

Local TEC Office Among 12 to be Closed

By BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR
The Texas Employment
Commission has announced plans to close 12 more offices because of federal budget cutbacks, including the Hereford office, and the bombshell has left local TEC employees stunned.

Local TEC manager Lester Rape said the news was a shock, adding that the five local employees are not counting on the chance of transfer and are going ahead with plans to secure other employment.

The Hereford office will be closed at least by Feb. 15, and Rape said that Amarillo TEC District Manager Bill Day has informed him that the state office wants the local office closed by Feb. 1 if possible.

"We had thought that the axe might come in April, or March at the earliest if they did close us down," Rape said. "This doesn't give us much time to do the office down if we're to do it by Feb. 1."

Other offices slated for closing include Grand Prairie, the Uvalde and Gessner offices in Houston, Hurst, Pleasant Grove and Westmoreland Heights in Dallas, North Austin, San Antonio-Lone Oak Mall, Killeen, Temple, and Borger. The Killeen and Temple offices will be consolidated at Belton, TEC officials said.

The additional closings follow the closings of 59 other TEC offices across the state Feb. 1.

The Amarillo District will be left with offices in Amarillo, Childress, Plainview, and Lubbock.

Rape said the local closing means one of two things; that clients will have to travel to Amarillo to apply for unemployment benefits and to sign up for jobs and take tests, or that the Amarillo office will run an itinerant service here once a week or so.

"I'm not sure they (the Amarillo office) have the personnel to run the itinerant office," Rape said. "The district started with 188 people, had 136 at the end of January, and are seeing about 30 more cut back."

The Hereford TEC office handled 3,708 applications last year placing 2,642 persons, including 1,700 in agriculture-related jobs. The office also completed 5,403 unemployment claims.

"It will be very hard for us to round up everything and close the office by Feb. 1," Rape said. "There are a lot of records to transfer and procedures to change."

Rape is a veteran of 20 years with TEC, while Orval Galley has about 22 years. TEC service and Glenn Gripp has about 18. The other two local employees had about eight years service each.

Rape reported that the state of Texas contributed some $250 million to the Federal Unemployment Tax system last year, and that only about 30 percent of that was returned to the state.

"Most of it went to other states who operate in the red," he said. "If enough employers, who pay .7 percent

Democratic Filings Announced

Deaf Smith County Democratic Chairman Robert Strain has announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election to that position in the upcoming May 1 primary. Strain also announced a list of incumbent county officials who have formally filed for re-election to office.

In addition to Justice of the Peace O.K. Neal, who filed some two weeks ago, County Clerk B.F. Cain, County Judge Glen Nelson, and County Commissioners Austin Rose (Pct. 2) and James Voyles (Pct. 4) have filed for re-election.

Also, County Treasurer Vesta Mae Nunley, District Clerk Lola Faye Veazy, and County Surveyor Ken Hagar have filed.

District Attorney Roland Saul has announced his intent to file for re-election, but has not formally done so Strain said. Strain also said that Jerry John Reyna, who announced his intent to file for the Pct. 2 Commissioner's position yesterday, has picked up an application to file.

222nd District Judge Wesley Gulley is also expected to file for re-election, but Strain said he files with the state, since his court covers two counties.

Strain said that no one has shown interest in the County Chairman's position, but that he had not formally announced his decision not to run, and that he expects some interest to arise with his announcement.

Camp Update

Hereford Lions Club members received an update on the Texas Lions Camp for Crippled Children yesterday by Ron Anderson (left) of the Texas Lions League for

Lions Receive Update On Children's Camp

Members of the Hereford Lions Club were brought up to date Wednesday on the Texas Lions Camp for Crippled Children by Ron Anderson of Kerrville where the camp is located.

Anderson is Director of Development for the Texas Lions League for Crippled Children which oversees the operation of the camp.

The camp is located on 500 acres three miles from Kerrville, and is designed to provide a summer camp opportunity for blind, deaf, mute or crippled children between the ages of seven and 16. It was founded in 1953 by the Lions of Texas especially designed to offer the thrill of camping to those handicapped children.

The camp is open for two-week sessions in the summer beginning the first Sunday in June each year.

The Texas Lions League for Crippled Children is a non-profit organization funded by the Lions of Texas and others interested in serving the handicapped. The league is headquartered in Kerrville, and operates two other programs in addition to the crippled children's camp.

The league operates the Texas Center for the blind, using the camp during periods when it is not open to crippled children.

The league also sponsors the Texas Lions Camp for Diabetic Children with the cooperation of the South Texas Diabetics Association and under the resident medical supervision of the Department of Pediatrics at the University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston.

Anderson told the Lions that the camp has recently benefited by the generosity of a former Lion who passed away in 1970. The estate of E.T. Brooks has donated $40,816.28 to the camp. That same amount was also donated to Gristown, USA and to Cal Farley's Boys Ranch.

Anderson pointed out to the Lions that handicapped children have no other camp that they can attend. "The camp was especially designed for them," he said. "They learn that there are other kids in the world who are just like them. The camp teaches self-reliance, confidence, and maturity...it's not just a place for fun and games."

The camp accommodated 1,200 children last year, but Anderson said that across the state there are some 125,000 crippled children who are eligible to attend.

He added that he is about to

Reagan's 1983 Budget Plan Calls for Excise Tax Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan has decided on a 1983 budget plan that calls for higher excise taxes, a transfer of dozens of social programs to the states and the biggest deficit ever sent to Congress, administration sources report.

After meeting with his top economic advisers Wednesday, the president settled on a budget that would seek approximately $15 billion in new taxes to keep the projected deficit to about $75 billion, according to the sources, who did not want to be identified.

The sources said the new tax package would call for higher excise taxes on tobacco, alcohol and other consumer goods and the narrowing of a number of tax "loopholes."

The sources declined to be more specific about the tax proposals, saying some minor changes were possible over the next few days. They said the president planned to disclose his major budget proposals next Tuesday in his State of the Union message to Congress.

Earlier tax proposals under discussion within the administration centered on increased excise taxes on cigarettes, liquor, wine, long-distance telephone calls and "luxury" items, such as jewelry, furs and yachts.

Higher excise taxes on beer, gasoline and airline tickets also had been under review, but there was greater opposition within the administration to increase taxes on these items.

Revenue from the federal excise taxes would be turned over to the states to finance

Polish Defectors Seeking Asylum

HOUSTON (AP) — Seven people who fled a Polish freighter docked at the Port of Houston will be allowed to plead for asylum during a meeting with regional officials of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, a city council member said.

Five sailors, members of the Polish labor union Solidarity, and two women passengers left the freighter Zabrze late Wednesday and took refuge in a restaurant owned by a Polish refugee.

"They were all members of Solidarity and were very concerned about their personal safety," City Councilman Dale Gorczynski said.

Gorczynski said INS officials had been informed that the seven left the ship to seek asylum and regional INS director Paul O'Neil would see them today.

He said the women were the wives of two of the Polish sailors.

The freighter was supposed to leave Wednesday night for a return to Poland but a heavy fog closed the port, a port spokesman said.

Restaurant owner Stanley Pawlowski, who left Poland in 1976, said he got a call Wednesday afternoon. The unidentified caller told him there were people interested in leaving the ship.

"Then, I said 'My God, it's great, and if you want to leave the ship, I'll get you,'" Pawlowski said.

He said he drove to the port, took four defectors to his restaurant and then returned to pick up the other three, and would shelter the defectors temporarily.

Pawlowski said it was the second time in a week he has offered refuge to defecting Polish sailors. He said five others left a ship last week and still were living at his house.

"People always call me and ask for help. I don't know why, but they do," he said.

Simpson Announces Bid for Re-Election

State Representative Bob Simpson has announced that he will be a candidate for re-election to the Texas House of Representatives. Simpson, currently serving the 65th District, will be in the race for the 86th District seat following recent redistricting.

Accompanied by his wife Linda, Simpson said "we have made the decision for me to offer myself as a candidate with a great deal of thought, discussion, and soul searching because we take very seriously the responsibility of this office, and the mantle of public trust."

Simpson, a Tulsa native, was reared in Amarillo, and was graduated from The University of Texas at Austin in 1966 with a major in government and a minor in history. Mrs. Simpson is a Hereford native.

Simpson has served the 65th District since 1974, representing Carson, Randall, and a portion of Potter Counties. The new 86th District is made up of Deaf Smith and Randall Counties.

"When I first announced to run for State Representative in 1974, I said that we need to elect people who will serve with integrity, and provide strong leadership from the Panhandle," Simpson said. "I also said that I was seeking the office to work to build the influence of the Panhandle."

"I believe I am fulfilling this commitment. I am very proud and jealous of my reputation, both here at home and in Austin for honesty and fairness. People may disagree with my decisions and votes from time to time, but no one has ever challenged my integrity," he continued.

"I also believe that my

Nuclear Waste Meeting Slated

AUSTIN — Growing public concern over nuclear waste and the possibility of quick Congressional action make a meeting of the Texas Senate Natural Resources Committee necessary for Amarillo, Senator Bill Sarpius said today.

Sarpius, a member of the committee, said the Senate panel will meet in Amarillo Feb. 4 to hear citizens' worries about the proposed Panhandle nuclear waste disposal site.

"There is a bill in Congress now, the National Nuclear Waste Policy Act, that addresses the problem of storage of these wastes. We want to see how the people of the Panhandle feel about this storage. If necessary, we may go to Washington to testify on this bill."

"One thing is certain, though. The Texas Panhandle has been a leader in the state and in most of the nation in agriculture production, and agricultural production has a tremendous impact on our economy."

"Farmers already have a hard enough time trying to make it. We want to take a long, hard look at anything that could harm the Panhandles agriculture industry. If our groundwater became polluted, our farmers would be in worse trouble than they are now," Sarpius said.

"Also, it does not make sense to me to have all these nuclear plants in the East, and then ship the waste they make all the way to the Panhandle. Considering the price our farmers pay for energy to irrigate their fields, we should get some benefit for the risk we would have to take for helping our parts of the nation solve their energy problems," Sarpius said.

Senator Tati Santiesteban, chairman of the Natural Resources Committee, also plans to take testimony concerning future water availability for rural and domestic purposes, Sarpius said.

Santiesteban, who represents El Paso, also has indicated a willingness to go to Washington and testify, if needed.

The meeting will be at Amarillo College on Feb. 4 at 10 a.m. It is open to the public.

National Recession 'Deep'; Advisers Scattering Blame

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's economic advisers, conceding the recession is worse than they had expected, are trying to scatter the blame from the Federal Reserve Board to a Carter administration that has been out of office a year.

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan said Wednesday that new government figures showed the nation has fallen into "a deep recession, deeper than most forecasters had predicted."

And various officials said things will worsen before they get better, with national output slipping even lower in the current quarter and unemployment rising above December's 8.9 percent.

But they were not accepting blame.

"We inherited this mess," Regan said. "Those who blame Reaganomics for the current slump must believe in retroactive causation."

And he added that erratic steering of the nation's money supply by the Federal Reserve since Reagan took office left financial markets uncertain about future levels of inflation and interest rates and "did not help us in our recovery program."

The treasury secretary's comments came as the Commerce Department was giving its final confirmation of recession.

Commerce reported that "real" or inflation-adjusted gross national product — the value of all goods and services produced in the nation — sank at the end of 1981 faster than it had since a record 9.9 percent rate of decline in the spring of 1980.

The fourth-quarter drop — at an annual rate of 5.2 percent — followed a second-quarter decline at rate of 1.6 percent, and a third-quarter gain at a rate of 1.4 percent.

Real GNP rose 1.9 percent for the year — compared with a 1980 decline of 0.2 percent. The gain was mostly due to a robust 8.6 percent rate of growth in the first quarter as Jimmy Carter left office and the new administration took over national economic policy.

Regan said the recession probably will go a bit deeper, with real GNP dropping as much as 2 percent further at an annual rate in the current quarter before recovery begins in the April-June period.

Although many private analysts said the tight-credit policy of the Federal Reserve Board was a main cause of the recession, Regan and other administration officials contend the tight credit was necessary to fight the inflation inherited from the Carter administration.

Deputy Commerce Secretary Joseph Wright Jr. asserted that "this recession stemmed from policymakers' earlier failure to come to grips with deeply embedded inflation."

Not everyone in Washington agreed.

Democratic Rep. Henry Reuss, chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, said, "The sorry state of the

Even though there was a good amount of publicity on the public meeting here Tuesday night concerning nuclear waste sites, we were pleasantly surprised by the attendance.

We think it was good for the community to have a large attendance at the public meeting. Many people didn't have enough information to argue the pros and cons, and that is one of the purposes of such a meeting. There may be those who still are not sure how they feel about the subject.

Those who attended the meeting with an open mind were, no doubt, reassured that there is little danger involved in this type of repository. Whether a person was for or against, we think they'd have to agree that Department of Energy officials conducted a good hearing and were patient and tactful in their presentation.

Despite claims by the opposition, there are citizens in Deaf Smith County who think there is little danger involved and such a project would help the economy of the area. Comments to that effect were made by some of the people Tuesday night.

Some citizens have a real concern and fear of having nuclear waste in the area. And, some citizens surmised after the meeting that the government will select the best sites, regardless of opposition.

It is a complex subject and one that won't be solved for many years to come. We will be discussing this one for a long time.

We recently read of an experiment in a New Jersey school which illustrates what many people have always suspected about television.

It's not always the children that are addicted to the TV set.

Federal Suit Defense Cost State $1 Million

HOUSTON (AP) — Legal defense in a federal lawsuit that mandated massive changes in the state's prison system has cost Texas $1 million, a spokesman for Texas Attorney General Mark White said.

The figure was released Wednesday after U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice ordered the state to pay attorneys for prison inmates $1,000 as a penalty for the state's failure to disclose how much has been spent defending the prison lawsuit.

White was unavailable for comment, but press aide Mary Hardesty said the state spent about $600,000 of its own money and paid a Houston law firm more than $557,000 to handle the appeal of Judge Justice's order.

The law firm's expenses covers time spent on the case from July to November 1981.

William Bennett Turner, the San Francisco-based attorney appointed by Justice to represent TDC inmates in the suit, sought the information on the state's expenses to formulate his request for attorneys' fees under the federal law awarding fees to the prevailing parties in civil rights suits.

TDC attorneys resisted Turner's inquiries, saying the amount of money paid to the firm of Pullbright and Jaworski was covered by the attorney-client privilege.

The judge rejected the state's contention and ordered answers to Turner's questions within 10 days.

HPL Not Planning To Halt Projects

HOUSTON (AP) The $2 billion Allens Creek nuclear project will not be scrapped by Houston Lighting and Power, a utility spokesman says.

"Allens Creek is still alive right now and we're not in any position to make any kind of announcement on it. If we were to make a decision of that kind on that plant, we'd have no reason to drag it out," spokesman Graham Painter said Wednesday.

Officials of the utility company had "an informal meeting" with staff members of the Public Utility Commission in Austin Monday and discussed the future of the plant, located 45 miles west of Houston near Wallis, Painter said.

The spokesman said "Allens Creek was discussed, among other things. It was the kind of meeting we have from time to time. We call on them and tell them what's going on."

But Painter would not give specifics of the discussion, other than saying the utility will proceed with the Allens Creek project.

The plant was licensed after 87 days of hearings before the Nuclear Regulatory Commission last year.

Ex-Teacher Sentenced To Halfway House

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge ordered a former teacher to spend four months at a halfway house following her conviction for illegally operating a Grimes County drug manufacturing laboratory.

In addition to the four months, U.S. District Judge Carl O. Bue ordered Cynthia Standley Dawson to devote 400 hours to community service and placed her on five years probation Tuesday.

Bue also sentenced co-defendants Richard Bickerstaff, 25, to five years in prison and Stanley M. Riley, 25, to a four-year prison term. Mrs. Dawson's brother, John Standley, and David G. Lenz, 25, each were given three-year prison sentences.

All five defendants pleaded guilty to charges stemming from a raid last April that uncovered the laboratory used to produce methamphetamine, known as speed. Federal agents also raided Mrs. Dawson's home at the same time and seized $43,000 in cash and a small amount of the drug, prosecutors said.

Mrs. Dawson's attorney, Don Lam-bright, said his client was forced to resign from the Houston Independent School District after her sentencing.

Judge Delays Ruling On Attorney's Behavior

HOUSTON (AP) — Motions to remove a federal prosecutor and defense attorney for unethical behavior in a criminal case against eight men charged with illegally pirating pay television signals were taken under advisement by a federal judge.

U.S. District Judge Carl O. Bue Wednesday delayed ruling on the requests to remove Assistant U.S. Attorney Daniel T. Kamin and defense attorney David Berg.

Berg and two other defense attorneys say Kamin should be dismissed from the case because of a speech he made to a pay TV trade group in Atlanta. Kamin told the trade group to seek publicity when prosecuting video pirating cases, defense attorneys said.

Kamin said Berg should be removed from the case because he encouraged his clients to continue their alleged criminal activity to pay his legal fees.

Most Drunks Remain On Road

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas state troopers arrested a record number of DWI suspects in 1980, but most were right back on the roads, Department of Public Safety Director Jim Adams told the Governor's Task Force on Traffic Safety, a committee he chairs.

Adams told the panel at its first meeting Wednesday it should aim for a tougher DWI punishment law that would automatically suspend licenses, even for first-time offenders.

Calling DWIs the panel's "number one priority," Adams said, as a rule, half or more of the drivers involved in fatal accidents in Texas have been drinking, but that a shortage of patrol officers and lax laws keeps DPS from controlling the problem.

"I believe you're going to be appalled when you see what happens to DWI arrests," he told the panel. "Most of our shooting incidents are when some drunk won't stop and is running everybody off the road and we have to shoot his tires out. Then after all of that, he's still got his license."

Joe Milner, Chief of Traffic Safety at DPS, said the department has only one patrol officer for every 133 miles of highway. He said that compared with California's ratio of one officer for every 28 miles of highway, "and they don't have the problem under control either."

"We're going to have to ask the question, 'Can Texas afford the people it will take to make our highway system safe?'" Milner said.

Texas had a record 4,700 traffic fatalities in 1981, he said.

There were a record 85,000 DWI arrests in 1980, Milner said. Data for 1981 was not available.

Most of the arrests occurred on weekends just before midnight, "when drunks change bars," he said.

Stolen Car Found

Hereford police have recovered a car reported stolen Monday from a parking lot on North 25 Mile Avenue. The car was found parked on Short Street.

Police also received reports of a front window on a car broken and a garage door opener stolen from a parked car.

Officers checked out a house in the 800 block of Blevins, which had been entered, but apparently nothing had been stolen.

Police issued seven traffic tickets.

Fumigation To Resume

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The finding of three Mexican fruit flies in the Lower Rio Grande Valley this month means Texas citrus shippers must resume fumigation of fruit going to other citrus-growing states, says Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown.

"This is a hard blow to the growers in the Valley," Brown said. "They have an exceptionally good crop this year."

He said, however, as a result of the freeze in Florida "there have been some new markets opening up for Texas growers, and these sales should take up some of the slack."

Brown said fumigation will begin again Jan. 23, but fruit picked prior to Monday can be shipped without treatment.

Letter to the Editor

Letter to the Editor:

There are some clear focal points that have come forward from the excellent hearings on nuclear waste at Tulia and Hereford, at which the Department of Energy panelists were candid and fair. First, it is evident that the fastest way to resolve this problem and avoid the long, costly legal battle which will ensure if this area is chosen for a dumpsite would be to hit some oil.

point of the legal battle which will follow any announcement to bring nuclear waste to the Palo Duro Basin, and much legal scientific data will be available to our case.

Thirdly, this whole issue sadly resembles the "shell game M-X missile" fight. Although it was evident early on that this fraudulent defense concept was nothing but a political boondoggle which would damage our defense capability by sidetracking funds for 10 years while devastating our economy, there were nevertheless scattered opportunists who were desperately reaching out after federal dollars to "help our local economies."

Over $30 million of our tax money was thereby wasted in this area alone, just as $10 million is being wasted in this project. No wonder we have record deficits plus no money for needed social and agricultural viability. What a tragic waste and misappropriation of our nation's resources. We citizens always have to pay for both sides of the fight.

One other issue that must be addressed, not for casting condemnation on anyone, but in the hope that it will not be repeated in the future. The DOE, as we have said before, did inform our state officials of this effort as it proceeded over the past three years.

These officials must not have considered it important to inform their constituents, and thus our local newspapers, radio stations, and citizenry were caught by surprise about a month ago after successfully beating back a similar thrust three years ago to get nuclear waste dumping going in our area. Let up hope that this is never repeated.

Sincerely,
Frank Ford, Hereford, Texas

Letter to the Editor,

I think it is important to be stated that there is Not 100 percent opposition of citizens in this community to the proposed nuclear waste repository. Many of us have simply not made a firm decision.

The potential economic benefits of this type of facility is something that we, in our current depressed economy, do not need to reject without proper evaluation. If this is the best geologic formation in the USA to place this facility, and if strict safety measures are in place, I personally believe it could be beneficial to our community.

Naturally, no one wants any type business or industry here that is detrimental to our welfare. Each interested person should make his/her own decision and convey these opinions to community leaders and the chamber of commerce.

It is not appropriate, and many people resent it, for one person who happens to be principle owner of a food processing and distribution company, to be speaking as though he were the voice of an entire community unified behind him. We will each make our individual decisions, and we have not appointed this person to be our spokesperson.

This is still a one man-one vote country, and perhaps we should have a referendum to determine the will of the populace.

The list of questions presented by Series Texans Against Nuclear Dumping (STAND) were so baseless and absurd as to call into question the intelligence of those who prepared the list. These people from D.O.E. are going to take the message back to Washington that we in the Panhandle are at best just ill-informed, and at worst grossly incompetent.

Let's have cooler heads prevail, and not have a bunch of radical, fanatical, purely reactionary statements and questions presented which simply cannot be supported by facts.

The parents may be hooked just as well.

Fourth, fifth and sixth grade students in Ridgewood, N.J., agreed to go for one full week without watching a minute of television.

But, school officials, accustomed for years to parental complaints about the perils of television for youthful viewers, were shocked to find that mothers and fathers balked at being without television. They absolutely refused to turn the sets off.

Parents are hooked on the tube as much as children. It's a habit that is addictive and hard to kick.

They found out in New Jersey that parents who graduated from high school in 1965 and later years were themselves reared on television and cannot get along without it. School officials found out that every family had a TV set and many had more than one. Everybody watched it.

Television viewing has taken the place of conversation in most American homes and is the main source of entertainment as well as news and other information. Unfortunately, television fare is lacking in many respects, offering violence and sex for entertainment and barely touching the high spots of news and public information.

Yet television offers companionship and solace to lonely singles and provides much worthwhile viewing for the senior citizens of the land. It is a remarkable medium for the young and the old. Where else could you view a football game with a chill factor of minus 59 degrees on the field from the comfort and warmth of the den or living room? TV has its place in the lifestyle of Americans.

Sure it is an addiction. Children turn on the set the minute they come home from school unless mom already has it on. Dad plunks down in front of the set when he gets home from work and the set is normally not turned off until bedtime.

The New Jersey experiment told us what we already knew about television and that is it's a habit that cannot be stopped.

some 40 federal programs in health, education and other social areas that the administration wants to shift to state control, sources said.

In addition, Reagan will propose the wholesale transfer of the giant welfare and food stamp programs to the states in exchange for a total federal takeover of the burgeoning Medicaid program, which has been growing 15 percent a year in costs for providing health care to the nation's poor, according to the sources.

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan disclosed Wednesday that one "loophole" the administration would seek to narrow involves tax-exempt industrial development bonds that local governments sell to attract new businesses.

Administration officials declined to identify the other tax changes the president approved, although one proposal under active consideration called for limiting deductions that can be claimed on unemployment insurance.

The excise tax proposals are likely to provoke opposition from a number of Reagan's Republican supporters in Congress. Earlier this week, House GOP Whip Trent Lott of Mississippi and Rep. Jack Kemp of New York complained that higher excise taxes will hurt the "little guy" and risk political defeat for Republicans.

Reagan is reluctantly supporting higher taxes as the only way to keep future deficits from soaring well beyond $100 billion a year, aides said.

A $75 billion deficit for fiscal 1983, which begins Oct. 1, would be the largest ever projected by a president in his budget message to Congress.

Paul Harvey News A Jew In Us All

It's been a traumatic disenchantment for the Klan to discover how many Christian families, retracing their roots, discover "a little Jewishness."

And, of course, no family which believes the biblical story can backtrack all the way without encountering the widely scattered seed of Abraham.

Hopeful, any squirming is waning.

Jewish historians and non-Jewish historians can escape outdated anxieties and relax now and acknowledge the salt by which civilization is salted.

The family of man can stop taking potshots at its own kin, can instead take pride in its homogeneity.

When Alexander the Great conquered the known world 300 years before Christ — Persia, Greece, Egypt, India — his armies encountered legions of Jewish intellectuals. Alexandria was a center of Jewish culture.

Subsequent assimilation was inevitable.

During the Crusades a thousand years later, Jews were overrun, slain.

During the Middle Ages,

1200 to 1600 A.D. Jews were driven out of Spain, England, France and the German states. A sizable Jewish colony was massacred in York, England.

During the Spanish Inquisition—Spain, Portugal and some of Italy—most Jews fled. Some chose instead to pretend conversion.

Eminent among history's ironies is that each holocaust — from the first to the last — saw Jews in every Old World nation intermarry — others raped — and Jews with non Jewish blood survive.

The only possible exceptions, the only people who could plausibly be considered pure anything, are deep Africans and Asian Eskimos. Though even this purity dissolves in antiquity.

Americans have yet much to unlearn.

Animosity, condescension and surely hate — wherever these tend to polarize Jews and those who consider themselves non-Jew — result in national weakness.

Hitler killed himself a long time before he killed himself.

And ironically, in the continuing international struggle for productivity, preeminence and power, the Soviet Union has been dissipating her energies persecuting Jews and diluting her potential by allowing no known Jews in a policy-making positions.

Meanwhile, our nation has strengthened itself on its hybridity.

If Americans who yet worship in the Jewish tradition sometimes seem paranoid, overanxious about threats to Israel, about any religious superimposition of civil authority, about synagogues in ashes...

It's because history repetitiously reminds them what happens when, in the name of tolerance, they turn the other cheek one too many times.

Lyles Presents Program To La Plata Study Club

Charles Lyles, who is a professional artist and assistant principal at Aikman Elementary School, presented the program for La Plata Study Club Tuesday evening. The meeting was held in the home of Mary Helen Askew, with Beverly Jayroe and Audine Dettman serving as co-hostesses.

Lyles told the club about his background, his goals, and demonstrated painting an oil painting of a western scene with Hereford cows, typical of many of his paintings.

He showed members the seven books on art that he and his mother, Jean Lyles, have compiled and published. Mrs. Lyles is also a noted artist, and she and her husband own Texas Gallery and Frames. The books include pictures of windmills, old barns and houses, cattle, landscape, flowers, and western scenes. Another book will be published in July.

They have sold over 160,000 books and still sell $200 to $300 worth of books each day. They also manufacture canvases and sell art supplies, along with their paintings.

Lyles said he did not have the opportunity to learn art while in public schools. He attended school at Turkey and art was not taught there. He pointed out that art is not being taught in most schools even now, just crafts. He got a master's degree from West Texas State University, and got his mother interested in art.

He works on four or five paintings at once, commenting, "I wear out on just one painting. I do as much photography as I do painting, and then attempt to paint the scene in the picture."

Lyles teaches art classes in Colorado, New Mexico, and Texas. There is exacting detail on his paintings, and they sell in the range from $700 to $1,000.

A short business meeting was conducted by Lucy Rogers, president. She read a certificate of appreciation sent to La Plata Study Club for the work it did for the American Lung Association. The club's next meeting will be a guest night when Elizabeth McDowell will give a book review at the Black House. It will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Feb. 16.

A special guest Tuesday evening was Jolene Bledsoe, Ms. Askew's neighbor, who is an artist. Members attending were Ruby Boston, Clara Brown, Sarah Hazelrigg, Sherry Hoover, Jean Kelley, Delores McCuistian, Mozelle Neill, Lavon Nieman, Carla Patterson, Dorothea Prowell, Margaret Schroeter, Rosemary Shook, Betty Taylor, Donna Vanderzee, Virginia Woodford, the president, and the hostesses.

Montgomery Speaks On Nuclear Energy

La Affiliatus Estudio met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Emily Suggs, with Ora Morgan serving as co-hostess. A program was given by Aileen Montgomery on the subject of Nuclear Energy.

She briefly described man's search for energy to make his life easier, and ended with an interesting and informative review of what she learned during her recent visit to the Comanche Peak Nuclear Power Plant, which is under construction at Glen Rose.

During the business session, Ms. Montgomery, president, opened the meeting by asking Mary Williamson to lead the reading of the club collect. Lucile Hughes called the roll, and those present answered with quotations and quips, both humorous and serious.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses following the meeting. Other members present were Lydia Hopson, Alberta Higgins, Irene Markham, Madeline Bell, Della Stagner and Tressa Hale.

The next meeting will be Feb. 2 in the home of Eva Gilliland.

Flood Gives Program To Tou Jours Amis Members

Charlotte Tyler and Rhonda Nieman hosted members of Tou Jours Amis in the home of Mrs. Tyler Tuesday night. Carmen Flood presented a program on interior decorating, showing many ways to use accessories and giving suggestions for changing home decorating with the seasons. She displayed some of her own accessory items such as brass, baskets, and silk flowers.

After the program, members were treated to refreshments including sausage quiche, a green salad, and a cherry pineapple dessert. A brief business meeting followed the refreshment time.

Now You're Cookin'

By JERI CURTIS AND LINDA CAUDLE

Being a proud mother can alter your lifestyle.

Mrs. Lucille Guinn, mother of Bob Gibbins, one of the state's top defense attorneys, has traveled all over Texas during the past 15 years just to have her day in court.

Several times a year Gibbins flies his mother to the "big" trials, sometimes as far away as Hawaii.

"She just mainly gives me a lot of moral support," the Austin lawyer said. "It can be a very emotional experience to try a case."

Mrs. Guinn evidently sees the need her son has for some support, however, she grants all the composure to him and not her presence.

"He will be as nervous as a cat until he gets on the floor of the courtroom," she said. "Then he's poised—oh, it's beautiful."

He is a self made man. I would take no credit for it, neither would his father," she confesses.

Her most recent jaunt was to Austin where her son won a $3.5 million verdict for the widow and son of an Air Force pilot who was killed on a training mission two years ago.

"We were all confident," Mrs. Guinn reported. "I never had one doubt Bob would win. He was sure from the beginning and they were just as sure that he would not. They tried everything in the book."

Her next case to attend will likely be a civil suit filed by Priscilla Davis, ex-wife of Fort Worth millionaire T. Cullen Davis, for the wrongful death of her daughter Andrea. Gibbins will be Ms. Davis' attorney.

"I don't think I can keep her away from that," Gibbins said.

Mrs. Guinn enjoyed traveling before she began accompanying her son. She was raised in Florida in a family of lawyers and had the privilege of going to Europe several times while she was growing up, and attended a finishing school in Switzerland.

She has visited many countries all over the world since then. She usually travels alone, enjoying the independence. When going to be with Bob in court, she usually flies to wherever he is and meets him there.

Bob lives in Austin, and will be getting married to another young lawyer in February. Mrs. Guinn also has a daughter, Barbara Jean Gibbins, who resides in California.

Mrs. Guinn has lived in Hereford for 15 or 16 years. At one time she was the Supervisor of Nursing at Westgate, where she met her husband, J.T. He is from this area originally, and is a retired farmer.

Mrs. Guinn is an avid bridge player, and is president of the Forever Young Bridge Club. She is also president of the Hereford Art Guild, being very interested in all types of art.

"We meet once a month, go on field trips, and have very fine programs," says Mrs. Guinn. "Eunice Petersen, an old 'bridge buddy' of mine, is first vice-president of the Guild and is in charge of all the programs. She has done a really splendid job, bringing in out-of-town and out-of-state artists. She and the other officers have been so helpful and instrumental in making my presidency a happy and interesting one."

Mrs. Guinn is also a member of the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Deaf Smith Hospital Auxiliary. Through the latter organization, she has done volunteer work in the gift shop at Deaf Smith General Hospital.

"There are about 35 volunteers who are a part of the Hospital Auxiliary and work in the gift shop," she comments, adding that the shop is a non-profit endeavor, with the profits going back into the hospital.

Besides painting, Mrs. Guinn likes to sew, having made formal dresses with beautiful sequin and bead decorations for her daughter, among other things. She also makes miniature doll house furniture, and has a large collection of dolls, some from other countries. "Each doll has a name and a special meaning," she says.

She enjoys furnishing her home with international items, too, especially enjoying wicker and oriental designs. "I love the Chinese traditions and people," says Mrs. Guinn.

Another by-product of her travels is an interest in recipe collecting. "I was always very fortunate in my trips abroad to get many original recipes, some old family recipes and some directly from the chefs of famous restaurants." They were hesitant about giving out their recipes, Mrs. Guinn explained, and agreed to give them to her on one condition—that she would not give them to anyone in Europe.

"I love sharing my recipes with friends here, though," she comments. The three which follow are all from countries she has traveled in. The cookies and the sugar plum pudding are from England, the pudding being traditional for special occasions. The Caecata is an Italian tradition for New Year's Day, as it is supposed to bring prosperity, says Mrs. Guinn.

VIENNESE COOKIES
1 cup oleo
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 t. almond extract
1 t. grated lemon rind
2 cups flour
1/2 cup ground almonds
1/2 t. salt
confectioners sugar
strawberry, raspberry, or peach preserves

Cream oleo and granulated sugar until fluffy. Blend in egg, extract, and rind. Add flour, nuts, and salt and mix well. Chill.

On lightly floured surface, roll out dough to 1/8 inch thickness. Cut, with 2 inch round cutter, and use thimble to cut center hole in one half of the cookies. Place on ungreased cookie sheet and bake at 375 degrees for 5-7 minutes or until edges are slightly browned. Cool.

Sprinkle cookies with hole in center with powdered sugar. Spread other cookies with 1/2 t. preserves. Top with sugar covered cookies. Makes 5 dozen.

ITALIAN CAECATA
1 bought pound cake
4 cups miniature marshmallows
One-third cup milk
1-8 oz. pkg. Philadelphia Cream Cheese
1 T. orange liqueur
1/2 cup mixed diced fruit
1-4 oz. pkg. sweet chocolate
1 cup margarine
1/2 cup powdered sugar
1 T. orange liqueur
Cut cake lengthwise into four layers. Melt marshmallows with milk over low heat, stirring until well blended. Gradually add cream cheese. Stir in liqueur, candied fruit and 1 oz. of the sweet chocolate. Chill, until set.

Spread on three cake layers and stack. Top with remaining layer and chill overnight.

Melt remaining chocolate over low heat. Cool slightly. Cream margarine and sugar, blend in chocolate and liqueur. Chill 1/2 hour, then frost entire cake and chill.

SUGAR PLUM PUDDING
1 cup raisins
1 cup carrots
1 cup mixed diced candied fruit
1/4 cup sherry
1/2 cup margarine
1 1/2 cups packed brown sugar
4 eggs
1-10 oz. jar red currant jelly
1 1/4 cups dry bread crumbs
1 cup flour
1 t. baking soda
1/2 t. cinnamon
1/2 t. nutmeg

Combine fruit and sherry. Let stand overnight. Cream margarine and sugar until fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time. Add jelly and bread crumbs. Mix well. Toss dry ingredients with candied fruit, stir into batter.

Pour batter into well greased mold and cover with heavy foil. Place mold on rack in boiling water to level half way up mold. Cover tightly and steam five hours in gently boiling water, or until toothpicks inserted comes out clean. Add boiling water as needed.

Unmold onto serving plate and serve warm with hard sauce.

Hard Sauce:
1-3 oz. pkg. Philadelphia Cream Cheese
1 t. brandy flavoring
dash salt
2 1/2 cups sifted powdered sugar

Combine all ingredients and pour over individual servings.

Organ Retrieval Seminar Set Tomorrow In Amarillo

Tomorrow, beginning at 9 a.m. at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center, 6500 Amarillo Blvd. West, Amarillo, medical professionals from throughout the Panhandle and surrounding area will have an opportunity to broaden their perspective on transplantable kidneys at a day-long Seminar on Organ Retrieval.

Presenting the program will be experts in the field. Both organ retrieval specialists and transplant recipient will be a part of the program.

For medical professionals, the seminar will begin at 9 a.m. and end at 4:30 p.m. It will be jointly sponsored by the National Kidney Foundation of West Texas, the Southwest Organ Bank, Inc. at Dallas, and Amarillo College. The college will award .75 Continuing Education Unit (CEU) for seminar attendance.

One of the goals of the seminar is to heighten interest in the subject among medical professionals, thereby resulting in an increased number of organ retrievals from this area.

Speakers include Dr. Carlos Santillan, Amarillo Nephrologist; Dr. Virgil Pate, Amarillo Urologist; J.D. Waters, Chief of Organ Preservation and Procurement for the Southwest Organ Bank; Susan Daniels, Thanatologist from Memorial Medical Center at Corpus Christi; and Denise Newell, a kidney transplant recipient.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Hey, I've got a new face for Mt. Rushmore. It's Frances Gabe, a 67-year-old woman from Oregon who, in 1981, uttered those immortal words, "For god's sake, why should women waste half their lives cleaning the house?"

This living legend has backed up her words with action by creating the first self-cleaning house, a feat that a lot of us talk about, but never really pull off.

Ms. Gabe has applied for 68 patents on devices in her self-cleaning house. Her floors, doors, walls and ceilings are coated with a resin finish and her floors are sloped to all four corners so that all she has to do is spray 'em with soap, water them down and blow them dry.

She has no carpets. Ashes in the fireplace are hosed down a drain. Pots and pans are self-cleaning. And instead of wasting time loading a dishwasher and unloading it, she has a dishwasher cupboard.

She also has a laundry cupboard where the clothes are washed and dried right on the hangers. I don't know about the rest of you, but I'd be willing to conduct a telethon for the cure of Domestic Bondage. Or at least get some research in motion. Ms. Gabe is a beginning, but we've got a long way to go.

We need a communications system between every house in the country and a grocery store of their choice so that all we have to do is put our order into a computer and a conveyor belt will send the food right into our kitchens.

We need drip-dry children. We need a wrinkle-eradicator stall where you step into it with your clothes on, push a button and come out wrinkle-free.

We need a hand-wash machine...a couple of little hands that gently squeeze sweaters and hose and roll them in a towel for drying.

How about a leftover that self-destructs, with a timer on it you can set for 30 days, 60 days or a lifetime? I'd like to see a food detector that would beep and light up every time your kids took food in a room where it wasn't supposed to be.

I think we're onto something, folks. Let's all get behind this cause and perpetuate the ideals and principles set down by Frances Gabe.

I tell you I haven't been so excited since I put a sign over my oven: "THANK YOU FOR NOT SMOKING."

Painting Demonstration Highlights Club Meeting

The Hereford Study Club met Tuesday night at the Texas Art Gallery, where Jean Lyles gave a demonstration on painting. Ms. Lyles was introduced by Inez Witherspoon. Before and after the demonstration, members were free to browse and look at the paintings on display.

Following the program, a business meeting was held in the home of Elizabeth Cesar. The meeting was called to order by President Helen Spinks.

Other members present were Doris Bryant, Morgan Cain, Mildred Garrison, Norma Jolly, Evelyn Kirby, Gladys Setliff, Gracie Shaw, Mary Stoy, Virginia Winget, and Joan Yarbrough.

The next meeting will be a dinner party in the home of Jean Ballard, with member's husbands as guests. It will be on Feb. 4.

Brock Receives Appointment To Vocational Committee

Gene Brock, vocational adjustment teacher at Hereford High School and sponsor of the Hereford High School Key Club, received an appointment last week to the Vocational Education and Practical Arts Committee based in Washington, D.C. He was appointed to the five member committee by Willard McGuire of Washington, D.C., president of the National Education Association.

GENE BROCK

The two year appointment was based on Brock's interest, concern, and expertise in the field of vocational and practical arts curriculum. He was NEA Director for four years and traveled over the state of Texas to represent Texas' needs to the national level.

The committee meets in Washington, D.C. several times throughout the year with the purpose of providing input for and to monitor the NEA legislative proposal for re-authorization of the Federal Vocational Education Legislation, including re-allocation of federal funds.

The committee also works to identify the current status and consider strategies for

Should Feel Lucky

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Every week I must turn in a note to the personnel director of the firm I work for, verifying the fact that I did not miss my appointment with my psychiatrist. If I miss even one, I am automatically fired. I went to my union steward and she said the company had a right to do this. I find this hard to believe.

I am a manic depressive and have had two incidents with the past year. Previous to the incidents, I worked for the company for three years with no problems. They have made me feel like a time-bomb ready to explode. What can I do about such treatment? It's humiliating.

Check this out and let me know if the company is breaking the law by interfering with my private life.—Ticking Away in Chicago

DEAR TICKING: According to Lowell Sachhoff, a Chicago attorney, your employer could fire you if you did not meet the condition of bringing a note stating you kept your weekly appointment with your psychiatrist.

Apparently those two "incidents" resulting from your manic-depressive condition interfered with your job performance. Although you did not say so, it sounds very much as if the company agreed to keep you on, provided you stay in therapy. Instead of feeling like a "time bomb," you should feel shot full of luck. Not many companies would be so sympathetic and cooperative.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 17-year-old son has always been good at repairing things. He learned from his father, at an early age, how to rewire, plaster and hook up electronic devices and so on. Sounds good? Well, it has posed a problem.

Our neighbor owns an appliance business. He thinks Joey is a wizard and has offered the boy a job after school and on weekends. Joey would be going into the homes of all kinds of women to fix appliances.

The problem: The kid has a great personality and is very attractive. He could easily pass for 20. I have heard some hair-raising stories about how divorced and widowed ladies seduce young delivery boys, paperboys and so on. I need some advice about this immediately.—Louisville Mama

DEAR MAMA: I assume your son is well-informed regarding the ways of the world. If not, he should be. If he wants to take the job, let him. He is bound to meet all kinds of women sooner or later. Hopefully, if he runs into them sooner, it may save him some trouble later.

Connecticut Free Throws Down Favored Georgetown, 63-52

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

You wouldn't expect a college basketball team to go 10 minutes at the end of a game without hitting a field goal and stay in contention.

But the Connecticut Huskies did Wednesday night, thanks to their free-throw shooting.

As a result, the Huskies pulled off a 63-52 upset over 13th-ranked Georgetown.

"It was a good win for us because Georgetown has been getting all the respect," said Connecticut Coach Dom Perno. "When people talk about teams in the Big East (Conference) they always talk about other teams."

The Huskies, now 3-2 in conference play like Georgetown and 11-3 overall, ignored the screaming partisan crowd in the Hoyas' tiny McDonough Arena. They fashioned their upset by sinking 16 of 19 foul shots, including eight in a row by Norman Bailey, down the stretch.

The Hoyas, 14-4, lost their second straight game after a 13-game winning streak.

"They didn't do anything we didn't expect them to do," said Georgetown Coach John Thompson. "They just made their free throws and their shots and we didn't."

The Huskies were repeatedly able to frustrate the efforts of Georgetown to work the ball inside to prize freshman Pat Ewing. Meanwhile, Cory Thompson led the Huskies with 16 points while Bailey had 14.

Duke tripped No. 14 North Carolina State 49-48 in another upset Wednesday night. In other games involving the nation's ranked teams, No. 2 Missouri turned back Kansas 41-35, No. 3 Virginia defeated George Washington 80-54, No. 9 Kentucky whipped Florida 91-76, No. 16 Alabama stopped Georgia 81-66, 18th-ranked Kansas State downed Oklahoma 47-42 and 20th-ranked Tennessee turned back Mississippi State 54-44.

The Top Ten
Ricky Frazier sank six free throws in the final minute as Missouri survived an upset bid by archrival Kansas. The Jayhawks had a 20-19 halftime lead and quickly jumped ahead by five points after intermission as the Tigers had trouble with Kansas' alternating zone and man-to-man defenses.

The 15-0 Tigers went into a stall with 7:15 remaining after a field goal by Steve Stipanovich gave them a 34-33 lead. Frazier, who led the Tigers with 15 points, hit two free throws with 3:28 left for a 36-33 Missouri lead and Kansas never got closer than three points again.

"Our second half we made no mistakes and that's a first for us," said Missouri Coach Norm Stewart. "We held KU to 15 points in the second half, and we're happy with that. In the first half, there was a lot of pushing and shoving, and we didn't shoot well."

Othell Wilson and Ralph Sampson both scored 18 points to pace Virginia's romp over George Washington. Wilson scored 12 of his 18 points in the first half as the Cavaliers, 17-1, took a 39-27 lead at intermission.

The Cavaliers broke open the game early in the second half, going repeatedly to the 7-foot-4 Sampson for uncontested shots underneath the basket.

"Our defense was the difference," said Virginia Coach Terry Holland. "We just got such a very good effort from a lot of people. We played excellent defense in the last part of the first half and the beginning of the second."

Jim Master's 22 points paced Kentucky to an easy victory over victory-starved Florida. The Wildcats used the foul line for the victory, hitting on 35 of 43 attempts to overcome a young Florida team that lost a school record 10th straight game and fell to 4-11 for the season.

The Second Ten
Mike Tissaw hit two free throws with 33 seconds remaining to lift Duke over North Carolina State. Tissaw, whose first-half rebounding enabled Duke to rally from an 11-point deficit, scored his only second-half points to give the Blue Devils a 49-46 lead and their eventual winning points.

The Wolfpack tried to unnerve Tissaw by calling two timeouts before he shot his first free throw and another timeout before he let the second one go.

"It gave me time to think good things," said Tissaw. "I just trained my mind to do it. It felt good shooting free throws in the first half and I felt I could do it."

Alabama got 17 points and 10 rebounds from Eddie Phillips and used a man-to-man defense to seize control of the game and defeat Georgia. Five Alabama players scored in double figures as the Tide outmuscled the Bulldogs behind the play of Phillips.

Tim Jankovich hit a technical free throw with 1:08 left to help Kansas State beat Oklahoma. With Kansas State leading 42-40 with 1:56 left, the Sooners went to a delay offense, but were called for a technical foul for not taking initiative on offense.

Jankovich hit the foul shot, which turned out to be the winning point for Kansas State.

Dale Ellis scored nine straight points in the second half to pace Tennessee over Mississippi State. Ellis was his team's high scorer with 25 points as the Volunteers remained the Southeastern leader.

Resurgent Bullets Rip Sonics; Climbing NBA's 'Mountain'

By The Associated Press

Now that they've reached level ground, the Washington Bullets hope to start climbing the National Basketball Association mountain.

The Bullets, who got off to a 4-10 start, evened their record at 19-19 Wednesday night with a 106-95 victory over the Seattle SuperSonics. The victory, Washington's fourth straight and sixth in seven games, snapped Seattle's eight-game winning streak.

Greg Ballard put in 29 points, combining with Rick Mahorn for 20 of the Bullets' 28 points in the third quarter when they put the game out of Seattle's reach. Kevn Grevey added 19 and Mahorn had 14.

"It may not sound like a lot to most fans," said Bullets Coach Gene Shue, "but to us, it's terrific. It's something that early in the year, we didn't think a whole lot about. It was more of a struggle. But now, we hope to move on."

"We want to go nowhere but up now," said Ballard. "We don't want to go backwards."

The Sonics had won in Cleveland the night before and, according to Coach Lenny Wilkens, were tired Wednesday night.

Gus Williams, who sat out the Cleveland game with a sprained ankle, played 34 minutes and, along with Jack Sikma, led Seattle with 21 points.

Elsewhere, it was San Diego 108, Golden State 99; Los Angeles 132, New Jersey 113; Dallas 109, Milwaukee 104; Philadelphia 115, Portland 110, and Boston 112, Indiana 103.

Clippers 108, Warriors 99
Phil Smith, who finished with 23 points, paced the San Diego victory by scoring seven points in the final 3½ minutes. His two free throws broke a 91-91 tie and sent the Clippers ahead to stay.

San Diego played with only nine players because they traded Freeman Williams to Atlanta earlier in the day and neither Al Wood nor Charlie Criss, whom they picked up in exchange, made the game.

Bernard King led Golden State with 28 points.

Larry Smith, the Warriors' top rebounder, injured his ankle in the final minute and had to be helped from the court.

Lakers 132, Nets 113
Jamaal Wilkes scored 30 points and Norm Nixon added

28 for Los Angeles. Angeles took charge with 33-18 first quarter and broke the rest of the way.

The Nets were led by Albert King with 19 points and Ray and Buck Williams had 11 apiece.

Nixon made his first 11 field goal attempts and ended 15 for 15 from the floor, while Wilkes made 12 of 15 attempts.

Mavericks 109, Bucks 104
Dallas upset Milwaukee as Rolando Blackman scored 22 fourth-quarter points. The Mavs ended Milwaukee's nine-game road winning streak by rallying from 15 points behind.

Gretzky Signs For $20 Million

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — It didn't take Wayne Gretzky long to prove he may be worth every dollar of the reported $20 million the Edmonton Oilers' plan to pay him over the next 15 years.

The 20-year-old center scored three goals and added two assists Wednesday night to lead the Oilers to an 8-6 National Hockey League victory over the St. Louis Blues.

He now has 60 goals and 131 points in what has been to this point the most productive season by a player in the history of the game.

Oilers owner Peter Pocklington told a pre-game news conference Wednesday that the contract, not yet signed, is "the most innovative ever offered" an NHL player.

Besides giving Gretzky the opportunity to become a multimillionaire, the contract also gave the young superstar his own shopping center, somewhere in Western Canada, in six years. Financial terms of the contract cover the first nine and the second six-year periods.

"In the first nine-and-six-year periods, with the bonuses and Wayne's leadership, if they go all the way, the way they should, he could earn more than $20 million in 15 years," Pocklington said.

"But he's worth it. Wayne is a hero to young people and young people need heroes."

The Oilers have the option for another six-years.

Living Water

"Living Water," a contemporary gospel music team, will be featured at youth services tonight through Sunday at Hereford Church of the Nazarene. Members of the group are, from left, Don Weemes, Brad Huckabee, J.T. Tatum, Lavon McDonald, and the Rev. Eddie Trice. Services are nightly at 7 p.m. and Sunday at 10:45 a.m.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Persistent fatigue

DEAR DR. LAMB - I would like to find out about my almost complete lack of energy. I am 39 years old and feel like I'm going on 70. I have all I can do to get through an eight-hour work day.

There is nothing wrong with me physically as far as I know. Are there any special vitamins I can take to regain that lost energy? Are there any special foods with a high energy giving content?

I smoke about two packs a day and drink a lot of coffee. I always have that bloated and full feeling. I have been told by friends that I have an excess of body fluids. I would appreciate any comments or suggestions from you.

DEAR READER - My first question is, how do you know there is nothing wrong with you physically? About 80 percent of the people who complain of fatigue do not have, but that leaves 20 percent who have medical reasons for being tired. Anyone with persistent fatigue should have a medical evaluation.

And how do your friends know that you have excess body fluids? I would think you would have a better idea about that, or it might be determined by examination.

Presuming you do not have an underlying medical problem, you may need some new goals in life. There is nothing like a goal one wants to accomplish to provide energy.

Vitamins do not provide energy. They are essential parts of enzyme systems that enable your body to break down food to release the energy in your food. A well-balanced diet, and if that is not possible an ordinary standard daily vitamin pill, will provide all the vitamins you need to support your body's energy system.

In terms of food, calories are calories, and as long as you are getting enough and are eating a well-balanced diet you can't expect anything more there. You might benefit from stopping smoking, at least decreasing your coffee and starting a regular exercise program. Join a group that does something that requires physical activity.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I know you often recommend avoiding cholesterol. I have just found a new milk product that contains no cholesterol at all. In other respects it is as good as regular milk. Perhaps some of your readers would be interested in using it as an alternative to low fat milk.

DEAR READER - I omitted the name of the product because I cannot recommend it to the public. It may taste good and it may not contain any cholesterol but look again at the ingredients. It contains 12 grams of fat per quart and the fat comes from coconut oil.

There are a number of these milk substitutes around that I think everyone should avoid. They are worse in terms of fatty-cholesterol deposits than the real thing. Coconut oil is about 90 percent saturated fat. The saturated fat stimulates your own body to increase its production of cholesterol, outweighing the absence of cholesterol in the product.

I would rather see people use low-fat milk, or better still a fortified skim milk product. But thanks for wanting to help.

Living Water' Featured In Youth Services

"Living Water," a contemporary-country gospel music team from South Plains Junior College in Levelland, will join the Rev. Eddie Trice for weekend youth services at Hereford Church of the Nazarene, La Plata and Ironwood.

Two former Hereford students, Brad Huckabee and Don Weemes, are singers in "Living Water."

Evening services are tonight through Saturday night at 7 p.m. and Sunday at 10:45 a.m.

Youth fellowships will follow each service in the church fellowship hall and gym.

A baked potato stuff and a "Sports Spectacular," games in the gym, will be after tonight's service.

A Lunch-A-Bunch, a free meal for junior high and high school students, will be served at the church Friday during lunch breaks. After the Friday night service will be a French fry feed with all the fries free.

An "Everything you can think in the Kitchen Sink" ice cream sundae will be made and eaten after Saturday night's service.

Spinach is a member of the goosefoot plant family. Surprisingly, it is first cousin to the beet. Eating spinach is a good way to build up iron in the blood.

POLLY'S POINTERS

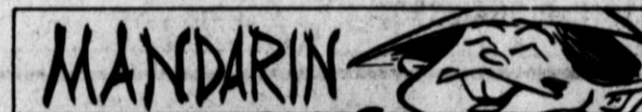

Polly Fisher

Cheese popcorn recipe

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY - Can you or a reader give me a recipe for cheese popcorn? I have tried sprinkling grated cheese on the freshly popped corn, only to find it falls off before it gets to my mouth. - AN AVID READER

DEAR AVID READER - Ah, one of my favorite topics. The surest way to get Polly off her diet is to offer her a bowlful of popcorn! For a cheese-flavored version that stays cheesy, try mixing equal parts of melted butter and grated cheese, then sprinkle the mixture over the popped corn. A little minced garlic or garlic powder stirred into the butter/cheese combo makes a tasty change-of-pace. Finely grated hard cheeses like Parmesan or Romano seem to work best. If you want corn flavored with a softer cheese like cheddar, sprinkle the corn with butter, then the grated cheese, and put the pan or bowl of popped and seasoned corn into the oven for five minutes (350 degrees). This will melt the cheese onto the corn. Messy to eat, but oh-so-yummy! - POLLY

49ers Used New Approach to Draft

By HAL BOCK AP Sports Writer

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Losing football teams use the college draft to patch their holes.

Usually, you grab a tackle here and a running back there. Maybe a linebacker or two, and perhaps an occasional guard. It is a crazy quilt pattern, something like a plumber madly trying to plug a hundred leaks at once.

But the San Francisco 49ers, 6-10 last year, took a different approach in the 1981 draft. On the first round, they picked cornerback Ronnie Lott from Southern California. In the second round, they drafted cornerback Eric Wright of Missouri. In the third round, they went for safety Carlton Williamson of Pittsburgh and in the fifth they picked cornerback Lynn Thomas, also from Pitt.

They probably would have chosen another defensive back on the fourth round but they had dealt that pick away. Coach Bill Walsh obviously was sending a message to his returning secondary.

"We had to have improvement back there," he said. "We were fortunate. It was a banner (draft) year for defensive backs. We were fortunate the ones we wanted were available. We knew all about them."

They knew enough to thrust the first three into the starting lineup along with safety Dwight Hicks. It was not what you would call an instant success.

"Are you kidding?" said

Lott. "We looked like clowns out there for awhile. We were running into each other. I remember in a game against Seattle, Williamson and I knocked each other down. I'm not exaggerating. The quarterback went 40 yards on that play."

It was a matter of getting comfortable with themselves and with each other. It took time but when they meshed, San Francisco's young defenders played a major role in the team's march into Sunday's Super Bowl against Cincinnati. The 49ers turned in 10 more interceptions this season than they had in 1980 and allowed 13 fewer touchdowns through the air this season.

The 6-10 Bengals approached the 1981 draft in much the same fashion as the 49ers, drafting directly to fill their most pressing need. Cincinnati selected wide receiver David Verser of Kansas No. 1 and wide receiver Cris Collinsworth of Florida No. 2. That left little doubt what Coach Forrest Gregg had in mind.

Verser averaged almost 24 yards on 29 kickoff returns, fourth best in the AFC, and Collinsworth blossomed into a Pro Bowl pass catcher, grabbing 67 for 1,009 yards.

So, when the Bengals have the ball and the 49ers are on defense Sunday, there will be several choices from both sides chalking Ken Anderson's passes.

"Don't say rookies," Williamson said, correcting a newsman. "Say first-year players. That sounds better."

Graham Will Curtail Play

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — David Graham, a dedicated globetrotter who has won pro golf titles on five continents and in Australia, will be trotting the world no more.

The current U.S. Open champion plans to curtail sharply his international travel, and possibly his American schedule as well, in order to concentrate on golf's Big Four events, the U.S. and British Opens, the Masters and PGA.

"I'm 35. I figure to play five or six more years," the slender Graham said before teeing off today as the defending titleholder in the first round of the $300,000 Phoenix Open.

"When it's over, my ultimate goal is to have won all four of the majors."

"I've won two, so I think it's only natural to think of the other two."

"To that end," said Graham, a native Australian now living in Dallas, "I'm going to concentrate on the Big Four. I'll play other tournaments just to get ready for the majors. I'll cut back, or cut out, foreign tournaments except for the British Open."

And that's one of the two he lacks. Graham, who has won seven American titles and 16 international events, took the 1979 PGA national title and last year annexed the U.S. Open with a near-perfect final round at Merion.

"I've won the two that I think are the hardest to win," he said. "And, over the last five years, I've played very well at Augusta (in the Masters)."

"Strangely enough, I've never played well in the British Open. I think the thing is that over the years, I've accustomed myself to playing American-style golf. I've become Americanized and don't adjust when I get to Britain."

Graham said he plans to play a heavy schedule for the next several weeks, to sharpen his game after the winter layoff, "then take a break after the Tournament Players Championship to get ready for Augusta. That's my next big goal."

He Loved It!

Lombardi: Performed for Media

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Vince Lombardi would have loved it here this week.

Lombardi's name is inscribed on the trophy which goes to the winner of the Super Bowl, as well it should. It was, after all, his Green Bay Packers, the very model of businesslike ferocity, who won the first two of these games, long before the National Football League came up with the idea of roman-numeralizing them.

Lombardi, it is commonly believed, was also a football purist. Presumably he felt you could take all this attendant hoopla and boot it.

Not so.

"Loved it! He would have absolutely loved it!" Fuzzy Thurston, the All-Pro guard and point man on the famed Packer sweep, exclaimed with a rasping laugh. "It would've given him a chance to be nasty in front of the press. Hell, if there's nobody around, how's he gonna be nasty? He loved to show how tough he was. He had to show the press, his players."

Ray Nitschke, the fearsome Packer linebacker of that era, clapped Thurston on the knee and, with a laugh, added: "You knew when there were media people in the area — on the practice field, in the hotel — that he'd perform for them. He had an ego. He wanted people to recognize him and he was driven by his ego, much more than anybody I've ever seen."

But even before the Packers and Chiefs met in that first-of-a-kind spectacular (which, in fact, wasn't all that momentous, thousands of Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum seats going unsold), Max McGee knew something special was about to happen.

He didn't though, know quite how special.

In the week before the game, as the team boarded buses to shuttle between their Santa Barbara motel and the practice field, McGee would proclaim something like: "This is a Super day to play a Super game and this Super ride is about to take a Super ride." And he'd be hooted down by his teammates.

McGee, a wide receiver, was in the twilight of his career. He'd caught all of four passes during the entire 1966 season which preceded that game against Kansas City. He'd figured he'd spend that Sunday afternoon lounging on the bench, cutting up a few touches with his buddy, Paul Hornung. In fact, having spent the previous night out on the town, rather than in his own motel-room bed, McGee had counted on it.

"Oh, sure, he admits to that now," Thurston said with a smile, recalling McGee's penchant for nocturnal sojourns. "He waited until the coach passed away, then he admitted it."

The game had barely begun when Boyd Dowler went down with an injury.

"McGee!" Lombardi bellow-

ed — and suddenly Max found himself playing the game of his life. Seven receptions (two of them for touchdowns) later, the Packers were 35-10 winners.

"That 'Super' business, that's the way Max always talked," said Nitschke. "That's why he had a super game."

NCAA Refuses Hardship Ruling

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association has refused to issue a hardship ruling for Tulsa forward David Brown, who injured a knee in an early season game.

Brown, a 6-foot-8 senior, was leading the Hurricane in scoring and rebounding before injuring his left knee in the first minute of Tulsa's sixth regular season game Dec. 12.

Tulsa has gone on to post a 12-2 record and is No. 10 in the country without Brown. A hardship ruling would have allowed the El Paso, Texas, standout an extra year of eligibility if he sat out the rest of the season.

Brown attempted to resume practice Friday, but fell during the workout and is back to doing therapeutic exercises, Coach Nolan Richardson said.

Tulsa officials have not speculated when Brown might return to the lineup.

The Missouri Valley Conference prepared a letter Tuesday informing Tulsa the request for a hardship ruling had been denied.

The NCAA rule states the player seeking the ruling cannot play in more than 20 percent of the regularly scheduled games. That percentage of Tulsa's schedule would be 5.4

games, which the NCAA rounds to six.

Seemingly, that would have made Brown eligible for the ruling since he played in six regular season games, including a few seconds of the game in which he was injured.

But the NCAA also counted an exhibition contest against Estonia of Toronto.

"It would be a countable game," said Valley Commissioner Dick Martin. "In fact, any scrimmage with outside competition is countable within the 20 percent limitation."

"I understand the NCAA takes a very hard line on this issue. There have been instances where a player is involved in 10 seconds of the game that puts him over the limit, and the request has been denied."

Martin added, "Sometimes these things are unfortunate. I certainly have empathy for the situation, but the NCAA eligibility committee has drawn a firm line in this hardship situation."
