Keeping tab on our neighbors:

Christmas Day falls on Monday this year, which fits right into the pattern established by Congress for many other holidays during the year. The reasoning behind the action which established a lot of Monday holidays while erasing some traditional dates was that many Americans would appreciate more long weekends.

Christmas is not one of those included in the change, but it just happens that this year the calendar itself puts it on Monday.

That means Christmas Eve falls on Sunday, and Jo Bright, in the Big Spring Daily Herald, notes that a Madison Avenue preacher has taken advantage of the advertising possibilities this date affords. The sign in front of his church says, "For your convenience, we will remain open Christmas..."

She also told how her plans to give cash as Christmas gifts was abandoned: "Most of the family said they'd prefer something that didn't shrink."

The City of Rotan hopes it has taken a big step toward curing one of its most nagging problems. The city council approved a proposal to construct a new sewage disposal plant.

Mayor Wendell Morrow was quoted in the Rotan Advance as calling attention to problems which arose from the old sewage treatment system.

"There is no other city operation that receives more complaints than the sewage plant," said the Rotan mayor.

The new plant is going to cost $154,000. They hope to get a federal grant to cover about three-fourths of that amount.

"When the wind gusts as it did Tuesday morning during the peak of the cotton ginning season you might as well crank up the fire trucks and stand ready," reports Walter Buckel in the Lamesa Press-Reporter.

Buckel said one of this staffers, Stephen Henry, checked the fire department dispatcher after hearing reports of a fire whistle sounding, and the answer was, basically, "Take your pick...currently we have four burning at four different gins and yards."

Miller Claims Victory

WASHINGTON (AP) — Insurgent candidate Arnold Miller claimed victory today over W. A. "Tony" Boyle in the court-ordered election for the presidency of the United Mine Workers union.

Miller, the Miners for Democracy candidate, said he would begin sweeping reforms in the trouble-torn union as soon as possible.

"We have won the election by a comfortable margin," said the 49-year-old retired coal miner from Ohley, W. Va.

The latest official vote tally from the Labor Department's closely guarded counting room gave Miller 52,403 to 40,966 for Boyle, the union's incumbent president.

The count continued to show Miller with a 56 per cent margin, although the Labor Department has not announced him the winner. The department said votes from 979 of the union's 1,300-odd locals had been tallied.

Miller, who suffers from the coal miners's black lung disease, began a victory news conference by asking for a moment of silence for the late Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski, who was murdered along with his wife and daughter after unsuccessfully trying to oust Boyle in a 1969 election.

A federal judge ordered the current election after finding widespread voting fraud in the 1969 contest.

Truman Said Very Serious

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Harry S. Truman's kidneys continued to weaken today and the 88-year-old former president remained in very serious condition.

Research Hospital and Medical Center said Truman slept only in short intervals during the night and his kidney output continued to decrease despite medication.

Truman was hospitalized 10 days ago for lung congestion and bronchitis, but a weakened heart and failing kidneys have become major obstacles in his fight to stay alive.

At 10 a.m. EST, Truman's pulse was 84, his blood pressure 124-60 and his temperature 99.8.

Dr. Wallace Graham, Truman's personal physician, continued to describe the 33rd president's condition as "very serious," a step below critical.

A hospital spokesman said there was no report on whether Truman's daughter, Margaret Truman Daniel, had decided whether she would return today to her New York home. She told newsmen last week that she planned to return home today.

Truman was on the critical list four days last week before he was classified as serious on Sunday.

Three United Astronauts Linger In Lunar Orbit

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Three American astronauts, united again after the Apollo program's final and most bountiful moon-landing expedition, lingered in lunar orbit today surveying the surface below for still more knowledge.

Gone was the landing ship Challenger, which had carried Apollo 17's Eugene A. Cernan and Harrison H. Schmitt to the surface for 75 hours and then returned them safely to the command ship America and reunion with Ronald E. Evans.

In the early morning hours, Challenger was thrust away from the command ship, and a radio signal from Mission Control sent it crashing into the moon.

Today, and for most of Saturday until they start their journey home, the astronauts' task was to probe the moon with cameras and sophisticated sensing devices. They were in an orbit 69 miles above the surface.

Cernan and Schmitt completed man's most successful moon visit ever late Thursday when they rocketed off the lunar surface with a record cargo of moon samples and film.

After transferring the precious lunar treasure into America, the astronauts cast off Challenger, freeing it for destruction in the cause of science. The lander, which cost $40 million, could not have been returned to earth with the command ship.

"It seems an unfitting finish to a super bird," said Cernan, during his last moments aboard the craft he had flown to a near-perfect landing Monday in the moon valley of Taurus-Littrow. "But it's got one more job to do."

On radio commands from earth, Challenger fired its rocket thrusters and sent itself speeding to an impact near the Taurus-Littrow valley.

Force of the impact caused a seismic shock which excited quake-detection instruments left on the moon by Apollo 17 and by previous Apollo missions.

In a spectacular lunar departure, Challenger popped off its flat-topped landing stage amid a shower of debris and soared upward into the black lunar sky over Taurus-Littrow. The craft's yellow-flamed rocket was visible to television watchers on earth for about 35 seconds before it vanished from the view of a TV camera left on the moon.

Prefers Exile To Soviet Prison

NEW YORK (AP) — Twenty-four hours earlier, he had been told he was a man without a country. Now Dr. Valery H. Chalidze was sprawled deep in an overstuffed chair in his mid-Manhattan hotel room, kicking his heels into the carpet.

"Well," he said, "this is better than a Soviet prison. That, at least, is the consolation."

His pretty, dark-haired wife, Vera, wearing blue jeans and a red blouse, was snuggled on the sofa, cuddling a pillow. She was translating her husband's remarks and interjecting her own.

"You see," she said, "they were frightened of arresting him at home, too much fuss. They did it this way."

By "this way," she meant the confiscation of Chalidze's passport and the revoking of his citizenship. The 34-year-old Chalidze is a Russian physicist who has been increasingly outspoken against political repression in the Soviet Union. Since Thanksgiving Day, he has been lecturing in the United States on the Soviet dissident movement.

On Wednesday, two Soviet officials called at his hotel, confiscated his passport and informed him he had been deprived of his citizenship.

"The U.S.S.R. is my country, and I have the right to return to my own country whenever I wish," Chalidze said, moving restlessly in his chair.

But then he added: "If those two officials had given me the choice, prison in the Soviet Union or exile here, then I would have taken the exile," Chalidze said. "This is the lesser evil. Prison is far worse."

The young physicist's dissident views first came to the attention of the West in 1970, when he was listed as a founder of an unofficial Committee on Human Rights in Moscow, that promised "constructive criticisms" of the status of freedom in the Soviet Union.

One Missing In Ship Sinking

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — All but one of 21 crewmen of the sunken freighter Lincoln Express were rescued during the night, the U.S. Coast Guard reported today.

The search is continuing for the missing man, a spokesman said.

Earlier reports said the 3,918-ton ship carried a crew of 24, but the spokesman said this was incorrect. She was of Panamanian registry and was en route from Haiti to San Juan, the spokesman said.

No Pre-Yule Report Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has no plans at this time to make an announcement on Vietnam before Christmas, the White House said today.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon met again Thursday night and this morning with adviser Henry A. Kissinger, just returned from the latest round of secret peace negotiations in Paris.

Kissinger also is consulting with Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, and intelligence chief Richard Helms in individual meetings, Ziegler said.

But the White House spokesman had no further travel plans to announce concerning the Vietnam negotiating, such as a trip by Kissinger to Saigon or a meeting between Nixon and South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu.

There are continuing Washington-Saigon differences over peace proposals. The sum total of the press secretary's remarks left an impression that the peace negotiations are pretty much at a standstill at the moment.

He declined again to characterize the status of the negotiations beyond saying "negotiations have taken place in Paris" and "we will stay in touch with the other side (North Vietnam) through messages."

Underlining Washington's differences with its Saigon ally was Ziegler's challenge Thursday of a report from Paris that the United States backs Thieu's new package proposal for a pre-Christmas cease-fire extending into the new year.

The White House spokesman referred to the permanent cease-fire envisioned in the nine-point peace plan worked on by Kissinger and Tho since October and said:

"We have a proposal now being negotiated on a cease-fire and we support no other position on a cease-fire."

Thieu has stoutly opposed portions of the nine-point plan including its lack of formal provision for withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from the South. He also is said to want assertion of his government's sovereignty over all of South Vietnam, which the Communists oppose.

Meanwhile some unresolved difficulties were said to exist with North Vietnam in the wake of the lengthy Kissinger-Tho parleys during the past 3½ weeks.

Senior U.S. officials refused to specify what obstacles remain, nor would they predict whe a settlement might be reached.

FDA Tightens MethadoneRules

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government today announced tight restrictions to curb "a growing problem of abuse and diversion" of the heroin-substitute methadone but predicted the number of licensed treatment clinics will double within six months.

The Food and Drug Administration said it will revoke methadone marketing permits held by eight drug companies and substitute a unique "closed system of distribution" only to hospital pharmacies, approved maintenance programs and certain drug stores in rural areas.

FDA Commissioner Charles C. Edwards said the special regulations are necessary "in view of the tremendous public health and social problems associated with the use of heroin, the demonstrated usefulness of methadone in treatment (and) the lack of a safe and effective alternative drug or treatment modality."

"It is not in the public interest," he said, "either to withhold the drug from the market until it has been proved safe and effective under all conditions of use or to grant full approval for unrestricted distribution, prescription, dispensing or administration of methadone."

Taking effect immediately are a prohibition against allowing minors to enroll in methadone maintenance programs, a requirement that patients be addicted to heroin for at least two years before participating, and improved guarantees to protect the confidentiality of patients.

Methadone is a synthetic narcotic that, at high dosage levels, blocks the effects of heroin and, at low doses, curbs the hunger for heroin.

An estimated 55,000 addicts now are receiving methadone at 585 maintenance centers across the country, roughly half of them in New York City. Under the new rules, government drug regulators expect the number of approved centers to swell to about 1,200 by mid-1973.

Methadone patients will be required to take the drug daily at the treatment center, under observation, for the first three months in maintenance programs.

If they show satisfactory progress, they will be allowed to take home two-day supplies and, after two years, three-day supplies.

The FDA conceded that it had received many comments from doctors complaining that the restrictions represent "an unwarranted intrusion into medical practice and the physician-patient relationship by a regulatory agency and would severely impede the ability of the serious practitioner to treat and rehabilitate the addict population."

There is no intent to interfere with legitimate medical practice, the FDA said, but tough regulations are necessary to replace discretionary guidelines published last April.

When husband's away the wife shouldn't play

By Abigail Van Buren

[© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 and have two children, 7 and 5. I married the first time when I was 14. I grew up fast because I had to. My first husband and I divorced two years ago because he found somebody else. He married her the day after our divorce was final.

I was hurt and swore I'd never marry again, and I would use men like they did women. I dated a lot, and then I met John. He's 15 years older than I, and in the Air Force. We fell in love and got married in three months. Two months later he got orders to go to a remote site in Alaska for a whole year.

John trusts me and I'd never do anything to hurt him. I got all the men out of my system before I married him. John said before he left I should go out with the girls and have a good time, that he didn't expect me to stay home for whole year.

When I got off work yesterday I asked my mother if she'd sit with my kids so I could go to the N. C. O. Club on the base for a while. All hell broke loose! She said she wouldn't sit with my kids while I ran around on my husband. Abby, I don't consider this "running around." I just need male companionship—a few drinks, a dance or two and some conversation, or I'll go nuts. I work five days a week and am saving my money so John and I will have something when he gets home.

Please give me your thoughts on this matter.

LONELY IN TEXAS

DEAR LONELY: Married women who "seek male companionship" for drinks, dancing, and conversation are asking for trouble. Why tempt fate? Keep busy with the girls until Johnny comes marching home.

DEAR ABBY: After 20 years of marriage, I discovered last year that my husband was having an affair. I went into a rage. Since then he hasn't left the house, except for work and chores. He spends all his evenings and spare time at home, but our relationship is miserable.

There is absolutely no physical contact, and our conversation deals only with superficial things. Any overture I make, he rejects. He has never said he wants a divorce.

I am at my wit's ends. Should I allow him the freedom of an affair to improve the atmosphere at home?

I'd appreciate it if you would print this with your reaction. Maybe it will help to start a discussion, which otherwise seems impossible. Thank you. DEAD INSIDE

DEAR DEAD: You are being blackmailed! Your husband is saying, "Either you let me come and go as I please with no questions asked, or I'll just sit around like a zombie and sulk in my martyrdom." There is a third choice. If he refuses to cooperate and be a husband, you'd be ahead to sweep up the debris, while you're still young enough to make a life of your own.

DEAR ABBY: Last week my husband and I had a guest over for dinner. My husband loves to hunt, so we served a venison roast, which our guest said was delicious —until she heard it was DEER MEAT—then she flew into a rage! She went on and on about how cruel and inhuman it was to kill defenseless animals just for the sport of it, and that people who destroyed wildlife were sick and depraved!

We were stunned. Both my husband and I tried to explain that wildlife cannot be stockpiled, and if hunting were outlawed, the wildlife would overpopulate and would die of starvation.

She said she didn't believe a word of it—that Nature would provide.

Abby, how can you educate people like that?

HUNTER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: You can't. But if they want the facts, they can write to the Bureau of Sports, Fisheries and Wildlife, U. S. Department of Interior, Washington, D. C. 20240. Or they can do a little "hunting" on their own in their public libraries.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Poets In Space

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) -- Apollo 17 astronauts Eugene A. Cernan and Harrison H. "Jack" Schmitt had two surprises for Mission Control when they awoke on the moon Tuesday.

First, the lunar explorers joined in a duet of "Good Morning to You" for capsule communicator Gordon Fullerton.

Then Schmitt added this version of "The Night Before Christmas":

It's the week before Christmas and all through the LM
Not a creature was stirring, not even Cernan.
The samples were stowed in their places with care,
In hopes that, with you, they soon would be there.
And he in his hammock and I in my cap
Had just settled our brains for a short lunar nap
When up on the comm arose such a chatter,
I sprang from my hammock to see what was the matter.
Down on the breast of the surface below,
Came the cluster of objects as if in snow.
And what to my wondering eyes should appear
But a miniature rover and eight tiny reindeer.
And a little old driver so lively and quick,
I knew in a moment it must be St. Nick.
I heard him explain as over the hills he did speed
"Merry Christmas to all and to you all, Godspeed."
When he finished, Cernan said, "That's the first time I heard that, and I've got to say that's beautiful."
"People always said we ought to have a poet in space," said Schmitt.
To which Cernan replied, "I don't think we've made it yet."

US Billionaire Celebrates 80th

LONDON (AP) — American oil billionaire J. Paul Getty, who may be the richest man in the world, celebrated his 80th birthday Thursday night at a lavish party given by his duchess friend. Getty vowed to live to 100.

President Nixon telephoned congratulations, and the guests included Nixon's daughter Tricia, ex-King Umberto of Italy and more than 100 others listed in Who's Who, Debrett's Peerage and Dun & Bradstreet.

The man who can afford to buy anything showed up with the kind of "trinket" present he said he likes best, a 12-cent lapel-button gift from the daughter of a business associate reading: "I am 80."

His hostess, Margaret Duchess of Argyll, made him take it off. The duchess, the Mrs. Sweeny of Cole Porter's "You're the Top," still refuses at 60 to make any concession to age.

The duchess, whose divorce from the duke in 1963 was one of the most sensational in legal history, and Getty, who has been married five times, have known each other more than 20 years and recently have been making the social rounds together. She said she gave the party because "an 80th birthday should be quite an occasion."

At midnight, the lights went out in the Orchid Suite of the Dorchester Hotel, and a cake with 80 candles and Getty's initials was rolled in.

The band then sang out the special gift of the duchess, her own words to the song that made her famous.

It went:

"You're the top
"You're J. Paul Getty.
"You're the top
"And your cash ain't petty
"I have an open check
"That I would like to pop.
"So if you'll kindly sign the bottom
"You're the top."

The final lines brought tears to the eyes of Getty, who has lived in Britain for 13 years:

"There is just one more thing
"That I want to say.
"Don't forget your home is England.
"Won't you stay?"

US B52s Continue Attacks

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers flew a record 16 missions against North Vietnam Thursday and today, the U.S. Command announced. Nearly 50 of the eight-jet bombers dropped about 1,400 tons of explosives, most of it just above the eastern end of the demilitarized zone.

It was the eighth day of heavy B52 attacks on the area where heavy concentrations of North Vietnamese troops and trucks were reported last week.

A B52 mission normally consists of three planes. The highest number previously flown against North Vietnam was 15 on Nov. 22, the U.S. Command said.

Most of the missions in the North between noon Thursday and noon today hit an area 22 to 43 miles southeast of the Port of Dong Hoi. But two others hit in the area of the Mu Gia Pass into Laos and the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

The U.S. Command reported 16 other B52 missions were flown during the 24-hour period, including two against targets in the DMZ, seven against targets in Quang Tri Province, below the DMZ, and seven elsewhere in South Vietnam.

Hijacker Gives Up To Dad, Doc

MONTREAL (AP) — An armed young Canadian estranged from his pregnant wife surrendered to his father and a psychiatrist to face hijacking charges after ordering a jetliner "first one way and then the other" for 10½ hours across eastern Canada Thursday.

Larry Maxwell Stanford, 21, of Saint John, N.B., released 57 persons unharmed before he walked off a Quebecair BAC111 at the end of a looping flight from Wabush, Nfld., that landed in Montreal, went on to Ottawa and then returned to Montreal.

Armed police waited in a panel truck at the tail of the jet until a government plane brought the youth's father, John Stanford, from Labrador City, Nfld., to meet his son.

Dr. Bruno Cormier, a Montreal psychiatrist, also talked to young Stanford, who during the flight earlier had asked to be flown to Vancouver, on the west coast, and to Winnipeg, in mid-Canada.

"He changed his mind every minute," an official said. "The plane went first one way, then the other."

Stewardess Josette Cote was credited with persuading Stanford to let the plane return to Montreal from Ottawa and to surrender.

"Apparently she convinced him he was a sick man and should see a doctor," an official said.

Quebecair Vice President Andre Lizotte said Stanford pulled a .22-caliber rifle on the station manager at the Wabush airport, in the west Labrador part of Newfoundland, and forced him to get on the plane with him.

The plane landed first at Montreal, where during a 75-minute stop the youth let a stewardess and the 52 other passengers get off. Then it flew on to Ottawa with Stanford, Miss Cote, another stewardess, the pilot and copilot aboard. After 15 minutes in Ottawa, they returned to Montreal to await Stanford's father and the psychiatrist.

The elder Stanford said his son had been living with him about six weeks in Labrador City, five miles from Wabush, and worked part time for a lumber firm.

The young man's wife said in Saint John that he left her in September and she last heard from him more than a month ago. The couple have one son, nearly a year old, and are expecting their second child early next month.

The airline vice president said the line has been taking no precautions against hijacking at such small airports as Wabush because it never expected such an occurrence in a small community.

Jobless Rate Drop May Be Statistical Fluke

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the more encouraging economic signs in November was a drop in the jobless rate to 5.2 per cent from 5.5 per cent of the labor force. But now there seems to be a question of statistical fluke.

As noted by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, one reason for the lower jobless rate was a shrinking of the labor force. Fewer people were looking for jobs.

But curiously, the primary reason for a drop in the size of the labor force was reduction in the figure for heads of households. Which brings up the question: What in the world happened to them?

"The sharp decline recorded in this group's rate of participation in the labor force is an unusual development during an economic upswing," said the Fed, "and may reflect statistical problems."

In any event, it continued, "because these people are the primary source of income for their families, it is unlikely that they will remain outside the labor force for any extended period of time."

The New York Fed also cautions against overly optimistic interpretation of a slowing of consumer price increases, stating in its most recent bulletin that price performance may understate the ongoing pace of inflation.

In October for example, the deceleration to a seasonally adjusted rate of 3.8 per cent, nearly 2 per cent lower than the September rate, resulted mainly from a smaller than usual rise in new car prices.

However, some increases were merely delayed, pending Price Commission approval, which came on Dec. 1. These prices will show up in December figures to be released early in January, and they could change the picture.

While noting that the wholesale price picture might look better when viewed in the perspective of annual rates, which average out the monthly abberations, the Fed observed that November prices were "disappointing."

They were disappointing because:

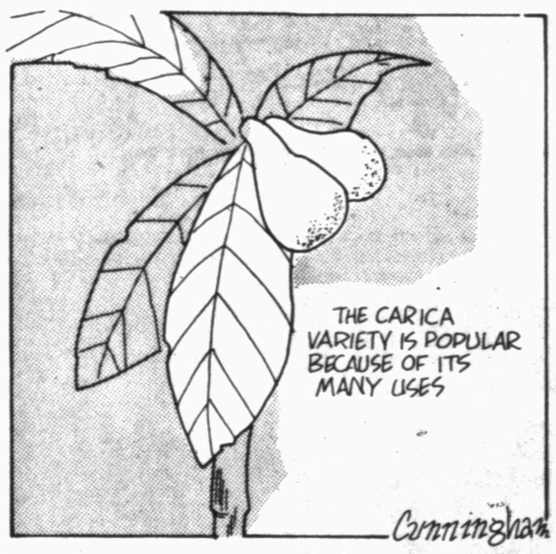

—Large increases in the prices of both agricultural and industrial commodities to raise the over-all price index at a 7.4 per cent annual rate.

—Agricultural prices spurted at an 18 per cent annual rate, reversing the moderation in growth during the preceding month.

—Prices of industrial commodities registered a sharp 5.5 per cent annual increase, the largest since just prior to the three-month wage-price freeze that began in August 1971.

It is obvious from these figures — somewhat startling figures in the view of some analysts--that despite an over-all improvement in the price situation there is still tremendous volatility in pricing and vigor in inflation. If the latter is dying, it is getting in a few lusty kicks in the process. As always, it is perverse and not to be trusted. Thus the liklihood for widespread support for a continuation of wage-price controls.

Junior Editors Quiz on PAWPAW TREES

QUESTION: What is a pawpaw tree?

ANSWER: Pawpaw trees, sometimes called papaya, belong to a genus of about 20 species which are native to tropical and sub tropical countries. The Carica and Asimina are well known types of pawpaw. The Carica originated at an early date in Central America and spread to other warm countries. It has been grown with limited success in the Florida Keys. The Asimina is a deciduous tree native to east of the Mississippi. It is about 30 feet high with long, drooping leaves and curious purple flowers which open before the leaves. The blossoms have a disagreeable odor. The fruit is 3 to 5 inches long and almost black when ripe. The fruit has a custard-like pulp with an aromatic flavor.

The Carica variety is unusually popular because of its many uses. It looks something like a giant palm with its crown of leaves on top. The fruit is round to oblong, yellow in color and sometimes weighs 10 to 15 pounds. It is cooked like squash when it is immature. When it ripens, it is eaten like a melon and is a favorite breakfast fruit in tropical climates.

Boyle Gives Lesson In DoubleTalk

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — All right, kiddies, let's settle down in our seats. The class in double-talk is ready to begin.

Those of you who remained awake during our last session will remember what double-talk is. It is the art of sounding convincingly meaningful while saying something which is usually just the opposite of what you are really thinking.

Double-talk is intentionally tactful, helpful and healing despite its total insincerity. You don't believe what you're saying, but you say it so that it sounds consoling.

Here for your guidance, class, are a few common examples of double-talk in a variety of situations. The quoted remarks are what the person said, followed in each case by what he actually was thinking.

"Are you borrowing my umbrella, Jane, dear?" — I caught you red-handed this time, didn't I, you little thief?

"I think these weekly early morning staff idea sessions will prove highly productive." — At least I'll be able to get all you goldbricks to work on time once during the week.

"It's an honor to reward your 50 years of faithful service to the firm with this token gift of a gold watch." — How could a guy spend half a century without ever getting off his backside!

"I love you just as much as I did the day I met you at the altar." — Once a crazy, mixed-up kid, always a crazy, mixed-up kid.

"There are times when we have to put up with life as it is, not as we would wish it to be." — Weep some more, my lady. You haven't got half the lumps you deserve yet.

"Never mind how the casserole turned out, Kate. After all, I didn't marry you just because I needed a cook." — Right now I can't remember just what it was I needed.

"If there is anything more I can do for you, please don't hesitate to call." — But call somebody else — not me.

"Oh, Harry, you're so impulsive I'm afraid you spent far too much money getting me this lovely engagement ring." — You ought to have given me a magnifying glass, too, Dummy, so I could see it without squinting.

"You never looked better in y'ur life." — Somebody call the hearse.

"I love our class in double-talk, Professor. I wish it would never end." — There are some days when I don't think it will.

UT Transplanting A Whole Prairie

RENNER, Tex. (AP)-At the University of Texas at Dallas they are transplanting a whole prairie.

Fifteen acres of virgin prairie on which can be found more than 200 native plant species literally are being moved from the Hunt Properties, near Renner Road at Plano, to the campus.

"This native prairie is grassland just like it was back in 1850," Al Mitchell, the school's information director, said. "Transplanting of about a third of the prairie has been completed."

The transplanted prairie and its natural life will be studied by graduate students and instructors beginning next fall as part of their courses at the university's Institute for Environmental Sciences.

The prairie is being planted on the west campus area, which recently was donated to the university by the Texas Research Foundation.

Minnesota Favored To Claim West Crown

By HUBERT MIZELL ... Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Steve Spurrier was perhaps college football's greatest all-time clutch quarterback. When the final card fell, No. 11 from Florida was almost always holding the ace.

It won him the Heisman Trophy in 1966.

Spurrier, in first legitimate pro opportunity after five seasons on the sideline telephone, can make the San Francisco 49ers look both happy and silly Saturday afternoon.

My choice is for the 49ers to nudge Minnesota 17-14 in a somewhat-brutal Candlestick Park matchup, taking the National Conference West title and the final NFL playoff berth.

A 49er triumph wipes out the hopes of Atlanta and Los Angeles, but a San Francisco loss will toss title chances down the line with the Falcons getting the next try at glory.

With a 7-and-5 frown from last week's upsetting results, we turn for the 14th and final regular season week with a .745 percentage on 85 correct selections and 29 wrong.

Here's the other 12 calls this week:

DOLPHINS 21, COLTS 17—Miami celebrates the first 14-0 NFL season in history in Saturday's other NFL offering, but not before its hottest rival puts a scare in the Orange Bowl's 80,000.

STEELERS 24, CHARGERS 17—Finally sewing up the NFC Central for Pittsburgh.

FALCONS 17, CHIEFS 10—Just in case San Francisco stumbles, Atlanta will be hungry to step in.

RAMS 20, LIONS 10—Just in case the 49ers and Falcons stumble, the Rams will happily enter the playoff castle through the servants' entrance.

BROWNS 27, JETS 17—Cleveland needs this one since, coupled with a San Diego upset of Pittsburgh, it could wrest the NFC Central title for the Browns.

REDSKINS 28, BILLS 7—Washington marks time, tuning up against Buffalo for their playoff battle with Green Bay on Christmas Eve.

RAIDERS 34, BEARS 10—Same story here, Oakland waiting to see whether it'll be playing at Pittsburgh or Cleveland in the playoffs.

PACKERS 27, NEW ORLEANS 14—Ditto.

COWBOYS 27, GIANTS 14—Dallas, unlike the Redskins, Raiders and Packers, can't afford to fall asleep against the improved Giants or somebody might join Chuck Howley on the clinic list.

BENGALS 20, OILERS 7—Houston already has the No. 1 draft pick in its tattered pocket and Cincinati has a bit of venom to unleash after blowing last week's shutdown with Cleveland.

BRONCOS 30, PATRIOTS 14—Denver goes home smiling for the holidays while New England faces a multitude of decisions about its future.

CARDS 14, EAGLES 10—Larry Wilson's last game as one of the greatest safeties ever. Pardon me Philley, but may he get one more dazzling safety blitz, the maneuver he invented.

Tennessee Is Classic Choice

By TED MEIER ... Associated Press Sports Writer

Victor the Bear may be the top performer tonight as the merry whirl of Christmas holiday tournaments in college basketball picks up momentum.

No player he, Victor, will perform at halftime of the Syracuse-Tennessee game at Knoxville that concludes the first round of the Volunteer Classic, one of seven major holiday affairs scheduled.

Victor is listed to wrestle with volunteers from the crowd as part of the entertainment designed to supplement the actual play on the court. Between the Holy Cross-Missouri game that opens the first round the Little Big Orange Basketeers will perform and during Saturday's final activities there will be a fashion show with "Bathing Beauties."

Although drubbed by Marquette 56-30 in their last game the Vols are favored to win the Classic for the seventh straight time. "I think our team is ready to play good basketball," said Tennessee Coach Ray Mears. "But the thing that worries me is that the rest of the field is unusually strong. All three challengers have moved out to a fast start."

Missouri is perhaps the strongest challenger. The Tigers from the Big Eight are unbeaten in five games and have jumped to 12th in the Associated Press rankings.

Providence meets South Carolina and Santa Clara battles Utah in the Ute Classic at Salt Lake City while in the Jayhawk Classic at Lawrence it's San Francisco vs. Army and Texas Tech vs. Kansas.

Purdue takes on Western Kentucky and Southern California is pitted against Auburn in the Trojan Classic at Los Angeles. In the Big Four at Greensboro,N.C., it's North Carolina vs. Duke and Wake Forest vs. North Carolina State.

In the other major tourneys starting tonight, Oregon meets Colorado State and Nebraska faces Kentucky in the UK at Lexington, Ky., while in the Marshall Invitational at Huntington, W.Va., Princeton is pitted against second-ranked Florida State and Baylor goes against Marshall.

West Texas State won its sixth straight as a feature of the comparatively few games played Thursday night. The Buffaloes beat St. Peters 100-81 led by Jerry Christian who scored 25 points and grabbed 18 rebounds.

Ev Fopma also threw in 25 points for Idaho State as the Bengals from the Big Sky Conference knocked Wyoming from the unbeaten ranks 70-51. Brown upset Manhattan 61-54 and Fordham routed Columbia 84-66 while Weber State whacked Northern Illinois 95-66.

East Carolina humbled St. Francis, Pa., 76-73, Boise State downed Hardin-Simmons 78-60, Maine whipped New Hampshire 70-55, Rhode Island overcame Vermont 78-73 and Seton Hall thumped Wagner 93-44 in other games.

Tigers Host Ector Here Tonight

A rematch of last season's regional opponents will take place in the Scurry County Coliseum tonight when the Snyder Tigers host Odessa Ector. Tipoff will be at 8 o'clock following the JV game at 6:15 p.m.

Last season, the Tigers and Eagles met three times. Odessa won the first game and Snyder won the second one. The third meeting was in Levelland for the regional crown and Ector won it by one point and subsequently won the state championship in Class AAA.

"It should be another exciting ball game," said Snyder Coach Bob Moore. "They lost their two high scorers and we lost our two high scorers—Dubby Preston and Tommy Washington. So both teams should be on an even footing."

Coach Moore said probable starters for the game will include Jerry and Gary Brooks, Jim Fred Liner, Kevin Jones and either Moell Blalock or Welton Cobb.

Others ready for service are Charlie Anderson, Charles Cain, Tim Jones, Richard Gorman, V.T. Roberson, and Larry Johns.

The Tigers are 9-5 for the season. Next Tuesday, they will be at San Angelo.

Csisco had four boys in double figures. They built a 42-33 lead at halftime and maintained a modest lead throughout the game. The loss leaves the Westerners with a 7-5 season record. The Westerners will be off for the holidays until Jan. 12 when they tangle with Fort Worth Christian in Fort Worth.

WTC put in 34 of 55 for 62 per cent from the field. Walter Hanibal, who netted 12 of 15 floor shots, had a hot night. Smith Offered SMU Position

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma State University football Coach Dave Smith has been offered a similar position at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, the Tulsa Daily World reported Thursday night.

Smith left immediately for Dallas to discuss the offer. A highly placed source in Dallas said the committee thought it "was 99 per cent certain" that Smith would accept, World sports editor Bill Connors said.

Smith could not be reached at once on the report.

He said Wednesday that several important questions he raised when interviewed last week had not been answered. Smith said he could not consider accepting the position until the questions were answered.

The meeting, reportedly set up at Smith's request, was scheduled to discuss the questions.

Robert H. Stewart III, Dallas banker and chairman of a 17 member selection committee, confirmed that his group made a recommendation. He said SMU's president, Dr. Paul Hardin, "will make an announcement the first part of next week."

Smith, 39, was an assistant at SMU for nine years and was offensive coordinator there before taking a similar post at Winnepeg in the Canadian Football League.

In his first year at OSU, he coached the Cowboys to a 6-5 record, their best since 1969, and a tie for third in the powerful Big Eight.

No names were mentioned for the job by the selection committee but speculation on the possible choice had centered on Smith.

Aaron Holds Eight Records

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The rewriting of baseball's record books after last season has Atlanta outfielder Hank Aaron holding eight National League records in batting—seven of them major league highs—and tied for three others.

The 37-year-old slugger now holds lifetime major league records for most total bases, 6,172, and runs batted in 2,037, official National League statistics issued today showed. The old records were 6,134 total bases by Stan Musial of St. Louis, set in 1963, and 1,987 runs batted in by New York Yankee immortal Babe Ruth in the years 1914-1935.

In the 1972 season Aaron was fourth among six National League hitters with slugging percentages above .500. He had .514 in that department where Billy Williams of Chicago led with .606, followed by Willie Stargell of Pittsburgh, .558, and Johnny Bench of Cincinnati, .541.

Five of Aaron's major league records were his at the start of last season, and these he extended to: 14 seasons with 30 or more home runs; 18 seasons—and 18 consecutively—with 20 or more homers; 107 lifetime sacrifice flies, and 270 intentional bases on balls.

There were no games in the National Basketball Association.

Utah started slowly against Memphis and managed only a 29-24 lead after the first period. But the Stars opened a 61-48 spread at the half and ran roughshod over the last-place Tams in the second half to remain within one game of Indiana in the Western Division.

Indiana rookie Buse surrendered scoring honors to teammates Mel Daniels and George McGinnis, who had 29 apiece, but the first-year man tallied eight points in the third period as the Pacers overcame a five-point deficit to take the lead for good.

Snow Postpones Ski Lodge Opening

TELLURIDE, Colo. (AP) — Officials of Colorado's newest ski area here say too much snow has forced them to postpone the opening.

More than 100 inches of snow have fallen on Telluride Ski area in the past month, leaving about a nine-foot base at the top of the mountain and three feet at the bottom.

The abundance of snow has prevented installation of electric lines to power the lifts and warming houses.

Originally scheduled to open Friday with its official opening set for Saturday, the area now won't be available for skiing until Saturday of next week.

Santa And The Ice King

SYNOPSIS: Santa, Oonik and Keotuk are going to visit the Ice King to persuade him to put a stop to the continous winter. Tweedleknees, Santa's helper, has finally gotten into the spirit of the thing and agreed to build Oonik a sled.

With Santa's help, Oonik built a perfect igloo.

CHAPTER EIGHT
OONIK BUILDS AN IGLOO

The fairies built up the fire in the workshop. Sadly they threw doll beds and toy blocks, wooden soldiers and boxes of trucks into the flames. The room grew warm again and the fairies stopped shivering and sneezing and were able to smile.

But Oonik watched with tears in his eyes as the fabulous toys went up in flames.

"Don't worry," the fairies said, "We'll be able to make toys again when Santa destroys the miserable Ice King."

"He musn't destroy the Ice King," corrected the Queen Fairy. "We want winter in the wintertime but we also want summer in the summertime. That's what Santa is to straighten out with the Ice King. Oh, it will be lovely to see a flower growing again!"

"Oonik!" growled Tweedleknees. "Come here!"

The flappy-eared dwarf had taken apart seven toy wagons and rebuilt them into a long red sled with wagon sides for slats and steel wheel spokes curved into runners.

"How is that?" demanded Tweedleknees.

"Beautiful!" exclaimed Oonik truthfully. "It looks also very fast."

"Any sled I make is fast," boasted Tweedleknees. "The fairies have brought in the reindeers' harness. Hitch up your dog and you're ready to go. Oh, and here's something else you may need."

The gruff old dwarf handed Oonik an ice saw and a seal spear far finer than the ones he had lost on the frozen sea.

"Oh, thank you," said Oonik, surprised and pleased.

Santa came carrying a sack of food. "Mrs. Claus felt so much better when I told her my plans she got right out of bed and made doughnuts and cookies and gingerbread men--all for Oonik the Eskimo boy, she said."

Now Oonik had never in his life eaten cake or cookies but when he asked what they were Santa said, "Never mind, You'll soon find out. I have raw meat here also for Keotuk."

They packed the tools and food on the sled. Then Santa and Oonik climbed on and, while Tweedleknees shouted a tearful goodby, away they went.

Keotuk wore his little seal skin shoes and bounded joyfully over the snow. But the sled was large and the load heavy and soon Keotuk had to slow down. Again and again Santa and Oonik got off to walk but often they fell or got separated in the falling snow so finally they stayed on the sled and let Keotuk pull it as best he could.

The further they went the colder it became. This was good because it meant they were getting closer to the Ice King's domain. But finally, Keotuk could go no further and they had to stop.

The snow drifts were packed so hard it was impossible to burrow into them for protection while they slept and ate.

"I shall build an igloo!" exclaimed Oonik.

"I am afraid it would take too long," protested Santa.

"Oh, no," replied Oonik. "My father has taught me. I can build one in an hour. Watch!"

With his snow saw he cut out blocks of ice from the drifts. Each block was about the size of a small suitcase. With Santa's help, he placed the blocks in a circle about eight feet across being careful to lean each block inward. The next two blocks he shaved down in such a way that when the second row of blocks went on it spiraled upward and inward.

Soon the spiral almost closed over Oonik's head. He decided to leave an opening there to let in light.

But now he was inside a house with no door. He dug his way out making a long tunnel under the wall.

Then he said to Santa, "Come on in!"

It was a very tight squeeze through the tunnel but Santa made it by pulling in his tummy and holding his breath. Then Oonik brought in Keotuk and pulled in the sled because the sled was long and narrow.

Now they were safe and warm and not even the Ice King could harm them.

Sketches Of Twelve American Moonwalkers

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The flight of Apollo 17, last of the series, brought to 12 the number of American astronauts to set foot on the moon.

Here are brief sketches of the moonwalkers, starting with Neil Armstrong in 1969:

APOLLO 11, July 16-24, 1969

Neil A. Armstrong — A civilian from Wapakometa, Ohio, Armstrong planted the first footprint on the moon July 20, 1969, with the words: "That's one small step for a man, one giant leap for mankind." He is a former test pilot and a veteran of the Gemini 8 flight in 1966. He left the astronaut corps and is now a professor of engineering at the University of Cincinnati.

Edwin A. Aldrin — Aldrin, an Air Force colonel, followed Armstrong to the lunar surface and shared the limelight. He set a spacewalking record by spending more than five hours outside the Gemini 12 spaceship in 1966. He quit the astronaut corps to assume command of Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., but subsequently resigned from the military. He is now writing his autobiography.

APOLLO 12, Nov. 14-24, 1969.

Charles Conrad Jr. — A Navy captain from Philadelphia, Pa., Conrad is the father of four sons and is one of the space program's most experienced pilots. Besides commanding the Apollo 12 mission, he was a crew member of the Gemini 5 and 11 flights and will command the first of the Skylab missions next spring.

Alan L. Bean — One of several Texans in the astronaut ranks, Bean also is pegged for further space flight. As commander of the second of the Skylab operations, he was one of the third group of astronauts named in October 1963.

APOLLO 14, Jan. 31-Feb. 9, 1971

Alan B. Shepard Jr. —A graduate of Annapolis and a Navy rear admiral, Shepard was the first American to journey into space. His May 5, 1961, suborbital flight in the Freedom 7 spacecraft signalled U.S. entry into the space race. He is now chief of the Astronaut Office at the Manned Spacecraft Center.

Edgar A. Mitchell — Another Texas native, Mitchell left the space program after the lunar mission, his only space flight. The former Navy captain, who conducted a test of extrasensory perception while in space, left NASA, he said, to study "the psychic potential of man and other forms of life."

APOLLO 15, July 15-Aug. 7, 1971

David A. Scott —An Air Force colonel, Scott flew with Armstrong on Gemini 8 and with James McDivitt and Russell Schweickart on the earth orbital Apollo 9 flight. Scott was reprimanded later for taking unauthorized stamp covers to the moon and subsequently was reassigned to a desk job at the space center.

James B. Irwin — Like Scott an Air Force colonel, Irwin also was involved in the stamp incident and removed from astronaut status. The Pittsburgh, Pa., native viewed the moon flight as an "overpowering religious experience" and resigned from the astronaut corps to become an evangelist.

APOLLO 16, April 16-27, 1972

John W. Young — A quiet-spoken Navy captain, Young became a four-time space veteran as the commander of Apollo 16. He flew into space earlier on Gemini 3, Gemini 10 and Apollo 10. He later served as the backup crew commander for Apollo 17 and is now actively involved in development of the space shuttle.

Charles M. Duke — An Air Force colonel, Duke was the lunar module pilot of Apollo 16, his first flight into space. Duke enlivened the Apollo 16 moon walks with an impish humor expressed in the southern accent of his Charlotte, N.C., birthplace. Duke was the backup lunar module pilot on Apollo 17 and is now turning his attention to the shuttle.

APOLLO 17, Dec. 7-19, 1972

Eugene A. Cernan — A Navy captain, Cernan orbited earth three days on Gemini 9 — the flight that perfected the rendezvous and docking techniques necessary for moon landings. He later was on Apollo 10, as pilot of the lunar module that swooped within eight miles of the moon to verify the LM's capability in moon orbit.

Harrison H. Schmitt — A bachelor who holds a doctorate in geology, Schmitt was the first scientist to go to the moon. Born in Santa Rita, N.M., Schmitt had been a teaching fellow at Harvard, learned to fly as an astronaut and helped train previous moon walkers.

"Nor the churl said to be bountiful." Isaiah 32:5.
It's easier to be generous than to be just;
Sometimes the most bountiful one cannot trust.
One may give with his heart in an act of great beauty
Or dole out a gift to escape from a duty.
The unselfish are worthy—benevolent—kind,
Yet the generous toward justice can sometimes be blind.

Holiday Sales Up

NEW YORK (AP) — The happiest face in the Christmas shopping crowd this year may belong to the retailer.

An apparent rise of 5 to 10 per cent in Christmastime sales throughout the nation is bringing good cheer to local merchants and executives of major department-store chains.

With 10 days to go before the holiday, exact results still are uncertain. Some business analysts spoke of a "frenzy of buying" gripping the nation.

However, the National Retail Merchants Association, which represents 28,000 stores, said sales for the three weeks ended Dec. 9 were up only 2.1 per cent from last year's pace.

Last December, retail sales totaled an estimated $42.6 billion.

The NRMA blames bad weather for holding down the increase so far but believes that, before this year's Christmas season is over, last year's figures will be surpassed by about 6 per cent.

Pocket calculators, hot combs and microwave ovens were some of the newest sales sizzlers which Associated Press correspondents found around the country.

More traditional big-price-tag items such as stereos, televisions and cameras also were reported selling well.

34 Years Late

CLARKSBURG, W.Va. (AP) — Kendall H. Keeney received a letter this week that made it through the mails with only a two-cent stamp.

And only 34 years late.

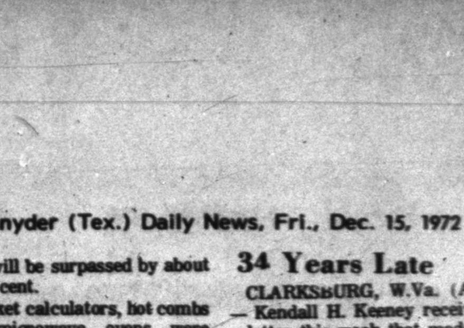

Postal officials said the letter mailed from the Clarksburg Community Chest on Nov. 29, 1938, was found during renovation
