All Snyder classes will be dismissed at 2:30 p.m. Monday to allow local teachers to hear his address.

The Texas Senate confirmed Bynum as Texas Commissioner of Education in June of 1981. In this post, he heads the Texas Education Agency, the state entity which administers policies set down by the Texas State Board of Education.

He joined the TEA in 1975, serving as associate commissioner for financial allocations and later deputy commissioner for administrative services.

He began his public school career as a coach and math teacher in 1950 in the Mineola and Mabank school districts. He was a member of the Richardson Independent School District staff for 22 years, serving as deputy superintendent for finance.

He is married to the former Mary Esther Paquet of El Paso, and they have three children, Kathy, Susan and Les.

who was alone outside his car at a gas station, and identified themselves, according to a police statement issued late Friday in Concord, N.H.

Wilder then dove into his car, reaching for a .357 magnum in the glove compartment, according to the statement. Trooper Leo Jellison dove into the car after Wilder, the two men struggled for control of the gun, and a shot was fired, which passed through Wilder's chest and hit Jellison in the chest.

As the wounded officer jumped back out of the car, Wilder fired a second shot into his own chest, the statement said. No other shots were fired.

The statement added that there is some question as to whether the second shot was deliberate or an involuntary reflex caused by the first wound.

"I'm sick that he took the coward's way," John David Walden said Friday evening. "I wanted answers that he could have given, like why he picked out Terry, but I'm glad he won't be taking any more lives."

Walden said he was driving home from his wife's grave Friday afternoon when he learned of Wilder's death.

Mrs. Walden's body was found in a canal outside Beaumont March 26.

Sales tax steadily improving

A steady recovery in state sales tax receipts was again reported for Snyder last week.

The latest figures released from the Comptroller of Public Accounts indicates Snyder's sales tax is running 7.1 percent higher than the same period last year.

The city ended 1983 with a minus 14 percent sales tax estimate.

The plus 7.1 percent total entails local sales for a four-month period dating back to November of 1983.

Due to the time required to process the tax receipts, the latest report reflects sales made here in February and reported to the comptrollers office in late March.

According to these figures, the 1 percent return to Snyder from the state sales tax now totals in excess of $262,000 as compared to some $244,000 this time last year.

The latest monthly report indicates a return of more than $48,000 as compared to $31,000 last year.

For the year-to-date, exact figures are $262,042 and $244,671 respectively. The monthly tally is $48,119 and $31,692 respectively.

During 1983, the minus cumulative total was noted throughout the year, although some of the monthly totals toward the end of 1983 were higher when compared with 1982's.

The recent report indicates that across the state, sales tax receipts are up an average 16 percent when compared with last year.

Comptroller Bob Bullock commented, "Texas is in the thick of the national economic recovery. Let's just hope we stay there."

In addition, students will be given the option of taking an "advanced" high school transcript schedule. This will require 22 classroom units be passed.

Additional courses added to the requirements for an advanced transcript will drop the number of "elective" courses open to students from seven to three.

Meeting today in Iowa City, Iowa is the Benevolent and Loyal Order of Pessimists. The organization only has 120 members, but there are plenty of folks who can associate with them.

The group meets every year on April 15 to pick the year's saddest sack. The president says income tax day was selected for the meeting because a more appropriate time could not be found.

A leader, David Leshtz, says, "It's syymbolic of busted dreams and failed expectations." He traces his pessimistic outlook to an early foundness for the Chicago Cubs.

Last year the pessimist title went to William Conklin, a salesman for artificial hip and knee joints.

Could anything worse happen? How about Monday morning a fellow with a brief case shows up at your office and announces, "I'm from the government and I'm here to help you."

Celebration site to change

Snyder Chamber of Commerce officials announced today that the Scurry County Centennial Celebration will be combined with the 1984 July Fourth Celebration and will be held in Towle Park.

Contingency plans had been made to hold the combined celebrations at Scurry County Coliseum after the chamber was informed that the National Guard Armory in Towle Park would be unavailable for use on July 4, due to a major renovation project.

Since that time, the schedule of renovation has been set such that it does not conflict with the July 4 date.

Holy Week services slated

Scurry County Ministerial Alliance will sponsor Holy Week services Monday through Thursday at the First Presbyterian Church.

Daily services will begin at 12:10 p.m. and will last approximately 20 minutes. A luncheon meal will follow downstairs in the church building.

Different churches in Snyder will take turns conducting the service and providing the luncheon meal.

A babysitting service will also be offered in the manse next door to the church.

On Good Friday the Ministerial Alliance will sponsor a 7 p.m. service to be followed by breakfast.

Cheese to be distributed

A distribution of U.S. Government surplus cheese is planned Wednesday at the Scurry County Senior Center, 2603 Ave. M.

A schedule based upon the first letter in the recipient's last name will be followed. From 9 until 11:30 a.m., names beginning with A to J will be served; and from 1 until 3:30 p.m., those beginning with K to Z.

Those receiving cheese are asked to enter through the north door of the center. Since April begins a new quarter, individuals must also sign their forms to certify that answers on it are the same as in January.

If income has changed, they may need to fill out a new form.

Homebound individuals may call center workers and the forms will be brought to their home beginning April 24. The number is 573-4035.

State tax staffer to visit

A representative of the state comptroller's office will be in Snyder Wednesday to assist local taxpayers and answer questions about state taxes.

Enforcement officer Vanessa Zientek of the Abilene office will be in the 3rd floor jury room of the Scurry County Courthouse from 1 until 3 p.m.

A toll free telephone service is offered also for questions. The number is (800) 252-5555.

VICA winner to advance

Snyder High School ICT student Carman Juarez has qualified to compete at the State VICA contest to be conducted in Houston.

She placed second in the area VICA contest in Midland. She is a part-time employee at Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Ammunition found in house

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Police found 3,000 rounds of ammunition in the home of a man who killed himself as officers closed in to question him about the slayings of his girlfriend and two other people, authorities said.

"It looked like he was one of those survivalists," Fort Worth police Lt. Tommy Swan said.

In the driveway of Robert Graham's home sat his Ford Pinto with a bumper sticker reading, "People who try to outlaw guns should be shot."

Police say his passion for weapons, along with a fierce jealousy, drove Graham, a 34-year-old Army Reserve paratrooper, to kill a girlfriend and two of her male friends about 3:30 a.m. Friday at the men's Fort Worth house.

Three hours later, Graham put a shotgun to his head and killed himself after telling police over the telephone that he would surrender, police said.

Rebecca Hammill, 23, Donnie Dawson, 22, and Russell Gregg, 21, were shot in a house that Dawson and Gregg shared with one other roommate, police said.

Ms. Hammill was pronounced dead at the scene. The other two victims died within an hour at John Peter Smith Hospital, officials said.

President approves price hikes

MEXICO CITY (AP) — President Miguel de la Madrid has authorized price increases for gasoline, sugar, eggs, corn and wheat after calling for more "sacrfices and efforts" to fight Mexico's severe recession.

"We have to continue marching with determination toward economic recovery, vanquishing inflation," he declared Friday. Economists said the price boosts would fuel inflation.

Gasoline prices went up 29 and 37 percent, depending on the type, with leaded gas now costing 87 cents a gallon and unleaded premium $1.18. The government has been increasing fuel prices every four months for the past year.

Eggs, which are sold by weight, increased 40 percent to 36 cents a pound, and sugar went up 24 percent to 13 cents a pound.

Government support prices for food grains were hiked between 20 and 40 percent to provide more cash to farmers. The support price is the amount the government offers farmers if they cannot sell their produce.

As a result of the government action, the new perton costs are corn $144.89, wheat $142.04, beans $227.27, sorghum used for cattle-feed $107.95 and safflower for cooking oil $198.86.

The government newspaper El Nacional said the new support prices are designed "to boost farmers' purchasing power, encourage them to produce more and better and reduce grain imports."

Mexico's agricultural production has been dropping in recent years because of droughts, lack of cash due to inflation and other factors, forcing the government to import greater amounts of food.

De la Madrid, in a speech Thursday at an agricultural conference in Hermosillo, the capital of northern Sonora state, said the economic situation was improving but still serious.

Austerity measures "will be every day less severe and less harsh, and will not be as drastic as those of last year," he said, but "sacrifices and efforts will have to continue because the government can still not afford to offer a life of ease."

He said his government "will continue" its own austerity program of cutting public expenditures.

The drop in world oil prices in 1982 sliced into Mexico's earnings, forcing it to scrap an ambitious industrial development program and renegotiate payments on its huge foreign debt that now stands at $87 billion.

De la Madrid, who took office Dec. 2, 1982, cut the budget deficit last year from 17 to 8 percecent of the gross national product and has been holding down salaries. But inflation continues high.

The annual inflation rate in 1982 was 100 percent and 80 percent in 1983.

Mondale hoping for big Hispanic vote in Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — Supporters of Democratic presidential candidate Walter Mondale predict the former vice president will reap support by the state's Mexican-American community on May 5.

All three Democratic presidential campaigns say the Mexican-American vote will be vital in selection national convention delegates.

"I think Hispanics like Walter Mondale," said Dwayne Holman, Mondale's Texas campaign manager. "They see his record, what he's done in the past, what he's saying now."

"He's a proven friend," added Juan Maldonado, chairman of Mexican-American Democrats and a member of Mondale's state steering committee.

But the campaigns of Gary Hart and Jesse Jackson disagree, and a Hart official said Friday that Mondale has an "Alice in Wonderland" attitude about the Texas race for delegates.

U.S. Rep. Martin Frost, Texas campaign chairman for Hart, and state Rep. Al Edwards, who heads Jackson's campaign, both said Mondale lacks a solid grip on Mexican-American voters.

"I think they — like in everything else — are taking an Alice in Wonderland attitude about this campaign in Texas. 'Hey, we don't have to campaign in Texas, it's all sewed up,'" Frost said.

"But that's not the case. I hope they continue to be complacent, and then on May 6 they'll wake up and wonder what happend," he said.

"I have about as much belief in (a Mondale grip on Mexican-American votes) as I did in (predictions) them having the campaign locked up by March 13," Edwards said.

To demonstrate Mondale's support, Holman points to a lengthy list of endorsements and the recent Mexican-American Democrats convention, where Mondale outpolled the other candidates.

"He's been strong on the Voting Rights Act. He's been strong on civil rights issues. We're impressed by that," Maldonado said.

At the group's state convention, where delegates represting 8,000 members gathered, Maldonado said Mondale pulled in about 90 percent of the vote cast for the three presidential candidates.

Edwards said Jackson's "Rainbow Coalition" appeals to Mexican-Americans along with other groups — "the Indian vote, the gay vote, the black vote, the women's vote.

Edwards and Frost also point to long lists of Mexican-American political leaders backing their candidates. Both say they are out-organizing Mondale.

Frost noted that Denver, Colo., Mayor Frederico Pena will stump through South Texas this weekend on Hart's behalf.

Edwards said Jackson campaigners have been holding two to five workshops a week to train supporters to participate in the 6,600 precinct conventions that will being choosing 169 of the 200 national convention delegates.

"No one has a guarantee on anything," Edwards said. "Mexican-Americans recognize that Jackson is speaking to issues that directly affect Mexican-Americans, blacks, browns, whites, women. The coalition is working."

In other political developments Friday:

— Texas Supreme Court candidate Shelby Sharpe accused Justice C.L. Ray of mudslinging, a charge Ray rebuffed as being a smokescreen to cover for lawyer Sharpe's lack of experience.

Sharpe, of Fort Worth, said Ray has been spreading false charges during campaign appearances. "We expected a hot campaign, but we did not know it would lead to this wild mudslinging by the judge," he said.

Adverse reactions to milk

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read a column you wrote about milk allergies. My husband had the symptoms you mentioned so we sent for The Health Letter. Sure enough, after eliminating milk and milk products, cheese and such, my husband and 4-year-old son are 98 percent better. Our 13-month-old son also cannot tolerate milk and he is still on formil.

You mentioned in your column a product you could add to milk to break down the lactose but I didn't copy down the name or how to get it. I'm finding it very frustrating to cook and bake now that I cannot use milk. I never realized how much we really used.

DEAR READER — The product is Lact-Aid and you can get it or find out more about it from SugarLo Co., P.O. Box 111, Pleasantville, NJ 08232. It is an enzyme and digests the lactose in the milk if you leave the milk standing with the enzyme in it. It literally replaces the action of enzymes in the digestive system which normally does the same thing. This enables us to use lactose.

Lactose intolerance is not an allergy. It is caused by an enzyme deficiency. Many adults have it and it often causes gaseous distention, diarrhea and digestive complaints. People who do not have enough lactose enzyme cannot digest lactose. Then the undigested sugar ferments, causing these symptoms.

Adults are particularly prone to lactose intolerance. But infants and young children may be allergic to milk. Adults can be, but that is rare compared to lactose intolerance. Children or adults who have an actual milk allergy cannot use milk that has been treated to break down the lactose. They are usually allergic to the protein in the milk, not the lactose sugar.

I'm glad you were helped by The Health Letter 7-2, Milk Products: Good and Bad. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 23 years old. I had two sons born 11 months apart. Now the younger son is 4 years old. I weigh 110 pounds and after he was born my hips looked wider.

I started bumping my hips and legs against the wall 100 times on each side. Will that hurt my hips or my bones? Does it really reduce my size?

DEAR READER — Whether it will hurt or not may depend on how hard you bump. I doubt you are bumping hard enough to injure yourself, but that exercise is not likely to help you in any way. You can't lose body fat unless you decrease your calorie intake in relation to your exercise, and then you will lose body fat all over, not just over your hips.

A better solution would be real bumps and grinds. These exercises will tighten the muscles in the pelvic area and that may help. I mean the classic rotation of the hips, first in one direction and then in the other, and the backward and forward pelvic thrust. Using the muscles over the hips and buttocks will help tighten them and that may be all you really need.

Minister nixes mining of port

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Foreign Minister Bernardo Sepulveda has condemned the mining of Nicaragua's ports and expressed sympathy for international efforts to end "any war-like act" against that Central American country.

"We would look with enormous sympathy upon any action ... that leads to the suspension, the total elimination of any war-like act against Nicaragua," he said Friday when asked about a French offer to help sweep Nicaraguan ports of mines planted with the help of the CIA.

Sepulveda added, however, that Mexico is a "peaceful" nation. "It does not have the capacity to carry out any action in mine sweeping," he said at a breakfast meeting with foreign correspondents.

French Foreign Minister Claude Cheysson has said that France would be interested in helping clear Nicaraguan ports of mines if another European nation helped. It was disclosed this week that the CIA helped in the recent mining of Nicaraguan harbors, with the written approval of President Reagan.

However, Nicaraguan Army Chief-of-Staff Joaquin Cuadra Lacayo told a news conference in Managua Thursday the mining has apparently stopped. "No new ones have exploded," he said and maritime traffic was resumed.

The Mexican foreign minister said a solution must be found that "eliminates all violence — direct or indirect — against Nicaragua."

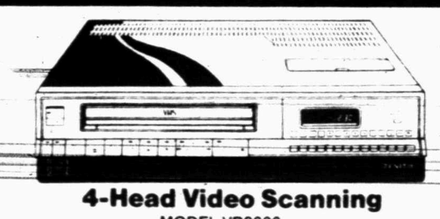

Sepulveda also said that once a nation has accepted the jurisdiction of the International Court of Justice in a case it is "not legally valid to remove itself" from the court's jurisdiction in any other case.

The Reagan administration has announced it will not abide by World Court decisions regarding Central America for the next two years. The decision preceded a petition by Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government Monday to the court in The Hague, Netherlands, seeking a halt to U.S. support for Nicaraguan rebels.

DON'T LET SKIN PROBLEMS SCAR YOUR LIFE

Too often, skin problems are written off by parents as being the norm for adolescents. They are not.

Let us look at acne, the most common of skin problems among young people. It is a hormonal disturbance. The secretions of female and male hormones effect the sebaceous glands in the skin, causing them to produce more oil. As oily complexion often is the forerunner of acne, pimples, blackheads and other facial eruptions.

While the hormonal activity may very well be present during adolescence, the problem need not. If allowed to continue until it "runs its course" into adulthood, it may result in scars on the emotional as well as the physical make-up of the individual.

The American Chiropractic Association reports that the right diet, hygienic measures, exercise and specific treatment can overcome most skin problems. The association points out that diet plays an important part in skin health and beauty.

It is recommended that greasy fried foods, iodized salt, spicy foods, shell fish, chocolate and animal fats be avoided. Eat plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables, and drink lots of water. Vitamin supplements are also recommended, especially Vitamin A.

Cleanliness is also important to avoidance of skin problems. The face should be washed frequently with a detergent soap. The mistake often made by victims of skin problems is to use creams and cosmetics to cover the blemishes. The best thing for your skin is soap and water; keep your skin as free of oil as possible.

While exercise may appear to have no direct relationship in the treatment of a skin problem, it does. It relieves tension, which may be a factor. Likewise, regular exercise promotes the balanced functioning of the body.

For specific recommendations which may be beneficial to the treatment of a skin problem, it is advised that you visit a doctor of chiropractic. He can offer a regimen, based upon his training and experience. In his diagnosis, he may also find neurologic insults, which if treated, will correct the base of the problem.

Jury assesses death penalty for Henry Lee Lucas

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — A smiling Henry Lee Lucas, convicted of capital murder in the slaying of a hitchhiker more than four years ago, says he's "happy" that a jury has ordered him to die.

"I didn't do it, but I'm happy anyway," Lucas said as he was led from the courthouse Friday.

Jurors deliberated for only about 40 minutes Friday night before deciding that the self-proclaimed mass killer should die. It was the first such verdict for Lucas, already sentenced to life and 75-year prison terms in two other Texas murders.

"I think Henry is crying out for help, no matter what you think about him," said defense attorney Don Higginbotham. "He's had such a tormented life, there's nothing else of much import anymore."

But chief prosecutor Ed Walsh praised the verdict.

"I hope in some small way this is a vindication for some of the victims," he said.

State District Judge John Carter did not set a sentencing date. The death sentence will automatically be reviewed by a higher court.

Lucas was convicted of capital murder Thursday in the rape-slaying of a young woman, still unidentified, whose nude body was found along a roadside near Georgetown. The trial was moved to San Angelo on a change of venue.

Lucas, who contended all along he expected, perhaps welcomed a death penalty, told newsmen as he was being led from the courthouse in handcuffs, "I still feel the same as I did. I haven't changed."

Walsh fielded numerous questions from reporters about Lucas' contention that he wanted to die, and at one point snapped, "If he wanted the death penalty, he would have pleaded guilty. He didn't do that.

"The testimony showed he's had ample opportunity to kill himself and he hasn't done it yet."

In final arguments before the jury adjourned to consider punishment, Lucas' lawyers pleaded for mercy.

"Send him off for life," Higginbotham said. "Get him out of society. Give him the help he's asking for."

"I can't tell you Henry is not a killer," said defense lawyer Max Parker. "But Henry Lucas is not an animal. He's a human being."

AT&T might request long distance increase

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas long distance rates could wind up as the nation's highest if the Public Utility Commission forces AT&T Communications to pay most of an $854.8 million rate hike recommended for Southwestern Bell, an AT&T official says.

Tom Jones, AT&T vice president for external affairs, said Friday he does not challenge Bell's need for the increase. But Jones said it should come from local rate increases greater than the 36 cents a month recommended by PUC examiners.

"If local rates went up less than $3 a month, which I don't think would create a hardship on anyone, we wouldn't have a need for a (long distance) rate increase," he said at a news conference.

AT&T might look for long distance rate hikes of up to 30 percent if it's forced to cover most of the Southwestern Bell increase, Jones added.

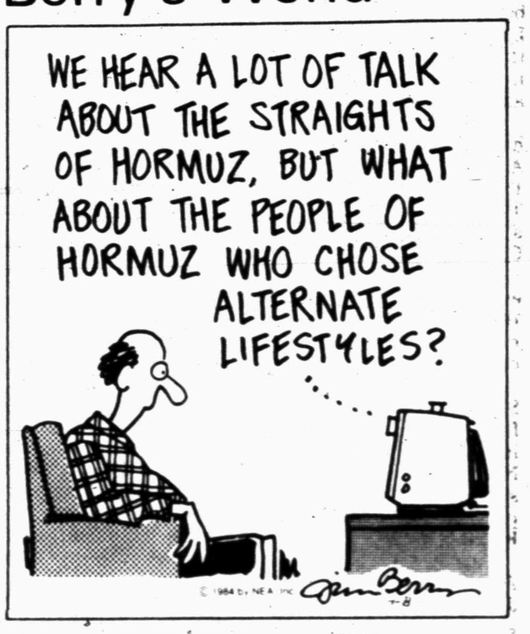

The commission will rule on the Bell case on April 30. The company is seeking a $1.3 billion rate hike that would double basic home service bills. The examiners' report says most of the hike should come from long distance companies, like AT&T, that depend on Bell's network.

An association of small long distance companies in Texas said Friday it is not convinced that Bell needs any more money.

"No customer of the Bell system should have to pay for the shell game that is being staged by Southwestern Bell and AT&T as a result of divestiture," said Richard Hunich of San Antonio, president of TEXALTEL.

Jones said a small increase in local bills would force a big jump in long distance tolls. The 36-cent increase misleads the public, he said.

SDN ad staff changes told

A reorganization of the advertising sales staff of the Snyder Daily News was announced Friday by SDN Publisher Roy McQueen.

Wade Warren, a veteran of more than 10 years in advertising, has been named marketing director in charge of retail, national and classified advertising departments.

Warren comes to Snyder from Crane where he has been in oil-related businesses the past four years. He is a graduate of Permian High School in Odessa and majored in advertising at Texas Tech.

Warren began his newspaper carrer as advertising manager in Lamesa. In 1971, Warren became publisher of the Lamb County News in Littlefield. He later published newspapers in Brownfield and Burnet.

He and his wife Carolyn have four children, Leslie Ann, age 15; Shannon, age 13; Jason, age 9; and Tyler, age 3. The family attends the Methodist Church.

Wayne Burney, an employee of the SDN since 1978 and advertising manager since 1979, will continue in that role.

Burney is a native of Snyder and graduated from Snyder High School in 1967. He graduated from North Texas State University in 1971. Burney is past president of the Snyder Kiwanis Club.

Burney and his wife, Jo Ann, have two children, Jason, age 10; and Joshua, age 3. The family attends Northside Baptist Church.

Karen Carmichael, a SDN sales representative the past three years, will continue in that role with expanded duties as co-op coordinator.

"We plan to help our retail customers identify and use their available co-op funds effectively. Many dollars are unused each year by retailers," McQueen said.

A graduate of San Angelo Central High School, she attended Texas A&M University. She moved to Snyder in 1980 with her husband, Robert, who is employed by Pool. They have one child, Jamie, who is age 3.

She is vice-president of the Deep Creek Chapter of the American Business Women's Association and is chairman of the chamber's 4th of July celebration.

Louise York, receptionist and classified ad clerk at the SDN the past 18 months, will fill a newly-created position in classified ad sales.

"We feel the growth in classified advertising requires a person working full-time to serve our customers," McQueen said. "Louise has been working in this area for more than a year and is qualified to work with both individual and commercial customers."

Born in Alamogordo, N. M., Mrs. York has been a resident of Snyder since 1977. Her husband, Bill, is employed by E. D. Walton Construction Co. She is a member of ABWA and the family attends the Colonial Hill Baptist Church.

Ice patrol established to stop marine tragedy

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — On Sunday, a plane will drop a wreath into the Atlantic at the spot where a mighty ocean liner smashed on an iceberg 72 years earlier. The tragedy of the Titanic is marked not only for 1,500 deaths but for one birth — of the International Ice Patrol.

"No one wants to see that again. Hopefully, because of us, there will be no similar disaster," says the organization's deputy commander, Coast Guard Lt. Cmdr. Alan Summy.

The wreath will be dropped 400 miles southeast of Newfoundland from a Coast Guard C-130 plane, the aircraft the patrol uses to search the sea for icebergs ranging in size from those called "growlers" — about the bulk of a grand piano — to those in the "very large" category.

The largest can rise more than 250 feet above the water and measure one-quarter to one-half-mile in length. They are less common than the smaller floes, but "we certainly see some each season," Summy said.

"Most mariners have a healthy respect for icebergs. They're a dangerous phenomenon," said Summy, whose patrol feeds information to shippers from at least 20 nations that share the organization's cost.

Lubbock bank insolvent

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — The Security National Bank of Lubbock will reopen Monday under a new owner and a new name after becoming the sixth bank in West Texas to be declared insolvent in recent months.

Acting U.S. Comptroller of Currency H. Joe Selby ordered the bank closed at 6 p.m. Friday and appointed the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. as receiver.

"Over the past year Security National Bank experienced substantial deterioration in the quality of its loan portfolio," Selby said. "The bank was unable to remedy its problems and its losses finally exhausted the bank's capital resulting in its insolvency."

FDIC spokesman Bill Olchesky said the bank, which was chartered Nov. 29, 1963, would reopen on Monday as the newly chartered City Bank N.A.

"Checks drawn on Security National accounts will continue to be honored and customers who had interest bearing accounts in Security National will continue to earn interest on such deposits," Olchesky said.

FDIC Senior Liquidation Specialist, Arthur Lorentzen, was at the bank Friday to supervise the ownership transfer.

"We (the FDIC) are going to be here over the weekend trying to get everything ready for Monday," said Lorentzen.

He said the bank was purchased by B.E. Loyd of Dimmitt and would be open as usual Monday.

Alien house director is released on bond

SAN BENITO, Texas (AP) — The director of a church-sponsored alien shelter was free today after pleading innocent to federal charges of transporting illegal immigrants.

Jack Elder, 40, was arrested Friday on a federal indictment charging him with transporting three male Salvadorans from the Casa Oscar Romero halfway house in San Benito to a bus station five miles away.

The indictment was based on statements made by the Salvadorans during questioning by Border Patrol agents March 12.

Elder was arrested on the grounds of the halfway house. Supporters of the sanctuary movement said the arrest marked the first time federal authorities have entered church property to arrest an American worker in the sanctuary movement.

STEER WRESTLING – Western Texas College's Todd Whatley turned a 7.4 in first-evening action of the collegiate rodeo here and was to compete in the calf roping Saturday afternoon. The rodeo continues with performances at 8 p.m. Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday. (SDN Staff Photo by Noble Young)

WTC doing well...

New leaders at Western rodeo

New leaders were posted in almost every event at the Western Texas College NIRA rodeo held here Friday night.

The show, which began Thursday, still had performances scheduled for 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. Saturday, and 2 p.m. Sunday. Western Texas College was to present its homecoming king and queen during the Saturday evening performance.

Tickets are $3 for adults and $2 for students.

Saturday night's show was to complete the longgo. The top 10 finishers in each event will advance to Sunday's finals.

Western Texas College cowboy Max McGuire took over the lead in the bareback with a score of 69 while teammate C.J. Urbanek moved into a three-way tie for first in steer wrestling.

Urbanek, from Michigan, and ENMU's Grady Eldridge and NMJC's D.R. Daniels all turned in 5.2s.

Also in first place from Western Texas are Regina Begay, who holds a 9.2 best in goat tying, and Kelley Kyle, who tied with Texas Tech University's Renee Rutherford in the breakaway toping with a 3.6.

New Mexico JC's Andy O'Neal scored a 68 and Earl Hammond of Sul Ross tallied a 66 to take over first and second place in the saddle bronc event. Western's Jim Paul Williams is tied with Howard's Jon Brockway for third with a 60.

In team roping, Cody Carruthers and Tammi Noble of Sul Ross contine to hold on to the lead with their 6.9 posted on Thursday. Sul Ross also moved into second as Jacque Jenkins and Paula Kay Lockhart timed a 7.8.

WTC's John Foster fell from first to second after his score of 69 was changed to a 68 in the bull riding. Roy Davis, TSU, leads with a 69.

In barrels, Cathy Cochran of Howard held on to the lead with a 13.86.

Other results from WTC participants included a 8.8 in the steer wrestling from Gary Rowe, a 13.5 in the goat tying from Canita Cass, a no-time in the goat tying for Sheila Fifer, no-times for Mark Mauldin and Craig Murdoch in team roping, an 11.8 from Donnie Yorks in the calf roping and a 15.9 from Jeff Reynolds in the calf roping.

Western golfers remain close behind NMJC

HOBBS, N.M. -- Western Texas College went into Friday's WJCAC tournament trailing by a half-point and come out in the same situation as the Westerners and New Mexico Junior College tied for third place here.

New Mexico Military Institute was a somewhat surprising winner, shooting a fine 289 to win the first spring conference meet by five strokes. Odessa took second with a 294, while Western and NMJC tied for third with a pair of 295s.

Those results left NMJC still in the standings lead with 17½ points. Western and Odessa are tied for second with 17 apiece, while Midland - which placed fifth here with a 305 - is fourth overall with 13½ points.

NMMI, which had come into the tournament with only 6 points, now stands sixth with 12. South Plains also shot a 305 here and has 7 conference points.

Western was led by freshman Clark Dennis, who shot an even par 72. Mike Krante of NMMI earned medalist honors with a three-under 69. Odessa's Mike Ketchan was runnerup with a 71.

Dennis, who had injured an ankle and was only probable for the tournament, is now in eighth place in the individual conference standings with a 74.0 average.

Other WTC scores Friday were a 73 by sophomore Mike Standly, a 74 from sophomore Mark Ingebrigtsen, a 76 from sophomore Eric McGraw, a 77 from freshman Joe Don Davis and a 79 from sophomore Robert Roebuck.

"We played very well with a 295," said Coach Dave Foster. "We made the turn at three-under and again let it get away from us on the back side. Hopefully this is a start of good rounds to come with two conference tournaments left. This is the first time since September we had all six players in the hunt."

Ingebrigtsen is currently second in the conference standings with a 72.6 average. Standly is fourth with a 73.0 average and Davis is 14th with a 76.3 average.

Next action for the Westerners will be at Odessa, the fifth conference tournament of the season, April 20.

Banks receives further awards

Larry Banks, Western Texas College's all-conference, all-region player, has added All-American honors to his list of credits.

Banks, a 6-5 sophomore from Navasota, was honorable mention NJCAA All-American in a release dated this week.

The two-time all-conference, all-region player, had earlier been named to the NJCAA National Tournament All-Tournament Team and was awarded the sportsmanship award at nationals.

He was the Region V tournament's Most Valuable Player.

Banks averaged 14.7 points and 7.1 rebounds for Western Texas and helped the Westerners to a 27-11 record and a fifth place finish in the NJCAA National Tournament.

Banks has signed a letter of intent with North Texas State University.

Other Region V all-American selections were Howard College's Jerry Stroman, who earned second team honors, and Amarillo's Machelle White, also a second team choice.

Davis' all-stars defeat team from Region 14

WACO -- Barry Davis' Region 5 squad defeated a team from Region 14 in a junior college all-stars game, played here Friday night.

The Region 5 squad, which had two players from Western Texas College, won the game 95-84 after trailing by four points at halftime.

The Region 5 team was led by MVP of the game, Howard College's James Johnson, who scored 20 points. Another Howard player, Jerry Stroman, scored 18 while Grayson's Charles Jenkins notched 11.

WTC's Larry Banks scored 8. Teammate Richie Fells, who copped sportsmanship honors here, added 6.

Lee College's John Jennings led Region 14 with 16 points. Angelina's John Mouton had 15 and San Jacinto's Ron Singleton added 12.

The Region 5 women's team also won, though no score was available. WTC sophomore Mary Nell Clayton contributed 4 points.

Machelle Whitehead of Amarillo and Felicia Bluitt of Cooke County led the women's Region 5 team with 16 points apiece. Whitehead was the MVP.

Bollinger hurls one-hitter...

Tigers rip Monahans, 10-0

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

If you were picked to finish fourth in the district and you had just won your fifth game - the third by the 10-run rule - you might begin to be a little confident.

"I guess now I'm beginning to realize we've got an outside chance to get out of district," grinned Coach Albert Lewis after his Tigers blanked Monahans 10-0 here Friday night.

It was an understatement to be sure, but there was a time when the Tigers were 5-5 and batting .232. Today, the same team boasts a 13-5 record and a steadily increasing .344 average at the plate. More important is the 5-0 district record.

Friday's win may have been Snyder's finest performance yet. Behind some excellent fielding, right-hander Charles Bollinger pitched a one-hitter, striking out eight batters and giving up only one walk.

Meanwhile, the junior was two-for-two with a bat, drove in three runs and walked twice. He led Snyder to a nine-hit, eight-walk outing in a game which abruptly ended with Justin Webb's double in the bottom of the fifth inning.

Webb's shot - which enforced the 10-run rule - brought home pinch runner Darren Fletcher, who had come in to run for after Bollinger walked aboard.

The game opened with Bollinger striking out the side following Snyder's only error of the game. Leadoff batter Todd Tamplin slapped a shot down the line which got away from first baseman Norman Malone.

Snyder quickly jumped out to a 2-0 lead in its half of the inning as Chris Sanders singled in Bobby Velasquez, who had reached on a base hit, and Malone walked to push in Fletcher, who had come in to run after Bollinger drew his first walk of the game.

After another three-up, three-down inning for the Loboes, Snyder added five more runs. William Cotton was put on when an errant pitch by Ruben Medina struck him in the back. Chad Peterson followed with a walk and both runners advanced on steals. One out later, Bollinger hit a 2-1 pitch to left field, scoring both teammates.

That was all for Medina, who was replaced by Johnny Bates.

Sanders greated the new pitcher by rapping him for another single. Webb also lashed a base hit, which brought in pinch-runner Fletcher. Next up Eddie McClure hit a shot that caromed off of short stop Gus Ruiz and allowed both Sanders and Webb to take home plate, making the score 7-0.

Snyder added one run in each of the next three innings. In the third, Velasquez singled himself a trip to first, stole second and came in on another base hit from Bollinger. In the fourth, back-to-back errors by Ruiz scored Webb, who had walked. And as mentioned, Webb's double in the fifth provided the final run.

Bollinger's no-hit effort was broken up in the top of the fifth when Jimmy Louis punched a slow-rolling infield single and was able to beat out Sanders' throw from third. Sanders later made the third out of the inning when he dove to snare a grounder hit by Bates and forced Lewis running for third.

It was one of several fine defensive plays by the Tigers. Second baseman Jay Mayo saved a possible base hit in the third inning when Manuel Marquez lined a shot toward first base. The ball took a hop over first-sacker Malone, but Mayo grabbed it and tossed it to Bollinger, who came charging over from the mound. And the Tigers got another excellent performance from short stop Cotton, who played a part in five of Monahans' 15 outs.

"The last time Charlie pitched (a 6-3 win over Lamesa) Will had a great game too," noted Coach Lewis. "We had several people who did a fine job defensively for us tonight."

Snyder's unblemished record in District 2-4A means the Tigers would have to lose three of their remaining five games to fall out of position for the post-season playoffs. But Coach Lewis was not expecting his team to let up.

"If we had a bunch of older players I'd be worried, but we're a young team. That helps keep us from getting complacent. And, we (Lewis and assistant coach Roland Herrera) have been working them pretty hard. We don't want to let up at this point," he said.

The Tigers, who won their eighth straight game with the victory, will trek to Fort Stockton on Tuesday. Paul Tate, 4-1 with a 0.93 ERA in district play, will get the start.

Pecos conquers Fort Stockton, 14-1

Snyder won its third game by the 10-run rule and Pecos stayed one notch back via the same route as District 2-4A reached the midway point in baseball Friday.

Snyder got one-hit pitching from Charles Bollinger to blast Monahans 10-0 for its eighth straight win of the season.

Pecos drilled Fort Stockton 14-1 in five innings as Elias Peyan knocked a two-run homer and a two-run double. Erasmo Acosta picked up the win. Daniel Saribia was the loser.

In other action, Andrews kept a lock on third place by nipping Lamesa, 4-3. George Ramirez scored the winning run in the seventh on an error. He had reached first base on a previous error and made it to third on Omar Trevino's double.

Rene Trevino took the win in relief of Omar Trevino. Johnny Gonzales was the LP.

The outcomes left Snyder at 5-0 in loop play, followed by Pecos at 4-1, Andrews at 3-2 and Lamesa, Fort Stockton and Monahans all with 1-4 records.

Both Pecos and Fort Stockton lost catchers in their game Friday. Eagle player Lance Windham was running home from third when he collided at the plate. The results of x-rays were unknown Saturday morning, but it was thought he suffered a severely sprained or broken wrist. Fort Stockton catcher Gabriel Fierrero injured a leg in a freak accident when a Pecos batter was hit by a pitch and fell on top of him. The extent of his injury was also unknown.

In games scheduled Tuesday, Snyder travels to Fort Stockton, Pecos is at Andrews and Lamesa hosts Monahans.

Boosters meet

Snyder Girl's Booster Club will meet Monday at 7 p.m. in the high school student center.

Everyone is urged to attend.

Dribblers meet entering finals

Snyder majors were trying to work up through the loser's bracket while the local minors were knocked out of action as the Boy's Little Dribblers Regional Tournament continued here.

Snyder majors lost to Brownfield 35-34 and were to play Lamesa at 11:45 Saturday. The winner would advance to meet Brownfield in the single-elimination finals at 7:15 Saturday evening.

Snyder minors outlasted Kermit 44-39 in triple overtime, but lost to Levelland 49-26 to exit from the tournament.

In the minor league on Saturday, Brownfield and Levelland were to play at 10:30 a.m. with the winner meeting Lamesa at 6 p.m. in the finals.

Chad Phillips led the Snyder majors with 18 points. Jason West had 6, followed by Randy Morris with 4 and Toby Goodwin, Jay Parker and Brandon Martin with 2 each.

Kenneth Lawrence scored 18 and Zane McPhearson 13 for Brownfield.

Earlier, Levelland had gotten 10 points from Darren Waters and 8 from David Day to defeat Kermit 40-39. In Friday's final game, Lamesa's Dwight Mason slammed in 24 points to lead Lamesa past Levelland, 47-41. D. Waters had 14 for Levelland.

Jason Blake punched in 17 points for Kermit's minor leaguers as they fell to Snyder in three extra periods Friday. The game was tied at 25-25 in regulation and at 30-30 and 37-37 in overtime.

Snyder's Kory Clark had 17 points. Marc Byerly notched 10, Steve Bollinger 6, Tory Garza 5, Eric West 3, Eric Braziel 2 and Grant Jordan 1.

Later, Levelland had three players with 10 points apiece - Craig Black, Stacey Rowland and Sedric King - in its 49-26 win over the Snyder minors. For Snyder, Clark and Byerly had 6 each, West 5, Braziel 4, Garza 3 and Toby Cushing 2.

In the only other game played Friday, Lamesa minors defeated Brownfield 46-35. Andy Davis had 17 for Lamesa and Brandon Sheppard scored 15. Andy Martinez scored 10 for Brownfield.

The three-day tournament was being held at the high school gym.

Johnson goes to Oilers

DALLAS (AP) - Wide receiver Butch Johnson says he was "shocked and disappointed" at first when he learned of his trade from the Dallas Cowboys to the Houston Oilers - and briefly considered not reporting to his new National Football League club.

Johnson was dealt to the Oilers on Friday for wide receiver Mike Renfro.

But after a brief telephone conversation with Houston Coach Hugh Campbell on Friday, Johnson said he was "very excited about playing again."

"I may sound a little mellow right now, but I'm trying to adjust,' Johnson told the Dallas Times Herald. "It's really a relief that all of this is over. Tomorrow, I'm going to be very happy. Maybe I'll pop some champagne or something."

Johnson had wanted to go to the Los Angeles Rams. But contract terms could not be reached with wide receiver Preston Dennard, who nixed the deal with Dallas.

As part of the deal, the Cowboys also will trade second-round picks with Houston in the 1984 college draft and will get an undisclosed selection in the 1985 draft, Cowboys spokesman Doug Todd said.

Baseball tryouts will begin Monday

Tryouts for summer league baseball will begin Monday on the Farm League Field, it has been announced.

Boys age 8-9 will try out Monday, boys age 10 on Tuesday and boys age 11-12 on Wednesday.

Tryouts begin at 5 p.m. each day.

Any youngster who was unable to sign up last week may come to the tryouts and register. He must bring a birth certificate.

Little League and Farm League action will begin May 4.

Local TEC office receives award

The personnel of the Snyder-Sweetwater Texas Employment Commission Office received two awards this past weekend for outstanding services to veterans at the Texas Chapter of International Association of Personnel in Employment Security (IAPES) Convention in Austin.

The local offices received first place awards from both the Texas Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Texas Chapter of IAPES.

The awards are judged on the local office's achievments in services to veterans including not only job placements and other services but on participation in professional, community, church, and veterans organization activities.

Winners have demonstrated outstanding performance beyond normal expectations of job requirments.

Only one TEC Type II office is selected for each of these awards each year.

Uganda declared its independence in 1962.

Family members charged

KERRVILLE, Texas (AP) — A rugged Hill Country ranch where a drifter was tortured to death with a cattle prod became a sealed-off "little world" for three family members and the hitchhikers they are accused of holding captive, a prosecutor says.

The family members and three hitchhikers have been charged with murder in the March 13 death of drifter Anthony Warren Bates, who is believed to be from somewhere in Alabama.

Kerr County District Attorney Ron Sutton said the drifters were lured to the ranch by promises of work and hot meals, but then were compelled to stay with chains, guns and cattle prods.

"It's a strange phenomenon that takes place when you get a bunch of people associated only with each other and disassociated from the world," Sutton said. "It does something to people's minds. Something strange and bizarre happened out there. They had their own little world."

Bates, who died after repeated jabs with a cattle prod, was doused with 10 gallons of gasoline and set on fire, the prosecutor said.

Charred bone fragments discovered on the rugged 3,500-acre ranch near Mountain Home were determined Friday to be of human origin, he said.

The three family members — Walter Wesley Ellebracht Sr., 52, his son, Walter Wesley Ellebracht Jr., 31, and his daughter-in-law, Joyce Ellebracht, 29 — already had been charged last week with aggravated kidnapping.

The Ellebrachts were named in a murder indictment Thursday, along with Mark Allen Hamilton, 22, of Los Angeles, Darryl Hunsacker, 21, no permanent address, and Carlton Robert Caldwell, 19, of Taos, N.M.

All six people were jailed on bonds ranging from $50,000 to $100,000.

Hamilton and Hunsaker gave statements to the FBI and Texas Rangers in which they admitted participating in the torture of Bates, which Hamilton said happened "on 20 or 30 occasions, each session lasting about one or two hours."

WINS CONTEST–Amy Bridges of Booker, former Hermleigh and Ira resident, has recently won a harp contest at Texas Tech University, placing second. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Richburg of Hermleigh and the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Charles Bridges of Booker. (Family Photo)

Ex-resident wins contest

Amy Bridges, former resident of Hermleigh and Ira, captured a harp competition award at Texas Tech in Lubbock last month. She received a second place ribbon and a $75 gift certificate from Salvi Harp Co., New York City in a harp contest and Master Class with Eileen Malone of the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N. Y. She competed in the elementary division.

Bridges was presented in concert with other winners from the southwestern region which included harpists from Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado and Oklahoma.

Bridges and her harp teacher, Barbara Richardson of Perryton, both participated in a master class with Malone. Bridges performed a "Minuet in G" by J. S. Bach, arranged by Pearl Chertok and "Midnight Stars" by Janes Weidensaul. Richardson performed "Chaconne" by G. F. Handel.

Bridges has studied for one year with Richardson and is the 10-year-old daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Charles Bridges of Booker, Tex.

Rev. Bridges pastored both the First Baptist Church of both Hermleigh and Ira. Mrs. Bridges is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Richburgs of Hermleigh.

Board plans emergency vote to rescind decision

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Creationists have characterized as a "moral defeat" an expected vote by the Texas Board of Education to repeal a rule that state textbooks may mention evolution only as one theory of the origin of humanity.

With a 22-3 vote, the board agreed Friday to consider repealing the 10-year-old evolution rule — a move both opponents and supporters of the regulation said was an affirmation the rule would be rescinded. A vote on the repeal motion was expected today.

"I see no chance whatsoever that the vote (in favor of the motion to repeal) will change tomorrow when the actual repeal vote is taken," said Michael Hudson, Texas coordinator of People for the American Way, a national anti-censorship group. "We believe this will have a tremendously positive influence on authors (and) textbook publishers across the country."

Since 1974, the state evolution rule has required textbooks that include the theory of evolution to "identify it as only one of several explanations of the origins of humankind ..."

Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox held last month that the rule was unconstitutional and American Way had threatened a lawsuit if the board failed to act.

The Board of Education also agreed Friday to consider adding new language to its general textbook content regulations stipulating that all theories of any subject matter "shall be clearly presented as theory and in an objective educational manner."

Hudson said the addition was "not necessary (and) adds nothing to the rules. It was a political compromise to get some of the members to vote for repeal."

The case has drawn national attention, textbook industry officials say, because Texas' $80 million market is so large publishers tailor books for the state and other states simply must accept that version.

More than 75 people turned out for Friday's meeting.

The board met privately with its attorneys for about 20 minutes before opening the session again to the public and quickly voted to take emergency action today on the repeal question.

However, the proposed amendment to the general rules caused some discussion among members who believed it was an attempt to reword the evolution regulation.

Judge denies man's request for new trial

HOUSTON (AP) — A Death Row inmate has lost his bid for a new trial, even though his accomplice signed a statement admitting he killed a 17-year-old runaway from Alabama.

State District Judge Charles J. Hearn denied the motion for a new trial filed by Robert Drew, a former Vermont carpenter sentenced to death by injection for the Feb. 21, 1983, slaying of Jeffery Mays.

Mays' body was found along Interstate 10 near Baytown, about 30 miles east of Houston. He had been stabbed several times and his throat slit.

Drew's capital murder conviction now will be appealed to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin.

The motion for a new trial, along with an affidavit from accomplice Earnest J. Purleawski, 34, was filed with Hearn earlier this month.

Borden County garners first place in UIL

After sweeping the district 6A literary title with a total of 170 points, Borden County High School students advanced to regional competition. Twelve students competed for more honors in Levelland Friday. Results were not available at presstime.

The scoring began as the one-act play, "The Pot Boiler," won the zone competition, placing two senior students, Tammy Miller and Kim Wills, on the all-star cast. Jeanette Massingill, junior, received honorable mention on the all-star cast.

Although the play, under the direction of Snyderite Jane McCathern, failed to place at the district contest, six students received recognition: Bric Turner was named to the all-star cast; Doyce Taylor, Jerry Green and Tammy Miller received honorable mention all-star cast and Kim Wills and Cathy York received special recognition from the judge.

Points continued to add up as the debate teams placed. The junior girls team of Samantha Porter and Becky Massingill captured first place; the sophomore boys team of Doyce Taylor and Bric Turner took second; and the freshman boys team of Mickey Burkett and Michael Murphy garnered fourth place. These teams are coached by local resident Sue Jane Mayes.

Kelli McPhaul and Dana Gray were awarded 1st and 2nd places respectively in ready writing. Next the speakers and readers added their points with Roxie Wolf and Simonia Benevidez, sweeping first and second places respectively in informative speaking. They were joined by Rene Telchiks, third place in persuasive speaking, and Jeanette Massingill's second place in prose interpretation. These students are also coached by Mrs. McCathern.

The business students topped off the winning streak with Tammy Miller's first place in shorthand with a perfect score and Shana Bradshaw's second place in typewriting competition. These students are coached by Netta Jarrett.

Mickey McMeans is the principal at Borden County High School and James McLeroy is the superintendent.

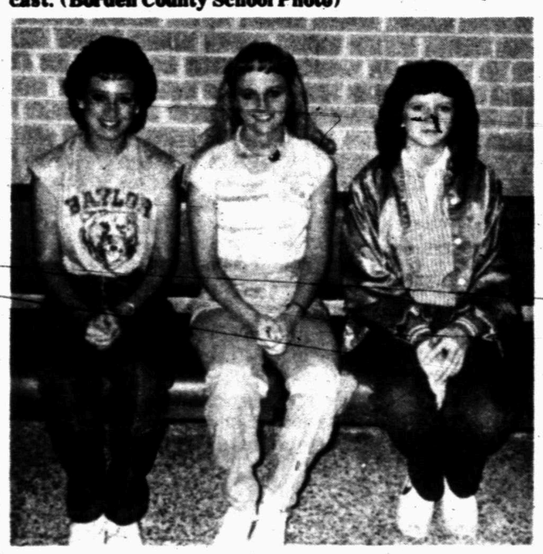

Other schools in District 6A include Ira, Roscoe, Westbrook, Grady, Greenwood, Sands, Klondike and Hermleigh.

Social security halts reviews

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators supporting a bill to prevent Social Security from ending disability payments unless a recipient's condition has improved are encouraged by a Reagan administration moratorium on reviews of such cases.

Health and Human Services Secretary Margaret Heckler announced the suspension of the so-called periodic disability reviews Friday. Federal courts or governors already had blocked disability cutoffs in nearly 30 states.

Mrs. Heckler said she would also preserve or restore benefits for 40,000 people still fighting cutoffs through administrative channels. Many were slated to get their last disability check May 3.

The House included a medical improvement standard in the bill that it passed over the Reagan administration's objections, 410-1, on March 27.

Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., one of 44 sponsors of similar legislation in the Senate, said, "I think it is obvious the secretary has seen the handwriting on the wall. Congress is determined to act."

A co-sponsor, Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., predicted the Senate "will pass a responsible and strong bill premised on a medical improvement standard by early summer." And he said the moratorium will keep pressure on the Senate to act so that the reviews can resume under new rules.

Heinz added that the Reagan administration apparently realized that if it had not taken this action, "there would be a growing and deep wound to the president on the fairness issue."

In 1981, Roy Wilkins, leader of the NAACP, died in New York of kidney failure at the age of 80.

Robe said to have been worn by Christ viewed

ARGENTEUIL, France (AP) — A brown woolen tunic said to have been worn by Jesus Christ is being put on public display today for the first time in 50 years to mark the Easter season.

The robe, which contains traces of human blood, will be displayed in a glass globe until April 23 and is expected to be viewed by up to 60,000 people.

"I really don't know why it's shown only every 50 years. It's just the tradition," said the Rev. Marcel Guyard from the Basilica of Saint Denys in this northern Paris suburb, where the robe has been kept for nearly 1,200 years.

"We chose the Easter period for this showing because we thought it would remind people of Christ's love for mankind," Guyard said.

A 24-hour police guard will be posted in and around the basilica during the showing. The tunic was stolen last December and was mysteriously returned undamaged in February.

Guyard said the authenticity of the tunic has never been clearly established, but added the robe had "a priceless value to people of faith."

Some French Roman Catholic officials say the robe was worn by Jesus Christ before the crucifixion and that the garment ranks with the shroud of Turin in importance. The robe is said by some to have been the one for which Roman soldiers cast lots while Christ died on the cross.

Research has shown the tunic's fabric was made with techniques similar to those used at the time of Christ and that the tunic contained pollen from plants common to Palestine. Researchers also found traces of blood.

Irene of Constantinople, empress of the east, gave the tunic to Charlemagne, emperor of the Holy Roman Empire, around the year 800. Charlemagne in turn gave the robe to his daughter Theocrate, abbess of Argenteuil.

The current Basilica of Denys was built on the site of the old abbey of Argenteuil to house the relic.

The basilica was loosely guarded when thieves broke into it in broad daylight last Dec. 13 and made off with the robe.

Two days later, an anonymous telephone caller to the leftist Paris daily Liberation claimed responsibility for the theft on behalf of the outlawed French anarchist group Direct Action. The caller demanded that the church make a $35,000 contribution to the banned Polish trade union movement Solidarity.

Church officials refused to make the contribution, saying they doubted Solidarity would accept money obtained by blackmail. The tunic was returned to the basilica two months later.

In 1793, the French Revolution abolished the worship of God in favor of a state cult of reason.

An expedition headed by H.M. Stanley found explorer David Livingstone in Central Africa in 1871.

German Kaiser Wilhelm II fled to The Netherlands in 1918.

Dear Abby

Woman's Cheating Heart Begins to Skip a Beat

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: First, I know that I am a very mixed-up person. I'm 36, have two children, and I'm on my third husband. I believe in God and know there is a hell, but for some reason I'm not afraid of going there even after all the bad things I've done.

I started making love to almost every man I dated when I was 15. I cheated on all my husbands, including the one I'm now married to. I don't know why, because basically most men are alike. None of them do very much for me, so I know I'm not a nymphomaniac, if there is such a thing.

I'm currently involved with a man much younger than me. He's married, too. I think I love him, but if he decided not to see me anymore, my feelings might be hurt for a week or two, then I'd find someone else to take his place.

What in the world is the matter with me? I think I need a psychiatrist, but I can't afford their prices.

CONFUSED IN BOSTON

DEAR CONFUSED: You have been using sex to fill an unmet emotional need that's been gnawing at you since you were very young.

There is an excellent mental health clinic in your area. Look in your phone book under Mental Health or County Health Services. Call and make an appointment. You will be charged only as much as you can afford to pay.

Please don't put it off. The longest march in the world starts with one step. God bless and good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I am 27 years old and planning to ask a young Christian lady to be my wife. We are very much in love and committed to each other.

There is one problem. I am bisexual. Will marriage cure my bisexuality? And do you think I should reveal this to my fiancee before I propose marriage to her?

OKLAHOMA BISEXUAL

DEAR BISEXUAL: Bisexuality is not a "disease" for which one must seek a "cure" in order to eradicate. One can control his (or her) sexual behavior—but not his sexual urges.

And yes, I think you should tell your fiancee before proposing marriage.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HEARTBROKEN IN TULSA: My condolences. I know how you feel. I lost my beautiful mother in 1945. (She was only 57.) And a few years later I lost a wonderful father. (He was 62.) Not a day passes that I don't thank God for letting me have my parents for as long as I did. I know many who were not nearly as blessed as I. And when I think of those who have survived a far greater tragedy—losing their children—it makes me ashamed for feeling cheated because I didn't have my parents longer.

2 Canadians are charged

HOUSTON (AP) — Two Canadians accused of attacking a Brink's armored car guard have been charged with attempted capital murder and aggravated robbery.

State District Judge Ted Poe ordered Mario Valiquette, 28, and Dores Gatien, 39, held without bond Friday.

Police said they expected to transfer Valiquette from the intensive care unit of Ben Taub Hospital to the hospital jail ward. But Gatien remained in the intensive care unit and in serious condition, officials said.

The two are accused of attacking guard Bernie Saintes, 27, Wednesday as he delivered bags of money to Intercontinental Bank in far north Houston. Saintes and the robbers exchanged shots and the pair fled, leaving the money behind.

NUCLEAR ENERGY
U.S. lags in power development

Man engaged in fire research

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Edwin Smith's burning desire is to see that you can eat, sleep and work safe from the hazards of fire.

To that end, he will try to burn a part of anything you use — chairs, tables, drapes, carpet, bedding — to help those who might find themselves in real blazes.

The work has made Smith an authority in fire research. He has written standards used nationwide for materials that go into buildings, furnishings, equipment and supplies.

Smith, who holds a Ph.D. in chemical engineering, developed a small-scale fire test method adopted by the American Society for Testing and Materials as the standard system to test materials and products.

In a laboratory littered with rolls of wallpaper and vinyls, sheets of wallboard, bats of insulation, blocks of plastics and other materials, he has burned or charred segments of just about any material used in building and furnishing hotels, offices or dwellings.

To test them all, he built a device that measures all critical elements of fire. The apparatus is now used worldwide to test ignition points and burn rates of everything from common wallpaper to the newest man-made fibers and plastics.

Smith, 60, teaches introductory chemistry at Ohio State University while continuing his research.

He became interested in fire researh after he was asked how to quantitatively describe the way a substance burns. It became a burning question, so to speak, and answering it raised more questions that have involved much of his time since the late 1960s.

"I came up with this release rate apparatus," he says, describing an electric furnace where burn, char or melt characteristics of a substance can be closely measured and recorded.

Using up to 60 amps of electricity to heat four metal rods in front of a vertical metal reflector of about 2 square feet, the furnace heats to closely controlled temperatures — up to 1,600 degrees Fahrenheit.

The box-like gadget measures "four of the principal parameters involved in describing a fire. Ease of ignition, size of flame or rate of heat release, combustion products released, and flame travel rate.

"If we know how a particular surface burns in a time-temperature circumstance, then we can predict how it will perform in a real fire."

Results of his tests are likely to show, for example, that floor covering intended for use in a nursing home should meet different standards for exposure to heat than the same floor covering used in a commercial building.

"It's amazing at how much change can be made by getting rid of one or two bad items in a room. It can improve the chances of preventing fires immensely."

Alcoholism touches all Nancy says

DETROIT (AP) — First lady Nancy Reagan told a group of autoworkers participating in a rehabilitation program that every family, including her own, is touched by alcoholism in some way.

"My husband's father was an alcoholic," Mrs. Reagan told workers at General Motors Corp.'s bus and truck plant in Pontiac on Friday.

"Many times he would have to go down to the bar and bring him home, or find him down in front of the house on the ground and get him into the house," she said.

Mrs. Reagan was in Michigan to accept the National Council on Alcoholism's 1984 Humanitarian Award.

The workers described to her their addictions and the way their lives changed because of Crossroads, an employee assistance program operated jointly by GM and the United Auto Workers union.

"It was fascinating to hear them say the same words to me and expressing the same feelings as the young ones would express," Mrs. Reagan said later. "You couldn't help but think if we could please get them when they're young and tell them what lies ahead ... they could avoid so much tragedy in their lives."

Dissident gets special degree

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov, winner of the 1975 Nobel Peace Prize, is being awarded an honorary degree from the University of Pennsylvania for being "a symbol of free inquiry in a land where free inquiry is not respected."

Sakharov has also been invited to deliver Penn's baccalaureate address May 20.

FARMER'S HEALTH

Many farmers risk their eyesight every spring as they plow anhydrous ammonia into their fields without proper eye protection. As most accidents occur while connecting hoses or adjusting valves, a wise farmer will wear goggles at these times. Inhaling too much ammonia can cause a pneumonia-like condition.

Three maids to split discovered money

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Honesty pays handsomely, as three hotel maids learned when a bundle of cash they found stuffed under a mattress turned into a mammoth tip.

Annette Morris, Beverly Long and Cheryl Dolezal, of the housekeeping staff at the local Ramada Inn, were told Thursday they could split the $1,835 they found because it had been unclaimed since December.

They had turned the loot in when they found it, but City Attorney Stephen Sawyer told police to give it back.

Sawyer said the refund "appeared to be the proper legal thing to do." He based his decision on a 1975 city policy that finders may be keepers if a true owner does not claim abandoned money after a reasonable amount of time.

Three arrests were reported by Snyder police Friday.

These included one female suspect taken into custody for outstanding warrants involving driving with an expired motor vehicle inspection sticker and failure to appear for court hearings.

Other arrests involved two male suspects, both charged with public intoxication.

City truck in mishap

A city-owned dumpster truck was involved in a minor mishap Friday — backing into a parked 1981 Ford owned by Walter Lee Holmesly, 3602 Irving.

Minor damage was reported in the mishap, which occurred around 7:42 a.m. on the parking lot of Taco Villa.

The driver of the truck was listed as Asension Lopez Rios, 3010 Ave. E.

At Wit's End

by Erma Bombeck

Cooking for two is not the religious experience I thought it would be.

When the kids moved out, I got rid of the trough and bought two placemats shaped like tulips. My husband and I weren't going to "eat" anymore. We were going to "dine." It was then I discovered there are no escargot helpers, no stovetop bearnaise sauces, and no flaming flambes that you could just add water to.

There was another revelation I had to face. When you're over 50, there just aren't enough days left in your life to waste preparing Peking Duck.

We started to eat out a lot. The kitchen became a place where we just went to get a drink of water. I had a lot of guilt over our $20,000 drinking fountain until I read where Mimi Sheraton, a national restaurant critic of many years, said she and her husband were at the point were they couldn't look at one another across the dining room table, so they ate out, mainly because the quality of their conversation was higher in a restaurant.

That's it! I couldn't put my finger on it before, but the woman was right. It isn't what you eat, it's what you say over it. Our conversation at home was reduced to car repairs, kids and bugs under the sink. We were short on ambiance. I'd say, "are you going to sit down to dinner or are you going to clean out the refrigerator?

I'm looking for the mustard, he'd say.

"You don't need mustard with all that salt in it."

"I don't need bursitis, but I've got it!"

"What are you staring at?" I'd ask.

"The exhaust fan over the stove. When was the last time you cleaned it?"

"EAT!"

"What am I eating?"

"Don't ask."

When we eat out, I tend to drop the name Mikhail Baryshnikov for no good reason. I ask a waiter who speaks only Italian how the sauce is prepared and nod my head like I know what he has just said. I apply fresh lipstick between the dessert and coffee course.

My husband sniffs a wine cork and blesses it. He waves pepper away like it was an unwashed relative and spends the evening discussing our policy in El Salvador.

I don't know what makes the difference.

It's possible we're phonies.

El Salvador...

Reagan ordering, weapons, supplies

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is using his executive power to order emergency shipments of weapons and military supplies to the government of El Salvador, a move likely to worsen relations with a Congress that has balked at supporting much of his Central American policy.

The shipments were announced Friday by White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes, who said Salvadoran payment for the goods would be delayed for up to 120 days.

Immediately, the action prompted murmurs of surprise and some angry outcries from Capitol Hill.

"I think it's wrong, wrong, wrong," said Rep. Clarence Long, D-Md., chairman of the House Appropriations subcommittee on foreign operations. "Obviously, the message now is, 'Any time you get pressured too much by Congress, we are going to come to your aid with a military drawdown.'"

Long said the president's decision would "make it very difficult for him to get the kind of cooperation ... that he has got in the past" from the House and Senate.

Sen. Robert Kasten, R-Wis., said he would have preferred that Congress appropriate the money, but said the emergency action was "second best because they can get the dollars they want."

Kasten said the White House "has been bending over backward to work with Congress," and was forced to resort to an end run because lawmakers have been uncooperative.

The administration is seeking $61.7 million in aid for El Salvador, and House Democrats have proposed to cut that to $32 million. Speakes said Reagan hopes Congress will approve the Salvadoran aid package through regular channels before the 120-day period ends in mid-August.

While Reagan did not set a precise ceiling on the amount of aid, one administration official, speaking privately, said it was not expected to exceed $32 million over the next 10 days.

The president's action will permit El Salvador to draw on Pentagon stocks to buy four Medivac helicopters, training equipment, communication spare parts, ammunition and helicopter spare parts, said Speakes.

Announcement of Reagan's decision followed a daylong series of consultations between the White House and Capitol Hill.

DYE EASTER EGGS—NATURALLY

The first Easter trail Peter Cottontail hopped down was in Pennsylvania and that first trip took place in 1728, long before commercial egg dyes became popular.

Back then many Pennsylvania Dutch children used natural dyes from herbs and foods to dye the eggs that were then exchanged as tokens of good times to come.

This Easter your children might enjoy making their own dye (with your help) as well as coloring the eggs. They might even learn something about the many uses of foodstuffs along the way.

For softer, lighter shades, prepare the dye and strain it to remove the herbs, roots or foodstuff used to obtain the color. Then, dip and turn precooked eggs in the dye until you get a pretty shade. To create a deeper shade, simply make the dye and cook the eggs at the same time, allowing the eggs to simmer for as long as 20 minutes to reach deepest hues.

Another method of dyeing eggs is to wrap raw eggs in bits of the dye-making plant or food and then tie them in cheesecloth. When the eggs are boiled the dye is transferred directly to the eggshell, leaving a unique mottled effect.

Adding vinegar or alum to the dyeing mixture will increase the strength of the dye.

Here are some "recipes" for various colors:

For yellow dye use chamomile tea or dandelion blossoms, pour boiling water over the tea blossoms, cover and let stand for half an hour. Strain the liquid and add a teaspoon of vinegar and the dye is ready.

Make gold dye by simmering two tablespoons of tumeric for 20 minutes. Add a teaspoon of vinegar before dyeing eggs. Since tumeric does not dissolve, the coloring will be slightly marbelized.

A brass-brown shade results from onion skins, even red onion skins. Place the skins in a pan of water and simmer until the desired shade is obtained. Strain the liquid and add a teaspoon of vinegar and the dye is ready.

Lavender-blue eggs can be made with blueberries or grapes. Crush the berries or grapes by hand or in a blender. Add water and simmer for a few minutes. Strain the mixture and add a teaspoon of vinegar to complete the dye. Use a similar method to make robins-egg blue from cabbage.

Good year reported by Junior League

NEW YORK (AP) — The Association of Junior Leagues sponsored 2,123 projects in 1982-83, an increase of 22 percent from the previous year, association president Anne Hoover has announced.

In the same period, AJL member Leagues spent a total of $9,462,079 on their community projects, an increase of $2.5 million over last year. Junior Leagues raise money for such projects through thrift shops, cookbooks and activities such as holiday bazaars, sports and cultural events.

It is estimated that 8.4 million hours were volunteered by provisionals and active members last year, with sustaining members adding considerably to that total.

Master drawings

WASHINGTON (AP) — An exhibition of 75 old master drawings from the Albertina in Vienna wll go on view at the National Gallery of Art here Oct. 28.

The exhibition, "Old Master Drawings From the Albertina," will be on view through Jan. 13, 1985. It will include drawings by Michelangelo, Raphael, Durer, Cranach, Bruegel, Rubens, van Dyck and Rembrandt, among others.

Some of the works, such as Durer's "Praying Hands," have never before been seen outside the Albertina.

Anniversary reception slated

HERMLEIGH—A reception for Mr. and Mrs. Grover L. Wall will be hosted by their children, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wall of Pampa, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Wall of Houston, and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Jones of Amarillo, on April 21. The reception in honor of the couple's 50th wedding anniversary will be at the Hermleigh Community Center from 3-6 p.m. Other members of the houseparty will be the couple's grandchildren.

Wall was born May 26, 1913 at Omaha in Morris County. Mrs. Wall was born at Hermleigh Dec. 18, 1914. They met in Hermleigh and were married May 3, 1934 at the home of Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Devers in Snyder.

Mr. and Mrs. Wall of Rt. 2, Hermleigh are members of Central Baptist Church and the Hermleigh Masonic Lodge and Eastern Star. They have six grandchildren.

All friends and relatives are invited to attend the reception.

Gann tale lacks usual high drama

GENTLEMEN OF ADVENTURE. By Ernest K. Gann. Arbor House. 445 Pages. $16.95

For years, Ernst K. Gann has had no equal as a writer of novels about aviation, past and present.

His books included such gripping tales as "The High and the Mighty," "Fate Is the Hunter" and "The Aviator." Some were made into highly successful movies.

Now Gann is back with still another novel of fliers and their times, with central characters whose lives span the era from World War I until after World War II. They take the reader along with them from the time when planes just barely flew, on into the jet age.

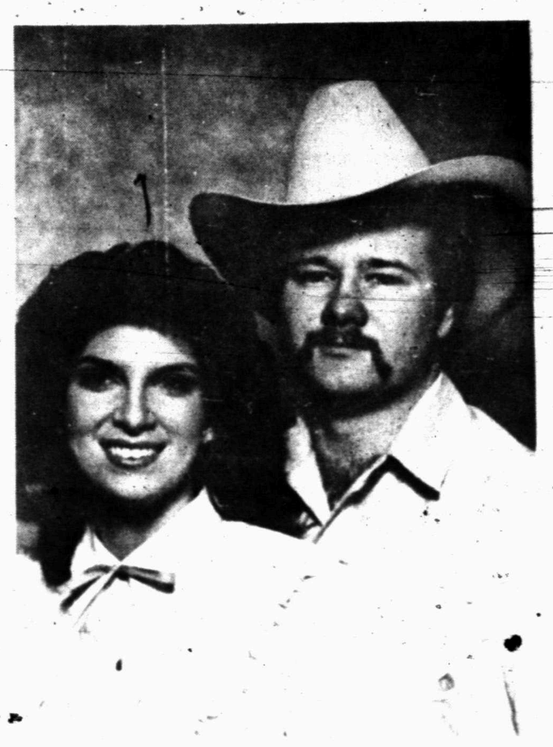

This story lacks the high drama and growing intensity of other Gann books. It is, however, a fascinating account of people and the planes they flew during the decades of aviation growth.

For added spice the author's characters know and work with many of aviation's celebrated pioneers — including such figures as "Slim" Lindbergh, Amelia Earhart and Howard Hughes.

In a foreword, Gann says he personally knew most of the notables portrayed and flew nearly all the aircraft described in the story — "Thus it has been easier to take fact and make it fiction."

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED—Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Earl Chandler of Ben Wheeler announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Darla Kay, to James Randell Berry of Wills Point. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Randell Berry of Wills Point. The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Chandler of Snyder, Lillie Cantrell of Ben Wheeler and the late Rolen Cantrell formerly of Snyder. The couple plans a May 25 wedding at Walnut Springs Bible Baptist Church near Canton.

COME FOR DESSERT
Fluffy Dessert & Coffee

CLEVA SAILER'S GRAHAM FLUFF

Kindly contributed by a good cook from Hampton, Iowa.

Topping, recipe follows
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
2 large eggs, separated
½ cup sugar
¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup heavy cream

Make up Topping and, reserving ½ cup, pat remainder over bottom of a 13- by 9-inch baking pan. Soften gelatin in water. In a double-boiler top vigorously stir together egg yolks, sugar and milk; cook over simmering water, stirring constantly, until mixture begins to thicken. Off heat, stir in gelatin until dissolved. Chill until partly thickened. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold in. Without washing beater, beat cream until stiff and fold in. Pour into the prepared pan. Sprinkle with reserved ½ cup topping. Chill to set. Serve topped with whole strawberries.

Topping: Crush 12 square graham crackers and mix with 2 tablespoons brown sugar (light or dark) and 2 tablespoons butter (melted).

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

The Vienna Coup, supposedly played by the best player in Vienna some 150 years ago, is a beautiful play. It consists in playing a top card of a suit so that an opponent now has an established winner in that suit and must hold on to it.

In today's hand, South is in a slightly optimistic seven clubs. North's seven-club call was the stretch that gave South problems.

South is forced to win the first trick with his ace of diamonds. He enters dummy with a high heart so that he can lead a diamond and ruff it in his hand, thus getting rid of what he thinks is East's last diamond. South then leads a spade to dummy's ace for a Vienna Coup. The coup will produce a squeeze if either opponent holds three hearts and the spade king. South now ruffs a third diamond to make sure that East is out of that suit.

South is not going to bring the contract home if West holds the king of spades but, as the cards lie, South can walk the streets of Vienna in perfect safety.

Trumps are run and the lead of the last trump produces a three-card ending. South holds the queen of spades and two hearts. Dummy has K-Q-3 of hearts. West's hand doesn't matter. He would be squeezed if he had started with four hearts, but East holds those cards and is now stone-cold dead. To keep his king of spades, East has to discard a heart, setting up dummy's three of hearts for the 13th trick.

Beauty Digest

Inner cleansing

You've overindulged during the weekend round of parties and dinner dates and you're feeling heavy, bloated and blah! Don't go on a crazy crash diet of skipping meals. That will only leave you tired and vitamin and nutrient starved. Instead try a day or two of a liquid fresh fruit and vegetable diet. Six times a day — every three hours — drink six to eight ounces of juice. Alternate fruit juice with vegetable juice. If you buy the juice from a health-food store, make sure you drink them as soon as they are made in order to get all the vitamins and minerals. Try grapefruit juice, carrot juice, orange juice, a vegetable broth, or a combination of carrot, celery and beet juice. After just one or two days, you will feel light, fabulous and clean, clean, clean!

What's cooking?

Eggs don't only belong in the kitchen! Bring them into your bathroom and you will find you have a great way of getting rid of those oily hair blues. First, take the yolks of two eggs and mix in a few drops of fresh lemon juice. Work the mixture into freshly washed wet hair. Let the mixture sit for five minutes and then rinse off with warm water. This kitchen-conditioner will keep your hair shiny, clean and oil free until you wash it again two or three days later!

Research on use of daycare centers

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Ideas about parenting may change as a result of research on the increasing use of daycare centers for infants.

James Connell, a member of the University of Rochester faculty, says he is exploring the idea that day care does not affect an infant's development directly, but only through its impact on the family.

"If the effect on the family is good, the child may benefit," Connell says. "For example, day care may improve the parents' satisfaction with their marriage and careers, and this may lead to a better relationship with their baby. However, the effects of a good day-care experience for the child may be wiped out if the parent is dissatisfied with the center or is using day care for the wrong reasons."

In 1534, the British Parliament transferred to King Henry VIII all judicial and political powers formerly exercised in the country by the Vatican.

Beef cook-off finalists told

Texas CowBelles have announced the five finalists who will compete in the 7th Annual Texas Beef Cook-Off.

They are Beverly Sebastian of Fort Worth, Sandra Mosely of Bridge City, Jean Connor of Palestine, Loanne Chiu of Arlington, and Thelma Evans of Dallas.

There were more than 240 beef recipes submitted for judging from which the five finalists were chosen.

They will prepare their beef dishes at the foods labs at Texas Tech University on April 28. Six qualified persons will judge the dishes.

Tours and parties are planned for Friday and Saturday for contestants, judges, food editors, CowBelles and other guests. CowBelles from across the state are expected to attend.

The winning cook will receive $500 and an expense paid trip to the National Beef Cook-Off to be held in Albuquerque, N.M. in September. Second and third place winners will receive $300 and $200 respectively.

Winners of the national beef cook-off will receive $5,000 for first place, $2,500 for second place, $1,000 for third place, or any of the five honorable mention awards of $300 each.

What Is a Hat?

A Piece of Magic Is a Hat!

A HAT is a flag ... a shield ... a bit of armor ... the badge of femininity.

A HAT is the difference between wearing clothes and wearing a costume; it's the difference between being dressed and being dressed up; it's the difference between looking adequate and looking your best.

A HAT is what carries you to church ... wafts you through a party ... turns you into a well-dressed woman on a shopping spree.

A HAT is to be stylish in ... to flow under ... to flirt beneath ... to make other women jealous and all men feel masculine about.

A HAT is a conversation piece ... a morale booster ... therapy for drooping spirits ... a flatterer to banish years and put stars in your eyes.

A HAT is the pride of the present and the nostalgia of the past.

A HAT is what turns a girl into a woman ... a woman into a lady. Better still, a hat is what turns men's glances to your head and turns their heads to the heart.

Sale of arms called 'crazy business'

PARIS (AP) — Often he brings his dog with him to the restaurant, but it has been hot, unusually so. So he has sent the old animal to the country for its comfort.

Besides, tonight he has guests, acquaintances from America. They will like the intimacy, the quiet side street. Very typical.

Don't be fooled by the decor, or lack of it, he says. Everything here is good. He points to the girth of the proprietor as proof. They trade good-humored insults.

He flourishes a leather-bound menu. Yes, you will like everything.

Had he been as tempting with that other menu, the shopping list he sold for his government to the nations of the world?

He laughs, but not too much. What he had sold were jet fighters, tanks, rifles, rockets. He had been an arms salesman.

"A crazy business," he says.

He proposes we follow the advice of his friend, the proprietor, and start with a chilled pink champagne cocktail with a slice of pineapple. It helps one forget the evening heat outside.

Weapons, truly? Why?

Well, he is an engineer, an industrial technologist named Pierre (he prefers that his full name not be used). Modern arms are at the forefront of technology. The opportunity to know them seemed fascinating. Besides, his country had asked him. He did not say so, but he had performed notably in the Underground during the war.

"The government called. What could I say?"

Ah, but we are here to eat. Start with the salad Perigordine, he says, sliced raw vegetables blended subtly with gizzards. Very, very good. Two at the end of the table instead order a mousseline of turbot; fish. He waves a finger at the irreconcilables and declares them in exile.

He is a man of wit and high spirits, not young, not old, hardly one's image of a weapons merchant. He is jaunty, entertaining, not the least furtive. Why should he be? He was a salesman, a good one, not a back alley conspirator. It had not cost him his perspective.

"Yes, a funny business, no? The Exocet, the missile the Argentines used to sink the British destroyers in the Falklands. But of course, it is French. But its guidance system, that is made by the British. Not many know that. They were sunk by their own rockets! Crazy.

"When I was in Lebanon, they used to have these ceasefires. The Arabs who had stolen Mercedes-Benzes in their sector would drive them into the Christian territory to sell. The Christians would drive the Mercedes-Benzes they had stolen in their sector into the Arab section to sell. That way the police in each sector couldn't trace them. Then the fighting would start again. Yes, crazy."

The salad eaters pass on a sampling of their dish to the fish eaters. The fish eaters, reluctantly, return the favor.

The wine has arrived. It is a rose from the Loire region, chilling in a silver bucket perspiring with cool droplets of condensation. No dish should be without its wine, and a good rose harmonizes with most of them.

Money is the wine of the arms business, he says. "Politics, principles, everything is second to money. I learned how to say baksheesh — bribe — in all languages. That's how you sell armaments. Everybody has his hand out for kickbacks. In one Arab country there's a sliding scale, 80 percent to the top officials right down to one dirham for a buck private.

"But the seller has leverage, too. Ammunition. Without it, you can't shoot your new toys. The Russians sell tanks, of course, but they have smaller cannon and engines than the Russian models, so they won't be turned against them some day. And they hold back on ammunition and spare parts, so they can still wield influence over the buyer.

"The best weapons? American tanks are very popular because they have the best air conditioning and the smoothest ride. Studies show soldiers fight better when they are comfortable.

"American aiming devices are very good, too. They even account for the slight droop of the gun barrel caused by the heat of the sun.

"The Russian AK-47 is a very popular rifle. The American M-16 used to jam easily, but that was fixed, so it is now much in demand. Next would come the German and Belgian NATO rifles."

A deft waiter in a white jacket and black bow tie serves the main course. Some have chosen a chicken fricasseed in a brandied cream sauce the color of autumn sunlight, laced with morels. One has a plump duck cooked with young figs.

"Weapons become obsolete in five years," he says, "so, business never stops. They sell to the half-honest countries like India. When the weapons start getting old, they sell them to the quarter-honest countries. When the quarter-honest countries have no further use for them, they sell to the terrorists. So it goes. You can make a lot of money.

"Statistics show it takes $125,000 to buy enough weapons, on average, to kill one person."

He takes a bite and shakes his head, as if in wonderment that a world that can make such calculations can also prepare so sublime a chicken.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Closely supervise work of a critical nature that others do for you today. Mistakes could slip through if you neglect to inspect their jobs.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Use your smarts today and don't take unpopular positions that oppose the will of the majority. You won't like it if everyone comes down on you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you have a domestic problem to resolve today, do it within the confines of your home. Keep in-laws out of the picture.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your opinions are likely to be challenged today. Be prepared to back up your statements with irrefutable proof.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If there is someone to whom you're obligated that you've been ignoring, you could be caught in a corner today in which he or she asks you, "How come?"

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Try not to make decisions that speak for your mate today. There's a chance his or her desire might diametrically conflict with yours.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) There's a possibility you haven't as yet learned your lesson from a past mistake. You might set the scene again for an old familiar problem.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today you will be judged by the company you keep, so select your companions with care. Don't mix with types who can tarnish your image.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Try to avoid involvements today where you know, going in, that the odds are stacked against you. Challenges of this nature are pure folly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today you might encounter a headstrong individual whose views are directly opposed to yours. Don't waste time trying to convert this party.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you're making a major purchase today, be sure it's backed up with an ironclad guarantee. Make certain that it's in writing, not verbal.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be fair in working out agreements with others today but strive to negotiate from strength instead of making unnecessary concessions.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Doing your duty should be uppermost in your mind today. What appears to be only an obligation could provide hidden opportunities as well.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Developments could occur that should enable you to rather easily handle a situation that previously seemed unmanageable. Get to it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today, don't let business or other outside interests cut into time that you should be spending with your family. Each need can be met.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you've been thinking about getting involved with a new social circle, today is a good day to crack the ice. Make your opening moves.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Unselfishness is a mantle that one can wear with pride. Today you'll cloak yourself in such a garment and earn the respect of others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Ambition and optimism are compatible components of your psyche today. With these two powerful factors going for you, outstanding achievements are possible.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Someone you helped in the past has never forgotten your favor and is now working on ways to do more for you than you did for him or her.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Hope should not be tempered with pessimism today. This could dilute your possibilities. Dreams can become realities when you focus on the positive.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Achieving important objectives is well within your reach today. Even though you may have to pay a price, the rewards will be worth it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You could be extremely lucky today in working out arrangements with key people who could help advance an important plan you have in mind.

Ferlin Husky hospitalized

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country music entertainer Ferlin Husky, best known for his songs "Wings of A Dove" and "Country Music is Here to Stay," is in the hospital, a spokeswoman says.

"The family has requested that no information be given out," said Sue Greer, spokeswoman for Nashville Memorial Hospital, after the singer was admitted Thursday.

Husky, 56, who lives in suburban Hendersonville, was hospitalized for a week last year after suffering a heart attack in Seattle. He underwent open heart surgery in 1977.

The singer also has been active in movies and television, making 18 movies with such co-stars as Jayne Mansfield and Zsa Zsa Gabor.

Peter the Great assumed the title of Russia's czar in 1721.

Editorials-Columns-Cartoons-Kidstuff-Look Back-Letters

A generation of West Texans grew up refusing to wear hats.

This was in direct contradiction to our fathers, who made it a habit to never go into the sunshine uncovered.

Whether it was to attend the spring graduation, to bury a friend or to pick a row of garden peas, Dad wore a hat.

To do otherwise was considered as foolish as buying on credit or being caught without a pocketknife.

In releases regarding the new exhibit at the Scurry County Museum — "Out of the Forties" — it was noted that the late-40's, middle-50's marked a transition period in this state.

Those of us who grew up in West Texas can only offer a silent "Amen."

The point was made that the state moved from one primarily comprised of farm families to one of city dwellers.

TV also produced its universal image about this time, and even West Texans suddenly got a look at the rest of the world.

It occurred to those of us in the farm communities that we didn't all look like Dobie Gillis or some kid from Philadelphia dancing on Dick Clark's American Bandstand.

Now, the 3,000 population communities which dotted West Texas would never be confused with a truly urban creation of concrete and glass.

But if we weren't exactly big city urbanites, we felt some resistance to being labeled a bunch of twangy-talking Mortimer Snerds.

We are speaking primarily of the farming communities located on the plains, where tractors were ridden in place of horses. Without a true ranching heritage, the image of cowboy boots and hats rang false to those of us too young to remember when cattle was more profitable than cotton.

Placed in this change, we searched around for a suitable "image," and many finally assumed a much admired character of the day — Joe College.

These were also the times when Sputnik first began making its mocking passes across U.S. nighttime skies. Education became the buzzword, and college seemed the logical step away from turning earth and planting seed.

So for a while a bunch of us looked like a bunch of other people. Button-down shirt, stay-press pants, loafers and a button-up sweater, all but the bottom two buttons buttoned.

Of course, everything changes every 10 years, and the 60's and early 70's brought a time when anything conventional was questioned.

About 1976, we passed a blaring television set one Saturday afternoon and noticed that the American Bandstand crowd was dressed in blue jeans, cowboy boots, tall hats and rodeo buckles. The in-crowd was dressing "Texan."

This fad like the rest passed.

But we're reminded of the story about a man who figured out what period in his life he had been the happiest.

Having done this, he simply returned to it — maintaining the outward look of the man he was then.

Since most of us seem to need an "image" of ourselves, it's an idea to consider.

Besides, the wife tells us that when we wear a hat the parsley looks better than the steak.

John Dunnam

The cool mornings and fragrant aromas suggest that spring has definitely sprung. That can only mean one thing: summer is near. Face facts, folks. It gets hot and dry in wind-blown West Texas.

Fortunately for some, summertime is also vacation time. The season for a change of scenery, and if you are smart, climate.

Everybody doesn't get to go. Some will be too busy minding the store, planting cotton or managing Little League. Others are just old-fashioned broke.

Being in the last group, I am now accepting contributions for a Caribbean cruise. If I'm going to be hot, I may as well be hot in a style I can get accustomed to.

If you have only a little to give, don't be ashamed. As the TV preacher says, "however little the amount, just fold it up and send it."

While the contributions are issuing forth, I'll entertain you with an account of my last journey so many long months ago.

It was late August when I arrived in Seattle. "What! No air conditioning?" was my first thought after I checked into my less-than-luxury hotel on the muggy Puget Sound waterfront.

I later learned that few of even the fancy places have this particular amenity that we deem a necessity in this neck of the woods. I soon found out why. There is no need. Seattle's warm nights are blessed with cool Pacific breezes. Before my first morning in the Emerald City dawned, I was rummaging through the ancient dresser in my room in search of an extra blanket. I ended up sleeping in my pants.

Seattle has been ranked as one of the most livable cities in America by various rating groups who get their jollies studying statistics. I know nothing of such things, but can tell you that Seattle is a great place to visit.

The waterfront is my favorite spot and Pike Place Market is its highlight. Puget Sound has the classic waterfront. Imagine endless rows of massive, creaking docks that play host to a lively traffic of sailing vessles and you begin to get the picture.

Night and early morning often find it shrouded in fog and solitude. Strolling about one misty morn, I expected at any minute to see a young Marlon Brando emerge out of the gray haze and announce, "I could of been a contender."

As the morning warms up, Pike Place Market begins to buzz with activity. Fishmongers, produce farmers and craftsmen hawk their wares to the noisy, jostling hoards that patronize the giant open air market. Adding more color are the musicians playing for your loose change.

The market is built on, over and under enormous piers that were once part of the waterfront. The brochure says there are 250 enterprises in this seven acre maze. At least.

The market evolved in 1907 when local folks decided that middlemen were gouging them out of their grocery money. It spread hap-hazardly and became so old and rickety that city fathers felt it had to go. An aroused citizenry went to the polls in 1971 and saved the beloved people place. Much money has been poured into its upkeep, but special care has been taken that it retain its grungy look.

And then there is Chinatown. Long known as the gateway to the Orient, Seattle is a place where East meets West. If you can get past the language barrier, there is nothing to stop you from sampling the intrigue and mystery of this opposite culture.

Narrow streets, lit by street lamps that look like lanterns, are lined with small shops, cafes and galleries. Adding more spice to this Asian stew are the relatively recent arrivals of Vietnamese, Laotians and Cambodians.

Pioneer Square is the birthplace of the city and a must for history buffs and lovers of old architecture. Seattle was a sleepy lumber town in 1889 when it was nearly wiped out by fire. The natives knew a good thing when they lost it, and the town was rebuilt in time for the Klondike gold rush. The boom put the town on the map and accounts for much of its lusty past.

Unfortunately, for most of the early soldiers-of-fortune, that was all they had — lust. There was gold in them thar hills, but few women anywhere. The situation got so bad that during Ulysses Grant's tenure a proposal was made to transport women from the east to the unbetrothed masses of Seattle.

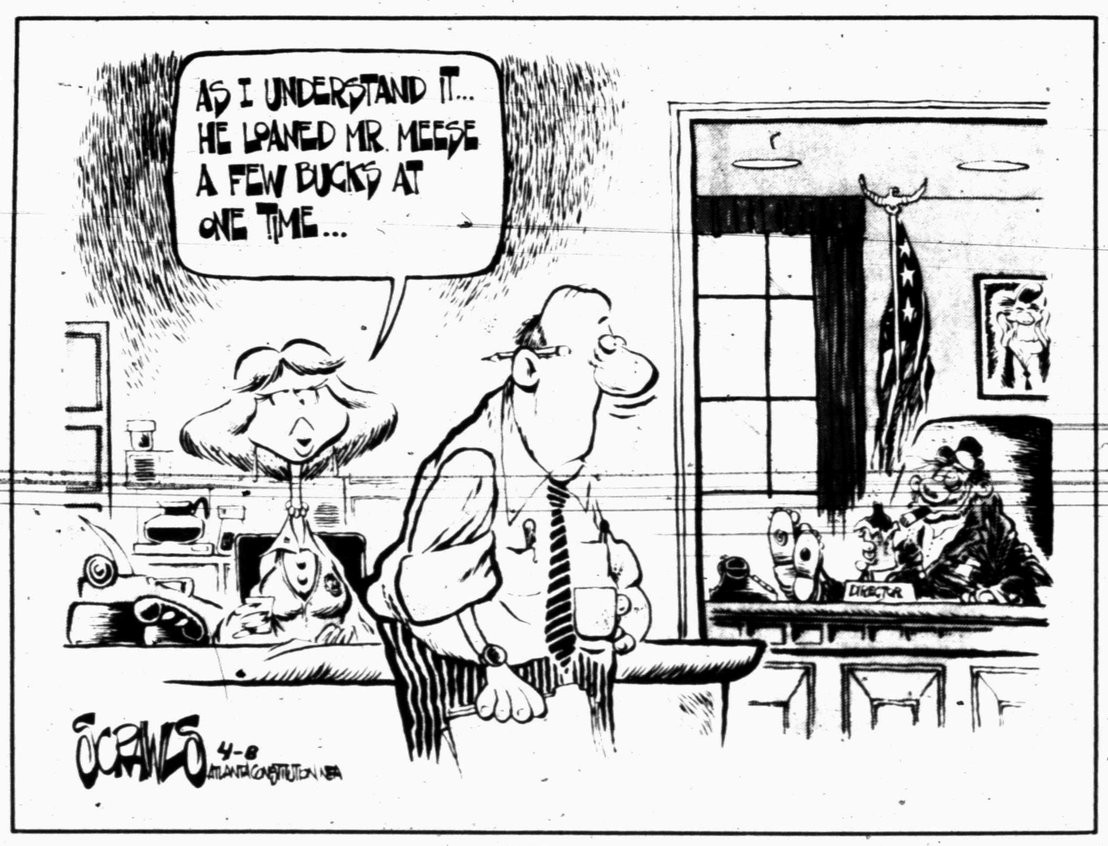

The President thought it a grand idea, but Congress said no. Nowadays there are slightly more women than men, which proves that nature does have a way of dealing with her problems given time.

By Northwestern standards, Seattlites are friendly and open to visitors. The worst that can be said of them is that they are a bit jealous and protective of their shimmering city by the sea. Who can blame them?

SATURDAY
April 7

All incumbent office holders who sought re-election were returned for new terms here Saturday in the college, school and city elections.

Winners for the college board were Bill Wilson and Roy Baze; for the school board, Allen Grimmett and J.D. Hinton; and for the city council, Rod Waller, Don Osborn, Tommy Davis and Troy Williamson.

MONDAY
April 9

New one-year contracts for 69 professional staffers at Western Texas College were approved Monday night at a meeting of the Scurry County Junior College District board of trustees.

An electric utility rate increase request was turned down Monday by Snyder city council members — a vote that passes along the decision-making process to the Public Utility Commission (PUC) of Texas.

Trustees of Scurry County Junior College District, seeking to correct what they term "an unintentional mistake on our part," voted unanimously Monday to petition the City of Snyder to de-annex a 300-foot strip of property which adjoins three sides of the WTC campus.

TUESDAY
April 10

The Snyder Junior High School 8th grade boy's choir and mixed chorus were the only junior high sweepstakes winners in UIL Concert and Sightreading competition in Abilene Tuesday.

Both local groups earned first division (superior) ratings in both phases of the competition to capture the sweepstakes titles.

The 21st annual Scurry County Child Welfare Board's annual meeting was conducted Tuesday night at the Senior Citizens Center.

Changes were approved Tuesday which will allow for an expanded course requirement schedule for students graduating from Snyder High School.

Proposed changes which will affect SHS entering freshmen next school year include the addition of an optional "advanced" transcript high school program which students may elect to take.

Snyder school trustees Tuesday heard a recommendation to expand "computer literacy" training to all Snyder elementaries — in particular making computer assisted instruction (CAI) available to all students in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

In addition, the board was informed that by next school year the Snyder ISD will be required to add a computer instructor at the junior high to conform with recently approved requirements from the Texas State Board of Education.

WEDNESDAY
April 11

The four Snyder High School choirs came away from the UIL Concert and Sightreading Contests in Abilene Wednesday with five first division (superior) ratings and three second division (excellent) marks.

The SHS girl's choir was one of only two sweepstakes winners in both the concert and sightreading portions of the competition.

The Scurry County Producers Association has set May 21 as the Uniform Delayed Planting Date for cotton, it was reported Wednesday.

The uniform planting date is used as a control measure against the cotton boll weevil.

THURSDAY
April 12

Supporters of a plan to have Snyder's first senior citizen housing area built received a setback Thursday as bids for the work came in almost $100,000 over budget.

Members of Snyder Senior Citizens Inc. will now negotiate to see how expenses might be reduced or funding amounts increased.

Board members for Cogdell Memorial Hospital Thursday approved a change in medical benefits offered hospital employees — a change that rasied deductable amounts to the employee.

Fulltime staffers at Cogdell receive these medical benefits at no cost.

FRIDAY
April 13

A reception is conducted Friday afternoon to welcome Snyder's and Cogdell Memorial Hospital's new surgeon.

The event, sponsored by the hospital auxiliary, welcomes Mark Pate and his wife Margie. They move to Snyder from Alpine.

Letters to the editor

To the editor,

Yesterday (April 11) for a couple of eternal hours, I suffered a mother's worst nightmare: a missing child.

I had reason to believe that our three-year-old daughter had been snatched from the front yard of our country home near Camp Springs. Never in my life have I felt so alone as when I stood on our windy hilltop and screamed my little girl's name...and never have I felt so blessed as, within the hour, my home began filling with friends, neighbors and people I've never even met — all who came to help. There were men with guns prowling abandoned farmhouses, others scouring pastures, women checking water troughs, holding my hand and helping me think straight through the paralyzing terror.

When the sheriff's deputies arrived, they were nothing but kind and helpful. No one said, "She's only been gone an hour," or "How do you know she didn't run away?"

When I called the Snyder Police Department — even though we do not live in the city limits — they gladly took and distributed her description. (The same with the Rotan Police Department and Fisher County Sheriff's Office). No one said, "That's not our jurisdiction," or "Has it been 24 hours."

And then when she crawled, bleary-eyed, from the closet laundry

OUR BOARDING HOUSE — with Major Hoople

Centennial Corner By Charles Anderson

Buffalo hunters' camp

The era for buffalo hunting in Scurry County lasted only two or three years. There had been numerous renegade hunters through here even before the Mooar brothers and Pete Snyder came in 1876. The real buffalo hunting, however, began in the fall of 1876 when John and J. Wright Mooar brought their wagon and hunters into the Deep Creek area.

This picture shows a typical buffalo hunters camp with the hides stretched on poles freshly cut from the creekbanks. Generally, hackberry was growing along the banks of the creek. One could also find the cottonwood tree and mulberry. The mesquite was not to be found in Scurry County when the first settlers came here.

Buffalo hides were stretched on the ground, wagons, tents and on poles to dry briefly before they were hauled to Fort Smith for shipment by train to the east. 'Pete' Snyder followed the Mooar brothers into Scurry County in late 1876 and hauled their first buffalo hides out of the area. He would travel to Fort Worth and return with goods needed by the hunters. These were sold in his trading post or from his wagon. The trip to Fort Worth and back would often take six months as he would sometime take side-trips to deliver goods needed by the settlers and hunters. Snyder was also the mail carrier and would deliver mail to Fort Worth by way of Buffalo Gap. He would usually stop on his return from Fort Worth at Buffalo Gap to pick up mail for the hunters and settlers in Scurry County.

The buffalo hunters' camp was well furnished with a tent, wagons and cooking utensils. Men were hired for the hunts who were experts at skinning buffalo, and they could have one skinned and the hide hanging sometimes in a few minutes.

It was not unusual for Indians to attack the camps in hopes of driving the hunters from their sacred hunting grounds. The Indians efforts proved fruitless, however, as the hunters were well equipped with Sharp Rifles which could kill sometimes for three or four hundred yards.

Buffalo camps lasted only two to three years. By the time hunters reached Scurry County, the vast herds of buffalo had either been killed or scattered. The few buffalo remaining roamed in small herds in the canyons to the west and north of Deep Creek. Excerpted from: "Deep Creek Merchant: The Story of William Henry 'Pete' Snyder" by Charles G. The Shoppe...

C-W group to sing here

A country and western band, The Shoppe, will be entertaining on April 20 in the Fine Arts Theatre at Western Texas College.

The program is under the sponsorship of the WTC Fine Arts Association and is open to the public. Tickets will be $4 for adults and $2 for students and may be reserved by calling the Fine Arts office at 573-8511, ext. 234.

Some have compared The Shoppe to the sounds of the Oak Ridge Boys or the Gatlin Brothers. They prefer to say their sound is uniquely their own. One reviewer commented they have the same relaxed stage presence as Alabama with a dab of wholesome clean-cut Six Flags Over Texas-type showmanship.

Making up the band are brothers Jack and Clarke Wilcox, Johnny Park, Jimmy Guyles, Brent Pendleton and Lou Chavez. The Wilcoxes started the group in 1968 and have kept Dallas its home base. Jack sings and plays bass while Clarke plays guitar and banjo and sings. Park is the lead singer and lead guitarist, Guyles plays fiddle and guitar, Pendleton plays piano and sings, and Chavez concentrates on drums.

The Shoppe plays many festivals and fairs, including the Texas State Fair in Dallas. They will be coming to Snyder from Knoxville, Tenn., where they will appear with the Beach Boys at the Dogwood Arts Festival. An appearance on the Nashville Network is in the offing but the date has not been confirmed.

The Shoppe has had four records in the national country charts. They have been nominated the past four years for "Vocal Group of the Year" by the Country Music Association and have won the "Entertainer of the Year" title from the Country Music Revue Association of Fort Worth for the past three years. The governor of Texas has appointed the group Ambassadors of Goodwill of the Lone Star State.

The Shoppe's show is a tight package of entertainment including vocal harmonies, instrumentals and comedy. "Making people laugh is as important as playing good music," says Jack Wilcox.

Two albums were turned out by The Shoppe last year, and they will be bringing them along for sale to members of the audience who would like a souvenir of the evening. The albums are "The Shoppe" and "You Ain't Heard Nothin' Yet." The best known of the group's recording is "Doesn't Anybody Get High on Love Anymore?," one of those on the country chart.

Group arrested in robbery try

HOUSTON (AP) — Canadian police were traveling to Houston to question a group of people in the robbery and slaying of a Brink's guard near Montreal last year.

Three men and three women were arrested by Houston police Thursday at a motel, officials said. They were being held for questioning in an attack on a Brink's guard in Houston

Egypt is eyeing its abundant sunshine as potential source of energy

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Egypt, the land of sunshine, is slowly turning to solar power as an infinite source of energy as the country faces a future of declining oil resources and shortages in electricity.

But Egyptian experts say the program won't get off the ground until the government encourages people to use solar equipment in place of conventional fuels, which are cheap here thanks to the government subsidy program.

Egyptian engineers predict the country will fall short of its electricity needs by 1997 using conventional sources such as oil and water power from the Aswan Dam. They have urged the government to use solar, wind and geothermal sources to make up the shortage.

Two years ago, the government unveiled plans for expanding the use of solar power, with the goal of producing 5 percent of the nation's total energy needs by solar and other renewable sources by the year 2000.

To finance the plan, the government has earmarked $50 million for solar development. The United States, Brazil and Canada have provided loans and grants worth more than $45 million, with the Americans contributing $24 million of the total package.

But Egyptian experts doubt solar power will catch on with the public unless the government encourages them to purchase solar devices for such things as heating or operating small private generators.

Although Egypt has abundant sunshine, many Egyptians see no need to use solar power when their heating and electric bills are already so low due to government subsidies of electricity, oil and butane gas, the principal fuel for cooking and heating.

Government statistics show it costs 8 cents to produce one kilowatt hour of electric power, while Egyptians pay only 2 cents a kilowatt hour for the product.

Although the subsidies are a burden on the national economy, they are a boon to average Egyptians. Monthly electric bills for private homes and apartments rarely amount to more than about $24, even if the occupants use television sets, electric space heaters or other energy-draining appliances.

Child rescued by neighbor

AUSTIN (AP) — An Austin woman was "a hero in the true sense of the word" when she pulled an 18-month old infant from a burning apartment moments before trapped gases inside exploded, a fire official says.

"She braved the flames and rescued a child who would no doubt have died," Fire Capt. Danny Stamper said of Janice Ray, 24, a neighbor who pulled the infant through a bedroom window.

Pirate legend persists on island

CAESAR'S ROCK, Fla. (AP)–Few people care to visit this ugly mangrove-covered island these days any more than they did around 1700 when Black Caesar ran his buccaneer operations from this edge of the Atlantic Ocean.

There's no visible sign on the two-acre outcropping of land that would help link it to the legendary black pirate — nor prove that it's ever been inhabited.

Small boats can't be run up on shore because of the island's craggy limestone edge, and the place defies visitors with its thick mangrove shrubs. Refuse from passing boats has accumulated in the underbrush over the years.

For the inquisitive who wade or jump ashore after crossing seven miles of Biscayne Bay from the mainland, there are no paths to explore the island. Apart from uncontrolled vegetation, the only living thing here 30 miles south of Miami seems to be mosquitoes. Even rats haven't bothered to come for the garbage, and there's no sound of birds.

It ominously seems as though the island belongs to the spirit of Black Caesar.

"No one ever asks to go there," admits Ed Roberts, a ranger at Biscayne National Park, established in June 1980. Part of the U.S. National Park Service, it covers 175,000 acres of pristine waters, subtropical islands and living coral reefs.

The oval-shaped land mass is wedged between Elliott Key and Old Rhodes Key and legend has it that Black Caesar used it as a base to prey on passing vessels, particularly slave ships.

The real name of the Haitian born pirate, said to have been aslave himself, was either Henri Caesar or Caesar LeGrand. Another account says he was born on the Caribbean island of Dominica and later enslaved in Haiti.

Sometime in his 20s, he escaped and freed 20 men he found in a jungle prison. These became his followers and later part of his crew.

It is said he took his first ship by killing the pirate captain on board. He renamed it the Ebony Eagle and flew the Jolly Roger from its mast. For 28 years, he roamed these waters as a privateer wrecking ships, freeing slaves and taking prisoners.

One account tells of a huge iron ring imbedded somewhere on the island which Black Caesar used to keel over his ship so its mast couldn't be seen by passing ships.

He's described as cruel and is supposed to have kept a prison camp on Elliott Key. They say he had a penchant for jewelry and more than 100 women supposedly graced his harem over the years.

Betty Bruce has been librarian of the Key West Public Library for many years and five generations of her family have spent their lives in the keys.

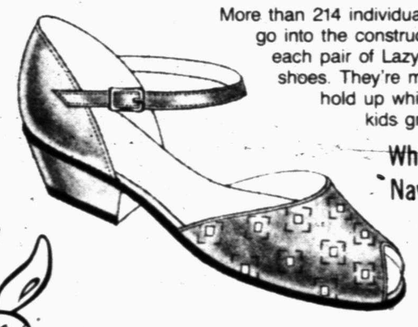

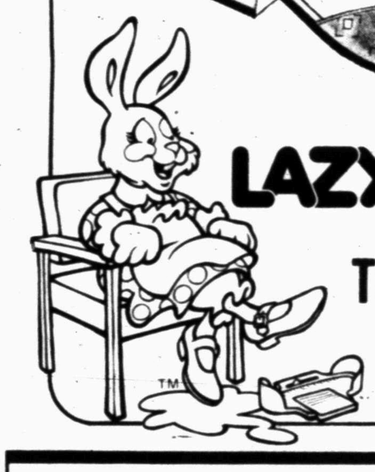

"It's so hard to track down these pirates," Mrs. Bruce says with a laugh.

Nancy collects panda money

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Nancy Reagan stopped at a suburban grammar school to accept three one-gallon pickle jars packed with "Pennies for Pandas" from the fourth-graders.

Asked if she had seen Ling-Ling and Hsing-Hsing, the Washington zoo pandas whose difficult love life is faithfully reported by the capital press, Mrs. Reagan said she knows them. "And I hope they have a baby," she added.

The question was one of a number posed by the 33 Metairie Grammar School youngsters Thursday after Mrs. Reagan said she will travel to China soon with the president and will deliver the money gathered by schoolchildren all over the nation in a drive to keep China's charming bears from starving. The children collected about $125 in pennies.

The finicky bears are endangered because China's bamboo forests are now in a growth cycle which does not produce tender shoots they eat. About 1,000 survive, and a third of these may die without help.

Crime prevention program slated

Crime prevention will be the subject of programs scheduled Monday through Wednesday in the Senior Citizens Center.

All the programs will begin at 11:30 a.m. in the dining room. Judy Edwards from the Rape Crisis Center in Abilene will present the first program, "Assault Awareness," on Monday. Sheriff Keith Collier will present "Con Games and Swindles" on Tuesday morning. Deputy Sheriff Larry Ball will speak on "Home Security and Safety" on Wednesday.

"We have arranged this series of programs to make this important information available to all local senior citizens," Gloria Shaw, center director, said. "We hope everyone will feel free to attend the program even if they are not regular visitors to the center."

The center will be closed on Friday and Monday, April 20 and 23, for the Easter holiday. Regular hours, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., will be resumed on Tuesday, April 24.

Tickets for the May Day barbecue will go on sale Monday. The barbecue will be part of May Day on May 19 and tickets will be limited to 1,000. Tickets are $5 each.

Balky elevator stalls tour

TEXARKANA, Texas (AP) — Gov. Mark White and local officials, off on a Friday the 13th tour of a new justice center building, spent about 10 minutes stuck in an elevator.

After greeting about 250 people on the first floor of the Bi-State Criminal Justice Center, still under construction, White and 12 to 15 others piled into the elevator for the tour.

Instead of climbing to the fourth floor, as planned, the elevator descended to below the ground floor and its doors locked.

The Spanish explorer Cortez reached Mexico City in 1519.

College to host school contests

Western Texas College will host students from several areas for a social science contest April 19, Dr. Franklin Pruitt, contest director, has announced.

Students will be competing in four contest areas: American history, government, Texas history and government and current events.

Pruitt will be in charge of the U. S. history contest, John Forshee in charge of the government competition, Robert Adams will direct the Texas history and government, and Dr. James Palmer will direct the current events contestants.

Contestants will probably be divided into two divisions according to the size of the school in which they are enrolled, Pruitt said. Medals will be awarded to the top three students in each contest area. Winners will accumulate points for their schools and the school in each division with the most points will receive a plaque.

In addition, the top senior in each contest area will be awarded a scholarship to WTC.

Registration for the visiting students will be held from 9-10 a.m. in the Student Center. Guided tours of the campus are planned from 10-10:45. Members of the Student Senate and Phi Theta Kappa will be assiting with these activities.

At 10:45, the students will meet in the Fine Arts Theatre for an official welcome and final contest information. The contests will begin at 11 a.m. and continue to noon. Students will be invited to eat lunch in the college cafeteria at noon and sponsors accompanying them will be guests for a luncheon in the faculty dining room there.

Awards will be presented in an assembly scheduled for 1:30 p.m. in the Fire Arts Theatre.

Schools which have already notified Pruitt that they plan to attend are Snyder, Sweetwater, Abilene, Clyde, Seagraves, Roby, Hermleigh and Coahoma high schools.

"WTC hosted social science contest some years ago and we hope to make them an annual affair again," Pruitt said.

Make movie of paraplegic's accomplishment

CHICAGO (AP) — Nan Davis, the paraplegic who attracted national attention in 1982 by walking with the aid of a researcher's computerized apparatus, is advising a CBS crew filming a television movie of her dramatic achievement.

The wheelchair-bound Ms. Davis, who turns 24 on Sunday, also will play a small part in the movie "First Steps."

Beautiful pecan trees and regular harvests of high quality pecans begin each spring with frequent zinc sprays. Good foilage is the secret to optimum growth, healthy trees and regular production. Mature pecan trees can have double the amount of foilage with three or four zinc sprays in April and May. Leaves on the mature trees can grow six feet instead of six inches in one year if zinc is sprayed onto the foilage every two to three weeks from April until August. This is of course in combination with a good management program according to Dr. George McEachern, state extension horticulturist.

There are two types of zinc which can be used in Texas, zinc sulfate or NZN. Each is effective. Commerical pecan producers have used zinc sulfate with good results for over 40 years. Caution will need to be used however because zinc sulfate can kill many types of plants, so spray it only onto pecan foilage. NZN is a new type of zinc which is a liquid. It was developed by Dr. J. Benton Storey of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. NZN is highly soluble, less toxic to other vegetation and readily available at many garden centers.

The commercial rates of zinc for spraying pecan foilage in Texas are two pounds of zinc sulfate or $1\frac{1}{4}$ quarts of NZN per 100 gallons of water.

The homeowner should use two teaspoons of zinc sulfate or NZN in one gallon of water.

Other forms of zinc, such as zinc chelates or tree injectors, have been tested but have not been found to be an effective source of zinc for pecans in Texas.

Zinc is utilized by pecan foilage for the manufacture of a growth hormone called indole-acetic-acid. Without zinc and indole-acetic-acid pecan growth is greatly reduced. The leaves will be small and the shoots will be short and in clusters forming what is commonly called "zinc rosette." Zinc is not readily translocated from shoot to shoot; consequently, frequent zinc sprays are needed if new growth is to receive zinc. This is also why good coverage is important.

There are over 600,000 acres of native pecan trees in Texas. Yet strange as it may seem pecans are one of the few plants that cannot absorb zinc from the soil. Texas soils frequently contain very high levels of zinc but because of the high ph nature of alkaline soils a high percentage of the soil zinc is not soluble in the soil water and is thus unavailable to the pecan. Applications of zinc to the soil are of no significant value to pecan trees in Texas.

Relative humidity has a great effect on foilar absorption of zinc. In far West Texas extreme difficulty can be encountered in getting the zinc into the leaf. Along the Gulf Coast, absorption can be extremely easy. Zinc should not be concentrated to 2X or 4X rates because foilage burn can result during periods of high humidity. The use of spreaders are not recommended because they can result in accelerated drying and reduced zinc absorption.

A pecan grower can determine if his zinc sprays are effective by observing the amount of terminal growth the trees make during the year. Mature trees should make five to 10 inches of shoot growth annually. Nonbearing trees should make 24 inches of shoot growth each year. In addition, leaves collected in August or early September can be analyzed in a chemical laboratory to determine the concentration of zinc in the leaves.

Zinc alone is not the answer to perfect pecans. It is however, a very important cultural requirement. With good zinc management other cultural practices such as fertilization and irrigation will be more effective. However, fertilization or irrigation without zinc sprays is of little value. So, zinc sprays are one of the pecan growers most important first steps to success each year.

Management short-course on pecan trees

A management short-couse on pecan trees will be held April 26 at the Dawson High School ag department in Welch, Tex. The program will begin at 8:45 a.m. with coffee and donuts.

The agenda for the meeting will include: pecan management, pecan orchard management, pruning, irrigation and weed control. The short-course will also include a tour of a shelling plant.

Dr. George McEachern, state extension horticulturist, will present the program. Dr. McEachern is known for his expertise in both pecan and fruit tree management.

All area residents are welcome to attend.

HAVE YOU READ ANY GOOD SIDEWALLS LATELY?
Maybe you didn't realize it, but there's a lot of good information on the sidewall of your tires.
The sidewall tells you the maximum inflation pressure recommended. The number of body plies used. The kind of cord. And more.
But most important, it tells you the brand name. That's especially critical, since all tires look alike — on the outside.
Next time you read a sidewall, look for the name Goodyear. It's a brand name you can trust.

Artwork brightening stations

LONDON (AP) — New underground artwork is reminding passengers on the London "Tube" that theirs is the oldest underground rail system in the world, and they're not complaining.

Baker Street and Portland Street stations in the city's downtown would not seem out of place in scenes from a Sherlock Holmes mystery.

And the fictional sleuth himself, who lived at 221B Baker Street about the time the two stations opened in 1863, is spotted in the tube every day by thousands passing on their way.

With a $98 million budget in the 1980s for renovation of its more than 100 underground stations, London Transport is putting aside some of its funds for finishing touches.

Besides converting three of the oldest stations to their original look, the company has put up colorful murals on some platforms, as well as tile and ceramic silhouettes of famous British figures and storyline depictions of local historical scenes.

"People who have been traveling the line for years say 'What have they done to this place — it looks great,'" said London Transport railman Arnold Roberio, 56, scanning the late-night crowd at Baker Street.

Many underground stations, particularly in outlying areas, still look little better than coal mine shafts. But London Transport is at last taking account of the tube's historical and aesthetic potential.

Posters and layers of grime and old plaster have been scraped off the walls at Baker Street station, exposing the original sandstone bricks.

Ceiling alcoves that once let out steam and fumes from the old coal-fired trains have been fitted with sodium lights and new reflective tiles to create the impression of shafts of daylight.

And 10-foot-long cast-iron benches, replicas of the Victorian age, will soon replace red, wooden benches.

In addition to platform renovations, costing $1.96 million, smaller projects are under way at Portland Street and Euston Square, all of them on the Metropolitan line, the oldest stretch of underground railroad in the world.

On Baker Street's Bakerloo line, red and black tile silhouettes of Holmes, complete with deerstalker cap and drooping pipe, line the platform.

Much of the artwork represents the atmosphere above ground, or scenes in the locality.

"Tottenham Court Road has a huge mosaic of confused, bright patterns to look like the jazzy world outside," said David Hales of London Transport, which has its own architecture department.

"Bond Street is a very fashionable area and I think the pattern there is a hat box. It's snakes and ladders at Oxford Street to reflect the image of the station." Oxford Street is London's major shopping district.

Underground artwork first appeared along the Victoria line in the 1960s. Individual tile or ceramic emblems distinguish each station — a royal figurehead at Victoria Station, tree leaves at Green Park.

The first major mural was completed five years ago at Charing Cross Station, a popular tourist area between Trafalgar Square, the National Museum and Whitehall, the government office district.

The platform walls have mosaics of a dozen scenes depicting the construction of the 13thcentury Charing Cross, a replica of which stands in the station's forecourt. It is believed to be the largest single piece of artwork in London.

David Gentleman, the designer, spent almost a year on the project, using subtle ways to fit the scenes around existing objects like seats, trash baskets and the circular London Transport logo. In one picture, a carpenter seems to be about to sit down on one of the real platform benches.

"The scenes," he said, "depict the quarrying, the carpenters making the framework around which the arches of the cross were built, the cranes they used to heave stones about, the architect masters."

O. Carroll picked pageant finalist

Ollie Noirlla Carroll, 18, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell G. Carroll of Snyder has been selected to be a finalist in the 1984 Miss Northwest Texas National Teenager Pageant to be held in Odessa April 27-29. The Miss Northwest Texas National Teenager Pageant is the official pageant to the 13th annual Miss Texas National Teenager Pageant to be held in June in Fort Worth.

The winner of the Miss Northwest Texas National Teenager Pageant will receive a $1,000 cash scholarship, a full four-year tuition scholarship to Oklahoma City University, a full tuition modeling scholarship to Barbizon of Dallas, a $2,400 scholarship from Wayland Baptist University, numerous other awards, and an all-expense paid trip to compete in the Miss Texas National Teenager Pageant.

Sabrina Lynch of Plano, the reigning 1983 Miss Texas National Teenager, will crown the new queen.

The 1984 Miss Texas National Teenager will be competing for over $75,000 in cash, scholarships and prizes.

Each contestant accepted will be requested to participate in the Volunteer Community Service Program of the National Teenager Pageant. This program encourages teenagers to share and to participate in school and civic activities. A mini-modeling charm course will be given during the weekend of the pageant.

Contestants will be judged on scholastic achievement, leadership, poise-personality, and beauty. There is no swim suit competition. Talent may be presented at the option of the participant or an oral essay on the subject of "What's Right About America?"

Carroll is being sponsored by Travis Flowers, Thompson Shoes, Mal Donelson Chevrolet, Johnson Insurance Co., West Texas State Bank and Snyder Athletic Center.

Her hobbies include skiing, cooking, cheerleading, jazz and aerobics.

Lack of interest frustrates inventor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Perched atop his refrigerator is Charles Salloum's $10 million dream.

That's where the frustrated inventor keeps the 3-foot models of the round skyscrapers he thinks are sure to catch on one of these days. He's been waiting 27 years to be discovered.

"Can you imagine living in something like this?" he asks, proudly displaying a Rotovator, filled with model cars and tiny elevators. "All I have to do is show this to the right people. When the right people see this, the rest will take care of itself."

So far, the only place Salloum's Rotovator has been built is inside his one-room apartment in the seedy Tenderloin, three floors above a chili-dog stand.

The Rotovator is a round skyscraper with a 20-story parking garage. It contains a hotel, shopping center, helicopter pad and a rotating rooftop restaurant. It has 345 apartments, 695 parking spaces, 12 elevators and a candy shop. Salloum likes candy.

He figures his invention could fetch $10 million from some far-sighted developer.

"It would be a real bargain," he said. "The man who builds these buildings is going to make millions and millions of dollars."

He sees his invention as a way to solve big-city parking problems in areas where there are too many cars and not enough spaces.

"The Rotovator is something that will help people," he said. "Otherwise our cities will drown in cars."

Salloum doesn't take the inventing business lightly. The 66-year-old retired hotel worker said he had borrowed $250,000 from his family to invest in the Rotovator. Much of that money has gone to patent attorneys who have obtained reams of documents, schematic drawings and seven U.S. patents.

The heart of his Rotovator idea is the automated car-parking concept. He says the problem with other parking garages is that they're never built high enough. The reason for that, he says, is that drivers get dizzy going up all those circular ramps.

The Rotovator's elevators would whisk cars to upper levels, where a computer would locate an empty parking space. A giant circular platform of parked cars would rotate to direct the driver to the empty stall.

Salloum said his structure could fit about twice as many cars into the same space as a conventional garage.

A native of Lebanon, Salloum grew up in Egypt. He came to New York in 1962 with $1,000 in his pocket and visions of Rotovators whirring in his head.

For years he worked by day and developed his skyscrapers at night.

"I don't understand why someone hasn't bought me out by now," he said. "These things work like a Swiss watch."

In a 10-page illustrated brochure about his invention, Salloum summarizes his own plight.

"Strange and shocking as it is," the brochure says, "this extraordinary project has met (with) nothing but deaf ears and blind executives."

Diamond M Museum plans local seminar

"Photographing Images of West Texas" will be the topic of a noontime seminar Thursday in the Diamond M Museum. Harley Bynum, local photographer and a member of the Professional Photographers of America, Inc. will be the speaker.

A soup and sandwich luncheon will accompany the seminar and luncehon tickets are $3 each. Persons planning to attend are to make reservations by noon Wednesday by calling the museum office at 573-6311. The number of reservations will be limited because of the seating space available.

The Diamond M is currently featuring an exhibit made up of photographs by Jim Bones, Jr. The exhibit is entitled "Texas West of the Pecos."

The Scurry County Museum has scheduled a seminar and luncheon on April 26. The topic there will be "The Impact of Oil on Scurry County Family Life." Luncheon tickets there will also be $3.

hamper where she'd covered herself and gone to sleep, no one said, "How stupid can you get?" The sheriff's deputy squeezed my hand and said, "Thank God it's good news."

After 10 years of living here, I never cease to be amazed at the plain, down-home goodness of West Texas people, especially those of the town I now call "home," Snyder.

Thank you, good people. I will never forget it.

To the editor,

This letter is a short story of abused children and the love extended to them by some people in Snyder.

My first experience with abused children dates back to the early 1960's. In 1962 I started sponsoring Debra. She was seven years old and she had just been removed from her father's home by the court. A sister that was younger and two brothers had also been removed from his home. She looked like any other seven year old girl and since the Children's Home needed a sponsor I agreed to sponsor her. It became evident on her first visit to my home that she was not just another seven year old girl. The scar on her back was deep and had been put there by her father. She was ill tempered even fighting at times. She was takened to the beauty shop to get her hair, which was in bad shape, in better condition. She loved the way it looked but came home and jumped up and down until it was limp and straight. I did not have any experience with abused children and I was about at the end of my rope when some Snyder ladies asked if Debra could visit with their daughters. I agreed and that started the break through. When she could see how other little girls acted, she wanted to be more like them. I had three happy years sponsoring her but Snyder ladies and their daughters were always a part of that sponsorship.

There have been other girls and so many wonderful ladies and daughters standing by giving their support. I especially want to mention the late Jeanette Rylander, who was always helpful. Now we find that our need for a home for abused girls is growing each day. They are helpless if we don't help them. Please give the abused girls of Snyder the "option and opportunity" for a better life.

(Editor's note: the following letter was mailed to hospital administrator Cy Miller and to the SDN).

Dear Mr. Miller,

I am writing to thank you and the members of the staff at Cogdell Memorial for the magnificent care given my mother, Mrs. Roland Sullenger, during her recent stay in the hospital.

Mother came to the hospital seriously ill and underwent major surgery. Dr. Rao, Dr. Cooper and all the staff who cared for her exhibited the highest standards of service. With no exceptions, everyone was very competent, very efficient and very caring. The staff routinely went beyond the call of duty in attending to my mother. The splendid care she received helped her greatly in making the best possible response to her illness. I speak for all my family in expressing our deepest appreciation to all of you.

CARD OF THANKS 060

I WANT to express my sincere thanks to all our friends for the food, flowers, cards, visits, and especially your love and prayers during the long illness and passing of our loved one, SAM GLOVER. Your love has meant so very much to us.
Joy Glover
and family

TO THE host of friends who came to us with love and sympathy, to those who could not come but sent flowers or messages of condolences; we want to express our deepest appreciation, we are indeed grateful for the beautiful flowers and for the food that was served. May God's blessing be upon you is our prayer.
The Family of
C.R. (Joe) Sneed

WE WISH to express our sincere appreciation to our many friends and neighbors for their acts of kindness shown us in the passing of our beloved wife, mother and grandmother, GEORGIA DAVIDSON. Thank you for your prayers, the beautiful flowers, the food you brought to our home, for the many cards, calls and visits and the contributions made to organizations in her memory. Special thanks to Dr. Pierce and the hospital nurses. May God Bless you all.
