Tension Is Easing

By GEORGE THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer

BONN, West Germany (AP) — The latest Berlin crisis eased today after both West Germany and East Germany offered concessions.

The situation was this: If West Germany calls off plans to elect its next president in West Berlin March 5, then East Germany will allow West Berliners to cross the wall into East Berlin for the first time in three years to visit their relatives during Easter.

West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger accepted the Communist offer to negotiate but indicated he wanted a "lasting settlement" going far beyond Easter.

Informed sources said a decision had to be reached quickly if the elections were to be relocated.

East German leader Walter Ulbright made the offer of concessions this weekend through the Soviet Ambassador to West Germany, Semyon Tsarapkin, who met in Stuttgart Sunday with Kiesinger for the second time in 24 hours.

Tsarapkin told Kiesinger that shifting the election to a city inside West German would be "a contribution to detente and toward promotion of better Soviet-West German relations."

The conciliatory moves came four days before President Nixon's visit to the divided city 110 miles inside East Germany.

Israeli Warplanes Strike In Force

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli warplanes struck in force across the Syrian cease-fire line today for the first time since the 1967 war, bombed two Arab Guerrilla bases and engaged in dogfights with Syrain MIGs near Damascus.

Israel claimed its planes returned unharmed after shooting down one Syrian MIG17. Damascus radio said three Israeli jets and two Syrian fighters were shot down.

An Israeli army spokesman denied any Israeli planes were shot down.

Israel did not announce how many Israeli planes made the raid, but a spokesman said the Syrians sent up about 10 or 12 MIG17s and MIG21s. This announcement and broadcasts from Damascus indicated it may have been the biggest Arab-Israeli air clash since the 1967 war.

The cease-fire line between Israel and Syria had been relatively quiet since the June 1967 war, but the Israeli army said the raid was in retaliation for a sharp increase in guerrilla attacks along the border since Jan. 20, including the machine gunning of a civilian bus Sunday.

The army said two soldiers were killed and three were wounded in 12 incidents of mining and shooting in the occupied Golan Heights, which Israel captured from Syria in the six-day war.

A spokesman said the Israeli planes bombed two locations—Maisalun, on the main Beirut-Damascus highway 10 miles west of the Syrian capital, and El Hamme, on the Syrian-Lebanese border. He said El Hamme was the headquarters of the Al Fatah commando organization for both Syria and Lebanon, and Maisalun served as a training base.

The Israeli army claimed guerrillas from El Hamme fired on a bus carrying 50 laborers Sunday and wounded one.

The spokesman charged El Hamme is a staging area for guerrillas returning from training in Egypt, Algeria and Communist China, from which "they are sent to carry out sabotage actions against Israel."

Syrian exiles in Lebanon said El Hamme is also the site of Syria's largest munitions plant.

A Syrian army communique broadcast by Damascus radio claimed the attack was against civilian targets in Maisalun and El Hamme. It said 20 civilians were wounded, including a Lebanese doctor and a young girl traveling to Damascus.

AP correspondent Farouk Nassar reported from Damascus that planes could be seen flying high over the Syrian capital, and the sound of gunfire, explosions and antiaircraft guns reverberated through the city.

The Syrian army communique reported air battles went on for nearly two hours.

An Israeli general staff officer told newsmen several hundred guerrillas were believed to be in the Al Fatah bases and he estimated damage inflicted by the bombing was "quite serious." He said the Israeli jets strafed and bombed, adding: "I don't think napalm was used."

Nixon Pledges To Consult With Soviets

BRUSSELS (AP) — President Nixon told America's European allies today that he later will "enter into negotiations with the Soviet Union on a wide range of issues," and he promised to consult with them both before and during the talks.

Nixon, in a speech to the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization during the first stop of his eight-day European trip, did not hedge about prospects for eventual Soviet-American talks. He said there will be negotiations "in due course, and with proper preparation."

The President made no mention of two crises of paramount concern to the Atlantic allies: the new dispute between the British and French governments, and the possibility of an East-West confrontation in Berlin.

Instead, with the aim of revitalizing the Atlantic alliance, he emphasized a pledge that "the United States is determined to listen with new attentiveness to its NATO partners."

To underscore this policy declaration, he said that because American-Soviet talks would directly affect the nations of Western Europe, the United States will approach Moscow "on the basis of full consultation and cooperation with our allies, because we recognize that the chances for successful negotiations depend on our unity."

He went on:

"I realize that this course has not always been followed in the past. But I pledge to you today, that in any negotiations directly affecting the interest of the NATO nations, there will be full and genuine consultation before and during those negotiations."

Nixon said he knew the allies had felt "that too often the United States talked at its partners instead of with them, or merely informed them of decisions after they were made instead of consulting with them before deciding."

"The United States is determined to listen with a new attentiveness to its NATO partners," he declared, "not only because they have a right to be heard but because we want their ideas. And I believe we have a right to expect that consultation shall be a two-way street."

Summarizing the approach he wants to take in his European meetings, he said: "I have come for work, not for ceremony; to inquire, not to insist; to consult, not convince; to listen and learn, and to begin what I hope will be a continuing interchange of ideas and insights."

Eisenhower's Vital Signs Satisfactory

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is "resting as comfortably as can be expected." Walter Reed Army Hospital officials announced today after late-night emergency abdominal surgery.

A brief statement issued at 10:30 a.m. EST said the general's heart condition was stable. The combination of Eisenhower's 78 years and history of seven heart attacks had made the surgery a decided risk.

The report said Eisenhower's vital signs were satisfactory. These would include such things as pulse and blood pressure.

Earlier this morning a team of Army doctors had pronounced the 2 hour, 30 minute operation for renioval of an intestinal blockage successful but had given no indication of the former president's chances for recovery.

Maj. George H. Foster, hospital information officer, declined to answer questions at the latest briefing.

His full statement said: "Gen. Eisenhower is resting as comfortably as can be expected. His vital signs are satisfactory and his cardiac status remains stable. We will issue further bulletins twice a day during the immediate postoperative period."

Foster presented an answer to one previously-submitted written question, saying it was not possible to determine which of Eisenhower's previous abdominal operations had produced the adhesions leading to the present treatment.

Tripleheader In Space Starts Tonight

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 9 astronauts today undergo their final major preflight physical exam while launch crews prepare for a space tripleheader starting tonight with a probe toward the planet Mars.

Air Force Lt. Col. James A. McDivitt and David R. Scott and civilian Russell L. Schweickart plan several hours with space agency doctors, who want to be certain they are fit. The trio's mission will be to circle the earth for 10 days after their Saturn 5 rocket blasts off at 11 a.m. EST Friday.

The physical exam also provides medical data for in-flight and postflight comparison.

Seeking clues to possible life on Mars, Mariner 6 is to rocket toward that distant planet at 8:14 p.m. tonight. After an interplanetary voyage of nearly five months, it is to sweep within 2,000 miles of the Red Planet, snapping pictures and gathering scientific data.

Sandwiched between Mariner and Apollo will be the launching of the ESSA 9 weather satellite at 2:34 a.m. Wednesday. Whirling through a north-south orbit 900 miles high, the craft's cameras and infrared sensing devices will look at storm systems over the entire globe.

McDivitt, Scott and Schweickart have the complex task of proving the flight readiness of the lunar module (LEM), the spidery four-legged vehicle which is designed to land two men on the moon and get them all safely.

Woman Killed In Highway Mishap

Death came suddenly to Mrs. Julian (Natalia) Herrera, 59, of Tularosa, N. M., when a car in which she was a passenger rolled into the ditch on the south side of U.S. 180 about 17½ miles west of Snyder at 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

She was pronounced dead on arrival at Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Justice of the Peace J. P. Billiigsley.

Driver of the car, a 1965 Model Chevrolet, was Mrs. Herrera's daughter — Mrs. Joe (Virginia) Gonazles, 32, also of Tularosa. She was admitted to the hospital for treatment of multiple bruises, and one of her daughters', Patricia, 12, was admitted for observation. The condition of Mrs. Gonzales Monday was described as fair.

Mrs. Gonzales' husband, Joe, and two other children were not admitted. All of the occupants of the car were taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Snyder Ambulance Service.

Witnesses to the mishap said the group was traveling west on U.S. 180 when the car began drifting off the highway to the north. The driver apparently hit the brakes, investigating officers said, and the vehicle skidded across the highway and rolled into the ditch on the south side. The car was demolished.

Mrs. Herrera is survived by her husband; another daughter, Mrs. Orlidia Molinar of Dallas; two sons, Andrew Herrera of Tularosa and Martin Herrera of Mescalera, N. M.; five sisters, six brothers and nine grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were pending this morning. However, Bell-Seale Funeral Home of Snyder will be in charge of the rites which will be conducted at Tularosa, where Mrs. Herrera had lived for the past 28 years.

More Shellings By Viet Communists

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops raked more than 50 towns and military posts with rockets, mortars and light ground attacks today in the second day of countrywide attacks. American officers said the enemy had started a spring offensive intended to generate pressure from the American public for concessions at the Paris peace talks.

President Nugyen Van Thieu said the offensive had been "completely foiled" with heavy losses to the enemy. The U.S. Command announced that more than 1,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese had been killed since the attacks began Saturday night.

Allied casualties include about 100 American soldiers and an equal number of South Vietnamese troops killed, at least 146 American soldiers and more than 100 South Vietnamese troops wounded, and at least 66 civilians killed and another 250 wounded.

Military spokesman said enemy gunners had shelled Saigon and Da Nang, South Vietnam's two largest cities, 20 provincial capitals, and 29 district capitals. Some towns were hit several times.

Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, taking a plane to return to the Paris peace talks, said he would recommend a resumption of the bombing of North Vietnam if shelling of South Vietnam's cities continued. He said his South Vietnamese air force could do the job alone if necessary—"they are ready."

Mummies Are Claimed

By GARY GARRISON
Associated Press Writer

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP)—An Oklahoma man claimed today three mummies he lost 23 years ago.

Claude Smith, a Lawton, Okla., used car dealer, said he loaned them to a man in 1946.

The mummies were found Friday among a group of items purchased by John Rollins, a Harlingen welding shop owner.

Smith, who departed for Lawton immediately after claiming the three bodies, said he plans to have them displayed in a traveling show.

The mummies, he said, were found in 1891 in Yosemite Valley, Calif., by three gold prospectors. They were then placed in the State Historical Society Museum in Topeka, Kan.

Smith said he purchased the mummies from a Mrs. Miller in Kansas and leased them to Lester Fleming. Fleming traveled with a carnival and displayed them in a side show, according to Smith.

Two of the mummies, a woman and a small child, were in one long box, and the other, also a child, was in a smaller, coffin-like box. The woman, more than six feet tall, had the child clasped in her arms.

Smith claimed his property from Rollins by presenting a bill of sale.

Says Better Wait To Start Smoking

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Young people should be persuaded to wait until, "say, age 85," to begin smoking, a Texas Medical Association official says.

Dr. Sam Nixon, chairman of the association's Public Health Committee, urged educators to learn health facts connected with smoking pass them on to youngsters.

"Diseases related to smoking have been going up since 1950 while non-smoking related diseases have been going down," he said.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the lady who has been married for 21 years, and still calls her husband every day at work just to say, "I love you."

You said, "Who knows? After he leaves for work, one of us may not live thru the day." Well, I have news for you.

It won't hurt any less if he dies five minutes after you've called him at work than if he dies five hours after you parted in the morning.

Besides, multiply your call by 40 or 50 other calls from wives, and it adds up to a lot of the telephone operator's time. Not to mention tying up the lines.

Also, I have been with the same firm for 35 years, and I've found that the men whose wives are always calling them are seldom called up for promotions. And you may use my name. I don't care who knows it.

DOROTHY UEHLEIN, L. A., CAL.

DEAR ABBY: I cried when I read the letter in your column from that woman who called her husband every day just to tell him she loved him. It was the most beautiful thing I have ever read.

N. G. L.: DETROIT

DEAR ABBY: I think it's lovely that a wife, after 21 years of marriage, still calls her husband every day at work just to say, "I love you." But maybe she should look at it from another point of view.

Perhaps one day she will have an emergency at home and REALLY need to talk to her husband in a hurry. What will she do if she calls and gets a busy signal because all the lines going into the company are busy with wives calling their husbands to say, "I love you"?

Also most companies have a limited number of lines, and in all fairness to the "hand that feeds her" those lines should be kept open for company business.

SWITCHBOARD OPERATOR

DEAR ABBY: I was so touched by something I read in your column, I decided to try it, so I called up my husband at work and said, "Honey, I love you."

Know what HE said? "Gee, do I have to lock up the liquor when I go to work?"

Very truly yours, HARRIET

DEAR ABBY: I've been on the same switchboard for 19 years and I can tell you that the married men who work here are not bothered by their WIVES so much. It's their GIRLFRIENDS who call them. I don't have time to listen, but I've got about 10 bosses who are called five or six times every day by a "Miss Jones" or a "Miss Smith." You'd think these stupid women would use a little more imagination.

If you publish this letter, please don't use my name or company. I'd like to continue working here a little longer.

"BROWN EYES"

DEAR ABBY: I am furious. What a slap in the face one of your readers gave us PBX operators!

I've been at the switchboard of my company for six years and I wish I had a dime for every time I've had to drop everything and try to locate some employe so his wife can tell him to stop on the way home and bring home a loaf of bread. And if she's calling just to say, "I love you," that's worse yet. She has from 5:50 p.m. until 7:30 a.m. to tell him that.

'Toy' Pistol Turns Tables

DETROIT (AP) —A "toy" turned the tables on two thugs last weekend.

The "toy", that turned out to be a real .22 caliber pistol, was dropped by one of two teenagers who tried to snatch Mrs. Irene Wolski's purse Saturday afternoon.

She picked up the gun—"I always thought a gun was big," she said—found it was real and took careful aim at one of the fleeing bandits.

She missed.

Mrs. Wolski, 40 and the mother of two, was waiting for her husband after work, decided to walk the route he always drives, then was jumped by the two hoodlums.

"I just started shaking and crying then and my husband finally came along," she said. "But I still had my purse."

It contained $3.

Trinity Has Best Chance

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Lamar Tech Cardinals could keep Trinity from clinching the Southland Conference basketball title outright, by defeating Arkansas State tonight.

But Trinity, ranked fifth in the Associated Press small college basketball poll, could win it anyway if it defeats Abilene Christian Saturday night.

Trinity cinched a tie for the crown Saturday night when it dumped scrappy Arkansas State 90-87. Trinity now is 6-1 in SLC play and Lamar Tech is second at 4-2.

Lamar Tech didn't play any league games last week but bowed to Southwestern Louisiana 85-74 and to Houston, 95-71. Tech, which won 15 straight this season before losing, now is 17-4.

Abilene Christian, in the SLC cellar, upset the University of Texas at Arlington, 83-75 Saturday for the Wildcats' first conference victory against four losses.

There are early visual symptoms to sound a trouble alarm for your rose bushes. Watch the leaves carefully.

Healthy rose bushes generally will have glossy green leaves with well-defined veins.

The Minnesota Rose Society has prepared a trouble and treatment chart:

Foliage and veins pale green color. Weak spindly stems. Small flowers. Starts at bottom of plant and translocates. Poor growth.

ON THE HOUSE

Don't let anyone advise you on whether to buy an old or a new house unless he knows, down to the last detail, what it is you want in a home.

Like almost everything else you buy that requires you to make a choice, there are advantages and disadvantages to both new and old houses. Once you match those advantages and disadvantages to the hings that are most important to your family, you are in a position to decide the kind of house to purchase.

A new house will give you the virtues of new construction materials and building techniques. The plumbing fixtures will be easier to operate and are likely to cause you no trouble for many years to come. You can choose room arrangements that suit your own taste rather than those of a previous owner. And the chances are that your maintenance costs will be minimal for some time.

But — if the development is in a new or growing neighborhood, your taxes may increase every year as schools and other facilities are built. And it will be quite a while before your landscaping is arranged the way you want it. Also, you risk the possibility that the neighborhood will change in character in the years ahead.

An old house will include a number of extras that would have cost you a considerable sum had you added them to a new home. The chances are the landscaping has been done and will need only the usual attention. If it's a settled neighborhood and has been that way for a number of years, it is not likely to change.

But — you'll have to put aside a certain amount of money every year for repairs. The decor may not suit you and it will cost you money to redecorate. And, since lending institutions will give you a larger mortgage on a new house, you will have to make a larger down payment to swing the transaction on an old house.

The purchaser who isn't quite sure whether he wants a new or old house will be wise to look at both kinds. Usually, he will find that he gets more in an old house for the same amount of money. But — to a woman especially — this may not be as important as life in a new house, where everything is sparkling clean and where there are modern improvements designed for what is known as gracious living.

Should you us a real estate broker to assist you in finding the right house? If you decide a new house, you don't need a broker. If an old house, you're usually better off to have one. Once you outline your requirements and desires to him, he can save you a lot of time and trouble by showing you only houses which fit somewhere into that category.

QUESTION: There is a metal door leading from our basement to our garage. There is a considerable space — about three inches — from the bottom of the door to the concrete threshold under it. My wife insists that I close up that space because of the possibility that rodents may crawl into the basement.

I'm afraid it would be too much trouble trying to attach a metal or rubber strip to the bottom of the door — or to put a wooden saddle on the concrete. Is there any other solution?

ANSWER: There's really no sound reason why you can't do either of the two things you think would be too much trouble. The use of screws made especially for use in metal or of so-called concrete nails would enable you to solve the problem. However, if you still think you would not like to tackle it, why not build up the concrete until it reaches the bottom of the door.

Use a ready-mixed concrete or sand mix, to which only water need be added. In applying the mixture, smooth it so there is a slight crown at the joint where it meets the bottom of the door. Use only enough water to make the mixture workable, otherwise the addition will crumble or flake later on. After it has set for several hours, sprinkle it with water — and repeat this sprinkling twice a day for five or six days.

QUESTION: I used shellac on a coffee table about three years ago. It is getting kind of seedy in appearance and I would like to refinish it. Can I use varnish right over the shellac? And will I have to take off the old finish?

ANSWER: Most varnishes can be used over shellac. Read the label on the container of the varnish you buy. Sand the old shellac to remove any gloss. Apply two coats of varnish. Is it possible that the word "seedy" in this case merely means dirty If so, wiping with turpentine may be all that is needed.

Enemy Shelling Is Expected To Prompt US Retaliation

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The enemy bombardment of South Vietnamese cities is expected to bring U.S. recommendations for some kind of retaliation against North Vietnam, perhaps selective resumption of bombing.

It is known that military officials regard the widespread shelling, and use of rockets and mortars as a breach of understandings under which the United States agreed to stop all bombing of the North last Oct. 31.

But pending a presidential decision, the Pentagon declined all comment and officials refused to discus the situation.

The keynote to the U.S. attitude probably was sounded by a Nixon administration source now in Europe who said Sunday that authorities were "not going to do anything precipitiously."

Before leaving for his European trip, President Nixon said the "key word is shelling," because if this has happened "it requires some action on our part."

Reports from Vietnam tell of shelling and other bombardment of more than 125 cities, towns and allied bases, including volleys of rockets fired into Saigon, as well as some ground attacks.

Action could range all the way from stern U.S. warnings to the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong about the possible breakdown of the Paris peace talks to resumed bombing of North Vietnam on the scale before halt, or on a larger scale.

With U.S. public opinion in mind, Nixon can hardly dismiss the offensive, although he could play down its importance.

If he moved to resume the bombing, he would risk a break off in the Paris peace talks.

That could well put the war back where it was last year—something the new president almost certainly wants to avoid.

Government sources speculated that the city bombardment was timed to embarrass Nixon as he opens his much heralded visit to European capitals.

Also, some officials believe the enemy move is designed to disrupt the pacification program and to try to demonstrate that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong still represent a tough military problem in South Vietnam.

Military men here sound confident that any concerted both Vietnamese and Viet Cong ground offensive would be crushed with heavy enemy casualties.

At the time the bombing was halted high ranking U.S. officials made it clear that the North Vietnamese understood that in exchange they were not to "abuse" the demilitarized zone or to shell South Vietnamese communities.

"We made it clear to them that the peace talks could go on only so long as they observed the DMZ and refrain from shelling the cities," one ranking official said the night the bombing of North Vietnam was ordered stopped.

Almost from the beginning of the U.S. bombing halt, the American command in Saigon reported repeated incidents in the DMZ area, including North Vietnamese artillery and machine gun attacks or allied positions and planes.

U.S. military leaders regarded these incidents, which ran into the hundreds, as violations of the bomb-halt understandings, but did not press the issue because U.S. forces in the DMZ area were not seriously affected.

But the countrywide attacks on South Vietnamese cities and towns are rated highly significant, especially for their effect on the morale of South Vietnamese ciilians and the impact this has on the strength of the Saigon government.

SAN ANTONIO DEMONSTRATORS

Welfare Demands Heard

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Demonstrators shouting demands took a microphone and aired complaints Sunday night before the Texas Social Welfare Association.

For the most part their complaints dealt with reduced benefits for persons receiving state financial assistance and with job training programs.

Robert Dunn, general conference chairman for a meeting which continues through Wednesday, said it was agreed at a meeting with spokesmen for the demonstrators earlier that they would be given an opportunity to speak.

Rena McCaleb, president of the Cappals Homes Welfare organization, and Joanne Gutierrez, who lives at Alazan-Apache Courts, spoke for the protesting group.

Mrs. McCaleb presented nine demands on welfare which had been drawn up by the demonstrators, the majority of whom were welfare recipients.

She called for "elimination of legislative ceiling on welfare funds" and "the end of harassment of welfare recipients by case workers."

"We are tired of so-called job training programs that train s to be chamber maids and general flunkies," Mrs. McCaleb read from the group's demands.

"We want training for jobs that are covered by a minimum wage."

The demands also urged the Welfare Department to "stop immediately these illegal practices."

The nine points included "illegally cuting people off welfare, "illegally rejecting applicants for welfare" and "discriminating against families with illegitimate children."

Mrs. McCaleb was followed by Mrs. Gutierrez, who reiterated the demands and added that the group called for an end "to forcing recipients of welfare to live in segrated housing."

Throughout the protest, cries of "Viva la cause" and "Viva la raza unida" echoed throughout the room which seats 1,000 persons and was crowded with listeners overflowing into the halls.

Mayor W. W. McAllister also came in for his share of boos and heckling.

The mayor labeled the demonstrators as "not the most polite people in the world" and told them to "behave themselves" and "hear me out."

Later a representative of the marchers, who were mainly welfare recipients, apologized for the hecklers, saying they were not part of the group which had organized the demonstration.

Steve Hunt, 6-foot-7 center from Westwood, Mass., is playing his third varsity season for West Point's basketball team.

Tors Blow It In 4th Frame

One robin does not a spring make, and three quarters does not a basketball game make as Lamesa's Golden Tornadoes discovered to their dismay in the Scurry County Coliseum Saturday night as Lubbock Dunbar blitzed them in the fourth period to score a 63-58 come-from-behind victory and wrap up the District 3-AAA championship.

Lamesa went ahead, 15-14, in the first period and slowly increased its lead for the next two frames. The Tors were in command 51-42 going into the last stanza. The Panthers then proceeded to score 21 points while holding Lamesa to seven to wrest victory from them.

William Baldwin, a 6-1 senior, was hotter than a pistol for the Panthers in the fourth frame. He connected on six shots from the field, getting 12 of his 22 total in the last period. Moreover, Allan Newman, a 6-0 junior, tallied half of his 16 points in the last stanza.

On the other hand, Lloyd and Floyd Jenkins, who paced the Tornadoes with 19 and 16 points respectively for the distance, couldn't get any points in the crucial fourth period.

Shooting accuracy wasn't the only big difference in the last frame. Baldwin also outjumped the Tors under their own basket with astonishing frequency. To make matters worse, while Dunbar was getting the lion's share of rebounds, Lamesa lost the ball several times due to offensive mistakes.

In a word, Lamesa blew it. Prior to the fateful fourth quarter, the Tornadoes clearly held the upperhand and functioned more smoothly as a team. The Jenkins twins both were sharp in the first half. Lloyd connected on distance shots from the corner five times and Floyd made three tipins. Moreover, the Tornadoes sank 11 of their first 12 free throws.

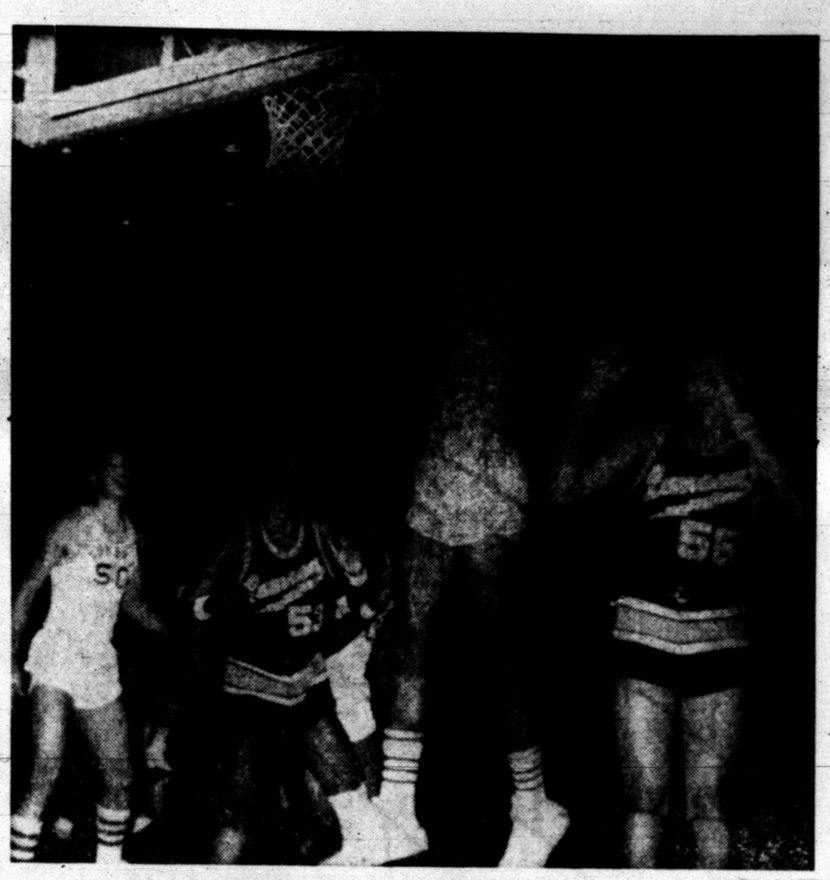

The third period, however, was perhaps their best performance as four Tornadoes scored at least four points each. They also dominated the boards in the third frame. The zone defense employed by the Tors was virtually impregnable in the first two periods, although Baldwin made a dent in it with three baskets in the third quarter.

Despite Lamesa's offensive efficiency in the third period, the Tors were able to pick up only two points on the Panthers in this frame. The Tors simply couldn't keep up the pace while Dunbar improved.

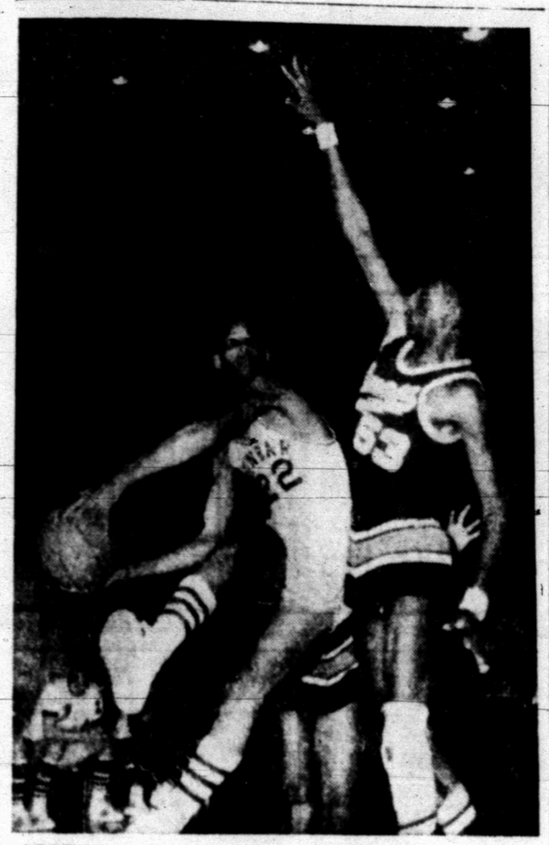

Allan Newman and Marc Wilson also hit in twin figures for Dunbar, getting 16 and 14 points respectively. Jerry Jernigan added 12 to the Tornado cause.

Dunbar will meet Wichita Falls Washington at 7 p.m. Friday in the regional tournament in Lubbock. The other regional tilt pits Ft. Stockton against Perryton at 8:30 p.m. Friday.

GETS REBOUND — Dunbar's Allan Newman (14) grabs rebound during the 3-AAA district tournament finals here Saturday night. Highland Wins 10-B Tournament

Highland's Hornets stung Ira's Bulldogs 59-49 in the finals of the District 10-B girls basketball tournament in Tiger gym here Saturday night.

Highland will meet Westbrook, regular season winner, in a playoff in Roscoe. The playoff has tentatively been set for Thursday night.

Cathy Wright sparked the Hornet attack with 30 points. However, Ira's Carolyn Rogers was high point girl of the game with 31. Others in double figures for Highland were Patsy Campbell and Lana Scott with 15 and 14 points respectively. Janie Roddy put in 12 points for Ira.

The Hornets took a 22-15 lead in the first period, but fell behind 28-29 at intermission. They took command again, 42-41, in the third period and sealed the verdict in the fourth quarter when they outscored Ira 16-8.

Ira's Rogers and Erwin fouled out in the fourth period.

Floridians Rally, Hold Top Spot

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The way the Miami Floridians are playing, they can dissipate a big surplus, then make up a huge deficit and still wind up winning for free.

That's the way they captured their 11th game in 12 starts Sunday night, hanging onto their one-game lead in the Eastern Division of the American Basketball Association.

The Floridians jumped to a 16-point lead early in their game against Denver and then fell behind by 17 points in the final period before coming back at the free throw line for a 109-106 victory over the Rockets in Denver.

Minnesota remained in second place behind Miami with a 104-102 decision at home over Oakland, the runaway Western Leader. In the only other game Houston downed the visiting New York Nets 133-121.

On Saturday Kentucky tripped Indiana 118-108, New Orleans stopped the Nets 139-131 and Oakland whipped Los Angeles 101-93.

In the National Basketball Association Sunday, Baltimore crushed Cincinnati 126-109, Atlanta routed San Diego 122-92, Milwaukee edged Phoenix 107-103, Seattle surprised Boston 118-116 and Philadelphia slipped by Los Angeles 125-121.

After its roller coaster ride in taking and giving points, Miami wrapped up its victory on four free throws by Andy Anderson and Don Sidle in the last minute. The Floridians totaled 14 of 14 from the line in the final period, overcoming Larry Jones' total 34 points, for Denver.

Minnesota became the first Eastern Division team to beat Oakland this season in 21 games by barely hanging onto a 104-96 lead in the final two minutes. Tom Washington scored 29 points for the Pipers.

Steve Kramer, signed by Houston Saturday and competing in his first game since playing for Anaheim last year.

Shields finished sixth in the century with a 10.4 clocking. A sixth place also went to Herbert Hodges, who hurled the discus 134-11.

Although they didn't place, several other Snyder athletes turned in their best times and distances. Craig Allred, running his first mile event, was timed in 4:53.

Mark Gilstrap soared 11-6 in the pole vault.

Larry Allen turned in a 44.5 in the intermediate hurdles, and Rocky Cowan went 19-4 in the broad jump during his first year of competition.

The Tigers had qualified eight individuals and two relay teams for the finals.

Memorial In First Place

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Houston Spring Branch Memorial and San Antonio Wheatley finished 1-2 in the final Amarillo Globe-News Class AAAA schoolboy basketball poll Sunday.

Spring Branch Memorial plunges into bi-district play tonight against Galena Park with a 37-0 record, by far the best in the state.

Odessa High finished third in the poll with a 29-2 record followed by Dallas Pinkston 34-3, fourth and Clear Creek, 31-3, fifth.

Others in the final top 10 include: San Antonio Sam Houston (27-3), seventh; Dallas South Oak Cliff (29-4), eighth; Beaumont Charlton Pollard (28-4) and San Antonio Amamo Heights (28-4), tied for ninth; and Fort Worth Paschal, (19-3), tenth.

Raiders Search For New Coach

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Gene Gibson went about preparing for his last three games as head basketball coach today while Texas Tech officials searched for his replacement.

Tech President Grover E. Murray annouced officially Saturday night that Gibson's contract would not be renewed after it expires June 1.

Among those mentioned for the post are Tulsa coach Ken Hayes, Houston Baptist coach Gerald Myers, a former all-Southwest Conference performer at Tech, and a present assistant coach at Tech, Charles Lynch.

Hayes said he was flattered about the rumor he is being considered but knew nothing about it. He declined further comment.

Highly successful University of Washington coach Tex Winter, also was mentioned last week for the post, but he has declined the offer.

Under Gibson's command, the Tech Raiders won the Southwest Conference championship in his first season eight years ago.

Aggies Take Another One-Point Victory

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
Associated Press Writer

The closely-fought Southwest Conference basketball game between Texas Tech and Texas A&M is in the record books as a 71-70 victory for the Aggies, but the replay of the final seconds goes on.

"We didn't lose the game, they took it away from us," said Tech coach Gene Gibson, who maintained Tech's Steve Williams did not travel as he scored a basket with two second to play that would have given the Raiders an upset over the league-leading Aggies Saturday.

"It looked like he switched pivot feet to me," said Aggie coach Shelby Metcalf. "I know he covered a lot of ground."

The ref agreed with Metcalf, so the last-gasp Aggies won their sixth SWC game by one point and could clinch at least a tie for the championship Tuesday night with a victory over Arkansas.

Baylor, the second place team, must defeat Texas Christian to keep alive even slim hopes for a title. In other games Tuesday, Southern Methodist is at Texas and Tech is at Rice.

In addition to the fireworks at the end of the game, Tech fans got in on the action by showering the Aggies with eggs, ice, cups and coins as they were introduced. The game was delayed 12 minutes.

Bill Cooks scored eight of A&M's final 10 points to emerge the hero of the contest.

Baylor teetered on the edge of defeat before scrambling past SMU, 90-78 Saturday in overtime. In other games Rice downed Arkansas 74-67 and Texas defeated TCU 64-52.

Coach Bill Menefee's Bears zoomed to a 50-38 halftime lead before allowed the Mustangs to knot it at 72-all at the final buzzer. Baylor then outscored the Ponies 18-6 in the extra period to clinch the victory.

It was the second overtime defeat for SMU of last week. They lost to TCU 87-84 Tuesday night.

Oingle teams head down the home stretch, the Aggies have a 10-1 record, followed by Baylor at 8-3 and SMU at 7-4. The also-rans are Texas 5-6, Tech and Rice, 4-7 each and Arkansas and TCU 3-8 each.

Sharp-Putting Trevino Triumphs

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

TUCSON, ARIZ. (AP) — Lee Trevino dropped putts in the wind, rain, snow and also in the sunshine as he won the $100,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament and observed:

"Putting is like a wife. Sometimes she'll be good to you."

The 29-year-old ex-Marine from El Paso, who hit the jackpot U.S. Open with his first victory on the pro golf tour in 1968, visited the winner's circle for $20,000 Sunday.

He met one early challenge and then flew off to a seven-stroke victory with a 66 on his final round, on a balmy day, and a 271-total-equalling the tournament record since the event moved to the Tucson National Golf Club course in 1965.

"If you putt good, your game goes good," declared Trevino, who will leave the tour for a week to visit his wife and 3-year-old daughter in El Paso.

"You know, I called my wife on Saturday night and told her I had a five-stroke lead, and she didn't believe me. I wish she could have been here."

Trevino had fired a 68 on Saturday in miserable weather and then added his six under par on Sunday to capture the title, 17 under regulation figures for the 72-hole tournament.

Miller Barber of Sherman, Tex., finished second with a 68-278, with Bert Yancey of Tallahassee, Fla., third at 69-279 for $11,400 and $7,100, respectively.

Tied for third were Don Bies of Seattle at 69-280, Gene Littler of San Diego with a 68, and Dr. Ed Updegraff, 46, a urologist, shot a 67 on his final round. Then he failed to sign his card.

Technically, he was disqualified, but Dr. Updegraff couldn't collect money anyway since he chooses to remain an amateur. Bies and Littler each got $4,400.

Right now, it's home to El Paso, for Trevino, and even though the Doral Tournament at Miami might be lucrative, he's skipping that as the other pros move from the West to Miami.

"I promised my wife and little girl that I'd be home," Trevino explained. "That's where I'm going."

Can Slowdown Be Painless?

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A concept widely accepted in recent days is that the coming economic slowdown will be accomplished almost painlessly.

Acceptance of the concept is understandable; it also may be unrealistic.

The understandable aspect is that critics and analysts and general observers of economic affairs still feel the Nixon people must be given every chance to prove they can control the errant economy.

Adverse criticism, therefore, is being held to a minimum while the new administration tries to cope with the problems it inherited.

What perhaps is naive of the populace is to accept the notion that Nixon's highest hopes will be carried to a successful conclusion, when in past administrations such hopes have been frustrated.

One of these hopes is that inflation gradually may be controlled without a resultant substantial increase in unemployment. And, since knowledge of practical economics is always increasing, this might be possible.

Based on past experience, however, inflation and jobs have generally been related in a "trade-off" situation, meaning that as inflation receded the percentage of those without jobs increased.

Effects of the slowdown may be painful in many other areas also. The stock market, for example, may already be showing the strain. Investors foresee profits curtailed by rising borrowing costs and, in fact, the lack of money to borrow.

Higher interest rates are, it should be remembered, one of the devices for slowing the economic pace.

The housing market, although currently fairly strong, can hardly escape the consequences of rising rates. In some big cities mortgages already are hard to get. Some types of loans automatically are turned down.

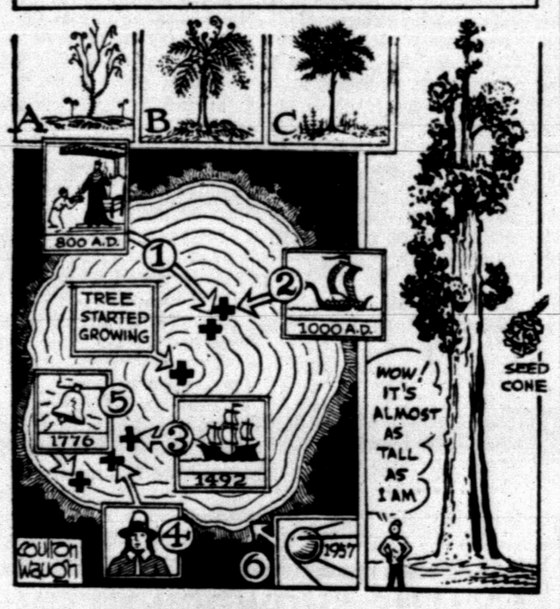

The pain may be especially intense for corporations with big spending plans, for no matter how good their credit or how reasonable their requests, there may not be enough funds available.

In fact, at almost any time now the nation's big commercial banks are expected to announce increases in the prime rate. The rate, offered to the very best corporate customers, is now 7 per cent, the result of three increases in about three months.

The problem of rising interest rates—and at the same time a slowing of the percentage by which the money supply is growing—is that they come at a time when many corporations have enormous spending plans. Expansion and slowdown may soon confront each other.

At least one recognized private analyst of corporate plans has measured a sharp increase in anticipated spending for plant and equipment during the past few months. The money may not be there.

Junior Editors Quiz on REDWOODS

QUESTION: Where do redwood trees come from and why do they grow so large?

* * *

ANSWER: Picture (A) shows naked plant, the first tree ancestor, of 400 million years ago. (B) and (C) are descendents, leading to the mighty redwoods and sequoias of today. Redwoods grow very large because they can live a very long time. Only a few parts of the tree are actually alive — such as the root tips and hairs, the buds, some cells in the bark and the very thin cambium layer under the bark. All these renew themselves continually, so remaining young. The powerful wood structure holds up these living parts and is a kind of wood which repels bacteria, insects and fungi. As it grows, rings form in the tree trunk which tell its age when cut across. Examining the cross section we show, we would find the tree started growing in 549 A.D. By the time it reached point (1) in circular thickness it was 800 A.D.; Charlemagne was being crowned. At point (2), Leif Ericson was sailing toward this continent. By point (3), Columbus was making his famous voyage. At (4) the Pilgrims were landing; at (5) the Revolution began and at (6) the first man-made satellite orbited the earth — 1408 years after the tree started growing.

Having trouble with your hearing? That might be because too much waxy cholesterol is clogging the blood vessels between your hearing bones, and it could be a warning of an impending heart attack or stroke. Researchers at Purdue University found the hearing of a number of staff workers improved after a regular program of exercises reduced the quantity of cholesterol in their blood.

Fighters To Be Improved

LOS ANGELES (AP) — To keep pace with Soviet MIG21s the Air Force plans to improve its F5 twin-jet fighter used by 15 allied nations.

A spokesman for Northrop Aviation Corp. said Sunday the company would produce about 1,000 improved F5-21s under an Air Force contract. The plane may be tested by mid-1970.

About 600 F5s and 2,000 MIG21s are in service, the spokesman said. He said about half of the Russian-made planes are based within the Soviet Union, the rest in 20 other countries.

With 5,000-pound thrust engines 25 per cent more powerful than those of the F5, the F5-21 will fly at 1,050 miles an hour, 14 per cent faster than older models, Northrop said. The MIG21 can fly about 1,400 MPH.

The United States and Soviet Union have faster planes, but they are considered too expensive for other nations.

According to a survey by the Pittsburgh Corning Corp., manufacturers of solid glass bricks, the New York City school system paid $1,013,560 to various manufacturers to replace 202,712 broken windows during 1968.

Industrial Farms Way Of Future?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Traditionists who fear for the sanctity of the family farm may have shuddered a bit last week at an Agriculture Department report on the shape of things to come in the 1970s.

John Southern, director of the department's economic development division, says farms in the next decade not only will continue to be fewer and larger but will take on an "industrialized" look.

It is likely, he told the National Agricultural Outlook Conference, that within 10 years the number of farms will shrink to two-thirds or one-half of the three million counted today.

Southern did not spell out what he sees for the family farm, but he did offer views on how agriculture will look generally.

Mechanization will continue to displace more farm labor, Southern said, but the big item will involve what he calls the "economics of capital management."

This is not a new nor a revolutionary doctrine, but when it is applied to what Southern calls a "new level of scale" in farm production, a few hackles are bound to rise among the family farm faithful.

"Agriculture, from production on the farm through all other phases, is now in the process of 'industrialization'," Southern said.

And federal farm programs are helping speed up the industrialization process.

"The four-year farm program initiated in 1965, in a very short period of time, sharply reduced farm employment requirements, inducing heavy unemployment and consequent geographic movement of people," Southern said.

"Furthermore, these programs introduced one of the most highly regressive systems of income payments ever experienced in the history of farm programs."

Price support and payments for non-production, he said, "pushed the smaller and middle operators farther behind in their struggle for labor returns and technological adjustment."

As this is continued, Southern said, the industrialization process is speeded up and adjustments must come faster.

"The 1970s will see a continuation of this industrialization process with all its implications he said.

The riddle of the family farm—whether it will survive—was not solved satisfactorily by another report of the growth of large-scale, corporation farming operations.

M.L. Upchurch, head of the Economic Research Service, said a nearly completed survey shows that in 47 states checked there are only 11,000 farms operated by corporations.

"Our efforts so far tell us that the corporate form of business organization, especially the large conglomerate public corporation has not made large inroads on our farming at the present time," Upchurch reported.

Though Agriculture Department experts are unsure in predicting the survival or demise of the family farm, they point out unmistakably vast changes which have occurred within a lifetime.

Upchurch recalled that once farmers were advised "to be more self-sufficient, to use horses instead of tractors because they require no cash money for fuel and reproduce themselves."

"Above all, stay out of debt," went the old advice.

"Farmers who failed to heed most of this good advice from their leadership," he added, "most often were the ones who made money and who bought their neighbors' land."

The famous star cluster known as the Pleiades, or Seven Sisters, twinkles through the early evening hours of February 1969. Resembling a small dipper made up of six bright stars, the Pleiades are found in the right shoulder of the constellation Taurus, the Bull. To find the Pleiades, one should look overhead at sunset and further to the southwest later in the evening.

ANNUAL FOG FESTIVAL A MISERABLE SUCCESS

OCEAN SHORES, Wash. (AP) — More than 1,500 people sat in a cold, miserable, drenching drizzle Sunday.

There was supposed to be a surf race, but the lousy tide didn't come in strong enough. There was supposed to be a crab race, but someone swiped the crabs.

"It was," said promoter Bob Ward, "beyond all doubt the most successful February Fog Festival this community has ever had."

Now in its second year, the February Fog Festival was dreamed up by local resort owners who decided the only way to get a little action in the off-season is to be a little off.

"I tell people who come to this, 'You must be out of your minds,'" said Ward, who rounded up spectators from as far away as California and British Columbia.

What most people come to see was the annual North American Mid Winter Wading Championships, which sends goose-pimpled patrons dashing through waves up to seven feet high in the Pacific surf.

The waves were more like three feet this year and they shaped up only after a 90-minute rain.

"Thank goodness the weather was terrible—a real blowing rain" said Ward. "Luckily it stayed lousy."

A junior high school teacher, Tony Pasckvale, 25, of Hoquiam, Wash., won the seven-heat event, competing with 45 men over a 100-yard course. Defending champion Bob Landstrom, also of Hoquiam, refused to race, preferring misery on the shore to the "piddly" Pacific surf.

The big disappointment of the two-day celebration was the annual North American Crab Relays featuring live dungeness crabs It wasn't.

"We had 12 of the meanest crabs I ever saw," said Ward. "One bit a guy's finger to the bone. Had to cancel that, though because someone stole the crabs the night before."

That race features four-man relay teams who pass the crabs like hot potatoes while running over a 100-yard course.

In the festival's North American Mid winter Kick the Can Superbowl, a 3-2 victory by the Ovehut, Wash., Oysters over the Illahee, Wash., Illahees was placed under protest immediately after it was learned that scorekeeper Charlie Russell secretly was an oyster, Ward said.

"The whole thing was idiotic and totally irresponsible," said Ward, who, added on a serious note:

"We're just giving people what they want."

REHEARSAL IN SPACE RACE

LEM Test Big Step Toward Moon

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) -- The Apollo 9 astronauts take the next big leap toward a moon landing Feb. 28, when they are to rocket into earth orbit for 10 days to test the ugly duckling spacecraft which eventually is to ferry two men to the lunar surface.

The American moon landing ship, called a lunar module or "LEM" for short, is the only major piece of Apollo hardware that has not been flown by man in space. The spindley-legged craft looks like a fat bug with antennae for feelers and portholes for eyes.

Air Force Lt. Cols. James A. McDivvitt and David R. Scott and civilian astronaut Russell L. Schweickart are to ride Apollo 9 into orbit atop a Saturn 5 rocket at 11 a.m. EST.

The LEM will be carried into space by the same rocket. Once in orbit, the astronauts will link up with the ungainly-looking craft and McDivitt and Schweickart will crawl into it through a connecting tunnel.

They'll separate, move up to 110 miles away, and then practice rendezvous and docking maneuvers with Scott in the main Apollo ship. To rehearse an emergency in which passage through the tunnel is impossible, Schweickart plans a two-hour space walk in which he'll transfer from the LEM to Apollo and back to the LEM again.

McDivitt, the mission commander, says it will be a key test of whether "we can fly this whole gigantic mass to the moon and land there."

If Apollo 9 succeeds, only one more preliminary flight is planned before the historic moon landing is attempted.

Apollo 10, set for a May 17 launching, is to orbit the moon with a LEM, and two of the astronauts are to drop within 50,000 feet of the surface before rejoining the mother ship. Commander will be Air Force Col. Thomas P. Stafford.

That flight will set the stage for Apollo 11 to try the landing in mid-July.

If all goes well, the men who will accomplish this dream of the ages will be civilian astronaut Neil A. Armstrong and Air Force Col. Edwin E. Aldrin. They'll guide their LEM to a touchdown near the moon's equator while Air Force Lt. Col. Michael Collins flies Apollo 11 in lunar orbit, awaiting their return.

Russian officials have said for more than a year that they no longer were in the moon race, that the U.S. was too far ahead.

Very few believed them. But careful evaluation of the Soyuz 4-5 mission in January has convinced most U.S. experts that the major Soviet goal is to develop an operational space station as soon as possible.

By joining two manned vehicles in orbit and transferring two crewmen from one to the other, the Russians demonstrated they soon will have the capability to build an orbiting laboratory. The Soviets termed the flight "the world's first experimental space station."

The station could serve as an observation platform for weathermen, astronomers or geologists searching for earth's hidden riches. Scientists cite the attractions to medical men, biologists and engineers of conducting experiments in a true vacuum and weightlessness.

A station also would fit another long-stated Russian target of gaining military superiority in space.

From an orbiting platform, cosmonauts could conduct daily reconnaissance missions over every part of the globe. They could intercept hostile missiles, inspect and possibly disable foreign spaceships and perhaps carry weapons of mass destruction.

American space officials are concerned because budget problems have curtailed plans to launch both peaceful and military manned space stations.

Dr. Thomas O. PAine, acting NASA administrator, said the administration of President Nixon will have to make a decision soon on future space station development.

On Feb. 13, Nixon's science adviser, Dr. Lee A. Dubridge, announced a new study of the nation's space program "to try to evolve a whole new space program proposal" for the next 10 years.

He said the study will be undertaken by the White House Science Office, the Defense Department and NASA. The three agencies are to have a proposal for the President's consideration by Sept. 1.

Dubridge said the space program should be balanced among further lunar exploration, planetary exploration and projects designed primarily to achieve practical benefits for people on earth.

Robert Gilruth, director of NASA's Manned Spacecraft Center, foresees the day when the United States will assemble a 100-man station in orbit. It could house scientists, doctors, engineers and military astronauts.

Gilruth believes survey of earth's resources would be one of the major economic benefits of a space station. Using sensitive instruments, the astronaut-geologists could detect hidden mineral and oil deposits, locate good and bad growing areas for farmers and survey the oceans for the best fishing areas.

Although Apollo 8 commander Frank Borman described the moon as a bleak, foreboding place where he wouldn't want to live, there are riches that can be gained from this alien world which has fascinated man from the beginning.

Unmanned probes have answered some questions about the moon, but have raised many new ones. So until man visits there and brings back samples of the surface, there can only be conjecture about its origin.

After America lands its first astronaut team on the moon, additional landing flights will be scheduled at three to four month intervals until spacemen have planted at least three large experiment packages on the surface. These packages contain a vast array of instruments to relay vital information for months after the astronauts return home.

In the mid-1970s, the space agency would like to start establishing an Antartica-type base on the moon. Russia also has hinted at such plans.

By placing huge radio telescopes there, astronomers could peer deep into space, seeking clues to the formation of the universe. Much of the telltale light and radio waves emanating from stars and other distant bodies is blocked from reaching earthbound telescopes by our heavy atmosphere.

The moon could become the home of specialized industries. For as knowledge of chemistry, metallurgy and electronics becomes more advanced, it is likely that many industrial processes might emerge that must be carried out in pure vacuum.

To determine if life ever existed on the moon, astronauts hope to visit permanently shaded areas near the polar regions. Here micro-organism fossils or microbial forms might have been protected through the centuries from the heat and radiation from the sun, perhaps frozen in ice.

But the real search for extra-terrestrial life will be concentrated on the planets, particularly Mars and Venus. When man begins reaching for these faraway places, the moon could become a stopping-off place, a fueling station, with fuel manufactured in lunar refineries.

A major race to the planets could develop between the United States and Russia. The Soviets have conducted a much more vigorous unmanned planetary exploration program and have said they would like to land men on Mars or Venus in the early 1980s

U.S. space agency officials don't believe it's possible for American astronauts to attempt a planetary expedition until the mid-1980s, unless it becomes a crash effort. If a mid-'80s landing is to become a reality, the officials say Nixon must make a commitment soon so that long-range planning and hardware building can begin.

No money is asked in the fiscal 1970 NASA budget for manned flights to the planets. But Dr. George Mueller, NASA associate administrator for manned space flight, said, "There have been studies made of what would be required to carry out manned planetary expeditions."

The agency is asking $146.8 million to conduct a strong planet exploration program in the next decade.

The series starts Feb. 23 when Mariner 6 is to be launched toward a close approach to Mars. Mariner 7 will follow the same route beginning March 24.

THE RADIATOR MAN — Frank Stephenson, owner and operator of Snyder Radiator Service and Graves Radiator Service, has a wide variety of new radiator cores on hand as well as new radiators for all of the popular brand cars and tractors. For the uncertain weather ahead, be sure your motor is protected by having your radiator checked at Snyder Radiator Service, 1105 Avenue T. The Graves shop has been moved to 1105 Avenue T, also.

'Radiator Man' Combines Firms, Still Going Strong

Graves Radiator Shop, formerly located at 2503 Avenue U, has been moved to 1105 Avenue T. Owner and operator is Frank Stephenson who is in his 20th year as operator of the Snyder Radiator Service at 1105 Avenue T.

Frank says his firms carry a complete line of new cores and new radiators to fit all makes and models of cars. In addition, Snyder Radiator also carries many types of radiators for industrial and farm use.

Of course, if you detect a leak in your radiator in time, Frank can repair it for you without the necessity of having to buy a new radiator.

"We can re-core just about any radiator you have," said Frank, "whether it be car, truck, tractor or commercial."

Has the cold weather caught you with your radiator down? Did you find your anti-freeze had leaked a little and left you with a boiling demon? Did your car motor overheat without heating the car?

If any of these things happened to you, you need to see Frank Stephenson for a checkup. Snyder Radiator Service is fully equipped to make sure your radiator is in shape for the weather ahead, hot or cold.

Frank pointed out that extremes in temperatures — hot or cold — are hard on radiators. While he's checking the radiator Frank also looks at overflow lines, hoses, water pump and pressure cap. If a small leak has damaged your radiator it can be quickly mended if caught in time.

It is attention to detail and pride in his work that has gained Frank recognition as "the radiator man" in Snyder.

The right radiator cap and properly set and operating thermostat make the difference in car performance in hot or cold weather.

"Radiators need caps of the exact pressure needed for all the accessories in the car and also to have the thermostats working properly and set exactly right," Stephenson said.

Snyder Radiator Service carries radiator caps in pressure-proportioned sizes to fit the exact needs of any motor and accessories.

Need a heavy duty radiator? Just call Snyder Radiator Service, 573-2131, and the chances are Frank will tell you he has just what you need.

Little Old Lady Stumps The Museum

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Museum visitors ask lots of curious questions.

For instance, two elderly women touring the Philadelphia Museum of Art were fascinated by a trickling 11th century French marble fountain.

Where does the water come from, asked one. A museum guide explained that an electric motor kept recirculating the water.

That's fine, said the woman; but how did it work back in the 11th century.

The museum still is trying to answer that one.

Rockefeller Center in New York has a daily population of 208,500, according to the New York Convention and Visitors Bureau. In bad weather those people don't have to go outside. One and a half miles of underground passageways lead to restaurants, stores, barber shops, dry cleaners, banks and a post office.

WHAT IS THE DOG-LIKE BEAST?

Red River Area Mystery Continues

Editor's Note: By any name, he's a killer. And while Red River Valley folk hunt down the big, dog-like beast they spice the hunt with arguments about whether they are wolves or coyotes.

PARIS, Tex. (AP) — Although there's a haggle over whether to call them coyotes or wolves, there's no doubt that the animals are causing a lot of trouble for Red River Valley ranchers.

The oldtimers in the area insist they are wolves, but Gary Spencer, a game biologist for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, says wolves are extinct in that area of Texas.

"I'm no expert on wolves," Spencer said. "But we know from every survey, every description and by actual observation that these animals in the Paris area are coyotes. They're just not big enough to be red or timber wolves, and besides, those wolves just don't range up here."

Spencer said that in pioneer days, there were three kinds of wolf-like animals in the Red River Valley—the gray or timber wolf, the red wolf and the coyote.

"The timber wolf was the first one to go," he said. "He lives only in Old Mexico now, although one or two wander across the Texas border now and then.

"The red wolf once ranged throughout East Texas, Eastern Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana, but he is nearly gone, too. There are none in the Red River Valley."

That leaves only the coyote in the Paris area, Spencer said.

"These animals up here just aren't consistently big enough to be wolves," he added. "They're usually 30 to 40 pounds. The biggest I've seen was a 50-pound male."

Despite Spencer's facts, most of the ranchers in the area continue to insist the animals are wolves.

"I've trapped hundreds of coyotes in South Texas," said W. W. Carpenter of Belk. "And these animals are wolves, no doubt about it. They're bigger and meaner than the cowardly coyotes."

Spencer said Coyotes are not so cowardly as many people think they are. "A coyote will run when accosted by humans but he's mean when he's cornered," he said.

"The coyote is a wary animal, normally a plains animal," Spencer said. "And when the woodlands opened up in this area, he move in large numbers."

Tom Ray of Blossom has hunted wolves and coyotes for 40 years, and he also contends the animals are wolves.

"Most of these animals in the Red River Valley are red wolves," he said. "I know the difference. We've caught hundreds of them. The red wolf has a short, dock tail with a lot of hair. The coyote has a shorter tail. The animals just look different."

Carpenter has publicly declared war on the animals and managed in January to trap 22 of them. His final count for his 1968 hunting was 55 dead "wolves."

Although a name for the animals cannot be agreed upon, everyone agrees that the animals are on the increase and moving closer to town. And the fight against the mystery animal of the Red River Valley will continue.

Spain's Strolling Singers Survive Through Centuries

By KENNETH A. DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

MADRID (AP) — Long before the telephone made absentee courtship easy, Spanish students had solved the problem of the iron window grill that kept them from their winsome sweethearts.

They stood outside and strummed a guitar while singing of their passion.

Perhaps these lonely troubadours wanted company or someone figured if one was good, several were better. Anyway, students formed the tuna, a mobile and musical combo of guitars, bandores and tambourines.

These groups of students toured Spanish streets serenading their favorite girls and while the tunas now and again attracted thrown objects from unromantic fathers or sleep addicts, the popularity of the strolling singers grew over the years.

The years have been long. This musical madness began back in the 12th century and continues today.

As always, even in the 12th century, the fast-peseta types invaded this purely platonic pursuit. Deserting romance, they performed and passed the tambourine for good-will offerings, just as their descendants are passing the tambourine in Madrid restaurants and bars to this day.

The tunas have changed over the centuries. Now members are bonafide students. But from the 12th to 18th centuries they were a weird combination of impoverished holy men, humble scholars, roguish scamps and rascally tramps and often a trial to the staid and the strict.

The scamps and the tramps took up the trappings of students, even if they didn't lift any books, in order to take advantage of the privileges granted students by Spanish kings. The privileges included tax and military draft exemptions, free lodging at certain boarding houses and special price discounts. On the other hand, students couldn't wear fancy clothing or gamble or patronize houses of ill repute—it said by law. Students paid scant attention. They came to be known as capigorrones, or master freeloaders, or sopistas from their habit of living on soup ladled out to the needy at monasteries or convents.

Tired of a strict soup diet, the students formed musical groups called bigornia from the anvil-shaped hat they wore and the name later was changed to tuna from the Spanish verb "turnar", to take turns.

But modern tunas sing popular tunes, mostly in restaurants and bars. In small towns of Spain the custom of serenading senoritas continues but in larger places city laws and irascible home owners make it difficult if not downright dangerous. Not too long back one lover of sound sleep yanked up his bedroom window and blasted a tuna with both shotgun barrels, lightly wounding two tenors.

Drillers Optimistic As Year Begins

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Oilwell drilling contractors say their early 1969 operations have brightened their outlook for the year.

"As a result, a measure of optimism has replaced pessimism as the dominating mood of the oil and gas contract drilling industry," said Warren L. Baker, executive vice president of the American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors.

"Despite the seasonal decrease from December highs, rotary rig levels in January were ahead of comparable periods of the two preceding years by a substantial margin."

The contractors had an average of 1,258 rigs actually making hole the first 27 days of January, compared with 1,125 a year earlier and 1,143 two years earlier.

Active rotary rigs had reached a three-year peak of 1,425 on Dec. 23.

Baker said the seasonal decline can be expected to continue through February and into March.

"The important yardstick will be whether rig levels continue to exceed those of the preceding years by substantial margins," he said. "Increased recent levels make such prospects look good."

Mid-February had 1,094 active rigs, compared to 1,061 a year earlier.

Baker made his report in the January-February edition of the association's membership magazine.

He noted that two trade publications, World Oil and The Oil & Gas Journal, have predicted that more wells and more footage will be drilled in 1969 than in 1968.

World Oil forecast 596 more wells and 3.8 million more feet of hole. The Journal forecast 137 additional wells and 4.6 million additional feet of hole.

Texas, Oklahoma, Wyoming and New Mexico were largely responsible for the January improvement. Texas had 40 more rigs in operation than a year earlier. Oklahoma recorded an increase of 30, Wyoming 24, and New Mexico 18.

Baker renewed a warning that abnormally large additions to inventories may force the domestic petroleum industry to curtail its supply growth rates. He said domestic production of crude oil is likely to show very little growth during 1969.

He said early 1969 crude inventories of 270 million barrels were 26 million more than a year ago, 32 million above two years ago, and 50 million greater than in early 1966. He said product stocks, particularly for light heating oils, also jumped.

"As a result of these abnormally large additions to inventories, the U.S. petroleum industry once again finds itself with excessive quantities in storage, and thus once more is confronted with the necessity of curtailing its supply growth rates in an effort to readjust its inventories to more reasonable and controllable levels," he said.

"The high level of crude oil inventories not only darkens prospects for any major increase in U.S. crude producing rates during 1969, but also dims producer outlook by wiping out the likelihood of needed additional price advances. The latter would have contributed to the drilling of more wells."

Truman Recovering From Influenza

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman is recovering from a bout with influenza, his doctors say, but will remain in Research Hopsital for an undetermined period for a series of routine tests.

The 84-year-old Truman was brought to the hospital Thursday night from his home in Independence, Mo., for treatment of intestinal flu.

Officials said Truman received telephone calls Sunday from former President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, and his daughter, Mrs. Clifton Daniel of New York.

The former president spent much of the day sitting in a chair in his room.

Among the most primitive of fish are the sharks, which have slits instead of movable gill coverings, cartilage skeletons rather than bone and a tough skin dotted with tiny denticles.
