SOLONS WILL ATTEND MEET UPON LIQUOR

AUSTIN, Sept. 13 — At least one fourth of the Texas legislators will attend a conference on liquor regulation this afternoon. ... The open saloon, barred by the constitutional amendment, is defined as a grog shop open to the public. The definition is not important, says the bill, because it is the declaration of what sales will be permitted that really will govern. ... As announced yesterday, the bill permits the sale of drinks in hotels, clubs, dining cars, and on board ships.

The liquors cannot be on display and must be mixed in a separate room. Fasting is not necessarily required for buying drinks. ... This permits cocktail bars, although they are not specially mentioned. Package sales are permitted under a license system, with the state commissioner as supervisor. A tentative tax of 50 cents a gallon has been placed on distilled liquor, says the bill, but that this is only a suggested amount and may be changed.

Students To Patrol Crossings at Schools

SPEED LIMIT IS CUT DOWN TO 15 MILES

Schoolboy patrols will be placed at street crossings in school zones, it was announced today by Chief of Police M. L. Perdue, following an announcement earlier in the week that unusual precautions were to be taken to prevent accidents in the zones during the present school session. ... "I want to tell the motorists of the city that the boys will be placed there, and that they will report any reckless or fast driving," the chief said. ... "We are going to try to cut down accidents this year to a minimum. The only way to do this is to cut out the fast and reckless driving." At the same time, he said, the speed limit in school zones will be lowered to 15 miles an hour. "We're putting up signs at the crossings by each school," the chief said.

Safety Campaign He pointed out that it is desirable of having every motorist become school conscious in the safety campaign which has been undertaken. "If a driver stays within the speed limit he will have his car under control at all times. If he is driving at 35 or 40 miles an hour, especially on the gravelled streets he might not be able to stop in time to avoid hitting a child who had run across in front of him." The schoolboy patrols will be maintained at both the high school and the grammar school, the police chief said. He was unable to say whether they would be placed at the West Ward, but said that the location of the playground at the East Ward would make such an arrangement unnecessary. "We are putting up signs of warning at all the schools, though," he said.

The chief pointed out that having the boys patrol their streets would "make them more careful, make their friends more careful about crossing the streets, and would keep the pupils in the minds of the drivers." At the same time, he said, it would be good training for the patrols themselves. Appointment to such a place in each school would be considered a matter of honor.

WESTCHESTER, Pa., Sept. 13 — Henry Rogers, Jr., member of the millionaire oil family and William Kelley, New York cameraman, held in connection with the death of Evelyn Hoey, New York musical comedy star, were released on $2,500 bail each today. ... They were freed on bail posted by Rogers' mother after Charles Dunlap, Westchester fingerprint expert, turned their prints to compare with those of the singer at the Rogers' country estate. ... Rogers, face flushed and clothes rumpled, remained silent as one of the six attorneys retained by his mother arranged bail. ... Rogers and Kelley then walked from the courtroom. They broke into a run, leaped into a car and drove away. A crowd of 200, including photographers, clustered around the entrance.

Chapter Written In School History With Bus Run

A new chapter in the history of Cisco public schools was begun yesterday when the first Cisco school bus made its first run over the route south of the city, carrying a load of high school students and school officials.

Besides the pupils in the bus, other passengers were Superintendent R. N. Cluck, Secretary W. F. Walker of the school board, and Ralph Barton, general manager of the bus routes. C. M. Britain was the driver of the bus. ... The first bus run opened the territory south of Cisco to this city in a new way, as high school pupils of outlying districts were given an opportunity to come to Cisco to attend a first class high school at no extra cost. At the same time, it had been generally believed that it would open up the territory to Cisco in a commercial way.

The second bus is expected to arrive today and two bus lines will be in operation next week, it was announced today by Secretary Walker. The second bus will operate in the territory west and north of the city and, like the first, will serve four districts. ... "It will take a few days to work out the details of the routes," Secretary Walker said today. ... At the meeting of the school board last night, plans were discussed for keeping an accurate check on the mileage, cost of operation, number of pupils transported, and cost per mile per pupil. Bus storage and fuel were referred to committees.

PROSPECTS OF GETTING PARK CAMP BRIGHT

Prospects for Cisco's state park, as seen through location of a CCC camp here, are definitely brighter than they have been for some time, it was learned by The Daily News Thursday night.

The optimistic turn in the outlook for the camp, and subsequently for the park, followed the receipt Thursday of letters from D. E. Colp, chairman of the state parks board, by E. P. Crawford, park committee chairman here. ... The letters, which were copies of those sent to Representative Thomas L. Blanton and Johnny Cox, president of the Cisco Boosters, were sent to Crawford in reply to a query concerning the survey of the park area. ... "The situation looks very favorable now," Crawford told the Daily News Thursday night.

Blanton To Cooperate Mr. Colp, in his letter to Mr. Blanton, thanked him for his assistance in helping us to secure location of a CCC camp here at an early date. ... "He said that he is especially anxious to develop this site and that Cisco's park area is one of the most attractive small areas the state has."

He said that Colp had written to Johnny Cox, explaining that George Bringhurst, park engineer, would return here to complete the survey on the park site as soon as his work at Perryton is completed. He estimated that this would require about two or three weeks. ... "The reason Mr. Bringhurst left was to complete a survey for Perryton, which is getting a CCC camp in the October shift," Crawford said.

The park committee chairman said he was optimistic over the entire situation, following receipt of copies of the two letters, and that he looked for a definite start on the project before long. ... Letters at C of C The copies of the letters were placed on file at the Cisco Chamber of Commerce.

Engineer Bringhurst was ordered to Perryton recently while he was engaged in work on the park survey here. There was no immediate explanation of the action and some had feared that the park board might have deferred this project until a later date. ... The Cisco Boosters recently compiled two booklets describing the park, together with a map of it, showing the resources of Cisco, and asking for aid in securing the location of a CCC camp here to build the park in time for the Texas Centennial celebration next year. One of the booklets was sent to Colp and the other to Blanton. ... Both men had replied cordially and had promised their assistance.

Gibraltar and Malta are taking some reinforcements but Alexandria, 147 miles west of Suez, is becoming the base for a compact, efficient fleet. ... Reports indicate that if the League votes for penalties against Italy in event of an attack Britain may be ready to blockade not only of the Suez but of the Straits of Gibraltar.

Little Optimism Shown By Chevigny As Texas Longhorns Begin Training

AUSTIN, Sept. 13. — Very little optimism, if any, has been demonstrated by Coach Jack Chevigny or any of his assistants during the first two days of the football training season.

Light drills, featuring calisthenics and rudimentary exercises for various positions, were the main feature for the first two days. Line work lightly at blocking and punting, backs concentrated on passing receiving and pass defense. During the passing drills, Jureka and James Hader, senior left halfbacks, were on throwing end most of the time. Morris Sands, promising sophomore, tossed a few.

All men had been completely wiped Wednesday afternoon, and the remainder of the week will be spent on the field.

The squad is made up of the following:

Roster
Centers: Griffin, Hughes, Dunne, Clark, Terry, Baines.
Guards: Capt. Smartt, Chapman, King, Vallone, Eggleing, Calary, Curtis, Henderson, Spears, Dickles, Small, Tolbert, Allen, Frankovic, Fremont, Goodrich, Huff, Keeling, Maedgen, McPherson, Parvin, Wade.
Ends: Bleymaier, Collins, Van Holt, Evans, Kaine, Lanney, Tipple, Williams, Vernon, Lane.
Quarterbacks: Johnston, Sheridan, Morrow, O'Rourke.
Fullbacks: Atchison, Pitzer, Mitmayer.
Halfbacks: Hadlock, Jureka, Gilgath, Arnold, Sands, Strout, Harve, Breaker, Dulaney, Harrison.
Tight ends: ...

BIG DAM CHATTER

Some of the best yarns dealing with Oil Belt football have centered themselves around Ernie Wilson, Cisco end and halfback in the early '20s, who made the all-state team two years in succession—at different positions.

Ernie was a great ball player with the Lobos and was believed to be almost unstoppable once he was started. Fast in an open field, he had a drive at a line that ripped it apart, while he was one of the outstanding defensive men of the state.

In 1924 Coach Chapman found it necessary to get a little more punch into his backfield and at the same time to have the defense just as strong as it had ever been. Ernie was the answer to his needs, so he was moved to halfback on offense and became the most consistent ball carrier in the state, while he stayed at end on defense to stop everything that came around his side of the line.

At that time the age limit on football players was 21. Ernie was 20 and was wearing his second sweater with four stripes on the sleeve. He had made the high school team one year while still in grammar school.

Just before the Cisco-Oak Cliff game one of the state papers printed Wilson's picture, calling him the best back west of the Trinity and one who had never worn shoes until he was 20 years old.

The story is told on him that as Wilson stepped out to start the famous scoreless tie of 1924 he overheard a Breck fan remark that he had promised a new suit of clothes if he "got" Wilson.

Quick as a flash Ernie turned to him and said, so the story goes, "Then you'd better get him a black suit, because he'll never need any other kind."

The game started and during some close play the referee dashed in to find Wilson tramping up and down in the vicinity of the Breck rival's head, all the time looking about as though he had lost something.

"What are you doing?" demanded the referee.

"I'm looking for the ball," Wilson was said to have replied, innocently.

The referee shoved him back and said, "I'm going to watch you the rest of the game, and if I decide you were trying to stamp on that man's head, I'm going to kick you on the ground."

The game went on and the incident apparently was forgotten, but after the game when Wilson started off the field, the referee came running up and gave him a kick that sent him sprawling. That

Edwards Has 16 Veterans For Team

AUSTIN, Sept. 13. — On 16 vets and 20 newcomers Coach O'Brien is building hopes for other Texas conference football championship at St. Edwards university, the Southwest's "little Notre Dame."

When veterans were present Tuesday night in the opening practices. Returned also were six freshmen of 1934.

From the squadmen and a promising group of sophomores, O'Brien chooses his "shock troops" and back and fullback for the regular team.

Edwards is captained by Tony Bledsoe, center, and Dan Pollock, back.

Three new coaches will serve at St. Edwards. They are Matt Goetz, at St. Thomas in Minnesota; Clarence Child Stone and George Wens, both former St. Edwards players.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

NEW YORK—The brilliant major league career of Earle Combs appears ended.

The management of the New York Yankees trusts that expert repair work in a Manhattan hospital will make Combs' shoulder as good as new, but the veteran outfielder has no such hopes.

"I reckon I must be jinxed and my number's up," says Combs. "Looks like I better get out before anything worse happens to me."

"I was getting near the end of my string, anyway. So it will probably be back to the farm, and here's hoping one of my Kentucky cows doesn't step on me."

It was feared that Combs was through when he fractured his skull and broke his left collarbone in charging into the wall in St. Louis a year ago, but he made a surprising recovery. The one-time schoolmaster of the Cumberlandlands divided the Yankee left-fielding with Jesse Hill until Red Rolfe fell over backwards on top of Earle in Chicago the other afternoon.

COMBS, who is 34, suffered a separation of the right collarbone at the place of attachment to the shoulder blade and a pulling of the ligaments. He was spiked and bruised above the right knee.

Combs' right arm will be strapped tightly to his side for at least three weeks.

There is grave danger of this sort of injury affecting Combs' throwing, never one of his strongest qualities, which were his ability as a leadoff man and speed that enabled him to patrol a large slice of Babe Ruth's territory as well as his own while no was playing center field.

Joe McCarthy managed Louisville in 1923 when the Colonels sold the scholarly Combs, whose hair then was iron gray, to the Yankees for $50,000. It was one of the most satisfactory deals ever made by Col. Jacob Ruppert's baseball company.

Combs bows out, Lou Gehrig and Tony Lazzeri will be the only remaining members of the old Yankees who lambasted their way to American League pennants in 1926, '27, and '28, and who, with a few replacements, came back to once more prevail in 1932.

Lazzeri has managerial aspirations, and it is possible that the minor league outfit that he has served so well and long to make his debut as a field marshal in 1936.

Mark Koenig, of the old and illustrious Yankee outfit, now is the utility infielder of the Giants, and Waite Hoyt hangs on in Pittsburgh.

But Babe Ruth already is the forgotten man of baseball, and gone are Long Bob Meusel, Jumping Joe Dugan, Herb Pennock, and the rest.

When the Yankees bogged down in 1929, the season that the Philadelphia Athletics smashed through for the first time in 15 years, Hoyt was asked what was wrong with the club.

"There are not enough Yankees on it," replied the great right-hander.

The New York club has had its full quota of injuries this season, yet the Detroit Tigers undoubtedly would be experiencing considerable more difficulty in lengthening their lead were there a few more Yankees with the Yankees.

Miss Shertzer Is Hostess At Dinner
For Recent Bride

A bridal motif predominated in the dining room decorations of the Randolph Hill home of Mrs. Shertzer last evening when her daughter, Miss Lillian, honored Mrs. Lloyd Hughes at a dinner.

A miniature bride and groom walking through a rose covered arch and followed by a miniature flower girl and ring bearer centered the dining table. Bouquets of rose buds were other decorations used.

East Bests West for Beauty Title

Are Eastern girls prettiest? The judges at Atlantic City who picked the three most beautiful girls in America in a bathing suit contest thought so. They named Miss Vera Haal (center) of Bronx, N. Y., Miss America; Margaret Savina King (left), 18, of Bridgeport, Conn., runner up, and Francis Stine (right), 23, of Hartford, third.

DOUBLES IN CURVES

Obviously a specialist in curves, Pauline Richardson, above, comely pitcher of the Lansing City Transport Company's softball team, hurled her aggregation to the state championship of the girls' division in the Michigan tournament at Lansing. Belying appearances, Miss Richardson fully justified the appellation of "iron woman" by pitching the final three games of the tournament in a single day. A trip to Chicago for the national tournament was the prize.
