How to Achieve Beauty

No series of "mouth talks" would be complete without an article on the subject of make-up.

Every woman, or at least, so I think, knows that she can offset many a slight disfigurement or emphasize a subtle loveliness through the discreet and artistic use of her lip rouge.

As a general rule, pale lips are unattractive. I think every woman will concede that point. So, if your lips are dull looking, unattractive as to line or texture, you will probably find a lipstick a beauty boon that is worth sacrificing a few opinions to. I am addressing this particularly to the woman who dislikes the thought of make-up for her mouth.

Note, in the manner of application. For full lips, the lipstick should be applied most generously at the center of the mouth. Then the line toward the corners.

For thin lips, the best way to apply your rouge is to follow the natural outline of the lips right to the corners.

If your lips are rather inclined to be full, close your eyes to the allure of brilliantly-colored rouges. They are not for you. In fact, as a general rule, I suggest that you stock to the shade most closely resembling your own natural color. Blend the lip rouge well over the lips so that a vivid line doesn't separate the art from the nature!

As for colors, most of the raspberry shades are correct for daytime, with Paris reporting a trend toward the brilliant granum for evening use.

The Woman's Day

The old-fashioned society butterfly whose day never began till 1 p. m. and whose life was just one round of chocolate in bed, jasmine scented baths, appointments with the dressmaker and masseuse, then a round of luncheons and teas and dinners and balls and night clubs is as dead as the dodo who used to make a flourish and light his cigars with ten-dollar bills, according to Charles Hanson Towne, editor of "Harper's Bazaar."

TRY 'N GET ONE The society woman of today has too much value in the world of business and the professions, he continues. She is in demand as interior decorator, consultant, hotel and club hostess, buyer and stylist for department stores, and architect and motion picture producer and theater owner utilize the knowledge of the society woman and have her pass her opinion on plans, decorations, etc. It sounds very nice. But, after all, the law of supply and demand prevails here as elsewhere, and I imagine that the society woman who wants to get job as the $18 a week file clerk.

SHAME ON MAMA! Here's a hot shot for today's daughters to pass on to mama when she gets too generous about their habits and pastimes. A certain lady author, Catherine Beach Ely, completes a tour of these plays and musical comedies dangerously on the border line of the salacious. She reports that the bulk of the audience was middle-aged women, women of class, leisure money, the club woman type, the women who consider themselves the bulwark of society. The author explains: "They seek the excitement which the drabness of their minds denies them by a pursuit of life in the raw at intellectually decadent or sentimentally vulgar shows."

WOMEN AND BUSHES Heywood Brown recently publicly cleaved to the theory that women are much less easily shocked than men and can take without a blush those things which bring a blush to the breast of a man. If it's true it's a real tribute to woman, for our own theory is that the person who most easily accepts "the facts of life" has the sanest, cleanest attitude towards them. Beware the blusher! Woman's life has always been a more personal one than man's. She has generations of back fence gossiping women forever behind her. And back fence gossip has always embodied as conversational material the personal matters of love and marriage, birth and death which seem to shock some people who would seek to improve upon "the facts of life."

CHIVALRY TO AMELIA Miss Amelia Earhart is doing her very best to make "Dan," a young mechanic at the Cleveland airport send in his bill for a day's work on Amelia's plane. Dan refuses to get out a number of Texas points and won't even tell her his last name so that she can send him one of her autographed books. Dan will only murmur "It's a pleasure."

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton OFFER by NEA Service, Inc. Often parents, especially fathers, are so determined to make their own out of their boys, they go to extremes. I know one father who refused to allow his little son to listen to any "silly" bedtime stories, as he called them. If bedtime stories sent in tales of Uncle Wiggly and Nurse Jane Fussy Wussy, or Mrs. Tizzy-Winkie, the porcupine washday, he declared it was all both and nonsense and that he wasn't going to allow his boy to be made into a sissy. Not if he knew it. And Mr. Know-It-All substituted books on the biographies of great men, and suggestions for making things, and true adventures, and books of travel and what-not, for the lovely children's books sent in by friends. He curled his lip when he leafed through those adorable books of Kipling's, "The Jungle Book," and "Just So Stories."

Wood accompanied by Deputy Sheriff "Chipmunk Tom" Henderson and Judge L. C. "Horse Bolled" Hannah rushed to the spot and found indications that Burcham had crawled several hundred yards to the edge of the desert, where the trail was lost. Clear Sky Permits Sun To Shine Here Monday

A clear sky, permitting a more than welcome sun to shine upon this section for all day Monday, continued through Monday night, the norther that came upon us Sunday evidently spending most of its force up Amarillo way, as just a few flurries of snow, a little rain and some sleet gave promise Sunday that we were in for a real bad spell of it. Monday night the thermometer registered at 30 degrees, but with a fairly stiff breeze from the north blowing, winter made itself known. Monday morning at about 7 o'clock the thermometer registered 26 degrees, rising to 37 at 1 p. m. Other South Plains sections reported similar cold, Crosbyton reporting as low as 25 degrees.

Simplicity of design

means better PERFORMANCE

The new Ford Coupe is distinguished by the trim sturdiness of its lines and beautiful colors. An unusually good choice for the woman driver because it is so reliable, safe and easy to control. The Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield is an important safety feature.

Everywhere you go, you note the smooth speed, power and acceleration of the new Ford—its alert, capable performance in traffic, on hills and on the open road. It has set a new standard for a low-priced car.

"MAKE it better—make it simpler" has always been the keynote of Ford engineering and manufacturing methods. This policy has been carried forward to its highest, fullest expression in the new Ford

You see evidence of a carefully planned simplicity of design the instant you lift the hood. Its value becomes increasingly apparent when you drive the new Ford.

Smoothness, quick acceleration, remarkable hill-climbing ability, speed of 55 to 65 miles an hour—all these are brought to you in the new Ford without sacrificing economy and reliability. The whole tendency is to give you the most performance with the least machinery.

This applies not only to the engine but to every detail of the electrical, ignition, cooling, lubrication and fuel systems. The engine itself is but one part of a motor car.

An example of Ford simplicity of design

Take the engine lubrication system. It is a combination of pump, splash and gravity feed and is unusually reliable and effective. There is but one movable part—the pump.

From valve chamber down, the entire flow of oil is as simple in principle as water running downhill. Ford design and Ford manufacturing methods have made it trouble-free. The only thing for you to do is to see that the oil level never falls below low (L).

Only one high-tension cable in ignition system

This same trouble-saving simplicity of design is shown also in the Ford ignition system, which reflects much that is new in mechanical design.

A particularly unique feature is the elimination of high-tension cables from the distributor to the spark-plugs, these connections being made by means of thin bronze springs. There is but one high-tension cable and this connects the coil on the dash with the distributor.

The distributor head itself is water-proof and has been specially designed to prevent short circuits from rain, snow, etc.

Another exclusive Ford development is shown in the construction of the housing of the steering gear mechanism. This is made of three steel forgings, electrically welded together.

The housing is then electrically welded to the steering column, thus making a one-piece steel unit.

Many other vital parts of the new Ford are also electrically welded, permitting the use of steel forgings instead of stampings or castings and giving greater simplicity and strength than if several parts were riveted or bolted together.

More steel forgings, in fact, are used in the new Ford than in almost any other car, regardless of price.

All six brakes are silent and fully enclosed

Equally important to good performance is the design of the brakes on the new Ford. The six-brake system is unusually safe, reliable and effective because both the four-wheel service brakes and the separate emergency or parking brakes are of the mechanical, internal-expanding type, with all braking surfaces fully enclosed for protection against water, sand, dirt and grease.

For many years this has been recognized as the ideal combination. It is now brought to you on the new Ford because a simple, easy way has been found to accommodate two sets of full internal brakes in a two-in-one brake drum of great strength on the rear wheels.

A further improvement is effected by the self-centering feature of the four-wheel brakes—an exclusive Ford development. Through this construction, the entire surface of the shoe is brought in contact with the drum the instant you press your foot on the brake pedal. This prevents screeching and howling and makes the Ford brakes unusually silent.

Such simplicity of design is not easy to achieve. Yet it is the first essential of good performance in a low-priced car.

It is made possible only through Ford manufacturing and production methods and the experience gained in making more than fifteen million automobiles.

Back of the new Ford is a larger purpose than the making or selling of a motor car. It is to bring the benefits of modern, economical transportation to all the people and to help every motorist get the greatest possible use from his car over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense. That is the reason for the value that has been put into the new Ford. That is the reason for its outstanding performance.

SCRIPTURE: Blessed is every one that feareth the Lord; that walketh in his ways. For thou shalt eat the labour of thine hands; happy shalt thou be, and it shall be well with thee.—Psalm CXXVIII, 1, 2.

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

If anyone has any doubt that Lubbock, the Hub of the Plains, is in the spirit of Christmas, all they need to do is to visit the city, and their doubts will fly away. Big stores and little stores, dry goods stores and hardware stores, all displaying evidence that the spirit of happiness and good cheer abounds there.

We think there is no mistake in our conclusion that this Christmas time, there is evidence on every side that there is a spirit of the season abounding in the minds of the people. And, best of all over yonder in a closed room somewhere—possibly in several different places, committees are gathered, and with their minds together—of one accord they are making preparations to carry this cheer into the dismal spots of the city—to the hovel of the poor, and there brighten the faces and lighten the hearts of many thousands of people.

MAN BELIEVETH

"Some believed the things spoken and believed not." This was in the days of Paul, and we still find that condition existing. But one can imagine how the Apostle Paul bustled himself with his housekeeping arrangements after he had reached Rome and had been given comparative freedom while awaiting his trial before the emperor. Paul was always a methodical kind of fellow, as we gather from reading his life, and the things that he did, and that he believed in, he carried out with a precision that was almost a thing to do, when it is remembered that it is the price of eternal life. Repeatedly the Word of God points out that there is no other way to obtain salvation, and give assurance that every one who believes receives salvation. But if it is such an easy thing to do, why is it that so many do not act willfully?

As a matter of fact, believing on the Lord Jesus Christ is not as easy as it seems to be. It means much more than mere intellectual assent, a mere action of the mind, a mere conclusion that Jesus is indeed the Son of God and the Savior of the world. There are many men who, when asked "whether they believe in Jesus," unhesitatingly answer, "Yes," because they are convinced that Jesus is the Son of God who claims to be; and what Christian people testify that he is; but they do not believe with their hearts, and do not have salvation because they have not believed in Jesus. Belief in Jesus is founded in the heart and reflected in the life of the believer. It is an intensely personal thing, resulting from a realization of one's own lost condition and his absolute dependence upon the Savior for redemption. It means personal acceptance of the Lord, a personal surrender of the heart and life to him, and a personal determination to serve and honor him so long as life may continue. Belief in Jesus is equivalent to faith in him; and faith is described as the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen. Eye to those of us who profess such a belief, or such a faith, there is something of the mysterious or miraculous in it; for none of us can understand God's part in the transaction.

A lay preacher was lost in the happy selection of his text, which he repeated in vigorous accents, pleading, "Brothers and sisters, at the last day there are going to be sheep and there are going to be goats. Who's going to be the sheep and who's going to be the goats?" A solitary Irishman, who had been sitting in the back of the church, listening attentively, rose and said: "I'll be the goat. Go on; tell us the joke.—Oil Pull.

"KNOWS HIS STUDENTS" "Which are the students here?" asked the visitor. "The ones who are not wearing coconuts," replied the president of the college.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

AND THE AIRPLANE BUSINESS IS UP IN THE AIR "My father invested in a subway, and it went under." "Well, mine started a doughnut bakery, and went the same way."—Judge.

A Washington Bystander

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON ASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—When the Pan-American conference on arbitration and conciliation opened it looked as though Secretary Kellogg's 1928 model bilateral arbitration pact would guide the multilateral treaty proposals made by himself and former Secretary Hughes, representing the United States.

Naturally enough, the secretary feels that the general arbitration treaty the United States is signing a bilaterally with most of the world about fills the bill. Mr. Hughes, however, is credited with decided views that the Kellogg model, of which Franco-American pact was the pilot, could be improved in some respects.

Two Peace Court Plans. The point involved is the form of arbitration tribunal to which disputes falling within the treaty would be referred for adjudication. The standard Kellogg arbitration treaty, like its Root predecessor, provides for such reference to the permanent court at the Hague, or falling that, to some other "competent tribunal" selected by the parties in each specific case. A "special agreement" setting up such a tribunal, defining its powers and propounding the specific questions a tribunal, all subject to advice and consent of the senate, would be required.

Mr. Hughes represents a school of international peace thought which doubts the wisdom of procedure, possibly leaving selection of the judges to the moment of the heat of controversy. Experience with such procedure has not been entirely happy for the United States.

As a counter plan, it was urged that any Pan-American dispute go to judges selected by the disputing parties from a permanent panel of international jurists whose qualifications and disinterested motives were unassailable before the world. Qualified men will accept service on a permanent panel where they would decline to sit in a specific controversy, it is asserted.

Senate's Say. Possibly Secretary Kellogg himself sees the force of this argument in the abstract. He was faced, however, with highly practical questions regarding the senate's reception of whatever treaty might result from the new Pan-American conference.

Obviously, the Franco-American arbitration pact leans over backward to include specific mention of the senate's advice and consent prerogatives. That is an aftermath of the League of Nations fight which confronts all secretaries of state. French political necessities in that same treaty were satisfied with reference to the "constitutional laws of France."

The senate already is committed by ratification of the Franco-American pact to the Kellogg form. And as a former senator, perhaps Mr. Kellogg feels in dealing with the senate that a bird in hand is worth two in the bush.

"ARTIFICIAL SUN" DOSES MUST BE REGULATED

Since it has been shown that the human being when he moved indoors lost a great deal of the value of sunlight for proper nutrition and growth, various means have been suggested for providing him with the sun's rays artificially.

Thus cod liver oil, which contains vitamin D, has been characterized as "bottled sunshine."

Vitamin-D is developed in the body through irradiation. It has also been shown that highly concentrated preparations of vitamin D may be obtained by submitting a substance known as ergosterol to the action of the sun's rays.

Experimental investigations have revealed the fact that it is possible to store up sunlight in foods of various kinds through submitting these substances under properly controlled conditions to the action of sunlight.

Already attempts are being made to sell to the public generally preparations of various cereals, ice creams, yeast and similar products which have been submitted to the action of sunlight or of artificial sunlight, and which probably can provide the body with adequate amounts of vitamin D.

Unfortunately progress has taken place so rapidly that nobody knows exactly how much vitamin D is necessary for the human body. Experiments on animals have indicated that tremendously excessive doses of this substance throw a vast amount of calcium into the blood stream and causes the calcium deposits or stones in the kidney and in some of the blood vessels. This dosage is, of course, thousands of times beyond the average dose of cod liver oil.

Other investigators have shown that irradiation for many months of the skin of the rat will cause changes to take place in the skin of the nature of new growths.

It is an old aphorism in medicine that any medicine that is potent for good may also be potent for harm. If people begin to take doses of irradiation in practically everything they eat or drink, in addition to the irradiation received from the sunlight, it is possible that even the maximum safe dose may be exceeded.

A still greater danger lies in the fact that people may sometimes rely on small doses of such irradiation taken in certain foods and without realizing that an adequate dose is many times the amount received in this way.

Modern History During the history lesson the teacher asked the question, "What do you know of Margaret of Anjou?" "She was very large sir," answered one boy. This was new to the teacher, and he asked for the lad's authority.

"It's in the book sir," Among Henry's stoutest supporters was Margaret of Anjou,"—Capper's Weekly.

A lecturer on art spoke before a group of men in an industrial city, urging upon them the duty of trying to put more beauty into their surroundings. At the close of the talk, a leading citizen came up to have a few words with the lecturer.

"I enjoyed your remarks," he said, "though I didn't agree with you. The fact is that we have no time here for beauty. The prosperity of this town is due to hard-headed, practical men."

"Yet," retorted the lecturer, smiling "you yourself are seeking beauty, according to your lights. You may not have found it, but I know you are aiming at what you think makes for greater attractiveness."

"Is That All?"

SO THINK WE

We think there is one thing certain that if you will train up a household in the way she should go, she is pretty sure to be gone in due time.

We think that expectations and disappointments are the luxuries of idlers, and they are about all the luxuries they have too.

We think it is very discouraging to the real estate fraternity if there is such a thing as that to have all of the presidents born in such sorry homes. There seems to be no inducement for a boy to become great if he is born in a good home, and given a liberal education without having to work and slave and go through all of the hardships of life to get it.

We think that possibly that Englishman referred to the term "easy payment" when he said that our speech was frequently ambiguous.

We think that the flu certainly is no respecter of persons we notice where it entered the jury room, and caused a jury to be discharged before they had rendered a verdict.

We think it is time for Congress and the Texas legislature to get out of the old ruts and get some improved methods of doing things. The very idea of electing men to Congress and then have to wait almost a year before they are allowed to take their places, and then again there is great need of some improved system of taxation in Texas.

We think that Lubbock is about the only town of its size that does not have a real whiteway. A few light ditches here and there up and down a few of the important streets does not constitute a thing of that kind. One light to the block will never light a street.

We think this is a free country, proving you do not do something that some guy thinks might inconvenience him, or in some cases he even thinks you might make a few dollars.

We think there surely should be some way of regulating the parking of automobiles on the streets of Lubbock, so more space could be conserved. We are not authority on parking by any means, and we do not know that we could offer any solution to the problem, but there is great need for a system that will keep people from parking on the streets three times the amount of parking space that they are entitled to. It is getting to be quite a problem in Lubbock, especially on Saturday and Saturday nights.

We think it may not be anybody's business just how many people hang on the outside of an automobile as it dashes down the main streets of the city, but we know something else about it. There is very great danger of somebody getting knocked off, and killed while undertaking to ride the fenders of a running board of automobiles. Accidents, you know always happen when least expected.

We think the extreme is gone to in some instances where officers attempt to arrest people for the violation of the law. We are sure of the belief that every offender should be arrested and brought to justice, but there should be a great deal of common sense mixed up in the proposition too. Recently in Chicago a negro threw a brick through a show window. Policemen followed and the offender took refuge in a nearby building. The officers undertook to run the negro out with bullets, and riddled the building. They finally succeeded in killing the negro, but while doing that also killed a small

The Way Of The World

BY GROVE PATTERSON

BEANS AND ADVERTISING California, despite its fame for fruit and climate, is really a great bean state. Lima bean growers not long ago spent $170,000 in advertising to move their crop. And it moved.

If you have any doubt of the power of newspaper advertising ask the bean growers of California. Co from beans all up and down the line. Production in the United States takes on new figures of enormity. Advertising takes on greater and greater importance if the "crop" is going to be moved.

SOBERITY "America will remain irretrievable in economic if it remains sober," says Edison. That word sober may make us think of things other than making up the human body. Laws and methods, there is no sanity without sobriety, and a drunken man outside the jail is more of a menace to human society than a hardened criminal inside. Drunkenness means loss of self control, and loss of self control means a quick return to the beast.

HARDLY THAT A somewhat famous woman politician says it is issues, not personalities, that count in politics. That is an unfortunate remark, for if the woman really believes it she seems to have lost her understanding of folks, and she will hardly go much farther in politics.

CLEMENCEAU Clemenceau, very wise in the ways of this world, sets forth a philosophy of action in a few words when he says: "One must know what one wants; when he wants it he must have the courage to say it and, having said it, courage enough to do it."

An English woman—the Baroness Ravensdale—says a woman has no right to take a man's job in the world just as a relief from boredom. It is perhaps true that many women go into business life because they are tired of their domestic duties. But men's exclusive duties. But we have often learned two things while doing it. They have learned that they like jobs and sometimes learned they can do them as well as men.

Men ought not to "crab" about it. They ought to be stimulated by the competition. Of course women will have to live and toil upon the earth many years before men will honestly—down in their heart of hearts, or mind of minds—accept them as intellectual equals.

boy and his sister who were in the building at the time, which shows that in this case, innocent lives were taken in trying to capture one person, who had committed only a minor offense.

We think there may not be any harm in betting on an election or anything else, but at least harm came out of one case, when a man was killed, and another injured, and another is being tried in the courts for the murder of a man, all because of the misunderstanding over an election bet.

With all of this rail development will come also the development in road building—pave highways and road roads, so that we may expect some of the greatest development in the history of West Texas because more people will see this great country than ever before, and more people will buy land because of better rail facilities and better highways.

HIGH FLIGHT

1923 By NEA Service Inc. WITH BEWEY GROVES "WHEN A GIRL LOVES" "LOVE FOR TWO"

THIS HAS HAPPENED Fale introduces JERRY RAY to ALESTER CARSTAIRS when he crashes his airplane into the camp site he is sharing with her roommate. She likes his pilot, DAN HARVEY, but Alester showers her with attention.

Dan tries to win her, but when he proposes she tells him she does not believe in love but hopes to marry money.

Jerry loses her job on Alester's account, and he gets her a place in a chorus. She works hard and Alester drives her to Atlantic City for the opening, but she angers him by refusing to attend a midnight chorus party.

But she wins promotion to a special dance number. The second week of the show is in Boston and Alester insists on driving her there. But he delays starting and then stops at a notorious roadhouse for dinner.

Jerry begs him to hurry but before she can get him away, it is night and raining. Car trouble spells her slim chance of reaching Boston in time. Then Alester thinks of the airplane, but Dan refuses to go up on account of the weather.

Alester stubbornly prepares for the flight, and when Dan sees they are determined he takes the wheel and goes up in the storm.

He runs into an electric storm. Tragedy threatens when lightning sets fire to a plane wing, but the heavy rain smother it, and he gets out handily with a safe landing. They catch a train on into Boston but arrive too late for rehearsal.

The press agent wants to play up the story using Alester's name, but Jerry objects, feeling that Alester is to tell the truth—fearing Jerry for show publicity and Dan for his bravery.

By the time the show reaches New York, Jerry has become quite a finished dancer. Alester is more amazed than ever. He asks her to marry him—deciding to risk the family wrath.

She begs him to wait before announcing an engagement and objects to going to a party at LEONTINE LEBAUDY'S but he insists.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLV Jerry's sentence was not completed. She had been on the verge of telling Alester that she could not understand why he desired to have his future wife associate with a woman like Leontine Lebaudy, when suddenly she remembered that she knew nothing against Leontine—except that she ran a roadhouse with an unenviable reputation.

If Alester were sufficient to place her outside the pale as far as his fiancée was concerned, she need not make an issue of it, Jerry told herself.

Besides, she had given in to Alester in every few things. What if she wanted him to go to a party at the home of some friend of hers? Certainly she would expect him to consider her wishes in the matter.

she felt it only fair to consider his now. "When is she giving her party?" she asked Alester abruptly.

"On Saturday, because I told her you won't stay up after two o'clock on any other night."

"All right," Jerry said listlessly and not even the wave of relief that swept Alester and expressed itself by his showing her with his hands, made her glad that she had yielded.

Jerry lived in a sort of shell for the next few days. Nothing seemed to touch her, though her room at the unpretentious hotel where she was living was filled with flowers and other tokens of Alester's affection.

To the Banner's way of thinking this is the most momentous move ever put on foot by the Rails Chamber of Commerce. Of course it's mighty nice for it to boost the town and make trips of good will out to the various communities and all that kind of stuff, but when it puts over this cow deal it has accomplished the very greatest thing ever undertaken by any Chamber of Commerce. For it will have been instrumental in putting this country on a paying basis.

We have the feed, we have the climate, we have plenty of pure water, and all we need is the cows and fellows to properly take care of them. Recent discovery that he-gart, which grows so profitably, feeds, when properly ground and mixed, to be had any where at any cost, has solved the feeding problem. There's no question at all but that milk can be produced for less money right here in the United States. So why not utilize our natural advantages and make this the greatest farming and dairying country under the sun. It's work of course, but we find that there's quite a bit of work attached to anything that gets you anywhere.

Farmer who have been practicing diversification in the Rails country are on the right side of the ledger at the banks right now. They have money and are enjoying the luxuries of life. They work; of course they do, but they have a mighty good time spending the money the work brings them.

If you are interested in purchasing some good cows see Mr. Bullock at the Chamber of Commerce office in the Municipal Auditorium. Let's Bullock put all the farms on a paying basis.—Rails Banner.

They were followed by a night. "But I guess it's not so much having things as not having them that matters," she added as she turned away.

Jerry was not finding what contact she had made with wealth as continuously fascinating as she had thought it would be. Not neither had she forgotten the arid days of her girlhood. The result was that she surrendered to the belief that thrills and contentment were only to be had in the simple life. Mr. Hale spoke to her of heavenly heights, certainly property could set you down in a bottomless pit where worry and struggle were never-ending, she reflected. And a show girl could lose her job, could break her leg, or grow old. She would grow old.

"I can't save enough," Jerry told an inner voice that protested against the violation of her secret dream. "Actors can't save money—it just can't be done because you have to be hard-headed to do it and you can't be hard-headed and be a good actor."

She was still in a state of battling with herself when Saturday night arrived. She put on her bridesmaid dress with a heavy heart. One of the girls was out and Jerry was substituting.

There was something wrong with her tonight. The usual sparkle and vivacity were missing from her performance. Mr. Hale spoke to her about it when she came off stage.

Jerry tried hard to put some life into her dancing when she went on again. She was falling dismally into the audience and saw Dan Harvey. He was sitting on an end seat, center aisle, third row. Jerry missed a step and Mr. Hale, in the wings, swore under his breath. But he wondered, before she came dancing off stage with the other girls, what had happened to her. Certainly she was animated enough now. And busy, too—sending a boy hurrying off with a whispered message.

Dan was leaving his seat for a smoke in the lobby when the boy reached him. He bent his head to take the message and then, much to the envy of a man in the second row who had overheard it, he started backstage, cursing himself every step of the way for being so stupid. He had a perfect fool, a perfect fool, in fact all the kinds of fools there are.

Jerry was waiting for him in her bridesmaid costume that was not so chaste as she had thought. The dimple in her shoulder or the rustle of her dress, or the merry boom—a boom that she had thought was rising and falling in the most revealing manner.

But Jerry was not conscious that she was just betraying her inattention. She went to Dan without stretching her hand, and the meaning he could put upon her welcome.

Dan was not contented, which was unfortunate. Otherwise he'd have known that she was overjoyed to see him.

"Where have you been?" she cried, and she had the tip of her nose to bring her face nearer to a level with his.

"Home," he said sprightly. "You never gave me a chance to thank you," Jerry reproached him; "even if I knew how."

"I've never had a girl of one perfect way, but he didn't. Instead 'I'm glad you've had so much success," he said with unaffected sincerity.

"I missed you on the opening night," Jerry told him. "Oh, I've not to look back on my life. You won't go away, will you? Please come back here again after my dance in the second act. I'll be through then. We can have a long talk."

Dan returned to his seat and Jerry came out with Jack Beale. Beale looked at her hungrily. Up there, with hundreds of eyes upon her, was Jerry, a bit of a girl who meant nothing more than a transient period of high-class theatrical entertainment to everyone in the audience—excepting Dan.

To Dan she was everything else—life itself—a wife, a sweetheart—a mother for his children—a little pal.

"Jerry, Jerry!" A bit of a girl—just a little figure dancing to the tune of a singing heart—making a man ache with agonized longing to take her in his arms—take her away from the spot light and carry her off to his castle home in the mountains.

In reality it might be just a plain little house with a built-in garage. But to Dan and Jerry—would be a castle.

"I'm a fool," he said again as he hurried backstage before Jerry had taken her last curtain. He saw her come off, laughing and bowing, "the must like applause," he said to himself, with intentional criticism.

Jerry saw Dan and danced over to him. "I'm so glad to see you again," she said. "Let's find a place to sit down and talk."

She drew two chairs close together in a deserted room she had sooted. "Our greenroom," a wisecracking chorus girl had once remarked. "You have to be green to use it."

They were trying hard to make casual conversation without touching upon the things that lay nearest their hearts, when Alester found them. He greeted Dan with a look of friendliness.

"You ought to be dressing," he said to Jerry with a disapproving glance at her costume. She had been wearing a light robe but now it had fallen off her shoulders.

Jerry turned apologetically to Dan. "We're going out to a party," she said regretfully.

"To announce our engagement," Alester added abruptly.

Jerry winced when she saw how the blow hurt Dan. She knew in that moment she was struggling to speak calmly as he wished her happiness. Her anger flared hot against Alester for his brutality. He had acknowledged on more than one occasion knew that he had struck in jealousy.

SUMMARY
Market up 13 to 16 points in New York, five to ten points in New Orleans. Fluctuations were confined within a narrow range for the greater part of the day and trading was dull and quiet. Liverpool was better than our cotton, the trade markets opened steady with the New York market and the American market a few points higher than Saturday's close. The government spinning report originally scheduled to be issued on Dec. 23 will be given out on Thursday, Dec. 26. The market until that time will probably show little life and will be a waiting affair, waiting to see if the total spinings to Dec. 31 will confirm the government's forecast of 14,375,000 bales for the 1928 crop.

New Orleans: Weekly receipts of cotton goods markets say retail trading is improving every day and that wholesale trade is normal.

Galveston, Tex.: Weather is unfavorable for gathering the five percent of crop still left in the fields. Little plowing is under way.

Muskogee, Okla.: Rains have interfered with gathering of late cotton crop. Farmers have been unable to do much plowing.

Grand Cane, La.: This section has completed cotton ginning. Good season in ground but little plowing so far.

Mahon, Miss.: Cotton ginning finished. Land in good shape but not much plowing being done.

Geneva, Ala.: A few more bales of cotton to be ginned. Stalks being plowed under.

Cotton exports all ports today 80.

8 bales versus 71,672; for week 7,044 bales versus 100,394; for season 4,244,738 bales versus 3,555,071. Cotton sales for season 4,187,425 bales versus 3,728,524. Cotton on job: New Orleans 41,437 bales versus 40,592, Galveston 36,600 bales versus 108,500, Houston 38,198 bales versus 41,395.

WEATHER
The early weather map showed considerable rain over most of the cotton belt with temperatures moderately high. At noon the eastern cotton belt was cloudy to raining, the central belt reported considerable rain and the western belt was clear to cloudy. Forecast, Eastern belt; rain and colder generally. Western belt; Louisiana, mostly cloudy, much colder and freezing in the northwest portion. Arkansas, partly cloudy much colder with temperatures 22 to 28 in north and freezing or below in south portion. Oklahoma, fair to colder in central and southern portions, temperatures 16 to 22 in north and 20 to 26 in south. East Texas, generally fair and much colder with freezing to east coast and nearly to west coast. West Texas, fair and colder in south and extreme eastern portions with continued cold to the north.

KANSAS CITY LIVESTOCK
KANSAS CITY, Dec. 17. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Curtailed cattle receipts around the 11-market circuit prompted strong to unevenly higher prices on fed steers and yearlings, and the stock showed a moderate advance at several points. Better grades of fed steers and yearlings at Chicago were on a 25 to 50c higher basis; stocker and feeder steers were steady to 25c higher; the maximum gain at some centers 25 to 50c. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 33,000 as compared with 190,181 last Monday and 88,642 a year ago. The supply of sheep approximated 33,300, a decrease of 18,500 from a week ago and 4,500 less than a year ago. ### New Era Is Seen For Agriculture In Scurry County As County Agent Plans 4 Major Projects During Next Year

Soil Conservation, Dairy Development, 4-H Club Work and One-Variety To Cotton To Be Stressed

(Special To The Avalanche) SNYDER, Dec. 17. — Rath four days and night out of the past 10 days is bringing smiles to the faces of Scurry county farmers who have been anxious to get into their plowing and make their fields ready for what they firmly believe will be a bumper crop next year. Although some are downcast over the poor prospects for the winter months, the county agent expects to reach nearly half of last year's production of over 37,000 bales, optimism is on every hand with the faith to get over the winter months.

Four major projects are on the program of County Agent W. C. Logan for 1929, and they include: soil conservation, dairy development, 4-H club work and one-variety cotton.

Maize Land Terraced. Last year under the leadership of County Agent C. C. Willis, more than 10,000 acres were terraced. The commissioners' court turned the entire equipment of county road machinery over to the county agent and the court were the first body in West Texas to take the "bull" by the horns and make a substantial diversification of efforts without first seeking the consent of state heads. This year every foot of terraced land is already in the hands of the county agent. According to Henry P. Wellborn, pioneer rancher and farmer, he stated "that I have some 2,500 or 3,000 acres and I want every foot of terraced land with level, broad terraces and close enough together to hold all rains."

The second project of dairy development brings to mind that there are more good bulls being bought in Scurry county with registry papers from record dams than in all the previous years of county history grouped together. Local bankers make it explicit that they can tell the difference when a farmer has four or five Jerseys and brings in the greater number of registry papers from record dams than in all the previous years of county history grouped together. Local bankers make it explicit that they can tell the difference when a farmer has four or five Jerseys and brings in the greater number of registry papers from record dams than in all the previous years of county history grouped together.

Club Work Emphasized. The 4-H club boy activity is getting greater emphasis than ever before, as proper training of the boys between 10 and 20 years now means for greater usefulness later. Boys are receiving practical education on how to care for livestock, feed, judge, breed and many other things concerning stock. Poultry raising is coming in for greater work as younger young chicks die annually and eggs rotted in incubators, under hens and by leaving the roosters with the stocks in the summer months that if all were accounted for it would feed every farm family in the county one month, according to Agent Logan. Keeping of farm records as regards field crop work is improving. Importance of humus in the soil, conservation of moisture, good seed and the proper methods of keeping farm records as experience has proven their entire usefulness. The results at the International Stock Show at Chicago recently when an Iowa 4-H club boy won the world's greatest laurels on his Hereford baby beef is having its effect on Scurry county boys where 21 of them have baby beef projects on at the present time.

Plan One-Variety Cotton. One-variety cotton planting efforts are successfully being promoted here, Hecmigh being the first county community to adopt the plan, while two other communities have already signified their intention to follow the plan. When the one-variety cotton standard is completed and a premium on staple in addition to the safety of ginning only one variety and the grower is assured of from $10 to $25 a bale extra, radical changes are to be expected. One hundred twenty-five farmers are lined up with the Hecmigh committee as folks are learning more every day that experiment stations are not only doing remarkable promotional work but that their suggestions should be followed.

It is not generally known that Scurry county originated the now famous slogan of "The Cow, Sow and Hen," which was coined by E. J. Anderson, still a resident of Snyder and who at the time was Secretary of the Scurry County Chamber of Commerce. At the same time he used a companion slogan to the main theme of "Invest in 100 hens, four sows and three cows—they pay debts and leave money in the bank."

May Get Fortune Court Ward Awaits Arrival of Key

ASHVILLE, N. C., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Elizabeth Wright, 14-year-old ward of the Asheville juvenile court, is awaiting the arrival of a strong box key to learn whether or not she is to inherit a modest fortune. Left destitute three years ago by her parents, she is believed to be the sole heir of S. N. Gurley, who died here last week leaving an estate estimated at from $20,000 to $25,000. After her parents were gone, Elizabeth stayed under the jurisdiction of the court, but spent many vacations with the man and his wife. Then Mrs. Gurley died and the visits became more infrequent. Neighbors say, though that Gurley left everything to the girl, but until the key to the strong box is found she will not know.

RUSSIAN DUKE ILL Grand Duke Nicholas Has Bad Case of Pneumonia

ANTIBES, FRANCE, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Grand Duke Nicholas of Russia is ill here with pneumonia, his condition is described as "very serious." The grand duke left Paris six weeks ago because the winter climate was deemed too severe for a man of his age. He became ill late last week. The Grand Duke Nicholas Nicolaievitch of Russia, who made a notable name for himself as a military commander by victories in East Prussia in the early stages of the World War, has long been regarded by Russian exiles in France as the real claimant to the Russian throne. He is a second cousin of the late Czar Nicholas II. In recent years he has lived in a chateau near Paris and some 18 months ago went through a serious illness. He was 72 years old on November 6.

SHORT CAPES. Lace frocks, especially, use the cape mode. One tailored cardigan suit of lace has a feminine cape in the back to relieve the severe lines.

LEAF GREEN. A new chiffon frock with a double blouse that runs up the back to fashion a cute little bustle effect is in leaf green print.

As Congress Went To Work

Blue and Brown Important Colors

By LUCY CLAIRE Fashion Expert for central and Avalanche

The Christmas and Palm Beach seasons come so close together it would seem as though they clasped hands across the border line. No sooner have fashions for fall and winter been established, than along come the first harbingers of summer in styles for southern resort wear. Big spender sunwear has such a permanent influence on fashionable colors. Before last summer's coat is gone we begin cultivating next summer's. So now we're thinking in terms of lightweight clothing, sunburn tones, and the high colors typifying sports wear, while the snow is still on the ground, or yet to appear in northern climates.

Blue will be most important. To quote Margaret Mauden Burke, president of the Textile Color Card association, and the first and last word on colors: "I predict that the beige-brown family, deviations of yellow, will be the outstanding thing. Next, blue, many shades of blue—not only the dark rich navy and brilliant blue, but the light tones of the sky, the soft atmospheric, grayish blues, will be ushered in. So in dress, beige, browns, blues, and to complement them, your shoe should be of beige, brown, or the dark blue leathers."

Men Choose Midnight Blues. Even the men are taking to the "midnight blues." Male fashionables at formal affairs are wearing midnight blue coats and waistcoats and blue kid shoes. The color is so dark it looks like black, yet eliminates the unbecoming deadness of black. Incidentally, men have taken a leaf from women's fashion's and are donning kid shoes for southern resort wear. They are becoming more and more insensible to changing to straw hats and lightweight suits without changing from heavy to lightweight shoes. Of course, in the blacks and tans one cannot tell whether the shoes are of kid or not, except upon close examination, when the tiny pores which show the feet breaths are visible. Cottons, silks and woolsens are all to fore go again, in lighter weight than ever before. For southern resort wear in silks the stress is laid on the suit of satin, bengaline, faille, moire or taffeta with contrasting blouses. For example, with a black suit, the blouse may be yellow, grayed pink, beige with a greenish cast, or red. Often the jacket will be of a lighter color than the skirt, for there is a trend of light colors against dark. In prints, which will be very strong, the color trend in plain fabrics is followed, and the prints may be combined with the one-tone effects. Low-placed Flare. Well worth watching is the trend toward the low-placed flare in the silhouette. All sorts and conditions of flares have had their day, and are now tending down to simpler lines. The princess silhouette is advancing from its rank as an extreme mode to one which is fast being accepted. Newest models in ensemble coats are slim and straight, with the flare in godets placed low in the front. Quite flat pleats have a broadening effect at the bottom, and there is the evening silhouette of straight sheath effect to below the hips with a spreading flare below. An example of this is shown in the princess silhouette evening frock shown at the left of the sketch. The tendency toward contrast in costume brings the light coat posed over a frock of darker fabric for spring and summer, as well as the light-colored blouse over the black skirt, or the skirt of dark blue or brown, as shown at the right of the sketch. At the top is shown a pair of white and brown kid shoes for men, and a pair of parchment kid sandals for women, both of which are predicted as popular Palm Beach features.

Group of Epworth Leaguers Meet In Union of Services

(Special To The Avalanche) CROSBYTON, Dec. 17.—The Mano Estacado Epworth League Union met at First Methodist church, Lorenzo, recently with 81 young people from the six churches that make up the eastern union of the Lubbock district. This was the second meeting since this union was with 79 in attendance. The next meeting will be at Ralls Sunday in January. The union is on Tuesday night after the first growing in numbers and interest, also. The goal is 100 at the next meeting. For some reason some of the ladies delegation did not register. ### Rockefeller Relative Betrothed?

Miss Aimir G. Rockefeller, charming relative of the famed billionaire, here is shown with M. Roy Jackson at a hunt meet the other day at Goldens Bridge, N. Y. It is reported that formal announcement soon is to be made of their betrothal.

CUBAN FIGHTER WINS K. O. COLISEUM, CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Armand Santiago, Cuban 130-pounder, knocked out Joey Sirogor of Milwaukee in the second round of their fight tonight, scoring one of the surprising upsets of the year. Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, world's light heavyweight champion, starting his campaign for recognition as a heavyweight contender, scored a top-sided victory over Big Boy Peterson, of Minneapolis, in ten rounds. New prints in red, lilac, cream, pink and tan favor brown backgrounds, predicting an unusual vogue for brown this autumn.

Three Policemen Wounded by Negro

(By Associated Press) LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 17.—Three policemen and a spectator were wounded and a negro killed by an unidentified robber who staged a gun fight with a score or more police here today. He was captured after he had been shot several times and probably fatally wounded. Tear bombs were used in an effort to dislodge the man who held police off for more than an hour. The man identified as Arnett Devos held up a confectionery store and in the confusion of customers attempting to flee, Jim Quasler, a negro, was shot. Police responding to a call for aid were met by fire from the robber who in addition to his own pistol, obtained the proprietor's pistol and supply of ammunition. He held off the attackers for more than an hour.

Chamber of Commerce Puts Stocking Trade Territory With Jerseys As Part of Year's Program

(Special To The Avalanche)
RALLS, Dec. 17.—At a meeting of the Ralls Chamber of Commerce this week it was decided to include in the program for the next year a co-operative effort to stock the Ralls territory with more and better Jersey cows.

J. Edd McLaughlin, a member of the directorate and vice-president of the Security State Bank & Trust Company stated that he would be glad to finance the proposition. It was decided to have E. E. Young, head of the Vocational Agriculture department in the Ralls High School select the cows as to strain etc., and ship them in just as soon as the farmers indicated their desire for cows. Young is an expert in the business, having had charge of the dairy herd at A. & M. College for some time.

The cows will be sold to the farmers at just what they cost laid down in Ralls and the plan will be so arranged that any person who really cares to "begin making his living at home" can secure as many of the cows as he can take care of.

"Narcotic Queen"

"Queen of the dope ring," police called Mrs. June Boyd after she was arrested in Chicago in a room stocked with heroin, cocaine and opium valued at $1,000,000. She is shown here after being taken to New York City for questioning regarding operation of the narcotic ring and anything that she might know about the murder of Arnold Rothstein. Mrs. Boyd, Chicago agent of Joseph Unger, in whose baggage $2,500,000 worth of drugs were found, proved a willing witness before the grand jury.

Youth Likes Colorful and Modern Gifts

The bachelor girl or man or the college girl or boy would appreciate modernistic personal things or something to add "atmosphere" to his room, such as (1) a modernistic lounge chair, suit with Russian collar, made of gold-yellow crepe with black trim; (2) a decorative box of home-made jellies and marmalade for company breakfasts and midnight lunches; (3) a modernistic lamp of metal base and scarlet shade; (4) a modernistic cigarette holder; (5) a set of new, novel ging ham, plaid crepe paper napkins and table cloth; (6) a rich lounge robe of rich red on a beige background; (7) a colorful modern smoking stand, and beverage holder; (8) a modernistic tray or (9) a leather hatbox in college colors or in striking red, black, gold and a touch of green.

BY JULIA BLANSHARD
NEA Service Writer
NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—College girls and boys and independent apartment dwelling bachelors—be they men or women—view Christmas in a highly practical way.

It is a real opportunity for the family to stock them up! And why not? They usually have little money for extras. And they are often at the age mean more to them than they ever will again.

Therefore it behooves the family to choose carefully to get the maximum of suitability out of small cost. For the average recipient in these classes, a good rule is to get several things of appreciable usefulness instead of some masterpiece whose cost would preclude any other gifts.

Modern Note
Any furniture or furnishing for the room, from a modernistic hatbox to a piano, is usually a good choice. Lamps are especially so, no single thing can do more for a room than right lighting fixtures. Curtains, drapes, couch covers, pillows, and colored sheets are excellent choices. Moreover, these can be made at a small cost. So is smoking equipment, whether it be a small new cigarette case, tobacco sack or smoking stand done in novel design.

For the room also one might choose a modern bit of porcelain, desk sets, book ends, hanging book cases, a long time to keep wardrobes in excellent order, rugs, pictures, heavy luxurious sets of towels, wash rags, bath mats and sponges, soap, bath salts to match. Dishes prove very acceptable, especially if they happen to be a tea or breakfast set of French, English, Italian, Spanish or Austrian peasant ware. And refreshment sets of colored glass are excellent, with rose pink glass the most stylish shade now.

Mothers, aunts, grandmothers, and sisters who live at home and are good cooks have a vast chance to make up Christmas boxes that will arouse cheers of enthusiastic thanks. A decorative little box, home-made sample-sized jellies, hamper or basket filled with jams, marmalades and preserves lasts a long time for company breakfasts. Little parcels of home-made cookies, fruit cake, candied fruits, salted nuts, fine teas, coffees or other edibles that keep indefinitely are excellent.

He or she who paints can make charming gifts for the college or apartment "independent." For instance, paint a set of plain tin trays in gaudy, modernistic manner to use for serving company supper on, instead of having to set a table. Paint up various boxes for apartments and so on. Hand-tint a few dozen paper napkins in modernistic design or buy a set of new crepe paper gingham plaid napkins and table cloth.

Personal Gifts
Personal luxuries such as fine pens and cosmetics are good. But be sure the recipient uses the shade of rouge you pick, or the same lipstick. Lingerie, vesties, bits of jewelry and shoe buckles may be safe bets.

Young men take kindly to gifts of jazzy pajamas or some of the new colored silk underwear. Evening attire is good for men, from mufflers, dress gloves and cuff buttons to a whole Tux suit. Cams are on the up and up but one should pick a stick to suit the "wearer."

Lounge attire, be it smocks or smoking pajamas are excellent for girls. And in this luxurious age, a silken dressing gown is meant for the youth who wonders if he might perhaps better try for the movies.

The market is fairly glutted with lovelies for the young, be it girl or boy. But the young folks in these classes mentioned must have their gifts chosen carefully. For personalities, settings, auras and fads mean a great deal in their lives and must be reckoned with when choosing Christmas gifts.

LONGER SIDES

New Paris hats have a tendency to lengthen the right side of the brim and crown. One biscuit-colored cloche has a flat seam motif on its drooping right side.

NEW JUMPER

Dallas-California Mail Route Likely

DALLAS, Dec. 17.—(AP)—No definite announcement as to plans for an air mail line from Dallas to Los Angeles can be made until W. Irving Glover, second assistant postmaster general in charge of air mail, can inspect the proposed route. John W. Philip, Dallas postmaster, said here today.

CAR REGISTRATION

Four New Cars Registered 42 Re-Registered
While there were only four new automobile licenses issued by the county tax collector's office, according to I. F. Holland on Monday, there were 42 re-registrations for which tax owners secured their 1929 licenses and thereby avoided the grand rush.

The four new car licenses were issued to Gulf Refining company, Lubbock, Ford coupe; H. H. Quinn, Lubbock, Ford coupe; George A. Payne, Elston, Whippet coach; Otto L. Sims, Wolfarth, Ford sedan.

Week-End Arrests Numerous Here

Promise is given on a light Christmas this year—if records of the city police court are any sort of a criterion. For all of Saturday night, all day Sunday night, these records disclosed Monday, there were only 15 arrests for which fines were assessed and collected during the period.

Ten of these arrests were for drunkenness, each $15. All of the others were for traffic violations, one being for reckless driving, worth $10; two for driving past a red light, each $3; one for parking on the wrong side of a red line, just $1; and one for failing to take full countenance of a stop signal, exactly $2.

The superstition of lighting three lamps from one match arose from the custom of having three lamps on church altars in Russia. It was considered unlucky to light these three lamps from one taper and the priests would not do so under any consideration.

WHAT IS SO RARE AS A HOLLY WREATH IN JUNE?

Holly wreaths have their place—but their place isn't on a man's Necktie. Especially if he intends to wear it in any other month besides December. That's the reason we see Uncle Martin sadly draping his Christmas neckwear over the edge of the waste basket.

Men whose ties came from our shop don't have to worry about wearing them out of season. Ours are Cheney Cravets, and that means they're in splendid taste from one end of the year to the other.

Every County In Texas Should Employ A Public Health Nurse, State Health Officer Says In Giving Report of Work

Work of County Nurse Is Vital, Dr. J. C. Anderson Says; Activities of Department Broadened

(By Associated Press) AUSTIN, Dec. 17—The demand for public health nurses far exceeds the supply, with their work Child Hygiene far-reaching, Dr. J. C. Anderson, State Health Officer, said today in a two year summary of activities in his department.

Public health nurses should be made available to every county in the state, he said. Some counties at present are paying all the salaries of their nurses, while the state is assisting two county units and 27 field nurses.

"Thousands of physical defects among pre-school children have been found and corrections made and thousands of expectant mothers have received advice from the bureau," Dr. Anderson said.

Department Reorganized A reorganization of the Bureau of Food and Drugs was effected and placed in charge of an experienced drug man. Thousands of pounds of meats, vegetables, canned goods and other foods have been condemned; some alarming conditions have been found at a number of bottling plants; several cases of food poisoning were investigated; some drug stores were found keeping biological products at improper temperatures; oystere sucking houses were surveyed and found wanting in sanitary equipment and operations and a number of poultry plants were discovered accepting inferior and diseased fowls. Warnings were issued in all these cases and partial or complete corrections brought about in almost every instance.

"In compliance with the vital statistics law passed by the last legislature, the Bureau of Vital Statistics was reorganized and the personnel increased. More than 1,000 local registrars have been appointed and the registration of births and deaths increased approximately 20 per cent, as reported to the bureau. To bring about more satisfactory compliance with the law, more than 150 public addresses were made by the staff and others.

Supervises Sanitary Work Promoting and supervising the installation of the major activities of stalling of sanitary improvements the Bureau of Sanitary Engineering. During the period more than 65 new sewer systems were installed and plants rebuilt; improvements were made and new units installed at 45 water plants and systems supplying public drinking water; dairy equipment of all descriptions running into $1,000,000 was installed; clean-up campaign instituted in a number of oil towns, sometimes with the assistance of the rangers; 181 public water supplies surveyed for certification by the United States Treasury department, and mosquito control work supervised in approximately 150 towns.

"Work performed by the Bureau of Laboratories has been increased approximately 18 per cent during the past two years, which includes the examination of specimens submitted from all sections of the state, from state institutions, particularly from the penitentiary system, and various elementary institutions when requested. State funds for carrying on the work were supplemented by appropriations from the International Board of Health.

President-elect Declares He Disapproves of Idea Of Big Brother Nations; Says All Are Equal

(By Associated Press) BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Dec. 17—President-Elect Hoover was quoted in an interview appearing in the newspaper La Nacion today as denying the existence of "interventionist aims," on the part of the United States.

"For a long time," Mr. Hoover was quoted as saying, "the belief has prevailed that there are, among nations, as in families, fathers and sons, adult and infant brothers. Thus it was thought natural that certain countries should assume the guardianship of others, at least in the spiritual sense, and there were times when elder brothers felt that it was their duty to act as policemen to the alleged minors.

"I utterly disapprove such doctrines. No independent and sovereign nation is a minor. There are not in the American continent, big and small brothers. All countries have attained the same age, spiritually and politically. The only difference among them is a different historical moment in their economic development."
