Filipino Hijackers Free Passengers

MANILA, the Philippines (UPI) — Two Filipino gunmen hijacked a Japanese jetliner today and threatened to kill all 200 passengers. But after hours of negotiations they freed the passengers in exchange for permission to fly to Tokyo with captive crewmen and other airline employees.

The Japan Air Lines DC8 however, was unable to take off for Tokyo tonight because the Japanese government refused to allow it to land there.

At 10 minutes past midnight, Deputy Police Commander Gen Gregoria Sider and Philippine Tourism Secretary Jose Aspiras walked down the ramp of the plane followed by the two hijackers with their mouths gagged.

The gunmen gave up after the Japanese government had stationed scores of police at Tokyo's Haneda airport in anticipation of the plane's landing, then announced it was would not let the plane land if the hijackers insisted on taking off from Manila.

The plane's engines were warming up for the flight to Tokyo late Monday night when they suddenly were switched off. The aircraft's lights also were turned off and the plane stood parked in darkness 50 yards from the main passenger terminal.

At 10:25 p.m. Japanese Consul Tamatsu Furuda and JAL manager in the Philippines Sakai Seike boarded the aircraft, apparently for further negotiations. Shortly before 11 p.m. eight stewardesses left the jetliner and walked down a ramp in their blue and red uniforms into the JAL offices to be questioned.

The plane's lights were turned back on as a group of 100 or so newsmen and plainclothesmen stood 40 yards from the plane.

Some 10 hours earlier the hijackers, who had suddenly seized the aircraft at Manila International Airport, had released the 200 passengers—most of them Japanese—after threatening to kill them unless authorities gave in and allowed them to fly the hijacked plane to the Japanese capital.

Permission was granted after long negotiations and the big plane was then readied to take off with the two hijackers, 12 crew members and eight other airline employees referred to as "volunteer" hostages.

The hijackers had refused a direct order telephoned from Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos to surrender. JAL officials in Tokyo said Mrs. Imelda Marcos was at the airport during the drama, having gone there to see a daughter off on another flight. She chatted with a number of the freed hostages, many of whom left the plane laughing.

Informed government sources said the reason for the delayed departure was that Japan had refused permission for the jetliner to land there as long as the hijackers were armed. The two gunmen were armed with pistols and explosives.

Police sharpshooters and Philippine Air Force security men armed with carbines crouched at the ready under the glare of television lights as the ramp of the plane was pulled away prior to takeoff for Tokyo.

Rumors swept the airport that Mrs. Marcos had negotiated the surrender of the hijackers, but neither Air Force nor airport officials claimed any knowledge of the reports.

At 8:30 p.m. the takeoff time negotiated by the hijackers with Philippine authorities, fuel trucks, a power unit and the ramp were cleared away as ground crews received papers which appeared to be a "fuel manifest."

As far as could be determined, only the two hijackers and eight crewmen were aboard the DC8 which arrived here at midday from Bangkok en route to Osaka, Japan.

Most of the freed passengers were taken to Manila hotels for the night, although Mrs. Marcos had suggested a special flight to Japan aboard a Philippine Air Line jet.

Negotiations with the hijackers were carried out via walk-talkie. Initial reports said the two men were members of the Philippine air force but airport officials said later they may have been airport workers.

SST Ban Bad for Airlines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The British and French governments warned today that U.S. rejection of their Concorde supersonic transport might trigger retaliation against America's airlines and its aircraft industry.

Rejecting charges from environmental groups that the Concorde is a noisy dirty and dangerous aircraft, officials of both governments said there is no legal or environmental reason to bar the Concorde from commercial service in the United States.

They told Transportation Secretary William Coleman the noise of the Concorde has been overstated by its critics, the SST's threat to ozone in the atmosphere is negligible and the plane's safety has been proved by British and French airworthiness experts.

The joint statement was issued by the British and French governments at a final public hearing over whether the Concorde should be permitted to make four flights a day to New York and two a day to Washington.

"A negative decision on the question of Concorde service to the United States undoubtedly would have political consequences in both France and the United Kingdom," the statement said.

Such a decision would also call into question the validity of the free market philosophy upon which aerospace sales and commercial aviation should be based.

Coleman has promised to rule on the issue within 30 days. He ordered today's hearing to give SST opponents and supporters one last chance to state their cases.

In a letter, the acting U.S.

space agency chief said NASA's analysis supported arguments the Concorde's noise would "affect less than 2 per cent additional population at New York's Kennedy Airport and no additional population at Dulles Airport outside Washington."

NASA also questions whether it would cause any significant destruction of the atmosphere's vital ozone layer. George M. Low said.

The British and French governments have spent almost $3 billion over 13 years to develop the SST, keeping the United States advised of the program and receiving no challenge until recently to their assumptions, the statement said.

The two governments noted the United States now produces about 95 per cent of the free world's aircraft and aerospace products are "by far" the largest manufactured item among U.S. exports.

Any move by the United States which might be interpreted as protectionist or discriminatory would tend "throughout the world" to threaten the relatively free and uninhibited environment in which aviation products are bought and sold, the statement said.

Coleman already is armed with an environmental impact statement filed by the Federal Aviation Administration, an unfavorable report on Concorde noise filed by the Environmental Protection Agency and arguments for and against the SST from many other public and private organizations.

He ordered the new hearings to get more evidence on such questions as the Concorde's safety, its fuel efficiency and the potential international implications of a decision against SST landings.

State department officials and a Gallup poll taken in Britain have suggested a ruling against the landing rights might trigger a call for the British government to retaliate against U.S. airlines or the U.S. aircraft industry.

New York Gov. Hugh Carey said Sunday permission "must be denied" for SST flights to New York City. "Someone standing under the Concorde flight path 22 miles from the take-off would be subjected to the same noise level as experienced by someone 50 feet away from a passing tractor-trailer truck," Carey said.

Only about 1,000 persons would be served by the four proposed daily New York flights, he said, while "hundreds of thousands" of New Yorkers would suffer the noise impact.

He Doesn't Go Against Grain

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — President Ford today said the United States would be making a serious mistake if it decided to cut off grain shipments to Moscow in retaliation for Soviet intervention in Angola.

Ford told a convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation that a shutoff of Soviet grain shipments would serve no useful purpose. Instead, he said, it would increase tensions between the world's two most powerful nations.

While ruling out a grain shipment embargo, Ford said the United States may take "limited measures" to block unacceptable Soviet actions in other parts of the world.

Ford also called for all sides in the Angolan dispute to lay down their weapons and allow Angolans to solve their own problems.

In his address, the President aimed most of his remarks at the interests of the American farmer.

At one point, the President said he will ask Congress to change tax laws to make it easier for family farms to be handed down from father to son.

"I want this done so that farms can be handed down from generation to generation without the forced liquidation of family enterprises," Ford said.

Ford flew from Washington to St. Louis this morning for the farmers' meeting and a session with Midwestern newspaper and broadcast executives. He will return to the White House tonight after the trip which aides said was nonpolitical.

"We favor an immediate cease-fire, an end to all outside intervention and a government of national unity, permitting the solution of the Angolan problem by the Angolans themselves," Ford said in a speech prepared for delivery to the American Farm Bureau Federation convention in St. Louis.

"U.S. Soviet rivalry in some areas around the world has, unfortunately, not ceased," Ford said. "But instead of stopping grain sales to Russia, as he said some in Congress have suggested, the President said, "The answer is to take other appropriate limited measures necessary to block — and stop — Soviet actions that we find unacceptable."

He did not spell out other areas of Soviet troublemaking or specify what he meant by the threat of "limited measures."

He said a shutoff of grain would serve no useful purpose and would not produce an immediate gain in diplomatic leverage. He argued that the Soviets could get along without American wheat.

"The linkage of grain with diplomacy would mean disruption and hardship for you, the farmer, a serious increase in tensions between the world's two superpowers, and no effect in Angola," Ford said.

Ford's chief of staff, Richard Cheney, said Sunday the administration was "encouraged" by Pravda's urging of an end to foreign intervention in the former Portuguese colony. But it was not clear whether the Soviet Communist party newspaper was referring to the 500 Soviet advisers and 7,500 Cuban combat troops in Angola.

Ford flew to St. Louis for a day that also included a luncheon with state and national farm bureau officials and a question-and-answer session with midwestern news and broadcast executives.

While his speech was billed in advance as "nonpolitical," Ford made a bid for the farm vote with a pledge "to do everything in my power as President to keep farm income high."

Angry Senators Demand Secy. Schnabel Ouster

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Some senators angered at suggestions they approved questionable or illegal fund manipulations today demanded the ouster of indicted Senate Secretary Charles A. Schnabel.

The Senate postponed a scheduled session in the impeachment trial of South Texas District Judge O.P. Carrillo for a closed debate on whether to keep Schnabel in his $37,500-a-year post or suspend him without pay.

Senators argued for three hours in an unusual caucus Sunday night without making a decision.

Some longtime Schnabel backers were angered at his lawyers' suggestions that senators knew of and condoned the payroll manipulations that led to his indictments for theft and official misconduct last week.

"They in effect put the Senate on trial. I regret that Charlie is on trial. But I don't think you accomplish anything by putting anyone else on trial," one senator said.

Schnabel, 43, is accused of theft for putting two businessmen on the Senate payroll in 1971 to purchase camera equipment and rent parking spaces.

Defense attorneys denied Schnabel benefitted personally and told reporters senators were aware of the unorthodox bookkeeping arrangement used to pay for some legislative expenses.

"They just threw down the gauntlet," one angry senator said. He indicated the lawyers' comments convinced him Schnabel must go.

"Government itself is on trial," said Sen. Walter Monden, R-Houston. "Any employee, male or female, who has been indicted should be fired."

Some senators, however, said it would be unfair to fire Schnabel without proof of wrongdoing.

"I think we ought to recognize the constitution and the law that says that every man is innocent until proven guilty," Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, said.

"I'm not too excited about the Schnabel deal," Sen. H. Tati

Santiesteban, D-El Paso, said. "It might all be true — but before I'd want to fire my employee I'd want to check it out myself."

The Senate secretary is elected by the 31 members of the Senate. Schnabel has held the post for 20 years.

In addition to the theft charges Schnabel is charged with official misconduct for having a Senate employe work at his farm during the summer of 1975.

The Senate had been scheduled to resume proceedings in the impeachment trial of South Texas District Judge O.P. Carrillo Monday morning, Hobby said, however, that the Carrillo case will be postponed at least until the decision is reached on Schnabel.

Schnabel, 47, top administrator of the Senate for the past 20 years, last week was indicted by the Travis County grand jury. Each felony indictment is punishable by up to 10 years in prison.

He is accused of paying nonexistent state employes from the Senate payroll, using a state employe to work on his ranch on state time, alleged illegal printing and kickbacks.

The grand jury investigation of Schnabel is continuing and the grand jury will convene again Jan. 12.

Hobby said he urged the senators to act on Schnabel, but declined to reveal what course he favored.

"I'll make my position known after the Senate takes whatever action it takes tomorrow," Hobby said. "It offends my sense of propriety to comment on anything that is going on. The fact the discussion went on for three hours and no resolution was reached indicates the feeling was not overwhelming."

Hobby said senators discussed firing Schnabel, temporarily suspending him or keeping him on as the chief executive officer of the Senate.

Hobby said he talked with Travis County District Attorney Bob Smith for an hour before the caucus and, in turn, reported to the senators on the pending charges, as well as other matters expected to be investigated.

Steelman Wants Seat

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Criticizing what he called the incumbent's alignment with big business and big labor, Rep. Alan "W" Steelman, R-Tex., today announced his candidacy for the U.S. Senate.

Steelman, 33, whose district covers most of the eastern part of Dallas County, said one of the most difficult parts of his campaign for Democratic Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's office will be fund raising.

"We've raised, I recall, $42,000 and obviously I'm a long way from the amount I need in the primary," Steelman told capital reporters. "We're going to launch an aggressive fund raising campaign."

Although he earlier endorsed President Ford's bid for reelection, Steelman said Ronald Reagan's GOP presidential primary campaign will help strengthen the two-party system.

"It (expanded primary) will give all candidates a larger share of the electorate to which to carry their campaigns," Steelman said. "I think it is in the best interest of the Republican Party of Texas."

The two-term congressman said his campaign will be more difficult because Texas already has one Republican Senator — John Tower. However, he said 77 per cent of Texans responding to a recent poll said they did not care about party affiliations — they wanted good representation.

Steelman's campaign platform includes beefing up the national defense, restoring the economy, boosting public confidence in government, preserving natural resources and the environment and removing power from the bureaucracy.

He said he does not support any U.S. involvement in Angola because the U.S. has neither a moral cause nor a strategic interest at stake in the civil war-torn African nation.

"I see those in Israel, but I do not see either in Angola," he said.

"We must rededicate ourselves to the principles of a free market economy, respect for individual initiative, revitalized state and local government, a strong national defense.

"He said fiscal waste — public, private and personal — must be eliminated because it threatens natural resources and financial well-being."

"We must require our public officials, elected and appointed, to fully disclose their finances."

'75 Construction Up

Building permits in Pampa during 1975 totaled nearly a million dollars more than 1974, according to Roy Underwood, city building inspector.

The 1975 building permit total for the year just ended was for a total valuation of $2,634,900 compared to the 1974 total of $1,715,450.

Twenty-eight new residences valued at $533,000 were constructed in Pampa in 1975. In 1974 only 16 new homes valued at $323,000 were built.

Largest building permits during the year were issued for construction of First Baptist Church and the Lexington Apartments.

Underwood said there were almost twice as many permits issued for new businesses and remodeling as in 1974.

Truckers Don't Believe In Free Enterprise?

Are fascism and our private enterprise compatible? Most people — and all people who know what fascism and private enterprise are — asked such a question, would answer with a resounding "No!"

So, what is one to think when the American Trucking Association, Inc., headquartered in Washington, D.C., asks that question in a full page ad placed in a national magazine, as it did recently, and answers it with a resounding "Yes!"?

Of course, the trucking association didn't put the question in exactly those terms. The question was phrased like this: "Are regulation and 'private enterprise compatible'?"

The ad then went on to conclude, "You're darned right they are. They're indispensable."

A tricky change of words. Yet, the meaning remains unchanged. For, in reading the content of the ad, it is obvious that, by "regulation," the writer meant "control of private enterprises" by definition, is government bureaucrats.

And that, by definition, is fascism.

Moreover, since private enterprise means, also by definition, the control of a given enterprise by its owners subject to the discipline exerted by the buying public with the freedom to say "No," government regulation and private enterprise are not only incompatible they are a blatant contradiction in terms.

One might as well say that slavery and freedom are comparable and indispensable as to say fascism and private enterprise are.

If the American Trucking Association's leaders don't believe in the competitive market, why don't they say so?

Democracy's Enemy

Never in the 3 years of its history has the prestige of the United Nations been at lower ebb or its future in greater doubt. Launched with high and noble hopes in 1945 with the goal of "preserving succeeding generations from the scourge of war," the U.N. has become little more than a forum for the anti-democratic machinations of the leaders of scores of countries that did not exist as sovereign entities when it was founded.

The United Nations was from the beginning, of course, viewed with suspicion, if not contempt, by some Americans, who have always considered it an alien presence on U.S. soil and an inimical threat to U.S. interests — a tool of that devil called communism.

Today, however, such distinguished groups as the American Academy of the Arts and Sciences and the American Association for the Advancement of Science are joining a swelling chorus of alarm over whether the U.N. is tending, in a letter to the director general of UNESCO, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, 40 prominent scholars and academicians, including 11 Nobel Laureates, have protested the expulsion of Israel from the agency.

Because of this action, contrary to every principle of the United Nations, the U.S. has withdrawn its financial support of UNESCO and has also served notice of its intention to withdraw from membership in the International Labor Organization, another politicized U.N. agency.

In November, in a near unanimous vote, Congress called upon the General Assembly to reject an Arab-inspired resolution declaring Zionism to be a form of "racism." That pernicious resolution has just been adopted by the U.N. by a better than two-to-one margin.

The statistics tell much about what has happened to the so-called "world parliament." Founded in 1945 with 50 member states, it now numbers 143. As U.S. ambassador to the U.N. Daniel Moynihan recently noted, these 143 countries, only about two dozen can be called democracies. Perhaps another 30 are not quite despotisms. The rest are out and out despotisms.

Even more discouraging, most of the democracies, with the major exception of Japan, are Western nations with democratic traditions long predating establishment of the U.N. Even countries like India and the Philippines, which presumably benefited from Western "tutelage," must now be placed in the despotic category.

One is almost tempted to believe that democracy, like the original idea of the United Nations itself, is merely the accidental product of the experience of one limited part of the world — and not everywhere there — and that far from being universal verities springing from the common nature of all mankind, the ideals of individual freedom and self-government are philosophical relics against which the tide of world history is running.

Western exploration opened up the modern world. Western science is the world's standard. Western patterns of consumption are the world's ambition — but not Western democracy.

A mere three decades after its greatest victory in World War II, democracy has clearly become an endangered species. It is ironic and tragic that the spearhead of the attack against democracy is its own creation, the United Nations.

THE BUREAUCRATS

The committee to promote economy in government has exceeded its budget again!

Question Box

QUESTION: I read in the paper that labor unions and their buddies in government want to increase the minimum wage to $3 an hour, with double time for overtime. Opponents say this would cause a new round of runaway inflation. How can higher wages cause inflation if inflation is caused by increasing the supply of money without a current increase in production? And, by the way, if $3 an hour is good, why not make it $5 or $10 an hour? Wouldn't that be even better?

ANSWER: Technically speaking, an increase in wages, minimum or otherwise, does not cause inflation. It more frequently is a result of inflation. As inflation destroys the buying power of the dollars people have or receive for employment, they seek to get more money to make up for the depreciation of their paychecks and savings.

But, as has been pointed out in these columns on more than one occasion, higher wages do have an influence on the creation of more paper "money," which does cause inflation. The same individuals in and out of government who are pushing higher wages also are pushing for greater government spending and resisting any effort to prevent budget deficits which must be financed by increased fiat money and increased credit. It will be noted that union bosses, headed by George Meany, are the chief proponents of higher and higher pay, higher minimum wage laws, and greater government deficits. And the political power of these union moguls is so great that law makers and executives court their support and agree to give them what they want. It is a form of buying votes that seems to be respectable with the people in government who call themselves liberals. And woe unto the politician who crosses the labor bosses.

It is not alone the union people who push for deficit spending to cause inflation, however. When the mayors and council members in various cities, the representatives of other local government agencies, including counties and schools, the governors of the various states, and even business representatives push for more government programs for their particular bailiwicks, they are adding to the push toward deficit spending which helps bring more runaway inflation. Newspapers and other opinion molders who insist on continuing such foolishness as "revenue sharing" and support for other government spending on projects they favor are doing no favor either for their own friends or anyone else.

The latter questions suggesting even higher minimum wage, recalls that the late R.C. Hoiles used to ask the same question of proponents of artificially higher wages and prices. That question caused one former socialism advocate (the writer) to check his premises, as Ayn Rand suggests.

Actually, we doubt if anyone knows how high wages should be. The only way we know is to allow workers and employers to reach agreement between them. Certainly whether a wage is a "living wage" should have nothing to do with it. A worker should get all he produces, as determined in the free market. This could be more than government decreed levels, or it could be less. But we doubt if an employer would willingly grant a higher wage than he or she believed would permit him her to make a profit to be able to stay in business if the politicians were not standing behind to pump more paper currency into the economy, and thus guarantee an apparent profit.

We believe both workers and employers would be better off if the politicians would stay out of the business of trying to set pay rates, and then creating inflation to "keep the people from being too unhappy."

HOMOSEXUAL TEACHERS Effect On Children Stated

By MAX RAFFERTY
Q — "Do you feel that a homosexual teacher can cause a child to become homosexual? Do you believe that homosexual teachers are a threat to the American family?" — M.T., Bloomington, Ind.

A — 1 — A homosexual teacher can certainly help cause a child to become homosexual. Similarly, a profane or obscene teacher can help cause a child to become profane or obscene; a treasonable teacher can help cause a child to become treasonable, etc., etc.

2 — A homosexual teacher may not be a threat specifically to the American family, but certainly he is a threat to American morality. The entire Judeo-Christian ethical and moral code denounces the homosexual as a pervert and a sodomite. To put such an aberrant in charge of children and to pay him with public funds makes a mockery of morality.

Q — "Dictionaries don't help me in understanding the word 'pragmatic.' What is a good illustration of how this much-seen word can be properly understood and used?" — J.O.F., Baltimore, Md.

A — "Pragmatic" really means "practical." It's what actually "works." The only test of anything becomes the practical consequence of the theory or action. "Good" and "evil" thus become purely relative terms. What's good for the cannibal is bad for the missionary and so on.

Applied to education, pragmatism means teaching and learning only those things which can be demonstrated to have a practical value to the learner.

Q — "Dr. Alice Ginott, a syndicated columnist, recently said parents shouldn't make a young man (homer) after his freshman year in college and from a week's sleeping with a tramp of a girl) feel guilty about what he had done. What was lacking and what Dr. Ginott should have stressed was parental caring about the young man's conduct in the first place and building his knowledge of right and wrong from babyhood. Moral laws broken change people. God's laws are eternal and moral cleanness has eternal rewards.

"Don't you agree that getting down on your knees and praying for guidance beats Dr. Ginott's best advice?" — Mrs. M.A.M., Peca, Utah.

A — Well, yes, especially considering the disparity between the two sources. Seriously, I haven't read the column you mention; but if Dr. Ginott advises that parents condone fornication by their children, she should become a veterinarian and stop giving advice to people. Indiscriminate coitus is normal for most animals; for decent human beings it has been a no-no for at least 3,000 years.

Q — "No teacher from kindergarten up should be just a baby-sitter or custodian. Home is where children should learn discipline. If the parents fail this responsibility, then the children should be sent home to the parents either to educate them completely themselves or to teach them discipline so the teacher can then teach them."

A — A lot of teachers will agree with you, but it's not that simple. There is no way to compel parents to be loving or to make them hold their children to high standards of conduct or to enable them to become teachers themselves. So to "send the children home" would in fact condemn the children to a life of ignorance and illiteracy.

But in a democratic republic, all children must be educated and made literate because they are going to grow up to be citizens, taxpayers and voters. The survival of our form of government depends upon and was originally predicated upon widespread literacy on the part of the great masses. Therefore, L.E., we can't simply send naughty schoolchildren home. As long as we remain even a relatively free people, unwilling children are going to have to be compelled to learn in order to insure our very survival as a nation. By the same token and for the same reason, the school will have to discipline those children so that learning will occur.

It's an iron equation, with no way out. And this our ancestors knew — a lot better than we do, incidentally.

(Dr. Rafferty welcomes questions for use in this column once each week, but regrets he cannot answer all mail personally. Please send your questions to him in care of this paper.)

LETTER TO EDITOR

Praise For Police

Editor:
Due to the Dale Carnegie Course I have been participating in I had the opportunity to speak to officers in our local Police Department. I was to obtain information on the increasing crime rate in Pampa.

During the course of this interview, I discovered our crime rate may not necessarily be increasing but the amount of people placing calls to the department has increased. Does this mean our crime rate is increasing or does it mean we have better community relations between citizens and police officers?

The men and women protecting this community are the finest, most cooperative people I have ever had the opportunity to meet. They greeted me with a smile and open hand. I was impressed almost beyond words that these people will take time out in their busy day to help anyone out regardless of what it may be about.

I was amazed at the work load these people have. Did you know our police force answers anywhere from 1000-1300 calls a month? Yet, they will still take the time to talk to you! Considering we have only 22 commissioned police officers to handle these some 1300 calls and take care of the entire population of Pampa, I feel this is a tremendous attribute on their part. Some quick arithmetic will tell you that for every 1000 persons in Pampa there is only one police officer. To me that is a tremendous work load. But have you ever heard them openly complain about it? I never have and more than likely never will. It seems to me our police force is understaffed for the work load they have. I don't know what a police officer is paid, but to keep up with the load they have, it surely can't be enough.

To give you an example of the job they are doing, did you know that 33 per cent of all reported burglaries in Pampa are cleared up? The National average of burglaries cleared up is only 17 per cent. I think that says a lot in itself.

In Pampa, as in any city, I'm sure there is probably a small minority of people that can say nothing good about their police force. But for the majority of us, I'm sure we all appreciate the job they are doing even if we don't get enough opportunities to thank them. For the small minority, if any, that can't say anything good about the police department, all I can say is — Where would we be without them?

I was so impressed with the reception and cooperation given me, I wanted to take this opportunity to publicly thank and commend the people of the Pampa Police Department for a job well done!

She Hates Pants Suits—on Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Here is one woman who was delighted to read the letter signed, PREFERENCES SKIRTS!

I hate women in trousers! I never wear pants unless, of course, I plan to climb a tree.

Women who claim that pants are more comfortable must have been brainwashed by those money-hungry fashion designers.

And what kind of an excuse is, "They hide the runs in my stockings?"

And as for the excuse, "They keep my legs warm," a long dress will do the same thing.

"Preferences Skirts" did deflate me somewhat, however. Men are always exceptionally nice to me. They always open doors for me and treat me with respect, and here I thought it was just me. Now I realize that perhaps it was because I was wearing a dress. Oh, well, I don't care, as long as they keep doing it.

And by the way, Abby, you don't look very good in pants suits. I know, because I've seen you.

FEMININE

DEAR FEM: Sorry about that. I never wear pants suits for public appearances. However, I do wear them for climbing trees and traveling.

DEAR ABBY: I think my brother's wife has developed more than a casual interest in my husband. He and my brother have been best buddies for years, and we have been a friendly foursome ever since their marriage two years ago.

Agnes (her real name) used to be a quiet, demure little thing, but lately she's become a flirty, aggressive little sexpot. She always has an off-color joke to tell, and lately she's been suggesting that we switch partners when we drive somewhere so she can sit next to my husband. That leaves me with my brother. (Big thrill?)

I notice Agnes pops in only when my husband is home, which indicates that she comes here to see him—not me. Now she wants us to take our vacations together. I'm against it. My husband has given her no encouragement, whatsoever, and my brother either doesn't catch on or doesn't care.

How can I cool the foursome friendship without being obvious?

BUGGED

DEAR BUGGED: What's wrong with being obvious? Tell your husband that you think Agnes has designs on him, and you'd like to head off trouble. Find another couple to get chummy with and slowly see less of Agnes and brother. And if Agnes suggests switching or vacationing together, graciously but firmly veto it.

DEAR ABBY: Fifteen years ago you wrote in your column that a retired person should write at least one personal letter a day. You said it would pay big dividends. I took your advice, and it worked! Now, I correspond with at least a dozen old friends. The mail is the highlight of my day. Great medicine for an old man living alone!

I keep in touch with former schoolmates and some relatives who live far away. And at 81, I still have quite a few left. I even correspond with a 90-year-old lady who was my mother's housekeeper and has known me since I was a child.

Pass this on to your readers, Abby. It has done me a world of good, and it's worth mentioning from time to time.

GEORGE IN GA.

DEAR GEORGE: By George, I will!

A Special English for Black Children

HOUSTON (UPI) — If a black child says "foe" instead of "four" he's not wrong, but is just speaking Black English which has different rules from standard English, according to a Texas specialist.

They're just speaking Black English. Ms. Houston, a specialist in socio-psycholinguistics at the University of Texas Speech and Hearing Institute, said nine years of research shows there really are few differences between black and white English.

England has much worse variations in English than we do. The difference is in the sound systems — phonology — with different rules for how words are pronounced.

English and decides it is wrong. "All black children I have ever met have a perfect understanding of white English," she said.

Ms. Houston said children learn any form of a language they are exposed to, but with more exposure to the world, even through television, the differences between white and Black English are fewer.

"In any situation which is constraining, the language they use is not a true example of what they can do," she said.

"A child can tell when his behavior or language turns off a teacher and when it does they won't want any more attention than necessary."

Although Black English should not be a problem, she said, it too often is used as the excuse.

Reagan Opens Campaign in Primary

United Press International Ronald Reagan's road show opened in New Hampshire today and President Ford's bid for renewal of his run in the White House took him to St. Louis to talk with farmers.

isolated and mostly conservative-leaning farmers. Even before his arrival, Ford backers were criticizing the former California governor's most controversial proposal, to cut $90 billion worth of federal projects and return their functions to the states.

Ford addressed the American Farm Bureau Federation in St. Louis today. Although the trip was billed as "nonpolitical," it was considered unlikely Ford would hurt his campaign by defending his farm policy at the convention and discussing affairs of state at a meeting of regional news executives.

White House chief of staff Richard Cheney said Sunday he did not think Ford's approval of covert aid to a pro-West faction in the Angola civil war would hurt the President and neither would portrayals of Ford as accident prone.

policy. Bayh proposed an additional $4 to $5 billion tax cut in 1976 and more public service jobs with an emphasis on quick-start projects.

Sargent Shriver campaigned in Tupelo, Miss., Sunday, saying, "The most important thing we have to do in the next four to eight years is unify America. This country has to decide what's important and then set out to achieve agreed-on goals."

"The white child would concentrate on the details as they were told them and the black child was motivated to put more individual style in his work than just to repeat the story," she said.

Executives Die in Crash

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — The airport was shrouded in fog but officials said the pilot could have made it. Instead, the small private jet crashed near two runways and killed six persons, including top executives for the trans-Alaska oil pipeline project.

tion duty officer Robert Thomas said, "Apparently he missed the runway — he had one-quarter mile visibility with the fog."

director and its senior group vice president. The executive in overall charge of British Petroleum's portion of the pipeline, Charles Buck, 43, survived and was in fair condition in the intensive care ward of Anchorage Community Hospital.

Brown & Root and its sister company, Alaska Constructors, share construction chores and together are the largest contractor for the pipeline.

Fred Harris, who traveled cross country in a camper last summer, revived that low-cost, publicity-laden mode of transport Sunday for three days of campaigning in Iowa.

Two polls this weekend showed dissatisfaction among the public. An NBC poll showed a majority of Americans angry at the federal government and worried about the economy, although 67 per cent have "quite a lot" of confidence in the nation's future.

National Strike Ends

MIAMI (UPI) — The nation's third longest airline strike in history is over. After a 127-day shutdown, National Airlines was back in business.

attendants walked out Sept. 1. Votes counted in Washington Sunday showed National's 1,200 striking flight attendants approved, 674-210, a second ballot on a work contract first proposed Oct. 23. They had turned it down, 348-507, in November.

For 296 days and machinists for 174 days. The latest strike cost the south Florida economy an estimated $1 million per day in lost wages, purchases by the Miami-based air carrier and sales lost to airport concessionaires.

Before the strike, National was operating 360 flights, carrying 18,000 passengers daily along routes serving the East, Gulf and Pacific coasts, plus a daily Miami-London flight.

Pledge To Fight Zoning

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Moderate political leaders have vowed to fight proposals to partition Lebanon into religious zones as a means of ending the country's bloody nine-month-old civil war.

Father Sherbel Qassis, chairman of the militant and ultrarightist Maronite Monastic Orders, said in an interview published Sunday that Lebanon should be divided into Moslem and Christian states linked by a federated government.

Council To Debate Mideast

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Foreign Minister Yigal Allon left for the United States today for talks in Washington aimed at coordinating U.S.-Israel policy on this month's U.N. Security Council debate on the Middle East.

Allon took with him an Israeli government proposal for reconvening the Geneva Middle East peace conference without the Palestine Liberation Organization.

"My visit to the United States comes to strengthen our common positions with the Americans toward the Security Council session," Allon said before leaving Ben Gurion International Airport at 7:30 a.m. (12:30 a.m. EST).

"I want to strengthen and confirm the American declaration that said there would be no change in its position on the PLO or its attitude on the Middle East conflict," he said.

"We should not allow extreme elements like Syria and the PLO or even the Soviet Union to turn the Security Council into a general Middle East peace conference," he said.

Israel has decided to boycott the Security Council debate beginning Jan. 12 because the PLO has been invited to attend.

It has asked Washington to safeguard its interests during the debate by blocking any anti-Israeli resolution on the Middle East conflict.

The government's proposal to hold new Geneva talks without PLO participation was made by the Cabinet Sunday to counteract the Security Council debate.

It marked the first time Israel has called for Geneva negotiations, broken off after only one two-day session in December, 1973.

During his visit to Washington, Allon planned to meet with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and other U.S. Middle East policy planners.

Later Sunday, Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin told a convention of the world Zionist Organization that an anti-Israel vote in the Council would have a "long-range effect on all levels in the Middle East."

"This (vote) could block the chances for peace and bring a much more serious stalemate and much sooner than many expect," Rabin said.

"I believe we have enough military strength to give the necessary backing to our political endeavor."

Rabin said "we may have to find a way to express this backing in a clearer way," but did not elaborate.

The Israeli call for new Geneva talks came in an eight-point proclamation proposed by Rabin and backed unanimously by the cabinet. A government official said Israel made the proposal because it "is against bringing this (the Middle East conflict) to the Security Council and because we now think that the emphasis should be placed on the Geneva conference."

Most of the proclamation repeated Israel's opposition to negotiations with the PLO and its objections to the Council debate. It also reminded Washington of its "understanding" to back Israel.

"The government of Israel calls for advancement of the peace efforts in the area and the convening of the Geneva conference," the proclamation said.

It said Israel wanted the Geneva meeting "to discuss, according to an agreed agenda, all those subjects which need solution to reach a just and lasting peace between the Arab states and Israel."

Israel cannot control the PLO's presence in the Security Council, but as a party to the Geneva conference, it can veto the participation of the PLO or any group that did not attend the 1973 meeting.

Quake Hits New Mexico

FARMINGTON, N.M. (UPI) — A small earthquake shook buildings over a wide area of northwestern New Mexico late Sunday, but caused only minor damage and no injuries.

The National Earthquake Information Center at Golden, Colo., reported the center of the tremor was located 40 miles southeast of Farmington but the exact measurements of the tremor had not been determined.

Farmington Police said the tremor occurred just after 11:30 p.m. and said the police station had received nearly 200 telephone calls on it within 20 minutes. An officer said the tremor "shook the building (police station) pretty good. It rattled a few pictures on the wall."

Chief To Continue Crime Prevention Goal

By ANNA BURCHELL, Pampa News Staff

Continuing education for law enforcement officers and crime prevention for citizens are among the 1976 goals for the Pampa Police Department.

The announcement was made this morning by Police Chief Richard Mills during an interview in which he reviewed the work of the department since he assumed duties in March.

He considers restructuring of records and the report section with more updated procedures as one of the department's major accomplishments.

He said the new procedures "brought us into the city computer." In this way, the records are computerized and recorded accurately.

Speaking of his 32 member staff — 22 commissioned officers and 10 civilian employees including two animal wardens, he said:

"We are getting as much or more work per employe as any city in the nation."

The department's work in drug control and enforcement against driving while intoxicated is another record to which the chief points with pride.

Pampa became one of the smallest cities in the nation to receive a grant under the Selective Traffic Enforcement Program.

He added that the city has recorded no traffic fatalities since he came — and he hopes that record will continue.

"We hope to keep an aggressive law enforcement program," he said. "Instead of waiting for crime to happen and then go out and look at it, we hope to prevent by patrol and other work."

He explained that the civilian employes for the first time are assisting with many duties including jail work and transfer of prisoners to the county courthouse for arraignments and to the county jail.

The year end crime report for Pampa will be released later this month, and the crime rate is up in several areas including burglaries.

In many of those burglaries have entered through unlocked doors. The chief has consistently urged citizen participation in protection of private property.

He summed up his goals for 1976 by saying that officers will work toward keeping this city as safe as possible.

Arctic Air Hits Nation

By United Press International
The long New Year's weekend ended with chattering teeth in much of the nation today as a blast of Arctic cold air swept through the north and stretched into the southern Appalachians.

The mercury nosedived in most of the northland and snow flurries even dusted portions of Florida.

Temperatures plummeted to near zero or below in much of the Rockies, the Plains and the upper Midwest, although remaining well above Sunday morning temperatures which dipped to well below 20 below zero in many locations.

Nine inches of snow fell on Colville, Wash., Sunday and up to 10 inches blanketed parts of the Cascade Mountains of Washington. Two inches of snow fell at Winnemucca, Nev., Baker, Ore., and Mountain Home, Idaho.

Travelers advisories were in effect today for all of Idaho and the northern portion of Nevada.

Subzero temperatures chilled the upper Mississippi Valley and western Great Lakes. Temperatures in the single figures stretched into the Appalachians and the Ohio Valley. A few subzero readings dotted northern New York and New England.

The cold snap reached deep into the South. Temperatures were in the 30s along the Gulf Coast from southeast Texas into northern Florida. Snow flurries were reported in Pensacola,

Mother Says Kennedy May Be Forced to Run

LANTANA, Fla. (UPI) — Mrs. Rose Kennedy says her only surviving son, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., may be forced to run for president this year despite promises he has made to her that he would not.

"I feel Teddy may be pressured into running for president this year," the 85-year-old matriarch of the Kennedy family said in an interview published Sunday in the National Enquirer, a weekly tabloid. "I don't want him to, but the pressures may force him."

However, Kennedy told a news conference in Boston Sunday night his mother's fears were groundless.

"I love my mother, but nothing is going to change my earlier statement or position" about not running for President, he said.

Mrs. Kennedy gave the interview to Charles Van Rensselaer of Palm Beach, a family friend and former writer of the Cholly Knickerbocker column in the Hearst newspapers. "He promised me faithfully that he would not run," Mrs. Kennedy said. "I told him I did not want to see him die too, that I could not stand another tragedy like the deaths of his brothers."

The late President John F. Kennedy and his brother, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., were both victims of assassination. Mrs. Kennedy's eldest son, Joseph Jr., was a Navy pilot killed in World War II.

"I told him (Edward) that his family needs him too much, that John's children and Bobby's children need him as the father they no longer have," Mrs. Kennedy continued.

"But even though he has given me his promise that he will not run, I realize there are considerations that could make him change his mind. He may feel it is something he has to do, or the party may feel he must."

"If that is his decision, I would support him," she added. "I'll campaign for him, anywhere he wants me to. You know, I'm quite a campaigner. I have put it all in God's hands and I will follow His will, no matter what it is..."

Mormon Women Long Liberated

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

Mormon women were liberated long before that adjective was applied broadly to women seeking equality in work and pay, says Carol Pearson, author, poet, playwright and mother of four small children.

Mormon Church is the popular name for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, to which Mrs. Pearson belongs.

"The first woman state senator in the United States was elected shortly after Utah became a state in 1896," she said in an interview in New York City.

She said the candidate, Martha Hughes Cannon, was 39 years old when she beat her husband in the race. Yet they had a long and happy life together. Mrs. Cannon also became a physician, serving her residency at Deseret Hospital in Salt Lake City.

"By and large, Mormon men seemed to support what their women are doing," said Mrs. Pearson. They still do. For example, her husband, Gerald, borrowed money while he was still in college to publish her first two books of poetry when established publishers rejected them. Both books have since been taken by a leading New York publisher.

Mormons not only talked of emancipation, they acted on it, she said.

Susa Young Gates, daughter of church founder Brigham Young and mother of 13 children, became a prominent lecturer, author, genealogist and church worker.

Mrs. Pearson thinks the lesson to be learned is placing priorities in order, figuring ways for both husbands and wives to realize their potential.

"Men are waking up to the fact that they have been shunted into narrow, stunting types of masculinity," she said.

Early Mormon women did not advocate that every woman seek work outside her home, but they did feel that women should be able to support themselves. In the 19th century, many had to be heads of households, maybe manage a farm or run a retail store while their husbands went on missions, to proselytize for the church.

"Women were forced to develop initiative," Mrs. Pearson said.

Her latest book, "The Flight and the Nest" (Bookcraft Publishers), is filled with many examples of Mormon women who were successful in both careers and home life.

She said Emmeline B. Wells criticized voters in 1884 for opposing a woman president while extolling the leadership virtues of England's Queen Victoria. Mrs. Belva Lockwood was the presidential nominee of the Women's National Rights party that year.

"Mormon women today are influenced by the 'Fascinating Womanhood' type of thing," Mrs. Pearson said, referring to a popular nonfiction book of antifeminist persuasion, written by a woman who is a Mormon.

Marriage plans for Connie Lin Jones of Phoenix, Ariz., and Ricky Ray Carpenter of Pampa have been announced by parents of the bride - elect, Mr. and Mrs. Troy D. Jones of Phoenix. Carpenter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don R. Carpenter of 2118 N. Summer. The couple attended West Texas State University and Carpenter is employed by Cabot Corporation. The wedding will be Jan. 30 in the First Christian Church of Pampa.

Television Records First For Mary Tyler Moore

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The greatest misnomer in entertainment today is the term "Television Special."

It suggests a unique event. But the majority of specials are commonplace bores.

A star with too much time on his hands gathers a clique of singers, dancers and comedians to plug a network hole with an ego orgy.

Some get high ratings, some end up in the pits. In any case, few are "special."

What's so singular about, say, Glen Campbell, Ike and Tina Turner, Jim Nabors and perhaps Alan King doing a turn together for a tedious hour of music and one-liners?

The really smart ones, like Mary Tyler Moore, dodge TV specials except for rare guest appearances with such friends as Dick Van Dyke.

But on Jan. 22 Mary will star in "Mary's Incredible Dream," an hour-long CBS offering which she says is "totally different from anything ever seen on television."

This has been said before: But Mary, who stars in her own weekly comedy series, is willing to put it in writing or have it engraved on Mt. Rushmore.

"Let me put it this way," she said, "as a performer I could go to my grave happy that with this show I've accomplished everything I ever wanted to do."

Mary has a reputation for modesty. She gives the best lines in her series to Ed Asner, Ted Knight and the rest of the cast. She doesn't appear on talk shows. Hers is a low profile.

It is extraordinary, then, for Mary to speak so glowingly about her special.

"This is a totally different concept from anything ever attempted on television," she went on. "There is no dialogue whatever."

"We go from song to dance to song and back again, telling a story of the eternal cycle of man. If viewers don't want to follow the story they can just enjoy the music and dancing."

"The music includes everything from Handel to Mac Davis. There's modern dancing, tap dancing and ballet."

Moreover, Mary's wardrobe for the show is an actress' dream come true. Followers of her weekly series will see a great deal more of Mary's epidermis than has been displayed before.

Long a professional dancer, Mary has attended classes five days a week for many years. She worked on her song and dance routines five hours a day for four months before beginning rehearsals.

This was followed by six weeks of on-camera rehearsals and nine days of taping.

"It's the sort of dedication that will make this show literally very special," she said. "CBS has been after me for years to do a musical. But I refused because I wanted it to be something spectacular and memorable."

"The concept is entirely Jack Good's. He's the producer. When he came to me with the idea, I told him he had carte blanche. Without any structure or guidelines from me, Jack produced a unique, no-holds-barred musical happening."

Mary's decision to tackle the special was not influenced by the fact that 1976 will be her last year on the air with "The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

"It's almost run its course," Mary concluded. "Seven years is a long time for a television series."

Opening lead: Five of ♠, rebid, rated to, have the heart king.

This is pure conjecture on my part, but East evidently came to the conclusion that declarer had the tripleton K-x-x of hearts. If such were the case, then by putting up the ace of hearts he would be giving declarer two heart tricks, whereas, by inserting the eight - spot, he would restrict declarer to just one heart trick.

To be honest about it, if West had made the "normal" lead of the fourth - highest heart, East would have had the identical problem. Actually East should have played the ace, for if South had possessed the K-x-x, he would almost surely have played dummy's queen on the opening lead.

From East's position, he didn't know whether West's lead of the heart five was being made from a three - card suit, a four - card suit, or a five - card suit. And certainly declarer, who had jumped to two notrump on his

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I have just recently discovered the joys of crewel embroidery, but I soon found out those pieces of cut, dangling yarn were something I couldn't live with.

I tried various methods I'd heard about to separate the yarn, such as slits in cardboard, but everytime I picked it up those pieces of cut yarn danced around like a grass skirt doing the hula.

I also tried placing the yarn between pages in a magazine (the pieces still dangled), in plastic bags (they tangled). I was ready to tear my hair.

So to save my sanity, I knew I had to come up with a better way, and I think I did.

It's a little time-consuming at first, but I feel it's time well spent in the long run. Anyway, you can do this while you're watching TV, or some other moment when your hands are free.

Using just a smidgen of transparent adhesive tape (just enough to wrap around the yarn), I taped the ends of the strands together, making one long continuous strand. I then wound them on small pieces of numbered cardboard, securing the end of the yarn to the cardboard with a bit of tape.

Now! All the yarn is separated and secure on the numbered cardboard and no dangling or tangling. But — there is an added benefit to this method.

You have a built-in needle threader!

When you are ready to embroider, clip the tape between each strand, and you have a bit of tape left on the end of the yarn that's just perfect to slip right through the eye of the needle. And, from experience, I've yet to get that yarn to go through a needle without help from something!

Once the yarn is through the needle, peel off the bit of tape on the end of the yarn and you're in business.

Grace Smith

LETTER OF LOVE
Dear Heloise:

How do you pronounce your name?

Is it Hel-loys or Hel-loysy? Hel-o-ees or Hel-o-eesy? Hel-o-wees or Hel-O-weesy?

I was only wondering, because a lady like you with any other name couldn't be sweeter than you are, anyway.

J.W.
Oh, bless your heart, J.W. Do

I lap up those orchidaceous words! Think I'll put them on tape and play them back on rainy Mondays when my spirits need bolstering.

My name is pronounced Hel-o-wees. How good it is to have friends in the world like you. I love you all.

Dear Heloise:

When mailing small unbreakable articles, buy a box of facial tissues. Pack the articles in said box in the layers of tissue, then wrap the box in heavy wrapping paper.

A box of tissues costs less than a mailing box, and the addressee receives the tissues to use as well as the article.

E. McConkey

Dear Heloise:

I have gotten many interesting ideas from your column, so now I'd like to send one of my own.

When finding your morning paper soaked, don't despair. Get out the iron and ironing board — protect the cover with a piece of wax paper or foil — and very carefully iron the paper dry.

My husband said, "Now, I've seen everything." But at least we were able to read our news while it was still hot!

Mrs. Dorothy Seat

You're precious! Love your sense of humor... also your hint.

Dear Heloise:

I use my electric skillet to warm rolls, muffins or whatever.

I place a trivet or wire cake rack in the bottom of the skillet and then put the rolls on it and set the skillet on warm.

This is great when there is just one person to cook for, and it seems wasteful to turn the oven on for just one or two rolls.

Gentleman Lew

Check Quality When Buying at White Sale

Call it a "White Sale" or a "Bright Sale" — January (and August) spell savings in the bed and bath department, Denise Beigbender, a housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"It's a good practice to replace a pair of sheets and pillowcases for each bed every year, but two on the bed, two in the wash and two on the shelf in good condition should be sufficient," she said. A minimum of four bath towels, hand towels and washcloths for each family member should be kept on hand.

Dallas Explodes Past Los Angeles 37-7

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Running back Preston Pearson was set loose by Pittsburgh and waived by every other team in the National Football League last September. But the Dallas Cowboys suddenly needed help because of injuries and they grabbed him.

Colts in an admitted experiment since he did not play football in college. He appeared undyingly grateful to the Cowboys for picking him up and said after the Ram win: "This is the most meaningful game and season I've ever had. I can't tell you how good I feel inside for making a contribution to the Cowboys."

Staubach said the spread formation on third-down clicked with key plays and that's how the game was won. "I just think we were fortunate," he said. "If we played the Rams again next week they could turn it around."

He had to do some running to get into the end zone. The third pass was a shovel of only a few feet from Staubach behind the line of scrimmage and Preston rambled around his left end to score.

squad who has played with a team other than the Cowboys in the NFL. Among the veterans, middle linebacker Lee Roy Jordan was the loudest in the dressing room with his piercing shouts of "yee-ow" — some sort of rebel yell.

quarterback James Harris just as he let go of the ball. "We expected them to run a lot at first with Lawrence McCutcheon," said Lewis. "Their quarterback looked like McCutcheon to pass to but Lee Roy was there. Then I saw Martin with his hands up putting pressure on and the ball was just thrown right to me. I call it a 'Lee Roy Jordan interception.'"

Pittsburgh Dumps Oakland, To Face Cowboys

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A 15-degree temperature and a 17-mile an hour wind combined to freeze a few fingers and toes Sunday in the American Football Conference championship game between the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Oakland Raiders.

The Raiders, for the fourth straight year, must remain out in the cold until next December when the National Football League again conducts its annual playoff lottery for the right to appear in the Super Bowl.

destroyed host Los Angeles 37-7 Sunday in the NFC title game. Linebacker Jack Lambert recovered a playoff record three fumbles and safety Mike Wagner intercepted two passes to help stymie the potent Oakland attack while quarterback Terry Bradshaw was warming up the Pittsburgh offense.

Oakland quarterback Ken Stabler, who had a dismal nine for 25 passing performance for 102 yards through three quarters before catching fire in the fourth period to rally his team. "Big games are decided by big plays and we didn't make enough of them."

who killed one second half Oakland drive at the Pittsburgh 20 and another at the Steeler 30. Lambert's second fumble recovery at the Pittsburgh 30 set up Franco Harris' 25-yard touchdown run early in the fourth quarter to give the Steelers a 10-0 lead. His third fumble recovery at the Oakland 21 enabled Pittsburgh to score its second touchdown on a 20-yard pass from Terry Bradshaw to John Stallworth. On both touchdowns, rookie defensive back Neal Colzie was the goat, failing to keep Harris inside on an aborted off-tackle play and falling down in the end zone while Stallworth was leaping for what proved to be the winning touchdown grab. "It was going to be a difficult pass to catch," said Stallworth of his touchdown. "I knew I'd have to jump for it...he (Colzie) just made it a whole lot easier for me by falling down."

Wake Forest Wins Upsets

United Press International There's a new kid on the block on "Tobacco Road" and he plans on making big trouble for the ruling class. Of the four universities that comprise the state of North Carolina's "Tobacco Road" basketball contingent in the Atlantic Coast Conference, the one that has been down trodden the most over the past decade has been Wake Forest.

1964, never had been able to keep up either with North Carolina State, North Carolina or Duke when it came to landing recruits. That is, until Carl Taylor came on the scene three seasons ago. No longer are the Deacons the laughing stock of the ACC. Under Tacy, Wake Forest has slowly developed into a power that is beginning to gain some recognition nationally.

Buffaloes upset ninth-ranked Louisville, 84-78, in overtime Saturday night to raise their record to 9-1 and should crack the top 20 this week. The Buffaloes' Reggie Ramey sent the game into overtime with a jump shot with six seconds left and Brad Schreck scored four points and intercepted two passes in overtime to spark the victory.

Maryland to its 10th consecutive victory. Maryland's 6-foot-11 freshman center, Larry Gibson, had 16 points and 12 rebounds while Ernie Douse led LIU with 32 points.

UCLA, which hasn't lost since its opener against Indiana, played what Coach Gene Bartow called "our best game" in thrashing Notre Dame. Richard Washington, hitting on 11 of 16 field goal attempts, led the Bruins with 24 points while All-America Adrian Dantley had 25 for Notre Dame.

Loyd Walton had 24 points and Earl Tatum chipped in with 22 in helping Marquette raise its record to 8-1. Marquette opened up a 47-31 halftime lead and was never challenged by the Gamecocks, who dropped to 6-4. Nate Davis led the Gamecocks with 22 points. Leon Douglas scored 26 points to lead Alabama to its eighth victory in nine games. Douglas Nevada-Las Vegas, the nation's top offensive team, ran its record to 13-0 behind the sharpshooting of Sam Smith and Robert Smith. Sam had 28 points and Robert added 16 to pick up the slack from Eddie Owens, the Rebels' leading scorer who was held to five points.

West Texas State Edges Cards 84-78

By United Press International The Missouri Valley Conference season opened last Saturday night, but the biggest noise by far was made in a nonleague encounter. West Texas, cruising along this season with only one loss, stunned ninth-ranked Louisville on the Cardinals home floor. It was only the second setback for Louisville this season.

proved last weekend they belong somewhere among the top 10 teams when they upset third-ranked North Carolina and eighth-ranked North Carolina State on successive nights to win the Big Four Tournament at Raleigh, N.C., for the second straight year. The two victories left the Deacons with a 10-0 record, their best start since 1927.

Indiana was pushed to the limit against Ohio State but remained unbeaten in 10 games as All-America Scott May scored 24 points and Kent Benson added 23. The heavily-favored Hoosiers never led by more than six points and twice trailed. The score was tied 17 times.

Steve Sheppard scored 28 points and All-America guard John Lucas added 26 to lead Blaser added that the keys to the win were "our forward press and our defense. Our forward press has got some quickness — we've got three girls that get after it."

The starting forwards are Miss Williams, Kristi Berry and Christy Cullender. Misses Berry and Cullender scored 16 and 14 points, respectively. Follett is now 14 - 3 for the season.

Dixon Predicts Battle for Cher, Economy

(Editor's note: The first of Jeane Dixon's predictions appeared in Sunday's edition of The Pampa News.)

The Economy

— Inflation will not be over this year. Prices will spiral up in 1977, if not at the end of this year.

Although the recession is coming to an end, the American economy will continue to be chronically ill. Symptoms of recession will flare up in coming months and reveal weaknesses in our economy that will again bring us a high unemployment rate and declining profits.

The value of the American dollar will depend upon decisions that are made next year by our nation's adversaries. Bankers in the United States will discover how dangerous this can be during the next crisis in the Middle East.

— Large American corporations will go out of business because their machinery will be too old to use and they will not have enough money to modernize their facilities.

— The golden age of American enterprise is drawing to a close. As long as present attitudes persist, our country will fall further and further behind other industrial nations.

— Giant corporations will be taken over by the government. Overnight, thousands of workers will become Civil Service employees.

The chief executives of major corporations will need approval from the federal government before they can hold office in their businesses.

Information already compiled by government officials will be revealed to the public and prove that much of the inflation of recent years has been caused by Congress.

— A banking scandal will soon be exposed. The risky investments of prominent financiers will lead to a reorganization of this country's financial institutions.

— The stock market will be sound in general, but not bullish. The major exception will be the stocks of large utility companies, several of which will decline sharply due to decisions made in Washington.

The public will soon be able to buy shares in cultural and athletic enterprises. Fans can look forward to owning a share of their favorite museum, orchestra or baseball team.

— Foreign investment money will pour into the United States, and along with it will come foreign businessmen, who will take over top positions in American industry, displacing many current executives.

Science and Medicine

— The most important breakthrough in medicine in the months ahead will concern food and nutrition. We will learn that the way we feed youngsters sets the pattern for their health for the rest of their lives. Early childhood education in the use of food will become the best prevention against disease.

Researchers will take a major step toward conquering cancer by discovering why some people are not susceptible to it.

The most important field for scientific research in the years to come will be the study of growth. The way living things constantly renew themselves will teach us how to control our own aging (and may even show us how to control malignant cells). We will also speed up the growth of normal cells so that broken bones will mend faster and burns will heal more rapidly.

— We are on the brink of a new era in medicine. There will be more general practitioners and fewer specialists. A coming generation of doctors will put patient care above all else and practice in small neighborhood offices.

Doctors of the future will receive training to understand the way human emotions can make us sick or keep us well. Medical schools will soon offer courses in spiritual literature, including the scriptures of the great religions.

Doctors will teach the sick to treat themselves. By concentrating on the healing powers of the human mind, physicians will help their patients develop restorative forces within themselves.

— We will find ways to regulate the most minute aspects of our bodies through the release of psychic energies. We will master all our afflictions by first gaining mastery over ourselves.

Hospitals will soon have special rooms in them for meditation. Patients will receive spiritual therapy.

— Children will be immunized against diseases through their mothers, even before birth. In poor countries, medical aides will be able to guarantee the health of millions of newborns by vaccinating their mothers before delivery.

— We will soon be able to communicate with newborn children and, even more startlingly, with unborn children! By transmitting and receiving brain waves, we will be able to read their emotions and convey to them ours.

— Look forward to medical ice creams! The drugs and vitamins necessary to treat sick children — and adults too — will be administered in special flavors of ice cream.

— A new kind of group health plan will not involve insurance companies or doctors. It will be an arrangement by which neighbors take care of one another when they are sick. Americans are going to set up their own community clinics to provide themselves with inexpensive health care.

— Important discoveries await us on the ocean floor, quite close to the shores of this country. Shimmering under the sea is a lost treasure that will help us secure a better life for all mankind.

Food and Agriculture

— The world famine of which I warned years ago has become a dreadful reality. I predict it will grow within the next decade unless governments prepare now to avoid it.

— Prohibition will be reinstated in the U.S., but it will involve what Americans eat, rather than what they drink. Certain foods will be banned, and bootleg markets will spring up.

— Americans are going to reduce drastically the amount of meat in their diets. But they will also consume new kinds of meat: reindeer, caribou and even musk ox!

— Immense sea ranches will farm the oceans along our shores to produce fantastic catches of specially bred fish. The Great Lakes will be transformed into one vast fish factory and will produce enormous amounts of food.

— "Super-vegetables" will soon appear on the dinner table of the average American family. These vitamin-rich and fast-growing plants will enable farmers to harvest two or more crops where they now can grow only one.

— U.S. farmers will also learn how to breed fast-growing cattle, which will reach maturity in months instead of years.

— We will soon have computerized, individually planned diets, especially suited to our personality, medical and family background. These personal diets will allow us to thrive on less food than we now use, to better enjoy what we eat and to live longer and more active lives.

— Evidence will prove that Hollywood's violent films have contributed to the rise in crime. This will lead the courts to crack down on movies and television. Certain films will be banned.

— There is trouble ahead for the apostles of the various meditation groups. Grave disappointments will soon surface concerning the teaching of meditation by unqualified persons.

— I sense the beginning of a tremendous, worldwide religious movement, which will release the pent-up spiritual energies of the common people of the world. This will not be a new religion, but it will breathe new life into churches by emphasizing the personal life of the soul and the Holy Spirit, and it will lead to another Reformation.

The people themselves will reform their churches by exerting the moral leadership that some religious officials do not exercise.

— Stunning new evidence will be uncovered verifying in detail the accuracy of certain events in the Old Testament.

— Public schools will soon teach ESP! Persons who have never learned to develop their own psychic potential will be considered as underprivileged as illiterates are today.

— Parents will soon become part-time teachers. Children will attend school only a few hours a day or a few days each week. Most of their tutoring will be done at home by other members of the family. This will enable even slow learners to progress very rapidly and will result in tremendous savings for the taxpayers.

— High school attendance will be made optional. Teenagers who do not wish to attend classes will have the choice of going to work instead. This will lead to more serious schooling and a better appreciation of its value.

Many schools will soon be sitting empty throughout America. However, I see the elderly and the sick moving into them. Schools no longer used by the young will be transformed into housing for the aged.

— Some colleges will offer courses in physical labor. Students will earn credits for digging ditches, planting crops, repairing buildings and cleaning streets. They will thereby learn the importance of all work and the dignity of all workers.

Other colleges will abolish teaching altogether. Students will study on their own and simply will come to class to be tested. Those who excel in those exams will be given their diplomas, no matter how long they've spent in school.

— Perfumes will be put permanently into fabrics, wall-papers and even furniture. Housewives will be able to choose the scents, as well as the colors and styles, of their interior design.

— Children's perfumes will be as commonplace as men's cologne is now.

— Delicate aromas will be piped into offices and shopping centers. The fragrances of blossoms, of spices, of freshly baked bread or of freshly picked fruits will be part of our daily experience.

— A display of controversial works of art will cause fans to riot in a major European city.

— A prestigious museum in the United States will suffer a theft of priceless items on display for the American Bicentennial.

— A group of young, unknown authors will return to traditional forms in writing, especially in poetry.

— The film industry will be surprised at the box-office failure of several high-budget films. This will begin a trend of low-cost films and the use of little-known actors and actresses rather than high-salaried stars.

— Evidence will prove that Hollywood's violent films have contributed to the rise in crime. This will lead the courts to crack down on movies and television. Certain films will be banned.

— Cher faces long, drawn-out legal battles that are far worse than anything she ever imagined and that will cause her much grief, particularly those involving her daughter.

— Although she will gain the assistance of powerful friends, her career will take a nose dive, probably in April. To recover her former popularity, she will have to change her style and appear less provocative and sensational.

— Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis After several years of emotional strain, Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis can expect a generally good year in 1976. Her financial situation will remain unusually good for the next three or four years, but after that she will have difficulty collecting legacies due to her and will have to fight prolonged legal battles over her inheritances.

— As her personal affairs fall into place, she will at last be able to pursue the cultural projects that mean so much to her. Her deep appreciation of art and her religious faith will be heightened by psychic experiences, which will come to her next summer.

Some of her own writings will be published, and even though she is camera-shy, she will appear on television programs to rally support for the arts.

Her devotion to her children and to those of close relatives will bring her much closer to the other members of the Kennedy clan than she has been before.

Sensational publicity will center around her gentlemen friends, but they will be no more than friends to her. She will suffer from foolish criticism concerning her present work, but she has done the right thing in taking a job and will triumph over her critics if she continues on her present course.

— Caroline Kennedy Caroline Kennedy will make hasty decisions she will later regret. A controversy over her inheritance will demand her attention, and at midyear, she will attempt to begin her life anew by turning her back on much of the past and trying to find happiness with someone she cherishes. However, that will be a step in the wrong direction because marriage is not advisable for her at this time. Luckily, she will be prevented from taking that step.

— A kidnap threat will require extraordinary protection for her during 1977, when she will exert her own independence and suffer the consequences of mistakes from which her mother could have saved her. Although she does not intend to do so now, she will eventually earn a degree for her study of art.

— Liz and Richard Burton Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton will find their renewed romance financially and emotionally costly this year. The rift that will again develop between them will mend fast enough, but it will happen many times unless they learn to deal with their problems and be tolerant of their differences.

— Because of these marital problems, Elizabeth will try to back out of a film contract for a fabulous movie that could be the greatest box-office hit of her career.

— Richard will remain jealous of her time and attention until he recognizes that her health problems are more serious than he believed. Although he will shower her with gifts, he will fail to give her the present she most needs from him: His trust and acceptance of her wish to remain independent.

— Robert Redford Robert Redford will enjoy his Utah home and the wilderness there, but he will be reluctant to make more films and because of his children, will pass up several choice roles. With the few offers he accepts, he will demand extensive changes in the scripts to meet his tastes.

— Expensive delays in a film early this year will cause legal complications and a reassessment of his contract.

— This will be a year of increasing recognition for him, although he will have to travel extensively to satisfy his public. His travels will go well as long as he does not make a foreign trip since he faces physical danger if he makes a movie overseas.

— Redford's greatest work is yet to come. It will make his name a regular at Academy Award presentations and bring him financial and emotional rewards.

— Muhammad Ali Muhammad Ali is due for heavy financial losses because of advice given to him by those he trusts, probably in February.

Although his misplaced confidence, will cost him a fortune, he will recoup his losses by the large profit he will make in real estate.

— Nevertheless, no financial success will compensate for the losses he will sustain through the breakup of his family, which he may face if he does not attend to his home situation.

— Ali, who wants to be recognized as a philosopher as well as an athlete, will make a serious effort to appear more knowledgeable and less comic. He will publish his own writings, establish his own church and lecture on the history of black Americans.

— He will always be impulsively generous, and his associates will have to protect him from his own sometimes wasteful spending. But youth and senior citizen organizations especially will benefit from his growing fortune, and there will be senior citizen housing project named in his honor.

— Ali may do himself still worse harm at the end of this year by putting on too much weight. If he does not watch his diet he will get out of shape and suffer a possible knockout. Physical self-discipline is the answer.

— Patricia Hearst Patricia (Tania) Hearst will spend a long, long time in confinement but in a hospital rather than in prison. Her health problems will delay the settlement of her legal ones. Some of the charges against her will be dropped, and those that remain will not be settled for years. Although she will avoid a trial for the moment, which is what she fears most, her illness will take a turn for the worse and will cause her more grief than would a courtroom trial.

— Ms. Hearst's future is more in her own hands than in the hands of her parents, judges or a jury. Close supervision is necessary to prevent her from harming herself.

— Diana Ross Diana Ross may expect a growing conflict between her career and her family life and she will have to juggle both constantly to keep them from clashing. It is advisable for her to spend more time with her children now, particularly since she will have another child.

— Although destined for wealth, she must watch her spending or she will suffer financial embarrassments. At least three times within the next three years, she will go into temporary retirement and then leave it to pursue a new and higher goal in her career.

— During those rest periods, she will be wise to reconsider her plans for her future.

— Johnny Carson Johnny Carson will make expensive changes in his home and on his television program. He will give a new look to the "Tonight" show and will make his private life more private than it has been before. He will be away from his job for several periods because he will be involved with family affairs.

— This year will be the start of a very positive cycle for Johnny, which will continue for two or three years until he receives delayed public recognition for the work he has done for others. That year will be crucial because it will give him an opportunity to settle certain conflicts and questions in his mind and eventually obtain the personal peace that has previously eluded him.

— Richard Castellano For Richard Castellano, the star of the TV series "Joe and Sons," 1976 will not be the best of years. He will soon find himself living outside of this country, perhaps because of his work.

— Richard was born to be an actor and will always be successful in that art, but it will take some time for him to hit upon the perfect role that will give him superstardom status.

— Jean Stapleton Jean Stapleton, who plays Edith in TV's "All in the Family," may expect a drastic change in her work that is brought about by her present colleagues. Yet even if she gives up her current activities, her acting career will by no means end. The theater will always be uppermost in her mind, even more than her home life.

— Jean may anticipate that several decisions she makes this year concerning proposed contracts will bring her terrific wealth, but her good luck will be balanced by the anxiety this fortune will cause her. She will never be one to rest easy where money is concerned, particularly this spring, when financial worries will bring her distress. At that time she must be careful not to become obligated in her spending.

— The coming year will keep her in motion when she moves to a new home and makes a temporary residence overseas. This movement and uncertainty indicates the end of one life cycle for her and the start of another, probably in the fall of 1977, when she will have a new show and enjoy more popularity than ever before.

— Sophia Loren Sophia Loren will change her residence to another country to protect the privacy and safety of her family. While she draws a cloak of secrecy around her personal life, she will return to acting and win great recognition as a serious actress rather than as a sex symbol.

— The strain of her new success and the tremendous traveling it will entail will require her to take as good care of herself as she does of her children, whom she will always tend to dominate.

— She will lose a prestigious film role because of jealousy and rivalries in the movie business, but she will be better off without it because she will then have time for a much needed rest.

— Flip Wilson Comedian Flip Wilson is headed for an outstanding year. The honors that will be bestowed on him next fall will be richly earned. His luck will change if he should marry because his unique blend of warmth and humor will flourish only if he is free of close home ties.

— If he does choose a wife soon, however, his decision will prove to be costly to his talents and his earnings.

— When Flip takes the time to develop his talent as a painter, he will enrich his comedy routines. Also he is soon to find in the study of mysticism and astrology the insights he has long been seeking elsewhere. That wisdom will enable him to coast over occasional disappointments and to keep his career going smoothly.

— Elvis Presley Elvis Presley will cancel many of his engagements and become semi-retired throughout 1976 to attend to his health. He will perform one spectacular show, but it will be outside this country. The tremendous publicity and success of that venture will encourage him to straighten out his personal affairs so that he can return to the stage.

— He will find it advisable to postpone any wedding plans he may have until he feels more in control of the direction of his life.

— Ray Charles Singer Ray Charles will find 1976 a splendid year. He has the potential to compose serious music that combines soul and jazz within a classical form. This work will live on long after him. A motion picture offer will open up to him a fantastic new career if he decides to accept it.

— Bob Hope Although Bob Hope will never retire, he will soon suffer a serious illness unless he takes time for rest and recuperation this month. By avoiding physical and mental strain now, he will be healthy during one of the highlights of his life this year, when the entertainment industry honors him in a special way for his worldwide humanitarian service.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 6
Your birthday today: Finds you carrying on the same as usual and facing a year of normal experience spiced by numerous minor incidents that are instructive. Career advancement is sound but not as rapid as you expect. Relationships diverge, are complex and become more intense than seemed probable. Today's natives are persistent, subject to strong moods that they usually cover up by avoiding extremes.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Secret maneuvers succeed briefly, but create more problems for the future. Be sure you can stand on your record later. Home life is happier tonight.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Business and social contacts are pleasant and lively. Finances require clarification of misstated or misinterpreted details. Bringing in too many people from the outside complicates matters.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Expect surprises and a chance to promote your theories. Experiment with newer methods, but avoid cutting corners. You're in a sociable mood tonight.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Even though you're productive, you still have to be organized. Connect with people who can help; present your achievements for consideration.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Everything except your budget thrives as friends and family socialize with you. It's up to you alone to hold the line as gracefully as you can and to avoid expensive spots.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Your criticism should be constructive or held off while others argue. If contacts are clear, finalize an important deal.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: A new health-care program is important and favored.

Review your work and get an estimate on where you stand. Associates have something to say.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Career and business move ahead as you and partners keep up with pressures, necessary errands and chores. Entertainment turns out to be expensive.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: This is another of those days when you need to pursue a stable, sensible course tactfully. Your acts and remarks seem extreme or harsh to those who aren't familiar with you.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: There's much potential reward for extra work. Tread lightly since all concerned are sensitive. News you hear is only part of the story and probably incorrect.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Avoid risky transactions. Something you regard as reliable proves deficient; suppositions have yet to be tested. A review of the fine points offers food for thought.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: You deal with acquaintances better than with people you know well. Unusual conditions prompt you to find new ways to solve problems. Postpone major change-overs.

THE LINE THAT'S ALIVE FOR '75

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT DIAL 669-2525

HEP MAYFLOWER
PARIS (UPI) — "Mayflower," a French musical about with-it Pilgrim Fathers, which opened at the Theatre de la Porte-St. Martin Dec. 12, will play in Washington Dec. 10, 1976, before President Ford and Congress as one French contribution to the Bicentennial, the producers announced.

"Mayflower," the work of Frenchmen Guy Bontempelli and Eric Charden, brings the historic voyage up-to-date. Beppo, a Sicilian barber, sets up a crime organization; baseball is invented when the crew and passengers have nothing else to do; the baseball game ends when someone accepts a bribe.

The creators claim that it is a turnaround of Hollywood movies drawing on French themes.

NEW PLAY
INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The Indiana Repertory Theatre — the only professional theater in the state — will give the world premiere of Louis Phillips' "The Envoy Message" Jan. 15-16. P. Artistic Director Edward Stein says the play is the best of the 500 new scripts submitted to IRT since its inception four years ago. The play concerns the fantastic adventures of a 14-year-old Western Union messenger girl. IRT currently is presenting Eugene O'Neill's "Long Day's Journey Into Night" through Jan. 3.

SAVE ENERGY
NEW YORK (UPI) — Using the proper spin cycle on a washing machine is one way of saving fuel energy, says Cornell University's consumer education program. This removes as much water as possible before putting clothes into the dryer. Savings also result from removing permanent press garments as soon as the dryer cycle is completed. Some dryers continue to rotate after the heating period.

X-RAY DEVICE
STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Scientists at Stanford University report they are working on a "selective" X-ray device which will be able to picture the lungs or other selected internal parts without showing the ribs or other bones.

The work is under the leadership of Dr. Albert Macovski, professor of Electrical Engineering and Radiology.

Dixon Predicts Battle for Cher, Economy

(Editor's note: The first of Jeane Dixon's predictions appeared in Sunday's edition of The Pampa News.)

The Economy
— Inflation will not be over this year. Prices will spiral up in 1977, if not at the end of this year.

Although the recession is coming to an end, the American economy will continue to be chronically ill. Symptoms of recession will flare up in coming months and reveal weaknesses in our economy that will again bring us a high unemployment rate and declining profits.

— The value of the American dollar will depend upon decisions that are made next year by our nation's adversaries. Bankers in the United States will discover how dangerous this can be during the next crisis in the Middle East.

— Large American corporations will go out of business because their machinery will be too old to use and they will not have enough money to modernize their facilities.

— The golden age of American enterprise is drawing to a close. As long as present attitudes persist, our country will fall further and further behind other industrial nations.

— Giant corporations will be taken over by the government. Overnight, thousands of workers will become Civil Service employees.

The chief executives of major corporations will need approval from the federal government before they can hold office in their businesses.

Information already compiled by government officials will be revealed to the public and prove that much of the inflation of recent years has been caused by Congress.

— A banking scandal will soon be exposed. The risky investments of prominent financiers will lead to a reorganization of this country's financial institutions.

— The stock market will be sound in general, but not bullish. The major exception will be the stocks of large utility companies, several of which will decline sharply due to decisions made in Washington.

The public will soon be able to buy shares in cultural and athletic enterprises. Fans can look forward to owning a share of their favorite museum, orchestra or baseball team.

— Foreign investment money will pour into the United States, and along with it will come foreign businessmen, who will take over top positions in American industry, displacing many current executives.

Science and Medicine
— The most important breakthrough in medicine in the months ahead will concern food and nutrition. We will learn that the way we feed youngsters sets the pattern for their health for the rest of their lives. Early childhood education in the use of food will become the best prevention against disease.

Researchers will take a major step toward conquering cancer by discovering why some people are not susceptible to it.

The most important field for scientific research in the years to come will be the study of growth. The way living things constantly renew themselves will teach us how to control our own aging and may even show us how to control malignant cells. We will also speed up the growth of normal cells so that broken bones will mend faster and burns will heal more rapidly.

— We are on the brink of a new era in medicine. There will be more general practitioners and fewer specialists. A coming generation of doctors will put patient care above all else and practice in small neighborhood offices.

Doctors of the future will receive training to understand the way human emotions can make us sick or keep us well. Medical schools will soon offer courses in spiritual literature, including the scriptures of the great religions.

— Doctors will teach the sick to treat themselves. By concentrating on the healing powers of the human mind, physicians will help their patients develop restorative forces within themselves.

— We will find ways to regulate the most minute aspects of our bodies through the release of psychic energies. We will master all our afflictions by first gaining mastery over ourselves.

— Hospitals will soon have special rooms in them for meditation. Patients will receive spiritual therapy.

— Children will be immunized against diseases through their mothers, even before birth. In poor countries, medical aides will be able to guarantee the health of millions of newborns by vaccinating their mothers before delivery.

— We will soon be able to communicate with newborn children and, even more startling, with unborn children! By transmitting and receiving brain waves, we will be able to read their emotions and convey to them ours.

— Look forward to medical ice creams! The drugs and vitamins necessary to treat sick children — and adults too — will be administered in special flavors of ice cream.

— A new kind of group health plan will not involve insurance companies or doctors. It will be an arrangement by which neighbors take care of one another when they are sick. Americans are going to set up their own community clinics to provide themselves with inexpensive health care.

— Important discoveries await us on the ocean floor, quite close to the shores of this country. Shimmering under the sea is a lost treasure that will help us secure a better life for all mankind.

Food and Agriculture
— The world famine of which I warned years ago has become a dreadful reality. I predict it will grow within the next decade unless governments prepare now to avoid it.

— Prohibition will be reinstated in the U.S., but it will involve what Americans eat, rather than what they drink. Certain foods will be banned, and bootleg markets will spring up.

— Americans are going to reduce drastically the amount of meat in their diets. But they will also consume new kinds of meat: reindeer, caribou and even musk ox!

— Immense sea ranches will farm the oceans along our shores to produce fantastic catches of specially bred fish. The Great Lakes will be transformed into one vast fish factory and will produce enormous amounts of food.

— "Super-vegetables" will soon appear on the dinner table of the average American family. These vitamin-rich and fast-growing plants will enable farmers to harvest two or more crops where they now can grow only one.

— U.S. farmers will also learn how to breed fast-growing cattle, which will reach maturity in months instead of years.

— We will soon have computerized, individually planned diets, especially suited to our personality, medical and family background. These personal diets will allow us to thrive on less food than we now use, to better enjoy what we eat and to live longer and more active lives.

Religion
— A prominent religious leader will lose his prestige and influence because of revelations concerning his personal and business affairs.

— There is trouble ahead for the apostles of the various meditation groups. Grave disappointments will soon surface concerning the teaching of meditation by unqualified persons.

— I sense the beginning of a tremendous, worldwide religious movement, which will release the pent-up spiritual energies of the common people of the world. This will not be a new religion, but it will breathe new life into churches by emphasizing the personal life of the soul and the Holy Spirit, and it will lead to another Reformation.

The people themselves will reform their churches by exerting the moral leadership that some religious officials do not exercise.

— Stunning new evidence will be uncovered verifying in detail the accuracy of certain events in the Old Testament.

Education and Entertainment
— Public schools will soon teach ESP! Persons who have never learned to develop their own psychic potential will be considered as underprivileged as illiterates are today.

— Parents will soon become part-time teachers. Children will attend school only a few hours a day or a few days each week. Most of their tutoring will be done at home by other members of the family. This will enable even slow learners to progress very rapidly and will result in tremendous savings for the taxpayers.

— High school attendance will be made optional. Teenagers who do not wish to attend classes will have the choice of going to work instead. This will lead to more serious schooling and a better appreciation of its value.

Many schools will soon be sitting empty throughout America. However, I see the elderly and the sick moving into them. Schools no longer used by the young will be transformed into housing for the aged.

— Some colleges will offer courses in physical labor. Students will earn credits for digging ditches, planting crops, repairing buildings and cleaning streets. They will thereby learn the importance of all work and the dignity of all workers.

Other colleges will abolish teaching altogether. Students will study on their own and simply will come to class to be tested. Those who excel in those exams will be given their diplomas, no matter how long they've spent in school.

Leisure and Entertainment
— Perfumes will be put permanently into fabrics, wall-papers and even furniture. Housewives will be able to choose the scents, as well as the colors and styles, of their interior design.

— Children's perfumes will be as commonplace as men's cologne is now.

— Delicate aromas will be piped into offices and shopping centers. The fragrances of blossoms, of spices, of freshly baked bread or of freshly picked fruits will be part of our daily experience.

— A display of controversial works of art will cause fans to riot in a major European city.

— A prestigious museum in the United States will suffer a theft of priceless items on display for the American Bicentennial.

— A group of young, unknown authors will return to traditional forms in writing, especially in poetry.

— The film industry will be surprised at the box-office failure of several high-budget films. This will begin a trend of low-cost films and the use of little-known actors and actresses rather than high-salaried stars.

— Evidence will prove that Hollywood's violent films have contributed to the rise in crime. This will lead the courts to crack down on movies and television. Certain films will be banned.

Celebrities

Cher
Cher faces long, drawn-out legal battles that are far worse than anything she ever imagined and that will cause her much grief, particularly those involving her daughter. Although she will gain the assistance of powerful friends, her career will take a nose dive, probably in April. To recover her former popularity, she will have to change her style and appear less provocative and sensational.

Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis
After several years of emotional strain, Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis can expect a generally good year in 1976. Her financial situation will remain unusually good for the next three or four years, but after that she will have difficulty collecting legacies due to her and will have to fight prolonged legal battles over her inheritances.

As her personal affairs fall into place, she will at last be able to pursue the cultural projects that mean so much to her. Her deep appreciation of art and her religious faith will be heightened by psychic experiences, which will come to her next summer.

Some of her own writings will be published, and even though she is camera-shy, she will appear on television programs to rally support for the arts.

Her devotion to her children and to those of close relatives will bring her much closer to the other members of the Kennedy clan than she has been before.

Sensational publicity will center around her gentlemen friends, but they will be no more than friends to her. She will suffer from foolish criticism concerning her present work, but she has done the right thing in taking a job and will triumph over her critics if she continues on her present course.

Caroline Kennedy
Caroline Kennedy will make hasty decisions she will later regret. A controversy over her inheritance will demand her attention, and at midyear, she will attempt to begin her life anew by turning her back on much of the past and trying to find happiness with someone she cherishes. However, that will be a step in the wrong direction because marriage is not advisable for her at this time. Luckily, she will be prevented from taking that step.

A kidnap threat will require extraordinary protection for her during 1977, when she will exert her own independence and suffer the consequences of mistakes from which her mother could have saved her.

Although she does not intend to do so now, she will eventually earn a degree for her study of art.

Liz and Richard Burton
Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton will find their renewed romance financially and emotionally costly this year. The rift that will again develop between them will mend fast enough, but it will happen many times unless they learn to deal with their problems and be tolerant of their differences.

Because of these marital problems, Elizabeth will try to back out of a film contract for a fabulous movie that could be the greatest box-office hit of her career.

Richard will remain jealous of her time and attention until he recognizes that her health problems are more serious than he believed. Although he will shower her with gifts, he will fail to give her the present she most needs from him: His trust and acceptance of her wish to remain independent.

Robert Redford
Robert Redford will enjoy his Utah home and the wilderness there, but he will be reluctant to make more films and because of his children, will pass up several choice roles. With the few offers he accepts, he will demand extensive changes in the scripts to meet his tastes.

Expensive delays in a film early this year will cause legal complications and a reassessment of his contract. This will be a year of increasing recognition for him, although he will have to travel extensively to satisfy his public. His travels will go well as long as he does not make a foreign trip since he faces physical danger if he makes a movie overseas.

Redford's greatest work is yet to come. It will make his name a regular at Academy Award presentations and bring him financial and emotional rewards.

Muhammad Ali
Muhammad Ali is due for heavy financial losses because of advice given to him by those he trusts, probably in February.

Although his misplaced confidence will cost him a fortune, he will recoup his losses by the large profit he will make in real estate.

Nevertheless, no financial success will compensate for the losses he will sustain through the breakup of his family, which he may face if he does not attend to his home situation.

Ali, who wants to be recognized as a philosopher as well as an athlete, will make a serious effort to appear more knowledgeable and less comic. He will publish his own writings, establish his own church and lecture on the history of black Americans.

He will always be impulsively generous, and his associates will have to protect him from his own sometimes wasteful spending. But youth and senior citizen organizations especially will benefit from his growing fortune, and there will be senior citizen housing project named in his honor.

All may do himself still worse harm at the end of this year by putting on too much weight. If he does not watch his diet he will get out of shape and suffer a possible knockout. Physical self-discipline is the answer.

Patricia Hearst
Patricia (Tania) Hearst will spend a long, long time in confinement but in a hospital rather than in prison. Her health problems will delay the settlement of her legal ones. Some of the charges against her will be dropped, and those that remain will not be settled for years. Although she will avoid a trial for the moment, which is what she fears most, her illness will take a turn for the worse and will cause her more grief than would a courtroom trial. Ms. Hearst's future is more in her own hands than in the hands of her parents, judges or a jury. Close supervision is necessary to prevent her from harming herself.

Diana Ross
Diana Ross may expect a growing conflict between her career and her family life and she will have to juggle both constantly to keep them from clashing. It is advisable for her to spend more time with her children now, particularly since she will have another child.

Although destined for wealth, she must watch her spending or she will suffer financial embarrassments. At least three times within the next three years, she will go into temporary retirement and then leave it to pursue a new and higher goal in her career. During those rest periods, she will be wise to reconsider her plans for her future.

Johnny Carson
Johnny Carson will make expensive changes in his home and on his television program. He will give a new look to the "Tonight" show and will make his private life more private than it has been before. He will be away from his job for several periods because he will be involved with family affairs.

This year will be the start of a very positive cycle for Johnny, which will continue for two or three years until he receives delayed public recognition for the work he has done for others. That year will be crucial because it will give him an opportunity to settle certain conflicts and questions in his mind and eventually obtain the personal peace that has previously eluded him.

Richard Castellano
For Richard Castellano, the star of the TV series "Joe and Sons," 1976 will not be the best of years. He will soon find himself living outside of this country, perhaps because of his work.

Richard was born to be an actor and will always be successful in that art, but it will take some time for him to hit upon the perfect role that will give him superstardom status.

Jean Stapleton
Jean Stapleton, who plays Edith in TV's "All in the Family," may expect a drastic change in her work that is brought about by her present colleagues. Yet even if she eaves up her current activities, her acting career will by no means end. The theater will always be uppermost in her mind, even more than her home life.

Jean may anticipate that several decisions she makes this year concerning proposed contracts will bring her terrific wealth, but her good luck will be balanced by the anxiety this fortune will cause her. She will never be one to rest easy where money is concerned, particularly this spring, when financial worries will bring her distress. At that time she must be careful not to become obligated in her spending.

The coming year will keep her in motion when she moves to a new home and makes a temporary residence overseas. This movement and uncertainty indicates the end of one life cycle for her and the start of another, probably in the fall of 1977, when she will have a new show and enjoy more popularity than ever before.

Sophia Loren
Sophia Loren will change her residence to another country to protect the privacy and safety of her family. While she draws a cloak of secrecy around her personal life, she will return to acting and win great recognition as a serious actress rather than as a sex symbol.

The strain of her new success and the tremendous traveling it will entail will require her to take as good care of herself as she does of her children, whom she will always tend to dominate.

She will lose a prestigious film role because of jealousy and rivalries in the movie business, but she will be better off without it because she will then have time for a much needed rest.

Flip Wilson
Comedian Flip Wilson is headed for an outstanding year. The honors that will be bestowed on him next fall will be richly earned. His luck will change if he should marry because his unique blend of warmth and humor will flourish only if he is free of close home ties.

If he does choose a wife soon, however, his decision will prove to be costly to his talents and his earnings.

When Flip takes the time to develop his talent as a painter, he will enrich his comedy routines. Also he is soon to find in the study of mysticism and astrology the insights he has long been seeking elsewhere. That wisdom will enable him to coast over occasional disappointments and to keep his career going smoothly.

Elvis Presley
Elvis Presley will cancel many of his engagements and become semi-retired throughout 1976 to attend to his health. He will perform one spectacular show, but it will be outside this country. The tremendous publicity and success of that venture will encourage him to straighten out his personal affairs so that he can return to the stage.

He will find it advisable to postpone any wedding plans he may have until he feels more in control of the direction of his life.

Ray Charles
Singer Ray Charles will find 1976 a splendid year. He has the potential to compose serious music that combines soul and jazz within a classical form. This work will live on after him. A motion picture offer will open up to him a fantastic new career if he decides to accept it.

Bob Hope
Although Bob Hope will never retire, he will soon suffer a serious illness unless he takes time for rest and recuperation this month. By avoiding physical and mental strain now, he will be healthy during one of the highlights of his life this year, when the entertainment industry honors him in a special way for his worldwide humanitarian service.

By Jeane Dixon

TUESDAY, JANUARY 6

Your birthday today:

Finds you carrying on the same as usual and facing a year of normal experience spiced by numerous minor incidents that are instructive. Career advancement is sound but not as rapid as you expect. Relationships diverge, are complex and become more intense than seemed probable. Today's natives are persistent, subject to strong moods that they usually cover up by avoiding extremes.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Secret maneuvers succeed briefly, but create more problems for the future. Be sure you can stand on your record later. Home life is happier tonight.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Business and social contacts are pleasant and lively. Finances require clarification of misstated or misinterpreted details. Bringing in too many people from the outside complicates matters.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Expect surprises and a chance to promote your theories. Experiment with newer methods, but avoid cutting corners. You're in a sociable mood tonight.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Even though you're productive, you still have to be organized. Connect with people who can help; present your achievements for consideration.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Everything except your budget thrives as friends and family socialize with you. It's up to you alone to hold the line as gracefully as you can and to avoid expensive spots.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Your criticism should be constructive or held off while others argue. If contacts are clear, finalize an important deal.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: A new health care program is important and favored.

Review your work and get an estimate on where you stand. Associates have something to say.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Career and business move ahead as you and partners keep up with pressures, necessary errands and chores. Entertainment turns out to be expensive.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: This is another of those days when you need to pursue a stable, sensible course tactfully. Your acts and remarks seem extreme or harsh to those who aren't familiar with you.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: There's much potential

reward for extra work. Tread lightly since all concerned are sensitive. News you hear is only part of the story and probably incorrect.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Avoid risky transactions. Something you regard as reliable proves deficient; suppositions have yet to be tested. A review of the fine points offers food for thought.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: You deal with acquaintances better than with people you know well. Unusual conditions prompt you to find new ways to solve problems. Postpone major changeovers.

THE LINE THAT'S ALIVE FOR '75

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT DIAL 669-2525

HEP MAYFLOWER
PARIS (UPI) — "Mayflower," a French musical about with-it Pilgrim Fathers, which opened at the Theatre de la Porte-St-Martin Dec. 12, will play in Washington Dec. 10, 1976, before President Ford and Congress as one French contribution to the Bicentennial, the producers announced.

"Mayflower," the work of Frenchmen Guy Bontempelli and Eric Charden, brings the historic voyage up-to-date. Beppo, a Sicilian barber, sets up a crime organization, baseball is invented when the crew and passengers have nothing else to do; the baseball game ends when someone accepts a bribe.

The creators claim that it is a turnaround of Hollywood movies drawing on French themes.

NEW PLAY
INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The Indiana Repertory Theatre — the only professional theater in the state — will give the world premiere of Louis Phillips' "The Envoi Message" Jan. 15-16. Artistic Director Edward Stein says the play is the best of the 500 new scripts submitted to IRT since its inception four years ago. The play concerns the fantastic adventures of a 14-year-old Western Union messenger girl. IRT currently is presenting Eugene O'Neill's "Long Day's Journey Into Night" through Jan. 3.

SAVE ENERGY
NEW YORK (UPI) — Using the proper spin cycle on a washing machine is one way of saving fuel energy, says Cornell University's consumer education program. This removes as much water as possible before putting clothes into the dryer. Savings also result from removing permanent press garments as soon as the dryer cycle is completed. Some dryers continue to rotate after the heating period.

X-RAY DEVICE
STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Scientists at Stanford University report they are working on a "selective" X-ray device which will be able to picture the lungs or other selected internal parts without showing the ribs or other bones.

The work is under the leadership of Dr. Albert Macovski, professor of Electrical Engineering and Radiology.

US To Remain Target

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will remain the target of international terrorists no matter what policy it adopts towards the turbulent developing world, according to a research organization's report.

The report urges Americans not to over-react to terrorist attacks, however, but to treat them like "natural calamities."

It warns that despite sophisticated security systems, government attempts to counter terror can fail. "There simply is no final solution to the sufficiently dedicated fanatic with a moment of luck," the report said.

"The threatened must accept that, however spectacular the deeds of terror, they are more easily tolerated than prevented," it said.

The report, "Transnational Terror," published by the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research, was commissioned before the bombing at LaGuardia Airport in New York City — which has heightened fears terrorists might increase attacks against U.S. monuments and institutions during the Bicentennial.

The AEI is a publicly supported, nonpartisan research and educational organization. It said the purpose of the study is to aid policy makers in their approach to the problem.

"Because of Third World perceptions of the international system, this country will remain a revolutionary target no matter what our posture: 1776 is very long ago, and even the Marshall Plan is ancient history to a young Palestinian Arab," said the author, J. Bowyer Bell.

"Attacks on transnational order by rebels, often with built-in incapacities, must not be perceived as truly terminal threats to the system, and can be tolerated like natural calamities," the report said.

SATELLITE BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Robert L. Woods is an unflappable man, but finding himself facing machineguns with Cubans at the other end is not a pleasant experience.

Said the tanned, muscular businessman of Waukesha, Wis.: "I'd never been at the dangerous end of .50-caliber machineguns before and I didn't really like it very much."

His wife, Jane, is pretty cool in an emergency, too. She was at the helm of their 58-foot sailing yacht Venture when a Cuban patrol boat pulled up astern with guns pointing.

"I just called, 'Bob,'" she said.

The other crewmen of the Venture, sons David, 18, Daniel, 17, and Pete, 16, also took the incident in stride.

Pete went below to get his high school Spanish dictionary to help interpret.

"I had a pretty difficult time understanding them," he said.

The 48-year-old Woods, owner of a chain of food service firms in Wisconsin and partner in a Florida condominium project, told of their experiences at the hands of the Cubans, who held them and their yacht for three days.

The Venture had sailed too close to the northeast-Cuban coast Dec. 29. The family, freed after questioning and the intervention of the Swiss embassy in Cuba, docked at their home here Sunday night.

Woods said they were halted about six miles from the lighthouse at Punta San Juan while sailing through the Old Bahamas Channel. They were allowed to remain aboard the Venture until Dec. 31.

During that time, Wood said, he had his sons keep the Cuban seamen busy on deck while he sent an emergency radio message under the cover of a stereo set with volume turned up.

Two officials questioned them aboard a fishing boat Dec. 31. Woods said he asked if the Swiss embassy, which represents U.S. interests in Cuba, had been notified.

"One of the officials said, 'Right now, this is the embassy, right on this boat,'" Woods recalled.

The family was taken to a barracks in a fishing village where they dined on rice, roast pork, biscuits and water. They returned to the fishing boat to spend the night.

"I began to wonder if we would ever see our boat again," said Woods, who had built the fancy yacht himself.

"A couple of times we contemplated running away. We could have got the gunboat when they left it with just two young boys. But we figured they have got Russian MIGs and they could come out to get us."

"We felt since we hadn't done anything wrong, there was no reason it shouldn't work out harmoniously," he said.

The cost of living in Argentina went up 8.9 per cent in November, a government official announced.
