Know Your School

Plans are underway to organize for the ladies of the town an afternoon cooking school to be conducted under the instruction of Miss Bonnie Cox, home economics instructor.

The exact dates for the classes have not been set, but it is expected that the ladies foods class will come from 3:30 to 5 o'clock every school day from April 14 to May 2 inclusive which will make a course of fifteen lessons.

In addition to the foods lessons, lectures on such topics as infant feeding, meal planning, table service, home furnishings and household budgeting will be presented by Miss Cox.

No previous training in foods or home nursing classes is necessary in order to be a member of the foods study group.

Arrangements to include courses in vocational agriculture in the next year's curriculum are under consideration, according to Supt. B. J. Brannan.

Mr. J. B. Rutland, assistant state supervisor of vocational education, Austin, was here last week to discuss with Mr. Brannan and the board vocational agriculture work as it is being carried on in Texas high schools.

Conditions are favorable here for the introduction of vocational agriculture classes, according to the opinions expressed by Mr. Rutland during his visit. Such a course in Sanderson High School will be centered around sheep and goat raising, since that is the foremost industry of this section.

Evening classes for adult farmers and ranchmen will probably be scheduled if a vocational agriculture instructor is secured for next year.

The seniors have already begun practice on their annual play, "Getting Acquainted with Madge", a comedy, which will be given in April.

A baby girl was born on Saturday, March 15th, to Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Rustin. The little one died at birth and was buried in the cemetery that afternoon.

Years of continuous service to the majority speaks for itself. Let us do all of your dry cleaning, all of the time. We invite your inspection of our modern extra ordinary plant.

Road Contract Let

About one hundred miles of new construction and two reinforced steel and concrete bridges were contracted by the Highway Commission last Monday.

Of the projects let, one was the strip of land that lies in Pecos county on Highway 3 U. S. 90 and which for some time has been under advisement by the Commission. This contract for the building of the road which is 11.6 miles in length includes grading and drainage structures. L. J. Miles of Fort Worth was awarded the contract for $45,945 for the road work and the Austin Bridge Company of Dallas was allowed contract for bridges at a cost of $31,940.

TRANS-PECOS TELEPHONE SOLD

The Trans Pecos Telephone Company, which has been owned by O. H. Mc Adams of this city, was sold the past week to parties in Del Rio who have incorporated and who have also bought out two other telephone companies. L. Rust, Judge W. F. Boggess and J. V. Rucker of Del Rio are the incorporators, according to the Del Rio Herald.

A merger of the three telephone companies, the Del Rio and Western, the Laredo Southwestern and the Trans-Pecos will have a combined capital stock of $750,000 and Del Rio will be the headquarters. The new concern will have about 7,000 miles of toll pole line among its facilities.

The three way merger is to be known as the Del Rio and Winter Garden Telephone Company. L. Rust, who has been general manager of the Del Rio Company and of the Laredo Southwestern, will be the general manager of the combination. While J. A. Forman, who was vice president of the Trans-Pecos and secretary of the Del Rio and Western and the Laredo Southwestern will be the secretary of the three way merger. O. H. McAdams will be the manager of the Telephone company here.

The combined system will have connections with the Bell system at Cotulla, Laredo, San Diego, Sanderson and Uvalde. The Trans-Pecos concern operated the properties at this place and at Marathon.

Mrs. Theresa Walter of San Antonio is visiting Mrs. Joe Wolf and family.

W. B. A. Holds Meeting.

Mrs. Sallie D. Botzler, State Supervisor of the Woman's Benefit Association, with headquarters in Dallas, paid an official visit to the Sanderson Review last Saturday.

A large number of the members were out for the afternoon meeting which was held at the Masonic Hall. Mrs. Botzler gave a very interesting talk on the new policies that this fraternal society now offers for the women who desire insurance protection. This is the only woman's fraternal organization in existence and one of the strongest fraternal organizations there is. At this time the local Review was reorganized and the following were elected as officers to serve for this year. President, Mabel Henshaw; vice-president, Ida Laughlin; recording secretary, Mabel Yeates; past president, Essie Haass; Chaplain, Nancy Litton; lady of ceremony, Cecil Fletcher; captain, Mrs. Strange; sergeant, Iola Schupbach; Miss America, Eva Stansell; Miss W. B. A. Jack Banner; officer of day, Ida Bodkin.

Following the meeting the members were served refreshments of ice cream and cake.

Anniversary Luncheon

The Brotherhood of R. Ry. Trainmen and ladies aux. gave a joint luncheon Monday March 17th, honoring the 10th. anniversary of the ladies aux. of the trainmen. The dining room of masonic hall was inviting indeed with the colors of St. Patrick in the decorations, a plate lunch of chicken salad, creamed peas and new potatoes, olives, celery curls, bread and butter, sandwiches and cake with coffee or chocolate was served to sixty guests. Games, dancing and jokes were enjoyed until a late hour. The gathering is first of a series that will be enjoyed throughout the year.

Birthday Party.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Williams entertained with a bridge party in their home Friday evening in honor of their son, McDuffy, it being his birthday. St. Patrick's color theme was carried out in decorations and refreshments. Mrs. F. Younger won high score for the ladies and Miss Myrtle Harrell received low. Mr. Walter Grigsby won high score for the gentleman and Fred Charlton accepted low. Mrs. S. C. Bodkin, Mrs. Parsons and Mrs. A. C. Clatfelter assisted hostess in serving delicious fruit jello, Saltines, cake and coffee. The birthday cake was cut by all present. Louise White got the button, Marvin Kelly the thimble and Lynn Harrell the dime. All left wishing McDuffy many happy returns of the day.

Mission Study.

"The Church and the World Parish", mission study, which the Methodist ladies have been studying for the past four weeks, was completed last Tuesday afternoon, under the leadership of the pastor, Rev. W. M. Justice. This book has been quite interesting and helpful to the members of the class.

Mrs. Gussie Daniel of San Antonio came in Thursday to spend a few days with home folks on the ranch.

A "Whiskers" Come-back?

Horace Greeley

Edwin M. Stanton

Napoleon III

Gen. A.E. Burnside

Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

RE whiskers about to stage a come-back on the face of American manhood? Wait, now, before you give a scornful reply to that question! For there are certain signs to indicate that the idea is not so fanciful as it may appear to be at the first superficial thought.

Do our newspapers accurately reflect contemporary American life? Consider, then, two newspaper items. One reads as follows:

Apocryphal rumor that whiskers are about to do a come-back as a companion piece to bustles, also reported to be staging a come-back, this should bring about a revival of the pottery industry by stimulating trade in mustache cups. —Auroras (Mo.) Review.

The other goes into the subject more exhaustively and says:

Taffeta and ruffles have been worn before, and still there was no wide outbreak of whiskers. We had the long skirt for a while, too, and few whiskers returned. But it will be a surprising and an unhistoric thing if we can have black mitts for evening and billowy skirts that sweep the ground and these coy puff sleeves and lace bonnets and now long-skirted bathing suits, even—and never a burnside to go with them. The wax models in the windows of shop and shoppe alike cry out for bearded company. A woman in such apparel not only needs an escort to the stores; she needs a doughty blade with whiskers. Therefore, he will appear, and the motion picture doctor will no longer be alone in his Van Dyke.

There are portraits, political and musical. A Paris dispatch informs us that "the present French cabinet, which consists of 22 ministers and sub-ministers, shows not a single shaven member," and in addition, four chief representatives at the London parley brought mustaches, while the fifth has a beard. Locally, every one is aware of Chief Justice Hughes, Mr. J. Ham Lewis, Louis Gravoire, Doctor Britton of the New York botanical garden and Ernest Boyd, critic incarnate, and finally several tenors have appeared in these mustaches which we associate with hair-tonsors.

Inevitably we must return to our mustache chops if the spring fashions come back toward 1830. The short beard, the sprigged frock, the chignon and the genteel black glove look good with no protective whiskers. Give them, yet here they are. And when whiskers come back, mark your grandfather's words, so will chaperons. —New York Herald Tribune.

There you have it—from both the rural and the metropolitan press, representing both the country and the city! However true it may be that the safety-razor-using, smooth-faced American appears to be in the majority today, is it beyond belief that he may choose to return to the be-whiskered glory of the past? History shows that the facial adornment of the ruler of a nation usually sets the hirsute styles of the citizens of that nation. Now, of course, in a democracy such as ours the citizens are not likely to imitate the example of their President as are the subjects of a monarchy to follow the mode set by their king or emperor.

But the fact remains that during most of our history Americans have in general followed the style in regard to whiskers or no whiskers as set by our Presidents, although that may have been only a coincidence. Our early Presidents from Washington down to and including Buchanan were all smooth-faced and most Americans of their times were, too. Abraham Lincoln was the first President with a full beard and during his administration the golden age of whiskers began. Not the least of the elements which made the Civil war so picturesque were the magnificent mustaches, beards and sideburns which adorned the generals and statesmen, both Union and Confederate, during that period. A Civil war general, or even a colonel, a major or a captain without whiskers—well, the picture simply isn't complete, that's all!

Lincoln's successor, Andrew Johnson, was smooth-shaven. It is true, but his successors more than made up for his deficiency in carrying on the tradition. With the inauguration of Grant, whiskers came definitely into their own and for the next thirty years they were much in evidence in both the White House and the Capitol. Grant, Hayes, Garfield and Harrison all wore full beards. Arthur wore a mustache and sideburns and Cleveland wore a mustache. McKinley's smooth-shaven face marked the end of the bearded era, but Roosevelt and Taft symbolized a sort of a hang-over with their mustaches.

The present smooth-shaven era began with Woodrow Wilson and has continued through the administrations of Harding and Coolidge down to the election of Hoover. Now that we have had nearly twenty years of smooth-shaven Presidents is the pendulum about to swing back again, and give us another bearded President to set the style for his fellow-Americans? And if whiskers are to stage a come-back, what are to be the most popular styles?

Look at the portraits of the be-whiskered notables shown above and pick out your own style. The full, flowing "chest-protector" beard worn by Edwin M. Stanton, secretary of war in Lincoln's cabinet, is not only typical of the style most popular in the American golden age of whiskers but it is one of the oldest styles. As will be seen by data presented later in this article, it goes back to very ancient times. If, however, it would overtax the patience of the average American to wait for the growth of such a luxuriant crop, the hairy collar style, with the ostrich plume effect, as exemplified by Horace Greeley, the great editor, might be less trouble to cultivate.

Many Americans may not remember the services of the gallant Gen. Ambrose Everett Burnside during the Civil war, but they are not likely to forget what he contributed to American facial adornment. They are sometimes referred to as "mutton chop whiskers," thereby depriving the general of credit which properly belongs to him. For, as everybody knows, the right name for them is obtained by reversing the name of the man who made them popular and calling them "sideburns." Similarly, his Imperial—and ill-fated—majesty, Napoleon III, made popular in France the combination of sharp-pointed mustache and lower-lip whiskers, or "goatee," which goes by the name of "Imperial." It is doubtful if the average American would care for this "foreign invention"—preferring one of the "made-in-America" brands—any more than he would care for the sharply up-turned mustache of the ex-kaiser of Germany. One fault of the latter type—at least, there is a tradition to this effect—is that it requires too much attention, such as putting it in a cloth framework at night so that it will not sag, droop or otherwise lose its perky uprightness.

The United States, however, is not the only country in which there are signs of a whiskers come-back. From France comes word that a well-known arbiter of styles on the Parisian boulevards has started a campaign for the return of the beard which he regards as the "outward sign of a mature mind." Thus is another historical cycle completed, for in early times the beard was considered by all nations as a sign of strength and manhood, carefully cherished and almost regarded as sacred. More than that, its removal was considered a particularly degrading form of punishment. In the second book of Samuel in the Old Testament is related the story of the servants which King David sent to Hanun, ruler of the Ammonites, to comfort him for the death of his father. Their reception is described as follows:

Among the Moslems the beard was also held in great respect and the strongest oath that a Mohammedan could utter was, "By the beard of the Prophet!" People of this religious belief took great care of their beards, habitually carrying combs to comb it and keep it in order. It was their custom to do this after prayers, while still on their knees, and if any hairs fell out they immediately picked them up and preserved them for burial with their owners. They also dyed their beards, usually red, not only because dye of that color was easily obtainable, but because it was nearly like the golden yellow, the color recommended by Mohammed, who hated black, the color which the Persians dyed their beards.

In France and Spain the wearing of beards followed the styles set by the monarchs of those countries. The beard was commonly worn in France until the time of Louis XII, who, being young and beardless, set a new style and the fashion changed. In Spain the loyal Spanish courtiers removed their beards when Philip V, who was unable to grow a beard, came to the throne.

In Russia Peter the Great issued a royal edict compelling his subjects to shave or pay a tax on their beards in proportion to the rank of the wearer. Henry VIII of England attempted a similar tax in England, but found it difficult to enforce the law and later gave it up. As a result the reigns of Elizabeth and James I were characterized by the wildest extravagance in beard growing with some men clipping their beards into as many formal shapes as the old-fashioned box hedges. Under the reign of Charles I the Van Dyke beard, named for the famous painter, became popular, only to be followed by a smooth-faced era during the Eighteenth century and down to the days of "our dear queen," Victoria, whose royal consort and whose son, later Edward VII, brought back the pointed beard as one of the glories of the Mid-Victorian days.

If, indeed, there is a whiskers come-back and beards once more become popular, they will bring with them vexing problems. One of them is: what to do with the beard when it is not in use—taking it for granted that a beard can be put to use, such as stroking it as an aid to cautious thought and tweeking it, either one's own or another's, to suggest violence, determination or aggressiveness. How serious this problem may be is indicated by the following incident related recently by a writer in the Boston Herald:

Some years ago a certain eminent man of New England wrote a letter to another eminent New Englander whose title to eminence is substantial and whose beard is celebrated throughout the land. It is a beard in the fullest dimensions of old New England. In the letter to this bearded New Englander the friend asked this question: "When you retire at night, do you tuck the beard under the sheet, or do you leave it free outside and above the sheet?"

This, we are told, caused the wearer of the beard much distress. Until the matter had thus been called to his attention, he is reported to have told his friends afterward, he had never given this problem any thought. He had retired at night as other men do, and had fallen gracefully into sleep, untroubled and unperplexed. It never had occurred to him that there was anything complicated or puzzling about the performance. Since that letter and its question, however, he had hardly had a comfortable night's sleep, for the moment he put out the light and popped into bed he had begun to debate which disposal of his beard he might the more comfortably make—above the sheet or beneath it. By this we learn that the beard, like many another luxury in life, carries with it responsibilities and perplexities.

Best oil cheapest in home, says factory sup't.

"The last thing we'd try to economize on," says the superintendent of a large eastern factory, "is lubricating oil. By using cheap oil we could 'save' hundreds of dollars each year—but it would cost us thousands of dollars for repairs, replacements and lessened efficiency of equipment."

The same is true in the home. If all housewives knew what factory men know about lubrication, few of them would use anything but 3-In-One Oil for their expensive sewing machines, vacuum cleaners, electric fans, lawn mowers, washers, and other household devices. 3-In-One, a blend of mineral, vegetable and animal oils, is the best oil for household use, for it cleans and protects as well as lubricates.

Ask for the old reliable 3-In-One Oil at good drug, grocery, hardware, department and general stores; in 15c and 30c sizes. For your protection, look for the trade mark "3-In-One" printed in Red on every package.

Have Kidneys Examined By Your Doctor

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys & Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

The Professor and the Market

Judge Oliver Wendell Holmes, who has just celebrated his eighty-eighth birthday, advised a young reporter one day never to speculate. He told the reporter a little story.

"A college professor," he said, "was bewailing his hard lot—less salary than a bricklayer and so on—and finally he banged his fist on the table and shouted:

"But if I had capital! By heck, if I had half a million capital I could build up a fortune on the stock exchange."

"Where, George?" said his quiet little wife, "Morgan's or Stillman's?"

It was sold by order of General Lafayette many years since, and is now owned by a great many different persons.

Children's stomachs sour, and need an anti-acid. Keep their systems sweet with Phillips Milk of Magnesia! When tongue or breath tells of acid condition—correct it with a spoonful of Phillips. Most men and women have been comforted by this universal sweetener—more mothers should invoke its aid for their children. It is a pleasant thing to take, yet neutralizes more acid than the harsher things too often employed for the purpose. No household should be without it.

Phillips is the genuine, prescriptional product physicians endorse for general use; the name is important. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. registered trade mark of the Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

SYNOPSIS

Up the wild waters of the unknown Yellow-Leg, on a winter's hunt, Journey Brock McCain and Gaspard Leroix, his French-Cree comrade, with Flash, Brock's puppy and their dog team. After several battles with the stormy waters they arrive at a fork in the Yellow-Leg. Brock is severely injured in making a portage and Flash leads Gaspard to the unconscious youth. Gaspard tells Brock of his determination to find out who killed his father. Tracks are discovered and the two boys separate for scouting purposes. Brock is jumped by two Indians and a white man and knocked unconscious. He is held prisoner. Gaspard rescues him while his captors sleep. While alone Gaspard is shot from ambush by an Indian and kills his would-be-slayer. While out on his trap line Brock is caught in a heavy snow storm. Gaspard finds him and the two start out on Brock's trap line. They find an Indian who had been stalking them caught in a trap, dead. On him was knife that belonged to Gaspard's father. They decide to camp until spring and then continue their journey. Two months later they start out and reconnoiter an Indian camp. They avoid the camp without making their presence known.

"Cree camp—four men—below here—Black Jack—five sleds—at little pond. Etienne," slowly translated Brock. "Great glory, Gaspard, that'll run 'em out of the country!"

"W'en dey see dat, dey head for de coast, eh?" laughed the crafty half breed. "I geeve dem good scare w'en dey hear Black Jack ees on dere trail wid five-dog team."

"That's a great idea! Unless the wind rises they'll know that somebody's walked the lake trail, last night, in that snow. Now, instead of following us up today, they'll likely quit trapping and carry the news to that white man I got my hooks into, and the big boss at their main camp. You're a genius, old pard. Put 'er there!"

The grinning friends shook each others' mittened hands. Gaspard's stratagem was a flash of genius, for five sled teams meant at least ten men on the trail of the free-traders' Cree servants. The news that five sled teams of provincial police were in the country should cause a speedy stampede north if they didn't smell a rat in this bold message left on a traveled trap-line trail.

"Of course," said Brock, "they may spot this for just what it is—a bluff." Gaspard nodded in agreement. "Dey tink eet ver' strange for sure, but dey weel have worry just de sam', I know dem Cree."

Gaspard's Indian blood enabled him to read only too well the mercurial and superstitious mental make-up of his mother's people—to know their weaknesses and value their sturdier qualities.

"Well, let's go, we've got a long day ahead," said Brock. "I'll take a last squirt at the lake trail to see if they've started this way." Returning from the shore, he said, as he slipped his feet into the thongs of his shoes and followed Gaspard into the southeast, "No sight of 'em yet, they're a lazy crew."

Through quiet February days the two snowshoed through forest and scrub, over ridges and around ponds, sometimes, for miles, following the convenient thoroughfares of deadwaters and streams, but they avoided crossing all lakes and barrens. These they circled, for on open lake or muskeg they could be seen for great distances. But, to their surprise, they crossed no country trapped by their enemies. Evidently the mysterious disappearance of their friends had aroused in the trappers of "Red Beard" a wholesome dread of the Yellow-Leg Lake watershed. Nevertheless, not for an instant did the canny Gaspard relax his vigilance as the two traveled southeast in the direction of the outlet of the big lake. Frequently through the day, while Brock kept on, the halfbreed buried himself in a clump of spruce or fir to watch the back trail. If there was a bold and shrewd enough man in the camp they had seen at the lake, the boys would be followed. Gaspard took no chances.

But late in the afternoon, far south of the divide between Carcajou and Yellow-Leg water, when the weary snowshoers were beginning to look for a good camp-site, and their clamoring stomachs chiefly occupied their thoughts, Gaspard, a hundred yards to Brock's left, suddenly stopped with raised arm. Hurrying to his friend, Brock's eyes swept the snow in front of them for the cause of the gesture.

"Look!" At Gaspard's feet ran a settled trail filled with new snow but plainly distinguishable to a bushman.

"Dey not use dis in some day—since de las' snow."

"You mean the one before last night's fall?"

"Ah-hah," nodded Gaspard. "We follow it a piece."

They had traveled a mile, single file, when the halfbreed who was ahead stopped and pointed.

Fifty yards away was a snowed-over, brush lean-to trapping camp, similar to those Gaspard and Brock had built at the far end of their own trap-lines. As the boys reached and curiously examined the abandoned camp covered with a foot of new snow, with an exclamation Gaspard suddenly walked up the trail and stood looking at a blazed spruce.

"Listen to dis!" he called to Brock who was scraping away the snow from the fire-hole of the camp. Brock quickly joined his friend, who read: "Antoine not come back. I wait ten sleeps. If I stay dey weel find me here. I go to Beeg Carcajou."

Leetle Jacques.

"Ah-hah!" grunted the halfbreed with a shake of the head, his deepest eyes glittering in satisfaction. "Antoine weel not come back—ma fren'. Antoine put bees foot een de bear-trap."

"By the horned owl, Gaspard!" exploded Brock. "They must have made this camp to hunt us from. He didn't stop to hunt for his partner—this Little Jacques—but made tracks. Not much like a partner I've got."

Two days later they were back in their camp south of Big Yellow-Leg.

Through February, or Mikidwipshim, the Cree Moon of the Eagle, there was little rest for the two trappers, who were daily adding to their fur-pack. In the timber the snow had settled and in the barrens, the wind had hammered and packed it, greatly improving the sledding. Every two days now, Brock made the circuit of his lines with Flash. The fur was not so prime as in the early winter, but, after the winds and blizzards of January, foxes and lynx were traveling more, fisher and marten extending their ranges, and the other seeking new fishing water which he entered at the broken ice of falls and rapids.

Often they found their traps sprung and bait eaten by thieving squirrel and whisky-jack. Sometimes the tails of the horned or snowy owl marked the snow around a pilfered trap; and once, a lynx trap held the legs and feet of an imprisoned "snowy" which a plundering wolverine had calmly torn to pieces. For ten days this carcajou baffled the ingenuity of Gaspard and Brock. Time and again, with an uncanny shrewdness, he avoided the traps buried in the snow beside baited fisher cabins and lynx sets; but in the end he fell victim to his own cunning. For, one night, in the act of tearing down the rear of a fisher cabin, to avoid passing the trap set in front of the bait, he stepped, into the circle of traps buried in the snow by the boys in anticipation of this very maneuver.

It was a veritable demon of fury and savage desperation that Brock and Flash found waiting them, one quiet morning. As he watched their approach, the evil, red eyes of the trapped carcajou flamed with hate. Crouched in the snow, his rust-brown hair stiff on neck and back, his overful forelegs, armed with scimiter-like claws which would rip a wolf's pelt into ribbons, ready to strike, the Injun-devil lifted his hairy torso from the most feared teeth in the forest in a warning snarl.

With a roar, Flash started to the battle with the strange foe who challenged him, but, with a quick movement, Brock had him by the collar.

"No, you don't, old boy!" cried Brock, holding his enraged husky, harnessed to the sled, as the crouched wolverine, anchored to the caught clog of the trap, snarled his defiance, his thick forelegs tensed for the double slash of knife-like claws which awaited Flash's lunge. "We need you whole and sound, for March, old partner! You're not going to get sliced up fighting that feller! You might kill him in the end—break his neck; but he'd hurt you for sure, before he died."

So, taming the maddened puppy, not for battle, to a spruce, Brock advanced cautiously, with his ax, the head reversed.

Built somewhat on the lines of a small bear, but more rangily, the wolverine, pound for pound, is the strongest beast in the north. To this he adds a fighting fury which commands the respect of all, beasts or humans, who meet him. The killing qualities of the great tusks, and the savage strength of the Ungava, might overcome the flying knives of the carcajou's feet, but Brock had no intention of seeing the slate-gray mane of his puppy smeared with slashes which, if they did not kill, would cripple him for weeks. In usual hunter fashion he would stun and kill the wolverine with the ax.

Lighthouse Centuries Old

At the most northerly point of Jutland, where the North sea and the Kattegat meet, is an ancient lighthouse. The waters there have a bad reputation among seafaring men, but the men who have manned the beacon have just the opposite, most of them having been heroes of a high order. Many centuries ago, says tradition, this lighthouse was built by a peasant, Thorkeil Skarpe, and his shepherd clan. A fishing village in time grew up around the beacon and King Erik of Pommern, as he was called, though king of Denmark, granted it a town charter in 1413. The shifting dunes have so buried the church of this village that now only the top of the tower is to be seen.—Detroit News.

ANYTHING YOU WANT IN HATS; LACY-KNIT TUCK-IN LATEST

NO ONE need complain this season of not being able to find a becoming hat. The shops are full of 'em!

You can see from the models in the picture that hats are well, just anything you want them to be. Brimmed or unbrimmed, of lacy straw, of the new and immensely popular glossy smooth-as-linen straws, of jetting ribbon, or perhaps flaunting polka dots, for polka dots have become the plaything of the milliner this season—yes, spring millinery dares to be just that versatile.

Perhaps there is no item which quite so intrigues the feminine eye in millinery openings now taking place, as that of the new lace straws. The story of these lacy straws is a fascinating tale of many chapters, beginning with touches of openwork straws in connection with other straws. The program includes also charming little dance caps or berets of straw lace, leading on and on through a maze of lace straw effects, one brim widening more than another, climaxing with huge diaphanous and most flattering capelines—the latter a picturesque feature in-sight for summer.

The first hat in this group bespeaks the graceful lines which the new lacy straws are assuming.

By way of contrast, attention is called to the smart hat just below which is one of the very glossy black panamaque types. The bow at the back is made of a pasted feather banding. One sees these little feather novelties positioned on quite a few of the new spring straws.

Belted ribbon! How often are we hearing of the belting-ribbon hat. The idea is for the hat of belting ribbon to match the frock in color, or at least to show a color relation. Perfectly models work the voguish linen-like exotic straws in conjunction with beguiling lace straws. In some instances the edge of the brim of a panamaque, or baki, or ballumbuti straw, or a kindred type, is finished with a narrow color-matched lace straw border.

Another becoming type is the hat whose crown of smooth straw is brimmed with a flare of lace straw, accentuating an extremely openwork patterning. Hats of this character are exceedingly effective in black or navy.

The Lacy-Knit Tuck-In.

Here is something really new and very swagger—the sleeveless lacy-knit tuck-in. In the way of an early spring sports blouse, there's nothing smarter. For that matter, things knitted of every description have moved to the very front of the style stage. Wherefore, with women who are fashion-wise, it is a foregone conclusion that a collection of knitted costumes must be included in every up-to-the-moment spring wardrobe.

The new knitted modes are masterpieces considered from the standpoint of coloring, design and construction. In fact, one has to look more than once to be really sure that this dress or that, this ensemble or that, is really knitted, for in this season's models there is not a style detail lacking, such as, for instance, bolero effects, capelets, flared and plaited skirts. In fact, all the intriguing fashion items which charming with the sprightly print frocks are close-fitting types made of belting ribbon, of which the little toque in the oval is a pleasing exponent.

And now we come to the subject of polka dots. It seems that milliners are making a feature of polka dot effects. Sometimes the dots are cut out of felt and pasted on the hat, then again they are handpainted or embroidered, or else, as is the case with the hat and scarf set in the picture, the chapeau and accessory details are fashioned of polka dot silk or a kindred fabric.

In selecting the new spring hat, keep in mind the importance of bright blues, also navy. The trend in costume is decidedly toward all-blue ensembles. As a consequence milliners are showing most beguiling dark or bright blue hats to complement coats and frocks in the same tones.

Many of these smart looking new one associates with perfectly tailored cloth or silk models are featured in the newer knitted modes.

However, to return to the subject of the lace-knit, tuck-in blouse, such as are, without a doubt, of outstanding chic. They cover a wide color range including charming pastels as well as the very bright tones, also matching the browns, tans and grays of tweeds and other novelty suitings.

Perhaps it would be more accurate to refer to the dainty effects as wool lace, for they follow the actual patternings of lace and are quite as sheer in their openwork mesh. Those who prefer a pullover sweater with the new cap sleeves will find to their pleasure most attractive lace-knit pieces. Also lovely one-piece dresses are displayed which combine filmy wool-lace with a lightweight jersey weave, the latter designfully applied in stitched bandings and in other trimming effects.

Very wearable and adjustable to warm versus cool spring days, are the winsome ensembles which use a plain jersey-knit fabric for jacket and skirt together with a blouse of delicate wool lace. The fact that pastel-colored blouses will be extensively worn with suits this spring should prove a hint as to color selection when choosing one of the new lacy-knit tuck-ins.

Chevrolet announces

A NEW

SERVICE POLICY

The Chevrolet Motor Company and its dealers are pleased to announce a new service policy—one of the most liberal ever offered on a low-priced automobile.

Put into force as a written agreement given to the purchaser by the Chevrolet dealer when the car is delivered—it offers the following provisions:

1 Every Chevrolet owner receives his car from the dealer in perfect condition—thoroughly lubricated, properly adjusted, and ready to operate efficiently from the first mile of ownership.

2 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection and adjustment of his car at the end of the first 500 miles of usage.

3 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection of his car every 1000 miles thereafter, so long as the car is in operation.

4 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free replacement of any part which may prove defective in workmanship or material, within the terms of Chevrolet's standard warranty. This includes both parts and labor.

5 Provision number 4 will be carried out by any Chevrolet dealer in the United States. As a result, the Chevrolet owner may travel to any part of the country, with assurance that the guarantee on materials and workmanship will remain in force.

This new policy constitutes proof of Chevrolet's high quality—for such liberal provisions could only be made in connection with a car built of fine materials to exacting standards of workmanship.

Back of this policy, and assuring its successful operation, is one of the most complete and efficient service organizations in the world.

There are more than 10,000 Authorized Chevrolet Dealer Service Stations in the United States alone. Each employs skilled mechanics thoroughly trained at Chevrolet Service Schools. Each has specially designed tools and machinery developed exclusively for Chevrolet service work. And each has on hand, at all times, an adequate stock of genuine Chevrolet replacement parts.

Chevrolet's flat-rate charges, including both parts and labor, are the lowest in the industry on many service operations.

In considering the purchase of a low priced automobile, think what this service means—in terms of lasting satisfaction as well as in increased economy.

COMPARE VALUES BEFORE YOU BUY AN AUTOMOBILE

Low charges for distribution of the new Ford save you at least $50 to $75 in addition to the many savings in making the car

THESE are days when every dollar counts. The period of reckless spending is over. People are going back to the good old-fashioned principles of thrift and economy. Value is again being carefully considered.

Nowhere is this more important than in the selection of an automobile. For the purchase of a car represents a considerable investment. It should not be decided on hurriedly, but only after analyzing every important factor that concerns cost, value and performance. The time to do this is before buying—not afterward when it is too late.

ON THE basis of cost, performance and the actual comparative worth of every part, the new Ford is a value far above the price you pay. It is made of better materials and with greater care and accuracy because of the recognized efficiency and economy of Ford manufacturing methods.

The value of these methods is known and understood by millions of people. It is not generally realized, however, that these same principles of efficiency and economy are applied also to every step in the distribution of the Ford car. The low cost of selling, financing time payments, etc., means a direct saving to you of at least $50 to $75 in addition to the money saved by Ford economies in making the car. Here are three reasons why this is so.

(1) The Ford dealer does business on a smaller margin of profit because of the greater number of cars he sells. His discount or commission is the lowest of any automobile dealer. The difference in your favor, ranging from 25% to nearly 50%, comes right off the price you pay for the car.

(2) The Ford charges for financing are low.

(3) No expensive extra equipment is needed when you buy a Ford. The car leaves the factory ready for use.
The f.o.b. price includes a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield and an extra steel-spoke wheel, in addition to four Houdaille double-acting shock absorbers and fully enclosed four-wheel brakes. Any accessories you may wish for your individual taste are sold considerably below the usual prices. None of these charges for selling, financing or accessories is marked up or increased to cover a high trade-in allowance on a used car.

Get all the facts, therefore, before you buy and
mobile dollars. Go beyond the f.o.b. price and find out how much more you pay the dealer than the dealer pays at the factory. Analyze the used-car allowance. Compare all charges—item for item—value for value.

Oklahoma Girl
Strong as Boy

"Louise Alice was fretful, nervous and all run-down from whooping cough," says Mrs. F. J. Kolar, 1730 West 22nd St., Oklahoma City. "The little I could force her to eat wouldn't ever digest. She became underweight, sallow and weak."

"Then I decided to try California Fig Syrup, and the results surprised me. Her bowels started working immediately, and in little or no time she was eating so she got to be a pest at the table, always asking us to pass things. Her weight increased, her color improved and she began to romp and play again like other children. Now she's the picture of health and strong as a boy."

Pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable California Fig Syrup acts surely and quickly to cleanse your child's stomach and bowels of the souring waste that is keeping her half-sick, bilious, sallow, feverish, listless, weak and puny. But it's more than a laxative. It tones and strengthens the stomach and bowels so these organs continue to act normally, of their own accord.

Over four million bottles used a year shows its popularity. Ask for it by the full name, "California Fig Syrup," so you'll get the genuine endorsed by physicians for 50 years.

Tragedy

"There is no domestic wreckage more pitiful than that which has come about through a wife standing still while her husband was advancing."—Mrs. Thomas Edison in American Magazine.

Mrs. H. A. Lawson

How Dallas Mother
Keeps Children Well

When a person can depend on one medicine to keep herself and her family free from the effects of constipation for more than ten years, what more can you expect? Mrs. H. A. Lawson, who lives at 2015 Terrace Drive in Dallas, says "Nature's Remedy hasn't failed us in the ten years since I first started using it for myself and children. I give these little tablets the credit for keeping us healthy all these years."

Results like that are what make Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) so popular. More than three million tablets are used a day. Any drug-gist will tell you to use them if you suffer from biliousness, sick headache, indigestion, rheumatic aches and lack of energy. The cost is only 25c.

I was feeling so weak and miserable that I had to lie down very often and I could hardly do my housework. I read in the paper how Lydia E. Love's Three Steps

THESE are not like the steps of some new dance, and there's enough jazz-dancing and jazz-loving already. Love can be like dancing, for it starts on its toes and ends up on its feet.

The first love-step is purely emotional. It has plenty of fire, but not much light. You get some idea of it from the conversation of average lovers. You get some more when the letters are ready in the breach-of-promise suit. Well, such conversation and correspondence should be canned.

The emotional form of love may be attractive, but it doesn't wear well. Lace lingerie is all right, I suppose, but the heart is a loom which can turn out stronger stuff.

Emotion is to love what the mayonnaise is to the salad, but you can't make a meal of the dressing.

The second step which is now being taken by so-called lovers is a very practical one. It may start with courtship, but it winds up in partnership. The altar figures in it, but it's the job which really unites the up-to-date Romeos and Juliets.

This gives us the duplex marriage with wee wife on the job at nine a. m. the same way that the hubby is. It may be worth trying, but it looks more like business than romance. It mixes up kisses with the rubber stamp.

The marriage of convenience is having a tryout in this country where woman has grown tired of being a baby doll or housekeeper. The woman has begun to feel that she should be responsible for the upkeep of the family. With the modern apartment with its kitchenette and with the delicatessen store nearby, woman can do the cooking on the fly. Or they can meet at some restaurant.

The third step is yet to be taken, although the way was pointed out long ago by the Brownings. Of course, I mean Robert and Elizabeth, not the other Browning couple. I'll bet it's hard to have intellectual love, but it may do as well as the erotic and economic forms of loving.

It can't be very exciting when a pair of Ph. D.'s kiss, but still they may manage a kind of love on the cool basis of the brain.

Women have brains. That's one of the discoveries of modern science along with radium and the North pole. Since they have something more than a bob above the ears, they can manage the intellectual marriage.

Anyhow, whether they can make good in the third form of love, they can stand it, since they have stood so much already.

All Alone

A MAN I know pretty well and like a lot took me to dinner the other evening. Of course, that isn't news, but I'm not going to tell a story of milk-fed lobster that we didn't eat. No, for I've got bigger ideas under my bob, and if I don't air them, I'll have a fit.

Say, what do you suppose I saw at that restaurant? General Pershing, Charlie Chaplin, the prince of Wales? No, guess again, Gussie. I saw women and they were all alone; that is, as far as men were concerned. Some singly, some in pairs, or a whole table of them. But they were alone, if you get what I mean.

Gee! they looked at me as though the queen of Sheba had just strolled in accompanied by King Tutankamen, and my escort is not really a Wow. Say, girls, what's the world coming to when a girl and a man can't feed together without raising a riot?

You see, it's like this. The women of today are self-feeders, like the patient furnace in the cellar. Little old New York and other towns are just full of fine women and girls who are living and eating all alone.

Then, my male escort, as I'll call him, told me that almost every morning when he goes to his bacon-and-eggs at seven-forty-five, he sees kid girls come in and munch their stuff and then leave on the run for the office. All alone! I'll say they are.

What's the matter with the men, anyhow? Don't they know that this all alone business is not according to the queen's taste? The All Aloner at breakfast, lunch, dinner, looks independent, but she isn't happy. She knows where the next meal is coming from, but she'd like to know where the next man is coming from.

Maybe the business girl with her own purse has forced this situation on herself. If so, she has given herself one raw deal. The neglected woman is the product of business. When a girl had nothing but a little pin money that her father had given her, she thought it was sick when a man invited her to dine, and so did he.

But now that she has the price in her purse and still more in her sock, he can't fatter her with any such service. She's deprived him of his financial influence over her just as surely as Deilah robbed Sampson of his power when she gave him a haircut.

Know all men by these presents that we women would like to have a little of the old-time attention that our mothers got. You may think we're all Helen Goudas, but we are really Cinderellas. It's no fun to be neglected.

The DAIRYMILK OFTEN TO INCREASE YIELDStriking Results Obtained at Beltsville Farm.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

One way to make a cow give more milk is to milk her three times a day instead of twice. This fact has been demonstrated a number of times in recent years, but perhaps the most striking results have been obtained at the dairy experimental farm of the United States Department of Agriculture at Beltsville, Md. Here it was found that the extra milking gave 21.2 per cent more milk and 22.4 per cent more butterfat.

Much of this increase is attributed to the fact that the cows milked three times a day held up better in their milk flow. The decline in production from the first to the last 30 days of the lactation was only about 60 per cent as great with the cows milked three times a day as with those milked twice.

In the experiments six cows were milked for two lactations each and two for three lactations each, making in all eighteen lactations. In eight of these lactations the cows were milked twice a day and in the other ten they were milked three times a day. Conditions were the same for all lactations except the number of times a day the cows were milked.

In order to determine whether milking three times a day is a profitable practice, one must know not only the probable increase in production but also the quantity and cost of the grain needed for the increased production, the cost of the extra milking, and the value of the increase in production. These items vary in different localities, and each dairyman will have to figure it out for himself, is the conclusion reached by the department.

Supplementing Pasture
With Grain Best Plan

Putting the cows on pasture too early places the good cows under a condition whereby they cannot produce to their inherited capacity because they cannot gather enough nutrients. The higher producing cows cannot gather and masticate enough early pasture to supply their needs and for this reason some attention must be given to supplementing the pasture.

In supplementing the early pasture with grain it is worth while to know that the pasture is comparatively rich in protein at this time and for this reason it is often advisable and good economy to reduce the proportion of protein rich feeds in the grain supplement. If one finds it profitable to feed grain throughout the summer it is advisable to increase the proportion of protein rich feeds in the grain mixture as pastures become mature, short, dry, and less palatable.

Silage Is Succulent and Excellent as Balance

Silage is a succulent grass-like feed. It is cooling in effect, aids digestion, stimulates appetite and is an excellent balance for high protein concentrates. A dairy cow requires such a feed because she is doing hard work when producing a good flow of milk. The cow by nature is a user of roughage, and when fed in an artificial way on grains of high nutritive value there is need for a cooling grass-like feed, and silage comes in to fill this valuable place; silage has a high water content, but water is an important item of the ration. Milk is 87 per cent water and beef over 50 per cent.

Dairy Facts

The dry cow should be fed individually just as should the milking cow.

Sterility, udder trouble, and the loss of premature calves are all symptoms of abortion disease.

How to handle the dairy feed during the winter months—what to feed—and how much to feed—these are important questions.

Farmers who did not get their silage made before frost, may yet have good silage if they will utilize the dry fodder for this purpose.

Jerseys and Guernseys producing a high per cent fat should be fed a pound of grain for each two and a half or three pounds of milk produced, daily.

Dairy cows differ in their ability to pay the farmer good prices for his grain and hay crops. Low-producing cows should be culled out.

Dairy calves should have clean, light stalls or pens and be provided with an abundance of good feed and water during the winter.

Grassy flavor in milk is common in the spring, but may be eliminated or reduced easily. Take the cows off pasture several hours before milking or turn them on only in the morning.

Lesson for March 23

JESUS TEACHING AND HEALING

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 13:53-58:12.

GOLDEN TEXT—Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus' Kindness to a Stranger.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus' Kindness to a Stranger.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Faith That Wins.

YOUTH PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Faith Tested and Triumphant.

The material embraced in this section of Scripture is too abundant to attempt to cover in one lesson, therefore selection should be made in keeping with the lesson topic.

I. Without Honor in One's Own Country (13:54-58).

Jesus shared the common fate of men—unacknowledged in His own country. Even His own brothers did not believe on Him till after His resurrection (John 7:3-8; cf. Acts 1:14). Familiarity has a paralyzing effect, and at times breeds contempt. Because of unbelief only a limited work could be done there.

II. Jesus Healing the Multitude (14:13, 14).

1. He retired to the desert (v. 13). The news of the cruel death of John the Baptist brought grief to the Master's heart, and He withdrew to a place of quietness to commune with His Father. The best thing to do in time of sorrow is to flee into the presence of God. Jesus accepted John's death as typical of His own.

2. Followed by the people (v. 13). He could not be concealed. The peoples' interest was such that they followed Him on foot. Where Jesus is, the multitude gathers.

3. Jesus healing the sick (v. 14). Although the rulers had broken with Him, He did not abandon His work. He continued to preach and work for the good of those who would hear. Though desperate and hopeless cases were brought to Him, nothing was found too hard for Him. The peoples' great need excited His sympathy. He is just the same today.

III. Jesus Healing the Daughter of the Woman at Canaan (Matt. 15:21-31).

The first twenty-one verses of this chapter should be considered in connection with this topic. The force of the lesson can only be seen in contrast with the failure of the people. Verses 1-20 represent the apostasy of Israel and her rejection of the Savior. In sharp contrast, we see in the healing of this woman, salvation typically going forth to the Gentiles.

1. The mother's awful distress (vv. 21, 22).

Her daughter was grievously vexed with a devil. The sufferings of the mother were perhaps as intense as those of the child. This Gentile woman had doubtless heard of the fame of Jesus. His power to heal had come to her notice and many times she longed for Him to come her way that her daughter might be healed. Now that He was in her neighborhood she came straightway to Him. Let parents be encouraged to bring their children to Jesus, even though they be demon-possessed.

2. The woman's fervent appeal for help (vv. 22-25).

She fell at His feet and pled for mercy. She besought Him to cast the devil out. Her appeal may be considered as a model prayer.

(1) She was sincere and earnest.
(2) The prayer was brief and definite.
(3) It was personal and humble.
(4) It was believing and persistent.

3. The woman's faith rewarded (vv. 26-28).

(1) The Lord's apparent refusal (v. 23). He answered her not a word. The reason for His silence was that He was sent to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. This woman was a stranger to the Covenant people. Her appeal was on the wrong basis. She addressed Him as the Son of David, which only a child of the kingdom had a right to do. She must come in the right way. (2) The woman's quick response (vv. 25-27). As soon as she perceived the difficulty, she worshiped Him as Lord and cried for help. While only the Israelite could approach Him as the Son of David, all could come to Him and own Him as Lord. She willingly took her place as a Gentile "dog," recognizing that salvation is of the Jews. (3) The glorious issue of her faith (v. 28). She received more than she asked. Her daughter was healed at once and the instruction she received was worth much to her. She goes down in history with the Savior's commendation of her faith.

Life Needs a Good Pattern

Remember how swiftly the shuttle flies and how a broken thread may mar the fabric. Remember that without a good pattern, all weaving is to no purpose; take much thought, therefore, as to the pattern of a good life and be greatly instructed by that life which is the exemplar for us all.—Gaius Glenn Atkins.

Love, Faith, Obedience

Love, faith, and obedience are sides of the same prism.—McDonald.

Finds Youth's Fountain!

"JUST one thing has contributed more than anything else in my life toward making me the radiantly happy woman I am today," writes Mrs. Walter Ruel, of Glenbrook, Conn. "If this was selling at ten dollars a bottle instead of the few cents it costs, I would scrape the money together, and I don't mean maybe!"

"I guess a good many others feel the same way, judging by the number of people I know who swear by this 'Fountain of Youth.'"

Millions of people all over the world have discovered this simple secret, which is nothing but giving our bodies the internal lubrication that they need, as much as any machine. After you have taken Nujol for a few days, and have proved to yourself how it brightens your whole life, you will wonder how so simple a treatment can make such a great change in your health and your happiness. The reason is this:

Regularly as clock work, Nujol clears out of our bodies those poisons (we all have them) which slow us up, make us headachy, low in our minds.

Colorless and tasteless as pure water, Nujol cannot hurt you, no matter how long you take it. It is not a medicine. It contains no drugs. It forms no habit. It is non-fattening.

One Happy Woman Tells

Try Nujol yourself and see how much better you feel. Get a bottle in its sealed package at any drug store and be sure it's trademarked "Nujol." It costs but a few cents—and it makes you feel like a million dollars! Start taking Nujol this very night!

Purest Water

Water derived from deep wells is so pure that it does not require any sort of purification.

Words Most Often Employed

The eight words most frequently used in English are "and, have, it, of, the, to, will and you."

Children
for it

It may be the little stomach; it may be the bowels are sluggish. No matter what coats a child's tongue, it's a safe and sensible precaution to give a few drops of Castoria. This gentle regulation of the little system soon sets things to rights. A pure vegetable preparation that can't harm a wee infant, but brings quick comfort—even when it is colic, diarrhea, or similar disturbance. And don't forsake Castoria as the child grows older. If you want to raise boys and girls with strong systems that will ward off constipation, stick to good old Castoria; and give nothing stronger when there's any irregularity except on the advice of a doctor. Castoria is sold in every drugstore, and the genuine always bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

About the only ancestors that have any effect on your character are your father and mother.

He who will fight the devil at his own weapon must not wonder if he finds him an overmatch.—South.

Any COLD

That cold may lead to something serious, if neglected. The time to do something for it is now. Don't wait until it develops into bronchitis. Take two or three tablets of Bayer Aspirin as soon as you feel a cold coming on. Or as soon as possible after it starts. Bayer Aspirin will head off or relieve the aching and feverish feeling—will stop the headache. And if your throat is affected, dissolve two or three tablets in a quarter-glassful of warm water, and gargle. This quickly soothes a sore throat and reduces inflammation and infection. Read proven directions for neuralgia, for rheumatism and other aches and pains. Genuine Bayer Aspirin is harmless to the heart.
