Rumors fly in HISD

Questions raised about $14.3 million TEA grant, candidate's eligibility, principal's petition

By Dianna F. Dandridge
Hereford Brand Staff Writer

The buildings are going up and the superintendent is leaving.

As if that were not enough, the Hereford Independent School District is confronting real problems and rumors.

The main rumor centers around the $14.5 million facilities grant, which is funding the variety of construction projects around the district.

Other rumors are growing out of a petition circulated among the campuses that call on the HISD trustees to promote Deputy Superintendent Nena Veazey to the district's top job, and questions about Deaf Smith County Juvenile Probation Officer Lou Serrano's candidacy for the school board.

When HISD officials learned the facilities funds were available through the Texas Education Agency, they worked diligently to obtain the grant, which was awarded in September 1997.

Part of the application included an 8.9-cent set-aside tax rate. The revenue from this tax is earmarked to cover the school district's match of the TEA grant.

According to district records, the 8.9 cents will generate approximately $400,500 -- more than $14,000 above what the district's qualifying amount.

"This grant has by no means put the district into debt," outgoing Superintendent Jack Patton said.

"Currently, we have $12 million in the bank dedicated to construction. Interest alone on this money has made the district close to $600,000."

TEA allotted the grants on a sliding scale with richer districts having to provide a higher percentage of funds.

The state is paying 74 percent of HISD's portion of the grant, leaving the district to pay $386,383. This is the amount covered by the 8.9-cent set-aside.

Although the set-aside had added to the tax rate, it did not cause an increase in school district taxes, which actually declined last year by 1 cent per $100 assessed valuation. This did not increase school district taxes.

"I think what has everyone confused is we did everything out front and above board," Patton said. "We started preparing for the grant as soon as we knew it would be available, so we wouldn't have to have a bond election."

"This grant has by no means put the district into debt ... we have $12 million in the bank dedicated to construction. Interest alone on this money has made the district close to $600,000."
Jack Patton

On Jan. 23, 1998, TEA officially notified Hereford school officials the district had qualified for the funds and met all the necessary guidelines.

The school board publicly announced the grant and its terms Feb. 3, 1998, during a special school board meeting.

Even after being awarded the grant, the school had to fulfill special obligations before the funds would be available.

Prior to receiving any portion of the funds, HISD had to contract with a construction firm that could draw up plans, to be approved by TEA.

San Antonio architect Joe Mills, who already had completed a long-term facility needs study and was well acquainted with the district, was retained by the board.

"The TEA and the school board have approved every step of this process," Patton said. "This is not gong to take care of all the facility needs, but it will certainly go a long way."

For whatever reason, Patton said, many of the campuses were in desperate need of repairs or renovations when he arrived and this grant was an excellent opportunity for the district to make those repairs and improvements.

"There are more needs than we could take care of in 10 years," he said. "This won't cure

Newspaper has new look

Readers of the Hereford Brand may notice something different in the appearance of Sunday's issue.

In a continuing effort to improve the publication's design and readability, the Brand implemented a change to the front page Hereford Brand banner.

"We have sought, and have made significant design changes in the paper which we feel are more contemporary, and which we also feel will allow us to package the local news better," Brand Publisher Mauri Montgomery said. "The new banner our staff chose hopefully demonstrates the concept that the Brand is permanently connected to Hereford while we further our commitment to covering news within the community and surrounding area."

HHS students advancing to UIL regional

Special to The Brand

Strong performances by Hereford High School speech and journalism students at the district University Interscholastic League (UIL) academic competition in Canyon recently propelled several to the regional UIL competition April 24 at San Angelo.

The top three finishers in UIL academic events advance to the next level..

HHS Lincoln-Douglas debaters swept that event with a one-two-three finish. Darren Sliney placed first; Josh Briones, second; and Ton Nguyen, third.

The current events team of Jay Crawford, Aaron Landers, Ammie Wharton and Seth Pietsik took first-place honors. Landers was second-place individual in the event, while Crawford was fourth and Wharton took fifth.

Kitt Jennings placed second in poetry and Lisa Coneway was third in prose.

Walker's there to lend helping hand

"We're here to supplement low-income residents. We don't just give out free groceries; we're not a free grocery store. What we do is just help stretch the home food budget so people can buy groceries later."
Sally Walker

By Dianna F. Dandridge
Hereford Brand Staff Writer

Amid a near-constant stream of needy clients, Sally Walker, the voluntary food coordinator for the Hereford County Food Pantry, gathers canned goods, bread, milk, and fresh vegetables, when available and distributes the groceries to those waiting.

For more than eight years, Walker has spend countless hours helping to feed hungry residents.

"I enjoy helping people and I enjoy visiting with them for a few minutes," she said in explaining why she volunteers at the food pantry.

Deaf Smith County Food Pantry provides food to low-income families, and occasionally to out-of-county residents. The pantry is able to help people once a month.

"We're here to supplement low-income residents," said Walker. "We don't just give out free groceries; we're not a free grocery store. What we do is just help stretch the home food budget so people can buy groceries later."

In a lot of ways, Walker knows what some of the clients are going through because she raised her three girls and two grandsons, mostly by herself.

"It used to bother me when people would come in and tell me why they needed groceries, but now I just figure I'm here to help."

NATO hits Yugoslav capital

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
News roundup

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia — Flames lit the dawn sky orange in Yugoslavia's capital today after the first NATO airstrike in downtown Belgrade destroyed the headquarters of security forces accused of waging a campaign against Kosovo Albanians.

Three explosions rocked a government quarter of Belgrade just before 1 a.m. today (6 p.m. EST Friday). Flames quickly engulfed the buildings of the Yugoslav and Serbian interior ministries.

Serbian Interior Minister Vlajko Stojiljkovic, whose police center was burned to the ground, said the attack was "an act of monsters and criminals."

The bombings, close to residential areas and the city's main medical complex, shook a nearby maternity hospital and a row of embassies — including that of the United States — but they were untouched by the fire. No one was reported wounded in the strikes.

Angry residents joined hands in a human chain, shouting "Serbia! Serbia!" Many pinned target symbols to their jackets, challenging NATO to hit them.

The bombings signaled a promised escalation of the NATO air campaign intended to force Yugoslav President Slobodan Milosevic to accept a peace plan on Kosovo, a province of Serbia, Yugoslavia's dominant republic.

Air raid sirens also blared in Nis and Novi Sad, the two other major cities in Yugoslavia.

President pondering Kosovo's human crisis

WASHINGTON — As NATO turns its missiles on downtown Belgrade targets linked to Serb repression in Kosovo, President Clinton is voicing heightened concern over the fate of hundreds of thousands of ethnic Albanians streaming from the province or at risk inside its borders.

Clinton said he is especmally worried "about the plight of displaced people who are actually trapped inside Kosovo," under attack or vulnerable to attack by Yugoslav President Slobodan Milosevic's Serb forces.

After sea-based cruise missiles set a complex of military offices in downtown Belgrade afire early today, Pentagon spokesman Kenneth Bacon declared they hit buildings Milosevic "uses to control the forces responsible for ethnic cleansing in Kosovo." The buildings house the Yugoslav Interior Ministry and headquarters for the Serb police, which U.S. officials say is leading the terror campaign in Kosovo.

Vice President Al Gore, interviewed by radio reporters just before the new missile strikes, said, "Milosevic has barely begun to incur the damage he will feel to his military and police and the security apparatus by which he keeps his dictatorship in power, if he continues this activity."

Refugee crisis worsens; more arrive in Macedonia

BLACE, Macedonia — As Serb police expelled more ethnic Albanians from Kosovo, neighboring countries have been increasingly unable to cope with the refugee crisis that threatens some of the Balkan's most fragile and unstable nations.

In Macedonia, trains Friday unloaded thousands more refugees in a small field straddling the border with Yugoslavia.

Freezing cold and rains that extinguished small camp fires added to the misery of the more than 30,000 refugees crowded into an area about the size of three football fields.

With little or no food and water and no sanitary facilities in the muddy field, two Red Cross tents were filling with the sick by early today.

all the problems, but it is a giant step in the right direction."

After Patton submitted his resignation, which will be effective June 30, an effort was launched in support of Veazey as the new superintendent.

One of the campus principals circulated a letter supporting Veazey, a long-time district employee. The principal s Patton plans on leaving the district the concern over who will be the new chief induced one of the school principals to issue a letter supporting Nena Veazey as a possible candidate for the position. Veazey is a long time employee of the district and is currently the deputy superintendent.

Lou Serrano

The principal also offered teachers an opportunity to sign the letter, which was sent to the HISD board and the Texas Board of Education, Patton said.

"There has been no coercion and no one has been forced to sign this letter or any other petition," he said. "If Mrs. Veazey chooses to apply for the position, it will be up to the board to consider her application."

Another question that has been bandied about the district had to do with the May 1 election, in which Serrano is challenging incumbent Tracy Straughan in District 5.

Serrano's eligibility to seek the position has been questioned. However, under state law, any individual who is 21 years old or older, who resides within the district and who has no criminal record is eligible.

Serrano meets all the requirements.

Serrano's eligibility was questioned because the school district contributes about $25,000 per year to help fund the juvenile probation office. However, Serrano said his salary is paid out of a different fund and does not create a conflict of interest.

Patton said the school district is not allowed to investigate past the eligibility requirements, but if a residents question a board member's eligibility on other grounds, they should petition the state Secretary of State's Office and the Attorney General's Office.

"This district has made great strides in the past two years," Patton said. "I just wish people with questions would contact the board or myself."

help the clients and understands their plight, she has to admit there are a few things that really get to her.

"When they come in and tell me they are spending $60 or more for cable, I get a little upset," Walker said. "I just don't think cable is a necessity."

Another touchy spot is the subject of car insurance.

"You would not believe how many people tell me they have these big car payments, but no insurance."

These are all part of the questions Walker and her helpers are required to ask to remain qualified for federal funds.

"Most people don't understand that every client is reported to the federal agency to limit the abuse in this and other social agencies," she said.

It hasn't always been able to help the clients who come through the doors, but in the last couple of years the food pantry has received federal dollars, which helps stretch out the donations and other funds.

"We're able purchase groceries for as little as 14 cents per pound from the High Plains Food Bank in Amarillo. Some meat and cheese we also get at really good prices," she said.

Until the local pantry qualified for the Federal Emergency Management Agency funds, it relied solely on the donations and contributions from the citizens.

"We have a lots of generous people in Deaf Smith County," she said. "They are always willing to contribute to fund raisers or food drives. Sometimes we couldn't make it without them."

In Hereford, the schools, Boy Scouts, businesses and post office all have regular drives to supplement the groceries purchased from the High Plains Food Bank and other sources.

Failing eyesight as well as her age induced Walker to retire from the bus station nearly 10 years ago.

As fate would have it, she made an emergency call one evening with some friends who were involved with the American Red Cross and since then has found herself volunteering in one capacity or another. The food pantry is an offshoot of the Red Cross, for which Walker serves as interim chapter manager.

"I help out where I can," Walker said. "The activity keeps me going."

The Hereford Food Pantry is open 1-5 p.m. Monday and Friday. It may be open this summer from 2-5 p.m. on Wednesdays, depending on the need. Appointments are not necessary, but are greatly appreciated.

"If people call and make an appointment, I can have the supplies already bagged and waiting. Otherwise, it slows things down some," she said.

For appointments, call 364-3761.

Callers will reach the Red Cross office, but Walker says she really doesn't want a phone at the food pantry.

"I think the money would be better spent on buying groceries to stock the shelves," Walker said. "If anyone needs me, they can page me and I'll get back to them."

As in the food pantry service, Walker has her favorite tasks and ones she doesn't care for. In her capacity with the American Red Cross both happen to fall in the same category – service in the military, armed force emergency services.

"The news I give to servicemen is either really good news or really bad news," Walker said. "I've told servicemen they have a new baby and I've told them their father has died. Sometimes I've helped a worried mama locate a military son who hasn't stayed in contact. It's always best when there is a happy ending, but I also like knowing I helped if the news is bad."

Walker doesn't confine her work to just American Red Cross projects. She is also the cub master for a local Cub Scout pack and den leader for the Webelos.

"Some of the boys get upset when they realize I'm not going to be part of the Boy Scouts, but I can't do the hiking and camping the scouts do," she says. "I help get them started and leave the older boys to younger very qualified leaders. I've finally got some of the best leaders we've had in years."

She cites her failing eyesight and increasing paperwork for reasons for her retirement, but even that hasn't stopped her from doing what she wants.

"For a long time I quit reading papers and books because my eyes were so bad," she said. "But then the Foundation for the Blind provided me with a special viewer and now I read Louis Lamour books or anything else I want."

She's not relying on anyone to help her stay active. Along with her scanner, Walker is Braille classes offered by the Red Cross.

She doesn't really see any permanent retirement anytime in the near future.

"If we get a new manager and they want me to train her I will. And if they don't need me here I guess I'll go full time at the food pantry.

Grant to be used to boost awareness of the Panhandle's heritage, history

Special to The Brand

CANYON – The Panhandle-Plains Historical Society has been awarded an $800 grant from the National Trust for Historic Preservation's Preservation Service Fund to improve public awareness about Texas Panhandle heritage and the importance of preserving significant archeological sites. The grant will be used to develop a training manual for use by archeological stewards and interpreters at Adobe Walls and the Museum, prepare a workbook and outreach slide program for use by students, and conduct training sessions for teachers throughout the upper twenty-six counties of the Texas Panhandle.

During the summer and fall of 1874, Native American groups and the United States military engaged in numerous skirmishes along the Red River drainages. One of the battle sites, the Second Battle of Adobe Walls, is owned by the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society, and is on the National Register of Historic Places and is a Texas State Archeological Landmark.

The summer of 1999 will mark the 125th anniversary of the Red River War and will be celebrated by numerous groups and individuals with visits to this site and the region. It is the focus of an on-going cooperative project with the National Park Service, the Texas Historical Commission, and the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum, to conduct field research at several of the battle sites. The Second Battle of Adobe Walls site is on the National Register of Historic Places and is a Texas State Archeological Landmark.

The Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum hopes that the increased interest in the Red River War and increased visitation to the region will promote preservation of archeological sites and the importance of archeological sites in providing information about significant people and events in the past.

"With these start-up dollars, the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society joins communities nationwide committed to preserving America's architectural and cultural heritage and, in so doing, creating more livable communities," said Richard Moe, president of the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

TDA cites local worker

Special to The Brand

AUSTIN – Mike Gonzales of Hereford, an inspector with the Texas Department of Agriculture, has been recognized with a Safe Driver Award of Achievement presented by the Texas Safety Association's Public Employee Section. Gonzales was honored for his more than 10 years of service to the people of Texas without a lost-time accident.

Gonzales has been with TDA for 14 years and is based at the agency's regional office in Lubbock.

"The Texas Department of Agriculture strives to promote safety in agriculture as well as in our work environment," said Agriculture Commissioner Susan Combs. "I am proud of Mike and all TDA employees who work hard each day to promote safety on the farm, ranch and in the office."

The Texas Department of Agriculture also received a Motor Fleet Safety Award of Merit for an agency-wide reduction in motor vehicle accidents in 1998. TDA reduced such accidents by 43 percent last year.

The Texas Safety Association's Public Employee Section presents annual awards to member agencies where on-the-job injury rates show significant improvements for the year. In addition, outstanding performance by individual employees is recognized through Awards of Honor, Merit and Achievement based on years of service without a lost-time accident.

Moonlight Reflections

Mary Jo Hamman

This was the same moon that rose in Bethlehem 2,000 years ago, and a small stable was illuminated by its rays.

The same moon that shone on the Sea of Galilee where Peter and the disciples cast their nets "on the other side," as the Master requested. The nets were filled to the breaking point.

The One who created it now knelt in its light in the Garden of Gethsemane sweating great drops of blood as He yielded to the Father's perfect will.

The same moon that shown down on an empty blood-stained cross.

The same moon that illuminated a garden where an empty tomb was viewed by doubting disciples.

But there is coming a time in God's great eternity where there will be no need of its light for the Lamb of God shall be the light. Its illuminating rays that shone down on majestic events in the life of Jesus Christ are no more needed for we shall behold Him in all of his glory!

WTAMU plans big things in 2000

CANYON – If a West Texas A&M University committee has its way, the 1999-2000 academic year will be unlike any other.

"A WT 2000 campaign has been in the planning stages since January," Dana Olmstead, committee chair and director of communication services, said.

The WTAMU 2000 committee has some high aspirations and has already created two spin-offs, a campus beautification committee chaired by Walt Davis, director of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum, and a University archives committee, chaired by Dr. Pete Petersen, history professor.

"We have a big but exciting job ahead," Davis said.

Chiropractic Q & A

Q: One of my legs is a half inch shorter than the other, can this be corrected by just one chiropractic treatment?

A: An initial chiropractic examination will include analysis of posture, spinal curvature and leg length. One leg appearing to be shorter than the other is fairly common. One possible cause for this can be spinal misalignment. In some cases, a single spinal adjustment can actually correct this condition. In most cases, treatment may require several visits and possibly the wearing of an orthotic device in one or both shoes to fully correct the problem.

FIRST AMENDMENT TO THE CONSITUTION

Gains on Medicare uncertain this year

By Alice Ann Love
The Associated Press

President Clinton and Republicans in Congress have pledged to forge ahead in their quest to overhaul Medicare this year. But they favor very different fixes.

And politics is threatening to widen the gap, raising the question of whether anything substantial will get done.

"This is a tough time for compromise," said Marilyn Moon, a health policy expert who also serves as one of Medicare's trustees.

Last week, the trustees reported that the strong economy has helped improve Medicare's finances, giving lawmakers an unanticipated seven years more breathing room before the health insurance program for the elderly and disabled runs short of cash.

Although Clinton and Republican leaders rushed to say that's no reason to be complacent, the pressure to resolve their differences this year has obviously eased.

One key disagreement: whether Medicare should be promised more money from the wave of expected coming budget surpluses.

Clinton wants to do that, in a roundabout way, by using $700 billion over the next 15 years to pay down the national debt. That would make it more likely the government can continue to run large surpluses — money Clinton would earmark for Medicare's use after baby boomers retire.

Republican leaders, however, have so far declined to endorse Clinton's idea. Many GOP lawmakers instead support substantial income tax cuts, which could make it difficult to find any extra money for Medicare.

And Republicans insist on cost-control changes before they'll even consider devoting more money to Medicare.

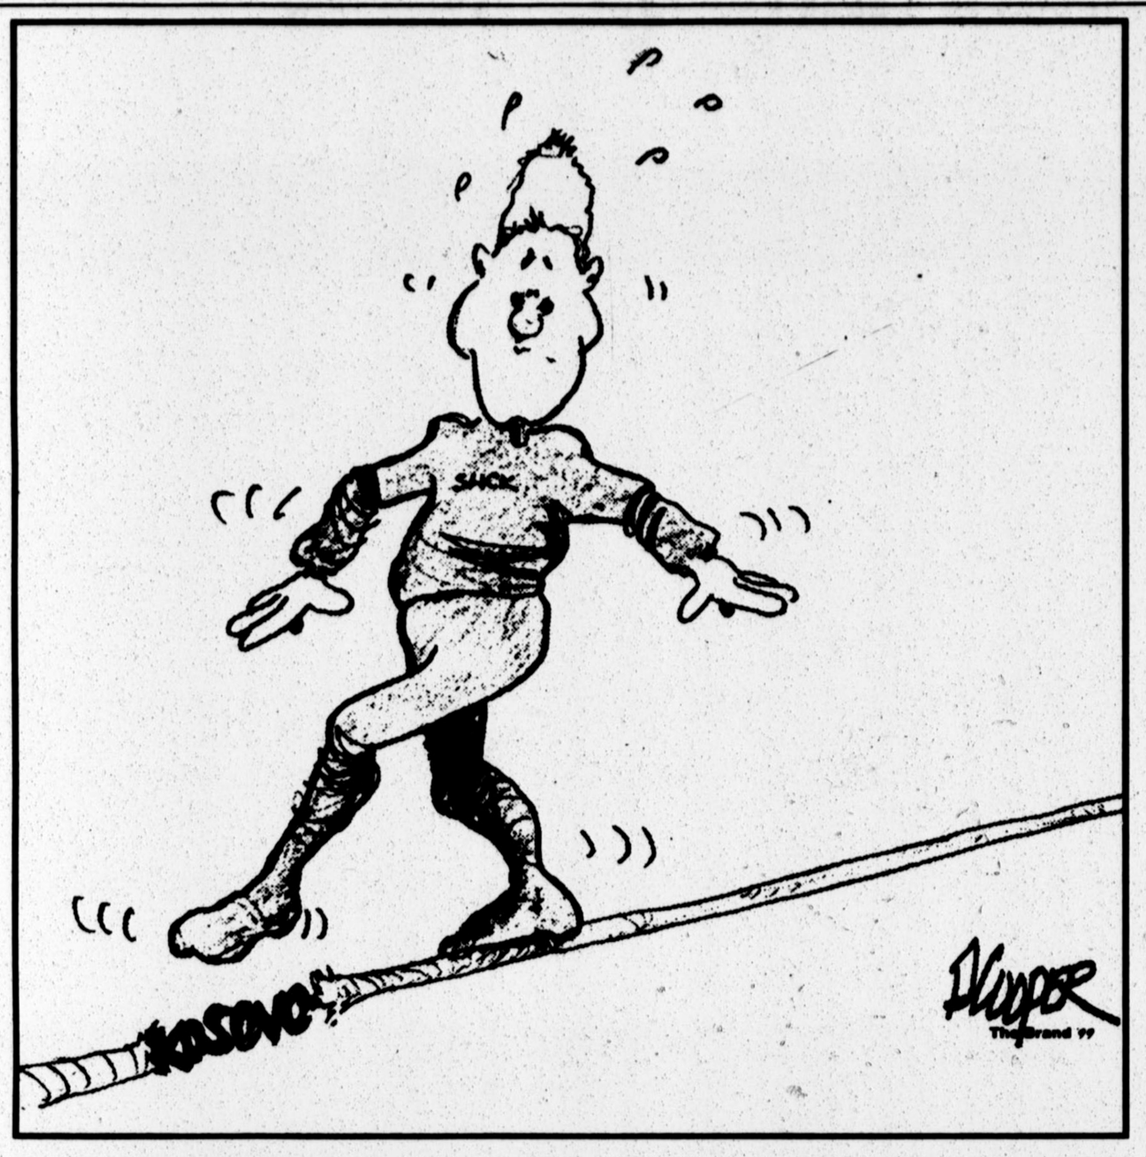

Adding money first "takes us down a very, very slippery path," and avoids "the structural changes that are going to be needed," said Sen. John Chaffee, R-R.I.

Clinton says he will soon present a complete Medicare overhaul plan to Congress — including changes to "modernize" the program.

The president is considering ways to give Medicare some of the tools that private health plans already use to negotiate good prices, according to White House advisers. Those might include the ability to competitively bid out exclusive contracts for medical products or services.

But it's doubtful whether Clinton's proposal will gain GOP support. Already, Medicare is living up to its reputation as a magnet for political attacks.

Letters to the editor

Dear Editor:

After attending the meeting of the Hereford Independent School District board on March 30, there are some questions for Brand readers and residents of the district to consider.

Before doing an in-house search to determine possible candidates for the HISD superintendent's position, the HISD board retained the services of the Texas Association of School Boards to do a statewide superintendent search at the cost of $5,500 plus expenses (approximately $2,000, as stated in the presentation by the TASB representative). This amount is somewhat less than the amount spent on the last superintendent's search in 1997. The HISD board did have another option. Dr. Mick Stevens, associate professor of education at West Texas A&M University and school search consultant, made a presentation in which he offered his consultant services to the community ... with a bid of (a flat fee of) $2,500. Dr. Stevens lives in Hereford, has conducted 18 similar searches in the past few years, and has four grandchildren who attend Hereford schools. There was no discussion among board members regarding the two presentations before a vote was taken to award the contract to TASB. The sole reason given for the selection of the TASB was that the HISD board president was pleased with the TASB performance in the 1997 superintendent search. Would it have been a prudent use of the taxpayers' money for the HISD board to have granted the superintendent search contract to a consultant who resides in Hereford and who has a vested interest in our community and in our schools?

Is it a prudent use of taxpayers' money for the HISD board to conduct a superintendent search without so much as a passing consideration of highly qualified, keenly skilled candidates who now serve in top management positions in our district? Is it necessary to stand by and watch persons hired from other areas of the state parade through our district and community when we have individuals who are residents committed to our community who have served and who will serve with excellence?

Should we as taxpayers be more attentive to the meetings where decisions are being made which affect our students and our families?

Dear Editor:

The Family Camping Club held its first rally of the season on March 25-28 at the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn. As usual, the accommodations were good and the merchants were generous and very hospitable toward us.

On Friday, a large number of members were given a nice tour of the Panhandle Milling Company. It was an interesting, as well as educational, tour.

While in Hereford, some members shopped and visited several businesses and as a large group we enjoyed meals at local restaurants.

On behalf of the Family Camping Club, I would like to take this opportunity to say "Thanks" and as always it's nice to spend time at Hereford, Texas.

Dear Editor:

This past weekend, the 5th Annual Beef-Capital-of-the-World Tennis Tournament was hosted by the Hereford High School tennis team. Teams attended from Andrews, Midland, Frenship, Randall, Dumas, Wichita Falls, and Vernon.

The success of this tournament has depended in large measure upon our sponsors.

We wish to take this opportunity to express our appreciation. Their support provided beef dinners and T-shirts for all participants.

Special thanks to Roger Eades, Pat Robbins and Troy Sublett for their years of work in making this event happen.

It's that time of the year – Golden Globes, Oscars, Grammys, Emmys – there seems to be a televised awards show every week.

However, my favorite awards are not televised and maybe don't even get much newspaper coverage. Still, the Darwin Awards are always good for a laugh – and are proof the monkeys should be offended when they're mentioned as homo sapiens' closest relatives.

Here's a look at some of the contenders:

1. AT&T fired John Walter, its president and chief executive officer, after nine months, saying he lacked "intellectual leadership." Walter received a $26 million severance package. Perhaps it's not Walter who's lacking intelligence.

2. Police in Oakland, Calif., spent two hours trying to subdue a gunman who had barricaded himself inside his home. After firing 10 tear gas canisters, officers discovered the man standing beside them.

3. An Illinois man, pretending to have a gun, kidnapped a motorist and forced him to drive to two different automated teller machines. The kidnapper then withdrew money from his own accounts.

4. A 9-year-old boy in Manassas, Va., received a one-day suspension under his elementary school's drug policy – for Certs! The boy allegedly told a classmate the mints would make him "jump higher."

5. A student in Belle, W.Va., was suspended for three days for giving a classmate a cough drop. The school principal reiterated the school's "zero tolerance" policy. That policy apparently is not to be confused with the "zero intelligence" policy.

6. Fire investigators on Maui determined the cause of a blaze that destroyed a $127,000 home. The fire was started by a short in the homeowner's newly installed fire prevention alarm system.

7. A man walked into a Topeka, Kan. convenience store and asked for all of the money in the cash drawer. He apparently thought the take was too small, so he tied up the clerk and worked the counter himself for three hours – until the police showed up.

8. In Ohio, a man walked into a police station with a 9-inch wire protruding from his forehead. He calmly asked officers to give him an X-ray to help find his brain, which he claimed had been stolen. Police were shocked to learn the man had drilled a 6-inch-deep hole in his skull with a power drill and stuck in the wire to try to find the missing brain.

9. A jobless man in Medford, Ore., blamed his MBA for his murder of three people. "There are too many business grads out there," he said. "If I had chosen another field, all of this may not have happened."

10. Police in Los Angeles had good luck with a robbery suspect who just couldn't control himself during a lineup. When detectives asked each man in the lineup to repeat the words, "Give me all your money or I'll shoot," the man blurted: "That's not what I said!"

11. A bank robber in Virginia Beach, Va., got a nasty surprise when a dye pack designed to mark stolen money exploded in his underwear. The robber apparently stuffed the loot down the front of his pants as he fled the bank. "He was seen hopping and jumping around," a police officer said. " Police have the man's charred trousers in custody.

12. In Modesto, Calif., a man was arrested for trying to hold up a Bank of America branch. The man used a thumb and finger to simulate a gun, but he failed to keep his hand in his pocket.

Dealing with dictators

Milosevic just following pattern others have set

Tom Raum
Associated Press

It seemed a familiar pattern: the United States conducting airstrikes against the country of an authoritarian ruler who ignored repeated threats and reneged on earlier promises.

Didn't that just happen a few months ago with U.S. and British airstrikes against Iraq?

"If somebody has arbitrary power in the country, then they act arbitrarily. Whether they sign agreements or not, they can't be trusted. That's why force is needed. Signing a paper is meaningless with Milosevic. We should have dealt with him in a similar way eight years ago."

Janusz Bugajski, Center for Strategic & International Studies

The United States wants Yugoslav President Slobodan Milosevic to agree to stop his offensive against Albanian-speaking citizens of the Serbian province of Kosovo and sign a peace agreement — just as it wants Saddam Hussein to keep his post-Gulf War commitments to allow international inspections of weapons sites.

In a similar example of possible broken promises, the Clinton administration and members of Congress are alarmed that communist-run North Korea might be continuing to develop nuclear weapons — in violation of a 1994 agreement.

How can the United States get its adversaries to live up to pledges extracted largely by the threat of force?

Not easily, when the adversaries are iron-fisted leaders such as Milosevic and Saddam, suggested Janusz Bugajski, director of East European studies for the Center for Strategic and International Studies.

"If somebody has arbitrary power in the country, then they act arbitrarily. Whether they sign agreements or not, they can't be trusted," he said.

"That's why force is needed," Bugajski added. "Signing a paper is meaningless with Milosevic. We should have dealt with him in a similar way eight years ago."

Medicare

Liberal Democrats are accusing Republicans of wanting to cut taxes rather than take care of the nation's elderly.

"It's just quite unbelievable that we're at peak economic performance and here we are being told that we can't afford to provide humane and dignified health care for senior citizens," said Sen. Paul Wellstone, D-Minn.

Republicans, for their part, note that the two changes Clinton has already proposed would cost money, not save it: Adding a prescription drug benefit, and letting some people as young as 55, who have trouble getting private insurance, buy Medicare.

For his part, Clinton has criticized a dramatic restructuring plan supported by Republicans — and two moderate Democrats — on an advisory commission.

The panel didn't formally recommend the plan because of objections from liberal members — including Clinton appointees. Still, a recently approved GOP budget blueprint directs a Senate committee to consider it this year.

Under the proposal, Medicare would no longer pay government-controlled prices for people's medical bills or health coverage.

Instead, private insurance companies would bid competitively to provide Medicare benefits. Their bids would determine the amount of a government subsidy to elderly and disabled Americans to help them buy their own insurance coverage.

Such market competition might work more efficiently to save money than the piecemeal fixes of the recent past, supporters say.

But Clinton and other Democrats fear that relying too heavily on the private sector could result in more expensive or lower quality care.

The sheer complexity of predicting the results of changes to Medicare — combined with its political sensitivity — may argue for an incremental approach.

Many elderly Americans and health care providers are still struggling to cope with the unexpected consequences — including HMO closings — of Medicare changes made in 1997.

"My sense is that the only way you're going to get change over time is to do it very slowly, and 'experiment with things," Moon says.

U.S. voters need to open their eyes

Dianna F. Dandridge

Some call me a skeptic; some call me a naysayer; some call me a pessimist, and all those adjectives are relatively appropriate -- at least as far as believing politicians and most public officials.

Few people have any doubts about my feelings regarding the individuals who now reside in the White House. The only one that I see any hope for is the daughter.

Hopefully, she'll be smart enough to change her name and have enough plastic surgery done so she is unrecognizable as one of the White House residents.

I've never had any use for the man of the house. His reputation definitely preceded him. Seeing as how I have absolutely no use for skirt-chasing, pot-smoking, draft-dodging liars in the general public, I certainly don't want one responsible for setting doctrines which impact me in any way.

Every day I hear or read about him addressing one group or another and how he expects this country to go beyond the recent scandals and do what is right.

Actually, I think his attitude is something like the old joke where one person says, "Dumb Dora was so dumb ...." and someone else responds, "How dumb was she?"

Apparently he believes the American public is in the same class as Dumb Dora. Unfortunately, the public has bolstered that opinion by accepting his implausible excuses and explanations.

Personally, I don't believe a word he says and I can't bring myself to put to much faith in any of his programs.

As far as the lady of the house goes, she may be Dumb Dora's role model. After all her hubby's sexual prowess was well known long before he ever made a run for the presidency.

I just can't help but believe her "stand by my man" attitude is something from a bygone era. Even at that, Tammy is rolling over in her grave thinking anyone could actually be so gullible.

I could possibly understand forgiving his indiscretions once or maybe even twice, but long before Paula or Monica, the lady of the house publicly stated she believed her husband.

Uh, huh!

Not only does she appear to be a Dumb Dora act-alike, but she might be a Criminal Connie, as well. I don't for a minute buy into her explanations of the Whitewater affair. Matter of fact, there are a couple of other matters which also make me wonder.

Maybe it's true – birds of a feather really do flock together.

My skepticism isn't just limited to the high and mighty muckety-mucks. The lower classes of muck-encrusted politicos also provide plenty of reason to doubt their integrity, purpose and intelligence.

What amazes me even more is the umber of people who allow them to get away with their deceptions, acts of stupidity or carelessness.

Organizations seem more inclined to perpetuate these acts by promoting individuals to ever higher positions. The public isn't much better when they continue to reelect individuals who fail to represent the best interests of the voters.

All to often, entities just shuffle staff to get an undesirable out of direct public view instead of cleaning up the mess by getting rid of them.

Reasons are as numerous as the leaves on the trees – the paperwork, the legality, the person hasn't been warned, there's not enough documentation.

Let's be realistic; most people, organizations or societies are going to go as far as the public allows. After all, the public is the actual controlling factor.

If the public lets one scandalous act pass, why not two or three or more? This holds true for the president, CEOs of major businesses and anyone else.

As I see the scandals of the White House go undisciplined, I also see other issues which should concern the public, but which are going unchecked.

The only hope I can see for this country is if the voting public will actually open their eyes and look at the character of the people we are putting into office. Will they vote for laws that most people find morally and ethically disturbing? Or will they actually vote for what is right, not wrong?

Voters need to take the stance now as lawmakers consider laws regarding abortion, homosexual adoption, hate crimes and other issues. Some laws are well founded and badly needed. Others are bad news and should never be made into law.

Remember the adage: "For want of a shoe, a horse was lost. For want of a horse, the race was lost."

We can't afford to lose the race at this date.

Dictators

crat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said "we have a different calculus now" and that's why the administration finds itself dealing more often with leaders it considers to be thugs.

The world of superpowers was made up of "fairly cautious actors," Biden suggested. "We are dealing now with a group of tin-armed dictators — malevolent, dangerous dictators."

"These guys don't operate under the same rational basis that we do. They are cunning. They are smart. But they have fewer cards to play, and their cards are less obvious," Biden said.

The quality of thug-dom may be intensified by the rhetoric used by presidents and politicians in describing adversaries as evil — to help rally public support for confrontation.

"What if someone had listened to Winston Churchill and stood up to Adolf Hitler earlier? How many people's lives might have been saved?" Clinton said last week of NATO's decision to confront Milosevic militarily.

George Bush made the same Hitler comparison in talking about Saddam in 1990-91.

Cuba's Fidel Castro has long been demonized by American political leaders, as has Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi.

Mickey Edwards, a former Republican congressman from Oklahoma who now teaches at Harvard, said it is problematic knowing that a totalitarian leader may be agreeing to something only because of the threat of force — and then to see him repeatedly break his promise. "It's a little like the 'Peanuts' comic strip, where the football always gets yanked out."

But sometimes, there really is no alternative. "You always have to keep trying in any case until it's clear it won't work. We try to do everything we can to avoid having a military solution," said Edwards, who was the senior Republican on the House Appropriations subcommittee on foreign operations.

As to demonizing enemies, "I think everyone needs to demonize our enemies. When you're dropping bombs on people, it's easier if you think they're pretty awful people," he said.

When dictators break their word, it's important to not delay the inevitable, suggested Secretary of State Madeleine Albright. "Here we are in 1999 at the end of what historians agree has been the bloodiest century in the history of the world. And we know how the blood was created and why it happened.

"It happened because there were evil dictators or aggressive leaders in countries who felt that their own space was not big enough and that they had to expand it," she said.

But Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, said he's troubled by a process in which pledges are extracted from foreign leaders by military force — or with a promise to stop using force — as in dealing with Milosevic.

"That is using our armed forces as a process of negotiating, not for the purpose for which we maintain our military to defend our national interests abroad," Stevens said.

Education: A life of experiences

Cliff Golden
Career specialist

When I was in high school, back in the Dark Ages, we had a new experimental program just for the guys called pre-tech. I don't remember just how many guys there were, maybe 25 or 28, but we all had the same classes. Science, math, English, social studies and a couple different choices of electives. Me, I chose electronics. You see, my pop had been an electrician on Navy aircraft at the Naval Air Station in Alameda, CA., and all guys wanna be just like their dad's, only in their own way. Like I said, I chose electronics and did pretty well.

Our algebra was filled with formula solutions once we learned the basic concepts. Once we learned the basic sine, cosine and tangent relationship we figured out how tall the saw dust bin behind the wood shop was and surveyed the city park across from the high school. In English, we learned how to write technical instructions and even how to write a business letter. My senior year I wrote one of my project letters to IBM's Mr. Charlie Evans in San Francisco at One Maritime Plaza. It resulted in a job with IBM the following summer after graduation.

After successfully building my first one tube superheterodyne receiver in my electronics class I actually heard music on it! After getting it all soldered up I plugged it in and tuned to KFRC in San Francisco only to hear The Champs do "Tequila." Ah yes! Nothing is so sweet as success.

I went on to work for IBM and then joined the Air Force as a Ground Radio Equipment Repairman. You see, I was in electronics just like my ole man; only my way.

Do we have a program like pre-tech now days? You bet! It's called Tech Prep and, just like back in my cave days it gives guys, and girls too, a chance to choose many occupational directions based on seven career paths. Nurses, Doctors, office managers, accountants or computer graphics specialists. What's even better than pre-tech, a student can get college credit for the high school classes they take now. Back then we didn't have that kind of stuff.

Math, science, English and social studies are still a part of the educational process, but what are our kids expected to do with these learned concepts? Some where, some how they're expected to figure out, on their own, how to use them. Elective courses are the 'labs' in which concepts are proved and put into practice. Be it in Office and Business, electronics, automotive repair, engineering or CAD design concept and application come together in each and every one of these 'skills' applications. Where else can a project be designed, costs accounted for and team work developed as a project is carried out. Someone has to document those proposals, report the current progress and close the projects with lessons learned. Where do students learn that, but in those developmental skills classes.

Bottom Line

Our students' education can't be so specialized they can only succeed in the college arena. Just like the military or anywhere else, students have to have the skills to think for themselves. Ultimately they may do it just like dad or mom, but they have to be able to do it the way they want it done. You see, education is preparing for life and its experiences. They not only need the tools to make their own way, but the successes and failures to make good sound choices.

My dad used to say, "It's a wise man that learns from his mistakes, but an even wiser man that learns from the mistakes of others." Nowadays I say, "You can learn something from anybody; even if it's what not to do." I wonder how my son is living out this euphemism?

Rural health grants available

Special to The Brand

AUSTIN – The Center for Rural Health Initiatives (CRHI), the Texas State Office of Rural Health, is looking for applicants to take advantage of its $250,000 Medically Underserved Community-State Matching Incentive Program (MUC-SMIP). The purpose of the program is to enhance the abilities of underserved communities to attract and retain primary care physicians by providing matching funds to cover certain costs of establishing a primary care physician's practice site.

Rural communities struggling with losses of access to health care providers are encouraged to take advantage of the invaluable MUC-SMIP program. "It's a very unique opportunity for rural folks to attract and keep health care providers in their communities," according to CRHI executive director Sam Tessen.

The state grants funds from $5,000 to $25,000 per applicant. The community must provide matching funds of the same amount and the contracted physician must agree to practice in the community for at least two years.

The matching grant is available to communities located in rural Texas counties that are designated as either a Medically Underserved Community (MUA) or a Health Professional Shortage Area (HPSA). To determine the status of your county, contact the Health Professions Resource Center at 512-458-7261 or e-mail them at hprc@tdh.state.tx.us.

If you have questions or would like an application, contact Janet Leubner at CRHI at 512-479-8891, toll-free at 877-839-2744, or by e-mail at jleubner@crhi.state.tx.us. Applications for this year's funding must be received by May 21, 1999.

The Center for Rural Health Initiatives is the State Office of Rural Health. Established in 1989, it provides leadership in encouraging innovative responses to rural health care needs. The center advocates a number of programs and services designed to help rural health providers and communities proactively address the health care needs of rural Texans.

A variety of homestead exemptions could lower your property taxes!

A homestead exemption lowers the property taxes on your home by lowering its taxable value. If your home is valued at $50,000 and you receive a $15,000 homestead exemption, your home will be taxed as if it were worth $35,000.

Who qualifies for an exemption?

Anyone who owned a home on January 1st (and used it as their primary residence on that date) is entitled to a $15,000 homestead exemption to lower their school taxes this year...and it doesn't matter if your home is a house, condominium, or mobile home. (Counties, cities, and special taxing districts may also offer homestead exemptions.)

Are other exemptions available?

If you're disabled—or if you're 65 years old or older—you are entitled to an additional $10,000 school tax exemption on your home. And if you qualify for the over-65 exemption, you're also entitled to a permanent, locked-in "ceiling" on the school property taxes on your home. (The ceiling does not apply to county or city property taxes, and those entities may offer other exemptions.) The over-65 homeowner's exemptions and school tax ceiling transfers to the surviving spouse, if the spouse is 55 years of age or older at the time of death and lives in and owns the home. Over-65 homeowners also may transfer the percentage of school tax paid, based on their former home's over-65 school tax ceiling, to a new home.

Do I have to apply each year?

No. If you had a homestead exemption on your home in 1998, you won't need to reapply for 1999 unless your chief appraiser requires it. However, if you haven't received an exemption on your present home—or if you've moved to a new home—you'll need to file for an exemption for 1999. If you are 65 this year, you may file for the over-65 exemption up to one year after the date you turned 65. And if you became disabled during 1998, you need to file for the disabled person's exemption.

When and where should I file?

File applications by April 30 at your appraisal district office. If you need more time, contact us at:

Protect your rights! "Render" your taxable property by April 15th.

A "rendition" is a report to the appraisal district that lists all the taxable property you owned or controlled on January 1st of this year. The rendition form is available at your local appraisal district office... or you may draft a similar form.

Who must file a rendition?

You must file a rendition if you own tangible personal property that is used to produce income—such as the inventory and equipment used by a business.

Are there any advantages to you?

The advantages of filing a rendition are:

- You give your opinion of your property's value. If the appraisal district believes the value is higher, it must notify you in writing of the higher value and explain how you can protest that value to the appraisal review board.
- You record your correct mailing address so your tax bills will go to the right address. If your bill is mailed to the wrong address, the law still holds you responsible for paying your taxes on time or paying extra charges for late payments.
- You can also file a "report of decreased value" to notify the appraisal district of significant depreciation of the value of your property in 1998. The district will look at your property before assigning a value in 1999.

What's the deadline?

The last day for filing 1999 renditions is April 15. Call your appraisal district for the last date the rendition may be postmarked, if mailing. You can get an extra 15 days if you ask for it in writing by the April 15 deadline.

Where do you file?

"Productivity appraisal" may lower the property taxes on your farm, ranch or timber land!

Texas law allows farmers, ranchers, and timber growers to pay property taxes based upon the "production value" of their land rather than on its market value. This "productivity appraisal" means qualified land is taxed based on its ability to produce crops, livestock, or timber—not on its value on the real estate market. And it can mean substantial property tax savings.

When is the application deadline?

If your land has never had a productivity appraisal or you are a new owner, you must apply to your local appraisal district by April 30 to take advantage of this benefit on your 1999 property taxes. You may get up to 60 extra days if you have a good reason and ask for it by April 30. If you miss this deadline, you may still be able to apply, but you will pay a penalty. Check with your appraisal district office.

Do you need to reapply annually?

If your land already receives agricultural or timber productivity appraisal, you normally don't need to reapply unless the chief appraiser requires you to do so. If a new application is required, the appraisal district will notify you by mail.

¡Varias exenciones de residencia pueden rebajar sus impuestos de propiedad!

Una exención de residencia reduce sus impuestos de propiedad. Por ejemplo, si su residencia tiene un valor de $50,000 y Ud. recibe una exención de $15,000, sus impuestos se calcularán como si el valor de su residencia fuera $35,000.

¿Quién califica para una exención?

Cualquier dueño de una residencia principal el día 1 de enero tiene derecho a una exención de residencia de $15,000 este año para rebajar sus impuestos escolares... y no importa si la residencia es casa, condominio, o casa móvil. (Los condados, municipios, y distritos especiales de impuestos tambien pueden ofrecer exenciones de residencia.)

¿Hay otras exenciónes?

Si Ud. es incapacitado—o si tiene 65 años o más—tiene derecho a una exención adicional de $10,000 en sus impuestos escolares de propiedad. Y si Ud. califica para la exención para los que ya cumplieron 65 años, tambien tiene derecho a un "cielo máximo" permanente en sus impuestos escolares de residencia. (El cielo máximo no tiene que ver con impuestos de propiedad de los condados o municipios, y esas entidades pueden ofrecer otras exenciones.) La exención para los que ya cumplieron 65 años y el cielo máximo se pueden transferir al esposo/esposa sobreviviente si el o ella tiene 55 ó más años de edad y es dueño/dueña de la casa en donde vive. Tambien el dueño de una casa nueva que tiene más de 65 años puede transladar un porcentaje de cielo máximo del los impuestos escolares que le tocaron en su domicilio vieja.

¿Debo solicitarla cada año?

No. Si Ud. recibió una exención de residencia en 1998, no hay necesidad de solicitarla de nuevo en 1999—al menos que se lo pida su jefe de valoraciones. Sin embargo, si no ha recibido una exención en su residencia actual—o si ha cambiado de domicilio tendrá que solicitar una exención para 1999. Si Ud. cumplirá los 65 años durante este año, tiene hasta un año de esa fecha para solicitar una nueva exención. Y si cumplió los 65 años o resultó incapacitado en 1998, tendrá que solicitar las exenciónes adicionales.

¿Donde y cuando debo solicitar mis exenciónes?

Su solicitud debe llegar en su oficina local del distrito de valoraciones antes del día 30ª de abril. Si necesita más tiempo, favor de ponerse en contacto con nosotros antes:

¡Protega sus derechos! "Rienda" su propiedad antes del 15º de abril.

Una "rendición" es un reporte al distrito de valoraciones en donde Ud. alista toda la propiedad que poseó o controló el día 1 de enero, 1998. El formulario para la rendición se puede obtener en su oficina local del distrito de valoraciones...o puede improvisar una forma parecida.

¿Quien debe hacer una rendición?

Debe hacer una rendición si Ud. es dueño y gana ingresos de una propiedad personal—por ejemplo, el inventorio y equipo utilizado en un negocio.

¿Que ventaja me da?

Las ventajas de hacer una rendición son las siguientes:

- Ud. registra su opinion sobre la valoración de su propiedad. Si el distrito opina que el valor es mas grande, deber avisarle por escrito y explicarle como protestar el nuevo valor a su junta de revisión.
- Registra su dirección correcta para que le pueden mandar sus tarifas de impuestos. Según la ley, Ud. es responsable por pagar sus impuestos sin demora o de pagar cualquier multa que resulte por haberlos pagado tarde—aunque la tarifa se haya mandado a una dirección equivocada.
- Tambien puede someter un "reporte de valoración disminuída" para avisar al distrito de cualquier reducción significativa en la valoración de su propiedad en 1998. El distrito examinará su propiedad antes de designarle un valor en 1999.

¿Cual es la hora del cierre?

15ª de abril es la última fecha para mandar sus rendiciones para 1999. Favor de llamar a su distrito de valoraciones para obtener la última fecha en que puede mandar su redicion por correo. Puede obtener 15 días adicionales si los pide por escrito antes de la hora de cierre.

¡"La valoración productiva" puede reducir los impuestos de su terreno agricola, ganadero o maderero!

La ley de Texas permite a los granjeros, rancheros, y madereros pagar sus impuestos de propiedad basándose en "la valoración productiva" del terreno calificado—o sea en su abilidad de producir cosecha, ganado, o madera—y no de su valor en el mercado actual. Y esto le puede ahorrar en sus impuestos de propiedad.

¿Cual es la hora del cierre?

Si su terreno nunca ha tenido una valoración productiva, o si Ud. es nuevo dueño, debe solicitarla a su distrito de valoraciones para el día 30ª de abril, para recibir el beneficio en sus impuestos de propiedad de 1999. Puede recibir hasta 60 dias mas si tiene una buena razon y si solicita el tiempo adicional antes del 30ª de abril. Si pasa de esta fecha, es posible que todavia la podrá obtener, pero pagará una multa. Pregunte en la oficina de su distrito de valoraciones.

¿Debo solicitarla cada año?

Por lo general, si su propiedad ya recibe una valoración productiva agrícola o maderero, no hay necesidad de pedir una nueva cada año—al menos que se lo pida su jefe de valoraciones. Si una solicitud nueva se requiere, el distrito de valoraciones le mandará un aviso por correo.

Sabbatini moves to lead in Classic

DULUTH, Ga. (AP) — Rory Sabbatini thought he was getting a little too serious about his profession. Relax, he told himself. Have some fun out on the golf course.

After two nice, enjoyable days at the TPC Sugarloaf, Sabbatini finds himself as the surprise leader at the midway point of the BellSouth Classic.

The South African native, a rookie on the PGA Tour, fired his second straight 7-under-par 65 Friday to grab a commanding four-shot lead over a strong field making its final tuneup for the Masters.

"I thought I got to the point where I was getting too serious. So I have been trying to have fun out there and relax, not worry about where the shot is going to be."

RORY SABBATINI
after he took a four-shot lead in the BellSouth Classic

Sabbatini, who turned 23 Friday, missed the cut in three of his first six tournaments. His highest finish is a tie for 52nd in the Buick Invitational.

"I thought I got to the point where I was getting too serious," he said "So I have been trying to have fun out there and relax, not-worry about where the next shot is going to be."

Beginning the day two shots behind first-round leader Duffy Waldorf, Sabbatini started on the back nine and began to pull away with an eagle at No. 4, a 541-yard, par-5 hole. From 245 yards, he hit a 2-iron within three feet of the cup and made the putt.

Mike Weir also shot a 65 and was alone in second with a 134. Three golfers were tied for third at 135, including the world's top player, David Duval, who took a couple of bogeys on his final nine holes, but still managed a 3-under 69.

"I didn't play quite as well as I did yesterday," said Duval, who missed the green with a chip at No. 1 and hit his tee shot into woods at No. 9, taking a one-shot penalty.

Still, Duval is the most imposing player on the course north of Atlanta. He already has won three tournaments — including The Players Championship last weekend — and more than $2.1 million in the first three months of the year.

"You don't bet against streaks," Duval said. "I'd love to win this week heading into the Masters."

Bryant, Riley pace Whiteface netters in Snyder tournament

BRAND/Mauri Montgomery

Driving it back — Hereford's Noelle Merrick returns a volley here recently during the Beef Capital of the World Tournament.

From staff reports

SNYDER — The joke was on just about everyone else on April Fool's Day after Brynne Bryant and Lisa Riley rose from the No. 4 girls' doubles flight to place second among the field in Snyder's four-match-play Midnight Madness tournament.

The Hereford doubles team won three of four matches, losing only to the top-seeded Li-Lewis team from Big Spring, 6-1, 6-1 in the marathon event — play began at 8:30 a.m. and was finally near conclusion when the Hereford team departed at 3:00 a.m. Friday.

Hereford's other girls' doubles team, Diana Detten and Noelle Merrick, had more trouble in the No. 2 bracket after the pair lost their second match to Snyder's Fennell-Sawyer team in three sets before advancing to fifth place with wins over Lubbock Monahans and Big Spring teams.

Riley Hall and Amit Patel of Hereford lost their first match in boys' doubles competition, but then flew through their next three games to win the consolation bracket championship.

The Hereford duo outlasted Big Spring's Smiley-Langford with a three-set 1-6, 7-6, (7-4) win.

Hereford's Harrison Hoffman and Nathan Horrel won one of four matches in the bottom-half of doubles bracket play for 15th place.

Brent Berend came out of the No. 3 boys' singles flight with an early 6-4, 6-3 win over Monahans' Robert Wilbur, but then lost his second match in three sets to San Angelo Lakeview's Max Guerrero.

The Whiteface netter came back and won his two final games over Josh Bray of Frenship and Snyder's Justin Guy.

Nelson Beville placed seventh for Hereford after going 1-4 in the top-half of singles competition.

Ivory Issacson of Hereford lost her first match in girls' singles play before sweeping two wins in a bid for the consolation bracket championship. But she had to settle for 10th place after losing to Lakeview's Jessica Escue.

The Whiteface netters are scheduled to play in Dumas April 9-10 before hosting the District 3-4A Tournament here April 16-17 to conclude the season.

SuperSonics sink to new low

Portland presents Seattle with the dilemma of a losing season following Trail Blazer's 107-95 win

By CHRIS SHERIDAN
AP Basketball Writer

Those who didn't stay up late watching the NBA on cable television missed seeing a rarity. The Seattle SuperSonics, one of the winningest franchises of this decade, sank to a new depth — below .500.

The Sonics found themselves with a losing record for the first time this late in the season since 1991 after the Portland Trail Blazers, a team that is as hot as the Sonics were just three years ago, defeated Seattle 107-95 Friday night.

"I never thought I'd be on a losing team," Gary Payton said. "I've never been on a losing team since I've been in Seattle. So it is very hard for me right now. But with Vin (Baker) coming back, there is reason to think we can turn this around."

Isaiah Rider scored 23 points, including an emphatic dunk with no one guarding him just before the final buzzer, to lead all Portland scorers as the Blazers improved the NBA's best record to 25-6.

Elsewhere, the Los Angeles Lakers edged Phoenix 91-90, Indiana downed Charlotte 87-81, Utah held off Golden State 92-85, Cleveland defeated Philadelphia 85-80, Milwaukee nipped Boston 84-83, Orlando routed Chicago 115-68, Minnesota downed Denver 107-88 and Atlanta topped Vancouver 84-81.

Six other Blazers scored in double figures against the Sonics, who couldn't survive a horrendous stretch of blunders in the fourth quarter.

Rasheed Wallace scored 16 points, Arvydas Sabonis added 14 points and 12 rebounds, Brian Grant had 10 points and 10 rebounds, while Damon Stoudamire had 12 and Stacey Augmon and Walt Williams each had 10.

Seattle, which won its first six games this season, has lost 16 of its last 25.

"We're not happy about being below .500," coach Paul Westphal said. "We've got a chance, going home, to do something about it. We are undermanned, but I like the fight we've shown. That should start getting us some wins soon."

Lakers 91, Suns 90

At Phoenix, Glen Rice capped a 23-point night with a 17-foot baseline jumper with 7.1 seconds to play to give the Lakers the victory.

"I knew it was in," Rice said. "It was a wide-open shot. I've got to hit that."

Jason Kidd's three-point play with 11.3 seconds left put the Suns ahead 90-89. After Rice's basket, George McCloud's fadeaway 18-footer at the buzzer was an airball.

Shaquille O'Neal added 21 points for the Lakers, but missed three of four free throws in the final 61/2 minutes. Kobe Bryant added 18 points and blocked two fourth-quarter shots for Los Angeles.

Kidd, who scored 17 in the second half, had 23 points, nine assists and six rebounds.

Pacers 87, Hornets 81

At Charlotte, Larry Bird hollered at his team at halftime — and the yelling worked.

"We played a horrible first half, absolutely horrible," Bird said. "After losing three games in a row, I thought we'd get a good effort, but there was no effort."

Reggie Miller had 18 points and Rik Smits 17 to lead the Pacers, who pushed their Central Division lead to one game over the idle Detroit Pistons.

Jazz 92, Warriors 85

At Oakland, Calif., Karl Malone scored 23 points and Bryon Russell had 20 as Utah won its 10th straight against Golden State.

John Stockton added 14 points for the Jazz, who won on the road for just the second time in the last six games by outshooting Golden State 57 percent to 40 percent.

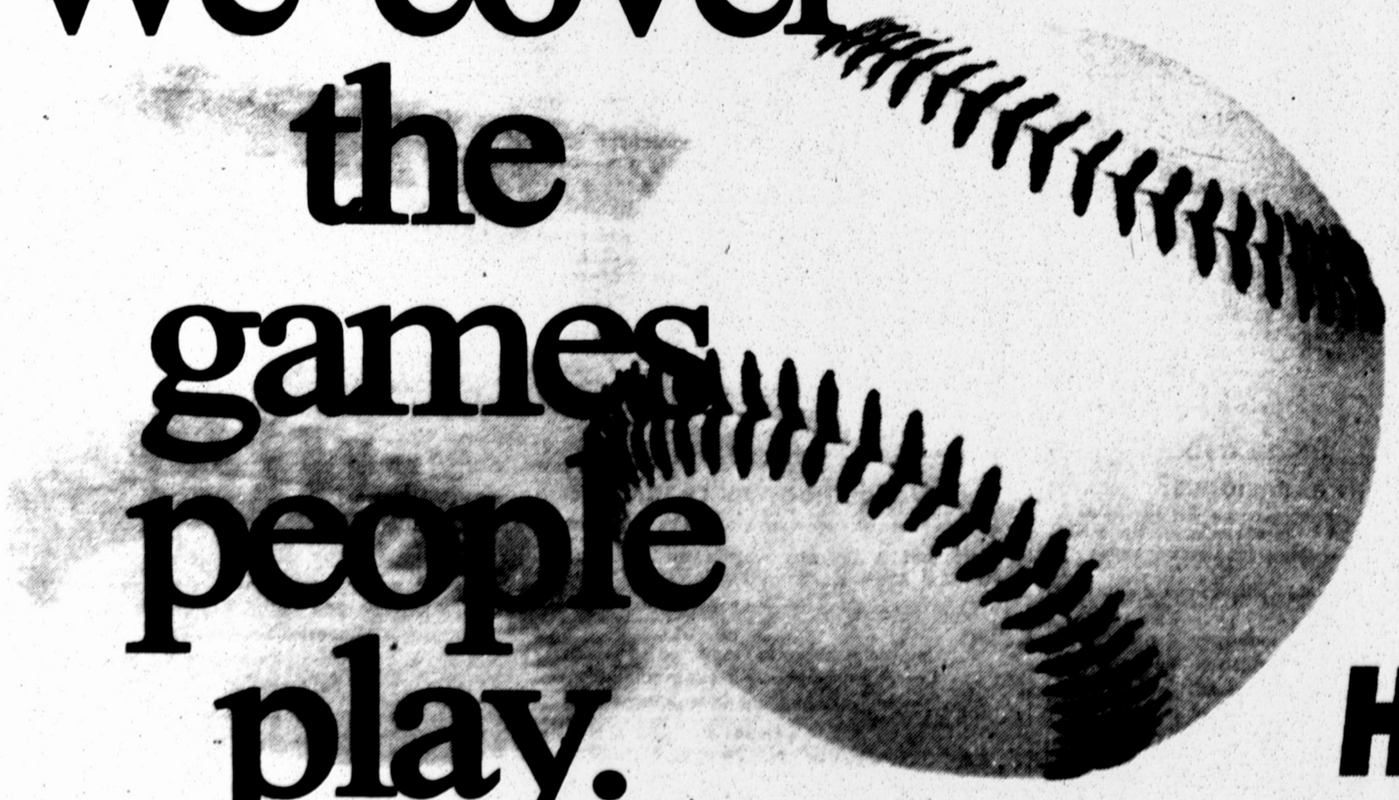

The Warriors managed to score nine of the last 11 points, but it wasn't enough to make a difference.

Cavaliers 85, 76ers 80

At Philadelphia, Allen Iverson sat out the last three quarters under mysterious circumstances as Cleveland ended its three-game losing streak.

The official word from the 76ers was that Iverson reinjured his right quad muscle. But that didn't explain why he was called back from the scorer's table by coach Larry Brown during the second quarter.

Texas Rangers aim high

Raise the bar on this year's expectations

PORT CHARLOTTE, Fla. (AP) — With two division titles in three years, the Texas Rangers have established themselves as the team to beat in the AL West. Manager Johnny Oates thinks that's not enough.

"In my mind, we haven't really done anything," Oates said. "We've won two division championships in the last three years and the organization had never done that. But that's not our goal. Our goal is to be world champions. And I'm not talking about one year over the next 25. I'm talking about consistently."

JUAN GONZALEZ

That's big talk for a team that has never even reached the AL Championship Series. But it's an attitude that will define the Texas Rangers this season.

Owner Tom Hicks set the tone in February when he visited the team and said the New York Yankees traded for Roger Clemens "because they are scared to death of the Texas Rangers."

On paper, the Rangers really are better than last year's team, but it remains to be seen whether they'll do better than 88-74.

There's no doubt Texas will again have a potent offense, maybe even a better one. AL MVP Juan Gonzalez is still the anchor, with Rusty Greer and Ivan Rodriguez now joined by Rafael Palmeiro.

And the Rangers should be much better in the field. Their dubious streak of consecutive 121-error seasons is likely to end as two-time Gold Glove winner Palmeiro replaces range-challenged Will Clark at first base and Royce Clayton takes over at shortstop from predecessors Kevin Elster and Benji Gil.

Scoring more runs and giving up fewer in the field make life easier for Texas' pitchers. But with no major improvement to the rotation, pitching remains the team's biggest question mark.

The Rangers tried to improve, but were shut out. Randy Johnson and Todd Stottlemyre turned down Hicks' million and general manager Doug Melvin almost had a deal for Clemens until the Yankees trumped his offer.

That puts the pressure on Rick Helling and Aaron Sele, who combined to win 39 games last year but will have to do it again to prove they're for real.

Helling, who went from a season-high of five wins and just 11 in his career to 20 last season, is excited by that challenge.

RICK HELLING

"I think this year there's no question I'm going to be viewed differently. People thought last year was a fluke, saying 'Where did he come from?' I still need to prove I can do it again," said Helling, who was rewarded with a three-year contract. "That's what motivates me."

But Oates doesn't want his top two starters to feel they have to carry the load. Instead, he's counting on all five members of his rotation — including free agent signee Mark Clark, John Burkett and Mike Morgan — to win a total of 70 to 75 games.

"The bottom line is we need each guy to go out and pitch well," Oates said. "Certainly Rick and Aaron were a key part in what they did for us last year. But do they have to win 39 games for us to be successful? No. But they have to pitch well."

None of the Rangers starters are big strikeout guys; other than Helling, all are primarily ground-ball pitchers. That would've been a problem for past Texas teams, but not with the solid infield general manager Doug Melvin has assembled.

"On some teams you may think, 'Gosh, I've got to strike this guy out.' But not here," said Clark, who could've done better than 9-14 for the Chicago Cubs last season with a better defense behind him. "You want to let them hit it. You know good things are going to happen."

John Wetteland has done good things as the Rangers' stopper the last two seasons, but he goes into this year battling injuries.

Wetteland, whose arm secretly locked up on him early last season and who needed elbow surgery to remove bone chips, has had trouble with a strained ankle that's slow to heal.

He isn't the only one spending more time than he'd like this spring in the training room.

Palmeiro, second only to Cal Ripken in games played this decade, had two operations on his right knee within 26 days. He's hoping to be back on opening day, at designated hitter if necessary. Backup Mike Simms will start the year on the disabled list with a partially torn Achilles tendon.

But from April 5 on, the Rangers can't use illness or injury as an excuse. Oates and Hicks, who is picking up the tab on a payroll of nearly $75 million, will settle only for results.

"The term that I want dropped from our organization is competitive," Oates said. "I don't want our organization to be competitive. Would you use the word competitive to describe last year's Yankees team? Do you want to just get by and be competitive, or do you want to be the best? That's the attitude we want our ballclub to have."

Astros pin hopes on pitching

HOUSTON (AP) — Randy Johnson is gone, Roger Clemens never arrived and Moises Alou is probably out for the season with a knee injury.

Still, the Houston Astros believe they can bring a World Series to the Astrodome for the first time in the final season in their historic stadium.

With Johnson jumping to the Arizona Diamondbacks and Clemens going to the New York Yankees, the Astros are counting on their remaining pitchers to help them win a third straight NL Central Division title.

They also might need big seasons from two youngsters: Richard Hidalgo, Alou's replacement in left field, and rookie catcher Mitch Meluskey.

"I expect us to score a lot of runs, just like we did last year, but when you have a pitching staff that hasn't had a great deal of consistency and track record, more hinges on that," general manager Gerry Hunsicker said. "It's going to be their ability to hold down the opposition to give us a chance to win."

The top three spots in the rotation are set with Shane Reynolds (19-8, 3.51 ERA), Mike Hampton (11-7, 3.36) and Jose Lima (16-8, 3.70).

Sean Bergman and Chris Holt fill out the starting rotation.

Scott Elarton, the pitcher the Astros wouldn't give up to get Clemens, had vied for a spot in the rotation but was moved back to the bullpen, where he did well last season.

SHANE REYNOLDS

The Astros want to leave the Astrodome with a bang. They've played in the world's first domed stadium since 1965, but have never won a playoff series. Next year they'll move downtown to a gleaming, $265 million, 42,000-seat, retractable-roof stadium currently dubbed The Ballpark at Union Station.

As important as pitching is, Houston's bats were a big reason the team won a franchise-record 102 games last year. The Astros led the NL with 818 RBIs and were second to Colorado with a .280 batting average.

But they lost a significant portion of their offense before spring training even started when Alou fell off a treadmill and tore the anterior cruciate ligament in his left knee.

Alou hit .312 and had career bests with 182 hits, 34 doubles, 38 home runs and 124 RBIs.

The Astros still have their Killer B's — Craig Biggio, Jeff Bagwell and Derek Bell — plus third baseman Ken Caminiti, who took a pay cut to return to the Astros after playing the last three seasons at San Diego.

Biggio remains one of baseball's top second basemen and leadoff hitters. Bagwell has altered his swing in hopes of getting off to a faster start and Caminiti will try to rebound from hitting .252 last season, his lowest average in eight seasons. Bell had career bests last year with a .314 average, 198 hits and 108 RBIs.

U.S. goes up 2-0 in Davis Cup

Jim Courier and Todd Martin send Brits tumbling

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP) — Suddenly, the absence of Pete Sampras and Andre Agassi doesn't seem all that important.

Jim Courier and Todd Martin took care of that Friday, delivering a Davis Cup jolt that could send Britain tumbling out after one round.

JIM COURIER

Courier outlasted Tim Henman in five pulsating sets, three of them going to tiebreakers, and won in 4 hours, 12 minutes. Todd Martin then followed his compatriot's lead, sweeping Greg Rusedski in less than half the time as the Americans gave their old adversary a Davis Cup lesson in the championship's centenary year.

The United States can clinch the best-of-5 series by winning the doubles Saturday when Courier and Alex O'Brien play Henman and Rusedski.

The British pair has won all six times it has played doubles. The reverse singles is Sunday.

Courier, ranked No. 54 and facing an opponent ranked No. 7, won 7-6 (7-2), 2-6, 7-6 (7-3), 6-7 (12-10), 7-5 in a match in which Henman served 25 aces and 16 double faults.

Martin, who after a barren stretch has risen to No. 8, surprisingly encountered few problems in his 6-4, 6-4, 6-2 against Rusedski.

The performances by Courier and Martin more than offset the decisions by Sampras and Agassi to skip this round of the Davis Cup.

"The way Todd played today for the first set and a half he would have beaten anyone in the world," Rusedski said. "He didn't miss a ball."

Britain is returning to the World Group for the first time since 1992 and aiming for its first win over the United States since 1935.

"Tim and I are extremely disappointed that we couldn't give the public just one win," Rusedski said. "They were just too good today."

With some 9,000 British fans roaring, Courier survived a running battle with three line judges and spectators who twice booed him for questioning calls.

"That's home cooking," Courier said.

His solid service game betrayed him in the second set and Henman broke in the fifth and seventh games to take the set.

Once ranked No. 1, Courier broke in the sixth game of the third set to lead 5-2. But Henman broke back and tied it 5-5. During the set, Courier glared at three line judges after questioning calls. He had words with another after almost crashing into him during a rally.

After Courier served a fault in the tiebreaker, one spectator shouted, "Did you think that was in?" On the next point, Courier powered a forehand winner, turned and pointed toward the fan.

"I think it was, 'That shot was for you, buddy,'" Courier said afterward.

Courier again dominated the tiebreaker to regain his lead. When he broke to lead 3-1 in the fourth, he looked ready for victory. But Henman, urged on by the crowd, broke back for 4-4. After saving four match points in the tiebreaker, he took the set 12-10.

The fifth set went with serve until the 12th game when Henman's borehand volley sailed long. Courier, holding three more match points, won with a crosscourt service winner.

Martin broke Rusedski in the opening set, and the Briton played catch-up the rest of the way.

In the second set, Rusedski squandered a 40-0 lead at 4-4, losing the next five points. Martin broke twice for a 5-2 lead in the third and clinched it when Rusedski netted a service return.

Martin's serve has been hampered by a lingering stomach muscle injury, but he had enough to prevail Friday.

"I tried hard to make service return winners," he said. "And I volleyed pretty well for the most part."

In another big upset on the first day of Davis Cup play, Slovakia took a 2-0 lead over defending champion Sweden.

Karol Kucera beat Thomas Johansson 6-1, 7-6 (9-7), 2-6, 6-3, and Dominik Hrabaty downed Thomas Enqvist 7-5, 4-6, 2-6, 6-2, 6-4.

"I was very nervous the whole match," Kucera said. "I served badly after the first set and had a hard time concentrating."

White-out curbs Tradition play

Cancellation forces second 54-hole tourney in Senior PGA Tour history

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — An intense spring storm that tormented competitors during the opening round of The Tradition with sheets of rain turned colder Friday and snowed out the second round.

The cancellation set up the second 54-hole tournament in the 11-year history of the Senior PGA Tour major.

Graham Marsh and Howard Twitty, who opened at 3-under-par 69 on Thursday, will have a one-stroke lead on Leonard Thompson, Vicente Fernandez and Mike McCullough when play resumes Saturday morning. Tee times will be later and players will use the front and back nines in an attempt to find better weather.

More than 4 inches accumulated over five hours of flurries on the scenic Cochise Course at Desert Mountain, where the 3,200-foot elevation froze the storm's heavy moisture into snow.

Before it melted, the blanket of white lent a Christmas-card look to the saguaro cactus and other plants that separate the fairways and greens of the desert course.

"I was supposed to play late, so I was just driving up and I saw the snow mixed with rain," 1993 champion Tom Shaw said. "I thought, `Isn't this nice?' Then I went farther and it was on the ground, and I wondered how thick it would get. I saw some cars going the other way, and my first reaction was to turn around and go back."

He said outlandish weather is part of the game.

"The year before I started playing the regular tour (1963), it snowed the Crosby out," Shaw said. "Somebody went down to rake `Crosby Clambake' in the snow, and it was on the cover of the program next year. I've played in snow in Pensacola in late February, but it didn't stick.

"And I remember one year at the British Open at St. Andrews, I had on everything I owned and I was freezing to death. I was so thankful that they had 7-foot-long bathtubs — I just filled the thing up with hot water and pretended I was a submarine."

When Jack Nicklaus won the first of his four Tradition titles in 1990, the first round wasn't played until Friday because of hail and rain that forced two suspensions the day before. In better weather, Bruce Crampton, Mike Hill, Phil Rodgers and Al Geiberger shot 69s to share the lead.

Nicklaus started with a 71 but had a 67-68 finish to beat Gary Player by four strokes.

John Morgan, John Bland, Dana Quigley, George Archer and Dale Douglass, at 71, were the only others below par this year, a record for high scoring in the first round. Fifteen players broke par in 1989, the inaugural year.

This year, 15 shot 80 or worse.

Shaw, who never scored higher than 69 when he won six years ago, was among them.

The Fort Lauderdale, Fla., resident took the day off after the cancellation, thought about a movie and then went shopping to forget his 80, which could prove costly because of the shortened format.

"It kind of locks everybody in the positions where they started," Shaw said.

Douglass, who has homes in Colorado and Arizona, said cold weather affects senior players more than others.

"The tighter you get, the shorter your swing gets," he said. "You can't hit it as far, and you probably can't hit it as straight. You just have to stay warm and give yourself a good chance of making a swing."

Inkster holds four-stroke lead in LPGA Challenge

LINCOLN, Calif. (AP) — Juli Inkster overwhelmed a trio of opening-round leaders with a 5-under-par 67 and held a four-stroke lead following Friday's second round of the LPGA Longs Drugs Challenge.

Inkster fashioned a six-birdie, one-bogey round en route to an 8-under-par 136 total during an intermittently windy day at Twelve Bridges Golf Club.

Cindy Figg-Currier, one of the three who shared the first-round lead, moved into the lead at 6-under-par after nine holes. The 15-year LPGA veteran lost two strokes on the back nine en route to a 72. She has a 140 total and is in a four-way tie with A.J. Eathorne (68), Wendy Doolan (68) and Hiroma Kobayashi (72), another first-round leader.

Mhairi McKay (72), Rachel Hetherington (69), Michelle Estill (70) and Colleen Walker (70) were grouped at 3-under-par 141.

"I played really well; I hit every green and kept the ball in the fairway off the tee," said Inkster, an 18-time career tournament winner.

THE COMPANY–HHS UIL one-act play cast and crew for "Harvey" include,front row from left, technical crew members Josh Rowe, Sarah Artho, Michael Kelly, Mark Dotson, Paul Kilpatrick, and Shane Dawson. Middle row, from left, are Brenden Edwards (taxi driver E.J. Lofgren); Kitt Jennings (Mrs. Ethel Chauvenet); Josh Briones (Judge Omar Gaffney); and Amy Bell (Miss Johnson). At rear are Brigham Brown and Jessica Wuerflein (Dr. Chumley and Betty Chumley); Robin Bell (nurse Kelly); Jay Crawford (Dr. Sanderson); Darren Sliney (Elwood P. Dowd); Jaime Steiert (Veta Simmons); Lanita Dotson (Myrtle Mae Simmons); and Dwayne Dotson (orderly Duane Wilson). Directors are Lana Hall and Nina Brown.

Thespians will offer performance here Tuesday, April 6 at 7:30 p.m.

Special to the Brand

Ready for some light-hearted entertainment? Hop on down to the Hereford High School auditorium Tuesday night at 7:30.

Hereford High School's award-winning UIL one-act play company will present a public performance of the charming comedy "Harvey" by Mary Chase.--You'll get some laughs--and might even see a six-and-a-half foot tall rabbit as you watch.

Admission to Tuesday's performance will be by donation, and the public is invited to attend.

The HHS one-act play company won at the District 3-AAAA UIL one-act play contest at Amarillo College last week with its presentation of "Harvey," and will advance to area competition at Snyder on April 9. The ensemble performance won the praise of district contest judge /critic Krin Perry, who saluted its fun, high energy, and excellent character interaction.

"The pace of this play is brisk and high-energy, one of the strongest points," commented Perry.

"The characters are very believable and the cast performed with clear diction and wonderful energy. The set was beautiful and well-decorated, and fit the play's 1940s time period. The presentation was delightful," she added.

HHS speech instructor Lana Hall, who has directed UIL one-act play casts here for many years, was ecstatic over her company's accomplishment.

"The kids saved their best performance for contest day, and I was so pleased with how they played off of each other and inter-reacted. They gave a high level of energy to the play, and that made it something special," she said.

"Harvey" is the story of the endearing rumpot Elwood P. Dowd, (played by Darren Sliney) and his towering rabbit pal, Harvey, and their amusing and unfailingly charming relations with members of Dowd's family, the medical profession, and the general public.

When Elwood P. starts to introduce his imaginary friend to guests at a dinner party, his sister, Veta Louise Simmons (portrayed by Jaime Steiert) has seen as much of his eccentric behavior as she can tolerate. Veta decides to have Elwood committed to a sanitarium to spare her daughter Myrtle Mae (Lanita Dotson), Mrs. Ethel Chauvenet (Kitt Jennings), the maid, Miss Johnson (Amy Bell) and members of their family from future embarrassment. Problems arise, however, when Veta is mistakenly assumed to be on the fringe of lunacy when she explains to doctor Lyman Sanderson (Jay Crawford) that years of living with Elwood's hallucinations have caused her to see Harvey also!

Company members named to All-Star cast

Four members of the HHS one-act play company won all-district acting honors for their work in "Harvey" at the District 3-AAAA one-act play contest at Amarillo College last week.

Jaime Steiert, a senior who portrays the eccentric Veta Louise Simmons, was named District 3-AAAA Best Actress for her amusing rendition of the matronly sister, flabbergasted mother, and horrified victim of a miscue at the sanitarium.

Darren Sliney, who plays the role of the charming "crackpot" Elwood P. Dowd, was named to the District All-Star Cast for his winning rendition of the smooth-talking character, complete with winning reaction to those about him, including his towering sidekick, Harvey.

Robin Bell's wonderfully-timed and delivered portrayal of the moonstruck nurse Ruth Kelly won her an honorable mention to the District All-Star Cast.

One-act play newcomer Brenden Edwards had only a few minutes on stage as cab driver E.J. Lofgren in his first try at UIL one-act play, but his refreshing and commanding delivery of the character garnered him an honorable mention to the District All-Star Cast.

Julie Lovelace, Michael Carlson

Lovelace,Carlson to wed in San Antonio

John and Dickie Lovelace of San Antonio and Roy and Shirley Carlson of Hereford announce the engagement of their children, Julie Walton Lovelace and Michael Roy Carlson.

Grandmothers of the prospective groom are Betty Jo Carlson and Kathryn Vineyard, both of Hereford. Grandparents of the bride-elect are Mrs. Dick Walton of East Prairie, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lovelace of Tryon, N.C.

The wedding will be July 31 in Trinity Baptist Church of San Antonio.

The bride-elect graduated from Winston Churchill High School in 1995. She is a candidate for May graduation from Texas Tech University with a bachelor of arts degree in telecommunications.

The prospective groom is a 1994 graduate of Hereford High School and a 1998 graduate of Texas Tech with a bachelor's in agricultural and applied economics. He is currently a self-employed farmer/rancher.

Siebert to appear in concert April 11

Hereford Community Concert Association will complete its current season with a concert by Mary Siebert at 3 p.m. Sunday, April 11 in Hereford High School Auditorium.

Siebert is an uncommonly versatile singer, a soprano whose repertoire and experience span soprano and mezzo roles in opera, music theater, jazz and pop music. A national winner of the prestigious Metropolitan Opera competition, Siebert is in demand for her dramatic ability as well as for her rich, expressive voice.

One aspect of her concert performance is her personal contact with her audience. She comments on the numbers she performs and further charms her audience with superb and exciting gestures and expressions. She demonstrates that body language can be as expressive as the spoken word.

Siebert's repertoire includes operatic roles in such productions as Falstaff, Tosca, La Boheme, Carmen, Barber of Seville and Marriage of Figaro.

She has appeared with the Grand Teton Music Festival, Philharmonia Virtuosi, Virginia Chamber Ensemble and Moorhead Symphony.

Because of her commitment to arts education for children, Siebert has led hundreds of performances with outreach organizations such as Lincoln Center Productions and the Nashville Institute.

She has a program she entitles "COWBOYS!" where in one-hour programs children learn historic cowboy songs in a rollicking presentation woven together with amazing true stories of cowboys and gals from the 1800s, including African-American cowboys and Hispanic cowboys.

Mary Siebert

Plans are being made for Siebert to present her "COWBOYS!" program to some of the children of Hereford Independent School District. They will see slides of Russell and Remington paintings, as well as historic black and white photos.

Siebert was raised in Missoula, Mont., graduated from Indiana University with a Bachelor of Music, then studied at the Academy for Music and the Performing Arts in Vienna, Austria.

Concertgoers are reminded to park on the south and west side of high school due to construction on the east side of the building.

Isaac Hull

Once upon a mountain top, one little tree stood and dreamed what he wanted to be someday. The little tree looked out at a small stream trickling by on its way to the Atlantic Ocean.

"I want to be a strong naval ship," he said. "I want to travel mighty waters and carry a powerful naval hero. I will be the strongest ship in the American Navy."

Years passed. The rains came, the sun shone, and the little tree grew tall. One day a woodcutter climbed the mountain. He looked up at the tall tree and said, "This tree is strong. It is perfect for me." With a swoop of his shining axe, the tree fell.

"Now I shall sail mighty water," thought the tree. "I shall be a strong ship for a naval hero!"

The tree smiled when the woodcutter took him to a Boston shipyard. The tall tree was hammered and sawed into a strong American naval ship in 1794. It was 250 feet long and the hull was made of oak from Massachusetts, Maine and Georgia. The masts were made of white pine. The once tall tree could now carry a crew of 475 well-trained, experienced sailors.

They named me the Constitution. I was launched on October, 21, 1797. It is there that I began my many victories on the open sea. However my success was contributed to a famous naval hero. His name was Isaac Hull. He was known for determination, dedication and "superior seamanship" for his ship, his crew and his country.

During the War of 1812, Hull played a part of two major events in the United States naval history. In the first event, Hull's Constitution successfully outran and out-maneuvered a squadron of British warships during a three day chase.

Only a few hours after the American Declaration of war on June 18, 1812, 35-year-old Captain Isaac Hull received his orders from Madison. Hull was to sail from Annapolis, Md., to New York to defend against a possible British attack. The thing I liked most about Hull was how he was always thinking ahead. He had no intention of waiting for the British to come to him. He actively trained and drilled a 450 man crew. A date with destiny began on July 4, 1812, when Captain Hull sailed the naval ship Constitution - once a tall tree.

At 2 p.m. the lookout crew spied several sails on the horizon. By 5 a.m. the next morning, there was no longer any doubt. Five British warships were closing in at top speed on my vessel! The lead ship, the Guerriere, was headed by Captain Dacres. The Captain of my ship, Hull, believed that the Constitution was a match for any ship in single combat. But we both realized that facing five ships was not good odds!

In less than an hour my strong built ship was ordered to flee when the wind suddenly died down. With the enemy ships closing in within 12 miles, I was dead still in the water. However, the industrious Hull ordered some of the cutters, or rowboats, to be lowered immediately.

After attaching ropes to the front of the ship, sailors began to row with all the strength they had, dragging the Constitution forward. Through Hull's expertise, he observed through his telescope that the British were doing the same. Because they had more rowboats, they were gaining on us.

However, I was in good hands because of Hull's wittiness and fortitude. He now ordered his men to start kedging.

Kedging was a process of placing six sailors into a rowboat and with muscles strained, rowing a 4,700 pound kedge, or

Education Roundup

By CAROLYN WATERS

"The thing to do, when one feels sure that he has said or done the right thing, and is condemned, is to stand still and keep quiet. If he is right, time will show it." -- Booker T. Washington 1856-1915

If only the economic development group could monopolize on the "rumor mill!" With as much of it going on, in the school district alone, and with as many people "employed" in it, Hereford could be a "boom town." (Could any of this be used for TAAS writing?)

The sad part of the rumor mill business, though, is that it is taking time away from education and/or whatever occupation a person engages in – and it certainly is not a good example for our youth. Come on, folks, check things out before you repeat them, and also consider the source from which they came.

Congratulations, high school students, teachers and administration for a job well done on TAAS scores. There was much rejoicing and even some tears of joy, and relief, when the scores were released.

Each of the primary and intermediate schools have reported good benchmark scores for TAAS and are looking forward to improving even more when TAAS time arrives in late April. The extended day program has helped in this area.

Clay McNeely, our lone History Day participant, who is working on an exhibit about SaaB autos and airplanes, has recently received email from Joel Danby, president of SaaB, USA. Mr. Danby apologized that he could not be in Austin during the History Day activities, but that a representative from SaaB would visit with Clay in Austin. Clay will continue to extend his bibliography, study and research his topic.

The exhibit board that Clay is using has its own history, in that it was built in the 1993-1994 school year for Justin Landrum and Clay Brown's very successful Route 66 exhibit. Last year Marcus Smith used the board, so perhaps we have "saved a tree!" The TV that fits the board was purchased by Junior Historians two years ago primarily for History Day use.

If you see Clayton Patton, wish him success at the Geography Bee in Fort Worth on April 9. We will leave early on Thursday for this phase of National Geography Bee.

Couple exchanges marriage vows

Jillian Rae Fredrickson of Lucas and Santry Scott Hacker of Anna were united in marriage March 20 in First United Methodist Church of McKinney.

The bride is the daughter of Keith and Debbie Fredrickson of Lucas.

Parents of the bridegroom are Evelyn Dowell of Hereford and Joe Hacker of Amarillo.

Kathy McLean, pastor of First United Methodist Church of McKinney, officiated at the ceremony.

Maid of honor was Dodie Fredrickson, sister of the bride. Best man was Stefan Hacker, brother of the groom.

Bridesmaids were Kim Hacker, sister-in-law of the groom; Laura Fredrickson and Katherine Reynolds, cousins of the bride; and April Cook.

Serving as groomsmen were Shelley Hacker and Stacy Hacker, brothers of the groom; Mikel Walser and Temple Abney.

Guests were seated by Matt Fredrickson, brother of the groom, and Bryce McCollum.

Junior bridesmaids were Rachel Fredrickson, sister of the bride and Elizabeth Whisner, niece of the groom.

Junior groomsman was Brandon Bagwell, nephew of the groom.

April Hacker, niece of the groom and daughter of Stacy and Debbie Hacker, was flower girl.

Joseph Hacker, nephew of the groom and son of Shelley and Shawn Hacker, was ring bearer.

Music was provided by Diane Penny with vocal selections by Sabra Whisner, sister of the groom.

The bride wore an ivory satin gown which featured a scoop neckline and short sleeves. The waist and sleeves were adorned with latticework and flowers in pearls, with small pearl flowers scattered over the skirt and train.

The ivory fingertip-length, two-layered veil of illusion featured scalloped edges with pearl accents.

She carried a bouquet of ivory and blush roses with blue delphinium and ivy.

Bridesmaids wore simple, floor-length dresses of silver crushed velvet with a matching wrap and carried floral bouquets in ivory, peach and blue.

The couple was honored with a reception at the Stonebridge Country Club following the ceremony.

Assisting with the reception were Amber Hacker, niece of the groom, and Sonya Bagwell, sister of the groom.

The bride's three tier French vanilla cake was decorated with live flowers. The groom's cake was a two tier chocolate cake with German chocolate topping and dipped strawberries.

The couple made a wedding trip to Orlando, Fla., and a cruise to the Bahamas.

The bride graduated from Allen High School in 1995. She is currently employed at J.C. Penney Headquarters in Plano.

The groom is a 1992 graduate of Hereford High School. He is employed as supervisor of installations at Fujitsu Network Communications in Plano.

Ann Landers

Ann Landers

Dear Readers: Today, a great many children will be excited when they receive bunnies or baby chicks as Easter gifts. After a short while, their youthful enthusiasm will wane, and the children will lose interest in their new "toys." The vast majority of the chicks will die within a few days, and the rabbits will find their way to pounds, where they will be put to death.

Please remember what I have written when you consider giving your children rabbits or chicks for this holiday. Stuffed bunnies can be just as much fun as live ones. They don't require feeding, and you don't have to clean up after them. They get my vote.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 27-year-old woman currently living in a large house with three roommates — two male, one female. One of the guys, "Eddie," owns the house.

I think Eddie is obsessive-compulsive. He pastes our names on the silverware so we will know which fork to use. He has assigned us parking spots, even though we have no parking lot and use a public street. He posts a calendar for us to mark off which days we are using the laundry facilities. I once put a mark on the wrong day, and instead of erasing it, he got a new calendar.

I could live with his quirks except for one thing. He often tells me personal, intimate things about his life, including how much he longs for someone special to be with. I get the distinct impression he wants that someone to be me.

Eddie doesn't frighten me, but I'm uncomfortable around him.

I don't want to move out, Ann. The rent is cheap, I have my own room, and the other roommates are great. I cannot afford anything better. The only solution I've found is to work late and spend as much time in my room as possible. Do you have any other suggestions? — Whacked Out in the West

Dear Whacked: It sounds as if Eddie has some strudel in his noodle. He's a control freak and not about to change. Start looking around for other living quarters pronto, and see if you can find a pal or two to join you.

Dear Ann Landers: I would like to address this to all the young women who, for whatever reason, think having a baby is "cool."

I am the 17-year-old mother of a 4-month-old daughter. I will be the first to tell you it is not easy. And if you think having a baby will improve the relationship between you and your boyfriend, you are wrong. It will only make matters worse. My boyfriend and I called it quits a couple of weeks ago, when the fighting became unbearable. After three years of being very close, it's over.

If I have changed just one teenager's mind about getting pregnant, the time it took to write this letter will have been well worth it. — Been There in Indiana

Dear Indiana: Thanks for the testimony. I hope my teenage readers will pay close attention to what you have written. You are a far better authority on this subject than I am. And P.S. Don't give up without trying counseling with your boyfriend. You have a child now who needs two parents.

Dear Readers: I would like to recommend a book that will help parents who are facing the difficult challenge of dealing with toddlers and adolescents. This book offers some excellent suggestions on how to be nurturing and compassionate, so that you can help your child become well-adjusted and happy. The title: "Smart Love," by Dr. William J. Pieper and Martha Heineman Pieper, Ph.D. The publisher is the Harvard Common Press, and the price is $22.95 (in Canada, $31.95).

anchor, far out in front of the ship. After they dropped the anchor into the water, the ship inched forward toward the weight of the sinking anchor. Meanwhile, men in a second rowboat rushed to drop another anchor farther forward, and the process was repeated.

Hour after hour, exhausted men from both navies rowed until their muscles cramped, many catching short naps as they sat upright in the tiny rowboats. However, the captain of the Constitution, Isaac Hull, refused to leave his command post on deck.

The turning point of this war was when Hull ordered most of the drinking water of 2,300 gallons to be thrown overboard in order to lighten the ship. This great idea helped widen the gap between me, the Constitution and the British ships. It gave Hull a quick two mile lead. Suddenly, the wind increased and with clever maneuvering by Hull, the British gave up and turned away.

As a gesture of respect, the entire crew stood at attention as Hull, who had not slept in more than three days, made his way toward his cabin. As he was about to go below, one crewman thanked Hull "for bringing us through alive and in one piece."

This was not the last time that Isaac Hull would be ranked as a first-class naval officer. On August 10, 1812, Hull again went to battle on the Constitution against Captain Dacres on the Guerriere. It was on this historical occasion that the Constitution, once a tall tree, marked the first time that an American ship had defeated and sank a British warship. It was during this second event that I was renamed Old Ironside. Hull and his crew changed the course of history and the belief that the British navy was unbeatable.

Years passed. The little tree's dream had finally come true. He had won many victories that had been fought while sailing on the mighty waters of the Atlantic Ocean. But, the greatest victory of all was the day when a woodcutter made a tall tree into a strong ship fit for the famous naval officer named Isaac Hull.

Thank You

We extend this thank you with sincere gratitude for the special people of Hereford who have done so much for us. The prayers said for us were really felt in our hearts. We appreciate your continued prayers.
Each card, phone call and visit were so special. For the food, flowers, plants and every expression of love and support we thank you with all our hearts.
May God bless you, our love to all.

Thespians bring "Harvey" to life

Thespians

Dr. Sanderson commits Veta instead of Elwood, but when the truth comes out, it stirs the ire of Veta, lawsuit-ready Judge Omar Gaffney (Josh Briones) and Sanderson's boss, Dr. William R. Chumley (Brigham Brown).

The search is on for the "crackpot" Elwood, who has managed to focus the romantic interest of Dr. Sanderson and nurse Ruth Kelly (Robin Bell), spark infatuation between Myrtle Mae and sanitarium orderly Duane Wilson (Dwayne Dotson), and charm Dr. Chumley's wife, Betty (Jessica Wuerflein) in the interval.

When he shows up at the sanitarium looking for his lost friend Harvey, it seems that the mild-mannered Elwood's delusion has had a strange influence on more than one of the doctors. Even the implacable Dr. Chumley begins to see things a hare differently.

Only in the end--with some philosophical prodding from cabbie E.J. Lofgren, (Brenden Edwards) who demands his fare while she mysteriously can't find her coin purse, does Veta realize that maybe Harvey isn't so bad after all.

Members of the production's technical crew include Michael Kelly, Paul Kilpatrick, Josh Rowe, Shane Dawson, Sarah Artho, and alternates Mark Dotson and Mark Harrell.

YOUR HAT, HARVEY–Elwood P. Dowd (Darren Sliney) can clearly see his rabbit friend Harvey, even holds his hat for him, but niece Myrtle Mae (Lynita Dotson) and sister Veta (Jaime Steiert) are scandalized by his "delusion," as are the maid, Miss Johnson (Amy Bell) and Elwood-adoring Mrs. Ethel Chauvenet (Kitt Jennings).

LET ME GIVE YOU MY CARD–Don't call me at the old number, call me at the new one, Elwood P. Dowd (Darren Sliney) advises Mrs. Betty Chumley (Jessica Wuerflein) as he meets the wife of the head psychiatrist at the sanitarium that is confusing the condition of his sister and himself.

MEDICAL STAFF CONSULTATION–Sanitarium orderly Duane Wilson (Dwayne Dotson), left, can't figure out what's going on, nurse Ruth Kelly (Robin Bell) only has eyes for the aloof Dr. Lyman Sanderson (Jay Crawford), and head psychiatrist Dr. William Chumley (Brigham Brown) ponders whether he's really seen the 6-1/2 foot tall rabbit, Harvey.

THEY [illegible] E.J. Lofgren (Brenden Edwards) warns Veta Simmons (Jaime Steiert) against [illegible] injected with a powerful serum to restore his "sanity," worrying it will turn him into a "normal person, and you know how they are."

Child abuse prevention targeted during April

Most adults look back on their childhood as a time when they didn't have a worry in the world. Unfortunately, an increasing number of Texas children are not having it so easy because they are the victims of child abuse.

Last year in Texas, more than 29,000 children were victims of abuse and neglect.

April is Child Abuse Prevention Month. Hereford Regional Medical Center reminds us that this is a good time to reflect on what we are doing as a community to support children and families.

Children don't come with instructions and too many parents face raising their children without the knowledge and support they need and deserve.

National statistics show that in 1997, more than 3 million children were reported as possible victims of child abuse and neglect to child protective services in the United States.

In Texas in 1998, there were more than 111,000 investigations of child abuse and neglect by Child Protective Service in Texas.

Of those cases confirmed, 22,918 were neglectful supervision, 8,722 were physical neglect, 2,522 were medical neglect, 14,721 were physical abuse, 7,650 were sexual abuse, 2,368 were emotional abuse, 832 were abandonment and 1,002 were refusal to accept parental responsibility.

Each day in the United States:

*4 children die from child abuse.

*27 children die from poverty.

*67 babies die before one month of life.

*105 babies die before their first birthday.

*308 babies are born at low birth weight.

*689 babies are born with inadequate prenatal care.

*3,288 children run away from home.

*13,700 children are abused and neglected.

Help in obtaining driver's license offered by PCS-Hereford center

To achieve one of its goals for 1999, the Hereford center of Panhandle Community Services is initiating a class to assist those who cannot read or write English to obtain a driver's license.

According to Celia Serrano, center coordinator, classes will begin April 13. One-hour long sessions will be held twice weekly, on Tuesday and Thursday, from 2 p.m.-3 p.m. for four weeks in the PCS office, 1011 E. Park Ave.

Study will center around the driver's manual from the Texas Department of Public Safety and participants will learn the necessary facts to help them pass a written and/or oral test to obtain a driver's license.

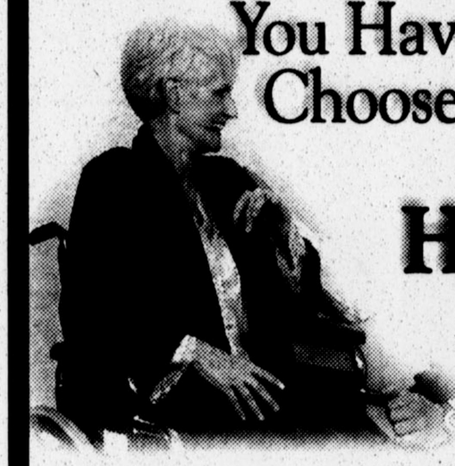

"We will also provide an individual to accompany class members to the DPS office and assist them, if we need to," Serrano said.

PCS is offering the classes to "help people help themselves," as their motto states.

"Not having a driver's license creates many problems," Serrano said. "These families endure lack of stability and their self-esteem remains very low causing them to quit trying to better themselves. By providing this service, we hope to motivate these individuals to become self-sufficient."

There is no charge for the classes, but anyone interested in attending should call Serrano at 364-5631 by Friday, April 9 to register.

Looking Back

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, April 4, the 94th day of 1999. There are 271 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On April 4, 1968, civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr., 39, was shot to death in Memphis, Tenn.

On this date:

In 1818, Congress decided the flag of the United States would consist of 13 red and white stripes and 20 stars, with a new star to be added for every new state of the Union.

In 1841, President William Henry Harrison succumbed to pneumonia one month after his inaugural, becoming the first U.S. chief executive to die in office.

In 1850, the city of Los Angeles was incorporated.

In 1902, British financier Cecil Rhodes left $10 million in his will to provide scholarships for Americans at Oxford University.

In 1945, during World War II, U.S. forces liberated the Nazi death camp Ohrdruf in Germany.

In 1945, U.S. troops on Okinawa encountered the first significant resistance from Japanese forces.

In 1949, 12 nations, including the United States, signed the North Atlantic Treaty.

In 1974, Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves tied Babe Ruth's home-run record by hitting his 714th round-tripper in Cincinnati.

In 1979, Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, the deposed prime minister of Pakistan, was hanged after he was convicted of conspiring to murder a political opponent.

In 1983, the space shuttle Challenger roared into orbit on its maiden voyage.

Ten years ago: Democrat Richard M. Daley was elected mayor of Chicago, defeating Republican Edward R. Vrdolyak and independent Timothy C. Evans.

Five years ago: On Wall Street, stocks plummeted in violent spasms of selling that sent the Dow industrial down more than 40 points to a six-month low. The University of Arkansas won the NCAA basketball championship, defeating Duke 76-72.

One year ago: During a visit to Haiti, Secretary of State Madeleine Albright urged leaders to stop political infighting that had paralyzed the Caribbean nation for nearly a year. Sixty-three people were killed in an explosion inside a Ukrainian coal mine.

Today's Birthdays: Composer Elmer Bernstein is 77. Actress Elizabeth Wilson is 74. Author-poet Maya Angelou is 71. Sen. Richard Lugar (R-Indiana) is 67. Recording executive Clive Davis is 67. Actor Michael Parks is 61. Bandleader Hugh Masekela is 60. Author Kitty Kelley is 57. Actor Walter Charles is 54. Actor Craig T. Nelson is 53. Actress Christine Lahti is 49. Country singer Steve Gatlin (The Gatlin Brothers) is 48. Actor Robert Downey Jr. is 34. Actress Nancy McKeon is 33. Actor Barry Pepper is 29. Actress Natasha Lyonne is 20.

Thought for Today: "You can kill a man but you can't kill an idea." — Medgar Evers, American civil rights activist (1926-1963).

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: We almost tossed out a box that held a GIFT we received, only to discover a manila envelope with precious family photos at the bottom of it.

This past Christmas we put a slip of paper in each box we mailed to family and friends with the number of items that were inside.

We were happy that we did, as one of our daughter-in-law's gifts was in a very small box and was buried in the packing material. It took quite a bit of digging through the "popcorn" for our son to find the correct number of gifts. — Joy Reis, Liberty Lake, Wash.

FAST FACTS

Here are some other uses for paper plates suggested by Vickie Dembowski of Houston:

* Use between good dishes in cabinets.

* Keep one in the microwave to catch spills.

* Put some between frying pans to keep them from scratching one another.

* Use for thawing foods in or out of the refrigerator.

* Cut in half for a dust pan and toss it out with the dust.

BODY PUFFS

Dear Heloise: Here is a tip I just figured out and have been using ever since:

Extra, never-used, medium-sized nylon-net body puffs (the kind you use in the shower) make a more efficient dish and pot scrubber than a sponge does.

They clean off sticky pots and pans and dishes and they rinse clean quickly. — Lila Andersen, Walker, Iowa

You've just discovered a Heloise pom-pom that my mother wrote about in the early 1960s! She used nylon net, and they are multiuse! — Heloise

FILM-DEVELOPING ENVELOPES

Dear Heloise: I bring home empty film-developing envelopes from my developing store.

This way when I finish a roll (I take a lot of pictures) I can fill out the envelope and my husband or I can drop it off fast without taking the time to fill it out in the store. — Kirsten Smith, Rapid City, S.D.

SOUND OFF

Dear Heloise: I wish you would use your clout to tell the makers of men's pajamas to go back to the strings and buttons. The elastic waistband and snaps are convenient but the elastic loses its stretch and the snaps lose their grip even after I "tap" them with a hammer as you recently suggested.

I will not throw away perfectly good pajamas, and my wife is weary of replacing the elastic and applying self-gripping fabric tape in place of the snaps. — Wilbur Rhodes, Kittery, Maine

REVERSE PACKING LIST

Dear Heloise: We all make a check-off list for packing for a trip.

My tip: Instead of throwing the list away, pack it. Recheck your suitcase with the list before you leave the hotel or someone's home.

They will thank you for being a good guest. It is so easy to leave a sweater here or shoes there on a long visit to a private home. This works for me. — Darlene Strevey, Reston, Va.

POWDER PUFFS

Dear Heloise: As I was dressing this morning, I thought of another hint to send to you.

Don't throw away those powder puffs after you have used all the powder in one box and open another.

Simply wash the old puff and when dry, put it in the box containing a pair of shoes. The old puff makes a great shoe buffer. — Dorothy Quinn, New Caney, Texas

YOUR EYES

Computer Eye-Strain
If you have to sit in front of a computer for several hours a day, chances are you've experienced blurred vision or aching and stinging eyes. Focusing on a monitor screen can certainly tire the eyes, but you can take steps to protect them.
GET A LARGE SCREEN: The larger the better, for your eyes sake. A large screen has better resolution.
MAKE THE DISPLAY SHARP AND CLEAR: Best bet are dark letters on a light background and an easy-to-read typeface.
MAKE SURE THE SCREEN IS IN THE RIGHT POSITION: Whether you have to adjust the monitor or your chair, make sure it's comfortable. The monitor should be about arm's length away.
KEEP NOTES AND CLUTTER OFF THE MONITOR: It's best to cut down on distractions.
USE GOOD LIGHTING: If there's a glare from outside, get blinds or shades to minimize direct light on the screen. To avoid glare from an interior light, adjust the position of the monitor.
KEEP SCREEN CLEAN: Simple smudges can distort display.
TAKE BREAKS: Step away from the computer every hour or so.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Spring: A great time for business renewal

No Winter lasts forever, no Spring skips its turn. April is a promise that May is bound to keep, and we know it. - Hal Borland

There is something very comforting to me in the cycle of seasons. From my early years on the farm, I know that the coming of Spring always means new life. Spring is a renewal season.

As I write this column, the Apricot trees are in full and colorful bloom. The white buds with the pinkish centers contrast vividly with the dark, reddish-gray bark. The greater contrast however, is the snow, which is falling on those early blooms.

As often happens in early Spring, two seasons collide. Just when the cold and dreary Winter seems unbearably long, hints of Spring begin to stir in our minds toward renewal.

It often happens in business, too. We try to hang on a little longer to the old, and yet we know the challenge of change is upon us. In business, we tend to grow comfortable in the seasons of cycles of business. But we need the awakening, hope and renewal Spring brings.

Renew Your Relationships

This Spring would be a perfect time to renew your personal touch with customers. As long as customers are people - and they always will be - personal service will be in style.

The personal touch will make your business standout from the competition like the first yellow daffodil of Spring. Make them forget all the cold, dreary service of the past. Call them by name, treat them with respect and make each customer feel important.

At times all customers feel like cold frozen icicles of Winter. They are treated like just another number in the lottery of life. Thaw out your customer relationships. Arm yourself with a fresh, Springtime smile, a courteous, friendly greeting and a new growth of product knowledge.

Are you rewarding employees for providing good customer service? Are your open-for-business hours convenient for your customers? Do you need to do some Spring-cleaning? Do your floors look more like Winter than Spring? Is it time to renew some paint, signs, or landscaping? Can you hear the warm sunshine of Spring when you answer the phone?

Spring is also a good time to renew your relationship with your bank. Drop in on your bank contact person and share your latest financial statements. Discuss your plans for growth or expansion. Seek your banker's advice. Invite all bank employees to become customers at your business, if they aren't already doing business with you.

One of my banker friends always makes certain that he takes his clients to lunch at restaurants that bank with his bank. If your bank doesn't make an effort to do business with you, I'd wonder about the strength of your long-term relationship. Business relationships are no different than personal relationships. It takes commitment of both parties to make it work.

This Spring would also be an excellent time to renew your relationships with your vendors and suppliers. Make some calls or write some notes and let your external partners know that you appreciate doing business with them. You never know when you will be in a position to benefit from a strengthened relationship.

One of my business acquaintances writes his top suppliers each year to thank them for helping him build his business. Then he reminds them of the total volume of business he brought to them last year. He says these not-so-subtle reminders often bring a call from the vendor thanking him for reminding them of the importance of his business.

Take time this month for some Spring renewal. You'll be glad you did.

Some Books Worth Reading

Between the Covers

By Martha Russell

We have tried to keep you informed of the technological changes taking place at the library. It's amazing how we've changed. Three years ago, when I first started working here, we had just gotten a PC with CD-ROM and I was trying to figure out how to install the CD's. Was that only three short years ago? Now we have Internet access, Windows NT workstations, and we're planning to have our own local area network, possibly wireless connectivity with Harrington Library Consortium or Panhandle Information Network, and who knows what else in the offing. We have gone from the backwoods Snuffy Smith to the cutting edge Jetsons. Well, we weren't exactly Snuffy Smith, but compared to where we are now technologically, and where we're going, it's turning out to be quite a journey.

In addition to the technological changes, there are also people changes. Our families are growing, graduating, marrying, or coming back home after being away. Now, in this springtime of new life, change, and growth, we have library staff changes.

Diana Yzaguirre, our Circulation Supervisor, has announced that, after six years at the library, it is time for her to move on. Last year, Diana worked very hard on weekends, driving to Amarillo, to complete massage therapy school. Any library staff member can tell you that she learned her lessons well, as we have been very willing guinea pigs for her to practice her skillful art.

It is evident when you talk to Diana that massage therapy is her love, and now she has an opportunity to pursue it. She's excited, and so are we for her, but of course, we will miss her greatly. It's hard to let someone like Diana go, who is always pleasant to work with, goes the extra mile for patrons, and is not above a good practical joke once in a while.

Of course, we wish her much success in her new venture.

Along with the announcement of the departing Diana, we are pleased to inform you that Maricela Martinez will be moving into the position of Circulation Supervisor. Maricela has been our part-time typist (and whatever else we asked her to do) for almost four years. You know when you ask Maricela to do something she will answer, almost without exception, "Sure!" How can you beat a staff member like that?

Maricela will be handling the Inter-Library Loan, periodicals, and circulation in general. Diana has given her a crash course, but Maricela already had some knowledge of the Circulation Supervisor duties because she has always been willing to help out in a pinch.

Now this leaves the part-time typist position open. Laws require us to follow a particular procedure, so applications will not be accepted until an ad appears in the Hereford Brand. The applications, incidently, will be available only in the County Treasurer's office, and only after the ad shows up in the paper.

Change. Required for growth, a part of life, sometimes scary, and always a challenge. Joan Lunden's A Bend in the Road is Not the End of the Road is a collection of ten positive principles for dealing with change, drawn from Lunden's own very public experience. With millions of Americans watching, Joan Lunden, one of the nation's most popular television personalities, made a life-altering transition with grace and ease as she brought to a close two decades of hosting Good Morning America. Joan illustrates the importance of staying as levelheaded in the face of life changes, and shares the principles that helped her.

It is my hope, though dim, that by the time this article is published our involvement with the Serbs and Albanians will be deemed no longer necessary. Whether that happens or not, you might be interested in finding out more about the history of this remote part of the world. The Serbs: History Myth and the Destruction of Yugoslavia by Tim Judah draws on Judah's experience while on assignment in the former Yugoslavia as the Balkans correspondent for the London Times. He examines the history of the Serbs from medieval times to the present combining a gripping personal description of the war with a skillful analysis of the historical cultural context out of which it grew.

If fiction is more your cup of tea, try Smoker by Greg Rucka. After his last job, professional bodyguard Atticus Kodiak has acquired the reputation for being a man that attracts danger. In fact, there's only one person in the business willing to touch him with a ten-foot pole.

Elliot Trent, head of New York's biggest security firm, says it's an easy job. Just babysit a pampered playboy hiding from the angry brothers of an ex-playmate. Kodiak has little choice but to accept the job, but it draws him into a multimillion dollar game of cat and mouse.

The mouse is Jeremiah Pugh, a material witness whose testimony can knock the legs out from beneath America's mighty tobacco industry. Consumed with guilt, Pugh may be his own worst enemy.

The cat is known only as John Doe, one of the ten most dangerous contract killers in the world. He is a ghost, unknown and unidentified, who changes with the wind and adapts to any situation.

Atticus finds himself between the killer and the target. He and the assassin are bound by a common thread – their obsession to get their jobs done. It's an obsession that will connect the assassin and the protector in the most intimate of relationships, anticipating each other's move, exploiting each other's weaknesses, baring each other's secrets, and raising the stakes in a game where the first player to flinch dies.

Mc6 Feeders win environmental stewardship award

By Dianna F. Dandridge
Hereford Brand Staff Writer

Amid reports of environmental contamination, inhumane treatment, and lack of concern for the land, people and the animals, one feedlot is working to change the negative perceptions.

Mc6 Cattle Feeders of Hereford, which is owned by Danny McWhorter, Gary Gosdin and Warren White, recently won the 1999 Environmental Stewardship Award presented by the Texas Cattle Feeders Association.

Mc6 Feeders, which now sits on a 5½-section tract that used to be part of the Conkrite Ranch, began its commercial feeding operations in 1989; however, since its inception the owners have wanted it to be more than just another feedlot.

"We want to be good neighbors," said manager and co-owner Warren White. "We want the land to be as useful and productive as possible, but we want to be able to give back to the land as well."

"When Danny bought the place, he put up a few pens with the intention of feeding his own cattle, maybe 1,500 head," White said. "It just grew from there."

It wasn't just the number of pens or number of animals which continued to grow; improvements to the land added value and productivity.

Through the years, the owners broke up large pastures into smaller pastures with cross fencing.

"We put the light calves, 300 to 400 pounds, out to graze. Let them graze a field down and then rotate them," said White. "It allows the light animals to stay on pasture longer and then gives the field a chance to recover."

He said this means the animals are rotated more often, but the land and the pastures are not as heavily used.

Owners added underground water lines that wet roads and alleyways, keeping down dust during dry periods.

The underground lines also bring water to the numerous tanks in the grazing fields, allowing more cattle to graze smaller fields and providing necessary water for wildlife.

Runoff water drains into a lagoon, surrounded by conservation filter strips so solid waste is filtered out before it reaches the lagoon.

In addition, the owners have installed an overhead drip irrigation system for watering the fields. The water is recycled from the lagoon, putting vital nutrients back into the soil which would other wise be lost.

Likewise, the manure scraped from the pens is applied to the land belonging to Mc6 as well as other customers.

"What we've tried to do is make this land as productive as possible without adding a lot of unnatural chemicals," White said.

White said there is a high demand for the manure, especially after harvest, when the land is in need of extra nutrients.

Reports estimate the improvements in the last 10 years have increased the carrying capacity of the pasture and farmland by 40 percent and increased farm yields, growth of native range plants and number of wildlife.

Unlike most feedlots in the area, Mc6 owners have added windbreak/shade shelters in most pens.

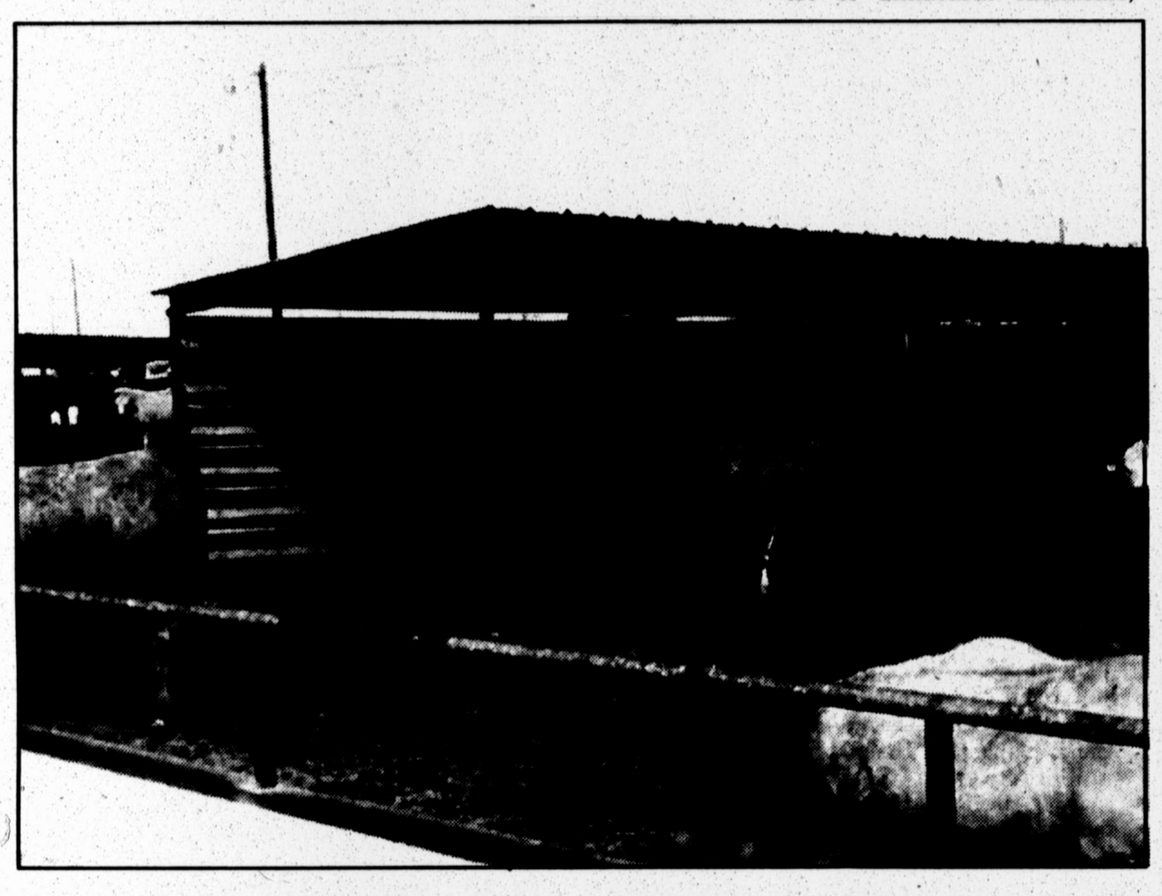

"This is the best way to feed large numbers of animals and still be efficient," he said. "Animals make good gains and they only do that when they are content."

White is confident the improvements have benefitted the organization.

"Our capacity is 35,000," he said, "and we pretty much stay full."

Most of their customers come from Texas and New Mexico, but some come from as far as California and Tennessee.

The winner of the TCFA Environmental Stewardship Award was chosen by outside selection committee comprised of environmental management professionals and will now compete against operations in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas for the national award presented by National Cattlemen's Beef Association.

Cooling off place-- Mc6 Feeders is one of only a few big feedlots which has added windbreaks and shades to their feeding pens. The comfort added by the shelters seem to improve the gain rate of the animals as well as adding a touch of humanity. Mc6 owners have added other improvements to the land making it more productive while still being environmentally friendly.

Beef industry pushes easy-fix meals

New items target busy consumers

DALLAS (AP) — Taking a cue from pre-packaged salads, pre-shredded cheeses and pre-sliced luncheon meats, the beef industry has introduced a new line of meals made easy.

The industry is pushing pot roast and prime rib, meatloaf and meatballs — all fully cooked and ready to microwave and serve in 10 minutes. Cattlemen also have spent $25 million on marketing.

The media blitz, which began this week, revives the slogan "Beef. It's What's For Dinner," and features voice-overs from actor Sam Elliott. Among the companies offering these microwave products are Burnett & Son, Jimmy Dean and Lloyd's Barbecue.

Consumers say they simply do not have time anymore to cook beef dinners, said George Swan, an Idaho rancher who is president of the National Cattleman's Beef Association.

"They say, `We're looking for convenient ways to provide a good meal for our families and for ourselves,'" Swan said. "If you go home and make a pot roast it could take a couple of hours, and that isn't their choice or their desire."

But some Dallas grocery shoppers, like Emily Seibel, say they have no interest in buying precooked beef.

"I love to cook. I find it very relaxing," Ms. Seibel, 41, said while going through the beef section of a Dallas supermarket. "I like meat. I just like the way I prepare it."

Barbara Saccal of Addison said she also prefers to cook her own beef. "I like to get my meat fresh. It costs a little more but it's worth it," she said.

That sentiment does not worry Burt Rutherford, spokesman for the Texas Cattle Feeders Association in Amarillo.

"There will always be those kinds of people, and thank goodness there are," he said.

Swan said the demand for beef has declined in the past 20 years, but it has leveled in the past year because of the popularity of high-protein diets.

"They find out beef is nutritious, it's a source of iron and it's a dense product with nutrients we need for a healthy body today," he said.

The beef industry needs all the help it can get. High feed grain prices in 1996, cyclically large cattle numbers, record heavy slaughter weights and record supplies of pork and poultry have taken a toll, the National Cattlemen's Beef Association has said.

Chuck Lambert, the association's chief economist, said he expects beef production levels to decline through 2001, causing slightly higher prices.

Researcher develops disinfectant cotton

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Imagine a cotton T-shirt that breaks down pesticides into harmless particles immediately on contact or a pair of denim jeans that disinfects itself when it touches germs or viruses.

It is not far off, says a University of California, Davis researcher.

In what could be a breakthrough for people working everywhere from farms to hospitals, UC Davis scientist Gang Sun thinks his chemically-treated fabrics could change the way people wear their work clothes.

Sun's work involves the use of one of the most common disinfectants people use in their homes: chlorine.

His research is based on a chemical called hydantoin, which grabs chlorine molecules and holds them.

Sun says the process would graft hydantoin onto cotton fabrics and immerse the fabric in chlorine bleach. When the fabric comes in contact with certain pesticides, virus or bacteria, the chlorine is released, disinfecting the cloth.

"We were surprised how quickly and powerfully it killed the germs," said Sun, whose research gained attention at a recent chemical conference in Southern California.

Federally subsidized claims pay on unfeasible products

Crop insurance abuse costs taxpayers millions

WASHINGTON (AP) — For some farmers, the best crop is the one they don't harvest.

In west Texas last year, 200 farmers obtained federally subsidized insurance on a type of cotton that wasn't feasible to grow in their arid region. They paid $4.4 million in premiums and then claimed nearly $15 million in benefits when most of the crop failed.

Farmers in North Dakota and surrounding states recently rushed out and bought seed for durum wheat, even in areas not suited for the crop, to take advantage of a new insurance policy offering benefits far higher than they could earn if they grew and sold ordinary wheat.

Crop insurance provides a vital safety net for farmers, especially when prices are low and the government has been trying to phase out its role in agriculture. But government auditors say the insurance system is riddled with abuse, conflicts of interest and errors because taxpayers bear most of the risk for losses, not the private companies that sell and service the policies.

The companies "have little reason to effectively monitor risky policy holders, little reason to deny claims of questionable losses, and no cause to find fault with their own practices," said an internal report by the Agriculture Department's inspector general.

The companies "are supposed to ensure compliance, but they also have an aggressive sales function. ... The two don't mix well," said Scott Stofferahn, who oversees USDA's farm programs in North Dakota.

Stephen Frerichs, a spokesman for the companies, dismissed the inspector general's report this week, saying it was merely "rehashing a bunch of old" allegations.

Besides assuming most of the risk for losses, the government subsidizes the premiums

> "Farmers are honest folks. If they think someone is cheating, they'll report it."
> John Zirschky, USDA [illegible]

farmers pay for the insurance and pays the companies a fee for handling the policies. The program has been costing the government more than $1.5 billion a year, and Congress is considering doubling that to improve the coverage and make it less costly to producers.

The insurance companies have to pay some of the losses, with their share varying according to their government contracts. Nevertheless, they have made $2.8 billion in fees and underwriting gains — their gross profits after losses — over the last four years. That's $400 million more than they made in the previous 14 years combined.

Acreage covered by the insurance has doubled to about 70 percent of all farmland since the program was last overhauled in 1994, while losses have been relatively low. The weather has been good through most of the country since 1993 except for droughts in the South and Southwest last year that prompted Congress to provide $1.7 billion in disaster relief for lost crops and livestock assistance.

"Naturally the underwriting gains are going to be larger and the indemnity payments are lower," said Frerichs, manager of the American Association of Crop Insurers.

USDA's Risk Management Agency, which oversees the program, has been shifting more of the risk to the companies in recent years and cutting their fees, officials say. In the case of the durum policies, USDA sharply reduced the potential benefits and is now being sued by farmers to have them reinstated.

"Farmers are honest folks. If they think someone is cheating, they'll report it," said John Zirschky, the agency's associate administrator. "Farmers don't like to see people stealing taxpayer's money."

Farmers currently pay $50 a crop for basic "catastrophic" coverage, regardless of acreage, and about 60 percent of the premium — which can run into thousands of dollars — for more extensive "buyup" insurance. Those policies cover losses from drought, floods, pests, and in some cases, drops in projected revenue.

The government pays the rest of the premium. In 1998, the government spent $946 million on premium subsidies and paid another $759 million to the companies.

Farmers complain that crop insurance is usually too stingy and they want coverage for more specialty crops and also for livestock, which can't be insured now.

Most of the time, the insurance "doesn't provide adequate revenue to cover the expenses put into the ground every spring, with the amount of risk that you're subjected to," said wheat grower Tom DeKrey of Steele, N.D.

Regulators consider dairy pricing formulas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal milk pricing regions would be consolidated and the formulas used to determine how dairy farmers are paid would be changed under a major overhaul of dairy policy proposed by the Agriculture Department.

The changes, which must be approved by milk producers, are expected to benefit consumers only slightly: The government expects the average price of drinking milk to drop by about 2 cents a gallon.

Still, the government said significant strides had been made.

"These reforms will help make sure that America's dairy farmars receive a fair price and that American consumers continue to enjoy an abundant affordable supply of milk," Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman said.

The nation's milk pricing regions are divided into what are called milk marketing orders, which set the price processors pay dairy farmers. Under the changes, the milk marketing orders would be reduced from 31 to 11.

The newly consolidated orders must be approved by either two-thirds of producers in a marketing area or by producers who supply two-thirds of the milk in a marketing area. If these producer referendums are approved, the changes will take effect Oct. 1.

The pricing formulas would also see changes. The basic formula price, which establishes the minimum price for milk used in nearly all dairy products, would be replaced with a formula that looks at multiple across-the-board components. The basic formula price had been based on the price of raw milk used for cheese in Minnesota and Wisconsin.

One of the biggest and most contentious changes would be in the differentials received by farmers, which would vary by region. For instance, farmers in Texas would see their differential drop from $3.16 to $2.10 per hundredweight, while the Chicago area would see an increase from $1.40 to $1.95.

The differentials, which help cover the cost of dairy farming in those areas, are higher for regions that are considered milk deficient. They have also sparked the ire of farmers in the Upper Midwest who complain that the pricing system is more favorable to dairy farmers in the West, South and other regions.

Wednesday, the reaction from Congress was mixed.

"Secretary Glickman's decision is like a bad April Fool's joke," said Sen. Jim Jeffords, R-Vt. "This plan will likely cost New England dairy farmers $1.5 million per week."

Sen. Russell Feingold, D-Wis., said while the reforms will help some, the plan means farmers in his state will get "far less for their milk than they should."

E. Linwood Tiptoj, president of the International Dairy Foods Association, which represents processors, said he was still evaluating the proposal but that "a very early reading indicates that they may have moved the chairs on the deck, but not moved us much further toward true reform."

Jerry Kozak, chief executive officer of the National Milk Producers Federation, said his organization was also still reviewing the complex decisions.

The overhaul reforms a milk marketing order system that has been in place since the 1930s. The orders essentially prevent processors from playing producers against each other to drive down the price.

The 1996 farm bill ordered Glickman to consolidate to between 10 and 14 orders.

Under the new proposal, the 11 orders will include the following areas: Northeast, Appalachian, Florida, Southeast, Mideast, Upper Midwest, Central, Southwest, Arizona-Las Vegas, Western and Pacific Northwest.

Onion growers seek stability

ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — As they prepare to harvest an above-average crop after an excellent growing season, Georgia's Vidalia onion growers want to do business in a new way.

Taking a cue from Florida tomato farmers, they have formed an organization to stabilize prices and provide consumers with more consistent quality.

"I believe it will help save the farm," said grower R.T. Stanley, president of the newly formed Vidalia Onion Business Council. "All other agricultural products are selling below the cost of production. If we don't make a reasonable profit on these onions, we're not going to be able to survive."

Bob Stafford, manager of the council, said growers will set minimum prices weekly on two types of jumbo onions.

"We want to work together ... more than we ever have," said Stafford, a retired U.S. Department of Agriculture fruit and vegetable inspector from Raiford, Fla.

George Boyhan, an onion specialist with the University of Georgia Extension Service in Statesboro, said he doesn't think the council-set prices will have any effect on the retail price of Vidalias this summer.

Onions sold for about $20 per 50-pound bag early in the season last year, but dropped to about $10 per 50-pound bag later on.

Growers considered setting an overall minimum of $12 to $14 this year, but dropped that in favor of the weekly plan. Stafford said the council has not decided where this year's prices will start. Onion sales are expected to begin shortly after the harvest begins next month.

Council membership is voluntary, but Stafford said he expects commitments from growers who control at least 80 percent of the 14,789 acres that will be harvested this year in the Vidalia growing area.

The minimum, or floor price, will give growers an incentive to strive for higher quality, primarily by harvesting at the most opportune time and delivering onions that are fully mature, Stafford said.

"The price won't fluctuate as much," he said. "We won't run it too high to scare the buyers off, and we won't let it go so low as to put the growers under what it costs to produce the onions."

Stafford said buyers like the plan because it will stabilize prices and reduce cutthroat competition.

Boyhan said the 1999 crop, which will be harvested beginning the second week in April, "looks great" and should be about the same size as last year's 15,000-acre crop.

"The weather has cooperated, disease has been light and it wasn't as wet as last year," Boyhan said.

Stanley, one of Georgia's 138 registered growers, said he expects strong demand and good quality.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Classified advertising rates are based on 20 cents a word for first insertion ($4.00 minimum), and 11 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

Times	Rate	Min
1 day per word	.20	$4.00
2 days per word	.31	$6.20
3 days per word	.42	$8.40
4 days per word	.53	$10.60
5 days per word	.64	$12.80

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid-word lines -- those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphs, all capital letters. Rates are $5.30 per column inch.

LEGALS

Ad rates for legal notices are $5.30 per column inch.

ERRORS

Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints:

- Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.
- Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.
- Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.
- Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write.

Only Birds Have One Use for Newspapers

We'll be the first to admit it. People have come up with, shall we say, interesting uses for newspapers.

And that's what makes newspapers so great. They serve different uses for different people. Whether you're scouring the entertainment section to find that perfect movie for that all important first date, checking the business section to review the latest financial information or scanning the sports pages to see how your team made out during last night's game, newspapers offer something for everyone.

And if you're a bird, we're sure you can come up with at least one good use for newspapers on your own.

ESPN's Miller predicts interesting baseball season

ESPN baseball announcer Jon Miller is predicting some interesting pennant races this season, particularly in the National League. He can be heard calling the action at a Colorado Rockies-San Diego Padres matchup from Monterrey, Mexico, on Sunday, and a Milwaukee Brewers-St. Louis Cardinals game Monday.

Jon Miller, the velvet-smooth voice of ESPN's Sunday Night Baseball, believes in a frank approach to calling America's national pastime. He'll surely demonstrate it when he and 10th-year partner Joe Morgan work the Colorado Rockies-San Diego Padres prime-time opener Sunday, April 4, from Monterrey, Mexico.

Yet Miller can be forgiven if he's a bit wary, considering that Tim McCarver's recent firing had to remind him of his own fate after the 1996 season. That's when he was dropped as the voice of the Baltimore Orioles after 14 years for, as he put it, "not bleeding black and orange enough."

McCarver, another sportscaster known for calling it as he sees it, was unceremoniously dumped in favor of Tom Seaver by the New York Mets after 16 years. Now he's analyzing the world champion Yankees for Fox's New York station and returns for Fox's Saturday matinee baseball lineup in June.

ESPN starts right away with Sunday's Rockies-Padres game and a tripleheader Monday, April 5, with Arizona at Los Angeles, Milwaukee at St. Louis and the Yankees at Oakland.

"We had a great 1998 season with (Mark) McGwire and Sammy Sosa in that record homer race and the Yankees being a great and dominant club," Miller reflects. "But there wasn't much in the way of pennant races. This year, I think we'll have some good ones."

He doesn't expect much suspense in the American League East, however. "I don't see anyone there competing with the Yankees. ... I think Baltimore, Boston and Toronto will compete with a Western team for the AL wild card."

Elsewhere in the league, "Cleveland has a virtual free pass to the Central title," Miller says. "But Texas and Anaheim should have a great race in the West, and the Seattle Mariners may join them if they get some pitching to go with Ken Griffey Jr."

The Angels are bolstered by the addition of free-agent slugger Mo Vaughn, who bolted from Boston amid hot controversy to land an $80 million deal.

Miller regards the National League as far more competitive.

"The Atlanta Braves are the top club in the East, but they don't have all their starters back, and Andres Galaragga hit 44 home runs. Now he's out with cancer," Miller says. "He was the best first baseman around defensively, too."

Miller sees the NL Central as a three-team race. "Houston also had a big loss with Moises Alou out, and the Cards have made a lot of improvements," he says. "And don't forget the Cubs are still there with Sosa."

The NL West is loaded.

"Arizona bought a whole pitching staff ... but I don't know if the Diamondbacks can hit enough," Miller says. "The Rockies' big addition is Jim Leyland as manager. The Dodgers have manager Davey Johnson and a starting rotation with Kevin Brown that could be better than the Braves have. ... Their problem could be an infield that has a chance for 100 errors."

While Miller and Morgan work Sunday's Rockies-Padres opener and Monday's Cards-Brewers matchup, Chris Berman and Ray Knight draw the Yanks-A's test that caps Monday's tripleheader.

Fox Sports Net launches a 27-week Thursday slate on April 8 with Sosa's Cubs playing NL Central champion Houston.

Viewers in some areas may also see AL Central winner Cleveland at Anaheim (check local listings).

HOROSCOPES

April 4-10

ARIES – March 21/April 20
Relax, Aries. Don't let a minor disagreement with a co-worker set off your temper. He or she didn't mean any harm. Besides, everyone is entitled to his or her own opinion. A loved one asks a favor of you. While you don't want to get involved, you know that you have to do something. Try to help him or her out.

TAURUS – April 21/May 21
It's going to be a great week, Taurus. You don't have too much on your schedule, so there is plenty of time to enjoy yourself. Take the time to do the little things that you haven't been able to get to for a while — read the newspaper, go to a movie, or call a friend whom you haven't talked to in a long time.

GEMINI – May 22/June 21
You're on the hot seat at the beginning of the week. A close friend loses something important, and all evidence points to you being the culprit. While you haven't done anything wrong, prepare to defend your honor. However, don't get too upset. Things will be cleared up by midweek. Leo plays a key role.

CANCER – June 22/July 22
Don't keep your emotions bottled up this week, Cancer. Instead, confront the person who is getting on your nerves. He or she has no idea that you're bothered by what's going on. A loved one needs some advice. Try to be honest with him or her — even though you know that what you have to say won't be appreciated.

LEO – July 23/August 23
Keep your eyes and ears open when it comes to business, Leo. Those around you aren't telling you everything there is to know. Try to find out what's going on. A friend of a friend wants to get to know you better. Be cautiously optimistic. There's a future for the two of you if you play your cards right.

VIRGO – Aug 24/Sept 22
Don't bite off more than you can chew this week, Virgo. Your schedule is full; you can't take on any more responsibility. The person whom you've been seeing asks to take a break. Don't be upset about this. A little time apart is sure to strengthen your relationship.

LIBRA – Sept 23/Oct 23
You get into an argument with a close friend early in the week. Don't let it get you down. Neither of you means what you say, and soon enough, both of you will realize this. Things will be back to normal by the week's end. Aries plays a key role.

SCORPIO – Oct 24/Nov 22
Stand your ground when it comes to a financial situation on Wednesday, Scorpio. Don't let others tell you what to do. You can make your own decisions. A close friend turns to you in a time of need. Be there for him or her. Your efforts will be appreciated.

SAGITTARIUS – Nov 23/Dec 21
Don't beat around the bush when talking with a business acquaintance about an important issue. He or she needs to hear the truth — and you're the only person who will tell it. A relative introduces you to an interesting person. Get to know him or her better. It definitely will be worth the effort.

CAPRICORN – Dec 22/Jan 20
Keep to yourself this week, Capricorn. Those around you are involved in some difficult situations. It's much better that you don't get drawn into the fray too. A close friend wants to talk with you. Listen to what he or she has to say. It could enhance your social life.

AQUARIUS – Jan 21/Feb 18
There's so much going on this week, Aquarius, that you just don't know which way to turn. Try to stay calm and organized. Set your priorities in order. It's the only way to accomplish anything. The others involved will be impressed with your efforts. Pisces plays an important role on Thursday.

PISCES – Feb 19/March 20
Even though you may want to help a business associate who is in trouble, don't. You'll be able to make him or her look good, but only after making yourself look incompetent. Just focus on your own situation. That special someone has a surprise for you this weekend. Enjoy!

An abused girl (Madeline and Yvonne Zima) finds refuge with a neighbor (Della Reese, left) in The Secret Path, airing Sunday, April 4, on CBS.

Abandoned as an infant, Jo Ann (Zima) is returned with a warning that "God is watching." Her dysfunctional family does not take heed, and she spends her childhood being trained for the family bootlegging business.

Her only solace is a loving couple who live down a secret path behind her house.

James Brolin hosts Body Human 2000: Love, Sex & the Miracle of Birth, airing Wednesday, April 7, on CBS.

The program shows how doctors are able to solve reproductive and genetic riddles using state-of-the-art medical techniques. It covers new therapeutic reproductive procedures, methods of aiding premature infants and gender determination.

Among the images shown are photos of a 25-day-old fetus, the first ever taken at this stage of development.

Clayburgh, Tambor head new family sitcom on NBC

Oscar nominee Jill Clayburgh (An Unmarried Woman) and Jeffrey Tambor (The Larry Sanders Show) star with newcomer Kevin Rahm in Everything's Relative, a new NBC sitcom getting a four-episode test drive beginning Tuesday, April 6.

Rahm plays Leo Gorelick, a struggling young comedy writer whose pressurized career is frequently interrupted by the chronic emotional demands of his long-divorced parents (Clayburgh, Tambor) and his self-absorbed brother, Marty (Eric Schaeffer from Fox's Too Something), a doctor about to get married for the third time.

Maureen Cassidy co-stars as Trina, Leo's sympathetic writing partner.

Series creator Mitchell Hurwitz says the show isn't literally autobiographical, although it certainly resonates with him.

"People ask if it's about my family, and, in a sense, everything is about my family," he says with a laugh, "and that's kind of what the show is about: how everything in our lives is based on our families. It's a part of life that I haven't seen much of on TV, the adult family.

"This show is like Ozzie & Harriet exploded. The kids have grown up, the parents have been divorced for 20 years, so the family is separated and yet they're still a family. There are scars from the past, but they have healed back together. I think this will feel familiar to most adults."

NBC wasn't able to provide a copy of the pilot for preview, but Hurwitz says the show will look somewhat different from standard sitcoms.

"Instead of doing a play in front of a live audience, we're trying to do an independent film in front of an audience," he says. "It's kind of a hybrid and looks very different. We go to different locations, like Barney's department store and shot there for a night, which was wonderful."

Sight unseen, Everything's Relative boasts a provocative premise and an interesting cast.

With only four episodes scheduled, however, viewers should sample it while they can.

TV PIPELINE

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Q: Who originally created the role of "Snapper" Foster on The Young and the Restless? I say it was David Hasselhoff. –"Still a Y&R Fan After All These Years" via e-mail.

A: Hasselhoff, who played Bill "Snapper" Foster from 1975-82, was the second actor in the role, which was created in 1973 by William Gray Espy.

Q: Did the actress playing Yetta on The Nanny once play Laura's neighbor on The Dick Van Dyke Show? –J.T. from S.C.

A: Yes. Ann Guilbert was billed as Ann Morgan Guilbert when she played Millie Helper, Laura Petrie's (Mary Tyler Moore) neighbor.

Q: Wasn't John Dye of Touched by an Angel once a member of the cast of Ellen? –Shannon Mullins, St. Petersburg, Fla.

A: No. I suspect you are thinking of Arye Gross, who once played Ellen's roommate and friend Adam Greene on the show. Gross and Dye bear a slight resemblance to each other.

Q: I recently watched a rarely shown 1951 movie called That's My Boy starring Jerry Lewis. His father, "Jarring" Jack Jackson, was played by Eddie Mayehoff. Am I mistaken in recalling that Mayehoff played the same role in a TV series version of this movie? –Carol R. Dailey, Kingsford Heights, Ind.

A: You're not mistaken, Carol. Mayehoff reprised his movie role of "Jarring" Jack in a 1954-55 CBS sitcom of the same title, in which Gil Stratton Jr. took over Lewis' role as the son, Junior.

Q: When a recent letter writer actually asked whether Drew Barrymore played Cindy Brady, I think you should have responded, "Yes, and Jan was played by Gwyneth Paltrow." My blood boils as red as Lucy Ricardo's hair when I see questions like that even submitted. I hope such a person is tossed unceremoniously and rather violently out of the Brady household and onto the AstroTurf back lawn! –"Am I Living in a World Gone Mad?" via e-mail.

David Hasselhoff

A: Believe it or not, Living, I've gotten other letters like yours, but yours was far and away the funniest. Yes, I do get some truly unbelievable questions from time to time – apparently some readers are determined to believe that rock star Marilyn Manson used to be a child sitcom star no matter how many times I tell them he wasn't – but I always keep two things in mind:

I don't think anyone intentionally asks a stupid question. Also, most of my readers aren't in the business of tracking entertainment news. I'm sure that if I were asking them about their own area of supposed expertise, my questions would sound pretty ill-informed as well.

SOAP TALK

Brewster puts college on hold – for now

By Candace Havens
©TVData Features Syndicate

As the World Turns fans seem to be overly curious as to what Jordana Brewster (ex-Nikki) has been doing and are clamoring for more news on the young actress.

Brewster decided to forgo college for awhile to take on some acting roles.

"There were so many opportunities right after I left, and I knew I could go to college later," she says. "I haven't given up on school, but I want to see what I can do for now."

Since leaving ATWT, she has starred in the horror film The Faculty and the NBC miniseries The '60s.

Dear Candace: Who is Jill's (Jess Walton, The Young and the Restless) maid from hell?

I think I've seen her on television or in movies in comedy parts. She is very good. –Georgia Maguire, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Dear Reader: Beverly Archer plays Shirley, Jill's maid. She has a lengthy resume of guest spots and recurring roles.

Her credits include a starring role on Major Dad and appearances on Mama's Family, Clueless, Married ... With Children, The Fall Guy, Family Ties, The Mommies, Grace Under Fire and others.

She was also in the TV movies The Christmas Wish and Project: ALF.

Dear Candace: I read your article about Erika Page (Roseanne, One Life to Live) and country singer Bryan White's engagement. I was curious as to why they were waiting two years.

I have to say I think it is a good idea. It will give them a chance to get to know each other. If everyone did that, there wouldn't be so many divorces.

By the way, White has great taste. –Dave Charles, Winston-Salem, N.C.

Dear Reader: The long engagement is due to scheduling conflicts for White and Page. They also wanted to take their time planning the big day.
