Accused Berger Slayer Dies Of Wounds Today

SHOTS RECEIVED IN STREET ROW TUESDAY FATAL

McWILLIAMS DIES GIVING NO REASON FOR SHOOTING

(By the Associated Press)

BOERGER, Texas, Dec. 2.—Apparently without knowledge that he was charged with the killing of night Police Chief Irl Rigney, shot Tuesday night, M. F. McWilliams died here today from bullet wounds inflicted by Rigney.

Rigney, as he lay mortally wounded, denied he had shot anybody. He was not told that Rigney had been killed. McWilliams, is said by police to have fired the fatal shot.

No Weapon Found

No weapon was found on McWilliams and shortly before he died he was a continuous resting place. Far from it, it means you will spend your nights in jail and work during daylight hours, and the work, while not heavy, is not as pleasant as some might imagine.

McWilliams denied he fired the shot which killed the officer. His body is being held here, pending word from his brother, at Hearne, Texas.

PRISONERS TO GET DIVERSION

Exercise Believed Needed And Crew To Be Given Its "Daily Dozen"

Confinement in the county jail, so far as Lubbock county is concerned, doesn't mean that one will never see daylight, and that a jail cell will be his continuous resting place. Far from it, it means you will spend your nights in jail and work during daylight hours, and the work, while not heavy, is not as pleasant as some might imagine.

Lubbock county has entirely too many prisoners. Some of them are to remain in jail for long periods, so it was agreed yesterday that too much confinement might not be good for the prisoners, and that a little exercise—say mopping floors of the jail and court house, cleaning windows, dusting furniture, mowing grass and whitewashing trees. Then, too, there are five to build, ask to carry out and Ford cars to crank.

In the past the janitor has had to look after the various tasks mentioned but in the future he will merely see that "the boys" do the work. He is to be guard, foreman, and taskmaster.

The four boys sentenced yesterday on charges of theft were brought down today to begin their labors. So instead of sitting in a cell and enjoying true magazines they will work enough to pay for their keep.

FIND BODY OF MISSING GIRL

Wisconsin Searching Party Finds Body Of Girl Missing Since September

(By the Associated Press)

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., Dec. 2.—The body of Clara Olson, missing since September 5, was found today near Mount Sterling, Wis., by members of an organized searching party.

Buried in a clump of leaves four miles from Mount Sterling, the body of the girl was recovered by searchers, who had set out at day break today to comb Crawford county with only the precaution of a bereaved father as assurance that the girl was dead. The body was found shortly before 11 o'clock.

Found Near Farm

The body was found a quarter mile west of the farm of Albert Olson, whose son Erdman, was sweetheart of the girl, and now is sought on a murder warrant. The farm of Olson, wealthy tobacco grower, who has stoutly maintained his 18 year old son is innocent of crime, lies between Rising Sun and Mount Sterling.

The two Olson families are not related.

Things Do Change

NEW YORK.—Weather reports from eight ships at sea and five distant cities came by radio during an address by Major General James G. Harbord, in a few minutes after his inquiry London and Paris reported cold, Buenos Aires hot, Berlin fog and Honolulu fine swimming weather.

Opinions Differ

OAKLAND, Calif.—The richest people in the world are the American Indians. Their per capita wealth is $4,700, nearly twice the all-American average. And far from being a vanishing race they are steadily increasing. The figures come from Edgar B. Merritt, assistant commissioner of Indian affairs.

Room For Argument

WASHINGTON.—Clara Hamrick, of Waco, Texas, in the view of postal inspectors, is about 30 and very homely. She represents herself as lonely, pretty and 19. She has been forbidden to use the mails. The reason assigned is not her appearance, but acceptance of money on unkept promises of matrimony.

Likeness Of Rudy

NEW YORK.—A double of Valentino is here from Budapest with the dramatic company of Mms. Molnar Fedak Sari. He is Tibor Mindazenty, 27, son of wealthy parents, who plays tennis, rides, fences and rows. When he was boating on the Danube Mms. Sari first noticed the likeness to Rudy.

Fall Pictured As Lease "Goat"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Albert B. Fall was pictured in court here today as a figure very much in the background during the leasing negotiations which form the basis of the criminal conspiracy charge on which he is being tried.

H. Foster Bain, who served as head of the bureau of mines while Fall was secretary of the interior, testified that details of negotiations were conducted by others, that secrecy was observed because the navy department asked for it and the interior head, miles away from Washington, finally gave his approval of the celebrated Elk Hills lease without making any suggestions of his own.

Bain appeared as one of the first witnesses for the defense.

FIRM AGREES TO REMIT THIS AS EXCESS PROFITS

TOTAL RECOVERED IN 2 SUITS BY MOODY NOW IS $1,012,000

(By the Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 2.—Confessed judgment for $412,000 against the Hoffman Construction company of Eastland was entered in district court here today in favor of the state.

The recovery is for alleged excess profits on Texas highway contracts. $1,012,000 Recovered

This makes $1,012,000 which Attorney General Dan Moody won in two suits against highway contracting firms who held contracts awarded by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson's highway commission. The American Road company of Dallas confessed judgment of $600,000 last year.

Settlement had been sought by defendants since the suit was filed by Mr. Moody held out for $419,996, the amount of judgment for damages and recovery of excess profits asked for in the original petition.

TOURISTS HELD BY SNOW STORM

Over Two Score Barely Got Out With L'ves After Two Days On Sierras

(By the Associated Press)

TONOPAH, Nev., Dec. 2.—Two score or more of California-bound tourists who were trapped in a blizzard at Montgomery Pass, in the high Sierras near here, are alive today only because of the heroic efforts of two old time mushers, who effected their rescue when death seemed imminent because of cold and starvation.

The motor caravan, on its way to balmey Southern California to spend the winter far away from snow and cold, was caught in the Pass in one of the worst storms in years. There were 31 automobiles in the group.

Held For Two Days

For two days the hapless motorists remained snow bound in the Pass, without food, blue with cold, and even burning trunks and other personal effects in a futile effort to escape the freezing temperature.

Meanwhile Dan Haskin and Bill Farrington, veteran figures of the west, were pushing through with the motor stage to Bishop, Nevada, unaware of the beleaguered tourists ahead. Even though the snow was ten feet deep in places, getting the stage through was a part of the day's work with them, and they were accomplishing the job when they came upon 22 of the stranded cars. Nine other machines almost covered with snow were encountered a short distance farther on.

Tells What Was Done

"What did we do with them?" Haskin repeated when sought for an interview. "Well, first we broke trail for them on to Benton, where Warren Davis, who runs a resort there, filled 'em up with turkey and trimmings."

"And then we led 'em to the hot springs there, and helped 'em to get into the natural Turkish baths—and that was all there was to it."

The incident recalls the story of the Donner party, whose fate was one of the outstanding tragedies of the old west. This party, trapped at the eastern base of Sierra Pass, 200 miles north of Montgomery Pass, were snow bound for six months, during which time 42 of their band of 88 perished.

OFFICERS NAMED FOR KIWANIS

Repeating the performance of last year when the President was elected by one vote, the Kiwanis club in regular session here Thursday elected Emil L. Klett, Lubbock attorney, President of the club by one vote margin over Dr. Fred W. Standifer.

Other officers elected for the ensuing year were:

Fred W. Standifer, first vice president; H. D. Woods, second vice president; Amos Howard, secretary; T. E. Buckner, treasurer; and Rev. E. E. White, district trustee. The count of votes for the directorate was postponed, and a committee appointed to canvass the poll, the results of which will be announced at the next meeting.

Business of electing club officials consumed the entire time of the meeting, together with addresses by the incoming President and Garland Woodward, retiring leader. The new officials immediately took over their duties, and the club is off to another excellent year.

PICKERS ARE LEAVING

The cotton fields of the Panhandle are calling pickers who have been working in this section and from 55 to 100 per day are leaving this section for work in the vicinity of Childress, Paducah and Quanah. F. C. Gooding, special agent of the United States Department of Labor, stationed here, reports.

Billy Evans Says

BOB ZUPPKE, ILLINOIS COACH, IS AN ARTIST ON AND OFF FIELD

Bob Zuppke, when not coaching football at University of Illinois, is an artist. He is said to be as skillful with the brush as he is on the gridiron.

It was Zuppke who first brought the artistic temperament into the strategy of football, unless I am misinformed.

Knowing the value of colors, Zuppke used them to excellent effect in helping his forward pass game.

There is no question but that it helped the passer in picking out his eligible men. Coaches now resort to many different artifices to produce the same result.

Two years ago when Illinois played Michigan, the game in which "Red" Grange ran wild, scoring four touchdowns in 12 minutes of play, Zuppke pulled another stunt that has since been widely copied.

It was extremely hot, more like a day in August than early fall. It was weather that would have been considered perfect for baseball but far too warm for the grid sport.

About an hour before game time, Zuppke, I am told, gave a rush order to the football manager for several dozen hair hose.

The football manager, schooled in Zuppke discipline, was mighty curious about the reason. It was given when Illinois ran on the field to start the game.

Heavy woolen stockings absorb much perspiration and have a tendency to make the legs feel heavy. It is a reality, not pure imagination.

Rockne's Scheme A great many of the present day backfield stars are strong for the half hose, rather than the long stockings.

Rockne, a great believer in speed, evolved the oilskin pants and rubber pads, both being moisture proof.

This feature of football dress is sure to become standard for rainy weather and muddy fields.

RUM RUNNER IS NOT YET FOUND

Other Boats Join In Search For Arsene J With Two Pro Agents Aboard

(By the Associated Press) NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 2.—Several coast guard cutters and numerous merchant vessels today continued on the lookout for the three masted rum schooner Arsene J. The schooner broke away from a coast guard cutter Monday night during a gale in the Gulf of Mexico, with an assistant prohibition administrator and coast guardsman aboard.

J. B. Matthews, the missing prohibition executive of the Gulf zone, had accompanied the coast guardsman aboard the schooner to guard the crew, after it had been captured near the mouth of the Mississippi river by the coast guard cutter CG-302, Captain J. B. Edmonds, Biloxi, Miss., base commander, who is in charge of the CG-302 at the time. He later reported that, due partly to shortage of gasoline, he lost the Arsene J. during a gale.

Edmonds' report to O. D. Jackson, federal prohibition administrator of the Gulf zone, sent by radio, said: "Comanche, Tallapoosa and Key West cutters and all available boats are being used in search. Steamers are requested to report sighting Arsene J. Harb to Mr. Matthews and Petty Officer Handley coast guardsman is anticipated. Arsene J has possibly gone to Havana and Nassau."

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

JUDITH MARTIN, young instructor at Pendleton University, arouses the anger of DEAN TIMOTHY BROWN by choosing friends among the radical student set, including ERIC WATERS.

DR. PETER DORN, astronomy teacher, is in love with Judith and tries to make peace between her and the dean.

MYRA ALDRICH, in love with Eric, is jealous of Eric's attentions to Judith. Judith befriends the dean's wife when "KITTY" SHEA, town bootlegger, tries to blackmail her. Eric offers to silence Shea.

When Shea's body is found in a creek, Eric is arrested because of a letter addressed to him found in Shea's pocket. Several days later, Mrs. Brown tells the prosecutor prodigious lies, impeding her own reputation, to provide an alibi for Eric.

Dr. Dorn calls on Judith in her classroom, and when Eric intrudes, throws him out of the room. Eric has been drinking and collapses in the hall.

Dean Brown insists that she take part in his reform campaign, which is to end with the mammoth revival meeting of Rev. Forrest Poole.

When she refuses, he tells her that his wife does not wish her to come to the house again.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLII

The dean's words struck sharply on the stillness. For a fraction of a second Judith stared at him.

The dean stood up. "As an evidence of my wife's wishes, let me point out the fact that she was at home this afternoon when you were seeking entrance. We both feel that further intimacy between you and her is undesirable."

He was standing by the desk, leaning on outstretched starfish hands, so that they glowed faintly pink against the table top. His little eyes bored into Judith's face.

Judith turned and walked out of the room.

The shining face of the Rev. Forrest Poole, looking down from every bulletin board and post on the campus, saw some strange sights in the days that followed.

On administration hall, workmen were stringing wires around the dome and building huge letters over the entrance, which would say, "Welcome" to all and sundry visitors on the night of the great rally.

A frequent sight on the campus these days was Dean Timothy Brown, walking arm-in-arm with Peter Dorn. Many people walked with Dorn now—the deans, the lesser faculty members, sometimes a town minister, and occasionally President Banbury himself.

Judith walked alone.

Will Wetherel followed her through the thicket behind the journalism building one day and caught up with her on the bridge over the slender hill that scampered in and out around the campus.

"Judith," he said, pleadingly. She turned around.

"When are you going to take Eric back into favor? I think you're a little hard on him. He really has had a lot of bad luck lately, and your turning against him is the last straw."

"Don't ask you to come to me, Will!"

Wetherel shook his head. "Nope. But, to tell the truth, I'd like to see him get on his feet again, in time for the inter-collegiate debates. Sigma Psi needs somebody on the team. And Eric has been so sunk in gloom lately that he won't even listen to it. Darn shame, too, when you consider his Princeton debate record."

Judith's lips curled. "Will," she cried, "DARN Sigma Psi. I'll manage my own friendships and camities. To his surprise, she turned on her heel and left him. But in a moment she was coming back, her hand outstretched. "Forgive me, Will. I had no right to be so snappish with you. But I've had some burdens of my own these days, and they've soured my disposition."

Will accepted her apology with a nod. They began to walk toward the Prairie Schooner. Wetherel was talking volubly, with only a sideways glance at her now and then for appreciation.

"Look at that silly sign," he exclaimed, waving airily at the letters built over the portal of the administration building. "That's all to impress the legislators. 'Welcome' to their prying noses and their nice fat appropriations in this spring's budget. Old Brown thinks he's made it if the state senators go away impressed with the religious renaissance of Pendleton University. He wants a raise."

"State senators?" repeated Judith.

"Yes, didn't you know? They're arriving the night of the rally, to sit on the platform behind Rev. Poole and say 'Amen' between snores. Kind-a hard on you, Judith."

Judith smiled wryly. "And why?"

"Well," drawled Will, "you'll be standing with your little basket of white ribbons at one of the doors, won't you, pinning the emblem of purity on every young rapscallion who comes in?"

"I will not," said Judith grimly.

Wetherel whistled. "Well, that probably means the end of you then. The dean's got his heart set on 100 per cent reform. You're a fly in the ointment for him, anyway. By the way, how does he put up with your being friendly with his wife?"

Judith's face clouded. "He doesn't. It isn't necessary. She broke off friendly relations with me herself a week ago."

"Hm-m," mused Will. "I understood she was pretty strong for you."

This subject gave him thought until they were near the door of the Prairie Schooner. Then he looked up and, taking Judith's arm, turned into the Schooner pathway.

"When in doubt, etc.," he said. "I sold an old set of sophomore philosophy themes to little Smudge Wilkins today, so I've got twenty-five bones extra to squander. Just remember a set of Roman architecture papers that ought to bring ten or fifteen too."

"What would you do if the philosophy prof had the same exam reader this year?" asked Judith.

"He hasn't," said Wetherel. "And anyhow, they don't really grade those papers. They take 'em home and throw 'em down the front steps. The ones that land on the top step get A, the second step, B, and so on."

In the rear of the crowded room a circle of young men surrounded the largest table. Seated on the edge of the table, with his feet on a nearby chair, was Eric Waters.

Judith saw that he was wearing corduroys and a blue sweater. His face, as he bent over the table in deep consultation with the other men, was flushed and earnest.

Judith suddenly shifted her place at the table.

"What's the idea?" Will inquired. "Oh, I see, you've turned your back to him. Well, don't worry. Waters is too much engrossed in mighty matters just now to pay much attention to you."

He wagged his head knowingly.

Judith gave him a glance, and looked again at the crowd round Eric. But she asked no questions. To the tune of Wetherel's endless chatter, she sipped her chocolate with her eyes lowered.

"Absolute over-threshold," somebody was saying. Judith strained her ears, but the voice died down and she could hear Eric's lower tones, evidently cautioning his companions to discretion.

"Hell brewin' over there," commented Wetherel, fishing for the cherry in the bottom of his limeade glass.

"Every man in that gang leads some cohort of the devil's legions."

"There's Thomas, who is in school on probation, and Bailey, of the TNT's, and Adams, who was kicked off the Sugar and Spice staff for a riqgue wisecrack, and young Ole Johnson and Scrimp Sewell."

Judith raised her eyes from her chocolate cup. "Will," she said, "what is Eric up to?"

He shook his head. "I don't know. That's one reason why I came to you today. Somebody'd better keep an eye on him."

She shrugged her shoulders. "I'm not his keeper."

Wetherel's eyes narrowed. "Judith, don't you think you owe him something, after all? He's risked a good deal for you, hasn't he?"

Judith flushed. "I don't know what you mean, Will!"

"Then I'll tell you. Have you ever really known what gave Eric that bruise on the temple?"

Judith stared, but did not reply.

"And so you really know where he was on Christmas Eve?"

For a long moment the girl stared at her plate. Then she rose to her feet suddenly, so that the silver clattered on the table.

"Let's go home," she said, shortly. Struggling Will was watching her with a half-smile. Struggling his shoulders, he too rose and picked up the check. The group in the rear of the room was watching them.

BREACH WIDENS BETWEEN REPUBLICANS AND DEMOCRATS AS TO BEST METHOD OF SAVING MONEY FOR MR. TAX PAYER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1. (AP)—The breach between republicans and democrats over how to tap the treasury surplus to the best advantage to the taxpayers' pocket book widened today at the capital.

The subject virtually excluded all other issues and renewed into the vortex of discussion practically every recognized party leader of the house where revenue legislation must originate.

House Democratic leaders, after a conference, came in favor of an immediate $150,000,000 cut in taxes, while republican party chiefs stoutly maintained that they would oppose, as all-advised, a new revenue bill at the approaching session.

The democratic program, drafted by minority members of the house ways and means committee, which has initial jurisdiction in taxation matters is based on an agreement reached between representative Garner of Texas ranking democratic on the committee, an Senator Simmons of North Carolina, who heads the minority membership of the senate finance committee.

Under the democratic proposal, the corporation tax at present 13 1/2 per cent, would be cut probably to 11 per cent. The plan was made public by Chairman Oldfield of the democratic congressional committee, who said: "The exact rate of the corporation tax was left subject to determination after further figures for which the treasury has been asked are available. It was the sense of the conference that the treasury will have a surplus at the end of the present fiscal year, approximately a half billion dollars and that further relief to the taxpayers can well be afforded and ought to be given without delay."

Even before the democratic program had been announced, Speaker Longworth, after a visit to the White House, asserted that he was opposed to tax reduction at present and felt that the treasury surplus would either be applied to President Coolidge's tax credit proposal or to reduction of the public debt.

The democratic plan also will encounter the opposition of Chairman Madden of the house appropriation committee, who holds that the seventh congress would present the right time for a new revenue law, although in his opinion, the President's proposal should be enacted at this session.

Both Madden and Longworth contended it was impossible to estimate returns under the present revenue act, and that congress must go slow for that reason.

Chairman Green, of the ways and means committee, also has taken the position, that the time is not ripe for a new tax bill, while representative Tilson, the republican leader, holds a similar view.

Besides endorsing the democratic tax reduction plan, representative Hull of Tennessee, a minority member of the ways and means committee, feels the condition of the treasury would permit substantial tariff reduction and a permanent tax reduction of one cent on corporations, totalling $100,000,000, and the repeal of remaining temporary war taxes on automobiles admissions and certain minor items aggregating $105,000,000, or a total of $205,000,000.

"This would leave sufficient treasury surplus leeway for tariff reductions and farm relief, and also to guard against a treasury deficit," he asserted.

TEXAS LEADERS TO GO TO MEET OF METHODISTS

MEETING TO BE HELD IN MEMPHIS DECEMBER 7-11 FOR WORKERS

(By the Associated Press)

DALLAS, Dec. 2. (AP)—Approximately 25 Methodist leaders in Texas are planning to take part in the church-wide Sunday school gatherings at Nashville, Tenn., for study and conference concerning Sunday school interests of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, commencing on Dec. 7, 1926, and after three years reports hundreds of Sunday schools organized or revived.

COURT ENDURANCE TEST REPEATED

KANSAS CITY, Kans., Dec. 2. (AP)—For advice in conducting an endurance test with the district court, William O. Stone, Fort Worth barber, should apply to J. A. Hall of this city.

A Fort Worth dispatch telling of Stone's refusal to reveal the whereabouts of his daughter, and of being sent to jail for contempt, has an exact counterpart in Hall's case. Hall also is conducting an endurance test with the district court. In fact, has for more than a year, ordered by the court to produce his 7 year old daughter, Angela, in divorce proceedings. Hall refused and was committed to jail for contempt of court. That was on October 6, 1925. More than a year has passed and Hall still remains in jail. He says now that he doesn't know the whereabouts of his daughter, but refuses to tell where she was a year ago. So, if the Fort Worth barber persists, he has a record to shoot at.

Stone refused to tell a district court judge at Fort Worth where he had taken his 8 year old daughter. She disappeared when Mrs. Stone filed suit for divorce.

Stone went to jail three days ago and said he would stay there "100 years" before he would tell. Today his attorney, Harvey P. Sheard, was to ask the supreme court at Austin for an order releasing the prisoner.

BILLY EVANS

Eastern Football

Without a doubt, some new affiliation of eastern teams will come as a result of the withdrawal of Princeton from the so-called "Big Three."

The idea of an eastern conference already has been suggested. It has been looked on with favor in some quarters, frowned on in others.

One of the main objections to such a scheme is that it would be an unwieldy organization, there being so many good teams in the east.

That hardly seems a logical one, since there are plenty of mighty good teams in the west outside of the Big Ten, yet that organization, also known as the Western Conference, has been mighty successful.

It should not prove to be difficult to select 10 teams that would have a pretty good claim to being the class of the east.

Annual Arguments

While it isn't generally known, many of the arguments that arise between the athletic bodies of the various universities can be traced to some grievance over the question of officials.

Some years ago I met with the graduate managers of Yale, Princeton and Harvard at the invitation of Jack Blossom, then in charge at Yale.

The question of umpires for the big baseball games, as well as the rest of the schedule, had been the cause of many complaints. Home umpires failed to give satisfaction.

My opinion was desired as to how the problem of lessening the trouble annually caused over the selection of officials might be brought about.

Hard to Please

Naturally I told the graduate managers that just as long as the home team furnished the umpire disputes would continue to arise.

I ventured the opinion that the same set of umpires, assigned by one man in charge of affairs and scheduled to different games in different cities each week, would be satisfactory, even though the same umpires in the role of home officials would be a failure.

The graduate managers were kind enough to ask me to consider the position of baseball commissioner of the Big Three, with the proviso that I should act as the umpire-in-chief at all of the Big Three games.

While the salary suggested was most satisfactory, other business connections made it impossible for me to consider the proposition.

In recent years the scheme I suggested of moving the umpires around has been used in many of the eastern college games and the results have been very satisfactory.

Ingram's Suggestion

Conditions in football perhaps are even worse. As a rule there is much bickering before the officials are agreed upon. Should an official be so unfortunate as to render an important decision that determines the winner, he is practically certain to be scratched by the losers the following year.

I note that Commander Ingram, athletic director of the Navy, while frowning on the proposed eastern conference idea, said he was in favor of a prominent athletic personage, or a commission of three, who would handle the sports question of the eastern colleges, passing on the eligibility of players and rendering decisions on any and all disputes.

Princeton's withdrawal, while a blow at Big Three traditions, may result in more good for collegiate sports in the east.

PLAN EARLY WORK RAIL HEARING AT HOUSTON OPENS

AMARILLO, Dec. 2. (AP)—Actual work on the proposed Texas-New Mexico-Oklahoma irrigation and flood control project may be under way by 1928, A. S. Stinnett, Texas irrigation expert said today.

Representatives of the three states closed their session here last night after drawing up a treaty which, it is hoped, will be satisfactory to all states concerned, and which will be the basis of proposals expected to be submitted to the legislatures of Texas and New Mexico in January.

Another angle of the proposal will be the placing before congressional committees next year, the plans worked out so far. It is the intention of the commissioners to ask the federal government to stand half the cost of impounding the waters of the Canadian river, to prevent flood damage in Oklahoma and to use for irrigating the plains of Texas and New Mexico.

GIN WORKER HURT

Loan To Stabilize Rubber Price Given

NEW YORK, Dec. 2. (AP)—A $40,000,000 credit guaranteed by a group of leading tire and automobile manufacturers has been arranged through Wall street bankers for the purpose of stabilizing the price of crude rubber, it was learned today.

Log Carriages Are Speedy

"Carriages" for the logs as they are fed into the saws of the more modern mills travel at a great rate of speed. It has been figured that these "carriages" attain a speed of forty-five miles an hour in a space of forty feet. Two men ride the "carriages," one to "dog" the logs and the other to adjust the gauge for the thickness of the board required.

Extension Granted In Osage Drilling

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2. (AP)—An extension of ninety days has been granted oil producers in which to drill wells on the Osage Indian reservation.

Under regulations, a certain number of wells must be produced in a given time by those entering the field, but the interior department explained today that because of the condition of the oil market it had been found advisable not to hold drillers to the requirements.

Indian Commissioner Burks announced a meeting would be held here in January at which the Osage census, which controls affairs on the reservation, would be consulted on a fixed policy to meet the needs.

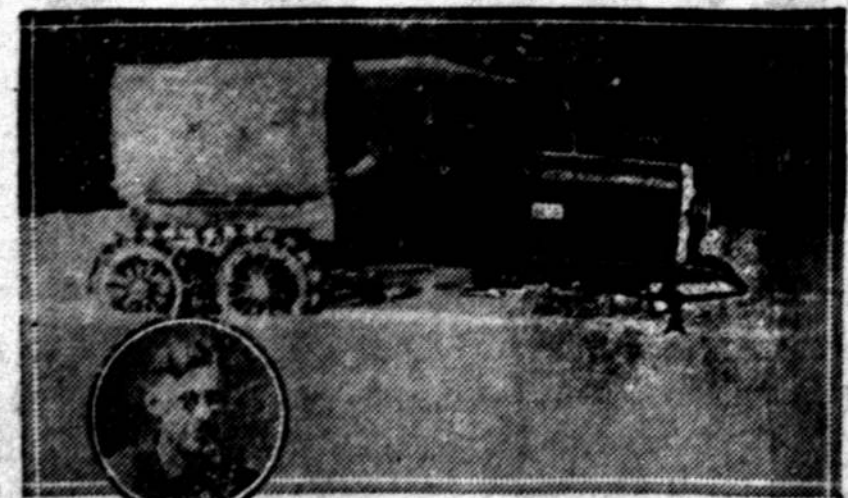

Much Sugar Found In Corn

In a bushel of corn there are approximately thirty-four pounds of starch, and depending upon what the market demands the amount of sugar extracted from this starch varies from a few pounds of all of the thirty-four in actual commercial practice only eight or ten pounds of sugar are taken out of the average bushel of corn today, but the entire thirty-four pounds of starch could be converted into sugar if necessary.

Aviators End Duck Plague

Machine guns mounted on airplanes routed swarms of ducks that were becoming a plague in parts of England recently. The birds had multiplied so rapidly that they threatened to do great damage. Boaters were sent through the feeding grounds, and as the ducks rose the aviators followed and shot them with the machine guns.

ONTARIO VOTES WET IN POLLING ON WEDNESDAY

CONTROL OF LIQUOR BY GOVERNMENT O. K. IN FERGUSON POLICY

(By The Associated Press)
TORONTO, Dec. 2.—The province of Ontario, dry for ten years, has gone wet. In elections held yesterday throughout the province for the 113 seats in the legislature at least eighty members, pledged to support Premier G. Howard Ferguson's policy for government control of the sale of spirits and beer, were elected. Only one remote constituency remained to be heard from.

On the liquor issue, Ferguson, conservative, can count on the support of four independent liberal leaders, who broke away from W. E. N. Sinclair, the liberal opposition leader and the solitary labor member elected.

Two districts voted out. With two districts missing, the standing of the parties in the legislature was: Conservatives 75; liberals 14; progressives 12; liberal progressives 5; independent liberals 4; labor 1. In the old house the conservatives had 78 members.

Mr. Ferguson carried into office with him all the members of his cabinet except David Jamieson, minister without portfolio. The premier had a majority of 1,384 in his constituency, while Mr. Sinclair received a majority of 2,313 in his home district.

By the vote of the people they have indicated that the operation of the Ontario temperance act as a method for enforcing temperance was not considered a success. Much antagonism against the act, which provided for the sale of liquor only on doctor's prescriptions, was due to the claim that it had made things easy for bootleggers.

To Be Called Soon
 It is expected that Premier Ferguson will call the newly elected legislature into session at an early date for the purpose of giving effect to his proposals for government control. The details of these proposals have not yet been determined. The premier has announced that he desires to have the collective judgment of the house on them.

During the campaign it was stated that Premier Ferguson's program would provide for permits for every person over 21 years of age to obtain liquor or beer at government venders' places at a reasonable cost. The cards would be subject to cancellation if the privileges they gave were abused.

Maine's New Senator Opposes World Court

NEW YORK, N. Y., Dec. 2. (AP)—United States senator-elect A. R. Gould, of Maine, is opposed to the world court, he informed the New York Evening Post today.

Answering a query by the newspaper Mr. Gould sent the following telegram:

"So far as I know now, I shall support the President in everything except the world court, to which I am opposed. Other matters will be taken care of as they come along."

PLAN PILGRIMAGES TO TEXAS SPOTS

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Dec. 2. (AP)—Historical pilgrimages to all of the important historical spots in the vicinity of San Antonio have been arranged by the Sons and Daughters of Texas Heroes, an organization that has been working for years to keep alive the memory of the stirring deeds that marked the early days of this region.

The pilgrimages, which will be held every Sunday, will give all natives of the city and tourists, who are interested, all the advantages of a paid guide, such as are employed in European cities, free of charge.

The tours will be in charge of some member of the society qualified to tell the story of the places visited. A pilgrimage will be made every Sunday, weather permitting and at least four historical shrines will be visited on every trip.

The society estimates that it will take almost a year to exhaust the worthwhile historical spots. When all have been visited the pilgrimages will begin over and revisit the points on the itinerary.

The tours will be made by automobile and will start from the center of the tourist colony. The pathfinder automobile of each pilgrimage will carry the flag of Texas.

Extension Of Citrus Belt To Be Attempted

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Dec. 2. (AP)—Extension of the commercial citrus belt as far north as San Antonio is quite possible in the opinion of several experimenters who have found little difficulty in raising saleable crops here.

T. A. Owen harvested a crop of grapefruit with the use of smudges and a special canvas cover for the trees, but experts say that it is unnecessary to take this much trouble. Smudges, without the cover, for use on the coldest nights, would have done as well in their opinion. Using such a method they say that the expense would be only two or three cents per tree in a season.

Mrs. Luis Mulyntis is exhibiting a lemon the size of a grapefruit, which she grew here.

MARRIAGE BARK OF CHAPLIN NOW ON ROCKS AGAIN

(By The Associated Press)
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2.—The second matrimonial ship to be launched by Charles Chaplin is on the rocks, but the motion picture star is making efforts to salvage the wreck.

This fact became known yesterday when Mrs. Lita Chaplin made known that she had taken her two children and left the actor's home. She declared she had no intention of returning. She said she and the children had come to live with her grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Curry of Beverly Hills.

Follows Entertainment
 The separation, she said, followed a disagreement with Chaplin during a party given in their Beverly Hills home last Monday night in honor of the Baron and Baroness Mille de Freycourt, ship board acquaintances, who she met on her return voyage from Honolulu. She left the Chaplin forty-room mansion the next day, taking her babies with her.

Chaplin today expressed surprise at his wife's action. He said he was making reconciliation overtures through mutual friends and hoped his wife would come back. He declined to comment on the details of his marital affairs.

Grandfather Talks
 The first intimation of the cause for the separation came from Mrs. Chaplin's grandfather.

"Mrs. Chaplin has left the home of Charlie and come to my home to stay. She brought her two youngsters with her and we intend to keep them, too," said Mr. Curry.

"All treatment on the part of Mr. Chaplin brought about the break. Mrs. Chaplin told me she could not stand his treatment any longer."

Divorce Is Likely
 The white haired grandfather also announces that Mrs. Chaplin's legal affairs had been placed in the hands of George Beebe, her attorney. He indicated that a divorce probably would follow the break, but said no immediate action was contemplated. He added the comedian's wife, "most decidedly" would fight to retain the custody of her children in the event of a divorce.

ONE DAY AIR MAIL SERVICE LIKELY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2. (AP)—Linking the Atlantic and the Pacific with the loss of only one business day is the goal toward which the air mail service is working.

Postmaster General New said today this would be accomplished as soon as congress provides funds for lighting the last leg of the transcontinental airway from Salt Lake City westward. The schedule then will call for departure of planes from New York and San Francisco at the close of the business day and the arrival of mail on the opposite side of the continent on the second morning in time for first deliveries.

Receipts of the transcontinental route at the present rate should be double for 1927 what they were in 1925. Performance of the service was 94 percent perfect during the last year with a flying mileage of 2,256,137, of which almost a million miles were covered at night.

The placing of transportation of air mail with private contractors is felt by the postmaster to be the greatest forward step in commercial aviation in America since the inauguration of regular night flying. The transcontinental and New York-Chicago Over-Night services, the only government operated lines, will be placed in private hands early next year.

Use Of A Desk

CLEVELAND.—Under some circumstances it seems to be a good thing for a young lady to tilt back in a chair and put her feet on a desk. Miss Frances Perkins, an official welfare worker of New York, delights in doing so. She says that it is beneficial for workers who stand a lot, in that it makes the blood rush the other way and some factories use the idea in rest periods.

That's what I call a cigarette

I MADE it myself . . . with Prince Albert and the makin' papers. Prince Albert? I hope to tell you! Sure, it's a real cigarette tobacco. I'll say it is! I ought to know. Been rolling 'em with P. A. so many years, I couldn't say when I started.

A cigarette made with good old P. A. is cool and sweet, like a glass of milk at the spring-house door. It has plenty of body, but is mild as Maytime in the valley. Fragrant . . . you know that the minute you open the tidy red tin. Fragrant as it burns too.

Another thing I like about P. A. for cigarettes is the way the tobacco's cut. It stays right in the paper. Doesn't dance around with the first breeze that comes along. That means less waste in both tobacco and time. I can smoke one right after the other without putting a wire edge on my tongue or throat.

If you want to make the best little cigarette you ever rolled, get some Prince Albert. Between times, try P. A. in your old jimmy-pipe. If you've wanted to smoke a pipe but felt you didn't dare, Prince Albert is your password to pipe-peace. I know . . . I smoke it both ways every day.

PRINCE ALBERT
 —no other tobacco is like it!

P. A. is sold everywhere. And always with every bit of bite and punch reserved by the Prince Albert people.

"WHERE'S LUBBOCK?"

Doesn't it make you mad to hear a question like that?
If it does it needs to be because it's being asked so frequently, every day, here's what...

The Hub of all this vast territory—a veritable mecca for thousands of people—Lubbock is about as well supplied with road signs as Escoba.

IN NEW YORK SEE-SAWING UP AND DOWN BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The demand in the large department stores of Manhattan for salesfolk of "unusual personality" is proving a life-saver this winter for scores of actors out of work.

Several theatrical folk were advised and told theatrical agents seeking work that there was a new way of keeping the wolf from the door. The more temperamental sneered, but many felt the actual pinch of necessity and volunteered. In one store I saw a former dancer in a vaudeville team, a light comedian and a couple of ingenues from "straight" acts.

SNOW, COLD WATER BEST IN TREATING FROSTBITE
BY DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

When a portion of the body not properly protected is exposed to intense or extreme cold, the tissues become affected. If the cold is sufficiently intense and the exposure is sufficiently prolonged, the part becomes frozen.

When the circulation of the blood is sluggish, as in the very young, the old and the sick, suffering from cold is likely to be more severe.

Blistering May Form
In mild frostbite three usually in meeting and slight pain. If the cold is more intense and the exposure more prolonged, blisters form with serum or blood inside of them.

Referring to the quoted utterance of Chief Justice Taft that "the administration of criminal law in the United States is a disgrace to civilization," William D. Guthrie, at the Harvard Law School dinner in New York, ventured to say: "Judge Taft expressed his opinion in 1905 long before he was President or Chief Justice. He had been there for many years away from actual practice; he had never practiced law in any of the larger cities; he had not practiced law at all for nearly twenty years, except as Solicitor General, and hence he must have relied for his facts in support of such a broad generalization upon the reports of others, and he may have been misled."

BUSINESS CONDITIONS ARE IN AN AWFUL STATE OF AFFAIRS —for the man or woman who sit in their office and wait for business to come to them. But for the fellow who goes out after business, there is plenty to be had. The trouble with the country today is that there isn't enough of go-getters. When pessimism starts, conditions begin to get bad. The people of Texas are just $2,000,000 better off this year than they were at the same time last year. So go out after the business and you will get it. There is someone in the same kind of business that you are in who is getting the business—Why aren't you? The State of Texas County of Lubbock

WHEREAS, by virtue of an execution, order of sale issued out of the district court of Lubbock county, Texas, on a judgment rendered in said court on the 19th day of October, A. CITATION BY PUBLICATION

THE STATE OF TEXAS To the Sheriff or any Constable of Lubbock county, Grock, Texas:

You are hereby commanded to summon W. C. Holt, by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the district court of Lubbock county, to be held at the court house thereof, in Lubbock, Texas, on the second Monday in January, A. D. 1927, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 16th day of September, A. D. 1926, in a suit numbered on the docket of said court as No. 289, wherein, Johnnie Lee Holt, Plaintiff, and W. C. Holt is defendant, and said petition alleging that same is a suit for divorce; plaintiff alleging that she and the defendant were legally married on May 29th, 1923, and lived together as husband and wife until the 5th day of February, 1925, when they separated; such separation being occasioned on account of the cruel and harsh treatment by the defendant toward plaintiff of such a nature as to render their further living together insupportable. Plaintiff further alleges that he failed to support her, when he was able to do so; that he was indolent, cursed and nagged at her continually and seemed to be exceedingly jealous, without any just cause; that during their marriage, two children were born to them to wit: Caroline Holt, a girl, age two years and Wm. C. Holt Jr., age eleven months.

That defendant owns property, same being stock in a sulphur mine in the vicinity of El Paso, Texas, and he represents his interest to be $3,000.00; plaintiff states she is entitled to an interest in said property, likewise, an interest in the Common wells near Breckenridge, defendant's well near Breckenridge, the sum of $3,000.00; that said minor children are entitled to an interest in said property for their support.

Wherefore, upon final hearing hereof, plaintiff prays judgment for a divorce and that the bonds of matrimony between them be in all things dissolved; that a division of the aforesaid property be made; that she have the care, custody and control of her minor children, above named; that she recover of defendant, all costs herein, for general and special relief, to which she may be entitled, etc.

Johann STRAUSS, the "waltz king" wrote his famous "Blue Danube" on a pair of detachable cuffs and then threw them into the wash. They were rescued by his mother and his music publishers made a fortune from the compositions. Strauss wrote so many compositions that he could not recognize all of them.

As Judith turned to pick up her scarf from the back of her chair, she saw Eric climbing down from his position on the table. He bowed, with his hand on his heart.

"Greetings, Miss Judas," he said, smiling cordly.

Several persons near Judith's table heard the words, glanced up and then returned to their own conversation. But in the circle of men behind Eric, a titter ran about.

Whether he was paying the check and had not noticed the incident, when he had put the change in his pocket and was looking for Judith, she laid her hand on his arm. "Please hurry," she said.

He left her at the Stedway door, and Judith, running up the stairs, stumbled through a mist of envy.

A large square envelope lay under the foot of her room.

Dividend Checks To Aid Christmas Cheer

NEW YORK, N. Y., Dec. 2. (AP)—Golden harbingers of a rich Christmas in the United States were the distribution today of December first dividends of nearly four hundred million dollars. This yellow stream will be further swollen when record-breaking payments are made of interest and dividends on January first. Half a billion dollars may be the measure of the January disbursements that will go to the security holders of the nation, now said to number fifteen million.

SAINT AND SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

COPYRIGHT 1928 NEA

Faith, cutting thin slices of her newly baked peanut butter bread and prune nut bread, for the inevitable "refreshments" to be served later, smiled a little wistfully as the shrill clatter and clamor of girlish voices penetrated to the kitchen.

"But Bob loves me," she whispered to herself. "Bob didn't choose one of those bright, laughing, pretty little things. He chose me. My darling Bob!"

"Gimme a stuffed olive, Faith, 'fore you cut 'em up for the sandwiches." Joy pressed close against the kitchen table, her sharp gray eyes watching with greedy interest.

"That's the nicest thing anyone ever said to me, honey. Now you can lick the heel of my shoe and give me a kiss. I've got to go out on my bridesmaid's dress. We're all going to dress up. Just as well be on the night of Cherry's wedding, you know, and if you'll hurry and finish up in here, you can see us. But then you must go right off to bed."

"Let's dress," Cherry cried, when the tumult had subsided. "My dress is in my room." Faith made herself heard over the hubbub of voices. "I'll dress and be out in a jiffy."

dresser. "Make it snappy old dear!" Selma called out shrilly. Faith's fine body had been reduced five pounds by the strenuousness, the worry and excitement of the past two months, and it was a figure almost slender enough to be called willowy that was soon encased in the gold-colored taffeta. The soft rich taffeta was exactly the color of the California poppy—a rich, pure golden yellow in contrast was the deep cape-like bertha of silver lace embroidered with seed pearl. The full skirt was exaggeratedly bouffant with concealed hoops, making her waist look even more slender than it was.

Over the warm ivory of her face and arms Faith dusted an almost unnecessary film of pearl-tinted powder, then deepened the bow of her generous lipstick. Over her sleek hair, parted in the middle, brought low over the ears and looped in a rich, dark coil on the nape of her neck, she fitted the large-brimmed, drooping hat of silver lace, its crown encircled with large, gaudy California poppies.

Self-consciously, because she had never in all her life as a household drudge, expected to wear such magnificence, she tip-toed softly to Cherry's door, and peeped in upon the others. And in the radiance of Cherry's beauty, dressed in her wedding gown, Faith entirely forgot herself.

Youth Files Protest In Bootlegger Attack

OGDEN, Utah, Dec. 2 (AP)—A small boy went to the police station today requesting arrest of a man who had choked him. "What was the trouble?" the policeman asked him. "Well, I've been hiding in an alley watching where the bootleggers hide their bottles. Then I dig them up and sell them for a dollar a bottle. One kid caught me and choked me."

White Elephant Said Born In North Siam

BANGKOK, Siam, Dec. 2 (AP)—The Siamese people are greatly pleased at the birth of what is declared to be a white elephant in the north of Siam. The populace regard it as a particularly good omen in the year of his present majesty's accession. The baby elephant is called by local experts as a true white, although for the moment it is of a pinkish color, and the claim to it being a "true white" has still to be pronounced officially.

HABIT OF COWS EATING BONES CAUSES TESTS

RATION TO INCLUDE BONE MEAL RECOMMENDED TO BREAK PRACTICE

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Dec. 2 (AP)—Bone eating cattle have become so prevalent in the coastal region of Texas, that Texas A. & M. College has conducted a series of experiments with bone meal and salt mixtures to break the habit.

A bulletin just published on the work of Dr. H. Schmidt in these experiments states that the bone "chewing habit exhibited by 75 per cent of the range cattle in that region can be broken if each animal is fed daily about three ounces of bone meal mixed with salt."

The experiments were conducted at a laboratory established at Hammett in Harris county.

Nothing Barred It was found that many of the cattle would not stop at chewing bones, but would also chew sticks, leather, tin cans, ropes, rawhide whips, cast-off horns, rags, pasteboard and rocks. Thirty-eight rocks were taken from one animal's body after it died, the cow having eaten gravel used in concrete construction work.

"It is really surprising how expert some animals get to be in locating bones in the pasture," writes Dr. Schmidt. "I have often observed when cattle were being driven through a pasture that one or the other animal would suddenly leave the herd, walk some distance away, pick up a bone and stop and chew it."

"It was interesting to observe one old cow in this respect. This animal was a constant bone chewer but would absolutely refuse to eat a mixture of bone meal and salt. She was always placed in the pen with the other cattle to be fed the meal and salt mixture, but always would stand off in one corner ruminating contentedly. However, if an old bone were thrown into the pen at some point distant from the animal and without the animal seeing it done, she would not be many minutes in locating it."

It was discovered that this habit was caused by a deficiency of calcium and phosphorus in the feed of the region.

"The facts related probably have been observed by many cattlemen," continues Dr. Schmidt. "Few if any ever save the matter a serious thought for they had seen so many cattle chewing bones that it no longer aroused their curiosity. In fact, many consider it a normal habit for the beast. They had, perhaps unknowingly, suffered heavy losses, because of it but did not realize that the animals were in fact showing the usual symptoms of a lack of mineral nutrients."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—A picture of a new Mexico striving to remedy the wrongs inflicted upon the working classes by "merciless exploiters and despotic rulers of the past," and taking measures to insure them "absolute economic freedom" from exploitation by Mexican and foreign capitalists, was given in a statement here tonight by Edo Fimmen, General Secretary of the International Transport Workers' federation of Amsterdam.

Mr. Fimmen accompanied by John W. Brown, secretary of the International of trade unions of Amsterdam, paid a courtesy call on American Federation of Labor officials today, en route to New York, where they sail December 3, from Mexico, where they made a labor inspection.

Displaying a warm tribute to the Calles government for restoring land to the peasants and providing for their education and road construction, Mr. Fimmen said his chief object would be to inform the workers of Europe "of what we have seen and heard in Mexico and try to destroy the lies and calumnies so abundantly distributed with regard to the Mexican people, not in the last place the perfidious stories about the so-called persecutions of the church."

SALTS OF COPPER FORMULA FOUND

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. Dec. 2 (AP)—Unused for more than six hundred years, a secret formula for the production of salts of copper found in one of Roger Bacon's alchemical works has been proved effective by University of Pennsylvania chemists.

This was revealed tonight a memorial meeting for the late Dr. William Romaine Newbold, professor of intellectual and moral philosophy at the university and gave verification to Dr. Newbold's translation of the difficult cipher in which the Franciscan Monk and scientist of the thirteenth century wrote his works. It was stated that the formula was too complicated to be of commercial value today.

Dr. Newbold's studies in Greek philosophy, agnosticism, christian thought, and archaeology gave him an international reputation among savants, but none of his works attracted more attention probably than his solution of the cipher used by Bacon, who wrote his secrets in this manner for fear that his life imprisonment for heresy and necromancy would be turned into capital punishment.
