...percent ...from January through March. That slow pace combined with the sluggish 2 percent April-June quarter translates into annual growth so far this year of just 1.1 percent.

That means the economy would have to rebound sharply to a 4.9 percent growth in the final six months of the year to reach the administration's lowered 3 per- rate for the full year. ...te economists, view- ...reports so far on Ju- ...ay they see no hint of ...They are calling for a much weaker rebound of around 2.5 percent in the second half of the year.

The reason for the sharp slowdown in activity this year has been the soaring trade deficit, which is forecast to balloon to a record $150 billion.

A flood of imports has robbed domestic manufacturers of sales and forced cutbacks in production. Since January, U.S. industry has lost 220,000 manufacturing jobs.

The trade hemorrhage is blamed primarily on the strength of the U.S. dollar, which makes imports cheaper and U.S. goods more expensive and thus harder to sell on overseas markets.

But the strong dollar has helped to bold down inflation in this country.

Today's GNP report gave further evidence of how low inflation has dropped. An inflation gauge tied to the GNP, the implicit price deflator, rose at an annual rate of just 2.7 percent in the second quarter, the slowest gain in two years.

The Commerce Department also reported today that after-tax corporate profits dropped 0.4 percent in the April-June quarter, following a 2.8 percent decline from January through March.

In all, after-tax profits have declined for five straight quarters, showing how the economic slowdown has affected American businesses.

The GNP report showed an upward revision from last month's estimate primarily because of stronger growth.

Mrs. Bhakta 'brain dead' on arrival

Kumud Bhakta was "for all practical purposes brain dead," when admitted to Cogdell Memorial Hospital April 25, her attending physician testified Tuesday during the second day of testimony in the murder trial of her husband, Bharat N. Bhakta.

This was the medical opinion offered by Dr. Thomas Wiman, who noted he responded to an emergency "Code H" call at Cogdell the morning of April 25, and as a result served as Mrs. Bhakta's attending physician. She was declared legally dead approximately 11 hours later.

Murder charges were then filed against her husband, the owner-manager of the Strayhorn Motel, where the events leading up to the death occurred.

At 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, the 132nd District Court jury was in recess after hearng testimony from both Wiman and the officer who initially investigated the case, Lt. Steve Warren of Snyder PD's Criminal Investigation Division.

Wiman first took the stand around 9 a.m. Monday afternoon, District Attorney Ernie Armstrong called four other witnesses, including Chief of Police Bill Stone, who talked with the suspect prior to his official arrest.

Trial testimony indicated Bhakta made comments to both Stone and Warren, and at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, DA Armstrong and defense attorney Pete Greene were arguing to Judge Gene Dulaney the admissibility of these comments.

Greene has earlier filed a motion asking that his client's oral statements not be admitted into evidence.

During his testimony Tuesday morning, Warren testified that after Bhakta was informed that his wife "likely was not going to make it," according to Warren, "he started changing his stories."

Wiman testified he told Bhakta, who was present at Cogdell's emergency room after his 25-year-old wife was admitted, that her condition was grave.

Regarding the victim, both Wiman and Warren noted they saw "signs of strangulation."

Warren noted "choke marks," which he described as two red marks, one on either side of her neck. Wiman also testified to "burst blood vessels" in the whites of Mrs. Bhakta's eyes.

These, he said, are normally caused by "increased pressure from the neck up."

During cross examination, Greene asked Wiman if the marks around Mrs. Bhakta's neck could have been caused by the CPR emergency she received

The feller on Deep Creek says, "An optimist is a man who talks about what a fool he used to be."

A few weeks ago, SNB President Roger Mize brought some bulls from his ranch near Stephenville up to the W. C. Hart ranch on the Colorado City highway.

Mize left his pickup and trailer rig at the Hart ranch with the intention of taking it back to Erath County the following week.

Meanwhile, rancher Bill Eiland of West Texas State Bank showed up at the Hart Ranch to buy some livestock for his place out near Dermott.

Eiland eyed an available pickup and trailer, backed it up and loaded the cattle. Eiland was almost to Snyder when he noticed that the needle on the gas gauge was pointing to the E.

Eiland pulled into Chandler's Gulf and filled the tank. As Eiland headed for Dermott, he noticed that the tank was still on empty and decided it must be a truck with a dual tank. After considerable time searching, Eiland couldn't find the switch to change over the tank, so he pulled back into the station and filled the second tank.

When Eiland returned the pickup to Hart, Eiland mention his fuel ordeal, and was informed that Mize owned the pickup.

As you might expect, Eiland vowed to send Mize a bill for the $40 worth of fuel. Naturally, Mize got wind of the deal and beat Eiland to the punch.

Eiland received a neatly typed invoice from Mize, "use of vehicle and stock trailer, $1.50 per mile to Dermott and back."

Mize said this week he's not hopeful of collecting. "Eiland reminds me of a guy I sold a opossum to back in Mississippi. I had to ride a mule five or six miles just to collect my quarter."

We suspect Mize never wants to be paid. He's having too much fun dunning Eiland in front of his friends at the coffee shop.

Overheard two gals talking in the grocery store. "I don't touch my hair. It was this color when I bought it."

Laxalt retirement seen as GOP blow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Sen. Paul Laxalt's surprise decision to retire at the end of his term is a blow to GOP efforts to retain control of the Senate in 1986, partially offsetting several disappointments Democrats themselves have suffered.

"As of today, the (Nevada) race is a new ballgame," Sen. George Mitchell, D-Maine, chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, exulted shortly after Laxalt made his announcement on Monday. "Nevada is now a tossup state."

"Given the handful of seats involved in regaining the Senate, Paul Laxalt's decision is a major boost to Democratic prospects in 1986," said Democratic National Chairman Paul G. Kirk.

Among the Republicans, there was a straightforward concession that Laxalt's decision makes it more difficult to prevail in the battle for Senate control next year. "Clearly, if Sen. Laxalt had decided to run for re-election, it (the seat) was in the safe category," said Tom Griscom of the GOP Senatorial Campaign Committee.

With Laxalt out of the race, he said, "while the chances are still good that we'll take it, the seat's pretty well up for grabs."

Republicans hold a slim 53-47 majority in the current Senate, and must defend 22 of the 34 seats on the ballot in the 1986 election. Laxalt had been considered as safe a bet for re-election as any incumbent in either party — so strong, in fact, that Democratic Rep. Harry Reid, one possible challenger, had decided not to run against him.

But when Reid was informed by an aide in a trans-Atlantic telephone call of Laxalt's decision, he lost no time in expressing interest in the Senate seat in the curious code that politicians like to use. The announcement "provides him a new situation for consideration. Congressman Reid plans to look at this political option very seriously," said a statement issued by his office in Washington.

Rep. Barbara Vucanovich, a Republican, was high on the list of possible Republican candidates in the speculation that began as soon as Laxalt made his announcement. But while she is a former Laxalt aide, she can match neither her old boss' record of 20 years in statewide elective office nor or his exceptionally high standing in the statewide public opinion polls.

So far, Laxalt's decision not to seek re-election is the worst blow the Republicans have suffered in their candidate slating for 1986.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., is the only other Republican incumbent to announce plans to retire, but GOP Rep. John McCain's decision to run, coupled with Democratic Gov. Bruce Babbitt's decision against it, means the Republicans have an excellent chance to hold the seat.

Fire emits toxic gas

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — Fire investigators plan to begin their investigation today into a warehouse blaze that emitted toxic fumes and forced an hour-long evacuation of four city blocks, officials said.

No injuries were reported in Monday night's fire at a warehouse for Century Spa Inc., said Wichita Falls Fire Department dispatcher Wilburn Harmon.

Toxic fumes were emitted from the burning warehouse prompting officials to call the evacuation, Harmon said.

Monday's fire started about 7:15 p.m. and burned out of control for about an hour, he said. The blaze spread toxic poly-vinyl choloride fumes.

The fumes "can kill you if you get them concentrated," he said.

Wichita Falls Police Officer Jim Wiese said at least four blocks were evacuated at 7:30 p.m. He said residents were allowed to return home about a hour later. Wiese said he did not know how many people were evacuated.

Mother Feels Lost After Dad Leaves Home to Find Himself

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Last January, my father left home. My mother came back from shopping one day and all Dad's clothes were gone. She found a note saying, "Thanks for nothing, kid. I'll be seeing ya."

Abby, my father is 56 years old, and to tell you the truth, he wasn't the world's greatest father. He used to hit us kids with a belt and he was never around when we needed him. Mom really raised us.

Dad stops by the house on Sunday to give Mom a measly $150 to survive for the week. He keeps telling her he'll be back when he "finds himself"; meanwhile the talk around town is that he has another woman.

I can honestly say I don't miss him, but there is one fine woman who can't go on without him: our mother. She's lost 28 pounds since January, she doesn't eat right and she cries for hours every day.

When I was a kid growing up, Dad would come home from work, take his shoes off and read your column, so, Dad, if you're reading this now, please come home. You and Mom have been through a lot together the last 30 years. Why quit now? We want to become a family again.

ONE OF SIX
IN WAYNE, N.J.

DEAR ONE: It will take more than a letter in this column to reunite your family. Your grieving mother needs professional counseling to help her cope with this abandonment. You can best help her by investigating the available options in your community. Call your local social services or mental health facility. The people there will guide you. Insist that your mother get into therapy to become "whole" again. Your father's returning home is secondary.

DEAR ABBY: After a person dies, do the nails and hair continue to grow? I heard they do, but I can't believe it.

BILL JONES

DEAR BILL: Nothing grows after death. The skin shrinks, however, creating the illusion that growth has taken place.

DEAR ABBY: I have been having a dispute with my brother-in-law and would appreciate your comments.

Briefly, he asked me to sign something, and I told him I would have to read it first because I never sign anything without reading it. (It was a petition.)

He became very upset, said he was "insulted," and inferred that I didn't trust him. Nothing could have been further from the truth.

I do trust him, and he had no reason to be insulted; I just want to know what I'm signing.

RIGHT OR WRONG?

DEAR RIGHT: Right! You're the kind of person every lawyer would like to have for a client.

Mary Kay Cosmetics sells home building

DALLAS (AP) — The proposed sale of Mary Kay Cosmetics Inc.'s headquarters and 6.9-acre site in north Dallas is expected to generate $14 million for the company, officials said.

Mary Kay may be negotiating a sale, but company officials said there are no plans to move.

The cosmetics company is negotiating a $17 million contract with Denver-based BetaWest Properties Inc. for the sale and leaseback of its headquarters, the company announced Monday.

The contract provides for BetaWest to construct an office building of approximatedly 100,000 square feet and a four-story parking garage. The contract is pending certain conditions before the scheduled closing Oct. 8.

Mary Kay would lease back its current building and the new building and parking garage, said spokesman Dean Meadors.

The Dallas-based company has outgrown its current building, and has nine different locations in the area it wants to consolidate, he said.

"We have been attempting to find a good, viable way for us to get together," Meadors said. The headquarters was constructed in the mid-1970s and "looked like it would be sufficient, but it has not been sufficient," he said.

Although the company had planned to build at a new site, Meadors said, "we decided that the best thing to do is stay where we are."

Beyond the benefits of consolidation, revenue from the sale could aid an effort to go private after 20 years as a publicly traded company.

Founder and chairwoman Mary Kay Ash and her son, Richard Rogers, who is president and chief executive officer, want to make the company private in a leveraged buyout.

The pair plan to invest $127 million in the deal, with the Bank of New York acting as lead bank and attempting to raise $254 million to acquire the approximately 21 million publicly held shares.

Meadors said shareholders would vote on the proposal in October.

Earlier this month, Republic-Bank of Dallas — a longtime Mary Kay lender — decided not to help finance the plan. But Mrs. Ash and Rogers have said they are still pursuing financing.

Mary Kay reported 1984 net income of $33.8 million on revenues of $277.5 million, down from 1983 results of $36.6 million in net income on $323.8 million in revenues.

Mary Kay Cosmetics Inc. is engaged in the production and marketing of skin care products and cosmetics directly to customers. Operations are in the United States, Australia, Canada, Argentina and the United Kingdom.

Kansas history

In 1541, Coronado marched through the Kansas area. Later he was followed by French explorers. The United States took it over in the Louisiana Purchase. In the pre-Civil War struggle, so much violence swept through the area that it was called "Bleeding Kansas." Kansas entered the Union in 1861.

Police investigate triple murder

HOUSTON (AP) — A 2-year-old girl may be the only witness police have in the slayings of the child's mother and two other people in a north Houston apartment, authorities said.

The unidentified child was placed in the care of relatives after she and the bodies of three adults were found by an off-duty police officer in the apartment about 10:20 a.m. Monday, police said.

The victims were identified as Delbert L. Bryan, 33, who lived in the apartment; Audelia Davis, 19, a resident of another apartment in the same complex; and Tammy L. Wright, 22, of another Houston address, police said.

All three were shot once in the head, according to a police report.

Police said Bryan's employer went to his apartment complex after he failed to show up for work. The employer saw Bryan's car parked outside the complex, but no one answered the door at his apartment.

The employer, who was unidentified, then called David Johnson, a Houston police officer who worked while off duty as a security guard at the complex.

Shortly after Johnson found Bryan on the living room floor, Ms. Wright's 2-year-old daughter, who apparently was unharmed, walked into the room, police said.

Ms. Davis' nude body was on the bathroom floor and Ms. Wright's nude body was in the tub, which was dry, police said.

"The house was pretty well ransacked. Everything was turned upside down and looked through. There was quite a bit of blood in the apartment," said homicide Detective Danny James.

James said the child's life was probably spared "because she was asleep or they just didn't kill her because maybe they thought (she) wouldn't be able to give any clues, which is probably true."

Authorities said the child, whose name was not released, was left in the care of relatives.

Police said Monday night they had no suspects, knew of no motives for the killings and had not yet identified the type of weapon used.

Authorities also did not know why Ms. Wright and Ms. Davis were in Bryan's apartment.

8 horses are dead in blaze

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Eight horses, including a one-time world champion, died when a barn caught fire at The Red Mile harness race track, authorities said.

Among the horses killed was Banker Barker, 7-year-old gelding, according to the owner, Michael J. Zeller of Lexington. The pacer was the top male trotter in 1981 and had earned nearly $600,000 in his career.

"I had five horses in the barn and I lost them all," Zeller said.

Bill Franks, Zeller's assistant trainer, who was sleeping in the barn at the time, barely escaped the flames.

"The heat was too intense. He couldn't get to any of them," Zeller said.

The blaze Monday night was confined to the barn, a 150-by 50-foot wood and metal structure, which was destroyed.

Tom White, director of public relations for The Red Mile, said normally few horses are stabled at the track this time of year because the next meet doesn't begin until September.

Chased man is wounded

TERRELL, Texas (AP) — An armed robbery suspect shot in a confrontation with a state trooper was in critical condition early today at a Dallas hospital, authorities said.

The man was shot Monday night following a chase that began shortly after a gas station in Kaufman was robbed, said Mike Cox, a Texas Department of Public Safety spokesman in Austin.

Deputies, Terrell police and a state trooper pursued the suspect's car on Interstate 20 until the man abandoned his vehicle in Terrell, Cox said.

The man attempted to commandeer a vehicle occupied by an off-duty Terrell police office, said DPS Sgt. L.J. Kupper. A brief struggle ensued, but the man fled on foot.

Officers continued the chase on foot, finally cornering the man in a wooded area, Cox said.

Kupper said the appeared to be trying to pull his gun out of his pocket as he was being chased.

"One suspect emerged from the wooded area and had a weapon in his hand," Cox said. "The trooper was armed with a 12-gauge shotgun and fired two warning shots. When the man still did not drop the weapon, the trooper fired a third shot which struck the man in the chest and head."

In 1912, Juliette Gordon Low founded in Savannah, Ga., an organization called the Girl Guides, which later became the Girl Scouts.

Fashion show tops meeting

A back-to-school fashion show by Sunnyside Dress Shop highlighted the August meeting of the Snyder Christian Women's Club.

Nearly 100 women gathered in the Snyder Country Club to view fall and winter's offerings in pants, dresses, skirts and sweaters. Models for the affair included Judy and Kelli McLarty, Brenda and Julie Newbury, Judy Reed, Ginger Bryan, Betsy Armstrong, Kristy Neil and Joann Nunley. Kathryn Roberts narrated.

Kay Hopper, a Snyder High School teacher, sang "You Were Always on My Mind" and "He Will Carry You" as special music.

Guest speaker Shelia Fontenot of Lafayette, La. shared incidents from her childhood in Texas, Wyoming and Louisiana. She is the daughter of M.L. and Colleen Duke of Snyder.

After high school graduation, Fontenot was one of the 40 in a field of 400 accepted to Loyola College's dental hygienist program.

She explained that although she and her husband, Emile, were told that they could not bear children, God gave them two sons. Committed to raising her children to know and love God, she told the women to allow God to take charge of their homes.

SNYDER NURSING CENTER PARTY — Residents of the Snyder Nursing Center were treated to a birthday party recently to honor those whose with August birthdays. Extension specialist gives purchasing tips

COLLEGE STATION — In spite of the heat wave outside, shoppers will be flocking into air-conditioned stores this month to buy back-to-school wardrobes, dress-for-success suits and other fall clothing.

According to Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service clothing specialist Becky Saunders, what they'll find in the stores is high prices.

"Clothing prices increased at a lower rate than prices for other items over the last few years," she says. "But when the effect of inflation is removed, U.S. Department of Agriculture figures show the percentage of personal expenditures for clothing and shoes is at a 25-year high."

Annual spending for clothing and shoes is now estimated at $588 per person.

Part of the increased spending for clothes is due to higher prices, and part is because we're buying more clothes than in the past, she explains.

Clothing industry figures also show that the number of small children who are outfitted for school is growing at a fast pace, Saunders says. This is probably due to the increasing numbers of working mothers who enroll their children in nursery schools and more money available for clothing in smaller families with two incomes.

The specialist points out that while many shoppers are interested in cutting their clothing costs, they also want quality, and are willing to pay for it.

She suggests a few simple steps to insure you get the most for your clothing dollar.

—Before you begin to shop, know what you already have that is wearable. Consider fit, needed repairs and appropriateness of the clothes you have now.

—Figure out what you need in terms of types of clothing, colors and fabrics. Cut fabric swatches so you can match items you already own.

—Get organized for shopping. Set a budget and shop with a list.

—Remember that separates are a relatively inexpensive way to extend a wardrobe since items can be mixed and matched.

—It doesn't cost anything to try on "trendy" clothes, but be careful when you buy them. Make sure the clothing is suitable for you, and that the trend is new rather than on the way out.

—Try on every item of clothing you plan to buy. This is important both for children and adults. Sizes are often little more than a guideline since they vary too much from manufacturer to manufacturer to be entirely reliable.

Wheat production seminar scheduled

The Scurry County Field Crops Committee in cooperation with the County Extension Office will sponsor a Wheat Production Seminar Thursday. The seminar will begin at 1:30 p.m. in Room B of the Scurry County Coliseum.

Several speakers from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service are scheduled to address the group. Dr. Kirby Huffman, extension agronomist, will present a program on general wheat production including growth stages, planting dates, pull-off dates, varieties, wheat disease and profit-making decisions. Dr. Huffman is stationed at the Texas A&M University Extension and Research Center in Lubbock.

Dr. Michael Hickey, extension soil chemist, will present a program on wheat fertility needs and the importance of soil testing. Dr. Hickey is also stationed at the Lubbock Center.

Deanna Myers, county entomologist, will inform producers on scouting and controlling green bugs in wheat.

Marvin Ensor, county extension agent for agriculture, will conclude the seminar with a presentation on the 1984-85 demonstrations in wheat, rye and oat fertilizer test.

Scurry County farmers are currently preparing for the 1985-86 wheat crop. This seminar is designed to answer any questions of concern to local producers and to assist farmers in maximizing yields and returns on their wheat crop.

Who's afraid of a 4-3 fit?

By James Jacoby

It's not surprising that getting to slam in a 4-3 fit requires quite a few rounds of bidding, but North and South had the methods to get there. In some circles South would have been expected to bid three no-trump after North's reverse response of two hearts, but South knew that North would not pass two no-trump. After that, everything was easy. When North supported spades, South cue-bid the diamond king and North showed even more values with his four-heart bid. Reading the North hand for a singleton club, South jumped to five spades, an invitation readily accepted by North.

It took sophistication to bid the slam, and the play to cinch the contract required the same quality. Look it over for a minute and see how you would play six spades with the opening lead of a trump.

The obvious plays need either a 3-3 trump split or a 3-3 split in the diamond suit. What a sophisticated declarer should find is a way of making the slam when neither suit splits that favorably. South was up to the task. He won the spade jack, played a low diamond from dummy and followed with a low diamond from his hand. Now whatever the defense chose to return, he was able to trump one club, pick up trumps while discarding losing hearts from dummy, and then run the diamond suit for 12 tricks.

As teams trim to 60...

Brazile among veterans cut

by The Associated Press

The Houston Oilers, who last season traded all-time rushing leader Earl Campbell, have cut one of their long-time defensive stalwarts, linebacker Robert Brazile, a seven-time Pro Bowl selection in 11 seasons in the National Football League.

Brazile, a victim of the numbers as NFL teams began to trim their rosters to the 60-man limit required today, was cut in the Oilers' continuing youth movement.

Brazile, Houston's first-round draft choice in 1975, started every game through the end of last season, a club record 147 straight. Linebacker Gregg Bingham, a 13-year veteran, was removed from the roster earlier in training camp and accepted a front-office job.

Other long-time veterans waived as 15 teams announced cuts were Miami placekicker Uwe Von Schamann, punter Craig Colquitt of Pittsburgh and linebacker Greg Buttle of the New York Jets.

Teams must cut their rosters to 50 by Aug. 27 and 45 by Sept. 2. Last season the final roster limit was 49 players.

Von Schamann, a six-year veteran who beat a kicking slump last season with three field goals in the Super Bowl, converted 66 of 70 extra points, both NFL records. But in 1984 he missed 10 of 12 field goal attempts of 30 yards or more.

Buttle, a 10-year starter at outside linebacker for the Jets, fell victim to the team's conversion to a 3-4 defense. The Jets were one of the most active team in the league Monday, cutting 24 players.

Colquitt, who punted on Pittsburgh's 1978 and 1979 Super Bowl champions, averaged a career-worst 34.7 net yards per kick last season. Colquitt also angered Steeler Chuck Noll when he failed to make a first down after running with the ball instead of kicking it in a late-season loss.

Earnest Anderson, who led the nation in rushing in 1982 for Oklahoma State, was one of nine players cut by Detroit.

Tight end Tom Mullady, a six-year veteran, was among the New York Giant cuts.

The Chicago Bears placed Pro Bowl linebacker Mike Singletary, a holdout, on the reserve-did-not-report list.

The Minnesota Vikings reportedly have signed former University of Michigan All-American Anthony Carter, who played for three years in the USFL, to a five-year, $2-million contract. But the Vikings reportedly are waiting for Carter to clear waivers from the USFL's Oakland Invaders.

The Buffalo Bills signed linebacker Chris Keating to a series of one-year contracts. Among their cuts were veteran defensive backs Brian Carpenter and Ray Griffin.

World class sprinter Mel Lattany failed to make it as a wide receiver with the Dallas Cowboys, who also waived punter John Warren.

'Minor' helps Royals secure win before going back down

by The Associated Press

Dave Leeper may be gone, but the Kansas City Royals won't forget him for awhile. Neither will the Detroit Tigers.

Leeper got his first major-league run batted in Monday night with a fielder's choice in the bottom of the 10th inning that gave the Royals a 2-1 victory over Detroit. Pinch-runner Onix Concepcion raced home from third base on the grounder and slid underneath the tag, prompting an argument from the Tigers.

Moments after the game ended, Leeper was sent down to Class AAA Omaha in a move that had already been planned by the Royals.

"I expected it," Leeper said. "What the heck, I'm just happy I got a chance to contribute while I was here."

The victory kept Kansas City 2½ games behind American League West-leading California, which beat Oakland 5-4. In other AL games, New York held off Boston 6-5, Cleveland beat Toronto 5-3, Milwaukee stopped Minnesota 4-1 and Baltimore routed Texas 9-2.

Both starters in the Kansas City-Detroit game went the distance and allowed just four hits. Bret Saberhagen, 15-5, got the victory while Jack Morris, 13-7, took the hard-luck loss.

Yankees 6, Red Sox 5

Daye Winfield homered and drove in four runs for New York, but it was a ninth-inning catch that had the fans buzzing at Yankee Stadium.

With New York clinging to a 6-5 lead with one out in the ninth, Marty Barrett hit a drive to left field but Griffey climbed the wall and reached far over the fence to catch the ball.

The victory was the fifth straight for the surging Yankees, who moved within four games of first-place Toronto in the AL East.

Indians 5, Blue Jays 3

Tom Waddell, who beat New York's Ron Guidry in his first major-league start three weeks ago, beat Toronto ace Dave Stieb in his third career start.

Tigers eye scrimmage; continuing to improve

Minor injuries and an apparent virus have hampered football workouts somewhat this week, but overall, the varsity Ragin' Tigers are continuing to improve, said Coach Dennis Tomlin this morning.

"We've got some flu going through the team and some kids with sore legs and all. That's slowing us down," he said. "We had all three tailbacks out today (Jeff Rose, Tony Romero and Scott Lanier) with illness. Several other kids, like Todd Odom and Jake Menix, have missed workouts with minor injuries, but we're continuing to make progress," he said.

Tuesday morning's workout, however, was sluggish, which Tomlin credited in part to a scrimmage Monday evening.

"We worked until 9 last night and that may have something to do with it," he said.

Tomlin indicated that a number of individuals stood out in the intrasquad scrimmage, including Jimmy Hunter, tight ends Chris Garrett and Trey Tippens and quick-tackle Brent McFarland.

The team is looking forward to Friday's scrimmage with Vernon, set for 7:30 p.m. in Stamford.

"Mainly, we'll be using this scrimmage to look at the kids. We want to find out which kid works best at which position," he said.

Volleyball teams open '85 campaigns tonight

Coach Vicki Nelms' Tigers jump from scrimmage action to the real thing tonight as they open the 1985 volleyball season here.

The Tigers entertain Levelland at 7:30 - the only home varsity volleyball match until they host Fort Stockton in District 2-4A competition on Sept. 14. A junior varsity match will be held tonight at 6:30. Both will be at the high school gym.

Monday, the teams scrimmaged in Seminole. The varsity scrimmaged Seminole, Lamesa and Denver City. The JV scrimmage only Denver City.

"I think it went real well," said Coach Nelms of the scrimmages. "We have a few wrinkles we need to iron out and we're going to work on those this morning."

No scores were kept during the scrimmages, which lasted between 45 minutes and an hour apiece.

"The girls are working well together. They have different starting positions than last year and they are getting used to that."

The coach said the scrimmages showed the team "needs some work on serve receives and coverage - getting in our right spots. Offensively we looked pretty strong. All the girls were hitting well. They were using their offense really smart and finding the holes."

SMU wanting to disassociate program from rouge alumni

DALLAS (AP) - Contrite Southern Methodist officials sought to dissociate the Mustangs' rogue alumni from the school's football program today following a decision not to mount a legal challenge to NCAA sanctions against the school.

Former Texas governor Bill Clements, chairman of the SMU Board of Governors, said he was angry at the small group of alumni who caused the three-year probation handed to the Mustangs Friday.

"None of us at the table (SMU officials) had anything to do with it (the probation) but we all have to share the guilt," said Clements. "We must all make sure that if it's humanly possible we're never guilty of this again. I'm angry (at some of the alumni) but you have to be tolerant and have a sense of compassion."

Clements said the school was "going to take our medicine and move forward to take every effort to see that this won't happen again."

SMU President L. Donald Shields said SMU has identified nine alumni who will be "permanently disassociated" from the school's football program.

Clements said SMU decided not to sue the NCAA.

"Our judgment is that for the long term interest of SMU, it's not the thing to do," he said.

Athletic Director Bob Hitch admitted the Mustangs have some serious work ahead, eliminating out-of-control boosters from an active role in helping the football program.

"We do have a booster problem," said Hitch. "Not all SMU people are bad guys. You're talking a small percentage. There are a lot of supporters who care about SMU who don't get carried away."

SMU, charged with 36 rules violations by the NCAA, was placed on probation Friday for the sixth time. The Mustangs will have no scholarships next year and only 15 to offer in 1987.

Phelps only Tech no-show

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - All but one scholarship player has reported to camp at Texas Tech University. Third-team offensive lineman Todd Phelps of Haltom City said he has retired from football.

Texas Tech football coach Jerry Moore said he was pleased with Monday's opening varsity practice where 100 veterans breezed through a two-hour workout.

"They were very intent and for the most part in excellent condition," Moore said. "I'm extremely pleased by the way they look. There is no doubt we have some depth."

The varsity will join about 65 freshmen players in pads starting Thursday.

The Red Raiders have a Sept. 7 opener against New Mexico.

Byerly resigns Seminole post

SEMINOLE – George Byerly, who led Seminole to the state semifinals last season, has resigned as head basketball coach at Seminole High School.

Byerly, a former basketball and football coach at Snyder High School before coming to Seminole, has accepted a head basketball coaching position at Sour Lake High School of the Hardin-Jefferson Independent School District.

Texas loses a top recruit

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The University of Texas football team has lost highly recruited Tony Jones, who decided during the weekend to attend Angelina Junior College on a basketball scholarship.

Jones was missing from the first meeting of the Longhorns' first year players Monday night. But 45 players, including 25 scholarship newcomers and 20 hopeful walk-ons, reported to practice.

The 5-foot-8, 155 pound Garland resident was a speedster who had placed second in the Class AA 100 meters and returned four kickoffs for touchdowns last season.

Coach Fred Akers welcomed his ninth recruiting class Monday with a dinner.

The freshmen will undergo physical examinations Tuesday and will begin practice Wednesday morning.

More injuries in 2-door cars

WASHINGTON (AP) — Small two-door and Japanese cars have the worst record in crashes, while large American cars generally fare the best, the insurance industry says.

European cars, as a group, have a good injury record but tend to cost more to repair following accidents, according to the insurance industry's Highway Loss Data Institute.

The institute's latest report, released Monday, rated popular cars based on the personal injury and vehicle damage in crashes for 1982-1984 model cars.

"The cars with the bad injury experience are predominantly Japanese imports," said Brian O'Neill, spokesman for the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, which is closely associated with the Highway Loss Data Institute and released its findings.

Japanese-made vehicles, however, account for a large portion of small cars. Among the 30 two-door small cars listed, 16 were Japanese.

O'Neill said that while size of the vehicle is a major factor in crash damage, "clearly there are engineering improvements that can be made to small cars (so) that they don't have to be this bad."

He cited as evidence the Saab 900, which scored at the top of both the two-door and four-door small cars for injuries. However, it was worse than average for collision damage.

The study divided 181 popular car models into three size groups based on their wheelbase length.

Among small cars, the Mercedes-Benz 380 SL Coupe and the Chevrolet Corvette were listed as "substantially better than average" in injuries. Small cars listed as "better than average" in injuries were the Saab 900 models, Porshe 944 Coupe and the Volkswagon Vanagon.

Eighteen small cars were listed as "substantially worse than average" and another 12 were listed as "worse than average" in overall injuries. Of those 30, 17 were Japanese.

Using the rating 100 as an average, the highest injury rating was attributed to the Nissan Pulsar, a two-door model that had 158, and the four-door Plymouth Colt (made by Mitsubishi) with 156.

Other two-door models with "substantially worse than average" injury ratings were: Pontiac 1000, 155; Chevrolet Chevette, 154; Mitsubishi Cordia, 151; Dodge Colt, 149; Plymouth Colt, 148; Toyota Starlet, 148; Renault Alliance, 138; Nissan Sentra, 137; Mercury Lynx, 137; Dodge Charger, 132.

Among four-door models, those rated "substantially worse than average" in injuries behind the Plymouth Colt were: Mitsubishi Tredia, 155; Nissan Sentra, 145; Dodge Colt, 144; Chevrolet Chevette, 143; Isuzu T-Car-I-Mark, 140; Pontiac 1000, 139.

By contrast, cars with the best injury records had ratings in the 50s and 60s.

According to the institute, models with the best results in both the injury and collision damage categories were the four-door Oldsmobile Delta 88, Buick LeSabre, Mercury Grand Marquis and Chevrolet Caprice; the station wagon or vans Dodge Caravan, Plymouth Voyager, Chevrolet Caprice and American Eagle 30; and the 2-door Ford Crown Victoria.

Dr. Ruth inspires new board game

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dr. Ruth Westheimer and a Baltimore game manufacturer hope to send countless couples racing along the Arousal Track on their way to Mutual Pleasure.

That journey is the object of a board game called "Dr. Ruth's Game of Good Sex," which will hit the stores in September.

It is based on the radio and television call-in shows featuring the 57-year-old sex therapist, who looks and sounds more like a favorite aunt than someone who gives advice on foreplay.

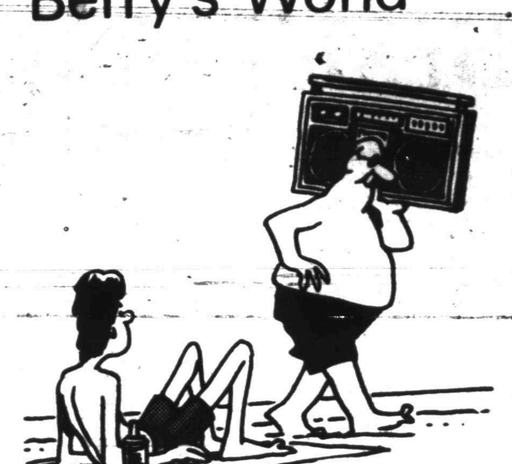

The game, recommended for players 21 and older, is expected to sell for $24.95.

"It fills a function in an enjoyable way," Dr. Ruth says. "If it can replace one night of TV watching, it might be very nice for interaction."

The game is to be played by two to four couples, who can advance their game piece around the board by correctly answering questions on oral sex, clitoral vs. vaginal orgasms and a wide range of other sexual topics. The Arousal Track covers four areas: Isn't it Romantic?; In the Mood; Preliminaries, and, finally, The Act.

Treasury bills yields unchanged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Yields on three-month Treasury securities remained unchanged while the rate for six-month bills edged slightly lower in Monday's auctions.

The Treasury Department sold $7.2 billion in three-month bills at an average discount rate of 7.14 percent, the same as last week.

Another $7.2 billion was sold in six-month bills at an average discount rate of 7.28 percent, down from 7.36 percent last week.

The rates were the lowest since July 15 when three-month bills averaged 7.06 percent and six-month bills sold for 7.2 percent.

The new Treasury bill discount rates understate the actual return to investors — 7.37 percent for three-month bills and 7.66 percent for six-month bills.

Chrysler tops cut-rate financing

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. has topped cut-rate financing programs offered by its top two competitors while Chrysler and Ford Motor Co. brought back manufacturers rebates.

Chrysler on Monday announced a 7.5 percent financing program on 1985 cars and trucks, only hours after Ford Motor Co. had matched a 7.7 percent loan rate implemented last week by General Motors Corp.

"Mr. Iacocca took a step back and waited until everyone else came out with their plans and then he topped them all," said Mark Snethkamp, a Detroit-area Chrysler dealer.

The No. 3 automaker's incentive program would include the 7.5 percent financing and provide up to a $1,500 cash rebate on most 1985 model new cars and trucks.

Elder released from house

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Sanctuary movement leader Jack Elder says his four months in a federal halfway house — are a shot in the arm for efforts to help Central American refugees.

Elder, released Friday from the Augusta House, said Monday his plans are indefinite but he will be doing something connected with the sanctuary movement.

"It feels real good" to be free, he said, but added he "felt pretty free all the time because I was able to keep my principles."

Elder, 42, was convicted earlier this year of conspiring to help Salvadorans enter the United States and of transporting them from a refugee center to a bus station in McAllen, Texas.

A federal judge sentenced him to two years on probation, but Elder said he could not go along with probationary restrictions on his sanctuary movement work.

As a result, U.S. District Judge Filemon Vela of Brownsville ordered him to serve a 150 days in a halfway house.

He was released early at the direction of the federal prisons bureau, said Lucille Hardin, Augusta House director.

Elder, formerly director of Casa Oscar Romero, a haven for Central American refugees, said his halfway house sentence helped the movement "because I went unbowed into detention."

"It was a shot in the arm for the people who had their doubts about the movement," he said.

Elder said he visited his wife and four children at a house where they were staying in San Antonio while he was at the Augusta House.

He said his first order of business will be to return to the Rio Grande Valley for the Saturday wedding of his former co-defendant Stacey Merkt.

She was convicted of conspiring to help Salvadorans enter the country illegally and was sentenced to six months in prison. She is free pending an appeal.

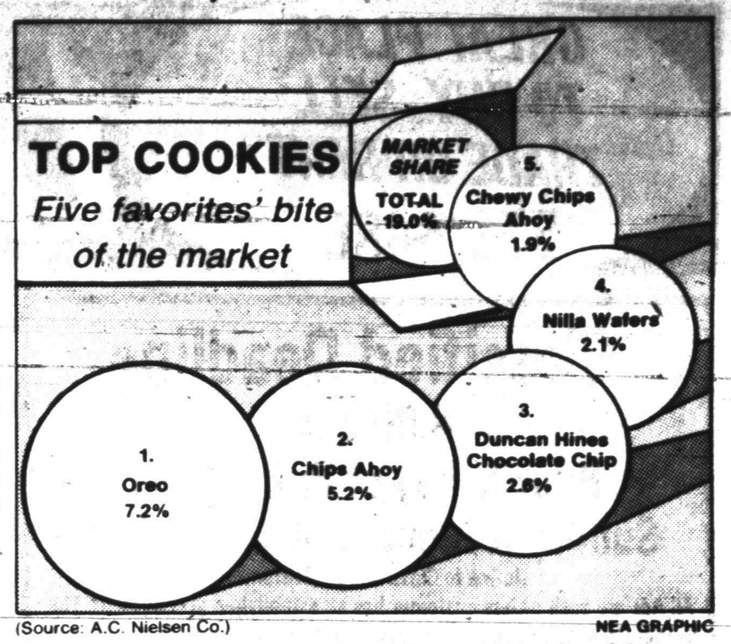

After that, Elder said he is not sure what he will do.

Among his options, he said, are to continue the maintenance work he did while staying at the halfway house. He also said he could return to teaching, the job he held before going to Casa Oscar Romero.

Elder said it is unlikely he will return to the Casa Oscar Romero, which has a new director.

Whatever he does, Elder said he still plans to be involved in the sanctuary movement.

"I think there's a lot of facets people can get involved in," he said. "There's a lot of interest in the issue as long as there's continuing U.S. involvement in Central America."

VA personnel investigated in probes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's largest medical system, the Veterans Administration, is beset on two fronts with separate investigations into its physicians' licenses and the alleged coziness between employees and a drug company.

At least 49 VA doctors have been identified by the American Medical Association as having had their medical licenses revoked, suspended or restricted, officials of the AMA said Monday.

In a separate matter, the VA said between 75 and 100 employees accepted gifts, speaking fees and other favors from Smith Kline & French Laboratories, a Philadelphia company that sells pharmaceuticals to the VA medical system. All are employees of the VA's department of medicine and surgery.

Both investigations are being handled by the VA inspector general's office, which is charged by Congress as the agency's watchdog.

The finding on the doctors turned up when the AMA checked the names of physicians working for the VA in 1983 and 1984 against the AMA's listing of all licensed physicians.

It found 42 of 6,000 doctors working full-time for the VA and seven of 11,000 doctors working part-time for the VA during that period had license problems, said Dr. Richard L. Egan, director of the AMA's medical education division in Chicago.

But Dr. Arthur Lewis, deputy director for the VA's Office of Operations, denied unlicensed doctors might be working in VA facilities.

"I don't know at this point in time of any individual serving in a VA hospital who does not have a valid license in some state," Lewis said.

In some cases the doctors may have multiple licenses and retained a license in at least one state, Egan said.

The licenses may have been lost due to medical competence problems, or for other reasons. In most states conviction of a felony is grounds for revocation, and doctors may have lost their licenses because of tax convictions or other charges not directly related to medicine, Egan said.

Tar deters beach tourists

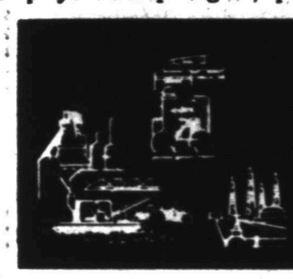

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — High tides caused by Hurricane Danny, which struck the Louisiana coast last week, may be responsible for oil that has washed ashore on Mustang and Padre islands, officials say.

The wave of oil has chased tourists off the beaches. At the Holiday Inn-North Padre Island, 15 to 20 families to cut their visits short, said manager Jim Evans.

"There are people coming in here with tar up to their knees. We ran out of the tar-off substance we give our visitors," Evans said.

Nueces County Commissioner J.P. Luby said the patches of oil that washed up on the beach during the weekend are the worst he has seen in a long time.

"It seems not to be letting up," he said.

Birds nesting on valuable land

AUSTIN (AP) — What researchers say is North America's largest colony of black-capped vireos live on a sunny hillside worth millions of dollars. And the city of Austin may be asked to buy the land for a summer home for the rare birds.

"Vireos are very choosey. They are very picky about where they'll nest. I don't think the vireos meant to cause a big controversy. But it seems the developers and the vireos both want the same tract," said Jim O'Donnell, one of three researchers studying the birds for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

O'Donnell said the continent's largest colony of vireos nests on 217 acres owned by Westview Development Co., builders of the Davenport Ranch subdivision next to the Wild Basin Wilderness Preserve.

The land is valued at $10 million and homes in the subdivision cost between $250,000 and $2 million.

The vireo, a diminutive olive and black bird with white "spectacles," nests only in a strip of west central Oklahoma and Central Texas.

"We've located 33 (local) nesting territories, and all but seven of the sites are on the Davenport Ranch property. If we lost that land, the seven terrorities won't be able to sustain themselves," O'Donnell said.

21 persons killed in Tripoli blast

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A stick of dynamite and a car bomb exploded within minutes of each other today in Tripoli, Lebanon's predominantly Moslem northern port. Police said at least 21 people were killed and 75 hurt.

In Beirut, police said 23 people died and 113 were wounded in the heaviest exchange of artillery and rocket fire during the last six months. The fighting between Christians and Moslems began after a pair of car bomb explosions on Monday.

Tripoli police said dynamite was hurled from a speeding car at Sadoun public square in the Abu Samra neighborhood. As people rushed to the blast scene, a bomb-laden car about 150 yards away exploded three minutes later.

Police said all casualties were caused by the car bomb. Earlier eyewitness reports had indicated both blasts were caused by car bombs.

The blasts occurred outside the homes of Sheik Kenaan Naji, leader of Jundullah, or the Soldiers of God, and his aide Sheik Abdel-Karim Badawi. Police said Kenaan was injured and taken to a hospital. They had no word on Badawi.

Jundullah is a fundamentalist Sunni Moslem militia armed and financed by the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Witnesses said thick black smoke and orange flames could be seen billowing from the Abu Samra neighborhood.

Trial testimony in Bhakta case

while enroute to Cogdell.

Wiman noted this was a "possibility, but as far as I'm concerned, not a probability."

He noted he was well pleased with the emergency treatment the victim received by ambulance personnel.

Greene also referred to facts in the autopsy report, which indicated bruises about the neck, but only on one side.

Wiman pointed to the difference between examining a living and a dead individual, and that some of the neck "trauma" he witnessed likely would fade once the body had expired.

Upon her arrival at the hospital, Wiman said Mrs. Bhakta showed all the signs of being classified brain dead. These included dialated and fixed pupils and the lack of any muscle reflexes.

She did still have a heart beat, he noted. This coupled with the fact of her youth led her physicians to place her on a respirator.

Wiman said he felt the machines alone kept her alive until she was officially declared dead around 9:25 p.m. Aug. 25.

Bhakta was initially placed under arrest in connection with the incident at 2:35 p.m. that day.

After his wife's death, charges against him were elevated to murder.

A jury comprised of eight women and four men are now hearing the case.

House-to-house searches aided by attack type dogs

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Rifle-toting soldiers aided by attack dogs launched house-to-house searches in the riot-torn black township of Soweto this morning, witnesses said.

The searches came a day after a delegation of black and white clergymen met with President P.W. Botha, leader of the white minority government, and said he did not appear to recognize the seriousness of the past year of unrest by the black majority.

The neighborhood that was sealed off has been so persistently shattered by daily violence that Soweto residents have nicknamed it "Beirut."

This was the first time in South Africa's year of rioting that the army was sent house-to-house in Soweto, the nation's largest black community, though similar operations have been conducted in eastern Cape province.

Witnesses said soldiers aboard armored-personnel carriers formed a ring around the area known as Diepkloof Zone One, then foot soldiers with dogs began rushing from one dwelling to the next, banging on doors.

"So far they appear to be acting courteously. They are searching the houses," said one resident who asked not to be identified for fear of police reprisals.

Bishop Desmond Tutu, who refused to join a the delegation that met with Botha, said Botha was not inclined to negotiate with the black majority because of the military power at his disposal.

A spokesman for the U.S. State Department in Washington criticized Tutu for deciding not to meet Botha on Monday. "A refusal by any party to meet and negotiate only worsens the prospects for understanding in South Africa," said State Department spokesman Charles E. Radman.

Tutu told The Associate Press in a telephone interview that: "When you are listening to Mr. Botha you realize that he isn't really interested in peaceful negotiation, because he is strong militarily."

"His people seem intent on bludgeoning blacks into total submission," said Tutu, the black Anglican cleric who won the 1984 Nobel Peace Prize.

The clergymen who met with Botha said that he did not seem to realize that time is running out for the government's policy of racial segregation, known as apartheid.

The clergymen — four blacks, four whites and one of mixed race — said Botha seemed to believe his speech last Thursday in which he talked about an undefined black "co-responsibility" amounted to reform.

Shoplifting charged here

Police were called to T.G.&Y. in the Varsity Square Shopping Center at 12:31 p.m. where they arrested a 15-year-old male juvenile for shoplifting.

The young suspect was later released to the custody of his father.

Dumpster, meter struck

Two fixed objects were involved in minor traffic mishaps reported in Snyder Monday.

The first occurred at 11:21 a.m. in the 1200 Block of College Ave.

Involved in it was a 1981 Chevrolet driven by Jerry Don Beard of Rt. 1, Snyder which struck a City of Snyder-owned trash dumpster.

The days' second mishap was logged at 6:20 p.m. at 611 N. Ave. T.

Involved in it was a 1976 Chrysler driven by Steve M. Coutouizi of Rt. 2, Snyder which struck a Lone Star Gas Co. gas meter.

Smoking is reason to worry

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My son and daughter-in-law both smoke and have two small children. It sickens me to see them cuddling the baby with a cigarette dangling from their hands; I can't believe the smoke is good for a child. What do you think?

DEAR READER — Cigarette smoke is harmful to children. Also, parental smoking serves as a bad example to children; they may be likely to smoke in imitation of their parents when they are older. I think it likely that within the next few years, tobacco products will be universally viewed as harmful. Perhaps in the glorious future, smokers will be seen as pariahs, singular individuals who not only affect their own health but the well-being of those around them, also.

Until we reach this new world, however, we all experience passive smoking — unwantingly participating in the cigarette smoked by someone else. I believe your son and daughter-in-law could exercise considerate adult behavior by confining their cigarette smoking to areas where the children will not have to share the habit. Of course, you have no say in the matter; that has to be their decision. I would suggest that smoking around young children is a subtle form of child abuse.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What can you tell me about the Living Will? Recently my father had an accident and was declared brain-dead. Even so, it took us three days to convince the doctors to disconnect his life-support system. It was agony. Is the Living Will a way to make one's wishes known before it's too late?

DEAR READER — The Living Will is a document that people sign to express their conviction that they not be subjected to heroic or machine-oriented measures to sustain life. I'm simplifying, but — basically — such patients protest being kept alive if there is little or no hope they can recover.

The Living Will is not legal in most states. Its purpose is to provide a rational expression of a person's wishes — how he or she wants to be treated when death is imminent. In my own practice, I find Living Wills to be useful affidavits.

Crash settlements could take years

DALLAS (AP) — It may take two to three years to settle lawsuits over the crash of Delta Air Lines Flight 191, but damages awarded to survivors and victims' families could average $500,000, according to one attorney.

Attorneys predict as much as $100 million eventually could be paid out in damages.

New York attorney Lee S. Kreindler, one of the nation's better-known air disaster lawyers, said "the chances of losing are minimal in a major airline crash."

New York air crash attorney Aaron J. Broder, partner of F. Lee Bailey, said awards generally average $500,000.

Broder said awards are usually larger for well-paid executives because of a higher value placed on their lost earnings. He said awards are smaller for children and retired people.

Delta officials has declined comment on legal matters related to the Aug. 2 jumbo jet crash at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport that killed 134 people and injured 30 others.

Lawyers with experience in such cases said all the federal lawsuits and some filed in state courts across the country will probably be consolidated in Dallas federal court. Already, four suits have been filed in Florida, one in Fort Worth and one in Dallas.

Texas and Florida, home for most of the crash victims, are the states where victims tend to fare best in personal injury lawsuits, attorneys said.

"You can get millions of dollars for children in Florida," Kreindler told the Dallas Times-Herald. "But those are $75,000 cases in most places."

"Florida," Sterns said, "is just gangbusters from the plaintiffs' point of view because of special rules about grief and worry and pain."

The Delta crash cases may end up in Dallas since the Federal Aviation Administration might be sued over proper weather warnings to pilots.

Flight 191 plowed into the ground just short of the runway after flying into a thunderstorm, and violent winds are a suspected cause of the accident.

Although airlines usually concede liability at the outset, Delta may be reluctant to do so because of the FAA's possible involvement.

"You have an accident that grew out of the relationship between the airline and air traffic controllers," Kreindler said. "That is the kind of situation that typically leads to a non-admission of liability."

If the cases are consolidated in Dallas, the judge will then be faced with what San Francisco attorney Gerald C. Sterns calls "$100 million-questions." They include decisions on whether Texas law will govern questions of liability and damages, or Georgia law, where Delta is based, or whether each victim get a hearing in his or her home state, he said.

No clear pattern emerges in how previous major crash suits were handled.

Suits stemming from the 1982 Air Florida crash into Washington's 14th Street Bridge that killed 78 people were consolidated in Washington.

But after 23 people died in a 1983 fire aboard an Air Canada flight from Dallas, the suits were consolidated in Los Angeles, home of the manufacturer, McDonnell Douglas Corp.

Workman's comp rates might be reconsidered

AUSTIN (AP) — Despite Gov. Mark White's call for another look at the decision, a recent State Board of Insurance vote to add 30.7 percent to workers' compensation will not be reconsidered, the board chairman says.

A 2-1 board vote on Aug. 9 will mean a $577 million a year increase in rates, effective Oct. 1. White indicated Monday that he has heard from small businessmen who don't like the decision.

"I talk to them frequently about the problems of doing business in Texas," said White.

"I have a review going on at this time. There's been no increase imposed as yet," he said. "I'm concerned about the rates that have been set, and I'm looking into it now with the insurance board."

The governor said he is "trying to make certain we have the lowest possible cost of doing business in Texas. Certainly, this is one component of it.

"They haven't imposed those rates yet, and I think there may be some reconsideration of them. Hopefully, there will be," White added.

But Board Chairman Lyndon Olson said he knows of no move to alter the decision. The increase is needed, in part, because of "crisis" conditions in some portions of the insurance industry, he said.

"The competitive cycle is fierce in the insurance industry and it has brought some property and casualty insurers and weaker members of the insurance industry close to financial disaster," said Olson.

Information about the workers' compensation rates has routinely been shared with the governor's staff, according to Olson.

Olson is the only member of the three-person board not appointed by White. Dissenting board member Carole Rylander favored the smaller 27.5 percent increase recommended by the board staff.

White said it makes no difference that two of the board members are his appointees.

"It's a question of whether this is justified. If it is, then certainly it will be imposed. If it isn't, I hope to see it reduced. I haven't asked specifically for that. I'm reviewing the information," said White.

Olson said board members have not talked about re-opening the case, and added, "I have not seen any motions for rehearing.

"I don't think there's any doubt that for the last five years this board has done its very level best to keep rates at a minimum. Most responsible regulators in this country sense an atmosphere of crisis in the insurance industry. Property and casualty insurors reported record underwriting losses last year," said Olson.

"Nobody likes it," he said of the 30.7 percent increase, "but it is an availability vs. affordability issue. If the rate is not adequate enough then workers' comp insurance may not be available."

The insurance industry called for a 40.8 percent hike that would have added $730 million a year to premiums. Increased operating expenses and costly losses were cited as reasons for a hike.

Cops, gang members share campout

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The Latino Peace Officer Association's campout included the normal activities — pitching tents, playing football and cracking jokes.

But the norm this time was a change of pace for the 13 camp participants, who all are Fort Worth gang members and more prone to fighting than playing together.

Of the 25 Fort Worth youths who originally agreed to go, 12 refused to get on the bus when they saw rival gang members on board. But 10 boys and three girls stayed.

Association President Humberto Martinez said the campout was part of the group's efforts to bridge the gap between authority figure and gang member.

Martinez said the campout showed some positive signs.

One youth joked with Martinez when the officer began sending the youths to bed.

"If I resist, will I get in trouble?" the teen-ager asked.

The fact that he could joke with a peace officer about getting into trouble told Martinez that the effort to bridge the gap was working.

Association members chipped in $300 out of their own pockets to finance the campout at Sid Richardson Boy Scout camp in nearby Bridgeport. They wanted to let gang members know that "law enforcement personnel are people, too," Martinez told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

The campout began with pitching tents, followed by a game of water football and dinner. They gathered for a two-hour discussion session before bedtime.

"Heck, yeah, I had a good time," said one 17-year-old boy. "You meet people from other gangs, other barrios, but in friendship, not rivalry."

Martinez said the volunteer officers used the discussion session to explain how youths can make it easier for themselves and police.

"We showed them how certain actions can be interpreted as threatening by police," he said. "If you come out of a car with both hands in your pockets, then pull them out suddenly, that could appear threatening to the officer."

On Saturday, they played football together before heading home.

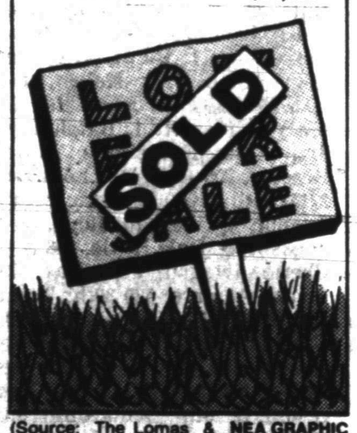

"The bottom line was, how would these kids react when we got back?" Martinez said. "These guys don't just take to you automatically. But we could tell they enjoyed it and wanted to do it again."

Producers can recover fuel costs

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission can allow natural gas producers to recover fuel and power costs arising from compression of the gas, a federal appeals court has ruled.

The ruling Monday by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals applies to producers with systems in place before 1978, when the Natural Gas Policy Act went into effect.

The court ordered the commission to change its orders to allow for the recovery of fuel and power costs by pre-NGPA facilities to the same extent as that allowed under the National Gas Policy Act for post-NGPA facilities.

The ruling came in a challenge by many producers, pipeline companies and distributors to orders by the commission.

Under the Natural Gas Policy Act, a first seller of natural gas is allowed to recover certain costs of compressing, gathering, processing, treating, liquefying or transporting the gas. The commission issued a series of orders outlining what costs could be recovered.

The federal appeals court upheld the commission as acting rationally.
