SICKLY, PEEVISH CHILDREN

Children suffering from intestinal worms are cross, restless and unhealthy. There are other symptoms, however. If the child is pale, has dark rings under the eyes, bad breath and takes no interest in play, it is almost a certainty that worms are eating away its vitality. This secret remedy is White's Cream Vermifuge. It is positive destruction to the worms but harmless to the child. Price 35c. Sold by Lubbock Drug Co.

The Woman's Day By Allene Sumner

Read, I beg you, Cora Harris' "The Happy Pidgeonage." Attired in the little that the weather commanded, I sought out the under-the-butterfly hammock yesterday afternoon (it being Sunday and couldn't even sleep at all because of Cora. Here is a woman who dares to think for herself even if she is a member of the preceding generation." Include this woman's biography in your winter club reading program.

SOME SAMPLES

"In our mountains neither manners, morals, nor styles change with the changing winds of fashion. So I had started on my Happy Pidgeonage draped in my robes as usual according to the ideals of feminine modesty in that former generation to which I belong. But one of the first things I discovered in the West was that women believed publicly and proudly in their legs."

"But whatever may be said of bobbed hair, short skirts are no passing fad of fashion. They are an indication of the mental and moral evolution of women into comfortable characters of their own. My secret suspicion is that it was some designing woman—no better than she would be, probably thin-chanked or with elliptical instead of parallel extremities—who was the first long skirt."

"I'M FURIOUS"

"The same thing is true of corsets and all the other crinoline and straight-jacket methods they imposed by suggestion for imprisonment. And all for no better purpose than to afford a false stimulus to their masculine curiosity. It makes me furious to think what slaves we were to this false sense of propriety when now it turns out that there is nothing more indecent about exposing our legs than showing our noses!"

EDISON FOR WOMEN.

Thomas A. Edison thinks that it is good for womanhood that they are entering the business and professions. This, coming from a man who must know the industrial and economic conditions of the country as do few men, should be some sort of answer to those who howl that woman's presence in the "world outside the home" is the very reason why men can't get jobs and the world is going to rack and ruin.

The Morning Avalanche Menu for the Day

BREAKFAST—Orange juice, cereal cooked with chopped figs, eggs poached in milk on graham toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Cream of celery soup, toasted crackers, spinach and egg salad, rice and apple pudding, milk, coffee.

DINNER—Veal stew with dumplings, carrot straws, tomato and onion salad, prune soufflé, milk, coffee.

Even the best of families will rebel at the same cereal served every morning. Vary the kind of grain as well as the manner of serving. Use the ready-to-serve cereals occasionally when the rest of the breakfast is particularly hearty.

Rice and Apple Pudding. Five cups apples, 8 tablespoons rice, 2 cups milk, 3 eggs, 3-4 cup sugar, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 teaspoon lemon extract, 1-2 cup seeded raisins, currant jelly, 4 tablespoons powdered sugar. Wash rice through many waters and slowly add 2 cups of slightly salted, rapidly boiling water. Cook twenty minutes. Let water cook away. Beat two whole eggs and add custard, rice apples and remove core from stem end, taking care not to break the fruit nor cut through the blossom end. Arrange apples in a buttered baking dish and pour rice custard around and not covering the apples. Bake in a moderate oven until the apples are tender and rice is firm to the touch. Remove from oven and fill cavities with currant jelly. Cover with meringue made with remaining white of egg beaten until stiff and dry with the powdered sugar folded in after beating. Bake in a slow oven to puff and brown meringue. Serve warm or cold with whipped cream. (Copyright, 1927, NEA Service, Inc.)

Mrs. B. Youngblood Boosted For Post As Club Official

(Special To The Avalanche) COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 19.—Mrs. B. Youngblood of College Station, prominent for a number of years in local district and state club work and at this time president of the Fourth District, is being sponsored as a candidate for second vice-president of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs at the state convention of the organization to be held at El Paso in November.

Mrs. Youngblood's candidacy was first announced during the summer in a letter sent out by the Federated Clubs of College Station and Bryan and unanimous endorsement of the candidacy was given by the twenty-sixth annual convention of the Fourth District at Port Arthur in April.

Wife of A. and M. Man

Mrs. Youngblood is the wife of Dr. B. Youngblood, director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. She is a native Texan but began her club work in Oklahoma while a resident of Pauls Valley and Oklahoma City. Since 1911 she has been a resident of College Station and a member of the Fourth District of the Federation. She became a member of the Bryan Women's Club in 1911 and of the Bryan Study Club and the Campus Study Club at College Station later.

Mrs. Youngblood has served in various official capacities of the local, district, and state organizations. She was president of the Bryan Music Study Club 1923-24 and president of the Campus Study Club 1924-25. She was the local chairman of program committee for the Fourth District in 1925-26 and became president of the state organization in 1925. Advent Of Railroad Booms Petersburg

(Special To The Avalanche) PETERSBURG, Oct. 19.—The advent of the new branch of the Ft. Worth and Denver railroad, connecting Lubbock and Ardmore, Okla., has caused a great building boom in this little town, which now gives promise of developing into one of the largest communities in the eastern part of Hale county. Since the railroad was announced the population of Petersburg has doubled. Indications are that it will again double within the coming year.

Three attractive, modern brick buildings are now in process of construction. Ten or twelve attractive new residences are either being built or just being completed. Petersburg is located about 25 miles northeast of Lubbock, and is in the center of a fine agricultural region.

Many Housewives At Demonstration By Cooking Expert

The cooking demonstration being conducted by the American Furture company at 1114 Broadway, is attracting much favorable comment from the housewives of Lubbock.

Mr. C. K. Enos, factory representative who came direct to Lubbock from the factory at Lorain, Ohio, is conducting the demonstration.

Tuesday Mr. Enos demonstrated the making and baking of angel food cake.

Most housewives consider angel food cake a difficult cake to make; but those in attendance yesterday were convinced that it is very simple when ingredients are carefully measured and the cake baked with measured heat, as made possible by the Direct Action stove.

On Wednesday, several hundred ladies witnessed the cooking of an oven-roasted meat. The entire meal, consisting of a 14-pound baked ham, creamed onions, buttered beans, mashed turnips, buttered carrots and prunes was put into the oven at 11 o'clock and the oven door was not opened until three o'clock when the dinner was ready to serve.

Cooking Problem Solved.

Even the most skeptical ones were convinced the cooking problem of Lubbock housekeepers has been solved—that it is not necessary to spend the entire morning in the kitchen.

As an added attraction, the American Furture company, each day during the demonstration is selling the highest bidder a Direct Action stove.

Mrs. J. P. Leach, 1627 17th street, was the successful bidder on Tuesday.

Mrs. John A. Long was the bidder on Wednesday.

All ladies of Lubbock are invited to attend this cooking demonstration.

Littlefield Now Left Without A Pastor

(Special To The Avalanche) LITTLEFIELD, Oct. 19.—The town of Littlefield finds itself in rather a peculiar situation with reference to its preacher. Some weeks ago the minister of the Baptist church resigned and left that congregation without a minister. Rev. C. A. Dugan of the Presbyterian church has received a call from a church, has a call to Leola, Ark., and is leaving for the new field in the next few days. Rev. Tharp of the Methodist church leaves in two weeks for conference, so that this community will be for a time without a minister of any kind.

MATADOR COACHES PRIME FAST ELEVEN FOR SUL ROSS: COMING GAME TO BE FAR FROM CINCH

Strolling Down
Sports Lane
JAMES R. DOW

Lobos Play Crew.
Lifted among the roster of players that will be here for the exhibition Saturday with the Bullfighters, are: E. B. Brady, forward of the Howard Payne Yellow Jackets, of the Howard Payne University of the Eastern part of the state; Gene Alford, who lettered at the first Texas Technological college football team; a triple-threat man, as he is able to punt, pass and carry the ball; Captain Younger, who hails from Tulsa, is considered a danger to the defense; Fred, who is a full back, whose position is on the wing is terror on the end making some six feet in height and weighing something like 195 pounds. Fred is a sensation on the offense and a brilliant defensive man.

No "Crack" Expected.
The Major League baseball team, Hines and Payne are not expecting any "crack" train here this week-end and every effort of the fans will be needed to throw back the Lobos. From all indications Edw. Y. Freeland, director of athletics, is expecting the Teachers from Alpine may give them the kicking end of the hardest battle they will experience on the 1937 grid.

Daddy Dickinson, leader of the Rotary club drive for attendance for the game, came in last evening and reported that in just a few minutes of time he and Jud Raley had sold a great number of tickets to fellow Rotarians. The Kiwanians will put over their ticket sale booth and after luncheon program today.

Something new—something different, will be exhibited by the wearers of the scarlet and black in the game with the Sul Ross Teachers, Saturday, so says Edw. Y. Freeland. And when "Big Ed" speaks you may rest assured that he has the latest news. There is no doubt about the matter. Edw. Y. Freeland intends to put the ginger and pep in his Matadors against against the Lobos Saturday.

Sul Ross comes here with a crack and smooth running eleven-cylinder machine. It is a combination of experience and youth. It is the plug by Robby in college football. It is the mission of the Sul Ross association to put

The Redskins scored in the first quarter after a 15-yard march, in which running quarterback took the ball 45 yards around end to the 15-yard mark, and then went back to the 10-yard line.

He scored the point. Cockayne and Myers, substitute backs, Myers going over. He missed the point. A poor kick by Captain McCoy, of the Plains team, sent the ball to the 10-yard line in the third period and Myers went over again, also missing the point.

Simpson's central force completed the 10-yard march, 17 attempts to gain 20 yards. A pass broke late in the fourth period, the ball on the 10-yard line from where McCoy tossed the ball to Simpson, who scored a second straight for touchdown.

Graves, as well informed on Pop style as he is personal and intimate friend of the Alpha handler, has secured the fundamentals of Stanford's colorful play. Graves spent a year as one summer in the Stanford University and was constantly studying the style that Warner uses.

Freeland stated yesterday that he was of the opinion that Graves had studied Warner's system as closely as any man in the state. He said that the Alpha handler has his club executing the plays pretty well. Any way the Lobos have put over several victories this season by the way of the Warner system.

Here are a few of Lubbock's loyal grid supporters that have rallied to the occasion of the high school event here Friday:

Joint indictments of Murder and Robbery with Firearms Loaded Against Golden's Neighbors

WILKINSON, Oct. 18 (AP)—Joint charges of bank robbery were filed against Martin Fuller here today as a result of the robbery of the Canadian Valley state bank at Hatcher, September 3. Bailey Brower, drug dealer, was slain by the robbers.

Fuller was formerly chief of police at Hatcher, and the charge against him was that he helped plan the robbery. Foster Paul Goss also has been identified by witnesses as one of the men who robbed the bank. The drug dealer was actually wounded when he ran from the bank. He is confined here and started to open fire on the officers as they left the bank.

Actual gun-out trouble of the kind that requires reservations for both gangs.

PROSPERITY REFLECTED BY AUTOMOBILE REGISTRATIONS

Proof that Lubbock is enjoying an era of active business is given in the daily recording of automobile licenses at the office of Comptroller J. E. Hollingsworth. Each day finds the number of cars in the county increased and since October last there have been 75 new cars registered in Lubbock.

The total number registered for the year now stands at 7,411.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15. —Continuing about for a 15 minute period of the Boston Braves, it was understood today that owners of the team have reached a decision to sell the franchise to a new owner. The leader, a man with a playing, as well as a good managing future, in preference to hiring a veteran line manager.

It seems further established that Speaker, while under consideration for some time, has been dropped from the list of possible successors to the manager of the Boston team. Color was given to the story of Speaker's possible engagement by the fact that Tris always has a "day" following in Boston, when he is away from the city for years, but Emil E. Fuchs, president of the Braves, is understood to have reached the conclusion that Speaker's future, especially as a manager, is not bright.

There on Tech Field Friday afternoon, according to information obtained by the thrills agency, scouting made again; the visiting team.

The Electric line is unusually heavy, the center man weighing 265 pounds, the right tackle averaging 155 each. The guards weigh about 265. The backs are fast with one heavy man among them.

The Electric crew uses the unbalanced line with the power over the tackles, according to information received by Coach Henry Frick.

Little work is rounding the local line up for the game and Coach McIlhenny and Frick are driving them late each evening. Coach Frick is estimated that night that he would use pointed balls now if the team still had enough spots.

The letter declares that the Western League constitution does not bind its members together for more than one playing season.

Sweetwater Is Now

A Health Resort
(Special To The Avalanche)
SWEETWATER, Oct. 19.—Sweetwater, a Health Resort. That is a new asset for this city but one that may make it famous throughout the United States within the near future.

For some time many have known that the Grogan Mineral Waters that were produced in this city from comparatively deep wells, were of a wonderful curative properties. Actual users have heralded it and its fame has spread from coast to coast.

A. W. Caplik, owner of the Grogan Wells reports that today he is in receipt of a letter from Mrs. A. H. Wright, Culver City, Calif., stating that she had used the Grogan Mineral Water, and was so pleased with it that she wanted a case shipped to a daughter in Los Angeles and one to another in Miami, Florida. Last week there were shipments made to points as far as Philadelphia and Boston.

So it is not unlikely that Grogan Wells whose fame is reaching from coast to coast will make Sweetwater famous as a health resort.

CONSERVATION OF GAS IS ADVOCATED

WILL HAVE GREAT VALUE IN GETTING OIL OUT OF GROUND LATER

(Special To The Avalanche)
PONCA CITY, Oct. 19.—Conservation of gas for the great value it will have later in assisting the production of oil, was urged before the scientists group of the conservation committee of the American Petroleum Institute's meeting here today by Prof. W. N. Lacey, of the California Institute of Technology. Retention of gas in the ground, to be used later as pressure in getting out the oil will be found a better method than venting the gas from without, Lacey pointed out.

Engineers, geologists, physical chemists all had their saying today as their group, forming a sub-committee of the conservation committee, conferred on a concrete means of oil production with the committee of seven member held sessions behind closed doors. Its discussions relating to cheaper production and means of conservation for a report later to the institute.

Evening sessions of the session here Monday there has been continued sentiment upon the operators and exporters attending the conference that much good for the oil industry, both in mere saving and the prevention of waste in the country's oil reserves will result.

Under the chairmanship of E. E. MacLennan, trend of the discussion has been toward frankness in talking over the industry's problems, the oil men said, and the way for a uniformity of action and principle without destroying the stimulus of competition is said to be gradually opened.

OF PETLURA ASSASSINATION
GIVEN IN COURT

(By Associated Press)
PARIS, Oct. 19.—An unexpected demonstration of a phase of the assassination of General Petlura brought gasps of surprise from spectators at the murder trial of Samuel Schwartzbard today in the court of assizes.

Henry Torres, chief of counsel for the blonde Russian watchmaker, charged with the murder of the former head of the Ukrainian state army, suddenly drew an automatic revolver from beneath the folds of his black lawyers robe, leaping past colleagues, Torres fired Dr. Paul, expert prosecuting witness, who was explaining to the court how Schwartzbard fired two bullets into General Petlura's body after the latter had tumbled into the roadway, at the corner of the Rue Racine and the boulevard St. Michel, where he was slain, May 25, 1926.

Spectators gasped, not knowing why Torres was brandishing the revolver. Aiming at a chair, Torres snapped the trigger of the revolver. There were more gasps, but no explosion.

The question of whether Schwartzbard fired bullets into General Petlura's body as he lay in the roadway is one of the more interesting points in the trial, for there has been no question of who did the killing.

Schwartzbard yesterday related in vivid detail just how he trailed the general and shot him down because he believed him the instigator of pogroms in Ukraine in which thousands of Jews were massacred.

Torres' demonstration was to show that the bullets fired while the general was down would have taken courses different than those revealed by the autopsy.

Describe Remus' Talk With Wife

ATLANTA, Oct. 19. (AP)—The last meeting in Atlanta between George Remus and his wife, before the one-time lawyer-bondsmen was released from the federal penitentiary, was a very affectionate one, marked by such expressions of endearment as "honeybunch" and "bunch of sugar". Warden John W. Snook testified in a deposition taken today for use during Remus' forthcoming trial at Cincinnati for the murder of Mrs. Remus.

Testifying in the presence of an assistant prosecutor of Cincinnati and an attorney representing Remus, the warden also declared that at the time of Mrs. Remus' last visit to the prison he warned her against Franklin L. Dodge, former government operative who was instrumental in Remus' conviction on a prohibition charge. Remus has charged that during his prison term Dodge and his wife conspired together against him, disposing of a sum of money he had entrusted to her care.

to exist between the amount of production and the amount of prospective demand.

Should Boost Demand.
Increasing the demand for cotton textile products, Mr. Hines believes, is one of the most important branches of the institute's keeping the manufacturer informed of the demand for his product, should be the principal work of the institute, he said.

Mr. Hines urged all members of "encourage the adoption of sound cost accounting principles where those principles are now observed." The habit of "working together in these matters and of discussing them with the utmost frankness, recognizing that openness of method is far superior to any method of individual secretiveness, will vastly strengthen our industry," Mr. Hines declared.

"I am delighted to be able to say that we are beginning to see the evidence of the psychological effect of working together for the broad purposes of the institute. The central organization and group organizations all constitute machinery to be used in this organized effort. It is not only gratifying that we have these facilities, it is given more gratifying that there is a manifest spirit to use them," he said.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19. (AP)—Walker D. Hines was reelected president of the Cotton Textile Institute by the board of directors today. Stuart W. Crainer, of Cranston, N. C., and Robert Armon, of Boston, were elected vice presidents. Gorrie H. Milliken, of New York, was reelected treasurer and George A. Sloan, of New York, secretary.

Last year's executive committee of 15 members was continued in office with T. M. Marchant of Greenville, S. C., taking the place of B. E. Grover of Greenville.

Newlywed (after the ceremony): "Dearest, do you really think I'll prove a satisfactory mate?" Mrs. Newby: "Oh, you'll do for a mate. All right. Now look me over and tell me what you think of your captain."

"Talking about little bugs," said the traveling man, "reminds me of the time I was in the smallest town I know of. Why, that town was so small that they painted 'Come Again' on the back of the 'Welcome' sign."

presenting about five more witnesses. Mrs. Brooks was tried on a murder charge last spring but the jury was unable to agree.

CHANGE CHURCH METHOD IS URGED

RETURN TO OLD CONVENTION SYSTEM ADVOCATED AT SAN ANTONIO MEET

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 19. (AP)—Declaring that the provincial system of church administration "now in use, throws unjust burdens on the individual parishes, Bishop James Wise of Topeka, urged a return to the general convention system in an address before the eleventh Episcopal Synod of the southwest here today.

"In my diocese of Kansas it is all I can do to get money to carry out our missionary program and meet expenses, yet through the provincial system I am called on for my quota to help build churches at other points," he said.

The Rt. Rev. Harry T. Moore, Bishop of Dallas supported Bishop Wise's contentions. Both said they thought that many institutions in the southwest were as important as the three at Norman, Okla., Lubbock, Texas, and the Rio Grande Valley, which the report on missions emphasized.

The Rev. J. W. Silkes, of Corpus Christi told the synod that he not only favored the bishop's crusade started last year, but that he recommended that a full time evangelist be employed to each diocese. The church, he said, is weak on evangelism.

All of the delegates present endorsed the crusade and expressed the hope that it would be continued and expanded.

NEWSPAPERMAN DEAD

R. I. E. Dunn, Formerly with Several Texas Newspapers, Succumbs to Injuries

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 19. (AP)—R. I. E. Dunn, former classified advertising manager of the San Antonio Express, died Wednesday afternoon of injuries received in an automobile accident early Sunday morning on the San Antonio-Houston highway four miles west of Columbus.

He had at various times in the past been advertising manager of the Dallas Journal, El Paso Herald and Atlanta Georgian. He was also at one time in the display department of the Dallas News. He came to San Antonio two and one-half years ago from Dallas. At the time of his death he was in business of his own.

TEXAS WANDERER AGED 93, IS 'STUCK'

ADMITS IT'S A LONG, HARD ROAD TO "NEW WORLD" AT THAT AGE

(By Associated Press)
NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 19.—The spirit of the American pioneer, which caused Texas Jack Tyler to leave his native Texas at the age of 25 and travel more than 2000 miles afoot in search of fields to conquer was failing him today.

It has been more than a year since Tyler and his 69-year-old wife left Panhandle City, where he was once sheriff, and today found him in St. Michael's hospital, bitterly berating a stomach test revolted at spaghetti. His wife was sheltered in the Salvation army home.

The destination of the couple was Canada, where Mrs. Tyler had relatives, but Jack is ready to give up. He said he would seek work here and "settle down," rather than attempt the hardships of the road again.

Giant, but with sparkling eyes, the little old man sat in bed today and launched into stories of how he "taught Jesse James the art of banditry." Mrs. Tyler was there, protesting, smilingly, that the popping flashlights photographers made her "git nervous."

Tyler took delight in explaining that Jesse James "was 'not as bad as he was painted."

Air Gas Lift In Oil Field Talked

PORT WORTH, Oct. 19. (AP)—Whether the air gas lift is employed in numerous oil fields of the United States and notably in the Permian field in Oklahoma is an economically sound method of producing oil was discussed here today at the first meeting of the petroleum division, American Institute of mechanical engineers ever to be held in Texas.

One group of engineers declared the air gas lift increased production and was profitable, while another argued that it increased production temporarily but failed to get so much oil from the pool as the old pump method does and at the same time it caused a depression in prices by flooding the market with oil.

Due to the marked difference of opinion, A. C. Hubel, engineer with the Union Oil company, Los Angeles, advocated the establishment of a foundation for experiment and demonstration and a bureau of research under the foundation to study the air gas lift problem. The air lift has already increased production in California, Mr. Hubel said.

"I gave that man fifty cents for saving my life," "What did he do?" "Gave me back twenty cents change."

NORFLEET

The Manhunter's Own True Story

A told to Gordon Hines

WHAT HAS BEEN TOLD:

Frank Norfleet, a Texas rancher swindled out of $45,000 at Dallas, by members of an international swindling ring, headed by Joe Furey and W. B. Spencer, resolves to sacrifice his last dollar, if necessary to break up the ring. Feeling a peculiar hunch he goes to California where he finds two of his men in jail at San Bernardino. After considerable legal red tape his men are returned to Texas and Norfleet, following a tip from a woman traveling acquaintance goes to Florida to search for his man. He spends several days in Jacksonville without success and goes on down the coast visiting various towns until he reaches St. Petersburg. Striding down a residence street in this little town, he, in his friendly Texas way, makes the acquaintance of an old couple named Brockman, who had been robbed of a life time's savings in the director's room of the bank of Clearwater. Norfleet promises to try to help the old people find the swindlers and if possible to recover their money.

Chapter Ten

Before the old folks knew what had happened, the three thieves had dashed through a door and bounded into a waiting automobile. Another minute and they had disappeared in a dust cloud down the highway.

This is the story the broken old people told me. I have heard many like it since, but I have never heard of a case that aroused me to greater anger and determination to destroy as many of such human grubs as I could find. It seemed daftly to rob these two gentle old people. I have learned, however, that the weak and unprotected are choice prey for the swindling serpents.

Of course they had already seen the police chief and the sheriff. Both had told them to go home and wait whatever might turn up. It took their few remaining dollars to get back to the little rented cottage in St. Petersburg. When I found them they had just had a letter from the sheriff's office saying that no trace could be found of the outlaws. Considering that the theft took place in a Clearwater bank and that an official of that bank seemed to be acquainted with the three crooks, this seemed to me to be a queer report. I leave the reader to draw his own conclusions.

I knew how these poor people felt. While their loss was not as great as mine, they merited much more sympathy, for I was younger and I had my own plans for taking care of myself. They were feeble and helpless. As I had encountered no lead toward my own men, I decided to spend a few days in the interest of the Brockmans. Remembering that birds of a feather flock together, I even hoped that the trail of their swindlers might lead to a trace of my own.

I promised to go to Clearwater and see what I could do for them. The dear old folks were tearfully grateful that someone should take up their case, and the old lady's tears disappeared behind a hopeful smile. They thanked me and said that their prayers would follow me. I was glad they said that, for I felt that I might need some one's prayers.

At Clearwater, I went directly to the sheriff's office. I hoped that something might have turned up since the letter had been written to the Brockmans.

The officer on duty was seated on a high stool in a cage-off portion of the room which separated the executive desks and chairs from the public entrance. Before him was a low counter across which the townspeople seemed to be paying their taxes. A wicked oval opening framed his sour face as he gazed out upon me when my turn at the window came. He called "Next."

As cheerfully as possible in the face of such gloom as he exuded, I told him that I was calling in the interest of the Brockmans.

Did he know about their being robbed?

Yes, he knew all about it. He was quite important about it. I tapped a friendly little tattoo on the counter.

"Yes I suppose you do," I said. Then I added significantly, as if otherwise, "The papers had quite a lot to say about it."

His upper lip lifted sneeringly from his tobacco stained teeth. I thought he was going to snap at me.

I continued my explanation, "I have a little time on my hands and come over to offer my services in the search for the infamous hounds who got their money."

"Well," he sneered. "All I hate about it is that the thieves didn't get every damned cent they had and make them walk back to St. Petersburg."

This nearly toppled me over. It seemed unbelievable, coming from an officer of the law. I looked at him, dumbfounded. It was so venomous that I was sure I hadn't understood him. I asked him what he had said.

"I said," he repeated viciously, "that people who let men swindle them out of their money that way are worse than the swindlers and ought to lose 'every cent they ever had.' That's what I said."

That got under my hide. I lit up like a pan of powder. "Why, you dirty blankety, blank, blank," I yelled in his face. "I'll crack you for that."

I pulled my gun and made for the opening around the corner. He saw what I was going to do and hopped from his stool like a toad from a rock. We met at the corner of the desk, I had the drop on him. He had reached for his gun, but not quite quickly enough.

"Drop it," I yelled. "You great big dirty, disreputable hyena. You aren't satisfied with this deal, I can settle you mighty quick."

He gulped and turned as white as a sheet. My back was turned to the open door which led outside and was unprotected from behind. When I realized my awkward position, I wondered how I might change it. Then I heard footsteps behind me. I was in a peach of a way to get popped in the back. I couldn't turn as I wanted to.

"Don't get excited! I'm not a hijacker. This dirty coward has insulted a good old woman and I'm making him eat his words."

He evidently could see who was coming. He started muttering and mumbling.

"You—you—misunderstood me—I didn't mean—" he spoke as softly as he could, as if trying to keep the others from overhearing. "Well you didn't misunderstand what I said, did you?"

"No, I—I got you," he mumbled nervously.

I could see that there was no hope for the Brockmans from this source. What I was wasting time. I backed up against the wall to see who was behind me.

"That's all right stranger," said a friendly voice and there stood four men grinning from ear to ear and giving the discomfited officer the horse laugh. I distinctly felt four silent messages of congratulation and was considerably relieved. I replaced my gun and left the office.

After this experience I felt encouraged in the thought that the three wolves who fleeced the Brockmans probably fled safe with the local officers and, therefore, might not be far away. I could scout around a while.

After several hours of snooping around, I knew no more than I had at the beginning. With no chance of getting co-operation from the officers, I decided, it would not be worth while to waste time here. I hailed a passing car back to St. Petersburg and went, reluctantly, to tell the old people of my fruitless effort.

It was beautiful to see the faith of these people in the efficacy of prayer. They certainly placed more confidence in the Almighty's ability to recover that little brown bag than they did in the police department. They showed rare good judgment.

Strangely—to me—they never failed to include the thieves in their daily prayers.

I hadn't the heart to tell them of my experience in the sheriff's office or of the slight chance they had of ever finding the men who had robbed them. I simply told them that I had investigated the matter and that, so far, nothing was known of the swindlers. I assured them that I would keep their case in mind and try to help them while I was attending to my own business.

They armored me with prayers and I left them, wondering what the future might hold for them.

On the way to my hotel I stopped in front of a garage and watched a red-headed young mechanic change a tire on a big touring car. I had to admire his efficient and methodical work. Quite a contrast to my clumsy struggles with flats in the hot dusty roads of the plains country. He knew his business and interested me a great deal. When he had finished, the driver of the big car slipped a five-dollar bill into his careless paw. The boy gave it a careless look and stuffed it into his overalls. Five dollars was apparently very little in his young life.

"Some car, isn't it?" I remarked to him, as the car sped down the highway.

"Yeah, pretty classy bus," was his rejoinder.

I remarked that tips grew to quite a healthy size in the warm climate. He grinned and wiping away the perspiration, grew thoughtful. He was watching the departing car and I wondered what he was thinking. Then he spoke, half to himself.

"I'm gettin' so that whenever I see a flashy dressed guy, in a whiz of a bus, I am dog-goned sure everything ain't as pretty as it looks."

The kid had had some experiences beside automobile repairing. I thought.

"How come? What're you driving at?" I asked, in something like his own vernacular.

He glanced at me suspiciously. "Oh—nothing," he he took up his tools and began arranging them in order.

I chatted a while with him and he warmed slightly. Then he made another odd remark.

"There's lots of funny things goes on here these days," he drawled. "The crookedest you are the more you get."

I wondered what was going on in his mind. He wasn't telling everything. Perhaps it was a mental battle as to whether he would take up as easy a way to get by.

"You mean such things as the robbing of the Brockmans?" I counted on his knowing about it.

"Oh, that—those birds don't need to worry. They know the bulls won't bother them. Believe me, if I was over on the force I'd know where to land a mess of them high-flying purse-snatchers. I ain't worked in St. Augustine for nothin'."

I fell into a long conversation with him. He confided to me that he knew the haunts of many of the bunco rings. He told me, among other things, of a garage in St. Augustine, where many of them stopped for gas and oil.

He explained that the garage he mentioned was located on the west side of the river, close to a little bridge, which all motorists must cross to reach the country club which nestled in a cloistering forest of tropical growth, a short distance from the road.

As We Grow Older

PROPER KIDNEY ACTION IS MORE THAN EVER IMPORTANT

As we grow older, there is apt to be a gradual slowing up of bodily functions.

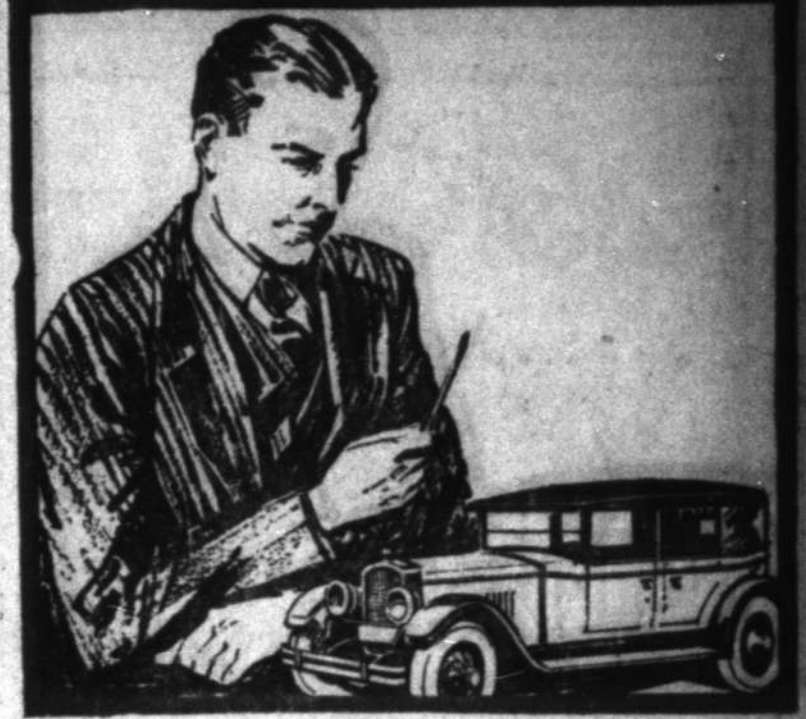

The kidneys are the blood filters. If their action becomes sluggish they do not thoroughly cleanse the blood of poisonous wastes. This tends to make one tired and achy, with often nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizziness. A common symptom of imperfect kidney action is scanty or burning excretions.

Elderly people recommend Doan's Pills. This tested diuretic is endorsed the country over. Ask your neighbor!

"How best can I trade in my present car for a new car?"

WHEN you are ready to trade in your present car for a new car, you naturally want full value for your present car. But most of all you want full new car value.

It will therefore pay you to consider varying trade-in allowance offers in the light of these basic facts:

- 1 Your present car has only one fundamental basis of value: i.e., what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.
- 2 Your present car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.
- 3 The largest allowance offered is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; sometimes it is not.
- 4 An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.
- 5 First judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your present car.
- 6 Remember that you are making a purchase—not a sale. You are buying a new car and simply using your present car as a credit against the new car's purchase price.

and NOW WINTER CONOCO ETHYL GASOLINE

Science offers the Ideal Fuel for cold weather driving

A FUEL that starts quickly—without excessive use of the choke—then follows through by delivering smooth sustained power. That's what science offers you in Winter Conoco Ethyl Gasoline. This ideal cold weather fuel was produced through the combined efforts of the Continental Oil Company's refinery experts and the engineers of the General Motors Research Laboratories. It is the fuel which recognizes no competition in meeting the present needs of the motoring public.

Winter Conoco Ethyl Gasoline delivers everything which you have a right to expect from your motor fuel—power, rapid acceleration, less gear shifting, better hill climbing and no knocks. In fact, the development of Ethyl Gasoline has made possible the new high compression automobiles. Winter Conoco Ethyl Gasoline performs perfectly under high compression whether that condition exists through the increasing of the compression ratio by the motor car manufacturer or through the natural formation of carbon deposits in the cylinders.

So why not get all the benefits of high compression? Why not sail along for smooth knockless miles behind a sweet purring motor? Why not save dollars in repair bills by spending a few extra pennies for this supreme winter gasoline?

For remember this special winter fuel costs only 3c more per gallon than regular Conoco Gasoline.

Ask for it wherever you see the Conoco Sign.

TALLEY WILL BE OUSTED, BELIEF

BANKERS HERE ECHO VOTE EXPRESSED AT ABILENE MEETING TUESDAY

Eventual removal of Lynn P. Talley as district governor of the 11th federal reserve district, was predicted yesterday as the echo which will ultimately reverberate over Texas, as the result of the widespread endorsement being given by Texas bankers to the movement initiated at the meeting of South Plains bankers here recently.

The most recent call for his removal was sounded at Abilene Tuesday when 25 Central West Texas bankers expressed their sentiment through resolutions.

Lubbock bankers believe that the removal of the office by Talley is bound to come. F. A. Norman of the Citizens National bank here declared yesterday that while there was no personal feeling held by anyone against Talley his policies were so detrimental to the county banks, and his views so out of line with those held by other bankers that he should be replaced by some one more in accord with the members.

Sentiment against Talley will spread over the district and is bound to result in his removal, O. E. Slaton declared as his belief. Mr. Slaton is president of the First National bank.

C. E. Muegen, president of the Citizens bank had no comment in regard to the Abilene meeting, except to say that it was similar to the one held here and to voice the belief that Talley's days were numbered.

2444 Are Enrolled In A. & M. School

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 19.—Enrollment in the A. and M. college of Texas for the current academic year, totaled 2444 on October 10, as compared with 2320 on the same date last year, according to an announcement just issued from the office of the registrar. This shows a gain of 124 over the total on corresponding date last year. The enrollment on October 10, 1925, was 2394.

The total of 2444 enrolled on October 10 this year, was divided by classes as follows: Freshmen 1005, sophomores 654, juniors 391, seniors 397, graduate students 58, special students 24, students in two year course in agriculture 5.

Pecan Growers To Meet At San Saba During November

(Special To The Avalanche)

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 19.—Designed as a purely educational event, the first National Pecan Show, to be held at San Saba, November 8-9, promises not only to bring together some of the finest exhibits of pecans in this country but to help materially in bringing about a recognition among pecan growers of the interests they have in common. Dean E. J. Kyle of the school of agriculture, A. and M. college of Texas, who is president of the show, has pointed out in commenting upon preparations for the coming exposition.

Cash prizes representing in the aggregate a considerable sum have been hung up for various classes of exhibits. A regional prize of $250 is offered for the best and most representative display assembled and shown under the auspices of chamber of commerce representing West, East and South Texas. Another prize of $250 has been offered for the best sectional exhibit from any recognized pecan growing section of the United States. County, individual and numerous other cash prizes have been offered and winners will also be awarded certificates and ribbons.

"It is eminently fitting that the people of San Saba should sponsor the first National Pecan Show," said Dean Kyle. "San Saba county is the center of the greatest native pecan producing section in the world. The show to be held there November 8-9 is designed as purely an educational event. It is felt that a pecan show displaying representative pecans from every section of the United States where pecans are grown will have a crystallizing influence on the commercial pecan industry."

Funeral Held For Aged Woman Here

Funeral services were conducted yesterday afternoon from the Rix Funeral parlors for Mrs. Emmaline Perry, aged 85, who died Tuesday night at her home in Lubbock. She had been a resident of the city for several years.

Officiating at the funeral was Rev. Todd, pastor of the Nineteenth street Baptist church. Surviving are three sons, one of whom W. T. Perry, is a Lubbock resident.

Allege Trespass On Land By Cattle

(Special To The Avalanche)

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 19.—Virtually the entire student body of A. and M. college will go to Fort Worth on October 22, on what has been officially designated as this year's cadet corps trip. In keeping with custom at the college, the cadets are granted one corps trip a year, this being as a rule to attend one of the conference football games. This year the Fort Worth trip has been designated, the attraction being the game there between the Texas Aggies and the Horned Frogs of Texas Christian university.

President T. O. Walton and Lt. Col. Charles J. Nelson, commandants of cadets, as well as a large number of other faculty representatives and campus residents, will accompany the student body. Many residents of Bryan are expected to go also.

Four special trains operated by the Southern Pacific will carry the cadets and others to Fort Worth and back, special low rates for the trip having been granted. On arrival in Fort Worth the cadets will stage a parade through the business section. This is expected to begin about 11 o'clock.

Suit On Note Is Filed In Court

Suit for a total of $1070, on a promissory note, including $470 in damages was filed in the Seventy-second district court here yesterday by the Cleora Smith Lumber company of Tarrant county against John Gelin of Midland county.

Two divorce suits, one in the seventy-second and one in the ninety-ninth district courts were also filed yesterday.

Growing out of alleged trespass by cattle belonging to J. E. Johnson on land owned by F. E. Knox, suit has been entered in county court. Taking of testimony in the case was started yesterday. Knox alleged the cattle ate part of the feed crop on his land.
