Rebels Proclaim A March On Budapest

Hotel Sales Force Continues Forming

The formation of the sales force of the general sales group for the selling of stock in a community owned hotel for Pampa is continuing with encouraging progress reported by Fred Neslage, general sales manager.

The Ladies Section, headed by Mrs. Rufe Jordan and Mrs. Lynn Boyd, met Saturday morning in the campaign headquarters and selected names of prospective saleswomen for the group managers to contact.

Group managers of the Men's Section are reporting the signing up of salesmen for their groups. The first group manager to report that he had completed the signing up of salesmen was John Campbell. Members of his sales group are: James S. Crouch, George Neef Jr., Ray Duncan, Arthur Aftergut, Bennie Waller, Bill Waters, James Evans, Harry Gordon, Bro Mingus and Jack Hood.

Joe Fischer reported that he had signed up Elmer L. Fisher, John Gikas, C. R. Hoover, Robert Mack and Richard W. Stowers. Floyd Watson has signed up Joe Cree, Arthur M. Teed, Max A. Bullick and Gerald D. Sims. The only other group manager who reported was Newt Secrest who stated he had signed up Kirk Duncan, L. J. Zachry, J. E. Leverich and Kay Fancher.

At the meeting of the executive committee of the hotel group Friday afternoon it was decided that the next meeting would be a luncheon meeting in the Palm Room at City Hall tomorrow at 12 noon.

W. J. Smith, legal counsel for the executive committee, reported at the Friday meeting that all of the necessary legal work had been completed except the issuance of a permit for the selling of stock in the community hotel corporation. The committee authorized Smith to make a trip to Austin to see if the process of obtaining the permit for the selling of stock could be speeded up.

The executive committee passed a resolution to inquire of local businesses and banks to see if they would handle stock payments by payroll deductions or bank drafts. The stock will be sold with the provision that the first payment of 10 per cent will be made on Jan. 1 and an additional payment of 10 per cent will be made the first of each month for the nine months.

The remainder of the meeting Friday was taken up with the passing out of prospective subscriber cards to the members of the executive committee. The cards bear the names of prospective stock subscribers who the committee feels will purchase stock in the amount of $1,000 or more and will be contacted by members of the executive committee.

Air Force Reserve Center Is Dedicated

Ceremonies dedicating the Pampa Air Force Reserve Center yesterday morning at 10 o'clock were highlighted with an address by Col. William Todd, operations officer of the Amarillo Air Force Base. Col. Todd stated that the best military force was the one that was not needed, it served as a deterrent to the warlike intentions of any aggressor nation. However, the Reserve Forces are an essential part of our defense and must be ready for combat when called in a national emergency.

Col. Todd was introduced by Major Robert Brown, commander of the Pampa Air Reserve Squadron which has just occupied the new headquarters building at 208 W. Browning. This squadron will supervise Air Reserve training and administration for the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandle area.

Major Brown accepted the new building for the Air Force from Lt. Col. W. N. Brown, commander of the 2684th Air Reserve Center located at Lubbock. Captain Lewis Hackley, adjutant of the local squadron, served as master of ceremonies and started the dedication service by calling Rev. Ronald Hubbard to give the invocation.

A color guard from the 474th Field Artillery Battalion, Texas National Guard, hoisted the American flag into position to the strains of The National Anthem played by the Pampa Junior High School band, under the direction of Joseph DiCosimo, director.

Major Travis Lively Jr. introduced local guests of honor, including Bruce Parker, county judge, and Paul Crouch, who represented the City of Pampa.

After the dedication an open house was held until 6 p.m. with refreshments being served to all visitors.

Yarborough Visits; Working For Adlai

Ralph Yarborough visited in Pampa Friday afternoon as a part of his campaign for the election of Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver at the primary on Nov. 6.

Yarborough reported that he spoke in Borger earlier Friday afternoon following an earlier speech at Dalhart. Thursday he spoke at Clovis, N. M. and attended a Democratic rally and barbecue in Navasota on Tuesday.

He reported that he had made many informal speeches at luncheons, precinct workers meetings and other groups during the past week. "Everywhere I've been from the Gulf coast to Dalhart I find a resurgence of Democratic strength and a prediction that Democrats will be stronger in those counties than they were in 1952," he stated.

"I predict that Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver will carry Texas by a comfortable majority if the Democratic campaign is not slowed down by the millions and millions and millions of dollars the Republicans are spending on nationwide TV broadcasts every day. The Democrats should carry Texas by a quarter of a million votes," he continued.

Yarborough reported that he would attend the Democratic rally and banquet in Amarillo last night but did not know if he would speak. In a statement to The News, Yarborough had the following to say: "The veto of the farm bill by the Republican president has cost the farmers of America three billion dollars. The increase of interest rates on the Government indebtedness of over one per

Colonel Tells Of Carnage In Revolution

EDITOR'S NOTE: United Press Staff Correspondent Kurt Neubauer crossed into Hungary from Austria through rebel territory and got to the town of Magyover seized by rebels in a pitched battle. In the following dispatch from the scene, Neubauer reports a rebel commander's estimate of the situation and describes the carnage in the town.

By KURT NEUBAUER

MAGYAROVAR, Hungary, Oct. 27 (UP)— Rebel forces "many thousands" strong are gathering for a march on Budapest to relieve beleaguered comrades fighting Russians in the city, a victorious rebel commander said Saturday.

The commander, who refused to permit use of his name but identified himself as a "colonel," said rebel forces are in possession of great areas of western, southern and northern Hungary. All territory from the Austrian border east to this town was in rebel hands. Frontier guards had joined up with the insurgents.

The rebel spoke in the center of this farming town, 15 miles from the Austrian border, after a bloody battle in which Hungarian secret police slaughtered men, women and children Friday and in turn were wiped out by the rebels supplied with Hungarian army weapons.

This correspondent could see no signs of Communist control as he passed from the border to the town.

Saturday, rebel troops with the red, white and green national colors on armbands, patrolled the streets of the farming community with rifles and machine guns. They appeared in full command of the situation.

"We are fighting only the Russians," the commander said.

"The Hungarian army is with us or neutral and the AVH (secret police) are dead or arrested.

"We are collecting our forces and volunteers for an attack on the Soviets in Budapest so we can help our beleaguered comrades there. We have many thousands of volunteers going forward to join us to help our brothers in Budapest.

East German Reds Fear Open Revolt

By JOSEPH FLEMING

BERLIN, Oct. 27 (UP)— East German Communists put their country into a virtual state of siege Saturday night in fear that student unrest might explode into open revolt as it did in Hungary.

Thousands of Red troops and police guarded bridges, railways and roads throughout the East Zone, and kept a check on travelers entering East Berlin.

Their jitters indicated a major fear that the anti-Russian trend which brought riots in Poland and rebellion in Hungary might spread to a restive East Germany with disastrous results.

The threat of new violence here was touched off by demands of students at East Berlin's Humboldt University for the ouster of Communist leader Walter Ulbricht and "democratic reforms."

The students also demanded the right to hold a rally in support of the Hungarians in the massive Marx-Engels Plaza, the place in the center of the city where the Communists usually hold their own demonstrations.

The Reds condemned the students' demands as "counter-revolutionary," and warned that a "determined fight" would be waged against all those who attacked the Communist regime.

Breakfast Starts United Fund Drive

Dan Eddy, service unit director, director of public relations and campaign director for the Texas division of The Salvation Army, will be the principal speaker at the kickoff breakfast for the 1956 Pampa - Lefors United Fund campaign.

The breakfast will be held in the Senior High cafeteria Tuesday at 7 a.m. and will signal the start of solicitations for contributions to the seven-member organization.

The seven participating agencies are the Red Cross, Salvation Army, Heart Fund, Milk Fund, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and U.S.O.

Eddy is a native of Dallas. He was educated in Dallas public schools, the University of Texas and Southern Methodist University.

Following service in the Navy in World War II, he became associated with the Salvation Army in 1944, when he was appointed director of USO clubs in Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

In 1947, he became field representative of the Texas division of The Salvation Army with the job of organizing service unit committees (groups of volunteers who carry on the welfare program of The Salvation Army in cities where there are no Salvation Army officers stationed).

In 1950, he was appointed state service unit director and director of public relations and fund raising.

He has directed or supervised more than 500 financial campaigns.

He has aided in the organization of 53 Community Chests and United Funds and has increased the number of Salvation Army service unit committees from 33 to 126.

He has served with The Salvation Army in Mexico as counsellor in public relations and fund raising, resulting in successfully establishing the Salvation Army in that country.

DAN EDDY
. . . . United Fund Speaker

He is a graduate of the Southwestern Institute for Chamber of Commerce managers and he holds four graduate seminar certificates. He also has served as counsellor for the Southwestern Institute.

Chosen by the Dallas Junior Chamber of Commerce as the "Man - of - the - Year in 1954", he received the "Distinguished Service Award" from the group.

In November, 1955, he was chosen by the Oak Cliff Chamber of Commerce as the "Man of the Month."

He was chosen one of the "Five Outstanding Young Texans of 1955" by the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce. He is a member of the Bethel Temple Church, Texas Social Welfare Association, Dallas Advertising League, Dallas Press Club, Texas Chamber of Commerce Managers Association and the Chamber of Commerce Managers Association of West Texas.

Murray Addresses GOP Rally Here

Speaker at the Eisenhower-Nixon campaign rally and barbecue held at noon yesterday at Recreation Park was Johnston Murray, former Democratic Governor of Oklahoma.

Murray was introduced by Fred Thompson, former mayor of Pampa, who briefly highlighted the career of Murray. He told of how Murray was governor of the neighboring state of Oklahoma from 1951 to 1955 and that he was now a resident of Texas, living in Fort Worth.

In his opening remarks, Murray mentioned the history of the great soughwest and how it was formed by the sweat, work and prayers of people who settled here. He stated that they had droughts, maybe not as severe as the one presently in progress, but he told how they overcame the hardships without any interference from the government.

He stated that it was the aim of the Eisenhower administration to return the government to the local and state level but that it could not be done overnight but that it would take years to accomplish the work of undoing what took years to build.

He stated, "The people of this area want to be left alone and not be told what to do except by local and state government."

Murray went on to state that the government prior to the Eisenhower administration reached the verge of socialism. He stated that when the government reached this point there came a "great American" who wanted to get away from socialism.

"The present administration is not one of giveaway," he stated. He explained that the Federal government did not own the tidelands in the first place so how could it give away something it did not own.

He reported that he had not left the Democratic party nor had he changed from its ideals. He reported that it was the present

Soviet Soldiers Are Asked To Join In

By RUSSELL JONES

VIENNA, Austria, Oct. 27 (UP) — The rebels of Hungary proclaimed a march on Budapest Saturday and boldly invited Soviet soldiers to leave the Red Army and ask for asylum.

The rebels said "many thousands" of volunteers were massing in western Hungary to break through the Russian curtain of steel to their beleaguerd comrades in the capital.

Premier Imre Nagy made a desperate try to salvage control by announcing a new government including non - Communist members.

But the rebels appeared to be gaining in momentum and organization by the hour.

"Radio Free Gyor" in western Hungary, claiming to serve more than half the nation west of the Danube through a rebel network, broadcast demands to Soviet troops to "stop fighting and you have our assurance of safe conduct to leave the country."

Russians Offered Asylum

Rebel-held Radio Miskolc in the northeast near the Soviet border offered asylum to the Russian soldiers that wanted to quit.

Diplomatic reports said new Russian units were moving into Budapest and others were poised at the border to move into Hungary.

But from all over the free world came support for the rebels.

Groups of exiles started forming in Austia and Argentina to go into Hungary to join the revolution.

On the spot diplomatic reports said the battle Saturday was "more intense" than ever and the situation "if anyting has worsened."

In Budapest, however, the situation became desperate for rebels who had been submitted to four solid days of merciless tank and infantry attack by Russian troops. Diplomatic reports said new Russian units were moving in.

Ruse Fails

Radio Budapest, Nagy's official mouthpiece, actually claimed at 4:35 p. m. (9:35 a. m. cst) that "the revolution is over in Budapest."

This claim had been heard more than once before during a government campaign to dupe rebel units into believing they were fighting on alone with resistance collapsed elsewhere.

Just an hour later, Budapest Radio admitted the lie. It broadcast a city council appeal to keep doors and gates locked because "some groups of armed rebels" are still roaming the city.

"Shooting is going on. . .," the radio admitted.

U. N. Council In Emergency Session Today

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Oct. 27 (UP)—The United Nations Security Council Saturday was called into an emergency session at 2 p.m. cst Sunday to discuss the Hungarian "situation."

The meeting was set shortly after the United States, Britain and France demanded such a session to deal with Soviet military intervention in the Hungarian rebellion.

A spokesman for the French president of the security council this month, announced the time for the session.

The council, already confronted with the Algerian and Palestine disputes, will be asked to pass a resolution either condemning the Russian activities in Hungary or recommending outright economic, military or diplomatic sanctions against the Soviet Union.

A letter to the Security Council specified that the complaint involves a "situation" and not a "dispute." Under UN rules, parties to a dispute are forbidden from taking part in a debate, but all interested parties may debate a "situation."

Response Expected

A council meeting will be called "without delay" informed Western sources said.

Western ambassadors were consulting on the exact time for the meeting of the 11-nation council in which Russia, along with the United States, Britain, France and Nationalist China holds the veto power.

The first word of the Big Three action came from Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in Washington before he left to make a major foreign policy speech in Dallas.

Two Sentenced In Court Here

Two men were sentenced in District Court Friday by Judge Lewis Goodrich. The two were Cecil Ray Chisum, 22, of Amarillo and Billy Ray Todd, 27, of Borger.

Chisum was sentenced to five years in the state penintentiary for forgery and passing of a forged instrument.

Todd was put on fiive years probation for theft from a person.

Warren Hasse Is Kiwanis Club Prexy

Warren Hasse was elected president of the Pampa Kiwanis Club in the organization's luncheon meeting Friday.

Hasse, who was first vice president until the Friday election of officers, was joined in office by Ken Meaders, first vice president; Dr. Raymond Laycock, second vice president; Dr. Neely Joe Ellis, director; Mack Hiatt, director; and Cliff McNeely, director.

Hasse will appoint a secretary and treasurer.

Clinton Evans had charge of the program. He introduced Ed Myatt, who gave background information on the proposed new hotel for Pampa and told of developments leading up to the project.

Myatt introduced Philo C. Dix, who is conducting the campaign to raise money for the hotel. Dix told of the need for a hotel here and why it is being built.

Myatt, in answer to several "rumors" which had gotten out he said, reported that a location for the new hotel had not yet been selected and that the hotel would have 100 rooms, not 300.

Fred Neslage, general sales manager for the hotel, told the group that many local persons would be asked to help work on getting a hotel for Pampa.

Marvin Pickett, Junior Kiwanian for the month of October, announced that the junior class at Pampa High School would present its play Monday night.

Fred Thompson introduced McHenry Lane, who was taken into the club as a new member. Lane lives at 1815 Williston and is curriculum coordinator for the Pampa Public School System.

US Internal Affairs May Be Affected By Europe Revolts

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) —Eastern European riots against Communist oppression are likely to have more effect on U.S. internal affairs than the Bulganin letter which so offended President Eisenhower.

Mr. Eisenhower should not complain, however, because the news of street violence in Poland and Hungary probably is boosting Republican election prospects.

Adlai E. Stevenson has made Eisenhower foreign policy a campaign issue. In its simplest terms, administration foreign policy is dedicated to increasing the world influence of Western governments at the expense of Communism.

The commitment to increase Western influence in world affairs is a solid holdover from Roosevelt and Truman administration foreign policies. Stevenson does not challenge the commitment. He challenges Republican achievement and future ability to make good on it.

Peace With The West

Presidents Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower have gone all-out short of war against Communist world influence in the belief that a world dominated by Western powers would enjoy relatively substantial guarantees of peace. How that belief stacks up with the bloody history of the first 50 years of the 20th Century is something for the diplomats to argue among themselves.

There is ample evidence that Western voters are convinced that world peace best would be safeguarded if governments in London, Paris, Berlin and Washington possessed the authority and prestige today that they had, say, in 1910.

Riots in Eastern Europe are evidence of weakness in the police state structure behind the Iron Curtain. That is bad for the Soviet Union, and what is bad for the Soviet Union is likely to be good for the West.

It is not necessary for Republican campaigners to claim that Mr. Eisenhower's foreign policy persuaded rioters in Warsaw and in Budapest to challenge Communist authority. More likely, it is enough for voters to read that Communist troops have been compelled to put their satellite comrades under fire.

Good For GOP

If what is bad for the Russian Communists is not good for the West, it looks good. Moreover, it looks better for the Republicans or any Western party in power. However it may have come about, the position of the West has been improved by the riot news which seems to mean that the prestige of politicians administering Western governments has improved, also.

If that seems not to be a logical sequence, consider what the effect upon the U.S. election might have been if the final days of the campaign had been notable for further Communist political successes.

Just as the Suez controversy was a break in the game against Mr. Eisenhower, so the Bulganin letter proposing stoppage of H-bomb tests and the Eastern European rioting have been breaks in the President's favor. On the add up, Mr. Eisenhower seems to have had the better breaks.

ON HEALTH ISSUE — Republicans are aroused over a letter, admittedly written by Henry L. Fox, above, New York City insurance broker and registered Democrat. It contained a thinly disguised reference to the Eisenhower health issue. Sent to 50 leading U.S. life insurance companies, the letter asked if they would issue a policy to an individual of President Eisenhower's age, medical history and physical condition. Questioned about the letter, Fox said he feels "One of the big issues is Eisenhower's health."

Good And Bad Of Week's News

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet:

Soviet Russia's grip on eastern Europe was threatened this week by revolts in two of its seven satellite countries.

First in Poland, then in Hungary, the people rose to demand freedom from Moscow domination.

In both countries, street demonstrations against Red leaders who had supported the "Stalin" policy of dictatorship turned into revolts against Russia itself and Communism in general.

Wladislaw Gomulka, who had been imprisoned as a "Titoist" for opposing Russian domination was restored to the leadership of the Polish Communist Party.

Then Hungarian university students started demonstrating in Budapest. They were joined by surging throngs of Hungarians of all sorts—even including soldiers.

Security troops and police opened fire on the demonstrators. The demonstrations exploded into bloody battles and spread to other cities.

Imre Nagy, who like Gomulka in Poland had been purged as a Titoist, was hurriedly made premier.

But the fighting continued. The government called in Russian troops to aid in suppressing the uprising. Russian tanks and even jet planes fired on the crowds. Budapest was cut off from all communication with the outside world for 36 hours. Reports seeped out that hundreds of people had been killed.

Gomulka told Poles in a speech that Russian troops, bitterly hated, would remain in Poland. But in Hungary Nagy promised that he would ask for the withdrawal of all Russian troops.

France was faced by a serious new outbreak in Africa.

Five leaders of the anti-French rebellion in Algeria flew from their headquarters in Egypt to confer with the governments of newly independent Morocco and Tunisia. They were welcomed as heroes in Morocco. France regarded this as an affront.

The five Algerians took a French plane to fly to Tunisia. The pilot was directed secretly to land his plane in Algiers, capital of Algeria. French police took the Algerians off the plane at gun point.

As a result, savage anti-French riots broke out in Morocco. About 60 Europeans were murdered. The governments of both Tunisia and Morocco threatened to break openly with France.

President Eisenhower angrily rebuked Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin for a note he sent to Washington on ending tests of nuclear weapons.

Bulganin referred to the American election campaign — in which Adlai E. Stevenson demands that the tests be stopped. He also criticized Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. Then Moscow published the text of the communication before an official translation had been relayed to the President, somewhat belatedly.

Mr. Eisenhower lost no time in replying. He said that Bulganin's note constituted an interference in the election. He complained because the note was published prematurely. He said that Bulganin's criticism of Dulles was "not only unwarranted but is personally offensive to me." Finally, the President said that some of Bulganin's statements "seem to impugn my own sincerity."

Questionnaire For Elvis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)—Elvis Presley, the rock 'n' roll singing idol of teenagers, has received a draft questionnaire and believes Army service is "real close."

But to some it looked more like an enlistment than an induction.

Presley confirmed to United Press Tuesday night that he received what he took to be a routine draft questionnaire from his local board here three weeks ago, but board officials denied they knew anything about it.

"I honestly don't know what the questionnaire means," Presley said. "I haven't heard anything since the questionnaire or about when to report for a physical. When they want me, I'm ready."

Although the 21-year-old Presley described the matter as being a routine induction procees draft officials suggested the singer may be quietly arranging an enlistment. Otherwise, they said, Presley would not have received a questionnaire which they did not know about.

POOR MAN'S AIR CONDITIONER—Cabby Pierre Alidiere explains to an attentive gendarme how he keeps his passengers cool amid Paris' hot-rodding traffic. Twin propellers mounted on edge of his cab's window do the trick. The breeze—or gale—set up by the moving cab turns the outside propeller and, voila—the inside one she turns. Simple, n'est-ce pas?

Fail To Admit Ages

SHOREHAM, England (UP)—A beauty contest here had to be called off when no one would admit she qualified. Contestants had to be 40 years of age to mark the 40th birthday of the local national savings committee.

Boy Killed

HARLINGEN (UP) — Daniel Garza Jr., 6, was killed Tuesday when a 250-pound concrete slab toppled over on him at a drive-in theater. The slab had come loose from a bench.

She Makes Your Money Go Where You Choose

By BOB PEREZ
Pampa News Staff Writer

The Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Salvation Army, Milk Fund, Heart Association, and the U.S.O. It would be rather monotonous to run into these seven separate fund drives every year. After a while, the spirit with which we contribute; the idea of the thought behind these organizations, and their accomplishments would disappear, and perhaps for some of us, the spirit of giving within us, the want to help others in need, would disappear.

This duplication of effort on the part of the organizations named above, has been solved by combining them into one common fund raising campaign, or the Pampa - Lefors United Fund.

The campaign is due to get underway this week. Most of us will give our contributions, and fulfill our pledges; but for Mrs. Emmett Gee, secretary of the Fund, this will be but the beginning.

Upon her shoulders falls the work of balancing out the books. And these books are many, and varied. She must, for instance, keep a record throughout the year of every penny that is given and a complete index on all donors, balance every card against receipts, keep records of how people want the money distributed, write checks distributing money to agencies, and send out notices on pledges during the year.

She is the only paid employee of the Pampa - Lefors United Fund, and is actually the backbone of the entire effort. She stands in the peculiar situation where were she to fall down on the job, it could very well cripple the entire drive.

However, Mrs. Gee has not fallen down on the job. In fact she has the immense capacity for remembering peoples' names, where they work, how much they have given, as well as what organization they prefer to give to. Aside from this, she knows how to guard money, and gets it to the bank from the office. She possess all the attributes necessary for the success of the United Fund campaign in this area.

BUSY WOMAN — Mrs. Emmett Gee, secretary of the Pampa - Lefors United Fund, will probably be one of the busiest if not THE busiest of women hereabouts this week. The United Fund drive gets underway Tuesday and her job is to keep the books straight and see that the money you contribute goes to the charity you choose. (News photo)

However, this net product of memory, mathematics, and book balancing, is nothing new to Mrs. Gee. Born in Storm Lake, Iowa, she came to Pampa in 1933. Her husband was then manager of the Gray County Wheat Growers grain elevator and she took a job as book keeper for the company.

She started with the United Fund in the fall of 1953. The first drive was successful, and the next two were even better. The success of such operations as this fund can be accomplished only by the smooth cooperation of all organizations involved.

Once they start working together, it is a difficult task to keep the proper amounts in the proper places as well as the names of donors and where they want their money put; since when a person gives to the United Fund, he does not necessarily have to give to all the organizations involved. He can, at his discretion, decide to give to any of those organizations which he feels more sympathetic towards. This involvement makes it doubly confusing to keep things straight; but Mrs. Gee has devised her own system of keeping track of everything. This system, coupled with her ability to remember names and preferences of donors has made this seemingly complex task look as though it were nothing more than a simple case of freshman book keeping.

Anywone making a visit to the United Fund office in the basement of the City Hall will find, seated behind a desk, and hidden behind a maze of posters, receipts and other paperwork, the woman who is the generating force of the Pampa-Lefors United Fund, and the woman whose hard and constant work will assure its success.

Give Enough; It's One Gift Divided By 7

Almost everyone has had the experience of being "touched" for a contribution to charity or welfare work many times each year. After the first few "touches" the donor regards solicitors about as happily as he does the prospect of paying his income tax.

The United Fund is providing the opportunity for as nearly "painless" contribution as possible! And therein lies the problem!

Most people recognize the wisdom of a United Fund drive and are willing to give, to let their money help others and thereby help the general welfare of the city. But leaders of the drive in Pampa feared that a single drive might be considered as calling for only usual donation. It is one drive held for seven organizations which otherwise would hold individual campaigns.

For example: Mr. Businessman generally gives about $5 for each worthy group which solicits him. This habit sometimes keeps him from seeing the need of a greater contribution to the United Fund.

Divide Mr. Businessman's $5 by seven (the number of agencies taking part). That's only a little over 71 cents for each. Seventy-one cents is not enough to do any of the agencies any appreciable good.

To help each person give more than he feels he can in a lump sum, a special deduction plan is available is most instances. As in the case with the buying of U. S. Savings Bonds and similar regular purchase payment items, many employers are aiding in the United Fund campaign by allowing their workers to sign up for payroll deductions over an extended period of time.

But by payroll deduction or single payment pledges, the important thing is to be certain that the amount is enough to represent more than a single donation . . . . enough for seven worthy groups, not just for one.

Navy Has New Depth Charge

WASHINGTON (UP) — It's official that the Navy has an atomic depth charge that can kill submarines miles away. Its name is Lulu.

Vice Adm. W. V. Davis Jr. deputy chief of naval operations for air, confirmed Lulu's existence Thursday in an extemporaneous talk before an aviation writers group.

His remarks were not cleared in advance by the Defense Department. They touched off a flurry of telephone calls between high defense and Navy officials.

The United Press in a dispatch published 20 days ago noted there were strong indications that the Navy had perfected an anti-submarine nuclear depth bomb.

Davis said Thursday that Lulu has a killing range of miles compared with yards for the conventional depth charge. He said it can be detonated at considerable depth.

Summary Of Political Spending Due

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (UP)— Senate investigators will issue a last-minute summary of political campaign spending next week, Saturday.

The report is expected to be released about Nov. 1, just five days before the election. It will cover spending by the Republican and Democratic national committees and other major national campaign groups of both parties from Sept. 1 to Oct. 21, Gore said.

The Tennessee Senator heads a Senate elections subcommittee which has been keeping tabs on contributions and expenditures in this year's Presidential and Senatorial campaign.

It set Oct. 21 as the last practical pre-election date for campaign committees to compile their figures. Gore said the subcommittee has been getting good cooperation from the campaign groups.

He said the new report may take in more campaign committees than the last one issued by the subcommittee, on Oct. 10.

No 'Professional' Campaign Leaders; All Local People

What kind of people are "United Fund people?"

That question is best answered by listing a few things they are not: They are not professional fund raisers.

They are not outsiders interested only in the fund as a commercial venture.

The interest of "United Fund people" goes far beyond that narrow limit because they are Pampa people. They live in Pampa and work in Pampa. A successful campaign means making Pampa a better equipped community, a better place to live for them and their families.

The United Fund has no connection with any larger group; it is entirely independent. Therefore, from the men and women soliciting pledges from their friends and neighbors to the highest officers in the local setup, they are homefolks.

These are the people helping direct the big job of making the United Fund Drive in the Pampa-Lefors area a success.

Particularly in the spotlight beginning this week is Clinton Evans, drive chairman.

He is the manager of Tex Evans Buick Company and has been active in business and civic affairs. He, his wife and their two children, Dean 9, and Berkley, 4, live at 1701 N. Russell. Evans also is president of the organization.

Joe Tooley, who runs Richard's Drug, is chairman of the retail division. The retail division is the largest in the campain. Ten teams make up Tooley's division with the responsibility of soliciting funds from retail stores and their employees.

Quentin Williams heads the services division. His responsibility and the responsibility of the teams in his division is to solicit contributions from businesses and their employees who sell services, such as plumbers, TV repair men, and others.

Gene Fatheree is wholesale division chairman. Solicitations from wholesale firms and their employees comes under this heading. This division is the smallest, having only two teams. The divisions are divided up into teams in order for the workers on each team to have about the same number of people to contact.

J. B. Maguire, local attorney, heads the professional division. The workers in this division solicit funds from professional people. Doctors, lawyers and others come under this category.

George Newberry, Southwestern Bell Telephone Pampa office manager, heads the industrial division, soliciting funds from the various industries and their employees.

Don Radtke is oil and gas division chairman. Radtke is an engineer for Magnolia Petroleum and his division solicits funds from those working in oil and gas and allied industries.

Kirk Duncan heads the individual division.

J. R. Sparkman of Lefors is chairman of the drive in Lefors.

"Under God, we espouse the cause of freedom and justice and peace for all peoples!"

Dwight D. Eisenhower

"God has given us freedom . . . and justice . . . and peace. And when we frame our plans around the reverent belief in a God of order, justice and love, there is bright hope for the world.

"Millions of families in homes around the globe pray for freedom and justice just as we do. And they look to us to use our strength to keep the peace.

"Now, as I see it, there are three imperatives for peace.

"The first imperative for peace is the elementary necessity of maintaining our own national strength—military, economic and moral.

"During the past three and one-half years, our military strength has been greatly increased. Never before in peacetime have we been so strong as today. Our economic power is reaching new peaks every day. But, most important, we are competing today for men's hearts and minds and trust. So what we do and say at home is even more important than what we say abroad!

"The second imperative for peace is collective security.

"We live in a shrunken world in which oceans are crossed in hours. Today it is madness to suppose that there could be an island of tranquillity and prosperity in a sea of wretchedness and frustration. For self-preservation we must engage in a mutual economic and military cooperation with the free nations.

"But even this is no longer enough.

"The third imperative for peace is this: Without for a moment relaxing our internal and collective defenses, we must actively try to bridge the chasm that separates us from the peoples under Communist rule. The hope is that little by little mistrust based on falsehoods will give way to international understanding based on truth.

"We shall continue to work religiously until peace and understanding gradually come about. Then it will be possible for older people to feel they can bequeath to their children a better inheritance than was their own. Then young people can hope for a new and shining world.

"Under God, we espouse the cause of freedom and justice and peace for all peoples."

Drive By Labor

Organized labor is undertaking a mammoth two-pronged drive to see that its "friends" — mostly Democrats — get elected to national office this year.

While technically unions are non-political and barred by law from engaging in political activity, they have special political committees that hope to raise and spend well over $3 million in what will be the most extensive political campaign any group not connected with the official Democratic and Republican party organizations has attempted.

Coupled with direct monetary contributions to the campaigns of candidates it supports, the unions have embarked on an intensive campaign to make sure their 15 million members and their families know which candidates have the support of union bosses.

Leading Labor's drive — both from the amount of money it seeks to raise and the amount of educational material it will supply — is AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education, a combination of the former CIO's Political Action Committee and the former AFL's Labor's League for Political Education. This campaign is co-directed by the former heads of the CIO and AFL groups: Jack Kroll (CIO) and James L. McDevitt (AFL).

COPE is trying to get $1 voluntary contributions from each of the 15 million AFL-CIO members, but says it will be happy to receive a total of $3 million.

Much of this money is being spent on COPE'S ambitious program to put in the hands of each union member the voting record of his Congressmen on 20 Senate and 19 House selected roll-call votes during the 1947-56 period. Each vote is characterized as having been "right" or "wrong" for labor.

Supplementing COPE's voting records are pamphlets, cartoon strips and a 254-page, 12-chapter manual on How to Win. The manual, for the use of state and local groups rather than individual members, covers every phase of political activity.

But Labor's activities are not confined to COPE. Individual unions still have their political arms. The United Automobile Workers (AFL-CIO), concentrated in Michigan and headed by labor's most politically conscious leader, Walter P. Reuther, has its own Political Action Committee. Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich.) credits UAW-PAC's activity with having won the 1954 election for him against a Republican stalwart, Sen. Homer Ferguson.

UAW-PAC reported spending $200,000 in 1954 for state and local candidates, a large chunk of the $2,057,613 reported spent that year by 41 labor organizations throughout the country. It says it hopes to collect and spend $350,000 this year.

During the first eight months of 1956, UAW-PAC reported it spent $75,660 of the $492,593 reported spent by all unions. COPE says it spent $224,888 as of Aug. 31, 1956. The CIO and AFL national political committees — separate until their December, 1955, merger — report their total spending reached $1,252,008 in 1954. In 1952, labor as a whole spent $2,057,613.

The vast share of union money and effort will go for Democratic candidates. COPE's voting records, as well as others put out by specific unions such as the United Mine Workers (Ind.), list many more Democrats as having voted with labor than Republicans. And so far no union has endorsed President Eisenhower, while the AFL-CIO and many member unions have endorsed the Democratic ticket.

Eight members of the 22-member AFL-CIO executive council, as well as AFL-CIO President George Meany, were against Labor's endorsing either party's national ticket. Five of the eight, after it was agreed to endorse a ticket, were against endorsing the Democratic candidates. Meany, although not favoring AFL-CIO endorsement, personally had endorsed Stevenson; says he will make some speeches "with a political tinge" during the campaign.

There is continued criticism of Labor's campaign contributions, many Republicans charging the unions violate Taft-Hartley law provisions making it unlawful for "any labor organization to make a contribution or expenditure in connection with any election" for candidates for national office.

In 1947, three weeks after the law was enacted, the CIO News urged the election of Edward A. Garmatz (D) of Baltimore, Md., to fill a Congressional vacancy. The CIO was indicted on charges it violated Taft-Hartley provisions, but a Federal District Court declared the provision unconstitutional. On appeal, the Supreme Court affirmed the acquittal on other grounds, but did not rule on the constitutionality question.

Other suits since have been brought, including one against UAW-PAC in connection with its activities for McNamara. But the question of just how far unions can go with their political activity remains unanswered.

The "U. S. News & World Report," one of the nation's leading magazines with large circulations, has rendered a service to the American people by printing a summary of Dr. Ludwig von Mises' new book, "The Anti-Capitalistic Mentality." This article by the world famous economist was printed in the Oct. 19 issue.

I remember reading a statement in one of von Mises former books that helped clarify one of the questions that puzzled me about the capitalistic system. Von Mises had written "The luxuries of the rich are the roadways to progress." That meant that if there be no rich, there be no progress. If there were no rich to buy things when they were new, like automobiles, televisions, telephones, airplanes and the thousands of things that were luxuries years ago but are now in common use, they would not have become common.

These rich men furnished the capital when they were high-priced to develop these products. They also pointed out the defects so that they could be improved and be more useful. This, of course, does not mean that the rich should have luxuries that debauch their character and impair their health. It simply means that they benefit mankind when an industry is new and struggling to improve its product. They have the capital and the will to buy and are thus helping finance its development.

This explanation was the answer to my fantasy that the standard of living could be raised by taxing the rich to help the poor. Until I had become acquainted with economists like von Mises and Bastiat and Watts, I had some doubts as to how a free and unhampered capitalistic system could benefit all the people.

Ina ll my reading I have never found a man who could more clearly and logically show the fallacies of socialism and how it means poverty and misery to the masses than Dr. Ludwig von Mises.

And if citizens are perturbed about the trends toward socialism and want to help reverse the trend, the best thing they can do is to improve the understanding of one individual — and that's oneself. And the quickest and easiest way to do that is to read such books as this new book, "The Anti-Capitalistic Mentality," which is being published on Oct. 22, 1956, by D. Van Nostrand Co., Inc., Princeton, N. J. I know of no book that will help the reader to be able to better explain the blessings that come from capitalism and the poverty and misery that come from state socialism.

He explains in his chapter on why intellectuals loathe capitalism that it is largely due to the fact that their material rewards are not as large as the capitalist who serves the masses. He observes:

"The suffering from frustrated ambition is peculiar to people living in a society of equality under the law. It is not caused by equality under the law, but by the fact that in a society of equality under the law the inequality of men with regard to intellectual abilities, will power and application becomes visible. The gulf between what a man is and achieves and what he thinks of his own abilities and achievements is pitilessly revealed. Daydreams of a 'fair' world which would treat him according to his 'real worth' are the refuge of all those plagued by a lack of self-knowledge."

He points out that even the doctors who are not as successful as other doctors are inclined to loathe capitalism.

"To understand the intellectual's abhorrence of capitalism one must realize that in his mind this system is incarnated in a definite number of compeers whose success he resents and whom he makes responsible for the frustration of his own farflung ambitions. His passionate dislike of capitalism is a mere blind for his hatred of some successful 'colleagues.'

Anti-Capitalism In U. S.

"The anti-capitalistic bias of the intellectuals is a phenomenon not limited to one or a few countries only. But it is more general and more bitter in the United States than it is in the European countries. To explain this rather surprising fact one must deal with what one calls "society" or, in French, also le monde."

Then he explains that in European countries there are not as many rich people as there are in the United States; that they do not, thus, form separate society groups; that here in the United States the very rich mingle in the same society with the nation's eminent authors, artists and scientists. Those listed in the social register do not meet socially those people who are trying to influence public opinion. He says in the United States most of the rich are not interested in books and ideas. When they meet and do not play cards, they gossip about persons and talk more about sports and about cultural matters. Then he observes:

"...The exclusivism practiced by the American rich had made them in a certain sense outcasts. They may take a vain pride in their own distinction. What they fail to see is that their self-chosen segregation isolates them and kindles animosities which make the intellectuals inclined to favor anti-capitalistic policies."

He has a very rational explanation why the white collar workers have an anti-capitalistic mentality. They see men promoted and they believe that they have more ability than the man promoted. They do not understand that if the business man promotes the wrong man he hurts himself and reduces his ability to grow; that the way to destroy a business is to promote by whim and by relatives rather than by selecting those best understanding how energy can be saved and better service rendered.

You Have A Republic If You Can Keep It

By Thurman Sensing

Back in the early days of our nation, when the people were interested in their future and what held for their children and their children's children, they crowded around Benjamin Franklin one day as he came out of the Constitutional Convential and asked, "Mr. Franklin, what do we have?"

Franklin replied, "You have a Republic, if you can keep it."

There was undoubtedly some question in the minds of those wise men who founded our government as to whether people were actually capable of governing themselves. They knew only too well something that is everybody's business may easily become nobody's business.

There is one thing for sure — government in a free nation is everybody's business and the nation will remain free only so long as it is everybody's business. The only way people can prove they are capable of self-government is by retaining the responsibility for that government in their own hands.

Do you ever complain about the kind of government you are getting or about the individuals holding public office?

You have no right to do so — unless you take an active part in politics yourself, unless you register and vote at election time, unless you keep yourself informed on matters of government. We can be quite sure that in the long run, free people in a free country get just the kind of government they deserve.

We often hear it said, by entirely respectable people "Why I wouldn't have anything to do with politics for anything in the world. It's a dirty business and I just wouldn't get mixed up in it."

That is the most dangerous attitude a person could take who expects to continue to live in a free nation. It is the surest way to destroy freedom. That is not the attitude that Washington and Jefferson and Jackson and Lincoln and all the other great patriots took! They believed that taking part in politics was the finest thing they could do for their country —and they were entirely right.

Politics in and of itself is not a "dirty business". Politics is no dirtier than the people who engage in politics. Politics is the science of government and the kind of government we have depends upon the kind of people who take part in it.

A man can possess no more valuable right than the right to vote. It is the one way in which every man can have a voice in his government. It is a responsibility and a duty that no free man can shirk if he wants to remain free.

It is at the voting booth in a free nation that every man is equal to every other man — where man's voice is heard, where every man's vote is counted alike, where every man makes his choice as to who shall serve him in public office.

A man who doesn't exercise his right to vote deserves nothing better than the corrpution and despotism in government which he will eventually get.

Countless years and lives have been spent in gaining for us the freedom which we now have in the United States of America. Shall all that sacrifice have been wasted because we are just not interested enough in our government to go to the polls on election day?

Vote! Vote because it is your priceless heritage. Vote because it is your responsibility to yourself and to your fellowman. Vote because it is your duty to future generations.

And don't vote blindly — vote intelligently! Inform yourself as to the fundamental issues at stake. Make up your own mind as to which candidates are best equipped to meet these issues.

Remember — when you are in the voting booth, no one can tell you how to vote. You vote as a free man and not as a slave.

THIS STATES' RIGHTER A WELCOME SPEAKER

(The Shreveport Times) Louisiana

Shreveport has had poor luck in attracting major party presidential candidates this year. While there have been no widespread lamentations over being passed up by President Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson, some feeling of disappointment does exist.

It is eased considerably by the announcement that T. Coleman Andrews of Virginia, presidential candidate on the States' Rights party ticket, will appear here for a campaign address on October 31. Announcement of his coming visit was made by Robert G. Chandler of Shreveport, head of the States' Rights party in Louisiana.

Any spokesman for States' Rights deserves a hearty welcome in a Shreveport which has throughout its history held tenaciously to the doctrine that overpowering federalism is to be detested. Mr. Andrews is particularly welcome because he has shown in his career that he is an able leader, devoted particularly to the principles and causes which are close to the heart of the South.

This opponent of federalist autocracy would deserve a hearty greeting even though both the Democratic and Republican candidates for the presidency were scheduled for addresses here. In their absence, the warmth of the welcome extended to him should be increased, so that he will carry away from Shreveport memories of a city which is awake to the great issues of the present.

Polish Discontent Might Renew Feud Within Kremlin

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — A direct result of the Polish and other satellites' discontent over Russian domination will be renewal of the Kremlin feud between the Bulganin - Khrushchev faction of moderates and the ruthless Stalinists headed by V. M. Molotov and Lazar Kaganovich, in the opinion of diplomats at Washington. It will sharpen the internal struggles that have shaken the Communist Empire since the death of the late dictator.

Not until this controversy is settled will it be possible to understand the long-range effect and significance of the Eastern European and Balkan nations' demands for self-rule and freedom from Moscow's ironclad dictation. In the meantime, although hopeful over these telltale signs, high State Department officials caution against overoptimism. They are not yet ready to conclude that the Reds' monolithic system is crumbling.

The Stalinists demand a return to their hero's rule, even though it may require use of force. Unless the expansion of "Titosim" has jolted them, Bulganin and Khrushchev favor milder form of control. That they have not resolved this dispute is seen from the fact that representatives of both cliques descended upon Warsaw at the height of the crisis.

As Secretary Dulles recognizes, the satellite disidents are not repudiating Communist philosophy; they are not embracing democracy. They simply refer "national communism" to the made-in-Moscow brand. They want to run their own social, economic and political show, with men of similar sympathies in control. They will brook no outside interference in their affairs, whether Russian or American.

Even so, such a transformation will be a great gain for the West in many respects. Most dramatically, it seems to defer for years, perhaps forever, the day when Russia will dare to embark on a large-scale war or even a "brush fire" invasion. The Kremlin can no longer feel sure of a huge reservoir of man power or vast material support for its aggressions.

The first demand of these unchained peoples, as recognized by Tito in Yugoslavia, Gomulka in Poland and Nagy n Hungary, is for an easier and more comfortable living. They want more food, more clothing, more homes, more worklifting gadgets, fewer restrictions on working conditions and travel. They insist upon — a happy augury — more contacts with the West.

The mere satisfaction of these natural hungers and desires, long suppressed under Russian command, will prevent them from supplying the Soviet with the raw materials and finished articles to build Moscow's industry and to keep prepared for all-out war. Even the Soviet's peacetime economy will suffer, for the Kremlin has preyed upon the satellites' resources and commerce under self - serving and lopsided trade and monetary arrangements.

Should the nations bordering on Russia achieve independence, as well as a degree of progress and prosperity, it will be impossibe to withhold this news from the Soviet people. The lines of communication through ordinary human contacts, the press, and the radio and magazines have been kept open within the satellite area. It should inspire the Russians themselves to press for similar gains and benefits.

The "revolt" should have worldwide repercussions favorable to the West. It may incline Red China to pursue a more independent course, a development already noted by foreign diplomats in Peiping. It may persuade the fence-sitting Nehru that the Western rather than the Communist system is decidedly preferable as a model for India.

It may lead Colonel Gamal Abdel Nasser, as well as all the Arab states, to think twice before relying on Russia in their controversies with the democracies. It may deprive Moscow of a solid voting bloc within the United Nations. It could be, in short, a turning point in history, as Washington hopes.

BEFORE THE DISHES ARE DONE

By BETTY KNOWLES HUNT

BIG AND LITTLE COATTAILS

As we approach the home stretch of this Presidential election year, the "experts" are calling it a touch-and-go horse race, with Ike running only slightly ahead of Adlai, and the lower - echelon Democrats running slightly ahead of Republican rivals.

This news is obviously joyous to Democrats and alarming to Republicans who thought Ike would run far out in front carrying his party with him. Administration leaders seem surprised, and unable to diagnose any reasons for it, other than that Republican party workers just aren't pushing enough door bells or exerting enough energy.

Editor John Knight of The Chicago Daily News says it this way: "Ike, the favorite, is toting a heavy package of unpopular candidates and lazy political workers on his back."

We think the reason for the trend are somewhat different. First of all, the Rebpulican campaign was based heavily on the premise that its major appeal must be made to Independents and Ike Democrats, rather than to rank and file Republican regulars. Administration spokesmen have made no secret of their belief that the "regulars" are "in the bag" anyway, and have no place else to go. Whether they do or not, this rather scornful attitude is hardly designed to inspire them into a frenzy of enthusiastic activity! If it is true that they are "lazy", as Mr. Knight claims, the cause for this apathy certainly lies in the Administration's unfortunate tendency to consider them less important than non-Republicans.

Then there is another factor. Outside the two political parties, there are two other major groups which are extremely active in this campaign. On the Democratic side are the leaders of organized labor who are working overtime across the nation to elect Democrats up and down the line. By and large, they are ignoring Adlai and Estes, and concentrating on candidates at the grass-roots level. In some states, like Michigan, they are far more active and potent than the party workers.

In complete contrast, we find the "Citizens for Eisenhower" group concentrating entirely upon the Presidential candidate, and completely ignoring the Republican Party and all its other candidates. Despite President Eisenhower's expressed desire for a Republican Congress, these most devoted friends of Ike are not lifting a finger to support Congressional or State Republicans. Indeed, they often give the impression that they don't think much of the Republican Party, but just "like Ike."

This narrow concentration upon the President alone is producing the expected results. It separates Ike from the rest of his party, and leaves the rank and file Republican workers, who already feel somewhat slighted, to do the job alone. This separation of Ike from his party by Ike's best friends also invites Independents and Democrats to split their tickets, — to vote for Ike at the top and for Democrats the rest of the way!

The President has also contributed to this cleavage. He has often revealed that he is not a partisan Republican, but considers himself more a "bi-partisan" all-American leader. It is well-known that he has expressed much more anger against conservative members of his own party who have not supported all his policies than he has ever expressed against opposing Democrats. This attitude has also had a very dampening effect upon the partisan enthusiasm of rank and file Republican workers, most of whom have devoted many years of loyal labor and love to their party.

Thus we find a strange contrast between the two campaigns. Adlai and Estes seem to be operating on a "reverse - coattails" technique, hitching onto the eagerly supporting all the local Democratic candidates and local issues. In the Republican camp, all the big guns and plans were concentrated on the top figure, with all Republican candidates encouraged and expected to campaign on Ike's coattails!

It doesn't seem to be working out well for the Republicans. Despite the big play being made for them, the Independents and Ike-Democrats seem to be drifting back to the Democrats, and the "in the bag" rank and file Republicans just aren't being eager-beaver workers for an Administration which figures they could be slighted without dampening their ardor. Administration strategists would seem to be in dire need of a course in "human nature"!

Pampa News Sports Editor

This afternoon at the country club when all of the hard working men of this fair city have arisen, the Pampa Civic Clubs will hold their annual golf tourney. It doesn't start until 1:00 p.m. which should give the hard working, civic minded men of this community plenty of time to shake themselves loose from the pleasant sleep of today to hit the Pampa course for the tourney.

Plenty of notables among the citizens of this community will make their yearly presence on the golf course today. All of civic clubs will be represented, it is hoped. The Kiwanis club, Rotary, Optimists, Lions and Junior Chamber will be the teams that will battle for the many trophies.

Speaking of trophies, the powers that lie behind this great event have set up numerous trophies that should satisfy even the highest shooter. For instance, there will be a High Gross trophy awarded and a High Net. Thinking of that, if I knew what the trophies were, such as possibly a foot-high picture of C. F. McGinnis, I might enter and try to cop High Gross. A special trophy which your reporter was selected to act as judge for is the Sloppy Joe trophy which will be awarded to the worst dressed golfer on the course. There will also be a Dapper Dan trophy awarded to the best dressed golfer on the course. The Water Trophy, awarded in conjunction with the High Gross award, will be given to the man who takes the most strokes on designated water hole. The High Man trophy will be given to the golfer who takes the most strokes to get by one hole. Other prizes will be awarded for different categories too secretive even to be mentioned in this column. Dr. Laycock and Dr. Elder are the principal culprits behind these nefarious awards, and word comes down that they've got some of the best awards ever cooked up for today.

This tourney is part of the joint program by the civic clubs of Pampa to promote good will and fellowship among the organizations. The golf scores that will be recorded in this tourney will not be found along the tourney trail. There are no pros here. It is just a day of combining all the different interests of the club members into one. All club members are urged to come out this afternoon and shoot their round of golf and to partake in the mutual fellowship that this day will provide.

Some of the notables that should, maybe, be on hand today include Ed Myatt, Paul Crouch, Dr. Elder, Dr. Laycock, Nick Kadingo, Johnny Campbell, Warren Hasse and a host of other men who work daily in their businesses and while doing so, work for the betterment of Pampa. Remember, tee off time is 1:00 p.m.

Rice Owls Beat Texas 'Horns, 28-7

By JOHN COLTON

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 27 (UP)—Ken Williams and Howard Hoelscher, a pair of fleet second-string backs, broke loose for three touchdowns in a crucial fourth period Saturday night and Rice beat Texas 28-7 for the Owls' first conference victory since 1954.

A homecoming crowd of 67,000 saw Williams, a junior halfback from Yoakum, grind out 79 yards for two touchdowns and Hoelscher, a junior from Weimar, romp 78 yards and score to break a 7-7 tie.

Williams went over for his first touchdown on a 41-yard romp and 20-yarder for the second. Hoelscher added to Texas' woes with a 20-yard romp around end for the third fourth period tally.

Rice, which last won a Southwest Conference game over Baylor, 20-14, in 1954, came alive in the final period with quick drives of 82 yards in four plays, 73 yards in four more plays, and 42 yards in eight plays for the three touchdowns.

Quarterback Frank Ryan plunged from the Texas 1 to tie the Longhorns 7-7 in the third period after Texas' Walter Fondren went over from the Rice 1 early in the third for the visitors' only score. Fondren kicked the extra point.

Rice jacked up its conference record to 1-1 and season mark to 3-2 on the ground for a total of 363 yards.

Quarterback King Hill threw five passes but failed to connect. Texas connected for six out of 11 attempts for 86 yards.

Texas end Wayne Wash intercepted a Hill pass in the second period and the Longhorns made it to the Rice 15, the last six yards on fourth down by Fondren, Fondren carried to the Rice 7 to threaten but fullback Mike Wells was stopped by Rice end Buddy Dial and Rice took over.

The scoreless first period featured a 39-yard return of a Fondren punt, with Rice halfback Dan Shuford doing the legwork to Texas' 24 with 40 seconds left in the period.

Texas took off like a fire engine in the third period when quarterback Joe Clements faked three fast ones for 16, 17 and 8 yards, and added 11 passing to end Bob Bryant for a total of 52 yards, with Fondren going over.

Williams led the ball - carrying for Rice with 83 yards in four carries. Hoelscher ran 106 yards in 12 starts. Clements ran up 29 yards in seven carries and Fondren 53 in 20 tries for Texas.

Score by periods:

Rice	0	0	7	21	—28
Texas	0	0	7	0	— 7

Rice scoring: Touchdowns—Ryan (1-run), K. Williams 2 (41-run), 20-run, Hoelscher (28-run). Conversions—Hall 2, Hill, Throckmorton.

Texas scoring: Touchdowns — Fondren (1-plunge). Conversion—Fondren.

Golden Gophers Dig Up Minnesota, 20-7

By JACK BERRY

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 27 (UP) — Quarterback Bobby Cox engineered Minnesota into the top position for the Rose Bowl trip Saturday, scoring twice to lead the Gophers to a 20-7 win over Michigan in the Little Brown Jug game before 84,639 startled homecoming fans.

Cox, a transfer student from Washington, scored both of his touchdowns in the final period as the Gophers came from behind to pin the second Big Tenn loss on fifth-ranked Michigan.

The defeat virtually ended Michigan's hopes of making the Rosa Bowl trip but the victory sent Minnesota hopes soaring to the highest point since the Big Ten and Pacific Coast League entered into the Rose Bowl agreement 10 years ago.

Michigan grabbed a 7-0 lead on the first play of the second period when halfback Terry Barr capped a 92-yard drive with a 15-yard smash for a touchdown. Ron Kramer converted.

The first time Minnesota had the ball in the second half, the Gophers marched 95 yards in 16 plays to score. Cox baffled Michigan by calling quick huddles before the Wolverines could set their defense.

Right halfback Bob Schultz got the first Gopher touchdown when he took a hand-off from Cox and ran 30 yards. A bad pass from center ruined the Gopher try for the extra point.

But it made little difference as unbeaten Minnesota roared right back for 14 points in the fourth quarter. The big play on Minnesota's second touchdown came when Dick Larson took a punt on his own 35 and handed off to Dick McNamara who raced to the Michigan 28.

Eight plays later Cox went over from the three and Ken Bombardier converted.

Score by periods:

Michigan	0	7	0	0	— 7
Minnesota	0	0	6	14	—20

Michigan scoring: Touchdown—Barr (15, run). Conversions—Kramer.

Minnesota scoring: Touchdowns—Schultz (30, run), Cox 2 (3, run; 7 run). Conversions—Bombardier, Rasmussen.

Texas Western Wallops N. M. Aggies, 51-7

LAS CRUCES, N.M., Oct. 27 (UP)—Texas Western of El Paso, Tex., trounced New Mexico A&M 51 to 7 to extend its jinx over the Aggies to eleven straight years here Saturday night.

The lone Aggie scoring came early in the fourth quarter when quarterback Mickey Folx passed to Joe Kelly to move the ball to the three. Two plays later Folx plunged over. Kelley converted.

Quarterback Bob Forrest scored twice before the disappointed homecoming crowd of Aggie rooters. In the third quarter Forrest ran 17 yards off tackle and in the final quarter ran 42 yards through the middle of a dazed Aggie line.

Quarterback Berman Corbell opened Western's scoring with a 32 yard field goal when the game was only three minutes old. Corbell also made three conversions for Western.

Hogs Uproot Ole Miss, 14-0

By BRYCE MILLER

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 27 (UP)—Unranked underdog Arkansas was unimpressed by the nation's top defensive team and ground out a 14-0 victory over the University of Mississippi Saturday night that was engineered by versatile quarterback Don Christian before a capacity crowd of 35,500.

Christian scored both Arkansas touchdowns, the first on a one-foot quarterback sneak in the first play of the fourth quarter and the second with less than three minutes left in the game on a bootleg play from the 30-yard line.

It almost looked even worse for tottering Ole Miss, who was knocked from the ranks of the undefeated last week 10-3 by Tulane. In the last 30 seconds third string halfback Charley Berry intercepted a Rebel pass and romped down the sidelines 58 yards to the Ole Miss three, where Arkansas was battering on the door as the clock ran out.

It took Arkansas the entire first quarter to get its crushing attack oiled and into high gear, but from there on out the Razorbacks dominated the game and capitalized on two Rebel gambles.

Late in the third quarter Mississippi, faced with a fourth and one situation on the Arkansas 31, elected to gamble. But Arkansas smashed the play with a nine-man line and took over.

From there, Christian and hard-hitting junior fullback Gerald Nesbitt worked the ball to the one-foot line, where Christian crashed over on the first play of the fourth period.

Nesbitt converted. Then, with less than four minutes in the game, Ole Miss was faced with a similar situation on the same 31-yard line.

Once again Arkansas stopped the play cold.

In three plays, Arkansas was shoved back 15 yards before Christian tucked in the ball and scooted around left end for the score. Halfback Don Ritschel added the extra point.

Not until the second quarter did the Porkers get a sustained drive under way, going 77 yards in a 19-play series, only to fall short of a score by inches in the last three seconds of the period.

The Hogs stayed on the ground to the five-yard line, where the drive bogged, and coach Jack Mitchell sent Ritschel in for a field goal attempt with 10 seconds remaining.

The kick, from the extreme left side of the field, fell inches short of the crossbar.

Rebel fullback Paige Cothren was the only bright spot in the sputtering Ole Miss attack. On successive series in the first quarter, Cothren split the Razorback line for 18 and 16-yard gainers before he was nailed. They were the longest Rebel gains of the night.

Arkansas dominated the statistics in rushing, 248-171; passing yardage, 17-0; and first downs 17-9.

Score by periods:

Arkansas	0	0	0	14	—14
Mississippi	0	0	0	0	— 0

Arkansas scoring: Touchdowns—Christian 2 (one-yard quarterback sneak and 30-yard run). Conversions—Nesbitt, Ritschel.

Gators Drop LSU, 21-6

By JOHN CORPORON

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 27 (UP) — Quarterback Jimmy Dunn passed almost at will and halfback Jim Rountree scored two touchdowns Saturday night to give Florida a 21 to 6 victory over winless Louisiana State University before 35,000.

Simpson, a 21-year-old senior, plunged over from two yards out early in the second period for Florida's second score, then caught a seven-yard pass from Dunn in the third for Florida's third touchdown.

In between, the shifty running scatback used LSU's slow line for a private speedway as he swept wide and up the center.

Another halfback teammate, Jackie Simpson, started Florida toward victory midway of the first period when he gathered in a punt and raced 49 yards while four LSU players watched.

Substitute quarterback Harry Spears converted twice and center Joe Hergert booted the other.

LSU's lone touchdown came in the fading minutes of the game against Florida's third team.

Substitute quarterback Win Turner, almost trapped back on his own 45, hit end Bill Hendrix with a 46-yard scoring pass. The lanky Hendrix took it on the 25, dodged a Florida tackler and went over standing up. However, fullback Jimmy Taylor failed to convert.

But for the rest of the game, LSU was bottled up as it lost its fifth consecutive game.

Dunn's passing was the bright feature in Florida's swift attack. On the second touchdown drive, Dunn hit halfback Bernie Parrish with a 19 yarder that went to the LSU 23. A play later he hit end Jim Yeats, with a 26 yard pass on the LSU 2.

Hurricane Blows Over TCU, 14-0

By ED FITE

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 27 (UP)— Miami's hustling Hurricanes threw a defensive blanket over Texas Christian's touted offense and mustered first and fourth quarter scoring surges to upset the two-touchdown favored Southwest Conference champions 14-0 Saturday night.

Sophomore southpaw Bonnie Yarborough came off the bench to cap a 67-yard drive with a 34-yard flip to end Jack Johnson for a first period score and halfback Ed Oliver dived one yard for another in the final period and booted both extra points to stun a crowd of 25,000.

But, the real story of the Miami feat was the way the Hurricanes hamstrung TCU's running attack aside from two brief flurries in the second quarter and the amazing alacrity with which the Miami secondary batted aside pass armed pass from the usually sure-armed Charles Curtis.

The Miami terminal tandem of Johnson and Johnson, Jack from Pittsburgh, Pa. and Don from Rhinelander, Wis., tackle Gary Greaves and line-backed Don Bosseler ripped into the TCU backfield time and again to smother the TCU attack before it could generate any power. Oliver, John Bookman and Yarborough teamed to bat away the errant passes.

Curtis and his aides managed to connect on only five of 22 passes, an all-time low for the pass - minded Christians, while Miami hit only two of seven, but one of them was that beeliner that Yarborough sneaked into Johnson's waiting arms in the end zone.

Texas Tech Wins; Whip Arizona, 21-7

TUCSON, Ariz., Oct. 27 (UP)—Texas Tech continued its domination over the University of Arizona here Saturday night, scoring twice in the third period to gain a 21-7 victory.

It was the 16th time in 18 games that previously winless Texas Tech had defeated Arizona.

A crowd of 22,000 homecoming fans watched Texas Tech convert two Arizona fumbles into touchdowns in the early minutes of the third period to open up what had been a good 7-7 first half game.

In each case Texas Tech had little distance to go to score. The tie-breaking march covered only 11 yards with halfback Hugh Fewin scoring from one yard out.

Three minutes later, quarterback Don Williams, playing an outstanding game for the Southwest Conference Raiders, climaxed a 20-yard drive by scoring from one yard out.

Both fumbles were made by Arizona's quarterback Ralph Hunsaker, the third leading offensive player in the nation.

Score by periods:

Arizona	7	0	0	0	— 7
Texas Tech	0	7	14	0	—21

Arizona scoring: Touchdowns—Hunsaker (2, sneak). Conversion, Bowerman.

Texas Tech scoring: Touchdowns—Riddle (2, sneak), Fewin (1, plunge), Williams (1, plunge). Conversions, Frisbie, Williams (2).

Hawkeyes Surprise Boilermakers, 21-20

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 27 (UP) —Iowa's surprising Hawkeyes edged favored Purdue Saturday, 21-20, to hang up their fifth straight win of the year and their third in the Big Ten without a defeat.

To earn their victory and keep a share of the conference lead, the Hawks had to stand off a driving Purdue team which moved to the Iowa 20-yard line with less than a minute left. Boilermaker Erich Barnes fumbled away the last chance after catching a pass and Iowa guard Frank Bloomquist picked up the ball to let the Iowans run out the clock for the triumph.

The Boilermakers missed a chance for a tie and a repeat of last year's clash with Iowa which ended in a 20-20 deadlock when Len Dawson, who otherwise starred in the Boilermaker offensive, kicked wide of the mark in the fourth period.

Junior halfback Bill Happel spearheaded the Iowa attack scoring two touchdowns, and end Jim Gibbons caught a 10-yard pass from Ken Ploen for the other. Right end Bob Prescott kicked the first two conversions and Ploen booted what turned out to be a victory margin.

Score by periods:

Purdue	7	7	0	6	—20
Iowa	7	14	0	0	—21

Purdue scoring: Touchdowns, Dillard (1 run), Fletcher (18 pass, Dawson), Lundy (20 pass, Dawson). Conversions, Dawson 2.

Iowa scoring: Touchdowns, Gibbons (10 pass, Ploen), Happel 2 (6 run, 30 run). Conversions, Prescott 2, Ploen.

Sooners Shell ND Irish, 40-0

By ED SAINSBURY

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 27 (UP)—Oklahoma's terrific touchdown twins, Tommy McDonald and Clendon Thomas, took off from a new formation Saturday to lead the Sooners to their 35th straight triumph, a one-sided 40-0 pounding over once mighty Notre Dame before a record attendance of 60,128.

The Sooners, 21-point favorites, thereby scored their first win in history over the Irish and shut out Notre Dame for the first time in 50 games. The last Notre Dame blanking was by Michigan State, 35-0, Nov. 10, 1951.

There was no doubt of the eventual winner when Oklahoma took the opening kickoff and pranced 69 yards in 10 plays for a touchdown. Coach Bud Wilkinson, who wanted to surprise the Irish, kept his split-T formation but he flanked both of his flashy halfbacks wide and they riddled the Irish line and secondary.

Before the first period ended, the hard-driving Sooner linemen, sparked by Jerry Tubbs, had the Irish forwards failing back on every play and the Sooner backs were clipping off five and six yards or more per carry.

Hornung Never Gets Going

Oklahoma's superiority increased as the game went on to the extent that Paul Hornung, Notre Dame's one - man gang, never could get untracked. He fumbled twice to give Oklahoma possession and twice his passes were intercepted, one of them by Thomas for a 36-yard return for a touchdown.

McDonald, too, had a touchdown in the same fashion, hauling in a pass by Morse and returning 56 yards to score. Thomas carried 11 times for 69 yards and McDonald 12 for 52, and Thomas drove 11 yards for one touchdown.

But McDonald caught one pass for 17 yards and hauled in another of Hornung's throws and he completed his only pass attempt of the day, for 49 yards to Thomas. Thomas caught another pass, too, from Jim Harris, for eight yards. Oklahoma's other touchdowns were by Harris, on a one yard dive, Jay O'Neal, on a one yard plunge, and John Bell, on a 14-yard pass from Harris.

Harris made good on three of four passes, missing on one toss for the first time this season. He hit his receiver on that effort, but he was out of bounds on the catch.

The win, combined with Michigan State's loss, seemed certain to elevate the Sooners, ranked second in the nation going into the game, back onto the top rung. Michigan State supplanted the Sooners this week after its 47-14 triumph over Notre Dame.

Contrary to expectations, the Sooners didn't try to "pour it on" the Irish. Oklahoma's second team played more than its first in the first half. In the second half even the fourth stringers got into action against the weary Irish.

It was Oklahoma's fifth straight win this season and Notre Dame's fourth loss in five starts.

Score by periods:

Notre Dame	0	0	0	0	— 0
Oklahoma	13	13	7	7	—40

Oklahoma scoring: Touchdowns, Bell (14, pass from Harris), Harris (1, dive), O'Neal (1, plunge), Thomas 2 (11, plunge; 36, pass interception return), McDonald (55, pass interception returned). Conversions — Dodd, Harris 3.

Aggies Nip Baylor, 19-13

By LLOYD LARABEE

WACO, Tex., Oct. 27 (UP)—Texas A&M's nationally seventh-rated Aggies powered by Jack Pardee and John Crow, came from behind Saturday night to defeat Baylor, 19-13, in a rough and tumble Southwest Conference contest before 50,000 fans.

Repeated personal foul penalties marked second - half play, when Baylor pushed into a brief lead only to see it erased when the Cadets marched 63 yards to their game - winning touchdown, scored by Crow from the 2 in the fourth period.

The hard running of Crow and Pardee and the passing arm of Crow accounted for all three A&M touchdowns, as they overcame a shaky 13-12 lead held by ninth-rated Baylor only minutes in the final period.

After the two teams battled to a 6-6 halftime draw, A&M broke out in front in the third period on a four-yard slash by Pardee capping a 95-yard march. But Loyd Taylor's conversion attempt was wide.

Baylor, capitalizing on a short punt, drove 36 yards early in the fourth period to score on a four-yard plunge by halfback Bobby Peters. Sophomore halfback Arthur Beall converted to give the Bears a one-point lead.

But the Cadets, sparked by the ground gains of Pardee and quarterback Roddy Osborne, came back to score in eight plays and maintain their undefeated record. A&M has won five games and tied one.

Taylor converted after the Cadets' third score.

The victory gave A&M undisputed possession of first place in the Southwest Conference.

Cadet quarterback Roddy Osborne's pass interception and 22-yard runback to the Baylor 21 set up A&M's first touchdown. Six plays later Crow flipped a five-yard pass to end John Tracey in the end zone.

Baylor scored less than two minutes before halftime, when the Bears moved 67 yards in 11 plays. Sophomore fullback Larry Hicks man bounced over from the 2 to tie the score.

Score by periods:

Baylor	0	6	0	7	—13
Texas A&M	0	6	6	7	—19

Baylor scoring: Touchdowns—Hickman (2, plunge); Peters (4, run). Conversions—Beall.

Texas A&M scoring: Touchdowns — Tracey (5, pass from Crow); Pardee (4, plunge); Crow (2, plunge). Conversions — Taylor.

Tulsa Smacks Cowboys, 27-0

By LESLIE ROGERS

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 27 (UP)—Sophomore quarterback George Cagliola ran for one touchdown and passed for two others to lead Tulsa University to a 27-0 victory over Hardin-Simmons in an intersectional game Saturday night.

Coach Bobby Dobbs' Golden Hurricane stymied the Cowboys, ranked one of the nation's leading offensive teams, both on the ground and in the air. While scoring twice each in the first and third quarters, Tulsa thwarted several Cowboy marches with pass interceptions and the visitors were unable to penetrate the Tulsa 20-yard line.

Cagliola, 170-pounder from Norristown, Pa., made the first counter on a 12-yard run two plays after H-S halfback Charles Massegee fumbled early in the first half. Later in the same period, halfback Ray Boaz returned a Hardin-Simmons punt 32 yards, and five plays later, Bennie Davis, second team quarterback, added another marker on an 8-yard keeper play.

The half ended with Hardin-Simmons failing to connect on four straight aerials.

Score by periods:

Tulsa	13	0	14	0	—27
Hardin-Simmons	0	0	0	0	— 0

Tulsa scoring: Touchdowns, Cagliola (12, run); Davis (8, run); Combs (7, pass from Cagliola); Morris (8, pass from Cagliola). Conversions, Wynns 2, Gandy 1.

Buckeyes Bruise Badgers, 21-0

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 27 (UP) —Ohio State's bruising ground attack—the kind that leaves its opposition black and blue—crushed Wisconsin, 21-0, Saturday, tieing a record for the most consecutive victories by a Big Ten team.

The triumph was Ohio State's 15th straight in Western Conference play, equaling the mark set by Michigan in 1946-1948.

Ohio State struck for two quick touchdowns in the first half before a homecoming crowd of 82,661 and added a third in the final quarter.

The core of the Buckeye ground attack was Don Clark, 188-pound halfback, who scored Ohio State's first touchdown on a 23-yard dash and set up a second with a 15-yard jaunt to the Wisconsin one-foot marker.

Score by periods:

Ohio State	7	7	0	7	—21
Wisconsin	0	0	0	0	— 0

Ohio State scoring: Touchdowns—Clark (23 run); Ellwood 2 (1-foot plunge, 1-foot plunge). Conversions—Kriss 2, Sutherin 1.

Illini Come From Behind, Upset Michigan State, 20-14

By RAY COFFEY

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 27 (UP)—A fired-up Illinois, sparked by halfback Abe Woodson, blazed back from a two-touchdown deficit Saturday to knock off undefeated and top-ranked Michigan State, 20-13, in a stunning upset that delighted a homecoming crowd of 71,119.

Woodson scored all three Illinois touchdowns, two of them on runs of 70 and 82 yards, as the fighting Illini held the vaunted Spartan attack to an absolute standstill in the second half.

Illinois, trailing by 13 points and seeking its second victory in five starts, got underway on the third play of the second half when fullback Ray Nitschke ripped off 38 yards to the Spartan 29.

The Illini drove to the Spartan 2 where Woodson dived over tackle on second down for the first Illinois score. Dick Miller's conversion attempt was wide.

Then, as the fourth period started, halfback Dennis Mendyk fumbled for Michigan State on the Illinois 11. Woodson raced 15 yards to the 26. After two short plunges, he broke through his own right side and raced 70 yards to a second score. Miller converted to tie the game at 13-all.

The Spartans stalled on the Illinois 35 and tried a field goal that was short. Woodson brought the ball out to the 18.

On the first play, fourth string quarterback Bill Offenbecher fired a pass to Woodson at the line of scrimmage and the fleet Negro back went 82 yards for the winning touchdown.

Quarterback Tom Haller converted.

Michigan State did not exactly sparkle even in the first half when it built up its 13-0 lead. The Spartans got both their touchdowns by capitalizing on Illinois fumbles.

In the first period, the Spartans' Jim Wulff plunged over from the 2 after Michigan State recovered an Illinois fumble on the Illini 21. In the second period, Michigan State took another Illinois fumble on the 34. Halfback Clarence Peaks ran 25 yards to the 5, then smashed over from the 2 on the fourth down.

The loss was Michigan State's first in five games and probably cost them ranking as the nation's No. 1 team.

Score by periods:

Illinois	0	0	6	14	—20
Michigan State	7	6	0	0	—13

Illinois scoring: Touchdowns — Woodson 3 (2, plunge, 70, end run, pass from Offenbecher, 82-yard run). Conversion — Miller, Haller.

Michigan State scoring: Touchdowns — Wulff (4, plunge), Peaks (2, plunge). Conversion — Matsko.

Changes Made; Harvesters Look For Monterey Friday

With an open date last week in preparation for the Monterey of Lubbock game this week, Coach Jack Lockett and his assistants did some switching around as they again applied his shake well system.

The key move indicated Lockett was the switching around of the tackles. Bill Kirbie, who saw action most of the season as a two-way ball player and as the Pampa left tackle was moved to the right side of the line while Don Jonas, the starting right tackle, was moved to left tackle. The coaching staff thought that they could increase the offensive thrust of the Harvesters by making this move. They also switched Glenn Howell from his starting end slot to first team offensive right tackle, spelling Kirbie during this period. In Howell's place on the flanks, Coach Lockett sent Dale Lake, heretofore used primarily on defense as a halfback.

Although the Harvesters worked out in sweat clothes the first couple of day this week, they scrimmaged hard Thursday end Friday and looked sharper than they have looked in a few days doing so.

Things have been looking up on the medical front for the Harvesters. Jim Hopkins, out for many weeks with a bad leg, has been given the green light by doctors and will be set to go in action tomorrow and Robert Warren, who separated his shoulder two weeks ago, will be getting into action later this week.

Beginning tomorrow, the Harvesters will work out in pads and work hard in an effort to get ready for Friday night's game with Monterey. Last Friday the first string backs went against the first string line in a full-game scrimmage with the Golds, second string backs and first string line, winning 12-7. Jesse Ingles scored one touchdown for the Golds and Gary Heiskell the other. For the Whites, Bobby Dehls accounted for the one touchdown. Commenting about the workout Coach Lockett said, "We looked ragged, but that was perhaps from the lack of work. The spirit still is high and if the boys can keep that spirit up throughout next week and look real sharp, we should make trouble for Monterey.

Lockett has no complaints about the boys physical shape. He said, "Our biggest problem is getting the boys in the right frame of mind to make them think they can win. Physically, they are in good shape. Proof of that is by the few men we use every game. The boys have to be in shape to stand that pace."

When asked whether he planned any more lineup changes other than the one that moved the tackles around, Lockett said, "At present, we don't contemplate any more changes."

With the switching of tackles and the moving of Glen Howell to end, Bill Fraser, a standout Shockers all season, was promoted to the Harvesters. He will be one of the boys counted upon heavily in next year's plans.

Rangers Race By Cats, 52-6

The Perryton Rangers hit hard and quick Friday night and blasted the Childress Bobcats in a District 3-AA contest, 52-6 while 2,000 fans looked chilled to the bone.

Six Rangers roared over the twin - stripes for touchdowns as Dempsey Gyger and Dan Pearson moved for two each. Gyger ran 65 yards for the first Perryton score; Neal Flathers ran a punt back for 72 yards and another touchdown and Wayman Epp zipped 54 yards on an end run for the long gainers of the evening. Other marlers came when Bill Ray Mounts hit Lanny Hargrove with a 16 yard pass for the score.

Injuns Upset Trojans, 27-19

STANFORD, Calif., Oct. 27 (UP)— John Brodie, apparently heading for the goat of the week award, coolly rallied his Stanford forces after Southern California had taken a two-touchdown lead Saturday and led them to a 27-19 victory over the erstwhile undefeated Trojans before a crowd of 70,000.

The angry men of Coach Jess Hill, out to blast the Indians who remained pure and aloof while Southern California was racked up this summer for conference code infractions, intercepted two of Brodie's passes during the first half to set up touchdown marches of 37 and 42 yards.

But Brodie, with his club trailing 13-0, pulled it together and shot the Indians ahead for the day with a pair of 30 and 23-yard touchdown passes which sandwiched his own scoring smash from a yard out.

Score by periods:

Ramblin' Wreck Rolls Wave, 40-0

By BILL FERGUSON

ATLANTA, Oct. 27 (UP) — Unbeaten Georgia Tech scored with every combination it could call out from the bench Saturday to roll up a 40-0 victory over helpless Tulane which only a week ago upset Mississippi.

A herd of fancy-stepping backs took part in Tech's eighth straight triumph before a homecoming crowd of 40,000.

A line led by stubby Guard Jimmy Johnson carved wide holes in Tulane's forewall to let them through for 328 yards rushing.

Although Tech's main strength was on the ground, with halfbacks George Volkert, Johnny Menger and Paul Rotenberry grinding out the most yardage, three of the actual scores came on passes.

grinding out the most yardage, three of the actual scores came on passes.

Only when the Green Wave recovered two fumbles and again on a penalty, did Tulane get in Tech territory. Late in the fourth period, Tech reserves repelled a Tulane attack on the two-yard line.

Tech drove 33 yards for a first period score after a poor Tulane punt gave the Engineers the ball in Tulane territory. Menger went eight yards, Volkert provided 11 on two carries and Menger skirted right end for 16 yards and the score.

Tech struck again in the second period with an 80 yard drive. Volkert sparked the march with a 17-yard romp and scored the touchdown on a 15-yard pass from quarterback Toppy Vann.

Tech racked up two more quick scores in the third period. Quarterback Wade Mitchell sneaked one yard to climax a 75-yard lone assault and Vann sneaked two yards after the Engineers rolled 33 yards.

Tech reserves kept the pressure on in the fourth period. Sophomore halfback Joe Delaney tossed a 10-yard touchdown heave to fullback Dick Gookin, and then in the last minute of play, Delaney caught a pass from quarterback Charley Maynard for the final Tech touchdown.

Score by periods:

Tulane	0	0	0	0	—0
Ga. Tech	6	7	14	13	—40

Georgia Tech scoring: Touchdowns, Menger (16, run), Volkert (15-yard pass from Vann), Mitchell (1, run), Vann (2, run), Gookin (10, pass from Delaney), Delaney (23, pass from Maynard). Conversions — Vann 3, Mitchell.

Vols Drub Terps, 34-7

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 27 (UP)—Tailback Johnny (Drum) Majors played a tattoo of touchdown passes on Maryland's weak defenses Saturday and Tennessee rolled to a 34-7 win to keep its unbeaten record intact.

A crowd of 34,000 saw the 162-pound Huntland, Tenn., whiz pass for two lightning touchdowns, including a 28-yard looper, in the second period and strike for another early in the third before turning over the key post chores to understudy Al Carter.

Maryland, behind quarterback John Fritsch, scored its only touchdown after recovering a fumble on Tennessee's one.

Score by periods:

Tennessee	0	14	14	6	—34
Maryland	0	7	0	0	—7

Tennessee scoring(Touchdowns —Cruze (5, pass from Majors), Sandlin (28, pass from Majors), Anderson (13, pass from Majors), Urbano (84 intercepted pass), Smith (3, plunge). Conversions—Smithers 2, Burklow 2.

Maryland scoring: Touchdown—Fritsch (1, plunge). Conversion—Komlo.

Clarendon Bronchos Bust Lefors Pirates By 61-14

The Clarendon Bronchos downed Lefors' Pirates 61-14 Friday night in Lefors.

The Pirates drew first blood in the contest when quarterback Tommy Johnson dropped back and threw a long, spiraling pass to halfback James Wariner, who had slipped behind the Broncho secondary.

Fullback Howard Bradfield added the extra point on a line plunge and the Pirates had a 7-0 lead.

Clarendon came back to score from two yards out after a sustained drive and the die was cast.

Clarendon seemingly couldn't throw a pass without completing it. Quarterback Payne was accurate and his receivers had gluey fingers and most of the time were in the open.

Coach Tommy Jinks, a graduate of Lefors High School, had the first stringers in most of the way but commented after the game that he had even switched linemen to the backfield in the game.

Coach H. W. Callan didn't see it that way, however.

The Buccaneers got one more td in the final stanza when halfback Stanley Coleman drove through left tackle for the marker. Fullback Billy Fulton added the extra point.

Standouts for the Pirates, even in defeat, included tackle Mike Nichols, J. Bradfield, Fulton, Johnson, Coleman, guard Larry Blair, tackle Mark Braly and other Pirates.

Tragedy stung coach Callan's camp, however, in the form of injuries. End Tex Nolan received a broken hand in the francas and the team physician indicated that Bradfield may have re-injured a hand that was broken before the season started.

CHICAGO (UP)—Archie Moore and Floyd Patterson were to meet today to sign formally for their Nov. 30 fight in the Chicago Stadium for the world heavyweight championship.

Though final details for the bout have been settled with their managers, Charlie Johnston for Moore and Cus D'Amato for Patterson, the fighters will sign the final contracts with James D. Norris, president of the International Boxing Club.

Rattlers Bite White Deer, 34-7

The Stinnett Rattlers, No. 1 team in Class 1-A, won their homecoming match with the White Deer Bucks Friday, 34-7.

The Rattlers, a heavy favorite, scored in each quarter of the conference game. White Deer's TD and conversion came late in the final quarter on a pass play.

Dale Keadle scored three times for the Rattlers. Larry Dawson converted four times. Other TD's for the Stinnett team were made by Sammy Roberts and Ralph Hicks.

Cyclones Zip By McLean, 57-7

Coach D. C. Andrews' Memphis Cyclones roared through an outclassed McLean team Friday to the tune of 57-7 in a District 2-A football game.

Though the temperature was in the low 40's, the Cyclones melted the Tiger defense as they skirted the ends, plunged up the center and intercepted two passes for long TD runs. Even a tackle, Paul Wilson, scored on a 40 yard run as he was — on the receiving end of a lateral.

David Woods ran a kickoff back 80 yards for the only McLean score. The extra point was made by Woods also.

Plainsmen Rip Cougars, 12-0

By GLENN ANTHONY

AUBURN, Ala., Oct. 27 (UP)—Sparked by brilliant sophomore Tommy Lorino and fullback Jim Walsh, Auburn generated touchdown marches of 73 and 81 yards Saturday to defeat slightly favored Houston 12-0 before 20,000 fans.

Houston drove once to Auburn's 27-yard-line and again to the 26 after recovering a fumble but could never muster a scoring punch against a bristling line that crowded passer Don Flynn.

Auburn got its first score with only five seconds left in the first half when Lorino gave the Plainsmen zest with a 30-yard sprint to the Houston 38. Quarterback Jimmy Cook flicked a 23-yard pass and Houston center Dick McKinney deflected it into the arms of Auburn end Jerry Sansom who scurried for a touchdown.

Auburn marched 81 yards in 15 plays for its second score on a drive starting late in the third period with Walsh tearing out huge chunks in the Houston interior line. Junior halfback Bobby Hoppe scored from five yards out for his first collegiate touchdown.

Houston had plowed from its 29 to the Auburn 27 in the second period, led by Flynn and fourth string fullback Owen Mulholland. But Auburn's line, as it was to do on the later threat, handled the situation.

Auburn rolled up 26 first downs and 326 yards rushing with Walsh getting an even 100 in 19 tries.

Score by periods:

Auburn	0	6	0	6	—12
Houston	0	0	0	0	— 0

Auburn scoring: Touchdowns — Hoppe (5, run), Sansom (38, pass-run).

Miami Blasts Channing, 41-24

Sam Harris sparked the attack of District 11-B Miami Friday in a 41-24 victory over Channing.

Harris tallied once in each quarter.

Others scoring for the winners were Bobby Cunningham and Billy Lard who also came through with a field goal. Terry Gill created a 2-point safety for Miami.

The TD-men for Channing were Joe Bill Brown and Don Hunt with two each.

Miami moved for 430 yards on the round and Channing's rushing total was 48.

Panhandle Outdoor Life

By S. V. WHITEHORN

Probbbly ever since the beginning of time man has been trying to outwit wild game. Back in the beginning of time, man was trying to figure out some way to make a choice meal by bringing home a fawn deer, young bird or some other specie that would not stand still for the hungry hunter to walk up and capture.

Wild game has a habit, same as man, towards self - preservation. Maybe the cave man kept the cave in ample supply of something to eat, at least it would be reasonable to assume that man did not starve in those days and man did not do much gardening or farming. The modern hunter is almost as persistant today in his hunting habits as were his ancestors.

It was interesting to hear a veteran quail hunter, Lloyd L. Garrison of near Gruver, relate the other day, how to make blue quail stick or 'hold' when hunting this specie. Blue quail are noted for their running ability which makes hunting difficult. They will not stand still or 'hold.'

Mr. Garrison remarked that last year a farmer, in the Gruver area, invited him out to the ranch to do some blue quail hunting. When these two hunters arrived at a windmill there were about a hundred blues located there.

The birds promptly flushed and the farmer shot at them to make them hold or hide. As the two shotgunners began nearing the birds, the quail started moving. Mr. Garrison pulled out a hawk caller (a game call designed to imitate hawks) the birds quickly took cover upon hearing the supposedly hawk and the hunters soon bagged their limit of ten birds each. This is very unusual for hunters to be able to kick blues out and get good shooting.

Since hearing of this trick I have heard of some field trialers using the call at bird dog field trails in order to make the birds hold and thereby giving their dog a chance to perform perfect work under the eyes of the trial judges. Mr. Garrison didn't say this would always work but did state that it really worked on that one occasion.

Bob Addington, of Addington's Western Store in Pampa, has already ordered a shipment of hawk callers for the bird hunters.

1956 WATERFOWL HUNTING REGULATIONS ANNOUNCED

The only changes made in Texas 1956 waterfowl hunting regulations were those requested, reports Howard Dodgen, Executive Secretary of the Game and Fish Commission.

Zero hour on the opener, Friday, Nov. 2, will be at one half hour before sunrise, like all other shooting days, the goose and duck seasons will begin simultaneously.

Traditionally, twelve o'clock noon was the starting time for the waterfowl season.

Last year when the duck season was extended to 75 days, the goose season remained at 60 days and the opener for the latter was delayed 15 days.

At its last meeing the Game and Fish Commission asked the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to make the duck and goose openers conform "as a conservation measure and as a convenience to the hunters".

It also suggested the earlier legal shooting hour for the first day for the same reason.

The new regulations provide no change in the sunset close for the daily shooting period and place the bag limits, as in recent season.

Limits are five ducks per day and ten in possession, and five geese per day and five in possession. The goose limit shall not contain more than two Canada geese or its sub specie or two white fronted geese or one of each.

DEER AND TURKEY SEASONS FOR THE PANHANDLE

WILD DEER — Open season — November 17 to Nov. 26, both days inclusive. Shooting hours — one half hour before sunrise to sunset. Bag limit — One (1) buck deer with pronged antlers. Possession limit, One (1) buck deer with pronged antlers. Means of Taking — Rifle or shotgun with slug, except .22 cal. rifles using rim fire ammunition shall be unlawful. Bows and arrows may be used with the express permission of the landowner.

Wild turkey season is the same as deer and the shooting hours are also the same. Bag limits are two (2) gobblers per season. The 22 rim fire rifle are also unlawful to kill turkeys with.

PISTOL SHOOT SLATED

Dennis Jones, Spearman, has scheduled a pistol shoot at Spearman which will be held some two miles west of the city Nov. 11.

Mr. Jones hasn't completed final plans but will in the next few days. Probably the match will consist of ten rounds fired at slow fire at twenty five yards and one for the .22 cal. pistol as well as one for larger calibres. Shoot No. 2 will probably be thirty rounds first with ten slow, ten timed and ten rapid.

All pistol shooters will be invited and prizes will be awarded.

The weather will not hamper the shoot due to the fact that Mr. Jones has constructed a small house with an open front to shoot from.

As far as I know this is one of the first pistol shoots ever to be staged in this area to which the public is invited.

Shooters are expected from Borger, Pampa, Amarillo and Clayton, N.M.

Most bird dog men in the country are getting ready for the fall trials near Canadian which will start Nov. 2 and last for three days.

Veteran contender and authority on dogs A. E. Corbett and Game Ranger Captain Arnold Purviance do the judging. Mr. Corbett is from Fort Worth while Capt. Purviance is from Norman, Okla.

Irish Get Stewed By Indians, 57-20

The Quanah Indians, behind at one time 7-6, got their tomahawks unleashed and became a rampaging tribe as they came on to scalp the Shamrock Irish 57-20.

Jimmy Smith broke the scoring ice first for the Indians as he pushed his way over from the one after the Indians put on a sustained march. The extra point try was missed and that gave the Shamrock Irish the chance to go into the lead for the only time of what turned out to be a long evening.

Wilbur Tyler went into the land of milk and honey from the eight and Gaston Tarbet followed from a conversion to put the Irish into a momentary 7-6 lead.

That was all she wrote for the evening with the exception of James Cannon's running. Cannon, a newcomer just becoming eligible this week, moved 70 yards to set up a touchdown and then pounded the middle of the line for the score from the one. Cannon was the outstanding offensive threat of the evening for the Irish. Late in the game Gaston Tarbet went over from the four and Campbell followed with the conversion to account for the Irish scoring for the night.

James Smith scored for the second time in the first quarter on a ten yard slant to put Quanah into the lead for keeps. Seven little Indians scored as they moved at will all night never letting up. Besides Smith's two teedees, Kenny Newell helped himself to two markers, one of them a 54 yard jaunt toward the end of the third quarter. Leon Huffman took a pass from Jim Cromartie for a score, Alvin Scott intercepted a pass for another counter and Owen Morrison ran 54 yards for a touchdonw. Charlie Wake and Johnny Wade, two bad men all night, also scampered for touchdowns.

It was just a question of being out gunned, however, standouts for Shamrock included Alvin Reeves and Charlie Evans. They did the best possible job they could in trying to stem the tide.

Tigers Slash Spearman, 30-7

The Groom Tigers took advantage of some long gainers to hand Spearman a 30-7 defeat Friday night in a District 1-B game.

Spearman got off in the lead with an eight yard end run by Billy Spiller for the touchdown. Bob Sheets' ran the extra point.

That was all for the night as Gerald Hermesmeyer and Co. got loose in the second quarter and piled a pair of touchdowns. They followed with three more in the third session to put the game on ice.

Gerald Hermesmeyer, on a 50 yard gallop, put Groom within a point of Spearman at the outset of the second quarter and a pass from Johnny Eschle to Smith that was good for 30 yards made it 12-7.

After Smith found daylight for 30 yards and a touchdown on an off - tackle slant, Gerald Hermesmeyer shook himself loose on a 55 yard carry and zig-zagged his way into the end zone for another score. Both extra point tries were faulty and the score was 24-7.

Johnny Eschle found Smith along again and hit him with a pass for another touchdown on a play that covered 55 yards.

Spearman was unable to get their attack organized and the ball game ended with Groom the victor, 30-7.

Harvester Basketeers Work Out

After about ten days of practice Coach Clifton McNeely, head coach of the Pampa Harvester basketball team would offer no comment as to his team's chance this year when they begin their 21 game schedule on Nov. 30 against Childress. On top of this rigorous grind, which includes 12 district clashes.

The club had an inter-squad scrimmage on Friday and there was little to choose from between the first two teams. At present the Harvesters number nine men including Sam Condo, a senior forward at 6-2, Tommy Gindorf, a senior center at 6-6½, Tommy Murray, a senior guard at 5-10, Jerry Pope, a senior forward at 6-0, Billy Bown, a junior guard at 5-10 who played for the Shockers last year, Larry Cruise, a junior forward at 6-2 who played for the Shockers last year and Darrell Ammons, a junior forward at 6-0, Ray Stevenson, a junior guard at 5-11 and Frank Snow, a sophomore forward at 6-2, all of these fellows played with the Shockers last year. Carroll Cole, although hors de combat at present with a foot injury, will probably don the Harvester uniform before it's all through as will Dickie Mauldin, currently tied up with football. Both of these men, particularly Mauldin, who starred last year for the Harvesters, will be counted on for heavy duty when the season rolls around.

Other men out for the squad and who will probably make up the Shockers this year include Bob Gindorf, Russell Hollis, Don Magram, Bob Murray, Keith Yager, Bob Sidwell, Coyle Wenborn, Mark Layne, Kral Kitto, Alton Thygerson and Charles Luna.

This week, the club will get to learning some of the play patterns as well as the defense Coach McNeely has in store for his boys this year. Since Clifton McNeely has been here, this will be his tenth year of coaching, his defenses have worked quite well. He has only lost 24 games in nine years to place him near the top of the slate for honor's as the State's winningest coach. Two of his seasons were undefeated as Pampa swept through all opposition to the State championships.

Last year, the Pampa Harvesters won 22 games while dropping but six and were Northern half district winners. This year, before the Harvesters can set their sights on any crowns, they'll have to get by a tough slate of out-of-district opponents before they can face steeplechase high Amarillo with their 6-8'ers and a hustling high scoring Borger team.

However, as Coach McNeely said in the gym Friday, "We'll show up for our first game."

Area Game Of The Week:

Panhandle Pickles Canadian, 34-7

By BARRY A. LITTMANN
Pampa News Sports Editor

It was a cold, wind-swept night at Panther Field Friday as the Panhandle Panthers played the Canadian Wildcats, and the fewer than thousand fans who were there, huddled close to brave the fierce south wind, but on the field, the Panhandle Panthers were hot and they completely rolled over the Canadian Wildcats by a 34-7 score.

The game was played at a wicked pace with tackling and blocking bone jarring all night. The tackling was so hard that the teams fumbled eleven times with Canadian the victim eight times. It was costly every time the Wildcats fumbled, because seven of them were recovered by Panthers. Alert defensive play be Coy Don Mitchell, a fine guard, who recovered four Canadian fumbles paved the way. He was helped by Monty Bell, who intercepted two wayward Canadian passes and Billy Bob Brown, Pat Hamilton and Jere Mahon who also recovered Canadian miscues.

Panhandle, coached by Bill Davis, got off on the right foot early in the first quarter when Jones Hedrick bolted nine yards for the first score. This capped a 51 yard drive that took ten plays to consummate. The extra point attempt failed and the score was 6-0, Panhandle. Panhandle gained control when a bad pass from center on a fourth down kick set up gave them the ball.

After some alert defensive work gave the Panthers the ball on their own 40, Hedrick and Bell, on handoffs from Tommy Addington, set up the next touchdown. Bell sent the Panthers into a 12-0 lead as he cracked over right guard for 45 yards and a touchdown going straight down the middle of the field. Addington added their PAT to run the margin to 13-0.

Although Panhandle moved almost at will against the Canadian forward wall, they got only one touchdown in the third quarter. Mitchell, an alert defensive ace all night, recovered Dell Kreihbel's fumble on the 12 yard line. Teddy Addington gave to Devins and he took the ball into the one yard line. With the Wildcat defense drawn in tight, Addington sent Jones Hedrick up the middle without the ball as he scampered unmolested into the end zone. He also ran the extra point to make it 20-0.

In the last quarter, Panhandle hit for two more touncnowns as Hedrick bulled his way through a pile of players for three yards and the score and Ferrell Devin plunged for about two and the other score. Devin kicked the extra point for Hedrick's score and Addington moved the PAT over on Devin's score.

The first marker was set up by a recovery of a fumble on the Canadian 42 yard line.

Finally Canadian began to move as Coach Bill Davis moved in his scrubs for the rest of the game. From the six, Dell Krehbiel and Johnny Grist started to move the Wildcats upfield on line plays. From the 35, Garner Schoenhals shook off a tackler and broke loose into the secondary and ran the far sidelines for a touchdown. Dell Krehbel kicked the extra point to make the score 34-7.

Panhandle gained 296 yards rushing while Canadian, under terrific pressure from a tough defense all night, gained but 61 yards on the ground. They couldn't complete a pass and were trapped time and time again trying to get the ball off.

However, the key factor in the game was the outstanding defensive play by the Panhandle forward wall and the fine pass defense thrown up by the Panther secondary.

Next week the Panthers journey to White Deer to play against the Bucks in the their homecoming game. The following week, the high-flying Stinnett Rattlers provide the opposition for the Panhandle Panthers.

Wheeler Mustangs Pluck Lakeview Eagles, 58-0

The Wheeler Mustangs got stompin' and snortin' early in the game, perhaps to stay warm from the near-freezing weather, and went on to completely outclass the Lakeview Eagles 58-0 Friday night in Wheeler.

Joe Jaco started the ball rolling on the opening kickoff as he set sail from his ten yard line and went the total distance into the end zone for the initial touchdown. It was a beautiful run as Jaco, waiting for his interference to collect, moved almost untouched the 90 yards.

Harold Crossland was the main Mustang in the first quarter as he went for three touchdowns on terrific runs all over 25 yards in length. First Crossland sneaked his way 40 yards for a score and after the extra point was missed, and Lakeview could do nothing, he ripped off 27 yards for another touchdown as he circled end without difficulty. Larry Hunter made the first extra point of the game and before the Eagles clubd spread their wings they were behind 19-0. That wasn't all as Crossland got loose again and zipped full steam for 41 yards and his third touchdown of the quarter. Jim Porter converted to roll the score up to 26-0.

Gary Satterfield kept the Mustangs rolling along as he moved for 22 yards and another score early in the second quarter. Kirby Weatherly added the extra point and the gap opened to 33-0. Satterfield liked the taste of touchdown grass and once Wheeler got their hands on the ball, Satterfield moved into high gear and found a hole in the Lakeview line and went 30 yards and a touchdown to put the game out of reach here with the score 39-0. Jim Porter made it 40-0 as he converted. He got into the moments later as he manuvered 51 yards through the secondary for the touchdown. The half ended 46-0 in favor of Wheeler as Lakeview could not gain any yardage at all.

The second half saw scrubs and reserves dotting the lineup, but that didn't make any difference as the Mustangs continued to bolt for yardage. Darrell Moore caught an errant Lakeview aerial and ran 30 yards with it for another Mustang touchdown.

Jim Porter took a pass and ran 40 yards for the final Wheeler touchdown.

Lakeview could still go nowhere and the scrubs finished out the ball game with no further scoring and preserving if the shutout.

White Deer Coach Elected To All-Star Board

WHITE DEER — (Special) — Coach Otis Holladay of the White Deer-Skellytown High School has received word that he has been selected to serve on the All-Star Committee to select the North Football team for the annual coaching school football game, to be held in the Cotton Bowl, Dallas, during the first week of August, 1957.

Gordon Wood, Stamford, will serve as chairman of the committee. Other representatives are Wilford Moore, representing AAAA schools, Lubbock; Cotton Bolton, AAA, Henderson, and Jim Watson, B, Joshua. Holladay represents Class A schools. The group will meet in December to make All-Star considerations and selections. The work of this and other Coaching School Committees is under the direction of L. W. McConachie, Executive Vice-President of the Texas High School Coaches' Association.

NEW YORK (UP)— Mrs. Stephanie Hengster Kilpatrick, wife of John Reed Kilpatrick, chairman of the board of Madison Square Garden, died Monday of a heart ailment. The couple would have celebrated their 37th wedding anniversary Thursday.

GOING FOR YARDAGE — Monty Bell, number 15, Panhandle halfback, breaks into the Canadian Wildcat secondary as Teddy Addington, number 16, leads the way. Dell Kreihbel, number 31, tries to stop him. The safety man, far right, missed him too as Bell went for plenty of yardage on the play. Panhandle won the game 34-7. (News Photo)

New SW Mat Champ, Davis, Hits Sportsman's Monday

Pampa fans will be treated to Southwest States Junior Heavyweight Champion Monday night when Dizzy Davis takes the ring against Big Bob Orton.

The popular psychologist from Houston won the belt from Bob Geigel Thursday night in Amarillo as he pinned Bob twice after losing the first fall in a best of three falls match. Before Dizzy could win the title from Geigel, he had to beat up Bob Orton who accosted him before he entered the ring. Ray Clements, the referee, who tried to break up the fight, got his licks too as these two big fellows drew blood from each other.

To top a sensational night in Amarillo, Orton and two fans got into a hassle at the base of the ring and before anyone knew what happened, Big Bob was escorted to the county jail where he spent the night and was fined $50 for his troubles.

In the final event of the evening, as if the semi-final between Orton and Davis won't be enough to placate the hungry crowd, John Tollas goes against Hans Schnable. Tollas, a very tough customer will have his hands full when he goes against the veteran Schnable. The Milwaukee burgermeister, as he is called by some, was banished from the Amarillo area for 60 days after losing a match in which he was part of a tag team. Hans can be either pleasant or unpleasant as the case may be. It is understood, though, that these two big men have had a feud simmering for quite some time, and tomorrow night will be the night for these two men to explode.

An an opener, Tito Carreon, the Elvis Presley of wrestling faces Tommy Phelps. This should be a good match with two fast men in the ring, both of whom know the painful holds and both of whom can fight rough. Phelps, the sentimental favorite here for his masterful beating of Ricki Starr some weeks ago, has always been a crowd pleaser in the Pampa ring.

The matches will start at 8:15 p.m. and tickets can be secured through late tomorrow afternoon from the Modern Drug store on Kingsmill Street. Afterwards, they will be on sale at the Top o' Texas Sportsman's Club at the gate. Tickets are priced from $1.50 for ringside, $1.25 for reserved seats, 90 cents for general admission and 50 cents for children under 12.

BROOKLYN, N.Y. (UP)—E. J. (Buzzy) Bavasi said today that the Brooklyn Dodgers have turned down two $300,000 offers for pitcher Don Newcombe.

Bavasi, who is one of the Dodgers' vice presidents and who is "minding the store" while most of the front-office brass is with the team in Japan, refused to disclose who made the offers.

'Tight Money' Shows Up In Recent Real Estate Survey

By ROBERT F. MORISON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (UP)—The much-in-the-news term "tight money" and what it has done to homebuying this year showed up sharply in a recent survey.

Chiefly, the National Association of Real Estate Boards found mortgage financing of all types increasingly hard to arrange, interest rates rising and government-backed VA and FHA mortgages more and more difficult to sell to permanent investors.

The association's fall survey covered 284 communities. It found that the number of investors willing to buy up higher interest bearing convention mortgages were "ample" in 27 per cent of the communities, compared with 42 per cent at the midyear.

In 49 per cent of the communities a "moderate" number of investors was reported, compared with 40 per cent in June. In the remaining 24 per cent of the communities the situation was "tight," compared to 18 per cent in June.

It was also found that financing of older homes is becoming increasingly more difficult—and expensive—to arrange.

The shortage of funds available for conventional mortgages is severe enough, the survey found, but for government-backed mortgages it is worse.

The Veterans Administration guaranteed mortgages have felt the impact the most as "higher interest rates obtainable on sound, modest-term conventional mortgates have attracted further attention away from the VA loan with its characteristic low equity, long term and 4 1-2 per cent interest rate," the survey concluded.

As for Federal Housing Administration insured mortgages, they also have been hit, particularly by discounts demanded by lenders as a condition for buying. The report said "sellers question a transaction which necessitates their absorbing, as a sales cost, an expense of borrowing (the discount) which appears more appropriately the responsibility" of the homebuyer.

Other Disclosures

The survey also disclosed that:

1—A trend is developing for the generally prevailing five per cent interest rate on conventional mortgages to rise above that figure.

2—Permanent investors are increasingly reluctant to buy the long term, 30 year, VA - backed mortgages even with 10 per cent down payments instead of the required minimum of two per cent for a new home.

South refused the first club trick today, but saw no reason to refuse a second. His play took a little thought.

South needs three spade tricks to assure the contract, and he doesn't know which opponent has the ace or whether the suit will break 3-3 or 4-2. How should he play the spades in order to have the best chance to develop three tricks? South's best chance is to lead toward the two honors. In this case, South leads a low spade and dummy wins with the queen.

South now get to his hand with a diamond and leads his remaining small spade. West is obliged to play the ace, capturing only small cards. This is exactly what South has been hoping for.

Opening lead—♣ Q

West takes his clubs, but South is out of danger. He can get a second spade trick with the king and a third with dummy's jack.

If West had not been obliged to play the ace of spades on the second round of that suit, dummy would then win with the jack. Then South could still play for 3-3 break in the suit. He would thus win three spade tricks if West had the doubleton ace or if the suit were 3-3.

It would do no good to return a spade from the dummy after winning the first spade trick with the queen. Not being a mind-reader, South would put up the king and lose to West's ace. Then the 4-2 break would limit him to two spade tricks.

Perryton Reports Building Progress

PERRYTON — (Special) — The Perryton Public School has contracted to buy six blocks for school construction in the southwest part of town, Superintendent Gilbert Mize announced. The property adjoins the Stark addition where many new homes are being built. Mize said the school will pay $15,000 for the property. There are no immediate plans to construct but with the rapid growth of the town it seems likely that the school will need it in the years ahead.

The Case Brothers Trucking Co. is also planning a new building. E. L. McAfee, general manager of Perryton terminal says the company has an option on five acres of land on the W. W. Blackburn place and when the land is bought, the oil equipment moving firm will build an office building and a shop. It is estimated that within a few weeks this company will be employing around 35 men.

The newest building for Perryton is the brick building of the Good Furniture Co. Excavation was started Monday for this building on the southwest corner of S. W. Fourth and Amherst. It will be 80 by 100 feet and will have a full basement. It will be constructed so that an additional story can be added.

Peg O' Pampa

THIS IS THE WEEK . . . for ghosts and goblins and witches . . as well as many other odd and unusual creatures . . . to be roaming through the town . . . and appearing in a steady stream at your door . . . Peg gets more of a kick out of Halloween than most of the youngsters . . . she and the little ones leave Mr. Peg at home beside a large tray of goodies . . . and set off on the rounds with the other neighborhood children . . . And Mr. Peg always has a good time at home greeting the apparitions that appear at the door . . . and managing to stretch the goodies on the tray through most of the evening . . . It's one of those traditional holidays we love so much . . . Peg heard of an interesting practice of some community . . . Myrt Prigmore was telling about it . . . they make a big community event of Halloween . . . have a big parade . . . and games and other activities for the youngsters of all ages all day long in a hall in town . . . it continues up to the time of the midnight movie . . . keeps the children off the streets, out of mischief . . . and provides them with a good time they anticipate eagerly each year . . . sure would be a nice thing for Pampa . . . would have to be a community - wide effort, though . . . with everyone pitching in . . . Something to think about anyway.

MEMBERS AND GUESTS of Twentieth Century Forum really had a glamorous afternoon in Amarillo this week . . . the club really knows how to entertain . . . Mrs. Biggs Horn and Ruby Lee Hughes were so gracious as the hostesses . . . and the meal at the Amarillo Club was marvelous. . . . and beautifully served . . . Peg sure would love to have the recipe for those scrumptious orange marmalade rolls . . . the afternoon was climaxed with a visit to Rip Underwood's apartment to see his fabulous art collection . . . the apartment itself, was fabulously decorated . . . nearly as impressive as the paintings . . . there were paintings everywhere . . . any place or way you turned . . . and a great number of European antiques . . . in one of the bedrooms was a bed that once belonged to Sonja Heinie . . . and it looked real Hollywoodish . . . draped from the ceiling to the bed with white silk . . . had a gorgeous high hand-carved headboard . . . the room was all in white with a little blue . . . really impressive! . . He also has a wonderful book collection including some first editions . . Peg just loved the five-or-six-foot Buddha standing on a slab of green marble . . . against green marble background . . . on the roof garden . . . The Buddha is hundreds of years old and just beautiful! . . . Peg thoroughly enjoyed the paintings, too. . . and the commentary giving the history, style and type of the paintings and artist by Clarke Garnsey of the Amarillo College art department . . . don't know when Peg has spent such a grand afternoon! . . . all the women had a marvelous time . . . . and will be talking about it for many weeks to come . . . Sure would be nice to be able to have such a wonderful collection of art treasures . . . which, Peg believes, Mr. Underwood has gathered from all over the world . . . . what an interesting pastime! Of course, you really have to be up on your art . . . . guess Peg had better start studying real hard . . . just in case . . . well . . back to reality . . . heard at the luncheon that the James Walls will be moving into their new house in a few weeks . . . Peg sure would like to see it . . . . dainty Mrs. Don Baker . . . a newcomer . . . was there . . . and another newcomer . . .Mrs. Edward Regan really enjoyed the afternoon . . . Al Curry and Claudine Vail, so artistic themselves, were there . . as well as gracious Teed Hicks . . petite Mary Johnson . . Frances Hofsess . . Louise McCrery . . and many, many others . . . Peg sure would love to do it all again!

BRIDGE REALLY SEEMS to be the vogue in Pampa . . . the AAUW bridge study group has four tables . . . with a waiting list long enough for almost two more, Peg was told . . . the Duplicate Bridge Club has somewhere between 30 and 40 persons attending meetings . . . besides the innumerable smaller bridge clubs of one or two tables . . Of course, Peg can't think of any better form of entertainment and relaxation . . . really challenging to the mind, too . . . and the Friday afternoon "bridge-days" at the Country Club are really going strong . . . now the Council of Clubs has scheduled a bridge tournament for Nov. 12 . . . with all the bridge - interest in town it ought to be a big event . . . They have some beautiful prizes lined up . . . Marie Jamieson and Katherine Steele are really working hard on it . . . as well as the other committees . . . Peg has her calendar already marked for the event . . . thinks it will be one of the BIG fall events in Pampa!

JUST PATTER . . . . There has been so much buzzing and talking about the bazaars coming up that it has Peg thinking of Christmas presents already — something she hardly ever does until about Dec. 20 . . . Not that this early thinking and planning isn't good! . . Mrs. C. P. Buckler is one of the many ladies who have been working hard on the Episcopal bazaar . . . the last word Peg had on it is that Mrs. Buckler and her committee have made some 75 or more aprons . . . of all types and varieties . . . and the members of the Opti-Mrs. Club are working hard on a variety of articles for their bazaar . . . Maxine Dunham has really put her artistic talent to work there and has come up with some very cleaver items . . . Peg can hardly wait for both bazaars to see what she can pick up for Christmas . . . Understand the Joe Fosters are enthusiastic over their recent trip to colorful old Mexico . . . . Believe Gertie Foster is getting ready to take a trip to Denver or somewhere there-abouts . . . Peg heard the Sharon Haralsons' boys are on or have just returned from a trip to Mexico and Central America . . . or that region of the world anyway . . heard the boys were all excited about it, as they may well be . . . went with a relative or family friend . . . sure is a nice opportunity for them . . . . Have heard the women raving over the beauty of the Christmas tablecloth the Catholic women made . . . they say its simply gorgeous . . . Have you seen the new Elks Lodge? . . . Peg hasn't, but they say it is really nice . . . had a dance there Saturday night . . . Sorry, too late to get it into this column.

MR. AND MRS. BILL BEHRHORST

Pauline Haymes And Bill Behrhorst Are United In Marriage In Double-Ring Rite

Miss Pauline Haymes of Pampa and Bill Behrhorst of Fort Worth were united in marriage at 4:30 p.m. Oct. 21, in the Trinity Baptist Church, with Rev. M. B. Smith officiating for the double-ring service.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Haymes, 330 N. Davis, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Behrhorst of Wort Worth.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin and Chantilly lace.

The moulded satin bodice that came to a point in front has a round neckline and tulle yoke accented with a scalloped lace ruffle forming a mock sweetheart neckline. The long fitted satin sleeves came to points over her hands. The bouffant satin skirt that extended into a cathedral train was fashioned with a lace rruffle forming a pannier effect in front ending in a bustle in the back.

Her waist-length veil of illusion fell from a square bonnet of white illusion accented with seed pearls. She carried a white Bible, a gift from the bridegroom's mother, which was topped with a bouquet of stephanotis.

Maid of honor was Miss Evey Haymes, sister of the bride. She was attired in a ballerina-length gown of blue lace and tulle over taffeta. Her corsage was of white chrysanthemums and pink dahlias.

Jack L. Norman of Fort Worth served as best man, and Tommy Schrader and Bobby Ferrell, both of Pampa, were ushers.

Decorations in the church included large baskets of white mums, and pews were marked with white mums and satin bows. Miss Gwen Barrett was organist, and Miss Marilyn Smith sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Love You Truly."

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Haymes wore a brown suit with matching accessories, while Mrs. Behrhorst, the bridegroom's mother was attired in a steel-gray suit with matching accessories. Both wore corsages of bronze roses and yellow mums.

The reception that followed the ceremony was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Stull, 2016 Williston. The serving table was covered with a pink cloth trimmed in silver lace, centered with an arrangement of white mums and pink dahlias in a silver bowl. Flanking the centerpiece were white tapers in silver candelabra.

The white and pink wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom beneath an archway of pink rosebuds and lace. Refreshments of pink punch, cake, nuts and mints were served. Hostesses were Mmes. H. H. Stull, W. F. Slaten, Robert Hamilton and Henry Maples.

For the short wedding trip, the bride wore a copper-toned dress with copper accessories. Her corsage was of white stephanotis from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will reside in Graham.

The bride was graduated from Pampa High School and has been employed as a dental assistant to Dr. George Snell Jr. The bridegroom was graduated from Arlington Heights High School, Fort Worth, and is a graduate of Texas Christian University where he majored in geology. He served three years with Marine Corps, and is now employed as a computor for Mid-Continent Oil Supply Company, which will transfer him to Graham.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Behrhost and Zola Meier, all of Fort Worth.

Girl Scout Advisor To Give Program

A program on troop government and the patrol system will be presented at 10 a.m. Tuesday in St. Matthew's Episcopal Parish Hall, 707 W. Browning, by Miss Gwendolyn C. Elsemore, senior program advisor, Girl Scouts of the USA.

The program is for troop leaders, Scouts and anyone else who is interested, according to Mrs. Marian Osborne, council assistant.

Miss Elsemore has served as community advisor in Girl Scout Region III, which comprises Washington, D.C., and the states of Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania and Virginia. She was formerly a field director in Portland, Ore. An alumna of the University of Oregon where she majored in the field of education, Miss Elsemore was a high school instructor in Oregon schools before entering professional Girl Scout work in 1942.

A native of the state of Wisconsin, she has done graduate work at New York School of Social Work, Columbia University and was program service chairman for the 1956 Senior Girl Scout Roundup.

Business Session Held By HD Club

The Worthwhile Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. Ray Robertson, 424 N. Doyle, with Mrs. Roy Tinsley, president, in charge.

Mrs. P. G. Turner gave a report on the council meeting, and Mrs. R. F. McCalip reported on the candy - making course taught recently.

The club presented Mrs. Phil Farley with a lamp as a wedding gift. Following the meeting, members attended the Bell Club achievement day tea in the home of Mrs. D. W. Swain.

Next meeting will be at 2:30 p.m. Nov. 2, in the home of Mrs. Roy Tinsley, east of city.

Attending were Mmes. N. B. Cude, Phil Farley, Roy Tinsley, W. G. Kinzer, J. C. Payne, Ray Robertson, R. F. McCalip, N. L. Welton, O. G. Smith and P. G. Turner. Guests were Mmes. Boyd Brown and T. J. Watt.

Dinner Meet Begins New Mission Study

Members of the five Women's Missionary Union circles of Hobart Street Baptist Church met recently for the first lesson of the mission study on Japan.

The hall was decorated with Japanese lanterns hanging from the ceiling, as well as other Japanese articles. The women left their shoes outside and were served refreshments as they sat on the floor on rugs.

Mrs. M. H. Keyser, president, led the short business session, and Mrs. E. Woodward led a prayer for missionaries. The lesson on Japan was taught by Mmes. W. E. Jackson, R. Hedrick and A. V. Hale, all dressed in Japanese costume.

A special prayer for the sick, led by Mrs. C. M. Tingle, concluded the program.

About 40 women attended the event.

Estlack-Patterson Engagement Told

GROOM — (Special) — Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Estlack of Clarendon announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Jacqueline Marie, to David N. Patterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Patterson of Groom.

Vows will be read Nov. 18, in the First Methodist Church of Clarendon with the Rev. Conrad M. Ryan, pastor, officiating.

Mrs. Bert Mitchell gave the closing prayer. Next meeting will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Wilda McGahen, 605 Bradley Drive.

KATHLEEN MALLORY

Mrs. Linden Sanders was hostess to the meeting of the Kathleen Mallory Circle. Mrs. Ennis Hill taught the Bible lesson, and Mrs. C. Davis led the business session. The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Sanders. Five members were present.

Next meeting will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Eddie Gates, 632 S. Reid.

BLANCHE GROVE

Mrs. Nell Turpin taught the Bible study, "Stewardship of Trial," at the meeting of the Blanche Grove Circle in the home of Mrs. C. E. Humphries, 845 E. Craven. The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. C. W. Baker. Attending were five women.

Next meeting will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. O. A. McGaughy, 1019 Ripley.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S CIRCLE

The Business Women's Circle met in the church, with Mrs. Floyd Haught, chairman, in charge of the business session. Officers elected were Mrs. Hood Earp, advisor; Mrs. Nell Turpin, Bible study chairman; Mrs. Bill Wright, program; Mrs. Travis White, prayer; Mrs. H. P. Snyder, stewardship; Mrs. J. B. Crocker, community missions; Mrs. Bessie Addington, secretary - treasurer; Mrs. Graham Reeves, mission study.

A royal service program was presented following the business session. Thirteen women attended. Next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 6, in the church.

Cleanliness Vital To Care Of Nails

NEA Beauty Editor
By ALICIA HART

The fingernail-biters aren't the only teen - agers who have difficulty keeping their nails pretty.

The first problem is that of cleanliness, so often the case with teen-agers just emerging from the tomboy stage.

Really dirty fingernails can't be scratched clean with a file. The scratches made on the surface of the nail so injure it that it will collect dirt twice as easily in the future.

Dirty nails, and hands, need to be scrubbed with a stout brush and lots of soap. A grainy bar soap (heavy duty) may be necessary after gardening, painting or work in clay. Soaking the hands a while in water and soap will make the task easier.

The next problem is nail length. It's generally conceded that talons are unattractive on teen-agers. But even if a girl disagrees, she ought to be careful about keeping her long nails the same length, neatly filed, and without split sides or hangnails.

Polish, if a teen-ager wears it, can be another offense.

If a young woman hasn't time to repair and repolish her nails as often as it is called for, she ought to give up polish.

If her work or school duties cause the polish to chip or peel the next day and she is rushed every evening, she should give up the "beauty aid" that is no longer an aid, but a detriment.

Clean, short nails in good health may never make a girl a model, but they will certainly be more appreciated by her companions than long, dirty nails with peeling polish.

Nelta May James, George Meissner Marry In Groom

GROOM — (Special) — Nuptial vows were solemnized recently for Miss Nelta May James, daughter of Mrs. Berry James of Groom, and George A. Meissner, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Meissner of Abilene.

Clarence Tilley, minister of the Clarendon Church of Christ, read the double - ring service in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Clark of Groom, cousins of the bride.

Miss Marjorie Bural was maid of honor, and Albert Meissner was his brother's best man. Guests were registered by Miss Maxine Stephenson.

For her wedding, the bride wore a blue suit with light-blue accessories. Her corsage was of white roses.

Following the ceremony, the bridal party was feted at an informal reception. Centering the serving table was a tiered wedding cake.

The couple will make their home in Abilene, where the bridegroom is employed by a packing company.

Twentieth Century Culture Club Gives Progressive Dinner

A "husbands' night" progressive dinner was held by members of Twentieth Century Culture Club, beginning in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Shalhamer, 2101 Charles.

The invocation was given by Sheriff Rufe Jordan, and guests were welcomed by Mrs. Michael Wilson, president. The main course was served in the Shelhamer home, while dessert was served in the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Donaldson, north of city.

The buffet table in the Shelhamer home was covered with an orange cloth, centered with a harvest arrangement of pumpkins, gourds, fruit and chrysanthemums. Mrs. Donaldson's serving table carried out a Halloween motif.

Following the dinner, bingo was played in the Donaldson home.

Hostesses were Mmes. J. R. Donaldson, E. E. Shelhamer, J. W. Edminster, and L. H. Hart, while Mrs. Warren Hasse and Mrs. Doyle Osborne served as co-hostesses.

Attending were Messrs. and Mmes. Jeff Bearden, C. W. Conley, G. L. Cradduck, J. W. Edminster, L. H. Hart, Warren Hasse, E. L. Henderson, V. L. Hobbs, Rufe Jordan, Myles Morgan, E. E. By MRS. VERN SAVAGE
Pampa Garden Club

The fall house - cleaning for the garden should begin now with the collecting of leaves and old plants for the compost heap. Plants and debris that are diseased should be burned.

Canna clumps, with the soft and pleasing colors of their flowers and their fine foliage, should be dug up after the first killing frost and cured in the sun. Store them in a cool, dark, dry place until planting time next spring.

It is not too late to plant spring flowering bulbs, for no type of garden flower gives so much for so little care and effort. You can do it all fall. If planted now, they will get their roots established before winter and give a real spring show.

When fall planting is completed, a winter mulch should be applied to all dormant plants after the ground is frozen solid. The mulch may be removed in the spring.

GARDENERS

Who makes a garden hold its needs
Close to his heart. He lingers there
To answer every wordless prayer
With understanding ministry,
To yearn above each growing thing
And love it into blossoming.

So must the Master Gardener
Prune, water, give of shade and sun,
To each his need, and having done
All this, will eager bend to see
How green each leaf, how blooms each flower
Of good in some rewarding hour. . . .by Lucille Hargrove Reynolds.

Book Review Given At Friendship Tea Of Varietas Club

Members of Varietas Study Club entertained guests with a friendship tea in the Lovett Memorial Library, with Mrs. J. R. Spearman, president, in charge. Hostesses were Mmes. Dow King, Lee Harrah and George Sims.

The tea table was centered with an arrangement of brown and gold mums, accented with greenery. Mrs. C. L. McKinney, presided at the table.

Following the tea, each member introduced her guests. Mrs. Spearman introduced Mrs. Otis Nace who reviewed, "Merry Christmas, Mr. Baxter," a new book, "just off the press," by Edward Streeter.

The book is the story of the trials and joys of the Christmas season, as seen through the eyes of an average American business man, who is also a grandfather, Mrs. Nace explained.

She dramatized scenes from the book, acting out the characters of Mr. Baxter, his friends and family, depicting the agonies of Mrs. Baxter's Christmas card list, the unusual gifts Mr. Gaxter bought and the shopping trip on which he took his young grandson, in which they went in search of electric trains and ended by eating too many hamburgers.

Mrs. Nace was presented a corsage and the tea table centerpiece by the club.

About 60 members and guests attended the event.

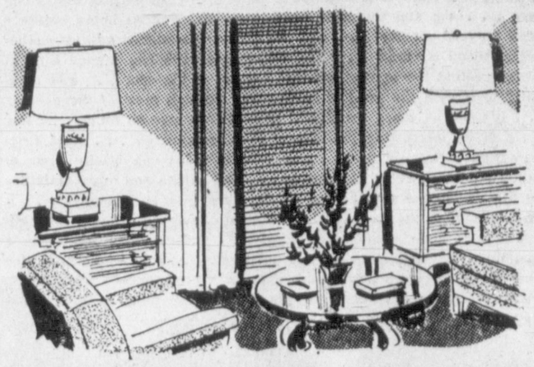
YOU... and YOUR HOME

by Jack Foster



VARIATIONS ON A LIGHT THEME

To realize how far we've traveled on the path of effective home lighting, we have only to compare our present incandescent and fluorescent lighting devices with those of the gas-light era with its flickering Welsach mantels. Today we plan our home lighting with the utmost care taking into consideration the double aspect of comfort and decoration.

Lighting comfort demands ample light without glare or shadow. The light plan for every comfortably lighted room is composed of direct illumination which focuses the light for specific activities such as reading or needlework, and indirect illumination which sends the light upward to be reflected from the ceiling.

A room with dark walls and wood surfaces requires up to four times the quantity of light as would be needed in a room with light walls and wood finishes.

Lamps play an important decorative as well as lighting role in the living room sketched above. Note how the lamps have been arranged to reflect light from the white draperies as well as from the ceiling, and make the window the focal point of the room.

We carry a complete line of lamps designed to be in keeping with your finest furniture and to fit perfectly in any style room. A pair of our tall, magnificent table lamps will work decorating magic in your living room. Large selection.

MISS SUSIE FILLMAN
(Photo by Koen's Studio)

Miss Susie Fillman Will Be Presented In A Piano Recital

Miss Susie Fillman, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Fillman, 233 N. Nelson, and Miss Martha Kirkpatrick, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Kirkpatrick of Phillips, will be presented in a joint piano recital at 3 p.m. today in Room 1, of the new Frank Phillips College building in Borger.

Both are pupils of Mrs. Hursheleen Journey-McCarty, piano instructor in the college. The event is open to the public.

In addition to classical and light piano compositions, Miss Fillman will be featured in a song and dance routine. She is a dance student of Mrs. Jeanne Willingham of Pampa. Miss Kirkpatrick will also present a flute solo.

In their second year of study with Mrs. McCarty, both are enrolled in the National Piano Guild and are student affiliates of the Texas Music Teachers Association. Last year both won superior ratings in solo and duet numbers at the Federated Club Festival in Hereford.

Miss Fillman won second-place in the Piano Guild's international recording festival last year, receiving a cash award. Both students are preparing for their individual spring concerts.

For three summers, Miss Fillman has studied piano in Denton under Dr. Silvio Scionti, an internationally known artist - teacher and Mrs. McCarty's teacher for many years. Miss Fillman has also taken trumpet lessons from John Haynie, NTSC brass instructor.

Her dancing instruction has included study in Hollywood under such famous teachers as Harriet and Al DeRea, Sam Mintz and Louis DaPron, the teacher of Donald O'Conner who is now choreographer for the Perry Como Show. Miss Fillman appeared twice on television while in Hollywood.

Tour Of Underwood's Art Collection Taken By 20th Century Forum Club

An informal tour of the art treasures of Rip Underwood in his penthouse in the Talmadge Apartments, Amarillo, highlighted the guest-day event of Twentieth Century Forum Club.

The tour was conducted by Clarke Garnsey, director of the art department of Amarillo College, The collection, not gallery-hung, was described by Garnsey as "a magnificent example of incorporating fine paintings, sculpture and antiques collected all over the world into a scheme for gracious living which in no way suggests a museum." He stated Underwood's "catholic tastes are reflected in the wide range of periods, techniques and countries."

The tour began in the drawing room which featured a large oil painting of Joseph and Potipher's wife, which Garnsey stated is typical of the early Fountainebleau school of painting, although it is not authenticated. He stated Italian painters were brought to France in the early 16th century to found this school.

The women saw a contemporary seascape by Barnoin, and a French coastal scene by Claude Joseph Vernet, who lived from 1714-1789, and a lyric scene, described by Garnsey as nontypical of the Dutch School, by Berck-Heyde, who painted almost exclusively in Haarlem during the Vermeer period. They were also shown a trompe d'oeil by Lievens (1607-1674).

TOP WORK

In the hallway was one of the two paintings which Garnsey considers the most outstanding in the collection. It was an oil of a child singing by candlelight done by an artist who painted in the second half of the 16th century under the influence of Caravaggio, who combined the styles of Michelangelo and Titian. Garnsey explained the artist was a member of the "night painter" school whose canvasses were of night scenes with the source of light concealed.

Also in the hallway were a large baroque portrait of the Duc de Saint Vallier, and a panel by an Alsatian artist, Bernard de Vos, who Garnsey said is known as the "master of half-length Madonnas." The panel was a Biblical scene done on wood in tempera. Garnsey explained it was painted in the late 15th century and the complete landscape in the background has "the feeling of a Durer."

In the guest bedroom were several lesser works, including two 17th century Chinese watercolors, a Marie Laurencin lithograph of a woman's head and a Toulouse-Latrec poster print.

LIBRARY COLLECTION

The library held the second of Garnsey's top choices of the collection, a painting by Joaquim Patenier (1485-1594) of Joseph with Mary and the Christ child on a donkey.

Other works in the library were a contemporary French still-life which Garnsey stated approaches the trompe d'oeil technique, a small Jan Bruegel outdoor banqueting scene which Garnsey described as "typical of the lusty folk scenes of the Flemish school," and a Van Dyck portrait.

Garnsey explained Van Dyck was a student of Rubens and a famous Flemish court painter who eventually settled in England, establishing the English school of portraiture.

TIEPOLO

There was also a small oil painting by Giovanni Battisti Tiepolo (1696-1770) whom Garnsey called "the greatest interior decorator known." He added Tiepolo was one of the last of the Venetian school of painting, a student of Veronese, and designed not only interiors, but furniture, and did much painting of interiors. He explained a recent issue of a national magazine carried pictures of a palazzo in Venice, bought by a wealthy Mexican who restored and refurnished it, turning it over to the city of Venice. The palace had been decorated by Tiepolo, he stated.

The dining room held five contemporary canvases — two by Dali, one by Behrman one by Leonid and one by Darrell Austin.

Following the tour, coffee was served to the women.

LUNCHEON

Prior to the tour, a luncheon was held in the Amarillo Club, with Mrs. Biggs Horn and Mrs. Dick Hughes as hostesses. Guests were welcomed by Mrs. M. McDaniel, president.

Attending were Mmes. Roy Bourland, George Scott, Bob Curry, George Snell, E. J. Dunigan Jr., George Hepner, William T. Fraser, J. R. Holloway, John Hines, Biggs Horn, H. H. FEWER COWS, MORE MILK—For the first time in history, the average cow will give up more than 6,000 pounds of milk this year and total milk output will be at least 127 billion pounds. That's the estimate of the Department of Agriculture. Long-term changes in dairy farming are credited with this increased productivity which more than offsets the decline in milk cow numbers. Contributing factors: an upward trend in rates of concentrate feeding and the rate of grain feeding, which is continuing at a record high. Newschart shows number of cows in millions and production per cow in thousands of pounds from 1940 to present. Figures are projected to end of this year.

Stock Market Weekly Report

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UP)— Utility stocks closed higher by a few cents this week to feature an irregular, quiet stock market.

Last week it was the rails that managed to score a small gain with the others down. Rails behaved most poorly of the major groups this week. Industrials on Friday all but wiped out a loss of 5.04 points registered in the first four sessions of the week.

Trading picked up on Friday when prices were rising. Sales that day totaled 1.8 million shares. On Tuesday when a decline was in progress the sales touched 1.4 million shares, smallest since Oct. 12. At the latter rate it would take 12 1-2 years to turn over all the listed shares.

Sales for the week totaled 7.8 million shares, a daily average of 1.5 million shares. In the previous week the daily average was 1.6 million shares and the week before it was 1.4 million shares. It takes more than a turnover of 2.1 million shares for Wall Street houses to break even on commissions.

Early in the week the market was influenced by approach of election, the political coup in Poland, riots in Hungary, a profit squeeze shown in the third quarter corporation reports, the tight money situation, and lower prices and a production cutback for copper.

There were some brilliant corporation reports for the first nine months, and there were some big dividend additions as well as many stock dividends.

Also favoring the recovery movement which got into action slowly late Thursday and gained momentum Friday, were predictions of full steel operations into the second half of 1957, Bethlehem's $2 dividend, bringing the year's dividends to $8.50 a share, a record high, a 22.5 per cent rise in auto output, another gain in electricity output, high carloadings, and economists' statements the full year 1957 would be one of high production.

CINCINNATI (UP)—The U.S. District Court of Appeals ruled Friday the manufacturers of the Atom-Matic water rocket do not owe $2,966.29 in back taxes as claimed by the Internal Revenue Service. The court reversed a lower court decision against Henry Hilinski and Steven F. Woods of Detroit, who had complained they couldn't make any money because children would not buy their water pistol.

Suicide Bill Puzzler

OCEANSIDE, Calif. (UP)—A $50 medical bill from a citizen whose life was saved following a suicide attempt puzzled the city manager's office today. The citizen claimed the city should pay the bill because "I didn't ask police to call the doctor."

Heavy Supplies, Big Sales Characterize Farm Market

By GAYLORD P. GODWIN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (UP)— What is the true farm situation?

The politicians manning the campaign fronts have given the public a varying picture of things agricultural. Some have ignored the experts, those staff workers in the Agriculture Department's economics division who base their predictions and statistics on the unchanging law of supply and demand.

With the campaign nearing the end, here's what the department's outlook and situation board of economists has to say currently about agriculture:

Heavy supplies and strong demand again characterize the farm market this fall.

Crops Picked Up

Crops in 1956 have picked up steadily the last few months after a slow start. In early October, total crop output was estimated to be close to 1955 and only a shade below the 1948 record.

Livestock production is continuing a record-setting pace. Eggs, broilers, turkeys, and milk are being turned out at peak rates. Hog production is down from the fall of 1955 but beef output is close to last year's high. The total for livestock and livestock products in 1956 will break a record for the eighth consecutive year.

A growing volume of American farm products is moving abroad. Government programs have stimulated shipments of rice, cotton, wheat, and other products. Prosperity abroad, the failure of some foreign crops, and lower U.S. export prices for cotton have helped keep exports far above a year earlier.

Prices Lower

Heavy marketings have pushed farmers' prices a little lower since June, despite the strong demand. However, the index of prices received by farmers in mid-September remained a little above a year earlier.

More cattle were placed on feed this summer than last and sales of short-fed stock are likely to rise the next few months. This points to seasonal price reductions for choice and prime steers.

Fall production of eggs, broilers, and turkeys is at record levels for the season. Prices for each product are running below a year ago. The department has purchase programs in operation for eggs and turkeys.

Grain Average Higher

Corn prices have declined more than seasonally with the beginning of harvest of the second largest crop on record. Prices for all feed grains have been higher than a year ago with the September average up 15 per cent. Average prices for feed grains probably will continue above a year ago this fall and winter, but by a smaller margin than in September.

With improvement in crop prospects in last two months and a record carryover on hand, total supply of feed concentrates is now estimated to be slightly above the 1955-56 record. The number of animals to be fed is slightly smaller.

Wheat prices are generally above a year ago. The market has been strengthened by new export program and drought in Southwest at planting time for winter wheat. The wheat supply for 1956-57 is slightly above 2 billion bushel mark, a new record. But favorable export prospects point to some reduction in carryover by next July 1.

Orange Prices to Rise

Prices to orange growers this fall may run a little higher than last fall. The early and mid-season crop is up four per cent, but U.S. demand is strong and exports may rise because of freeze damage in Spain last February.

With production up about 16 per cent, prices of fresh vegetables this fall are expected to average moderately lower than last fall. Bigger supplies than in 1955-56 also are in view for processed vegetables.

Farmers are expected to harvest 11 per cent more potatoes this fall than last. Prices at both farm and retail levels are relatively low.

Cotton prices have strengthened in recent weeks. In early October the average 14 spot market price for middling 1-inch was a little above support prices.

GRAY COUNTY

Soil Conservation District News

By TONY WELKER
Soil Scientist

The question most frequently asked of a soil surveyor as he travels across the field is: "What is a soil survey good for?" The answer is not an easy one for almost everyone can find a use for the soil survey since so many people are connected with the soil in one way or another. The largest group of users are the farmers.

Farmers who have worked with their soils for a long time know about the soil differences on their own farms, perhaps also on the farms of their immediate neighbors. What they do not know, unless soil surveys have been made, is how nearly their soils are like those on experiment stations or on other farms either in their states are other states where farmers have gained experience with new or different farming practices or farm enterprises.

They do not know whether higher yields are obtained by farmers in other parts of their county and state are from soils like theirs or from soils so different that they could not hope to get yields as high, even if they followed the same practices.

Knowing what kind of soil one has so that it can be compared with those on which new developments have proved successful is a means by which some of the risk and uncertainty can be taken out of trying new methods and new varieties.

Farmers Want Fair Price On Surplus Grain

WACO — (Special) — The Texas Farm Bureau has asked Secretary of Agriculture Benson to permit farmers and ranchers to buy surplus feed grains from the Commodity Credit Corporation at the rates that now appply only to dealers.

In a telegram to Benson, TFB President J. Walter Hammond also requested that use of drouth relief certificates be permitted as part payment for grain in the same manner now used in the drouth roughage program. He also requested that eligible farmers be permitted to use the certificates to buy feed grains from any source.

"There is considerable dissatisfaction and disappointment among the farmers and ranchers regarding the administrative procedures for distributing drouth relief feed grains," Hammond told the Secretary of Agriculture.

At present, eligible livestock producers must buy feed grain from dealers. Farmers complain that this makes the price higher, thus nullifying some of the beneficial effects of the federal drouth relief program.

When Writing To Santa Make Sure Of Address

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — If your kids want to write to Mr. Clause for dolls and sleds, and reservations for the first trip to Mars, let 'em.

But if you don't exercise care, the letters may wind up in the dead letter office. Particularly if the memos don't have a proper address.

The dead letter office does a lot of burning of letter, pathetic or not. A good many of them, obviously, are written and mailed by mothers and papas who can afford what their kids want. They let the kids run down to the corner and dip the letter into the boxes.

Turned Over to Charity

A lot of others deserve consideration from organizations which work closely with the dead letter office.

The Post Office Department, of course, doesn't run around with eyes closed.

If a small fry letter looks as though it came from a needy family, it is turned over to a charitable organization, if there is a return address. The letter goes to groups such as civic, veteran, social and professional organizations, churches and newspapers. The organizations look into the circumstances and make their own decisions.

Some Notes Pathetic

I have been searching the mails of the dead letter office for many years. Some of the notes are pathetic. Like one that came into the Washington branch from a little girl n Virginia. She said she had a little rag doll her mommy had stitched up for her. Her brother had a frog he found in the park. Her daddy needed medical care. Her mother was working nights as a waitress to get broth in the kettle.

There was no return address. I used the story and got a couple of hundred letters asking how this family could be helped. Help was not possible without identifications.

Court Trial Is Photographed

Party Whirl At Nation's Capital

By PATRICIA WIGGINS

WASHINGTON, Oct 27 (UP)—In the Washington party whirl:

As if President Eisenhower did not have enough to keep him busy these political days without being tangled up with a fashion show.

On a press release titled 'Dior Does It Again," Julius Garfinckel & Co, announced a showing of Dior's American collection under the "Honorary sponsorship of Mr. Dwight Eisenhower . . ."

A few days later, the embarrassed couturiers sent out corrections. They explained the release should have read "honorary sponsorship of Mrs Dwight Eisenhower." It is one of the umpteen honorary sponsorships boasting the First Lady's name now that the fall season is in full swing.

Sure sign that the social season is "on," came with the annual staging of the Symphony Ball, a full-dress affair where diplomats and dignitaries frolic for $50 a couple all to benefit the National Symphony.

With most political big-wigs campaigning out in the hustings, it was mostly embassy row, out of town luminaries and a sprinkling of Supreme Court justices who contributed a $35,000 gate to this year's soiree and another $40,000 in Chinese auction bids at the Arabian Nights decorated ballroom. Main item of the decor: eight foot high silver horses studded with jewels."

Among the winners in the auction were Justice Harold Burton—a travel clock—and The Netherlands Ambassador—a TV set and gray fox stole. Cosmetic queen Elizabeth Arden and one of her guests walked away with honors of a sort in the foot-wear department.

Miss Arden wore hose delicately embroidered with butterflies on each instep John F. Simmons, State Department protocol chief, sported a bright ski sock along with his formal attire: Best to accommodate recently operated on toes.

A more quiet affair was a recent birthday party for Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Mrs. William E. Borah. Both celebrate birthdates in October and Mrs. Charles Rollins of nearby Alexandria, Va, gave a luncheon honoring both: pound cake for Mrs. Wilson and an angel food cake for her longtime friend "Little Borah" who claims to be the "same age as Jack Benny. . ."

Among those turning out for the celebration were Mrs. Buchanan Merryman, socialite aunt of the Duchess of Windsor, and Belle Baruch, daughter of the park bench philosopher, who flew up from South Carolina in her own plane for the affair.

Mrs. Maxwell Taylor, wife of the Army chief of staff, has been "going up to the attic and back again" getting out summer, not fall clothes for the Taylor's three-week trip to the Mid and Far East.

This much-traveled Army wife is hoping to get some Christmas shopping done — if the Taylor schedule permits it: 'Notes sadly that they're usually feted so much she doesn't have much time for store-gazing. Her husband agrees, claiming he "saw" South America 'through a dining room window" because of all the official breakfast, lunch, dinner engagements.

Mrs. Florella Laguardia was right at home when she breezed into town for a day full of activity oun behalf of Adlai Stevenson.

Breakdown On Causes Of Fatal Wrecks

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — The National Safety Council makes a careful breakdown on the cause of fatal accidents on our highways.

Like 37 per cent due to speeding; 26 for drinking; 14 for weather conditions; 14 for obstruction of vision; 8 for mechanical failure; and 8 for physical defects of the driver.

This adds up to over 100 per cent for some reason which I can't fathom. Fact of the matter is, though, that nobody thought to pitch in the pitch dark of night.

The council admits that 56 per cent of all fatalities occur after the sun sets. But the blackout of night is treated merely as a condition of driving, rather than a cause of accident.

Truth is if you can't see you can't fly straight. Beside the points of course, but who wants to wind up a statistic?

The council, ever on the job, would like to make this point:

Not only do far more fatalities occur during darkness but, are made more serious by darkness.

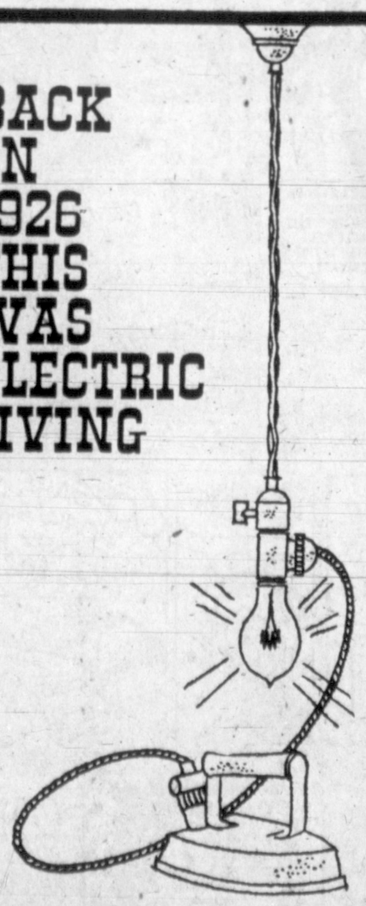
BACK IN 1926 THIS WAS ELECTRIC LIVING



BUT TODAY- 1956

What's the Electrical Date in Your Home?

Your home, you say, is 1956 all the way through . . . and, well it might be . . . but, then again, the wiring may be of 1926 vintage. True, electrical contractors, builders and others interested in your welfare are making special efforts these days to put 1956 wiring in the newer homes. But, there's many a home, modern to the hilt . . . except for the wiring. So, if your home was built prior to 1956 and you'd like to bring it up-to-date, it takes just a telephone call to talk to a qualified electrical contractor. After he's finished working you'll have a home that will be electrically modern for years to come. Too, you'll be able to use all the exciting electric appliances now on the market . . . and yet to be discovered.

Homecoming Date Is Set

MOBEETIE — (Special) — Homecoming Day for Mobeetie ex-students has been set for Saturday, Nov. 3. The occasion this year is especially honoring the graduates in the years of 1924 to 1930, inclusive, and these graduates are urged to attend if possible.

The Mobeetie High School Seniors are sponsoring the ex - student dinner which will be served cafeteria style in the high school building beginning at 4:30 p.m. The program and business meeting will begin at 6:30. At 8 the Mobeetie Hornets and the Miami Warriors will play a conference game on the Mobeetie gridiron.

All ex-students, all the past and present teachers of Mobeetie Schools, the past and present trustees of the school district, and the trustees on the County Board of Trustees who live in or were living in Mobeetie District while serving on the Board are inivted to attend.

Reservations are not being requested this year, since about the same number have attended each year. The plates are $1.50 each.

The Mobeetie seniors want this to be a memorable occasion for the "exes" and are asking them to come early for a longer period of visiting throughout the afternoon and evening.

Negotiations To Resume On Monday

NEW YORK (UP) — Efforts to negotiate a New Work contract between the International Longshoremen's Association and the New York Shipping Association will resume Monday at the federal mediation offices here.

Both sides expressed hope that a settlement would be possible before the current contract expires at midnight Wednesday.

Alexander Chopin, chairman of the shipping association negotiators, said when Friday's sessions adjourned for the week-end that "considerable progress has been made" and there was "definitely a much brighter prospect for real negotiations and consummation of a contract."

Louis Waldman, attorney for the independent union, said he was "entirely satisfied with the progress."

Revolts Prove Satellites' Armies Not Responsible

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

The Hungarian revolt has indicated clearly that the governments of Soviet Russia's satellite countries can not rely upon their armies.

It has indicated clearly also that Russia could not depend on those armies to fight for it if a third world war broke out.

The call of the Hungarian Communist government for the help of Soviet troops in suppressing riots in Budapest was a big development.

It meant that the Red leaders were afraid to trust their own troops.

What makes the admission more significant is the call for Russian help came not from a "Stalinist" regime but from Imre Nagy, the new "Titoist" premier of Hungary.

300,000 Armed

Hungary's armed forces total about 300,000 men. Of these, about 200,000 are in the army and 100,000 are so-called security troops. In addition, there are the ordinary police.

As in other satellite countries, it is the security troops and not the ordinary soldiers who can be depended upon to fight their own people.

The same is true of the satellite armies in relation to Russia.

Russia and its seven satellites formed last January 28 the so-called Warsaw Alliance in answer to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

On paper, this alliance gave Russia the backing of about 2 million soldiers of the satellite countries.

Might Right Russians

Actually, if a war broke out, these men might end up fighting the Russians, and not Russia's enemies.

There are reports that in the Polish revolt last week Polish troops fired on — and turned back — Russian troops who tried to cross the frontier from East Germany.

The Hungarian Red government found it advisable Wednesday to broadcast an apologetic statement, explaining the call for Russian troops.

"We have been asked repeatedly how it was possible that Russian troops have marched into Budapest," the announcer said.

He explained that the government, "conscious of its responsibilities," asked Russian troops to aid in "re-establishing order and discipline against counter-revolutionary elements." He asked the people to welcome the Russians as "friends and allies."

Why Bring In Russians?

It may well be asked why, with 30,000 army men and security troops at its disposal, the government had to call out the Russians.

Every Communist government is a dictatorship. Every dictatorship depends on is armed forces for secure exstence. When the army goes, there goes the dictatorship.

The Russian Revolution of 1917 — the Kerensky revolution, not the later Bolshevik coup against Kerensky — was made possible because the army would not fight the people.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Ex-Marine James Burmeister, 28, explaining why he hacked his wife and two children to death Wednesday after being awakened by his baby's pre-dawn cries:

"I got out of bed with a sudden urge to kill. I just tried to kill them the fastest way I could."

Fred Tinsley Named Export Mangager Franks Divisions

Fred H. Tinsley has been named export manager for Franks Division, Cabot Shops, Inc., president R. A. Baker of Franks announced in Tulsa.

Tinsley was promoted from ordnance plant superintendent of Cabot Shops, Inc., in Pampa. He had been with Cabot 19 years.

With headquarters in the Franks Division Tulsa Office, Tinsley will be in charge of sales and service for Franks well pulling units and Franks drilling rigs in the international market.

Baker, although commuting to Tulsa a part of each week, still is a resident of Pampa and is also vice-president and general manager of Cabot Shops, Inc.

Leases On Wildlife Refuges Being Issued At Snails Pace

By RICHARD C. SIZEMORE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28 (UP)—The government is issuing oil and gas leases on national widelife refuges at a snail's pace despite the administration's view that such grants are "sensible and prudent."

Such leases may not be issued without specific approval of Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton, who has agreed to give the House merchant marine and fisheries committee 60 days to register any objections.

The latest leases — 29 in the Kenai-Moose range in Alaska — were approved both by Seaton and the House committee headed by Rep. Herbert C. Bonner (D-N. C.)

Drew Fire

Last December the Interior Department announced new regulations for oil and gas leasing on refuge lands that immediately drew fire from conservation groups. Democrats charged that the amended regulations would encourage oil company exploitation of the refuges.

Since then the department has slowed down the issuance of such leases to a snail's pace.

Edward Woozley, director of the bureau of land management, said that as far as he knows the 29 Kenai-Moose range leases, and six other leases in Louisiana's Lacassine National Wildlife Refuge are the only ones that have been granted under the new program.

The six Lacassine leases were the first issued under the new program, which permits controlled commercial oil leasing in all but 12 of the 264 national wildlife refuges.

Three Classifications

The program split the refuges for oil and gas leasing purposes into A, B and C schedules. There was to be no leasing on the A scheduled lands. Approval of the Fish and Wildlife Service of a plan of operations is required on B scheduled lands. Service approval is not required for scheduled C lands but a plan of operation must be approved before drilling.

The service now is taking a new look at schedule C to see whether some of the covered lands should be reclassified.

The department plans to go ahead with its program for drilling on the refuges, however. Seaton made this clear in a recent speech.

"So long as there is no resulting injury to wildlife or damage to wildlife habitat, no one can reasonably object to a policy which protects the federal government from having its oil drained off by private or public operators who are drilling on adjacent parcels of ground."

Claims Law Followed

The Republicans contend that it was the intent of Congress to permit controlling on the refuges. They contend their plans call for carrying out the law and also provides protection for the refuges which, they say, was not provided for under Democratic administrations.

Democrats have disapproved of Republican practices, however. Adlai E. Stevenson has charged that Republicans granted some five times more drilling permits in refuges than had been granted in the previous three decades.

Seaton disputes those figures, contending that many of the Republican-approved leases were on range lands and not refugees. He also points out that the law permitting such leasing was passed and signed in 1930 under a Democratic administration.

Bail Bondsman On Bail

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Former bail bondsman Edward Maldonado 38, knows what it's like now to be on the other side of the fence. He will be sentenced next month for grad thft, but is currently free on $15,000 bail.

Gulf Reports Earnings

HOUSTON (UP)—Gulf Oil Corp. reported net earnings for the first nine months of 1956 at $206,269,000, compared with $145,287,000 in the same period last year. The latest figure is a new record.

Quotes In The News

By UNITED PRESS

CHICAGO — Louis B. Seltzer, editor of the Cleveland Press, urging "rough, tough traffic law enforcement:"

"If our people were to devote a fraction of the energy they expend in a war with a foregin army, the problem would be licked almost overnight."

SALT LAKE CITY — Former President Truman, assailing the "amiable platitudes" of President Eisenhower:

"It is not enough to have a president who covers up the facts in an outpouring of soothing words. Rather the times demand a president who will find out the facts and face them. . ."

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower replying to a question about the H-bomb and this country's future:

"We never can have a hydrogen war and still have the civilization we have now."

GALESBURG, Ill. — Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson attacking the Democratic farm promise of high price supports by saying agriculture is not for sale to the highest political bidder:

"I never will promise rabbits from a hat, pie in the sky or quack remedies for farm problems."

HOUSTON — Frail Mrs. Rosalie Higgins, 62, on the possibility an amnesia victim in a Boston hospital may be her husband whom she has refused for 15 years to believe dead:

"We can't be sure it is he. But it does, it does look like him. It could be."

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Adlai Stevenson, charging the Eisenhower administration with "callous political perfidy" in its farm record:

"The Eisenhower record on broken promises to the farmer is a record of callous political perfidy —and the farmers know it."

WASHINGTON —President Eisenhower, denouncing the use of Russian troops to quell the anti-Moscow revolt in Communist Hungary:

"The United States deplores the intervention of Soviet military forces which under the treaty of peace should have been withdrawn."

VIENNA—Helen Fillitz, an Austrian tourist, describing on her return to Vienna from Budapest seeing Russian tanks firing on thousands of marching Hungarians:

"I'll never forget that moment in all my life when the Hungarians with bare hands and without fear marched against the Soviet tanks. They died for the freedom of their country."

"Crime doesn't pay!"

1 Card of Thanks 1

I want to take this means to thank my many friends and neighbors for the kindnesses extended me while I was a patient in the hospital both in Pampa and Amarillo. I am at home now, 501 N. Cuyler. Your thoughtfulness of me will always be remembered.

—Mrs. John (Aunt Katie) Beverly

She has passed to a higher life and naturally we follow her with all human longing. Many homes are left desolate, sadness is everywhere and our hearts cry out for her. The world is a dark veil, but through the darkness comes a voice, and it tells of a Heavenly Home. We know she is there, for "when the work of life is over, He giveth His beloved sleep."

Mrs. Claude A. Lard

We wish to thank all of those who so thoughtfully ministered to us during the illness and death of our beloved wife, mother, and grandmother, Mrs. Claude A. Lard, who passed from this life to her heavenly home on Oct. 22, 1956. To the West Amarillo Christian Church, the First Christian Church in Pampa, and to all of our friends and neighbors in Pampa, Amarillo, and Miami we are indeed grateful.
