Around The Square

By Mack

After listening at Clayton Rand for an hour Monday night we have seriously considered continuing this column. He's a bigger wind-jammer that we are, and a lot better looking. So for this reason we will continue the column—it might improve our looks, and the Lord knows there is plenty room for improvement. Now that we have a legal excuse just watch us go.

Now that we are through moving we should press along in orderly fashion. The wife will be able to get out of bed by tomorrow, and the doctor figures we have a chance to live, though the work she did came very near getting us, we hope we never go through this ordeal again.

Harry Truman thinks he is having a good time, though we doubt it. He's so busy raising taxes and planning new ones, that he does not have time to work out his own future. But when St. Peter gave him a "fair deal" grin along with a passport to the supreme tropics, he is going to remember some of his acts while he was here on earth. Of course this is a mere wish on our part. If Harry has his way about the deal he will probably take over heaven, hell and the eternal throne before spring. All he'll have to do is raise taxes again, and Harry doesn't mind this. When he was in Missouri a ten dollar bill looked like a fortune, and the only reason he doesn't still have a tail or shop up there is, he couldn't get a few of these ten spots to save the shop. Now that he is spending other people's money what is a mere fifty or hundred billion dollars. Pretty more where these came from he says. We once felt sorry for the over-taxed English. They had no money, observed meatless days seven times a week, and bore the blunt in Hitler's bombings. It was bad, and they suffered, but think how much worse it might have been. What if they had had a Harry? None would have survived.

But with Churchill at the helm over there, the English will come out on top. All he'll have to do is work on Harry's egotism and he'll lead him the United States if there is anything left worth leading. Winston is smooth and Harry is glib. Next year when they ship him back to Missouri, he won't be able to get a job of dish-washing in a third class Chinese Chop Seuy joint. Missouri people are intelligent, and they can't help it because Harry says fit to locate there. He in no way resembles them in word or action, though there are times when he reminds us of one of their more or less popular farm animals. Only Harry's ears are so short. But what he likes in ears he can make up in giving the bugle call, sometimes known as braying, but never praying.

Too bad he has had to sacrifice his life for America, when America didn't really want any sacrifices. However, he will soon be at liberty to take a long needed rest. Voters are not going to force him to suffer any more, for it is more painful to us than it is to him. Buy your poll tax now!

Lions Will Skip Next Weeks Meet

Brantley Hudson, boy scout executive of Brownwood, was speaker of the day at the Lions Club, Tuesday. Four other visitors were introduced. They were James Reed, Roland Phillips, Melvin C. Rathel and Johnnie Collins.

Mr. Hudson gave his hearers a brief outline of the boy scout set-up, describing all phases of work from the general office on down to the youngest cub scout. Following his address he showed a film made on the scout ranch and camp grounds in San Saba county. Here the boys were seen in action. The film was interesting, an educational, and many Eastland boys were recognized in the picture.

As next Tuesday follows a holiday and with conflicting programs at the church, Lions will not meet. Next regular meeting will be Tuesday, November 19.

Armistice Day To Be Observed On November 12

Armistice day will be observed in Eastland. This has been a custom for many years, and it seems the majority favors closing an taking time out to remember the boys resting in "Flanders Field."

The postoffice, bank and a majority of business houses will be closed for the day, and in all probability the Telegram will not be published. Seems that there has been some misunderstanding, and this is published to clarify the situation. As Armistice Day falls on Sunday, this year, Monday, Nov. 12, will be observed.

Eastland Group Joins CJC Choir

Six former Eastland High School students have enrolled in the Cisco Junior College choir. Mr. Robert Clinton, director and organizer of the choir of thirty-eight voices, says that this will be the best year for the group since its beginning in 1949. This is an easy prediction for a group containing a number of talented students who have had previous group singing experience.

Mr. Clinton and Mr. Jack Chambliss, who teach voice in the college music department, have capitalized on this year's talent by organizing a "Madrigal" group, a boy's quartet. Mr. Chambliss is assisting with the choir by rehearsing sectional groups.

The Cisco Junior College Choir is planning a tour of the Northwest and Central Texas area where it will make appearances for high schools and other sponsoring organizations. All of the schools in the vicinity of the college will also be visited by the choir some time during the year.

A highlight of this year will be the group's participation in the singing of Handel's "Messiah" with the Cisco Community Chorus. Last year the college choir traveled to San Antonio and sang before the Texas Association of Colleges. The invitation was extended to the choir after their many appearances before the high schools of the area.

An addition to the music department this year is a course in violin under the capable instruction of Mrs. Bill Branby, former student of the beloved Wilda Dragoo.

Former Eastland High School students who are members of the Cisco Junior College choir and the Wrangler Band included Margie June Poe, Pauline Latham, Doug Justice, Bob Womack, Ben Green, and Robert Latham.

UN Retakes 3 Lost Hills Today

8th ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Nov. 7 (UP)—United Nations troops today recaptured the last of three hills lost to the Reds in bloody fighting on the western front yesterday.

The hill, a commanding height northwest of Yonchon, fell to a UN reconnaissance patrol which met surprisingly little resistance. Most of the 1,500 Reds who had seized it apparently withdrew under cover of darkness last night.

Farther west, Red troops drove an allied unit from a hill near Korangpo. However, the UN forces regrouped and retook the height in a counter-attack.

Communist jet fighter planes made their first appearance over northwest Korea today in three days. An estimated 114 MIG-15 jet fighters tangled with more than 30 UN planes in three separate encounters, but neither side scored any hits.

Communist strategy in the ground fighting puzzled allied observers. When the Reds began their heavy western front attacks Sunday, it was thought they were trying to push back the UN line to improve their bargaining position in the Panmunjom truce talks.

However, the Communists in almost every case have pulled back north after seizing allied territory and holding it for a brief period. The enemy may be trying merely to keep the 8th Army off balance.

UN Rejects New Communist Bid

Reds Ask That Present Front Be Truce Line

PANMUNJOM, KOREA, Nov. 7 (UP)—The United Nations rejected today a new Communist demand for a formal agreement to end the Korean war on the present battlefield.

At the same time, the Communist formally rejected a two-day-old UN proposal to base the cease-fire line on the battlefield existing at the time an armistice agreement is signed.

The two rejections left the armistice subcommittee charged with firing a truce line across Korea deadlocked. However, it will meet again at 11 a.m. tomorrow (9 p.m. today EST).

Maj. Gen. Henry L. Hodes, chief UN representative on the subcommittee, said he rejected the Communist proposal because it would result in a de-facto cease-fire without any provisions for the thousands of allied prisoners in Communist hands.

Once certain that the Allies would not be able to keep any more Communist territory even if they advanced in the meantime, Hodes said the Reds could stall indefinitely on the prisoner question and other items on the truce agenda.

Hodes said at first glance the new Red proposal for a cease-fire line along the present battlefield with a buffer zone 2 1/2 miles wide between the opposing armies appeared to offer some concessions to the Allied view.

But on closer examination, he said, it turned out to be "merely a formal restatement of the other proposals the Communists have made in the past three days."

Japanese Ship Battles Rough Sea In Rescue

SEATTLE, WASH., Nov. 7 (UP)—A Japanese merchant ship battled 20-foot seas today to rescue survivors who abandoned a burning India-bound grainship after three crewmen burned to death.

The 35 remaining seamen launched three lifeboats from the 7,176-ton liberty ship George Walton. Flames enveloped the vessel from stem to stern.

By 8 a.m. (EST) the Japanese merchantman Kenkon Maru had taken aboard 12 of the survivors. The American merchant ship John Murray Forbes was en route to the scene to aid in rescue operations. Two Coast Guard cutters and a third merchant ship also were headed for the spot.

A Coast Guard plane guided the Kenkon Maru to the flaming Walton by dropping flares. But the vessel's holds were nearly empty and she rode high in the water making rescue operations difficult.

On the Kenkon Maru's first approach, seven men were pulled to safety from one of the lifeboats. They left four behind who were too weak to grasp lifelines. Hours later, five more survivors were pulled from another lifeboat.

A Coast Guard B-17 crew returned to Port Angeles, Wash., with details of the fight being waged against the heavy seas. They told of how the survivors huddled deep in the lifeboats as the Kenkon Maru tossed nearby. Flames from the sinking liberty ship cast an eerie glow over the scene as huge waves kept victims and rescuers apart.

The Lady Was Mad

NORRISTOWN, PA., Nov. 7 (UP)—Isabella Walker got fighting mad when a fox attacked her in a cemetery yesterday, biting her on the left hand and knee.

RANGER WOMAN SAYS PART OF METEOR FELL NEAR HER HOME

Mrs. Ellis Gregory, Ranger, called this morning to report that her grandsons Ellis Ray, 6 years old, and Gary Don, 8 1/2, were standing by the window this morning looking out in the pasture near their home at Lone Star Plant No. 3, near Morton Valley, when the little boys exclaimed "look what a big ball of fire" and then they all looked and the fire was scattering.

Mrs. Gregory said she turned on the radio to see if she could hear anything about an airplane or something and heard that a meteor had fallen in this section.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 7 (UP)—A blinding, streaking ball of fire roared over western Oklahoma and North Texas today and exploded "like a clap of thunder" breaking windows in the Hinton area in western Oklahoma.

The fiery object, believed to have been a meteor, was sighted here and at Clinton, Anadarko, El

Olden Boys Win And Girls Loose Desdemona Tilt

The Olden girls lost to Desdemona, last night at the Olden Gym but not the easy way. They turned in a very nice game with a showing of better team work all the way.

Cagle led the Hornets with 15 points. Rainey of Desdemona found the basket for 22 points. Coach Hillard's club looked far better on defense last night with Jones playing a very outstanding game as guard for the Hornets. Score Desdemona 44 and Olden 34.

The Olden boys took a fast game from Desdemona boys with a score of 54 to 40. With Coach Weaver's boys showing good finds at the basket, plus a floor game, which is a coaches dream come true.

Capt. Rowch took scoring honors for the Hornets with 20 points trailed by Lindsey with 18, with still another point add up going to Horn with 14 points.

Riggs for Desdemona, took scoring honor for the night with 22 points, but not the easy way, as the Hornets were around to sting his style.

Officials: Edwards, Ranger Junior College; Garner, Cisco Junior College.

Horace Walker Faces Federal Mail Fraud Charge In Dallas

DALLAS, Nov. 7 (UP)—A Dallas tax attorney was free on $5,000 bond today after his arrest on a secret federal indictment charging him with using the mails to defraud.

Horace Walker, formerly employed as a delinquent tax collector in Eastland County, was charged with mailing false statements of the amount of taxes he collected to Austin. Three indictments against Walker on embezzling charges are now pending in Stephens County on a change of venue.

Walker was arrested late yesterday by Deputy U. S. Marshall

Reno and Lawton, Okla., and at Dallas, Wichita Falls, Vernon, Lubbock, and Plainview, Tex. A Greyhound bus driver, Lloyd Peek, reported seeing "what appeared to be a rocket or meteor" streak across the sky of Weatherford, Okla., on U. S. 66 at 7:16 a.m.

"Then there was a deafening explosion and blinding light. It seemed like it was right above the bus," Peek said.

Peek added that he was forced to pull off the highway to regain his eyesight.

When Peek arrived at Hinton, farther west, he said he learned the blast had broken every window in the house of his brother, two miles west and one south of Hinton. Others also reported seeing what they described as "definitely a meteor" northwest of Oklahoma City.

Robert Carleton, Lawton, reported seeing "a silver ball moving from southwest to northeast" as he went to work this morning.

When it got to the northeast, it exploded, and red balls of fire shot out around it," Carleton said. Several school children and adults saw the object at Anadarko. It rattled windows there and in Hobart to the southwest.

Anadarko is about 40 miles north of Lawton, and 30 miles south of Hinton, where windows were broken.

Charles Clark, advertising manager for the Anadarko Daily News, said he heard a swoosh that sounded like a jet airplane followed by a concussion.

Several airline pilots in Dallas and Fort Worth reported seeing the object. Weather observers at the flight control tower at Love Field, Dallas, said the object probably was a meteor.

Oscar Monnig, Fort Worth amateur astronomer, identified the object as a meteor, from the numerous reports he received on it.

Monnig, widely known in astronomical circles in the southwest, said "this type of meteor makes noises heard sometimes as far as 50 miles."

He said it could have dropped some meteorites over Oklahoma.

Monnig added that the huge ball of fire was the most outstanding meteor seen in the southwest for many years, and probably was 30 to 40 miles high when first seen.

When it went out, he said, it might have been only 15 miles high.

Nazarenes Will Have SS Clinic

The second in a series of Sunday School clinics conducted by the Abilene District Church of the Nazarene will be conducted the 7th, 8th, and 9th of November at the Nazarene Church in Cisco.

R. B. Kelly will be in charge with Miss Mary Latham of Kansas City, Mo., speaking daily.

The subjects discussed will be, "Sunday School Organization," "Vacation Bible School," and "Christian Service Training."

Rev. Wm. C. Emberton, pastor of the local church, states, "we will be taking the church bus every evening at 7 o'clock and should you desire to attend, please, be at the church at the stated time."

Henry White. He appeared before Commissioner Madden Hill an hour later and posted bond shortly after it was set.

He told newsmen he felt indictments in both cases were based on incorrect facts. Since he believed himself of the Eastland County charges, he said, the federal charge also was groundless.

Ivan Irwin, Walker's attorney, said the Eastland indictments had "political implications."

Hillbilly GI Will Go To Aberdeen, Md.

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 6 (UP)—Peter Grainger, the educated hermit whose intelligence test scores have put Army officers in a dither, will be sent tomorrow to the Army Ordnance Replacement Center at Aberdeen, Md., for his basic training because he is officer material.

Officers said the decision was based on Grainger's mark of 113 on the Army's comprehensive IQ test. The high score automatically qualifies the New Mexico mountaineer to apply for Officer Candidate School.

Grainger, who enlisted here last week, told recruiters he had never heard of the draft, or seen automobiles, elevators, telephones or traffic lights.

He claimed to have been away from his Lincoln County, N. M., mountain top only once before he hitched a ride to San Antonio to join up. Now he is perturbed, he said, because the Army hasn't yet given him a gun and sent him out to fight.

Cameras also gave the 26-year-old rookie a case of jitters. Base public information officers at Fort Sam Houston, where Grainger was inducted, said they will "protect his rights" from now on. The taciturn prospector's son has balked at interviews and press photographs.

Army personnel men were first startled by Grainger's high score of 93 on the Armed Forces Qualification Test, a standard exam given to all recruits. High school graduates, they said, averaged only 35 on the quiz.

Mrs. "Mac" Gets Honor Medal For Her Courage

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 (UP)—Mrs. Douglas Mac Arthur was presented with the "Medallion of honor" by the Women's National Institute last night for her "outstanding and unselfish courage."

The citation lauded Mrs. Mac Arthur for "remaining in the Far East when she could have run away." Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania made the presentation.

Stassen said that Gen. Douglas Mac Arthur had rendered greater service to America in the last 10 years than any other man.

"Mrs. Mac Arthur's encouragement during these dark 10 years is one of the most inspiring sights of our times," he said.

Soft Mud Saves Girl From Death

HOOKS, Nov. 7 (UP)—A 14-year-old girl was run over by a car but escaped death by falling in a mudhole.

Judy Fay McCara fell out of her father's car yesterday as he backed out of his driveway. She landed in soft mud, and was pushed deep into the mire as a front wheel passed over her.

Her father, C. L. McCara, said he stopped instantly, and found the car resting on his daughter's shoulders. He pulled back and relieved the weight.

Doctors said the girl was seriously hurt, but no bones were broken. McCara credited the mudhole with saving her life.

Heart Meter Is Invented

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 6 (UP)—Electronics scientists disclosed today they have built a tiny electrically-operated gauge which can be inserted into the heart to measure blood pressure.

The delicate device was designed and constructed by Charles Patterson, 37 and John Hopps, 32, of the electrical branch of the National Research Council. It is still in the experimental stage and has not yet been tested on humans.

The instrument is called a cardiac catheter manometer. It consists of a power unit about the size of a small radio set and a thin tube with a measuring gauge overhead.

Film and Magazine Rights Sold To Story Of Girlstown, U.S.A.

Acceptance of an offer by Life magazine for an article and pictures in a future issue of that publication and of the bid by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios for movie rights concerning Girlstown, U.S.A., highlighted a session of the advisory committee for Girlstown which Mrs. Marene Johnson, 414 Hill Crest, Eastland, attended last week end.

The meeting was at the ranch near Whiteface.

The home for neglected girls is a project of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority chapters throughout the state and has made local news often as recipient of proceeds from several projects of Eastland's two chapters, Zeta Pi and Xi Alpha Zeta, and of gifts from Home Demonstration Club members in the county.

Mrs. Johnson, a sorority chapter sponsor who has worked energetically for the home, was recently elected a member of the Board of Advisors. She is in charge of public relations.

Ways and means of liquidating $7,000 in liabilities against the organization also were discussed at the meeting.

A financial report showed that Girlstown now has assets totaling $230,000—including a $125,000 residence, $50,000 worth of land, $20,000 worth of furniture and improvements, $10,000 worth of cattle and $25,000 worth of other buildings and fixtures.

A dinner followed the business session at the residence, with girls at the ranch doing the serving.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. Johnson, Walter W. Ross of Kansas City, Mrs. Lee Hill of Dallas, Harley Sadler of Abilene, Preston Smith of Lubbock, Mrs. Vina Meir of Amarillo, D. O. Bomar of Lubbock and Rev. Morton Stephens of Lubbock.

Other members of the board are A. C. Word of Seminole, French Robinson of Abilene, Miss Billie Og Leib of San Antonio, J. W. Simpson, Jr., of Conroe, Judge Lee Newlin of Plainview, Miss Estelle Smith of Beaumont, Perry Pickett of Midland, and Miss Elenora Grevell of Waco.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Day and Mrs. R. E. Sikes accompanied Mrs. Sam Day to Snyder, Sunday where they visited with Mrs. Mollie Morton, who is critically ill.

Wintry Weather Togs Velvet Pretty, Practical as Well

When the snow flies, little girls look pretty and stay warm in suits like these. Miniature pyramid coat (left) is in monotone tweed touched with velvet and is worn with matching bonnet. Princess style velvet coat (center) and matching hat have mink trim. Fustel velvet party coat (right) has squirrel collar, velvet bow trim. Velvet fashions have add-a-year hems.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—When mothers go shopping for coat-and-leggings sets for small daughters, they look for warmth and practicality. They'll find, this year, that velvet can take it.

Once, velvet appeared in small-girl fashions for party wear only. Now, it's still rated dressy, of course, but it cleans and wears beautifully. Further, little girls love it, so everybody's happy.

For a little girl who's getting bigger and thus takes a size five or so, there's a princess coat by Bambury in wine velvet that has real mink trim in the way of buttons and neck bow. Coat has turn back cuffs and a skirt with a wide flare. There's a matching velvet hat with mink pompon. Leggings zip at the sides for easy donning.

A small girl of size three or four will love a blue velvet coat, another Bambury design, with a squirrel collar. Velvet bows trim the front of the coat and appear on the bonnet, where they're centered with pompons of squirrel. Coat has an empire-style back and a front yoke.

Velvet trims a miniature pyramid coat in a soft monotone tweed fabric by Stevens. Curved shoulder seams and shining buttons are high style touches. Though it comes in colors to delight a small girl—Bermuda blue, coral, taffy yellow and gold—the tweed will stand up to an active life. And that will please mother.

Mrs. Perkins Urges Women To Study Trends And Strive For World Unity

She told of seeing the bomb shelters and the arrows and signs pointing to them in New York and Chicago, which really brought the war threat nearer than we realize here.
