ONE DEAD, ONE HURT IN DENTON FIRE

WOMAN AVERTS DARING BREAK NEAR DEL RIO

OPENS FIRE AFTER HER HUSBAND SLUGGED IN CONVICT ATTACK

(By The Associated Press)
DEL RIO, Tex., Mar. 19.—Mrs. R. S. Cloud, wife of a state penitentiary agent, probably will arrive at the state prison at Huntsville today or tomorrow with her husband and 21 prisoners who might have gained their liberty, leaving Cloud dead, had she not intervened for the second time in two months to save his life. The party resumed its journey from here last night after reporting the latest exploit of Mrs. Cloud, which took place near Marfa two days before.

Rescued One Before
Two months ago Mrs. Cloud rescued her husband and chained him to a tree while being transported from San Diego, Texas, to Huntsville. The trio escaped into Mexico, but later were brought back to jail here.

The attack at Marfa occurred while the prisoners were being taken from El Paso and intermediate points to the state prison. A truck carrying 14 prisoners in a cage was in the lead, followed by Mrs. Cloud in a small car with three prisoners, Cloud and the remaining four prisoners being in a third machine. Fearing attack, Cloud had unloaded his pistol and left the cartridges in his wife's car.

Struck Down in Car
As a stretch of El Paso country was being traversed, the men in the car with Cloud seized his pistol and snapped it at him. When they found that it was empty they struck him over the head with it. Cloud drew a knife and slashed at his assailants, but they wrested that from him too.

Mrs. Cloud saw her husband's danger, stopped the machine and leaped out, spraining her ankle and knee. Limping, she reached her husband's car and opened fire with a pistol, wounding one of the prisoners. One fled and the others were subdued. Cloud was not seriously wounded nor was the prisoner shot by his wife.

The prisoner who escaped has not been recaptured.

Capt. Sheridan Ingerson is in charge of the Tech unit.

The camp will be held from July 6 to July 23. Inclusive and arrangements are already going forward for the period. Efforts will be made before entrance for the camp. Capt. Griffith said today.

LOSS OF LIFE IN DAM'S BREAK IS COMPUTED AT 449

(By The Associated Press)
LOS ANGELES, Mar. 19.—The total loss of life in the St. Francis dam disaster was computed today at 449 persons—272 known dead and 177 missing and believed to have perished.

While the search for the dead continued with an army of more than one hundred motor tractors being used to tear through the big piles of debris, authorities in the stricken zone decided to confine their efforts only to reclaimable land. Debris on the unreclaimable area occupied by the old bed of the Santa Clara river will be burned. The huge fires will serve as funery pyres for an unknown number of the dead. Authorities said it would be impossible to put a large enough force at work to recover the bodies on the unreclaimable land within a reasonable length of time, and that with the available organization the process would require so much time that the purpose of seeking them would be defeated.

The state's inquiry into the cause of the dam break was programmed to open today. Many funerals, both public and private also were arranged for victims.

MARSH RENEWS HIS CHARGE ON HOUSTON FIRM

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 19.—Charges of cotton market manipulation from 1926 through to the present, made by Arthur R. Marsh, New York cotton broker, that the firm had dealt in at least 1,500,000 bales in future contract on the New York market alone from the fall of 1926 to March of this year.

The effect of these dealings, Marsh said, had been to "waterlog" the market and enable the Houston firm to balance its own transactions and buy back its own sales of future contracts at its own price. William L. Clayton, head of the Houston firm, had testified that his company had assembled in New York some 200,000 bales of actual cotton to "protect" its future "hedged" in that market, the witness said.

VETERAN CHICAGO JUDGE RAPS CRIME WAVE AS DUE TO PUBLIC APATHY AND OFFERS "SIMPLE METHODS OF RELIEF"

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Mar. 19.—Thirty-three years on the bench have convinced Judge Marcus Kavanaugh of two things: 1. That there are 350,000 persons in the United States who live partly or wholly by crime, who committed 12,000 murders last year, and who obtained illegally in the same period enough money to pay for the building of the Panama canal; 2. That there are "simple methods of relief" available, if only the public would insist upon their adoption. Judge Kavanaugh, who sits on the superior court bench, has based his opinions not only upon his long experience but upon three years of intensive study of the crime situation. His conclusions are presented in "The Criminal and His Allies," a book now on the press.

DEPUTY SEIZED AT MIDLAND IN DARING BREAK

BAZE FACING MURDER CHARGE IN SLAYING DURING ROBBERY

(By The Associated Press)
MIDLAND, Tex., Mar. 19.—C. C. Baze, Teague Lawyer and F. A. Duncan escaped from the jail here yesterday after they overpowered a deputy sheriff when he brought them sandwiches for the evening meal. The deputy was bound and forced to walk two miles north of Midland where he was bound and left.

Baze was held on a complaint charging murder in connection with the shooting to death of two Mexicans in an alleged bank robbery attempt at Stanton on Dec. 23, awaiting action of the Martin county grand jury which convenes on March 26.

Lawyer held in Robbery
Lawyer was under a 90 year sentence for robbery by firearms of a filling station, while Duncan was under a two year sentence for robbery.

Lee Smith, who with Baze was charged with murder in the death of the two Mexicans, is being held in the jail at Big Spring.

The deputy the men overpowered was D. E. Covington. All sheriffs in West Texas today had been notified of the escape of the three men and were joining in the search. Officers were seeking blood hounds to use in their pursuit, and were maintaining a guard at the home of Baze in Stanton.

Rangers To Aid In Hunt For Escaped

AUSTIN, March 19.—Texas Rangers Monday were ordered by Governor Moody to search for C. C. Baze, who Sunday night escaped jail at Midland, where he was held on murder charges in connection with the allegedly "framed" killing of two Mexicans at Stanton as alleged bank robbers.

Trial of Baze and Lee Smith, who were charged jointly by complaint, was to have come up soon. District Attorney Roy Biggs notified the governor of the escape. Mr. Moody probably will offer a reward.

Auto Wreck Fatal To Georgetown Man

GEORGETOWN, Tex., Mar. 19.—Will Lunsford, 40, building contractor here, was killed last night when his automobile crashed into a guard rail on a bridge near Jonah.

DREAMED OF KILLING

Dick Dudley stated at the time of the identification of the body that he had dreamed his brother was killed. Before viewing the body Lunsford described how his brother had lost his right foot for a horse bite. The exhumed body lacked a fore finger.

Shortly after reburial of the body which had been brought here as that of John Dudley, word was received that John Dudley still lived. Dudley left here about October 2 after selling interest in a motion picture theater. He says he traveled into south Texas and thence into Louisiana where he became ill. After his illness he returned here. Dudley said he knew nothing of the burial mystery until he returned home.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 19.—Fort Bend county, Texas, won in the supreme court today its effort to have three surviving partners of the bankrupt firm of J. H. P. Davis and company, made individually liable for $34,000, with interest, which sum the county had on deposit with the company at the time it closed its doors.

They're about to embark on a national speaking tour in behalf of law observance and good citizenship are these three officers of the Citizens Committee of One Thousand: (above) Colonel Raymond Robbins, of Chicago; (left) Carlisle M. Sherwood, of Boston; and Fred B. Smith, of New York.

MAN BELIEVED DEAD APPEARS IN HOME TOWN

(By Associated Press)
DUNDEE, Tex., Mar. 19.—The body of John C. Dudley, whose supposed body was buried here on Thanksgiving day, had ended with his return home, but the identity of the corpse found near Bridgeport early in November and exhumed at the request of Dudley's brother remains a mystery.

The body which Dick Dudley identified as that of John at Deatur November 22, now reposes in the Dundee cemetery. Death had been ascribed to slashed throat and the now unmarked grave is believed to bear mute testimony to an obscure murder.

Fire Chief R. V. Miller and Dr. M. S. Smith, city commissioner, of Clovis, New Mexico, were visitors in Lubbock today enroute home from the Fire Chiefs' convention in Texarkana the past week. They paid a special visit to the Lubbock fire department, making a complete inspection of the city's fire protection equipment and studying methods used by the department. Both spoke favorably of Lubbock's comparison with many other cities of the state.

Extensive work in the organization is to be carried on during the coming weeks, it was learned, concentration being centered on the South Plains advertising campaign.

MANY INJURED AS EXPLOSION WRECKS HOUSE

NONE SERIOUSLY HURT IN MYSTERY BLAST IN KANSAS CITY

(By The Associated Press)
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Mar. 19.—A score or more of north side residents are nursing minor injuries received when an explosion last night wrecked a three story brick storehouse and damaged buildings over a large area. While doors were blown from hinges in nearby homes and windows were broken for a radius of more than two blocks, no one was seriously injured. Eight persons received treatment by ambulance surgeons and many exhibited cuts from glass.

Two Seen Leaving Home
Although the cause of the blast was unknown, police were informed by terrified residents of the district that two men were seen leaving the building shortly before the explosion. It was the latest of a series of explosions which damaged homes and office buildings and followed within 48 hours a confession from a former convict that he had been hired to lead a "wrecking crew" to force employment of union labor.

The building, in the 900 block of Holmes street, was used as a storehouse by Mike Messino, proprietor of an adjoining hotel of that name. Messino and five members of his family were in the living room of their home when the blast occurred. All were hurled to the floor and suffered slight injuries. He professed ignorance of any possible motive that may have led to a bombing.

Other Explosions
Explosions in various parts of the city over a period of several months have damaged buildings. While some of the blasts were attributed to gas leaks, discovery of buried fuses and other evidence of bombs having been used, led to an extensive investigation.

In a roundup of suspects, William A. Faust, 42, former business agent of a local teamster's union, was arrested and in a signed statement told police he had been paid $250 a week by a local labor official to head a "wrecking crew." Faust said he quarreled with the official over pay that was withheld. One of the homes recently bombed was owned by a contractor who told authorities he had employed non-union labor in the construction of apartments and had been warned to hire union men.

19 Hurt In Denver Rooming House Fire

DENVER, Colo., Mar. 19.—Bert C. Hart, Denver, is believed to have been fatally burned; three persons were reported in a critical condition, and 15 persons were taken to a hospital as the result of a fire early today that partially destroyed the Colorado House, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets on Larimer street. A number of other persons received minor injuries when they jumped from second and third story windows. Among the injured were four firemen, including Fire Chief John Healy.

Critically injured are: Bert C. Hart, Denver, seriously burned and believed dying; Roy Bender, Denver, fractured ribs and internal injuries; William Capper, skull fractured, address unknown. The fire of unknown origin, broke out in the lower stories of the building at 2 o'clock this morning and spread rapidly to the upper part of the structure. The intense fire prevented firemen for a time getting close to the persons besieged in the upper stories.

Finding it impossible to enter the hallways, persons in the Colorado House ran to windows and frantically appealed to the firemen for aid. About 100 persons were believed to have been in the building at the time the blaze broke out. Many seeing that the firemen were being delayed in placing ladders against the building, leaped to the street from the second and third story windows. A man giving his name as C. E. Lindstrom, manager, leaped from the third story of the hotel and clung through the skylight of Morgan's Quick lunch. He fell into the kitchen painfully out of glass.

Famous landmark
The Colorado House, a three story frame building, was a famous landmark in the early days of Denver when Larimer street was the chief thoroughfare of the young western city. Of late it had been converted into a rooming house.

Fire Chief Healy estimated the loss at approximately $10,000.

MARYE and MOM
Their Letters
BY RUTH DEWEY GROVEN

Dearest Mom:
You mustn't let yourself be disturbed over the subjects the kids choose to talk about nowadays. Frank's right—we've got to sound deep if you want people to listen to you. And what's the difference, anyway? When everyone's doing it there's no occasion for any shooting.

I went to lunch with Shirley Wells at her home the other day. Mrs. Wells gave us a song and dance about the tough talk of the younger generation. It made me tired to listen to her because I know darn well that a lot of our swearing and hard-boiled expressions are thrown into the conversation just to shock people who don't understand us. We've been criticized so much we think we might as well give the devil chow something to knock.

If Shirley weren't always telling her friends to watch their step when her ma's having around I'd have said just what I thought, and it was plenty. But we all like Shirley and try to avoid disturbing her ma's mental equilibrium.

After lunch we went up to Shirley's room and she had a cigar. Opened the windows first so there wouldn't be any smoke in the room to tell tales. I suppose some people would call her a hypocrite but I don't. She's old enough if she decides things like that for herself, and if her mother wants to try to dictate to her I think she's a dear to pretend to stand for it even if she does have her own way in private. Some girls I know would not only get a laugh out of being bossed but they'd hand back a line of slangology that would curl the air.

And that's the joke of it. A lot of parents are afraid of a young boy or girl who talks back. The kids get wise to this timidity and cater to it because it gives them the upper hand. They've been called tough and they're going to live up to their rep.

You can't blame the kids for it. The older generation came first. It was their business to establish an order for the next relay of citizens. You don't see the freshmen setting any precedents at college nor the army being run to suit the rookies, do you?

The parents of the present generation slipped somewhere in the line of duty and now they want to blame young America. What say you?

With dearest love,
MARYE

Here are Hungarian customs officials destroying at St. Godard the contraband machine guns the League of Nations forbade Hungary to dispose of. Diversification Is Big Farmers' Boon

AUSTIN, Mar. 19 (AP)—If Texas farmers' intentions are carried out this year, there will be a six per cent increase in corn and more barley, white and sweet potatoes, grain sorghums, peanuts and hay, says a report by H. H. Schall, federal department of agriculture, statistician at Austin, based on a state-wide survey.

A corn acreage of 5,900,000 acres, as compared with 5,180,000 for 1927 is indicated, he declared.

Cotton acreage last year was decreased 1 per cent, or 2,000,000 acres in Texas, while in other states it was cut about 15 per cent, the report said, and if the same reduction is kept in effect this year in Texas and elsewhere, a 12,000,000 bale crop would be expected.

What Makes A Business Great?

GREAT businesses are but the lengthened shadows of the personalities that guide them!

Grollman's store in this community reflects nothing more accurately than the aims, ideals and ambition of the personal organization that operate it!

If we grow it is because we work hard to deserve growth. If our merchandise proves trustworthy it is because we wish, above all things, to have your confidence.

The fact that we feature popular prices does NOT INDICATE we don't have, at all times, the BETTER QUALITIES TOO! It doesn't at all! It only indicates that Grollman's store SEEKS TO SERVE THE GREATEST NUMBER!

We have popular priced merchandise and we have similar merchandise in better qualities. REGARDLESS OF INCOME we seek to please everyone. If you seek better qualities of goods, we have it for you. If you happen to be one of the many thousands who find it a real problem and task to comfortably and stylishly clothe your family, our medium and lower priced merchandise fills a great need and in every instance gives to the buyer full value for the money paid.

Certainly we do have the desire to serve the greatest number in the best possible manner—EXTENDING COURTESIES, EQUALLY TO ALL REGARDLESS OF INCOME—these are policies guiding the building of Grollman's Store—lengthened shadows of the personality behind it.

Serving all alike has proved very successful in the first year of our business—a year that goes into history as one with a striking example of modern, aggressive merchandising—one that has served—helped—pleased thousands!

BROADWAY at AVENUE J

COHEN NAMED PIVOTAL MAN OF GIANTS TO REPLACE HORNSBY

YOUTH IS HELD BY JAWN TO BE HIS BEST HOPE

OTHER INFIELD FIRMLY FIXED WITH RESERVE MATERIAL GOOD

By BRIAN BELL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
AUGUSTA, Ga., March 19.—As Cohen goes so goes the Giants seems a fair approximation of the chances of New York's entry in the National League. The Cohen is Andy, a smart, hustling infielder of 24, who is only being asked to learn a new position well enough to fill the big shoes of Rogers Hornsby, who will do his second basing this year for the Braves.

Ability Not Doubted
Manager John J. McGraw has named Cohen, who was a shortstop in the International league, to succeed Hornsby. The veteran manager declares that he has given the place to the youngster with no misgivings as to his ability to fill it. McGraw believes that the El Paso lad will develop into one of the greatest of the many second sackers who have passed in review before him in his 25 years as manager of the Giants. If the man who makes the breaks the Giants right, his team will be in the thick of the pennant fight. If he has guessed wrong it may not finish in the first division. It is conceded that no club can win a championship without a capable second baseman.

Cohen has done everything asked of him thus far in the spring preparation. He has studiously sought to acquire the polish marking the thin dividing line between a major and minor league baseball player. He has shown an ability to hit and this may mean more in the Giant camp than for some others for the New York pitcher, with a period of development at Hot Springs behind them, have been putting something on the ball. McGraw is emphatic in his statement that it will not be "Cohen leaving the park" to paraphrase the youngster's story of Pittsburgh's abrupt departure from the Buffalo park when Cohen was sent in to hit for Murphy.

Other Infield Established
The remainder of the Giant infield is firmly established. Bill Terry will play first, Captain Travis Jackson will take care of short while Lindstrom protects third. Andy Reese will again be an extra infielder and Melvin Ott, who was an extra infielder last season, may not have so far to go from the bench this year as he has been making a go of it.

The Giants will carry six outfielders throughout the season. Eddie Roush, who departed from his column of years by joining his colleagues at the training camp will play center. He probably will be flanked by George Harper in right and Jim Welsh, late of the Braves, in left. Frank O'Doul, once a pitcher, will be retained as will Leslie Mann, who has long been a source of irritation to left hand pitchers. The six outfielders will be Arthur Jahn, drafted from Los Angeles, Charles Pullis, up from Maroon of the Sally league, has shown promise but will hardly become a New York resident this time.

Frank Hogan, procured from the Braves in the Hornsby trade and approved by McGraw as one of the great catchers of the game in the making, will get his experience by catching frequently.

Reserves Look Good
Jack Cummings, a hard hitter, will be held in reserve and Jumbo Barrett, a home run hitter in the South Atlantic association last year, may bat his way into the third place. Barrett is a slugger but has something to learn about back stopping. The manager is satisfied with his pitching staff as a whole although he has yet to place the individuals under the microscope. Virgil Barnes, Larry Benton, Freddy Fitzsimmons, Bill Clarkson and Frank Henry will be retained from last year's corps. Viv Aldridge can make the figure six if he wishes. The Giants plan to have only nine pitchers when the race becomes earnest so a merry scramble will ensue for the other places.

Two of the Youngsters have made such good showings that they seem to have the better of the argument at the moment. Bill Walker, a southpaw bought from Denver and Bill Cantwell, who was with Jacksonville and Newark in 1927. Two huge left handers, Jim Faulkner, from Toronto, and Art Johnson have come a long way in spring training. Still in the hunt for the place or places are Chet Nichols, Jack Levy, Ned Porter, Jim Chaplin, Leo Mangum and Henry Boney. Only time can tell.

Buff Third Sacker Is Sold To Bears
HOUSTON, Mar. 19. (AP)—Tommy Taylor, third baseman with the Houston Buffs last year, has been sent to the San Antonio Bears in an outright transfer by purchase from the Houston club, President Ankenman announced Monday.

Taylor, who was drafted from the Buffs by the Washington Senators last year, had been returned to Houston in week-end releases from the Senator camp.

LOU AND THE RAJAH COMPARE NOTES

Just because he is a very friendly sort of a fellow, Lou Gehrig (left) decided to excuse himself from practice at the New York Yankees' training camp in St. Petersburg, Fla., and pay his respects to Rogers Hornsby (right), premier National League star with the Boston Braves in the same town. Of course, NEA Photographer Frank Merta was around and snapped this photograph of the two stars of swat. Both expect to wield a mean stick this summer.

MANAGERIAL AXE FALLS IN CAMPS OF PIRATES AND SENATORS AS RECRUITS GET RELEASES OR PAPERS TO FARMS

(By The Associated Press)
SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 19.—The axe has fallen among Donie Bush's Pittsburgh Pirates and the first members of the squad to feel its effects were Pitchers Regis Leheny and John Deming, recruits. Both youngsters were believed by Bush to have the makings of ball players, but they lack experience. Leheny will be sent to Heise Groh's Salisbury club, one of the Pirate kindergartens. Deming will remain at his home near Pittsburgh until a minor league berth has been found for him.

Eight Rookies Are Released By Sens

TAMPA, Fla., Mar. 19.—A stacked bridge deck jokingly substituted for a shuffled pack here Saturday night still was the talk about the Washington Senators' training camp today, despite that eight rookies were cut loose from the team over the week end and that six games were on schedule this week for as many days.

Several near heart failures resulted when the four players, Hopkins, West, Reeves and Hadley, found their cards fixed so that each got all the cards of the same suit. Several seven bids resulted, but it was not until the auction had started the second time around that the players realized something was up, compared hands amid laughter, and called for a new deal.

Cooney Arm Injury Still Bothers Him

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Mar. 19.—It begins to look as if Johnny Cooney had better start to prepare himself for something else than pitching for the Boston Braves. Counted on to do big things for the warriors' twirling staff, he was unable to play at all last season because of a growth on his pitching arm bone. He took the season off and had it operated no twice. This year he reported two weeks early for practice but his trouble reappeared and now his friends fear he will be unable to perform this season.

Red Sox Lose To Buffalo In Contest

BRADENTON, Fla., Mar. 19.—When President Bob Quinn of the Boston Red Sox caught a north bound train just before game time yesterday, he wasn't missing a thing. The Sox stacked up against Buffalo at Sarasota and took it on the chin in a manner painfully reminiscent of proceedings at Fenway Park last season. The score was 10-6 and an analysis of the game showed weak pitching was a large contributing cause.

Cubs Big Loser In Hollywood Contest

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 19. (AP)—A defeat and two cripples have been written over the week-end into the 1928 training season record of the Chicago Cubs. Hollywood, of the Pacific Coast league accomplished the defeat, 5 to 4, to the delight of 7,000 Sunday spectators after 11 innings of wretched baseball. During the encounter Butler, Cubs' third base candidate, was spiked in the hand, and Hesthote, outfielder, was ren-

After an unusually fortunate weekend in exhibition games with major and other minor league baseball clubs, the Texas league today prepared to settle down to grueling practice, and rookies as well as old timers redoubled their efforts to forestall further descent of the managerial axe which is fast lopping the clubs down to the player limit.

GUN CLUB HAS INITIAL SHOOT OF YEAR HERE

GERMANY IS HIGH MAN WITH DICK WHITE AS CLOSE SECOND

The initial shooting tournament of the Lubbock Gun club, which was recently organized, J. R. Daney, Germany scored high and was awarded first prize, his score being 21 out of five rounds. Dick White was second with a score of 20; Roy D. Rhodes was third with a score of 19, and Byron Brown, fourth, with a count of 18.

A good attendance was noted in the first shoot and the local marksmen demonstrated their wares as expert gunmen in the initial turnout. Next Sunday at two o'clock there will be another shoot, with squads of five men and as many squads as there are men. A prize will be offered for every squad with the high man of each squad winning the prize.

MCLARTY WINS COUNTRY CLUB GOLF TOURNEY

SPECTACULAR PLAY IS FEATURE OF CLOSING ROUND SUNDAY

The finals in the first division of the annual spring golf tournament went to L. Henry McLarty, veteran of the Lubbock Country club, as he was all on and caught E. T. Daniels, the contender, off his put strokes. McLarty won the match play 6 up and 5 to go.

Real Exhibition Seen
It is the consensus of opinion among the players of the tournament that the match, while the final result did not show it to be close, was one of the best paired exhibitions the local course has shown. On every play both McLarty and Daniels shot nearly the same game.

Only two other matches in the club were only one heavyweight boxing championship match this year, and he will stage it. His announcement followed a conference with Gene Tunney, the champion, and he added:

"Other promoters who want Tunney's services might just as well think up something else to want." The fight will be held in July, against an opponent to be selected and at a place not yet determined, he said.

WANDERING SON OF TECH IS OFF ON LONG JAUNT

Tech's "wandering son" is off again. Maynard Robinson, sophomore from McElburne, who last summer took a jaunt aboard ship around the globe, tightened his roll again today and departed for parts unknown, the Olympic games in Antwerp, being his only probable destination.

He returned to the Tech for the winter term after spending three months in travel, leaving Galveston going by Bibrater to China, where he spent three hectic weeks in Shanghai and finally landing in San Francisco in time to arrive here on Christmas Day. The jaunt was his second, his first being made to New York in the summer of '26.

OUR PROSPERITY IS ELECTRIC POWER

Nationally we have attained a degree of economic leadership surpassing that of every other country in the world. The millions who work in American factories are paid far more than are those in Europe, and the conveniences which the average American regards as every-day necessities represent unheard-of-luxuries in the eyes of his neighbor across the sea.

The economic welfare of the United States surpasses that of other nations in approximate proportion to the consumption of electric power.

But the contribution of electricity to our prosperity is not confined to the industrial field. The comfort and conveniences of the American home amazes the average stranger within our gates. Everything is being done, or can be done with the aid of electricity.

The flick of a switch or the pressing of a button—and instantaneously you have limitless power at hand to do your bidding. The cost of this commodity is computed in cents, but the time and drudgery it saves can be figured in dollars.

THE JAZZ SINGER

Novelized by Arline De Haas
Taken from the scenario 'The Jazz Singer' starring Al Jolson.
Copyright, 1927, By Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS
Because Jack of Cantor Rabinowitz, prefers jazz to synagogue music he leaves home. Ten years elapse. Through Mary Dale, a dancer, Jackie, now Jack Robin, becomes a musical comedy jazz singer. The Cantor, discovering his son's profession, disowns him. Jack's show opens the eye of Yom Kippur, Dillings, the backer of the show, jealous of Mary's love of Jack, withdraws his money, leaving Lee, the producer, dependent on Jack for success. The Cantor is ill and Mrs. Rabinowitz comes to dress rehearsal to beg her son to sing in the synagogue that night. Unable to withstand her pleadings Jack returns home. Lee follows him.

"Give me money against my father's life, Mr. Lee." Jack dropped into a chair beside the table and buried his head in his arms. "What can I do?"
"Can you do? I'll tell you what you can do." Lee stepped closer to the boy and laid his hand on the other's shoulder. "You have just one hour to get back to the theater and keep your contract with me. Come on, I'll take you."

"Why can't you postpone the opening?" Jack suggested, looking up at the producer hopefully.
"Postpone the show! That's utterly ridiculous. Lee spoke sharply. "Don't you realize that I have to go to the theater—I'm only renting. I've got to put this on tonight. I'll stall off any longer the owners will be at my throat. They've got a show of their own; they'll be only too anxious to get a chance to have the theater themselves. They'd jump at the opportunity to put me out. Every day's delay is losing money for them. You've got to remember that. They get a percentage of my receipts. That's the contract I've got with them."

"What! At this time of year?" Lee became indignant. "You've got a hell of a nerve asking me that! Why, there isn't a theater to be had in town. Nobody ever did anything like that for me, and I'm damned if I'm going to do it for you."
"You're hard—terribly hard," Jack sighed hopelessly.
"Hard! You bet I'm hard. I'm in a hard business. You can't buck Broadway and be anything else but hard. If you ever give one inch, you're lost. I know. I have played this theater game for nothing. I know what I'm doing. And the sooner you find out that you can't be soft the better of you'll be. That's what's the matter with you now. You're soft, and you're getting kicked because of it."

"Soft!" Jack stared up at Lee, his voice trembling with suppressed emotion. "Soft, because I'm giving up the biggest night of my life to keep my mother's heart from breaking? Soft, because I'm trying to save my father's life—because I'm going to sing in a synagogue so that he can be proud of his family name? Do you think that stuff I'm going to sing tonight means anything to me any more? Do you think it's going to be easy for me to stand up there on that platform and pray for the congregation when I could be singing to a crowded house on an opening night in a theater and hear the applause and know that I was getting my chance making good. Soft, because I'm giving up the only girl I ever loved—the only girl who really means anything to me? Soft?" He laughed bitterly and turned away.

"What do you mean, giving her up?" Lee looked surprised.
"Yes, giving her up." Jack said colorfully. "Oh, I know, there's nothing to do. She's like you. She thinks I'm soft and sentimental—and probably after this she'll think I was scared—afraid of the whole business. I went through hell before I came down here—don't think this way easy. But I'm here, now, I've seen my father. And I'm going to stay here."

"Say, cut that comedy. You're only kidding yourself into thinking that," Lee spoke sarcastically. "The whole truth of the matter is that you're making a martyr of yourself and enjoying it. I've seen that picture before. You get a whole of a wallow out of seeing yourself as the poor abused boy—you like it, and you think everybody ought to sympathize with you because of it. Well, I don't mind telling you I don't think much of it, and I have not got any sympathy for you. My God! If you had any guts you'd have talked your father and mother out of this notion."

"Oh, what's the use of wasting words this way, Mr. Lee?" Jack shrugged his shoulders. "It won't do any good. My father's religion is like your business, that's all. I took my chance." He looked at his watch and rose. "Good-bye, Mr. Lee," he turned towards the door. "I have to run along now."

I went right on. I was working for another man and I had to attend to my business."
"Your papa and mama wouldn't attend to their business if you should die, God forbid," Mrs. Rabinowitz spoke firmly.
"Your father and mother were both on the stage all their lives. In the theater we go on no matter what happens. It's part of our duty. I know they were proud that I carried on their traditions of what is right on the stage."

"Jakie is doing his duty."
"I'm sorry, Mrs. Rabinowitz, but I don't seem to feel that way about it. Your son has a contract with me and from a business standpoint he should keep that contract. Furthermore, he owes me a great deal—I've done a lot for him."

"From business, I don't know," Mrs. Rabinowitz shrugged her shoulders. "All I know is that my son is in his heart in love for his God and for his papa, and he wants he should sing tonight the way his papa learned him. Excuse me. I got to go to the kitchen. I forgot to light my candles."
"May I use the phone?" Lee asked.
"Sure go ahead. Use all you want," Mrs. Rabinowitz nodded as she went out.

"Thank you," Lee sat down before the instrument. "Circle 13876." He dialed the number and waited. "Hello, hello. I want to speak to Gene. Mr. Lee calling. He waited again. "Hello, who are you, Gene? I'm down at Jack's home. Go ahead with everything just as I told you. We positively open tonight. Carter'll take all Jack's scenes and numbers. He'll do until we can get Valentine up in the part. Now connect me with the booking office." He turned as he heard a knock at the door. "Come in," he called, still holding the phone. "Mary! How did you get down here?"
"Gene took me where you went," Mary came into the room and stood waiting until Lee should finish his conversation.

"Hello," he turned again in the phone. "Who's this—Anthony? Did you hear from the booking office? No, I told you to tell them we will not postpone. Jack Robin suddenly taken ill. Carter will appear tonight. Get Ted Valentine as soon as you can. He can work in every number we've got. I'll be up in a little while. Goodbye." He hung up the receiver and turned to Mary. "Harry, aren't you being just a little bit hard on Jack? Mary began. "Oh, isn't he?" Lee turned on the girl sharply. "He doesn't have to do this, you know. He's only acting childish and sentimental. He's willing to be a failure just to be able to pat himself on the back and say: 'I did this for my father and mother.'"

Watch Tongue For Signs of Illness

Your tongue is nothing more than the upper end of your stomach and intestines. It is the first thing your doctor looks at. It tells at a glance the condition of your digestive system—and physicians say that 90 per cent of all sicknesses start with stomach and bowel trouble.

A white or yellowish coating on your tongue is a danger signal of those digestive disorders. It tells you why the least exertion tires you out; why you have pains in the bowels, gas, sour stomach, dizzy spells.

And it's a sign you need Tanlac. This good old reliable medicine has helped thousands who were physical wrecks. See how the first bottle helps you.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of barks, herbs and roots—nature's own medicines for the sick. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

There's a lot of satisfaction in owning your home, and more yet in building it to suit your own convenience and according to your own ideas.
And you can put that money that now goes for rent, and make an investment out of it that will pay big dividends in happiness and the economic future.

FOR YOU—A HOME

Simple, Happy

CLEAN, simple lines and the absence of gaudish decoration give a pleasant aspect to "The Westhaven".

The severity of this rather sizable home is mitigated by a charming window arrangement—the broad front ones, widely spaced, do much to break up the extreme width of the house.

Particularly happy in its proportions is the living room, with a deep fireplace surrounded by built-in bookcases and a long wall space on one side of it for a davenport and cozy corner. For the big family, there are bedrooms enough to go around and some to spare. One downstairs, three up, an extra sewing room that might be converted and a sleeping porch that would house several children and allow great space besides are all supplied.

Each room, incidentally, takes its own clothes closet and with an extra linen closet there can be no doubt about storing space. This spacious home, with so many unusual features, costs from $8,000 to $10,000.
