss Tregoff winced and threw a disdainful glance at one of her attorneys, Rexford Eagan, chuckling by her side at the counsel table.

Finch, sitting a few feet away and scribbling on a scratch pad, merely looked up each time and fixed Mire in a cold, blue-eyed stare.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Fred Whichello said the prosecution's case should be finished by early next week.

A Devotional For Today

Thou shalt be his witness unto all men of what thou hast seen and heard. (Acts 22:15.)

PRAYER: O God, I desire a personal mission for Thee. Direct my thoughts in the quiet of these moments to what I can do for Thee today. Help me to serve willingly and gladly, in my home, in my work. Help me to do it the best I can, in the name of Him who taught us to pray, "Our Father who are in heaven . . . Amen."

Lyndon Gaining In Delegate Strength

Joseph Alsop, columnist and magazine writer, notes with some apparent surprise that the Democratic party has acquired a new front-runner in the presidential sweepstakes—if you can call a man with the largest block of delegates already pledged to him a "front-runner" this early in the game.

The man he speaks of is Sen. Lyndon Baines Johnson, senior senator from Texas and leader of the Senate majority of 65 out of a total Senate membership of 100.

Alsop notes that Johnson is "vociferously unavowed," but has solid commitments from over 400 delegates and can reasonably count on over 450 delegates. These figures have been substantiated from other sources, and they are more modest than exaggerated. Some of Johnson's backers say that if he compiles no more than 350 ballots on the first round, he will take the second round with more than 500 votes and win on the third with more than the necessary 761 ballots.

These aren't the maunderings of amateurs, but the opinion of seasoned politicians—a big majority of Sen. Johnson's Democratic colleagues in the Senate, many members of the Democratic House, and the governors of an impressive number of states inside as well as outside the South.

In a TV interview Tuesday morning, California's Democratic Governor Pat Brown, himself a likely "candidate" for the purpose of holding the California delegation in line—and like Sen. Kennedy a Catholic—noted that Sen. Johnson was not an avowed candidate, but spoke of the widespread respect for his influence and ability in all parts of the country.

The Texan has an asset none can match among the aspirants so far announced. He has demonstrated a quality of leadership widely hailed in all parts of the country, by the press of all shades of opinion, and by those who make a business or profession of following political trends. For at least three years and longer he has been the dominant political figure in Washington, possessed of the power and skill to make or break almost any given proposition; but one of the secrets of his strength is that he has used that power sparingly and with discretion, with a view to what was best for the country rather than himself or his party.

At a time of confusion and cross-purposes in government, when at times it seemed different departments were bent on cutting each others' throats, the courage and skill of Lyndon Johnson have made him a marked man, and it isn't after all surprising that his presidential potential is coming to the fore unmistakably. Others talk. Lyndon Johnson acts.

Busy Man Who Finds Time To Do Good

Big Spring will be honored Saturday by the presence of Art Linkletter, who comes here to address the annual YMCA banquet.

It is a testimonial to his immense popularity that when he graciously accepted the invitation to speak that the banquet hall was almost immediately sold out.

That popularity has been richly earned, for Mr. Linkletter has always been a down-to-earth sort of fellow who loves people. It is axiomatic in newspapering that names make news, and Mr. Linkletter has demonstrated a grasp on the counterpart of this truism — nothing entertains people like people.

Through his programs and his writings he has managed to keep alive the simple and basic virtues and the spontaneous homespun good humor so characteristic of America. No wonder his programs have always rated right at the top, and no wonder he has enjoyed continuous sponsorship.

While we salute him for his wholesomeness and his vibrant spirit, we also pay tribute to a man who, though beset with a crushing schedule, still finds time to go about doing good. Too busy to help? Not Art Linkletter!

Common Sense And Common Honesty

WASHINGTON—Seven years have passed since the inauguration of Dwight D. Eisenhower as president of the United States on Jan. 20, 1953. The polls show his popularity to be at a very high point. Irrespective of party, there is a feeling of admiration for the man himself. It is not based so much on official actions taken but on the spirit of conciliation and good will he has manifested in the conduct of national and international policies.

Partisans will naturally differ on whether the Eisenhower administration has been a political success, for, after all, the Republican party has not been strong enough to elect a Republican majority in both houses of Congress for the last six years of the Eisenhower administration. But on the broad issues close to the hearts of the American people—the maintenance of peace and the handling of the recent economic recession—there is today a general vote of confidence in the President's way of steering the ship of state.

IN THE ABSENCE OF concrete proof of why an administration is popular, there are always suppositions—some of them superficial—which do not explain the upward turn of the curve of popularity. One of these is that Mr. Eisenhower suddenly became a full-fledged President when when John Foster Dulles passed away and when Serman Adams resigned. This is an ill-informed view, but it is widely held. Actually, the President would be the first to say that Mr. Dulles was not the inflexible person he was so often described to be. It is being said that Mr. Eisenhower wouldn't have engaged in personal diplomacy had Mr. Dulles lived. But the President went to the "summit" conference in 1955 with Mr. Dulles at his side.

As for Sherman Adams, he did operate the executive staff somewhat differently than it is being carried on today. But the mere change in staff formula could hardly account for the emergence of Mr. Eisenhower as a successful president.

PERHAPS THE REAL REASON is so simple that it is easily overlooked. A president cannot familiarize himself with all the requirements of his job in four years, so it is in the second term that he really begins to feel sure-footed. The advisers who surround a chief executive often overwhelm a President with their intimate knowledge of governmental affairs. A President finds it necessary to rely on subordinates far more in his first term than in his second. This correspondent has watched several Presidents in office and has come to the conclusion that it is more important for a chief executive to possess good judgment, a keen sense of what is right or wrong and the courage to make unpleasant decisions that it is for him to be an expert in governmental affairs.

MR. EISENHOWER HAS MADE mistakes and in some controversies has not always come out on top. But he does have the courage of his convictions. He sticks to principle when there is something fundamental involved. He has learned, of course, that in the legislative world the give-and-take process is sometimes essential to progress. Certainly the Eisenhower personality has been a great asset in maintaining cordial relations between the White House and Congress.

Looking back over the seven years, many people do not realize how difficult the presidency really is for any man who does not have a majority of his own party in Congress. Long after the present generation has passed into history, the Eisenhower tact and good nature, as well as diplomacy, in dealing with Congress will be pointed to as an excellent example of successful co-operation between the two branches of government, especially in international relations.

MR. EISENHOWER hasn't always had the best cabinet personnel, but he has done far more himself to exercise leadership on national as well as international policies than the public generally realizes, and this didn't begin in the second term either. The President has learned by experience, of course, and that's why he asserts himself ar more today than when he first took office. He feels now that he knows the job and that his judgment, based on actual experience with some problems, is as good as that of some of his advisers. He receives a lot of factual information and quickly absorbs it, but in retrospect it will be affirmed by those who have an intimate knowledge of the present administration that President Eisenhower has always been his own master.

Mr. Eisenhower has proved in seven years that a man without a technical knowledge of the many problems of government today can nevertheless conduct himself as an effective leader by the simple process of using common sense and common honesty as his guide.

Already, The Mud Is Flying

WASHINGTON (AP) — Don't worry. It won't happen.

Still, it's nice to think that in the 1960 campaign Democrats and Republicans might operate on a high, nonpartisan plane, relying on logic, sweet reasonableness and the laws of evidence to present their case.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, leader of the Senate Democrats, got into the subject Thursday. He doesn't admit being a presidential candidate although many observers feel this is more a matter of tactics than modesty.

He said in Chicago that both major political parties must rise above partisanship when America's very heartland is within range of "instantaneous and devastating enemy attack."

BUT ABOUT THE SAME time, former President Truman, who never suffered from a political impediment in his speech, was telling reporters here:

"I've always liked Ike but I don't think he made a good president." Then, after stating confidently the next president would be a Democrat, he asked: "What more do you want for the welfare of the country?"

Only last week President Eisenhower got irritated when a reporter raised a question: Whether there was political partisanship when Democrats and Republicans talked about the defense program, since the former criticize and the latter defend.

Said Eisenhower: "I don't take it kindly—the implied accusation that I am dealing with the whole matter of defense on a partisan basis. I don't have to be partisan."

WHILE EISENHOWER could remain nonpartisan on matters of defense — although some question can be raised whether all the members of his administration are —the Republicans in Congress weren't being carried away by the idea of political nobility.

On the contrary. A few days after Eisenhower spoke out, Republicans in the House—where all seats are up for grabs next November—began a series of attacks on the ability of the Democratic party to meet the challenge of the 1960s.

Their leader, Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana, even went so far as to pride himself on the "togetherness" of the Republicans while casting doubt on the ability of the Democrats to face the issues.

Of all the men in both parties the two who can least afford to show either nonpartisanship or togetherness are Paul M. Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and Kentucky's Sen. Thruston B. Morton, chairman of the Republicans.

The whole purpose of their job is to make their own side look good and the other awful. It was in this spirit that Butler recently gave an opinion on Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the most likely Republican presidential candidate.

Butler said Nixon "is a smart, shrewd, devious political operator." On the subject of the United States and where it stands after seven years of the Eisenhower administration, Butler said:

"We are a second-rate nation, second to Russia militarily."

And Morton's response, while predictable, could hardly be called nonpartisan: "I am getting sick and tired of all these implications about the vice president being devious.

"I think it is a disservice to go around talking about the United States being a second-rate power."

Since Democrats and Republicans so far have hardly climbed into the 1960 ring, still have their bathrobes on and haven't had a chance to warm up, the few preliminaries just recorded seem to foreshadow a lively evening.

Croppers About Coppers

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that policemen get tired of hearing—or overhearing:

"Don't try to push me around, sonny. I've got friends at city hall."

"Officer, would you mind watching my child while I go into this store? I won't be gone but a minute."

"First of all, let's just get one thing straight: Are you a public servant or not?"

"What if I did belt her one? She's my wife—not yours."

"He couldn't be very smart. He's still on foot."

"Do you have any idea whom you are arresting?"

"Where do you fellows hide out? You can never find a policeman when you really need one."

"Why aren't you out catching bank robbers instead of annoying law abiding citizens?"

"Whaddaya mean I was doing 70? If this buggy ever got over 50, the engine will fall out."

"I was halfway across the street when the light turned red."

"You must be mistaken, officer. My boy wouldn't do a thing like that."

"Do you guys get a medal for handing out the most parking tickets?"

"I tell you it was those new cold tablets that made me woozy. I haven't had a drink since New Year's Eve."

"There's a ten spot in it for you if you just forget all about it."

"Somebody must have pushed my car closer to that fire hydrant. I was 20 feet away when I parked it."

"He wouldn't talk so tough without that badge and gun."

"I bought five tickets to the policeman's ball, and this is the reward I get."

"Please don't give me a ticket, officer. My dad will never let me drive the car again."

"What stop sign? I thought it was a shaving cream ad."

"Give a guy a whistle and a tin badge and right away he thinks he's Napoleon."

"When's the last time you paid for an apple?"

Go West, Young Man

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — For some reason, it's 30 per cent more dangerous to drive eastward in Connecticut than it is to drive westward.

State police say they don't know why, but in a nine month period 543 traffic accidents involved eastbound cars, 417 westbound. The averages have held up over several years, they say.

Talked Into Trouble

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Frank McKulsky, 15, stepped into a telephone booth at a drugstore to call his girl friend.

A half hour later McKulsky placed the receiver back on the hook, and noticed he was the only one in the drugstore. All the doors were locked.

McKulsky called police who in turn brought the owner back to the store to free the youth.

To Your Good Health

Afternoon Nap Would Help Most Of Us

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What makes me sleepy in the afternoon? As soon as I put my little boy to bed for his nap (he's 3) just like a clock I fall off to sleep for half an hour. When I wake up my first thought is food. Any information will be appreciated.—Mrs. F. C."

In the first place a half hour nap in the afternoon is good for you. It would be good if business men could arrange the same. In some countries, where the siesta is popular, they do.

A few decades ago in this country it wasn't unusual for "papa" (if he lived close enough to his office or store or work) to go home for dinner at noon and drop off for a short snooze.

It's far better, from the health standpoint, than the custom which is common in some quarters of having four martinis for lunch and being drowsy the rest of the day!

Anyway, to get back to you, taking care of an active 3-year-old consumes a lot of energy. Why not take the nap and be glad you feel like having one?

Of course it's quite possible that you are nipping your night's sleep a bit short, and this is a way of catching up.

Your weariness and desire for food may be due to a low blood sugar. Do you eat lunch? Skipping breakfast may contribute to this. If your weight is normal, then why worry about it. If you are troubled with excess heft, then I'd suggest that you try to get in the habit of settling for a raw carrot, or some celery, or a wedge cut from a head of lettuce, or maybe an apple, or something like that (low calories) to give you something to nibble on, but not add pounds.

The probability is that the business of waking up thinking about food is just a habit. Then again, if you are on the slim side, and use up a lot of energy keeping track of that little boy of yours, it may be nature's way of remind you that you need some more food-energy.

Yet again, you may well be one of those people who push themselves, get "too busy to eat." Then, after the nap, you are relaxed and ready for food.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What is the difference between multiple sclerosis and epilepsy? Doctors say I have epilepsy which causes me to black out periodically. I have undergone several tests and even had brain-wave tests. Is there any cure for epilepsy? —Anxious."

Multiple sclerosis attacks certain parts of the nervous system, destroying a particular type of tissue. Epilepsy, on the other hand, does not destroy tissue. Rather, there is some lack of exact control over the brain center which controls muscular activity. We can't rightly say that there is a "cure" for epilepsy, but a very large number of cases are controlled by giving the right combination and amount of drugs known as anti-convulsants—that is, drugs which prevent convulsions, which, after all, is what epilepsy amounts to—heavy convulsions in some cases, very small ones in others.

Anyway, there are thousands of people with epilepsy who, because of these drugs, haven't had an attack for years.

Around The Rim

Swastika Outbreak Is Not Trivial

ALL THIS SWASTIKA business reminds me of my old buddy overseas.

His name was Stanley Reichenberg, and, with the typical humor of the Hebrew, he described himself as "a German Jew from the Italian section of Harlem."

He was such a right guy that he more than offset the effects of another Jew—fella by name of Greenberg who was a rifleman in the company for which we served as medical aidmen. Greenberg was a goldbrick who tried the old dodge of a simulated backache trying to get a medical discharge (and he finally got one, but it was a Section 8).

It was with some emotion that Reichenberg one day told Greenberg he was a disgrace not only to his fellow Jews but to the human race. (That's not what he actually said, of course, but I couldn't quote things like that in a family newspaper.)

After we came home from Korea, Reichenberg and I corresponded frequently (he was called "de toid Reich" and he called me "you lame-brain Texan"). Then, he got to thinking he might like to emigrate to Texas, and he asked me how Jews were treated out here in the wilderness.

AND IT WAS HERE that I goofed. I assumed my old buddy's sense of humor was as irreverent as ever, so I told him to come ahead, since Texans ate Jews for breakfast, etc.

Maybe I overdid it, for it wasn't long before his letters cooled, in spite of my rather lame apologies, and soon I heard no more from him.

All of which gives us our thought for today: Some of this swastika business is done by pranksters as a joke rather than by people with sick minds. So, if you think it'd be a lark to pick on a group of people who have known ghettos and gas ovens, think again.

Their sense of humor is great, but it has its human limitations.

I should know.

WE RECENTLY had a concise series (AP) on railroad featherbedding, followed by an intelligently written letter to the editor from a railroad union member.

There are some union practices I've never approved of, but when it comes to featherbedding the cab of a truck or locomotive, there is but one thought that pops into my head:

There once was a train that went through a series of frantic signals, with a dead engineer (heart attack) leaning on the throttle; the train plunged off a washed-out bridge and dozens of people were killed.

There was no one else in the cab of the locomotive.

Easy About Counting Eggs

Many foresighted friends who are already planning to attend the inauguration of Richard Nixon as President of the United States next January may, by that time, be in for a bit of a surprise.

There could be a change in the cast of characters not because the steel settlement can boomerang, or because in the beginning of his political career he was often a young man in too much of a hurry to observe the niceties of fair conduct or for any of a dozen other charges cherished by his opponents.

But it does occur to me that this "new and fantastic weapon" announced by Premier Khrushchev a fortnight ago could not only unhorse the vice president but any Republican connected with the present administration.

I DO NOT DOUBT for a moment that such a weapon is about to enter the Communist arsenal. It has not been Khrushchev's habit in the past to boast about such matters unless he had the goods. He has well and truly learned from Adolf Hitler that the surest method of rousing skepticism and raucous unbelief in the West is to announce in advanee exactly what he intends to do.

Hitler drew a blueprint, annotated and publicized it, and the West almost died laughing. Khrushchev has adopted the same tactics. And, sure enough, experience having taught the West very little, we are not attempting to conceal our grins.

Khrushchev's announcement of this new, formidable and "fantastic" weapon was the sure and predictable signal for the soft soap to start pouring out of Washington. We mustn't get hysterical (President Eisenhower's theme song in such moments).

THEN THE OFFICIAL LINE out of Washington was to poof-poof the announcement as merely Khrushchev's means of (1) tightening the threat to Berlin and (2) sounding-off to intimidate the summit conference next May.

I have seen no stories out of Washington, or any place else, come to think of it, seriously speculating on what kind or type of new, deadly weapon is in preparation in the U.S.S.R. But I have heard a good bit of intelligent speculation in private, and none of it very comforting.

Maybe if the Soviets unveil a new weapon, powerful and actually threatening to the United States in such an unmistakable way that even the most self-indulgent can understand, the United States will finally acknowledge that it has slipped to second place in modern armaments because it preferred creature comforts to national honor and safety.

NEITHER SPUTNIK, MUTTNIK nor lunik had the force to rouse us Americans out of our preoccupation with pleasant living and pleasure, per se. They touched neither our pride nor our fear for the future. Even when the U.S.S.R. sent up a payload of 3,000 pounds, even when it had the tremendous technical skills to photograph the other side of the moon, we shrugged it off, from the least taxpayer to the highest government officials.

But if the U.S.S.R. unveils a menacing weapon based on its primacy in space, and there is a considerable body of informed private thought that she may, it could jolt us out of our complacency. It could induce a national revulsion at an administration that, in the words of the columnist's columnist, Walter Lippmann, "puts private comfort and private consumption ahead of national need" and believes "that affluence is greatness."

No, I am not going to make any reservations for Mr. Nixon's inauguration until the newest Soviet weapon is unveiled. It could not only end American complacency but quite a variety of political careers. God grant these are the only items to which it writes "finis."

The Gallup Poll

Poll Shows No Evidence Of More Anti-Semitism

PRINCETON, N. J.—One bit of evidence that there is no widespread anti-Semitism in this country comes from the Gallup Poll's regular check on prejudice in politics.

The poll results support the contention that the current rash of synagogue defacings and other anti-Jewish acts are largely the work of hoodlums or pranksters.

The Gallup Poll periodically attempts to measure the amount of prejudice in the political realm by asking the public how they would feel about voting for a Catholic for President, a Jew, a woman, a Negro, and an Atheist.

A recent report showed that about seven out of 10 Americans, for example, would have no objection to voting for their party's candidate if he happened to be a Roman Catholic.

ABOUT THE SAME proportion also indicate that they would support a Jewish candidate. If anything, tolerance toward a Jewish nominee has increased over the last year.

In October, 1958, 62 per cent of the U. S. public said they would vote for a Jewish candidate, while today the figure is 72 per cent.

Gallup Poll reporters asked this question of a cross-section of American adults in which there was the proper representation by religious faith:

"If your party nominated a generally well qualified man for President who happened to be a Jew, would you vote for him?"

Here are the current results compared with those obtained in late 1958:

VOTE FOR A JEW?

	Today	Oct., 1958
	Per cent
Yes, would	22	62
No, would not	22	28
Don't know	6	10

Analysis of the survey data shows that in all major population groups, a majority of persons would have no objecting to voting for a member of the Jewish faith. There are variations, however, particularly by age and by education.

Younger persons are considerably less prejudiced than older people and persons with a college background are more tolerant than those who attended only grade school.

Differences by men and women are very slight, but a person's religious faith is a factor. Persons of the Catholic faith are more tolerant on the Jewish question than are Protestants.

Here are the figures:

VOTE FOR A JEW?

	Yes	No	Don't know
	Per cent
College	82	17	1
High School	76	18	6
Grade School	58	32	10
21-29 years	79	16	5
30-40 years	74	20	6
50 & over	66	27	7
Men	70	24	6
Women	73	20	7
Protestants	66	27	7
Catholics	81	13	6

Hot Salesman

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP) — A fire extinguisher distributor was present during the lunch hour when a short-circuited wire caused a small fire at a restaurant here.

He rushed to his car, grabbed a demonstration model and put out the fire. Two businessmen who were present were sufficiently impressed to place orders with him.

Rare Wolf Sighted

JACKSON, Wyo. (AP) — The first sighting of a gray wolf in Wyoming in more than 20 years was reported this winter.

The last known gray wolf was reported in Wyoming in 1936.

Discusses Grooming

Joan Tabor, who started her career as a model, says she learned that glamour is the result of perfect grooming and attention to every detail. She is soon to be seen in CBS-TV's "Tightrope."

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Grooming, Make-Up Important To Her

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — Joan Tabor was being scolded by the cameraman on the "Tightrope" set because she was so deeply tanned. "I couldn't help it," she told me later.. "When we were on location in the Philippines I couldn't escape the sun.

"I like to keep a tan; it's more becoming to me. When I was modeling in New York, I had a sun lamp, but I always used a lotion so I would tan evenly," she added.

I told Joan that I felt she had been a model by the attention she paid to small details.

"You are right. There is nothing too small to be neglected. I check my eyebrows, my nails, and I'm meticulous about my make-up. I also keep a hand-mirror so that before I go out, I look at the back of my hair for that is as important as the front.

"When I have an especially busy day, I take several pairs of white gloves with me so I always have a clean pair," Joan revealed.

"A mistake many women make is not checking their make-up in the proper light. You can't expect to look the same under an electric light as in the sunlight. You can use more make-up at night than in the daytime.

"I accent my eyes and minimize the rest of my make-up. I like the liquid eye-liner much more than a pencil. I apply this with a brush and it stays on perfectly until I wash it off. But it took practice to get a neat line just the width I wanted."

Joan suggests that teen-agers take time to learn how to use the new type of make-up before wearing it for an occasion.

"Try to find a model," Joan advises, "with eyes shaped like yours; study what she has done and try to copy it. You can't be sure what is right or wrong for you unless you experiment. But I think once a woman becomes an expert in enhancing her eyes with make-up, she'll get many compliments."

FOR FIDO

Togs For Your Dog; A New Sewing Fad

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Now that dogs have become as fashion-conscious as people, fond dog-owners are taking up Fido sewing.

Togs for dogs are the latest fad for some seamstresses, who have found that making dog clothes is as much fun for adults as making doll clothes is for little girls.

Felt, wool flannel or corduroy are suitable fabrics for dog coats. You also can make a doggy raincoat of plastic fabric — this latter idea has its practical side, because it keeps Fido from shaking rainwater all over the rug when he comes in from his constitutional.

The coats may be lined if the dog lives in a cold climate.

You can make the dog coats from a standard pattern, available at most pattern departments in stores throughout the country.

One has a contrasting felt collar, pockets and bow trim. The other achieves a sporty look with gaily checked bias binding.

The measurement for a dog coat is taken along the dog's spine, from the collar bone at the back of his neck to the base of his tail.

Included with the printed pattern is a complete chart of fabric yardages required for dogs of all sizes. The coat requires four buttons or hammer-on snaps. If a hood is added to the coat, two smaller buttons are needed.

Your dog will be king of the neighborhood in a new custom-made coat, which may be personalized with his name.

Feb. 4 the meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Cecil Long.

Love Is Theme Of Luncheon

Love was the theme of the luncheon held by the Berta Beckett Sunday school class of the First Baptist Church Thursday.

After an invocation by Mrs. Theo Andrews and a covered dish luncheon brought by the 12 members present, Mrs. J. P. Dodge brought a devotion on "Love." Her text was 1 Cor. 12.

A duet, Mrs. F. W. Bettle and Mrs. Leroy Hollingshead, sang "Love Lifted Me" and "Wonderful Love."

Gold and white was the color scheme of the luncheon, and an arrangement of gold grapes and foliage filled a gold urn on the center of a white cloth.

On Feb. 18 the group will meet for another luncheon at the church.

Stay On That Diet! Spring Styles Will Show Off Figure

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK, (AP)—Sex is here to stay, says Oleg Cassini, explaining the purpose of his spring collection to 250 weary editors coming down the home stretch of a crowded week of fashion showings.

Cassini's clothes for 1960 were inspired by the Venus de Milo, he says, and should give the Venus look to any woman who wears them. From trim, covered-up career-girl outfits in discreet sheer woods and slub silks to daringly revealing after-five dresses, his new fashions are designed to glorify the female form.

"What other reason is there for a dress?" asks Cassini.

Many of his new daytime dresses, slender and closely fitted, utilize black braid binding and crisp white dickey or bib fronts. Cocktail and evening dresses are likely to have peekaboo cutouts in the region of the bosom.

Pauline Trigere presents dramatic proof that a good dress never goes out of style with a parade of favorite designs from her collections of the past 10 years, any one of which would look correct today, with minor adjustments of length. She herself wears a bronze beaded sheath made in 1953, just to accentuate her point.

Trigere's spring collection features capelike "canopy" sleeves, which end at the elbow or above, giving a new look to dresses, suits and coats.

In addition to her usual group of classically simple but elegant clothes, she has a number of innovations. One is the maypole skirt, made of separate panels attached to a belt and worn over a contrasting dress beneath. An example is a dress of white striped surah, over which is worn, a black bolero and maypole skirt. The dress may be worn alone, with the bolero, or with both bolero and overskirt for three different outfits.

Mollie Parnis features the "swagger silhouette" for spring—a slender but carefully shaped style with width at the top achieved through funnel sleeves. Skirts stress front fullness and the whole collection has an air of ease.

Jane Derby makes news with her "ten pin silhouette" — a smoothly rounded bodice over a tapered, stemlike skirt. Sensation of her collection is a pair of sequinned dinner pajamas priced at $900.

Says the designer: "not extravagant, because these pajamas need not stay at home; they can go out to dinner."

Playing in east-west position, Mrs. D. W. Wall and Mrs. George McCann were first; Mrs. Murhl Ruhl and Mrs. Leroy Bruflat, second; Mrs. Rogers Hefley and Sue Nelson, third; Mrs. John Stone and Mrs. Ben McCullough, fourth.

Civil Defense Is Highlight Of Meet For Airport P-TA

Civil defense was the topic of the Airport P-TA program Thursday evening. R. R. Black was the guest speaker.

The national level of civil defense was explained first, and then Black told how the state of Texas operated its civil defense program. On the local level he explained what families should do in case of an alert.

The meeting was opened with a devotion by Roy Phemister, minister of the West Highway 80 Church of Christ.

A letter was read by Mrs. Delbert Harland which gave the resignation of Mrs. Harold Woods as treasurer. Mrs. Woods has moved out of the district. Mrs. William J. Priebe was elected to serve the remainder of the term.

Mothers will make their march on polio Jan. 28. Coffee will be served for the workers in the school auditorium at the close of the march.

Clara Bolliner, third grade teacher, won the door prize, while Nancy Smith's second grade class won the room count.

Another growth came from El Paso where the Trinity Church has sold its property for a move to a new residential area.

The Rev. Harold Odum, First Presbyterian Church of San Angelo, was moderator for the meeting. The moderator nominee for the next presbytery meeting June 7 in Midland is the Rev. Dan Goodwin, St. Andrews Church of Midland.

In other business, the presbytery took in the Rev. John Moody who is organizing the Church of the Covenant at Midland. Two candidates for the ministry were taken under the care of the presbytery. They are David Holsinger, First Presbyterian Church of San Angelo, and Paul Cato, First Presbyterian Church of Odessa.

Dr. Tom Brewster of Fort Stockton announced his retirement from the ministry. He has served the church 45 years and has been minister of the First Presbyterian Church at Fort Stockton. He will make his home in San Angelo.

Others from this area attending the meeting were the Rev. Al Seddon, pastor of the St. Paul Presbyterian Church here, and Capt. Nolan Young. From Coahoma were the Rev. Louis Petnecky and Frank Loveless. Attending with Dr. Lloyd was L. Dalton Mitchell.

Baptist Dinner Set For Sunday

First Baptist members will gather Sunday at 1 p.m. in the Dora Roberts Student Union Building for their Loyalty Dinner. All will be guests of the church and every member is urged to attend.

The dinner is a prelude to the intensive stewardship campaign upon which the church will embark next week.

This will be an informational affair, church leaders said, and emphasized that it will not be an occasion for solicitation.

"By having the church family together," said Roy Reeder, chairman of the board of deacons, "we hope to be able to bring out many phases of our stewardship campaign which will be vital in the life of our church immediately and in the future."

Several lay leaders will be on the program to tell of plans for the stewardship contacts. By sounding a call to renewed stewardship, the church hopes to lay the ground work for a new church plant sometime in the future.

The Converting Power of the Gospel

HOW THE GOSPEL IS ABLE TO CHANGE LIVES OF ALL KINDS

Scripture—Acts 15:36—16:40; Philippians 2:12-18.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

OUR LESSON opens with the apostles gathered together in Antioch in Northern Syria, and narrates a disagreement between two of the apostles which caused them to separate.

Some days after Paul returned from his first missionary journey with Barnabas, telling the apostles about their experiences on it, "Paul said unto Barnabas, Let us go again and visit our brethren in every city where we have preached the word of the Lord, and see how they do."—Acts 15:36.

Barnabas agreed, but was determined to take John Mark with them. To this Paul would not agree. After some contention between the two, they parted company, Barnabas taking Mark, and Paul taking Silas, who had been approved by the brethren. Mark, you may remember, when on a previous journey, left his companions and "went not with them to the work."—Acts 15:37-38.

Paul and Silas "went through Syria and Cilicia, confirming the churches."—Acts 15:41.

The first person they met was named Timotheus, a disciple, the son of a Jewess who believed, "but his father was a Greek, . . . Him would Paul have to go forth with him . . . . And as they went through the cities, they delivered them the decrees for to keep, that were ordained of the apostles and elders which were at Jerusalem. And so were the churches established in the faith, and increased in number daily."—Acts 16:1-5.

They went throughout Phrygia and the region of Galatia, but the Holy Ghost forbade them to preach the Word in Asia.

In Troas Paul had a vision in the night of a man from Macedonia who said, "Come over into Macedonia, and help us." So they went, feeling "that the Lord had called us for to preach the Gospel unto them."—Acts 16:9-10.

Leaving Troas they went to Neapolis and then to Philippi. On the Sabbath they went out of the city by the river side to pray, and they sat down and talked to the women there. There they met a woman named Lydia, "a seller of purple, of the city of Thyatira," who had listened to Paul and was baptized, she and her household.

Then they encountered a woman who was supposed to have "a spirit of divination," in other words, a fortune teller. She kept following them, crying, "These men are the servants of the Most High God, which shew them unto the way of salvation."—Acts 16:17.

This irritated Paul, and he called out: "I command thee in the name of Jesus Christ to come out of her. And (the spirit) came out the same hour."

When her masters, who had been receiving much money from her calling, saw this, they caught Paul and Silas and took them before the rulers, who had them beaten, apparently without a trial, and cast into prison.

In the prison their feet were put in stocks. "And at midnight Paul and Silas prayed, and sang praises unto God: and the prisoners heard them."—Acts 16:24-25.

Suddenly there was a great earthquake. The foundation of the prison was shaken and the doors flew open. The keeper of the prison was about to commit suicide, but Paul cried out that no one had escaped. So the man called for a light and, falling down before Paul and Silas, asked them what he should do to be saved. "And they said, believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house."—Acts 16:31.

Then the prison keeper washed their wounds and took them to his house and gave them food. When day came the magistrates sent messages to let the men go, and the keeper of the prison told them to go in peace. Paul, however, said he had been beaten and jailed without trial, and that since they were Romans, they should "come themselves and fetch us out."

When the magistrates heard that these men were Romans, they were afraid. "And they came and besought them to depart out of the city. And they went out of the prison, and entered into the house of Lydia: and when they had seen the brethren, they comforted them, and departed."—Acts 16:33-40.

In his concluding words on the lesson the Rev. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith writes: "Out of this particular lesson in which we have studied a number of remarkable conversions, we should remember one basic truth, and that is, that it was this same Gospel of the Grace of God, of salvation through Jesus Christ, which changed each one of these men and women, and this same Gospel is still the only power that can really transform men and women from within and make them new creatures." Let us ponder this lesson and seek to let its truths help us to nobler lives.

Grandma Moses Found Answer In Own Hands

Grandma Moses, long before she became famous for her paintings, had finahcial struggles. It was the year 1903 and she and her husband, Thomas, had just moved to a little farm outside the city limits of Staunton, Va. Because her husband's name was Moses, they thought a great deal about the old Patriarch who had led the children out of Egypt and they named the place Mount Nebo because that was where Moses disappeared.

"We might disappear, too, if Thomas doesn't get something to do pretty soon," Grandma thought. She was in the kitchen getting the supper meal for the The 20 acres of this farm were not large enough to feed and clothe a family of five. "But, Lord," she found herself saying aloud, "there ought to be something I can do. I wish you'd show me."

She found herself staring at her hands, thinking of what God said to Moses before the burning bush, and the words that the Lord had spoken to Moses rang sharp and clear in her mind:

"What is that in thine hand?"

She looked at her hands. She had nothing there, just a big old potato, what on earth could a person do with a thing as simple as that? She laid it aside and continued getting the supper, but the potato continued to stick in her mind like a burr in the cow's tail.

It was the middle of the night when the inspiration came. She slipped out of bed and went into the kitchen where she pared three potatoes and put them to soak. The next morning she was up early, slicing them thin and frying them in hot lard. Then sacking them, she called her son.

"Lloyd, run down to the grocer, find out what he will give me in trade for these potato chips." There was a breathlessness in her voice.

Still breathless and half fearful she watched him return. He burst in the door all smiles. "Twenty-five cents," he announced importantly, "and he wants two more pounds right away." Soon she was selling them by the barrel, not only to him, but nearby towns. "Ask and it shall be given!" (Matt. 7:7).

Give God A Chance—God Will Open Doors For You!

CHAINS

These hands might have painted the world's greatest masterpiece. These hands might have played faultlessly the most difficult concerto. These hands might have mixed a compound that would destroy disease. These hands might have been raised in blessing over a trusting mankind.

Instead they are chained. Somewhere, somehow, they failed. Perhaps they reached over a counter and stealthily snatched a jewel. Perhaps they searched a safe and took what other hands had worked for. Perhaps they held the gun that wiped out a life. Somewhere they went wrong. Somewhere they failed.

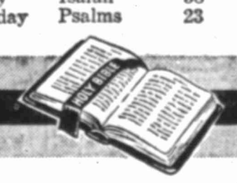

Hands do not act by themselves. Personalities control them—personalities swayed by impulses and convictions, good and bad. The Church, your Church, is waiting to guide hands, minds, hearts and lives. Here good impulses, right convictions are born and nurtured. Here, in God's House, hands learn to move aright to find life's work, unchained and triumphant.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Freshman Hopefuls At HCJC

Jayhawks Host HSU At 8:00 Tonight

Buddy Travis' Howard County Junior College Jayhawks will seek to improve upon a 14-2 won-lost basketball record in an 8 o'clock game with the HSU Buttons here this evening.

Numbered among the Hawks' victims this year is HSU. The Hawks beat the Buttons, 86-74, in Abilene back in December.

However, the Abilene Baptists have come a long way since that time. Over the season, they've won eight of 14 starts.

In their previous game, the Hawks couldn't slow Barry Oxford, the Fort Worth youngster who originally planned to attend the local school.

Oxford canned 25 points and succeeded in keeping the Buttons in contention all the way.

Others who will probably play for HSU tonight are Richard Lowe, 6-2½, from Garland; Nicky Wilson, 6-1, from Lipan; Pat DeBusk, 5-11½, from Burkett; Ward Piper, 5-11, Corpus Christi; Danny Tankersly, 6-2, Snyder; Mickey Wolfe, 6-2, Carlsbad, N. M.; and Jackie Barron, 6-6, Granbury.

Among the Buttons' victims this season are South Plains JC of Levelland, a West Zone foe of the Hawks; and Cisco JC, which also lost to HCJC in a practice tilt.

Coach Travis will probably start a lineup composed of tall Tom Garrison, Tulia; Harold Henson, Meadow; Larry Cruise, Pampa; Jimmy Evans, Big Spring; and Robert Shirey, Lovington, N. M.

Carlos Berry, a former star athlete of Lamesa High School, is coach of the the HSU freshmen.

The Hawks haven't seen action for ten days now, having been busy with mid-term examinations.

Coach Travis reasons his charges need this outing, what with a tough West Zone encounter coming up with Odessa in Odessa next Tuesday.

HCJC has lost only to Navarro and San Angelo College this season.

The locals have defeated San Angelo twice, Decatur, Panola, Amarillo, Schreiner, Del Mar, Wharton, Tarleton State, Temple, Cisco, Clarendon and Victoria, in addition to HSU.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

There's very little doubt but what Midland will win it all in District 2-AAAA basketball this season.

I'm of the opinion, however, that Vernon Harton of Big Spring has accomplished the coaching job of the season in the conference.

When the Steers lost Bill Thompson, now at Rice, last May, there were very few who would concede them anything but a cellar finish in 2-AAAA.

However, the Steers enjoyed good foraging in non-conference pastures and then proceeded to win two of their first three conference starts.

The Longhorns have met mighty Midland twice this season and haven't been disgraced on either occasion. Fact is, they made the tree-top tall Bulldogs hustle all the way for their victories.

Harton has a great appetite for basketball. He's looked at films of one of the Big Spring-Midland games until he's practically cross-eyed, trying to figure out something that will work against Bob Todd's Bulldogs.

He's caused Zay LeFevre to blossom into one of the two or three best players in District 2-AAAA, when there are those who said that Zay would 'never do' as a player.

Harton has been plagued by a short bench all season but he's overcome that shortcoming but teaching his boys how to play without excessive fouling.

Right now, his team is within three wins of their entire victory output for 1958-59 and the Bovines still have seven games to play—four of them at home.

The man deserves a pat on the back.

* * * *

Harton says there's no doubt but what the Steers' trip to the Nacogdoches tournament in December had a lot to do with causing the Steers to jell.

Vernon says the boys met some of the state's toughest teams down there and his boys were not long in finding that they could match shots with the best of them.

* * * *

Milby of Houston, which defeated Big Spring in the first round of the Nacogdoches tournament, loses its two best boys—Don Eckelman and Pete Duran—at midterm.

Eckelman, 6-feet-5, was an all-state performer last year.

* * * *

The football players of Louisiana State University definitely were against playing in the Sugar Bowl game at New Orleans again last Jan. 1 but were lured into the rematch with Ole Miss with an attractive ticket deal.

They each had the privilege of selling a specified number of the ducats, proceeds from which they could retain themselves.

* * * *

Charles Trippi, the former Georgia backfield great, was offered a backfield coaching job at the University of Miami but he turned it down.

* * * *

Luis Rodriquez, the bright new face in welterweight boxing circles, says the fact that he stays relentlessly on the attack in his bouts is the result of a psychological gimmick in training.

He trains for 20-round fights. Consequently, when he gets in a ten-rounder, he feels the match will be over too soon, so he pours everything into every round he fights.

Aragon Is Beaten By Al Gutierrez

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Art Aragon, the "Golden Boy" of California boxing, went out Thursday night like the champion he never became.

Aragon, a boxer for half his 32 years, said he would quit if he lost this one to Alvaro Gutierrez, a tough Mexican. He lost.

Art was bloody, bushed and beaten when Referee Tommy Hart stopped it in the ninth round. But if his competence was gone, his courage persisted. He was ready to go on.

Lee, Goliad Vie In Tourney Game

SAN ANGELO (SC)—Goliad of Big Spring and Lee of San Angelo clash in the first round of the San Angelo Junior High School basketball tournament at 1 p.m. here today.

Lee is a heavy favorite to cop the title. The Angelo team has been beaten only once in 11 starts this season.

In other first round games, Snyder and San Angelo Lake View were to clash at 9 a.m., Lincoln of Abilene was to play Brownwood at 10:30 p.m. and Sweetwater meets San Angelo Edison at 2:30 p.m.

Should Big Spring win its opener, it plays again at 1 p.m. Saturday. The other semi-final game is down for 2:30 p.m. tomorrow.

A loss to Lee would see Goliad into the consolation semi-finals against the loser of the Snyder-Lake View game at 9 a.m. Saturday.

Goliad has already lost two games to Lee by scores of 32-22 and 44-29.

Lincoln of Abilene is favored to oppose Lee in the Saturday night finals.

Lee defeated San Angelo Edison, 34-25, in the finals of last year's tournament.

Leahy Is Still In Need Of 2 Votes In NFL

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—It was "here we go again" as the National Football League club owners resumed their efforts today to elect a commissioner to succeed the late Bert Bell.

Fourteen ballots and 36 hours after the first poll was taken the meeting was adjourned late Thursday night with the situation as unresolved as it was at the beginning.

The fact that when the second day of the session was completed the vote was exactly the same as it was 24 hours earlier, indicates the 12 men involved not only are good men and true, but also good and stubborn.

The 14th and final ballot Thursday night showed Marshall Leahy, the San Francisco barrister, with seven votes; Don Kellett, Baltimore general manager, with four, and one abstention. Nine votes are necessary to elect.

The only interruption in the monotonous campaigning and balloting were brief time outs to listen to salesmen's pitches and to skim over six proposed minor rule changes. The only proposal accepted was that nylon cleats with metal cleats be considered legal equipment.

During these intervals Joe Donoghue, vice president of the Philadelphia Eagles and league treasurer, was placed by chairman by Acting Commissioner Austin H. Gunsel. The owners two-platooned their chairmen, but still couldn't get anywhere.

Gunsel, as a candidate, cannot preside while the business of electing a commissioner is in progress.

The situation seems so hopelessly deadlocked that some unusual move may be made to clear up the matter and allow the owners to get on with other business, including the all-important expansion problem.

Art Rooney of the Pittsburgh Steelers indicated he might make a motion that Gunsel be retained on a year's trial basis.

George Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins and the most vocal of the lot, hinted there were two other possible moves. He said the meeting could be adjourned without the election of a commissioner, in which case Gunsel and the front office staff would continue in their executive capacities until the next annual meeting.

The other would be to recess the meeting, in which case the owners could be reconvened in a few weeks or months to resume their efforts to break the current stalemate.

The Bears once again will receive the special tutoring of All-Pro End Raymond Berry, of the World Champion Baltimore Colts, pro football's leading pass receiver, Bridgers announced. Berry assisted in spring football coaching at Baylor last April.

Steers Visit Abilene For 2-4A Tilt Tonight

Two teams now deadlocked for second place in District 2-AAAA basketball standing, Abilene and Big Spring, come to grips in Abilene at 8 o'clock this evening.

The quintets have each won two times in three conference starts. Abilene has knocked off Permian of Odessa and Odessa High while losing to Midland.

Big Spring has shelled Permian and San Angelo and has lost to Midland.

Midland buried Abilene under a 69-47 score. The Bulldogs had to hustle before flattening Big Spring, 66-52.

Big Spring edged by Permian, 72-67, a short time after Abilene had trounced the Panthers by three points. The Steers last Tuesday flogged a crippled San Angelo team, 68-58.

Big Spring will carry a 16-6 won-lost record onto the floor tonight. Abilene has lost only three games in 20 starts.

Outside of Midland, Abilene has lost only to Dallas Hillcrest (65-51) and South San Antonio (76-60). The Eagles later avenged the Hillcrest defeat, winning, 77-72.

The loser tonight can just about count itself out of the running for the 2-AAAA championship, not that any team in the conference is given much chance against front running Midland.

Probable starters for Big Spring tonight are the LeFevre twins, Zay and Jay, Homer Mills, Bobby Evans and Rex Appleton.

Zay leads the team in scoring with 341 points. That averages out to 15.5 points a game. Jay has tallied 308 points, Mills (who missed the first two games of the season) 268, Evans 212, Appleton 155, Arlen Bryant 55, Tonnie Hamby four, George Ryan three and Dick Ebling two.

Probable starters for the Eagles are Clayton Brooks, Jim Bray, Larry McElyea, Rick Harvey and Kirby Pugh.

All five Big Spring starters are seniors and all members of the Abilene team but Pugh are in the final year of eligibility. Pugh is a junior.

Bray is 6-feet-5 and was the leading scorer in the conference until last Tuesday, when he was limited to seven points (two field goals) by Midland. Zay LeFevre took over as the scorer leader with 74 points.

Brooks stands an even six feet, McElyea 6-2, Harvey 6-3 and Pugh 6-4. Larry Poyner, another senior who will see liberal action for the Eagles, stands 5-7.

Big Spring can field two tall boys in the LeFevre twins but the height falls off sharply after their measurements are taken.

Mills is 6-1 but Appleton stands only 5-9 and Evans is an inch shorter.

B-teams of the two schools clash at 6:15 p.m. The local reserves will be trying to improve upon a 6-4 won-lost record.

Sugar Ray Is Solid Choice

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, gunning for an early knockout, is heavily favored to defeat stylist Paul Pender tonight in defense of his disputed world middleweight boxing crown.

The stakes: For the winner, prestige and at least one more big money bout. For the loser, the end of the fistic trail in sight.

The 15 rounder at Boston Garden will be televised and broadcast nationally (10 p.m. Eastern Standard Time, NBC) with a radius of 100 miles around Boston blacked out.

Robinson, listed as 39 years old but claiming 38, is recognized as the titleholder only in Massachusetts and New York. The National Boxing Assn. stripped him of his crown for not defending within a time limit and recognized Gene Fullmer as champion.

How long can Robinson—rated one of the best of all time—keep going? A veteran of 21 years in the professional ring, the five-time middleweight king steps through the ropes tonight for the second time in 21 months, since beating Carmen Basilio. Robinson kayoed Bob Young of Providence, R.I., in the second round here Dec. 14.

Pender, 29 year old suburban fireman who has quit boxing three times, believes his hit-and-move style backed by a solid punch will enable him to run Robinson into exhaustion.

The odds have gone out of sight on Pender's chance of succeeding.

Robinson will try to smash through Pender's vulnerable defense to end it quickly before the younger man's endurance becomes a factor.

If Robinson wins, he is dickering for possible bouts with Fullmer and Archie Moore for the latter's light heavy crown.

Promoter Sam Silverman expects a gross of $100,000 from a crowd which may reach 12,000.

Robinson has been guaranteed 42½ per cent of the net gate plus 75 per cent of the $75,000 TV rights — approximately $75,000. Pender stands to make $25,000 on 20 per cent of the gate plus 15 per cent of the TV money.

Robinson figures to come in at 159 at the noon weigh-in at the state boxing commission.

Trainer Al Lacey says Pender will fight at 159¾.

Steerettes Tip Lamesans, 23-16, In 1960 Opener

Bernice Waggoner's Big Spring Steerettes made a successful volleyball debut here Thursday night, trampling Lamesa by a score of 23-16.

The local B teamers lost, however, 28-20, after trailing by as much as 13 points at one stage of the game.

Sharon Agee led the Steerettes in scoring with 11 points. Carol Ann Phillips was setting and Elaina Patterson spiking at the net at the time.

Big Spring built up a 6-0 lead in the first three minutes of the game but Lamesa tied it at 6-6, with six minutes gone. Lamesa then went ahead by one point but the Steerettes were again in charge at half time, 11-7.

Big Spring's biggest lead in the ball game was 22-12. Observers say Lamesa has its finest team in four seasons.

Susan Lindsey led Lamesa in scoring, with five points. Donna Lamesa pulled, within one point of the locals, at 13-12, after the second half but the Steerettes again pulled away.

Big Spring trailed at half time in the B game, 18-8. Judy Pate led the local reserves in scoring, with five points. Suzanne Compton was at the net.

Ruther Anderson coaches the local B squad.

The two teams play again Monday night in Lamesa. Last night's game attracted a large turnout of fans.

Wilt Leads East In NBA Feature

By GEORGE ESPER

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The National Basketball Assn. tonight sends forth a whole bevy of talent, including sensational rookie Wilt Chamberlain, as the East and Star Game.

The East is a slight favorite because of the 7-1 Chamberlain of the Philadelphia Warriors and veteran Bob Cousy of the world champion Boston Celtics.

Chamberlain leads the NBA in scoring 1,607 points—37 plus average and rebounding and shows promise of smashing virtually all records. Cousy, who has been selected for every game since his All-America days at Holy Cross, holds the most overall records of the classic (7), including most points scored (122) and most assists (56).

Coach Red Auerbach of the Celtics apparently doesn't mind his East club being cast in the role of favorite.

"I think we have the better club and we should win," Auerbach declared. "If I have the better club, I want to be favored."

West Coach Ed Macauley of St. Louis said the underdog rating gives his club the feeling of "everything to win, nothing to lose."

"We can go out and play our game with a relaxed attitude and if we win it would be a pretty good upset over a pretty good ball club."

Bearcats Host Sands Ponies At 8 Tonight

GARDEN CITY (SC)—The busy Garden City Bearcats take time off from Gail tournament play tonight to do battle with Sands in a District 19-B game here.

Garden City opened play in the Gail meet by thumping Loop, 63-45, Thursday. The win enabled them to advance all the way to the Saturday night finals. The Cats play again at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow in Gail. Their opponent will probably be Highland.

Al Lange's Felines are now 4-1 in 19-B competition and will be favored to tip Sands in tonight's game, down for 8 p.m.

In the Loop game yesterday, the Longhorns stayed fairly close to Garden City until the final period, when the Cats staged a 26-point scoring spree.

Only six teams were entered in each bracket of the Gail tournament.

In girls' competition, Loop defeated Garden City, 59-40, after leading at half time, 31-14.

Quay Hunt led Loop with 28 points while Joe Calverley bucketed 20 for Garden City.

The Garden City girls play another tournament game at 4 p.m. Saturday, at which time they will be competing for the consolation title.

Sebo Says Fans Want More Play

NEW YORK (AP) — Although the American Football League hasn't played its first game Steve Sebo feels its bound to be an artistic and probably a financial success.

Sebo was fired as Penn coach last fall after winning the Ivy League title and promptly signed as general manager of the New York Titans in the new league.

"People want more football on Sundays," Sebo said today at the club's headquarters. "Those turnaway crowds and the National League attendance increasing every year prove it.

"The 12 National League clubs can only play six games on a Sunday and our eight clubs will add four more."

Steve is just as optimistic about the quality of the football the new clubs will play.

"We haven't announced the names of the pros we've signed, but we have some pretty good ones," he said.

How long will it take before the AFL attains equality with the NFL on the playing field?

"It's a lot closer than a good many people think because of the players' great desire," Sebo replied. "The boys want to play football and the 'ones who made reputations in college usually think they're pretty good. They'll be out there trying awfully hard to prove it."

DEAR ABBY

IN HOT WATER

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: How much water does a girl who weighs 85 pounds and is five feet tall need in a bathtub? She thinks she has to have it up to her neck. She acts like she is the only one in the family who has to take a bath. When she gets through, no one else has any hot water. Please put this in the paper. She won't listen to me. She is 12. HER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If you daughter at 12 "won't listen" to you on such a minor matter, prepare yourself for some major disappointments. Children should be taught that "sharing" with members of the family is expected. If your daughter doesn't learn this soon, she'll probably be in hot water up to her neck all her life.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married for 21 years. While she was away visiting relatives for two weeks, I found a picture of a strange fellow hidden under the paper lining of a drawer. I became very upset and angry and wrote her a letter (I included this picture) and I told her she needn't bother to come home. I figured she would not have this picture hidden unless she was hiding something else. She called me up when she got my letter and said this fellow has been dead for years and that I had a lot of nerve accusing her of wrong-doing. Who is right? ANGRY HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND: You had no right to suspect the worse and accuse her of wrong-doing before hearing her explanation. And to tell her "she needn't bother to come home" was about as fair as a judge sentencing a defendant without hearing the case.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: What makes you women so nervous? CHARLIE

DEAR CHARLIE: You men.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a waitress with so many "beefs" a Yorkshire pudding would go well with me. In the first place why do people call me "Girlie"? I am 54 years old. I have "IRENE" embroidered on my uniform pocket, but people still call me "Girlie." Also, what can I do about old men who can read the menu without their glasses but put them on to see my legs better? OFF MY CHEST

DEAR OFF: If you are 54 and people still call you "Girlie" and old men put on their glasses to look at your legs, don't get yourself in a stew. You have nothing to beef about.

Have you read Abby's new, best-selling book, "DEAR TEENAGER"?

Damage Suit Is Filed Wednesday

Suit was filed in 118th District Court Wednesday afternoon asking $55,650 damages growing out of a traffic accident which occurred just two weeks ago.

H. C. Smith and Mrs. Smith are the plaintiffs. They have sued H. L. Freland Inc., and others, alleging that the defendants should pay damages as result of a collision on Jan. 5 on the Snyder highway.

Smith says in his petition that he and his wife were injured when their car rammed into a concrete mixer owned by the defendant firm. The accident occurred 11 miles east of Big Spring.

Dawson Youth Organization To Be Formed

LAMESA (Spl.)—Intentions to charter an organization called "Dawson County Youth Athletic and Activities, Inc.," were announced here Wednesday by the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce committee on youth development.

The immediate need of an organization to handle the newly-formed county boxing program prompted the planning of Youth, Inc. An interim group of nine directors was named to head the organization.

Early Peltier was selected to be chairman with Willis Gresham, secretary, and Rush J. Barnett, treasurer. Other directors are Carlos Berry, Jack Mitchell, Charles Bruton, Howard Garner, Don Nutt and Eldon Moody.

The Youth Development committee stressed the broad scope of the new organization as pertaining not only to athletic activities for youth, but to cultural projects as well. Plans are under way to apply for a charter for the organization.

The directors indicated they would get the boxing phase of the program into a "concrete" organization as soon as possible, and that they will investigate the structure of similar organizations in nearby towns in the immediate future.

A Lot Of Johns Around The AEC

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — You might cause quite a scramble if you barged into a meeting of the Atomic Energy Commission and yelled: "Hey, John, you're wanted on the phone."

It happens that all four members of the AEC have the same first name — John A. McCone, chairman; Dr. John H. Williams, scientist-member; John S. Graham; and John F. Floberg.

The men who shape the nation's atomic destiny insist the situation causes no confusion.

McCone, being the boss, is always addressed at meetings as either "Mr. Chairman" or "Mr. McCone."

"Floberg usually is called "Jack," while Dr. Williams answers to either "Doc" or "Johnny."

There's a vacancy on the commission due to the death of Joseph Vance.

AEC staffers decline to say whether there are any more Johns among the possible nominees.

"President Eisenhower ought to sign a directive insisting that the new commissioner be a John, just to keep things intact," one says.

Chairman McCone is the only one who calls everyone else John.

"But," says a commission aide, "areas of specialization of the various commissioners are such that you know right away to whom he's talking."

"Besides," he added, "there's always a definite seating arrangement around the table. For example in addressing Mr. Floberg, the chairman has to turn his head about 180 degrees away from Mr. Graham's position."

The commission gets periodic fill-ins from John Waters, AEC's chief of security; John Hall, an expert on international matters, and John A. Derry, boss of constructive activities. But the resourceful commission has an answer to that, too.

Waters is called "Admiral"; while all other visitors named John are addressed as Mister.

Luckily none of the newly discovered chemical elements of the atomic world has so far been named John. You can't rule out a Johnium in a world that has seen discovery of elements like californium, europium, and plutonium.

CRITIQUE

By Glenn Cootes

Although attendance was low, the members of the Big Spring Civic Theatre bristled with ideas for new activity during the regular meeting held Thursday.

Dr. Bill Sandefur, president of the organization, named a new play reading committee with himself as chairman. Madaleen Miller, Lida Fiveash and Warren Schulte round out the membership.

Frankie Bledsoe was named to head up the theatre workshop program. Shirley Bailey was selected as a coordinator of workers on the building.

Sandefur announced that a special meeting of the board of directors would be held next week to discuss revision of the corporation's by-laws. I am working on the first draft of this amendment.

Don Hush was appointed, on a temporary basis, to fill the secretary's post. It was vacated by the resignation of Hugh Butler McCauley. The latter is being discharged from the Air Force and plans to return to Houston.

McCauley is the second officer of the organization to resign within the last year.

The 19 attending members adjourned for a tour of the playhouse in City Park. Many of them had not seen the inside since work was started.

Gas was installed in the building Wednesday, but the one heater is pushed hard to heat the relatively large structure. Sgt. Dewey Magee and Sgt. Howard Brown have worked in the building for several weeks with only the fireplace to break the chill.

Their wives will attest to the fact that the building was rarely warm more than 10 feet from the fire.

Risers for the seating area have been built and the lobby has taken shape. Sandefur told the group that paint has been obtained from the Cactus Paint Co., with the additional help of Cosden Petroleum Corp.

In short, there is still plenty of work to be done and Sandefur urged all members to spend as much time as possible swinging a brush or a hammer.

Less than three months away looms the mammoth project of the Easter Pageant. Most work on the building will probably be stopped as April 17 draws nearer.

Truck Misses Car But Strikes Fence

A car driven by Harold Hugh Morrow, 34, Coahoma, plowed through the south fence of the Cosden Refinery parking lot at 3:05 p.m. Thursday. Damage to the fence was estimated at $250.

Highway patrol officers said that Morrow, a truck driver, was on the service road coming toward Big Spring when a car coming off the viaduct loomed ahead. He swerved to one side as the car plowed through the fence. The driver of the other car was M. W. Harrell of Big Spring. Morrow was not injured.

In Hospital

Sheriff Miller Harris was confined to the Big Spring Hospital Friday for observation. He became ill at his home at 1201 Settles shortly after breakfast and was removed to the hospital for a more thorough check.

Sen. Kennedy, Humphrey Squared Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey are squared off for a crucial political prizefight in the Wisconsin primary April 5. The prize could be the Democratic presidential nomination. It could just as well be a standoff.

Kennedy got into Wisconsin with both feet Thursday. His camp figures it's a gamble because Wisconsin is next door to Humphrey's home state of Minnesota, and Humphrey has been mending his Wisconsin fences diligently.

But they also figure this: If the Massachusetts senator wins big in Wisconsin, he'll knock Humphrey out of the race. And he'll open the door for bigger states to swing their convention delegates onto his bandwagon.

Humphrey welcomed Kennedy's entry in Wisconsin, and he expects a hard fight. He said polls taken by Kennedy forces in the state show considerable voter sentiment for Kennedy. Humphrey added that his limited campaign funds don't permit him the luxury of a poll of his own.

Kennedy also announced his entry in the Nebraska primary May 10. Humphrey hasn't decided about that one yet. Unlike Wisconsin, this primary is not binding on convention delegates—it amounts to a popularity contest between candidates.

The Republicans have a problem. Because Vice President Richard M. Nixon is the only GOP presidential candidate in sight, there is no heat of battle or clash of rivals to keep their cause constantly in the public eye.

About the only GOP news Thursday came from Republican National chairman Thruston B. Morton, who is senator from Kentucky.

Morton told a meeting of Young Republicans that "Republican January jubilation could turn into a November nightmare if we permit ourselves to become fat and complacent."

Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton told the same group "I'd like to remind the Democrats that Franklin D. Roosevelt was nominated four times in a convention nobody ever called a wide open convention." He was referring to Democrats who have been pointing out Nixon's lack of rivals for the Republican nomination.

Minor Theft

One minor theft was reported to police officers Thursday. Dunn's Auto Sales, 1200 E. 4th, reported four hub caps taken from a car.

Kennedy Enters

His wife, Jackie, stands beside him as Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) announces his intention to run against Sen. Hubert H. Humphery (D-Minn) in Wisconsin's presidential preference primary April 5. His decision, announced at Milwaukee, sets up the first test of strength between two major candidates for the Democratic nomination.

THIS DAY IN TEXAS

By CURTIS BISHOP

Born on this day in 1798, in Pleasant Gardens, North Carolina, was Samuel Price Carson, for whom a Texas county was named.

His years in the Lone Star Domain were limited, but were important to the Texas story. In addition to his personal efforts he expanded much of his own fortunes in maintaining the Lone Star Republic.

He was influential in the Carolinas, too, being elected a representative and serving for eight years. In April, 1835, he purchased land on the west side of the Red River, and also had some holdings in Arkansas. He was one of the five delegates from the Red River area sent to the convention at Washington-on-the-Brazos which framed the Texas Declaration of Independence. He reached Washington on March 10, 1836 and signed the declaration that same day.

He was elected secretary of state by the convention and was sent in a very brief time to Washington, D. C., to represent Texas interests and concerns in the United States.

Much of his own fortune went into the development of Texas. For example, while soliciting funds and volunteers in New Orleans, he had to mortgage his slaves for $10,000 to continue operations.

He lived only a short time after the cause he had accepted as his own was won at San Jacinto. Death came to him November 2, 1838 at Hot Springs, Ark., his wife and two daughters surviving him. Carson County, created in 1876, is named for him.

Former Resident Of Forsan Dies In San Angelo

FORSAN — Word has been received here of the death of Calvin Jones in San Angelo. Mr. Jones, a retired Standard Oil of Texas district superintendent, died suddenly of heart attack. He retired about 15 months ago while living in Forsan. The family had lived here on a lease in 1935-37 and later returned prior to his retirement. Services were to be held Friday afternoon in Colorado City at the First Methodist Church.

Suit Filed After Cab-Car Collision

Quick legal action followed the collision of a Yellow Cab and an automobile here on Wednesday.

A suit for damages was filed on Thursday afternoon by Eugene Yates and his wife Patricia Ann Yates against Gordon Harrison Daves and the Yellow Cab Co. The petition alleges that Daves is a driver for the cab company.

The petition asks $39,000 damages for injuries Mrs. Yates says she suffered when the cab in which she was a passenger collided with a car driven by C. J. Harris.

2 Minor Crashes Reported To Police

Two minor automobile accidents were reported in the city Thursday, but no injuries or extensive damage was listed.

Ben Johnson, 707 W. 16th, and Ronald Dean Jeter, 1814 Benton, were involved in a wreck in the 1300 block of Settles.

A crash at 10th and Johnson involved John L. Trimpe, 804 Main, and Thomas D. Irwin, 208½ E. 17th.

And If The Losers Become Deputies

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Four candidates for sheriff in Rio Arriba County, a sparsely populated part of northern New Mexico, caused the local newspaper to say:

"If people don't stop getting into the Rio Arriba County sheriff's race, there won't be anyone left to be the bandits."

U.S. SAVINGS BONDS NOW PAY 3¾% INTEREST

New series E Bonds now turn $18.75 into $25.00 fourteen months quicker than ever before

Bonds you already own also pay more and E Bonds get automatic extension privilege

Three new dollar benefits make U.S. Savings Bonds a smarter buy than ever.

1. All Series E and H Bonds bought since June 1, 1959 now earn 3¾% interest when held to maturity. The new rate works out to 2½% for the first year and a half; then a guaranteed 4% each year to maturity.

2. Older Bonds will also pay more—an extra ½%, from June 1 on, if you hold them to maturity.

3. All Series E Bonds, old or new, now carry an automatic extension privilege; they'll keep paying liberal interest for 10 years beyond maturity.

Add this in with all the other special advantages of Bonds—complete safety, guaranteed return, protection against loss or theft—and you'll see why it makes sense to buy new Bonds and hold on to the ones you have. Whether you buy them where you bank or through the Payroll Savings Plan at work—today's Bonds are the best ever.

Six facts you should know about Bonds

1. You can save automatically. Just tell your company to deduct the amount you wish to save from your pay, and the Bonds will be delivered to you.
2. You get 3¾% interest at maturity. The highest rate ever paid on Savings Bonds is being paid today.
3. You can get your money, with interest, when you need it. Your Bonds are a ready reserve to use anytime you want it. But, it pays well to hold them.
4. Your savings can't be lost, stolen or destroyed. The U.S. Government guarantees to replace your Bonds, free, if anything ever happens to them.
5. You can't go wrong with Bonds. Millions of Americans now own over $42 billion in Bonds.
6. You save more than money. Remember that every Bond you buy helps pay for peace, helps keep our economy strong and stable.

Payroll Savings Plan

easiest way ever to save

Today, millions of Americans benefit from the closest thing to painless saving ever devised: the Payroll Savings Plan for U.S. Savings Bonds. And chances are, you can, too.

There are no figures to juggle, no books to balance, nothing to mail in or deliver in person. All you have to do is to sign up where you work, with the Payroll Savings representative. Just tell him how much you want to save each week—and that amount will automatically be put away for you, toward new, 3¾% Savings Bonds.

You'll be amazed at how fast it will mount up, building a backlog of security for you and your family—and helping America keep the peace at the same time. Why not sign up for Payroll Savings today?

The U.S. Government does not pay for this advertising. The Treasury Department thanks, for their patriotic donation, The Advertising Council and

You save more than money with U.S. SAVINGS BONDS

You help save the peace for your family. They need peace to grow up in. They depend on you for so much. That includes doing what you can to keep a lasting peace.

Every Bond you buy is a stroke for peace. Peace costs money and your Bond money helps build new strength for American education, science, industry and military forces. And the money you save helps strengthen our nation's economy which depends on the financial strength of individuals to keep it sound.

Bonds are more than this, of course. They're a fine way to save. When you save with them you're giving your family real security and a better future.

U.S. Savings Bonds help you save more than money—in many ways. And they make saving very easy. Why don't you start saving with them today?

Hollywood Names Watch Finch Trial

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It's no wonder that a flock of Hollywood names have been dropping in to watch the Finch murder trial. It has more drama than a month of Perry Masons.

The protagonists are well cast. There is the smooth, urbane Dr. R. Bernard Finch, listening intently to the testimony and breaking into a toothpaste - ad smile when a witness utters some unconscious humor. During the recesses, he talks to newsmen with the geniality of a physician answering questions about flu symptoms.

Sharing the defendants' table is Carole Tregoff, young, buxom, red-haired. The state has portrayed her as the doctor's mistress and co-conspirator in the death of his wife.

The legal battery is imposing. Defending Carole are Rexford Eagan, with the look and pugnacity of a pro football tackle, and young Donald R. Bringhold, with whom she often confers. Dr. Finch receives the counsel of Grant Cooper, equally urbane and ingratiating.

The state's case is being presented with vigor by Dep. Dist. Attys. Frank N. Whichello and Clifford Crail, both bald and distinguished, both bristling with outrage for the acts they claim the loving pair committed. Crail is expecially ready to snap back at the defense attorneys, accusing them of trying to scare the state's witnesses.

Not the least impressive of the courtroom cast is Superior Judge Walter R. Evans. A big man, especially imposing as he strides to the bench in his black robe, he reminds one of Sen. Estes Kefauver. He has the height and long face of the senator and the same calm, deliberate manner of speaking, though without the bucolic overtones.

No one is fooled by his gentle approach, however, his stern look quickly indicates he is a no-nonsense kind of judge, and he can deliver decisions with whiplash style.

One of those attending every day is Cornwell Jackson part owner of the Perry Mason TV show. His wife, Gail Patrick, who produces the show, also appears frequently.

"I came down here once and I got hooked," Jackson explained. "It's like reading a murder mystery; you've got to keep going to discover how it turns out."

Factor Files Touhy Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Factor has filed a 4-million-dollar libel suit over a book by the late Chicago gangster, Roger Touhy.

Touhy, convicted of kidnaping Factor, maintained in the book he was innocent.

Factor filed a similar suit in Chicago before Touhy was slain in gangland fashion Dec. 16. In his latest action, the Beverly Hills broker names as defendants Tom Duggan, Los Angeles television commentator; television station KCOP, Los Angeles; Ray Brennan, co-author of the Touhy book, "The Stolen Years"; the book's publisher, Pennington Press, Inc., and various distributors.

Factor maintains he was libeled and that his right of privacy was invaded. He says Duggan and KCOP slandered him in discussions of the book and case.

Time To Eye Changes In TV Programs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The next seven days is the opening of TV's "little season," with five new shows bowing in. It's a time to watch the program schedules carefully because some time changes are occurring.

There are other items of interest, too. Tonight, for instance, there is the Mort Sahl-Eddie Cantor special, "The Future Lies Ahead," on NBC (8:30-9:30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time), while on CBS' Desilu Playhouse there is the delayed "Meeting at Apalachin," dramatic treatment of a real life meeting of big time criminals which was postponed at the request of authorities until after conclusion of the trials of the real participants (9-10 p.m.)

Bing Crosby's annual golf tournament, with a pack of stars and a lot of pros, will take place at 5:30 p.m. Saturday on ABC. And NBC starts its weekly hour-long series of public affairs shows, "World Wide 60" at 9:30 p.m. that night with a look at "Castro's Year of Power."

On Sunday at noon CBS presents the first of its "TV Workshop" series with "The Brick and the Rose." While Ed Sullivan on CBS is presenting an Oriental type show, highlighted by the Japanese Takarazuka Dancers, NBC will exhibit another in the "American Heritage" series — "Destiny, West," about John Charles Fremont (both 8-9 p.m.)

Kate Smith comes back with a regular weekly song show at 7:30 p.m. Monday night on CBS. The big mix - up is Tuesday, when NBC's Startime permanently moves up an hour to 8:30 p.m. with "The Wonderful World of Jack Paar." Meanwhile, the Arthur Murray Party goes into the 9:30 p.m. time spot, followed by "M Squad," taken out of NBC's Friday night schedule.

"Be Our Guest," the new George de Witt musical variety show starts on CBS at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, and on Thursday night the same network will show the first of a series of revues at 10 p.m. — this one with Mickey Rooney as star.

City Worker Faces Bilking Charges

WICHITA FALLS (AP)—Robert B. Stewart Jr., supervisor and storekeeper for the city street department, was charged with forgery and passing Thursday.

Dist. Atty. Tolly Wilson said Steward is accused of bilking the city of about $10,000 in the past year by forging signatures on the payroll from his department.

VFW To Marshal For Pension Push

AUSTIN—Strategy to enlist support of Texas congressional delegation for proposed pensions for World War I veterans will be shaped at the Veterans of Foreign Wars' mid-winter round-up in Plainview Saturday and Sunday, said Oscar B. Jones, state VFW commander, in Austin today.

He said a bill now pending in Congress would pay a flat $100 per month to the surviving First World War veterans who number "close to 150,000 in Texas."

Jones added that the main point of emphasis will be on petitioning the House Veterans Affairs Committee meeting Feb. 8 in Washington, with Congressman Olin E. Teague of Texas, chairman presiding.

Features Of New Building Shown To Kiwanis Club

Big Spring Kiwanians were taken on a personally conducted tour of the new YMCA building at noon Thursday. Their guides were R. H. Weaver, retiring president of the YMCA, and Bobo Hardy, YMCA secretary.

A bus supplied by Webb Air Force Base provided the transportation from the Hotel Settles to the building site.

At the luncheon meeting, Weaver told the Kiwanians that the new building, costing approximately $312,000, is within 60 days of completion. He said that a campaign would probably be waged next year to raise $75,000 more to finish paying for the building and for furnishings. The campaign originally staged for the building netted about $280,000.

The new building, he pointed out will offer many facilities of great importance to the youth of the community. The swimming pool was one example. The gym, with its area so expansive that two basketball games can be played simultaneously, was another. He described the meeting rooms, the kitchen facilities and other special features incorporated into the building.

Marvin Baker, Kiwanis president, called attention to the fact that Jan. 21 is the 45th birthday of the organization of Kiwanis International.

A delegation from Lamesa Kiwanis Club was in attendance at the luncheon meeting.

Glasscock Show Set For Monday

GARDEN CITY—Clennon Montgomery, Big Spring, area supervisor for Vocational Agriculture, will be judge of the 23rd Annual Glasscock County Livestock Show to be held here next Monday.

One hundred fat lambs, 15 barrows and 15 capons will be entered in the show.

The judging will start at 8:30 a.m. and will be in the old gym which has been remodeled and will be heated. The judging will be completed by noon and a catering service will serve barbecue. After dinner will be the auction sale of the boys' and girls' fat stock.

Four-H Club members exhibiting fat lambs will be Freddy and Sammy Chaney, Bill Cook, Wayne Cypert, Tommy, David and Judy Grant, David Harris, Paula Hardy, Ronnie and Judy Hirt, Walter Lowe Jr., Gary McDaniel, James McNutt, Sam and Sarah Oakes, Baylor and Gene Pruett, Charles Parker, Ritchie Reynolds, Loren Robinson, Pat and Bud Saunders, Betty Jo and Carolyn Schraeder, Jerry Schafer, Susan Cox and Danna Werst.

C AND G, PLUS QUICK DRAW, LEAVE SHERIFF HOLDING BAG

Miller Harris, sheriff, will look a little more closely hereafter when he sees a youngster wearing a 4-H Club jacket. He will want, for example, to be sure that the letter he sees is a "C" for Coahoma and not a "G" for Glasscock County.

He was in a store making a few friendly calls (after all it is campaign season) and a group of youngsters was on hand. The proprietor of the store remarked loudly:

"Here's a man who'll buy some of those tickets."

The tickets were for the annual Glasscock County Livestock show next Monday. They cost a buck each.

Harris took a quick look, decided the kids were from Coahoma, in his own bailiwick so to speak. So he fished out a $10 bill and bought 10 of the tickets.

Now that he has found out that the youngsters are from Glasscock County, he is wondering if he can maybe make a deal to trade them to Glasscock Sheriff Buster Cox for tickets to the Coahoma show on Saturday.

"It's not that I mind helping the kids," moaned Miller, "it's just that I don't think I'll get a single vote in Glasscock County."

Grand Jury Panel Called

Ninteteen grand jurors have been notified to report to Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District Court at 10 a.m. Monday. One of the original 20 drawn for grand jury duty has been excused from reporting.
