Highlights Of Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. E.R. Spain, area residents since 1936, were honored Sunday, July 3, with a reception in their home in celebration of their sixtieth wedding anniversary. Hosting the noteworthy event were their children and grandchildren.

The party table, laid with a lace trimmed gold cloth sentimentally important as a gift at their fiftieth wedding anniversary, was centered with day lilies and gypsophila arranged in an antique crystal compote having belonged to Spain's mother.

The traditional wedding cake and reception punch were served by Mrs. Kenny Spain, Jan and Janet Spain, granddaughters Mmes. A.J. Spain, Don Spain and Jim Spain were members of the houseparty.

Guests were greeted by sons, Don and Alva J. Spain. Presiding at the guest book, also used at the golden wedding anniversary, was Miss Alanna Spain, granddaughter, who registerd some 65 guests during the afternoon.

Out of town guests included Mrs. R.H. Campbell, Amherst; Mr. and Mrs. Delwin Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Womack, Mrs. Berta Ensey, sister of E.R. Spain, and Mrs. Bill Gallion and children, all of Lubbock; Mrs. David Wiggains of Hereford; Mrs. Richard Perry, Murray Hill, N.J.; and Chris Spain of Fort Collins.

Mr. and Mrs. Spain were invited by an Enterprise reporter to look retrospectively at their threescore years together and share their life story with well-wishing friends.

Mrs. Spain began by saying "There are so many, many things we should be thankful for family, memories, togetherness, laughter, love and tears; family ties through the years, our parents love and care for us, and, oh so many things that we sometimes forget to be thankful for. But today we are so very thankful for all of God's wonderful blessings for these sixty short years together."

Mr. Spain joined his wife in agreeing to share some of the highlights of this span of years, which they said would be a journey back into wagon-and-buggy-days, and later to the Model T Ford; to "side-saddle" days and silent movies; to the rub board; to wood or kerosene cookstoves; and even to Saturday night baths in No. 3 washtubs, and out-back restrooms.

Around the turn of the century twin babies were born in Missouri to Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Spain, they were named Ernest and Erna. Sometime later, at McKinney, little curly-haired Mamie was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Wester. Mamie was taken to Oklahoma at age six weeks. Ernest moved to Oklahoma in 1908.

In 1913 Ernest and his older brother came from Sentinel, Okla., to Erick and bought the Ellison Carral Ranch, three miles from the Wester home. The families met drawn together by Mr. Wester's and Ernest's interest in cattle. Years later the ties became much stronger when the Spains were married July 3, 1917, before a justice of the peace in Sayre, Okla.

A honeymoon was planned to Oklahoma City, but fate - and Mamie's brother - intervened and the time was spent with a group of young friends in Oklahoma's Granite Mountains. Of this they said, "It didn't take much to entertain young people in those days and our outing in the mountains seemed like heaven on earth, and even though we had car trouble the trip resulted in a happy ending."

When World War I ripped into the American way of life in 1917 Earnest was placed in Class II, since he was a farmer and rancher. The couple's first of five sons was born Oct. 6, 1918. Sometime thereafter the national plight worsened and more soldiers were needed - Ernest was moved to Class I and their anxiety grew. Little Paul, at six weeks, was stricken with influenza that swept the nation, but he managed to survive. When the armistice was finally signed Nov. 11, 1918, church bells rang, fire whistles blew and all hearers of the good news went wild with joy. Mamie fairly ran across a pasture to the field where Ernest was shocking feed to tell him the wonderful news. This, they admit, was a highlight in their lives . . . their baby boy had gotten well and the father would not have to go to war.

For 19 years the Spains lived on the Oklahoma ranch that Spain's father had purchased in 1913. It was home and they loved it. four more sons were born during this time. But in 1936 the couple realized they were going to have to make a change because of the school situation. Nine miles of dirt road separated them from the existing school, and too a high school was now needed for their family. A bad crop year produced only one bale of cotton on 49 acres, and the Spains looked westward. Seeking land, they looked first near Summerfield and Roswell, N.M.

Spain and his elder sons, Paul Ray and Alva J. came to Cotton Center, where the boys pulled cotton for a Mr. Bogart. While there they heard of a place two miles west of Olton that had two of the most beautiful black walnut trees in this part of the country. The prospecting Spains went over to see the place - and they liked what they saw. He returned to Erick, leaving the two sons working at Cotton Center.

Spain took over the task he had left with his wife of caring for 1200 turkeys, milking cows and doing other chores and sent her to the panhandle of Texas to choose between the Olton place and another farm at Muleshoe. Twelve-year-old Don accompanied her, as she drove the Model T Ford.

The two liked the "Cowart place" as it was known but they started on to Muleshoe to see the other possibility. A sand storm was raging, and Mrs. Spain was discouraged. Turning in to a farm house near Earth she asked a farm woman who answered the door about the soils, the wind, and other pertinent questions of a prospecting farmer. Of this incident she says "As we talked, she looked down and saw my Oklahoma license plate and she said 'You know, it looks like the goatheads and the Oklahomans are going to take this country'. I simply said thank you and walked away. I hope that woman is happy today, but I have never forgotten the rebuke of that statement.

"I turned around and started back toward Olton and little Don said 'Good, I like the Olton place.' I promised him that if Roosevelt were elected that day (election day 1936) . . . we'd buy the Olton farm. He was elected, and we did buy the place that has been home ever since. We have never regretted it, although it was a big decision to leave all of our friends and relatives and the land of our youth, for a strange new location where we knew no one."

"After moving here the first day of December, we found the most wonderful people - so friendly. This is still true of our local people. I have traveled quite a bit in the past 41 years and have never met nicer people than we have here." The move west became a highlight in the lives of the pioneering couple, even though the house they purchased with the land required a great deal of renovating. They had brought their butane stove and refrigerator along with them - only to find butane unavailable in this area. It became necessary for them to regularly ship empty butane bottles to Sayre, Okla., for re-filling.

World War II erupted and became a hard and forbidding time for all, especially was it difficult for the Spains since they had five sons in service of their country.

Paul, the eldest, languished 42 months in a Japanese prison camp. For eighteen months the parents had only the caption "missing" to identify their son, then finally the first of only five little notes they

In 70 Foot Plunge

Construction Worker Dies

Tragedy struck brutally Tuesday when a young construction worker fell to his death at a building site in the northern fringe of the city.

Joe Luis Pedroza, 21, plunged from a scafford 69 feet above ground at 8:20 a.m. July 12, shortly after beginning his day on the job at 7:30.

"No one knew what happened" Bill Conklin, project manager on the site stated. "There were four people in the immediate vicinity and the first thing they knew he was falling, head first. He hit on a concrete roof slab 24 feet above ground.

"Pedroza had worked on this job from its beginning in late December. He had started on the ground and had worked all the way up, stacking this thing, up to levels of 170 feet."

Representing Brown Mc Kee Construction Company, Conklin is in charge of the construction of a corn handling and storage facility for Olton Co-op Grain Inc., which he estimates to be 90 percent completed.

Justice of the Peace W.G. Finney, called to the scene of the tragedy, talked with witnesses from the 70 foot level and one eye witness from below, before ruling cause of death "fall from a scaffold on a construction job."

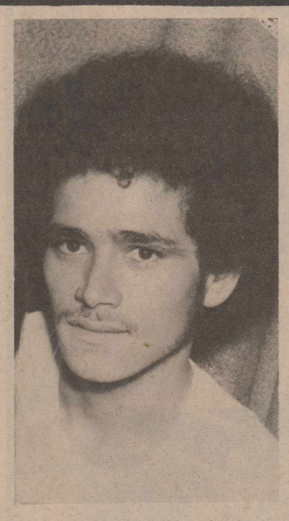

Services were held at 10:30 a.m. Thursday in Main Street Church of Christ for the lifetime resident of Olton.

Don Jones, minister, officiated. Interment was in Olton Cemetery under the direction of Parsons Funeral Home.

He was born March 1, 1956 in Olton. A member of the Church of Christ, he was married to Teresa Chavez Sept. 11, 1976 in Plainview.

SBA Representative Speaks To Lions Club

Olton Lions, in their luncheon meeting Tuesday, briefly discussed plans for their annual carnival booths.

Josh Silva, representative of Small Business Association, spoke to the club concerning the services of SBA which have been expanded to include agriculture.

Serving 81 counties, the SBA has served the small business community in every area except food and fiber, Silva said.

"In June 1976," he stated, "Congress passed a low dealing with agriculture and ranching -- expanding our program not beginning a new one. They told us they'd set up the guidelines for this additional service."

The guidelines, he said, had not been established when the time came for farmers and ranhers to set up budget needs "so we sorta felt our way along."

Silva said he was personally surprised at the number of farmers who could not project their need and cited the importance of better record keeping.

"Records are only a tool," he explained," "but a very useful and necessary tool."

Silva said the SBA seeks to serve more persons through the expanded program, to offer aid for farmers and ranchers in the purchase of land and equipment.

He also pointed out that SBA is in the forefront offering aid to small businesses threatened with ruin as the result of natural disasters such as the Lubbock and Plainview tornadoes of recent years.

Golfers Asked To Aid Hunt

Golfers are requested to keep eyes on more than the ball in an effort to aid a local woman in finding a sentimentally treasured ruby and diamond pendant.

Mrs. Bill Weaver believes the teardrop pendant was lost in the area about the number five green at ORC. She and a friend were golfing when she had to take time off to change a tire on her golf cart. Wearing the white gold set pendant on a chain, she remembers catching it on a tire during the process but did not notice that the fastening was damaged.

Completing her tire repair and driving to tee off, she discovered then that the pendant was missing from the chain about her neck. To have been handed down to a young granddaughter, the pendant is of special value to Mrs. Weaver. Its find and return would merit a reward.

Everything But The Kitchen Sink

By Mozelle Trotter

It was strange Wednesday night! Sitting comfortably in our air conditioned, well-lighted den watching television (and shelling black-eyed peas!) we were a mite annoyed that the picture suddenly began "shivering."

Provoked at our set, we switched to another station and discovered it too was having problems. A third switch of the dial showed the odd circumstances of all three available channels were having "network problems."

Soon a news bulletin informed us that a major power failure had struck New York. No surprise we should have had network problems! Small wonder we were still able to get those problems!

Minor little annoyances, those dancing images on the TV screen! In that giant city there were unbelievable events happening. Can you imagine the helpless feelings of those millions of people?

Oh, the marvelous wonder of belonging to an area such as ours! Should our "power" fail we can still walk outside our doors and be able to move about freely. No being trapped many floors above a concreted level of the ground where suddenly people were turning into unruly, destructive creatures not unlike wild foraging animals.

We have our share of unloveliness, our deeds of wrong-doing and our petty meanness. Gone, here too, is the time when everyone respected his fellowman to such extent that doors needed no locks and persons had no fears of the darkness (nor the daylight!)

Yet we can feel assurance in the knowledge that should our little corner of the world have a massive power failure, we can step outside our doors and look up and see millions of little lights shining on our world.

Yes, we have a taken-for-granted blessing. We can look up and see God's lights. They cannot power our television sets, the household appliances that make our lives easy nor provide the brightness of the lamps we switch on. But they remind us again that the only Power that counts is the One who's provided the Light of the world.

Card Of Thanks

With deep appreciation for every gesture of love and concern shown to our loved one during her lingering illness, we want to say a sincere thank you.

Also with grateful hearts we want to acknowledge every word of comfort, written or spoken, extended to us in our hours of sorrow. The beautiful flowers, the thoughtful memorials, nourishing foods, expressive cards and letters have done much to ease the pain of our sorrow.

May God shower each of you with His choice blessings.

New Golf Enthusiast

So many hobbies and not enough time to enjoy them! Mrs. Bill Yoakum shares that complaint with most working wives and mothers as well as a few who are not "gainfully employed."

Ellon began working at Olton State Bank in January, just three months after moving here. The Yoakums came to Olton from Silverton when Bill was named local office manager of Plainview Production Credit Association. He joined PCA in 1973, serving first at Tulia before moving to Silverton.

The Yoakums are parents of a daughter, Terry, who will celebrate her sixth birthday in August, just in time to start to school this fall.

Golfing is a relatively new hobby for Ellon but one she has found very enjoyable. She likes to read and loves to paint although that pastime is hindered by a lack of room as well as time. Getting the supplies out and set up is something that doesn't work well at the kitchen table Ellon has discovered.

Sewing is a hobby that she has just about given up but one that used to claim a lot of her time.

Growing up at Killeen, Ellon met Bill when he was stationed with the U.S. Army at Fort Hood. He spent his boyhood at Spur, moving to Lockney about the time he entered high school.

Ellon and Bill were married while he was in the service and, for five years, were a military couple. They spent quite a bit of that time in Texas with two stints in Mineral Wells. They had short assignments in Alabama and California. While they were in California, Bill attended aviation safety classes at USC.

During Bill's tour of duty in Vietnam, Ellon came home to Killeen and worked for a few months in a beauty shop and then began working in a Killeen bank.

Ellon says her dad likes to cook and lends her mother help in the kitchen. He is the master of barbecue sauces and such. When Ellon could not find her recipe for Jalapeno Jelly, which she shares with Enterprise cooks, she phoned home for help. Calling when her mother happened to be out, her father gave her the recipe from memory but a follow up call was made a short time later when they discovered his memory erred.

The Jalapeno Jelly is not hot, Ellon says. Removing the seeds takes away the hot taste but leaves the jalapeno flavor. It is not a jelly one would select for breakfast toast but is a treat served with red beans and cornbread, Ellon says.

Dip for raw vegetables is a taste treat recipe which Ellon got from a friend. It is good with carrots, celery, raw cauliflower, cucumbers, lettuce, tomatoes, radishes and green onions.

The Bar-B-Q Brisket is good but takes a long time. The slow cooking makes for a tender main dish. Ellon says it can be hurried, however, by cooking in a pressure saucepan.

JALAPENO JELLY
Yield - 4-5 12 oz jars
⅓ c seeded and ground fresh jalapeno
⅔ c seeded and ground bell peppers (at least 1 red pepper for color)
6½ c sugar
1½ c vinegar
1 bottle Certo

Cook all ingredients, except Certo, bringing to a boil. Let boil one minute. Cool for five minutes and skim foam and bits of peppers while cooking. Pour in Certo, stir; and pour into hot sterile jars. Seal immediately.

DIP (for raw vegetables)
1 - 8 oz carton sour cream
1 c mayonnaise
1½ t grated onion
½ t Worcestershire sauce
1 t dry mustard
chopped chives, to taste
1 t horseradish
garlic salt to taste
¼ to ½ t lemon-pepper seasoning

Chill and serve with your choice of chilled raw vegetables. Will keep in refrigerator for at least two weeks.

BAR-B-Q BEEF BRISKET

Sprinkle meat with celery salt, garlic salt and 3 oz liquid smoke.

Marinate overnight. Before cooking, sprinkle with salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce. Cover and bake 4 hours at 250°. Uncover, pour on barbecue sauce and bake one more hour. If time will not permit marinating or lengthy baking time - place all ingredients and ½ cup water in pressure cooker and pressure according to your pressure cooker instructions.

Mr. Bass - Miss Hinton Recite Vows In Mansfield

First United Methodist Church of Mansfield was the setting Saturday evening for a double ring ceremony uniting Miss Mary Elizabeth Hinton and James Oscar Bass III.

The Rev. Ed Sluder officiated.

Parents of the bride are Mr and Mrs. Rufus F. Hinton of Route 2, Venus. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. George Redinger and J.O. Bass Jr. of Plainview.

Vows were solemnized before an altar graced with a greenery covered fan flanked by spiral candelabras holding blue, yellow and green tapers. Miniature palms were placed on the floor.

Organist Jan Wiseman of Fort Worth presented nuptial selections and accompanied soloist, Pam Prather of Nocona, as she sang "More" and "I Love How You Love Me."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown which she designed and made. Fashioned of white bridal satin and flocked sheer polyester overlay, the high fitted bodice featured a side scooped neckline with cape-type sheer collar. A deep flounce encircled the hemline of her A-line skirt which swept to a chapel train. She carried a bouquet of roses, carnations, daisies and mums in rainbow hues.

Miss Kristen Gray of Fort Worth was maid of honor. Other attendants were Macky McClung of Irving and Mrs. John R. Edwards of Joshua. LeeAnn VanBurkleo of Mansfield, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

Attendants wore formal gowns of polyester styled with high fitted bodices, butterfly sleeves and A-line skirts. Miss Gray wore lime green, Miss McClung, yellow, and Mrs. Edwards, blue. They carried bouquets of assorted spring flowers tied with ribbons matching their dresses.

Little Miss VanBurkleo wore a formal length blue dress with white pinafore and carried a decorated basket of assorted flowers and petals.

Jerry Lynn Adams of Buena Vista, Colo. was best man. Groomsmen were Jim Hatchett Jr. of Baird and Robert H. Carey of Silver Spring, Md., brother-in-law of the groom. Robert Hinton of Venus, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer. Guests were seated by Frank Hinton of Venus, brother of the bride, and Robert Cooper of Amarillo.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hinton chose a sleeveless evening length dress of aqua with handkerchief shaped chiffon cape. Mother of the groom wore a formal length ulta-suede dress of wedgewood blue fashioned with round neckline, elbow length sleeves with turnback cuffs and obi sash.

A reception was held in fellowship hall. Laid with white linen, the bride's table was adorned with a candled arrangement of assorted flowers. Presiding at the table were Mrs. Frank Hinton of Venus, sister-in-law of the bride, Nancy Neal of Midlothian, Mrs. James Daniel of Cedar Hill and Mrs. Randy Hogue of Arlington.

A white linen cloth and silver service decorated the groom's table, where chocolate cake and coffee were served. Presiding were the groom's sisters, Miss Betty Ann Bass of Denver, Colo. and Mrs. Robert Carey of Silver Spring, Md., and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Nick Redinger of Carrollton.

Guests were registered by Miss Georgeanne Redinger of Atlanta, Ga., sister of the groom.

For a wedding trip to Arkansas, the bride wore a two-piece belted dress of polyester knit in stripes of white, red, green, blue and yellow. Street length, it was fashioned with chevron design, cowl neckline and shoulder cuffs. She added white accessories.

A graduate of Mansfield High School and Tarleton State University, the bride was the 1974 TSU Homecoming Queen and a member of Gamma Sigma Sigma Service Sorority. She is employed by Texas Agricultural Extension Service as Expanded Nutrition Agent in Hale and Lamb Counties.

The groom graduated from Plainview High School and attended the University of Texas. He graduated from Tarleton State University where he was a member of Alpha Phi Omega National Service Fraternity. He is self-employed in farming, a member of Lions International and Olton Chamber of Commerce.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Barnes, Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Daniel and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Daniel, Duncanville; Mr. and Mrs. Neil Tibbets, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Weise, Mrs. Evelyn Yeatts and Mrs. Ruth Pruett, all of Gainesville; Mrs. Hazel Anderson and Mrs. Donna Faver of Houston; Mrs. Charlotte Wilmeth, Plainview; Mrs. Sue Cannon, Olton and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cook and Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Wilmeth of Lubbock.

The prospective bride and groom were honored June 29 with a dinner party in the Lubbock Club. Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. A.J. Givens.

A rehearsal dinner was held Friday evening, July 8 in Flying L Airpark and Barbecue, south of Mansfield, south of Mansfield. Hosting the affair for approximately 40 guests were the groom's parents.

were allowed to receive from him as he was held in Osaka Japan prison camp.

Mrs. Spain relates "The ~~Lord~~ must have known that we must have some assurance to go on. One night I had a most pleasant vision. It was not a dream, it was a beautiful vision.

"A.J. was a pilot in Africa at that time. Don was on the high seas, radar man on an aircraft carrier. Jim was in training and Gene had not yet entered the service. In my vision both Paul and A.J. came into my bedroom. They were just physically there. A.J. spoke, "Mother, we have only a moment to stay, but we did want you to know that we are all right.'

"I instantly woke Ernest to tell him about it. He suggested it was only a dream, but I assured him it was not a dream . . . it had been a vision. They had been here in my room.

"Thanks be to God, they did all come back. Not in perfect health, Paul suffered malnutrition and related difficulties, and A.J. had many narrow escapes as a pilot.

"We prayed, those war years, not only for our boys but for all boys engaged in the conflict. We were blessed above some parents in that ours did return" . . . one of the greatest highlights of our lives."

Mrs. L.W. Howard of this city is sister of Mrs. Spain and was, as a child, 'my little girl because of the illness of our mother'. They share fond memories of that time together and a very special closeness, even though they both have families of their own today.

Mr. Spain lost his twin sister in 1928, but he does have a sister, Mrs. Berta Ensey, living in Lubbock.

"Many things have changed drastically in the time we have lived in this area," they say. "Methods of farming have changed, many paved roads have been added, irrigation wells have gone down. We put our well down in 1945, when the boys came home. This is and always has been a beautiful country.

"Our son, Jim, lives in Cali, Columbia, and we have visited him there. It is beautiful . . . it is another world, and there are lovely people.

"Another son, Gene, lives in Puerto Rico, and we have visited him there. That is just the top of a mountain sticking up out of the ocean. It is a beautiful place.

"But no where we have ever been we think as pretty as the little town and surrounding countryside of Olton. And we know that we have never met people who are as lovely as the people of our home town.

"Through the years we have had problems, sickness and things have happened, but we have been able to endure. We wont say we have never had a cross word - no couple could live together that long and not have a little misunderstandings at times. This has happened and may happen again. But we are very much in love yet, and we thank God that He has spared us, that we are able to enjoy our children and grandchildren and our home. We do give credit to God for it all.

Mr. and Mrs. Spain attend First United Methodist Church where she has taught in the Sunday School from the early 40s to late 60s, in classes ranging from pre-school to adults.

"May God bless all of you who have added to the joys of our lives, and we do thank you for coming to our anniversary parties, both this and our Golden anniversary ten years ago at the Methodist Church. It has been a privilege to live among you throughout the years."

Living in the community, near enough for the parents to enjoy them and their children are Mr. and Mrs. A.J. Spain, two sons and two daughters; and Mr. and Mrs. Don Spain, two sons and two daughters. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ray Spain make their home in Austin. They have one son.

Visiting home folks as often as possible are the son, Dr. Gene Spain of LaJas, Puerto Rico, his one son and one daughter; also Dr. and Mrs. Jim Spain, Cali, Columbia, South America, their one son and one daughter.

The Spains always welcome guests at their home two miles west of the city. During their 41 years of life there, they have made it a show place of things green and growing. They can possibly point to as many varieties of trees as may be found in the area. The house has undergone much remodeling and updating, while preserving the original. They continue to maintain its beauty and livability. Spain credits his wife with being "a real architect" in planning the changes.

In the estimation of this reporter, the greatest highlight of this story may be seen in the eyes of the honored couple. There one may catch a glimpse of acceptance of things difficult, but overpowering this is an humble gratitude, a sweet spirit and a love of life.

RECENT VISITORS

Recent visitors of Mrs. Juanita Follis were her daughter, Mrs. Jimmie Williams of Lubbock and a daughter and family, Mrs. Ray Cox and Christy of Ralls and another daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Upchurch, John David, Tom Paul and Doniece of Victoria.

GRANDCHILD VISITS

Ronny Howard of Plainview spent last week with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester F. Howard.

FROM HEREFORD

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Trotter and Courtney visited Sunday in the homes of his parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Trotter and Mr. and Mrs. K. Trotter.

Little Known Facts About Our Health

ANTIBIOTICS: INFECTION FIGHTERS WITH EARTHY ORIGINS

Among the many things harvested from soil are vegetables, fruits, grains—and antibiotics! But unlike strawberries or peas, these life-saving drugs can't be plucked from the earth ready for consumption. They must be carefully extracted and purified before they're ready for people to take when they're sick.

Some of the terms used to describe the equipment and processes for manufacturing antibiotics sound more like words bandied about in a college dormitory than in a sophisticated pharmaceutical company. However, "flask," "beer" and "fermentation" really are key phrases at The Upjohn Company's fine chemicals division where antibiotics such as Neomycin, Trobicin and Cleocin are made.

Before the advent of antibiotics, children with "strep" throat often developed rheumatic heart disease, just as they can today when the illness goes unchecked and untreated. And, 40 years ago, illnesses such as pneumonia or post-operative infections could spell death even for strong young people. Scientists are constantly searching for new antibiotics and learning more about potential uses of familiar ones. They are arming physicians for the fight against new strains of bacteria that appear in the human system.

To produce antibiotics, microbes are frequently isolated from the soil, and then transferred from small vials to plates made of a jelly-like seaweed product called agar. They begin to grow, nourished by the sugar on these agar plates, are moved to test tubes containing more agar and eventually to flasks where they multiply and continue growing.

"The flask contains nutrients such as molasses or soybean meal flour, because microbes need carbohydrates, starches, vitamins and even trace elements and minerals to grow, just as humans do," says Donald R. Colingsworth, Ph.D., group manager of fermentation production at Upjohn. "Once the microbial population within the flask has grown as much as possible, the flask is attached to a 2,700-gallon tank called a seed tank, where the microbes feast for two to three days on additional nutrients."

The microbes complete their growth in a 40,000-gallon tank, where the fermentation process is terminated. "The concoction in the tank is called 'antibiotic beer' simply because the material in the tank is fermented as beer is," comments Dr. Colingsworth. "But it definitely doesn't taste or smell like any beer you'd care to drink."

The antibiotics produced by microbes must next be separated from the other contents of the tank. Of the three methods Upjohn uses to accomplish this task, the one which employs an ion exchange resin column is the most modern. Only antibiotics with electrical charges, such as Neomycin, Trobicin or Albamycin, can be separated this way.

First the beer is filtered through coarse mesh screens to eliminate large particles. It is then forced up through 16-foot-high resin columns. The resin is composed of ions, molecules with an electric charge, which attract and hold antibiotic molecules. The rest of the beer is filtered through the columns and discarded.

The antibiotic is washed out of the columns by a solvent, decolorized and crystallized. Then it is put in a large screened centrifuge which separates the antibiotic crystals from the solvent. Technicians scrape off the crystals caked on the sides of the centrifuge. To increase purity, they dissolve them in more solvent and recrystallize the antibiotic, which is then sterilized and processed into the form in which we buy it at the drugstore.

From their humble beginnings in the soil, antibiotics have fought the most hard-nosed bacteria and today can overcome diseases such as syphilis and kidney infection that formerly maimed or killed millions of people.

A Nuclear Shield For Korea?

A recent article claimed that Carter said "Korea Under Atom Shield."

He said "I think the combination of our overwhelming strategic cover with atomic weapons, plus the conventional military alliance that I've described to you, is adequate" for the defense of South Korea.

An "overwhelming strategic cover with atomic weapons" plus the conventional military guarantees weren't adequate in Vietnam. Why would they be adequate in Korea?

The answer is simply that they are not adequate.

The nuclear shield is of no effect or consequence unless we are willing to use it.

We could have destroyed every industrial center of any importance in North Vietnam in one air raid. And, at the time, we were equal or superior to Russia in nuclear strength.

We didn't do it then. Would we destroy North Korea now if they invaded South Korea?

Since Russia is now superior to us in nuclear strength (or at least relatively stronger than she was in 1968) would we risk a nuclear confrontation?

If Russia needs any excuse to push the nuclear button we would give it to her by using nuclear weapons first in Korea.

So what will happen?

North Korea will invade South Korea after we withdraw our troops.

And we will do nothing to stop the aggression.

To engage in another land war in Asia is unthinkable.

To use our nuclear weapons would be suicide for South Korea and perhaps for us.

All Russia would have to say is "If you use nuclear weapons on North Korea we will use them on South Korea." She might even add "and on you, too."

I can think of only two reasons why North Korea would not invade South Korea.

One reason might be that Russia isn't ready yet to push the nuclear button. And we might force her hand a little early if she permitted North Korea to invade at this time.

The other reason might be that the loss of Korea would wake up America. And that we would realize the need to be at least equal to Russia.

History is repeating itself again.

Hitler had England on her knees after conquering Europe, but he didn't know it. He could have invaded and conquered. But he waited and gave England time, with our help, to rebuild her forces.

Now Russia has us on our knees. But she still fears us, just as Hitler feared England. She feels, as Hitler did, that time is on her side.

One difference is that England was awake to her danger. We are not.

So Russia is right. Time is on her side. We are getting relatively weaker while she gets stronger.

The other difference is that England had us to help her. We have no one.
