Settlement reached in civil suit

By LUIS RIOS

Three Mitchell County residents and a Colorado City bank finally reached a settlement in Abilene's Federal Court Tuesday in a civil suit filed by Exxon Corporation.

The law suit was in litigation since September 1982.

Exxon Corporation filed the suit against Dan L. Barber, J. Dell Barber and Patrick D. Barber and City National Bank September 13, 1982 in the amount of $2.1 million in damages.

The corporation alleged that the defendants had sold oil and gas that rightfully belonged to Exxon.

Other defendants named in the suit included Thoms John Barber, James A. Barber, Barbara Darnell, R. Kenneth Sanderson, Gordon Marcum, Potter and Jay Agency of Roscoe, Tx., Jimmie D. Oglesby of Midland, the Levelland State Bank, The Plains National Bank of Lubbock and Mesa Pipe Line Co. of Houston.

In the suit filed in 1982, Exxon stated that the defendants be fully accountable for all oil, gas and other minerals removed from the property. Exxon also stated that they had rights to all working interest share of the minerals and property (seven-eighths).

Exxon and nine individuals along with the three banks mentioned in the suit reached an agreement shortly before the jury was selected Tuesday.

The Federal court clerk was instructed to pay Exxon Corporation 21.875 percent of the total production obtained from the remaining parties in the law suit at the time of the final settlement.

Ironically, less than two weeks prior to the final settlement, Exxon's offer was considerably less than the final settlement reached Tuesday.

Two defendants, Oglesby and Potter and Jay Agency, Inc., accepted a greatly reduced offer made by Exxon less than two weeks before the day of the final settlement.

In the final settlement Exxon was able to attain only 25 percent of the total production.

Representing the Barber group, Barbara Darnell, R. Kenneth Sanderson and Gordon Marcum in the suit was the firm of McMahon, Smart, Surovik, Suttle, Burmann and Cobb of Abilene.

In a newspaper article shortly after the suit was filed, Dan Barber was quoted as saying "It is our contention that Exxon abandoned our piece of property in 1944. All they ever did was get this lease. These other farm-out agreements never showed up in our chain of title. They just walked away from it."

Pat Barber, a local investor in the oil development done on the property by the Barber group said Wednesday, "The judgement speaks for itself."

Morris to run for another board term

CISD president S. L. "Mac" Morris announced to the RECORD Thursday that he would be seeking another term on the CISD board of trustees.

In a statement made to the newspaper he said:

"I have served on the Board of the Colorado Independent School District for the past twelve years. During those years I've had the pleasure and privilege of serving with and working with some of the finest people in the world, both on the school board and with the personnel of the school district."

"I have had the privilege of being a part of many changes and improvements in our school system. Some of these projects, such as the building of the new high school complex in 1975-76 are experiences that usually only avail themselves once in a lifetime. The experiences that these projects have afforded me have been invaluable and I am grateful for the chance to have been a part of them."

"And yet, I see some of the most dramatic changes in education coming our way in the next couple of years, with the strong 'back to basics' push, the continuing cost increases, the public demands for greater educational excellence, and a better accounting of results returned for dollars spent, education systems and programs will see many and varied changes soon."

"I foresee many changes in school instruction time, to be brought about by HB 246."

"I see a continuing search for different and See MORRIS, Page 2

Local man arrested on counterfeit charges

A Colorado City man was arrested by the Boulder Police Department in Boulder, Colorado February 13, for possession of a counterfeit instrument.

Sources say the individual was carrying counterfeit $100 bills with him at the time of the arrest.

Troy Don Grimes, 29, appeared before the U.S. Magistrate Tuesday for arraignment.

Bond was set at $25,000.

The actual arrest was made by the Boulder police said Secret Service agent James Griffith in a telephone interview from Denver. The Boulder Police Department dropped the charges so federal charges could be filed, Griffith said.

No one was available for comment from the Boulder Police Department, Friday.

The Secret Service agents have been in contact with the Colorado City Police Department since the time of the arrest, said CCPD Chief Ed Wheat.

"They have been in communication with this department for two to three weeks, Wheat said. "According to a statement on the phone, they were able to make a more solid and See GRIMES, Page 2

Cowan says 'bye to medicine, hello to retirement

Dr. Kenneth Cowan

By LUIS RIOS

Thirty-four years after his arrival in Colorado City, Dr. Kenneth W. Cowan is finally saying "no mas, no mas" as he announces his retirement effective February 29.

Dr. Cowan, now gray-haired from old age and long years of doctoring began his practice in Mitchell County and Colorado City in 1950.

Sitting in his office located on Walnut Street, Dr. Cowan reminisced about his growing up in Old Mexico. Dr. Cowan was born in Tampico, Tamaulipas, Mexico in 1913 but from the age of six months until he was six-years old he lived in Red River County.

He returned to Mexico to San Luis Potosi at that time and remained in Old Mexico until he was 16-years old.

During his stay, Cowan learned to speak Spanish fluently. However, he insists that the Spanish he knows is "español ranchero" or ranch spanish.

Dr. Cowan, who graduated from the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston, began his Colorado City practice in Rhode Clinic with two other doctors. Already practicing at the clinic were Bill and Oscar Rhodes.

Dr. Cowan said he left the clinic location in 1970 at which time he moved to his present location at 448 Walnut Street.

While serving his internship at the Graduate Hospital at the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, he met and married Eleanor Frances Rowles. The couple were married in 1941. Shortly thereafter, Dr. Cowan entered the Army.

The Cowans have two sons and a daughter. Their oldest son Bill lives in Little Rock Arkansas; his only daughter, Alexis, is married and has two children. Her husband is an assistant U.S. attorney in Lubbock.

Stetson, his youngest son, is a test pilot at Edwards Air Force Base. Major Stetson Cowan graduated from the Air Force Academy and from the Navy Test Pilot School.

Dr. Cowan is a man of two worlds. He recalls the life that his parents, Thomas and Essie Cowan, lived in San Luis Potosi.

He remembers the hunting trips he and a close friend would take during his stay in Old Mexico.

Despite his fondness for his birthplace, Dr. Cowan's heart lies with Texas and the United States. The long-time Mitchell County resident and successful physician said he is pleased with his choice of career.

"I'm pleased with what has happened," Dr. Cowan said. "If I had to do it all over again, I don't think I could do any better."

In his 34 years of tenure in Colorado City, Dr. Cowan said to him the town hasn't changed much.

"People change, but everything else is the same," he said. But where did it all begin for the Cowan dynasty?

"Early on about 1900, a man came through Elk City, Oklahoma, telling stories about this great country, Mexico," he said. "Some of the men in the crowd were uncles of my father and they went down there (Old Mexico). They colonized an area called Micos Viejos."

Dr. Cowan said that his father later went down to the colony as a surveyor. Approximately 100 families colonized the area, he added.

Thomas L. Cowan and a cousin, O. D. Jones formed a mercantile company, Jones and Cowan, in Mexico, Dr. Cowan said. In 1905 Thomas Cowan returned to the states and was married.

The Cowans lived in Mexico until their death. The elder Cowan died in Mexico City. Dr. Cowan's mother returned to Texas and died in Colorado City.

After his retirement Dr. Cowan said he will have time for gardening, reading and traveling.

"At one time I read a lot," he said. "I haven't read in a while but I intend to when things calm down. I want to work in the yard, hunt, fish and travel."

It will be just a new and different kind of life.

Poor deserve medical care, too

The poor should have access to the same medical services as other Texans, the president of the Texas Medical Association said recently in calling for a statewide approach to indigent health care.

"We believe that there should be one system of medical care for all persons," said Dr. Milton V. Davis, a Dallas surgeon. "To segregate the poor into a separate system would neither be good medicine nor social justice."

Davis and three other TMA officials presented the 23,000 member association's recommendations to the Task Force on Indigent Health Care on February 23 in Austin. Also attending were Dr. Grover L. Bynum Jr. of Austin, Dr. Charles E. Gibbs of San Antonio and Dr. Leonard M. Riggs Jr. of Dallas.

The 75-member task force was appointed by the governor, lieutenant governor and speaker of the Texas House to present a legislative package on indigent health care in 1985.

Davis said access to an adequate scope of quality medical services is uneven over the state and incomplete for many of the indigent. "In our judgment, a statewide approach is needed. The poor should be cared for within the mainstream of the delivery system."

He urged a reimbursement system that would "contribute to the payment of medical costs but will not purport to pay all of them." This plan should neither determine charges nor set "maximum allowable fees," Davis said.

Instead, he proposed a schedule of set reimbursement amounts, leaving determination of the total fee to the patient and the doctor.

Noting that the Texas-Mexico border creates "special problems" in providing medical care, Davis suggested a joint task force between the two neighbors to address the situation.

Gibbs, chairman of TMA's Committee on Maternal and Child Health, said the association recommends that maternity care and the medical needs of indigent women, infants and adolescents be given high priority.

He noted that providing preventive care for pregnant mothers and newborns not only helps ensure normal deliveries and babies but also is much less expensive than the alternative of therapeutic, rehabilitative and custodial care.

Riggs, chairman of TMA's Committee on Emergency Medical Services and Trauma, noted that the indigent patient's most common access to health care is through the hospital emergency room. Because some hospitals do not have the capacity to treat certain illness or injuries, he urged the task force to deal with the problem of transferring indigents between medical facilities.

Bynum, chairman of TMA's Council on Socioeconomics, noted that the nine recommendations by TMA to the task force had been adopted as association policy.

"To develop policy on this issue, the council used a broad representative base of physicians, including all of the primary-care specialties," he said.

Charles Stenholm

Conservation decisions to be left to committees

The U.S. Department of Agriculture will allow county authorities more freedom to fit conservation practices to local needs in farm programs, Congressman Charles W. Stenholm (D-Stamford) announced.

The USDA had earlier proposed to require cover crops on all land set aside under this year's farm programs. The major changes mean that the government recognizes local conditions can differ, Stenholm said.

"All of us share the goal of conserving our soil," Stenholm said. "The problem comes when you fail to use common sense. If standards are too rigid, if you don't allow locally-elected county committees some flexibility in applying the guidelines, then farmers just won't sign up for the program at all. And when that happens, our conservation efforts suffer."

Stenholm said that, though not all details have been finalized, this year's rules will allow county committees to require either a cover crop or some other accepted conservation practice to accomplish the same goals.

"It will be up to county committees to enforce good conservation," Stenholm said. "And we have to realize, as farmers, that good conservation is a must. The question isn't whether to conserve, it's how. Requiring cover crops in each and every case, without exception, was so unfeasible for some farmers that it would have undermined the effectiveness of the whole program."

Stenholm said soil conservation practices like deep-chiseling can often be virtually as effective as planting a cover crop, and the new guidelines recognize this.

"There are two things to keep in mind," Stenholm said. "Number one, good conservation techniques must be enforced on land that lies fallow under government programs. There's a role for both ASCS and the Soil Conservation Service here. But number two, we have to use common sense, and it isn't common sense to require exactly the same methods in every county in the United States. The country's soils are too diverse for that. This change makes the programs more flexible and puts more control at local levels."

State Tax Law

State Comptroller Bob Bullock reminded Texans they have only a week left to get right with the State tax law.

"The clock is ticking and time is running out," Bullock said of his one-time-only offer to let Texans who haven't been paying their state taxes to get right with the law without facing penalties or criminal charges.

Bullock said his offer will expire the last day of February and will never be repeated.

"These people have one week left to wipe the slate clean," Bullock said. "After the first of March will be too late, so I hope they will contact the Comptroller's Field office nearest them or call 1-800-252-5555 before this second chance becomes a last chance—that they missed."

Decontrol prices urged by group

The President of West Central Texas Oil and Gas Association urged President Reagan and the Congress to decontrol natural gas prices and to remove end-use restraints on natural gas as soon as possible.

Russell N. Taylor, head of the 1,000-member Abilene-based organization, said decontrolling natural gas prices at the wellhead would encourage the exploration for new reserves and, therefore, lower wellhead prices.

"Since the Arab oil embargo, we have had rising energy prices," Taylor said. "But for the first time since the embargo we recently have had declining natural gas prices at the wellhead brought on by competition with decontrolled crude oil prices."

From January to August, 1983 the average wellhead price has declined four cents per thousand cubic feet (Mcf), he said. "During that same period of time the average residential price rose 44 cents per Mcf."

"Many natural gas producers have had to voluntarily take a price cut even though their contract may call for a higher price," he said.

"Consumers and Congress should realize that price increases at the wellhead are not the reason for price increases at the burner tip," Taylor said.

Taylor also noted that end-use restraints on natural gas must be removed quickly.

"The Fuel Use Act and incremental pricing need to be terminated as soon as possible," he said. "They were passed under the misconception that we were running out of natural gas."

"But if we continue our economic recovery, our natural gas usage will grow and we will have to step up our exploration for new natural gas reserves," he said.

"We have seen that federal price controls have not worked to increase natural gas reserves. They did not work for oil, and they are not working for natural gas in this respect," Taylor said.

"The market place is working. The price of oil and natural gas will fluctuate with demand just like anything else. Let's let the free market system work."

Taylor pointed out that natural gas is still an excellent buy compared to other fuels. Using the average wellhead price of $2.59 per Mcf, natural gas equates to a $15.36 barrel of oil. The average price for crude oil in August was $26.03.

Taylor also noted that natural gas is the cleanest burning of all the fossil fuels.

"There are many reasons why natural gas should be the fuel of the future. The only reason why it would not be is if Congress continues to play political football with natural gas. The time has come to deregulate natural gas and let industry get on with the task of finding the new reserves that we will be using in the future," Taylor said.

Rowe places second in calf roping event

Gary Rowe of Colorado City, a member of the Western Texas College men's rodeo team, finished second in the average in calf roping at the Sul Ross State University NIRA rodeo held February 16-19 in Fort Stockton.

Rowe was first in the long-go with a time of 10.2 and came back to win fourth in the short go with 11.2 seconds, giving him a total of 21.4.

The WTC men's team could manage only fifth place overall, but several team members including Rowe did place.

The WTC women's team took the women's championship, led by Canita Cass of Clint, Kellie Kyle of Quanah and Judy Cox of Comanche, Okla.

Carpenter family to perform at Church

The Carpenter Family will present an enthusiastic and inspiring concert of favorite hymns and contemporary sacred music at

First Baptist Church in Colorado City on Sunday, February 26 at 7 p.m.

A talented young family of five, the Carpen-ter's combine traditional and contemporary music in a program which includes both family and individual vocal and instrumental music. The children, Barbara, 16, Scott, 14 and Judy 12, contribute to the concert both vocally and instrumentally by playing the violins, piano, organ, accordion and melodicas. They provide their own keyboard accompaniment as well as having taped orchestral background music.

The Carpenter's have traveled extensively during the last nine years, appearing in concert before thousands of people. They capture the hearts of everyone with their singing and instrumental music and have brought blessing and inspiration to young and old alike. It is a presentation of wide variety which continues to elicit enthusiastic response from people across the nation.

The Reverend Glenn Roenfeldt, pastor of the church, extends a cordial invitation to all members of the community, stressing that the Carpenter's concert will appeal to the entire family.

Cook's Corner

Rees starts dishes from scratch

Valiere Rees cooks everything from scratch.

She has cooked all of her life because she was raised on a farm and with seven brothers and sisters, well you learn to cook at an early age.

Her mother did teach her how to cook. She was always in the kitchen watching her mother and also preparing part of the meal.

When Mrs. Rees got married, she did know how to cook. After a month of marriage and knowing how to cook pretty well, you wouldn't think anything could go wrong. But when your father-in-law comes over for dinner, it can be one of life's most embarrassing moments.

"I was going to cook rolls for dinner. I made up the rolls and cut them out and put them in the pan to rise. Well, I waited and waited, but they didn't rise. I thought I would go ahead and bake them, then they would rise as they bake. Well, they didn't rise, so when I took them out of the oven, they were flatter than a flitter.

"When my father-in-law walked in the door, he could smell that rolls had been cooking. When he sat down to eat, he asked where the bread was. I had to tell him they didn't rise and the dog was getting to eat the rolls for dinner instead of him."

Also, when Mrs. Rees got married, she didn't just have her husband to cook for, but she also had to cook for the cowhands.

"I never really knew how many to expect. Sometimes there would be more than I thought or less. If there were more, then I would just add a little bit of this and that to make it go further. I did try to have a lot of food, because that way, I always knew they had enough to eat."

Mrs. Rees is married to Choppo. They live in Westbrook where Mr. Rees farms and ranches. They have two sons and a daughter, Dink Jug and Glenda Jo.

Mrs. Rees' favorite thing to cook are desserts and pies.

"When the kids were home, we always had a dessert and now I always have a dessert or something sweet for Ch-ppy and me."

Mrs. Rees likes to cook and she enjoys having people over to eat.

She concludes with, "food just tastes better when there are people over to eat and enjoy the meal."

Today, Mrs. Rees is sharing four of her recipes with RECORD readers.

CHS lifters compete in tourney

By TONY FRANCO
At the second annual Mustang Power Lifting Championships held Saturday, February 18, six Colorado High School athletes competed through all rounds in their first taste of weight lifting competition.

Stu Howell, Steve Rosas, Sam Rivera, Bobby Patterson, Kevin Norman and David Britton competed in three events—squats, bench press and dead lift.

Teams at the Mustang championships, held at Sweetwater High School's field house included Abernathy, Abilene, Wylie, Ballinger, Big Spring, Cisco, Clyde, Comanche, Forby, Ralls, Lubbock Roosevelt and host Sweetwater.

Track coach Rick Robinson said "all the kids competed well. As far as technique, the team learned a lot about it."

"You could tell the kids that had been to one before because they did better," said Robinson.

Other Wolves competing in Sweetwater were Ralph Gonzales, Junior Loranado, Jay Piland, Gary Marsh, Lupe Lopez, Joey Ritchey, Johnny Rivera, Wylie Stice and Freddie Pineda.

"This was our first and probably our last meet because they (weightlifting meets) are held at the same time tracks are," said Robinson.

Weight lifters, who compete in one of 10 weight divisions must have one successful lift in three attempts to move on to the next event.

Three judges score each lift by indicating with either a white or red light. A lift can receive no more than one red light to be considered good.

Weight lifters compete through district qualifying, district, regional and state lifting competitions.

Lifters also pick their own starting weight.

Results of the CHS athletes that placed were as follows with pounds lifted in squats, bench press and dead lift in parenthesis.

Howell (230, 150, 270), Rosas (215, 160, 270), S. Rivera (280, 190, 310), Patterson (180, 140, 310), Norman (350, 240, 380) and Britton (300, 200, 310).

Strawcutter takes another first in Plainview tourney

By TONY FRANCO
Jeremy Strawcutter, who earlier this month took champion honors at Odessa's Regional Golden Gloves boxing tournament, defeated two opponents to take another first place finish at a tournament held in Plainview, last Friday and Saturday.

Strawcutter, fighting in the 65 pound division, defeated an opponent Friday night then returned Saturday to claim a unanimous decision over another fighter to take the first place medal.

Also competing at Plainview for the Mitchell County Boxing Team was Leonardo Rico.

Rico, a 16 year old, won Friday night by a technical knock-out over his 22 year old opponent. The fight was stopped at 1:35 in the first round.

Saturday night, Rico lost by a split decision to earn the runner-up position.

"The team's coming on stronger everyday," said coach Vince Gaona. "If any one is interested in boxing, just come by the Boys Club, it won't cost a thing."

Other teams at Plainview included squads from Amarillo, Tulia, Plainview, Olton and Lubbock.

Wolves lose momentum; Kermit wins bi-district tilt

By TONY FRANCO

The Kermit Yellow Jackets, behind some deft shooting and disciplined ball control, ended the Colorado City Wolves' season with a 53-37 victory at Midland's Chaparral Center last Thursday night.

Colorado City, which closed the season with a 20-7 record and a District 6-3A championship, was never in the game.

The Wolves began the bi-district tilt cold and somewhat pacific.

Kermit used screens to open the Wolves defense and take a quick 10-2 lead. Colorado City called a time out to adjust to that and then responded with five unanswered points to cut the margin to 10-7.

Colorado City, which shot a cold 41 percent from the free throw line and an even colder 31 percent from the field, missed a couple of sure scoring opportunities in the first quarter and found itself trailing 12-7 at the end of the period.

The Wolves had a total of 24 turnovers.

Kermit, a hustling, opportunistic team, used the Wolf handouts to pull away 18-7 early in the second period.

Colorado City settled down midway through the quarter but still couldn't get the ball into the hoop.

The Yellow Jackets, with some sure handed ball control, did everything to protect their lead and took a 22-12 halftime lead.

That's right, Colorado City scored only 12 first half points.

Though Colorado City warmed up to 11 points in the third period, the Yellow Jackets stretched their lead to 34-23 at the end of the third quarter.

Kermit did so because of Wolf turnovers and Chuck Moore and Lynn Fisher. Moore, the Yellow Jackets main ball handler and shooter, and Fisher, Kermit's big man under the goal, combined for 20 and 16 points respectively.

Colorado City mounted its biggest defensive and offensive charge in the fourth quarter.

Kermit, though, capped off a mistake free game by keeping the Wolves at bay with accurate free throw shooting.

The game was more of a Colorado City loss than a Kermit victory.

Colorado City closes the season as the district's leading defensive team and had two players on the district's top ten scoring list.

Congratulations to coach Mike Hart and the 1983-84 district champs on a successful year.

JUNIOR WOLF ARMANDO RIVERA cuts down the net after Colorado City's district championship win over Ballinger. Last Thursday the Wolves dropped a 53-37 decision in their bi-district game against Kermit to end the season with a 20-7 record.

Look for Bulldogs story Thursday

The Loraine Bulldogs lost 66-47 in their Class A bi-district basketball game against Midland Greenwood last Thursday night.

A complete report on the game played at Big Spring's Dorothy Garrett Coliseum was not published in this edition of the RECORD because the information regarding the game was not available to me at press time.

Any inconvenience caused is regretted by myself and the RECORD.
