Volume XLL.

Junction, Kimble County, Texas, Friday, March 20, 1925.

Number 48.

Charles B. Warren

Mr. Warren was appointed Attorney General but after unsuccessful attempts on the part of the president and Republican leaders to confirm the appointment, the president appointed John G. Sargent, a boyhood friend, from Vermont. He was promptly confirmed.

EDWARDS COUNTY RANCHMAN KILLED

Mark Bean, prominent Edwards County citizen, was found dead in his pasture last Saturday morning by his brother-in-law, Gardner Franks, and Mr. Hatley, after one of the Mexicans on the ranch had found his horse and had given the alarm.

Mr. Bean had gone to the ranch, about the middle of the week, from his home in Rock Springs and was gathering up goats, preparatory to shearing, when it is supposed he found several goats in a cave on the side of a high cliff. Tying his horse at the top of the cliff, he lowered himself to a ledge, level with the cave. It is supposed that in attempting to get the goats out and start them along the ledge he slipped and fell.

He left the ranch house Thursday afternoon and the Mexicans did not think anything of his absence as they presumed he had returned to town. His family in Rock Springs, of course did not miss him, as he spent a good part of his time at the ranch. When the Mexican found the horse Friday afternoon, he rode over to the Franks ranch and told Mexicans working for Mr. Franks about it. They then telephoned Mr. Franks, who rode to the Bean ranch as quickly as possible, meeting Mr. Hatley on the way, and was accompanied by him to the spot where Mr. Bean was found, about half way down the cliff. He had fallen nearly one hundred feet, but was not badly bruised and very few if any, bones were broken.

The report in the daily papers was badly mixed, according to Judge Stevenson, who with Mrs. Stevenson, attended the funeral. The rope was not tied around his body, as stated in the daily papers, but was still hanging on the side of the cliff. A goat, which it is presumed he was attempting to drive from the cave, was found a few feet from the man's body.

Mr. Bean was well known here, having been a frequent business visitor in Junction. He leaves a wife and two sons.

The Eagle has received notice from the Publicity Dept. of C. I. A. at Denton that Miss Joan Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilson, who is a freshman in the college, is doing excellent work in her second year of photography work. This course, according to the report, covers three years, and students who complete the course are well qualified to enter the work commercially if they desire.

LOCAL JEWELER GETS PAGE PUBLICITY

Some two weeks ago the San Antonio Express carried a full page illustrated story of the N. C. Patterson freak manager in Junction. Along with numerous pictures of the animals, miniature men, etc., the page had two pictures of Mr. Patterson, who is one of the earliest inhabitants of Junction and who is still living here. A good picture of the town was also shown.

For years Mr. Patterson has been taking roots and knots of trees in which he could see the crude resemblance of some animal, insect or fowl, and has in his leisure time carved them from the rough state into characters that are marvelous in their similarity of life itself.

During the past two or three years he has had these characters on display in his show window and tourists have purchased them for souvenirs, as nothing like this is to be found elsewhere in the country.

TWO MORE BUILDINGS FOR JUNCTION

Deals were closed last weekend whereby A. L. Bartley became owner of the corner lot, 27 feet wide, being a part of the Junction State Bank lots, just east of the Heyman Drug Store, and F. M. Chase became owner of the space of 18 feet between this lot and the one recently purchased by Frank Messert, adjoining the Heyman store.

The new owners expect to begin work within a short time and two new stone or concrete buildings will be seen on what has been a vacant lot for several years.

While nothing definite has been made public as to what businesses will occupy these new buildings, it is probable that Mr. Bartley will enter some line of business and occupy his own building, while Mr. Chase will use his building for an office. These two, together with the new meat market building, will add much to the attractiveness of this part of town.

UNITED GOAT RAISERS MEET AT CAMP WOOD IN AUGUST

Camp Wood, March 11.—One hundred head of thoroughbred, registered African goats are on their way to Camp Wood, according to a letter received by W. A. Thomson of this city. The shipment, which is made up entirely of splendid big rams, is expected to arrive in New York some time in March.

Mr. Thomson is awaiting definite information as to the exact date of arrival of the vessel to go to New York and make arrangements to care for the goats during the quarantine period, which is three months.

The goats will come direct to Camp Wood for the United Goat and Sheep Raisers' Association show and sale Aug. 6, 7, and 8. The showing of these fine goats here for sale purposes will attract breeders from all parts of the country, and it is predicted that the attendance at the Camp Wood meeting will eclipse those of previous meetings.

The following committees are at work getting things lined up for the big visit to Camp Wood in August:

Arrangement and entertainment—Tom Reid and W. A. Thomson.
Sale and show of African goats—Bob Davis.
New members—M. D. Taylor.

To collect funds for show and sale—Lenkey and Sabinal, Bob Davis, Uvalde; J. L. Gulley, Kerrville; A. D. Auld, Camp Wood; Tom Reid and W. A. Thomson.

Manager of show and sale—Tom Reid.

Show committee—Tom Reid, C. C. Kisinger, W. R. Thallman, David Gulley, F. O. Landrum.

Sales—Sam Reid, Fred Wiseman, Sam F. Cooper, M. D. Taylor, W. A. Thomson.

Grounds—W. A. Thomson.

Advisory committee—R. N. Edgett, C. F. Briggs, C. A. Pepper, W. B. Patterson, W. N. McBride, W. H. Rawlings, T. O. Smith and J. A. Buntun.

MOVE POSTOFFICE.

Sunday and Monday were moving days for the local postoffice, in order to allow the owners, Stevenson and Baker, Attorneys, to begin work at once remodeling the building preparatory to moving their law office there.

Postmaster Tracy received authority from the Post Office Dept. to move to the Junction Hardware Co. Tin Shop. This will likely be a temporary move, but was the only building available for the office at the present time.

Messrs. Stevenson and Baker expect to have their new office ready to move in within a short time, and after contemplated changes have been made, they will have a very commodious office in which to conduct their general practice of law.

L. S. HOGGETT'S GRAND-CHILD DIES AT SONORA

Donald Davis, the three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Davis, died last Thursday night at the Davis ranch near Sonora. The child was badly burned from falling in a tub of boiling water that afternoon and pneumonia developed and death resulted in only a few hours.

Mrs. Davis and her two sons were at the ranch alone when the accident occurred. While the burns were known to be serious it was not thought critical and Mrs. Davis telephoned her parents here, Mr. and Mrs. Hoggett that afternoon, but did not think it necessary for them to come.

Mrs. Davis, the child's mother, was formerly Miss Buena Hoggett. The Hoggett family from Junction and Mr. Davis' father's family from Austin were in Sonora Friday to attend the funeral.

Hankins Drug Co. is adding to their bottling works room, making it about twice the present size, in order to take care of the heavy demand that will be made on them to supply bottled soda waters this summer.

HALE'S PROFILE WILL ADORN THE 1/2-CENT STAMP

Washington, March 13.—A profile of Nathan Hale, Revolutionary War captain, banged as a spy by the British at New York in 1776, whose last words were "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country," was selected Thursday by Postmaster General New to adorn the new one-half cent postage stamp.

The profile of Hale was taken from the statue designed by Bela Lyon Pratt now standing on the campus of Yale University.

BIG MOHAIR GAIN.

Washington.—The 1924 mohair clip in six states which produced 96 per cent of the United States supply totalled 19,047,000 pounds, the Department of Agriculture estimated today. In 1923 the clip was 8,561,000 pounds.

Texas, which produces about 80 per cent of the country's crop, clipped 8,741,000 pounds, or an increase of 1,371,000 pounds. Other important producing states are New Mexico, Arizona, California, Oregon and Missouri.

Ruben J. Pickett.

After an illness of several weeks, R. J. Pickett, a resident of Kimble county since 1914, passed away at his home in Junction, Tuesday afternoon and was buried Wednesday afternoon at the local cemetery, his pastor, Rev. E. L. Kelley, officiating.

Mr. Pickett was born in North Carolina Jan. 23, 1849, and came to Texas when a young man, shortly after the Civil War and taught school for a number of years, in East Texas. Later, he was a merchant at Cooper.

When sixteen years of age he enlisted in the Confederate army and served thruout the war, seven months of which time he spent in Federal prisons, after being captured at Ft. Oquidson, Tenn., in 1862.

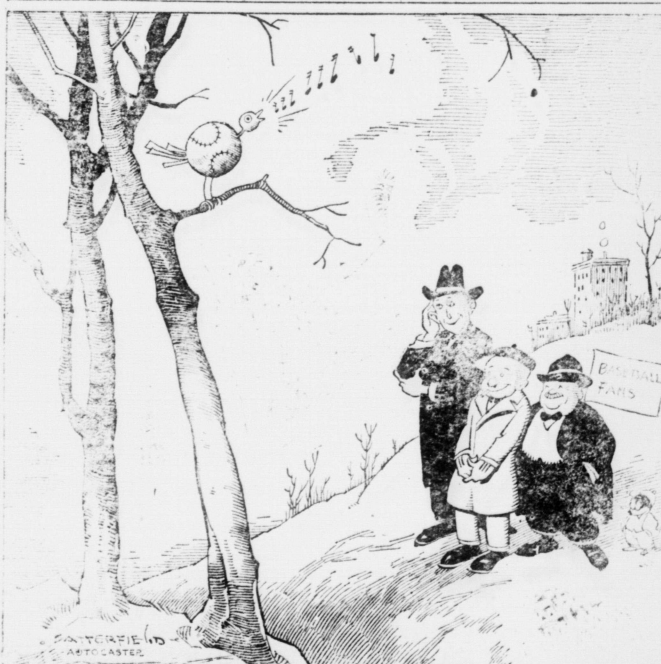

He was a member of the I. O. O. F. Lodge, the Baptist church and the Knights of Honor.

His wife and seven children survive him—Messdames Lillie Hickerson and Ora Isbell of Rockwall; Laura Dodson, Sulphur Springs; Vera James and Emma Stevenson, Junction, and Messrs. C. H. and L. H. Pickett of Bisbee, Ariz. All the children were here at the time of his death.

Guy Stevenson was carried to Kerrville last Thursday and is now in the Secor Hospital for special treatment.

A DRIVE, AND CURTISS SPEAKS HIS MIND

"And why this very flattering visit, may I ask?"

"Please, Curtiss, don't talk like that. I want you to go for a drive. Leave everything and go with me. I'm desperate for a talk."

"I'd better not," was his calm reply.

"You can leave if you want to," I declared with a frown.

"Yes, I know I can, but—" he hesitated. "I think perhaps it would be better if I stayed."

"What do you mean?"

"Oh, Sallie, what's the use? Things can't go on. Let's stop now while we can before we wreck both our lives."

"Get in, please. We'll run down to Mandarin for tea—there's an adorable place just off the road and it's a beautiful drive." Again he hesitated—looked at me for several minutes and then slipped under the wheel.

It was a silver ribboned road and we passed many beautiful orange groves on the way. The waxy green of the symmetrical trees vied with the brilliant fruit in a colorful allure.

We turned into the Mandarin road. There were the moss-draped trees on the picturesque estates by the side of the St. Johns, with the old wrought-iron lanterns at the high gates and the fences lined with poinsettias in vivid bloom.

"The Tangerine Tea is just beyond the curve," I warned.

"I'm not going there," he said. "I'm going to take you where we will be undisturbed. I had not meant to say anything but you've stirred the devils in me and now I must talk, talk, talk."

He headed the car into a narrow lane, under an avenue of trees, their moss trailing in dainty garlands of lace to the very top of the car. Ahead was a lovely little wood. The red of the maples against the clump of green magnolias being the only touch of Fall. The car came to a halt.

It was an unrivalled day. The air was Springlike in its limpid purity and warmth.

"You've forced this, Sallie. I had meant never to speak to you of personalities again. Now I'll tell you all. I would spare you but I can not. It's too late. You have aroused the things that have lain here for the last forty-eight hours and burned and burned, the things I had meant to still. They are unpleasant; they're even worse than that. They are foul and I can find no euphemistic phrases in which to clothe the things I wish to say."

"First of all, I want you to be perfectly sure that I know everything that happened at Bob Chenoweth's on Saturday night," he began.

"Well, what of it? I would have told you myself."

"The bridge game—the kiss you gave a man to whom you had just been introduced—your unsational bath—Oh, what a fool I've been—I might have known." His voice shook slightly but he squared his shoulders as if for a fresh start.

"But you knew I was silly and wild when you made love to me at camp." I made my defense.

"Simply because a man knows butterflies feast on carrion, he can't help but admire their beauty and at first sight he always has the hope that THIS butterfly will be different from the rest. He can never get over that poignant desire to have a butterfly in his hands but after he finds out that they're all alike, he doesn't go out and catch one. He doesn't let himself touch one because he knows the beautiful powdery stuff that falls from their wings brings decay and he doesn't want that."

The words were gruesome and strong, and yet, behind the unsoftened smile, deep down in my heart, I knew he was right.

I stirred nervously.

"Would you rather I'd stop?" he asked.

"No," I replied, "if you are thinking these things, it would be better for me to know. Go on."

"It's that way about women. Between loving and possessing, there is a gulch before they merge into one."

His unwavering gaze met mine. "I could never bring myself to cross that gulch." He spoke slowly, haltingly, with emphasis on every word.

Incongruously enough, my usual mood flashed into my next words. "And does Mr. High-on-the-Hill really condescend to love some maiden and yet dare not take her?"

Vice Versa.

"Were you hurt while on the eleven?"

"No, while the eleven were on me."—Purple Cow.

SHORT OF LETTERS.

According to a story recently published in the Publishers Auxiliary, it is possible to write and even publish a newspaper without the use of "r" and "k" letters. While it would seem impossible, and the average among us might not be able to figure out how it could be done, the article below is to the effect that Congressman Guy Hardy, of Colorado, has a faded old clipping in his possession about the difficulties of a pioneer newspaper out in his country, which reads: "We begin the publication of the Roccoy Mountain Cyclone with some phew difficulties in the way. ### TEXAS LEADS IN SHEEP RAISING

When a person starts to enumerate the more important industries in Texas, sheep raising is rarely mentioned. It is, in fact, a real article of news even to many native Texans that much of America's highest grade wool comes off the backs of Texas sheep.

For years Texas has led every state the nation in the number of sheep, and recently she has risen to a rank equal to any other state in the quality of wool produced. The corner on fine fleeces that Ohio once held is now shared with the empire state of the Southwest. High prices for Texas fleece are paid by big mills that manufacture uniforms for West Point Military Academy.

The high quality wool and the quantity production has been made possible by systematic, scientific methods of sheep raising and handling. From a side line to a leader, sheep raising has progressed steadily, along with diversified farming and advances in other industries. Old hit or miss methods—which usually were miss—have been discarded and sheep raising placed on a sensible basis.

In 1920, prior to May 20, when over night the bottom dropped out of the market and general depression involved the sheep industry, long twelve-months' wool commanded as high as 78 cents a pound. Then the comparatively quick manner in which Texas disposed of its 1921 spring clip of long wool, estimated at 18,000,000 pounds, at a time when the surplus accumulations of foreign countries were being dumped into the United States in competition with home grown fleeces, indicates that Eastern manufacturers thought of wools from this territory.

Prices that year, however, ranged only from 15 to 18 cents a pound, with some choice lamb wool selling as high as 36 cents. Since then the market has steadily increased until this year wool sold as high as 55 cents and short fall clips up to 57 1/2 cents. So great has become the standard for Texas wool that an estimated 40 per cent of it is contracted each season, much of it months in advance of shearing time.

Recovery From Influenza Hastened by PE-RU-NA

Mr. C. A. Allen, R. R. No. 2, Bondurant, Iowa, gives testimony to the healing power of Pe-ru-na. Influenza left him much run down in health with catarrh of the nose, throat and bronchial tubes punctuated with attacks of asthma. He writes:

"While recovering from the influenza I was so weak I could not gain any strength for two months. The latter part of the winter, I bought six bottles of Pe-ru-na and began taking it. My weight increased to 175 pounds, the most I ever weighed.

My usual winter weight is 155. If you can use this letter for any good, you are perfectly welcome."

Such evidence cannot fail to convince the rank and file of the merits of Pe-ru-na.

Insist upon having the old and original remedy for catarrhal conditions.

Sold Everywhere Tablets or Liquid

The steady importation of registered rams from Vermont, Utah, Ohio and other states, since the sheep industry began to take hold of Texas, less than a half century ago, has been the prime factor in the raising of the breed of the flock to the present standard. The Merino was the first registered sheep to be known on the ranges of the Lone Star State. This animal came from New York and Vermont. He was a wrinkled fellow, with great rolls on his body, particularly around his neck. The wool he produced was of the highest quality but was short staple—and for mutton the Merino was almost a failure. His hide was not smooth and was also tough.

So the Delaine was brought in. This sheep is a strain of the Merino. His breed has been improved and the mutton is superior to that of the first registered sheep in the country. More valuable than anything else about the Delaine is his wool, which is the highest grade. Contesting first place with the Delaine is the Rambouillet, of which there are probably more in West Texas than any other breed. The wool from this animal is not as fine as the Delaine's but the mutton is superior. The sheep are larger and their bodies are smoother. As in the case between breeds of Herfords, Durhams and Angus cattle, the advocate of the Rambouillet proclaims that this type of sheep is better than the Delaine for all purposes, and vice versa.

The result is that many sheepmen have successfully experimented in cross-breeding the two kinds. In the offspring they have the finer wool of the Delaine and the more marketable qualities for which the Rambouillet is noted. Veteran sheepmen counted that the best results are obtained from sticking to straight breeds, eventually securing pure blood flocks, but opinion on the whole differs widely.

It is estimated that 1,500 to 2,000 registered rams are sold in West Texas every fall by breeders from Ohio, California and other states. These rams in 1924 commanded from $25 to $75, with $40 probably an average. The greatest importation in a single year was in 1920, after approximately 300,000 sheep had been shipped in from northwestern states to escape a drought there. Many of these sheep were high grade ewes, and breeding since then has improved the grade. Rams that were imported from Ohio that year sold from $50 to $150, while a few brought $600.

The number of registered rams imported to Texas is decreasing annually in proportion to the greater number of sheep raised. The reason is that through the steady improvement in breeds, sheepmen are now able to obtain high grade animals bred and raised at home. There are a number of breeders in the San Angelo country who, for years, have specialized only in breeding registered rams to the highest grade ewes. Eventually, the offspring will be as high grade as the sheep that can be obtained in distant states at high prices.

Rams that are brought from other states are mostly yearlings and two-year-olds. A ram can be used for breeding until eight or nine years old, but is considered to be in his prime when around six. Ewes will bear lambs at the time they are yearlings until six or eight years old, if well cared for. After a sheep reaches the age of five years, the wool produced begins to grow whorter, although there is a little change in its quality. The breeding season lasts thirty days and is generally in September and October. Most flocks are bred in October. One ram can be bred to fifty ewes, which explains why the number of rams imported is small compared to the number of sheep in the country.

March is lambing time, and the long twelve-months' wool is sheared in April, May and June. Fall shearing is done in September and October. From Sutton and Crockett counties south, nearly all sheepmen shear twice a year, since the winters are milder and sheep have more protection in the hills and timbered country. A few years ago the trend in the San Angelo country was toward shearing but once a year, but now it is swinging the other way.—Exchange.

Night Coughing Stopped Quickly By Simple Treatment

Thousands who are troubled with persistent coughing at night, which robbing them of valuable sleep weakens their systems and lays them open to dangerous infections, can quickly act to prevent this danger through a very simple treatment. People who have hardly been able to rest at all on account of coughing spells have found they can sleep the whole night through undisturbed often the first time they try it.

The treatment is based on a remarkable prescription known as Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs. You simply take a teaspoonful at night before retiring, and hold it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing it, without following with water. The prescription has a double action. It not only soothes and heals soreness and irritation, but it quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing. The result is you usually sleep soundly the very first night and the entire cough condition goes in a very short time.

The prescription is highly recommended for coughs, chest colds, hoarseness, and bronchitis, and is wonderful for children's coughs and spasmodic croup—no harmful drugs. Economical, too, as the dose is only one teaspoonful. At all good drug stores. Ask for

SOLD ON PUBLICITY.

Cameron's grocers are nearly all sold on publicity. One of them, J. D. Dobbins, has had an ad in every issue of The Enterprise that has been printed during the past ten years. Others rarely miss an issue. Time was when the local papers looked to the dry goods firms for support;
now the grocers do more advertising than any other class of merchants in Cameron, and they all say it pays them to advertise.—Cameron Enterprise.

The Reporter editor had noticed the large volume of pro-cery advertising in the Cameron papers the past year, and had commented on it to our local grocers. The Dobbins store, mentioned above, has been using a quarter-page each week and filling that page with prices in bold-face figures. We are glad to learn that Mr. Dobbins is "sold" on advertising; we knew he must be in that frame of mind or he wouldn't continue the practice with such regularity. That merchant who continually complains at the inroads the mail order houses are making on his trade and then fails to make use of the only medium at his disposal (the home paper) with which to combat that evil is inconsistent and not alive to his own interests. Grocers should advertise; they should quote prices; they should keep everlastingly at it. That Cameron grocers are doing this very thing may account in some measure for the plan of "prosperity business" by some Rockdale grocers. We don't say that it is;
but it may be. Even a bad, wicked town like Cameron might attract trade with good advertising and low prices, when a good town like Rockdale had even lower prices but failed to advertise.—Rockdale Reporter.

Why He Didn't Suit.

An Oregon man was trying to sell a horse. The animal was wind-broken but sleek. The owner trotted him around for inspection and bringing him back to the prospect he stroked the horse's back and remarked,
"Hasn't he a lovely coat?"

The prospect removed his pipe from his mouth and said, as he looked at the heaving flanks of the animal, "Yeah, his coat's all right, but I don't like his pants."
—Everybody's.

PROPER FEED FOR EWES.

Experiments have proved that there is no other feed that will carry prepnant ewes through the winter months as well as does legume hays, such as alfalfa and clover. Legume hay should be the basic feed for sheep. Especially after pasturage is poor or when there is none at all, legume roughage is very essential. Ewes which have been given no other feed have produced healthy lambs. On farms where good legume hays have been given the flock, the sheep and ewes are vigorous and productive. The ewes which lamb early do not become paralyzed just before lambing time if given legume hay, water and salt in abundance, and plenty of exercise. During the last month of pregnancy some breeders think it necessary to feed grain at the rate of half a pound a day for ewes of 150 pounds. Those breeders who do this think that it stimulates the flow of milk. The grain may be different kind and mixture, but corn is used for those in not too high condition and receiving alfalfa or clover hay. A better ration than pure corn is a mixture of corn and oats in equal proportion to which a little bran is added. Corn silage and other succulents may be fed pregnant ewes with good results.—Southland Farmer.

Young people and chickens come home to roost, but they have different hours.—Toledo Blade.

JUSTICE
 by GRACE E. HALL

A keen blade makes an open wound,
 And crimson stains are bright,
 And laws are made for blade and blood,
 To keep man's conduct right;
 But what of those who stab and slay
 A human heart—and go away?

An open wound is red and raw,
 And everyone may see,
 And those who use a knife, the law
 Will punish lawfully;
 But those who only stab the heart
 May strike in safety and depart.

A keen blade makes an open wound,
 A cruel wound and red,
 And every man will cry that law
 Upon its course be sped;
 But souls are murdered everywhere,
 And men but smile and call it fair.

A keen blade strikes—and is done,
 And all the world may know,
 But through the years a poison gnaws
 With deadly pain and slow;
 But laws and men heed but the blade,
 Or ragged holes by bullets made.

SCOTT WHITE NEW MARSHALL FOR TEXAS

Washington, March 17.—Scott White of El Paso is the new Marshall for the Western District of Texas, resulting from his endorsement by National Committeeman B. H. Creager and the Texas Republican organization. The appointment was made at the White House Tuesday following a conference between the president and Mr. Creager. Walker is a brother-in-law of former Attorney General Daugherty.

SARGENT, OF VERMONT, NEW ATTY. GENERAL

Washington, March 17.—The senate Tuesday, in open session, confirmed the nomination of John G. Sargent of Vermont to be Attorney General. The nomination was confirmed without a record vote.

No objection was raised to the nomination of Mr. Sargent in the senate, which within a week had twice refused to confirm the president's choice of Charles Beecher Warren of Michigan for the post.

Sargent was nominated Tuesday by President Coolidge, after Charles B. Warren advised President Coolidge that he did not desire a recess appointment as Attorney General.

Banking and Farming

MONEY AND PRODUCTS
Banks do not pretend to teach farmers how to farm, any more than a farmer would try to teach a banker the principles of finance.
Banking and Farming each have a distinct place in the community, yet each is dependent for success upon the other.
This bank needs and urges the whole-hearted confidence and support of every farmer customer; and the farmer, in turn, needs the constructive and far-visited assistance the bank has to offer.
Let's pull together.
