The SDN Arab-Israeli War Endures

Column

The official count begins at 6 o'clock this evening on the traffic toll for the July 4th holiday weekend.

Gov. Preston Smith, Col. Wilson Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, along with news media, safety organizations and others are conducting a campaign to cut the predicted highway death count in Texas of 46 in half during the weekend. This type of campaign, although perhaps not so intensive in every case as this one, is not unusual for holiday periods. In fact they tend to grow monotonous and often it appears that those who are active in the campaigns are butting their heads against the proverbial brick wall.

Why bother trying to get people to try to refrain from killing themselves on the highways? Their lives are at stake and if they don't care, why should others?

The answer, of course, is that the lives of others are involved — lives of some who are "innocent," or have no control over the proceedings — just as the lives of others are affected by those who methodically kill themselves off drinking, smoking, taking drugs, or participating in reckless activities. The tragedy might be tempered somewhat if they didn't take others with them, or cause anguish for others.

So it becomes a problem of direct concern to many and as such it justifies all efforts, regardless of how monotonous they may appear.

Chamber of Commerce Manager Mickey Nunley had a sticky problem this week. Some of his Jaycee contemporaries gave him a small building he helped construct with his own hands a few years ago for use as a Jaycee fireworks stand. They delivered it to his door during the nocturnal hours Monday. However, the 10 foot by 10 foot structure added nothing desirable to the landscape in the eyes of Mrs. Nunley. By Wednesday, he was trying to give the little building away, but had found no takers.

SECRETARIES INSPECT SIGN — The Chamber of Commerce sign at the north city limits on U. S. 84 has a new message to passersby, advising the traveling public that Snyder is now the home of Western Texas College. Mavis Brumbelow and Jerriann Smith, secretaries in the Western Texas College administrative office and the Snyder Chamber of Commerce office, look over the new sign this morning. For nearly two years the sign had carried a "sparkle city" message.

US, Russia Move Closer On Proposal

By MICHAEL GROSS
Associated Press Writer

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli planes attacked SAM2 antiaircraft missile batteries at the southern end of the Suez Canal today and other targets along the waterway, the Israeli military command announced.

A spokesman said the planes also raided "war targets" along the northern coasts of the Gulf of Suez.

All planes returned safely, he reported, but he gave no indication of what hits they scored.

One of the chief purposes of the daily Israeli raids across the canal has been to knock out the SAM2 launching sites which the Russians have been establishing along the canal for the Egyptians. The Israeli command admitted earlier this week that SAM2s brought down two Israeli planes on Tuesday.

On Israel's eastern frontier, Arab gunners in Jordan fired rockets at two settlements in the Jordan Valley but caused no casualties, the command in Tel Aviv said. A spokesman said the fire was returned.

Diplomats at United Nations headquarters in New York said there are indications that the Soviet Union and the United States have moved closer together on how to settle the Arab-Israeli conflict.

Diplomatic sources said Wednesday that both countries recently made proposals indicating they had softened their requirements for a Middle East peace settlement.

The sources said the Russians now propose formal Arab "commitments to peace" becoming effective following the first phase of Israeli withdrawal from the Arab territories occupied in the June 1967 war.

The U.S. proposal calls on Israel to settle for permanent boundaries that would be the same "in principle" as the pre-war Arab-Israeli lines, the sources said.

The Arabs have been insisting on complete Israeli withdrawal from the occupied territories, and the Israelis have been demanding direct negotiations based on Arab recognition of Israel as a state.

Western and Soviet diplomats have been trying to reach an acceptable compromise at the Big Four talks in New York and at U.S.-Soviet talks in Washington.

The talks in both cities center on the resolution approved by the U.N. Security Council on Nov. 22, 1967, which calls for settlement of the 1967 war with a "just and lasting peace" based on Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territories and Arab acknowledgement of Israeli sovereignty within recognized boundaries.

The Russians had been asking the Americans how they interpreted "recognized boundaries," and the Americans were asking the Russians how they interpreted a "state of peace," diplomatic sources said.

Service For Mrs. Brooks

Mrs. Alma Brooks, 76, of Hillcrest Lodge died at 4:55 p.m. Wednesday in Cogdell Hospital.

Mrs. Brooks was born Sept. 21, 1893 in Cookeville, and had been a resident of Scurry County since 1900.

The funeral was set for 4 p.m. today in Bell-Seale chapel with the Rev. J. Lowell Ponder of Dallas officiating. Burial was to be in Snyder Cemetery under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home. Grandsons were to serve as pallbearers.

Mrs. Brooks is survived by four sons; Weldon and Milton Brooks of Snyder, Jack Brooks of Hobbs, N. M., and Paul Brooks of Canyon Air Force Base, Clovis N. M.; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Poteet of San Diego, Calif., Mrs. Virgie Brooks of Mullins, Tex., and Mrs. Ora Ponder of Dallas; two brothers, Oran Thompson of Snyder, and Elvin Thompson of Carlsbad, N. M., eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Brooks married Frank Brooks on Nov. 5, 1915. He preceded her in death in 1954.

She was a member of the Baptist church.

Nixon Picks Bruce As Paris Talks Negotiator

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Nixon has strongly defended the Cambodia operation while naming a new U.S. negotiator to the long-stalled Paris talks on ending the Vietnam war.

David K.E. Bruce—"one of America's most distinguished diplomats," Nixon said in an hour television-radio interview Wednesday night—will take over the post vacated by Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. last December.

Without disclosing any new peace formula, Nifon said Bruce "will be in a position with his new instructions to tell the opposition...that we are willing to see whether we can narrow the gap between their position and ours."

Bruce, 72, a Maryland native and lifelong Democrat, has served under five presidents including ambassadorships to France, Germany, and Great Britain. He will go to Paris by the first of August.

Indochina was the prime topic and the Mideast secondary as Nixon underwent a quizzing from three network panelists in his first public appearance since the June 30 pull-out of U.S. ground forces from Cambodia.

On the Mideast, Nixon portrayed the Arab-Israeli conflict as potentially more dangerous than Southeast Asia because it has the possibility of a big war with the Soviets and Americans on opposite sides. He said the United States would not allow the military balance to shift against Israel.

But it was on his controversial decision to send U.S. troops into Cambodia April 30 that Nixon waged his most vigorous defense—and quickly started drawing a rebuttal from congressional critics.

With a swipe at the Senate's Tuesday vote to bar the President from sending U.S. forces back into Cambodia, he declared:

"As commander-in-chief, I had no choice but to act to defend those men (the Americans in neighboring South Vietnam.

"If I am faced with that decision again, I will exercise that power to defend those men. It will be done."

Nixon rated the two-month U.S. foray against enemy sanctuary areas inside the Cambodian border as "the most decisive action in terms of damaging the enemy's ability to wage effective warfare that has occurred in this war to date."

He also said "Cambodia's chances of surviving as a neutral country are infintely better now than they were on April 30."

Nixon refused to say point-blank that he would never order GIs back into Cambodia—"when you say can I be pinned down to say that under no circumstances would the United States ever do anything, I would not say that," he told one questioner.

But he stated "we do not plan on it, and under the circumstances, I believe that the success of the operation which we have undertaken, as well as what the South Vietnamese will be able to do, will make it unnecessary."

He said some 8,000 South Vietnamese troops remain in Cambodia cleaning out sanctuary areas. And if Cambodia's Lon Nol regime should fall to the Communists—"a hypothesis I do not accept"—he said:

"The answer is that we continue in our course in South Vietnam to defeat the enemy there, and the South Vietnamese, who are now a very formidable fighting force, will certainly see to it that the sanctuary areas are not again occupied."

Nixon said despite the Senate's vote to repeal the 1964 Tonkin Gulf resolution—the authority cited by President Johnson in sending troops to Vietnam—"I believe we have legal justification and I intend to use it" in carrying out Vietnam policy.

"The legal justification...is the right of the President of the United States under the Constitution to protect the lives of American men," he said.

He struck at the no-more-Cambodias amendment sponsored by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., which the Senate passed 58-37 Tuesday after long debate.

SEATO Opens 15th Meeting

MANILA (AP) — The Southeast Asia Treaty Organization's Council of Ministers opened its 15th annual meeting on a stormy note today as Thailand's foreign minister denounced "Western politicians ... for harassing and persecuting loyal SEATO members."

In an obvious reference to U.S. Senate doves, Foreign Minister Thanant Khoman said his own nation and others had been attacked with "unrestrained rage and fury ... in a sad display of mental pollution and perversion."

He warned that if SEATO is scrapped, the peace and security of Southeast Asia will then have to be safeguarded "by other means and arrangements based on new realities and changing facts of international life."

U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers sought to reassure the SEATO allies that under the Nixon Doctrine the United States intends to remain a Pacific power and will not withdraw into a shell of isolationism.

"We will support the efforts of our Asian friends to maintain their own sovereignty and security," he said. But Rogers again emphasized that the Nixon administration under the policy of Vietnamization, is turning over the primary responsibility for ground combat to the South Vietnamese and is looking to nations directly threatened by Communist forces to provide the manpower for their defense.

Foreign Minister William McMahon said his government's decision to withdraw one battalion of its force in Vietnam reflects the growing ability of the Saigon government to look after itself.

Rogers said the United States will give limited military assistance to Cambodia, but the U.S. aim in Cambodia is to protect the allied programs in Vietnam.

He called the increased cooperation between Cambodia and its neighbors—South Vietna, Thailand and Laos—a "logical and principled response to a common danger." But he stressed that the United States does not favor any military association between SEATO and Canbodia.

He said that neutrality of Cambodia, like that of Laos, will "contribute to the stability for peace in Southeast Asia."

South Vietnamese Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam, attending as an observer, said that only a swift military move by the United States and South Vietnam kept the Communists from taking over Cambodia.

Opening the meeting Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos called for an Asian political forum that would include all countries in the region, regardless of differences in political beliefs and systems.

"An Asian forum suggests immense possibilities in the explorations of opportunities for peace," he said.

the manpower for their defense.

In line with this, Australian Foreign Minister William Mc-

60 Prizes On List For Fourth

Over 60 prizes will be awarded Saturday evening in Towle Memorial Park preceding the big fireworks display which will climax the community Independence Day celebration here.

Bentley Baize, who has been working with the committee arranging for merchandise prizes said that all local business people who had been contacted were contributing prizes for the occasion. The big award of the day will be a color television set.

Meanwhile, those selling "tickets" for the fireworks display were to report to the Chamber of Commerce office this afternoon. Tickets will be on sale during the day Saturday at various locations in the park.

A variety of activities will be going on at the park, beginning with the traditional flag-raising ceremony at 9:45 a.m. and continuing through the fireaorks display scheduled for 9:45 p.m.

The Independence Day celebration, which is coordinated through the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, has been held annually since 1961.

Mrs. Harris Dies Today

Mrs. Ethel Harris, 77, of Snyder died at 8:25 a.m. today at Cogdell Hospital. Mrs. Harris was a long-time resident of Snyder. She was a native of Hill County.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. A. J. Armstead of Snyder; two sons, Delbert Harris of Snyder and Henry Harris of Phoenix, Ariz., and one grandchild.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Bell-Seale.

She was a member of the Church of Christ.

Eagles Face New Danger

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's national bird, the bald eagle, already threatened by pesticides, apparently faces another man-made danger of poisoning from mercury compounds, the Interior Department said today.

Scientists at a wildlife research center near Laurel, Md., said two eagle corpses found in Minnesota contained lethal amounts of mercury, and two others from Wisconsin had smaller mercury contents.

The research center will test for mercury whenever dead bald eagles are sent to it for study.

Director Eugene Dustman said the eagles apparently are absorbing mercury from the fish they eat.

College Bonds Are Rated 'A'

The Scurry County Junior College District's mission to the New York City financial district bore fruit this morning.

Dr. Robert Clinton, president of the college, said that the college had been advised by Moody's rating service that the local college district's bonds had been given an "A" rating.

This was the purpose of a trip made to New York by Dr. Clinton; M. L. Broman, president of the college board; George Patterson, board secretary, and Joe Smith of First Southwest Co., the college district's fiscal agent.

The college plans to offer the $3¼ million bond issue for sale on July 13. The ratings of the bonds by the New York firms affect the interest rate, those with high ratings normally commanding lower rates than those that are rated at lower levels.

Ths Scurry County Junior College District delegation which conferred with the rating agencies returned to Snyder last night. They appeared before officials of two rating firms, Moody's and Standard and Poor. The Standard and Poor rating has not been received, but is expected sometime next week. However, Smith told college officials this morning that the "A" rating by Moody's brightened the prospect for a good interest quotation on the bonds.

Good Adverse Neutral

You can't teach an old dog new tricks . . .

By Abigail Van Buren

[© 1970 By Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: I read your column and respect your advice. Now solve this for me. I am a widow. What do you do with a guy who says he loves you, and wants to marry you? He seldom spends any money on me [and he has plenty] and when we're out with people he hardly looks at me, but flirts openly with all the young, good-looking women, and afterwards he tells me how "gorgeous" they are, but never a word about me.

I have gotten mad at him and even told him to get lost several times, but I always forgive him and take him back. I need compliments, too. If I marry him I'm afraid I'll be miserable. He's a good catch, but I think he is a "shmo." What do you think? M. I. W.

DEAR M. I. W.: I think he's a "shmo," too. But if you think that after you marry him he will spend money on you, and quit flirting with other women, and give you the compliments you hunger for, then you're a bigger "shmo" than he is.

DEAR ABBY: Our unmarried daughter is sharing an apartment with an older professional woman of domineering disposition. My husband has a responsible executive position with a large firm and we are both very well educated and have traveled all over the world.

We were invited to meet our daughter at her office, and tour the building. My husband wore an expensive suit and I wore my best looking slack suit with my prettiest accessories. We wanted our daughter to be proud of us. And we thought she was.

A few days later, my daughter's roommate told me in no uncertain terms that I had "humiliated" my daughter beyond words because I had worn slacks while visiting her office. This was said to me in the presence of my relatives at a luncheon. My daughter just sat there agreeing with the woman. Please tell me if I am wrong to be upset?

BOTHERED

DEAR BOTHERED: You daughter's failure to come to your defense probably bothered you more than the rudeness of her roommate. Leave them to each other and forget it. Slacks are now acceptable for afternoon wear almost everywhere and if that's the worst "humiliation" your daughter ever suffers, she'll be lucky.

DEAR ABBY: I disagree with your answer to EARLY BIRD [the gal whose husband said she was "nuts" because she got up at 4:30 a. m. to do her housework. She said she couldn't sleep.]

I would say that "Early Bird" is basically selfish. I wonder if perhaps her reasoning is only an excuse.

In our marriage, some of our most meaningful experiences have occurred in the early hours of the morning. I value the closeness my husband and I have too much to deny him [and miss out myself] on such close communication.

Maybe the problem would be solved if "Early Bird" would climb back into bed about half an hour or so before she knew her husband had to get up.

I can't imagine any happily married man or woman enjoying waking up to an empty bed.

HAPPILY MARRIED

CONFIDENTIAL TO D. J.: No child was ever "spoiled" by too much love. Too little discipline, yes, but not too much love.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Letter writing can be a breeze. For Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Two Killed In Plant Cave In

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Two construction workers were killed and nine injured when the roof of a clothing manufacturing plant caved in Wednesday.

Police identified the dead as Juan Gonzales, 45, a carpenter, and Harold Greer, about 50.

The men, employes of the Karam Construction Co. of El Paso, were repairing the roof of a shipping warehouse belonging to the Mann Manufacturing Plant.

The roof, which had been damaged in heavy rains Tuesday, partially caved early Wednesday morning, and the second cave-in resulted in the total collapse of the relatively new building.

Between sixty and a hundred Mann company employes escaped to safety.

Police said the roof was overloaded with a heavy accummulation of rain.

Rotarians To Install Tonight

The Snyder Rotary Club will hold its annual installation dinner and Ladies Night meeting this evening at the Snyder Country Club.

Consequently, no regular noon luncheon meeting was scheduled by the Rotarians today.

R. C. Patton will install the new slate of officers at the dinner meeting tonight, which begins at 7:30 p.m. Frank Miller is scheduled to succeed H. F. Clark as president of the club.

IRAs Back Of Irish Disorders

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — About 10,000 militant Protestants paraded without incident through Belfast Wednesday night, but another march 40 miles away touched off minor battling between Protestants and Catholics.

A British army spokesman implied that the disorders in the town of Coalisland were instigated by members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

"Known IRA men were seen in the crowd," the spokesman said. "It proves who is behind the riots."

The rival religious factions hurled rocks, bottles and other missiles at each other and at British troops and local police firing tear gas. Four policemen, a soldier and several civilians were injured, and 10 persons were arrested.

The IRA, an extremist group that vows to reunify Ireland by force if necessary, is outlawed in both British-ruled Northern Ireland and in the Irish Republic to the south.

In Belfast, 10,000 members of the Protestant Orange Order held four marches peacefully under the watchful eyes of 700 British troops. It was a dress rehearsal for the annual parade July 13 to celebrate the 17th century Protestant defeat of Catholic troops at the Battle of the Boyne.

"Honor America" Plans Are Made

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Flags, fireworks and soul food are some of the ingredients that will go into Honor America Day activities designed to show love of country on this July 4.

"There will be no banners, no signs, just flags," says Robert E. Cole Jr., Honor America Day parade chairman in Waikiki. He described this Saturday's parade as simply a "flag carrying" march.

Negro leaders in Milwaukee have planned three days of soul food picnics, gospel singing and dances to honor blacks who have died in war. The activities will end July 4 with a parade to honor Crispus Attucks, a black patriot killed in the Boston Massacre prior to the Revolutionary War.

In Virginia, nearly 400 Boy Scouts are participating in a four-day marathon to carry an American flag mounted on a baton from Williamsburg to Washington, where they will arrive for the Honor America observances.

July 4 marks the 194th anniversary of America's birth as a nation, celebrating that day in 1776 when the Continental Congress adopted the Declaration of Independence.

This year Honor America Day activities that are centered in the nation's capital will be added to traditional Independence Day events.

The demonstration designed to show love of country is led by evangelist Billy Graham and entertainer Bob Hope.

The Washington, D.C., project will feature memorial and patriotic services at the Lincoln Memorial and a stage show ending with a fireworks display.

In Perry, Iowa, Independence Day will be celebrated July 3 so the Honor America festivities won't conflict with them, a local civic leader says.

Going to the nation's capital are hundreds of New Yorkers aboard the "Honor America Express," five busloads from Indiana, and several from Massachusetts and other areas.

Actor Howard Keel will read from the Declaration of Independence in Philadelphia's Independence Hall, the nation's birthplace.

Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston has ordered the ringing of bells in Roman Catholic churches to coincide with the Washington activities.

And in the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif., wives and families of servicemen missing or captured in Vietnam will be honored prior to a fireworks display.

In Atlanta, Ga., the Boy's Club is backing a "stand up and be counted day." Those calling a special telephone number get an American flag decal and their names placed on a scroll taken to the Washington festivities.

At the Rhode Island Statehouse July 4, the Southern New England Committee for a Victory in Vietnam plans a rally.

Boy Born With Bullet Hole

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — A 4½-pound boy was born Tuesday with a bullet hole in his left foot—a day after his mother was shot in the stomach in an argument with a man.

Both the infant, born a month prematurely, and the mother, were reported in satisfactory condition.

Strike Shuts Down Construction

HOUSTON (AP) — More construction jobs in the nine-county Sabine area were due to shut down today as 2,500 workers honored picket lines of sheet metal workers.

On strike are the 250 members of Metal Workers Local 196.

More pickets were expected, said Dick Sibley, president of the Sabine Area Sheet Metal Contractors Association.

Also striking were 1,000 members of Houston Sheet Metal Workers Local 54, which covers 21 counties. However, that union was only keeping its men off the job and not picketing.

Separate negotiations for both unions broke down after contracts expired Tuesday.

More money and better working conditions are demanded. There are predictions the Houston area strike may last three to six weeks and the Sabine area strike could go two to three months.

Absence of pickets in the 21 counties represented by Houston Local 54 will allow other crafts to continue working. However, a long strike could close down some jobs if they reach a point where nothing can be done until the sheet metal workers finish.

Story Of Chaos On High Seas

A QUIET VOYAGE HOME. By Richard Jessup. Little, Brown. $5.95.

The central figure of this novel is a 24-year-old anarchist known as the Indian, who coolly and deliberately organizes a rebellion aboard the biggest ocean liner on the Atlantic. For kicks, and to satisfy himself that he can.

It is the end of the European tourist season, and the S.S. New York is bringing home a full complement of passengers. The tourist class is jammed with 1,600 persons, apparently all students.

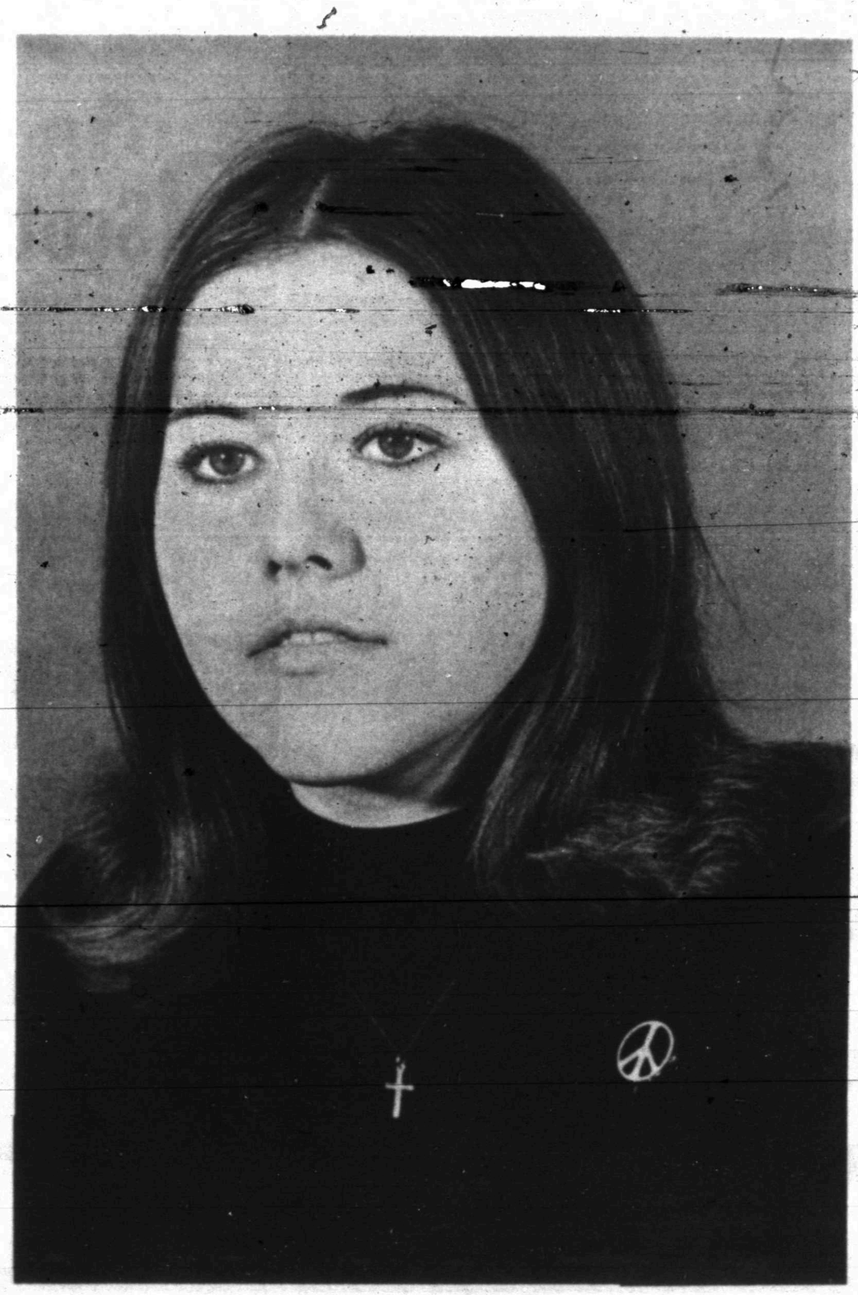

Indian explores the student crowd to find the hippies, drug freaks, sex freaks, leather jacketed musclemen and other aberrational types. He finds about 10 per cent of the students will really listen to his ideological harangue, and goads them into starting riots—at first on the excuse that the food if bad, and later on to protest his own arrest, which he has trumped up. The chaos builds to the point where the crew and the rioters are in full battle.

Other major figures are the ship's captain, who is strangely indecisive in handling the riots; the ship's medical officer, a disillusioned former revolutionary who recognizes Indian's nihilistic techniques; a fascistic colonel of the old school, who is baffled by the discovery that his hippie daughter is dying of a bad LSD trip.

There is a lot of talk about the generation gap, young malcontents and confrontations.

But the whole thing doesn't jell. It is contrived and artificial. An episode in which the rioters electrify the whole world by sending out a radio message is utterly implausible. The indecision of the ship's captain is out of character. There is no allowance whatsoever for the reactions of the 90 per cent of the students who are not freaks, nor for the other passengers. The author has been working with a stacked deck of cards, creating a story that doesn't win.

Gourmet Finds Value Of Adaptable Apple

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press Writer

There's one way you can measure the affluence and expanding leisure time of Americans today. More and more of them are taking up two pastimes that were once reserved for those in the top layer of the economic structure—houseboating and gourmet cookery.

Actually, you don't have to be rich, by American standards, to pursue either hobby, unless you insist on Beluga cavier, vintage champagne and ocean-going yachts.

A chap we know, a former New Englander whose forebears built sailing ships, recently decided to enjoy fine food and life on the bounding main, now that his children have grown up and he has been able to delegate the running of his business to others.

Our friend, who modestly insists on being referred to only as Stanley, invested in a 46-foot Chris Craft houseboat and now lives on it with his wife from May through October cruising the inland waterways from Maryland to Florida.

With a good-sized galley and plenty of cabin space, Stanley and his spouse think nothing of entertaining eight or ten people of an evening, and like to charm their guests with some pretty fancy meals.

They quickly found out, however, that it's a lot more damp on water than on shore and it is a good idea to keep your food in cans or bottles.

This posed a problem for Stanley and his wife who both have a passion for apples and discovered that they lose their crispness at sea. They solved it by turning to applesauce and learned to their delight that it is a most versatile dish.

Whether you live on a houseboat or in a city apartment, applesauce is not only delicious by itself, but can be used to lend a tangy flavor to all sorts of dishes from ham casserole or lamb curry to brown Betty and French Toast.

Apples have played a role in American history from early colonial times. The colonists included apple seeds in their supplies when they journeyed to the New World, and Peregrine White, first settler's child to be born in New England, planted apple trees there. Later, John Chapman roamed the Ohio Wilderness and became famous as Johnny Appleseed as he went from field to field planting the seed of the noble fruit.

The beauty of the apple is its adaptability. If you can't get the fresh fruit in its crisp glory, there are canned apples, frozen apples and dried apple slices treated with sulphur dioxide and dehydrated. And don't forget apple jelly and the apple butter that many of us associate with our childhood.

But applesauce is perhaps the most versatile byproduct, and here are two recipes in which it plays an important role.

APPLE SAUCE DATE MALLOW

2 cups canned apple sauce
4 cups miniature marshmallows
3 teaspoons grated orange rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup pitted dates diced
½ cup chopped walnuts

Combine all ingredients in a small saucepan. Cook and stir over low heat until marshmallows are partially melted. Remove from heat and cool slightly. Spoon into sherbert glasses or large serving bowl. Chill and serve with a garnish of sweetened whipped cream, if desired. Serves 6 persons

SWEET-SOUR STEAK SAUTE

6 shell steaks (½ to ¾ inch thick)
2 cups canned apple sauce
1-3rd cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon black pepper
1 teaspoon garlic powder
1 teaspoon ground cloves
½ teaspoon onion salt
¼ cup lemon
1 onion sliced
1 bay leaf
¼ cup cooking oil
½ cup gingerbread cookie crumbs

Place steaks in flat pan or baking dish. Combine remainder of ingredients, except oil and cookie crumbs. Pour over steaks. Cover with aluminum foil. Refrigerate several hours or overnight. Remove steaks from pan. Scrape away excess marinade and reserve. Heat cooking oil in skillet. Saute steaks 5 minutes each on each side (or to desired degree of doneness). Add gingersnap crumbs to marinade and pour into skillet. Simmer 5 to 8 minutes. Serves 6.

Serve with a good, robust Burgundy.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Photography's values as a wholesome, helpful outlet for underprivileged children are being utilized this summer in some big cities where civic-minded adults know the pressing need to channel youthful energies in a creative direction.

In Chicago, an example is set by the zealous energy of S. William Pattis, an advertising executive. As local coordinator of the President's Council on Youth Opportunity for the past two years, he developed a network of 23 workshops and classes in the inner city under qualified photographers, with donations of cameras and equipment from the industry.

Among individual teachers, my attention has been focused on one whose dedication to photography and warmth for youngsters has been outstanding. I'd like you to meet Al Wiesmeyer and his 35 fifth-grade Hibbard School students.

Al, 36, a school teacher for 15 years, has taught photography at the Deborah Boys Club for even longer—19 years. His camera club members have ranged from 6 to 18 years of age.

"It's a hobby which induces active participation, not sit-down watching," says Al. "And it's an activity which sells itself because the results are immediate. After taking pictures, the youngsters process the films and make prints.

"But I've felt that photography is a learning process that teaches much more than a hobby. It's a way in which the boys and girls in my classes can 'see' the world about them and use it to communicate.

"When youngsters take pictures and process films, they become involved with science and chemistry in a practical and interesting way. When we talk about exposures and mixing formulas, they're using fractions and weights and measures. And when we complete our pictures with captions, we're working with spelling, grammar and writing."

With this type of reasoning, Wiesmeyer has received permission from the school district superintendant to convert his fifth-grade class into a photo workshop. A theme was chosen: "My School—Through a Child's Eyes."

Over a period of six weeks, the children were taught now to properly use a camera, process the pictures, evaluate results and select the best pictures for an exhibit. In taking pictures, they had free access to all areas in the school building and grounds.

The entire class was then enrolled as a camera club in nearby Deborah Boys' Club—which had the darkroom and facilities and there they did all necessary photo work during normal school hours.

The end result was a 124-picture exhibit mounted on 12 poster boards. The selections, culled from 1600 individual photos, were made by group discussion, as were the picture captions.

"It can be summed up in the youngsters' own words," notes Wiesmeyer. "'We learn how to talk in pictures,' one girl wrote. 'We had fun .... and we can do something good that doesn't cost a lot of money,' a boy said. 'With pictures, we see what the world looks like,' another added.

"The project met with so much favor, we got the green light to go ahead with a summer school workshop."

Congresswoman Claims Sex And Color Are Handicaps

By JOHN W. BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Male politicians depend on women to win elections but being a woman is as great a political handicap as being black, says a Negro congresswoman.

Rep. Shirley Chisholm, a Democrat from New York City, told a House subcommittee Wednesday that without women's efforts no man could be elected to Congress.

"Without his thousands of women volunteers the American party system would not work," Mrs. Chisholm said. "It would break down in a confusion of unanswered letters, unmade phone calls, unkept appointments, unwritten speeches, and unheld meetings."

Mrs. Chisholm, a Negro, was one of several witnesses to testify before a subcommittee headed by Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., sponsor of legislation calling on the government to attack sexual discrimination as it has attacked racial discrimination.

Mrs. Frankie M. Freeman, who is a member of the U.S. commission on Civil Rights and a Negro, said discrimination against racial minorities "makes the burden of female [illegible] seem petty in comparison."

But Mrs. Chisholm said sex discrimination is just as degrading, indefensible and infuriating as discrimination because of race, and both must be eliminated to produce a just society.

"Blacks and women have both been taught from childhood—because our society is run by and for white males—that they are inherently inferior," she said.

"To keep them in their place, the same characteristics are imputed to women as to blacks—that they are more childish, emotional and irresponsible than men, that they are of lower intelligence than men, that they need protection, that they are happiest in routine, undemanding jobs, and that they lack ambition and executive ability."

SATURDAY DINNER

Good enough for guests:
Broiled Steak
Mushrooms Romanoff
Mashed Potatoes Green Peas
Salad Bowl French Bread
Peach Melba Beverage

MUSHROOMS ROMANOFF

1½ pounds fresh mushrooms
¼ cup (½ stick) butter
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1½ tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon dill weed
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup commercial sour cream
½ cup milk

Wash mushrooms and trim off tips of stems; drain well. In a large skillet melt the butter; add lemon juice, salt, pepper and mushrooms. Saute mushrooms about 5 minutes; remove from skillet and keep warm. To butter in skillet stir in flour, dill weed and nutmeg. Remove from heat; gradually stir in sour cream and milk, keeping smooth. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Return mushrooms to sauce; reheat. Makes 6 servings.

Little Change Is Seen In McLain

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Denny McLain returned to the baseball wars Wednesday night and showed that he hadn't changed much. He still didn't know what he was doing.

The 26-year-old ace right-hander of the Detroit Tigers was tagged for five runs and eight hits, including three homers, in 5 1-3 innings but wasn't involved in the decision as Mickey Stanley singled home an unearned run in the 11th inning for a 6-5 victory over the New York Yankees.

"I was scared as hell, to be truthful," McLain admitted after getting several thunderous ovations from a packed house of 53,863, largest Tiger Stadium crowd in nine years, larger than any of the Detroit crowds during the 1968 World Series.

"I feel pretty good, but I'm not satisfied because I didn't go nine innings. I'm not thinking like a pitcher yet. I made a couple of mistakes."

Jerry Kenney, Thurman Ounson and Bobby Murcer hit the mistakes out of the park.

"I really thought I was going to cry for a minute or swallow my tongue," McLain said of the crowd response to his first appearance since he was suspended from baseball for involvement with gamblers. Commissioner Bowie Kuhn decided that McLain was duped into investing in a Flint, Mich., bookmaking operation.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore blanked Cleveland 3-0, Minnesota edged Kansas City 2-1 in 10 innings, California shaded Milwaukee 4-3, Oakland zipped the Chicago White Sox 3-0 and Boston beat Washington 6-4.

In the National League, the Chicago Cubs defeated St. Louis 5-0, Pittsburgh nipped the New York Mets 4-3, Cincinnati trounced Atlanta 9-2, Los Angeles downed Houston 6-3, San Francisco outslugged San Diego 12-7 and Montreal swept a doubleheader from Philadelphia 11-1 and 4-1.

Kenney said the Yankees were "waiting for McLain's curve ball and were taking it, since he was a bit off target. He'd get one curve over, miss with another and come in with the fast ball. But," Kenney added, "he will be pretty sharp before the season is over."

The Yankees dropped four games behind Baltimore in the AL East when Jim Palmer hurled an eight-hitter as the Orioles beat the Indians for the eighth straight time this season.

The Birds scored single runs in the second, third and fourth off rookie Rick Austin, Brooks Robinson launched two of the rallies with fluke doubles and Boog Powell doubled to start the other one.

A bases-loaded sacrifice fly by Rich Reese in the 10th inning gave Minnesota its winning run against Kansas City. Rick Renick homered for the Twins' other tally.

Jim Fregosi's two-run homer highlighted a three-run rally in the sixth inning that powered the Angels past the Brewers. Bob Burda hit his first AL homer for the losers.

Rollie Fingers, Paul Lindblad and Mudcat Grant combined on a four-hitter as the A's turned back the White Sox on Sal Bando's RBI single in the sixth inning and a two-run homer by Bert Campaneris in the ninth.

Two-run homers by Carl Yastrzemski and George Scott broke open a tie game in the seventh inning and the Red Sox survived a counter rally to edge the Senators 6-5.

A Moment Of Instant History

By LARRY PALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Denny McLain is not an emotional guy, but when he stepped onto the field at Tiger Stadium and back into baseball Wednesday night "I really thought I was going to cry for a minute," he said.

It was a moment of instant history.

The game wasn't a pennant clincher, or a World Series finale. Technically it was "just another game,"—in that instance won by the Detroit Tigers 6-5 in 11 innings.

But it was more.

It was the game in which Dennis Dale McLain, Tiger bad boy superpitcher, set out to prove he was still one of the best pitchers in baseball despite the black mark of a 90-day suspension imposed by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Wednesday was McLain's first day off that punishment and he tried to make the best of it, although his only "spring training" was three months of pitching to college and high school batters.

More than 53,800 spectators jammed the stadium and their reaction to Denny's first appearance was a thunderous ovation, drowning out some boos.

He took the mound and the pressure was on as he faced first Yankee batter, Horace Clarke.

"Ball one," plate umpire Nestor Chylak shouted after the first pitch.

"Ball two."

The third pitch was a strike, McLain went on to get New York out 1-2-3 and the ice was broken.

"I was scared as hell, to be truthful," he said afterwards at a press conference. "As a matter of fact, before I threw the first pitch I asked Al Kaline 'What the hell am I doing here.'"

The cheering fans seemed to know, and kept their feelings known even after McLain was lifted for a relief pitcher in the sixth inning trailing 5-3.

McLain eventually became the victim of Yankee home runs, one by Jerry Kenney in the third, Thurman Munson in the fourth and Bobby Murcer in the sixth. The Yankees got another run in the sixth sending Denny to an early shower.

After his departure, Yankee hitters got only one hit off three Tiger relief pitchers in 5 2-3 innings. Tom Timmerman took the win in relief, the 10th win or save for him in a row since he was called up from Detroit's Toledo farm club in early May.

"I Feel pretty good but I'm not satisfied because I didn't go nine innings," said McLain.

"I'm not thinking like a pitcher yet, I made a couple mistakes," he said referring to the gopher balls.

"It'll be another couple starts before I'm back to normal."

"We hit McLain pretty hard but he settled down and was better in the final innings of his stay," said New York Manager Ralph Houk.

"The big thing is that his arm responded well," said Tiger Manger Mayo Smith, who appeared more relieved than McLain that the much-publicized return was ended.

"We'll decide later if he pitches Sunday in Baltimore or whether he opens the Boston series here Monday night."

McLain said that on his arrival in Detroit he learned commissioner Kuhn had left a phone call for him.

"He just wished me good luck," said McLain, shaking his head negatively to a question of whether Kuhn warned him of his future conduct.

McLain, who won 55 games the last two years and received the American League's Cy Young Award both times, threw 96 pitches in his 5 2-3 innings—57 strikes and 39 balls.

"Normally I throw that many pitches the whole game, so it was almost like pitching a complete game," he smiled.

Caponi Sees No Pressure

By KAROL STONGER
Associated Press Sports Writer

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP) — Donna Caponi says the U.S. Womens Open Golf Tournament opening here today poses no particular pressure for her even though she wears the 1969 crown.

"I've never defended a title before, so I don't know what it's like," said the 25-year-old brunette while practicing on the No. 10 hole Wednesday afternoon.

"I have as good a chance to win this one as anyone," she added, although she admits local girls such as Beth Stone have a definite advantage playing on their home course.

"I was just elated when I found out the Open was going to be played on the Scenic Hills Country Club course (Pensacola, Fla.) last year. I lived on that course because it is a good training course, and I knew I could win on it."

Miss Caponi, of North Hollywood, Calif., had to come from five strokes behind to win the event, but she did it for her first victory during her five-year tour.

"I haven't played this course since I was a rookie," she said of the 6,210-yard, par-71 Muskogee Country Club layout.

"When I played it Tuesday, I only remember two holes. It's a good course, though, and I think it'll take a two-under par to win.

"The toughest holes here are No. 18 and No. 3. Eighteen is long and it'll take two woods to get her home. The par five No. 3 is another long one, and if it's windy, it'll take three good woods to get there."

The record field of nore than 120 women golfers, including 12 former open titlists, was scheduled to tee off at 8 a.m. The field will be cut by about two-thirds after 36 holes with only the top 40, or those within 10 strokes of the leader, remaining for Saturday's third round.

The last four holes of Sunday's final round to determine who will take home the $5,000 first prize in this $30,000 tournament, the most coveted on the LPGA tour, will be televised nationally by ABC.

Hubbers, Redlegs In Practice Game Tonight

Rip Griffin's Lubbock Hubbers will play the Snyder Redlegs in a practice game in the Northeast Park at 8:00 tonight.

Carlos Is Signed By Eagles

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — John Carlos has signed to play professional football with the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, but he fell about $977,000 short of his asking price.

Neither Carlos nor Eagles' general manager Pete Retzlaff would name the figure that made one of the world's great sprinters a pro football player. The educated guess, however, put it at $23,000, give or take a few thousand.

Retzlaff said, however, "John's potential is unlimited in the contract. When a man performs the results of his performance should be felt in his bank balance. Therefore there are stipulations in his contract, which according to performance escalate his salary considerably."

"The Eagles obviously sold Darlos and his advisor, Pappy Gault, on the idea that they would pay more if the Olympic medal winning sprinter proves he can play pro football. Carlos has never played anything stronger than sandlot football.

"He has the size, weight, speed, certainly all the confidence in the world, and has better than average intelligence," said Retzlaff. "We think he'll be able to comprehend what we try to teach him. At this point, until proven otherwise, I'd say we're very happy and optimistic about his chances of succeeding.

Retzlaff said the Eagles would give Carlos a crash course starting July 6. He'll report to end coach Charley Gauer and backfield coach Irv Cross for an indoctrination both on the field and in the classroom.

The club's training camp for rookie opens July 19 at Reading, Pa.

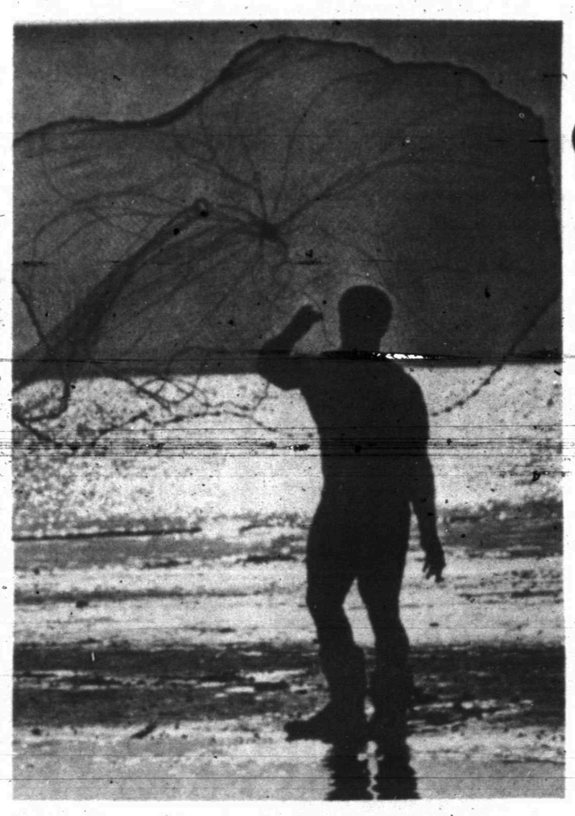

"If I didn't think I could make it I wouldn't sign," said Carlos, who declared he was satisfied with the money package which included a small bonus.

Family Tourney At Sweetwater

SWEETWATER — The Second annual "Family Affair" Golf Tournament has been scheduled for July 10-11 at the Sweetwater Country Club.

Gene Stockton, club professional, said there will be 18 holes of play each day and combinations eligible to compete are father-son, father-daughter, mother-son, mother-daughter. They may play at any time on Friday, July 10, but scores must be in by 7 p.m. On Saturday there will be a shotgun start for all beginning at 8 a.m.

Entry fee is $7.50 per player, and four trophies will be awarded in each flight. A free hamburger supper for entrants and their families is set for 7 p.m. Friday.

Sam Sentimental Tourney Favorite

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

LONDON, Ont. (AP) — Homero Blancas was the favorite and the legendary Sam Snead was the sentimental choice today in the first round of the 12,000 Canadian Open Golf Tournament.

"I just wish I had your nerves on the green," the 58-year-old Snead told Blancas over lunch before they set out.

"For just two seasons," the old West Virginia hillbilly said.

"Just two seasons with your nerves. Man, with the money they're playing for now, I'd cut a path for 'em to follow."

"That would be it, wouldn't it, Sam?" Blancas replied. "Let's see if we can get 'em to let you hit it and me putt. We'd be unbeatable. Unbeatable."

Then the happy go lucky Blancas paused for a moment and asked:

"What about chipping? You want me to chip? Can you still chip?"

Snead grinned:

"Are you kidding?"

Snead, winner of more than 80 official tour events in a career that goes back to the 1930s, is only a part-time tourist now but still retains his dual trademark, the brightly-banded straw hat and the smooth, effortless swing, "the sweetest swing in the land."

He has had putting troubles in recent years and hasn't won in several seasons. His biggest challenge was in the Canadian Open last year when he took Tommy Aaron to an 18-hole playoff before losing.

Snead makes no bones about his putting woes.

"I was playing with (Ben) Hogan a few years ago in Miami. He was about six feet away on the left and I was five feet on the right. He gets over it and goes pfft," Snead said, making a jerky, sideways motion with his hands. "So I get up go pfft," he said making the same motion.

"Man, I told him, 'I'm not going to watch you putt. I'm going to look at the clouds or the birds or something else.'"

With most of the leading names in the game skipping this tournament, including all the top 10 money winners, Blancas ranked as the man to beat. He won the Colonial National Invitation, has one second, was ninth last week and has been in the top 10 eight times this year.

Other leading contenders included defending champion Tommy Aaron, George Archer, Dave Stockton, Bob Goalby and Larry Hinson.

Bahama Open Is Added To Tour

NEW YORK (AP) — A new $130,000 tourney, the Bahama Islands Open, had been added to the annual tour of professional golfers, it was announced today.

Joseph C. Dey Jr., commissioner of the PGA Tournament Players Division, said the tourney will be played Dec. 10-13 at the King's Inn and Golf Club, Freeport. A $5,000 pro-am on Dec. 9 will precede the tourney.

The Bahama Islands Open replaces the $25,000 West End Classic, which has been played as a satellite event on Grand Bahama Island since 1967.

Netters Are In Doubles Tournament

Students in the Snyder Tennis Program are currently ending this session of instruction with a doubles tournament among themselves.

Results from the first round of play were: Retha Davis and Tommy Hays defeated Joe Anne Tippens and Annette Williams 8-6; David Olsen and Chris Chambley defeated Dennis Buchanan and Connie Williams 6-4; Anthony Lewis and Jay Wesson beat Steve Periman and Jeff Wesson 6-2; Regina Lewis and Norman Autry defeated Mark Leavell and Jana Wesson 6-1.

In consolation play Dennis Buchanan and Connie Williams defeated Mark Leavell and Jana Wesson 6-4. Today the matches will be completed.

Coach Bill Boles also reminds that the deadline for entries in the July 4th tennis tournament is today at 5 p.m. All entrants are asked to report to the high school tennic courts tomorrow at 4 p.m. to see Coach Boles before the tennis match begins.

Little Hope Seen For Open Davis Cup Tourney

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — U.S. tennis officials made another attempt today to get the Davis Cup thrown open to contracted professionals—but with scant chance of success.

Delegates to the annual meeting of the Davis Cup nations, held in London this morning, were convinced that the proposals for an open tournament would be thrown out once more.

Lobbying has been going on at the Wimbledon championships, where the clear superiority of the promoter-controlled professionals has been underlined again. Four of them have reached the semi-finals, scheduled for today.

Ken Rosewall of Australia faced Roger Taylor of Britain. John Newcombe of Australia, the 1967 champion, had to play Andres Gimeno of Spain.

The United States, defending champion has filed the resolution favoring an open Davis Cup.

Australia, now badly weakened as a Davis Cup power because so many of its stars have turned pro, is certain to support the American proposal. So is Britain, which pioneered open tennis.

But most of the European countries, which stand little chance of reaching the challenge round, are expected to vote against.

Basil Reay, secretary of the Davis Cup, said: "If the American proposal is voted down, it is possible that a new tournament for national teams will be started, open to the contracted pros."

Meanwhile, fans lined up all night for standing room on the center court for today's semifinals as Taylor hoped to become the first Briton to reach the men's finals since Bunny Austin in 1938. But many fans—even British fans—would like to see Rosewall win Wimbledon at last.

The 35-year-old Australian lost in the finals of 1954 and 1956. Then he turned professional and was lost to Wimbledon until open tennis was inaugurated two years ago.

Taylor has never yet beaten Rosewall, or even won a set against him.

The rugged British left-hander took 20 minutes Wednesday to finish off his quarter-finals match against Clark Graebner of New York City, which had been interrupted by rain the previous night.

Taylor won 6-3, 11-9, 12-10. The match was resumed with Taylor leading 8-7 in the third set.

Gimeno, whose match against Bob Carmichael of Australia had also been interrupted by rain Tuesday night, won 6-1, y-2, 6-4.

As every expert had predicted, Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beachn Calif., and Mrs. Margaret Court of Australia advanced to the women's finals, scheduled for Friday.

Mrs. King wore down stubborn resistance by the unorthodox French player Francoise Durr to win 6-3, 7-5.

Mrs. Court's playing with her injured left ankle heavily strapped, downed Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, 6-4, 6-1.

U.S. Stars Winners In Two Nations

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Track and field stars from the United States were victorious Wednesday night in international meets in Italy and Finland but the only American entries in a third meet in Sweden placed third and fifth in the discus.

At Helsinki, America's Paul Gibson won the 110-meter hurdles with a 14.3 clocking and placed second in the 200-meter spring at 21.7.

American Jay Silvester won the most prestigious event at Milan, the discus throw named in memory of Italy's late Adolfo Consolini, an Olympic performer. Consolino's 12-year-old son handed two trophies to Silvester for his winning 209-7 effort.

Also at Milan, Charlie Green of the United States won the 100 meters in 10.3 and teammate Lee Evans captured the 400-meter event in a 45.5 clocking.

Former world record holder John Pennel of the United States was first in the pole vault with a 17-¾ effort. He tried to top the current world mark of 17-10½ held by Wolfgang Nordwig of East Germany but failed in three attempts at 18-¼.

Only disappointing performance of the American squad at Milan came from Villanova's Marty Liquori, who finished third in the 1,500-meter race behind Italians Franco Arese, 3:39.1, and Gianni del Buono, 3:39.3, with a 3:39.9. The U.S.'s John Dobroth was third in the high jump with a 8 ¾ leap.

At Turku, Finland, in a corollary meet to the Helsinki event, American-pole vaulter Bob Seagren, also a former world record holder, failed three times at his first height—16-1. The event was won by Finland's Alttiu Alarotu, who recently returned home after studying in the United States, at 17-5.

Texas League Leaders Fall

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Win-poor Texas League teams rose up from the musty basements Wednesday night to slap around the talent-blessed leaders.

Shreveport snapped a 10-game losing streak with a 4-3 victory over Arkansas, leader of the Eastern Division by three full games over Memphis.

Dallas-Fort Worth nicked Western Division leader Albuquerque 2-1, lowly Amarillo stung El Paso 6-4 and Memphis split with San Antonio, taking the opener of a doubleheader 7-2 and dropping the nightcap 4-2.

Stan Bell picked up the victory for Shreveport as the Braves moved within 12½ games of Arkansas. The cellar dwellers scored their winning runs in a four-run sixth that was highlighted by Earl Williams' three-run homer.

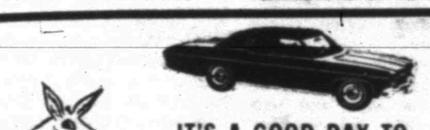

Steve Green hit a two-run homer as Dallas-Fort Worth nicked the Dodgers who have an eight-game bulge in the West over El Paso. Pitcher Randy Cohen evened his record at 5-5 with the victory.

Chico Diaz clubbed a pair of two-run homers to pace Memphis in the opener. Roger Detter's three-run double in the fourth inning was the Missions' killing blow in the nightcap.

Amarillo now is 19 games behind Albuquerque in the TL West as the Giants remain mired deep in the basement.

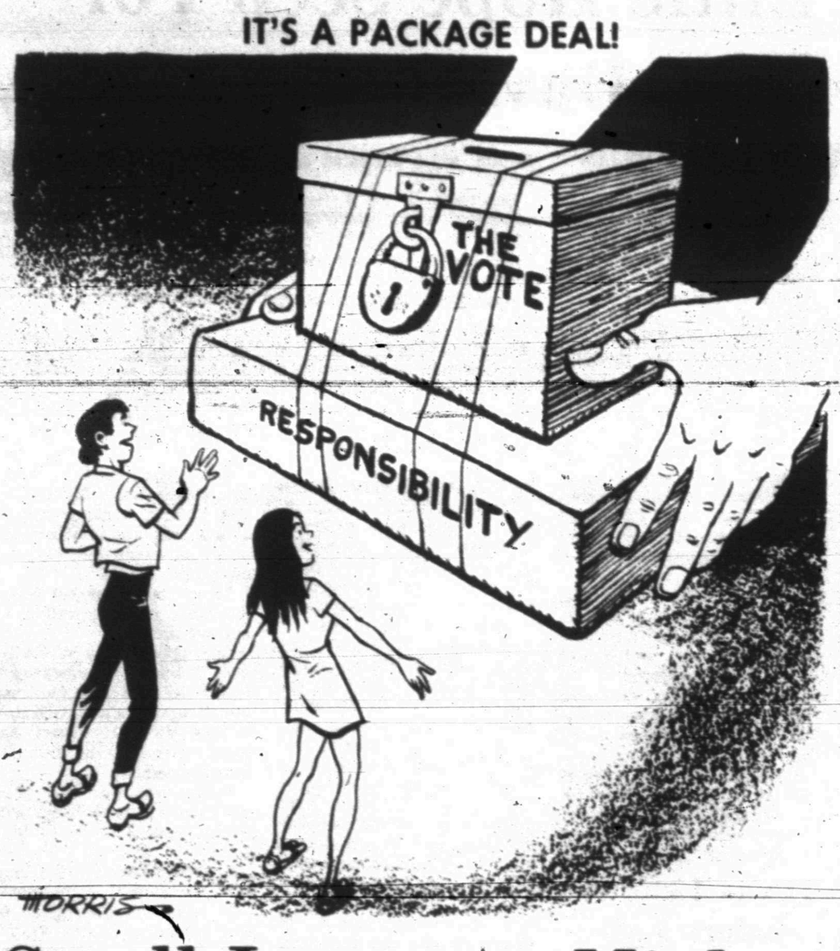

The same teams play again tonight at El Paso, Dallas-Fort Worth, San Antonio and Shreveport.

Small Investors Might Consider Unlisted Firms

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Brokers who deal in over-the-counter securities have long felt that the establishment, meaning the big exchanges and their member firms, have disparaged them, if not openly then by suggestion.

Some even feel the very phrase "over-the-counter" can be interpreted as lowering the image of unlisted stocks. Others maintain that the term "penny stock," spoken in a certain way, is meant to suggest something worthless.

No doubt about it, there is a widely held popular image of the over-the-counter market, made up of securities listed on no exchange, as being a somewhat shoddy operation of peddlers and promoters, unsupervised and just waiting for the next sucker.

Now comes one over-the-counter man who has had enough of the slurs, he says, and who maintains that the ordinary small investor is being done a great injustice by being led, almost automatically, to the big listed firms.

Says investment banker Milton Fisher, "Some of these stocks are dinosaurs. Their growth is all behind them."

Fisher has written a book, "How To Make Big Money In The Over-the-Counter Market," to promote his thesis and, he says, to help "the man or woman who is locked into a fairly rigid, unglamorous and predictable future." That is, the salaried man trying to outrace inflation.

"Any adult who has come from a family without independent wealth must be aware that it is necessary to accumulate some capital to live a life free of economic terror," he states.

Such people, he feels, are not interested in dividends or in making small percentage gains on small investments in big stocks. Instead, they want and need action—double, triple or more.

"I know of very few examples of where $10,000 invested in listed securities could have made anyone a millionaire, but there are dozens of over-the-counter companies where this could have happened," he says.

"I would be willing to wager that there are at least 100 companies now trading over-the-counter that will be selling for 1,000 per cent higher within the next five years."

Obviously, however, small investors aren't going to find it easy to discover such companies from the thousands to be studied. Fisher agrees that formal information on unlisted firms is not nearly as available as it is for companies listed on the New York or American Exchanges.

So where do you find them?

"Under your nose," says Fisher. Put out your antenna, but stay close to home or to an area of endeavor with which you have some expertise. The company may be in your own home town.

Personal observation of one small operation makes you as much an expert as the professional who must study hundreds of listed companies. Get to know the manager of the company. Learn about the quality of the product.

A Junior Editors Quiz About ABACUS

QUESTION: How does an abacus work?

* * *

ANSWER: A device for adding and subtracting, the abacus was used in the old days of Greece and Rome and is still the companion of the Chinese bookkeeper. There are several kinds. The one we show is composed of buttons strung on wires. Each button below the bar at the extreme right represents 1. The button above the bar stands for 5. The values of the other buttons are shown. Notice, in (1), that the 5 button has been pushed down and a single 1 button pushed up, so the abacus is giving the total, 6. Suppose you wish to add 6 and 2. You push two more 1 buttons up as shown in (2). Now look at (3) for the answer. The 5 button is toward the bar and so are the three 1 buttons, making 8, which is the answer. To subtract 1 from 4, you would move four of the 1 buttons up to the crossbar to represent the first part of the problem. Then push one of these down. This leaves the abacus giving the answer 3. Other wires give higher numbers. To put 127 on the abacus, push one of the 100 buttons up, two of the 10's, push down the 5 and push up two of the 1 buttons.

Husband's Hobby Is Refrigerated

By JOY STILLEY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Most hobbyists display their collections where others can see and admire. My husband keeps his in the refrigerator.

What he accumulates, with the dedication worthy of a confirmed philatelist, is relishes and condiments. Although his assemblage of sauces and savories is a constantly changing one, at any given time it would strike envy into the heart of the best-stocked supermarket manager.

No Saturday trip to the grocery is complete without the acquisition of at least one new bottle or jar of a gourmet goody. The success of a vacation trip is measured, not in terms of the sights seen, but on the basis of how many regional kinds of piccalilli we managed to pick up at shopping centers along the way.

Pizza ketchup, barbecued ketchup, hickory ketchup and plain old tomato ketchup. Mustard? Take your pick of flavors and colors: mustard with horseradish, hickory-smoke-flavored mustard, spicy mustard, brown mustard and bright yellow mustard.

There is one problem, though. The fanily larder is often so jamed with the accompaniments to go with food that there's no room left for food to go with the accompaniments.

Organizer Cleared

DALLAS (AP) — Mrs. Ruth Jefferson, the controversial War on Poverty organizer accused of trying to get welfare food recipients to join a rent strike against the Dallas Housing Authority, has been cleared after investigation and is returning to her old job.

Mrs. Jefferson was transferred from West Dallas to the South Dallas center after being charged with intimidating and harassing recipients.

Attorney Phil Burleson, who made an investigation, found there was "no substantial and material evidence that Mrs. Ruth Jefferson intimidated or harassed any federal food recipient...seeking to cause the participation of any such recipient in the so-called rent strike."

Upon receiving Burleson's report, Bennett I. Miller, acting director of Dallas Community Action, announced he was satisfied and was notifying Mrs. Jefferson's supervisor that she can return to her former job.

The investigation was less satisfying to County Judge Lew Sterrett, who has long been critical of both Dallas Community Action and Mrs. Jefferson. He said he would ask the DCA board to fire Mrs. Jefferson at its next meeting.

Mrs. Jefferson, before going to work for War on Poverty, organized a mothers' sit-in aimed at ending reductions in child welfare payments. Her action helped inspire a change in the state constitution, setting a higher ceiling for state welfare with most of the increased aid going to children.

Highlights Of Nixon's Conversation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The President's conversation with TV-radio newsmen Wednesday night at a glance:

Paris peace talks—The President is naming veteran diplomat David K.E. Bruce as chief negotiator for the United States. Nixon said he will meet July 4 with Bruce and foreign policy adviser Henry A. Kissinger at the Western White House to discuss the talks.

Hanoi—Nixon has had no signals from Hanoi that "their position of intransigence has changed."

Cambodia—The President has no plans to send ground troops into Cambodia again. But he will not be "pinned down" to say that under no circumstances would the United States "ever do anything."

Air strikes—If American reconnaissance flights over North Vietnam are shot at, American air power will be used "against North Vietnam sites that attack our planes."

Undeclared war—The President is convinced he has the right, as commander-in-chief, to protect American men despite the absence of declared war.

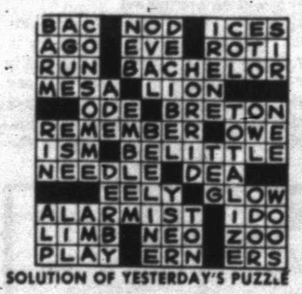

Middle East—The conflict there is potentially more dangerous than the Indochina War because it involves risk of confrontation between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Man Killed In One-Car Accident

"Click" Added to DDES Computer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Direct Data Entry System, which goes into effect soon at the Internal Revenue Service Center in Kansas City, was so efficiently quiet when perfected that a click had to be built in.

"Without that click in the keyboard there's no security for the operator," says Mrs. Laurice Giles, an operator herself. "There's more self-satisfaction when you hear what you're doing."

The operator also sees what she's doing. Data she transposes from federal income tax returns to electronic tape shows up alphabetically and numerically on a television screen before her.

She can catch her own errors back up, rub them out and correct them. Those she misses show up before another operator who verifies the tape before sending it along to the computer.

During the keyboard process the computer automatically validates the income tax return information, scanning for errors in addition and subtraction, and mechanical mistakes in procedure. Data which fails to balance or meet programming requirements is flagged for further verification.

"That way," says Mrs. Queen Esther Royal, a DDES supervisor, "we don't have to verify every section of a return. The computer sends back only those that are wrong."

None of this is possible under the present key punch system, to be phased out gradually starting sometime in July. The information from returns is punched on cards which are fed into the computer.

The key punch system requires two separate programs, one for entering, the other for verification. DDES requires only one.

It also operates with less equipment, 510 key station terminals (keyboard and TV-scanner) compared with 938 key punch machines.

Mrs. Giles finds the new system easier to operate than the old.

"The operator has more confidence," she says. "She doesn't have to read the holes in punch cards for mistakes. This way she can look up and see what she's done."

After verification and correction, if necessary, the data is fed automatically from the tape in a terminal memory unit to a finished, or dedicated, disc. The disc is something like a long-playing record, except it makes music only for the computer's sensitized ears.

The original tape also is used as a backstop in the event of a mechanical or electrical breakdown.

The day's information is then processed during the night in the computer room on what is called mainline tape which is shipped to the IRS data center at Martinsburg, W. Va.

While being prepared for this specially edited tape the data goes through a bookkeeping check for errors that might have gotten by the keyboard operators and the terminal memory units.

The day's returns must balance out to the penny. If not the information is returned for reprocessing. An undetected error is estimated to cause a delay from one to three weeks in processing a return.

The taxpayer returns are then filed away by number for future reference, if necessary—individual returns in the IMF, for Individual Master File, business returns in the BMF, for Business Master File.

At peak employment, during the tax crush from Jan. 1 through mid-April, the center employs 4,535 persons, more than half temporary help and 90 per cent of them women; 27 per cent of the peak total are key punch operators, 32 per cent tax examiners, 41 per cent clerks.

DDES will reduce the staff of punchers approximately in half, with temporary help absorbing the cut. No permanent employes are to be released. Once the new system is fully under way they will be taken care of by a two-shift government. Key punching is done now on a one-shift basis.

Less personnel, fewer man-hours, eliminating the purchase of an average 800,000 punch cards a year, and better service to the taxpayer are expected to result in a considerable saving for the government. Just how much is still being assessed.

There are seven tax service centers. Three already have DDES in use, Austin, Tex., Ogden, Utah, and Chamblee, Ga. The other centers, Cincinnati, Philadelphia and Andover, Mass., are still key punching their information.

The added efficiency and accuracy of DDES is expected to speed up processing the Kansas City center's returns—130,000 to 140,000 a day during the peak tax period, and 16 million a year.

The Kansas City Center processes all federal income tax returns in the Midwest from the Dakotas, Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota and part of Illinois. Kansas, just two miles west of the center, is processed by Austin.

As of May 1, 1970, the Midwest service center handled returns totaling $22,520,699,000, representing those taken in since the close of the 1969 fiscal year, and they are still coming. The fiscal year before that it handled $28,512,877,000 worth. Presumably that figure will be exceeded when the money is counted for 1969 which was closed out June 30 this year.

And, contrary to what the average taxpayer may hear or believe, returns requiring refunds are processed first.

Woman Found Shot To Death

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A woman was found shot to death and her 3-year-old son critically wounded at their home Wednesday night.

Helen A. Tyson, 25, and her son John both were shot in the head.

A medical examiner said it appeared the shooting occurred early Wednesday morning.

Police discovered Mrs. Tyson and her son after neighbors reported they hadn't seen her for a day.

Mrs. Tyson was lying beside a bed with a pistol at her side. The child was at the foot of the bed.

Dr. Tarter Interim Dean At McMurry

Dr. Thomas K. Kim, President of McMurry College, has announced the appointment of Dr. Cleo Tarter as interim Dean of the College. He is a former school administrator at Dunn and Fluvanna.

Dr. Tarter had planned to step down from the complex duties of Chairman of the Education Division in order to devote his full time to teaching.

However, he has agreed to take on the task of the deanship until a permanent appointment is made to fill the vacancy left when Dr. Porter Crow resigned to become Administrative Vice President of Palm Beach Atlantic College in Florida.

Dr. Tarter was superintendent of schools at Lamesa from 1952 to 1961 and at Sweetwater from 1940 to 1952. He previously had served as elementary principal at Fluvanna 1926 to 1931 and as high school principal and superintendent at Dunn 1932 to 1940.

He was chairman of the official board of Sweetwater's Highland Heights Methodist Church and of the First Methodist Church in Lamesa. He has taught a Sunday School class for 14 years prior to 1946.

Dr. and Mrs. Tarter live at 2526 Regent and have two children, Cleo W. Tarter Jr. of Odessa and Mrs. W. L. Burke of Austin.

After graduation from Honey Grove High School, Tarter earned his bachelor's degree from Sul Ross State in 1932. He added an MA in 1936 and a doctorate in 1964, both from Texas Tech.

Thief Picked Wrong Pocket

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A man accused of picking a pocket on a downtown street was caught by the owner of the wallet containing $300—a plainclothes detective.

Moon Rock Lost

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Nicholas M. Short of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has lost a piece of the moon.

Short discovered a week ago the tiny fragment, weighing one-fiftieth of an ounce, was missing from a safe at the Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Md.

He said Wednesday it is only about two-thirds the size of a garden pea and was stored in a vial.

"With good luck, I still feel it will be discovered," Short said.

Short said the Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, sent the material from Apollo 11, the first manned mission to the moon, to Goddard last December.

Short's mission was to look for shock effects from meteorite impact. He found none.

"It was of no further interest to our group. It was too small to do anything with."

Short said the vial containing the material was placed in a safe in December. NASA said the sample was included in an inventory made in late February, a month after another a lunar specimen disappeared from a public display in Los Angeles. That specimen was recovered intact.

Short said the Goddard loss was discovered after NASA recalled lunar material.

Other Goddard scientists said the missing fragment had been analyzed in detail and could yield no more data of significance.

Bruce Has Served In 3 Embassies

NEW YORK (AP) — David K.E. Bruce, President Nixon's choice as the new chief negotiator at the Paris peace talks, is the only man ever to have served in this country's three leading embassies in Western Europe.

Bruce, 72, was America's senior ambassador when he retired in March 1968 after eight years as U.S. ambassador to Great Britain—the longest anyone has held that post.

President Kennedy had named him to the London assignment and President Johnson kept him there. Before that he had served as ambassador to France under President Truman and ambassador to West Germany under President Eisenhower.

More than a year ago Nixon commented that he and his four immediate predecessors in the White House had disagreed on many things but "agreed that David Bruce was a giant."

Other admirers have termed him "the most professional of nonprofessional diplomats." And the London Sunday Times called him "a most skilled practitioner of diplomacy, a shrewd and intelligent observer of men and affairs."

Abbreviated Addresses Are Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office, which brought you zip codes, is thinking about abbreviated addresses to speed the flow of mails.

Researchers probing "human problem areas in moving the mail" have found operators of letter-sorting machines—LSM's—help determine how fast mail flows.

The faster they read addresses and punch in 3-digit numeric codes that send letters into the proper receptacles, the faster the mail is delivered.

At the present rate of 60 letters a minute, the operator has one second to read an address, recall the proper code and punch it in before the next letter comes up.

"This constitutes a considerable memory task for the operator," National Bureau of Standards scientists said in a report for the Post Office.

To help lighten such mental burdens, the government is experimenting with shorter work cycles, variable sorting speeds and ways to cut address-reading time.

If things turn out well, the researchers said, "methods for encoding or abbreviating addresses can then be based on a good estimate of human ability to use the method quickly and accurately."

Other ideas under investigation include machines to sort the mail with voice commands instead of a keyboard, and using television viewing of the mail to allow the LSM operator to be removed from the noisy, dusty operating floor.

Powder Puff Derby To Open Friday

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — What prompts a woman to lock herself in the cockpit of a small plane and fly nearly 3,000 miles across country?

Whatever it is, over 100 women are responding to the lure of transcontinental flying ain the 24th annual Powder Puff Derby, starting at 10 a.m. Friday from the Monterey Peninsula Airport.

The destination in the longest and oldest air race for women is Bristol, Pa.

The women have up to four days to complete the race, although some planes can make it in two days or less. They fly only in daylight, using no instruments.

The fliers are competing for a prize of $2,000 for first place, $1,500 for second, and $1,000 for third, plus a variety of other prizes including cash, flying equipment, jewelry and luggage.

One Dies Of Typhoid

BLAND LAKE, Tex. (AP) — One person is reported dead from typhoid and several other suspected typhoid cases are under investigation here near the San Augustine-Shelby County line in East Texas.

Dr. Steve Oates, the Shelby County health officer, said the typhoid was traced to a polluted water supply. Oates said there was no danger of an epidemic.

ONE OF THE WORLD'S LARGEST

Odessa Has Meteor Crater

ODESSA (AP) — Vacationers looking for something different need not travel to Arizona's Barringer Crater this summer to find it.

Odessa has a meteor crater of its own.

The Odessa Meteorite Museum is located about 10 miles south of Odessa off U.S. 80—next to the site where tons of meteoric material slammed explosively into the earth 20,000 years ago.

The crater is 600 feet in diameter and was originally about 100 feet deep. Sand has seeped into the crater, however, and nearly filled it.

In the past 30 years, several scientific studies have been conducted at the crater site.

Two years ago a 10-man team from the U.S. Geological Survey made detailed geophysical studies of the crater and the surrounding area.

Scientists say the shower which struck this area was composed of many thousands of individual meteorites of various sizes which fell over a two-mile area.

Located within the main crater are a number of exploratory trenches dug from 1939 to 1941 when earlier scientific studies were being conducted. —Unearthed during the project were the fossilized remains of a prehistoric elephant.

A smaller crater is 17 feet deep and about 70 feet in diameter. Sand had completely filled the crater and it was not discovered until scientists used a magnetometer.

Investigators said the crater was formed by a small group of meteors which hit the earth at such slow speed they failed to vaporize. An estimated six tons of meteors were found in the earth under the smaller crater.

Although a deep shaft was dug under the crater, no large meteoric mass has been located beneath it.

The impact of the meteor which struck near Odessa was of such force that it caused a massive upheaval of the rock. The limestone formation at the site usually lies 22 feet below the level of the plain, but the meteors shoved the surrounding ground up 50 feet above the its original position.

The Odessa crater compares with some of the world's largest but is not as large as the Barringer Crater at Flagstaff, Ariz.

Charlie To Be 128 July 4th

BARTOW, Fla. (AP) — Charlie Smith, an ex-slave who still wears a gunbelt from his days as a Texas cowboy, will celebrate his 128th birthday July 4.

Charlie, who lives and keeps store in a small Bartow building, is the oldest person on Social Security rolls. He has been drawing payments since he was 113. That's when they made him stop climbing ladders to pick oranges.

When he was 12, Mitchell Watkins was kidnaped from Liberia and brought to America for sale as a slave. A Texas rancher bought him, renamed him Charlie Smith and picked July 4 as his birthday.

When slaves were freed, Charlie says, he became a Texas cowboy. He has worn two belts ever since, one to hold his pants up and the other for a 45 he hasn't carried in years.

Bar Association Honors Aldridge

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The former mayor of Farwell, Tex., was honored by the Texas State Bar Association Wednesday as the General Practitioner of the year.

Sam L. Aldridge, 63, was cited for his achievements at the opening session of the association's 88th annual meeting.

Aldridge has practiced law in Farwell for 36 years, except for three years' service as a special agent for the FBI. He was graduated from New Mexico Military Institute and the University of Texas School of Law and was admitted to the Bar in 1933.

He has served as county attorney of Parmer County and as a member of the Texas Public Safety Commission.
